He tried to hide his nervousness with jokes, but Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz had nowhere to hide as he gave almost eight hours of testimony during a $4.9 million arbitration hearing.

Lutz's testimony, which continued over a two-day period, was heard during the arbitration case pitting the township against Westcap Securities and its former brokers Craig Leibold and Jeffrey Oetting. The hearing went from Sept. 26-28 and will be continued for three more days beginning Oct. 25.

In his testimony, Lutz admitted time and again that he did not understand the four securities at the heart of the township's claim. Those mortgage-backed securities or collateralized mortgage obligations, all based on interest rates staying low, have declined in value by over $3 million, according to the township.

"I almost always followed their advice and I trusted them (Leibold and Oetting) after working with them for four years," said Lutz. "One thing I always tried to do was surround myself with good people and I tried to do that with investments as well because I wasn't an expert in them when I took office."

J.C. Nickens, the attorney for Leibold and Oetting, continually put Lutz on the spot about his "lack of understanding."

Lutz stated he was unaware those four securities were long-term and said he can't recall if the two brokers told him that or not. He testified that his goal was to invest in short-term securities and to preserve principle.

Nickens pointed out that Lutz had purchased long-term securities from at least five other investment companies and it seems impossible that Lutz was never told of the risk that if interest rates rose these long-term securities would decrease in value.

"It's just incredible that none of these brokers ever discussed that with you," said Nickens. Lutz said, "The first time I recall extension risk coming up was in 1994. Once again, I went on what they told me, whether it was them (Leibold and Oetting) or anyone else."

Lutz, the township treasurer since 1984, said he was sure he told all the brokers he dealt with that his investment goals were to have short-term securities, making sure to retain the principle. Nickens said if that was true then the long-term investments with Westcap and at least five other brokers should have been discovered.

"That means four or five brokers you dealt with went against your wishes over the years?" asked Nickens.

Towards the end of the interview Nickens asked if Lutz blames Leibold and Oetting for his own failure to understand the securities. Lutz said, "I don't know ... Maybe it's because of my own ignorance that I couldn't understand, but maybe it's because of them too."

In testimony from Leibold and Oetting, both brokers said they always got the feeling that Lutz "generally understood CMOs."

"I thought he had a decent understanding of the market," said Oetting. "I felt he understood about extension risks, that he would eventually get the principle back, and that the average life of these securities changes. He had experience from them through prior purchases."

According to testimony from Lutz and Leibold and Oetting, none can specifically "recall" any conversations with each other about the specific risks of these securities.

Arson suspected in barn blaze

A large barn at 6660 Walters Road in Independence burned to the ground Sept. 29 as four "teens" were seen running from the scene minutes before.

Several neighbors in the area said they saw several kids near the old barn. One neighbor said the barn holds many memories for some because people had carved their names in it from long ago.

The fire began around 9 p.m., and although the Independence Fire Department responded quickly, the barn went up in flames just as fast. Fire Chief Gar Wilson said, "by the time our guys crossed I-75 it was already going. Because of the way barns are built and the age of the wood when they go, they go fast."

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department Arson Investigation Unit was called to the scene and is currently investigating the fire. Wilson said there are enough witnesses that investigators should come up with a name of who is responsible. "Someone has to know who did this," he said.

The news in brief

Candidates to speak

Candidates for Clarkston city council will get a chance to field questions from the public at a candidates' night scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Independence Township Library.

The event is being co-sponsored by the Clarkston Downtown Business Association and The Clarkston News and will be moderated by the League of Women Voters. It will be held in the library's community room.

Senior citizen hit by scam

The Oakland County Sheriff's Independence Township substation is investigating a report that a Sashabaw Rd. man was victimized by a con artist.

The 66-year-old resident told deputies a man came to his house Sept. 19 and offered to seal coat his driveway. The resident agreed and was charged $1,900 for the work. He got no receipt.

Dep. Keith Brodtkorb, in his report, said, "The 'seal coat' appeared to me to be nothing more than black paint." The man was described as an American Indian, age 35-45, heavy set and driving a newer green van. He left no business card but the check was made out to Ricky John.

Clarkston Police chief Paul Ormiston had a similar report Sept. 14 on overlook. However in that case the sellers were described as two white males, ages 45-50 driving a dark red pick up.

Ormiston said he has been on the lookout for the two but has had no further calls. He said that job too looked like paint but said police officers are not experts on driveway coatings so it's difficult to prove.

Parent-teacher dates

It's not too late for fall parent-teacher conferences at Clarkston High School.

Conferences will be held Monday, Oct. 9, 4-7 p.m. and Wednesday, Oct. 11, 5-8 p.m. The date for the co-ed challenge and bonfire is scheduled for Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. at the high school.

Looking for pioneer families

The Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society is looking for current county residents who are descendants of pioneer families who lived in Oakland County between 1820 and 1840.

Call Charles Martinez at 338-6732.

Two injured in accident

Two Clarkston residents were seriously injured Sept. 23 in a two-car accident on Stickney Rd. near Michigamme.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's traffic investigation unit, a Waterford Township resident was driving westbound on Stickney around 1:25 a.m. when he lost control of his vehicle, crossed the center line and struck an eastbound car.

The driver of the second car, Michael Lemke, Jr. and his passenger, James McIntyre, both of Clarkston, were taken to area hospitals.

The OCSD said alcohol was not a factor and seat belts were in use. As of presstime the accident was still under investigation.

Pine Knob ties own record for sellouts

The 1995 Pine Knob season tied the record for the number of sellouts at the Independence Township concert venue at 20 and recorded the highest per-show attendance in the five years the Palace has managed the facility.

The per-show average was over 10,000 people, and overall summer attendance was over 727,000. The 20 sellouts matched last year's record and included such acts as Boston, Ted Nugent, Yanni, Vince Gill, Brooks and Dunn, Lollapalooza and many more.

The Palace people expect Pine Knob to remain the country's busiest amphitheater, as it has been the last three years, according to "Amusement Business" magazine. Results will be announced before the end of the year.

Corrections

● In last week's Clarkston News there were several inaccuracies included in a story about a dog which bit another dog. The owner whose dog did the biting lives on Paramus; the victim lives on Buffalo. The dogs did not know each other.

● In a story about a woman who raises huskies in the Sept. 27 edition of The Clarkston News, the school where the woman made her presentation was incorrectly identified. The school was Pine Knob Elementary, not North Sashabaw Elementary.

Musican finds harmony in the skies

Clarkston man decides to try sky diving on 53rd birthday, finds exhilarating new sport

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With several careers in music including publishing, teaching and writing, Clarkston resident Gene Grier is "note-ed" for his accomplishments.

But there was one challenge he always hoped to pursue that would take him a few octaves higher — above sea level, in fact.

"I decided for my 53rd birthday I would go sky diving," said Grier. "About two years ago I decided I wanted to do something like this. It's not a macho thing like bungee jumping or racing cars. I'm not out to prove anything. I'm interested in doing new sports for my age. It's a sport that takes serious thought and focus."

As in any sport, Grier had heard of accidents and knew there were risks. So, he researched the activity thoroughly before taking the plunge. He settled on a school called Air Adventures in San Diego that was accredited by the U.S. Parachute Association.

"It had a good safety rating and I knew others who had jumped there. I also interviewed people at the school several times. I got a good feel."

Grier chose the Tandem program where he would be taken up 13,000 feet, attached to an instructor when he jumped and experience a full minute of free-falling before pulling the ripcord.

At the school last month, Grier received four hours of instruction and spent an additional hour signing legal papers and documents. His experience would be videotaped as well.

When he woke up the next day he was full of anticipation.

"Like a kid feels at Christmas Eve," he said. "It was something I planned for ... I kept two things in mind. One, follow the rules and two, have fun."

A look at Grier's video shows him at the end of a line of rugged he-men walking to the plane. The man's flowing silver hair, and smaller, slightly-bent stature shows he's definitely older, but he wears a smile as wide as the sky.

"Look at those guys. They're all experienced. I'm the only rookie," he jokes, pointing to the TV.

"Am I nervous? Yeah," he says in the video — but he doesn't lose the smile.

During the 20-minute plane ride to the drop, Grier said he was cramped and his legs were "so sore from being in a knee bend." But his excitement overpowered the discomfort.

He wasn't frightened jumping out of the plane. His instructor "Dave" checked his straps for safety and everything went smoothly.

He went into a freefall for 52 seconds at which point a drag chute went into effect and kept he and Dave at a speed of 120 miles per hour.

"Otherwise we'd have kept freefalling at 200 MPH," Grier explained. "The reason we did that was so the cameraman could fly down and catch up to us."

Grier had five to seven minutes of true flying after he pulled the ripcord to open his chute. He could steer, spin, catch air currents and go anywhere he wanted to. The experience was exhilarating.

With instructor "Dave" on his back, Grier signals that all is well.

"It was complete freedom. I truly knew what it felt like to be a bird," he said. "What eases the tension is that at 13,000 feet you really have nothing to measure the fall against. For example, if you go up on the roof to clean the gutters, it's only a height of eight feet in perspective to the ground. At 13,000 feet all you see is the horizon. It never looks real. The closer you get, the more excited you get. Now, you are in a measurable relationship to the earth."

When it was time to pull his cord, Dave, who was attached to Grier's back, waved his hands three times in front of Grier's face. As the chute opened, it was a bit of a jolt, and, because the cameraman was lower, it looked as though Grier and his partner were going up.

Grier came down to the drop zone in what he called "a perfect landing." In the video, he thanks his instructor over and over again. And, indeed, he very much resembles that small boy who got the Christmas present he wanted.

Grier says he has definitely discovered a sport he wants to continue doing and has already booked three future dates at the school.

He also hopes to write a book for beginners that will acquaint them with all the facts and preparation. Although he praises the school for its expertise, "after I did the jump I realized there were still too many questions I didn't have the answers to. I could have prepared much better if I had more information. For example, in exercises alone that would strengthen your thighs, shoulders and upper body ... Just those things, plus the legal aspects of it. It (signing documents) does affect your state of mind."

If people learn beforehand that they have to sign "at risk" papers, Grier explained, they will be better prepared for it. If someone walks into it unprepared, he adds, "It could very well make you turn around and walk away."

Grier stresses again, that sky diving, to him, is a sport, not a thrill-seeking adventure. And, again, he says the key is to keep the safety factor before you.

"Sky diving is not for everybody. But it is fun, if you obey the rules," he said.

He feels the risks involved are not any greater than working on your roof or driving your car.

"If anybody drove past my house they won't find me on the roof or on a ladder ... I'm more afraid of driving I-75 to work. I admire people who drive down 75 during rush hour."

But, to him, the sport doesn't induce fear, only excitement.

"Fear has nothing to do with it, focus does."

Nominated for Grammy awards several times, Grier seemingly has no fear of flying on or above the earth.

"I will skydive again," he says, firmly. "It's almost as exciting as writing a children's musical."

Court lifts injunction on sale of conservatory

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An injunction prohibiting the sale of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music was lifted by Oakland County Probate Court Judge Eugene Moore September 27.

Moore had granted the injunction July 24 at the request of Dr. James Wilhelmsen, who has made an offer to buy the property of the late Ivan Rouse. Wilhelmsen is a beneficiary of Rouse's estate; the injunction prohibited the estate's trustees from entering into any sale or purchase agreement involving the estate.

Wilhelmsen's attorney Mark Straetmans immediately filed a petition asking the court to supervise the sale of the estate, to compel its immediate sale to Wilhelmsen, and to have the court appoint an independent appraiser for the property. A hearing on that petition is scheduled for Oct. 11.

Wilhelmsen, a piano teacher at the conservatory for 19 years and a 25-percent beneficiary of Rouse's estate, filed his first petition after he came to believe Dolores Imbrunone and Richard White, two of Rouse's trustees, did not intend to carry out Rouse's wishes that the music conservatory be continued.

Wilhelmsen's appraisal came in at $80,000-$95,000. He offered the trustees $95,000 on a five-year land contract in June. He gave a $1,000 deposit to Realtor Shirley Carpenter of Coldwell Banker The Michael Group, who listed the sale. Wilhelmsen said he has never received a response to his offer.

Carpenter also had the property appraised. Though she refused to disclose the exact amount, she said her appraisal is for an amount "between $100,000 and $200,000." The property is now listed at $225,000 under restrictions that it be "sold as a conservatory of music, creative arts center or similar activity." Located on Main Street, it is zoned commercial.

Coldwell Banker did confirm that besides offers from Wilhelmsen and the Flint Institute of Music, another serious offer has been made for the Conservatory.

Imbrunone said earlier she would like to see the building continue as "a school of music and a place for creative endeavors." However, she declined to comment on whether or not she believed Wilhelmsen should be its director and owner.

Wilhelmsen feels the trustees are trying to profit from the sale and fears they will eliminate the music conservatory he said Rouse hoped would be maintained after his death.

"They're paying lip service to what it says in the trust by stretching the definitions of what is a conservatory. This way they can get more buyers," Wilhelmsen said after Wednesday's court hearing. By allowing the listing to include "creative arts center or similar activity," he feels "it wouldn't necessarily have

The Conservatory's rich history

The Clarkston Conservatory of Music is a 145-year-old building that is a contributing structure to Clarkston's historic district, says Clarkston Historic District Commission president Susan Basinger. Although it is on the National Registry it is not individually registered.

"It's one of the group of structures that makes this (district) one of national significance," Basinger said.

Basinger feels the building was constructed around 1840 because of its "very low ceilings, which was typical of the construction of that period." Her research shows that by 1872 it was inhabited by Horatio Foster, one of the first businessmen in Clarkston, who built a harness and millinery shop in the village. The brick that covers the building was added on later, Basinger said, with the original material being wood clapboard.

"This building probably served a variety of purposes. In the 1840's it may have been a stable. It probably doesn't exist in its original configuration. Ivan (Rouse) always thought it was a barn," Basinger said.

anything to do with music."

Several friends and family members of Rouse say he was not competent when he made out the will and signed it following a stroke several months before he died. Rouse asked White, who is an attorney, to make out his will.

Rouse named Imbrunone, White and Rouse's sister Dorothy Koop as trustees. Beneficiaries of his will include Wilhelmsen, 25 percent, Imbrunone, 25 percent, Steven Hansen, one percent and The Church of the Resurrection Episcopal, 49 percent.

Rouse's family appears to side with Wilhelmsen. Although Koop doesn't feel Imbrunone and White are trying to profit from the sale, she said she wants the building to continue as a school of music and believes Rouse intended for Wilhelmsen to have it.

"He wanted him to have it but he didn't want to just give him the whole thing," Koop said. However, she feels the price Wilhelmsen is offering may not be sufficient to keep the place running, make renovations, build a 200-seat recital hall and pay the many debts Rouse left behind.

A letter written by Eldon Rouse, Ivan's brother, says that "having his will hurriedly made out while (he was) in the hospital a few months prior to his death is one example of a poor business decision for his conservatory." The letter also stated that if the conservatory were sold and did not continue to operate as a school of music he would contest the will. He also supports Wilhelmsen.

"I laud and support him in his efforts. Why his plan and proposal cannot be carried out I fail to understand. Is it because one or more of the parties wishes to make a fast buck on the generosity of my late brother Ivan?" the letter states.

Straetmans said any of Rouse's siblings could

The Clarkson (MI) News Wed., October 4, 1995 5 A contest the will if the court finds it to be invalid because of questions about Rouse's competency.

Straetmans said he doesn't expect a decision at the Oct. 11 hearing, but Wilhelmsen could be granted some temporary relief whereby any offer on the property would have to be accepted by the court before it could be sold.

"That would be the protection we need to at least save it as a music conservatory," Straetmans said.

Straetmans added that the failure of the trustees to communicate with Wilhelmsen is a clear message that they don't want him to have the property.

If they were open to Wilhelmsen's offer, "they wouldn't be spending legal fees to fight us," Straetmans said.

- Wilhelmsen said he was willing to make another, higher offer.

"I'm not against paying a higher price, but I am against highway robbery," he said.

Helping hands are hard to find

So, you've addressed the invitations, lined up great food and some sort of program, acquired lovely parting gifts for your guests.

It all sounds so perfect—who wouldn't want to come? But as you pop the invitations into the mail box, a little knot of anxiety forms in your stomach: what if no one comes?

That's an experience I've had twice lately as I worked, for the first time really, on a fund-raising event and a membership drive for two different non-profit organizations. Each time, the turnout was disappointing.

Everyone is so busy these days, it's hard to know what will entice them to give up a couple hours of their precious time, not to mention a few dollars, to support a worthy cause. What has to be the most compelling part: the cause, the price, the location, the food? There are so many variables.

After each of my two events, organizers queried each other. What did we do wrong? Did we charge too much? Should we have scheduled it daytime, or night? Wasn't there enough publicity? Was the effort worth it?

The real answer may be that people are just too busy, and that giving up a couple of hours is a problem, no matter when you schedule it. We'll probably never know. But if that's the case, it doesn't bode well for charities in the future.

It used to be that women were the mainstay of all charitable endeavors. Those were the days when they didn't work outside the home. Once the kids were grown, the ladies had time on their hands and put it to good use.

Those days are gone. Now, even though we want to do good works, we have a hard time finding a space in our lives. Just let us write a check, thank you very much.

But often that isn't enough. It takes time and effort to make an organization run. The women's group I'm involved in nearly folded this year due to no one wanting to be president. While many are committed to the goals, no one has the time to take on the task of administrator. None of us can afford to give up our jobs, or want to for that matter: we get fulfillment, or at least a paycheck, for our efforts.

What's the solution? On an episode of "Home Improvement" awhile back, mom Jill Taylor organized the non-dinner dinner for her fictional library group. The idea was that you could just write a check and you didn't have to go give up an evening to show your support.

She had a hard time selling it, but I think it sounds like a great idea, at least as a fund-raiser. But there's still one problem: How do we capture the workers that make the group hum? The answer eludes me.

Letters to the editor

An open letter to Clarkston

For nearly 35 years, under Ivan Rouse, Clarkston had a thriving conservatory of music. It was "a center for music study with the highest artistic standards" (my line - which Ivan adopted as his logo), and enriched the community's cultural life beyond measure.

I taught piano there for 19 years. Ivan was one of my closest friends. He always told everyone that I was to continue the conservatory after his death. Sadly, but not surprisingly (if you knew Ivan), he neglected to include this direction in his will.

I am now involved in a legal battle over the conservatory. Ivan did state unequivocally in his will that he wished the conservatory to continue as a conservatory of music after his death.

The trustees of his estate have listed the property to be sold as a school of music or other art-related activity. The trustees have received, to my knowledge, only two offers since last October - mine and one from the Flint Institute of Music for $25,000.

The clause "or other art-related activity," recently added because they found they couldn't sell the property as a conservatory of music for the amount they wanted, opens up many possibilities. It could be a sculptor's studio, a home for someone who teaches piano in the living room, a craft shop or perhaps a jewelry store.

The trustees for Ivan's estate are: Dolly Imbrunone (a friend of Ivan's), Dorothy Koop (Ivan's sister), and Richard White (the lawyer who drew up Ivan's documents). The beneficiaries are: myself (25%), Dolly Imbrunone (25%), the Church of the Resurrection (49%) and Steven Hanson (1%).

Dorothy Koop (along with the 4 other brothers and sisters surviving Ivan) and Mr. Hanson support both my efforts to continue Ivan's legacy, and my purchase offer as it stands. Ms. Imbrunone and Mr. White do not. The church refuses to take a position, which is unfortunate, because as a 49% beneficiary, it has considerable influence.

In June, I offered to purchase the property for $95,000 on a 5-year land contract with 25% down. This is based on an appraisal which took into account two things: 1) the building must be sold as a conservatory of music, and, 2) it is protected as an historical building under village ordinance, which prevents it from either being leveled, or the facade from being changed.

Based on this, the building was appraised at between $80,000 and $95,000. Within the last month (and probably due to my action) the realtor listing the property finally had it appraised. I am quite certain the above limitations (which considerably devalue the property) were not taken into account. Nevertheless, and although they won't divulge the results of the appraisal, my understanding is that it is between $100,000 and $150,000.

Clark Davis, the lawyer for the trust, has said that I want to buy it on the cheap; that I want to use the court to ratify my "lowball offer." This is untrue, and few courts would be that stupid.

My petition asks: 1) that I receive the right of first refusal (the right to beat any other valid offer); 2) that the court honor Ivan's written wish and rule that Driving M-24 recently I come up behind one of those big, tandem gravel trucks with a very dirty tailgate. Scratched in the dirt was: "Hey Gannett. Lost a scab. Look under my tires." For you non-newspaper types, Gannett owns The Detroit News.

I recently wanted to write something about October, so I went back to The Old Farmer's Almanac 1995. There among the dates were various truisms, quotes and anecdotes. You'll find some scattered through this column, like:

In October dung your field

And your land its wealth shall yield.

I don't know why I've been saving this bit of math until now, but here it is: Jot down your house number. Double it. Add five. Multiply by 50. Add your age. Add 365. Subtract 615. So what do you get? Your answer should show your house number on the left and your age on the right. Don't ask why.

Baraga County is the only county in Michigan without a jail.

Five quickies from "Life's Little Instruction Book:"

Years hunting by TV remote finally pay off

It was June 30 that, on WJBK-TV (Channel 2), I watched anchorwoman Catherine Leahan suffer what she surely must have considered the ultimate denigration.

It was on July 3 that, on both Channel 2 and WDIV-TV (Channel 4), I finally achieved my ultimate remote ambition.

Obviously, what with all those capital call letters, today's column is for my more intelligent sophisticated readers. You dummies can go back to reading Roman history in the original Latin.

Begin with Leahan: When I learned she was being dumped by WJBK-TV when her contract ran out in September, I naturally recalled that after Leahan split with WXYZ-TV (Channel 7) five years ago, she complained about the seating arrangements.

Leahan said Channel 7 had made her "subservient" by requiring her "to sit on the left of her male anchor, as are all women at Channel 7's news set."

As a dedicated chronicler of important contemporary sociological dish, I investigated and discovered that Leahan's accusation appeared valid. On my cable system, every channel with mixed-gender coanchors seated the woman on the man's left.

Allegedly, this is because we read from left to right, and the station bosses wanted viewers to "read" the male anchor first because men are regarded as more reliably grave, trustworthy and more likely than women to be taken seriously. Especially when reporting internationally important news, such as the latest development in actor Hugh Grant's case — he's been signed to star in two movie sequels, "Pantless in Seattle" and "The Backseats of Madison County."

As I reported at the time, the mixed-gender coanchor seating would probably be just the opposite in countries where people read from right to left. And if Channel 4 were in a country where people read down, from top to bottom, Mort Crim would sit on Carmen Harlan's shoulders.

But that was in 1990. When Channel 2 said it wouldn't renew Leahan's contract in 1995, I was anxious to see how she's being seated these days. And I could hardly believe what I saw when I found her on the 4 o'clock news.

I watched for half an hour. No one arrived to fill those empty chairs. Leahan made no effort to scoot into a more prominent position. She just sat there on the edge of the viewers' far right, subserviently, while her boss asked the public to put its trust in a vacant chair — three times — before finally getting around to the blonde.

OK, now let's move on to my ultimate remote achievement. For many years, while channel-hopping, I've been trying for perfect dual synchronization of a single television commercial. I mean word for word, image for image, so the channels can be switched seamlessly, with absolutely no evidence of remote-control interruption.

It may be recalled that I came within half a syllable of glory in 1993, with a Great Looking Gray shampoo commercial, and I wrote: "It was so thrilling to come that close that I can't imagine how I'll feel if I ever attain 100 percent synchronization."

Now I know. At 5:25 p.m. July 3, Channels 2 and 4 began and ended the same New York Carpet World commercial at the same time. My wife, who came rushing in answer to my screams — she thought I had a heart attack — is my witness, however unwilling.

So how did I feel? Elated, of course, but also strangely empty. My life seems no longer to have a purpose.

But we'll deal with that problem in a subsequent column. For now, after reading this one, you must be totally exhausted, cerebrally.

The O'Henry Awards

The O. Henry Awards (364 pages, Doubleday) is a volume of stories which comes out every year to honor exceptional American short fiction writers. The 1995 edition leaves nothing to be desired. This year's first prize story is Cornelia Nixon's "The Women Come and Go," which is a brilliant new twist on the well-worn tale of good friends growing apart. The book had such a positive impact on me that I went out and bought The O. Henry Awards 1994 Prize Stories as soon as I finished it.

The O. Henry Awards has a little bit of everything. The stories represent a wide range of themes and ideas. It seems their only common thread is the beautiful writing with which they are constructed.

The plots range from the mentally comfortable: boy meets girl, etc., in Charles Baxter's "Kiss Away," to unusual: woman is obsessed with her summer employment boss for 20 years in Alison Baker's "Loving Wanda Beaver," to the truly bizarre: woman writes rambling letter to a favorite ex-teacher in Robin Bradford's "If This Letter Were a Beaded Object."

My personal favorite, "Sarah," by Allegra Goodman, is a sad and realistic portrait of a woman trying to cope with her disappointing career and troubled family.

The book costs $11, which comes to roughly 50 cents per story. Many of the stories are a little long, but they can be read in one sitting. I recommend The O. Henry Awards to anyone who likes to read. My only regret is that I have to wait until 1996 for another collection.

the building only be sold as a conservatory of music; 3) that the court supervise the proceedings, and 4) that this all be done quickly since the business and the building are suffering and Ivan's sole asset and legacy is dissipating. This is all I'm asking. Not for a special price or a special deal.

I want Clarkston to know that the conservatory is now open for business, staffed with top faculty, and accepting new students. Presently we offer instruction in piano, voice, guitar and flute. If we receive enough inquiries, we will offer strings, brass and other woodwinds.

I would like to provide music instruction with the highest artistic standards for another generation of young students, and provide Clarkston again with the highest quality concerts. But if the present situation continues, the Clarkston Conservatory can and probably will be sold for another purpose. This will be a sad and irretrievable loss to Clarkston and the surrounding communities.

This is not about my personal benefit. Since I am a 25% beneficiary, I would benefit much more by letting the trustees sell it for top dollar and going elsewhere with my proceeds (the building needs $150,000 to $200,000 worth of repairs and renovations). I want to renovate it, start a concert series, build a recital hall.

Ivan and his conservatory were inseparable as ideas. One could not be a friend of his without being a friend of the conservatory's. It was his lifelong endeavor — his only lasting gift to the community.

Concerned citizens and friends can help. Write letters to Judge Eugene Moore at: Oakland County Probate Court, 1200 N. Telegraph, Dept. 449, Pontiac, MI 48341-0449. Write letters to or call the trustees and the Church of the Resurrection. And, please come to the hearing on October 11 at 8:30 a.m. It's at the above Probate Court address.

A high blood pressure week to remember

Without a doubt, Homecoming week was the busiest week of my life thus far. Between practicing with our band, My Sister David (a.k.a. me, Laura and junior Jeremy Bazely), to getting ready for the pre-game party, shopping for Laura's dress, the football game, the dance, marching band, practice for the fall play, and keeping up with school work on top of it all, I consider myself lucky to be alive.

Finding Laura's Homecoming dress was no easy feat, I assure you. After several unsuccessful attempts at the mall along with assorted stores in Royal Oak and Birmingham, Laura was still without a dress come the Monday of Homecoming week. Turns out that the dress Laura wanted, but for some reason didn't try on, was in one of the first places she looked: Incognito in Royal Oak.

My mother instructed us that we were not to come home on Monday unless Laura had a dress. I could just picture myself calling up one of my friends at midnight saying, "Can I stay with you, man? My sister doesn't have a dress yet."

Luckily that didn't happen as Laura and I ended up driving to and from downtown Royal Oak in rush hour traffic, finding her dress, and getting lost only once when we accidentally started heading toward downtown Detroit.

The pre-game party was, at least for My Sister David, a success. It was great to have a place where we could play for members of the student body who ordinarily wouldn't hear us or know that we exist. We got lots of positive feedback and free pizza. Not a bad deal at all! My Sister David thanks student council for organizing this event and letting us play.

Congratulations to our football team for an excellent game! My favorite part, of course, was standing on the field while Laura walked down the middle with "Billy Territo" (that's a joke if you couldn't tell). Though I must say, singing Barry Manilow's "Copacabana" in the stands with freshman Holly Lloyd was certainly a highlight in itself.

My Homecoming evening started out with a bang at Jimmy Territo's house where Laura and I along with junior Colin McIntyre, seniors Joe Smith, Kristen Wicklund, Marisa Jannaman, Joe Dilegghio, and Lisa Robertson, took Homecoming pictures with props such as toy guns, boxing gloves, plastic baseball bats and fake watermelons.

The evening slowed down a little at dinner, a "too-fancy-for-D'Anne" place, a.k.a. Charlie's Crab in Troy. First of all, I don't like seafood and the waitress acted like I was mentally ill when I asked her if they had grilled cheese. So I, along with fellow senior Lisa Robertson, just ordered a salad while everyone else ordered things like frog legs, mussels and clam. I, personally, cannot eat the legs of frogs or scoop out the insides of tiny shelled animals in good conscience. Perhaps I am just weak willed.

The dance was definitely a lot more relaxed and a lot more fun than dinner. Although I was not personally satisfied with the musical selection, I did have a lot of fun dancing and just being around my very good friends. It is always exciting to see everyone all dolled up, though I went for the comfortable look myself and wore a cotton tie-dyed dress with Grateful Dead bears on it, though I don't even like the Grateful Dead.

I really love to dance and think that dancing is lots of fun, though I am certainly no match for dancing queen Kristen Wicklund, who was burning holes in the gym floor.

After the dance I sat on the edge of Deer Lake at senior Joe Dilegghio's house with the majority of the people I spent the evening with, looking at the fire flies in the grass, the stars in the sky and the waves in the water.

I wondered if this was one of the moments I should take in and would remember for the rest of my life. I suppose I'll have to get back with myself ten, twenty years from now to really know for sure, but I'm guessing it is.

Heritage Hunt II by Virginia Block

Michelle Keauka wrote us almost a year ago, with questions on Randall and Nancy Chapman (lived in Walled Lake area 1820-1840). Michelle lived in Walled Lake, but now resides in North Pole, Alaska.

In a recent letter to Florence Hill, she found a possible tie to the Staub line, and Florence recently had a telephone chat with Michelle.

The Chapman line information needed by Michelle named the children of Randall and Nancy as Aaron, Polly and David. The First Land Owners of Oakland County publication shows that Randall Chapman of Ontario County, N.Y., bought land in Sec. 27, Novi Twp. (160 acres) on June 2, 1828.

In the 1845 census of Oakland County, we fail to find Randall listed as head of the family; however, in the 1860 census there is a listing of Aaron Chapman with his family, so we are certain that we are finding the same family.

We are also noting a marriage in 1881 for (Homer) Randall (son of Aaron) to Lucinda Hammond; also Aaron's son's: Ervin A., physician, to Carrie Hoyt on March 5, 1879, and also Frank H. It would connect many others of you, as we follow this family.

If you were offered the chance to attend a workshop on Saturday, Oct. 28 and Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., sponsored by the Pontiac Public Library (which is in the early planning stages), if pre-registration were required with a $5 cost (for both sessions), and the class size was limited, how many of you would accept?

Classes would include films presenting use of the Family History Centers. These films teach research methods that start with the first step in starting your family history and going as far as any research area, anywhere in the world would be found. Frances Peterson of Southfield would present her expertise in locating ancestral lines back to the Mayflower and beyond, and is D.A.R. Genealogist for the Chapter in Lathrop.

Computer "know how" will be included with Barbara Frye and Joseph Laphnear on hand to speak to the research being done by computers, and the need to keep up with the rapid changes in the technology world.

More to the point - what do you need, and where are you looking?

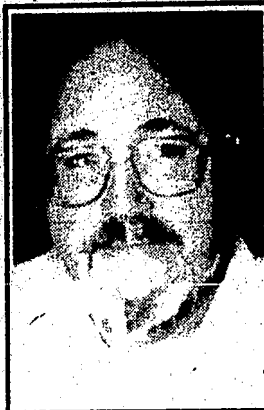

Long ago, Joy Reisinger asked the question, "Do you want to do your work twice?" stressing the importance of documenting your findings as you go.

As we begin to try to catalogue our library we will soon be able to let you know what we personally have to help you find the answers to the questions you've asked of me, already. Be sure to let us know ASAP.

Happy Hunting.

Vietnam pilot coming home

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The black POW/MIA flag which flies day and night in front of the Independence Township Hall commemorates the thousands of servicemen never accounted for in American wars. One of them was from Clarkston.

Until now.

The remains of James Devrin Carter were turned over to the U.S. Army in August, 1993. On June 13, 1995 his parents, Rio and Harmon, were notified their son had been positively identified. Carter will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery Oct. 12.

On June 13, 1968, a helicopter under the James D. Carter command of warrant officer Carter went down over Quang Nai Province, South Vietnam after an accident with another U.S. aircraft. Carter's body was never recovered.

In the intervening years, his mother, who still lives in Independence Township, heard various stories about the event.

"There were six or seven (people) aboard," she said last week. "Those numbers never really meant too much to me. All I cared about was my son."

The bodies of the crewmen were recovered, but Carter's was not. For 25 years he has been counted among those missing in action, although in reality he was classified by the Army as "killed in action, body not recovered." That ended June 21.

James Carter was a 1965 graduate of Clarkston High School and a member of the marching band. Against his mother's wishes, he enlisted in the Army a year after graduation. He was 21 at the time of his death.

His remains, along with those of 18 other servicemen lost in Vietnam and Laos were scheduled to be flown back to the U.S. mainland Sept. 27.

Parks advocate lives on through nature center

Will be renamed in honor of Lew Wint when addition is completed

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Relatives of the late Lewis E. Wint, as well as area residents, now have a living memorial to the caring contributions Wint made to Oakland County Parks.

On Tuesday, Sept. 26, friends, family and business people gathered at the Independence Oaks Nature Center to break ground for a 4,300-square-foot expansion that will more than double the center's present size. The addition will provide more space for programs and exhibits and include a reception area with additional restrooms. Upon completion in 1996, the building will be renamed the Lewis E. Wint Nature Center.

Wint, a long-time Clarkston resident who died in 1992, was chairman of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission for 15 years and founding member and trustee of the Oakland Parks Foundation. Janet Pung, communications officer for Oakland County Parks and Rec., said Wint took a special interest in the Independence Oaks County Park.

"He was very committed to keeping this park as an environmentally maintained park and he provided opportunities for people to be involved in nature, especially for more passive kinds of recreation such as walking along the trails," Pung also added that Wint was a big supporter of youth. His concern for disabled children led him to be involved in the SCAMP program, of which he was also a founding member, she said.

Through its environmental awareness and nature appreciation programs, the Nature Center has reached more than 600,000 persons since its opening 10 years ago, according to information supplied from Oakland County Parks. Currently the center contains a children's discovery area, exhibit room, wildlife feeding station, assembly room, observation deck and fireplace. The nearby Sadie and Irwin Cohn Amphitheater presents nature-related musicals and theatrical performances.

Funding for the addition came from the Oakland Parks Foundation through the Lewis E. Wint Golf fundraisers, private donations, a Michigan Recreation Bond Fund Grant and Oakland County Parks capital improvement funds.

Pung said the fact that the Oakland Parks Foundation raised its goals to $50,000 (the total given to the nature center) during the last few years is significant.

"We expect they will continue to raise them again through the Lew Wint golf outing for future exhibits (for the center)."

Bill Wint, son of Lew Wint, said he was happy that the nature center would be renamed in honor of his father.

"I guess the greatest part of this dedication is honoring my father's dedication to the parks. It's a wonderful way for them to express their gratitude."

Bill Wint said that, although his father hadn't been a naturalist, his main concern was to preserve land for future generations.

"He wasn't a camper, fisherman or outdoors person. He was a futurist," Wint said.

After he heard his nephew, 13-year-old Kenny Leonard, comment, Wint said he couldn't have expressed the family's feelings any better.

"It's pretty cool," said Kenny, who was enjoying a lunch after the ground-breaking. "I just wish my grandpa could be here."

Morgan Lake Phase I a go, with stipulations

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the end all that matters is Morgan Lake Golf Classic Phase I was approved by the Independence Township Board of Trustees.

After long discussion and debate, the board voted 6-0 (trustee Bruce Mercado was absent) at a special meeting Sept. 25 to approve phase I. In separate action, the board approved the rezoning of the property to planned residential development.

Phase I (called The Ridge), which is one of five phases in the entire 280-acre PRD (with an 18-hole golf course), did receive approval, but with some stipulations. Those conditions, which were recommended by the township attorney and consultants, include:

* That Phase I not be officially approved until the day after legal advertisement of the PRD rezoning.

* That the township be "held harmless" if any dispute arises out of the fact Phase I was approved before a public notice was advertised on the PRD rezoning.

* That the Master Deed and Bylaws be submitted to the township with the stipulation that there will be no "improved access" to Morgan Lake by the developers. This means the developer has agreed to leave the lake as is currently used.

To get to the point of agreement, however, was much more difficult, although both sides were prepared. Morgan Lake was equipped with its attorney, several interested parties, property owner Albert Semaan, hired consultant Rudy Lozano and representative Michael Clark. The township made sure planner

Richard Carlisle, engineer Randall Ford and Gary Dove, of the township law firm Kohl, Secrest, Wardle, Lynch and Hampton, were there to express their concerns as well.

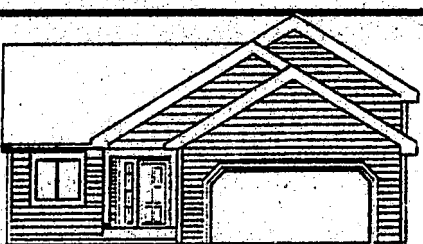

Phase I sits on 19 acres in the north end of the development, south of Maybee Road. It will consist of 45 detached homes, with a density of 2.29 units per acre. In addition to the homes, roads will be cut on the property as well as some grading for golf holes 15 and 16, which borders the phase.

Township investments in the hands of pros

The investment market will no longer be a mystery for Independence Township.

The township's board of trustees approved the contract agreement with two investment advisors at its Sept. 19 meeting. The board originally agreed to hire investment manager Munder Capital Management at its July 18 meeting.

Munder's contract was then approved Sept. 19, at the same time an agreement was approved with Comerica Bank to be the custodian. Comerica's role is to hold on to the township's securities while Munder's role is to advise on investments (following the township's new investment policy) and find the best possible prices by working with a variety of brokers.

Munder and Comerica will report to township treasurer John Lutz, who will have final say on investments.

The search for investment professionals was triggered by the township's current troubles with derivative or mortgaged backed securities.

Miracle baby

A Clarkston couple found out nothing would stop their baby from being born, not even a head-on collision.

BY MICHAEL KAMYSZEK
Lake Orion Review Staff Writer

Sept. 20, 1995 will always remain bittersweet in the minds of Robert and Paula Elosegui of Clarkston. Bitter because they were involved in what could have been a fatal car crash. Sweet, because of the miracle of life that arrived about eight hours later.

Corey Robert Elosegui was born at 10:25 a.m. at Crittenton Hospital in Rochester, weighing nine pounds and six ounces.

"The whole thing is really pretty amazing," Robert Elosegui said. "We just feel very fortunate and lucky to be alive."

According to Robert, Paula had just gone into labor when they decided to go to the hospital. After they dropped their 19-month-old daughter off at Paula's mother's house, they pulled onto Baldwin.

"It's real hard to remember exactly what happened, all I was thinking about was getting to the hospital as fast as I could," Robert said. "I remember looking down for a second at the speedometer and when I looked up I saw the headlights."

Robert said his wife had alerted him to the oncoming car, which according to witnesses who were following the suspect's car, was directly in the Elosegui's lane.

"The only thing I could do was swerve, and try to absorb most of the blow on my side of the Blazer," Robert said.

The couple were injured, but conscious and able to talk with each other and passersbys that stopped to assist. Robert's legs were trapped under the dashboard which prevented him from immediately exiting the vehicle, Paula was having difficulty breathing, but was able to get out.

"I'm really thankful for the people that stopped. At first one person was hesitant to help because of my injuries, but he eventually was able to help me get my legs out from under the dashboard," Robert said.

By this time emergency help had arrived, and the couple were transported to the hospital. Paula had suffered four broken ribs, and Robert had a broken arm and severely bruised legs.

Robert was treated in the emergency room, and released at about 8 a.m. on Sunday time to see the birth of his child. As a result of the accident, the baby was born with some complications.

Because of the force of the accident, the baby had breathed in blood, and the umbilical cord was around his head. This caused Corey to be born without a heartbeat.

"The doctors were great right after he was born, they were able to get him breathing right away," Paula said.

The family was allowed to go home on Wednesday afternoon, but the memories of the accident will remain forever according to Robert.

"Maybe we are starting to get over a little bit of the initial shock, but we will never forget that night completely. "It was just an impossible scenario to ever forget."

The accident was also disturbing for Robert's brother David and his mother Linda. David was in a 1991 accident on Baldwin, that resulted in a broken neck. Robert's mother has had to endure two sons involved in serious incidents on the same road.

"Both of our accidents were head on, and on the same road. David and my mother are very upset about what happened," Robert said.

Both Robert and Paul said they are trying not to be bitter about the accident or the driver.

"We're trying not to feel any anger, it won't do us any good anyway," Robert said. "I am just thankful that my family is alive."

"We had great doctors and great rescue personnel, they helped us and made us feel as comfortable as possible under the circumstances."

Flu shots return in Clarkston area

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention predicts that this fall, most Americans won't have any natural immunity against the Johannesburg, Beijing and Texas flu viruses that are expected to infect residents.

That's the bad news. The good news is that flu shots will once again be made easily and affordably available, thanks to a number of organizations, including the Visiting Nurse Association and the Oakland County Health Division.

Influenza, commonly known as the flu, is a highly infectious virus that attacks the respiratory system. Symptoms include fever, chills, headache, aching muscles, nausea and vomiting followed by a dry cough, nasal discharge, sore throat and fatigue. Severe influenza can lead to serious complications including pneumonia, bronchitis and sinus and lung infections.

Everyone is encouraged to take advantage of the flu vaccine, but some groups are at increased risk of complications. They include senior citizens, adults and children with long-term heart or lung problems, anyone with a serious long-term health problem, including cancer and immunological disorders and medical staff.

The Oakland County Health Division will offer flu shots beginning Tuesday, Oct. 3 at its offices in Pontiac and Southfield. Shots will continue through Friday, Dec. 29, or until the supply runs out. Cost is $3. Pneumonia vaccine will also be available at a cost of $7 (free to those covered by Medicare/Medicaid).

The Visiting Nurse Association will offer shots all over the metro Detroit area. Cost is $10 (free to Medicare B recipients), with a portion of the proceeds used to give free shots at area homeless shelters.

Dates scheduled in and around Clarkston so far include:

- Oct. 4: Lighthouse Clarkston, 11 a.m.-3 p.m.
- Oct. 6: Farmer Jack, Dixie Hwy., Clarkston, 4-7 p.m.

Everest Academy kicks off auction with art contest

As part of its fourth annual live and silent auction fundraiser set for December, Clarkston's Everest Academy conducted an art contest for student members.

First-prize winner was first-grader Marie Mackowiak whose drawing of the Nativity surrounded by smiling snowmen was an enchanting Christmas scene. As with past auctions, Marie's picture will be featured as the cover of the yearly advertising magazine given out at the auction.

Other winners of the art contest include eighth-grader Meghan O'Donnell, second place, and sixth-grader Teresa Williams, third place. The students' artwork adhered to the theme of this year's auction, entitled "Joyeux Noel." Drawings were composed in a variety of mediums, reproduced in black and white and judged by the school's art teacher, Germaine Sliney.

The auction will be held on Dec. 1 at the Deer Lake Racquet Club in Clarkston from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Several area merchants and other organizations have donated merchandise or services, including a hot air balloon ride, complete with champagne, for two. For more information about the event, call the academy at (810) 620-3390.

Almost a 'no bag' lady

Shopper relieved after purse is returned

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Last week Linda Schoemer went grocery shopping as usual at Food Town in Clarkston. But when her teenage daughter arrived home from school around 3:30 and asked for some money, Schoemer panicked. She couldn't find her purse.

"I couldn't find it anywhere. I remembered writing a check at Food Town," she said.

Schoemer couldn't believe it when she called the grocery store and was told a woman had turned in her $150 Coach purse with all the cash and credit cards still there. She was even more surprised when she met the woman — Diane Summers, a financial service representative for The State Bank which is located within Food Town. Schoemer said the coincidences were uncanny.

"She looked about my age and I found out that, just like me, she had two teenagers. She also said that the same exact thing had happened to her 10 years ago."

Summers said she had just returned from "Moola Moola" at Andersonville Elementary School, a weekly savings program for students from elementary through high school age. She saw Schoemer's purse sitting in a shopping cart in the Food Town parking lot and turned it in to the grocery store. Like Schoemer, she had also once experienced the horror of leaving her purse in a basket.

Schoemer was so grateful that she tried to give Summers a reward, but Summers wouldn't take anything.

Where Is Uncle Sam's Land?

(NAPS)—Go west young man—or young woman—would be good advice for anyone interested in visiting Federally owned land. About 88 percent of all Federal land can be found in 11 western states. Nevada has more Federal land than any other state, with 60 million acres, a whopping 85 percent of the state. California follows with 47 million acres, which is about 48 percent of the state. Utah is third with 36 million acres, which is 65 percent of the state. Other Western states with large amounts of Federal land are Idaho, Oregon, Arizona, Wyoming, New Mexico, Montana, Colorado, and Washington. The total acreage of land owned by Uncle Sam increased by 3.3 million acres between 1982 and 1992.

Investor vs. broker for $4.9 million

Hearing brings out truth as both sides see it

NASD Arbitration

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Only one thing is for sure in Independence Township's arbitration claim against Westcap Securities. The township will never again be unaware of investments.

Last week, arbitrators sat through three days of testimony — over 18 hours — from township officials, experts, brokers, and sifted through hundreds of pages of documents, all in hopes of determining whether the township will collect any of the $4.9 million it is asking for from Westcap Securities, et al.

The arbitration hearing, set up by the National Association of Securities Dealers, was held at the Radisson Hotel in Southfield. It's been about a year since the township first filed the claim, stating treasurer John Lutz was misled by Westcap salesman Craig Liebold and Jeffrey Oetting concerning four derivative-type securities.

The hearing, originally intended to endure three days, is to be continued Oct. 25-27. After the three-day hearing, township attorneys announced the township had rested its case, having called all its witnesses.

"All these trades ... were motivated by pure and unadulterated greed."

Roger Timm

Westcap attorneys will get a chance to call their witnesses in the next three-day period.

At the end of both sides' testimony, a rebuttal can be asked for and witnesses could testify again.

The arbitration is much like a court case, except three arbitrators — agreed upon by both sides of the case — will make a decision on the claim. Their decision is final and must be made within 30 days of the final hearing date.

The first three days of arbitration uncovered few new facts in the case. The following is a day-by-day summary of testimony from the various witnesses.

Opening statements:

Independence Township's specially-hired attorney Roger Timm of Dykema Gossett, Westcap attorney John Carter and Liebold and Oetting attorney J.C. Nickens made lengthy opening statements to the arbitrators.

The township is seeking $2.9 million in actual damages and $2 million in punitive damages. "The failure of Westcap, Liebold and Oetting to disclose material information is at the heart of this case."

"All these trades were done with Liebold's and Oetting's recommendation and the evidence will show they were motivated by pure and unadulterated greed, not the best interests of the township," Timm said.

He said the salesmen knew the township required short-term investments, not long-term securities as recommended by Liebold and Oetting.

Carter and Nickens both said the facts will show Liebold and Oetting worked with Lutz for three years before the in-question investments. They say Lutz knew exactly what he was investing in because he had made similar investments with other brokers. They say Liebold and Oetting were not investment advisors, only salesmen following Lutz's direction.

Testimony of township supervisor Dale Stuart:

He said he first found out the four Westcap investments, decreased in value from $5.3 million to $2.1 million in Sept. of 1994 from township auditors Plante & Moran, and that the township took "a forever loss" of around $200,000.

"My own reaction was I was very alarmed, devastated, by the news," he said, also testifying that investments are the responsibility of the treasurer.

Stuart said other effects of the investment problems include a lowered bond rating, a concern that prices for bids will be higher than normal and possible future financing downgrade. He said the township is in no financial danger but has lost more than money. "It's more than just actual dollars that we look at, but the loss of confidence from the community."

In cross examination, Westcap's Carter questioned Stuart on the township's new investment policy, saying if mortgage securities are illegal investments (according to the state) and too risky for the township, why are they allowed under the new policy. Stuart said the policy greatly limits the types of mortgage securities allowed for investment.

Nickens also pressed Stuart about what the township considered doing when the investments were first discovered. Stuart confirmed that at one time the township considered suing Lutz, but backed off when it was discovered insurance wouldn't cover it.

STATEMENT OF CLAIM

Claimant Charter Township of Independence, by its counsel Dykema Gossett PLLC, states:

PARTIES

1. Claimant, Charter Township of Independence (the Township), is a chartered township of the State of Michigan. Its address is 90 N. Main Street, P.O. Box 59, Clarkston, MI 48347.
2. Respondent Westcap Securities, L.P. (Westcap) is a broker/dealer doing business in Michigan and is a member of principal securities exchanges and the National Association of Securities Dealers ("NASD"). Westcap's address is 1301 Fannin, Suite 2300, Houston TX 77002.
3. Respondent Craig L. Liebold (Liebold) was a salesperson associated with Respondent Westcap during the time relevant to this claim.
4. Respondent Jeffrey D. Oetting (Oetting) was a salesperson associated with Respondent Westcap during the time relevant to this claim.
5. Liebold and Oetting were associated with Westcap from approximately October 28, 1992 through March 1994, when Westcap fired them. During the time Liebold and Oetting were associated with Westcap, each

Nickens also pointed out the fact that auditors Plante & Moran did in fact mention that the township had long-term investments in the final audits from 1990, 1991 and 1992, way before the 1993 audit, where officials first said they discovered the questionable securities.

Testimony of James Robinson, president of Munder Capital, an investment advisor:

Munder Capital performed an analysis of the township's dealings with Westcap and said the type of investments, and commissions paid to Liebold and Oetting were questionable.

He said the current maturity of the township's portfolio is over 20 years, while it should be only 3-5 years.

He said the salesmen made over $1 million in commissions within a year, an unreasonably high figure, considering the township never earned that Independence Township called its last witness and rested its side of a $4.9 million arbitration claim against Westcap Securities, et al.

In three days of testimony before a three-person arbitration panel, the township called all its witnesses and rested its case on Sept. 28. The hearing will continue for another three days starting Oct. 25 as the defense gets to call its witnesses. Witnesses called by the township were two investment experts hired by the township, township supervisor Dale Smart, treasurer John Lutz, and former Westcap brokers Craig Leibold and Jeffrey Oetting, both of whom are named in the claim as well.

The township's specially-hired attorney Roger Timm of Dykema Gossett attempted to prove to the arbitration panel that Lutz was misled by the brokers and given bad investment advice in connection to four securities that have decreased in value by over $3 million since 1993. The investment experts testified that the township should have been investing in short-term (around five years) securities and Leibold and Oetting should have known that. The four securities in question are all long-term.

Despite the township resting its case, J.C. Nickens, the attorney for Leibold and Oetting, said he is pleased about case so far. During his cross-examination of the township's witnesses, he said it was obvious that Lutz knew those securities were long-term.

"Ordinarily I would be upset we didn't get the opportunity to put on our case but I was astonished and pleased at the level of unsophistication Mr. Lutz showed (in regards to investments) in his testimony," said Nickens, whose law firm is based in Houston, Texas. "I feel good about where it is now. I don't think they've proven there is any evidence to show my clients did anything wrong."

Timm said the "heart" of this case is the fact the brokers were motivated by "pure, unadulterated greed."

Broker trades excessive, expert testifies

much from the investments.

Attorneys Carter and Nickens both tried to show that Robinson's reports and opinions are based on "selective analysis," and that the township did not provide all relevant information.

Testimony of Ken Carroll, investment expert: Carroll gave similar testimony as Robinson and presented more charts, reports and figures to show that Westcap did not deal with the township in the proper way.

In a 14-month period he said the salesmen traded securities nine times, affecting value and performance. He said for each trade, the salesmen would receive a commission.

"It appears over the time period that these trades didn't add value to the account," Carroll said.

Nickens and Carter once again tried to prove Carroll's analysis irrelevant. They said there was no policy at the time to show the brokers a guide of what they were to invest in.

The investment restrictions were only added when the new investment policy was adopted this year, said Nickens. Carroll agreed that his analysis is based on the information he received from the township attorneys, and that he wasn't given documents such as quarterly statements.

Nickens reiterated that Lutz decided what securities to invest in and it was his responsibility to determine the goals of the township's portfolio, not the brokers' responsibility.

Testimony of Mark Salter, a former vice president of Westcap:

Salter, a witness for Westcap, said that the commissions Leibold and Oetting received were standard rates for salesmen in his company.

When questioned by Timm, Salter also admitted that a securities analysis (called a stress test) available to Leibold and Oetting, which shows the possible performance of securities under adverse conditions, was not sent to the township.

Testimony of Craig Leibold:

Leibold, who talked with Lutz most often, said he always had the impression that Lutz understood mortgage securities because they had worked with one another for three years already.

He also admitted that his actions with Lutz and the township came under the review of Westcap's compliance officer.

Leibold was "terminated" by Westcap shortly after the problems arose. "It was mutually agreed upon that I would leave but the document sent to me said I was fired," said Leibold, who added his release had nothing to do with the township's account.

Chamber marks another year of service

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

When the Clarkston courthouse burned nearly one year ago, the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce was one of the renters that was virtually put out of business.

But the community pitched in to help immediately, and last week the Chamber said thank-you by donating $2,000 to Lighthouse Clarkston where it has been temporarily housed ever since.

At the Chamber's annual meeting Sept. 27 at Deer Lake Racquet Club, outgoing president Don Brose thanked all those who had helped during a hectic year. After the fire, the Chamber was considering what to do when Wendy Halsey, branch manager at Lighthouse Clarkston, called offering free office space in her already cramped quarters on Maybee Rd. the Independence Township Library offered a room for board meetings.

What could have been a very expensive move has, in fact, allowed the Chamber to save money so it will be able to furnish its new office in the rebuilt courthouse on Citation Drive.

"I can't think of a better place to be in 1995-96 than the Clarkston area," said Brose.

Despite the hardships, membership in the Chamber has actually grown in the past year, up from 169 to 179 without an organized membership drive. That happened, Brose said, because of an emphasis on member services, including the offering of health insurance to Chamber members.

At the same time, the Chamber has continued its community service work, sponsoring Concerts in the Park and the circus which came to town this summer.

"Our hope is when Clarkston consumers need an item they'll think of us first, not because we're good businessmen but because we're good people," Brose said.

At the annual meeting, which was attended by about 75 people, Brose turned over his gavel to new president Darren Klein of A. Klein Company in Waterford. Klein, 28, may be the youngest Chamber president ever, Brose said. He's clearly enthusiastic.

Book now for Chamber Expo

Tables are going fast for the annual Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce Business Expo, to be held Nov. 8 at Spring Lake Country Club.

"It is an exceptional opportunity for members to get their name out there," said Chamber president Darren Klein. "We are close to selling out."

To reserve a table, call the Chamber office at 625-8055.

"This year I want to focus, as Don did, on member benefits; more value for your membership," Klein said. "And increase promotion for our members. As a Chamber we're here to help our members succeed."

Klein, whose business is in commercial janitorial services, said he joined the Chamber a few years ago "to network with other members, since I was so young myself." Before that, "I just kept my nose in my books and I didn't get involved."

Klein was a member of the Chamber's scholarship committee for the last three years. "It was fun," he said. When asked by Brose to take over as president, he said yes.

In turning over the reins, Brose said his year as president has been "a growing experience for me. Probably the most important thing I've learned is all of us in this room have an enthusiasm. We're all kids at heart."

Sprinklers main issue in Citation water hookup

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Work should begin on installing a water main for the new court and buildings on Citation Drive by mid-October.

A $77,168 bid was approved by the Independence Township Board of Trustees at a Sept. 25 special meeting. Anderson Excavating of Waterford was awarded the bid because township engineers have worked with them before and their bid was about $20,000 less than the next lowest.

Township Supervisor Dale Stuart said he expects the company to start work by Oct. 16 so water can be hooked up to the properties. "The main issue is the sprinkler system and we've insisted that it be completed on a timely basis," he said.

The construction will be paid for by a special assessment district that was also approved by the board at that meeting. The SAD, spread out over 10 years, would cost a total of about $117,000 (before interest, the cost is about $86,200).

The SAD's costs are to be spread out among 13 lots, although one group of property owners is in control of 10 of the sites.

The township's water system runs past Citation Drive on M-15, but had not been hooked up to the old 52-2 District Court before it burned down in October last year. The new SAD will allow the system to hook up to the courthouse (which already has a sprinkler system installed) and the other new buildings planned for construction on the sites, including a new fire department station/OCSD sub-station.

While the township approved plans for the new fire/OCSD station earlier this year, it is still in negotiations to purchase the land for the building.

That's a lot of pancakes

Independence Township firefighters turned over the proceeds of their Labor Day pancake breakfast to Lighthouse Clarkson last week. Pictured are, from left, firefighters Brad Hale and Bob Vordeburg, Lighthouse North branch manager Wendy Halsey and firefighter Rick Hardy. The firefighters said the department has been flipping flapjacks for 22 years and distributing the proceeds to various charities. This year, Vordeburg said, "was kind of planned to get it back in the township." They sold a total of 448 breakfasts this Labor Day.

Offensive line keys high-scoring attack

'Little things' lead to homecoming win

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's four straight and counting for the Clarkston Wolves football team. But that streak won't stop the Wolves from focusing on what has helped them to a 4-1 record (3-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I).

The Wolves beat Rochester 35-21 Sept. 29, and while coach Kurt Richardson was pleased at how his offense controlled the game, he wasn't too happy about a season-high six penalties (for jumping offsides).

"When you're young like us and the competition is probably more talented, you have to do the little things right," said Richardson. "We have to eliminate those mental mistakes and we (the coaches) will be harping hard this week in practice about error-free football."

But don't get the coach wrong. He couldn't be more proud of the effort and determination his team showed in beating Rochester on Homecoming. And he also knows his team's discipline has gotten them to this fast start.

In five games the Wolves have had only five turnovers and the penalties the team collected against Rochester were the most of the season.

Once again the key to the win was Clarkston's superior conditioning, and an offensive line that wore down Rochester and allowed sophomore quarterback Dane Fife time to pick apart the Rochester defense.

The offensive line struggled at times early this season, but allowed Fife the time to complete 16-of-25 passes for 214 yards and four touchdowns against Rochester. The beneficiary of 11 of those passes, for 144 yards, was senior receiver Tim Wasilk, who also caught three TD passes.

But that spectacular playmaking isn't possible unless the line does its job. "Everyone is noticing Dane and Tim right now and they deserve it but the offensive line is really maturing," said Richardson. "If they don't block we don't make the plays."

The line rotates junior Matt Gifford (6-foot, 175 pounds), junior Jason Olafsson (6-3, 225), junior Ryan Schlaff (5-11, 195), senior Joe Roy (5-9, 155), senior Matt Sutherland (5-11, 210) and junior Nick Zavatsky (5-10, 210).

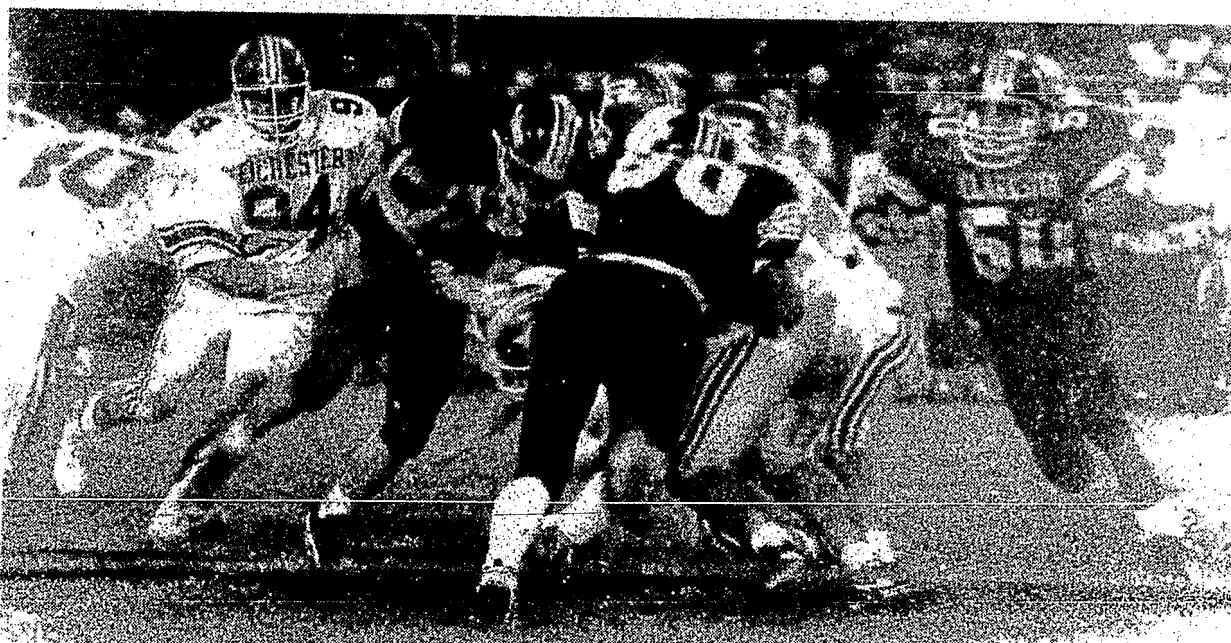

Thanks to hard work and the ability to learn, Richardson said the line continues to improve. "Rich Porritt (assistant coach) has done a great job with them and they've matured. They realize they have to get it done."

With time, Fife can control the game. He's shown ability as an accurate passer, but also as a leader who's cool in the clutch. Several times against Rochester Fife looked off several receivers and came back to another one.

Wasilk is the go-to guy, often making spectacular catches whenever the ball is near him.

"Silk" is just giving DBs fits out there," said Richardson. "He's having a phenomenal season for us."

The Wolves found themselves down 8-0 to start the game when Rochester drove 80 yards on its first drive. Clarkston's offense came right back with an 80-yard drive of its own, ending on a 5-yard TD pass from Fife to Wasilk. The two-point conversion failed and the Wolves were still down 8-6.

Ryan Schapman bulls his way for yardage as his Wolves racked up the points against Rochester.

Rochester came right back again in the second quarter and scored on a 59-yard drive for a 14-6 lead. At that point it looked as though the Wolves defense would never stop Rochester.

"We've got to get better defensively," said Richardson. "We gave up too much early in that game. We made some halftime adjustments but in the second half we just started tackling better."

The Wolves offense took over in the second quarter with about 12 minutes to play. With strong running from senior fullback Joe DeGain the Wolves marched 72 yards, ending on a 12-yard TD pass from Fife to Wasilk.

That TD also showed the poise and skill Fife has. On the play, Fife scrambled left but found no one open. Moments later a Rochester lineman got his arms around the sophomore. But somehow Fife fired a strike to Wasilk between two Rochester defenders. It was a turning point in the game and the Wolves never looked back.

CHS scored the two-point conversion with a swing pass from Fife to running back Ryan Schapman.

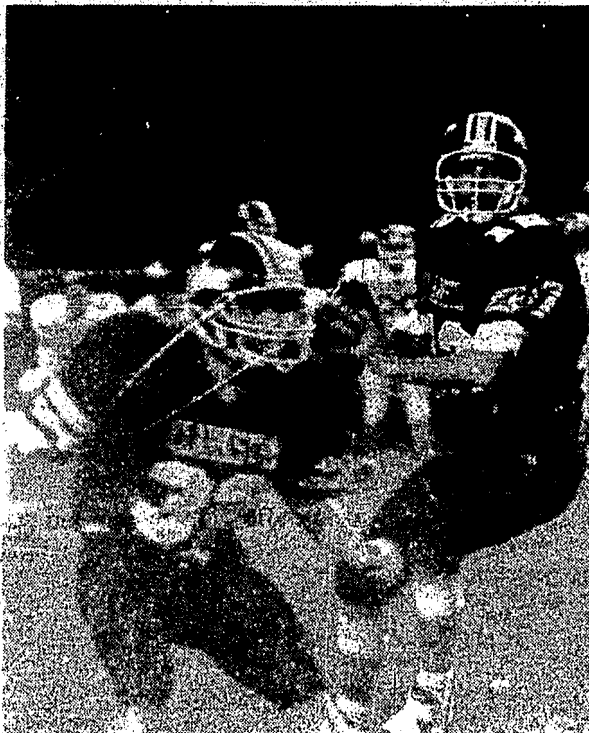

The score was tied 14-14 with about eight minutes left and after a defensive stop by the Wolves, the offense took over with about six minutes to play. About four minutes and 60 yards later, Fife found senior tight end Justin Morgan in the end zone for a four-yard TD pass. Sophomore Kevin Mason then kicked the extra point to give the Wolves a 21-14 halftime lead.

In the second, Clarkston's conditioning and relentless play wore down Rochester once again. The Wolves scored again to open the half on another 80-yard drive that ended with a Schapman 3-yard TD run.

Rochester came back with a 73-yard drive to move closer, 21-28. But the Wolves offense wasn't done yet, this time moving 65 yards for a TD, and more importantly taking time off the clock.

The drive ended with a spectacular catch of a Fife pass that should have been intercepted on the left sideline by Wasilk. Wasilk maneuvered for the catch at about the 7-yard line, kept his balance, and lunged in for the TD.

Mason kicked his third extra point of the game to give the Wolves a 35-21 lead with 5:30 left, and the defense held.

Disappointing county finish revs up golfers as end nears

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It comes down to the second and final Oakland Activities Association tournament Oct. 11 to determine this season's Division I champion.

And the Wolves hope a little revenge factor takes them a long way.

After finishing a disappointing 11th at the Oakland County Tournament Sept. 29, Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain said his golfers know they have a few tough challenges ahead of them before the season ends.

The first obstacle is the OAA tournament. In the first OAA toumey a few weeks ago the Wolves finished in last place. Despite being the only undefeated (4-0) dual meet team in Div. I this season, Clarkston has a long way to climb back into first place.

The OAA champion is determined by each team's finish in regular season dual meets, and in each of the two tournaments. In order for the Wolves to win the division for the second year in a row, Troy, ahead of CHS by 1.5 points, must finish in third-place or lower in the tournament, provided CHS wins. It's also possible the Wolves could tie for the title.

Two days after the OAA toumey, Clarkston will battle in the Oct. 13 regionals, to be played at Oxford Hills. In that tough regional CHS will face Lake Orion, Rochester, Rochester Adams and Troy. Those teams all finished ahead of Clarkston in the county meet. The top three teams advance to the state finals.

"I hope that Oakland County finish serves as a motivator to the kids," said Chamberlain.

Golfers of the Week

Rotating fifth-player golfers Mike Gray, a junior, and sophomores Bryan Haggard and Bob Schultz are Clarkston's varsity Golfers of the week. Coach Jim Chamberlain said all three have stepped into the rotation for the Wolves at one time or another and helped out the team. He said despite their limited playing time, the three are valuable, and a big reason why the Wolves went undefeated at 6-0 in dual matches this season.

--- Selected by Coach Jim Chamberlain

Clarkston kept its two-year OAA dual match win streak alive Sept. 26 with a two-stroke win over rival Rochester. Chamberlain was proud of his team for fighting back to win, after being down by six shots going into the last hole.

After that last hole, the Wolves tied the score, which meant the fifth-man score would decide the match. Clarkston's Eric Rood and Mike Gray both shot 44s, two strokes better than Rochester's fifth-man score.

Against Rochester, Tim Klimek and Jeff Cumberworth led the team with 37s, Dave Barth shot a 41 and Bryan Haggard 42.

Chamberlain was less-than-happy with the team's performance at the county meet. "We should be shooting better than that at this time of the year."

Klimek led the team with a 77, Cumberworth and Barth shot 82s, Bob Schultz had an 87 and Rood shot way above his average with a 91.

Winning two of three puts soccer team on pace

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Now that they've won a game, Clarkston varsity soccer coach Dan Fitzgerald hopes his players can stay consistent.

The Wolves finally stopped a 10-game winless streak with a 7-1 thumping of Lakeland Sept. 26. To top of the week, the boys squad won again, this time 1-0 over Milford on Sept. 29.

Sandwiched in between was a 3-1 loss to Rochester Sept. 28.

Now Fitzgerald hopes those wins translate into consistent performances with just over two weeks left in the regular season.

"There are some teams coming up that we could beat and we can win our districts," said Fitzgerald. "Those wins were something we really needed, it's just a shame we couldn't have played them earlier in the year because it would have built our confidence up. Now we just have to focus for what's ahead."

What's ahead are games against Troy, Fenton, Royal Oak Kimball, Troy Athens and Waterford Kettering. The team's districts, to be played Oct. 23-28 at Bloomfield Hills Lahser, include Lahser, Kettering, Waterford Mott and West Bloomfield.

Last week, the Wolves beat Lakeland with two goals each from seniors Ben Gabriel and Derrick Spires, and one goal each from sophomore Shawn Verlinden, senior Phillip Ratliff and senior Adam Gilreath.

The Wolves were up 4-0 25 minutes into the game and Fitzgerald got a chance to play a lot of the team's subs.

CHS then lost to Rochester but had a chance to win. Rochester scored its first goal with 30 seconds left in the first half, then scored two more in the second. "We were down 3-0 before we even scored," said the coach. "We've just been very inconsistent."

Spires scored the Wolves' only goal.

Against Milford, thanks to another Spires goal 20 minutes into the second half, the Wolves held on for the win.

"We really played awful in the first half but we came out in the second and played very well. We had five or six chances to score," said Fitzgerald.

The only down side to last week is the fact three key players are injured and may not be ready to go when the Wolves host Troy, Oct. 6. Spires, who badly bruised his big toe in a game about a month ago, is still only 75 percent but is still playing, said his coach. Other injured players are Ben Gabriel and Brian McGeogh, both of whom may not be 100 percent.

Everyone contributes in hoopster's wins

It just keeps getting better for the Clarkston varsity girls basketball team.

With two non-division wins (and third win in a row) against Lake Orion and West Bloomfield last week, the Wolves moved their overall record to 7-2, after losing two of three games before that.

"We're just cutting down our turnovers lately," said coach Larry Mahrie. "We had over 20 in those two losses against Lahser and Rochester and we just can't win like that. In these last three wins our goal has been to keep turnovers below 15 and we've done that."

The Wolves played their best first half of the season against Orion Sept. 26, according to Mahrie, and took a 30-4 lead, before finally winning 49-29. They went on to crush West Bloomfield 52-25 Sept. 28.

Against Orion, senior Nickle Winn led the way with 18 points, while Leah Howard added 11. Sue Naboychik had seven assists and five steals and junior Allison Prudhomme hauled down a season-best eight rebounds.

At West Bloomfield, sophomore Tiffany Honey earned three three-pointers in the second quarter to help the Wolves pull away after leading 15-7.

Clarkston was ahead 29-11 at the half and won easily despite making only 20-of-80 shots.

"We were solid defensively, ran well and I can't complain about the shot selection," said the coach. "But we missed a lot of easy shots."

Naboychik led the team with 12 points, including two three-pointers, and five assists, followed by Honey's 11 points. Allison Richards and Howard both added eight points, while Prudhomme came up with five more rebounds.

Under 14

Sept. 23: The U14 team beat Grand Blanc 3-0 on three goals by Sarah Voss. The sportsperson of the game was Heather Combs.

Sept. 30: Sarah Voss' goal (assist to Rocky Trippi) gave the U14 team a 1-0 win over Sterling Heights. Allison Barth also made five saves in goal while Ashley Garish and Meredith Losicki were strong defensively.

Oct. 1: Despite holding Chippewa Valley to only two shots, the U14 team tied 0-0. The Shadows came close, but couldn't connect on several scoring chances for themselves. The team's record is 4-1-2.

Under 16

Sept. 24: The U16 team won 3-0 over Flint Bandettes with two goals from Cara Forney and one from Emily Williams.

Sept. 28: The Shadows came out strong against North Macomb Crusaders with a goal from Cara Forney to take a 1-0 halftime lead. Alaina Dodds, Jenny Kemey and Kara Bergkoetter scored in the second half for the 4-0 win. Jenna Lynn played strong defense and Crystal Wilkerson and Courtney Braiser combined for the shutout in goal.

Sept. 30: Despite outplaying Chippewa Valley, the Shadows missed many scoring opportunities and were unable to find the net. The only goal of the game was scored by Chippewa Valley in the second half. Allison Kolody was solid on defense and Katy Piechura and Charity Brown were strong at midfield.

Oct. 1: The Shadows got revenge on Chippewa Valley by winning 6-0. On a blustery field Cara Forney scored the first goal, followed by a goal from Jenny Kemey for a 2-0 first half lead. The Shadows opened the second with two goals by Kara Bergkoetter and one each from Alaina Dodds and Megan Thiry.

Under 19

Sept. 23: The U19 team outshot Warren United 31-9 but still lost 2-0. The Shadows came back to win 6-0 over Fraser with two goals from Brynn Allyn and Mindi Thompson, and one goal from Natalie Vaughn and Alison Grieme. Erin Forney made seven saves in net.

Free soccer

The Clarkston High School JV and varsity boys soccer teams are having a parks and recreation night Oct. 7 for all children and coaches participating in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation House and Select soccer programs.

Players and coaches who come in uniform will get in free to both JV and varsity soccer games Oct. 7 against Fenton. The JV game will start at 11 a.m. and the varsity at 1 p.m.

Pumpkin contest

If that pumpkin you started in your garden back in May turned out to be larger than you expected, the time to show it off is fast approaching. The second-annual Southeastern Michigan Giant Pumpkin and Vegetable Contest will be held Oct. 14 in Armada and is open to all entrants.

Sponsored by Van Houtte's Market in Armada and the Waterford cable television program "See How They Grow," the open competition will reward cash prizes to the three largest pumpkins in both adult and under-16 categories.

There will also be cash prizes for the best decorated pumpkins in three categories: The oddest shaped pumpkin, as well as the heaviest vegetables of any type brought to the contest weigh-off site between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Oct. 14.

According to contest co-sponsor Larry Gavette, the contest began in April when giant pumpkin seeds and instructions on how to grow them were sent to anyone requesting them. The source of the free seeds was co-sponsor Don Van Houtte, grower of the biggest pumpkins at the 1994 and 1995 Michigan State fairs.

"The contest is an effort to introduce people to the world of the large pumpkin. Of the growers I've talked to, most have had interesting experiences growing their pumpkins, and that has really been the goal of the contest all along," Gavette says.

The weigh-off location is at Van Houtte Farms, 69475 Romeo Plank Rd., Armada (just north of 32 Mile Road).

Girls miss first by 13 points, fall to Novi and Pioneer

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Times are getting better and the girls cross country team is gearing up.

On Sept. 30 the squad placed a close third in the tough Ann Arbor Pioneer Invitational and dominated Brandon, 17-44, in a Sept. 26 dual meet.

At the nine-team Pioneer Invitational, the Wolves received another stellar performance from senior Stefanie Burklow, as she took first with a personal-best time of 19:32.8. Her time also moves her into seventh-best all time at Clarkston high, just behind 6th place Kathleen McInnis' time of 19:32.75, set in 1986. In fifth place is Kate Conlen at 19:23 (1987). McInnis also holds the best time ever of 19:09, set in 1984.

But Clarkston also got solid performances from four other runners at the meet. Kristin Maine was 11th in 20:55, Liz Cook was 13th in 21:03, Stacie Iezzi was 18th in 21:25 and Lisa Herron finished 33rd in 22:30.

Burklow, Maine and Cook all received medals for their top 15 finishes.

As a team the Wolves had 76 points, Pioneer had 67 and Novi won with 63.

Before that meet, the girls easily defeated Brandon, led by Burklow once again with a winning time 19:40. Cook took 2nd in 20:54, Maine was 3rd in 21:10, Iezzi 4th in 22:25, Hogan 6th in 22:38, Lissa Lukens 7th in 23:14, and Krissy Robinson 10th in 24:07.

Boys team

The boys team finished 9th out of 11 teams at Pioneer and lost to Brandon, 33-24.

Clarkston's top runner at Pioneer was Chaz Claus in 27th place in a time of 18:11. Jon Burklow was next in 49th place in a time of 18:55.

Against Brandon, the boys received a 3rd-place finish from Claus in a time of 18:29. Mike Puroll was next for Clarkston, taking 6th place in 18:58, followed by Jon Burklow in 7th with a 19:02, Aaron Sailor in 8th with 19:03, Curt Brewer in 9th with 19:08, Brian Ginn in 10th with 19:13, Jeff Deevey in 11th with 19:17, and Jason Scheiderer in 12th with 19:29.

The column

By Darrel W. Cole

Let's talk football

You just gotta love it.

Clarkston football is once again showing the world they are legit, for real, a contender, and a damn good team.

But at the beginning of the season, who would have thought this team would be 4-1 after five games. I'll have to admit, not me.

With only two returning regulars coming back, a sophomore quarterback starting, a small, inexperienced offensive line, etc., etc., it just didn't seem possible they would win more than two of the first five games. Shame on me for doubting the Wolves and the coaching staff.

I guess I just forgot that games are not decided until the teams take the field. Out there, expectations, returning starters and everything else is irrelevant. When the Clarkston football team takes the field, they manage to get the job done. The players know their roles and, somehow, always manage to do it better than the opponent.

To be honest, I'm still trying pinpoint why they are winning. Giving it my best shot, I'll narrow it down to a few things (and no, it's not your after-game singing voice, Ryan Schapman).

1) First and foremost, the team just doesn't turn the ball over (just five turnovers in five games) and they rarely get penalties. That means they have discipline and are smart players, a big — although often overlooked — factor to successful teams.

2) The offensive line has given QB Dane Fife time to throw of late, and the crew of running backs the holes to control the ball. They may not dominate, but that line gets the job done because they learn fast and know how to execute.

3) With time in the pocket, Fife, a sophomore, has shown he is a terrific QB. He rarely misses his target and is a leader — cool in the clutch — despite his youth.

4) His favorite target is undoubtedly senior Tim Wasilk. Fife always knows where he is and Wasilk has been just as steady this season. He makes spectacular catches often and turns easy ones into breathtaking moments.

5) This team is as well-conditioned as any around. Late in games is when the Wolves are strongest and they never seem to slow down. This can be attributed to hard work in practice and the dedication the players showed during the off-season. Coach Kurt Richardson said it was the best off-season in the weight room a team of his ever had.

6) And how about that coaching. Richardson has a great system. He's tough, demands a lot, but most importantly, he wants the kids to give an effort. He'll never ask for more than that. Not to be overlooked is the job his assistants do. Richardson has often said they deserve all the credit.

7) The players are also to be commended. They believe in themselves, the coaches and their ability to overcome obstacles. In all the games I've been at, wandering the sideline with the team, never have I heard one player complain about anything.

We all know there are more games to be played — especially the team — but right now it sure is fun to be proven wrong.

What happens from here on out really doesn't matter much. These kids, regardless of wins and losses, have shown that by believing in themselves, you can overcome just about anything, even expectations.

Do what the team does and become a believer in Clarkston football.

FIXED VS. ADJUSTABLE MORTGAGE

MORTGAGES
FIXED vs. ADJUSTABLE

RELO
RELOCATING MORTGAGES

QUESTION: What is the difference between a fixed mortgage and an adjustable rate mortgage?

ANSWER: The fixed rate mortgage has a single interest rate that remains fixed over the life of the loan. It usually runs from 15 to 30 years and still remains the favorite of most buyers.

The Adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) allows changes in the interest rate at specific times during the life of the loan like at one, three or five year intervals. The interest rate on ARMs usually starts a little lower than the fixed mortgage. True, the rate can go up if that's the way rates are going, but it also can go down when interest rates are dropping.

Team slows Div. IV champs

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In an easier division, the Clarkston girls tennis team wouldn't even four losses.

But as it is, the Wolves play in the tough Oakland Activities Association Division II. Despite that, the squad has still managed eight wins this season, thanks to some strong doubles team play and solid team efforts against non-division opponents.

An example of Clarkston's ability came in a 8-0 win over Waterford Kettering on Sept. 29. It was a routine, easy win but the Wolves took particular enjoyment because Kettering is the champion of OAA Division IV.

Coach Dick Swartout said his team could win titles by playing lesser competition, but they wouldn't get better as players.

Last week, Clarkston also Lakeland 7-1 Sept. 25, but witnessed firsthand what a real championship team looks like in an 8-0 loss Sept. 27 to Bloomfield Hills Lahser, the state's #8-ranked squad.

"Our two, three and four doubles teams played pretty well but as a team we only won a total of five games," said Swartout.

Despite that loss, you won't hear Swartout complain about the effort his players have given him this season. Everyone, from upperclassmen to the four freshman who receive a lot of playing time, have improved each match.

"It's fun to have kids who really like to learn."

Against Kettering, the Wolves won every match with the standard lineup of #1 singles Mary Schmidt, #2 singles Sam Schuberger, #3 singles Renee Van Klavem, #4 singles Kristy Cade, #1 doubles team of Becky Olsen and Jocelyn Stock, #2 doubles of Alaina Dodds and Loren Bogart, and #3 doubles of Kristen Maynard and Katie Atkinson.

Swartout moved the lineup around somewhat for the Lakeland match, so some other kids could play singles. Winners included Van Klavem at #2 singles, Maynard at #3 singles and Dodds at #4 singles. Maynard and Dodds, both freshman, won their first varsity singles matches in three sets.

Doubles team winners are Olsen and Stock at #1, Katie Atkinson and Bogart at #2, Benson and Deacon at #3, and Amber Mitchell and Lauren Basinger at #4.

The netters wrap up the season within two weeks. They were scheduled to play a final dual match against Troy Oct. 2, and on Oct. 6 they will compete in the OAA Division II meet at West Bloomfield. On Oct. 15, they will battle in the regionals.

The #1 doubles team of Stock and Olsen is seeded second for the division tourney.

Freshman sports

By Michael Romeln

Freshman Basketball

The freshman basketball team split a pair of games this past week.

On September 26, the Wolves lost to Lake Orion 40-26. Kathy Kopec scored eight points, Amy Vaughn had six, and Corinne McIntyre had four.

On September 28, the Wolves defeated West Bloomfield 41-24. Once again, Kopec led the team with 12 points and eight rebounds. Trish Bedford had eight points, and Vaughn had seven. Mandie Harrison had six points, and Kara Bergkoetter had four. Nicole Colosimo had four steals and several key assists.

"It was nice to come back and win on Thursday after losing on Tuesday," said Coach John Zittel.

Freshman Football

Clarkston expected a very good team, and Rochester proved them right. Even so, the Wolves extended their winning streak to four in a row with a 29-24 win.

Tim Loveless led the team with 123 yards rushing and three touchdowns, and Eric Jenks was 3-of-9 for 99 yards, hitting Mark Whiteman in the end zone for a score.

Defensively, the Wolves played well also, keeping Rochester's offense in check. Steve Bradford and Matt Baker led the charge, both leading the team in tackles. Baker also recovered a fumble for Clarkston.

This week's honorary captain is Ron Tolbert, who anchors a strong offensive line. "They did a great job," said head coach Dave Whitehead. "They gave Jenks lots of time to throw."

No matter how hard we try, we don't know everything.

Wolves

Mike Ameln

JV Girl's Basketball

Two more games and two more victories. The JV basketball team is still on a roll, winning their first nine games of the season.

On September 26, the Wolves defeated Lake Orion 48-29, with everyone contributing.

On September 28, Clarkston beat West Bloomfield 43-24. Abby Wiley led the Wolves with 15 points.

This week, the Wolves play two tough league games against Rochester Adams and Royal Oak Kimball.

JV Football

Although they won't use it as an excuse, the Wolves could not overcome a number of key injuries, losing to Rochester 28-0.

Quarterback Kevin Mason was unable to play due to injury, so Mark Venegoni filled in. Venegoni had a good game, completing 10-of-12 for 115 yards, but the Wolves still went down in defeat.

Defensively, Jeff Loveless played well, but the offense could not get points on the board. Twice the Wolves were inside the Rochester five and twice the Wolves came away empty.

"We really missed Mason's leadership," said Coach Colling. "We played hard, but we did not make the big plays."

In addition to Mason, Dan Neubeck and Nick Upchurch are both out for the season due to injuries. Clarkston will attempt to rebound this week against Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

JV Golf

Matt Williams shot the best round of the year for the Wolves, leading them to a 178-189 victory over Bloomfield Hills Andover at Spring Lake on September 27. The team played three matches last week, winning one and losing two.

On September 25, Clarkston lost to Rochester 182-192 at Spring Lake. Williams led the team, shooting a 44, and Ben Ness shot a 46. All of the other Wolves shot over 50.

Then came Williams' brilliant performance, shooting a 39. Ness shot a 41, and Joe Hillenger and Phil Johnston both shot 49s.

On September 29, the Wolves lost to Birmingham Brother Rice 163-192. Ness and Adam Tate led Clarkston with a 47, and James Dennig and Hillenger both shot a 49.

This week, the Wolves play West Bloomfield, Lake Orion, and Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

JV Soccer

The Wolves rebounded from two tough shutout losses last week, winning two and tying one this past week to up their record to 6-6-1.

On September 26, Clarkston defeated Lakeland 6-4. Kevin Kopec led the Wolves, scoring two goals. Eric Eaton also scored two goals, and Eric Klemm and Mike Lenhardt each scored one.

On September 28, the Wolves battled to a 0-0 tie with the Rochester Falcons. Charlie Gorecki played an excellent game in goal for Clarkston.

On September 29, Clarkston shut out Milford 4-0. Andy Chester, Klemm, Lenhardt and Adam Leech put the ball in the net for the Wolves.

This week, the Wolves play Troy and Fenton.

Obituaries

John Giacalone

John A. Giacalone, 65, of Davisburg, died Sept. 28, 1995.

Mr. Giacalone was employed at Modern Engineering in Flint as a commercial artist. He was known in the area as being an avid golfer.

He is survived by his wife, Shirley; two children, Michael of Davisburg and Michelle of Arizona; his mother, Vonniebelle Giacalone of Davisburg, father-in-law Robert (Romaine) Mitchell of Texas; and two sisters, Jenny Kron of Livonia and Mariene (Tammy) Pantera of Grand Ledge.

A memorial service was held Oct. 4 at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Ortonville with Pastor William Wagner officiating.

Funeral arrangements were entrusted to the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston. Memorials may be made to the family.

Wilhelmina Glennie

Wilhelmina Maytag ("Billie") Glennie, 78, of Clarkston, died Sept. 29, 1995.

Mrs. Glennie was an active member of Church of the Resurrection Episcopal in Clarkston, and belonged to various bridge clubs.

She was preceded in death by her husband James and daughter Sharon.

She is survived by a son, J. Edwin (Janet) of Clarkston.

Funeral services were held Oct. 2 at Church of the Resurrection Episcopal with the Rev. Charles Lynch officiating. Interment was in Lakeview Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston.

Memorials may be made to the Independence Township Library.

Harold Hicks

Harold L. Hicks, 79, of the Clarkston area since 1946, died Sept. 30, 1995.

Mr. Hicks owned and operated Davison Plating Co. for 25 years. He was a member of the Davison Chamber of Commerce, past president and Rotary member of Davison and a Clarkston School Board member.

He is survived by his wife, Constance; two sons, Jon (Judy) of California and Darryl (Evelyn) of Tennessee; four grandchildren, Jennifer, Jason, Christopher and Zachery; and seven brothers and sisters, Hilda Weeden of Oxford, Hubert of Ortonville, Helen Shapiro of Wisconsin, Hjalmar of Ohio, Harlan of Nevada, Helma Bernardi of Northville and Herma Snider of Oxford.

A funeral service was held Oct. 3 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with the Rev. Douglas R. Trebilcock officiating. Inter-

Pauline McGee

Pauline McGee, 87, of Pontiac, died Oct. 1, 1995.

Mrs. McGee attended Pontiac Free Methodist Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband Russell and 13 brothers and sisters. She is survived by a son, Gary (Julie) of Clarkston; and two grandchildren, Gary and Karen.

A funeral service was held Oct. 4 at the Lewis E. Wint and Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with Pastor Roger Allen officiating. Interment was in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the Alzheimers Association.

Volney Shafer

Volney C. "Chuck" Shafer, 75, of Clarkston, died Sept. 27, 1995.

Mr. Shafer was employed as a general superintendent for the U.S. Post Office and retired after 28.5 years of service. He served in the U.S. Marines during World War II and was wounded in action at Guadalcanal.

He was preceded in death by his wife Gracie.

He is survived by two sons, Randy (Sue) of Waterford and Bob (Laureen) of Fostoria; two daughters, Cindy (Ron) Cox of Clarkston and Pamela of Davisburg; five grandchildren, Kristen, Karie, Kevin, Brian and Heather; and two great-grandchildren, Andrew and Bethany.

Funeral services were held Oct. 2 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with Pastor Leland Matlock officiating. Interment was in Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Hospice of Southeastern Michigan.

CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

SUMMARY MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING CITY COUNCIL

September 25, 1995

Meeting called to order by Mayor Catallo.
Present: Arkwright, Catallo, Roesser, Sanderson, Schultz, Secatch.

Absent: Basinger.
Minutes of the September 11, 1995 meeting accepted as presented.

The Agenda was accepted as presented with the addition of Clerk's Salary under old business and Downtown Sidewalks under new business.

Fifty dollars per month will be paid for the handling of Gazebo bookings.

Hubbell, Roth and Clark will proceed to have a weighted damper installed at the lift station system. If that isn't a satisfactory solution, then a bolted-down gasket cover as described in the letter from Hubbell, Roth and Clark will be installed.

City Council approved the bid quotation from NBD Bank NA for an 84-month loan at 5.15 percent for the purchase of a new truck.

The new Historic District Ordinance will have its first reading at the next regular Council meeting.

Mr. Ashok K. Punjabi from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources presented information regarding flood plains and regulations regarding structures in flood plain areas.

Meeting adjourned at 9:53 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Artemus M. Pappas
Clerk

INDEPENDENCE TWP

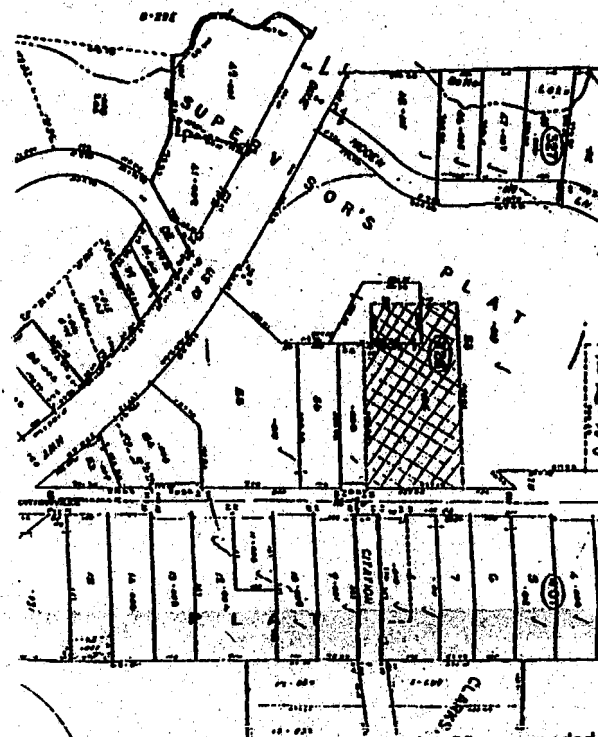

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE

At a regular meeting of the Township Board held on September 19, 1995 the Board authorized a Second Reading and Adoption of an amendment to the Township's Zoning Ordinance as follows:

To rezone Parcels 08-29-328-014 & 005 from Commercial to Planned Unit Development. The site known as the Clarkston Professional Plaza.

The motion to approve this amendment was offered by Travis, supported by McGee, the vote on the motion was as follows: Ayes: McCrary, McGee, Mercado, Stuart, Travis, Vaara, Lutz. Nays: None. The motion carried.

This ordinance amendment is effective immediately upon publication.

An Ordinance to amend Ordinance Number 83, as amended, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for the purpose of classifying certain property situated in Section 29 of the Township to PUD, Planned Unit Development, in accordance with the Zoning Ordinance, and to provide regulations for the development and use of such property.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDAINS THE FOLLOWING:

Section 1 of Ordinance

The approximately 12,639 acres of property in Section 29 of the Charter Township of Independence known as Parcels 08-29-328-005, 08-29-328-013 and 08-29-328-014, more particularly described on the attached legal description, are hereby classified in the Zoning Ordinance, and on the Zoning Map from C-1 and C-2 to PUD, Planned Unit Development, subject to and in accordance with this amendatory ordinance.

Section 2 of Ordinance

This amendment to the Zoning Ordinance is granted subject to and in accordance with the following:

1. Article XXV of the Zoning Ordinance, as amended.
2. The Site Plan dated December 19, 1994, as revised on May 24, 1995, for the Mid-Oakland Medical Center.
3. The Permit Conditions for this development.
4. The Development Agreement for Mid-Oakland Planned Unit Development.

5. All reports of the Township Planner and Township Engineer relative to this Development.

6. Recordation with the Oakland County Register of Deeds office of an Affidavit by the property owner prior to the commencement of construction and prior to the sale of any property in the development, containing the legal description of the entire project, specifying the date of approval of the Planned Unit Development, and declaring that all future development of the property has been authorized and required to be carried out in accordance with this Ordinance unless the amendment is duly adopted by the Township upon the request and/or approval of the Developer.

7. The Reciprocal Easement Agreement regarding a common driveway access from State Highway M-15 on Parcels 08-29-329-005 and 08-29-329-014.

Section 3 of Ordinance

Amended only as specified above in this Ordinance, the Zoning Ordinance shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 4 of Ordinance

This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon completion of the requirements set forth in Section 2 of this Ordinance, and publication as provided by law.

CERTIFICATION

It is certified that the foregoing Ordinance was duly adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence on the 19th day of September, 1995.

Homecoming/ Spirit week keep CHS hoppin'

Junior Rochelle Weeks is triumphant after unseating senior Elizabeth Kalush to win at musical chairs.

Juniors Andy May and Dennis Busch were the winners of the potato dance.

Homecoming theme song:
"Can you feel the love tonight."

CHS students were "pepped" up last week, with the help of the pom pon and cheer teams.

The Saturday Homecoming Parade was as good as ever with the marching band leading the way.
