Traffic worries neighbors of new school

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A nearly full house at the Clarkston High School theater peppered architects from Greiner Inc. with tough questions Monday night, mostly about traffic surrounding the construction of the new high school.

Chuck Olson and Mark Wrona were there to show their site plan to the public and answer questions. A group of neighbors, led by Debbie Clement, had prepared some questions in advance, and the Greiner representatives said they would try to answer them all.

It soon became apparent that the neighbors, many of whom live on Walters Rd. and Flemings Lake Rd., two of the school's borders, were concerned about traffic volume and safety. Though the new school will offer dramatically increased parking space over the current school, they were concerned about increasing car, bus and pedestrian traffic on their streets, both during school and at special events.

Other neighbors, residents of Snow Apple and Almond Lane, fear people will use their streets, which are posted with "no through traffic" signs, for access to the new school. One resident said school buses and other drivers already use them as through streets.

The new school will include an 8,000-seat stadium as well as a gym, auditorium and swimming pool. Olson said 2,000 parking spaces would be provided for the stadium, with more in other areas for the gym, auditorium, students and staff.

"The key is going to be to try to control entrances where traffic is coming at the same time," Wrona said.

Greiner's approach is to separate the traffic before it enters school grounds using multiple entrances. The current plan shows five entrances for the various parking areas along Flemings Lake Rd. Neighbors asked they be limited to one or two with an internal road connecting the parking lots.

Olson said Independence Township's planner, Richard Carlisle, suggested the school district purchase land connecting the site to Waldon Rd. so a road could be put in to bring traffic directly from Waldon. Many neighbors support this option, but Olson and school board president Bill Craig said it has never been considered.

Many of the residents' concerns—paving, widening, traffic signals—will have to be answered by the Road Commission for Oakland County, which was not represented at Monday's meeting. Olson said the road commission is already considering widening Sashabaw and improving the curve at Clarkston Rd. and Flemings Lake Rd. However such work is not

The news in brief

Ski season opens; first thefts reported at Pine Knob

Last week's snowfall and cold temperatures allowed Pine Knob Ski Resort to open, but not without incident. Patrons of the resort reported numerous thefts of snowboards and skis within the first few days.

On Friday, Nov. 27, one pair of skis and one snowboard were reported missing after patrons had set them down outside the lodge. Then on Sunday, three snowboards and two sets of skis were reported missing. No suspects were seen by any of the victims, as all left their equipment outside and unattended while going inside the lodge.

Computer thieves nabbed

A Flint man has been arraigned in Genesee County and is expected to be arraigned in Oakland County on charges of stealing computers from businesses all over the area, including Independence Township.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Det. Dirk Feneley, Keith Allen Pardee, 20, was arraigned in Genesee County on four warrants in connection with the thefts after police were led to a garage full of computers in Grand Blanc.

"They did approximately 60 breaking and enterings, 19 in Oakland County," Feneley said. "We drove up to West Branch and got 50 computers they had in storage. They were busy. They started in November of last year and ended in April of this year."

A second man is being investigated in the thefts but has not yet been charged in any of the cases, Feneley said.

The computers were linked to six or seven

Independence Township break-ins via their serial numbers. Some businesses were hit more than once.

Committee has $10,000

It's a pleasant dilemma: What do you do with $10,000?

A group of Independence Township and Clarkston residents will work on that exact issue under the auspices of the United Way of Oakland County. The money will be awarded to nonprofit organizations who have programs that serve the community.

Bill Neff, retired Clarkston schools assistant superintendent, will chair the committee. Other members are Carolyn Barber, Ann Conklin, Karen Foyteck, Mary Mark, Dr. Bruce Mercado, Rick Piechura, Connie Srogi, Dick Vartabedian and Delores Vliet.

The United Way Clarkston Grant Committee will meet again Nov. 27 to review data and choose funding areas. Anyone who would like to help should call Kelly Borlase at (810) 456-8805.

Think now of next Labor Day parade

Though it's nearly Christmas, Clarkston Rotary is already working on next year's Labor Day parade.

Parade chairman Tom McCloskey is asking anyone interested in participating to contact him now at 625-6636 or FAX 625-8721.

"We need your counsel and advice," McCloskey said. "We are inviting everybody from the 1995 parade, and all of the local marching bands, car clubs, youth groups, service groups and clubs to join us."

Kids honored for 'optimistic' spirit

Next generation of movers and shakers does power breakfast with service club

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

It's not so unusual these days to find young people so busy, they just about need a secretary to keep their schedules arranged. Many teenagers carry planners to keep track of after-school clubs, dance or music classes, volunteer work and jobs.

Some of them were honored Nov. 15 by the Clarkston Optimist Club for their high level of achievement. They were selected by their principals, who proudly listed each student's accomplishments before a packed house at Spring Lake Country Club.

Lauren Bendes of North Sashabaw juggles dance classes, cheerleading, choir, safety patrol, student council, the student bank—"she just maximizes her involvement with the school," said principal George White. Jenny Hopcian of Bailey Lake was described as "very busy" by her principal Christopher Turner. She's part of student council, tutors during recess, takes part in the school credit union, media club, is a church babysitter, dances and plays piano.

Springfield Plains principal Dr. Sharon Devereaux said of one of her choices, Dawn Kaczmar, an excellent figure skater who devotes 12 hours a week to her craft, "To be such an excellent skater and still be such a good student is to be commended."

And these are just the fifth-graders.

It was the ninth year the Optimists, whose international motto is "Friend of Youth," chose to honor movers and shakers among the younger set. And it was clear there were many such children to be recognized.

"We wanted to try to look at youth involvement in the community, youth involvement with fellow students, youth who really care about their school and are willing to give back to their school," said Optimist President Stan Garwood. "The other thing is we wanted them to be reflective of the optimistic attitude."

Clarkston Elementary teacher Dr. Karen Yakmalian said two of her students exemplified what the Optimists were looking for—character and integrity.

"They know consistently how to treat a person," she said of Lee Furguson and Melanie Lauer. "Their peers do not envy them; they have tremendous admiration . . . They are a gift to me; they are a gift to their parents."

And on and on it went, principal after principal extolling the virtues of their students. Not necessarily the straight-A students. But the ones who contribute to the overall atmosphere of their schools.

"I think this is a great idea," said Sashabaw Middle School principal Dr. Jean Lang. "It gives our students a chance to be recognized. These young people are the citizens who will be in Optimists and other service organizations tomorrow."

Perhaps the heartiest round of applause went to two students from STRIVE alternative high school, introduced by community education director Marilyn Allyn. She said Crystal Minton and Randy Kildal are students who have overcome many obstacles but who now carry 4.0 grade point averages at STRIVE.

"I don't think in Clarkston you have to look far for appropriate role models; you can look around this room," said Clarkston High School principal Brent Cooley. "There's a lot of them in this community."

Cooley introduced nine students who received Optimist awards. Rather than talk at length about their individual accomplishments he chose to talk about what they all have in common.

"They love their moms and dads; it's amazing. You've got to have that," Cooley said. "Second, they love their school. They want to be there . . . It's no longer a notion of 'What can I do to make myself better, it's what can I do to make somebody else feel better . . ."

"They love their community and they've developed the appropriate tendencies to be of service to others. I don't know what more we can ask."

A passion for people

New county appointee wants everyone to share Oakland's bounty

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Business owner. Trainer. Minister. Would-be politician.

All of those hats have been worn at one time or another by Oakland County's new Director of Community and Minority Affairs, Richard Williams. A Chicago native who's lived in Clarkston for the past year, Williams took over his new job last month after his appointment by County Executive L. Brooks Patterson.

"Rick has a proven ability to bring people together to solve problems," Patterson said in a press release announcing the appointment.

"I'm really excited about this," Williams said in his office in the Executive Office Building. "I spent the last 25 years gaining some real meaningful experience . . . I had an opportunity to develop some interesting insights into who I am."

Williams recently completed ministerial training and was ordained. He brings his faith and convictions to his new job as well, and isn't shy about overlapping the two.

"In God we trust so I just say bring him to the negotiating table," he said. "It's very important for people to know there's a lot of believers in county government who really want the quality of life to be par excellence. The county executive wants to give all the people access."

As Williams sees it, Oakland County has such a wealth of resources there's no reason anyone should be cut off. Yet he knows that there are many people, identified groups and other individuals, who do not believe they have access. His job, he feels, is to let them know they do and facilitate the process.

"My primary role is to serve as an ambassador, a secretary of state," he said. In preparation, he will make the rounds of all county departments, boards and committees, familiarizing himself with what each body

Williams' experience is wide-ranging. In the private sector, he once owned a Famous Amos franchise; was a partner in First Metro Corp., one of the first black-owned, main-line, full-service grocery stores in Minnesota; and owned Electech, an electronic design engineering firm which trained the unemployed for technical jobs.

In the non-profit sector, he was director of the Milwaukee Careers Cooperative, a temporary-job agency that paid its own way by charging employers fees for job placements; and director of Employment and Economic Development for the Milwaukee Urban League, among others. He also ran for county supervisor and state representative in Wisconsin unsuccessfully. Nevertheless he said he's definitely not a politician.

"Those are just experiences I was blessed to have to prepare me for the job I have now," he said. He has already compiled a list of 10 communities in the county where unemployment is higher and income is lower than the rest of the county. Pontiac is at the top of the list. He firmly disagrees with the common characterization of the city as the hole in the Oakland County doughnut.

"There is viable land and human resources," he said. "I've been able to establish some meaningful relationships, heal some wounds, build some meaningful ties. Particularly because it is the county seat. That diamond can be polished."

It appears he's done his homework. He points out, for example, that over $8 million in Small Business Administration loans have been approved for Pontiac.

"Oakland County does not seek to come in and run any of these communities, but joint venture—

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

UP, UP AND AWAY

THERE'S NOTHING NEW about the rise in real estate values. It's been going on since 1850.

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: Is the continuing rise in real estate values a recent phenomenon?

ANSWER: I should say not! Since 1850, the market value of real estate has been increasing at a compounded rate of about 5%. For instance, if Abe Lincoln's cousin bought property in 1850 for $1,000, the same property would be worth one million dollars today.

In current times, real estate has appreciated in 48 of the last 50 years.

Appreciation is more dramatic because of leverage. If a $100,000 house increases $5,000 in a year, the represents, not a 5% increase, but a 25% increase based on a $20,000 cash deposit

Regional drain study to cost $70,000

Project first of its kind in Oakland County

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's not just a pipe dream any longer.

Independence Township continues to move ahead with its plans for a regional drainage system in the Sashabaw Corridor. In the latest step, the board of trustees on Nov. 7 unanimously approved $70,000 for some preliminary studies of the Sashabaw area.

The board's willingness to move ahead with the project is described as forward thinking by the county drain commission.

The approval is actually the second big step in the long process of creating a regional drainage system.

In August the board approved purchasing 14 acres of land on Sashabaw for $520,000 under a 10-year land contract. About half of that now-vacant property will be used for a detention/retention basin for incoming developments. Plans call for five other detention/retention basins in the corridor.

The township first announced its plans for a regional drain in March. Since then the project has been on a fast track.

Joseph Kozma, chief engineer for the Oakland County Drain Commission, said Independence is the first municipality to implement this type of regional drainage system. He said other communities like Rochester Hills and Novi has master plans to deal with drainage, but nothing like Independence's plans.

"Historically storm drainage is looked at after the fact, but Independence Township is basically implementing this before the developments come in. There's not a whole lot of communities to have that foresight."

The preliminary study costs will go to engineering and having the area photographed from the air for a topographical map. The map, because it needs to be so detailed, will cost around $27,000 by itself.

Township planner Richard Carlisle said the studies should be completed in about six months. The regional system would be financed by special assessment districts. Any new development coming in would pay assessments to support the system, while current development would also join the SAD.

Carlisle said developments — commercial or residential — would save money by joining the SAD.

"I've talked with many of those property owners already and it's been well received," said Carlisle.

A big benefit is that once the system is established, the drain commission would take over the maintenance and upkeep of the detention/retention basins, according to Carlisle. That means the property owners will no longer be responsible. Developments that build their own basins are responsible for maintenance.

Trustee Jeffrey McGee asked what would happen if one property owner objected to the SAD. Carlisle said he hasn't heard anyone object yet, but said every property owner should be able to see the benefits of a regional system.

Although establishing the SAD is a ways off, one customer in it could be the new Clarkston High School.

One killed, 5 injured in Dixie crash

BY MARY J. MOILANEN
Citizen Staff Writer

A multi-car pile up on Waterford Hill Nov. 14 resulted in the death of one man and the injury of some Brandon High School students.

James Case, 56, of West Bloomfield, died Thursday from injuries sustained in the crash, which occurred shortly after 10 a.m. on Dixie Highway just north of Waterford Rd in Independence Township. Five others were injured, with a total of three people being taken to North Oakland Medical Center.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Dep. Walter Blackmer, a 17-year-old Brandon High School student was driving his Camaro south on Dixie with three passengers when he crossed the center line and hit two northbound vehicles. The Camaro's rear window and trunk flew off and hit another northbound car.

Blackmer said the driver was driving over the 40 MPH speed limit. He would not identify any of the BHS students involved, but a source and WXYZ Channel 7 news identified the driver as Micah Mayhew of Ortonville.

Dr. Michael Ferguson, BHS principal, said four of the injured were BHS students who attended the Oakland Technical Center Northwest on Big Lake Rd. in Springfield Township.

In Focus

Another piece of history gone

When the Dennis and I first became homeowners we became acquainted with an elderly gentleman named Mr. Pickett, who owned and operated a small landscaping company near our home.

Mr. Pickett, whom we dubbed "Wilson" after the singer, had a unique style. Thin and frail, he had a small but carefully tended selection of shrubs and trees planted on the grounds of his tiny house. When you went to look at plants, it was kind of like going to visit a grandparent. There was lots of good talk and no shortage of time for visiting. It was invariably a pleasurable experience.

We eventually moved away from that neighborhood and hadn't been to see Mr. Pickett for a long time when one day we drove by just by chance, and noticed that the sign had changed. It no longer read "Pickett's Landscaping."

We pulled in with a sinking feeling in our hearts. We learned from the new owner, a very gentle, pleasant young woman, that indeed Mr. Pickett had died and she had purchased the business. We paid for a pair of sturdy baby's breath plants and went on our way.

I guess it was then that I grasped, for the first time, the unique contribution of each individual on the planet. Yes, I had relatives who had died, both young and old. But here was a man I didn't know really well but whose death I knew would leave a small void in my life.

No obituary would be likely to capture all that was good about a visit with Mr. Pickett. Though I didn't see it, it probably read something like "Owner of local landscaping service." How insufficient a description.

I was moved to remember Mr. Pickett after the recent death of my coworker, Stu McTeer. Stu's passing marked the first time I ever had to write an obituary about someone I actually knew. Though I tried my best, I knew it too would be inadequate to describe the uniqueness of Stu.

Stu had great war stories—World War II in Europe and the newspaper wars as well. Even if he did repeat himself on occasion, it was kind of fun—all part of the role of the affectionally bestowed curmudgeon status that eventually comes to anyone who has stuck around long enough and survived to tell about it.

Because of his long life experiences, Stu could converse with zest about politics and about the newspaper strike. He kept me on my toes every Monday morning when he quizzed me about the weekend's news, whether it was somebody winning a college football game or something happening in Washington. It was too embarrassing not to be able to keep up with a 70-year-old.

Of course, Stu also talked about his daughter and his grandchildren. He was proud of them, you could tell, even though he never came right out and said so.

Now that he's gone, yet another little bit of world history, Clarkston history and my own life's experience is over. And as I get older, that fact becomes more and more poignant for me.

Letter to the editor

PTA appreciated

Dear Pine Knob PTA,

The teachers and staff at Pine Knob Elementary would like to thank you for the hours of time and unending dedication you have for us and all students here at our school. We see evidence of your support in our hallways with the bulletin boards and friendly faces helping students with reports, projects, running copy work, cutting stencils, popping popcorn.

The list goes on and on. Our publishing center and the Junior Great Books reading program are further evidence of your continued support of Pine Knob students. Our school has a fresh look with the new fencing and landscaping. All the wonderful things you do are greatly appreciated.

We are so grateful for the two delicious meals that you prepared and served to us on parent-teacher conference nights. You made two very long and tiring days much more relaxing and easier to handle. Your thoughtfulness is always evidenced by your actions.

Sincerely,
Pine Knob Elementary Staff

Jim's Jottings

Giving readers a holiday break

Some of you are reading this before Thanksgiving, some after, so we're not going to get too serious. Don't want to spoil your dinner or leftovers.

A person driving Michigan roads this summer/fall could get the idea all our roads are under repair instead of in need of repair as per road builders, road commissions, etc.

The thought occurred we should offer a slogan to Secretary of State Candice Miller . . . "The orange cone state."

If at first you don't succeed you still have two choices: try again, or read the instructions.

Fellow retired publisher Bob MacDonald, Gratiot County Herald, Ithaca, writes: Beware of little sins. Mosquitoes drink more blood than lions do. He stole that from E. P. Brown.

MacDonald also offers this remedy for hiccoughs: Briefly apply ice cubes to the sides of the neck to the level of the Adam's apple. This works by interrupting the reflex nerve signals that cause the contractions of the diaphragm.

A weekly newspaper editor in New Mexico is featured in the October Smithsonian Magazine. Bob Trapp founded the Rio Grande Sun in south New Mexico in 1954, a year before we got into editing. Mostly it's a good story until writer Richard Conniff offers his opinion: "Publishing a weekly newspaper is of course a business, usually with a skinflint at the helm." Wonder if Conniff calls the head of IBM, General Motors, Boeing, Kmart, etc. skinflints when they try to hold down costs?

*Of all the household hints around
The greatest one I've ever found,
When work stacks up and life looks bleak,
Is let it go another week.*

Sunday Detroit News sports writer and Clarkston resident Joe Falls wrote, "Statistic--160 motorists in Charleston, W. Va., returned license plates that begin with the letters 'OJ.'" I would, too. I like this one from Falls, too: Texas Stadium, where Jerry Jones does business with the Dallas Cowboys, is now known as "The House that Ruthlessness Built."

Yes, there is a magazine called the Aphrodisiac Growers Quarterly. Besides listing oysters for sensual seductions it lists mussels, caviar, lobster and herring. It lists onions, garlic and chili peppers for sensual smellers. Natural rejuvenators for men are herbs, aromatic plants, meat, honey and eggs. I didn't make this up, The Old Farmer's 1996 Almanac says it. Ladies, turn to page 96.

How about putting complaining on hold at least until after January 1?

Chris Isaac--Forever Blue

1995 Reprise Records

By D'Anne Witkowski

If there's one time-tested and universal truth about the world of love and relationships, it's that breaking up is hard to do, and no one says that better than Chris Isaac. His latest release, Forever Blue, is an album that certainly lives up to its name.

Forever Blue covers all aspects of heartbreak and loss sung in Isaac's beautiful Orbison/Elvis-esque style, heard for the first time by many with his earlier hit "Wicked Game."

From the bitterness and jealousies ("Baby Did A Bad Thing") to the denial ("Things Go Wrong") to the surrendering ("The End of Everything") to the secret hope remaining ("Somebody's Crying") to the feeling down and blue ("Graduation Day"), Forever Blue has it all.

This is, of course, because Isaac wrote the album after a particularly bad break up, and on this album the relationship ends in 12 different, beautifully written and superbly sung laments of love and loss.

Forever Blue is not a happy album unless you happen to be masochistic about your feelings and your heart. It is, however, a beautiful and important album that has been written and sung over and over again through time, but never this well. It's the perfect album to put on if you have a broken heart or if you would just like to be thankful that Chris Isaac did it for you and sing along with his.

After posting dismal math score on last year's Michigan Assessment test, over 23 percent more of Clarkston schools' tenth-graders achieve acceptable scores this year. But 10 percent more of the fourth-graders' math scores drop below acceptable tallies. 25 YEARS AGO (1970)

Merle Bennett, Independence Township trustee for the past 10 years, submits his resignation which will be effective Nov. 30. Bennett states his reason for resigning is because he feels that if he had stood for reelection, he would have been defeated along with Harold Bauer and Duane Hursfall. All three voted in favor of rezoning proposals that would have brought mobile homes, multiple-family dwellings and a shopping center to the township.

Five churches in the Clarkston area announce they will combine their talents to offer a Community Thanksgiving Worship Service on the eve of the holiday. The 7:30 p.m. worship service will be held at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston. Besides St. Dan's, Calvary Lutheran, Church of the Resurrection, Clarkston United Methodist Church and Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church will participate. The public is invited to attend, regardless of church affiliation.

45 YEARS AGO (1945)

News from "By the Way": The traffic through Clarkston has been gradually getting heavier as the deer hunting season approaches. Wednesday afternoon and far into the night, the mighty hunters sped northward in such numbers that at times cars were almost lined up at the stop lights. The usual crowd has gone from Clarkston ... If you want to get into the holiday spirit, think about visiting the bazaar in the Masonic Temple and doing some Christmas shopping. Then, for a change in scenery, drive out to the Seymour Lake Church house and enjoy a creamed chicken dinner sponsored by the WSCS at 5 p.m. After that, there's a Rotary party ... The principle ambition of every GI Joe now seems to be getting home for Christmas.

At long last there will be a new pitch roof for the school gymnasium. Trucks loaded with lumber appear on the school grounds after a long fight by the Board of Education to end troublesome leaking fails. Considerable damage has been done to the maple floor of the gym and the wet spots were a hazard for gym class students.

65 YEARS AGO (1935)

News from "Blue and White Flash" (Clarkston School News): The Clarkston High School football season ends Nov. 8. It's the last game for many of the players who will graduate this year. Clarkston finishes in a tie for second place in the league championship with Farmington, each losing only to Walled Lake—Farmington by a 43-6 score and Clarkston by a 12-7 score ... The 1936 Clarkston senior class is presenting "The Mummy Bride," a three-act play to be presented Nov. 22 in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Be sure to come and bring along friends.

The Holly Theatre will present several motion pictures over the next few days of November: Sir Guy Standing an Tom Brown in "Annapolis Farewell," Jane Withers in "This is the Life," Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Top Hat," Warner Oland in "Charlie Chan in Shanghai" and George Brent and Bette Davis in "Special Agent."

Specials at Rudy's this week include leg of lamb, 23 cents a pound; veal chops, 21 cents a pound; oleo, two pounds for a quarter; powdered sugar, two pounds for 15 cents; Brown Beauty Coffee, a three-pound bag for 49 cents; and Crisco, three pounds for 59 cents.

A trip to make your hair scrunch on end

Emily, 13, was obviously in deep despair. Seated in a secluded corner of the living room, bent over with her head between her knees, groaning softly, she was wildly tearing at her long hair with both hands.

I felt the sudden gut pain that always strikes when I'm afraid someone I love has troubles.

"What's wrong honey? You can tell Grandpa."

"Nothing. I'm just scrunching my hair," Emily said.

"Why?"

"So it will be wrinkled instead of smooth."

Considering my sagging face and body, I was considerably surprised that wrinkled was preferred to smoothed. So I immediately memorialized the event.

Memorialized?

Sure. After all, this hair-scrunching occurred in Naples, Fla., where the weather was always warm, the sun dipped beautifully into the Gulf of Mexico every evening, and gorgeous golf courses and beaches begged to be enjoyed.

That's where I spent a vacation month in a darkened room watching the O.J. Simpson trial.

And that's how I heard a prosecution lawyer, inquiring if a detective had made notes or a tape recording during an investigation, ask if the event had been "memorialized." It sounded as if really important evidence might deserve a national holiday, or at least an engraved monument.

So, as an always-modern journalist, I no longer make notes, I make memorializations. For instance, I didn't totally believe Emily's explanation until a few days later, in a restaurant, where I watched a teenage girl at the next table hang her head below the table and scrunch her hair. And on a paper napkin I memorialized:

"It was better when women ironed their hair, because it's difficult to take an electric iron and ironing board out to dinner.

Emily and her 9-year-old sister, Tricia, flew down for the last week of vacation, and then I-75 motel-hopped back to Michigan with Grandma and me. So there were many memorializations:

Tricia, who lately has been studying animals in school, dove under me in a swimming pool and emerged to announce: "Grandpa, you swim just like a sloth."

She had no way of knowing that when I was a newspaper delivery boy, my father said he saw me walking so slowly around my route that he had to line me up with a tree to make sure I was actually moving. But now, 55 years later, Tricia was noting that my magnificent sloth extends beyond dry land. I am nothing if not consistent. Probably, if I could fly through the air, the air wouldn't know it had been flown through.

The kids did their own packing for the trip. Tricia packed seven bathing suits and one half of a pair of shoes. Emily forgot pajamas, so she wore the pair my wife recently bought me for circumspect vacation traveling, the first I've owned in 60 years. Emily was welcome to them because, as recently revealed here, I prefer sleeping nude because pajamas are the clothes that bind whenever the sleeper rolls over. Fortunately, my resourceful spouse also bought me an old-fashioned nightshirt which, as several of you had suggested, works just fine.

All you have to do is wear it like a scarf.

In conclusion, it should be memorialized that I enjoyed Naples' magnificent weather and outdoor attractions by watching more than the Simpson trial. At night there were sitcoms, new and rerun. Did you realize that Murphy Brown recently said she'd marry the man who was once married to the designing woman who is now sleeping with the man who fathered Murphy Brown's child, I think?

Don't Rush Me

Work less, Big Brother cares

Some things make me want to take a chain saw to a table, a wall, a chair, anything. One such thing was an article I read a week or two ago.

The article was about what some expert said should happen: pay workers for overtime after 30-35 hours.

Arrrg!

Rat smackin' frackin' blizin', where's me bloody chain saw!?

At a time when the good ol' U. S. of A. needs a shot in the arm of the work ethic, that report was a blast of carbon monoxide.

Work less, get more isn't the type of value that needs to be gambled upon. Work less, get more is the same kind of attitude that lands kids in jail or the grave. Work less, get more is the bible of those who would steal from others, kill others outright or slowly by peddling drugs.

Work less, get more seems to be the mantra of the socialist-political left in this country. Work less, depend less on yourself and more on the free things your government can give you.

It seems socialists everywhere are trying bit by bit to erode the rugged individualist mentality that once was predominant in America. Little by little we are becoming the great, "I want my cake and I want to eat it too/Taste great, less filling" people. Little by little we want more and more for less and less. I think that is exactly what Big Brother wants us to think.

Why would anyone think the government could make life better for the individual? This is a government that gave a paid vacation to 800,000 unnecessary workers.

Unnecessary was the word of choice by the government -- how can you balance the budget when you have a work force of 800,000 unnecessary workers?

What do those unnecessary workers do? Do they each do a little work for their immediate superior, making their superior's job a little easier? What?

How can any legitimate enterprise operate like that? No legitimate business could, only one that is built and operated with other people's money.

In the course of my venting (stress relief therapy for me) I do believe I agree with the work less theory a little.

Let's let the government work less. Get the bureaucrats off their duffs and out from behind their desks so they can sit in their Lazy Boy recliners in their homes.

The less time they are working, the less of a chance they have of screwing things up.

Ei-liners by Eileen Oxley

In my life, I've loved them all

This is one time I'm not afraid to show my age. It was 1963 and I was young, restless and bored. I thought Elvis Presley was greasy and found Lesley Gore and Bobby Vinton shallow.

I needed something to rock my world. And I, like millions of American kids, found it.

Roll Over, Beethoven ...

I remember the night I sat on the floor and watched Ed Sullivan announce the British boys I had too briefly seen in photos. Then, something happened and my eyes never left the set. My father, a college music professor, stormed out of the room, grumbling about the long hair, suggestive lyrics and perpetual-motion pelvises. (Multiplying Elvis by four was probably his worst nightmare.)

In those few moments, I was hopelessly hooked. In the next few days, my life changed forever.

I didn't just play Mozart and Beethoven on the piano. I plunked out "She Loves You" and "Please, Please Me." After much begging and pleading my dad finally broke down. "OK — ONE Beatle record," he bellowed.

At Kresge's they had "Meet the Beatles" on sale. He didn't say what KIND of record. I brought home my precious purchase, laid down the sacred disc carefully and listened to the songs, one by one. Trouble was, so did my dad. When he finally realized it wasn't a 45 and they couldn't possibly cram a dozen songs into a seven-inch disc, I got it.

But a few years later he would be hailing "Yesterday" as one of the most beautiful songs ever written.

This Boy ...

I relinquished my crush on "West Side Story's" Richard Beymer for the most absolutely gorgeous man I had ever seen.

Paul McCartney. He had an innocent, choir boy's face that was both vulnerable and intelligent. And those eyes ... My best friend and I had fights over who was going to marry Paul.

When we heard about Jane Asher we were devastated. Then, it seemed, every adolescent girl who had long hair began to copy Asher and Patti Boyd, George Harrison's then "bird."

Soon, my parents were complaining that they couldn't see my forehead or my eyebrows. I experimented with dark mascara and light lipgloss. Words crept into my vocabulary like "fab" and "gear." And when my mom wouldn't let me buy hip-huggers, I made a dress with a dropped waistline in Home Ec.

Here, There and Everywhere ...

I lived Beatles at home, at school and with my friends. My "Meet the Beatles" had a big, bad skip in it right in the middle of "All My Lovin'" — due to a falling broom while I was cleaning. I spent a lot of time in my room listening to the Fab Four and devoured every Beatle fanzine I could get my hands on.

My friends and I would walk from the junior high to the drugstore on our lunch hour to buy Beatle bubble gum cards. I drew pictures of the Beatles, took orders and sold them for $1 to my classmates. My art teacher told me I was prostituting my talent.

We had Beatle parties at a friend's house who was the most insatiable Beatlemaniac I have ever met. We sat a foot away from the TV set once, watching an all-Beatles program on "American Bandstand." When John, Paul, George and Ringo came into view, we screamed our heads off with the rest of the teenagers who were lucky enough to be on Dick's show.

When the Beatles movie, "A Hard Day's Night" rocked the Holland Theatre, we were booted out after management finally noticed we had sat through two showings.

Fool on the Hill ...

When I caught a Paul McCartney performance at The Palace 20 years later, my hero hadn't changed much. Sure, the mop top's hair was a little grayer, but there were those eyes, that face, that voice ... He rose up on a platform with his piano to sing "Fool on the Hill" and the memories came flooding back. Girls young enough to be my daughter were whispering, "He's so cute."

Revolution ...

Following generations had their own heroes. Bruce Springsteen, Aerosmith, Pearl Jam ... But they never made the impact nor were as significant as those four lads from Liverpool. Some say they wish they had grown up in the '60s when that music rocked our, changed our, world.

I was there. With "Anthology," the Beatles are back.

I loved you, yeah, yeah, yeah. And still do.

Heritage Hunt II by Virginia Block

Acknowledgement is long overdue for a fine gift of helpful information we received from Timothy Holmes, of Davisburg.

The copy of his extraction of census records for Springfield Township, Oakland County, for the years of 1840, 1850 and 1860 will make it much easier to locate those family liens, for quicker replies to queries.

The index, alphabetized, is indeed the best "aid," if you have ever sat for hours trying to determine the exact location of "your" ancestor from hard-to-read microfilm rolls.

As the wintertime approaches, it means many of us will be less able to travel too far from homebase, and even more of you will turn to your computers and World Wide Internet.

For those of us who must depend on mutual interest in a family surname or a need to pursue "health and genetic" reasons in our researching it is good to find that inter-library loan of books can bring some hard-to-find material, much of it taped.

The F.H.C. (Family History Centers) at the local church of Latter Day Saints is rapidly growing more popular as a "jackpot" of discovery.

Checking the schools in your area for teachers interested in promoting and encouraging the young people in family history is a way of developing better community networking.

Contacting the Chambers of Commerce in an area geographically unreachable (in person) is a quicker means of locating "libraries" in your quest for help.

We have received our order of copies of the "Handbook for Genealogists," by Everton Publishers, and have two left. If you haven't seen this storehouse of information, it is a must for anyone needing a state-by-state listing of where to write for vital documents, and offers addresses, county by county, as well as a lot of help on listing when their records were begun, census information available, and a thumbnail sketch of the state's beginning.

Needless to say, there's no excuse for not continuing to work on organizing what you've gathered up to now, citing your source, and rediscovering what may have been previously overlooked.

Being "snowed in" is far better than being "snowed under," and lack of time is being blamed for losing sight of the importance of doing a medical family history.

If you are only interested in living longer yourself, simply going back three generations is usually pretty easy because we all had parents and grandparents to rely on for basic data.

Try it as a "blues chaser," anyhow. Happy Hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heichel

Brown-Heichel wed in Clarkston

Carl and Stacie (Brown) Heichel were married August 19, 1995 during a double-ring ceremony at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston.

The bride was given away by her father, John J. Brown. A reception followed at Forest Lake Country Club in Bloomfield Hills. Her attendants included her sister, Fiona Brown; the groom's sister, Kim Howard; Shellie Mead of Panama City, FL and Maureen McDonald of Clarkston.

The groom's attendants were Russell Bedford of Saginaw; Allen Brown, the bride's brother; Richie Bacon, the groom's brother; and Jeff Stockwell of Pontiac. Ringbearer was Adam Heichel, the groom's son.

The bride's aunt, godmother and cousins came from England for the wedding. Also visiting were family friends from Brazil.

Stacie is the daughter of John and Fiona Brown of Clarkston. She is a 1989 graduate of Marian High School in Birmingham and employed by the Campbell, Keenan, Harry, Cooney and Karlstrom law firm in Clarkston.

Carl is the son of Carl and Carole Heichel of Caseville. He is a 1978 graduate of Waterford Township High School. He is currently employed by Quality Comfort Control Heating and Cooling.

The couple live in Waterford.

Helping hands

Adult volunteers and students from Mt. Zion Christian School spent Monday morning bagging Thanksgiving dinners for approximately 306 families in the Lighthouse Clarkston area.

Communities served include not only Clarkston, but Holly, Waterford and Davisburg, said Jane Powell, Lighthouse Clarkston emergency service manager. Pictured are students from Mt. Zion.

Business brief

● The Clarkston Medical Group and the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center have met all criteria for accreditation by the Commission on Office Laboratory Accreditation (COLA).

COLA is a nationally recognized clinical laboratory accreditation organization sponsored by the American Academy of Family Physicians and other medical groups. Clarkston Medical Group includes doctors James O'Neill, Charles Yee, Irving Kernis and Mohammed Amin.

In service

Air Force Airman Ryan D. Richmond has graduated from basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. He is the son of Mary Richmond and Glenn Richmond, both of Clarkston and a 1995 graduate of Clarkston High School.

● Gary J. Cardinal and Marshall Grant Wicks Jr., both of Clarkston, each received a bachelor of applied science degree in electronic engineering technology from Siena Heights College in Adrian this summer.

New arrivals

Dr. Larry Baylis and Liza Baylis of Clarkston announce the birth of a daughter, Alexa Marie Baylis, born Oct. 16, 1995. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 5 ounces and was 20 inches long. Grandparents are Marie Baylis of Clarkston and the late Shelby Baylis, MD and Ted and Carolyn Leffler of Davison. Great-grandparents are Clori Spinazze of Windsor, Ontario, Canada and Merideth Leffler of Davison.

Engagement

Pepino-Misiak

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Pepino of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Kyle Lynn Pepino, to Matthew John Misiak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Misiak of Clarkston. The bride-to-be is a 1995 graduate of Central Michigan University and employed by EDS/Buick Motor Division. The prospective groom is a 1994 graduate of CMU and enrolled in the systems engineering program at EDS. A September 1996 wedding is planned.

At school

● Four Clarkston students have been admitted to Lee Honors College at Western Michigan University this fall. They are Jill Attaman, daughter of Eugene and Jane Attaman, majoring in biomedical science; Kelly Biegan, daughter of Edward and Laura Biegan, major undecided; Allison Vallad, daughter of Dennis and Jean Vallad, pre-physician assistant major, and Robert Vance III, son of Nancy and Robert Vance II, music education major.

'Cemetery Club' livens up the Depot

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

They're an unlikely trio of friends. Lucille is a promiscuous, wannabe social butterfly. Doris is a repressed prude. And balancing out the threesome is Ida, a real woman.

But they've got something in common. They're widows and have bonded to form The Cemetery Club, a group that makes frequent visits to the gravesides of their dead husbands.

The Clarkston Village Players' second production of the season, "The Cemetery Club," which opened Nov. 17, is a sparkly comedy that moves along at a brisk pace with Donna Ellis' direction. But there are some stops along the way that provide rollicking repartee between the three women, played by Karen Stankye (Lucille), Nancy Penvose (Doris) and Jan Cable (Ida).

Throughout much of the play they are ferklemp. Doris shuffles in with her handbag. "I'm fainting," she complains, fanning her chest. "You look different. Whad'd ya do, lose some weight?" asks Lucille. "It just dropped," answers Doris.

Their bantering continues.

"I hope I look as good as you do when I reach your age (Lucille)."

"Ya did (Doris)." And so on.

All three manage deft Jewish accents, particularly Penvose whose natural speaking voice is thickly British. Her pristine character contrasts nicely with Stankye's lewd Lucille, who likes to pick up men at the cemetery.

Stankye especially shines in her portrayal as the big, hard Mamie Van Doren nightmare who has a touch of gold at the core. Dressed in a mismatch of six-inch probably-rhinestone earrings, tennis shoes and a mink coat, she probably has more lines and ways to show off her role than the others. For example:

"Did you see the gorgeous man at the masoleum?" is delivered with vixenish glee.

Cable could put a little more oomph into her character. After all, she's really the focus of the play because she meets a new man, challenging the trio's fixed camaraderie.

Bob Kaminskis, as the shy-but-sweet Sam — yes, The Butcher — is wimpish next to the three more dominant women. Maybe that's the point. There are a few exchanges between him and Cable that could use some punch, but at other times the downplayed relationship works.

Most of the scenes are set within the typical living room, but director Ellis has added a twist to the graveyard scene, aptly achieved with a simple gravestone and "gobos" (stencil-like backdrops, in this case, trees) in back of, rather than in front of, the curtain.

"I didn't want to cast a shadow on the actors," she said.

Ellis also took care in selecting the music. Much of it comes from the Big Band era to enhance the late fifties to early sixties ages of the characters and the time period. The setting is Queens, New York.

Watching "The Cemetery Club" almost reminds you of "How to Marry a Millionaire," 25 years later. The Marilyn Monroe character is still vamping in Lucille. Ida's Betty Grable hasn't lost her naivete. And Doris, an aged Lauren Bacall, still has her droll wits about her.

But it's not all about poking fun at dead husbands who can now be found at night, as Doris muses. And it's not all a showcase for Henny Youngman clinkers. There's some poignancy as well.

"The Cemetery Club" is also about relationships and their value. Sometimes we realize that all too late.

'The Cemetery Club' continues with performances Nov. 24, 25 and 30 and Dec. 1-2 at the Depot Theatre, located on White Lake Rd. at the railroad tracks. Call 625-1826 for more information.

Living with Down syndrome doesn't stop young model

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Beth Fouchey wants to be a model. She's a natural, someone told her, when she posed for a Beautiful Faces calendar recently. With her pert, lively face, impish grin and thick, curly hair, she could be the next Shirley Temple.

But she's a little different than most 20-year-olds. Beth has Down syndrome, a condition caused by an extra chromosome. Where most people are born with chromosomal pairs, those who have Down syndrome have an extra chromosome in the twenty-first set. In most cases the abnormality results in mental retardation, flaccid muscle tone and physical limitations.

But that doesn't stop Beth. The Clarkston resident has braces, rides horses and loves to dance, like many young woman her age. She even gets upset with her beloved black Lab Brit when she barks too much, as she's doing today.

"Put her in the garage. She's driving me crazy," Beth says, momentarily frowning. She perks up, giggles and goes back to drinking her can of Diet Squirt. Carefully, so she doesn't spill a drop on the bright red sweater she's wearing.

The dog's "a terrible-two puppy," mom Jane explains, as she shuffles poor Brit out of the family's living room.

When Jane and Ty Fouchey found that their beautiful baby girl might have Down syndrome, they, like most parents, were alarmed.

"She didn't look different to us, but she did to the doctor right away," Ty explains. "He did genetic testing and found she had the extra chromosome."

"We didn't know what to do," Jane adds. "We were scared."

Refusing to bring Beth up with over-protectiveness and pampering, the Foucheyes vowed to raise her like her older sister Amy, who now attends Western Michigan University. She would go to public school and be provided with challenges. "(I said) I have this disabled daughter. She's not going to have special privileges just because she's a little different... That's always been our philosophy — normalization," Jane says.

The initial credit goes to Jane. "Without her, I'd probably still be tying Beth's shoelaces," Ty admits.

Still, 20 years ago, it was hard to get the support the couple felt they needed. And there was a lack of information about Beth's condition. With the help of a caring social worker, the Foucheyes were soon networking with other parents of Down syndrome children.

Through the years, they say, information has accumulated and the outlook for those special children is positive. Gone is much of the stigma associated with Down syndrome and Jane is quick to point out, "it's not a taboo, it's a fear of the unknown."

Much of the Foucheyes' work is a family affair. The four are active with "Pathfinders for Opportunities," a group of concerned others who work to provide Down syndrome people with possibilities and opportunities. They seek to not only mainstream children into areas like public schools, but into the community as well.

Down syndrome children Ashley Seatts (left) and Beth Fouchey as photographed by Kendra Dew. The two girls are featured for March in the 1996 Beautiful Faces calendar. To order one call 1-800-96-FACES.

"These people can hold jobs, get married... Beth is one of the youngest. They date, they drive, they go to social functions. We know someone who is studying at Oakland University. Who would have ever thought a child with Down syndrome could go to college?"

There is a growing response by the community, the Foucheyes say. Places like Deer Lake Racquet Club lend their swimming pools so kids like Beth can practice for Special Olympics competitions. The Independence Township Senior Center provides a van so children can be carted around. "No kid wants their parents to drive them somewhere," Jane says with a laugh.

Through Pathfinders, the Foucheyes were able to arrange an interview at Clarkston's Taco Bell where Beth held a job the past summer. She has also worked in the CHS library.

The Foucheyes are realistic as well. Though they label their daughter a fighter and a leader, Beth will always face more challenges than most people her age. She presently attends Clarkston High School in the morning and Waterford Training Institute in the afternoon. The latter will prepare her for the vocational skills she will need in the future to lead an independent life.

It's sometimes hard at CHS, Jane says, because Beth "is short. She's got to deal with all these kids who are a lot different. It's the unsure, it's the unknown again." But her daughter has lots of courage. "I always tell her, 'You can do it.'"

Jane asks Beth if she'd like to live "with Mom" someday.

"No, no! An apartment!" Beth answers, her bright eyes shining. When she learns to drive she will have a car phone as well, she tells Jane.

Beth's parents are so dedicated that they have become resources for new parents of Down syndrome children. From the start with Pathfinders, they were put in touch with those parents. "Anytime there was the birth of a disabled baby, we'd get called so we could talk with the parents. Everyone helped each other," Jane says.

Beth says she would definitely like to be a model. "I saw one on TV. It was AWESOME," she says. "I like to pose." She loved her stint for the Beautiful Faces calendar, now in its second year of publication. Kidder Resources, Inc., a Rochester-based disability employment specialists organization, markets the calendar which is available through some Barnes & Noble bookstores and by mail order. Children from the Detroit Metro area are featured.

Headed by Cynthia Kidder, KRI's aim is to capture the "beautiful faces" of Down syndrome and "normal" children and "shed some light on the joys of children with differences," says a portion from KRI's literature.

Beth is learning to make her own decisions. "Normalization — it's really important," says Ty. Like anyone, Down syndrome children "need to be challenged. They have to be given the right to fail (and face) the dignity of risk. We know their limitations, but they are people too. In order to be productive you have to have self-worth. Unless you have self-worth, you won't be free."

Frozen turkey gifts need safe handling

"One of the most common questions the Food and Nutrition Hotline gets every Thanksgiving is about the safety of using a turkey that has been received as a gift at work," according to Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service—Oakland County.

Often these turkeys are left at room temperature all day until closing time, causing a potential food poisoning problem. Turkeys should be kept in the refrigerator or freezer—never at room temperature.

"Keeping it in your car, desk or other area is looking for trouble," Treitman says. If there is no refrigerator space at work, pack it in ice in a box or take it home right away. The car isn't safe because you never know if it was cold enough. The outer area may warm up enough to allow bacteria growth.

partner—so the resources can be made available to improve the quality of life.”

Though he's only been on the job a little over a month, Williams is quick to shake off the suggestion that the current administration hasn't always appeared so friendly to the disadvantaged.

“There is a sense of urgency and true desire on the part of my fellow managers here to offer assistance and support. It's genuine. My goal is to make sure the same feeling is carried out in the county.”

As for his boss, he said, “There are areas where we may disagree. But he allows me to take risks. . . . He's very real, very down to earth. He's a risk taker.

'In God we trust, so I say just bring him to the negotiating table.'

Richard Williams

He's able to say what he means. He empowers his executives. He promotes team spirit.”

Williams' convictions extend far beyond his job to his family and community. With his wife Deborah and four children, he enjoys the small town atmosphere of Clarkston but stresses that parents must be part of their schools, adults must be part of their neighborhoods.

“I think we need a whole lot of love . . . In order to get respect I've got to give it. I appreciate my wife, I appreciate my children and then practice it at my work . . .

“I believe with God we can make a difference. We've got a lot of people who believe in the right things. Just do it . . . Go to your kids' schools. One church needs to go to another church . . .

“When folks founded this county, they had to pull together. Let's use that same pioneering spirit.”

Each day brings more phone calls, more opportunities to put himself to good service around the county. A radio program one night, bridge-building in Detroit another day, ministerial duties on yet another. But Williams seems to relish it all.

“How do you eat an elephant? A bite at a time. That's how I'm attacking my job.”

Task force attendance grows

The second meeting of the Clarkston Community Task Force drew 43 community leaders, parents and concerned citizens Nov. 15 at Clintonwood Park.

The task force, called together by the staff at St. Daniel's Catholic Church, was formed for the purpose of doing something about substance abuse. The first meeting, in October, revealed a lot of interest in the idea. At the second meeting, Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Hernandez, liaison officer to Clarkston schools, was the speaker.

“The task force is a group, made up of representatives from the Clarkston schools, local churches, parents, concerned citizens and youth workers from many fields, all with a common goal of 'recreating the neighborhood,'" said John Leece of Clarkston Free Methodist Church. “One of the major concern areas is substance abuse.”

The task force meets the third Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be Dec. 21 at 7 a.m. at Clintonwood Park. All concerned citizens are welcome. To attend, RSVP to Frieda Arpoika at 625-1750.

Wolves loss brings on the heartbreak

A season of hard work and effort ends, but the Wolves' season a success, according to the proud coach

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Larry Mahrle was hurting. Not in the physical sense. But the kind of pain you feel when you want something so bad for someone else, and it doesn't happen.

After the Clarkston girls basketball team lost in the district final to Lapeer East Nov. 17, 58-55, Mahrle could do no more than tell them what he has repeated throughout a 15-6 season. He attempted to console a teary-eyed team by telling them they are champions in his eyes, that one game doesn't detract from the hardest-working team he has ever coached, that no one should be ashamed of losing because they battled right to the limit. And on and on.

And it's because of all those qualities that Mahrle so desperately wanted his girls to be rewarded with a championship. But in the end the comeback effort fell short.

"You just wanted to win this one so bad for them," said Mahrle, in his 18th year of coaching either the girls and boys varsity teams. "It was a real emotional locker room after ... but our girls played so hard, and that has been typical of how we've played all year.

"I think pound for pound this is the toughest team I've ever had."

Clarkston began its district run Nov. 15 with a convincing 48-25 win over Lapeer West. The Wolves' defense, led by senior guard Leah Howard and junior Sue Naboychik, was dominating, forcing West into 30 turnovers. That pressure also kept West from giving the ball to their star 6-foot-3 center, Emily Berman.

West was never close in the game, despite Clarkston missing several easy shots inside throughout the game.

Along with a strong defense, 5-foot-10 junior center Carin Kirk came off the bench in the first half and contributed solid inside play, strong rebounding and even scored against West's Berman. She scored eight of her 10 points in the first half, including a nifty left-handed hook that left Berman helpless.

Howard was solid all the way around with 10 points, six steals, six assists and six rebounds.

In the finals against Lapeer East, the Wolves had that same defensive intensity and played a strong game, despite leading at only twice.

East raced out to a 15-7 lead thanks to several offensive rebounds before the Wolves' fastbreak and pressing defense got them back in the game. At the end of the first quarter, CHS managed to come within two, 17-15. The second went back and forth with East managing to hold on to a small lead until sophomore guard Tiffany Honey canned a three-pointer with 4:23 left in the second, giving the Wolves their first lead of the game, 23-22. East managed to take the lead right back. But a critical mistake by Clarkston allowed East to extend their lead to 33-29 at the end of the half. With about 10 seconds to go, an East player was left wide open for a three-pointer.

The third quarter opened with East outscoring the Wolves 8-3, as turnovers plagued both teams. The Wolves couldn't get any closer and the third period ended with East leading 45-36, setting up a dramatic fourth quarter.

Mahrle said despite the deficit, he felt confident his team was ready for a comeback. "I just felt good about it because they weren't handling our press and were putting up shots too quickly," he said.

To start the fourth, it didn't look as though the Wolves had a chance. With about 5:30 left to play in the quarter, East took what looked to be a commanding 51-38 lead. But anyone who knows this Clarkston team like Mahrle knows they never say never.

The comeback started when Howard was fouled on a layup, putting the score at 51-41. Next up was Naboychik's steal that eventually led to junior Allison Richards' 15-foot jumper from the free throw line and a 51-43 score with 4:43 left.

East then turned the ball over again and Howard hit a 10-foot shot from the baseline after a good offensive series. East came back with a big three-pointer to increase their lead 54-45 with 3:52 left. But the Wolves weren't done yet.

After Winn and Honey split four free throw attempts, putting the score at 54-47 at the 2:46 mark, Naboychik came up with her biggest play of the game.

With 2:10 left, she drove the lane against East's zone defense and was fouled while scoring a twisting layup. Her free throw put the score at 54-50 as East attempted to inbound the ball. But Winn stepped in front of the pass for a steal.

DeGain and Mull make college commitment

Final high school sports season awaits

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Before Joe DeGain and Jeff Mull get too excited about their college careers, they still have to get through another season of high school sports.

Considering that both seniors have enjoyed success in the past, however, focus shouldn't be a problem. Last week Mull committed to play baseball at Eastern Michigan University on an athletic scholarship while DeGain signed with the University of Michigan on a partial wrestling scholarship.

Both student athletes look forward to their college years, but are just as focused on doing well for Clarkston right now.

Mull is practicing for basketball now and will join the baseball team once again in the spring. He said signing early has helped take some of the pressure off him.

"I think it will make it that much easier when the baseball season comes around," said Mull. "It'll help me to just relax and have a good season."

Mull, rated among the nation's top 100 high school baseball players by one magazine, said he chose Eastern over several other schools like Clemson and North Carolina because it was close to home.

"Three years ago it was my goal to play college ball," said Mull.

Eastern wants Mull for pitching and his ability to throw with velocity. "The coaches over there expect me to fill in right away."

Roy "Pops" Warner, Clarkston's baseball coach, said he's not surprised his senior player is coveted by so many colleges.

"He has physical size and velocity on his ball," said Warner. "In college if you can't throw 85 MPH or faster you just can't play. Jeff has some MPH on his ball, his control has gotten better and his variety of pitches has improved."

Although Joe DeGain may not admit it (his mom said it's true), deciding on Michigan was helped along because his good friend Corey Grant, a former teammate at Clarkston (1995 grad), walked on to the Wolverine team and quickly made a name for himself, finishing 2nd and 6th in two tournaments.

According to mom (Donna) DeGain, Joe was all set to sign with Indiana the day before they watched Corey wrestle for Michigan.

"He went out and bought a Hoosier hat and everything," said Donna. "If he wouldn't have seen Corey wrestle I think he was headed there. But I think he knew all along where his mom wanted him to go," said Donna, smiling at her son like moms have a way

Joe DeGain (center, in the top photo) is ready to sign his national letter of intent last week. Dad and coach Mike DeGain and mom Donna DeGain are also pictured. of doing when they know what their children want before they do.

Joe laughed with his mom, but admitted seeing his pal Corey doing well was a big factor. "That will be cool being teammates again. I've really been raised a U-of-M fan and their academic program is also so much stronger than most schools," said DeGain, who visited the campuses of Indiana University, Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

DeGain, who is practicing with his Clarkston team for the upcoming wrestling season, had a strong junior season, where the Wolves squad finished as Class A state runners-up. Although he was injured much of the season he was still 33-7 (103-33 career), was the 185-pound Oakland County tournament champ and took 5th in the state individual meet.

But high school isn't where DeGain, or most other wrestlers, got recognized by college coaches. His coach and father Mike DeGain said Joe's stock went up this summer when he finished 5th in the Wrestling Junior Nationals' 191.5-pound freestyle division. There were about 100 competitors in DeGain's division.

Burklow, Cook on a hot streak

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two times, Stefanie Burklow came within one second of breaking the 19-minute mark as a senior on Clarkston's cross-country team.

While her chances of breaking 19 minutes as a member of the Wolves squad has since ended, Burklow did finally reach that goal last weekend at the prestigious Mid-East Cross Country Championships.

The senior ran the 5K race in a time of 18:55.7, taking 14th place among 60 runners and 5th place on the select Michigan team.

The event pits all-star runners from Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois against one another. On this day, the Burklow and the Michigan team came out on top with 41 points, ahead of Ohio's 46. Indiana finished with 60, Illinois 77, Pennsylvania 128 and Kentucky 224.

One girl that finished ahead of Burklow did the same at the recent Class A state finals. Troy Athens' Allison Klemmer, the Class A champion, took 6th overall.

For her efforts, Burklow received a medal and a commemorative plate for finishing in the top 25, as well as a personalized plaque for running on the winning Michigan team.

Cook to Jr. Olympics

Liz Cook, a Clarkston sophomore who finished 22nd in the Class A meet, also performed well at last weekend's Regional Junior Olympic Trials in West Virginia. She placed 16th out of 80 runners in a time of 21:00 (below her personal best of 19:49) on a tough, hilly course.

The top 20 qualified for the national Junior Olympic Trials, scheduled for Dec. 9 in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

The column

By Darrel W. Cole

Words can't describe

They deserved to be greedy just one time this season. The Clarkston girls basketball team and its coach wanted more than just words about how hard they played. They already knew that. This time they wanted a trophy.

And no one wanted to reward them more with a championship than their head coach, Larry Mahrle.

He wanted to give them a district championship Nov. 17, but instead he once again told them — just like he had after the other 20 games his team played this season — how proud he was of their effort, dedication and commitment to one another.

Mahrle knows his team gave everything they had in the 58-55 loss to Lapeer East. He couldn't and wouldn't ask them for any more than they already gave. But just this once, he wanted to give back to them.

"I just wanted this so bad for them," he said. "For the effort they have always given ... but it just didn't happen."

Make no mistake about it, Mahrle hurt just as much, maybe more, than those players that night. You could see it in his face after the buzzer went off. The final glance at the clock as his team's final shot missed, his head slowly dropping down to the floor, lips closed tight, emotions coming out.

Mahrle's won before, even had some undefeated teams as either a boys or girls coach at CHS. He's been doing this for 18 years. That's a long time to still feel the kind of hurt he feels now. It's a tribute to him and his team, whom he truly cares about.

He said this squad was "pound for pound the toughest team I've ever coached." He had fun in this 15-6 season.

And it's no wonder. These Wolves were not the most talented or tallest. But they never stopped hustling and always wanted to do better.

For their efforts, they deserved a state title ... no make that four state titles, Class A, B, C and D. All Mahrle wanted for them was a little district title.

Sometimes all the positive comments in the world can't help erase the pain of one loss. Mahrle knows this. He praised his broken-hearted squad for 20 minutes after the game, told them the game is like life. There are ups and downs and you learn more about yourself each time.

But they knew and he knew, it's all been said before. All the rationalizations he could think of, although true, could not erase the longing in their hearts for that final win.

I have a feeling this loss will stay with the coach a little longer. The girls know they did give 100 percent, they know they exceeded most people's expectations. But Mahrle, he's feeling like they also deserved something more, and that may linger with him awhile.

I hope that final game of the 1995 Clarkston girls basketball team showed everyone who didn't know it already that not only are those players champions, but their coach is as well.

And you know what, they deserved to be greedy.

Senior Nickie Winn, right, and sophomore Jeniffer Bauer, left, comfort one another after the Wolves lost to Lapeer East.

"Joe beat or placed ahead of 15 state champions in his weight class and the four kids who finished ahead of him are already in college," said Mike DeGain. "Because of the talent there, colleges look real hard at these kids and I'm sure Joe's performance there was one of the main reasons Michigan went after him."

Until he starts at Michigan next year, DeGain said his goal for now is to just get better and help the Wolves win.

"They (Michigan coaches) kind of talked about redshirting my first year. Right now I just want to improve a lot and after I get there just work on becoming the best wrestler I can be."

Just the CHS stats

Jeff Mull: 1995 baseball -- 277 batting average; 42 innings pitched, 54 strikeouts.

Joe DeGain: 1994-95 wrestling -- 33-7, Oakland County champion, 2nd regionals, districts and OAA Division I tourney, 5th state meet; career record of 103-33.

Right after the steal she saw Honey spotting up at the three-point line and fed her the ball. Honey hit all net and put the Wolves within one, 54-53, with 1:50 left.

Clarkston's defense continued to dominate as Howard stole the ball on East's end and drove the length of the court, before missing a layup. But Winn followed the play and flew in to rip away the offensive rebound and score the bucket, giving Clarkston its second lead of the game at 55-54.

But that's all CHS would get after East called timeout with 1:14 left. East came out of the timeout and scored on a backdoor play, giving them a one-point lead. Howard then fouled out with 50 seconds left, hustling for an offensive rebound.

East got another offensive rebound and split a pair of free throws. With 28 seconds left, the Wolves missed a three-pointer but kept getting offensive rebounds or steals and launched three more that missed. The final shot attempt came with 3.7 seconds left.

"I thought we had that one," said Mahrle. "We forced nine turnovers in that final quarter. Some teams would have just given up after being 13 points down to a state-ranked team. But these kids would never do that."

Winn led the Wolves with 13 points, while Howard scored 12, seven of them coming in the fourth, and had six steals. Honey was next with nine points, Naboychik scored eight, Bauer seven and Richards six.

Mahrle said he had fun coaching this team because they worked hard in games and practice. A major part of that success was due to the contributions of senior co-captains Leah Howard and Nickie Winn, he said.

"One of the reasons it's been such a great year is because those two have been so fantastic for all three years on the varsity. I really feel proud of them for what they've given to this program."

Senior Leah Howard puts up a shot against Lapeer East Nov. 17. She scored seven of her 12 points in the fourth quarter.

Motorists pay 'deerly' for car/deer crashes

The good news for deer hunters is that the state's whitetail population is near a record level.

And the bad news?

Vehicle-deer crashes are on the rise as herds increase.

The state's herd - estimated at between 1.8 million and 2 million - probably hasn't been this big since 1989, when hunters enjoyed a record harvest of 452,490.

While hunting promises to be golden, AAA Michigan says vehicle-deer crashes remain a big-bucks expense in the state, with the Auto Club paying out some $10.4 million in property damage claims last year.

Numbers tell the story:

•A record number of accidents involving vehicles and deer occurred last year, with every county showing an increase.

•In 1994, there were 56,666 vehicle/deer crashes in Michigan, a 19 percent increase over the 47,813 reported in 1993.

•Five people died in such accidents in 1994, the same as a year earlier.

•There were 2,040 injuries reported in 1994, up from 1,712 the previous year - a 19 percent increase.

•The average repair bill for a vehicle involved in a crash with a deer was $1,400 last year, up from $1,350 in 1993.

•Of the 398,050 total car crashes in the state last year, 56,666 (or 14 percent) involved deer.

While vehicle/deer crashes are reported in each of Michigan's 83 counties and occur throughout the year, most happen during the fall and early winter months, says AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

Breeding and feeding practices find deer on the move during these months. "The addition of close to 800,000 firearm deer hunters in the woods between Nov. 15 and 30 adds to normal traffic volumes," Basch added.

Last year, the top five counties in the number of vehicle/deer crashes reported were Kent with 1,805; Jackson, 1,695; Calhoun, 1,553; Kalamazoo, 1,336; and Oakland, 1,297.

The fewest number were recorded in the Upper Peninsula. However, this can be misleading, with comparatively low volumes of traffic in each of these counties.

There is no reasonable way to eliminate all vehicle/deer crashes because of the unpredictability of the animal. But Basch advises motorists to always wear safety belts, avoid alcohol when driving and heed the following tips:

•Deliberately look for deer. Your visual search should include well down the roadway and far off to each side.

•Vehicle/deer crashes most often occur on paved local and country roads, but freeways are not exempt.

•Use extra caution when driving in the hours before dawn and just after dusk. Those are the most likely times to find deer moving from area to area.

•If you see a deer, slow down, drive cautiously and assume others are nearby.

•Should a deer dart into the road in front of you, do not take unsafe evasive action, such as swerving. It is usually safer to strike the deer than another object, such as a tree or other vehicle.

•Be alert for shining eyes at night. Your headlights can "freeze" the deer. Flash your headlights on and off well in advance to encourage the deer to move from the roadway.

•Should you strike a deer, report it to local police and your insurance company. If you choose to keep the deer, you will need a permit from the police department or the Department of Natural Resources.

Safety, costs and the growing number of vehicle/deer crashes have prompted the Michigan Department of Transportation to contract White Water Associates Inc. to conduct a vehicle/deer collision study. The Upper Peninsula environmental laboratory will develop a study designed to investigate alternate methods to reduce vehicle/deer crashes.

Traffic worries neighbors of new school

within the scope of the school bond project itself.

"The commitment was made that their engineers would go to work on this task," said school superintendent Gary Haner.

"I am appalled they chose not to be here tonight," said Stan Innis of Almond Lane. "When will they be brought to the party . . . I don't believe the road commission is getting involved."

Under state law, the school district does not have to obtain site-plan approval from the township planning commission, Olson said. Nevertheless, township trustee Bruce Mercado, who attended the meeting, suggested the school district take advantage of the township's expertise in planning matters.

"These people live in our community, they're professionals at it. I for one would suggest the school board sit down and talk to them . . . We don't have a lot of input in this project."

Olson stressed that with ground expected to be broken next spring, the plans for the project are not yet finalized and residents' concerns would be taken into consideration.

"We do not yet know which roads need to be improved and to what extent," he said. "Right now we're trying to develop a plan that will best serve everybody."

School board president Bill Craig assured the residents that their concerns had not fallen on deaf ears.

"Our intent is to do as much as we can to accommodate students, the community and the neighbors. I can assure you there'll be representation from your neighborhood as we go forward."

Resident Tim Palulian added a note of caution.

"What you have to understand is road systems, most of the time, follow developments and this is going to be no exception. Unless the school board and planners are aggressive with the county . . . they (improvements) will not happen. It's going to come down to one thing and one thing only: Who has the money to pay for the improvements."

Clarkston to join in Oakland Schools rally

Supporters of Clarkston Schools will gather at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 29 at Clarkston High School in advance of a rally at Oakland Schools which will focus on what is good about public schools.

There will be a dinner in the CHS cafeteria and afterwards supporters will board buses for the trip to Oakland Schools' office in Waterford. The rally begins at 6:30.

"Public schools must be strengthened, the purpose preserved. Negative myths must be dispelled," said Oakland Schools' superintendent Dr. James Redmond. "It is not enough to revere the idea. It is time to shout out what's right about public education . . . Silent disagreement with critics is not enough."

The rally will include student presentations on quality school programs. The CHS band will be among those performing, and school catering services will supply refreshments.

"Speeches will be brief, for there are many things to see and celebrate," Redmond said.

The public is invited to attend. Oakland Schools is located at 2100 Pontiac Lake Rd. near Telegraph (just north of Summit Place Mall). The rally is scheduled to end at 8 p.m.

Choir's holiday dance card is full

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

If you were thinking about inviting the Clarkston High School Madrigal Singers to your holiday event but haven't yet made the call, you can just about forget about it.

Even though it's just Thanksgiving weekend, the Madrigals have their holiday performance schedule pretty well booked. To get in now would mean finding a date that fits into everyone in the 16-member choir's schedule—no mean feat.

"We sit down with our day planners," said Tim Sievers, a senior in charge of public relations for choir director Grayce Warren. "We turn down as many as we accept."

Though there are six choirs at CHS available for holiday performances, the Madrigals seem to be the most in demand. Apparently their contrapuntal singing style, which dates to the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries, captures the holiday feeling for many people.

In December the Madrigals have booked seven performances, including the Somerset Collection and the Clarkston Rotary and Optimist clubs, in addition to school concerts. And, of course, they must keep up their other class work at the same time.

"You can only ask them to be dismissed from class so many times," Warren said. "And so many are involved after school or on weekends in other activities" such as band and drama.

Sievers, a second-year choir member who sings tenor in the varsity choir, attends to choir business while the Madrigals rehearse. "I sing third hour and then I come in here," he said from the tiny office he shares with Warren. "I'm in charge of getting all the performances scheduled, making phone calls (etc.)"

Sievers took on the unpaid job this fall after successfully putting together last year's choir program. "I volunteered to do the program last year and I like to type so I thought why don't I get a job where I use my skills?" The computer he has at home helps a lot, he added.

Sievers said that though the bulk of calls for choir performances doesn't come until October, one woman sent a postcard over the summer to make sure she got the date she wanted. Others who successfully got a choir booked include Bordine's and Canterbury Village. Many are repeaters.

"Usually they're the ones that will call ahead of time," Sievers said. "They want us so they'll call early." Others will even move dates to secure the much-coveted choir.

Donations are suggested to cover the costs of transporting and dressing the choirs. Warren makes many of the garments the students wear, including vests for barbershop chorus and dresses for the girls in Madrigals. She said they have to be replaced every year.

Because of its small size, the Madrigals are usually transported by car to their performances. Larger choirs or long-distance travel usually mean school buses, which are provided by the district. Warren is careful to screen out requests where she feels the students are being taken advantage of—say, a private business that doesn't want to make a donation to cover costs.

There are plenty of parent chaperones to accompany the students, Sievers said, though they are usually the same people over and over. "That's not such a good idea, in my opinion. We need more parental stand up and sit down at various times, adding a little visual impact to the performance.

involvement."

The job of PR director is a year-round one for Sievers. Though he's in the busy time for the holiday bookings, he is already working on getting the required paperwork done for solo and ensemble festival, which comes in January. After that it's district band festival, and the list goes on and on.

"I enjoy it; I do a lot of different things," he said. As for pressure, he said he doesn't feel any. And he is organized. Ask him a question and he goes to his file cabinet, opens a folder and comes up with the answer.

"I feel pretty confident I'm doing it to the best of my ability, which is all you can ask," Sievers said. Warren said she has complete confidence in him.

"He knows how to think on his feet. He also speaks well on the telephone and communicates well with adults. He's a very responsible young man and well-respected by his classmates. It's a very thankless job."

The annual all-choir holiday concert will be held at CHS on Dec. 20 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Hudson's brings 'Wizard of Oz' to life

Guests will be enchanted by the magical tale of "Wizard of Oz" as Hudson's presents its sixth annual holiday walk-through display.

Hudson's Special Events Production Staff worked closely with theatrical designer Jack Barkla and costume designer Jack Edwards to depict the tale with 137 characters in 21 vignettes. Animated characters and special effects bring the fairy tale, which is based on the children's book, "The Wizard of Oz," by L. Frank Baum, to life.

The journey begins in Kansas with Dorothy, Aunt Em, Uncle Henry and Toto the dog. Guests will travel through a tornado to Munchkin Land, then on the Yellow Brick Road through the Poppy Field, into Emerald City, to Oz's Throne Room, into the Wicked Witch's Castle and to meet the Good Witch. Dorothy will also meet up with her friends Scarecrow, Tin Man and Lion.

Adding to the excitement of this year's exhibit will be a technologically advanced moving light show that will be presented on the outside wall of the Hudson's Summit Place building. Moving mirror projectors will illuminate the wall with "Wizard of Oz" icons that will serve as a beacon, leading guests to the display. Whirling tornadoes and houses, witches on bikes, flying monkeys and more will be represented. The show will begin each evening at dark and will run until midnight on the Elizabeth Lake Road side wall of Hudson's.

"Wizard of Oz" will be presented in the southwest mall corridor adjacent to Hudson's Summit Place store in Waterford Township. Approximately 400,000 people are expected to tour this complimentary exhibit from Sunday, November 5, to Sunday, December 31. The exhibit will be opened during store hours.

For more information and group tours, call (810) 683-5299.

Above, Dorothy assists the Tin Man with a little oil. Below, she struggles with the wicked witch over the ruby slippers.

Decorate your palace for holidays

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The annual Christmas walk at Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester is a good way to find out what's new in holiday decorating.

This year, the 25th for the event, is being celebrated in a silver theme in accordance with the silver anniversary. The Wilson family silver has been brought out and placed around the house as it would have been when the family was in residence. And the designers and florists who will decorate the house for the walk have incorporated silver into their plans as well.

So whether you have great family silver to trot out or not, you can pick up ideas for centerpieces, tree decorations and even wrappings that will make your holiday light up.

Among the florists who will be decorating the house is Clarkston's Bordine's.

Thrifty Flowers showed how easy and inexpensive glitz can be brought to holiday decorating with its centerpieces made from three silver Christmas tree balls. The three balls were turned upside down and glued together, then centered with a ribbon, some greenery and a tall, silver, feathery accent. They were placed on the dining room table on top of a square of mirror.

Even easier is tucking a few silver balls in along a traditional evergreen rope with red ribbons, as was done by one florist in the entry hall. And even the tiniest table-top tree can be set in a silver box or cache pot to contribute to the effect.

If the silver theme doesn't excite, other exhibitors stuck to the more traditional Christmas look. Groupings of items, such as dolls, teddy bears or nutcrackers, is still in vogue. And childhood themes are again popular.

Larry Meger of Auburn Hills displayed a Raggedy Ann theme. He had large dolls perched on a rocking horse and a chair, and tiny ones tucked into a Christmas tree. He also took clear tree ornaments and glued on eyes, nose and mouth, as well as red yarn imitating the Raggedy Ann hair.

Some of the ideas may sound too contemporary for a 1929-era Tudor cottage. But the designers showed that sticking to a theme within a room really works.

The 100-room former home of Matilda Dodge Wilson will be open for the Christmas Walk Nov. 27-Dec. 10. There will be tours at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 27-29. Hours Nov. 30-Dec. 10 are 10 a.m.-5 p.m., with the house open till 9 p.m. Dec. 4 only.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children 12 and

James Skuta shows his Raggedy Ann and Andy theme. Note that the round ornaments that under and OU affiliates with ID. Tours are also available of Knole Cottage which include a visit with Santa ($1). Group rates are available as well. All proceeds benefit the preservation of Meadow Brook Hall, a part of Oakland University.

Mitzelfeld's will decorate Danny's room at Meadow Brook Hall and according to the designers plan to make the room "all boy." At left they show the use of nutcrackers large and small.

Alert holiday shoppers may deter pickpockets

Pickpockets can steal the holiday spirit from Christmas shoppers.

But Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager, says there are things you can do to thwart these grinsches, noting that in 1993 (the last year for which data is available), pickpockets and purse snatchers took nearly $771,000 from Michigan shoppers.

Shopping tips for safety:

- Stay alert. Be aware of what's going on around you.
- Park in a well-lighted space, and be sure to lock the car and close the windows. Place shopping bags and gifts out of sight in the trunk.
- Use a familiar store entrance or sign to locate your vehicle when completing a shopping trip.
- Avoid carrying large amounts of cash; pay with a check or credit card whenever possible.
- Don't overburden yourself with packages. Make frequent trips to the car to put gifts in the trunk. You may consider moving the vehicle once you've placed packages in it.
- Be extra careful with purses and wallets. Carry a purse close to your body, not dangling by the straps. Put a wallet in an inside coat or front pants pocket. Take only what you need when shopping.
- Shopping with kids? Teach them to go to a store clerk or security guard if you get separated.
- Shop before dark, if possible. Coordinate shopping trips with a friend if you plan to be out late.
- Wait for public transportation or rides from friends in busy, well-lighted areas.

Lighthouse Clarkston has tree of caring

This holiday season, Lighthouse Clarkston's Tree of Caring will shine as a beacon of hope for northern Oakland County. Residents will have the opportunity to purchase "love lights" on the Tree of Caring in honor or memory of family and friends. Funds raised will further Lighthouse Clarkston's mission to provide services for low-income residents.

Contributors, as well as the community-at-large, are invited to attend the Tree of Caring lighting ceremony on Thursday, December 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Lighthouse Clarkston, 5331 Maybee Road. Music by choirs and handbell ringers will provide a festive backdrop for the event.

"The holiday season is often a time of reflection," said Wendy Halsey, branch manager. "The Tree of Caring offers residents the chance to remember loved ones and, at the same time, help residents in need of emergency assistance."

Lights are available in a variety of colors and range in price from $5-50. The tree-top star may be purchased for $100. Acknowledgement cards will notify individuals of gifts made in their name or that of a family member. To purchase a light, call Catherine at 673-4949.

Lighthouse of Oakland County, Inc., is a non-profit human services agency based in Pontiac. A partner organization of United Way of Oakland County, Lighthouse Emergency Service Centers in Pontiac and Clarkston provide emergency food and medical services; housing assistance; as well as volunteer assistance to seniors and persons with disabilities.

Potters offer gift ideas

What is billed as the largest pottery market under one roof in the country returns to Oakland Community College Dec. 1-3.

OCC's 20th annual Potters Market brings together over 200 students in the OCC Ceramic Technology program to sell their wares under one roof. The sale is held at the United Food and Commercial Workers Union Hall at 876 Horace Brown Dr., Madison Heights, near Oakland Mall. Admission is free.

Clarkston potter Ruth Coulson is among those who will have work available at the sale.

This year there will be a special preview night Thursday, Nov. 30. Tickets are $10 for the privilege of being among the first to shop. Proceeds will go to support student technology purchases for the OCC royal Oak and Southfield campuses.

The Pottery Market is a great place to pick up Christmas gifts and a few special items for your own home. For those who travel the craft-show circuit, many potters' work will be recognizable. Styles range from raku to more traditional works and include mostly functional pieces, like serving dishes, mugs and bowls. However Christmas tree ornaments, sculpture and jewelry are also available.

Last year 24,000 pieces of pottery were sold to 10,000 people in the 12,000 square-foot space. The sales floor is continually restocked throughout the sale.

Oakland Audubon hosts Christmas bird count

The Oakland Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count (CBC) will take place this year on Saturday, December 16. This will be one of more than 1,800 similar counts across the Western Hemisphere designed to help survey wintering birds. Bird counts will be taken from Hawaii to Labrador, and from Alaska to Brazil, during the period from December 16, 1995 to January 2, 1996.

This year marks the 96th anniversary of the original CBC, which was held on Christmas Day in 1900 by groups in 25 locations, mostly around major northwestern U.S. cities.

The count itself is one of the biggest birding events of the year, and for Oakland Audubon, it means weeks of planning that will yield, in a single calendar day, the most complete census of birds possible in the designated area. By tradition the count area is a circle with a unique center and a 15-mile diameter which covers roughly 177 square miles. Oakland Audubon's count area is centered at Lapeer and Indianwood Roads in northern Oakland County.

Bird counters are organized into parties, each with a leader familiar with the section of the circle assigned to the group. Within this circle, all birds sighted are identified and counted beginning at 7 a.m. and ending at 5 p.m. After the count, all parties gather for supper and a tally. Last year Oakland Audubon counted 25,683 individual birds representing 67 different species, including an unusual sighting of a Northern Goshawk.

New participants are welcome regardless of birding skill level. For more information on the Oakland Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count, please contact Nancy Tar at (810) 399-7243.

Can I have your autograph?

Jenna and Jeff Lada of Clarkston (above) got an autograph from children's illustrator Tomie dePaola when he made an appearance recently at Hudson's Summit Place Mall store. In addition to illustrating nearly 200 children's books, dePaola has just created a holiday collection called "Country Angel Christmas" based upon his latest book. The collection is available at Hudson's. Mellisa Thorp of Clarkston (right) also got an autograph.

Holiday Meals on Wheels gears up for the season

The holidays are fast approaching. Walk into any shopping mall and you will see festive decorations, gifts and greeting cards all waiting to be purchased. Specialty food shops are stockpiled with special herbs and spices, used for distinctive family recipes, which have been passed from generation to generation.

Now imagine that you're elderly, perhaps isolated, and even homebound. You have no family or friends nearby to invite you to dinner. What will you do during the holidays while others enjoy the abundance of the season? What will you have for dinner? These are hard questions that many of our communities' frail and elderly people face during the holidays.

The answer is Holiday Meals on Wheels! This program is a cooperative effort between the Area Agency on Aging 1-B, which raises the funds to support the program, and local service providers, who prepare and deliver meals.

Holiday Meals on Wheels helps to ensure that our community's elderly do not spend their holidays alone and hungry. Volunteers deliver hot, nutritious, and festive meals, to frail homebound adults. They also spend time with the seniors they deliver to, sometimes providing the only social contact that they will receive during this season of joy.

This year you can spread the warmth and abundance of your family table to our area's frail, homebound adults, by sending your contribution to the:

Area Agency on Aging 1-B
29100 Northwestern Highway, Suite 400
Dept. N

Southfield, MI 48034

The season of joy and well-being will soon be upon us. Why not set an extra place for a needy adult? Donate to Holiday Meals on Wheels today!

Work helps to preserve us from three great evils—weariness, vice and want.
—Voltaire

- Nov. 30 — Low Salt Ham

* - Wednesdays are "heart smart" lunches at the center. We use no additional salt in our food preparation.

Homebound Meals

Homebound meals are available to seniors living in Independence Township. These meals are delivered to seniors who are unable to prepare their own meal. People needing homebound meals should contact Sarah at the Senior Center at 625-8231, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Forget to defrost?

If you forgot to defrost your holiday turkey, here are a few tips from home economist Sylvia Treiman of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service—Oakland County.

"The rule of thumb for fastest defrosting of a turkey safely in water is to plan on 30 minutes per pound," she says. First figure out your time schedule to see if this will work.

Then, place the bird in its unopened bag in the sink and cover it completely with cold tap water. Change the water every 30 minutes to ensure safe, effective thawing. Rotate the turkey occasionally. Do not use this procedure if wrapping has been torn.

For more information call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904.

Cool Cat teaches kids about health

Kids at Andersonville Elementary found out it was hip to be healthy when they were visited by SelectCare's "Cool Cat" Nov. 14.

Through songs, dance and audience participation children learned that exercise is good for their bodies, especially the heart. They also heard again what many of their parents tell them every day: that a frequent diet of hamburgers, pop and candy does not a healthy child make.

While SelectCare's mascot entertained them, the students, you might say, copy-catted his moves, doing everything from exercises to hand motions along with the songs.

With more stamina than the Energizer Rabbit, Cool Cat overdid his jogging at one point and the students had to shout a warning.

"Cool it, Cool Cat!" they yelled.

Students were told that overtaxing their hearts could be damaging too and they should always cool down after workouts. Following two 40-minute assemblies at Andersonville, the students returned to their classes with Cool Cat sunglasses and POG-inspired "Cool Caps."

Some couldn't resist giving the spunky feline high fives as they passed. Pam Ferguson, corporate communications manager for SelectCare, a Southeastern Michigan health care company, said the "Cool Ways to Get Healthy" program is presently touring elementary schools throughout the Detroit Metro area. The emphasis on young children is to break bad habits before they become permanent. That's the age that can make a difference, she said.

Audience members enjoy cutting up with Cool Cat.

Exercise, energize!

Andersonville's kids enjoy "Nutrition Rap" and other songs.

Who is that behind those Foster Grants? Bill Potvin is one cool principal in his Cool Cat shades, next to cool first-graders Calvin Rawe and Chelsea Larsen.

Some alarming facts

From a 1992 study by Charles T. Kuntzleman, Ed. D., of the University of Michigan:

- By age 3, nearly all American children have fat deposits in the aorta.
- 40 percent of all American elementary school students have elevated cholesterol levels.
- 60 percent of American children have one heart disease risk factor and 20 percent have three or more.
- 51 percent of American children cannot do one pull-up.
- The average American child gets less than 15 minutes of vigorous exercise a day.
- Regular physical education improves academic achievement scores of children.
