Season hard to locate under 9 inches of snow

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Those who woke up last Wednesday morning weren't greeted by the songs of robins.

If there were any, they were drowned out by the scritch-scratch of shovels, the droning of snowplows and the frequent squeals of tires as residents struggled to free their cars from snow-covered parking lots and driveways on the official first day of spring.

It was definitely the worst storm of the season for Clarkston and the Detroit Metro area, with Independence Township receiving the max from a snowfall that netted from five to nine inches, said Jeff Boyne, forecaster for the National Weather Service in White Lake.

The snow began overnight and continued to fall all day until conditions improved in the late afternoon. The storm included "a nine-inch slot that ran from Highland Park, through Clarkston and Davison, and on to Lake St. Clair," Boyne said.

According to the weather service, it was the worst storm since January 14, 1992. "There was a foot dumped in that one," he said.

Speaking of Wednesday's storm, Boyne said the biggest problem was drifting and the wind, with the Clarkston area receiving gusts of up to 47 mph amid an average temperature of 30 degrees. With ice underneath the accumulating snow, coupled with the drifting, it made it almost impossible to drive and keep driveways and parking lots cleared, he said.

He added that chunks of ice were a problem on I-75, and M-15 was "a mess. I've been avoiding M-15. A guy who works here wiped out."

Clarkston Police woke up city Department of Public Works supervisor Bob Pursley at midnight. He arrived in Clarkston around 2 a.m. and began plowing with other DPW workers.

"It was almost impossible," he said. After finishing several city streets, he arrived back at his starting point on Holcomb. "It looked like I hardly did anything," he said. Pursley said some of the snow piles were as big as buildings.

Though the storm hit hard, Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said there were only two minor accidents. One occurred at Clarkston and Main when a car slid through a stop light, and a semi jack-knifed on Depot. Otherwise, it was uneventful.

"Driving conditions were terrible," Ormiston said. "We were fortunate people were driving slowly so that any damage caused by accidents was minor and no one was hurt."

Clarkston Union bartender Dale Redman shovels the restaurant's sidewalk.

As the snow fell, it was disastrous for most, like Bridgewater Apartment residents Shawn Rabino and Cheryl DeBose, who finally gave up trying to get their car out and walked to Pine Knob Wine Shoppe for groceries — sometimes through two-foot drifts.

"I'm from Brooklyn, New York. We don't get anything like this," Rabino said. He kidded with DeBose that they should walk to Holcomb St. in Clarkston like he did the other day.

"I told him he was crazy," laughed DeBose.

However, the storm was profitable for some businesses like Hollywood Video in the Food Town shopping center at Waldon and Sashabaw roads.

"We were quite busy," said Michelle Curtin, a store employee who came in to work Wednesday evening. "I was talking to my manager and she said it was busy because everybody was out of school and work."

Ann Bahri, who owns Pine Knob Wine Shoppe with her husband, said she sold "tons of milk, tons of bread, tons of pizza slices. We were out. We sold everything we had. I could have probably sold 100 loaves of bread."

Bahri said she arrived for work around 4 p.m. to find about 15 cars parked in front of her store.

"I said, 'What the heck? It's not even New Year's,'" she laughed.

Third candidate will challenge Lutz, Karlstrom

CHS teacher Jim Wenger enters Republican race

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Come August, Independence Township voters will have three Republican candidates to choose from in the primary election for treasurer.

The latest to throw his hat into the ring is current Clarkston High School teacher and social studies chairperson Jim Wenger.

Former Clarkston school board member Kurt Karlstrom announced his decision to run in December. Both challengers will battle incumbent John Lutz, who announced he would seek re-election despite his battle with a long-running investment controversy.

Wenger will retire from teaching after 29 years at the high school. He said the decision to retire and run for an elected office wasn't an easy decision to make.

"I wanted to go out of teaching knowing I did a good job and I think I did that," said Wenger. "I realize politics is not a safe occupation but I also feel like I want to give something back to the community that has given me so much."

"In teaching government over the years I've always talked to my students about challenging themselves and now that's what I'm doing."

The official county deadline for filing to run for any municipal or county seat is May 14.

Wenger, whose wife Sharon teaches at Clarkston Elementary and whose two sons, Jason and Matt, graduated from CHS, said he will not run a negative campaign, but wants voters to have a choice in the next election.

He said teaching government has helped him keep up on current local and national issues, but admits that Lutz's investment problems were the issues that piqued his interest. He does say, however, his campaign will not be based on one issue.

"I feel I can be an asset to this community because I've served it for almost 30 years and would like to serve it again in another way," he said.

Wenger said he doesn't have all the answers about being treasurer but has plenty of experience in financial and government matters. As a teacher, he teaches government as well as current events and economics. The 1967 Central Michigan University graduate who earned a master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1991, was also on the Clarkston Credit Union Board of Directors for 10 years, and served as president.

The news in brief

No wake explored on Walters Lake

Upon a petition request from residents of Little Walters Lake, the Independence Township Board of Trustees passed a resolution requesting the state Department of Natural Resources to investigate establishing a "Slow - No Wake Speed" on the lake.

The township is requesting the DNR help prepare a special local ordinance for Little Walters and conduct a public hearing, as provided for under the state's Marine Safety Act.

Community Foundation moves forward

After a series of meetings to gauge public interest, a new Greater Oakland Community Foundation is on its way to being formed.

Local attorney Henry Woloson, who spearheaded the idea, said that at a meeting last week a steering committee was created to get the ball rolling. In addition to Woloson, the members of the steering committee are Mollie Lynch, Independence Township Library Director; Steve Arkwright, former Clarkston city councilman; and Don Place, of North Oakland Habitat for Humanity.

The new foundation will affiliate itself for legal purposes with the Four County Community Foundation, headquartered in Romeo. Under state law, community foundations can provide tax credits to donors and make grants for a broad range of purposes within the communities they serve.

"I think it was real good representation," Woloson said of the attendance at last week's meeting, which occurred the night of the big snowfall. About 15 local organizations were represented. "We voted to move forward," he said.

Humane Society seeks owners of 2 dogs

The Michigan Humane Society is currently holding two dogs found in Independence Township and seeking their owners.

An older tan lab mix was turned in to the Auburn Hills shelter on March 24 after someone found it March 16 in a subdivision in the Sashabaw/Clarkston Rd. area. It is described as an older female, chubby, with poor eyesight and wearing a choke chain.

The second dog was turned in March 23, three weeks after someone found it in the Sashabaw/Oak Hill area. It is described as a young male black lab mix with a small amount of white on its chest, wearing a red nylon collar.

Because of MHS rules, the dogs cannot be held indefinitely. The older dog, because of its age and health, is not considered a good bet for adoption and will be euthanized if not claimed immediately. The younger dog may be placed for adoption.

If you know the owners of these dogs you are asked to call the MHS immediately at 852-7420.

Meeting rescheduled

One of the casualties of last week's snow days was the general membership meeting of the Clarkston Middle School PTA. The meeting has been rescheduled for Thursday, March 28 at 7 p.m. in the CMS cafeteria. The agenda includes Reflection awards, voting for officers for next year, and a video called "Ready or Not" about communication skills regarding drugs and alcohol for parents.

A Great Dental Office Would...

Dear Dr. Shader,

In today's society of consumers experiencing poor product quality and service on a regular basis in every industry, it has been a refreshing experience to come across a doctor who truly cares not only about the quality of his work, but personally invests in each and every patient.

You and your staff are an exceptional group of professionals. When I came to your office upon Bob Posch's recommendation - after one year of failed attempts at bridgework, I must admit that my expectations were not set that high. Based on prior experience and dental work, having any teeth that could pass for front teeth would be acceptable.

I must admit that you and your staff have given me new faith in dentistry! I was not only treated respectfully and as a professional, but you were all sensitive to the pain concerns that I had. The new bridgework looks great, and feels like my own teeth. So you have exceeded all of my expectations!

I cannot tell you how I appreciate all that has been accomplished for me. I do know that I will continue to utilize all of your services in the future!

Sincerely,

Christine Leoneth

Growth encircles Clarkston schools

Springfield, Independence report 71 developments on deck

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

If there's disagreement on just where and when growth will come within the borders of the Clarkston school district, it's understandable when you begin to look at the numbers.

Growth will come from all sides, and it is expected to continue well beyond the five-year window that is commonly used in planning school facilities. Standard projections are basically out the window when it comes to living in Clarkston, the hot spot in northern Oakland County.

The Clarkston News sat down with officials from both Independence and Springfield townships to try to get a handle on development that is known to be in various stages—those already under construction, those in various stages of approval, and those only in the talking stages. What we learned is that while several large developments are probably at least five years from completion on the east side of Independence Township, at least 18 developments are already on their way in Springfield Township, where the I-75/Dixie Highway corridor is quickly filling up. Together the two townships will become home to thousands more people in the next few years.

Springfield Township clerk Nancy Strole said when she recently reconfigured her voting precincts, she got an inkling of what is to come. Precinct 5, which now has about 700 registered voters, is expected to have another 1,000 within three years, according to her projections.

"We're 15 minutes from Auburn Hills, 15-20 minutes from Flint," she said. "It's very convenient for a lot of people. But we're also finding they're very attracted to the resources and just how pretty Springfield is. They all comment on the woods and the hills."

Like many before her, Strole said the development of the Chrysler Technology Center in Auburn Hills is having a big impact on residential development in her township. But some residents are also commuting north, to the Flint area.

Chrysler spokeswoman Lori McTavish said that although movement into the Technology Center has been occurring over a period of years, the 3,000-employee World Headquarters tower is just beginning to see workers transfer in, mostly from offices in Highland Park. The company has no information on how many of those people will be relocating their families.

"All of this (growth) for the most part is occurring within our current zoning and master plan," Strole said. "And I feel we're fairly recognized as focusing or planning on not growing willy nilly, and trying to plan for development for what the infrastructure will support."

The same can be said for Independence Township. The two townships share a planner, Richard Carlisle, and their boards have met occasionally in joint session with the board of education to talk about issues such as growth and how it will affect the school district.

But beyond those yearly meetings, it appears little coordination has taken place.

"If they (the school district) asked me, I would do a detailed analysis for them," said Carlisle. "And nobody has."

Meanwhile, the school board, the administration and various committees struggle to come up with answers to important questions: How many students do they need to plan for, where will those live, and will a new elementary school be necessary or will additions to existing buildings be sufficient?

A difference of opinion arose after the latest citizens' facilities committee presented its report to the board of education. The report suggested additions to the district's six elementary schools were the best solution. A response by the administration suggested that a new school would still be necessary, plus the additions. The board of education agreed with the administration and is now awaiting a report from its architect, Greiner, Inc.

Some quick math shows the staggering numbers the school board must consider. Projects now under way in Springfield Township (over half of which is in the Clarkston school district) are planned to add perhaps as many as 712 new homes within the school district's boundaries. In Independence Township, two eastside projects, Oakhurst (formerly called Stonehedge) and Morgan Lake, alone will combine for nearly 400 homes, and there are dozens more smaller projects under way. No new developments are planned for the portion of White Lake Township which falls within the school district.

Meanwhile, standard projections generally used by the state for bond issues, called the StanFred projections, show student growth tapering off in about five years. But those projections are based on births and deaths and do not take into account housing starts. For that reason, they've come under suspicion by the board of education, though they are required by the state treasury department.

"If you come in with other projections they almost always want you to go back to StanFred," said Kari McDonald-Blanchett of Stauder, Barch, the school district's financial consultant. She said the treasury does not allow projections beyond five years because of their unreliability.

Joe Fielek of the Department of Treasury confirms that. "We require a projection that is prepared by an independent firm, and StanFred is one of them," he said. If material is to be added, such as housing starts, it must be submitted to a firm such as StanFred for analysis. As for the five-year limit, Fielek confirmed that is the department's policy.

"At last count there were 60-some subdivisions in the two townships in some form of consideration," said school superintendent Gary Haner. He said the district monitors the situation but has not undertaken any studies outside the facilities committee report. That report, by its own admission, did not include detailed input from Springfield Township.

Haner said the administration will begin to prepare more detailed information for the board when the board makes a decision on its next bond issue. The district currently owns two sites where a new school could be built: 20 acres on the grounds of the current administration building on Clarkston Rd., and 80 acres at Reese and Rattalee Lake roads. Both parcels are in Independence Township.

"If we look at the saturation of the area south of the expressway, it only stands to reason that long term, the biggest growth will be north of I-75," Haner said. But short term, the southeast portion of Independence Township, where elementary schools are already overcrowded, is the biggest area of concern.

And therein lies part of the dilemma, according to planner Carlisle: do you plan for short term or long term?

Either way the answers are different. And either way, the board of education faces the troubling question: What if we make a mistake? With so much to consider, so much money at stake and so many conflicting sets of information, the question might well be—how can they possibly avoid it?

Golf course at Morgan Lake on fast track

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a short window of opportunity before them, developers of Morgan Lake Golf Classic cleared trees for three holes of the planned golf course.

The almost 300-unit development is just beginning construction on the massive property, located in the far southeast corner of Independence Township. While the overall project has been slow to move forward, the Independence Township Board of Trustees gave approval March 18 for the clearing of trees for golf course holes 14, 15 and 16.

The reason for the sudden approval of the clearing is because the ground is still frozen, meaning removing the trees now will cause minimum damage to the surrounding wetlands area. The wetlands area of the three holes is about 1.9 acres.

Township Building Director Bev McElmeel said this clearing would have to be done sooner or later, so now is the best time to get it done.

"This is going to help avoid more impact on the wetlands," she said. "The progress will be monitored by our department daily."

Other board action

● The board voted to finance the improvement of Bay Court Park's multi-purpose building and beach renovations with First of America Bank.

The installment purchase contract amount to be financed is $320,000 for 10 years, at a 5.29 percent rate.

First of America gave the lowest bid among three bidders. Oxford Bank had the next best rate at 5.39 percent while National Bank of Detroit also submitted a bid.

● With the demolition of a township Fire Department's captain's vehicle, the board approved the purchase of a replacement truck.

Due to slippery roads on Feb. 8, the captain's vehicle was involved in an accident on Mohawk Street while responding to a medical call. While no one was injured, the damage to the chassis and box of the truck was heavy.

Fife Chief Gar Wilson said the insurance company estimated the damage to the 1991 truck at about $20,000. The insurance company said the best thing to do is "total" the vehicle.

As a result, the insurance paid $29,000 and the salvage company added an extra $7,000.

Lock boxes optional on city buildings

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It looks like lock boxes will be a matter of choice for Clarkston city building owners.

City councilman Steve Secatch reported at Monday night's council meeting that he had some questions answered by Independence Township Fire Department officials.

Although the latest BOCA codes for building, electrical and plumbing received first readings at the last council meeting March 12, the first reading of the Fire Prevention Code was tabled Monday so the issue of lock boxes could be studied.

Earlier, councilman Doug Roeser noted the city's fire prevention ordinance differed from the township's because it said lock boxes "shall" be used. The township's wording is "may." Council members felt that "shall" indicates lock boxes on Clarkston buildings are mandatory.

Secatch, who is a lieutenant for West Bloomfield's fire department, contacted township fire officials. Wondering whether boxes would be required for residents' homes as well as commercial and industrial buildings, he was told by township fire marshal Neil Ashley that they were only for the latter two.

Fire chief Gar Wilson said it really wouldn't matter if the wording was changed or not because building owners could appeal to Clarkston's city council if they felt lock boxes weren't necessary.

City attorney Tom Ryan said he expects to do the first reading of the Fire Prevention Code at the next council meeting April 8, followed by a second reading at council two weeks later.

Basically, a lock box is a safe-like device that can be anywhere from 18 square inches to "the size of a file cabinet drawer," Ashley said. Only the fire department has access and additional information, like whether the building holds hazardous material, can be stored inside, he said. The lock box can also be hooked up to a security system.

Lock boxes in the city have also been discussed because so many of the structures are historic and would fare better if prized doors didn't have to be destroyed.

Independence Township fire engineer and Clarkston Department of Public Works supervisor Bob Pursley, who attended the meeting, said it's always a touchy situation when there's a fire. "Do you break the door?" he asked. But he stifled council members' qualms about break-ins of lock boxes.

"They're real secure — it's like a safe. It would take an awful lot of effort to get into one," he said.

Clarkston Downtown Business Association president Buck Kopietz said he hadn't talked to many fellow downtown business owners about lock boxes but personally, he doesn't want one.

"I would just as soon have the fire department break my door down and replace it," he said, adding that his insurance would cover any damage.

But Jim Sherman, owner of the two-floor Clarkston News building which houses four businesses, said he would like a lock box for his 1870s era building.

"From our standpoint, I'd welcome one. I'm so fearful of fires, I'd welcome anything that would suppress one.

In other council action:

● Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston fielded council members' questions about last week's incident involving an Alger woman who stole a patrol car. Council members asked about handcuff procedures, the prisoner screen that was temporarily removed and the fact that a key was left in the ignition. Ormiston said leaving keys in the car is standard procedure.

● No bids for the old city truck have come in, said Pursley. The minimum bid is $10,000. Pursley had the truck appraised for $9,500 by Bostick GMC truck dealership in Pontiac, which sold the vehicle to the city. Pursley will check with Bostick to see if they'll buy it outright, as well as seeing about a possible sale to the township, which has expressed interest.

Easter drama at church

For the second year in a row, Clarkston Community Church of God will present an Easter production entitled "One Voice."

The dramatic musical tells the Bible story of two important people in the hours following Jesus' death: Joseph of Arimathea, the man who provided the tomb, and Nicodemus, the man who helped carry the body. Together, the Bible tells us, they took Christ from the cross and prepared his body for burial.

The production this year is under the direction of assistant pastor Bonnie Laudeman. It was performed only once last year, and about 300 people showed up on a very snowy day, according to cast member Dan Martin. This year there will be two performances, Saturday, March 30 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 31 at 10:45 a.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

The production has been altered somewhat from last year, Martin said. Children have been added to the cast, the chorus is bigger and the crucifixion, which was not included last year, will be dramatized.

"It's exciting," Martin said. "The rehearsals have just been incredible."

The church is located at 6300 Clarkston Rd. Call 625-1323 for more information.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

The buck stops at lawmakers' doors--in more ways than one

Recently I opened up a magazine to find a two-page, pop-up Joe Camel ad that reminded me of many a children's book. I was appalled—but not surprised, of course—that once again the cigarette companies are marketing a cartoon character, in a children's format, all the while claiming that they're not going after kids as the next generation of customers.

Then last week reports came out, from some cigarette company scientists who are finally breaking the silence, that not only did the companies know that nicotine is addictive (contrary to their claims before a congressional committee), but they actually conducted tests on the brains of human guinea pigs to find out how the brain is affected by nicotine and other chemicals, and at what levels.

When I read that story one image came quickly to mind—drug pushers. People are jailed for life in Michigan—without chance of parole—for much less than this. Yet our lawmakers continue to allow business to go on as usual while accepting money from the tobacco companies. In most instances this would be called bribery, but I guess if you're in Congress it's just called lobbying.

Sunday on "This Week with David Brinkley," a Southern governor was asked why he is opposed to states suing the tobacco companies to recover money spent on tobacco victims' medical expenses. The governor (who incidentally said there are no tobacco companies in his state) said something that made sense: that the tobacco companies are not breaking any laws. He placed the responsibility squarely on Congress for not correcting that situation. Until they do, he said, tobacco companies should not be sued.

Unfortunately Congress, where it now costs millions to run an election campaign, seems unable, unwilling or both when it comes to standing up to the tobacco lobbyists. Even though the Justice Department is looking into perjury charges against the officials who testified they had no knowledge nicotine is addictive, Congress continues to take the money and resist—no, block—change. We all saw the hue and cry when President Clinton announced a federal crack-down on underage smoking. You would have thought he'd just announced the outlawing of motherhood and apple pie, so swift and severe was the retribution.

Unfortunately, our state legislators are apparently not immune to the pressure either. According to the most recent newsletter from Clarkston High School, a bill to "crack down" on underage smoking includes a $150 fine for the young person but no penalties for the store which sold the cigarettes unless the sale is witnessed by a police officer. Fat chance.

The bill, which has already passed the Senate, would also forbid local communities from enacting their own, more stringent, ordinances.

Pediatricians say smoking should be treated as a childhood disease, given the long-term physical ramifications of starting to smoke during adolescence. This bill treats it instead as a childhood crime," says the article, which is reprinted from the Detroit News/Free Press.

Community should be proud to be identified with basketball program

No doubt, society often puts too much emphasis on sports. In the end, regardless of how a sports team performs, we will all still go to work, pay bills, and continue with our daily activities. It's just a game, right?

Sure it is.

But there is one sport, like it or not, that is synonymous with this community. That sport is Clarkston basketball, and for years it has provided fans with something to be proud of... an identity of sorts.

In other communities, people may not know anything about the city of Clarkston/Independence Township, but you can bet most people have heard of or know about Clarkston's basketball teams.

Coach Dan Fife has a phenomenal 14-year record of 255-65, but that isn't really the point. He runs a class program with class kids who excel on the court and in the classroom. Their success on the court is almost unequalled.

But plenty of programs win every year. What sets Clarkston apart is the way they win. The majority of high schools win because they have talent, while few win with defense, discipline and great coaching the way Fife's squads do. And it's no accident. Fife has established his philosophy of how to play and act all the way down to his youth leagues.

Every kid with a basketball dreams of being a Clarkston varsity player like CHS grads Dugan Fife, Tim McCormick, Ed Whitaker, Scott McKoin, Ray Kubani, Chris Wasilk, and on and on.

For his winning ways, homegrown boy Dan Fife is known state-wide. But it's for his class and his team's class that he is respected in every gym they play in.

You will never see a Clarkston player trash-talk to another, point fingers at loud fans or perform some funny little dance after making a basket.

That is not coach Fife's style. He is a basketball purist who puts as much emphasis on how his players conduct themselves as how hard they play. He is helping mold young men by teaching lessons they will take with them long after the basketballs stop bouncing.

For those reasons this community should be proud we are identified as a basketball town.

In the end, we'll all forget about the heartbreaking quarterfinal loss to Southfield-Lathrup last week. We'll go back to work as usual and take care of our own lives.

Sure, basketball is only a game, but what a game we have right here in Clarkston. DWC

Jim's Jottings

Worth what I paid at auction

Through the years several people have told me that when they have nothing to do weekends they go to garage sales and/or auctions.

The first time that situation came to both Hazel and I we were in the Upper Peninsula. The weather was overcast, but not rainy. It was cool, but not cold. And there was an auction sale in Gulliver.

Gulliver is home to a Mead Company sawmill, and that's about it, though I suppose both residents will take offense at that conclusion.

It wasn't difficult finding the sale. You can see everything there is to see in Gulliver from US-2. If you blink twice going through Gulliver you'll find yourself entering Manistique.

There is absolutely no reason for Hazel and I to look over the to-be-auctioned stuff (the right word in this case) together at any auction, especially this one.

Hazel heads for crocks, I look for power tools. Hazel stops at quilts, I pace off log chains. Hazel looks at throw rugs, knick-knacks and curtain stretchers. I look for fishing tackle, the coffee pot and bathroom.

There's another big difference between us at auction sales. Hazel may never bid on anything, and will surely be careful to not go too high, whatever that is. I always bid and buy something, never mind if I could buy the same thing new for less.

I know I'm going to have lots of time to read in my retirement, so I bid $2 on three boxes of paperback books. No one bid against me, so I now owned over 100 more books. When I got to look at them later

I found two-thirds were porno. I now know what these people did on cold nights in the UP. The books are now in a Silverbell Road landfill.

The other third are cowboy, which I plan to read someday in my retirement.

I picked up a 10-foot length of log chain for $1. Love log chains. Must have half a dozen of 'em. I even used one once, but not for pulling logs.

The bidding was slow to nothing at the coin and paper money table. I figure since this money was probably on the auction bill, someone must know if this collection was worth anything. So, I listened. Bidding was nil, so I bid 10 bucks on a $10 bill and got it.

With thoughts of the guy who found a rare piece of art worth millions running through my mind, I asked John Frank to appraise it for me. Frank is "The Professional's Professional" numismatist. He writes a regular column on coins for our Mature American magazine. He sent this note:

Dear Jim:
Your $10 note was issued in Boston in 1934. It is one of 46,276,000 pieces. In crisp uncirculated condition it would have a market value of $14.00. Since it has had considerable wear it would be valued today at face, or $10.00.

Many thanks for your help with my 'Frankly Speaking' articles.

Sincerely,
John

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1981)

Calls to freeze salaries of Independence Township officials fail at the annual meeting Saturday, as residents approve, by a show of hands, an approximate 9.3 percent pay hike for the coming year. The increase boosts the supervisor's salary over the $30,000 a year mark and the clerk's and treasurer's salaries by more than $2,000.

Robert Walters says he will not seek re-election for a seat on the Clarkston Board of Education after serving eight years. Incumbent Carolyn Place, who has also served eight years, also says she won't run again. Walters, who is pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church, says he was not prompted to resign because of current financial problems in the district. "I decided... that I've served now for eight years... I'll try some other things," he says.

An Independence Township woman puts her son's 1981 Chevette over the side of a hill. "Just like the Dukes of Hazard," says an observer. Dolores Rhodes believes the transmission to be in reverse. When she takes her foot off the clutch it goes forward, jumps the curb and travels down a steep embankment until it hits the sidewalk, keeps on rolling and smashes down obstacles before coming to a stop. No one is injured, but the car's windshield has to be replaced.

25 YEARS AGO (1971)

The Hawk Tool Company is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for acts of vandalism to property of the owners or employees of the company. A recent wave of vandalism has moved them to take action, they say. The destruction has spread from the Hawk plant on Washington through two other branches. Tires of salaried personnel have been slashed at the plant, at their homes and in the parking lot of Howe Lanes. Other destructive acts have included 100 broken plant windows, the vandalism of a truck and company buildings being smeared with paint.

Application has been made for a state grant for parks and recreation development in Independence Township. The township board votes to accept petitions asking for an election of a township park commission. The township will work toward a two-week deadline on recreation grants. In the application the site listed is Waterford Hill Golf Course. Two ways of paying for the course could be through the grant and tee fees.

50 YEARS AGO (1946)

News from "By the Way." As we go to press we wonder whether we are due for a rain storm or a heavy snow. It has been reported that the West has been blanketed by a heavy snow and that the storm is headed east... The choir at the Clarkston Methodist Church is doing some great planning these days. They have been invited to take part in the Easter Night at the Music Hall in Detroit. Many choirs and choruses will be combined. There will be about 2,000 voices. The choir is also preparing for its regular May Festival... If you have any clothing, furniture or other items, Good Will Industries will come to call in Clarkston on April 12.

Specials at the Village Market this week include young beef liver, 27 cents a pound; Blue Moon Cheese, two packages for a quarter; Silver Cow Milk, three cans for 25 cents; Premier Coffee, a pound for 31 cents; and Birdseye Apricot Halves, a package for 31 cents.

60 YEARS AGO (1936)

The junior class of Clarkston High School will present "Our Boarding House," a farcical mix-up in three acts, in the high school auditorium on Friday, April 3. Stage manager is Wilson Denton with the production directed by Virginia LeForge. The cast includes June Dunston, Winifred Miller, Reta Halsey, Angie Marcora, Durward Ash, Lester Spencer, Forrest Irish, Shirley Douglas, Earl Beardslee and Genevieve Beardslee.

Playing at the Holly Theatre are Paul Kelly and Arline Judge in "Here Comes Trouble," Richard Arlen and Beryl Mercer in "Three Live Ghosts," Maureen O'Sullivan and Lionel Barrymore in "The Voice of Bugle Ann," Aline MacMahon and Basil Rathbone in "Kind Lady" and Marguerite Churchill and William Gargan in "Man Hunt." Coming are Charlie Chaplin in "Modern Times" and "The Country Doctor."

Specials at Rudy's include veal chops, 22 cents a pound; Royal Coach Tissue Paper, six rolls for a quarter; hamburger, 15 cents a pound; Heinz Tomato Juice, three cans for 25 cents; Excell Crackers, two pounds for 17 cents; and oleo, two pounds for 23 cents.

Getting to SOME mail

I've been derelict in responding to mail the last few months, so I figured I'd dive in and get to a couple of things sent to me.

FYI: These will be the interesting things -- not the slam dunks on my opinions (which there are more than a few).

First, from somebody in the Brandon area a poem called "America." I don't know if Edward J. Szach is the author and sender or just the author (that shows you the cultural background I have).

America

Our Country is great,
So our forefathers have said,
So take a look back instead of ahead.
It's written about truth and honor and glory,
So let's not rewrite it for our own style or story.
So remember these words our forefathers have said,
And guard our document faithfully,
or our country is dead.

And, next on the hit parade:

No Wonder I'm Tired

There are 200 million Americans;
85 million are over 65 and
76 million are under 21;
That leaves only 38 million
to do the work, but 5 million are in the armed forces.
That leaves 32 million

to do the work, but 6 million are on welfare, and that leaves 26 million to do the work; but 15 million work for the Government, and that leaves
11 million to do the work.
10 million are in school;
That leaves 1 million to do
The work, but 750,000 are disabled or sick.
That leaves 250,000 to do the work.
Last week there were 249,998
People in jail;

And that leaves 2 people to do
The work.
And since you don't do much
-- No wonder I'm tired!

I have no idea who sent that in, but I think there's 450 million Americans.

And, finally from everybody's favorite State
Representative (just don't let him drive) Dave Jaye:

In the 1995-96 state operating budget, $5,000
was allocated for putting fairy tales to rap music;
$75,000 for a chauffeur driven limo for Detroit School Superintendent; $268,800 for prison party store scanners; $2,991,100 for trial judges salary increases; $360,000 for child care information programs only for state employees; $7,377,100 for bonus welfare payments to new immigrants.

There's more, but I'm outta' space.

Happy Spring

I don't know about the rest of the students in Clarkston, but I hated last week's snow days. Sure, the first one was OK. I was sick anyway, so a free day off to get my much-needed rest and relaxation was much appreciated.

The next day, though, I was ready to go to school. I woke up at 5:50, rolled out of bed, got in the shower and got ready for a day full of learning and excitement. However, when my mom came in the kitchen at 6:30 and told me there was no school again, I opted for a day of doing laundry and shoveling snow. A lot more fun than school, let me assure you.

The first day was very slow going. There were a million things I could've done — thought about doing — that just didn't happen. I just felt very lazy and unmotivated because I was feeling so sick. I even refused to help my sisters shovel the driveway because I just didn't feel physically up to it due to my illness.

My sisters did make the best of it, however. My sister Laura even dressed up in her brown winter jacket, tied a scarf around her head, proclaimed "Communist Fashion Show!" and pranced around the kitchen like a runway model. Soon after, my little sisters Christine and Amanda were following her lead, strutting around in full-tilt winter garb to George Michael's "Monkey" blasting from the radio.

However, even my little sister's (Laura is, after all, younger than me by almost a whole minute) crazy antics couldn't stop me from developing cabin fever. I had no books to read, I don't watch television (save the occasional episode of "Dr. Katz"), I'd spent more than enough time on the phone, taken a long bath, written to all of my friends in college, vacuumed and done virtually all of my family's laundry. By the second day I had to get out.

Granted I didn't go very far, just places around Clarkston, but that certainly isn't what matters. What matters is that I saved my sanity. There is only so much time one can spend in the house without growing incredibly restless. So I braved the roads, which I really didn't find to be that bad, and made my mad dash to freedom.

What I hated most about the snow days was missing valuable rehearsal time for the spring musical. We open this week and, although we are making good progress and coming along well, we need all the rehearsal time we have and cannot, in theory, afford two missed days. We will pull through, however, and I have faith that on opening night the audience won't even be able to tell that we haven't been practicing since birth.

Is this how spring began last year? Though I don't fully remember, I somehow doubt it. Where the heck are the flowers and the birds and all those people falling in love? When do I get to put my winter coat away for good?

HEY SPRING! Come out, come out wherever you are. I'm sick of this winter stuff. Yeah, I know, spring is tornado season, but considering how tired I am of winter, I'll take my chances.

Toward Amnesia

By Don Downey

To be completely honest, I bought Sarah VanArsdale's novel Toward Amnesia because I liked the illustration on the cover. I know this is the oldest marketing trick in the book, but I'm glad I fell for it because Toward Amnesia turned out to be very good.

Toward Amnesia is a unique, scientific prose about a female marine biologist whose lover, Libby, leaves her for another woman. The bereft biologist has no name in the first person narrative, which effectively puts the readers in the throes of her mind.

But the biologist's namelessness doesn't leave her with nothing. She has shock, she has denial, she has sunglasses and a sensible Toyota. She tells herself the whole five-year romance "was a dream, exquisitely detailed."

So she trades in her Toyota for a 1950's Chevy, cuts off all of her hair and begins her journey "toward amnesia."

The biologist takes a skewed scientific approach to her journey; she has somewhere specific to go, but she's not quite sure where it is. She keeps a journal which is originally intended to be a log of her progress, but it becomes her poetic outlet. She stumbles through her loss noticing everything, but absorbing little. She is too full of Libby, Libby, Libby to sop up the juice of life. But her loss isn't forever. She realizes, gradually, that happiness is not going to one day enter her view like a road sign, but it will come imperceptibly, when she's not looking.

Toward Amnesia is everything a short novel should be: unique, inspiring, and readable. A slice of life right there on the bookshelf.

Focus on the family by Dr. James Dobson

QUESTION: My 10-year-old can be very irresponsible. He hates to work and he has lost or broken everything of value he's ever been given. I've read many books about teaching children to be responsible and mature, and we're working on these objectives. My problem is that I lose patience with him too often. I yell at him and accuse him of being stupid and lazy. Then I feel terrible about my lack of control. Am I damaging his self-esteem by these outbursts?

DR. DOBSON: Children are usually very resilient and most of them can absorb occasional parental outbursts without sustaining permanent harm. In fact, your displeasure is part of the teaching process whereby a parent nudges his child in the direction of maturity.

However, if you realize you are over-reacting frequently or habitually, especially if it involves labeling him unfairly, you would do well to remember what someone has said about the way people perceive themselves:

"We are not what we think we are . . .
"We are not even what others think we are . . .
"We are what we think others think we are."

There is a great truth to this statement. Each of us evaluates what we believe our associates are thinking about us, and then we often play the prescribed role. This explains why we wear a very different "face" with different groups.

A doctor may be an unsmiling professional with his patients, being reserved and wise in their presence. They "see" him that way and he complies.

That evening, however, he is reunited with his former college friends who remember him as a postadolescent screwball. His personality may oscillate 180 degrees between afternoon and night, being totally unrecognizable if seen by an amazed patient. Similarly, we are what we think others think we are. That being true, your child will conform to the image he thinks you hold of him.

If you call him lazy and stupid, his behavior will prove that assessment to be correct. Fortunately, the opposite is also true. So whenever possible, control your impulsive reactions and give him a high image to shoot for. Otherwise, he will stoop to match the one you are now communicating.

I know! I know! It sounds easy on paper, but it is tough to implement. I have trouble following this advice, too. But we can at least try to provide what our imperfect kids need from us imperfect parents.

Sidewalks important

This is to register a loud howl of complaint to the Clarkston maintenance for the terrible conditions of village sidewalks after our recent storm.

The piles of snow blocking sidewalks and crosswalks made safe passage extremely difficult. Machines are great, but shovels are greater when it comes to clearing the way.

As a person who has no difficulty managing a disability when walks are clear, I resent having to take my life in my hands for the pleasure of walking snow-packed Clarkston Walks.

Learning about a different people, a different culture and a different place will be more than just bookwork for two Clarkston Middle School students.

Courtney Taylor and Nicole Steele, both sixth-graders, will spend two weeks this summer in Hawaii as part of the People to People Student Ambassador program. While in Hawaii they will spend part of the time living with a local family and part of it working with scientists learning about the islands' environment. They will have the opportunity to earn high-school credit for the trip.

The girls said they learned about the program through mailings they received last fall. In order to be accepted they had to submit three recommendations, at least one from a teacher.

"I mainly did it because I want to learn about different cultures and how people live in different areas," said Nicole.

"I wanted to go to Hawaii and work with scientists," Courtney said.

Courtney's mom, Joann Taylor, is high on the program despite its $2,800 price tag and wanted other students to know there are still openings for the trip. Older students, including Courtney Tolbert, a sophomore at Clarkston High School, have other opportunities through People to People. She will be going to Greece and Italy for three weeks this summer, making visits to historic sites and staying with a local family for four days in Greece.

People to People was originally government funded, but has been privately funded since 1961. On the first board of trustees of that independent organization were Walt Disney, Joyce Hall, founder of Hallmark Cards, and Eisenhower.

The program was originally conceived as an adult exchange but in 1963 it was expanded to students. In its 30 year history, the Student Ambassador program has sent 7,500 students to 35 countries.

Clarkston Union seeks outside bar

Owners of the Clarkston Union Bar & Kitchen on Main St. are requesting an outdoor permit for a bar to be located on the lawn of The Parsonage next door. Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said he was told by the state's Liquor Control Commission that he must make a recommendation "one way or another before anything proceeds."

Ormiston has asked that the matter be put on the Clarkston City Planning Commission's agenda for Monday's meeting. Clarkston Union partner Curt Catallo will be asked to present a sketch for his proposed plan at that time.

Catallo's mother, Clarkston Mayor Sharron Catallo, said she didn't expect the proposed venture to include more than four or five tables with chairs.

The planning commission meeting is scheduled for Monday, April 1 at City Hall, 375 Depot in Clarkston.

Amazingly, there was once a college basketball game when the result was changed TWICE AFTER the game was over!... West Virginia scored at the buzzer to beat St. Joseph's by one point in a game in 1985... West Virginia celebrated the victory... But seven minutes later, officials decided the last shot came too late, and they gave the win to St. Joseph's... But then, two days later, the conference commissioner overruled the officials and gave the victory back to West Virginia!

Did you know that Indiana basketball coach Bob Knight holds the record for being the head coach of a major college basketball team at the youngest age in history?... Knight set that record when he became head coach at Army in 1965—at age 24.

Has there ever been a basketball game in which NO fouls were called?... It happened in a game in 1972 in Maryland between Rockville and Paint Branch high schools... Rockville won 60-44, and, oddly enough, NOT one foul was called during the entire game!... The game, by the way, took only 57 minutes to play with no foul shots.

City asks for break on dispatch charges

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although a draft for a proposed police dispatch contract with Oakland County was discussed by Clarkston's City Council at its meeting March 12, it's hoped the contract's cost can be cut by more than half.

That's what was done with the first county dispatch contract when Clarkston became a city in 1992 and set up its own police department, city manager Art Pappas said.

The contract then called for a three-year agreement at $6,000 per year but was cut down to $2,500 by county commissioners in a resolution that established a rate of $13.80 per call. The annual maximum charge was $2,500 for the three-year contract from 1992-1995, Pappas said.

In a letter to Shelley Taub, chair of the public services committee of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, Pappas asked that two factors be considered in reducing the cost again: First, had the cap of $2,500 not existed during the previous contract, calls would have totaled $4,195.20, "well below the proposed $6,000 flat rate," he said.

Second, the city does not expect to increase significantly in population. "Therefore, an increase in total number of calls for service is not anticipated," he said.

"It's up for renewal," Pappas said, noting the contract. He added that the recent paperwork is "just a draft. We're waiting to see if the commission will reduce it."

Pappas said contracting with Oakland County is best for Clarkston. "If you don't have them, then you have to have a full-time person receiving calls," he said. In a police department like Waterford's, for example, "all they do is have one person who does dispatch." Some small communities contract with their neighbors, like Lake Angelus and Auburn Hills who share services, he added.

Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston also feels the present situation is best. Clarkston is too small for a local dispatch unit to be cost-effective, he said.

Independence Township Board Notes

Wilson said ordering an exact duplicate truck would take 4-9 months, time he cannot afford.

The captain's truck carries a number of important items because it responds to every incident in the township. Wilson said they are currently substituting a brush truck for the missing captain's truck.

Wilson has been trying to locate a Suburban to replace the demolished truck since the accident. Among four dealerships he finally found a suitable replacement, which the department will modify to fit its needs.

The cost is $33,815.

● Independence and other communities want to be treated equally by the state of Michigan when it comes to receiving state funds.

The board approved sending a resolution to the state—upon the urging of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners—that urges equitable treatment for the citizens of Oakland County.

The resolution, also sent by other communities, states that because Oakland County is first in per capita revenues sent to the state and 79th out of 83 counties in terms of receipts, it should also receive some of the benefits for its success.

"There are many needs that are going unmet in our communities, and will continue to be unmet as long as the great disparity in revenues received by Oakland County is carried on by the state."

● The Clinton River Watershed Council wanted to let the board know that the $1,500 yearly membership dues are being used properly.

Upon the township board's request, CRWC President Erich Ditschman gave the board a brief presentation about what they have done in Independence Township and surrounding communities.

The CRWC is a non-profit organization whose goal is to protect the Clinton River Watershed through environmental education and action. The Clinton River's headwaters are located at Independence Oaks County Park on Sashabaw Road.

Some of the work in Independence has included doing studies of septic along the Clinton River as part of a larger study to determine how much contamination in Lake St. Clair is caused by the river. The CRWC tested 50 homes' septic systems and about half were failing.

● A $4,200 portable computer was approved for the township's data processing coordinator Gordon Mason. This new portable will allow for internal checks of current modems and other uses.

● Bridge Valley Phase II, a residential development that spans Independence and Springfield townships, was approved 6-1, with trustee Mel Vaara voting no.

While the majority of the development is in Springfield, about 65 lots will be in Independence.

Bridge Valley developers have already agreed to donate a conservation easement in Springfield to the Independence Land Conservancy. Vaara voted no because he said he was under the impression that there was to be land donated in Independence as well. Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher, an ILC member, brought up the easement question and said he was also led to believe Independence would receive an easement.

Bridge Valley developers said they don't ever recall promising an easement for Independence but were glad to donate a large easement to Springfield.

They said the project is moving ahead so it would be difficult to place an easement over open space areas because the property has already been platted.

● Sheringham Woods Subdivision, located north of Maybee Road near Woodcrest Ridge Street, received a two-year extension for final preliminary plat approval. The 53-lot subdivision needed the extension because original approval came in 1992.

● Following the lead of other phases in its development, Deerwood IV Subdivision, a 40-lot development, will pay a total cost of $12,500 for a street lighting special assessment district. The developer has picked up the cost of the SAD for now and residents will pay when they move in.

● The board approved road closures for the 10th annual Fun Daze run, to be held May 18.

New manager at downtown NBD

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Roberta Trzos says NBD Bank employees are like one big happy family. That's why it wasn't a really big deal when she relocated to Clarkston.

Trzos, new branch manager at the downtown branch on Main St., was transferred in February from a Troy NBD branch. She replaces former branch manager Neil Russo who moved to a branch in Rochester.

She describes the move as "a step up. The bank promotes us. All the branches are in different levels and categories. As branches are assigned, the complexity of involvement changes," she explained, sitting in her new office last week. "The bank looks at the talents of individuals. They're real good at finding what an area needs and what abilities an employee has. They thought I would do real well here."

In Clarkston, she'll continue the bank manager's duty of "overseeing bank operations." Trzos said NBD encourages its managers to develop their own branches. "It's like your own company. You do what it takes to make your little business work."

This is her twelfth year with NBD Bank. She started managing other people's money in 1973 as a bank teller in Florida. Next, she returned to her hometown of Lapeer and worked at a bank which is now First of America.

A Commerce Township resident, Trzos doesn't mind the trek to downtown Clarkston and has already made herself at home. She enjoys the old photos on the bank's interior walls and has her Disney collectibles — like the Mickey and friends mug she's holding — to keep her company.

She admits she's a kid at heart. And, although Trzos and her husband have no children, they like them so much they work with several in various community groups.

In addition to her role as a bank manager, Trzos joined the Clarkston Downtown Business Association and plans to take an active part.

"I want to see the downtown grow and bring the people back here into the village. I love Clarkston," she says with a smile.

Downtown Clarkston's NBD Bank branch is sponsoring an Easter coloring contest for children ages 1 through 12. Winners from each age group will receive prizes for the best-colored pictures. Pictures are available at NBD Bank, 15 S. Main St. in Clarkston. Hurry! The contest ends April 3 with prizes to be given away at the bank April 5. Call 625-5041 for more information.

Real estate firm honored by peers

A number of employees of Coldwell Banker The Michael Group were honored at the company's international business conference in San Francisco recently.

The agency itself was named a Premier Office, meaning it has consistently demonstrated exceptional performance and dedication. Broker/owner Bob Pilarcik accepted the award from Robert Rist, president of Coldwell Banker Residential Affiliates, Inc.

Pilarcik himself received the Certified Real Estate Brokerage Manager (CRB) designation given by the Real Estate Brokerage Managers Council. It means he has met stringent management experience and education course work prerequisites. Pilarcik is a director of the North Oakland County Board of Realtors and a past board member of the Independence Land Conservancy and Independence Township Wetlands Committee.

Two associates at The Michael Group were named to Coldwell Banker's International President's Circle, a designation which places them in the top four percent of producers among the company's 55,000 sales associates.

James Cathey and William Hampton received this honor. In addition, Mark Peterson and Eric Pilarcik were named to the Diamond Society (top 10 percent) and Harvey Elam, Lynn Kacy, Lorry Mahler, Marilyn Moir and Valerie Phaup were named to the Sterling Society (top 20 percent).

The Michael Group was established over 20 years ago and has over 50 agents serving the Clarkston area in residential, commercial and vacant properties. Call 625-1333 for more information.

A service to the youngest readers

Reading is a skill that should not only be enjoyable for children, it's downright essential to success later in life. Local businessman Donald Foster is trying to stimulate children's interest in reading by offering personalized books that are paid for by local advertisers.

Foster, owner of Genesis Diversified Computer in White Lake and a Royal Oak police officer, offers the books to local preschools, then goes out into the surrounding area and sells advertising to pay for them. The advertisers' names appear inside the book and in a newspaper ad. Foster uses computer software to print the books, then binds them himself.

The latest school to benefit from the "Learn to Read" program is Children's Ark in Clarkston.

"Kids just love them," he said. "Kids just think they're really a hot shot when they see their name and the story centers around their environment."

"I know it's a little spark. But I'm hoping that the fun they have reading a book sparks their interest... (once they learn to enjoy reading) they've beaten half the battle of success in school."

Foster also hopes parents, who receive the book for free, will patronize the advertisers, who are already in their neighborhood.

"It's advertising for them but in a positive light," he said. For more information call 810-685-1038.

The playscape's on fire!

Wrong--it's a training exercise for fire department

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was a false alarm for a township resident who thought she saw the Bay Court playscape burning to the ground Sunday evening.

The resident, who lives across the street from the park, called The Clarkston News Monday to say she saw flames after returning from visiting in-laws with her husband around 8 p.m.

"I said to my husband, 'Honey, I think the playscape's on fire.' It was awful. All you could see was this huge fire."

She said her son had just brought information home from school, asking for volunteers to help with the playscape this summer. "They (members of the playscape committee) were planning to do some more work on it," she said.

The woman said she even wrote a poem in memory of the thought-to-be smoldering structure.

When Peggy North, secretary for the Independence Township Fire Department, was called in regard to the incident, she was aghast. She said she too had worked on the playscape when it was built two summers ago.

"We worked so hard on it in the hottest weather there ever was. It was such a cool community pulled together," she said.

However, it was all a false alarm. When she checked the fire department log, North didn't come up with a playscape fire at all—but a training session for township firefighters. North said a couple of old cottages were burned down, as agreed upon between the township's fire department and parks and rec.

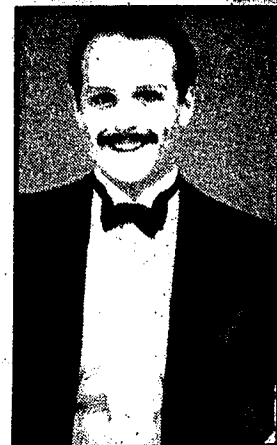

She was relieved to get the true story, but said she could empathize with the woman who called.

"I would have been upset about that too," North said.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

FAULTY PRICING LOGIC

IT DOESN'T MAKE SENSE to overprice your house because you expect a much lower bid.

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: Why shouldn't I price my home much higher than it's actually worth since buyers will usually offer less than the listed price?

ANSWER: Although this strategy may SOUND logical, you will likely end up with less than if you had priced it realistically.

Houses that sell within 5% of market value are usually sold in a reasonable length of time. Those that are overpriced by more than 10% receive little or no activity.

Buyers concentrate on properties that are listed close to market value. Do yourself a favor, in both selling time and profit. Price your house realistically from the start.

League

Over 90 dogs are currently available for adoption through K-9 Stray Rescue League. Two of them are pictured here. Doc is a Dachshund/Doberman Pinscher mix. He's a 5-year-old neutered male and said to be smart and cute. Rembrandt is a 1- to 2-year-old Rottweiler. A neutered male, he is housebroken and described as intelligent and playful yet reserved. He likes riding in cars and playing ball. Doc, Rembrandt and many other dogs will be available for adoption Saturday at Pet Supplies Plus, 5304 Dixie Highway in Waterford. They have all been rescued from the Oakland County Animal Shelter, where they had reached the end of their free room and board. For more information call 620-3784.

Services available for a small fee include: blood test panel, which includes 23 profiles including HDL; thyroid test ($20); prostate specific antigen blood test for men ($25); CA 125 Ovarian cancer antigen blood test ($25); colorectal cancer screening kits ($5).

Think spring!

It's been hard to "think spring" lately, what with the official start of the season arriving with a huge blast of snow. But Bordine Nursery is promising to help us all get into a warmer, sunnier frame of mind with its annual Spring Garden Expo this weekend.

The warm greenhouses of the Dixie Highway nursery will be overflowing with flowers, gardens, demonstrations and fun. There will be "backstage" tours, a petting zoo, pony rides, food and the Easter Bunny will pose for pictures.

The event, which runs Saturday and Sunday, should do wonders for winter-ravaged psyches, and provide inspiration for gardeners who can't wait to get out and turn some soil.

Academic achievers

NAME: Michael Romein
GPA: 3.925

PARENTS: Tom and Carolyn Romein of Independence Township.

PLANS: "Attend Lyman Briggs College at Michigan State University and major in chemical engineering." He is interested in a job in the auto industry developing paints for cars. "In sixth grade I did a big report on chemistry. I was interested in that."

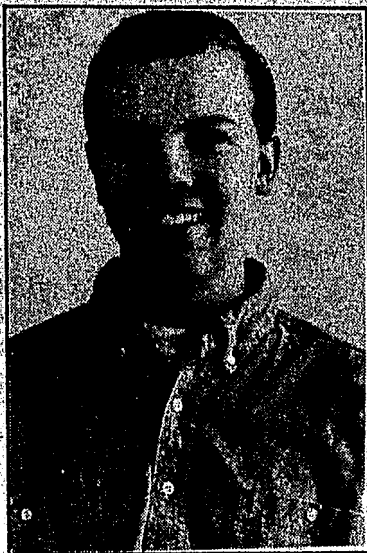

FAVORITE EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITY: "Writing junior varsity and freshman sports for The Clarkston News. I love sports and it is fun to interview the coaches and attend the games." However, it is work. "I can call coaches 30 times in a weekend... it's helped my typing skills a lot too."

HONORS, AWARDS: Chenille letter and pins, National Honor Society, Top Ten of Class of 1996.

FAVORITE TEACHERS: Ed York and Debbie Luczyn. "Mr. York was my chemistry teacher and he made it interesting and fun. Mrs. Luczyn was my second- and third-grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary. She always had new activities for us to do, and made learning enjoyable." She still teaches there today. "She was really nice."

HEROES: "My mother and father. They have overcome many adversities and have always been there for me when I needed them."

FAVORITE MUSICAL ACT: "None in particular. I usually listen to alternative and country."

A GOOD BOOK HE'S READ: "Shock Wave" by Clive Cussler. "All of his books are very good."

MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT: "In third grade (in Mrs. Luczyn's class) I was leaning back on my desk, and I fell, hitting my head on a water fountain." He wasn't hurt but "everybody laughed. I did that in junior high too. I had a thing for leaning on chairs." He said he's since quit.

LIFE ACCOMPLISHMENT HE'S PROUDEST OF: "Taking four years of high school French as a fifth- through eighth-grader. When I was in fifth grade, I took first year French at Sashabaw Junior High with Mr. Tyrell. Then as a sixth- seventh- and eighth-grade student, I took the next three years of French with Mrs. Meyland and Mrs. Arend at Clarkston High School." His mother had to drive him to the first-hour classes every day, and since then he's gone on to take four years of Spanish as well.

FAVORITE SCHOOL MEMORY: "Being inducted into National Honor Society is one. It was the last time that my grandmother came to visit us before she passed away two months later. Also attending Clarkston basketball games with my friends."

SOMETHING MOST PEOPLE DON'T KNOW ABOUT HIM: "I have travelled many different places. Every summer, my family goes camping, and I have been in 43 states" (all except Alaska, Hawaii, California, Oregon, Colorado, Kansas and Washington).

Travel is how he got interested in studying foreign languages. He went to Europe, where he has relatives (his father was born in the Netherlands) before starting fifth grade. He began learning French and when he returned he wanted to continue. As a sixth-grader studying French he was allowed to go on a trip to Quebec with a Clarkston High School group.

IN A SENTENCE, MR. COOLEY IS: "genuinely dedicated to making CHS a community where everyone can achieve success."

Brainstorming the art of writing

Could you ever imagine a unicorn, a Supercop and a rabbit playing basketball?

Pine Knob Elementary students did — during a "Brainstormers" assembly last week to kick off the school's writing contest.

The assembly featured a group of actors from Brainstormers, a Ferndale-based performing arts group that promotes creative education. Their story writing program seeks to motivate young student writers through two assemblies featuring clever, often hilarious, members of the troupe.

At the first assembly held March 19, Pine Knob El. students were introduced to story-writing elements like activity, characters, setting, problem, solution and title, tossing their ideas to the actors on the school's gym stage.

This gives students a good idea of what the perfect story should include, said Michele Shaltz, a fourth-grade teacher who heads the school writing committee.

Next, children will write their own stories and turn them in to their teachers, who will select several from each grade. The writing committee will pick a few to send on to Brainstormers.

Finally, the stories will be performed by the acting troupe June 14, with each young author sitting on stage to direct.

"Brainstormers will come back and dress up as the child's characters, use the child's words and turn (the story) into a performance," Shaltz said. Every student who participates will receive a certificate and "a designer pencil" and winners will be awarded with Media Play gift certificates.

The school's writing committee received funds from two sources, including a grant from Touring Arts Agency in Midland.

From the looks of things last Tuesday, Pine Knob kids were turned on by the Brainstormers.

The main character, "Page Turner," was a simple but talented subject from medieval times who was applying for a Royal Scribe opening in "Queen Vowella's" court. He was hindered by nasty Baron Boldface, who was also vying for the position, and helped by a lovable dragon called "Roget the Saurus."

But he also needed assistance from his young audience to land the job.

The children were enthusiastic in their suggestions for characters, offering everyone from Arnold Schwarzenegger to unicorns.

Finally, the unicorn, Supercop and rabbit were selected, as was the activity — basketball. Students came up on stage, were whisked to the back and reappeared as fully costumed characters.

The kids were delighted by both the Brainstormers and their classmates. They giggled when Her Royal Highness did the Queen Elizabeth wave and boasted she had performed in many a play "with Bill Shakespeare ... Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo?" she expounded in a haughty, high-pitched voice. They also laughed when one of their own growled from a tiger costume.

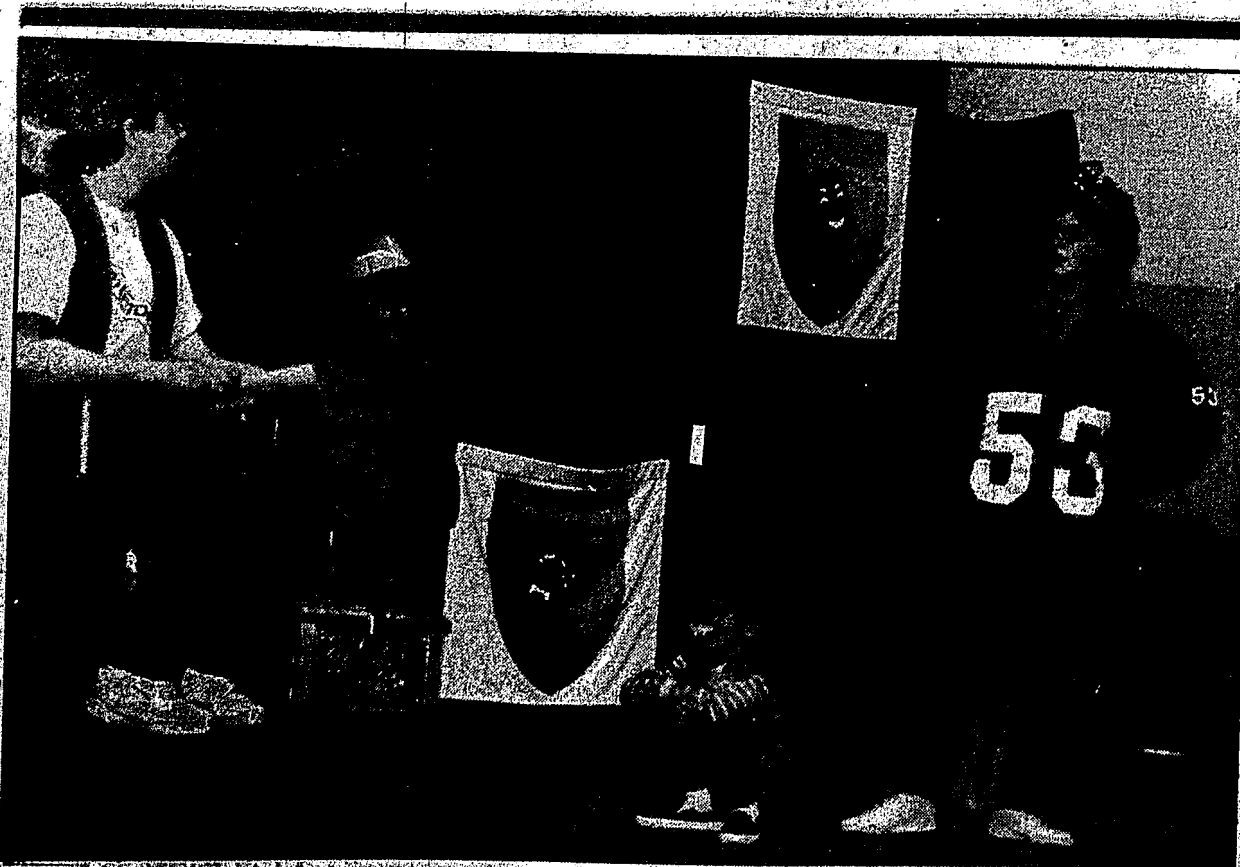

Though the story's setting was a few centuries ago, modern elements were woven in that definitely scored a hit.

After the dastardly baron locked the poor dragon behind bars, he smacked his lips and smirked, "Perhaps tonight I'll dine on dragon casserole — with French-fried potatoes!"

A rewarding season ends in a shocker

Defense great, but can't carry team to win

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"Go home, Clarkston, go home!"

The young fan was within 10 feet of Clarkston's bench — just seconds after his Southfield-Lathrup team beat the Wolves on a last-second shot — when he tauntingly relayed his message over and over. But his cowardly words weren't heard by Clarkston's players.

They knew it was time to go home. With heads hanging low and spirits crushed, the Wolves' comeback fell just short. And coach Dan Fife's team lost a second-straight quarterfinal game, March 19 hosted by Ferndale High School.

Last year it was to Detroit Pershing, this season to Lathrup, 50-47. Last year the Wolves lost by nine points. This season the loss was much harder to take.

It ended so quickly ... There was not much you could say to them!

Coach Dan Fife

as Duke-bound forward Mike Chappell nailed a three-pointer with two seconds left to give his team the victory.

"It ended so quickly ... There was not much you could say to them," said coach Dan Fife. "They all gave so much. Last year it was a closer game than nine points but this time everyone was just in shock."

"It was a great season for us and these kids sure did take me for a long ride; a lot farther than I thought we'd go at Christmas time."

But leading up to that last-second moment and in every game this season, this team showed they belong, especially in coach Fife's eyes.

The Wolves were solid again on defense against Lathrup but it was on offense where they struggled much of the night. With no inside scorers the Wolves have relied all season on jump shooters Ryan Schapman, Tim Wasilk and Dane Fife to carry the load.

Against Lathrup, the shots weren't falling.

"I've seen our kids hit shot after shot so many times in practice," said the coach. "We didn't shoot as well as we have in the past, but I think in this game we played so hard on the defensive end against a much bigger team that we were worn. But at the end it looked to me like we wore them down because we got every rebound and loose ball."

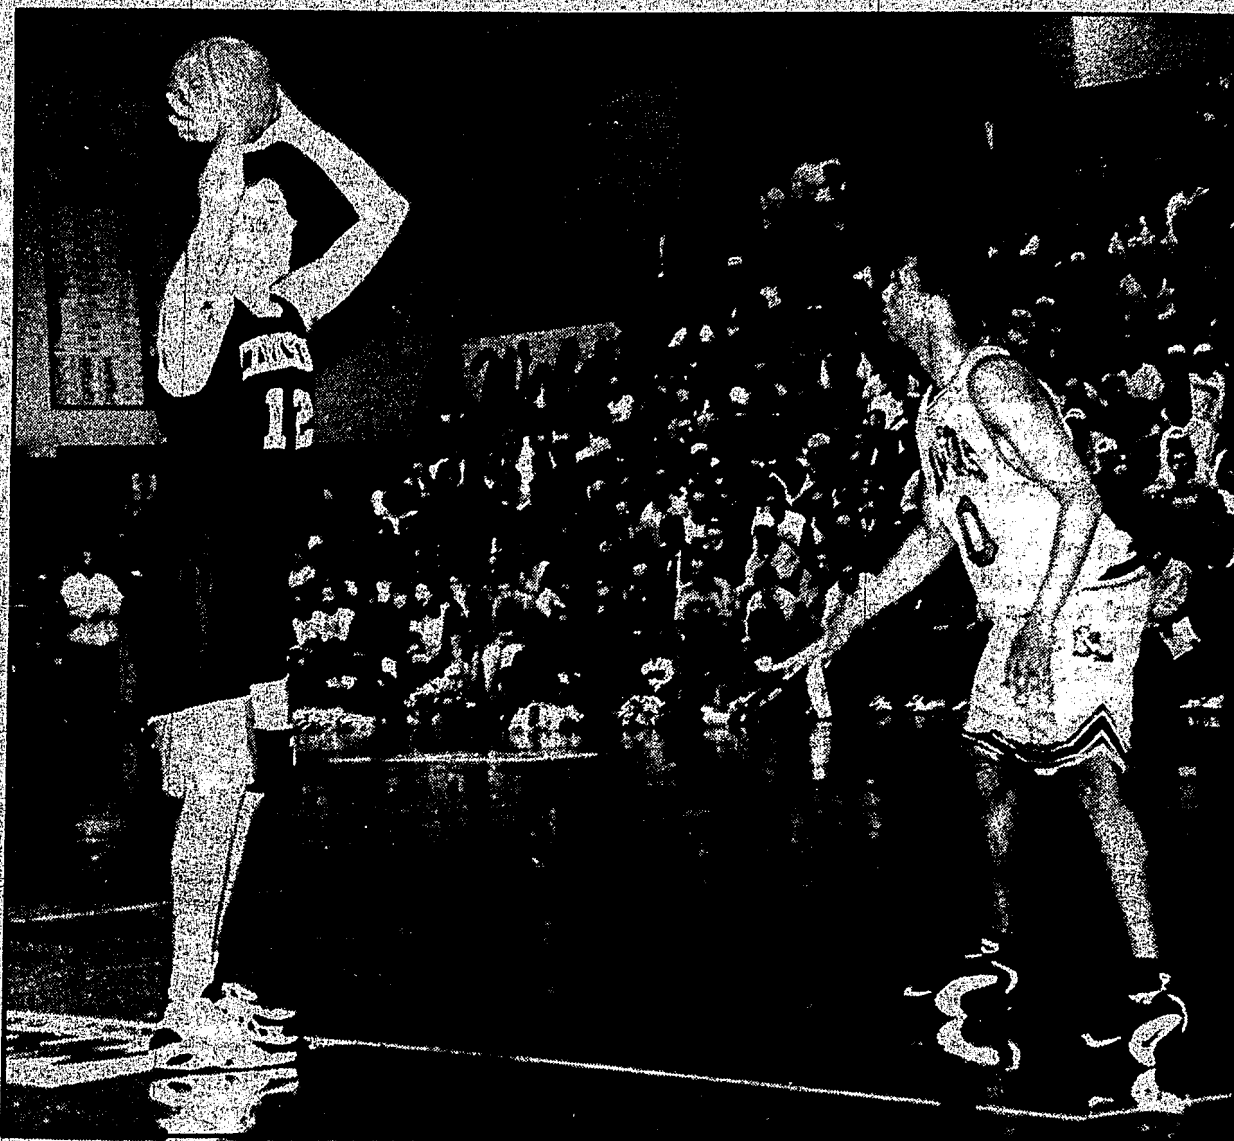

But turnovers also played a part in the game, when Lathrup went into a half court zone trap.

The Wolves began the game with a hot-shooting first quarter, taking a 14-11 lead led by senior Schapman's eight points.

In the second quarter, the Wolves kept the pressure on with two three-pointers from Schapman, a pull-up jumper from Wasilk and stingy defense. With about 4:40 to go, Clarkston took a 22-13 lead. Lathrup then mounted its own comeback by extending its half-court trap and outscoring the Wolves 9-2 in the last four minutes of the half. Lathrup earned most of its points from four Clarkston turnovers (directly resulting in five Lathrup points), and converting an offensive rebound.

The halftime score was 24-24.

Hoops season wrapup Believing kept CHS on top

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The lineup went like this: 6-foot-1 Ryan Schapman guarded 6-foot-9 Reggie Butler, 6-foot-3 Dane Fife guarded 6-foot-8 Mike Chappell and 6-foot-4 Scott Hill guarded high-flying 6-foot-5 Harold Allison.

The matchups against Southfield-Lathrup March 19 were nothing the Wolves basketball team hadn't faced before. And before a game everyone wonders how these players, coming from a small, suburban school can compete against the pure athleticism of "big city" kids. Despite Lathrup's last-second game-winning shot, skeptics should never again doubt that the Wolves have the talent and determination to compete against the best.

"Our kids are so used to being mismatched on paper we're used to it now," said coach Dan Fife, who helped put Wolves basketball on the map back in the late 1960s, when he averaged over 30 points in his last two seasons before receiving a full ride to the University of Michigan. "But we are never mismatched with our hearts or our determination. That's what is special about coaching Clarkston kids now and even before I played."

"These kids just go out and believe in the system."

Coming into this season, coach Fife had his doubts about how far this team could go. They started out 1-2 and the team lacked leadership and chemistry early on.

But, ironically, a two-point win over state-ranked Lathrup put them back on track in the first week of January. From there CHS got better and better on defense and picked up the intensity. The only slow-down on the way to another undefeated OAA Division I title and a 12-game winning streak were two straight losses (to Flint Northern and Oak Park) in mid-February.

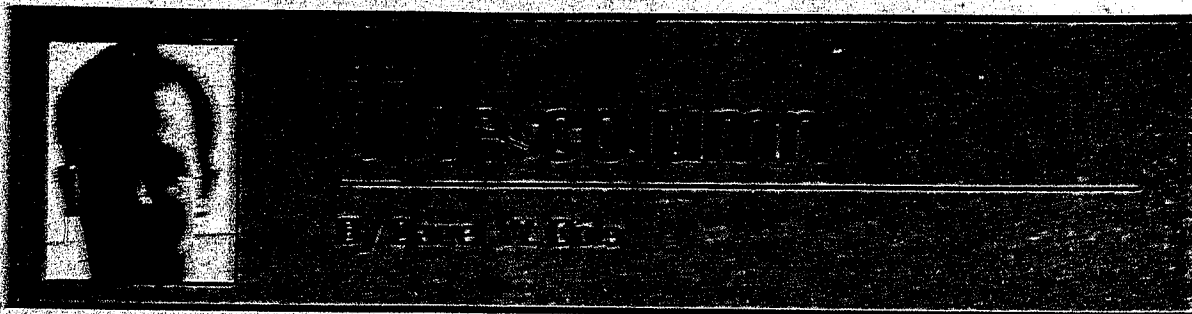

As usual, however, the Wolves bounced back, winning three straight to end the regular season. They won a third-straight district title, then went on to regionals where they defeated Pontiac Northern and Chippewa Valley for the title.

Coach Fife said he was proud of how his team came together this season, especially on defense.

"They were not afraid to work hard and improve on their weaknesses early on," he said. "They really had confidence in the system and believed they were going to win every time they stepped on the court."

While Fife knew seniors Ryan Schapman and Tim Wasilk and sophomore Dane Fife were going to excel this season, some other players also stepped up

Some things to think about

- Finally, the winter sports season is over.
- But what a season it was. The basketball, volleyball and wrestling teams all won their Oakland Activities Association Division I titles with a combined record of 24-1 (the ski team also won their OAA tournament).
- Record-wise it's not the best season in Wolves history, however. In 1991, the hoops, volleyball and wrestling teams went UNDEFEATED in the weaker Great Oakland Activities League.
- It would be hard to find a coach who has ever had a more fun, enjoyable season than volleyball coach Garrie Richardson.
- In sports, complimentary comments are often tossed around to lightly. But this is not. Wrestling coach Mike DeGala has more integrity than people will ever know, unless they actually take the time to see it.
- Integrity means "a firm adherence to a code of moral values, acceptability."
- Several coaches have told me that it is no surprise wrestler Joe DeGala dominated this season and became a state champ. Joe's football coaches all say he works harder and stays longer than any athlete in the school, whether it's jogging, riding a stationary bike or lifting weights.

You can't dominate in wrestling on talent alone. But best of all, he's just a nice, humble and respectful kid.

● It was nice to see senior Jeremy Lafferty, who always provided some interesting commentary at meets, take his turn in the spotlight as a state runner-up at 160 pounds.

● Please don't take the basketball team's success for granted. Enjoy it, because you don't see the game played quite like that in many high school arenas.

● Scott Hill and Bill Goforth were great players for coach Dan Fife because of the little things they do, like not turning the ball over.

For the season Hill averaged only one-half a turnover per game, while Goforth was at .3 per game.

That means Hill had only about 13 turnovers the entire season. Goforth about 20.

You can bet any coach would love to have a combination of any two players who play 90 percent of the time and combine for only 33 turnovers in a season.

● Clarkston skiers may get the award for "almost driving the coach insane" during their successful run to the state finals.

While not a bad group of kids, they sure were excitable — maybe even a little supercrazy. Either way, it was an interesting ski season with more expected in the years to come.

● An open message to a college or university regarding basketball player Tim Wasilk and volleyball player Lisa Herron:

Get with the program and scratch up either of these kids for your sport. They may never be All-Americans, but are the kind of kids you can build programs around. In addition they are academic stars.

In regards to both, I have to admit I'm disappointed my own alma mater, Oakland University (where I played hoops, not volleyball of course) didn't step up to the plate.

I'll also say Ryan Schapman is another example of a prime-time student-athlete who will fit in anywhere.

● Some people have been asking me where the gifts are that Santa Cole promised in this column back in December. I'm only the messenger, but maybe you didn't leave enough of Santa Cole's favorite Nutter Butter Peanut Butter Sandwich Cookies out Christmas Eve.

You know, even Santa Cole likes gifts to know that he's appreciated.

● Now spring is here and another sports season. So to tennis player Mike Anlgar, the entire girls track team, hurdler Chris Evans (will you please beat your dad's ancient record), baseball pitchers Scott Hill and Jeff Mull, and the stellar softball lineup of Crystal Lemke, Amanda Jenkinson and Stephanie Giroux, let's make another CHS season to remember.

Despite early struggles, Wolves finish strong up their games, providing the key ingredients to success.

When senior Bill Goforth became a regular starter and senior Scott Hill came into his own, the Wolves became a force because both played great defense, understood their roles and didn't turn the ball over.

Later in the season, the improved play of junior Brad Conley and sophomore Justin Dionne provided some much-needed depth for the team's starters.

The team relied almost solely on the scoring of Schapman (14.4 pts per game), Dane Fife (24.1) and Wasilk (13.9), as they accounted for 1,048 (87 percent) of the team's 1,200 regular season points.

"These kids had a genuine respect for one another and there was never any jealousy about who was going to score or do other things," said coach Fife. The importance of Bill and Scott is just as important as the scoring roles of Tim, Dane and Schappy. If everyone thought they could go out and score, we wouldn't have been as successful."

Fulfilling roles was evident as the Wolves' defense held teams to 50 points-per-game during the regular season. But in the playoffs that defense was even tougher, yielding an average of only 39 points in six games.

The highest total CHS gave up was 50 points to Lathrup in the quarterfinal game. In district play no team scored more than 35 against the Wolves and, in regionals, the defense yielded only 42 and 46 points.

"When you can hold teams to around 40 points in the playoffs, you're playing great defense," said coach Fife. "I think part of that is because our intensity level as a team has become a lot different than what most teams usually play against."

Coach Fife said the success of Clarkston basketball is due to the player's dedication to the sport in the off-season and their willingness to be a team player during the season. He said that attitude was around in the 1950s, 1960s (when he played) and all the way through to the 1990s.

The coach says he's most proud of how his teams have been good representatives for the school and the community because they handle themselves with class.

"These kids have won a lot over the years, but they know how to lose the right way too," he said. "We're going to win with class and lose with the same class."

"You know, you would like to go farther (past quarterfinals) some time, but I'm real proud that I know these kids are leaving here and growing up to be successful. I feel basketball is a part of that because of the lessons they've learned along the way."

Teamates pass by a dejected Bill Goforth after a buzzer-beating shot by Lathrup.

Game a fight to the end

In the second half, Lathrup's 22-point-per-game scorer Greg Grays, who was held in check by senior Tim Wasilk, gave his team a lead they would never relinquish when he hit a three-pointer.

With Lathrup leading 32-26, Dane Fife, the Wolves' leading scorer and rebounder, picked up his third foul with six minutes to go in the third quarter, continuing a frustrating game for the All-State honorable mention selection.

Although Clarkston's defense remained tough, Lathrup hit a few shots here and there, while the Wolves managed only two layups in the first six minutes of the third, allowing Lathrup a 37-28 lead.

Schapman finally ended the drought for his team, hitting a pull-up jumper with 1:30 left. Lathrup came back to score again, but then Hill, who was spectacular defensively and rebounding inside for CHS, drew a charge on Lathrup. The next time down Hill scored on an offensive rebound, keeping his team close, 39-32.

On defense, a loose ball resulted in a Clarkston fastbreak and a Dane Fife layup with 30 seconds left.

Lathrup, with a 39-34 lead, then held the ball for a last shot but forced one with about 10 seconds left. The Wolves rebounded the miss, but Grays snuck in behind Wasilk and stole the ball, converting the layup with five seconds left.

That sequence of events was big for the Wolves, who had the momentum in the quarter's final minutes.

Lathrup's extended half-court trap continued to be effective early in the fourth quarter. Right off the start, Lathrup converted a CHS turnover into a layup, extending the lead to 43-34.

After both teams exchanged possessions a few times, the Wolves slowly got back in the game on Dane Fife's three-pointer and a quick-handed steal by Wasilk, who was then fouled on a sweet spin move to the basket. Wasilk hit both free throws to put his team within five points, 44-39 with 4:30 left.

But Fife, Wasilk and the Wolves defense weren't done yet. After another Lathrup miss, Wasilk came down and missed a three-pointer, but Fife was there for the long rebound in the paint. Instead of going back up with the shot, he kicked the ball right back out to Wasilk, who nailed the three this time.

With the score 44-42, Lathrup committed two turnovers and the Wolves finally capitalized when Wasilk put a move on his defender and pulled up for a two-pointer, tying the score 44-44 with 3:00 left.

After a Lathrup timeout, Chappell, who was recently selected first team All-State, came down and hit a floating finger roll to give his team a two-point lead.

CHS managed to control the ball for almost two minutes thanks to Hill's offensive rebounding of his teammates' missed shots. But with 45 seconds left Lathrup finally got a defensive rebound off a Wolves missed layup.

With 39 seconds left, Schapman fouled Lathrup on the break, giving them the ball underneath their own basket. Lathrup had trouble getting the ball inbounds because of Clarkston's denial defense. When they finally got it in, Fife was called for a foul on a play that looked like it should have been a jump ball situation.

With about 33 seconds left, Lathrup's 6-foot-9 Reggie Butler hit his first free throw but missed the second, giving his team a 47-44 lead.

After Goforth chased down the missed free throw, CHS called its last timeout with 25 seconds to play.

As Wasilk took the ball upcourt, the Ferndale gym (about three-quarters packed with Clarkston fans) was deafening. Wasilk got past halfcourt and passed to Dane Fife. He dribbled around the top of the key, coming off picks from his teammates looking for the open three-pointer. Finally, after a Schapman pick on the right side of the free throw line, he took two dribbles backward behind the arc, losing his man, and then launched. The shot hit all net.

The game was tied at 47-47 with 13 seconds left.

Lathrup immediately took the ball downcourt as fans roared. Chappell got the ball just past halfcourt, dribbled to his left and pulled up for a long three-pointer with a shorter defender on him the entire way. That shot also hit all net, but this time there were two seconds left.

The Wolves' desperation heave missed and, despite the disbelief from players and fans, it was then they knew it was time to go home.

Hear ye! Hear ye!

Jesus says, "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God!" Jesus went to the synagogue at Nazareth (His home town) on the sabbath day and stood up to read. From the prophet of Isaiah, he found the place where it was written, "The SPIRIT OF THE LORD IS UPON ME, because He hath ANOINTED ME to preach the gospel to the poor! He hath sent me to HEAL the broken-hearted, preach DELIVERANCE TO THE CAPTIVES, and RECOVERING OF SIGHT TO THE BLIND! To set AT LIBERTY them that are BRUISED and preach the acceptable year of the LORD!" He closed the book and sat down. He began to say unto them, "THIS DAY IS THIS SCRIPTURE FULFILLED IN YOUR EARS." He says, "YE will surely say unto me this proverb-physician heal thyself- for whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country." Jesus says, "Verily I say unto you NO PROPHET is accepted in his own country. But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, WHEN GREAT FAMINE WAS THROUGHOUT ALL THE LAND; BUT UNTO NONE OF THEM WAS ELLIAH SENT, save unto SAREPTA, A CITY OF SIDON, unto a woman that was a widow. And MANY LEPROUS WERE IN ISRAEL IN THE TIME OF Elisha the PROPHET AND NONE--(NONE)--OF THEM WAS CLEANSSED, saving Na-a-man THE SYRIAN. You are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knows your hearts. For that which is highly esteemed of men is an abomination in the sight of God. Notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God has come nigh unto you. But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for tyre and sikon at the judgement, than for you! For if the mighty works had been done in them which have been done in you, they had a great while ago repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. Thou, Ca-per-na-tum, which are exalted to heaven, shalt be thrust down to hell. He that heareth my disciple hears Me, He that despiseth My disciple despiseth Me and he that despiseth Me despiseth HIM THAT SENT ME, "SAYS Jesus Christ the Lord and King. LX14-1c
