Board ices hockey plan

Parents group wants to keep proposal alive

> BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

The administration of Clarkston schools recommended unanimously Monday night that the board of education reject a proposal to create a varsity hockey team that would be funded by parents.

With a large number of hockey supporters in the audience at the board's regular meeting, superintendent Gary Haner explained that the administration has several major problems with the proposal, which was brought forward a month ago by parents who said they would pay for it out of their own pockets.

The objections include the guarantee of future funding, as well as gender equity laws that would require the district to add another girls sport at the same time. Currently the district is considering adding girls golf, and contemplates swimming becoming a varsity sport with the opening of the new high school.

In addition, Haner explained that the district has a process for adding new items to its program. Currently there is a list of proposed additions totalling $1 million, he said, and it's unlikely hockey would supersede those items, which include adding counselors at the middle schools, among other things. Coincidentally, a parent requested Monday night that an additional counselor be added at Sashabaw Middle School, where caseloads are over 450 students per counselor.

Haner said the recommendation to deny hockey was not a move against hockey, but against adding another sport. The hockey parents were vocal in their unhappiness.

Board prepares

for fall election

Though the exact wording of a ballot proposal has not yet been decided, the Clarkston board of education reviewed a timetable Monday night that is based on a September bond election.

The timing is critical because of the August primary and November general election and the sharing of voting machines. In order to meet the September date, the board will have to adopt ballot language by June 10.

"We have to do this or we'll miss another year of facility," said trustee Kurt Shanks. "I am comfortable with this timeline; I am very uncomfortable moving beyond it."

According to information provided by Greiner, the elementary schools are short 52 classrooms right now, based on the board's goal of eliminating all portable classrooms.

In a related move, the board scheduled a discussion for May to fine-tune its elementary attendance boundaries. No full-scale redistricting will be planned until after the fall election.

At Monday's meeting, a parent from the Pebble Creek Subdivision asked the board to reconsider last year's decision to send their children to Andersonville Elementary due to overcrowding at nearby Springfield Plains. It's that kind of out-of-boundary problem the board plans to address next month

"We know we have some pockets," board president Bill Craig said. "We said we were going to try to minimize the effects on kids."

Middleton says he'll run again

State Representative Tom Middleton (R., Ortonville) has made it official: He will run for a fourth term in his 46th District seat.

"I have a strong desire to continue representing the people of the 46th District and moving forward on issues that matter most to them," he said in a press delivered Friday. "I will continue to support legislation aimed at improving the future for Michigan families."

A former trustee on the Oxford Board of Education, Middleton is a farmer and serves on the Clarkston Drug Free Schools Advisory Panel. He is a member of the Appropriations Committee, which approves all state government expenditures, and chairs the Agriculture Subcommittee and vice-chairs the DNR/DEQ Subcommittee.

A lifelong resident of northern Oakland County, Middleton was first elected to the House in 1990. As of presstime, no one else had filed a petition for the seat, according to the Oakland County elections office.

Making progress

While there have been some detours along the way, critics and supporters say supervisor Dale Stuart has moved Independence Township in the right direction

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Ask Independence Township employees or board members and they will agree supervisor Dale Stuart is demanding, tough and difficult to communicate with.

But they will also agree he is fair, honest and moving the township in the right direction, whether they like him on a personal level or not.

It is a combination of those characteristics that has allowed Stuart to continue with "future planning" in the township, with projects such as the Sashabaw Corridor, Independence Vision 2020 and others that will help the area deal with growth on a proactive rather than reactive basis.

But pushing forward hasn't always been as swift as in the last six or seven months. From early 1994 to the end of 1995, the township—with Stuart acting as the lead representative—had to deal with a major investment debacle. That struggle caused stress for everyone. Tensions built up within township offices and there was great concern for the township's financial security.

And, for the most part, that fiasco wasn't a politician when I came into office and I'm not one today.'

Dale Stuart

put on hold some of the larger projects Stuart and others wanted to move on, like the ones mentioned above.

"These were issues that I had no control of beforehand because it wasn't my office's responsibility under law to manage," said Stuart. "You can hold me responsible for me only and the way I may have handled things, but I can't control what others did before.

"It was a tremendous strain on everyone working here, but my only concern was how the township would look in the long run."

Stuart said about 10-20 percent of his time was spent on the investment problems, which have since been settled arbitration and a new township investment policy. He said there's no doubt those problems kept some major projects from moving forward, but other township plans did move ahead, like the free township-wide road chloriding project, Bay Court Park and White Lake Road improvements.

Department heads and board members may have other conflicts with Stuart, but all do agree he has helped along "future planning" in this community, using his ideas and others.

Trustee Daniel Travis, who has served on the board and the planning commission for 16 years, has known Stuart, a trustee from 1980-88, just as long. He agrees that Stuart has had to deal with some major conflicts, but says he is to be commended for continuing to focus on important planning issues.

Trustee Jeffrey McGee said Stuart has been able to take ideas he thought of himself or others and push them along.

"I think he's done a phenomenal job," said McGee. "He's attempted to take on a lot. People can always argue a myriad of things like he's trying to railroad the board, whether he's taking the right actions, whether he rubs some the wrong way or whatever. But he knows the issues in front of him and does a thorough, professional job."

Clerk Joan McCrary, who along with treasurer John Lutz has had differences with Stuart on more than one issue, admits the way in which some things get done could be better but likes the direction the township is heading.

"Things are going along fairly smoothly but it's taken until this year to get these things done," said McCrary.

Lutz, treasurer since 1984 and who is running for re-election, said it should be pointed out that the board as a whole makes decisions and he's proud of the direction the township is headed.

"The growth is coming," said Lutz.
"You can't fool anybody. We've had some real good planning when a lot of communities haven't even thought of these things yet, let alone put those ideas in place."

Stuart said, "I will freely admit that I have tried to manage the township. That's the supervisor's job. It's not the clerk's job and it's not the treasurer's job. I don't think I'm the only one with the answers but there has to be someone in charge."

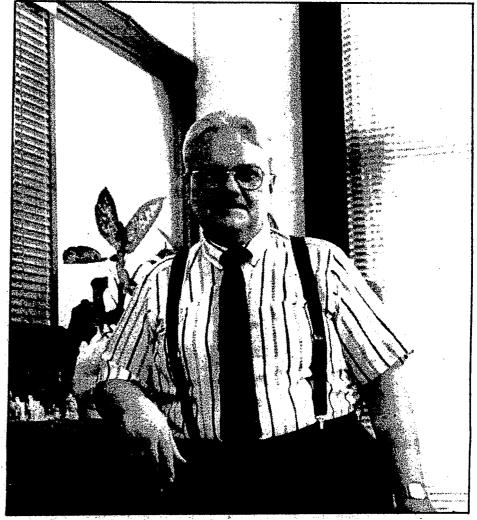

Stuart said last week he will seek another term as supervisor, making the official announcement within the next

His already-announced opponent is current trustee Mel Leroy Vaara.

Some of the major planning projects Stuart said the township should be most proud of include:

Vision 2020. This project began in April 1995 and consists of several committees (almost 100 people participating) that will study and report on various topics of concern for the future of the township.

"This as much as anything epitomizes my idea of what I've wanted to happen, and that is to involve the entire community in planning," said Stuart. "We're going to develop a master planning and zoning of this township that not just seven people on a planning commission will decide but over 100 people are deciding in separate groups."

Sashabaw Corridor, from Maybee to Waldon. What is now a "raw" piece of land will one day be a peak area of new industrial development. Already drainage flow has been determined in the area for the development of a regional drainage system, and the special assessment district process in underway.

In addition, road widening and improvements are in the works, with most funding coming from federal grants and SADs.

"All these things are working together on this and it's why some big name companies are looking to develop here. They know we have plans in the process but they also know we are looking to develop this the right way," said Stuart

White Lake Road improvements.
While part of the Downtown Development Authority's plans, Stuart was determined to not let this project slow down or be stopped by the county or federal governments.

"Everyone can thank the federal government for making that twice as hard and long as it would have taken otherwise," he said. "But we've also got an extension of that project by 3/4 of a mile."

While Stuart says those are areas he can point to specifically, other areas of his job have given him just as much satisfaction.

"I do consider some things that have happened pretty spectacular, but if nothing else would have happened I would have been proud because I've worked hard at managing this township in a professional way," he said.

While the investment problems took up a lot of time and slowed down some projects, Stuart said the role of "politics" also reared its head in some cases.

"I think at the time the news (about the bad investments) came out, I already had an idea of where I was getting support from," said Stuart. "In fact, the strange thing about it is that my perception of some individuals and their abilities was confirmed."

On the other hand, some of Stuart's critics say he is hard to "read" because he's not a "PR" kind of supervisor and doesn't communicate well to everyone. But even those critics agree that Stuart has guided the township in the right direction.

Stuart freely admits that he's not a "slap on the back, bright smile" kind of guy and that may turn off some people.

"I wasn't a 'politician' when I came into office and I'm not one to-day," he said. "I'm trying to do the best Continued on page 8A

Train ignites dry fields

Last week's fire along the Grand Trunk Western Railroad line in southern Independence Township and on into Springfield Township, Holly and Fenton was probably caused by sparks flying from an overheated wheel.

Independence fire chief Gar Wilson said Monday such a problem is not uncommon and has caused fires before along the same stretch of tracks. But this time, conditions were dry enough that fires were set by the sparks along a 10-mile stretch.

The Independence fire department was dispatched to the fire, north of White Lake Rd., at 8:36 p.m. April 11 and stayed at it until around 1 a.m.

"We worked a line of fire all the way from Andersonville and Clement to Big Lake Rd. in Davisburg," said engineer Keith Bailey. "We put the truck on the track and worked our way back.'

Both Bailey and Wilson suggested that since the railroad no longer uses a caboose at the end of the train, the crew doesn't have as good of a chance of noticing

"That used to be one thing the caboose guy would do," Wilson said. "Since then they've done away with the caboose."

Gloria Combe, a spokesperson for Grand Trunk, said Monday she didn't believe the cause of the fire had officially been determined and that the railroad would leave the investigating up to local fire officials.

"These people are the experts," she said. "We will work with fire officials in the area."

Wilson said he generally bills the railroad for his department's expenses in fighting such fires.

School weapons policy to get tougher

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY

Clarkston News Editor

Acting on an earlier promise, the Clarkston board of education heard the first reading of a proposed revamped weapons policy it hopes will make the schools a "weapons free" zone.

The revisions were initiated after concerns were raised in several expulsion hearings last year. A recent state law requires expulsion for certain weapons offenses, but the board was uncomfortable with the idea it had to determine a student's intent in bringing the weapon to school.

The new policy strives to make that clearer while going beyond the minimum requirements of the state law. Under state law, possession of a knife with less than a three-inch blade requires the board to assess intent. The new policy will only give discretion as to whether such a knife is used in a threatening manner. If it is, the student will be expelled. If it isn't, there is leeway for a suspension up to 10 days.

New language has also been added that will mandate expulsion for possession, use or threatening use of explosive devices, including stink bombs and smoke bombs. Such devices are not uncommon at the high school. A firearm or weapon is now defined as "Any device or instrument capable of inflicting bodily injury."

The new policy states that parents are to be notified if their child is found to be in possession of any object school personnel interpret as a weapon.

Separate policy items have been included that apply to staff and visitors while on school grounds. However some parts of the policy, such as that covering pocket knives, apply to students only, superintendent Gary Haner said.

Staff will be notified of the changes once they become effective and will be required to sign a statement that they have read the policy. The policy will become effective after a second reading, which will be held at an upcoming meeting.

"What we're trying to do is establish zero tolerance, not just for students but for anybody that walks on school property," said trustee Barry Bomier. "I think these are extremely powerful policies."

SMS student expelled; drugs, gang activity cited

A Sashabaw Middle School student was expelled permanently from school by the board of education Monday night.

The student, whose age and grade were not released and whose name is being withheld because he is a minor and has not been charged with any crime, was expelled for violating two sections of the district's code of conduct. Those sections have to do with gang insignia or activity and drugs.

According to records on file with the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation, the department first had contact with the student last October, when he was found to be in possession of marijuana at school. Then in March, school administrators learned he had been drawing gang insignia. A further search of his locker turned up more marijuana.

Charges are pending against the boy in probate court, according to Lt. Doug Hummel.

The vote to expel the student was unanimous. He can reapply for admission in one year, but deputy superintendent Mike LaBay said, "He won't be back." He added that the boy is currently in rehab.

No mention was made of what other educational alternatives will be available for the boy.

Board to tackle issues in $41 million budget

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

The board of education received a 91-page budget document Monday night, then asked for more.

While praising new Director of Business Craig Kahler's work, which includes five-year budget forecasting, the board said it would like more in-depth discussion on a number of philosophical issues as it decides how next year's money will be spent. They

● How to address the gap in facilities that will continue to grow until the new high school opens.

 What program improvements have been requested by the staff.

In making his presentation, Kahler acknowledged that though the budget is detailed, it is by no means a final document.

"I want to use this as a springboard so between now and the end of the year when we present this to you for final approval the board will have some opportunity for discussion," he said.

Basically, his report contained good news, with a few caveats regarding the uncertainty of funding, which is now dependent on the state's economy rather than local property values.

"I'm not into painting gloomy pictures but I want to paint a realistic picture," he said.

Any change in the state's per pupil grant throws off all the projections. "A $20 raise in there somewhere and you solve a lot of problems," he said.

The specific concerns raised by board members will begin to be tackled as soon as next Monday night. The board already had a meeting scheduled on the superintendent search process, so the starting time has been moved up to 5 p.m. to address the issues related to curriculum. After that the board will likely address one issue on the list at each meeting with the hopes of adopting a final budget at its regular June meeting.

"This is a great start," trustee Barry Bomier said. Treasurer Bill McGregor agreed.

"I think it's because of this (budget) package that created this environment to let us get to specifics,"

"This is the type of information we've been asking for the last few years," said president Bill

oloson enters treasurer's race

With vast experience in investments and banking. Henry Woloson, 44, has entered the race to unseat incumbent Independence Township Treasurer John Woloson is an attorney and president of Security Financial Management, Inc. in Sterling Heights. He joins a field with two other challengers including former school board member Kurt Karlstrom and current Clarkston High School social studies teacher Jim Wenger.

Woloson, a Republican, said he is running for treasurer because his financial background qualifies him for the job.

"In over 10 years as an investment advisor I have never been involved with the sale of the type of speculative investments which resulted in the portfolio losses the township has incurred in recent years," said Woloson, a member of the township's parks and recreation advisory board. "I would also stress investing, whenever possible, with banks and investment firms which are located within Independence Township."

Woloson, who has a wife and two children, has also led the effort to create the much-publicized Greater Oakland Community Foundation, whichplans to operate endowment programs to support various local groups and organizations.

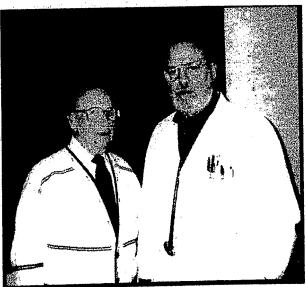

"This is an example of the type of program I woull like to initiate as treasurer" he said.

He said such foundations can benefit the entire community, including local parks, youth activities and charitable groups.

Karlstrom, Wenger and Woloson will challenge Lutz in the August 6 primary because all have filed as Republicans. No Democratic candidates have announced.

Whose habitat: is it anyway?

The first sure sign of spring around my house is when my cat, Boo, resumes hunting big time. When I'm afraid to open the front door when I get home at night for fear of the carnage that may await, I know spring has finally returned, no matter what the weath-

I live in an area where close encounters with nature are the rule, not the exception. Each spring we are greeted by a pair of ducks who come waddling up the driveway on their way back to the creek. Presumably they nest back there and go for daily walks.

But the return of spring's animal activity is not greeted with resounding huzzahs by everyone. Those who live on lakes where Canada geese are a nuisance would prefer goose-free solitude. And those who've done battle with gypsy moths surely dread the return of that pest.

But sometimes I wonder how much we—the supposedly superior species when it comes to brainpower-use the little grey cells, as Hercule Poirot would say. Does it ever occur to us that we weren't here first? That when we encroach upon the natural habitat of wildlife, or (worse) make that habitat even more inviting, that a conflict is bound to arise?

I remember a couple of years ago driving down a road where development was just beginning. Trees were being cut down on both sides of the road, and the pavement wore the consequences—road kill, lots of it.

And take the gypsy moth (please). How many people realize, as we reported last year, that the common bacterial control also controls all butterflies? You want to kill one lepidoptera, you've got to kill them all.

Last week I spoke to a Waterford Township man (who shares residence on Lake Oakland with some Independence Township folks) who got really ornery (his word) with me when I called to question the Canada goose round-up he has requested from the

"Now if we could just do something about the seagulls," he mused at one point.

Excuse me? What has a seagu you? So they like the lakeshore, just as humans do. So occasionally bathers get an unwanted gift from a flyby. Did anyone ever hear of peaceful co-existence?

How long will it be before our displeasure turns to songbirds? If you've ever kept a birdfeeder near your house, you know birds are not neat in their habits. They make a mess. But we enjoy watching them, so we tolerate it.

The irony is that Canada geese are protected by a migratory bird treaty between the US and Canada, yet we are allowed to hunt them. No one has been able to explain that contradiction.

For me, a better alternative to goose overpopulation would be egg shaking, which I understand is currently illegal. Where's the logic? We can't abort them before they're born, but we can round them up when they're infants and kill them.

Government logic at work, I guess.

Program keeps getting better

Letter to the Editor:

I want to reaffirm the letter I wrote last year with an important continuation.

Last week, my family and I had the privilege of attending the Easter program of the Clarkston Free Methodist Church on Maybee Road.

We wish to thank the musical, drama and technical staff, along with director Mark Thompson, for their combined hard efforts. The result was an awesome, exciting and jubilant presentation.

This very special program is a wonderful contribution to the community. I urge everyone to take advantage of what has become The Annual Event of the Easter season.

This year's program had even greater significance because my husband, Steve, and I were privileged to play a small part in the performance. Working with these spiritually sincere and loving people and hearing the gospel message over and over again during rehearsals and the six presentations had a profound impact on us.

The words of one of the songs the choir sang, "I have seen Jesus and Y'll never be the same again," express our feelings. We saw Jesus not only in the message, but in the dedication of the participants who worked diligently despite obstacles of illness, death, personal problems and disappointment. Yet they maintained their focus with a smile and a loving attitude of service and concern for one another.

Our hearts are full of joy and praise as we realize in a new and special way how good our God is.

> Some also say that most Americans don't even sing it anymore ... seems to me that is an incorrect statement. Earlier this year at Joe Louis Arena, when the microphone fritzed before a Red Wings game, the crowd sang the Star Spangled Banner, without a lead voice. I hear it was a beautiful moment.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1981)

Michigan's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) continues to review the Edward C. Levy Co.'s application for an Inland Lakes and Streams permit needed to mine 400 acres in Independence Township near the headwaters of the Clinton River. The department has scheduled a site inspection for April 24 and could reach a decision on the permit within the next three or four weeks, says Brad Williams, DNR water quality specialist.

One thousand marchers, including bands, clowns, color guards, precision drill teams and more, are expected to march down Main St. May 2. The occasion is Loyalty Day, a day set aside by President Dwight Eisenhower and the U.S. Congress in 1958 as a special time for the reaffirmation of loyalty to our country.

Coach Jim Chamberlain says the 1981 Clarkston High School girls' golf team has improved from last year. The team finished with a disappointing 2-8 record last season. "The enthusiasm of the girls is making this a very enjoyable season to coach," he says.

Eight million dollars in damage is being asked by Sandra Lou Southerland in a suit she has filed against Oakland County. Southerland is the wife of Roger Southerland, 25, who was accidentally shot and wounded in the head by Deputy William Elliot last January 2. Roger Southerland had reportedly attempted to stop a fight between two men by firing a shotgun into the air. Elliot told Southerland to drop his weapon and a struggle ensued where Elliot's service revolver fired, striking Southerland in the head. The damage suit names Sheriff Frank Irons and Elliot as co-defendants. Southerland is bedridden as a result of permanent brain damage which prevents him from speaking or moving any part of his body.

Clarkston students in grades six, nine, 10 and 12 fill out questionnaires this week designed to determine drug use and abuse among junior and senior high school students. Tobacco and alcohol are dealt with also. In charge of the questioning is Bill Potvin, assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School and chairman of the Clarkston Drug Abuse Education committee.

50 YEARS AGO (1946)

The Easter parade in Clarkston this year led to the churches. Both churches were crowded. It was a beautiful day and new outfits were very much in evidence ... Real estate in this vicinity keeps on changing hands. The back part of Clarkston Estates No. 2 owned by J. Thompson Miller has been purchased by Eyster Real Estate Agency. The cleaning up job has been started by Gordon Ladd ... A letter from George D. King says that he is sitting up and that he is hoping to be out of the hospital before long. He wishes us to tell the folks here that he and Mrs. King appreciate all of the nice letters and cards they have received during the past six weeks.

Grocery specials at Terry's Market include lard, two pounds for 35 cents; ring bologna, 33 cents a pound; Wheaties, two large packages for 29 cents; kidney beans, two cans for a quarter; Sweetheart Soap, three bars for 20 cents; and tangerine juice, a can for 23 cents.

The temporary appointment of Elizabeth Ronk as postmistress has been made permanent. Margaret Andrews has been appointed assistant by the postmistress

Several changes are made in the Clarkston school faculty. Mrs. William Dunston, who has been a teacher for the past nine years, is retiring and Mrs. William Vliet will have charge of the fifth and sixth grades until the end of this school term. Starting in September Miss Betty J. Elzinga of Ellsworth, Michigan will have charge of the fifth and sixth grades in addition to teaching music. Finally, Miss Ellen Strom of Grand Marais will fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mrs. Charles Hutton who has been a kindergarten teacher for the last six years.

Movies at he Holly Theatre this week include Spencer Tracy and Myrna Loy in "Whipsaw," Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald in "Rose Marie" and Mae West and Victor McLaglen in "Klondike Annie."

CHS Life

By Don Downey

Last year I overheard a teacher say that school is over for seniors after spring break. At the time, I didn't believe her . . . but now I see summer lying before me like a big white sheet that I can fold up and take to the beach.

I'm moving to Florida this summer (I hope). It's nothing permanent. My grandparents live in one of those "right there" spots that make them the extended family's relatives of choice. They have a nice grandparenty house and a grapefruit tree and lots of extra bedspace. And air conditioning. One musn't forget air conditioning on the summer accommodations checklist.

Last year, I had a math test the day before spring break. I remember one senior hadn't studied and simply drew a picture of the cruise ship he was going to go on in the place reserved for "work." I thought that was funny in a "something I would never do" type way. But now as high school shuts down and my own priorities are under the microscope, I can understand that mentality a little better.

I remember a conversation I had with my chemistry partner last year during a worksheet-turn-your-brain-off session. She said she thought all people were either babies or adults and everyone flourishes as one or the other, but usually not both.

I don't know how true that is, but if it is, there would be no better time to notice who is which than right after high school.

For instance ... I always figured my sister was a big slacker, but after she graduated I realized she was a hard worker hidden in a big slacker's body. She goes to college full time and works two jobs and doesn't complain a whole lot about anything. It is my privilege to give her the Linda Denstaedt Maturity Award.

Dresses are being bought and made, caps and gowns are being prepared, and Pine Knob is, once again, asking God for another day of flawless graduation weather. I'm anxious for this summer and college, but not about graduation. I'm not a big fan of sobbing, even for the best of reasons. Two more months (I don't want to know how many days) until I leave Clarkston High (with 400 others at my side) and we find out who's who for real (for better or worse).

Don't take the school checkbook!

Oakland Schools assistant superintendent and chief lobbyist Rick Simonson has a reputation, and well-deserved, as being in the know when it comes to what's going on in Lansing on school issues. He got another "amen" April 15.

Clarkston schools Director of Business Craig Kahler said he relies on Simonson heavily for budget forecasting and is just happy to have him around.

"I go to the horse track with my paycheck after Rick Simonson says something, because the guy is reliable. I really feel fortunate to be able to rely on a guy like him."

Wearing whatever

As a mother, I've gone through the fashion gamut with my kids.

I've endured crimping irons that could bald a daughter, heavy plastic charm bracelets that threatened to make her into a hunchback and jeans so tight I swore I'd never be a grandmother.

She was a fashion plate even before she knew it. As a trendy toddler she not only wore the Oshkosh (Begosh!) overalls. She had fancy little Cookie Monsters and Ernies embroidered on them that took up all those nights I could have spent at the spa.

Now, thank God, she's almost ready to graduate from high school and looks like a normal teenager. I have to be careful when I say that, because—let's face it — what's a normal-looking teenager?

Is it the guys who wear their baseball caps backwards? I always say it knocks off about 25 IQ points when they do.

Maybe it's the baggy pants, shirts, skateboards in hand as they lumber (with backwards baseball caps, of course) down the road. In the movie "Clueless" Alicia Silverstone says something like, "And we girls are supposed to fall all over them?"

As a Palace employee who works a lot of rock concerts I've seen everything from zombies (black hair, black lipstick, black clothes) at Cure concerts to throwbacks from the hippie era — with the unforgettable aroma of b.o. and patchouli oil.

It's kind of hard to keep a straight face when you're looking at tattooed cheeks, a Mohawk and rings in every facial orifice, while saying, "May I see your ticket, please?"

You would rather ask, "Did you mother see you before you left the house?"

I guess my son dresses like a normal teenager. He wants everyone to know he likes The Foo Fighters and Silver Chair, and does not want his reputation tarnished by the "nice, white button-down shirt" his father would like him to wear to school. "They" will call him a geek, he says.

Now he spends more time than his sister in the bathroom every morning. The hair has to be just so, plastered to the head and parted in the middle so it resembles open drapes. It must be checked several times in different mirrors around the house and in the car mirror before arriving at school.

This usually causes a minor skirmish between mother and son that results in the mirror being confiscated and the son slouched down in angst. Buttons are pushed furiously on the car radio until an appropriate Green Day or Pearl Jam song is produced. The volume is upped as son steps out of the car, thereby relaying a double message to both mother and peers that he is hip and life sucks.

Well, who am I to talk. In my day it was lips so pale and eyes so black that I looked like I'd risen from the grave. It was hip-huggers, mini skirts, bangs down to my eyelashes and fringe.

And I, like my kids, had to be cool. You didn't want your parents to interfere with your fashion or your attitude.

Yesterday a teenage driver passed me and sailed into the lane ahead. I noticed a sticker on his back window that read, "Whatever." That's the word that best describes today's Generation X, I've been told. You could interpret that message a lot of different ways: anything goes, I don't care, you do your thing, I'll do mine, etc.

I remembered a chapter in an Erma Bombeck book that dealt with that issue very well. Her daughter retrieved the "raggy underwear" Bombeck had thrown in the trash, saying "everyone" was wearing shredded skimpies to school. It didn't matter that they didn't show, the fact was she felt that her mother was messing with a trend, putting her nurturing nose where it didn't belong.

That's why I have tried to restrain myself from interfering with my children's fashion statements. I guess dressing the way they feel they have to, whether it's to belong or to differ, is a part of growing up.

You just hope they don't go to their first job interview in dredlocks.

job for this township and don't have any interest in political games. I am always astonished at how political local politics can be."

One thing Stuart said the township can't do is rest on the progress that's already been made. He said the community — officials and citizens — needs to continue working towards new goals.

"One of the things we're trying to do with 2020 is to take everything people may take for granted and challenge it," he said. "The question is can you keep a rural feeling in an urbanized area. You can do that by being sensitive to historic items and make sure every piece of history in the township doesn't get thrown down the drain."

financing of the program," said Kelly Kammer. "We have committed to pay for that team through private contributions... We care about our kids. Our kids happen to play hockey."

The hockey team will go forward as a club, with play beginning later this week at Lakeland Ice Arena. Organizers say they have a quality team made up mostly of boys who have played hockey at the club level and don't play other school sports.

"Within the community of Clarkston we have some of the finest hockey players in this state," Kammer said. "We may very well deliver a state champion in the first season."

Though discussion never touched on hockey's reputation as a violent sport, William Dickey, PhD said he felt the administration showed a negative bias toward the sport. Not so, Haner said.

"We have intentionally avoided all references to the sport," he said. "The intent is not to kill anything. The intent is to force anything through a predetermined process. This denial is not to hockey, it's to (adding) another sport."

Trustee Barry Bomier asked the board to consider more discussion with the parents. Several parents said they felt betrayed by the athletic department, which they said had privately supported their proposal.

"I don't feel there's been enough dialogue between the administration and citizens," he said. He suggested the board could approve a program for a set number of years, then re-evaluate it.

The board was not asked to take any formal action Monday. As things stand right now, Haner will act as the district's liaison with the hockey parents with a goal of trying to reach common ground and bringing more information to the board at an upcoming meeting.

New service club seeks members

A service club that has been around since 1911 is looking to expand into Clarkston.

The Michigan District Exchange has selected Clarkston as a location to form a Networking Exchange Club. Exchange is the first service organization to exchange business information while bettering the community.

Formed in Detroit in 1911, the club went non-profit in 1917. Since then hundreds of clubs have been chartered in the US and Puerto Rico. The club is now headquartered in Toledo.

The Exchange Club is looking for businesses or professional people who want to increase their business and at the same time make their community a better place to live. The national organization supports child abuse prevention, and has over 80 prevention centers all over the US.

Franklin Meyers of Clarkston is a longtime member of the organization and currently serves as national president. He and his daughter, Lisa Hendricks, also of Clarkston, are spearheading the effort to start a local club.

"The reason we picked Clarkston is it's such a growing area . . . It's centrally located," Hendricks said. "The club itself, to me, I think is a great potential to business owners."

Hendricks said the club is big on networking. Since all members are business owners or employees, they can exchange services as needed.

A brochure on the organization explains that only one member may represent a particular business or profession. They will meet regularly to exchange business leads and information and expand their contacts, as well as doing community service and socializing.

"It's not just business owners," Hendricks, who works at VIP Realty, said. "What we're looking for is different types of businesses whether you're an owner or a worker in that business...

"Right now we're just trying to get the word out and see who's interested in putting something like this together."

For more information, contact Hendricks at 620-3600 or Meyers, of FD Meyers Associates PC, at 625-6717 or 625-8941.

Grins and grimaces

● A grin to Clarkston schools new Director of Business Craig Kahler for the excellent, easy-to-read budget package he recently prepared for the board of education.

Kahler came into a tough situation last year after the district's two top financial employees were eased out of their jobs during a central office realignment. Starting from scratch he's built an excellent document that will remain a reference document for years to come. And it's in a handy 8 x 11 size. Thanks, Mr. Kahler. Keep up the good work.

Clarkston Police

TUESDAY, APRIL9, a 27-year-old Clarkston man was arrested for drunk driving on N. Main St. A preliminary breath test registered .12 (the legal limit is .10). His arraignment has been set for April 16 at 52-2 District Court.

THURSDAY, APRIL 11, one driver was ticketed in a non-injury accident on Main St.

Two cars were the victim of hit-and-runs in Main St. parking lots. On the same day, a Clarkston man said his car was damaged when he was pulling out of a Main St. lot and hit a pothole which cracked a part on the front end.

FRIDAY, APRIL 12, a Clarkston man was ticketed in a non-injury accident on Main.

Garden club cultivates memories, trees

Ten years ago on a snowy spring day in late April, the members of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club huddled together in a barn packaging over 3,000 white pine seedlings.

"It snowed all day and there was a high of 29 degrees," remembers Gini Schultz, a garden club member. "It was an outdoor project which was completed in spite of the weather."

The trees were destined for Clarkston schoolchildren, given away so that the children would become interested in planting them and add to their community's greening. Grown trees were also donated to each elementary school and club members performed a skit at each school on the importance of the white pine in Michigan history.

Now the club is poised to do it again. On Monday, the club will distribute more seedlings, this time adding blue spruce, sugar maple and tulip trees to the white pines. The seedlings will be given away, first come, first served, at the Independence Township Library and at the NBD Bank on Main St. Hours are 1-6 p.m.

calculates that the children who received those first seedlings are now between the ages of 15 and 27 and may have grown trees now. If so, she'd like to hear about them.

If you are one of those people, and have any memories about the project or a still-growing tree, write Schultz by May 31 at 21 N. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346. Photos are also being sought.

Student wins sewing contest

A 15-year-old Clarkston High School freshman beat out her mom and a bunch of other adults to win a sewing contest at a local fabric store.

Rachel Grain's jacket was judged most creative among 15 other entries in the competition at the Minnesota Fabrics store in Waterford. The store chose a Simplicity pattern, then invited customers to make it come to life.

"They could be as creative as they wished," said a store spokeswoman. And Rachel did just that, adding lots of appliqued pieces in the form of trees, a fence and horses to the basic jacket, as well as covered buttons. Her extra work won her a $50 gift certificate.

Rachel said she learned to sew from her mother, who is an avid seamstress and has taught quilting through Clarkston Community Education. Indeed, her mother's own hand-pieced quilted jacket didn't even place in the competition.

Rachel's winning design is no fluke, however. She's also created an intricately quilted jacket she may enter in the State Fair this year.

Rachel Grain models her prize-winning jacket in her backyard.

How dumb are we?

To the Editor,

It used to be that for years pricing amounts for the odd cents usually was 95 or 98. This was running it close to the dollar amount but then still the first dollar digit was more impressed on the buyer's mind.

But now they have gone on a tangent with the most stupid pricing there is by running it up to 99 cents. This pricing is defeating its purpose because with 99 cents one senses automatically to round it now to the next dollar amount.

As an example, if an item is marked $1.99 now your senses teil you right away you are really spending $2 in effect. Just now an advertiser on TV is quoting a man's suit for $199.99 and then tells of what a bargain it is by just imagining you are purchasing it for under $200, amounting to only a mere penny.

How dumb it is by this 99-cent pricing.

Vern Kath Clarkston

QUESTION: I am about to relocate and want to sell my house fast. Should I underprice it for a quick sale?

ANSWER: Only if you don't mind losing a lot of money. You're not selling a TV set, your talking about your family's major asset. Selling for less than the fair market price can lose you thousands of dollars which could help pay the cost of relocating and the purchase of a new home.

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation were kept busy last week with a rash of reports of broken car windows and accompanying thefts.

While it's not unusual to see this type of report in the township, the sheer volume of them last weekduring spring break-was relatively high.

On Monday, reports came in from Chickadee and Hummingbird (two) where car windows appeared to have been shot out by BB guns. Nothing appeared to be stolen.

On Tuesday, similar calls came in from Dixie Highway, Almond Lane, Tuson (two), Timber Ridge (two), Clintonville, Gullick and Ascension, where a US Postal Service vehicle was hit. A laptop computer was stolen from that vehicle.

On Wednesday, one car received the BB gun treatment on Westview; on Thursday there were similar incidents on Hadley Rd., Whipple Tree Lane (two) and Ennismore; on Friday one on Maybee; and Sunday, one in the high school parking lot. Several other cars, which were unlocked, did not have their windows shot out but had items stolen.

In all, thieves got away with a radar detector, stereo equipment, phones, a VCR, tapes and CDs, a CB radio and a leather briefcase containing checks.

Detective Dirk Feneley of the OCSD wouldn't blame the events on spring break and doesn't believe all the incidents are related.

However, two interesting traffic stops were made during the week which may shed some light.

On April 9, a deputy stopped a car containing three men after seeing it run a stop sign at Maceday Lake near Williams Lake Rd. When he approached the car the deputy saw several car stereos on the floor inside, as well as tools including a bolt cutter, pry tool, flashlight and screwdrivers, and a BB gun.

Waterford Police were called in and were able to locate one victim in their township who could identify some of the property in the car as being stolen. The suspects were then turned over to Waterford

However, later it was determined that some of the property had come from Independence Township, so Feneley interviewed one of the suspects. The man admitted that several cars had been broken into by several people as he acted as the driver of their car. He saw them bring back stereos, phones, and some CDs. He said a BB gun was used to break windows.

Two suspects, from Davisburg and Waterford, were arraigned in Waterford from that traffic stop, and Feneley expects to charge them in Independence Township as well. A third suspect was released.

Then, in an unrelated incident on April 11, a deputy stopped a car on Dixie for an equipment violation. The driver, a 19-year-old Burton man, was ticketed for possessing a stolen radio and removing the serial number. Then he and his three passengers were

A few hours later, the same car was stopped in Burton by police there. This time there were more stereo items in the car, many with their serial numbers removed. There was also a bag of spark plugs in the car, which were allegedly used to break car windows.

There are four suspects implicated in that case, all ages 18 and 19 and coming from Burton, Flint and Holly. No charges have yet been filed in that case.

Feneley said Monday there had been six window-smashing incidents Sunday night alone.

"It's just crazy," he said. "I don't think it's these same people."

OTC students plan home, garden environmental expo

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

Though the weather, for the most part, has not cooperated, dedicated gardeners are chomping at the bit to get out and work a little earth.

And though the ground may be a bit cold yet, you can get a head start on spring by attending a new event at the Oakland Technical Center Northwest on Big

Students in the floral design and landscape programs are organizing the first CARE Expo. CARE (Concern About Residential Environments) is an extra-curricular activity for students who are concerned about the environment, according to Linda Allen, a paraprofessional in the floral program.

"We've always tried to bring the environment into the classroom because these are both horticulture programs," Allen said. "We need to do it in our own backyards; we need to do it in the environment we have control over. So we targeted this to homeowners. They won't change the world but they can control their own environments."

CARE formed in January under the guidance of floral teacher Donna Papatheodoropoulos. Because students at OTCNW come from a number of different high schools and only spend part of their day at the Big Lake Rd. campus, getting a club together wasn't easy. The club meets during school hours, both in the morning and the afternoon to accommodate students in both sessions. About 20 students are involved.

"It's worked very well; it's blended very well even though the kids haven't spent a lot of time together," Allen said.

Perhaps because the club meets during class time, the two women, who have worked together for nine years, felt the club should have a project to commit to, so the expo was born. It will bring together speakers and retailers on the campus, including Greg Patchan, an Extension agent who will talk about healthy lawns; Wayne Neirman, another Extension agent to talk on lakefront turf; master gardener Joyce Janickik, on attracting wildlife to your yard; and Sue Grubba, an advanced master gardener, who will talk about environmental gardening.

Local businesses are also participating, including

Kelly Baize, Emily Pointer, Wrylie VanderKaay; (back) Jenay Coote and Shanna LaBair.

Bordine's Nursery, Lowrie's Landscaping, the Birdfeeder, and even North Oakland Habitat for Humanity. Other students have also participated, designing the expo's logo and printing its flyers.

Allen hopes the expo will become an annual event, but whether it does or not it's not the only environmental activity the students will undertake. They are also participating in water testing of the Clinton River watershed, in conjunction with the Clinton River Watershed Council.

Music express rolls in

If music is the universal language, then Guy Sferlazza is on the right track with his World Renaissance Chautauqua Express show.

Sferlazza, an accomplished musical performer, presented a program to Pine Knob Elementary students April 4 that follows the ideal of the traveling Chautauqua shows that were popular in early 20th century America.

An Oakland University graduate, he began acquiring stringed instruments and developed his idea of performing music for children from "Other Things & Co.," a professional ensemble he performed with at OU. Some of the other shows he presents to Michigan school children focus on self-esteem, drug-free living, the environment and music appreciation.

At Pine Knob, thanks to a grant from Touring Arts Agency, Sferlazza took students 'round the world through music, playing a variety of instruments that included a European Renaissance lute, a Native American drum, African percussive instruments and a sitar and tamboura from India.

While students strummed and drummed, he defined improvisation. "It's part of what makes people happy ... being part of the music."

Last, he showed them an instrument that was invented in their own country — the electric guitar. After fourth-grader Justin Faulkner belted out "Wild Thing" and students moshed and rocked in the gym, they were ready for another smokin' performance - by none other than their principal.

"Loveless! Loveless!" they chanted until Principal Len Loveless pulled out his collar a la Elvis and grabbed a mike. Though his "Hound Dog" received thunderous applause, Loveless was heard to tell fellow staffers afterwards, "I'm not giving up my day job."

The Chautauqua Express will pull into the Independence Township Library twice on Sunday, April 21 as the library celebrates National Library Week. Showtimes are 1:30 p.m. and 2:45 p.m. All ages are invited to this free event, which is supported by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Weather Service has all the tools

All the weather information and protection you'll ever need is right in the Clarkston area's own backward

Built in 1992 on White Lake Rd. in White Lake Township, the National Weather Service Forecast Office is a full-service weather office.

"Our mission is to protect life and property," said assistant forecaster Rich Pollman. "We want all citizens to be aware of the weather around them because it could save their lives. And there are plenty of ways to keep up to date."

The office is one of three in lower Michigan that uses Doppler radar, which detects severe weather events which may threaten life and property. It was officially commissioned for use in March, 1995.

But the office has many other duties, including severe weather warning responsibility for 17 counties, the written public forecast for the entire state, aviation forecast for seven airports, marine warnings for Lake Huron, Lake St. Clair and waters of Lake Erie within five miles of Michigan, and hydrological warning for all southeast of Michigan.

Pollman said the NWS, part of the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, hopes to educate as many people as possible when they hold the second-annual NWS Open House on Saturday, April 20 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Open House, which saw over 600 people attend last year, will include a 25-minute tour of the White Lake facilities.

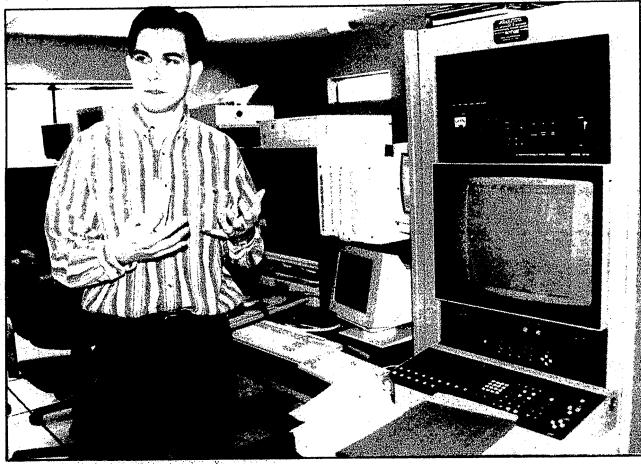

Demonstrations on Doppler Radar, weather radio broadcasts, forecasting, ham radio operations and upper air balloon equipment will be part of the tour.

The NWS office operates 24 hours a day. Its 25 employees help operate and analyze information from two radio towers, the 100-foot tall Doppler radar, upper air balloons (sent up twice daily), and satellites.

But the information is no good unless people can access it, and with a little effort every citizen has that opportunity. There is a toll free, 24-hour-a-day forecast and weather service number (1-800-888-7815) but the main service comes from the 24-hour radio broadcast.

The frequency is only available on specially equipped radios or scanners. But it is the quickest way to receive severe weather information on tornadoes, hailstorms, thunderstorms, wind gusts, floods and heavy rain and marine warnings.

Another way to get involved, which over 1,500 people do in the 17 counties the White Lake office covers, is by becoming a "spotter," the eyes and ears of most weather service offices.

"We can't rely just on computers and technology," said Pollman. "These volunteers give us first-hand sight of what's out there and are trained to know what to look for. We trust and rely on them."

In severe weather situations a spotter comes to the office and fields messages from other spotters via amateur radios, while also sending information out. Pollman said the help of these spotters gives the NWS one more resource to make sure people have enough warning in severe weather. Spotters have their own toll-free number for reporting severe weather signs.

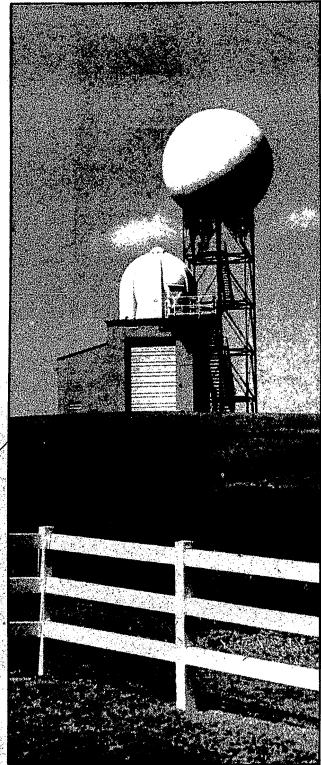

In 1995, spotters reported over 90 severe weather conditions over the amateur radio, with a 75 percent verification rate.

The training classes to become a spotter won't be offered again until next spring, but anyone wanting more information can call the Oakland County Emergency Management Division at 858-5300.

Moving on: J. Fife saying goodbye to Niagara hello to GVSU

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jeremy Fife will tranfer from Division I Niagara University to Division II Grand Valley State University after recently completing his freshman season.

Fife, who started 10 games at point guard for Niagara, said he made the decision because he wanted to be closer to family and friends, not just because of basketball. Fife will be immediately eligible because the requirement to sit out a semester is only required among NCAA Division I schools.

"This was a good opportunity for me but I realized how important family and friends are to me," said Fife, a 1995 Clarkston graduate. "I always wanted to play Division I and I did, but I just realized some other things while I was there. Basketball wasn't so much of a major factor for me. In terms of school, it is small (2,000 students) and the classes aren't real strong for the medical program, which I want to go into."

Fife played in all 28 games for the Purple Eagles, averaging 15 minutes per game, while starting early on. Later in the season, however, he was replaced as a starter by another freshman.

Niagara coach Jack Armstrong, who recruited and signed Fife to a full scholarship, said, "We are very disappointed in Jeremy's decision. He played the 10th-most minutes of any freshman in the conference. Jeremy is a character-type player who played good defense and made good decisions. I think it was a combination of his homesickness, the emergence of Jeremiah (Johnson, the other freshman) and our signing of Calvin Murphy Jr. (point guard and son of the NBA legend who played at Niagara)."

Despite playing the ninth-most minutes on the team, Fife led the team in assists-per-40 minutes with 6.5 per game. He averaged only .6 points per game on 4-for-22 shooting but had the team's best assists-to-turnover ratio with 66 assists and only 33 turnovers.

Niagara, located in the state of New York, finished with a record of 13-15 overall and 6-8 in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference. The team loses only two seniors but only one played regularly.

At Grand Valley, Fife will be playing for first-year head coach Jay Smith, the longtime University of Michigan assistant. He will also be rooming with fellow 1995 CHS graduate Jason Graves, who plays football at GVSU.

Jeremy's father, Dan, said his son just wasn't happy at the school for many reasons, not related to basketball. He said Smith is another big reason for the move.

"Jay told me at a team camp when Jeremy was a sophomore that if he ever got a college job, he'd be the first kid he was going to recruit," said Dan Fife.

Jeremy, who made the Dean's List at Niagara, hopes to continue his degree in physical therapy GVSU.

While at Clarkston, Fife's leadership, intensity and defense allowed him to dominate games without scoring. He averaged 10.7 points, 11 assists and six steals per game while maintaining a 3.8 grade point average for a team that went 24-3, won the OAA Division I, districts, regionals and advanced to the state's final eight. He was a four-year varsity player.

Weather forces cancellations

Once again, weather — this time rain and cold — forced the cancellation of athletic events for Clarkston High School spring teams.

April 15 contests for softball (hosting Troy Athens), baseball (hosting Chippewa Valley) and boys tennis (hosting Lake Orion) were canceled. In addition, as of press time, the softball team's April 16 away game at Chippewa Valley was canceled.

The baseball team's April 15 cancelation will be made up April 16, while the tennis team's Orion match was rescheduled for April 23.

Girls soccer (hosting West Bloomfield) and boys and girls track teams (at Rochester Adams) were still scheduled for April 16 contests as of presstime.

The rest of the week's varsity sports schedule, weather permitting, is as follows:

* Track — Saturday, April 20 at West Bloomfield Invitational, 9:30 a.m.

* Softball — Wednesday, April 17 at Rochester (doubleheader); April 18 at Rochester Adams (DH); April 20 at Farmington Mercy; April 22 host Brandon (OAA game). All games are at 4 p.m.

* Baseball — Wednesday, April 17 host Hazel Park at 4:30 p.m.; April 19 host Troy; April 22 at Bloomfield Hills Lahser. Games are at 4 p.m., unless noted.

* Tennis — Wednesday, April 17 host Lapeer West; April 18 host Troy Athens; April 20 host Clarkston Invitational at 9 a.m. Matches are at 4 p.m., unless noted.

* Soccer — Thursday, April 18 at Rochester Adams; April 19 host Oxford. All games at 7 p.m.

Seniors ready for softball season

With spring, comes baseball and softball. And the Senior Citizens Athletic League is always looking for more players of every talent level, especially women.

The senior league, operating out of the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, is getting ready for the long softball season once again. Last season, the seniors had one team in the co-ed league and three teams in the Northwest Parks and Recreation "A" League. In addition, two teams participated in the Open Travel League of Michigan.

Clarkston's senior tournament team won three national tournaments (in Washington D.C., Mt. Clemens and Columbus, Ohio). The team also won the state championship, held in Kalamazoo.

Winning in the national tournaments qualified the senior squad for the World Series of Senior Softball in Palm Springs, California. Clarkston won its first three games but lost the next two in extra innings. The two losses were the first the team suffered all season, going 23-2.

Any seniors wishing to participate on any level of softball competition should contact the parks and rec's senior center at 625-8231.

JV Basketball

Final Record: 14-6
Coach: Tim Kaul
Most Valuable Player: Jeff Loveless
Most Improved Player: Brad Phalen
Coaches Award: Dan Neubeck
Season summary:

The 1996 Clarkston Junior Varsity Basketball team had an excellent year, finishing with a record of 14-6 overall, and 5-5 in the OAA Division I.

After a tough opening loss to Flint Carmen-Ainsworth, the Wolves came back to demolish Ferndale before the Christmas break. When the new year began, the Wolves recorded eight straight victories, including a thrilling 59-57 victory at Rochester, in which Mark Venegoni hit a three-pointer with no time left in the extra period. They also pulled out a close victory at home versus Southfield Lathrup. However, most of their games were not as close, including a 52-32 thrashing of Berkley.

The middle of the season was rather tough, as Clarkston lost four out of five, including heartbreaking losses to Southfield, Rochester and Troy. They had a great deal of trouble with Pontiac Northern, losing by 15.

The Wolves rebounded nicely, winning five of their last six. Included in those wins was a thrilling 70-64 double overtime victory over Flint Northern, in which Brad Phalen scored 29 points, and Dan Neubeck drove the length of the court and laid it in to force overtime.

The JV team had an excellent season, and many players made great improvements in their game, giving Clarkston basketball a great future to look forward to in the coming seasons.

Freshman Basketball

Record: 5-14
Coach: Neal Sage
Most Valuable Player: Matt Baker
Most Improved Player: Nick Holland
Coaches Award: Erich Poley
Season Summary:

It was a rough season for the freshman basketball team, but it was also a great learning experience. Although their record was not the greatest, it was also not indicative of how the team played. They showed a great deal of improvement as the season progressed, and showed promise for the future.

After a 1-10 start, the Wolves finished their season with a 4-4 record. They came up with some big wins, against Ferndale, Southfield twice, and Cranbrook. They also suffered some close defeats, losing to Waterford Kettering and Southfield Lathrup by three.

Erich Poley was the leading scorer for the Wolves, with 156 points. Scott Davis scored 125, and Spencer Hynes had 75. Mark Wisniewski scored 75, and Matt Baker and Nick Holland rounded out the leaders with 66 and 62 points, respectively. Justin Nanny was the leading free throw shooter at 91 percent. Davis was the team's top perimeter player, connecting on 17 threes.

All in all, the Wolves played well, though not always achieving the win. They can look forward to bigger and better things next year as members of the junior varsity team.

Young gymnast helps team to title

Clarkston's Brett Shader, 8, helped the Gymnastics Training Center of Rochester to a state title in the Class 6 division.

Individually, Shader won a bronze medal on the pommel horse.

Shader's GTC team was dominant all season after finishing second in a tournament earlier on. After that, the squad recorded seven first-place finishes.

Local man on state athletic board

IBF and WBO referee Dale Grable of Clarkston was reappointed to the state's Athletic Board of Control by Governor John Engler last week.

The seven-member board licenses and regulates professional and amateur boxing, sparring and wrestling exhibitions in Michigan.

Grable represents the professional licensed boxing officials with a term ending March 30, 2000.

● Applicants who were unsuccessful in Michigan's recent spring wild turkey season license lottery may now apply for a leftover license at any license agent. You must apply in person, and license will be sold until the end of the season. The season opens April 22 and ends May 31, with specific dates varying by unit. #### JV Volleyball

Season Summary:

Record: 3-12-8 (2-8 OAA Division I)
Coach: Melissa Macaulay
Most Valuable Player: Amanda Worden
Most Improved Player: Shannon Iezzi
Coaches Award: Nicole Nelles

The JV Volleyball team had a tough season, struggling against top-rate competition in the OAA Division I.

The Wolves took part in four tournaments during the season, and did rather well. They went 3-5 in the Lansing Waverly tournament, 3-7 in the Walled Lake Central Invitational, 3-5 in the Clarkston Invitational, and 4-4 in the Fenton tournament.

With another year of experiencing behind them, and most of this year's varsity players graduating, the girls will likely have great success in the future.

Freshman Volleyball

Record: 1-14-1 (0-10 OAA Division I) Coaches: Candy Polenz and Becky Kosek Most Valuable Player: Jenny Claus Most Improved Player: Michelle Klotz Season Summary:

For the last time, the Clarkston freshmen were thrown into matches against teams that had been already playing together for years, and the results were expected. Although the Wolves learned much and improved greatly over the course of the season, they could not overcome their lack of experience.

Fortunately, this was the first year that the Clarkston schools have implemented a seventh and eighth grade program, bringing to a close the years of problems for the freshman teams, and improving the future quality of the Clarkston volleyball program.

Highlights for the team were few and far between for a team that was in its first year. However, they did come back in impressive fashion against Brandon, winning the final two games after dropping the first to take the match. Still, no matter what the score, these Wolves never gave up and never surrendered. Although they may not have won often, they can be very proud of their effort, and look forward to a bigger and brighter future in the volleyball program.

Note: I would like to thank coaches Tim Kaul, Neal Sage, Melissa Macaulay, Becky Kosek and Candy Polenz for all their time and assistance throughout the season, and continued success in the

Riverdawgs roundup

Seven teams are ready to start the season for the Clarkston Riverdawgs Baseball Club.

The club, in its second season, will get a fast start as two teams (the 13-year-old team and the 14-yearold team) will head to Oregon, Ohio for the April 26, 27 and 28 Toledo Tornadoes Tournament.

In addition the Riverdawgs will host the secondannual Spring Classic Tournament at Independence Township's Clintonwood Park May 3, 4 and 5. The maximum number of teams for the 11- to 12-year-old division and 13-14 division have already registered. Each division will have 12 teams.

A new twist this season will be Saturday Dawg Days at Clintonwood. Each Saturday, four of the seven Riverdawg teams will play at the home field of Clintonwood, giving fans a chance to see a majority of teams throughout the season.

Vaara on alumni board

Independence Township Trustee Mel Leroy Vaara was recently elected to the Northern Michigan University Board of Directors for Alumni Relations.

Vaara is a 1955 NMU graduate and retired Clarkston schools administrator. The alumni board's first meeting was recently held in Chicago.

Kelly honored by WMU

Brendan P. Kelly, son of Kevin and Joy Kelly of Clarkston, has been named a Presidential Scholar in the Department of Chemistry at Western Michigan University. This is the highest honor the university awards to a senior and is based on academic excellence and intellectual promise.

Majoring in both chemistry and biomedical science, Brendan plans to attend medical school and become a family practitioner. He has been a lab assistant in the Department of Biological Sciences and a volunteer at Beaumont Hospital in Troy. The recipient of a Medallion Scholarship and a Golden Key Scholarship, he is a member of both the Golden Key and Alpha Lambda Delta honor societies as well as the Lee Honors College. He has been on the Dean's List every semester and has received the Outstanding Analytical Chemistry Student Award and the Outstanding Physics 205 Student Award. He also has been involved in residence hall governance and intramural sports.

The Presidential Scholars are sponsored by the faculty senate and the Office of the President of WMU.

Brendan Kelly is pictured with WMU President Diether Haenicke and WMU Faculty Senate President Mary Anne Bunda. He was one of 43 students named a WMU Presidential Scholar at a convocation March 28.

Air Force Airman Joseph Tersigni has graduated from basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. He is the son of Stephen and Anetta Tersigni of Davisburg and a 1995 graduate of Clarkston High School.

■ Marine Cpl. Michael Martin, son of Edgar and Kristin Martin of Clarkston, is halfway through a six-month overseas deployment to the Persian Gulf with the 15th Marine Expeditionary Unit. Martin and fellow Marines have participated in a major training exercise with forces from the United Arab Emirates, one of the first time UAE forces operated from US Navy ships during an amphibious landing.

Martin, a 1992 graduate of Clarkston High School, joined the Marine Corps in October, 1992.

● Navy Seaman Michael Doud, son of Linda Doud of Clarkston, is in the western Pacific Ocean near Taiwan aboard aircraft carrier USS Nimitz. Doud's ship is monitoring the military exercises and missile firings that the People's Republic of China has been conducting in the waters around Taiwan. The ship travelled from the Persian Gulf, where it had been helping enforce the no-fly zone over southern Iraq. Since leaving Washington last December, Doud has traveled over 30,000 miles and has visited Hong Kong, Singapore and the United Arab Emirates. The ship is scheduled to return to the US in June.

● Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Albert Graham, son of AK and Janet Graham of Davisburg, has returned to Norfolk, VA after completing a six-month deployment to the Adriatic Sea near Bosnia and to the Persian Gulf near Iraq aboard USS America. The ship participated in three days of NATO air strikes against Bosnian Serb military targets, then travelled to the Persian Gulf to help enforce the no-fly zone over southern Iraq. The ship was then ordered back to Bosnia and travelled 4,200 miles in just nine days.

Marine Pvt. Alvin Caban has completed basic training at Marine Corps. Recruit Depot at Parris Island, SC. He is a 1992 graduate of Brandon High School and the son of Ron and Sharon White of Clarkston.

Clarkston boy in 'Robin Hood'

Mark McCleese of Clarkston will portray Friar Tuck in the first professional live production of the Waterford Youtheatre April 27-28. The production of "Robin Hood" will take place at the Donelson Hills School's new stage, located at 2690 Wewoka in Waterford. The production boasts a cast of 29 local children and is directed by Scott Peerbolte, a veteran actor who has appeared at Meadow Brook Theatre, the Attic and the Bonstelle, among others. Tickets are $7.50 reserved, $5 general. Performances are 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. April 27 and 2 p.m. April 28. Call 889-1863 for tickets or information. The Youtheatre is sponsored by the Waterford Cultural Council.

• Del Eastes of Clarkston received the silver Tudor rose, awarded for 250 hours of service as a volunteer at Meadow Brook Hall.

The award was given at the annual awards brunch held at the former home of Matilda Dodge Wilson on the Oakland University grounds.

At the same event, Rita Limpert of Clarkston was honored for 50 hours of service by receiving her permanent name tag. The awards were presented by Lisa Baylis Ashby, executive director of the hall, who is also of Clarkston.

SCAMP walk returns

The 20th anniversary Clarkston SCAMP Walk and Roll has been scheduled for Sunday, May 5 in Depot Park.

Participants can choose the distance they walk, one, three or eight miles, as they raise money for SCAMP, which provides a summer camping experience to children and young adults in northern Oakland County with special needs.

Registration will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on race day. T -shirts will be given to students with pledges of $50 or more and adults with pledges of $100 or more. There will be hot dogs and beverages for all racers.

The name of the race applies to the fact that entrants may walk or ride a bike or wheelchair. Wheelchair participants who need special assistance are encouraged to call Geri Batt at 625-3330.

All proceeds will benefit SCAMP's five-week summer day camp, which serves about 300 people, age 3-26, who are in need of physical, mental or emotional assistance. Last year about 90 percent of participants had at least one disability; the remaining 10 percent were identified as "at risk."

The fund-raising goal this year is $20,000. SCAMP employs 165 staffers during camp and uses Independence Oaks County Park. This year's camp will take place June 24-July 25.

Pledge forms are available at the Clarkston schools Special Services Building (behind the high school). Call 625-3330 or voice mail 698-6957.

Around town

● A pancake breakfast with all the trimmings will be available Sunday, April 21 at the Campbell-Richmond Post #63 of the American Legion. Hours are 9 a.m.-noon. Cost is $3.50 (free to kids under 5). The post is located on M-15.

● An international taste fest will be held at Clarkston Community Church of God Saturday, April 27 starting at 6 p.m. Food booths will represent many countries and there will be music and fun. There is no charge, but an offering will be collected in support of the church's Faith Promise Missions program. The church is located at 6300 Clarkston Rd. (on the bend).
