$61 million and rising

Architects told to get back to bare bones'

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

Like the giant spaceship filling up the night sky in "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," Clarkston schools' next bond issue just keeps getting bigger and bigger the closer it gets.

Members of the board of education were reeling Monday night as they listened to the latest numbers attached to renovations and additions at 10 existing buildings. They had asked architects from Greiner Inc. to come back with smaller numbers. Instead, the numbers continue to grow. The total is now estimated at over $61 million, including a new elementary school.

Board president Bill Craig questioned the inclusion of millions for renovations at the community education building, as well as the two middle schools and more work at the current high school to convert it to a middle school. Vice president Janet Thomas agreed.

"To do this right now doesn't seem to be part of what we were discussing," Thomas said.

"This is way out of line from the forecasts and this is what we're struggling with," said trustee Barry Bomier.

Last fall the board charged a facilities committee made up of residents to determine what the scope of work should be on so-called Phase III. Phase I was building a new elementary school, Springfield Plains; Phase II is the new high school.

The committee recommended that Phase III concentrate on adding classrooms, lockers and cafeterias at the elementaries, rather than a new school, and update science labs and address maintenance concerns at Sashabaw Middle School.

However the administration did not agree with all the recommendations, and suggested a new elementary school would be required. The board adopted that premise when it charged Greiner with coming up with plans.

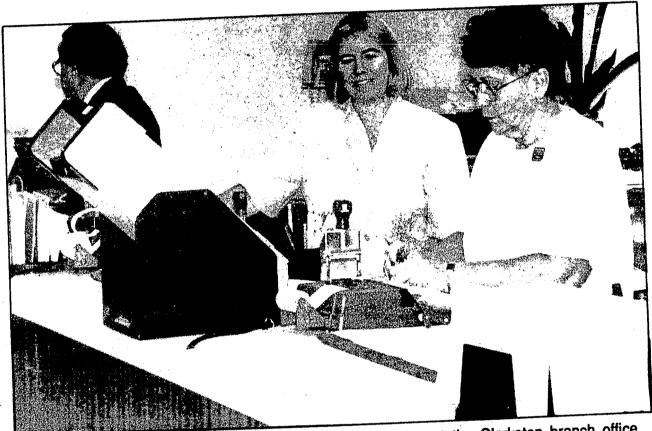

Board members found themselves wondering, after a presentation by Greiner Monday night, just where they had strayed from their own path. They said they were unsure how much of the $61 million was for things "nice to have" versus "got to have."

"I don't think the architects know what we want," Thomas said.

"I don't think you know what you want," responded superintendent Gary Haner, speaking of the board.

Secretary of State here

Clarkston resident Lynn Munday counts her till as Secretary of State Candice Miller watches the operation at the Clarkston branch office June 20.

Candice Miller visits Clarkston

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Employees in Clarkston's Secretary of State's branch office are thanking Candice Miller.

Miller, since taking office in January 1995, has done at least two things her predecessor hadn't. She's made sure every branch office like Clarkston, received fax and copy machines where none had been before.

And, like she promised, she's also on her way to personally visiting all 180 branch offices.

"In just over a year I have visited 154 our offices," said Miller. "... these visits have given me an opportunity to meet staff and see just how challenging their jobs are day in and day out."

Miller made a personal appearance in Clarkston on June 20, the first in Clarkston for a Secretary of State. During her visit she greeted customers and talked business with branch employees and branch supervisor Ruth King, whose office processes 138,000 transactions a year.

Miller and her traveling partner, deputy secretary Robert T. Sacco, admit putting all the miles on isn't an easy task, especially when most of those miles are in a Jeep Cherokee.

But Sacco, a 1981 Oakland University graduate, says it does save taxpayers money. He does admit they do fly to some places in the Upper Peninsula.

For Miller, doing good things with less is the key.

"I really think people around this state are seeing the service level increase not only because we are making services more efficient, but because we've made it easier for employees to do a better job," said Miller "We are doing more with less and I have to say we're moving faster than I thought we would."

Some of the initiatives Miller has launched since she came into office include:

* The issuance of the Centennial License Plate that honors the 100th anniversary of the auto industry. Miller said they expected to sell about 250,000 of these one-time plates, but now have reached the 1.3 million plates.

* A new statewide program that gives motorists the option to renew license plates by fax.

* The Great State Plate Challenge, a statewide contest to find a license plate design that speaks for Michigan.

* A program to allow watercraft (over 900,000 are registered in this state) registrations to be renewed by touch-tone phone.

* Issuing the first U.S. Olympic Education Center fund-raising license plate.

* Studying ways to allow auto dealers the option of processing transactions electronically, thereby reducing lines in branch offices.

* An increase in Internet and World Wide Web

The news in brief

Mid-decade census finds 17% more people

Independence Township's just-completed middecade census count was successful, thanks to the dedicated help of township employees and others.

Over a week-long period most workers stayed late to verify the names and some stayed up until 4 a.m. one night, according to supervisor Dale Stuart and clerk Joan McCrary.

The census could mean an extra $350,000 in state shared revenue for the township. A 15 percent increase in population was required, and census-takers surpassed that goal. They counted 27,930 citizens, about 17 percent better than the last count of 23,717 in the 1990 federal census.

The state must still give its approval to the results.

School board to hold organizational meeting

When the Clarkston board of education holds its annual organizational meeting July 1, it will be looking for a new president.

This year's president, Bill Craig, informed the board June 10 that he will not consider an officer's position for the coming year due to a heavy personal schedule he anticipates for the next six months.

The board traditionally selects officers and committees at the organizational meeting. The July 1 meeting will also be the first day of new superintendent Dr. Albert Roberts tenure. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the administrative office on Clarkston Rd.

July 4th fun

Fun with and without fireworks will be available locally on July 4.

The Independence Township firefighters will sponsor a parade at 10 a.m. through downtown Clarkston on the holiday. Then the fun moves to Clintonwood Park, where there will be live entertainment, food and arts and crafts.

Fireworks will be held at Groveland Oaks Park in Holly July 6 and Addison Oaks Park in Addison Township on July 4, both at around 10 p.m. A vehicle entry fee will be charged.

Salute to Clarkston schools

Detroit radio station WWJ Newsradio 950 will broadcast a salute to Clarkston High School on July 7, 9 and 11. The program, which spotlights new and innovative programs in area schools, will cover the CHS autistic impaired Link program.

Air times are July 7, 9:53 a.m. and 1:53 and 9:53 p.m.; July 9, 10:51 a.m. and 2:51 and 8:51 p.m.; and July 11, 9:52 a.m. and 1:21 and 8:51 p.m.

Springfield Township wants surveys back

Springfield Township Parks and Recreation is upping the ante in order to get residents to return surveys mailed out earlier this spring.

All completed surveys will be eligible for a drawing for four tickets to Cedar Point to be held July 9. The surveys, sent out in the summer parks and rec. brochure, were designed to gain input from residents regarding programs, services and improvements for the department.

 CANDIDATES ALERT!!! The Clarkston News and TCI Cable are hosting two candidates nights, which will be broadcast by TCI and open to the

On July 18 at 7:30 p.m. the nine candidates for supervisor, treasurer and clerk will square off in a debate-type format.

On July 24 at 7:30, the nine trustee candidates will take their turns.

The events will be held at the Independence Township Annex. Candidates will be sent a letter with more specifics in the next week.

- So I'm looking through the 18 candidate nominating petitions last week and found a few interesting tidbits.
- * Trustee candidates Daniel F. Travis and Larry Rosso were the only ones to circulate all of their petitions themselves (each candidate had to have a minimum of 90 signatures), while treasurer candidate Jim Wenger, trustee candidate Joseph J. Vasquez, treasurer candidate John Lutz and trustee candidate Rich Oppman had only one other person help circu-
- * While some well-known people signed various petitions, it doesn't necessarily mean they support or will vote for that candidate. However, a better sign of someone's support for a certain candidate is if he or she circulated a petition for them.

Some of the more well-known local citizens that acted as petition circulators are:

Retiring superintendent Gary Haner and Fred and Sheila Ritter for clerk candidate Sheila J. Hughes;

Clarkston schools principals George White, Vince Licata, Len Loveless and retiring AD Paul Tungate for supervisor candidate Mel Leroy Vaara;

Treasurer candidate Roberta A. Badgley and trustee candidate Todd R. Moss for trustee candidate Neil Wallace;

Wallace for Moss:

Rudy Lozano, treasurer candidate Kurt Karlstrom and supervisor candidate Dale Stuart for trustee candidate Jeff McGee.

 Everyone seems to be asking me about this slate of candidates who will run side-by-side with supervisor Dale Stuart. The names most mentioned as aligned with him are clerk candidate Sheila J. Hughes and Badgley.

But the women say Stuart never "recruited" them, and, as of now, are not part of any slate.

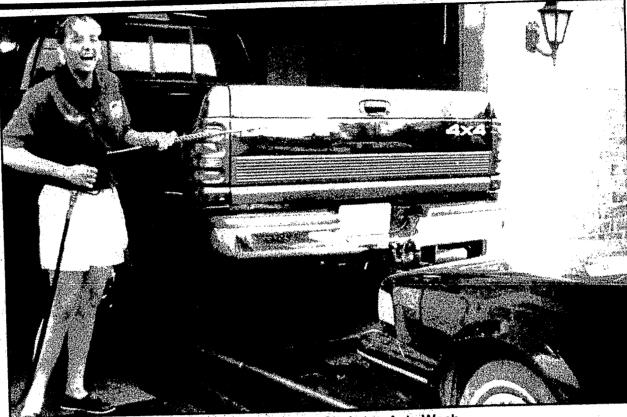

The key words are "as of now." So then I asked Stuart himself. His response: "No comment as of now."

But he is somewhat perturbed that some people think he'll endorse a slate because he wants all 'yes' people.

"I will say that I have heard people say I want a 'yes' person and that couldn't be further from the truth," he said. "I want people who will contribute and who will be part of a forward-thinking government."

In conclusion, let the rumors persist ... as of now. The last day to register to vote is July 8. You can do that by going to any secretary of state office, the county clerk or township clerk. @ Until next time, see ya at the game. Call me at 625-3370 with questions or comments.

Marge McNeil is a familiar and welcome sight at Clarkston Auto Wash.

Teen is car wash queen

Local girl wins national honor

BY EILEEN OXLEY Clarkston News Staff Writer

Marge McNeil would never put her life in cruise control. She keeps one foot on the accelerator at all times.

Because she's always on the go, her list of nicknames has grown into the present appendage dubbed by her boss, Fred Ritter: "Large Marge Turbo Charge Strong As Steel McNeil."

"I have a lot of drive," quips the 18-year-old 1995 Clarkston High School graduate from her office, where she works as assistant manager-service writer for Clarkston Auto Wash on Dixie Highway. "I have a lot of ambition in me."

McNeil, who started as "a dryer" two years ago, didn't know she'd love the car wash so much. It started out as just a summer job. But two years later she virtually runs the business and recently opened an auto-detailing service in the building with co-owner Sheila Ritter, Fred's wife.

Her go-getter attitude and the resulting increased sales for the business earned her a nomination from the Ritters for Professional Carwashing & Detailing Magazine's 1996 Most Valuable Carwasher Award. McNeil beat out other contestants across the nation and was flown with her bosses to receive one of two carwasher awards presented this spring at the International Car Wash Association Convention in Las Ve-

In their written nomination the Ritters praised McNeil for being "dedicated to the success of our business and, for us, a dream come true. It didn't take long for use to notice that she had a unique rapport with our customers and employees. She was promoted to driveway sales, where our sales have rocketed. Sixtyfour percent of our customers buy extra services from Margie, compared to 24 percent with other salespeople ...

"As assistant manager, she is in charge of all sales and operational training, scheduling, recordkeeping, recruiting and payroll, and continues as star salesperson. Whether it is mechanical, operational or administrative, she anticipates what needs to be done and does it ...

"She demands excellence of herself and those around her, is focused on quality and service and fully understands the importance of the customer ... Because of her maturity and dedication we often forget Margie is only 18 years old."

McNeil is low-key about the whole thing as she leans back in her chair at the auto wash. The attractive blonde is tanned, long-limbed and slim - not at all like the burly female truck driver "Large Marge" in the film "Pee Wee's Big Adventure."

She fondly refers to the few long-timers she has supervised as "The Fab Five" and grumbles goodnaturedly about her title.

"We need to change that 'cause there's no one assistant. It's either me or Fred."

There's no secret to her abundance of energy. She just has it. At CHS she was on the softball team and, in addition, has played basketball, volleyball and "all sports." She works out regularly and keeps fit with aerobics and gigs on Mr. B's softball league.

And she still manages to fit that and her pursuit of a marketing degree at Oakland University - even though she spends about 12 hours per day at the auto wash. She not only tackles her office duties but runs out to work on the line, chatting with customers, wiping down cars and selling those special services.

Though washes start at $5, McNeil talks customers into upgrading if she feels they need it. In the stall where she and Sheila Ritter run Clarkston Auto Detailing Co., she sells them packages which range from around $20 to over $100.

The reward is seeing a dusty car leave the wash bright and shiny, looking like new. "I'm kind of a neat freak," McNeil says. "I like to see the result."

She also enjoys working with picky people because she finds them challenging. Some of them are now her best customers, she admits.

Someday, when she finishes school, McNeil may own her own mecca of soapy suds, filmy sprays and spotless autos. "I've though about it," she says, adding that she admires "Jack" of the car wash chain, "Jack's Car Wash."

"I saw him in Vegas. He won the Hall of Fame award ... My ultimate goal would probably be to have a chain of washes like he has ...'

For now, she's not surprised she's assistant manager after only two years and still in her teens.

"I'm ready — that's the point. I've been ready for it so long. I must have so much energy because I am ready to go out there," she says with a vivacious grin.

Intensive planning sought for city

BY EILEEN OXLEY Clarkston News Staff Writer

During an hour-long presentation on planners HyettPalma Inc.'s downtown revitalization program, councilman Dave Savage meant to get Clarkston City Council's commitment to use $10,000 to hire the firm.

Savage said HyettPalma could be hired for $8,040 and asked for that amount and an additional $2,000 for additional services.

However, council decided 6-1 to pass the 1996-97 city budget as it was, with Savage as the lone dissenter. The general fund budget received approval at $698,336 for the next year. The council decided to retain the $2,000 budgeted for its current planner, McKenna & Associates.

In his presentation Savage produced testimonies from towns across the U.S. and a recommendation by the Michigan Municipal League. He said a master plan designed by HyettPalma would encourage more customers into Clarkston's downtown area.

The firm has designed plans for cities the size of Clarkston through its "New Thinking, New Life" program for populations of 7,500 or less.

HyettPalma would go beyond what current city planners McKenna & Associates do to "orchestrate downtown revitalization," Savage said. By joining city officials with business owners and residents, the City of Clarkston could be "reinvented," with a vision that could include not only brick sidewalks. landscaping and solutions to downtown parking problems, but enhance retail efforts, according to a letter Savage received from the MML that lauds the firm's However, though city attorney Tom Ryan and several council members praised Savage for an excellent presentation, some council members feel the halfmile downtown area is fine the way it is.

"Could you define revitalization?" asked councilman Walt Gamble. "I'm lost at how our town has to be revitalized."

Councilman Bill Basinger said he felt the plan would work for cities which have vacant buildings and undeveloped land. The City of Clarkston is almost fully developed with a "non-expandable, non-buildable" downtown area, he said.

Gamble agreed. "This brings me back to ... my question," he said. "You're filled. What's the problem?"

Savage said that it is possible for downtowns to determine what kind of businesses they want. That is done, he said, by surveying the residents who live there. Though a building owner will make the choice of who rents his building, residents, business owners and city officials can work together to visualize what the downtown should offer.

Councilwoman Karen Sanderson, though supportive of the idea, raised the issue of perception.

"If you talk to Buck (Kopietz) he doesn't think there is a problem with parking. If you talk to Robert (Esshaki, of Rudy's) he thinks there is. I love antique shops ... but Sharron (Mayor Catallo) may like an ice cream parlor . . . I'd kill for another drug store."

But, said Savage Tuesday, "The idea isn't, do I want an ice cream store or an antique store." The whole idea, he added, is to come up with a workable plan supported by residents, business members and local officials.

Clarkston is a charming, historic community

"you never want to change, only enhance," Savage said. He said he did not feel supported by most of the council members, who declined to commit themselves to $5,000 from the city's fund balance. Savage said he'd still try to raise the money through grants and donations.

"It's not the planner's plan," said Savage Tuesday. "It's a plan created by the people. That's what this HyettPalma firm would do for them ... Basically, what I heard them (council) say is they don't seem to have a vision for the future. That's disconcerting."

In other council action:

- Council voted 7-0 to send the Clarkston Cafe's request for outdoor seating to the planning commission Monday, June 1. The planning commission will determine whether or not the proposal needs to gain final approval from council or the city's zoning board of appeals. If it needs council approval, there will be a special council meeting (June 2) at 7 p.m. If not, the cafe will be notified that the matter needs to be sent to the ZBA.
- Basinger has developed a Project Approval Checklist (flow chart) for proposed principal and accessory uses of property in the cityto determine which boards need to be contacted if the proposals don't conform to the zoning ordinance. It will be sent to the planning commission for review.
- New Clarkston Area Youth Assistance worker Fred Morten introduced himself to council and explained the program.
- Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston's parking ordinance was tabled. It is being reviewed by Ryan.
- All other proposed resolutions for adoption of amended 1995-96 and 1996-97 budgets, millage rates and salaries were passed 7-0.

School budget jumps to $42M

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

The Clarkston schools budget is expected to top $42 million dollars for the 1996-97 school year.

Some mighty big numbers were presented to the board of education Monday night as it adopted its budget for the coming year. Revenues in the general fund are expected to rise 3.21 percent; expenditures are expected to rise 4.41 percent. And the district will benefit from a new state category of aid, the Growing District aid, to the tune of $115,000.

With all its labor contracts settled for the coming year, the district knows pretty well what its costs will be in the area of wages, fringes and retirement contributions. However, Director of Business Craig Kahler said he expects large increases in utility costs and special education transportation, among other things. Many other costs will be driven by enrollment increases.

Though Kahler expects the district to spend a little more than it takes in next year, the fiscal year should end with a fund balance (savings account of sorts) of $2.7 million, an amount he called "healthy." And that's after nearly half a million dollars is set aside for future costs of operating the new high school.

Some questions were raised about whether private business partnerships for transportation and maintenance are really saving the money they were expected to save. Kahler said an August audit of the district's private business partners, ServiceMaster for maintenance and National for transportation, will help settle some issues.

Schools are required by law to pass their budgets by June 30. However, at this time each year there are many unknowns, and Kahler outlined some of them:

● The exact amount of the per pupil grant the state will provide. This amount is set by the legislature each year. An increase is expected, but exactly how much has not yet been decided.

 The exact value of taxable property in the district. Kahler said the county and state have provided him with different numbers and he doesn't yet know why. In addition, he isn't satisfied the Downtown Development Authority, which diverts money and is supposed to be made up for by the state under Proposal A, is being handled properly. Overall, however, property value is expected to be up eight percent next year. "This is a healthy rate of growth," Kahler said.

 The fate of adult education, slated for considerable downsizing by the governor.

■ The effect of a new multi-state lottery.

 Enrollment, How many students actually show up will determine how many new teachers have to be hired, as well as the supplies and books that will be needed.

 Portable classrooms. Where they will come out of the budget has yet to be determined.

Despite the large number of unavoidable uncertainties, the board seemed happy with the budget and approved it 6-0 (trustee Tom Howard was absent).

One area that will require further discussion is the athletic fund. Kahler said it is projected to be running in the red and the board will have to decide what to do about it.

The board has also yet to make decisions on program improvements. Kahler has budgeted $150,000 for that, though no decisions have yet been made, with the exception of adding another counselor at Sashabaw Middle School.

What if they gave a demonstration and nobody came?

It would have been nice if that had happened Saturday in Ann Arbor, where about 16 Ku Klux Klan members held a well-orchestrated demonstration. From reports I read in various newspapers, it took 200 policemen and an escort out in a limousine to protect the KKK from about 1,000 anti-Klan demonstrators.

Too bad the latter didn't learn their lesson about free speech. If they are allowed to express their opinion, so is the KKK, no matter how repugnant. Now, the KKK got what it wanted—violence. It provoked a reaction; it enjoyed making what it perceives to be a bunch of liberals in an ultra-liberal town mad. It will be back

Despite the disgusting show of violence, or pernaps because of it, my vote for Citizen of the Year goes to Keshia Thomas, the black Ann Arbor woman who, according to several newspaper reports, threw herself on top of a white KKK demonstrator adorned with a Confederate flag Saturday in order to stop him from being beaten.

She was quoted as saying, "Just because you beat someone doesn't mean you're going to change his mind." Thank goodness someone's paying attention.

Recently I read an article which quoted a judge as saying prisoners and defendants now have more rights in this country than victims and their families. Perhaps the same sort of logic was at work here. I'm sure the plan was to avoid violence by having the KKK set up on police grounds, to have a getaway car ready, to protect them from possible trouble.

But where in the Constitution does it say you have the right to be protected, at taxpayer expense, from the consequences of the things you say? You say them, you stand up and take the heat for them. That's the American way.

But it's changing. A friend of mine is being sued because she stood up in a public meeting and protested what someone else was requesting from their township board. She'll probably spend thousands of dollars defending her right to free speech while the other side is trying to make her out to be some sort of ringleader.

In Oxford Township recently when an ordinance was proposed that mentioned guns, the Michigan Militia turned out in force. No matter that they didn't live there. Now, some people are afraid to speak up on any topic that has anything to do with guns, even if it's neighbors using their yard for target practice.

What's this country coming to, when those who would provoke violence are protected in doing so, and those who seek open dialogue are harassed into submission? Might makes right, whether it's the might of the dollar, the gun or the word. That's not the America I learned about in school.

Russian comedian Yakov Smirnoff used to say, with warmthand amazement, "America—what a country." Funny, I haven't heard that said for a very long time.

P.S.: Wonder what effect, if any, Keshia Thomas' action will have on the man she saved from further beating? We'll probably never know. But it's fascinating to think of the possibilities...

Can we buy a science teacher?

I am writing to ask the parents of students in the Clarkston community school district if they are interested in following the example of the "Parents for Hockey in Clarkston" group. If you've been reading your Clarkston News, these parents are privately underwriting the new sports team in Clarkston, the hockey team!

Well, is anyone interested in buying a teacher for our high school math students who could perform at a higher level if only our school district had an honors math program? Right now, our students who are talented in math only are pushed ahead to the next year's math program. There is no accelerated math program at the grade level. What about purchasing half a science teacher? Then we could at least have an Advanced Placement physics class like we used to, not part regular physics with some AP students mixed in. Maybe we could even expand our AP science to include an AP chemistry class. What a concept—emphasizing math and science just as much as sports.

If it's good enough for hockey, it should work for academics, don't you think?

Sincerely, Christine Wyatt

Wenger's the right one

Jim Wenger is running for the position of treasurer of Independence Township, and I am urging township residents to vote on his behalf.

I had the fortune to work for five years with Mr. Wenger from 1986-1991. I was then principal of Clarkston High School. Jim is precisely the type of individual one wants in the position he seeks. His integrity is impeccable, his honesty is unchallenged and his work ethic is outstanding. A quality man, a dedicated professional, an individual with a demonstrated capacity to serve others, Jim Wenger would be an excellent choice as township treasurer by the citizens of Independence Township. He would be a great public ser-

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Real men use a pouf? Not!

The move toward bigger and bigger homes can be directly attributed to makers of soap.

You've seen the height and width Pulte and others are building on every available piece of real estate.

They look huge, and in this case looks are not deceiving. The word huge can also be applied to the purchase price and payments, but that's another column

This bigger and biggerness starts with the bath-room, which brings in the "soap factor."

Because of Jergens, which is owned by the Japanese, for-gosh-sakes, Procter & Gamble and Lever Brothers, bathrooms-for-homes designers have had to put industrial size shelving space into what we used to call shower stalls.

In our days, before stink depressant pushers made us feel guilty if we didn't deodorize 20 times daily, a single bar of soap (not on a rope) dish was an adequate accessory to our cubicle.

Today suds makers have convinced architects to build a room with a showerhead on one wall. This room must have storage for brushes, both power and blade razors, and anti-bacteria body wash.

This room must also have room for moisturizers, skin-softeners, youth-restoring body washes and Lever 2000 family-body wash.

And this room must have space for a variety of things we're supposed to use to apply this soap, moistening goop and smell.

Not too long ago we received in the mail a piece of gauzelike thing. I thought it was something new to scrub pots and pans in the kitchen. Something like a Chore Boy.

Wrong.

It was a net pouf. I looked pouf up in the dictionary, and trust me, this thing is not made for guys. At least not any guys I know. And, this thing is not made for bar soap.

It's made for something requiring another group of shelving in the room-with-a-showerhead; body washes. A body wash is a liquid soap that has moisturizer in it. That's what Rose DeWolfe of Knight-Ridder Newspapers writes.

Among the many things I don't understand is why anyone needs a moisturizer applied when they are standing in streams of moisture.

DeWolf says, "To sell more body wash, several soap-makers are attempting to convince Americans that it's a unisex product."

That's something that will surely settle the poverty, spouse abuse and budget deficit problems we face... unisex body wash. Procter & Gamble is spending $25 million on Zest Body Soap for men. They're gambling that making it blue instead of pink will make it a man magnet.

Jergens is avoiding men because we're too hard to sell.

Ralph Lauren is avoiding men, too, but only by price. Their 6.7 ounces body wash is $20. The only way a man's man would pay that much is if it's somewhere over 100 proof.

After all this research into why today's houses are bigger than ever. I've concluded people just like to have lots of room to see their money go down the drain.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1981)

J.P. Burrough's Aggregate Division seeks an extension to mine gravel from the 200-acre Salemn pit on Oak Hill Rd. in Independence Township. The pit has been in operation since 1960. It is presently bound by a 1977 consent judgment which extended the pit's operation an additional five years with specific plans for restoration.

Clarkston's Village Council is only a step away from calling a public hearing on the proposed historic district ordinance, following establishment of a five-member Historic District Committee. If adopted by council, the ordinance will make it mandatory for residents to seek approval from the committee before they undergo remodeling, construction, repair work or demolition to any homes or outbuildings.

The Beach Boys' Pine Knob concert June 23 turns into a solo overnighter for a 19-year-old Burton woman. She is trapped in a woman's restroom for six hours after someone coming in to use the facilities slams the door, smacking her senseless until a security guard hears her cries around 6 a.m. The woman tells police she is not intoxicated and had only three beers.

25 YEARS AGO (1971)

Village residents crowd Clarkston Village Council chambers Tuesday night, protesting goings on in the downtown parking lot. There are complaints of rowdyism, drug pushing, yelling, swimming, breaking bottles — even breaking small ducks' legs. There are also complaints of young parking lot loungers using the neighboring creek and woods for relieving themselves. After listening to public comment, village president Donald Cooper says the council and police will work on the problem. After residents leave, the Clarkston News reporter is asked to leave also.

No more tired fingers from walking through the big phone book! Through the combined efforts of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club and the Clarkston Jaycees, a new little telephone directory with the exclusive listings of Independence Township numbers will go on sale over the July 4th weekend. The books can be purchased for $1.25 apiece.

Swimming, boating and scuba-skindiving season opens at Deer Lake Beach June 12. Lifeguards will be on regular duty from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. through Sept. 12. Ten dollars will permit a family all privileges for the year.

50 YEARS AGO (1946)

The first peacetime 4th of July will undoubtedly see record-breaking numbers of automobiles on the highways. While no one wants to think in terms of disaster at a time when merry-making is the order of the day, nevertheless the cold truth is that hundreds will die before the holiday is over. Statistics show that more people are killed each year by automobile accidents than were lost in battle casualties during World War II.

Fourth of July will undoubtedly be a quiet day for Clarkstonites. No official celebration is planned and most local residents will probably spend the day at home or arrange picnics with family and neighbors. Clarkston people are fortunate in living in the midst of nature's playground — a spot where you need only step to your back door and let your eyes rest on natural beauty. "City folks" often drive for hours to get a fleeting glimpse before heading back to the city again.

Terry's Market specials for a glorious Fourth include geese, ready for the oven, 55 cents a pound; creamed cottage cheese, 19 cents a pound; paper plates, two dozen for 15 cents; hot or cold cups, ten cents a package; Defiance Tea, a 1/2-pound package for 45 cents; and paper forks and spoons, a package for a dime.

60 YEARS AGO (1936)

The long-awaited payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation has been accomplished. As near as we can learn, about 50 veterans secured payment. What percentage will immediately cash the bonds is not known at this time. The local postmistress has had a rush of business in assisting the immediate transfer of bonds into cash. Of course, some want automobiles. Some are liquidating obligations. Some are using the money to go further into debt. Some are putting the money into a safety deposit box. And some are just having "one big time."

Playing at the Holly Theatre are Margaret Lindsay, Glenda Farrell and Lyle Talbot in "The Law in Her Hands," Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Silly Billies" and Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper in "Desire." Admission is 10-20 cents.

Specials at Rudy's this week include kettlerendered lard, two pounds for a quarter; oleo, two pounds for a quarter; veal for stew, 14 cents a pound; short ribs, 12 cents a pound; Swift's Corned Beef, 17 cents a can; Whitehouse Coffee, 19 cents a pound; and soda crackers, two pounds for 15 cents.

What piece of advice do you have for the new school superintendent?

NANCY DOYLE, CLARKSTON: I know he's probably going to be extremely busy, but I would suggest he make as much personal contact with the parents as possible.

L A U R I E S T E E N S O N , CLARKSTON: Have a heart and have a lot of patience. Be gentle.

BOB OLSEN, CLARKSTON: Keep as much energy and do what you've been doing in Ohio. I think he's got unanimous support from the community. Right now I don't see any problems.

JOANNE ANDERSON, CLARKSTON: Keep the kids busy and keep the drugs out.

RICHARD HALL, CLARKSTON: I would like to see him keep up the property at the schools, maintain them and keep them clean. There's adouble door of the high school gymnasium just covered with mud. It's been that way for two years and nobody's even cleaned it off.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Say it ain't so ... don't do an art tax

It was with great dismay that I read the findings of a recent people poll. According to the newspaper I read, the likelihood of an art tax passing in Oakland County was good.

G-r-r-e-a-t. That's not good.

That means the 20 percent voting population (that's all who show up nowadays) will be able to levy an art tax on the other 80 percent.

Is it not bad enough we work from January to May each year to be able to pay taxes. Taxes out of yours and my pockets that besides everything else, curently go to the arts.

Why do we need a specific art tax in Oakland County? I was just starting to get used to reduced property taxes via Proposal A. Now the arts and croissants crowd thinks we can afford another tax.

I'm not against the arts. Nor am I against the artisans who produce the art. Nor am I against the idea of introducing kids to the arts.

I'm just against throwing my hard-earned dollars at somebody else's pocket. If the art is good and to my taste, I'll make the decision and buy it. Why should I have to fork over money via a tax?"

I'm shooting from the hip here, but, most times when the government gets involved in something -- even something as worldly and goodly as art -- they mess it up. I bet right now, this very second, before there is even a ballot question, somebody waiting to be a bureaucrat is planning out a budget (including his or her salary).

I bet they know how much money they'll need, then they tax us for it. And, it'll be grandiose, because after all, we live in a fairy-tale world -- Oakland County, the third wealthiest county in the nation. And, it'll grow each year. And, it'll cost more of my money.

If I could, I'd like to make a suggestion to all the state lawmakers and county officials. It's a simple one. On the next tax form print a box. Next to it type "If you wish to support the arts in Oakland County, please mark the box." Then type, "What is your contribution." And leave a blank space.

Just don't tax me anymore for the arts. Pretty please.

Moving on

To the editor,

Fifteen years ago my husband and I took up gardening. We were young, inexperienced, but willing to learn and work hard. The garden was small, but as the years passed by it grew larger. We learned how to plant seeds, keep the weeds out and make sure it had plenty of TLC.

Now this garden grows abundantly and produces annually a full, fresh, ripe crop. The time has come now for he and I to lay down our tools. We know that this "special garden" will flourish and continue to

In your June 12 issue, Mrs. Becky Tatu wrote a letter bashing D'Anne Witkowski's final CHS Life column. When I read her article I thought about how very true some of D'Anne's statements were.

I feel that D'Anne was not trying to be rude to the parents who organized the senior dinner, the performers or the speakers. I think D'Anne was saying what no one else had the courage to say. I was there and everyone at my table tried to eat the chicken we were served and could not. That was the fault of Mitches II, not Mrs. Tatu or any other organizers.

When D'Anne talked about the 'fuzzy slide show' I believe she was talking about the fuzzy memories the video made us think of. Mrs. Tatu commented that D'Anne didn't turn in any pictures. I was one of the 14 students that did turn in pictures, and I was surprised to see that many of the pictures I turned in, some of D'Anne, were not used. I hate to point fingers, however it seems that every Clarkston Junior High School freshman cheerleading picture taken in our freshman year was turned in and used, no matter how similar.

I had a great time at the senior dinner and I'm glad I went. I am very appreciative of all the parents who worked so hard to put this together. However, I do not think D'Anne should be condemned for being brave enough to speak her mind.

Sincerely, Amber Clement

Karlstrom dedicated

To whom it may concern,

As a business owner of my own company, I would like to share some thoughts with you regarding Kurt G. Karlstrom's bid for Independence Township Treasurer. I have known Mr. Karlstrom for over eight years now, both professionally and personally, and even though I cannot vote for Mr. Karlstrom, I hold him in the highest esteem.

Mr. Karlstrom is a responsible, positive-thinking individual who is dedicated to everything he does, and he always looks out for the best interest of people and business(es) he deals with. His honesty and integrity are unsurpassed, and his family ties and loyalties are spectacular. It is these same skills of personal involvement that he would bring to the treasurer's

Many times citizens feel that if government was run more like a business we would be in much better financial shape. Independence Township has an excellent opportunity in electing a person who would serve the community in the manner Mr. Karlstrom can and will do, and I, therefore, highly endorse Kurt G. Karlstrom as Independence Township Treasurer.

Ask the therapist by Stan Garwood, MA, MSW,DCSW

Dear Mr. Garwood,

I am a 38-year-old woman, have a devoted husband and two wonderful children and a great career. Yet at times I feel unsure of myself, less than others, like a little frightened child. This is due to the severe emotional abuse I received from my mother. She continually criticized me. Because of this, I grew up with very low self-esteem. I believe others are better than I and lack confidence in my abilities.

Throughout my life I have tried to cover up my insecurities by overachieving, being very polite and extremely helpful. I gave away things, my money, my body, my time etc. in order to buy love and acceptance.

My question is will I outgrow this? If not, how do you recommend that I overcome it?

> Signed, Desperate Danielle

Dear Danielle.

Characteristically, those who grew up emotionally abused tend to believe their accusers' accusations. Emotional abuse is probably the most common type of

If you were told you are no good, stupid, clutsy, unacceptable, unmotivated, lacking in personality or any of a number of defamations, chances are you believed the adult who stated them. After all, you were a child who respected and believed in those older and wiser. You had no reason to distrust their information until such a time where you began the process of individuation and, consequently, thinking for yourself.

of yourself (self-concept) has been formed. It is now built into your personality and the way you handle life's decisions.

Most victims of emotional abuse continue to allow others to abuse them due to their denial as to how damaged they are. They do not even realize what is happening to them. Many suffer from the effects of abuse which could take the form of worthlessness, depression, hopelessness, self-blame, confusion, low self-esteem, lack of motivation and difficulty making decisions. Many of those seen in therapy fail to realize the source of their problem.

Danielle, your letter indicates you have attempted several types of compensation, such as "overachieving, being very polite and extremely helpful." You stated giving away things, your money, your body and your time in order to buy love and acceptance. Based on your question, I assume you have a conquered it.

No you won't outgrow feelings of low selfesteem. I recommend you work on the following:

- —discovering your unfinished business
- -becoming in touch with your emotions
- —dealing with your anger
- -resolving your relationship with your abuser

---becoming your own good parent.

In addressing these five directives, I would include any and all of the following: things you have left unsaid; hopes which will never be met; feelings you have not expressed; and conflicts which were never resolved. Unless you complete your unfinished business, you are destined to continue repeating the past.

A great part of the damage caused by childhood abuse is that it causes us to disown our emotions, to repress them to a point where we are no longer aware of them or have control of them.

Since you were adapt at stuffing feelings, you held back on expressing yourself, getting out that anger, fear, etc., taking control of the situation and getting your needs met. In the end, one loses hope, gives up and acquiesces to whatever life serves up.

I would recommend therapy and if you were my client, I would begin by having you explore your abuse as a child while encouraging you to allow yourself to feel your shame, sadness, fear and anger. By allowing yourself to feel the anger toward your abuser, you begin to learn to release it in constructive ways. Place the responsibility of the abuse where it belongs. I would help you grieve the loss of your childhood and proceed to a level of acceptance. You need to let go of any hope of getting from your mother what you did not get as a child. If she is willing to take responsibility for her actions and has some capacity for understanding However, by this time in your life the perception your pain, there is hope for the relationship.

This entire process would more than likely take a good deal of time. While you would be working at the above, I would have you learn to trust your decisions and perceptions, become more self-reliant and increase your self-esteem.

Confronting your original abuser, even if done indirectly in the office, will enable you to regain your power and prove to yourself you will no longer allow her to control you.

Letting go of the past and understanding that you must stop yearning for something that will never be is the final step to becoming your own good parent. Give yourself the nurturing and caring that you need (we all do). This is an important step in completing your unfinished business.

As you can see, much work is necessary toward its resolve. I have barely skimmed the surface as to the complexity of this issue. Good luck!

ireworks season is here

Now that warmer weather is here and summer is upon us, the familiar sight of firework stands will soon be seen. With the Fourth of July approaching, sales promotions for fireworks will be everywhere, and officials from the Michigan State Police Fire Marshall Division are concerned about safety. Every year there are hundreds of injuries and numerous fires as a result of fireworks.

"Even legal fireworks should be used with caution," said Capt. Wade Schaefer, State Fire Marshal. "Illegal fireworks are of greater concern. Firework devices that send a projectile into the air, spin, twirl, or emit a report are illegal and can cause serious harm."

It is illegal to sell, possess, transport, or use fireworks in Michigan without a permit. The only legal fireworks that do not require a permit are flat paper caps, toy noise makers, sparklers, fountains (cone or cylindrical), toy snakes, and toy smoke devices. If the firework emits a report (loud bang) or leaves the ground, then it is illegal without a permit.

The Fire Marshall Division offers the following precautions and suggestions to help ensure a happy and safe fireworks season:

- Make sure firework devices are legal for use as determined by state law and any possible local ordinances that may exist.
- Read the manufacturer's label on all firework devices for instructions on proper use. (Illegal fireworks rarely contain precautions.)

Carefully follow all instructions.

- Provide adult supervision for children. Do not allow young children to handle sparklers or other fireworks.
- Light only one device at a time.
- Ignite fireworks only outdoors and away from buildings and combustible materials.
- Do not attempt to alter any firework device or use in a manner not intended.

"Selling illegal fireworks in Michigan through the use of signed statements that the purchaser will use the fireworks out of state is prohibited," added Capt. Schaefer. "Mail order companies are also trying to sell illegal fireworks in Michigan. Those who purchase these illegal fireworks and violate the state fireworks law are guilty of a misdemeanor."

Enforcement guides are being distributed to all State Police troopers and otehr police and fire agencies to enhance the enforcement of the state fireworks law. The Michigan State Police want this to be a safe summer for everyone, with a reduction in injuries and fires associated with fireworks.

start on the mound for the Dawgs' 13 team, went four innnings and hit 2-for-4 (two RBI) at the plate, in a win over the Rochester Hurricanes.

Aaron Giroux's two-run double gave Clarkston the lead in the fourth inning.

The defensive play of the game, worthy of an ESPN highlight, found the Dawgs in the final inning with two Rochester runners on base and two outs. The batter delivered a line shot to the gap in left centerfield. Ryan Briceland drove hard and went horizontal in midair, speared the ball and slid along the wet grass with his trophy catch held high. His teammates mobbed him in a pileup usually reserved for game-winning slug-

June 16: Jared Bauer went the distance giving up only six hits, while Brett Gove had two hits and two RBI to lift the Dawgs' 14 team past the Rochester Yankees 3-2. John Robinson (one RBI) and Brett Crawford also added one hit each.

June 22: The Dawgs split a doubleheader against the Rochester Rams, losing 3-5 in the first game and winning 5-0 in the second.

In the first game, Ryan Marino and Ross Martello teamed up on the mound. Marinaro (RBI), Chris Weber (RBI) and Francis Hodges (two hits) led the team on offense, while Jared Bauer, John Robinson and Rocky Lund had one hit each.

In the second game, Brett Crawford captured the shutout by allowing eight hits and striking out six, while cracking a double and single at the plate. Ross Martello had a double and Rocky Lund had an RBI single.

June 23: Francis Hodges was taking care of business on the mound and at the plate by holding the Rochester Marlins to only four hits, while striking out nine. At the plate Hodges had two RBI to lift his team back to the .500 mark with a 7-7 overall record. Ryan Marino drove in an RBI while Chris Weber had one hit.

15-year-olds

June 23: The Dawgs' 15 team dropped a doubleheader to the Rochester Hawks at Clintonwood, losing 8-3 and 10-5.

In the first game, Matt McInnes pitched five solid innings, hit a triple and single and had an RBI. He was relieved by Justin Nanney. Ryan Clement had an RBI triple while Mike Simko earned an RBI off a third-strike overthrow. Hits also came from Nick Giroux, Chad Kareus and Brent Deuel.

In the second game, Rochester opened the fifth inning with some heavy scoring for the win. The Dawgs collected hits from Brent Deuel (two RBI) and Ron Wells, both of whom went 2-for-3. Ryan Clement, Josh Sommers and Adam Leech contributed an RBI.

16-year-olds

June 21: Josh Clark hurled a six-hitter with five strikeouts to edge the Rochester Tigers by a 7-4 margin. Hits came from Ryan Dudek (two doubles),

Chris Mitchell (2-for-4 with two RBI) and John Drallos (RBI single).

June 23: The Dawgs 16 team swept a double-header from the Rochester Cubs, 8-7 and 4-0.

In the first game, Eric Jenks, Chris Mitchell an Ryan Dudek were on the mound in a come-frombehind win. Mitchell, Spencer Hynes and John Drallos had the hits.

Against Bloomfield Hills, the bats were humming with Josh Clark, Spencer Hynes and Nathan Manuel going 2-for-3. Scott Hill was tough on the mound allowing only two runs in a 17-2 win.

In the next game, Birmingham was tough on Justin Morgan who was relieved by Eric Jenks for the final two innings of a 5-1 loss.

The Lakeland Athletics were the next Dawgs victim, thanks to Scott Hill's mighty arm. He went the distance on the mound in a 6-2 win. Nathan Manuel had a hit and four stolen bases, while Jeff Bemis and Josh Clark collected two RBI each.

Kids get their own debit cards

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY

Clarkston News Editor

No more fumbling for lunch money every day. No more last minute dashes by Mom or Dad to school when it's forgotten.

Next year Clarkston students in grades one through five will go cash-free. They'll merely collect their school lunch, then pass their personal debit cards through a machine and walk away.

According to the school district's Director of Auxiliary Services Linda Nester, a pilot program at Springfield Plains Elementary School this winter worked so well she is planning to implement it at all six elementaries next year. She sought and received approval from the board of education Monday night to spend $30,000 from her cafeteria fund for the necessary computers and software.

Nester said the pilot program showed about 10 minutes can be cut off the wait in line, giving the students at the end of the line that much more time to eat. Parents can pay for a week in advance or longer, if they choose. A receipt which will be forwarded by teachers will let parents know when their balance falls to $2. No cash will be accepted in the lunch line.

"It's worked very well," Nester said. Since the debit cards are like cash, security is a consideration. Students are not allowed to keep the cards. Rather, a system was put in place to sort them by teacher after lunch. No cards were lost last year and only one was destroyed, Nester said.

One of the unexpected side effects of the new system was a drop in revenue from the so-called a la carte menu at Springfield Plains. Since students no longer needed to carry money, they were unable to spend it on the ice cream and other side items offered on the a la carte menu, which has come under fire in the past for its less-nutritious offerings.

"The only way we're letting them spend that (the debit card) is on the lunch program," Nester said.

Interestingly, a survey Nester conducted of elementary-school parents revealed that over 40 percent would like to see a la carte sales ended. Eleven percent of the 571 respondents didn't answer the question, and 48.7 percent said the alternate menu should stay. It

Lunch prices to rise

Despite the budget report that the cafeteria fund is healthy, Clarkston schools Director of Auxiliary Services Linda Nester asked for and received permission to raise lunch prices for fall.

The board of education voted Monday 6-0 (trustee Tom Howard was absent) to raise prices for the first time in two years. Lunches will go up 10 cents each to $1.50 for elementaries, $1.90 for secondaries, and $2.75 for adults.

Nester said changing federal guidelines for school lunches, as well as increasing labor and food costs are to blame. Schools will be required to reduce fat content to less than 30 percent by 1998. However Clarkston and many other districts hope to make that goal, at least at the elementary level, this fall. To do so, servings of carbohydrates such as bread, potatoes, noodles and rice will be increased. New computer programs will be used to analyze dietary content.

apparently will for now, since, according to Nester, lunch prices would have to go up 25 cents to make up for the lost revenue.

With sunshine hard to come by in recent weeks. necessary. any nice day may provide just the tempation necessary to try to get that summer tan.

But according to Dr. Niru Prasad, MD, a pediatrician on staff at St. Joseph Mercy-Oakland, there's no such thing as a safe tan. Research continues to show the connection between suntanning and premature aging and skin cancer, Prasad says. He offers some tips for avoiding sunburn:

 Wear a hat and protective clothing and apply sunscreen 30-60 minutes before going outside. Sunscreens are rated according to their sun-protecting factor (SPF). The higher the SPF, the greater the protection.

Use a waterproof sunscreen (PABA Estev) for swimming or strenuous activity, and re-apply when

● If you're near a reflective surface such as sand or cement, use a sunscreen with a high SPF. Reflection can intensify the amount of ultraviolet exposure by 60

 Avoid sun exposure if you are taking certain medications that increase your sensitivity to the sun, such as antidepressants, antihistamines, tetracycline, oral contraceptives and certain non-steroidal antiinflammatory medications.

Avoid tanning machines.

If you do get sunburned, oral analgesics, cool compresses applied to the skin and cool baths help relieve pain. Sunburn with excessive blistering or symptoms of nausea, vomiting, weakness or chills are more serious and need to be evaluated by a physician.

Auditors say finances in strong shape

But bad investments keep optimism in short supply

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Auditors Plante and Moran gave a detailed report on what impact bad investments have and could have on Independence Township's financial status.

The auditors presented their yearly audit report to the township's board of trustees at its June 18 meeting.

While the township's fund balance (over $900,000), revenues and expenditures remained strong for the year ending 1995, the township's investments remain a concern. Since the last audit, Plante & Moran paid much more attention to the investment portion of the audit, even setting up a "reserve" of over $500,000 to account for a decreased market value in four CMO (collateralized mortage obligation) investments.

"I have analyzed this quite in depth," said lead auditor Jeffrey Mengel.

Mengel said he tried to pay particular attention to the four CMOs and the drain they have placed on investments. Trustee Jeff McGee asked Mengel what would happen if the township decided to sell right now. Mengel said he estimates that a loss of about $900,000 would be recorded among all the township funds that contribute to the investment pool. That figure was offset somewhat because auditors were able to spread among funds a $310,000 settlement the township received from PaineWebber regarding two other investments that are no longer on the township's books, and a $100,000 arbitration judgment regarding the four CMOs.

"The amount of this loss is estimated at $528,000 and has been allocated to the funds in accordance with their original purchase percentages," said Mengel.

While he emphasized the township wouldn't be in any financial danger, he did say some funds would be hurt more than others.

"The bottom line is that a couple of funds would have a problem," said Mengel. "Small funds like the DDA fund could be hurt especially if there are planned projects coming up. A fund like sewer and water wouldn't be hurt as much because it is so large and could withstand that loss."

Each of the township's funds — such as police, water and sewer, Downtown Development Authority, etc. — that have part of their funds allocated in the investment pool would be affected by any realized loss. Some funds don't invest as much money in the pool because they may not have as much cash to invest.

For instance, the water and sewer fund has about 47 percent earmarked in the investment pool, while the DDA fund has about 18 percent of its fund in the pool.

Mengel said some funds, like the police fund, which had a "zero" fund balance at the end of 1995, would be hurt by the sale of the four investments.

In the audit report, Plante & Moran also pointed out that the township's investment earnings dropped from $400,000 in 1993 to $233,000 in 1995.

Auditors came under fire

Plante & Moran has audited the township's books for almost 10 years, but their contract with the township was in jeopardy when the investment problems first arose.

In May of 1994, Plante & Moran discovered the township suffered investment losses from two CMOs sold to the township by PaineWebber, almost four years after those illegal (according to the state treasury) investments were made. Auditors also discovered four other CMO investments, purchased between September 1993 and March 1994 from Westcap Securities.

The six risky investments were brought to the attention of township officials and that's when the almost two-year-old brouhaha began. But because the first two PaineWebber investments had been on the books for four years before the auditors noticed, the township's board of trustees and attorneys considered legal action against them.

At the time, Plante & Moran said they followed all general accounting practices, as required by state law, and did nothing wrong. In addition, CMO investments were relatively new and unfamiliar to many auditors.

The board ended up not taking legal action against Plante & Moran.

The board will meet July 1 for its annual organizational meeting. At that time there is expected to be some discussion about possible ballot wording.

In addition, a special workshop meeting has been scheduled for Monday, July 8 beginning at 5 p.m. Greiner will bring a computer and a line-by-line budget analysis will be undertaken.

With their heads already spinning, the board also heard a presentation from its technology consultant, Childs Consulting. A representative told the board another $9.2 million may be needed for technology on the project. Childs, too, will be back at a later date for further honing of the numbers.

"I want to get back to bare bones as a starting point for discussion," Craig said.

Vitiligo, a skin problem which iffects between 1% and 2% of the population, involves the appearance of white patches of skin due to the sudden disappearance of melanin pigment in childhood or young adulthood. Melanin is the pigment that determines the color of skin, hair and eyes and is produced in cells called melanocytes. When these cells die or cannot form melanin, the skin becomes lighter or completely white. The cause for this loss remains unclear. What is clear is that the course and severity of pigment loss are different for each person who suf-fers from vitiligo. Typically, area f milky-white skin appear, but the degree of pigment loss can vary with each vitiligo patch. As for treatment, topical steroids return pigment to small areas of vitiligo, while repigmentation therapy involving a medication with ultraviolet A light has a 50%-70% chance of returning color on the face, trunk, and upper arms and legs.

If you have any questions regarding Vitiligo or anything else related to your skin, be sure to speak with a Dermatologist, a specialist in the field. When it comes to your skin, it's not a good idea to play guessing games. We are conveniently located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692); 3782 Lapser Rd., Metamora (678-3974); & 3003 Baldwin, Orion (391-9599) to serve all the members your family. Have a great and safe Fourth of July!

P.S. For some patients with severe vitiligo, the most practi-cal treatment may be to remove the remaining pigment from nor-mal skin with a chemical known as monobenzylether of hydroquinone and make the whole body an even white color known as psoralen combined ver wonder why golf courses have 18 holes instead of some other number?... Actually, in the early days of golf's development in Britain, different courses did have different numbers of holes... For example, when the first British Open was played, at the Prestwick Club in 1860, that course had only 12 holes... Some other courses then had 7 holes, some had 8, some had 14.. But the most famous course, St. Andrews of Scotland, just happened to have 18 holes -- and in the years following 1860, other courses increased to 18 holes merely to follow the pattern set by St. Andrews... And, thus 18 holes became the standard for golf courses everywhere.

Soliciting law tougher

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Solicitors in Independence Township will be under more scrutiny with recent approval of amendments to the solicitation ordinance.

The township's board of trustees passed the first reading of the changes at its June 18 meeting. Final adoption is expected at the July 2 meeting.

"We have talked about making these changes for the past year," said clerk Joan McCrary.

The main changes require any child under 18 years old to be accompanied by an adult, and increase the number of reasons a soliciting license can be revoked.

In the past, McCrary said too many times children were used to solicit. Now the amended ordinance requires a "supervising adult" to be with the youth.

The township always required adults to register and receive township board approval. In addition, background checks for criminal history were also done.

While those mechanisms are still in place, even more will be required, including, among other things, proof of age (birth certificate, etc.) and a statement identifying criminal convictions and when and where they took place.

McCrary said the changes are being made to better protect township citizens from unwanted solici-

Applications can be denied for the following reasons: a criminal conviction; false statements; use of a firearm; dishonesty, etc.

Additional ordinance language includes:

* When a solicitor is approved the clerk will issue a plastic badge with the registration showing. This badge must be visible at all times.

* If a registration is denied, the person may appeal to the township board in writing, stating reasons why the certificate should be granted.

* Exemptions from the ordinance include solicitors sponsored by public, parochial or private schools. or by a recognized non-profit charitable or religious organization, provided that written notification is given to the clerk 30 days prior to soliciting activities.

More board action

 A new recreation programmer was hired for the Parks and Recreation Department. The former programmer resigned one day after giving rotice and it forced Parks and Rec Director Ann Conklin to find a replacement.

The board voted to approved Conklin's recommendation and hire Michael Cowdry, who was the runner-up for the same position when it opened the last time. Cowdry, a Central Michigan University alum, who played baseball there, will begin July 8.

● Final adoption was given to rezone a sevenacre parcel located on the east side of Eston Road, between Kacy Court and Indianwood Road.

The property went from rural residential to suburban farms residential and, if fully developed, would allow three additional homes to be built there.

McGee wins a round

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

It was perhaps with a little trepidation that Independence Township Trustee Jeff McGee prepared for his appearance before the Zoning Board of Ap-McGee's request for a variance to build a garage on his property on Onandaga in the Thendara Park Country Club subdivision had all the potential of turning into a three-ring circus due to ongoing disputes with neighbors. At least three neighbors have sued McGee over alleged infractions ranging from trespassing to violation of the Subdivision Control Act.

However, the proceeding went smoothly, with McGee winning approval for his garage by unanimous vote of the ZBA, of which he is a member. According totownship planning/zoning official Beverly McIlmeel, several neighbors attended and asked questions but there was no protest.

McGee said the victory fits a pattern that has already started in Circuit Court, but at great cost.

"I won a victory, maybe two victories, maybe three victories," he said last week, before the ZBA appearance. "Meanwhile I've dumped a very large sum of money into my defense. I had no choice."

In going before the ZBA, McGee pointed out he has the same rights as anyone else to request a vari-

Due to the constraints of his lot, McGee said there was no way to build a garage without a variance. The one he requested was for 39 feet.

"In no way am I asking special favors. I think we've determined people have a right to have a garage as long as they do it on their property . . . I'm just like any other taxpayer out there, I want to have a garage for all the usual reasons."

In a telephone call to The Clarkston News, McGee said one of his neighbors' lawsuits has been settled out of court, with McGee agreeing to pave a short, steep road that was difficult at best in bad weather. The road will then be a better alternative than the unpaved path along the lake front McGee closed off some time ago to keep drivers off what isn't really a road, according to the township's plat map. Two other suits are pending.

"It's a major violation of my rights as just a person," he said of the litigation. "I understand you give up-a certain amount of that when you become a

Knob Notes

By Eileen Oxley
What the heck ever happened to him?

Depending on the way you take him, Adam Sandler inspires hysterical laughter or downright indignation.

Take his
"The Chanukah (Hanukkah) Song," for example. Among wholesome carols and harmless parodies, the satiric hit that burst through the airwaves lampooning Jews this

Christmas season was the pit in a bowl of plum pudding to some.

It generously examines the ethnic percentages of such luminaries as Harrison Ford and The Three Stooges, all the while reminding the listener to go "tell Veronica to have a Happy Chanukah."

Being irreverent is something that just comes naturally to Sandler, who started his career spontaneously at the age of 17 when his brother coaxed him to take the stage at a Boston Comedy Club. He was immediately hooked and attended New York University, working toward a degree in fine arts while continuing to perform regularly in clubs and universities through the state.

A short time later he landed a coveted spot as part of the "Saturday Night Live" cast, first appearing in 1990. The characters he created were his own—Cajun Man, Opera Man, Canteen Boy, Herlihy Boy and the host of "The Denise Show." He also got yuks for his apt spoofs of rocksters Axl Rose and Eddie Vedder.

As with many SNL characters, Sandler made the jump into movies with parts in "Coneheads" and starring roles in "Billy Madison" and "Happy Gilmore." Presently he's paired with Daymon ("In Living Color") Wayans in the yet-to-be-released "Bulletproof."

Sandler's first album "they're all gonna laugh at you" was nominated for a Grammy and contains his "Thanksgiving Song" in praise of turkey. His latest release "What The Hell Happened To Me?" features "The Chanukah Song" and other screwball originals like "Ode To My Car," "Steve Polychronopolous" and "Mr. Bake-o."

An example of fan fervor — he sells out regularly to venues across the country — can be heard on "The Chanukah Song" where laugh-crazed listeners all but drown out his performance.

Comedian-actor Adam Sandler performs with special guest Allen Covert at Pine Knob Friday, June 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Principal recalls 'close encounters' as Knob's community relations director

As George White tells it, he was sitting on a Pine Knob golf cart, munching popcorn when the limo pulled up.

A man stepped out and, even though he was minus his famous makeup, his sharp, distinctive features and long black hair made him instantly recognizable

"Gene Simmons came down and sat next to me and I shared my popcorn with him," says White, still incredulous about that day in the late '70s. "Kiss was playing at the Silverdome on Saturday and the Doobie Brothers were at Pine Knob on Sunday." Simmons, White explained, had come over to the Knob to watch his cousin, a member of the Doobies, rehearse.

Though they chatted about life, Kiss, the Doobies, the Knob—and he describes Simmons as "very nice, easy-going, easy totalk to,"—White didn't get chummy enough to ask the obvious question.

"He didn't display the tongue," White quips.

That was just one of White's close encounters of the Pine Knob kind, one of the perks he experienced as Pine Knob Music Theatre's director of community relations during the venue's first two decades of operation.

Like many teachers White, a Clarkston educator for 28 years and currently North Sashabaw El. principal, was looking for summer work. A year after Pine Knob Music Theatre opened in 1972, he was hired to supervise the usher staff. The next season he land-scaped, helping to rough in the Knob's new golf course.

However, "after the third season there were a lot of complaints from the neighborhood—the noise, the traffic, people urinating on front lawns," he recalls. That's when former Clarkston News editor Jean Saile contacted Pine Knob owner Joey Nederlander, suggesting the theater create a community relations position. And she had the perfect candidate for the job.

White had lunch with both Saile and Nederlander. "We talked about the music theater, that it should be proactive and respond to the need in the community," White says.

As the new community relations director, White did respond to those needs — creatively. One of the problems was how to get neighboring residents out of the theater fast and back to their homes. White designed a neon-yellow "Resident" sign to be placed above the car's dashboard. It got them past "the blockade," he explains.

Because there was an Independence Township noise ordinance, White had to deal with another sticky situation — how to keep those decibels at the proper level and stifle people's sound complaints. He would drive around the area with a decibel meter, constantly checking atmospheric conditions — "whichever way

A resident of Clarkston for 48 of his 50 years, North Sash. El. principal George White is no "stranger in town." He holds a shot of Bob Seger next to the Clarkston News building which was once considered for the cover of Seger's album by the same name.

the wind blew" — to find out where the loudest levels

The worst problem White can remember was a Labor Day Beach Boys concert. Thoughthe township's ordinance stated the max could be 65 decibels, the volume rose to 120 during the concert. And it wasn't because the Wilsons and Mike Love were screaming their lungs out.

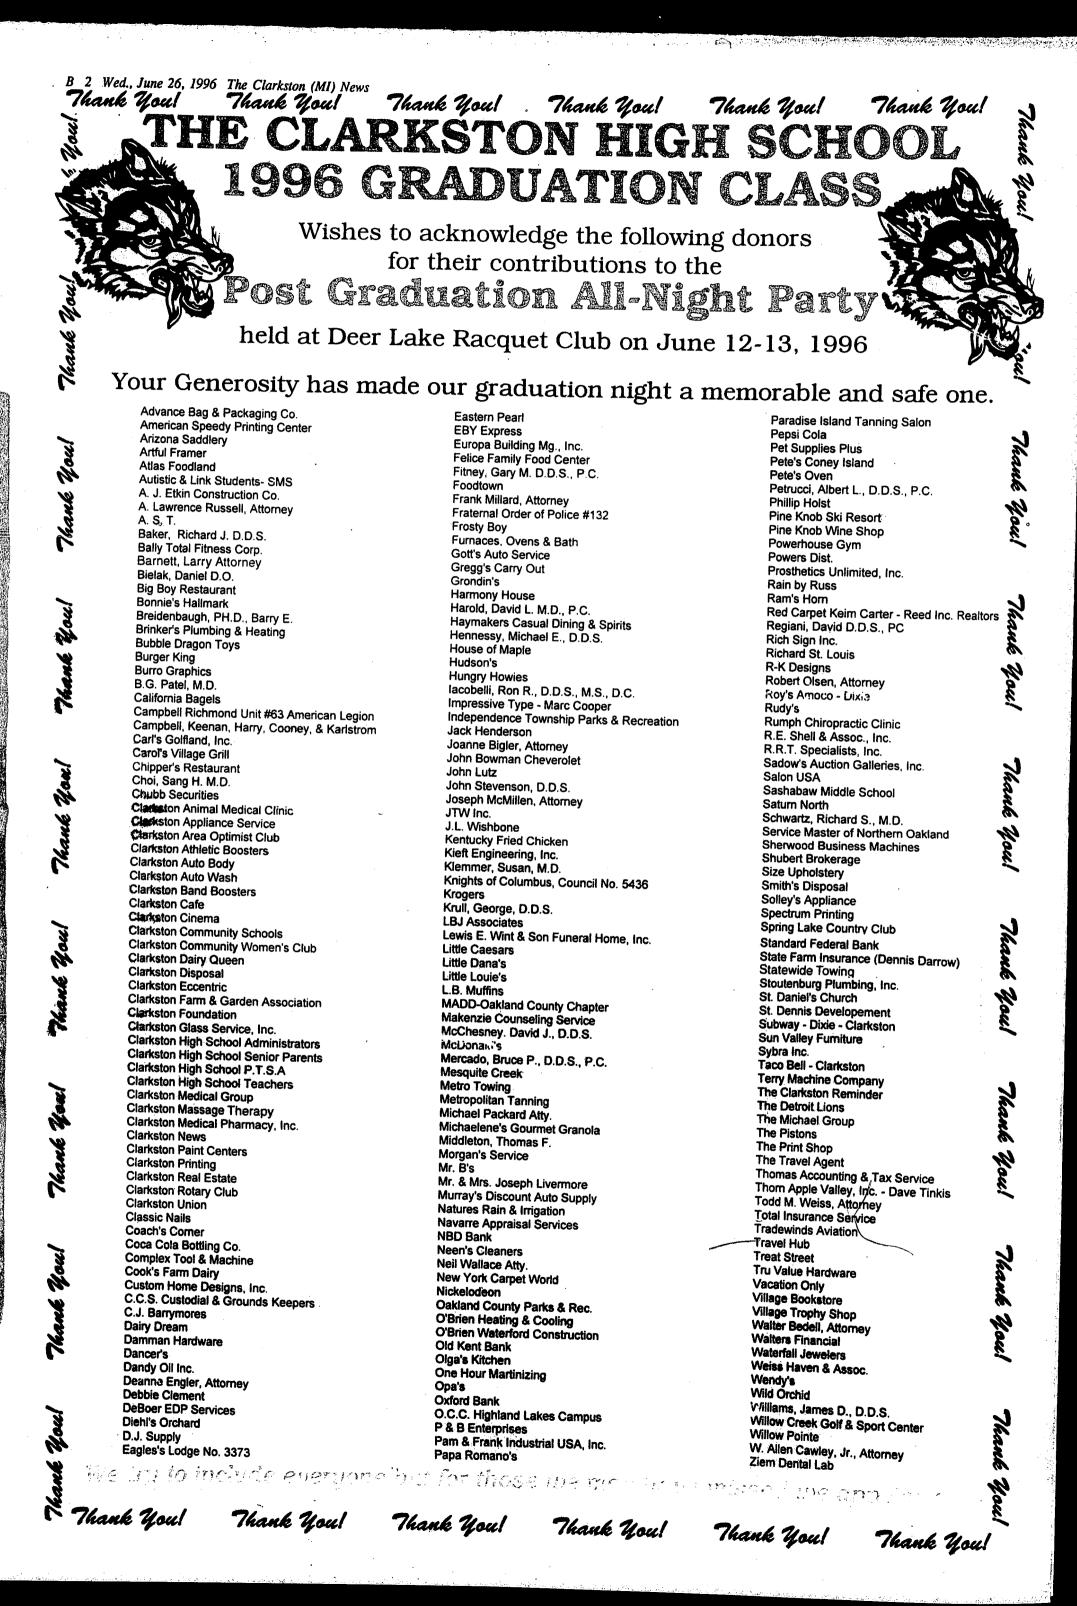

"It was the audience singing along with the Beach Boys — 'Help Me, Rhonda,' 'Little Deuce Coupe,'" White says with a chuckle. "You couldn't even hear the band. It was the audience. They just buried the decibel meter."

White also recalls the milestone Blue Oyster Cult concert where the group played until 12:15 a.m. As a result the township enacted an ordinance, stating shows had to end by 11 p.m.

But the rowdiest crowd White ever encountered were the fans who stormed the parking lot after ZZ Top performed. "It was a real rough night, July '76," he muses. "There was quite a bit of destruction to the theater." The Oakland County Sheriff's Department sent out its mobile-tactical unit and deputies were "in riot gear to manage the crowd."

Because ZZ Top was performing more than one night, "We were in court the next day with the township saying we shouldn't have a show, and the music

The column

By Darrel W. Cole

- Another varsity sports season down and it means another successful sports year for Clarkston.
 - If you want facts, here are some for you:
- * Thirteen of the 17 varsity teams had winning records for the 1995-96 school year;
- * The win-loss record for all teams is 193-86, a winning percentage of 69.1.
- * Almost half of the teams (eight) won their respective OAA division title or won a district championship, while three more teams finished second in their division or districts.
- * The boys basketball and wrestling teams defended their regional titles. The girls volleyball team finished second in regionals. The boys and girls ski teams were among the top six teams in the state. The football team qualified for the state playoffs for the second straight season. The girls cross-country squad finished fourth at the Class A state meet.
- * There were also a number of records set by teams and individuals this season.

The volleyball team won 40 games, the second-most in CHS history. The football team recorded a first with two straight state playoff appearances. The girls cross-country team's 4th-place at the state finals was the best finish ever.

Stefanie Burklow set school records in cross country and track (1600 run and 3200 run). Boys tennis player Mike Kopec set the school's all-time record in career wins, while teammate Mike Aulgur was the first boys state qualifier in 30 years. Wrestler Joe DeGain is the first undefeated state champion in CHS history. The wrestling team qualified seven individuals to the state finals, tying the school record set the season before. Wrestler A.J. Grant set a freshmen school record for wins.

- If you have ever dealt with athletic office manager Linda Walker you know how valuable she is to CHS athletics. Right now she's in Nebraska with her husband who needs a bone-marrow transplant. Please say a prayer for Linda and her family. Better yet, call me to get her address and drop a note to say
- Stefanie Burklow had the best senior year (on the field and in the classroom) I've ever witnessed in almost five years of covering high school sports. She improved greatly from her junior to senior seasons in cross country and track, setting school records in both sports. But just as impressive, Burklow was among the top ten academically in her class.

- Speaking of top ten students (GPAs of 3.921 to 4.0) did any of you sports-minded people notice that of Clarkston's top ten students, four are varsity athletes. They are Stefanie Burklow, Lisa Herron (volleyball, cross country and track), Scott Hill (basketball and baseball) and Elizabeth Fletcher (track). In addition, Jeff Roselli played JV soccer as a junior and Michael Romein is the dedicated freshmen and JV sports writer for The Clarkston News.
- Just for fun, here's some personal "awards" for some spring sport athletes and coaches:
- * The how-did-Clarkston-boys-tennis-becomerespected-award goes to Regional Coach of the Year Kevin Ortwine. By staying competitive in every match and sending junior Mike Aulgur to the state finals, the Wolves program is on the way up. That was never more evident than with Ortwine's regional award. It shows the respect the 13 other coaches from that regional have for the program.

*The most-improved-CHS-athlete-from-junior-to-senior-year goes to Nicki Hard. She went from an OK junior volleyball and softball player to first team Tri-District in both sports as a senior and first team All-OAA in both. And she'll play volleyball at Oakland Community College next season.

* A special make-the-writer-feel-good award goes to Joe DeGain, Joe Roy, Jeremy Lafferty, and Michael Romein for formally sending graduation announcements to this writer. Congrats on everything and thanks for making these almost two years covering and working with you four real fun. Keep up the good work.

* Believe this: There is a lot of pressure on graduating seniors to "do the right thing."

I had a conversation with one grad the other day about exactly that. She's not sure if she wants to go away to college or stay close to home and go to college and play sports.

It's a dilemma a lot of kids find themselves in. Here's a personal tip to that student-athlete I was talking to, and all those kids who are battling with those exact thoughts: Remember you only have four or five years of college and you're lucky if you have an opportunity to participate in college athletics.

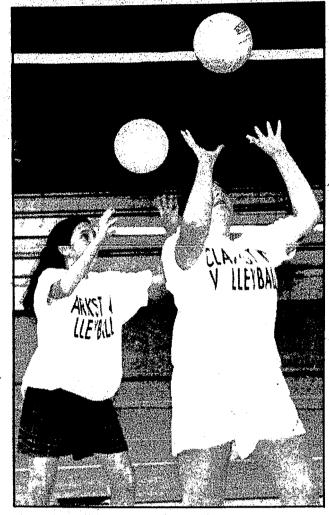

Take advantage of it now because after those four or five years, it's work, work, work, and all the other things that go along with being on the fast track to success.

No matter how hard we try, we don't know everything.

That's why The Clarkston News

needs to hear your news.

Close encounters of the 'Knob' kind theatre saying we should ... Basically we beefed up our employees and the show came off without incident."

As community relations director, White had all access to anywhere in the venue. He can tell you about the idiosyncrasies and personalities of the stars because he saw them first hand. For example, White remembers Barry Manilow as being a picky, polyester prince who had to have everything just so.

"He was a pain for the backstage crew. He had to have teddy bears and goldfish tanks, an aquarium with special fish in his dressing room."

Bob Seger, a one-time township resident, often appeared pre-show on his motorcycle. He would sometimes get into minor hassles with parking lot attendants. "They once stopped him to pay admission and he was the main attraction. He had a helmet on; people couldn't tell who he was," White explains.

Proud of Clarkston schools, White fondly recalls the years students were drawn into performances. Long before Nirvana had cheerleaders in its music videos, Knob performers incorporated school kids. The Clarkston High school cheerleaders pom-poned for the Beach Boys one year. Then there was the time the high school chorus backed up the Carpenters.

But Pine Knob saw the greatest number of students on stage when J. Geils asked for the CHS marching band. "They played probably the first 30 seconds of a J. Geils concert set. For some reason, they wanted a high school band on stage."

Memories, memories. White has many. Saying hi to the Beach Boys as they exited from a helicopter, turning down the lawn speakers at mouthy comedian Richard Pryor's concert, missing the moment Bette Midler dropped her towel on stage — and donating a school softball field to John Denver and his roadies.

"Denver's backstage crew was having a softball game. I made a deal with him." White offered him the Sashabaw Junior High ball field in exchange for a special performance.

After the game "He came to sing at SCAMP (a summer camp for handicapped children)." White remembers the mop-topped troubadour being as gentle as his songs. "He was marvelous."

He feels the music theater has made tremendous improvements, especially since the Palace assumed ownership several years ago.

"Pine Knob is totally different from the way it was then. There have been vast improvements. It's more comfortable, there are expansions, restrooms, traffic flow improvements ..."

Sometimes he misses his days as community relations director, a post that no longer exists. White says he feels the position enabled him to be an ombudsman between the theatre and township residents, to make Pine Knob "a good neighbor."

But, when you come right down to it, White has mostly enjoyed the times he's been able to sit on the lawn or in the pavilion like any other patron, munching more of that buttered popcom, enjoying a drink and perhaps jumping to his feet like all of us, to beg for an

He recently attended a Bob Seger show and introduced a friend to the ways of concert-goers. Sitting comfortably, he again witnessed the glow of a thousand Bics.

The friend asked, "What's with all the lighters?" White, truly the voice of experience, could tell him. "That means the crowd is really getting into it, they enjoy it."

Hershey Youth event set for June 29

Clarkston area boys and girls can participate in the Hershey Youth Track and Field qualifying meet June 29 at Clarkston High School.

For the 12th year in a row, under the direction of Gene Attaman and Jack Leech, local kids, aged 9-14. can participate for free in this fun event. In fact, area youths can attend the daily practices from 4-5:30 p.m. at the high school's track.

The June 29 meet is a qualifying event for some athletes to move on to the Hershey state finals, to be held at Howell High School July 12. The winners from that meet will then have their times compared with seven other states in the Great Lakes Region. From there, a top five time will qualify the athlete for an expense paid trip to Hershey, Pennsylvania for the national championships.

The qualifying meet registration time is 10 a.m. Events include the 50, 100, 200, and 400 meter dashes, the 800 and 1600 runs, the long jump and softball throw.

In addition to the Hershey program, the Clarkston Track Club will host an open meet July 20. The event is open to all area children aged 5-15. Awards will be given to the top eighth finishers in each age

For more information call Paulinne Beckett at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department at 625-8223.

Amidst the swimmers and yes, sunbathers, Friday were several swimming lesson sessions going on. Independence Township Parks and Recreation started the two-week sessions June 17, which continue to run throughout the summer. There are still openings and swim lesson program coordinator Richard Ashley may be contacted for more information at 625-8223.

In addition to getting wet, sessions include a Safety Day, used when there's inclement weather but not bad enough to cancel lessons. On shore, students are taught aquatic safety rules geared to the appropriate levels.

For example, young beginners will learn some basic beach rules like always swim where an adult can see you; don't dive into shallow water; don't throw sand; don't climb on boats, trees or equipment; always protect yourself with sun block, etc.

Safety Day also incorporates a lifeguard demonstration because, as Ashley says, "Kids like to watch lifeguards, they like to talk to lifeguards." Kids then see the bigger picture of what lifeguards do.

And, they think it's just plain cool "They say, 'Hey, it's like Baywatch!" he adds.
