Voters to decide $52 M question

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A single bond issue worth $52 million will be put before Clarkston school district voters this December asking for more space, including a new elementary school.

The board of education voted Monday night at a special meeting to put all the eggs in one basket and address issues of overcrowding and educational equity in one ballot proposal. The vote was unanimous, although trustees Karen Foyteck and Janet Thomas argued for splitting the issue into two questions.

During the last few weeks, the board and architects from Greiner, Inc. had whittled the cost down from over $60 million to the new $52.8 million price tag. The plans include additions and/or renovations at all six elementary schools, a new building and renovations at both middle schools and the current high school, which will become a middle school. The current Clarkston Middle School is being targeted as a future site for community education.

At the end of a lengthy discussion, superintendent Dr. Albert Roberts suggested that if anything was to be split off as a separate issue, it should be the current CMS building, but the board showed no support for that notion.

"I'm looking at purely classrooms we need for kids," he said. "You hired me to represent the kids and what we do educationally. I need 55 classrooms."

The proposal will ask the voters to bring back special-use rooms that have been taken over by regular classrooms due to the district's continuing population boom. Each elementary school would have four rooms for special subjects such as music, art and science.

The additions will also include cafeterias for schools that currently don't have them. In most elementaries, lunches are eaten in the gym, making it impossible to schedule physical education during that portion of the day.

The board has not yet decided where a new elementary school would be located. The district owns two parcels of land—one at Reese and Rattalee Lake roads and open space on the administration building site—but may consider looking elsewhere.

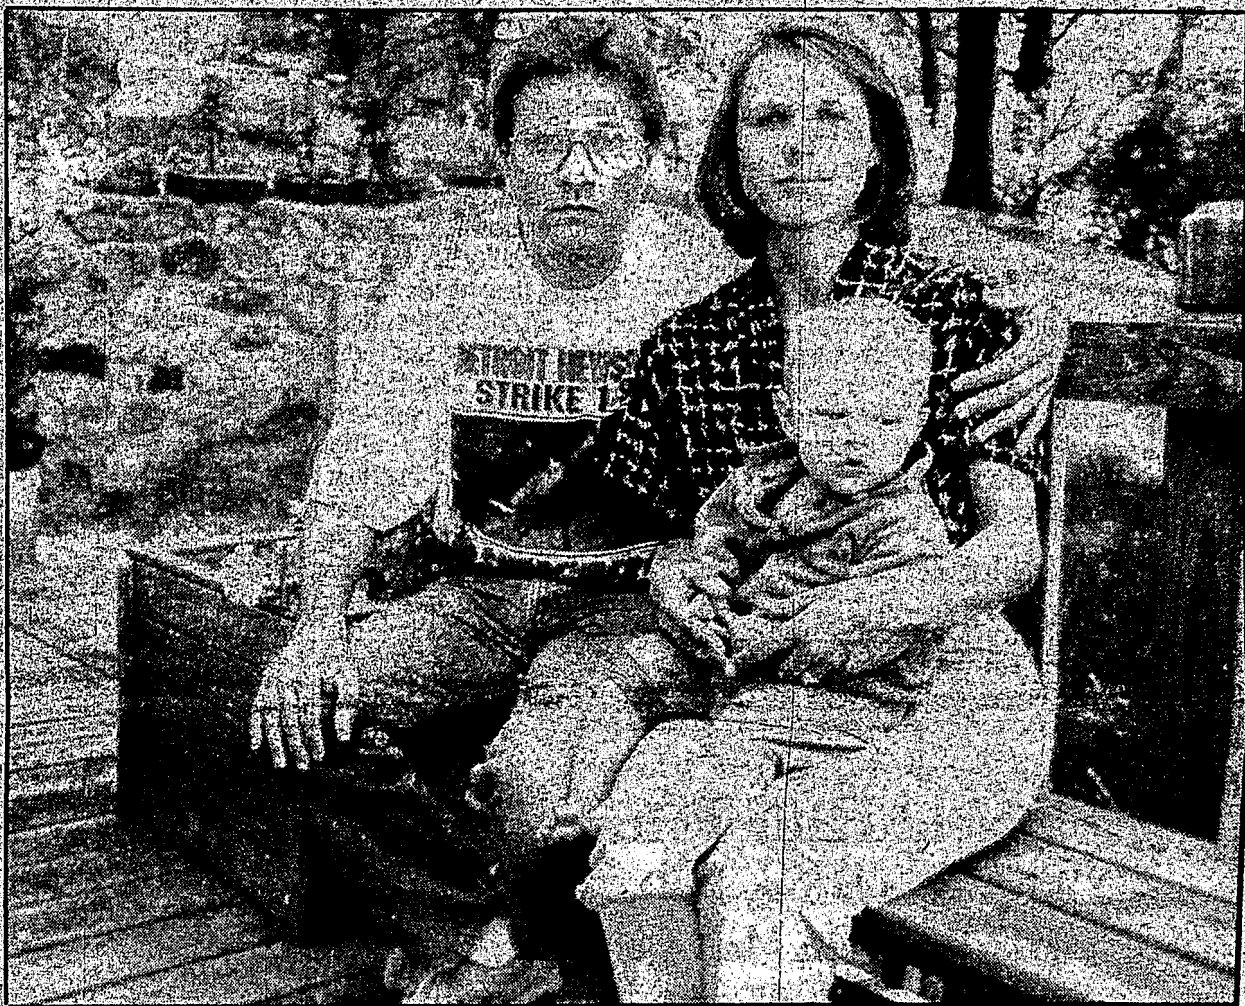

"I think we have our work cut out for us in the next two months to get the message out about unexpected growth," Roberts said.

"I want people to recognize we honored the commitment we made to them," Thomas said. "We are doing what we said we'd do in the first place."

Though the cost figure has come down, trustee Kurt Shanks asked for a "second opinion," and the board and Roberts agreed.

"While we've challenged Greiner quite a bit on this, it's a very significant amount of money," Shanks said.

In asking for more money, the board is acting on

No justice, no peace

Reporters view world differently one year into strike

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

When she walked away from a job she loved on July 13, 1995, Margaret Trimer Hartley was six months pregnant with her first child.

A successful education writer at the Detroit Free Press, she walked out with 2,500 other union workers, including her husband, photographer Damon Hartley, when six unions struck the Free Press and The Detroit News. And despite their concerns about how to support their baby and keep their modest lakefront home in Clarkston, the couple is still out one year later, a "No scab papers" sign tattered but defiant in their front yard.

The doting parents of 9-month-old Nicholas are as staunchly supportive of the strike as they were the day it started, despite the financial and personal hardships it has placed upon them. "There wasn't any wavering—is this the right thing to do, is this necessary," Trimer Hartley said. Both she and her husband were active in the union before the strike, he as vice chairman of the Free Press bargaining unit of the Newspaper Guild, she as secretary/treasurer. Despite that, the strike has been "basically devastating," she said.

"I had the best job a journalist could dream of. I was an education writer, part of an education team. We were highly awarded.... There were some overarching issues that were simmering for some time, but day to day, I didn't have any problems on the job."

"For us, it was this liberal, family-oriented environment and we wanted to keep it that way," Damon Hartley said.

Both, however, sensed that things were changing. "It was the beginning of erosion," Trimer Hartley said. So when the strike was called, they hit the picket line, making do on $160 a week each in strike pay and all the freelance work they could find.

"We've just barely been able to keep our heads above water," Hartley said. Helping parents, a weekend food bank and their adoption by another union local have helped them hang on to what they've got.

The reaction of their neighbors in Clarkston has been mixed. Trimer Hartley said she's felt hostility. Hartley said he's felt mostly support.

"I have felt somewhat uncomfortable out here in Clarkston. I think there are people who think if you're

The news in brief

Traffic altercation turns ugly

Drivers in traffic Friday at the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway got a little more than they bargained for when a motorcyclist intentionally smashed a car window with his hand.

Witnesses told deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation that the motorcyclist was driving between two lanes of traffic, unnerving some motorists. When another driver tried to get him to stop by swerving towards him, he became angry. When the vehicles stopped at the light, the motorcyclist, a 24-year-old Ortonville man, bashed in the other car's sunroof.

The motorcycle driver was apprehended and said he would pay for the damages. For an eyewitness account of the incident, see the letter on page 8A.

Last contracts ratified

The Clarkston board of education ratified the last of its employee contracts for the year Monday night with votes for the Cafeteria Manager Association and the Clarkston Association of Support Personnel.

The board approved a two-year deal with five cafeteria-related employees which assistant superintendent Duane Lewis described as zero growth contracts. Employees will receive a three percent pay hike each year in exchange for concessions on some benefits, including sick and personal days, prescription drug copays and uniform reimbursements.

CLASP, which includes bus drivers and custodial workers, already had a contract for the coming year, but when it was signed a year ago it included a provision to reopen negotiations on pay this year. The bargaining unit, which contains 158 employees, will receive a pay hike of 3.5 percent for the coming year, also in exchange for benefit concessions similar to what most other employee groups have agreed to.

Local museum tied to rezoning

Seventy-four acres of land at Stickney and Pine Knob Roads will be the topic of a rezoning request July 25 in front of Independence Township's Planning Commission.

Developer Alex Bruni wants to rezone the property from R-1R (rural residential) to planned unit development. Bruni has said he will donate an old farm on the site as a community museum if the township is interested.

A group of residents has been organized to look into the matter of who would care for the museum and other details.

Kids Voting Michigan

As a way to increase voter awareness and participation and to teach children they have a responsibility to vote, Kids Voting Michigan is hoping to expand to Clarkston.

Kids Voting is a non-profit, community-based program where students complete educational activities in classrooms, then accompany parents or guardians to the polls to cast votes on election day.

More than 2.3 million students participated in the program nationally in 1994.

An informational meeting was held July 9 at the Independence Township Hall, put on by Sherry Regiani and township clerk Joan McCrary. Business and community leaders are encouraged to get involved. Call Regiani for more information at 625-5222.

The best game in town

By Darrel W. Cole

● Yes, the political climate is heating up. Candidates are going door-to-door, accusations are flying and information is leaking.

Whew!

● More than one person has said the Fourth of July Parade in Clarkston was a grand show for politicians. Many candidates found the event was their best way yet to meet potential voters.

And yes, a few managed to get in some political maneuvering along the way.

For instance, John Lutz, a longtime Boy Scout leader, was seen in the parade walking with his scouts near a car plastered with Lutz campaign signs. Politicians and kids are like bread and butter.

It was also a good time for treasurer candidate Henry Woloson to hand out dollar bills ... fake ones that is. His dollar bill is a larger reproduction with some minor changes, namely his mug in the place of George Washington's.

To avoid any counterfeiting charges (sorry Henry, you need more curl to look like GW) Woloson wanted to make it clear he'd done his homework on the legality of reproducing a dollar bill. Apparently he called the Secret Service and they informed him it could be done if the bill is increased 175 percent or decreased by 75 percent.

● A few weeks ago we talked in this column about how challengers who want to unseat incumbents must get tough. Well, it looks as though clerk challenger Sheila Hughes is going for the knockout and picking the round (witness the story at right).

Incumbent Joan McCrary is finding herself defending her time in office, while Hughes says she's determined to show voters why McCrary must not be re-elected.

● One universal criticism of all three current elected officials is they have trouble communicating with one another. It's been a problem for some time, bringing one treasurer candidate to say, "Maybe we should lock them all in a room and force them to watch 'Three Stooges' reruns."

● This was passed along to me: Will any of the losers in August — especially in the treasurer's race — run as a write-in in November?

According to elections law, someone who runs for office as a Republican in August CANNOT be placed on the ballot as a Dem or anything else in November. They can, however, like any registered voter, run as a write-in candidate.

● The man who helped create the township's ordinance which says political signs can be put up only two weeks before an election refuses to put them up at all.

Former planning commission chairman Rich Oppmann, running for trustee, said he doesn't like how "out of control" people get with signs during elections so he will opt to stay out of sign wars all together.

If anyone drives in, through or near Orion Township, you can see what a mess it becomes when there is no such ordinance in effect. Signs have cluttered intersections, private property, state property and utility poles.

● Don't forget "Primary Decision '96," set for July 18, 7:30 p.m. at the township annex building. The public is encouraged to come to this question-answer format with candidates for supervisor, treasurer and clerk. A trustees night is set for July 24, same time, same place.

Primary Decision '96

What was clerk's role in investment oversight?

Candidates differ on what McCrary should have known

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In an election year, no one is immune to criticism. Especially if it happens to be an incumbent township official.

And, with the August 6 primary vote less than three weeks away, it's now Independence Township clerk Joan McCrary's turn to take some heat from her challenger, Sheila J. Hughes.

Incumbent supervisor Dale Stuart (who is being challenged by trustee Mel Leroy Vaara) and treasurer John Lutz (who is being challenged by Henry Woloson, Kurt Karlstrom, Roberta Badgley and Jim Wenger) have already fended off their share of attacks.

Stuart found himself on the defensive last week when information was leaked to the media that he held up payment of bills on a car-lease contract and for money the township owed to MDOT. Stuart said contract disagreements are common and the information was leaked by those who don't want him re-elected.

Joan McCrary

John didn't get us into that mess all by himself.

Sheila Hughes

Over the past year Lutz has been attacked for investing the township's money in illegal securities. As the Aug. 6 primary nears, he'll likely find himself defending those actions even more, although he does say the township is not in any financial danger.

Now McCrary, who in two elections has never been challenged for her job, must defend herself.

Hughes says it's time people know McCrary hasn't done her job like she should. Hughes says McCrary should have found out about the township's investment problems sooner and adds that a lack of communication with the supervisor and treasurer is mostly her fault as well.

McCrary, appointed clerk in 1989 and re-elected in 1990 and 1992, says she's been expecting the criticism for some time and maintains she's performed her duties to the best of her abilities. Regarding the bad investments, McCrary says those are areas not under her responsibility, only the treasurer. As far as communication, McCrary says she has tried to correct the problem but has always been shunned.

Hughes, who has served six years on the school board and is currently employed as a bookkeeper, says her philosophy is to not have it look as if she's personally attacking McCrary, but only the way she's performed her duties.

"I am working to win the clerk's job," she said. "It's not a person-thing, it's because of what was not being done." Hughes, 51, strongly believes the clerk should have known about the bad investments the township made because the clerk's job is to handle accounting records. She also says the clerk must be more of a "team player" and understand that the supervisor is like the CEO of a company.

Sheila Hughes

"John (Lutz, the treasurer) didn't get us into that (investment) mess all by himself," said Hughes. "The clerk's responsibility (when it comes to handling township funds) is to keep detailed accounting records. She should have shared a certain amount of responsibility."

McCrary, 58, says Hughes doesn't understand enough about the job to know what she's talking about.

"I keep records as the state law directs," said McCrary. "The treasurer has all the responsibility of investments. This office is required to get statements that show investments at cost and not at market value, so how could I have known these were decreasing in value?"

"Just as John is not responsible for elections, I am not responsible for investments."

But Hughes says McCrary signs the checks paid out and the over $1 million in commissions paid to brokers whom the township eventually took to arbitration should have been spotted by her. Again, McCrary says, it's Lutz' responsibility to deal with brokers.

Even Lutz himself says trying to place blame on McCrary is "a difficult call." Lutz says he doesn't think McCrary or the township's finance director Kerry Donahoe could have recognized these investments when the auditors didn't until two years later.

"I didn't even get market values from the brokers," said Lutz. "There are two ways to look at it."

She doesn't know what goes on here.

Joan McCrary

Sheila has her way of looking at it and Joan has her way. Truthfully, I think they were handled correctly."

Current trustee Daniel Travis, who is also running for re-election, said it may be very difficult for anyone to determine how much blame is placed on individual board members regarding the bad investments that were made.

"Everyone on this board bears some responsibility," said Travis, who maintains he personally likes both clerk candidates. "When this first started our attorney explained that there are degrees and perceptions of responsibility. He explained each person on this board could be given a percentage of responsibility."

Downtown revitalization to be studied

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Should Clarkston reinvent itself? Before the city goes any further with downtown improvements, residents will have to decide if they want — or even need — such changes.

That's the latest word from business owners and a Clarkston City Council member who formed a committee during the Clarkston Downtown Business Association meeting July 9. The committee wants to include residents in a thorough study that hopes to determine whether downtown revitalization is necessary.

Some of the questions being asked are: Should the Clarkston City Council spend $10,000 for an intensive master plan that would enhance the downtown area with beautification, more retail and parking improvements? What kinds of businesses and services would residents like to see? And, are there enough parking spaces for not only visitors, but employees?

"What we're trying to figure out is if people are satisfied or if they're not satisfied. If they are satisfied, we won't go any further," said Clarkston City Council member Karen Sanderson, who offered to work with the CDBA several weeks ago to conduct the study.

"We're going to start with a survey to see what people would like to see in the downtown area, what they like the most, what they'd like to see. I'd like to be able to buy a Band-Aid rather than jumping in my car and running down the street," said CDBA acting president Carroll Harris, general manager of the Clarkston Cafe.

The next CDBA meeting is scheduled for Friday, July 19 at 10 a.m. at the Clarkston Cafe. The public is invited to come and share input.

Sanderson would like to include a questionnaire in residents' sewer bills. That procedure helped to determine resident interest about city water last year.

Some people have specific concerns.

Bowen Brook, president of Max Brook Realtors, Inc., said his main concern is parking and his Clarkston branch has suffered personally since several Depot parking spaces were eliminated last year. But he understands that others don't perceive there's a parking problem at all.

However, he adds, "I don't think it does any good to mitigate or deny that there's a parking problem." That's why, as part of the committee study, Brook plans to count the number of downtown employees and people visiting Clarkston each day, especially during peak business hours.

Brook says he has three goals in mind: "A, assess what you have in available parking. B, look at the number of people at any given time who require parking. C, what can we do to enhance the downtown to encourage retail merchants to locate in Clarkston."

Brook said he was motivated to do the study after a conversation with Clarkston Planning Commission member Steve Arkwright. He agreed, "We need the merchants and the professional (office) people to pull together."

Though he's president of a realty, Brook feels that "retail has declined. Professional or office has grown."

If there is enough interest from businesses and residents, Harris said the committee hopes to raise money from both for a larger study by planners

HyettPalma. Clarkston's City Council has discussed the possibility of matching funds but has made no commitment.

"They (HyettPalma) re-engineered Plymouth and that's a fairly good success story. Whether we need it out here I don't know. That's the reason for the questionnaire — to find out whether people who live in the village want it, and it'll also survey the people who work downtown," Harris said.

Like others, Mona Weaver of Clarkston Fine Arts Gallery is concerned about the loss of special retail businesses like Hallman's. "The hardest thing was seeing that drug store go out," she said.

Brook agrees. "We lost a great deal when we lost the Apothecary. It's a blessing that Rudy's is still here. We're stagnant at present unless we can develop for potential merchants. That would tend to attract potential shoppers."

To keep cherished businesses downtown, some have discussed "creatively freeing space up for retail," said Sanderson.

Weaver said several business owners have expressed interest in "restructuring" their facilities to make room for merchants.

Brook said the survey and any resulting progress is going to take "a collective effort... You always do better if you have a plan of action and right now there doesn't appear to be one. When you have a plan and a commitment, it opens up support. People know what you're working toward..."

"There has to be sort of a common spirit to move this thing forward. If people know what's in store, the objectives, the goals — That's something they can buy into."

For more information on becoming involved with the study, or if you have any perspectives to share, call Clarkston City Council member Karen Sanderson at 625-5815.

Clarification

In response to a Clarkston News story about an unlicensed mechanical contractor being investigated by the Oakland County Sheriff and the Michigan Dept. of Labor, Independence Township building official Bev McIlmeel said the township can help homeowners seeking a contractor.

McIlmeel said that residents can come to the building department to determine whether a contractor has done business in the township before and is licensed. Any building trade can be checked.

McIlmeel said homeowners should also demand the contractor get the required inspections that come along with getting the appropriate permit.

"Inspection is a right ensuring proper installation," she said.

Any work on a home, other than general repair and maintenance, requires a permit. Contractors must supply their license number in order to pull a permit.

"If a contractor asks a homeowner to pull a permit, I would say that's a red flag," McIlmeel said.

Neighbor alerts family to fire

An expensive house was spared serious damage and a family was spared injury when a neighbor noticed smoke rolling out of a window on Deerhill Ct. early Friday morning.

The neighbor, Michael Odette, a Davisburg attorney and candidate for Oakland County Sheriff on the Aug. 6 primary ballot, was leaving for work around 6 a.m. when he smelled smoke, then noticed smoke coming from the window of a nearby house.

According to reports filed with the Independence Township Fire Department and Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Odette called the fire department and then woke the residents of the house. Firefighters found a smoldering mattress but no structural damage to the house. The fire appears to have been caused by an overheated plastic reading lamp.

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., July 17, 1996 5A

According to the OCSD report, a 14-year-old resident of the house was reading around 2 a.m. when he noticed his lamp smoking. He unplugged it and opened a window to release the smoke. He then put a rug under the door so the smoke wouldn't seep into the house and went to another area to sleep.

It was four hours later when Odette saw the smoke. "They were very lucky," said fire chief Gar Wilson. "The damage was confined to the mattress."

As to why it happened, someone noticed that the lamp was rated for a 25 watt bulb but had been fitted with a 100 watt bulb instead. The boy said he had changed the light bulb some time earlier.

The homeowner could not be reached for comment.

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

PUTTING A NEW FACE ON THINGS

While dermatologists have known for some time that vitamin A acid known as tretinoin helps reverse the signs of skin's aging, it had only been available by prescription as an anti-acne medication that has a drying effect. Fairly recently, however, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration moved to recognize tretinoin's effectiveness as an anti-aging treatment and approved a tretinoin-based wrinkle cream that also contains a moisturizing emollient. This prescription-only cream may not help rid the face of deep wrinkles, but it is effective for treating fine wrinkles and fading brown spots or freckles caused by sun damage. To get the desired effect, however, potential users of the tretinoin-based cream must be made aware of the fact that they must be scrupulous about protecting their skin from the sun.

This column is offered by us weekly as a public service. It is vitally important for men as well as women to take care of their skin and to seek advice early on if they suspect a problem. If you are new to this community and do not have a dermatologist yet, call us to schedule an appointment. Our offices are located at 4330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0892); 3782 Lapeer Rd., Metamora (878-3974); & 3003 Baldwin, Orion (391-9599).

P.S. The FDA does not allow tretinoin to be used in cosmetics because it is considered to be a drug.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Be still my heart

A couple of months ago on a freezing, windy day the folks at Hudson's invited the media to breakfast inside what was then just a shell of their new store at Somerset Mall North. Over crabcakes and coffee company execs whetted our collective appetite for what was to come.

Last week we were invited back. This time, with the opening just one month away, there was a lot more to see and it was a lot easier to visualize just how great the new store will be. And even this jaded shopper (and former Hudson's salesperson) found herself gasping at some of what will be offered at this most plush of all Hudson's stores.

How about a concierge as you enter the store from the mall? Want a dinner reservation? Don't bother to look for a pay phone. The concierge will make the call for you. Beeper go off in the dressing room? No problem; there's a phone in there too.

Too much power shopping? Visit the first-floor spa, where they'll wrap you in a white robe and slippers and massage your cares away. Need a $3,000 espresso maker? Got it. A cold bottle of wine to go? Got that too. Want to register gift preferences for your birthday? No problem.

If they live up to the promise, gone will be the days of searching for someone to take your money. Customers are now referred to as "guests." And you wouldn't want to keep a guest waiting, would you?

We were wowwed by the expertise and excitement of the management staff. Yes we were the media, but their attitude was downright contagious and you could tell that they are ready and waiting for the doors to open.

Salespeople are now called associates, managers are "team leaders" and all are undergoing extensive training in their respective areas. When the store opens, they'll be ready. This is especially important, because they'll be debuting many lines exclusive to this store, stuff many of us probably haven't seen before, except maybe in catalogues: Christofle silver, Herend china, Baccarat crystal and much more.

In addition to carrying the luxurious and the very expensive, the store will offer some incentives to come back regularly, such as hosiery and lingerie clubs, where you'll receive freebies after a certain number of purchases.

And there'll be lots of fun stuff. I predict the most popular spot will be the big, round coffee bar on the third floor. There you'll be able to cozy up to the counter and order a cappuccino and a sweet while shoppers bustle by picking out custom gift baskets and ordering hot pizza and pasta. Heaven.

Hudson's seems to have thought of everything, basing their decisions on customer research. There are nearly 100 women's fitting rooms and 30 men's. They've put restrooms on all three floors, a computer in the shoe department to find your size at another store and ship it to you (no charge); they've even made sure the covered walkway from the covered parking area is temperature-controlled, summer and winter.

Now if only I could afford to buy anything besides a cup of coffee in this store. Mr. Publisher, are you reading this? After my afternoon at Hudson's, I need a Somerset-North-size paycheck to compliment my Somerset North state of mind.

Letters to the editor

Busing a concern

To the Editor,

I have recently read that the Clarkston area is one of the fastest growing in Oakland County. Before anyone considers moving to Clarkston they might want to consider the ongoing concern and battle I have had with Clarkston Community Schools.

School buses in Clarkston will not run on private roads. We live in a new and fairly exclusive lake community with paved roads and adequate space for a bus to make a full circle to leave the sub without having to back up (the criteria for sending in a bus). Right now our children are being asked to stand on Dixie Highway to wait for the school bus. This is extremely dangerous, and the entire sub has had to make other arrangements for our kids. Many parents wait for the bus with their children or drive them to school. However, all of us cannot do this because of work schedules.

We have attended board meetings and been promised by not only the former superintendent but the director of auxiliary services that the policy regarding taking buses down private roads would be "revisited." This was never done. The director of auxiliary services even brought a bus into our subdivision to determine whether it was possible to do.

She led us (the developer and concerned parents) to believe that if it were possible she would begin bus service into the sub. We passed the test, but nothing was ever done. She said that policy would first have to change. When speaking to the superintendent about the dangers involved I stated that if it were his children the policy would undoubtedly change. His reply was, "Quite possibly you're right." He went so far as to cite a case where he considered another little girl's situation much more dangerous than ours. This was his outrageous attempt to rationalize policy.

The situation is further intolerable due to the fact that district policy does not allow parents to drop their kids off before the start of the school day. The principal of Clarkston Middle School told me it was because there was no one to watch the kids in the morning. Many districts allow this, and when set up properly it doesn't cost anyone a dime. The principal offered me the option of allowing my child to sit on the porch steps in front of locked doors for an hour in the morning but said he would not open the doors early. This was particularly interesting to me in that it was one of the school board members who suggested I contact the principal of my child's school to arrange for her to be let in early. He said that an arrangement of this sort had been made for him.

I submit that our school district has little concern for the safety of its students. We have consistently passed millages and bond issues in support of its efforts to improve the quality of the educational environment for our children. And the quality of the education the students receive is truly outstanding. But many of us would now like to see an immediate improvement with the concern for the safety of our children.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Just Jottin'

Gleaned from a watering hole in East Tawas from part-time resident Mike Gilbert: "If you're eating north of Bay City and it's not fish it could be road kill."

Question of the week: Is there a declining number of drivers using their directional signals or is there an increasing number of inconsiderate drivers?

Believe it or not, the following announcements actually appeared in various church bulletins. Believe it or not, someone went through the effort to find them.

+ Don't let worry kill you -- let the church help.
+ Thursday night -- Potluck supper. Prayer and medication to follow.

+ Remember in prayer the many who are sick of our church and community.

+ For those who have children and don't know it, we have a nursery downstairs.

+ The rosebud on the altar this morning is to announce the birth of David Alan Belzer, the son of Rev and Mrs Julius Belzer.

+ This afternoon there will be a meeting in the South and North ends of the church. Children will be baptized at both ends.

One more. + Tuesday at 4 p.m. there will be an ice cream social. All ladies giving milk will please come early.

Just learned that Hazel squeezes the toothpaste tube in the middle. You can tell we weren't one of the moderns who cohabited before total commitment. You can also tell that we don't use the same bathroom, and when we did I wasn't as picky as I've become after 47 years of total happiness.

You know it's going to be a bad day when you wake up to discover that your waterbed broke and then realize you don't have a waterbed.

You know it's going to be a bad day when you turn on the news and they're showing emergency routes out of the city.

You know it's going to be a bad day when your twin sister forgets your birthday.

DUMB MEN JOKES:

What is the thinnest book in the world? What men know about women.

What's the difference between men and government bonds? Bonds mature.

How do you save a man from drowning? Take your foot off his head.

How many men does it take to change a roll of toilet paper? We don't know - it's never happened.

What's the difference between a man and E. T.? E. T. called home.

How can you tell if a man is happy? Who cares! I can't close this column with thoughts like that. Instead I'll quote retired pharmacist Bill Patterson, who said, "A mechanical toy is an ingenious device that gives great pleasure to parents."

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1981)

The Clarkston school board approves salary increases in a 5-2 vote after meeting in closed session for an hour. Wage hikes of seven percent have been granted to most school administrators and non-affiliated supervisory personnel. The exception is a 10-percent increase for the food service supervisor. In the same motion the board amends the two-year contract approved in 1980 for superintendent Milford Mason. Rather than cover one-half the cost of a $100,000 whole-life insurance policy for Mason, the board agrees to pay the entire premium of $1,508.

Clarkston Village Council trustee James Schultz announces he is looking for a star-spangled banner to decorate the flagpole in Depot Park. "I've noticed that when we have the band play on Friday nights and they open with 'The Star Spangled Banner,' everyone turns to look at the flag -- and there's no flag," says Schultz at the July 13 council meeting.

Nine-year-old Eddie Johnson and his quarter-midget race car place first in a race at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club Race in Independence Township. The cars are 25-percent reproductions of full-midget vehicles and, depending on the vehicle and the age and skill of the driver, can attain speeds over 60 miles an hour. Eddie's car, powered by a two-horsepower gasoline motor, whips around the circular track at a speed that averages about 30 mph. Eddie's 7-year-old cousin Jennifer Drott also places first in her age group. "She sits on a pillow so she can see," chuckles Ron Johnson, Eddie's father.

25 YEARS AGO (1971)

Vandals cause $500-$600 worth of damage to the Independence Township Library. Three windows are broken, a door frame is dented, flowers are torn from their beds and the new sundial is bent. Tennis shoe tracks are found and Det. Sgt. Whitlock says, "We suspect that the vandals may have been children in their early teens."

Donald Cooper, Clarkston Village President for the past two years, submits his resignation to the village council July 13. Cooper, who has taught industrial arts at Clarkston Junior High School for the past 14 years, has accepted a teaching position in his hometown of Greenville.

The Annual Deer Lake Sailing Regatta is held after the parade on July 5 in a light rain and very thin winds. Sponsored by the Deer Lake Property Owners Association, the two races draw 12 entries.

50 YEARS AGO (1946)

Ralph Cole is named the 1946 golf champion of Clarkston after shooting a neat 78 to clinch the title at the Clarkston Golf Tournament at Davisburg Country Club. Frank Ronk is runner-up with a score of 79. The prize shot of the tournament is made by Charles Rockwell, who approaches the third green from 50 yards, rolling his ball into the cup.

Playing at the Drayton Theatre are Dorothy Lamour and Arturo DeCordova in "Masquerade in Mexico," Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake in "The Blue Dahlia" and Jack Haley and Helen Walker in "People Are Funny." Showing at the Holly Theatre are Van Johnson and Faye Emerson in "Born For Trouble" and Rita Hayworth, Glenn Ford and Joseph Calleia in "Gilda."

Specials at Terry's Market include potatoes, a package for 69 cents; cabbage, three pounds for a dime; Wheaties, two packages for 29 cents; grapefruit juice, one 46-ounce can for 35 cents; cottage cheese, 19 cents a pound; and dog food, a five-pound bag for 52 cents.

60 YEARS AGO (1936)

On account of Depot Rd. being badly torn up, those from afar in search of a place to swim pass right by the old swimming beach at Deer Lake. Many of the town folk are taking advantage of this situation and are able to go to the beach on almost any day of the week at almost every hour and find what might be termed a private swimming beach for Clarkston people.

The Holly Theatre features James Stewart, Wendy Barrie and Una Merkel in "Speed," Joe E. Brown and Joan Blondell in "Sons o' Guns," Edmund Lowe and Virginia Bruce in "The Garden Murder Case" and Frances Dee and Brian Donlevy in "Half Angel."

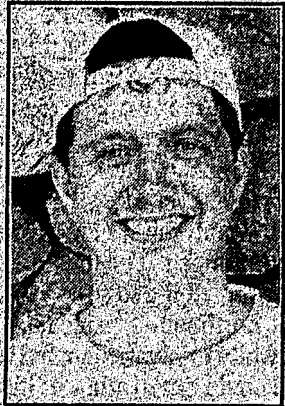

Specials at Rudy's include short ribs, 12 cents a pound; rolled rib roast, 24 cents a pound; hamburger, two pounds for 29 cents; Sanisorb Tissue, six for a quarter; crackers, two pounds for 15 cents; Jersey Corn Flakes, a package for a dime; and cheese, a four-ounce package for 10 cents.

People

Do you think Clinton will be re-elected?

MARK WHITE, CLARKSTON: I think probably yes, because he'll swing the yuppie vote or the boomer vote.

CHAD HUNT, CLARKSTON: Sure. Go, Bill, go! He's definitely got the youth support and Hillary's got the women.

DICK EULER, NAPERVILLE, IL: If the election were today, Clinton would be elected. He's too far ahead of Dole in the informal polls and they're not sure what's going to happen with the Perot-Lamm situation and the effect it will have.

CECILIA RAUTH, CLARKSTON: I hope not. I'm pro-life and he's pro-death and if more of the American public knew that, maybe they wouldn't re-elect him.

GABRIELLE SEVIGNY, DAVISBURG: I'll be able to vote for the first time after July 20. I hope not. I won't vote for him. I don't like him. The way he ran things for the past few years was horrible.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Reader responds to road kill stew

Mr. Rush,

I am responding to an article you wrote, "Road Kill Stew and Prisons Too." I don't agree that they should be serving road kill in the prisons system. As you can tell by my address I'm in prison.

But serving stuff off the side of the road is not sanitary. The system's kitchens are already not sanitary.

I can see if they want to donate stuff better for us to eat, but giving it to us off the side of the road is just unacceptable. I don't know what civilians think -- they probably like the idea because we are prisoners, but not all of us are hard-core prisoners. Some of the crimes that people are in for were accidents.

For instance, on July 30, 1995, at 11:30, my accident happened to be at the Oxford Farm and Garden. How, because the arson was an accident. Now the system has 10 years to play with my life. So, that is bad enough without bringing in animals off the side of the road and feeding it to us.

Thank you for listening. Please publish this story. I want everyone to see this who just happened to think road kill is a good idea.

Sincerely,
Charles Scriver

Thank you, Chuck.

Let's keep the discussion to road kill -- I wouldn't want anybody to eat the rotted flesh of some run-over critter.

However, if it is a fresh kill it should still be good for something. If not the prisons maybe food shelters. There are a lot of car-deer accidents in these parts. After the accidents some drivers keep on a-driving. Some call the police to put the animal out of its misery. After the "dispatch" of the deer, the person who hit the critter can get with the Department of Natural Resources for a permit.

They then cut what meat is good and -- I assume -- cook and eat it. If it's good enough for the public, it's good enough for prisons. End of story.

I heard on the radio that a number of clerks for the CIA were busted for stealing. They stole all sorts of money from the agency and bought all sorts of neat stuff with their stolen booty.

The radio news guy then said one way the CIA could stop this activity is to raise the clerks' $26,000 a year wages.

Only in Washington, D.C., would anybody propose raising wages to stop employee theft.

Letters to the editor

An ugly sight

Dear Editor,

On Friday, July 12, I witnessed something that disturbed me greatly. At about 5:15 p.m. I was going north on Dixie Hwy., just past Maybee Road. I was on the inside lane with my right turn signal on waiting for an opening to move into the outside lane so that I could turn onto M-15. Seeing my opportunity, I was just about to move over when this guy and girl came riding up between the two northbound lanes on a motorcycle. I almost hit them.

Shaken, but still needing to get over, I continued to move over after they rode by. When I looked up to see where the motorcycle was going, I saw that they had stopped. The man driving the motorcycle was using something to smash out the rear window of a car in the northbound inside lane. When he finished, a man in a white minivan signaled to the motorcycle driver that he could cut in front of him. This van was about three vehicles in front of me in the lane turning onto M-15. The motorcycle took him up on his offer and proceeded down M-15 at a high rate of speed. Although the green arrow was on, the man driving the van continued to hold traffic back. I supposed this was to give them time to get away. It was impossible for me to see the license plate number of the van or motorcycle. As I was waiting for him to proceed so that I could turn onto M-15, I sadly watched as the young man whose window had been smashed got out of his car, put his hands on his roof, and slowly shook his head in despair.

To the driver of this car, I wish I had been able to get the plate numbers for you. I can only hope that somebody did and reported it. I did, however, call the sheriff's dispatch just in case it was reported and they needed a witness. No one has yet contacted me to take a report. The best I could do is to say that I did see them turn right onto Paramus. I looked for them but had no luck. However, I live in the sub behind the high school and have seen them before.

To the driver of the motorcycle: It's sad that people like you have to walk this earth with the rest of us. I hope you have no children. It's frightening to imagine their young lives at the hands of someone so vicious, reckless, and spineless.

To the woman with the long brown hair on the back of the motorcycle: I would be embarrassed to be with someone who had such disregard for others. It makes me wonder how he treats you.

To the driver of the white minivan: You are pathetic. I wish I knew who you were, because what I really want to say to you they wouldn't print in the paper. Maybe you witnessed this young man do something terrible to the people on the motorcycle and provoke this attack. If this is the case, let us know with a letter to the editor. You could even sign your name so that all your friends and family could know what an honorable and brave thing you did.

To The Clarkston News: Thank you for allowing me to express my concerns.

Concerned Clarkston Resident

A good woman running

Dear Editor,

In response to Mr. Cole's column of July 10 lamenting the fact that so few women candidates are running for local office, I would like to remind him that Dana Fortinberry, former 52/2 District Court magistrate and former assistant prosecuting attorney, is running for 52/2 District Court. While I realize that the 52/2 District Court race will not be on the primary ballot because Mrs. Fortinberry is the only candidate to challenge the longtime male incumbent, it is important to clarify for your readers that, in November, they will be able to vote for a very qualified woman candidate for Judge of our District Court.

Ironically, one of the most important reasons Dana Fortinberry is challenging the longtime incumbent was noted in Ms. Kingsbury's column of the same date when she described the recent case at the 52/2 District Court where a man was charged with assaulting a woman and with several property crimes. He received a bond of $100 cash on the assault charge and a bond of $5,000 cash, with a ten percent provision, for the property crimes. As Ms. Kingsbury noted, clearly the current judge values the property over the female victim's safety. Such decisions are an everyday occurrence at the 52/2 District Court, and Dana Fortinberry is running against the current judge because she believes that such antiquated thinking has no place in today's judicial system.

I agree with Mr. Cole that we need to encourage women to vote and to run for elected office, and I am very excited that the voters in this district have an opportunity to elect a very experienced and qualified woman to be our next 52/2 District Court Judge.

Sincerely,
Anne Evans

Editor's Note: The defendant in question was arraigned by Magistrate Larry Johnson.

A redundancy

To the Editor:

Why is it that most of the weather forecasters always say temperature "outside?" Doesn't this outside reference seem redundant as we know they sure are not giving temperatures inside the building!

Vernon Kath
Clarkston

A clarification

To the Editor:

I would suggest Mr. Rodriguez and Ms. Wold re-check their notes from the "optional safety course" they took when they purchased their PWC.

State boating laws require PWC's to observe the same rules as any other motor-powered boat. They must maintain a no-wake zone of 100 feet from any dock, swimming raft or stationary object and 150 feet from any moving object which could be a water skier or tuber and not from the boat pulling them.

John Richardson

Is news negative?

Dear Editor,

I am renewing my yearly subscription to your paper with some reservation. I have had this dilemma over the past several years during times when, in my opinion, the Clarkston News was a very negative attitude paper, however, the only local paper available.

A couple of years ago things seemed to be turning around and news was not as negative in nature, especially in regards to school issues. However, recently I am seeing a reappearance of comments and coverage with a very negative slant. I feel that the other local papers, The Reminder and The Clarkston Eccentric, do a much better job of covering community events and present a broader, more positive approach.

It is good to have different approaches but there is no excuse in journalism for inaccuracies that cause disputes when promoting community unity might be better. I have heard the reason that the public wants it and it makes good news. I don't buy it. When will we as a society start to look for good instead of the bad in everything. The more we begin to feel good the less we will have the need to look for the bad.

This may sound unrealistic and prima donna, but just think about it. There are so many bad things that happen today but also so very much good; we just don't hear about the good things enough. It's no wonder people, and especially our children, get depressed.

I have talked to many people who have similar feelings. So I will renew one more time hoping there will be an improvement. I try to support as many local businesses as possible since I am a resident of this community; however, the world is cynical and negative enough without small-town newspapers fueling or sometimes creating controversy that is unnecessary and, in many ways, damaging to the very community they serve.

Sincerely,
Sally J. Coe

Supports McCrary

Letter to the Editor:

During the past two years some of the focus has been on individual Independence Township board members with regard to the derivative investments.

Investments are made by the township treasurer only. It is not fair play to put the other board members or officers into the same picture. By statute, the treasurer is required to receive and take charge of all funds. Only the treasurer is authorized to invest surplus funds in instruments authorized by law.

The township clerk, under statute, is responsible for the detailed accounting records of the fund received and monies paid out. A person with a cursory understanding of accounting knows that it is recording after the transaction has taken place. The clerk does not invest township money. Voter registration, elections and custodian of records are other statutory duties of the township clerk.

This letter is written as a clarification of the division of responsibilities for township officers. It is also written in support of our township clerk, Joan McCrary. For the past seven years, Joan has performed well the duties of the clerk. She has the necessary professional experience and education; is a hard-working administrator, committed to the good of the township and is fiscally responsible to the township taxpayers. Mrs. McCrary deserves reelection on August 6.

Frank (Tink) Ronk
Former township supervisor

Hughes a team player

Dear Editor,

It is a pleasure for me to write a letter endorsing Sheila Hughes as a candidate for Independence Township Clerk. I have known Sheila over 30 years as we grew up and graduated from Clarkston High School. More recently I enjoyed her leadership as a parent volunteer and PTO officer when her sons attended Pine Knob Elementary where I was principal. Sheila is a long-time member of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club who has just elected to a vice president position for the 1996-97 year.

Sheila's leadership qualities are best seen as she has served as an officer of the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education. She is a clear thinker who can make difficult decisions. She is a team player who works to reach consensus within a group. She is a dedicated worker who gets the job done. Join with me and vote for Sheila Hughes on August 6.

Why Wenger?

Dear Editor:

I have known Jim Wenger and his wife, Sharon, for 35 years or more. Sharon and I grew up in the same neighborhood as kids and young adults. Jim went to college with one of my younger brothers. Our sons had Mr. Wenger as a government teacher and were school friends and sports participants with their sons, Jason and Matt.

Jim and Sharon were always there to support our kids as we became closer friends. Our friends and our associates have only experienced good things in our dealings with Jim Wenger. We believe he has what it takes to be a great and loyal public servant, and our next township treasurer.

Sincerely,
Dale and Linda Ryan

Community-based group studies county's health

Healthy People Healthy Oakland (HPHO) was initiated in 1995 by the Oakland County Health Division to facilitate conducting a Community Health Assessment, and to assure that collective action would be taken to address identified health needs.

State cigarette tax funds have provided seed money to conduct a survey of county residents' health status. Nine HPHO partners have collaborated in the development of this Behavioral Risk Factor Survey, which was recently completed.

A total of over 170 community leaders and individuals representing over 100 organizations have responded to an open call to join the HPHO effort, and are working to gather the data and community input needed to develop the Community Health Plan, which will be completed in February 1997. The plan will include an identification and prioritization of the most pressing health-related issues in Oakland County, and objectives to address identified problems.

HPHO is unique to other community coalitions in that its community health planning process is an inclusive, open-ended, bottom-up process that is not limited in the scope of health issues that might be addressed or in the persons involved. This inclusive process assures that governmental or special interest group objectives do not have undue influence on the planning process.

The overall health status of a community has a tremendous effect on its economic vitality, the safety and well-being of its residents, and its ability to contain health care costs. A community with poor health behaviors imposes a tremendous emotional and economic drain on its families, employers, and health care providers.

Community-based group studies county's health

While Oakland County has set standards for economic, educational, and recreational quality of life, this status is threatened by some serious health care concerns:

•In 1994, almost 3,000 individuals died from heart disease, the leading cause of death for people living in Oakland County.

•Although the African American infant mortality rate has decreased significantly over the past four years (from 25.5 to 16.5 infant deaths per 1,000 live births), the African American infant mortality rate is significantly higher than the white infant mortality rate of 4.4 infant deaths per 1,000 live births.

•An Oakland County Health Division (OCHD) audit reveals that 62 percent of children seen in OCHD clinics are adequately immunized by the time they are 35 months old. The Healthy Communities 2000: Model Standards for the nation objective for immunization levels is for at least 90 percent of children under 2 years old to be fully immunized by the year 2,000.

•The average cost per vehicle of employee health care benefits that the Big Three auto makers pay is higher than the average cost of steel used to make each vehicle.

•It is estimated that 92,070 people in Oakland County did not have insurance coverage during 1995.

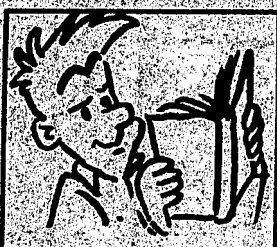

HPHO intends to create and sustain a community health planning infrastructure to assure that the health status of Oakland County is continuously assessed and improved. This broad-based network has been developed to quickly and accurately identify existing and emerging health needs, and take actions to address the identified needs.

A steering committee of 50 community, business, health care, and human service leaders oversees and approves the work of a coordinating committee and six discovery task forces on the environment, community and social values, health and well being, lifelong learning, health service delivery, and community development. It will explore specific health issues, obtain community perceptions and significant information on the problems, and determine the most pressing issues.

These key findings will be presented at a community meeting on July 23 and will serve as the foundation for determining the actions that must be taken to improve Oakland County's health status.

The community is invited to the "Key Findings Event," 8:15 to 11:30 a.m., Tuesday, July 23, to hear survey and task force results. This event will be at White Lake Oaks, White Lake Township.

The first newspaper, printing press and library in the British colonies were established in Massachusetts.

One of the most amazing records in sports was the one set by Connie Mack who managed the same big league baseball team for FIFTY consecutive years! Mack was the manager of the A's from 1901 through 1950. There's a record that will probably never be broken.

Here's an oddity... The 1927 Yankees are often called the greatest team in baseball history--yet they do NOT hold the record for winning the most games in a season. The '27 Yanks won 110 games, but 2 other teams have won more in a year. The Cubs on 1906 won 116, and the Indians of 1954 won 111.

Did you know that a big league baseball player once struck out while sitting on the bench? It happened in 1952 to Sammy White. He had 2 strikes on him & was replaced by a pinch-hitter. The pinch-hitter took a third strike, but under baseball scoring rules, the strikeout was charged to White since he had 2 of the 3 strikes--so, White struck out while sitting in the dugout!

I bet you didn't know... Oxford Cinemas has three auditoriums, showing first run movies and Tuesdays are Bargain Days!

Veteran picker here Friday

At the tender age of 16, Bobby Lewis won Nashville's Bluegrass Banjo Picking Contest. But in the years since, the leader of the Crackerjack Band has expanded his horizons to embrace classic rock, Motown, jazz—you name it.

Lewis and his band will perform Friday in Depot Park as part of the Concerts in the Park series sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. Admission is free for the 7 p.m. concert.

A New Jersey native, Lewis toured the USA as a member of the Tomados and The Headliners before settling in Michigan in 1970. For 13 years his band "Sticks and Stones" played to standing-room-only crowds at Dearborn's "Your Mustache." He was signed by Berry Gordy to a Motown contract at one time, and gained some recognition with his song, "Rouge Plant Blues."

In 1976 he formed what is now known as the Crackerjack Band. Between summer concerts and nightclub gigs, Lewis is also a producer of commercials, recordings and even a children's show.

What can listeners expect? Lewis describes it as a unique blend of classic pop rock that encompasses everything from jazz to bluegrass, Elton John to Manhattan Transfer, "Classical Gas" to "Rocky Top."

In addition to Lewis, who plays guitar, banjo, mandolin, pedal steel and violin, the band consists of Robbie Stawinski, on drums and vocals, David Eversole on bass and vocals, and Willie Grimm, on piano, guitar, pedal steel and vocals.

Stawinski, who's been with Lewis for 12 years, previously toured with the English band Badfinger and was a member of Sky. He also produces music for films and commercials.

Eversole was a member of the acoustic rock band Travis and is also a songwriter. He's been with Lewis for nine years.

Grimm, the newest member (two years) had his own band for a number of years. He also works as an advanced emergency medical technician.

Other, former members of the Crackerjack Band have gone on to work with the likes of Rod Stewart, Don Henley, James Taylor, Carly Simon, Roy Orbison and Elvis Presley.

The Crackerjack Band has been mentioned by Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert as one of Detroit's most respected bands. They've been featured on Channel 56 as well, and may be one of Michigan's best kept secrets.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

BUYING WITH PROFIT MOTIVE

THERE ARE MANY WAYS that you can buy homes and turn them over for a quick profit.

QUESTION: Do you have any tips for someone who wants to buy houses and turn them over in a year or so for profit?

ANSWER: You could buy a home in need of upgrading. Modernize it and decorate it, then, hopefully, resell for a profit. You could buy a new house or condo during the planning stage when prices are usually lower and sell it when the project development is complete. You could buy a house in a less desirable area, but an area which you feel is on the way back to popularity. You could buy a small, multiunit property which has, or may have, rezoning or condominium conversion potential. It only take two units to make a condominium.

Clerk

ity. But it would be a hard stretch to say (the clerk) should have known before, when it didn't even come to light until the auditors caught it (almost two years later)."

Under state law regarding township funds, the clerk's duties are as follows:

"The township clerk shall be responsible for the detailed accounting records of the township utilizing the uniform chart of accounts proscribed by the state treasurer. The township clerk shall prepare and maintain the journals and ledgers necessary to reflect the assets, liabilities, fund equities, revenues and expenditures for each fund of the township."

A Rochester-based investment expert, who also is a former treasurer, said a clerk would not know if investments were bad. The expert, who wants to remain anonymous, said a clerk's duties would not allow them to know — especially back when no one really understood how bad CMOs were — what is a good and bad investment.

"In the governmental standards they do not require anyone to mark investments at market price. The clerk would just be acting as an accountant. It would not be something she would notice."

Hughes disagrees. She said because the state has already said those CMO investments are illegal, McCrary should have noticed that as well. As far as the communication among officials, McCrary admits that there is a problem but it's not been all her fault.

"I have no problem with John or the board but I have met with Dale on several occasions and asked for more communication and still nothing happens," said McCrary. "Before he was elected we had regular department head meetings and in his first week I remember being told by him we would not be invited to those any longer. We were also told we could not meet with township consultants. There have been other things as well, so if that's a communication problem, fine, but I don't feel I contribute to that."

"She (Hughes) doesn't know what goes on here," said McCrary. "I'm a department head and officer of this township who has six people working for me. I should be included in decisions."

Supervisor Stuart says it's been difficult at times to do his job because of that communication problem.

"It's very important to have people who are straightforward, don't hold anything back and don't have hidden agendas," he said. "There has not been a free exchange of open discussion with her."

Good news on the gypsy moth front

Many Michigan residents have had distasteful experiences with the gypsy moth. Their first encounter with this defoliator of Michigan hardwoods usually causes them to run to the garden center to purchase whatever pesticide is available to combat this unwelcome guest.

Unfortunately, this activity is often futile. But new research is indicating that the fungus Entomophaga maimaiga may prove to be the most significant natural control of the gypsy moth to date.

The fungus was first discovered in this country in the last 1980s after entomologists noticed massive die-offs of gypsy moths throughout southern New England, New York and Pennsylvania. Soil containing the Entomophaga maimaiga fungus was brought into Michigan in 1991 by entomologists at Michigan State University, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the US Forest Service. The project was conducted by Dr. David Smitely, MSU scientist; Frank Sapio, DNR forest health specialist, and Dr. Leah Bauer, USDA Forest Service research insect pathologist.

Twenty-two sites in northern and central lower Michigan were seeded with this soil by DNR personnel as well as three research sites that were inoculated by MSU researchers. Results were initially encouraging but effectiveness was limited to areas near release sites.

This year, as the fungus has spread, reports of massive die-offs of gypsy moth caterpillars are being reported throughout southern Michigan. Defoliation surveys are turning up very little gypsy moth damage.

Spring and summer rains occurred at optimal times for fungal development, and the fungus is now believed to be widely established across the Lower Peninsula. (Cold winter temperatures in northern Michigan are also thought to contribute to this year's gypsy moth decline.)

"We are encouraged by these results, and research is continuing on the effectiveness of this new biological control," said Gerald Theide, chief, DNR Forest Management Division. "If results stay positive, Michigan's gypsy moth population will be significantly reduced."

Gypsy moth caterpillars that come into contact with the spores of Entomophaga maimaiga are infected and killed by the fungus before they reach the moth stage. The fungus spreads by itself, is self-sustaining, and has very little effect on other organisms. Communities are expected to see relief from this pest as the spores multiply and spread naturally each year.

The other good news is that the fungus does not appear to adversely affect other lepidoptera caterpillars that nature lovers care so much about preserving. Sapio said the only other caterpillars that appear to be affected are also considered pests.

"In practical terms the effect will be far less than BT (the most common biological control for gypsy moths), far, far less," he said. "We've identified five species in Michigan and they're all pest species. So it's not 100 percent, but it's pretty close."

THE NEWS LOG for Independence Township

MONDAY, JULY 8, harassment and threats over an insurance claim on Dixie.

An 82-year-old woman was found lost and disoriented on Indian Trail. After a neighborhood search, a deputy was able to locate her daughter and turn the woman over to her.

Larceny of a nine foot by five foot flag from a home on Paula. The owner said he displayed the flag every Fourth of July and it was valued at $300-$400.

A 47-year-old Clarkston man was arrested at his home on Foster on an outstanding Friend of the Court warrant.

Larceny of tools from a house under construction on Longhurst. The owner said it was the third time since January such a theft had occurred at the house.

A large chunk of concrete was thrown through the glass of a 1984 Mustang parked at a Dixie restaurant, damaging the car extensively. Three to four boys were seen fleeing the area on bikes. During the investigation, deputies found a runaway who was riding a stolen bike. He was returned to his mother.

An 18-year-old Waterford man admitted he took $80 cash over time from a church on Flemings Lake Rd.

TUESDAY, JULY 9, a Woodcreek Trail resident heard an explosion during the night and in the morning found a hole blown in his above-ground swimming pool and a CO2 cartridge nearby.

Larceny of a $300 bicycle from a basement on Edgewood.

A lock was tampered with at a house on Clearview and the inside damaged.

A 16-year-old Clarkston boy was ticketed for possession of marijuana on Clintonville Rd. and turned over to his parents. Deputies filed a notice of intent to forfeit $20 in cash, plus cigarettes and rolling papers found in the boy's possession.

A woman said she unwittingly pulled into a handicap parking spot at a Dixie restaurant, only to be blocked in by another driver who wanted to trap her so he could call police. The woman managed to escape and get the man's license plate number.

Some property from an earlier break-in was found inside a building at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club.

Two men fighting on Mary Sue damaged each other's vehicles.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, a 1995 Eagle was scratched on Church St. during the Fourth of July parade.

Someone tried to steal a stereo from an unlocked car on Cayuga overnight but was unsuccessful.

Aggravated assault at Clintonwood Park. During a football camp a Clarkston player allegedly broke the nose of an Oxford player by punching him after a play was over. The victim suffered a broken nose and other facial injuries and was knocked out. He was taken to Crittenton Hospital. The case remains under investigation.

A man failed to pay for $18 worth of gas on Sashabaw. He showed the clerk his driver's license but never returned.

Larceny of a $500 bike from an open garage on Snowapple.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, a Bronco resident said an 18-year-old Clarkston man has been harassing her two dogs for the past year, entering her yard and throwing rocks at them.

Larceny of a jet-ski trailer from a driveway on Clement overnight.

Assault and battery on Willow Park.

A door was forced and damaged at a house on Dixie but nothing appeared missing.

Prescription medications were reported missing from a home on Dixie.

A window was smashed on a 1991 Olds parked on Greenview overnight.

A deputy shot an injured deer on Waldon near Sashabaw.

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 150 CDs were stolen from an unlocked 1994 Chevy parked for 45 minutes on Lancaster Hill Dr.

SATURDAY, JULY 13, threats on Mann.

A wallet containing $20 and credit cards was stolen from an unlocked 1995 Mercury parked in an Old Cove driveway.

Larceny of a 20-by-30-foot piece of artwork from a backyard on Mohawk. It was valued at $800.

A woman said she was assaulted by another woman while swimming at Independence Oaks County Park in a dispute over a beach ball. After she was punched in the mouth a lifeguard broke up the altercation.

SUNDAY, JULY 14, a phone was stolen from a 1991 Dodge parked on Old Cove.

Larceny of a $600 bicycle from a beach off Hillside.

Larceny of a $200 bicycle from a yard on Mann. A witness said an unidentified white male walked up to the house and rode off on the bike.

A 16-year-old Clarkston girl who had been reported as a runaway was ticketed for being a minor in possession of alcohol and for a curfew violation after she was found at a house on N. Eston. She was returned to her own home.

A 28-year-old Flint woman received minor injuries after she fell asleep at the wheel on Dartmouth, hitting a tree.

Strike

on strike, you don't want to work," Trimer Hartley said. Hartley had his spirits lifted when he was handed a $500 check one day while selling the strike paper, The Sunday Journal. Both continue to be visible in the cause, she as a speaker and he as part of a caucus that has formed to try to settle the strike.

And Trimer Hartley has found a new job, working for the Michigan Education Association, the state teachers union. The job means the family will once again have health care coverage, and Hartley can continue his strike work.

"It's a great job, and it's a great job for me," she said. "It's sad to leave journalism, but . . . I have no desire to go back." Asked if she'll go back when and if the strike is settled, she shakes her head "no," firmly.

And whether the strike? Despite full-page ads last week in the News and Free Press declaring the strike over as far as the papers are concerned, Hartley said the effort will continue to make sure organized labor doesn't take it's last gasp here.

"At some point something's got to give in this country. When's the last time you picked up a paper and saw a headline that said 'IBM hires back 10,000 workers?' . . . It's a do-or-die situation and the UAW understands that more than anybody."

Hartley said the caucus he has joined is of the opinion that it's past the time for public relations and time to disrupt production in order to end the strike with a settlement. And he faults the unions who called the strike in the first place for not leading that effort.

"If the corporations are going to treat us like they did in the '30s, we're going to have to respond," he said. "If there's been violence in this strike, it's been directed against us . . . If the strikers have been guilty of anything, it's vandalism."

Hartley makes a case for using force, not violence, to bring the companies, two of the largest media corporations in the US, to the bargaining table.

"We have to use whatever force is necessary to win this strike. Frankly we feel we have turned the direction of this strike around."

"We've got to be like our grandfathers—serious, militant," Trimer Hartley said. "Labor disputes are never pretty . . . Imagine thinking, 'Am I ever going to work in my field again?' When you think of the level of stress people are under, it's remarkable we've been as restrained as we have been."

The two reporters see the big issue as one of fairness for working people, and it's given them a world view that is perhaps different from the one they held a year ago.

"You go out there on strike and you see the lies you've been fed, by your schools, by your parents," Trimer Hartley said. "We as workers have to compete globally and have to take care of each other."

"This economic and social system is a victim of its own success," Hartley said. "Human labor is becoming obsolete . . . but you still have a system that is based on the fact you have to have a job to buy services."

In addition to the loss of good jobs, the declining quality many perceive in the two papers since the strike began and the brain drain caused by top-notch reporters finding jobs elsewhere, there has been another, more personal loss blamed on the strike. The Hartleys just celebrated their fifth anniversary, and say it's hard to look at their wedding album now.

"I've probably kept in touch with more people on the inside," Trimer Hartley said. "And I've probably taken a softer line than most people. I don't think the individual who crossed the line is the enemy . . . There were decent people who went in under duress."

Hartley said he's had a harder time understanding the actions of some of his coworkers. "My attitude has been we can forgive but we won't forget. The real enemy is the corporation. They're the ones who pitted us against each other."

The Clarkson (MI) News Wed., July 17, 1996 19 A

And the other casualty they see is the status of objective, community-minded watch dog the newspapers once wore as a mantle of honor. For proof of that they point to the papers' own coverage of the strike.

"The role papers are supposed to serve as community watch dogs is failing," Trimer Hartley said. "It scares me. It really scares me."

the recommendations of the most recent facilities committee, which recommended additions at the existing elementary schools and renovations at the middle schools to bring them into equity with each other. In addition, the administration, under former superintendent Gary Haner, asked for a new elementary school and the board majority agreed. Part of the committee's recommendation was the elimination of portable classrooms and the return of special rooms. Those changes, plus population projections, have driven the classroom deficit to 55.

"For the district as a whole, housing elementary students was and should be priority one," Shanks said in arguing for a unified ballot proposal. "I'm not willing to jeopardize class-size ratios or the use of portables."

"If we don't have a new elementary to house the kids . . . the music room will be a classroom, the art room will be a classroom, similar to what we've experienced elsewhere," said trustee Bill Craig.

The board is expected to approve the formal bond application at its next meeting Aug. 12. District representatives will meet with state treasury officials Aug. 20 to review the application.

Foyteck, who was a member of the facilities committee, said she felt the differences on the board were minor.

"I think we're just fortunate we have seven people who agree we need to do something," she said. "I've sat on the board when we didn't."

Knob notes

By Eileen McCarville

Here and Now

Luther Vandross

A rose, some bubbly — and a full repertoire of Luther Vandross music may be all you need to score a romantic evening July 19 when the silky-voiced singer comes to Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Expect Vandross to fill the pavilion with mellow tunes from years past as well as golden tones from his tenth Epic solo album "Songs." Vandross says it's the first album he's done that's entirely devoted to pop, rock and soul classics.

Some of the remakes include "Killing Me Softly," "Love the One You're With," "Endless Love" and "Reflections." The lush string arrangements come from the London Symphony Orchestra.

"The concept was suggested to me during my 'Never Let Me Go' tour ... and I immediately thought it was a fabulous concept," Vandross recalls. "It was also suggested that we bring in producer Walter Afanasieff, whom I had never worked with before. Walter turned out to be a musician and arranger of impeccable tastes. I call him the Phil Spector of the '90s."

Vandross' big breakthrough in show business came in 1972 when his composition, "Everybody Rejoice (A Brand New Day)" was included in the musical "The Wiz." Following that success he arranged and sang background vocals on David Bowie's "Young Americans" album which included the Vandross hit "Fascination." He later toured with Bette Midler as a backup singer, contributing to her "Songs For The New Depression" album.

Vandross has sung background vocals for everyone from Average White Band to Barbra Streisand. In 1981 his debut solo album "Never Too Much," featuring the title track of the same name, soared to number one on the R&B charts.

The recipients of this year's Clarkston Garden Club scholarships are Sarah Fenton (left), who plans to study chemical engineering, and Julie Lloyd (second from right), who plans to study mechanical engineering. Both girls plan to attend

Michigan Technological University this fall. They are pictured with scholarship chairperson Mary Jane Scharfenkamp (right) and club president Gail Atkins.

Garden Club's generosity repaid

Four years ago when Julie Fyda received the first of four annual scholarships from the Clarkston Garden Club, the club wasn't expecting to get any of it back.

But recently Fyda repaid the generosity by donating $500 back to the club so someone else could receive a scholarship. According to scholarship chairperson Mary Jane Scharfenkamp, that's never happened before.

The money allowed the club to give away two scholarships this year instead of its usual one. And ironically, both recipients will study engineering, just as Fyda did.

Fyda said the payback was part of a promise she made herself about the time she graduated from the University of Michigan in December.

"I promised myself if I got the job I wanted, which I did, that I would donate my first check," she said. Fyda got a job in her field with General Motors in Flint and rises early for the commute each day, grateful for the opportunity.

"Graduating when I did, there aren't a lot of jobs available then," she said. "I was real fortunate."

Fyda also donated the balance of her first paycheck to the Barbara Karmanos Cancer Institute. "I did that for my grandma, who died of breast cancer," she said.

Like most new college grads, Fyda has a lot of bills to pay, including student loans. But she had to keep the promise now, rather than put it off to some undefined future date.

"It's something I had to do now. I don't know if I'm strong enough as a person to do it later ... and I'm glad to help a fellow woman engineer," she added.

These runners do more than just jog

Clarkston-based club ready for grueling Great Lakes Relay

DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While he enjoys jogging, there's nothing like running through a swamp for Mike Hennessy.

Hennessy and the Wolfpack Running Club, with several Clarkston-area members, will participate in the not-for-the-faint-hearted, three-day Great Lakes Relay from July 19-21. The event is more than just a marathon; it's a grueling relay run through swamps, mud and every other element imaginable.

Hennessy, who resides in Lake Orion and is a dentist with an office in Clarkston, said the Wolfpack Club first formed as a way to enter a team in the Great Lakes Relay.

"The club was kind of formed along with this three-day race," said Hennessy. "And from there we just stayed in contact and do a few other things," during the year like the Fun Daze Run, held in Clarkston.

The loosely formed club, with about 45 members receiving a newsletter called "Wolfpack Wanderings," does not charge for membership and has a goal of just having fun when they run in races and events.

The club will enter two 10-person teams, called Werewolves and Lost Lobos. Altogether, about 40 teams will compete in the relay.

Unlike other running or marathon events, the relay is a team event, requiring participants to endure various terrains on each of the days. The relay is set up so each of the 10 runners on a team runs five legs within three days time.

The mileage for each leg varies from 2.5 to 12 over everything from level roads to swamps to steep hills.

Each team will run about 85 miles each day and if a teammate gets injured or has to sit out, the other runners must pick up the slack and run more legs. Women and those over 40 get handicaps on their times.

Mike Hennessy shows his emotion to Wolfpack teammate Bob Baril after finishing the "swamp" run last year.

"We have fun," said Hennessy. "We're not going to get first place even though we have tried to in the past. Now we want to just stay in mid-pack and try to keep our two teams close to each other. It's why we have two teams instead of one."

The 257-mile course is definitely no place for those who don't love a challenge.

Hennessy for instance loves running the leg called, "High Country Pathway Swamp Run," one of the most difficult legs of the three-day race. The swamp run is eight miles long and sends the runner through mud, swamps and climbing over and under trees. The trail is so dense that the runner will never go more than 200-300 yards between trail markers.

"I love running off-road," said Hennessy, who has competed in about five relays, "and this is as far off the road as you can get."

But that's just one leg. Hennessy and each of his teammates will end up running four or more legs before the final day.

The Wolfpack Club enjoys their sport, but they are also serious runners, with five members having participated in the Boston Marathon earlier this year, including Hennessy, Paul VanKlavem of Clarkston, Pat Roselli of Clarkston, Darlene Smith of Clarkston and Jim Lawson.

In addition, the Wolfpack Club dominated the recent Fun Daze run.

In the 10K run, Kathleen Noble took first in her age group, while Karen Kirchner, Tina Erlandson and Jim Lawson finished second, Carl Roselli third, Chip Sommers and Jim Erlandson, fifth, and Mike McIntyre sixth.

In the 5K run, Kathleen McInnis was first overall, and the Wolfpack women dominated the 35-39 age group taking first (Maureen Tippin), second (Pam Babcock) and third (Anne Clifton). Other top finishers were Jim Beall and Ryan Robinson in first, Hennessy and Dave Teichman in fourth, Warren McIntyre in fifth, Steve Babcock in seventh and Bill Dickie in eighth.

The Wolfpack, so far, has commitments from 17 athletes for the Great Lakes Relay, not including sponsor and captain Paul Coughlin of Runnin' Gear.

The Wolfpack Club enjoys its sport but they are also serious runners, as evidenced by five members having competed in the Boston Marathon this year.

Of that number, seven are women. Hennessy said the club is always looking for more runners and if anyone is interested in the relay or needs more information, call him at 625-2424.

Next up for the Wolfpack is a similar race held in Hell, Michigan, called "Dances With Dirt." This relay, held Sept. 7, requires five-person teams with each runner doing about three legs over 62 miles of hills, mud, pastures, paths and woods.

Boys/girls soccer camp

The soccer camp at Clintonwood Park, scheduled for July 29 to August 2, is for girls and boys aged 7-14.

The camp, directed by CHS varsity girls and JV boys coach Brian Fitzgerald, will run from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. each day. Cost is $40 for township or city resident and $50 for non-residents.

McCormick camp change

The Tim McCormick basketball camp, scheduled for later this month, has no more openings in the younger group slot, which includes kids in grades 4-6. However, children in sixth grade may still attend the camp if they want to participate in the older group slot (grades 7-9), where there are openings.

For more information call the CHS athletic office at 625-0906.

SMS student is tennis champion

Andrew Brown (pictured left), heading into the sixth grade at Sashabaw Middle School, was crowned the best in a six-state area for tennis. Brown and his doubles tennis partner Eric Huffman (pictured right) of Flushing took first at the United States Tennis Association Western Closed Championships, in the boys 12-under division. The Western Closed, held June 29-July 4, is comprised of regional qualifiers from various parts of states in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and part of West Virginia. Brown was one of 10 players to qualify from Michigan's southeast region. There were 128 participants in the 12-under division. In addition to Andrew, Clarkston's David Lynn made it to the quarterfinals of the 14-under singles division. Andrew's parents are Don and Kay Brown.

Obituaries

Donald Fillmore

Businessman and avid skier Donald E. Fillmore of Clarkston died July 14, 1996.

Mr. Fillmore owned Fillmore Hardware in Drayton Plains for 25 years, and Donn's Ski Haus for 31 years. He was past president of the Drayton Plains Business Men's Association, treasurer and charter member of the Waterford Jr. Chamber of Commerce and a member of BPOE #810 Pontiac/Waterford.

He spent five years in the US Navy during World War II serving as a submarine tender. An avid skier, he skied the Rockies with friends every winter. His biggest thrill was helicopter skiing in the Canadian Rockies.

Mr. Fillmore is survived by his wife Nadiene; a son, Donn (Dina) Fillmore of Waterford; a granddaughter, Lauren Alexis; a brother, Gerald (Patricia) Fillmore of Metamora and other family members.

The family will receive friends at Coats Funeral Home in Waterford today (Wednesday), 12:30-2 p.m., followed by a memorial service at 2 p.m. officiated by Dr. Thomas C. Hartley.

Memorials may be made to Hospice of Southeast Michigan or the Karmanos Cancer Institute.

Herbert Sandlin

Herbert Sandlin, 81, of Waterford, died July 9, 1996.

Mr. Sandlin was a member of Waterford Community Church and was retired from GM.

He was preceded in death by his wife Ruth, three brothers, Mack, Robert and Hubert, and four sisters, Mable, Mildred, Laura and Lena.

He is survived by two sons, James R. (Joanne) of Ortonville and Herbert "Bruce" Sandlin of Waterford; a grandson, Steven; and a brother, Francis Vines of Illinois.

A funeral service was held July 12 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with Pastor James D. Wells officiating. Interment was at Lakeview Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society and Cranbrook Hospice.

Raymond Szczomak

Raymond (Shomak) Szczomak of Davisburg, formerly of Detroit, died July 13, 1996 at the age of 78.

Mr. Szczomak was preceded in death by a sister, Ann Tirpack. He is survived by his wife Julie; two children, Sheryl (Skip) Wendt of Davisburg and Linda (Dennis) Wilkins of Dedham, MA; four grandchildren, Darryl (Wendy) Wendt, Laura Wendt and Dmitri and Ophelia Wilkins; a sister, Rose Benesiuk and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were today (Wednesday) at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home. Interment was in Andersonville Cemetery.

12. Bailey Lake Elementary, 8051 Pine Knob Road
13. First Congregational Church, 5449 Clarkston Road
14. Pine Knob Elementary, 6020 Sashabaw Road

For the purpose of placing in nomination by all political parties participating therein, candidates for the following offices, viz:

CONGRESSIONAL: United States Senator, Representative in Congress

LEGISLATIVE: State Representative

COUNTY: Prosecuting attorney, sheriff, county clerk, county treasurer, register of deeds, county commissioner and, if elected in the county, drain commissioner, surveyor, county auditor, road commissioner and mine inspector.

CITY/TOWNSHIP: Township supervisor, township clerk, township treasurer, township trustees.

And for the purpose of placing in nomination, candidates participating in a non-partisan primary election for the following offices, viz:

Judge of the Court of Appeals, Circuit Court Judge, District Court Judge, Probate Court Judge.

And for the purpose of electing:

Delegates to the county convention of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Also, to vote on the following proposals as listed below:

FIRE MILLAGE RENEVAL

Shall the Independence Township Board be authorized to renew the previously authorized levy of 2.8879 mills for a four-year period, commencing in 1996 to provide fire protection. This levy would be a total of $2.89 per $1,000 of taxable value above the total tax limitation imposed by Article IX of the Michigan Constitution. It is estimated that approval of this proposal would result in the authorization to collect $2,098,319.26 in the first year of the levy.

THE POLLS of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a.m. and will remain open until 8 o'clock p.m. of said day of election.

In 1990 he released a two-disc anthology entitled "The Best of Luther Vandross, The Best of Love," which went double platinum and spawned the number one hit, "Here and Now." The strong, touching ballad earned Vandross his first Grammy Award for Best R&B Male Vocal Performance. He's won several more Grammys and, like other top-selling artists, came out with a Christmas album in 1995.

But, Vandross says, making "Songs" was "the first time I was constantly faced with the challenge of making something pre-existing mine. I had to erase my slate and treat the songs as if they were being brought to me unheard. I wanted to reinvent, not just remake these songs.

"Although this is my tenth album, everything still feels new. To realize that ten have been completed is a nice feeling. I'm at a very positive point in my life."

Luther Vandross performs at Pine Knob Friday, July 19 at 7:30 p.m.
