No principal yet for Clarkston El. as search goes on Clarkston Elementary School will open the new school year with an interim principal at its head.

Bill Neff, a Clarkston schools retiree and former principal in both Clarkston and Pontiac, has agreed to fill in until a permanent successor to Dr. Elaine Middlekauff, who resigned last June, can be found.

Assistant superintendent Duane Lewis said Monday that 55 applications for the position came in from Michigan and Ohio but none were found to be acceptable.

"The committee did not come up with a candidate to recommend to the superintendent," he said. "We had a sizeable field."

The position has been reposted and this time advertising will be on a national basis. Already, several out-of-state applications have come in, Lewis said.

Neff, who retired three years ago, most recently served as interim principal at Pine Knob Elementary before Len Loveless was hired for that position. Neff has been a principal at Andersonville Elementary and in Pontiac, and worked in Clarkston's central office at the time of his retirement.

"He knows the district and he's very good as a principal and administrator," Lewis said. "We're very fortunate to have him."

New blood coming in; old issues need resolution

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Come late November, barring write-in candidates running and winning, three new officials will help govern Independence Township.

And while each election brings in new blood and the hope for a better future, there are some questions that current board members must deal with over the next few months, before new treasurer Jim Wenger and trustees Neil Wallace and Larry Rosso are sworn in.

Concerns remain over what the board plans on doing with five controversial investments the township holds, and how the re-elected supervisor and clerk, Dale Stuart and Joan McCrary respectively, can put aside their admitted differences, although both say their problems do not affect their job performance.

During the heated primary race, every candidate from trustee to supervisor had opinions and solutions to the investment dilemma and communication problem. But with both issues, the only answer for now is wait and see.

To sell or not to sell

During the race for treasurer, everyone had an opinion on the investments. Newly elected Wenger, who won eight precincts and beat incumbent John Lutz by almost 400 votes, says the controversial investments should be sold, per the advice of financial consultant Munder Capital.

Wenger said during his campaign that the investments affected more than the financial standing of the township, they had a psychological cost as well. He said it was not a question of whether to sell, but when.

Lutz, who won four precincts and finished about 80 votes ahead of third-place Roberta Badgley, will still be in office until Nov. 20 and he says the four collateralized mortgage obligations and one mutual fund investment have not realized a loss and only will if they are sold before maturity (sometime around 2020).

"I have not talked to the consultants (since the last report)," Lutz said. "But I think it would be foolish to sell now because our portfolio is doing so well. Right now we're at a 6.8 percent yield... That's something you didn't see in the papers."

So far, only advisor Munder Capital has given a recommendation; sell one CMO security now as well as the Lord Abbott mutual fund. The others, they say, can be sold as the market dictates. Most financial experts don't advocate holding the CMOs to maturity.

Stuart said selling is still a delicate subject because the township does not want to lose any more than it has to. Until the other financial consultants make a recommendation, he said it's not "as simple as what it would seem."

"They are still getting information for us right now. Obviously, it's been good for us lately that interest rates seem to be sinking again. Hopefully, whatever does happen makes the best sense for this township."

All the debate on when to sell may be a moot point until Lutz is out of office. There has been some dispute as to who has the power to see or not sell investments. Lutz says he does, while the township attorneys say the board does.

A question of cooperation

In the recent election season, McCrary and Stuart made no secret of their differences. And now that both have been re-elected, voters may be wondering how those "personality" differences can be put aside for the next four years.

While both admit that some things can never be forgotten, they pledge to citizens that they will attempt to improve communication.

"I'm sure everyone is wondering how we will work together now that the election is over," said McCrary, who won all 14 precincts and received the highest vote total among candidates. "But I will try even more. I think we'll both keep everything working right and won't let differences stand in the way of doing the job."

Stuart, who won 11 precincts, said he's not sure how it will end up but will also make the extra effort. "It's just not a one-way street. If she shows cooperation we'll be fine. I'm hopeful we can work things out."

The news in brief

High-school orientation begins Thursday

Dates and times for orientation at Clarkston High School have been announced.

Seniors should meet at CHS Thursday, Aug. 15; juniors Friday, Aug. 16; sophomores Monday, Aug. 19 and freshmen Wednesday, Aug. 21. All sessions are scheduled for 9-11 a.m.

In addition, there is an orientation for parents of freshmen and any other students new to the district on Wednesday, Aug. 21 at 7 p.m. Weather permitting it will be held at the football field; in case of inclement weather it will be held in the gym.

Any student new to the district should call the high school office at 625-0900 to make an appointment for class scheduling. Office hours are 7 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Counselors will return to school Thursday, Aug. 15 and will be available by appointment. Counselors will also be on hand during student orientation sessions.

Reception set for new superintendent

The Clarkston PTA Council will hold a welcoming reception for new school superintendent Dr. Albert Roberts on Wednesday, Aug. 28 at the Independence Township Public Library. Hours are 3:30-6:30 p.m.

Roberts started his new job July 1 and came from Ohio. The public is invited to the reception.

Kindergarten orientation

Parents of any kindergartener who hasn't yet registered to attend a Clarkston school this fall should plan to attend orientation tonight (Wednesday) at 6:30 p.m.

Orientation will be held for all schools at Pine Knob Elementary. Bring your child's Social Security number, birth certificate, two proofs of residency and immunization records.

Student writers sought

Attention Clarkston High School students: Do you like to write? Are you interested in finding out what a career as a reporter would be like? Do you enjoy sporting events?

The Clarkston News is seeking student writers for the coming school year. Last year, Don Downey and D'Anne Witkowski wrote a column about student life; Mike Romein wrote about junior-varsity sports. All three students graduated and we are seeking students to do the same thing this year.

If you're interested, call editor Annette Kingsbury at 625-3370 or send a sample of your writing and a cover letter to her at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI.

Parade entries needed

The Clarkston Labor Day parade is drawing near and the Rotary Club is seeking entrants.

If you would like to be in the Sept. 2 parade but haven't yet signed up, call Tom McClosky at 625-6636 right away.

Six vie for four city council seats

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two incumbents, two newcomers and a former Clarkston city councilman turned in their petitions last week, thereby announcing they will run for three seats on Clarkston's City Council.

In addition Mayor Sharron Catalo, who has headed the City of Clarkston for two terms plus a short term prior to cityhood, is running unopposed.

The local election will take place on national election day, Nov. 5, 1996 at City Hall, 375 Depot in Clarkston.

Here's a brief look at the six candidates.

Name: Steve Arkwright

Personal: Resident of Clarkston for 10 years, married, two sons, lives on S. Holcomb, employed as a certified financial planner with PaineWebber.

Past political experience, community involvement: Former Clarkston City Councilman, he chose not to run again last year after serving two terms, worked on Clarkston's charter for cityhood, current secretary of city's planning commission, zoning board of appeals member, ex-chair of the planning commission, former council police liaison.

Reason for running, main concerns: "I think that some important issues are going to be dealt with in the near future and I'd like to participate in them. I think the zoning ordinance needs work. I'm clearly in favor of strict zoning ... The involvement with police is another area. I would agree with Sharron (Catalo) — the water's scary. We've got to drink it. (I also am concerned about) improved relations with the township as well as with the business district. We need to work together."

Name: Laura Aulgur

Personal: Born and raised in Clarkston ("I'm a lifer"), graduated from Clarkston High School in 1970; married, one son, lives on Middle Lake Rd., runs F & M Property Management with her husband John and is a licensed real estate broker.

Past political experience, community involvement: No prior political involvement. A member of the Clarkston Downtown Business Association and both she and John belong to the Clarkston Foundation.

Reason for running, main concerns: "I love Clarkston. This town needs to move forward in a positive manner and still keep its hometown spirit."

Name: Sharron Catalo

Personal: Resident of Clarkston for 16 years, married, two children, lives in a renovated historic church on Buffalo St.

Past political experience, community involvement: Mayor of Clarkston the past two terms (four years) plus a short term prior to 1992 cityhood and, before that, Village of Clarkston president since 1986.

Reason for running, main concerns: "I'd like to see us get water. I know that's an issue that creates an expense because everybody pays too much for everything anyway, but it's not going to get any cheaper and it's a necessity."

Name: Doug Roeser

Personal: Resident of Clarkston for 26 years, married, three children, lives on E. Church, is a dentist with his own company, Roeser Dental Associates, owned by himself, brother and son.

Past political experience, community involvement: Current Clarkston city councilman, has served several consecutive terms, Mayor Pro-Tem, city zoning board of appeals member, serves on several city committees including budget committee, former city planning commission member.

Reason for running, main concerns: "I'm seeking re-election because of community service, giving back to a community that has been very good to me and my family. I think we need to update the zoning ordinance is one issue. Maintain tight fiscal control and

Retiring councilman shares perspective on city

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Steve Secatch doesn't have a fancy recipe for what it took to be a Clarkston city councilman the past four years.

"Just a common sense approach," he says, describing his way of doing things. When the petitions for city officers were turned in by the deadline Aug. 5, his was not among them.

Secatch decided a couple of weeks ago it would be best not to seek another term. As lieutenant station commander of the West Bloomfield Fire Department, where he's worked for 21 years, he's busy with a rigorous schedule that allows him periodic stretches of vacation time.

Because he plans to do a lot of traveling, he feels he won't be around enough to commit himself to the twice-monthly council meetings. After he made the decision, Secatch immediately notified The Clarkston News because he felt his resignation might encourage others to run.

After the last election, it was good to see newcomers, he says. "The two recent additions to the council (Dave Savage and Walt Gamble) last year have blended in real well ... with new ideas and things." This election year, he adds, "I'm glad to see we got some new people to run. I think maybe it's time to sit back and take a break and get some new blood on council."

Among his contributions to the city, Secatch cites his being instrumental in developing the position of

Department of Public Works supervisor. "We didn't have anybody in charge; there wasn't really anybody accountable."

As city street administrator, Secatch says he worked hard to get regular street patching and repair done for about $20,000 each year. Nothing had been done for the five years prior to his coming on council. "I got (council) back involved in that. You fix it now — not fix it later," he says, hoping the pattern will continue.

Secatch has also served on the charter commission for Clarkston's cityhood, the city's zoning board of appeals, planning commissions in Independence and Springfield townships and Clarkston, and various other boards and subcommittees which he's often been quick to volunteer for.

His vision for Clarkston's future includes not only a parking ordinance but a parking plan for the downtown area that shows every available parking spot in the city. The layout may even have to be changed, he adds, and he hopes Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston's plan for loading zones that was cast "by the wayside" will resurface.

Steve Secatch

In addition, he'd like to see the Depot St. sidewalk become a reality, improvements to streets and sidewalks, another look at city water and a new addition to City Hall.

"You go to a council meeting and you hear the cop talking on the phone," quips Secatch about the current cramping of city manager, DPW and police.

However, he adds, the city is in good financial shape, and residents should be thankful the millage rate hasn't changed for three years. But, he adds, "The city is only one-half square mile and a mill brings in only $30,000. In the township, they get $700,000 per mill." He reminds folks, "We have a very limited budget. There's only so much we can do."

Secatch says he may run again, he may not ("It depends on where I'm at"), but he'll still be around. His colleagues say they will miss his familiar face at the council table.

Basically he's a "roll up your shirtsleeves and get to work kind of guy," said fellow councilman Dave Savage, praising Secatch recently.

Mayor Sharron Catalo says Secatch has definitely been an asset. "He came to us with experience on sitting on two different planning commissions in Springfield and Independence (townships). We will miss him but he's told me he will continue to serve on our planning commission ...

"I don't think this is the last time you'll hear the name Steve Secatch. He's got too much experience to sit on the sidelines — and he keeps good contact in the community."

New high school costs need to come down

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

You're building your dream house and you've got a lot of money to do it, but you are on a budget. When the architects show you the drawings of what you've asked for, they're beautiful—just what you wanted. But when they show you the price tag, it's more than you can afford. Tough choices have to be made.

That's the dilemma facing the Clarkston board of education. The board was asked Monday night to consider some contingency plans in case construction of the new $56 million high school on Flemings Lake Rd. continues to be over budget as bids come in.

Representatives from architect Greiner Inc. and construction manager AJ Etkin asked the board for a consensus, not specific cuts, at Monday's regular meeting. However they did present a list of suggestions of areas that could be cut.

Another such list was considered by the board in April and several changes were approved then, including reducing seating at the football field.

"We're at a critical point," said board president William McGregor. "Some large items are coming in at this time and it's too soon to tell if they'll come in over or under budget."

Bids for about one-third of the steel and foundation work are expected before the next board meeting, Aug. 26. There is about a $2.7 million contingency fund built into the project, but George Fadool of Etkin said right now the project is running about $2.5 million over budget in the early stages.

"It's not going to come down enough to make up the $2.5 million," Fadool said. "We need your input before we go further. We're not going to be presumptuous; it's your building... We're not asking you for specific decisions... tonight, just to get the thought process going."

Some suggested cuts include:

● Changing roofs over the gym, media center, swimming pool and auditorium from curved to sloping and changing the height of the pool area. This could save about $200,000 but would eliminate a three-meter diving board for the pool, something few schools have, according to Chuck Olson of Greiner.

● Reducing the entire athletic area by 8,000 square feet. This would save about $600,000 and wouldn't affect curriculum, but could affect extra-curricular practices and tournaments.

● Eliminating the entire vocational-technical wing at a savings of $1.2 million. This was rejected by the board outright because it would affect curriculum. Leaving the area unfinished would save about $500,000.

● Eliminating the auxiliary gym and reconfiguring the locker rooms—a savings of $1.4 million. Superintendent Dr. Albert Roberts said he didn't feel the program could make do without the auxiliary gym. Leaving some locker rooms unfinished could save $200,000.

● Eliminating the football stadium as far as spectator seating is concerned—a saving of $1 million.

The board did not take a formal vote on the cuts, but members made it clear they want curriculum to be the last thing affected.

"What else can we do with the structure?" asked trustee Janet Thomas. "I do believe the community would rather have programs intact rather than have more glass (etc.)."

"There is no space in the floor plan not called for in the educational specifications," said Chuck Olson of Greiner. "We are not providing any big, glorious entries... We have been looking at that with a magnifying glass. In terms of finishes, we have been looking at that too. We will not have an ostentatious building... But we still have to have a contingency plan in the event we do all these other things and we're still not there."

Since classroom space is the least expensive, the choices basically come down to non-academic areas such as the gym, stadium, pool and auditorium—the big-ticket items. However reducing the size of these "core" facilities translates to reducing the ultimate student capacity of the building.

Several board members suggested school staff be involved in this phase of the decision-making process, as they have been along the way. Olson and Fadool were told to go ahead with the roof and pool changes and asked to bring back drawings of other proposed changes.

Roberts also said the preliminary cost estimates he received from Independence Township for water and sewer service to the site were "startling" and "prohibitive." He declined to release actual figures.

The board is expected to vote on the steel and foundation bids at its Aug. 26 meeting. Meanwhile, on Monday the board approved a bid for temperature control at the new building at $473,000 to Building Automated Systems and Services.

In other action:

● Approval was given to hire an additional first-grade teacher for Clarkston Elementary School based on enrollment.

● Approval was given to hire additional special education staff based on enrollment of special needs students. A 4 time speech pathologist and 2.75 para-professional aides were approved, with some funding to come from Oakland Schools, some from Clarkston's general fund.

● The board set a special meeting for Aug. 26 to approve the application for preliminary qualification of bonds for renovation of the existing elementary schools and construction of a new elementary school. The issue is expected to go to the voters in December.

Another bid for Main-Waldon property?

New prospective bidder proposes multiple; needs rezoning

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At least one bid on the vacant property at the southeast corner of Main St. and Waldon Rd. is being entertained by a local resident and business person.

Connie Campanaro, who told the Independence Township Board of Trustees Aug. 5 she would be willing to offer $140,000 for the 2 1/2 acres, approached Clarkston's City Council at its meeting Monday night.

Campanaro told council she's proposing to buy the five-acre lot in order to build a multiple townhouse development that would include 10-20 units. "But if the village is intending to buy it, I don't want to get into a battle with the village," she said.

Currently, the city is considering purchasing the property itself as a possibility. "Your bid shouldn't hinge on our decision," Councilman Bill Basinger said.

Some council members questioned the buildable area of the lot and the ability of Campanaro to fit in even 10 units. Only a small portion is considered useful; the rest is full of topography problems and wetlands.

Campanaro said if the township accepts her offer she plans to build up, not out. Each attached unit would be two stories high and feature an underground garage.

Basinger said currently the property is zoned single-family residential (R-1) and either a special provision under that category would have to be considered or the zoning would have to be changed to multiple family (M-1).

At the township meeting, Bob and Deanna Olsen, who currently have the only bid on the table, had their date of sale extended to Sept. 19. Township supervisor Dale Stuart said that would give the township more options. The Olsens reduced their original offer of $130,000 to $115,000 because they say only one lot is buildable.

The couple feel the land is more suitable for an office building and are still in debate with the city over changing the zoning to commercial or possibly creating a new city zoning category of office.

Campanaro, who works locally as a real estate agent and is a licensed builder, said Tuesday the decision had come up "very hastily. This has been decided only in the last three weeks. We didn't know the property was going to come back and he (Bob Olsen) wasn't going to exercise his option.

"I'm not out to get into a war with the city or the Olsens. I would just like to offer something that's all right for everybody ..." According to her partner, a developer, the concept would work. "It's a pretty sizable chunk of land winding around down there at Main and Waldon."

Deanna Olsen said she is "just waiting to see what will happen" with her bid. The Olsens plan to attend the township meeting on Sept. 17, just two days before the date of sale deadline. "That's the one where we're going to have to make a decision," she said.

Unlike Campanaro, whose offer would be contingent on the city approving the multiple townhouse concept, Deanna says she and Bob have offered cash.

"If you have a cash offer vs. one that's contingent, they (the township) may go with the cash offer because that's a sure thing."

Both Campanaro and the Olsens say the state's Department of Natural Resources will have a big say in either matter because of the wetlands.

After Monday night's meeting council went into closed session to discuss the possibility of the city buying the property. No action was taken, councilman Doug Roeser said.

In other council action:

● The proposed city parking ordinance received a second reading. Council voted to table its decision, 5-0, until all council members are present, hopefully at the next meeting Aug. 26. Steve Secatch and Karen Sanderson were absent.

Discussion continued about a section in the proposed ordinance that deals with prohibited street parking from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. all year. Under the proposal, Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said, permits would be issued in the event of hardships.

● Ron Rodda of Max Brook Realtors had results of a survey that shows 50 employees of city businesses park in private lots and 68 employees use city lots in downtown Clarkston.

● A Clarkston couple addressed council about several problems behind their Main St. home, including the great number of deer which have become "pests," and continued bad odors from the city sewer.

● Council voted 5-0 to authorize signing an agreement with city planner McKenna & Associates to provide services as needed. They will ask them for a quote on the cost of reviewing the city's zoning ordinance and developing a master plan.

● City manager Art Pappas brought up the issue of low water levels in the Mill Pond.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Help wanted

As we go to press my colleague of the last two years, Daniel W. Cole, is preparing to pack up his Saturn and take a long, one-way trip West.

Daniel is moving to California, where a sister lives, and hoping to find a newspaper job there. He's young, single, not tied down by a house or other obligations, and it's just the right time for him to go.

His friends are happy for him and supportive, but we will miss him. One thing about Daniel, he did make friends easily. He will be missed here in Clarkston, I am sure, by coaches, athletes and others who came to appreciate his personable, good-natured style and, if they're willing to admit it, his fairness. The person who comes after him will have big shoes to fill.

I'm not a parent, but I have the feeling this is what it must be like when a child leaves the nest. I remember when I went off to college. Mom and a friend drove me there. As the elevator doors closed, Mom got a little weepy. She did that even when the sixth (and last) kid left. It's hard to let go, even if it's for the best.

Though Daniel was a sports writer par excellence, what he really loved writing about was politics. His knowledge of sports came from his playing and coaching experiences, so he could write about it in his sleep. But he lived and breathed politics.

Given that, he chose the primary election as his ending line.

It's been fun to watch the last couple of months, as candidates have come courting. Some have been more friendly than others, but Daniel handled them all with tact and courtesy, whether he supported them or not.

Some people might think this job is easy, but often it's not. You have to face the same people on your beat, week after week. If you didn't endorse someone and he or she won the election, you'd still have to work with them. It can be tough.

So as I look for a new reporter, it's inevitable that I'll be comparing him to her or Daniel. Will he be able to work with coaches like DW? Will he come to work each morning up on the hill, not just to do his job but to have great discussions in politics, music, sports — you name it — without getting off on it? We'll see.

Daniel's been a real guy, always willing to help out. He's a real guy, always willing to help out. He's a real guy, always willing to help out.

Why do I feel the way I do about Daniel? It's not just because he was a good reporter. It's because he was a good person. He was a good person, he was a good person.

He was a good person, he was a good person. He was a good person, he was a good person.

Let's work together

Last week's primary election results showed voters looking at what each candidate has accomplished, as well as the personalities involved. We say that because incumbent supervisor Dale Stuart and incumbent clerk Joan McCrary were both re-elected, even though they've made it no secret they don't get along.

The challenge now, for Stuart, McCrary and newly elected treasurer Jim Wenger will be to forge a new, smoother working relationship. The voters have spoken. They appreciate what you've accomplished. Why not make it easier on all involved by resolving to get along better?

Everyone knows what it's like to work with a difficult person; nearly every workplace has one. But with elected officials it's a bit different, because Stuart and McCrary were both elected by the public, one isn't the boss of the other and neither has a superior in the chain of command.

We believe the supervisor's, clerk's and treasurer's offices were created to be separate to ensure a system of checks and balances. But if there's one thing the recent investment problem has proven, it's that each of those offices must talk to each other.

Stuart and McCrary both say, and we agree with them, that the work of their offices continues despite their personality conflict. But we are concerned because each says there's nothing he or she can do to improve the situation. Each puts the blame squarely on the other.

Work can and will continue, no matter how this issue is resolved. But for the sake of the township's well-being, we hope the officials, with the urging of the trustees, will redouble their efforts at peaceful co-existence. AK

Letter to the editor

Rosso says thanks

I extend to you, the voters of Independence Township, my deepest appreciation and gratitude for your outpouring of support in my election to the township board. I would also like to extend a special thanks to those of you that placed yard signs, wrote cards, worked the polls and provided innumerable support to me in so many ways.

My thanks also go to those appointments who were "in the class" in every way throughout the campaign, my wife and son for their full commitment of time and effort, and finally to Bob Vandemark and Cal Yarker for their counsel and confidence.

I am fully up to the challenge of representing you as my partners for the best interest of our township.

Sincerely,
Larry Rosso

15 YEARS AGO (1981)

Though both Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith and Clarkston Village Council Trustee Jackson Byers agree Main St. should remain undisturbed, they clash on the state's plan to widen M-15. Byers is adamant about the proposed widening anywhere but Smith feels widening may be needed between Paramus and Waldon to alleviate traffic problems in that area.

The first steps are taken toward developing a community education program run by Clarkston schools. The board of education votes unanimously to begin the process of hiring a director with a goal of having the program underway around the first of next year. Chairperson Alberta Ellis says community education's mission would be to serve people from preschoolers to senior citizens. Some of the expected offerings include enrichment activities for children after school, programs for adults and summer school.

It would have taken just one more win for boys from the Moscovic Building Company's midget league baseball team to clinch a state championship in the Michigan Class F State Tournament Thursday afternoon. An 11-1 regular season record ends when Saginaw downs the team 10-1. "They took it pretty hard, but they'll all try and be there again next year," says Coach Dave Muhleck.

News from "By The Way": Signs of fall — Students will register Sept. 4 for the coming school year. Incidentally, Carl Brablec, superintendent, asks us to announce that some teachers are looking for a place to call home, a place to room and board for this school year. You can get in touch with him if you change your mind and decide to rent that extra room ... While we would not be considered as an appraiser of real estate values, facts seem to indicate that real estate prices are soaring, even into the clouds ... The political pot is beginning to heat. Bill and Elvis; together at last

The King may be gone, but every body — even those in Central Africa — are trying to cash in ...

Yep, it's true.

This week we received a press release from the International Collectors Society in Maryland. The press release's headline read:

Clinton and Elvis get Stamp of Approval
New postal issue honors The President and The King

Says the release: "Even though the Presidential race is still months away, for many collectors the winning ticket has already been decided. The Central African Nation of Chad has the collectibles world 'all shook up' with the release of a Limited Edition set of postage stamps featuring President Clinton together with his lifelong idol Elvis Presley."

Timing, they say, is everything. And if I am not mistaken the 19th anniversary of Presley's death comes up this weekend.

If the press release is to be believed, Republicans lookout.

"Clinton himself may have provided the inspirations for these stamps by frequently invoking Elvis" name in his campaign speeches and even going so far as to hire an Elvis impersonator to accompany him at many of his campaign stops. I don't know if Bob Dole has checked into the Heartbreak Hotel over this yet, but it seems that all collectors are talking about now is Clinton and these stamps!"

That quote was attributed to John Van Emden, distributor of stamps.

The stamps have an artist's rendition of an early '70s Elvis with his guitar and Clinton with his saxophone together on the same commemorative sheet.

Wow! Those folks from the Republic of Chad must think a heck of a lot about our stately head of state, President Clinton. I think I would have been more comfortable had they thought him a good world leader, instead of sticking a saxophone in his hand and painting a peanut butter and 'nana sandwich grin on his face.

Are they joking or just trying to make some quick money? Or, are they joking and trying to make some quick money at the same time?

The world may never know. I just wish the President would seem more presidential, at least to the rest of the world.

What activities would you like to see at the new youth center?

MATT EVANS, 13, CMS EIGHTH-GRADER: Probably some hockey up there. I know a lot of others who like to make jumps, do tricks and stuff and there's no places for in-line skating ... My whole school's into Rollerblading.

ANDREW HAMILTON, 12, SMS SEVENTH-GRADER: I think about the same thing. They should make like a hockey rink for hockey games.

CODY SENKYR, 13, CMS EIGHTH-GRADER: Just maybe have rinks and jumps. But they should just maybe have a rink to do whatever on. I'd like to see you only have to wear knee pads or wrist pads. That's all you really need — not like every single pad you need at Clintonwood Park.

KATIE KLOCKOW, 10, BAILEY LAKE FOURTH-GRADER: Games and crafts. Cooking, movies with popcorn.

ERIN COLLINS, 15, CHS TENTH-GRADER: I want a place to skate in the winter, definitely. A place to dance, a place to hang out in the winter when we can't be outside.

The indescribable Grand Canyon

Magnificent. Breathtaking. Spectacular. They all fit but, as often befalls the power of words, there is no language to fully and adequately describe the Grand Canyon, Arizona's great gift — perhaps America's greatest gift — to the world.

This week I returned from a two-week honeymoon that took my husband and I out West to that portion of the U.S. neither one of us had ever visited. We spent time in Nevada, Arizona and California, also touring man-made wonders like Las Vegas, Hoover Dam and Disneyland.

We chose to go the less-traveled route and visit the Canyon's North Rim, which, experts say, is just as spectacular as the South Rim though it's less accessible. Or, using a phrase from Grand Canyon's "The Guide," we chose it for its "remote ambiance."

As I passed through the Grand Canyon Lodge my husband was two steps ahead of me. He turned back and shook his head. You won't believe it. Be prepared, he said.

Nothing prepared me for the impact. We journalists pride ourselves on finding the right prose to convey an adequate picture to our readers — but here, there was none.

As I felt tears welling in my eyes, there was an awesome stillness and majesty that I've never experienced before. There was an immediate melding of nature and humanity, at once bringing to me the purpose and joy of my existence. There was the sheer visual impact of Mother Nature drenching the Canyon walls with light and color.

Like someone once said, you can try to describe an orange, its color and texture, what it's like biting into one, but you can't describe the taste. That has to be experienced.

Instead, I'll rely on the eloquent words of two great men who, I hope, will evoke a sense of urgency to visit the Grand Canyon sometime during your lifetime.

Former U.S. president Theodore Roosevelt wrote this passage upon visiting the Grand Canyon in 1903. A new look-out area called "Roosevelt Point" was dedicated this July by U.S. Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt. A plaque bears this quote from Roosevelt:

"Leave it as it is. You cannot improve on it. The ages have been at work on it, and man can only mar it. What you can do is to keep it for your children, your children's children, and for all who come after you, as the one great sight which every American ... should see."

The other is an inspirational passage written by my late father, Dr. Robert Cavanaugh, a former Hope College music professor and avid naturalist. He wrote it probably more than 25 years ago and it has never been published:

"After the awesome sight that everyone experiences in approaching the South Rim of the Grand Canyon for the first time, I felt a need to get away from the crowd, the babble of voices, the picture-taking and the noise in general.

"Accordingly, I started to hike east along the trail that meandered at times close to the Rim and at other times through fragrant pine groves. Gradually human noises died away until I heard only bird calls, the sighing of wind through pine branches and the sound of my feet on the trail.

"Finally, after what must have been close to a mile of steady hiking, I walked out on a broad promontory — a sort of peninsula that jutted well out into the Canyon — and sat down to rest on a handy log.

"Here, for the first time, I could see the Colorado River, a tiny, twisting silver thread at that distance — so far below and yet so far away from the base of the Canyon wall. The sun was by now a good fifteen degrees above the horizon, climbing steadily and causing constantly shifting shadows and colors on the rocks, cliffs, crags, buttresses and pinnacles spread out before me as far as I could see.

"I thought of the millions of years it had taken for the land to rise at the same time that the river was cutting downward through the rock, constantly grinding, grinding remorselessly, unceasingly, until at this point in time it had sculpted the immense, marvelous, breathtaking panorama that lay before my eyes.

"Suddenly I became aware of the stillness, the quiet. I have experienced blessed moments of quiet in nature before, but none compared to this. I suppose it was a combination of the senses — the colors of the clouds, the sky, the rocks and the immensity of the peaceful scene before me, coupled with the fact that my ears could detect no sound. It was indescribable and it was glorious.

"At the height of that sensation there flashed into my mind a stanza from John Greenleaf Whittier's poem, set to a hymn by Frederick Maker, which I've sung so many times without fully comprehending it:

"Oh Sabbath rest by Galilee, O calm of hills above; Where Jesus knelt to hear with Thee the silence of eternity, interpreted by love."

"And I felt the presence of God."

Exercising democracy

Bailey Lake Elementary, Precinct 12 one of the hottest days of the year. Here we sat working the election and hearing many complaints—the long walk down endless halls to get to our polling booths, why can't we split our vote, etc. I couldn't wait for 8 p.m. to arrive.

Then at approximately 7:50 p.m. I walked a family of three people. What was it that made these voters stand out in my mind more than the other 240-plus voters? It was the one lady in her 60s who was voting for her very first time as an American citizen. She came prepared with her passport in hand and the biggest smile we had received all day. She walked with pride through our line—no complaining like so many others that day—then she walked to the voting booth and cast her first vote, then put it into the machine. Upon completing all the above she turned to all of the workers and waved again giving us an even bigger smile.

So what did we do? Some of us stood and clapped for her. She reminded us in those last 10 minutes why we had sat there for 13 hot, tiring hours, because we have the privilege to vote and don't ever want to lose it or take it for granted.

Where's the signal?

Editor,

For the last 18 months I have been after the Michigan Department of Transportation and the Road Commission for Oakland County to have a traffic signal installed at the end of the off-ramp from I-75 south to Sashabaw Rd. (the north I-75 ramp has a signal). As a daily user of this off-ramp, I am growing tired of long waits (five to 10 minutes) for an unsafe opportunity to turn left onto north Sashabaw. Right-hand turns also involve risk as side-by-side drivers edge forward for improved vision, subsequently blocking each other's view. The signals currently in this area are simply not adequate and have produced a dangerous situation. Remember the speed limit on Sashabaw is 50 m.p.h. I've described normal traffic volume between 4 and 6 p.m. Conditions get exponentially worse during Pine Knob concerts.

My first letter to MDOT was in March, 1995 to Desi Stratkovits, the safety engineer for our area. By January 1996 Desi informed me over the phone that MDOT Lansing had approved the need for a signal at the intersection and referred me to the RCOC. Dave Allyn (an Independence Township resident familiar with the intersection) at the commission was polite enough to return my calls. He advised me in March 1996 the light was scheduled to be installed during 1996 by a state subcontractor.

Last week, after another near accident, I called the Independence Township supervisor's office for help to expedite the installation of the signal. Rita's return message stated more delays, the project would not be big out until September, with a new estimated installation of June 1997! What happened to an approved project for 1996?

I am not alone in this request. There are many co-workers and neighbors that use this exit on a daily basis and share the same opinions. We intend to actively phone MDOT, the RCOC, and the re-elected township supervisor until a signal is installed. I'm sure there are more township residents that share our concerns.

I would hope you would be able to follow this up with a story to rouse more support for this cause. I only hope that you do not have to write a story about a preventable accident that seriously injures or kills someone at this intersection before a signal is installed.

Sincerely,
Michael Jaffke

Hughes thanks supporters

I would like to thank all those who helped me and gave me support during the last four months. It is not easy to take on an incumbent in any election, but I felt strongly about the issues that I brought forth and I hope they will not fall on deaf ears. I believe the people needed a choice; it is our right to have a choice in an election.

I will continue to be involved in the community to make it a better place for all of us. Once again, thanks to all those who donated time, money and support in my efforts for township clerk. Thanks to all that found the time to vote; you are the real winners in this election.

Sincerely,
Sheila J. (Goins) Hughes

Vasquez thankful

Dear editor,

I wish to express my appreciation to your newspaper for its fairness throughout the recent campaign.

I would also like to applaud the voters who chose to exercise their right rather than choosing to ignore the process.

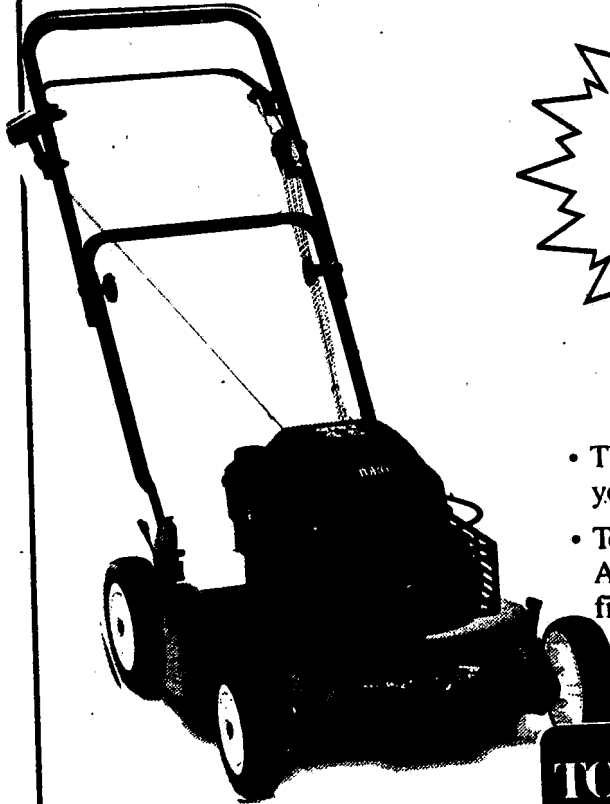

To the winners, may you have a productive and happy four years. To the losers rejoice in the fact you tried.

Above all, I wish to thank those special people for their sincere efforts on my behalf. To those who believed enough to vote for me—thank you.

Last hoop for youth center is property split request

Mt. Zion scheduled to appear before township's ZBA

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new youth center is expected to open in October, but Mt. Zion Church Pastor Loren Covarrubias says he'd like to relinquish part of the property before that happens.

By May, Mt. Zion had purchased the 5.38-acre lot at Sashabaw and Maybee for a listed $2 million from Equitable Group in Southfield. Zoned C-2 (planned shopping center) in Independence Township, it includes two buildings, one which will house the teen center, the other, an existing ACO Hardware.

A request by Covarrubias to split the lot was denied by a Parcel Split Committee which determined that the request didn't comply with minimum lot size and width requirements. C-2 zoning requires a 5-acre minimum and both the teen center and ACO would fall short of that requirement if split, township assessor Dave Kramer said.

Covarrubias has petitioned the township's zoning board of appeals which will consider a variance at a public hearing scheduled for Aug. 21, 7:30 p.m. in the township annex.

Township planner Richard Cartisle said a variance never changes the status of designated zoning. "It permits the property to be used in a fashion that does not completely comply with ordinance requirements." The requested indoor recreational use is permitted under C-2 zoning, he added.

Covarrubias said he requested the split because "ACO doesn't fit our non-profit status. It's best to split. If it would have been our choice, we wouldn't have bought ACO."

Once the youth center opens, Mt. Zion will operate four centers in addition to its church building on Maybee Rd. The church has purchased more property, not only because it's run out of room, but it also wants to involve communities.

Covarrubias says he's talked with Sashabaw Middle School Principal Dr. Jean Lang about working together in areas like tutoring. Other offerings could include drug education and counseling.

He got the idea about turning the vacant building into a teen center after talking to representatives of the Clarkston Community Task Force, which couldn't afford to buy the property. He felt the church should step up to the plate and offer the community a gathering place for young people.

The new center, named Clarkston Christian Association, plans to target middle-school students who have "nowhere to play" and whose parents work, he said. "We want to keep them active before they go home. That's also a time when they are making some very important life choices."

The floor plan includes recreational activities like rollerblading, skate-boarding and half-court basketball as well as an arcade, game tables, pool, ping-pong and more "girl-oriented" activities like crafts. The church plans to include a "family room" geared toward the younger set that features a big-screen TV, Big-Wheel tracks, play structures and parenting classes.

There will be supervised recreation both inside and outside of the building, Covarrubias said. Mt. Zion plans to repave the lot in back and use the large parking lot in front for rollerblading and skateboarding, as well as using space inside.

Covarrubias says the church plans to "keep the kids in" by charging a nominal fee that won't include hand stamping. Once they leave, they won't be allowed to return, which gets rid of undesirable possibilities like substance abuse around the building, he added.

The concept has worked well on teen nights at the church's Oakland Christian Association center in Waterford where young people pay $2 for admission and a beverage. If they arrive a half hour early they get in free plus receive a slice of pizza. They may also attend a small service where Christian values are addressed, he said.

If the rate is too expensive for some, the church will work with those people. "We'll always provide opportunities for people to afford things — maybe work it off and provide incentives."

The location has worked out perfectly for Mt. Zion. "When we started OCA in Waterford, our goal was to always build closer to the church." With the new youth center "we thought that by buying so close to the church, we could also use it for some church activities so that could justify us spending the money."

"By double-use, we serve the church and the community at the same time."

Covarrubias said the township has been very cooperative, although it wasn't supportive when Mt. Zion wanted to build its present church on Maybee.

Originally intended to include a community center, "we wanted to build a bigger facility but the planning commission voted it down."

Instead of contesting the township's decision, Covarrubias said the church decided to follow a passage in the Bible about "submitting to government."

"Rather than be put out by it, we just sent it to God's will. We felt this was God speaking to us—even though we didn't like what He had to say."

Ironically, Covarrubias already knows the building well.

"I started there as a bag boy at Food Town and worked in the dairy department until I went into the ministry at age 24," he said.

Wallace looks forward

My thanks goes out to all the citizens of Independence Township who voted in the August 6 primary. Voter participation in Independence Township was higher than the rate of turnout for the rest of Oakland County.

The number and quality of candidates demonstrates a vitality and interest in local public affairs that bodes well for our future. Each of the candidates should be commended on their participation and contributions.

Already those elected are beginning to work on working together to serve our community even better.

I am pleased to have been selected to serve as a township trustee and to have an opportunity to work with the people who serve you as part of our township government.

I hope and trust that each of you will be watching very closely what we do over the next four years. This is a responsibility I take very seriously and I expect we will make great strides in what could be difficult times.

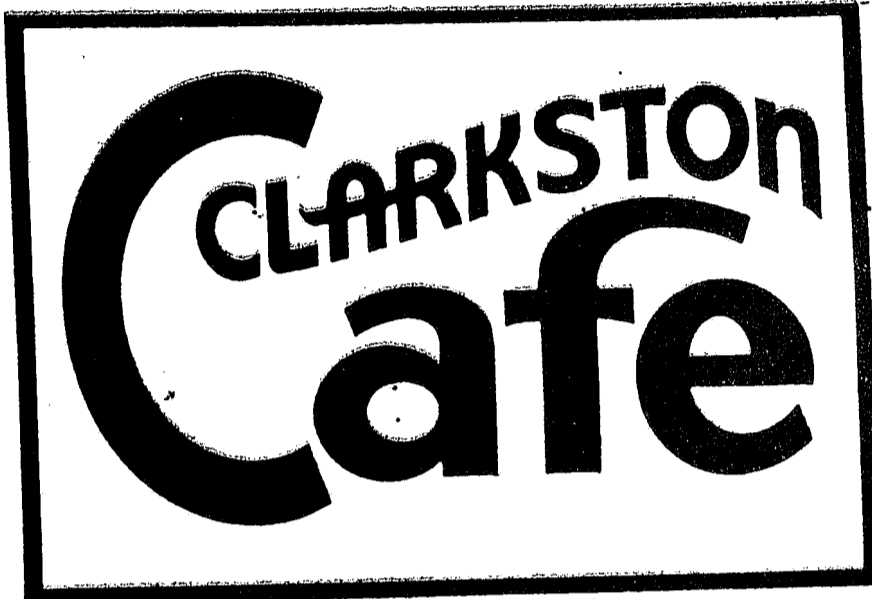

Finally, my thanks go out to my family, those who worked on my campaign and everyone who voted for me.

Sincerely,
Neil E. Wallace

Deputy retires to spend time with family

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

After 25 years—nearly half his life—in uniform, Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Keith Brodkorb ended it a career last week.

Brodkorb ended his last day with cake and a few laughs at the department's Independence Township substation, where he had been most recently assigned. He said though he might come back and work part time, he was ready to spend more time with his wife Jeanne and kids.

"My wife and I do foster children and that keeps us busy all the time," Brodkorb said. With two grown sons of their own, ages 30 and 31, the couple has adopted three youngsters, ages 4, 5 and 6, and continues to take in foster children at their Springfield Township home.

"All the guys tell me I'm crazy. How can you do that at your age?" Brodkorb said. But it's obvious he has a soft spot for kids. When asked to think back on a particularly memorable case, he immediately remembered one which involved a child who was killed in an auto accident during his first year on the job.

"I took the baby out of the car," he said. "I've never ever forgotten over that. Every time my wife or kids left the house, I'd never forget it."

The Brodkorbs have been foster parents for 10 years now. With Keith's retirement, they plan to take a trip to Mackinac Island with the kids, but once school starts, they'll be tied to home.

Brodkorb grew up in Lake Orion and spent some time in the military. When he came back, he tried working at Pontiac Motors but found it wasn't for him.

"Believe it or not, ever since I was a little kid I wanted to be a policeman," he said. When he made the career switch, the OCSO hired him first and he's been there ever since.

"You meet all kinds of people with all kinds of problems. And frankly, I'm going to miss it. I've been doing it half my life and I can't believe it's almost over."

Brodkorb said he's well known among his fellow officers for his love of reading. He finds time when he's stuck in the car running radar, for example. He said a favorite author is Michigan writer Dutch Leonard, who writes crime novels. "He's realistic," Brodkorb said.

During his career, Brodkorb has worked as a school liaison officer, a traffic investigator, and on road patrol, where he finished.

"That's my favorite," he said. "You're out there in the car; you're more or less your own boss and deal with the people directly. I never wanted to be in an office."

Brodkorb said he's retiring early to devote more time to his wife and kids. He's seen fellow officers die young and doesn't want to wait any longer.

"My life is devoted to my family and I want to devote some time to them before it's too late," he said.

However, he will miss the camaraderie of the job, including his last commanding officer, Lt. Doug Hummel, who was his partner on road patrol early in his career.

"We told each other our troubles and persevered," Brodkorb said. "I have a lot of wonderful friends out here and I'm going to miss them. They've put their lives in my hands, and I've put my life in their hands."

"I know people don't always view police in a positive light. But they're there to save your life."

Sheriff's log for Independence Township

MONDAY, AUG. 5, prescription fraud at a pharmacy on Dixie. A Clarkston man brought in a prescription thought to have been from a stolen pad in North Oakland Medical Centers.

One box of personal checks was stolen, possibly from a mail box on Allen Rd. One check was cashed.

Possible live hand grenade on Whipple Lake Rd. A man reported finding the grenade in his late father's belongings. Someone from Selfridge Air National Guard base was called in to dispose of it.

Failure to return a borrowed Dodge Shadow on N. Marshbank. The resident said she loaned the car to a male friend, whose address she didn't know, around July 22.

Assault and battery on Console.

A 13-year-old Clarkston boy was caught riding a bike he allegedly had just stolen from an open garage on My Dr. He was found as deputies searched the area based on a witness' description.

Two 17-year-olds from Waterford and one 16-year-old from Clarkston were ticketed for being in possession of alcohol outside a party on Lancaster Hill. The three were in possession of two cases of beer at the time.

Assault and battery at Pine Knob during the kid's concert.

A screen was cut and a window forced at a home on Mann Rd. Someone went through jewelry boxes and a money bag and left behind a trail of chicken nuggets on the ground.

Someone attempted to steal a 1995 Jimmy that was parked, unlocked, on Oak Park. The steering column was damaged.

A leaf blower, weed trimmer and other tools were stolen from a vehicle parked in a Clintonville Rd. driveway.

Larceny of mail on Wealthy. Some mail was found on the ground.

TUESDAY, AUG. 6, a vacant house on Perry Lake Rd. burned. A deputy had just been called to the house the day before on a complaint of malicious destruction of property. The arson squad is investigating.

A stolen Jimmy was found in the parking lot of Mt. Zion church. A custodian saw the car with a window broken and called the owner, whose briefcase was still inside. The car had been stolen the previous day.

A Clarkston man is being investigated for a bad check at a Sashabaw Rd. business.

A Parkwood resident said someone tried to get into her apartment while she was home.

A golf club was missing from a country club on Indianwood Rd.

An animal control officer checking a complaint on Sashabaw found the front door of a home open, apparently kicked open. No one was home but everything appeared OK.

Grey paint was sprayed on a 1991 Chevy pick up parked in a Scammel driveway and food dumped on it.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 7, a White Lake man involved in a traffic stop on M-15 was arrested on an felony warrant and two misdemeanor warrants.

A phone was stolen from an unlocked 1984 Buick parked at an M-15 restaurant.

A CB was stolen from a car parked in a Major driveway unlocked.

A deputy doing building checks found two 17-year-old Clarkston boys in a car, both drinking, in a Sashabaw parking lot. They were ticketed.

A Lake Waldon resident who hasn't been receiving his mail reported it was being stolen.

A Waterford woman said a man sat on her car and kicked it at Pine Knob Tuesday night during a traffic altercation, denting it.

A borrowed boys mountain bike was reported from outside an M-15 store.

A mail box was taken off its post on Pine Knob Trail.

THURSDAY, AUG. 8, larceny of a phone from a 1995 Grand Am parked in an open Almond Lane garage.

Attempted breaking and entering of a 1988 Honda Civic at the Pine Knob parking lot.

A Yamaha Spree was found in a Michigamme driveway. It turned out to be registered to a Clarkston man who lived elsewhere.

A door was pried at a veterinary clinic on Sashabaw Rd. and some injectable drugs were stolen. While investigating that complaint, a deputy was told by an employee that she was being sent gifts by an unknown man.

Telephone threats were received at the fire station construction site on Citation Drive.

A Columbiaville man found in his car blocking access to the Cranberry Lake beach was arrested when deputies found he had an outstanding warrant out of Lapeer County.

Two 21-year-old men were removed from a township park around 4 a.m. One had an apparently stolen credit card in his possession. They were released to a grandparent and told not to come back. The credit card was confiscated.

A Sashabaw resident said she has been receiving daily hang-up calls for three months.

A 17-year-old Clarkston boy said he was threatened, possibly with a gun, on Lakewood.

A man driving a 1991 Lincoln through the Burger King drive-thru window said smoke started coming out from under the hood and by the time deputies arrived the car was fully engulfed in flame.

A 38-year-old Waterford man driving on M-15 said he pulled over when flagged down by three people who had a fourth person lying in the road. When he got out of his car he was hit in the face with a bottle by a white male, around age 20. The victim fled as two windows on his car were shattered. By the time deputies arrived, the suspects had fled.

Harassment on Meyers.

FRIDAY, AUG. 9, larceny of $200 cash during a garage sale on Williams.

Harassing phone calls since Christmas were reported on Gulick.

A Snowapple resident said someone scratched his car and threatened him.

A Royal Oak man is being investigated for writing a check for $136 at an M-15 restaurant on a closed

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

GETTING AN APPRAISAL

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE between a recommended selling price and an official appraisal.

QUESTION: What is the difference between a recommended selling price and an appraisal?

ANSWER: Any real estate agent can recommend a fair selling price for your home. This, however, is not an official appraisal conducted by a qualified appraiser. When should you get an appraisal? One reason would be a conflict over tax assessment. Appraisals are almost a must to support such a claim. Another reason would be if the government plans to take your property by eminent domain. You stand a better chance in court with an official appraisal in hand if you are disputing the fair market price.

Buddy Guy

Before there was Jimi Hendrix, Eric Clapton, Stevie Ray Vaughn — there was Buddy Guy.

The legendary Louisiana-born singer, songwriter and guitarist created a signature sound that influenced those rock guitar idols and others.

Rising artists like Vaughn and Robert Cray began listening to Guy after he left a career as a renowned session player at Chicago's Chess Records in the '60s.

After racking up a string of successful singles that featured his trademark passionate vocals and frenzied instrumentation, he took to the road for the next two decades and perfected his distinctive brand of electric blues through numerous live performances.

By the time he arrived at Silvertone Records in 1990, Guy had earned a reputation as "The World's Greatest Unsigned Guitarist." A string of Grammys followed for 1991's breakthrough album, "Damn Right I've Got The Blues," 1993's "Feels Like Rain" LP and 1994's "Slippin' In."

After the second Grammy album, Guy was honored with Billboard Magazine's Century Award, the publication's highest honor for a career of distinguished creative achievement.

Guy's most recent album was done in conjunction with guitarist G.E. Smith and the Saturday Night Live Band. His first live recording in 20 years, "Live! The Real Deal" features a Big Band sound that includes a sympathetic horn section as well as intricate guitar and piano interplay.

Wild West recreated

Over 100 children rounded up their Camp Fire day camp experience Friday at Independence Oaks County Park by recreating a Wild West town.

The kids, from grades K-7, had spent the last three weeks at the park and built up to Friday's finale by working on the Wild West angle all week. They broke into groups and each built, out of cardboard boxes, one building from a typical town, such as a bank, general store, school, barber and, of course, a jail. Then, using money they had exchanged at the bank for "gold" they sifted from sand, they were able to make purchases at each spot.

According to camp director Dana Garwood, most of the campers are not Camp Fire Girls and Boys members. The camp is open to all kids and many come from the Clarkston and Brandon areas.

"Most of them are kids that come back every year, at least half," she said. "Which is good and it's bad because we can't get new campers. We always have a waiting list."

Bev French, a social worker with Camp Fire, said the camp provides a safe, peaceful experience for kids.

"It's a camp that's more than a camp," she said. "It's a place they can learn about peacemaking. It's a very safe camp."

The kids had a good time donning homemade hats and getting each other locked up in jail. They could also get a "shave," and once when the jail fell over there was a "jail break."

There were no computers, no TVs, no VCRs. Just the glorious out-of-doors.

Nicole Nourvle gets a 'shave' from staffer Jill Manley. When asked how it was, she said, "It feels funny."

SPORTS

CHS athletes are college sports bound

Eleven will wear the student-athlete label

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The 1995-96 Clarkston varsity sports season was surely a success, for both teams and individuals.

As the 1996-97 school year creeps up on us, Wolves fans have already said goodbye to 11 graduates who will compete in college sports.

They are Joe DeGain (wrestling), Jeff Mull (baseball), Scott Hill (baseball), David Barth (baseball/golf), Tim Wasilk (basketball), Lisa Herron (volleyball), Nicki Hard (volleyball), Stephanie Giroux (softball), Amanda Jenkinson (softball), Crystal Lemke (softball) and Stefanie Burklow (cross country/track).

While all these athletes helped their teams to successful seasons and racked up some gaudy personal statistics, they were just as strong in the classroom.

The 11 graduates have an average grade-point average of 3.5.

Following is a list of the student-athletes, where they are headed, what they did at CHS and what they expect at the next level:

Joe DeGain, University of Michigan, wrestling:

There isn't much Clarkston's first-ever undefeated state champion hasn't accomplished. Along with countless high school wrestling titles, he also has plenty of international experience.

He ended his high school career with a 155-33 record, including 52-0 this season, without an offensive point scored on him.

You can bet DeGain will most likely make an immediate impact at UM because, although his laurels speak for themselves, he works harder than most athletes.

Lisa Herron, Kalamazoo College, volleyball:

First and foremost, Herron is a student and could have attended any college or university in the country on an academic scholarship. She finished at the top of her class with a perfect 4.0 gpa.

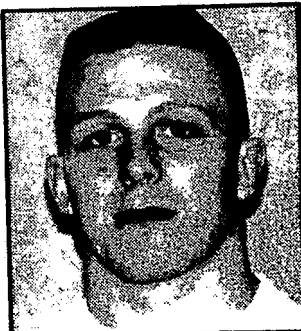

She chose K-Zoo because of its pre-med program and because she wanted to play volleyball, where she excelled for CHS the past two seasons.

Herron was a two-time All-Region choice, set school records as a senior in serve reception percentage and most perfect serves and led her squad to a district and OAA Division I title and a 40-win season.

Nicki Hard, Oakland Community College, volleyball:

She improved as much as any player in any sport from her junior to senior seasons, in volleyball as well as softball.

Hard was an All-OAA choice in VB and set a school record as a senior for most serves received. She rarely rested and was consistent in all areas. But it was that consistency that allowed the Wolves to reach championship heights.

Jeff Mull, Eastern Michigan University, baseball:

What EMU is getting with Mull is someone who throws a fastball in the 80s and has the tools and athleticism to be an immediate contributor.

As a senior, Mull led the team with a .398 batting average and was selected to the Michigan All-State Game.

Scott Hill, Alma College, baseball:

Hill's ability to get the most from himself earned him a chance to play at the college level. Hill and his 3.9 gpa was already headed to Alma for pre-medicine, but then the baseball coaches beckoned.

It was no accident Hill got noticed. Upon visiting his sister who attends Alma, he decided to meet the coaches and give them a schedule of his games. Well, they saw several games and decided Hill would be a great fit.

Hill, who says his dream was to play college sports, expects to pitch and play first base.

He hit .278 as a senior, was 2-2 on the mound and carries a 3.9 gpa, in his class' top ten.

David Barth, Baldwin-Wallace College, baseball/golf:

Whether Barth decides to play golf or baseball at the Ohio college, he should do well in both sports.

As a baseball player and golfer, Barth, who had a 3.5 gpa at CHS, was a steady influence on those teams. He rarely made mistakes. He batted over .300 in his last two baseball seasons, and was an important member of the golf team's OAA Division I title.

His father, Pete, is a graduate of Baldwin-Wallace.

Stephanie Giroux, Michigan State University, softball:

Don't count this 3.7 gpa student out. Although she suffered torn knee ligaments early in the softball season, the May surgery was a success and, knowing the determination she has shown throughout her CHS career, she'll be ready to go for the Spartans' next season.

As a junior, Giroux was selected All-State after batting over .500 and stealing 52 bases in 53 attempts.

Amanda Jenkinson, Oakland Community College, softball:

A three-year star, Jenkinson is the mold for Park opens new water features

Summer just got wetter with the opening of a children's water playground and group raft ride at Waterford Oaks Waterpark.

The new playground features more than 30 interactive activities, including waterjets, waterfalls and waterslides. The 6,772-square-foot pool housing the wet playground has a water depth of zero to 18 inches.

"The water playground is designed primarily for your young visitors," said Ralph Richard, parks manager. The water playground is open to visitors under 54 inches tall; taller guests must be accompanied by a child.

The new group raft ride carries four riders up three stories before descending 515 feet through drops and turns. The ride ends with a splash down into a three-foot-deep pool. For this ride, children under 42 inches tall must be accompanied by an adult (no lap riding).

Additionally, the waterpark's entrance and bathhouse have been modernized with glass block, concrete pillars, gables and an entry tower. Cost of the entire project was $3.1 million. The renovation project updates the park, which was built in 1976.

Detroit Monthly magazine has named the waterpark "best waterworld" in the metro area.

New fees for the waterpark are $11.50 non-residents, $9 county residents, $3.75 seniors age 62 and older. Child rates are $7 for non-residents 30-43 inches tall, $5 residents; kids under 30 inches free. Group and twilight rates are available.

The waterpark is open 11 a.m.-7 p.m. every day until Labor Day based on lifeguard availability. It's located on Scott Lake Rd., between Dixie and Pontiac Lake Rd. Call 858-0906 for more information.

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

THE WHAT'S AND WHY'S OF WEN CYSTS

Wen cysts, which are relatively common and often occur on the head and neck, are referred to by dermatologists as sebaceous or epidermoid cysts. To understand why, it is necessary to know that sebaceous glands beneath the skin work to keep it supple by secreting an oily substance called sebum. This natural lubricant reaches the skin's surface through ducts that sometimes become blocked. When this happens, the sebum may back up and accumulate to form a pliable lump beneath the surface. This is known as a sebaceous, or wen cyst. It can be as large as a small apple or as small as a pimple, but has no discoloration or pain unless an infection develops. If that were to happen, the dermatologist could treat it with antibiotics, or wen cysts may also be removed in an outpatient procedure.

We provide complete skin care, so if you or a member of your family has a question about wen cysts, we will be happy to discuss it with you. We "Care" about our patients and hope you will consider our office when members of your family need any type of skin care. Then, we can include you in our family of satisfied patients. Our offices are located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692); and 3003 Baldwin, Orion (391-9599).

P.S. If a wen cyst is merely drained, it will likely recur if the sac containing it remains intact.

Can you imagine a big-league baseball player leading the league in making most errors; in being struck out the most times; and in hitting into the most double plays—and still being voted Most Valuable Player in his league for that year? Did you know this once happened? It was 1942. Joe Gordon did all those things, yet won the Most Valuable Player award that season in the American League. There's a lesson to be learned from this. It shows that even though you have faults, you can overcome them and be recognized for your good points.

How do you figure this one. Only about 15% of the U.S. population is left-handed, yet almost 30% of major league baseball players are left-handed!

Here's a golf question that may surprise you. Of all the pro golfers of all-time, which one won the most tournaments in the history of the U.S. men's pro tour? It's not Jack Nicklaus as many would guess. Answer is Sam Snead.

I bet you didn't know... Oxford Cinemas has three auditoriums, showing first run movies and Tuesdays are Bargain Days!

The column

By Darrel W. Cole

● Went to observe the football team's conditioning sessions last week and man, are they pumped.

These kids are being pushed and loving it. Regardless what their record ends up being this season, I hope fans appreciate the dedication and hard work they are showing.

● Dane Fife, the football team's quarterback who happens to be one of the best hoopsters in the state, has shown the team and coaches that he loves football just as much.

At one point this season he passed up an invitation to the prestigious Nike Basketball Camp so he could attend a team passing camp with his football buddies.

Already, colleges are calling him about both sports ... and he may just decide to do both in college.

Earlier this summer Dane visited with Indiana hoops coach Bob Knight and asked if the coach would allow him to play football too. Of course, in typical Knight fashion, he didn't beat around the bush and discouraged the youngest Fife from considering it.

Well, apparently Indiana wasn't scared off because a while later Knight called Dane again.

Even with two more years of high school, the recruitment process for this youngster in football and hoops will eventually become quite a circus. Stay tuned, but in the meantime, enjoy.

● Expect some good things from the girls tennis squad this season as a cast of strong youngsters from last year is one year older.

They had a respectable 8-4 record last year and may equal that this season. But, just like the boys tennis squad this past season, they should be more competitive against the toughest teams.

● Watch out for the boys soccer team. Granted, they were 4-12 in the regular season last year, but their tough schedule paid off with a district title.

This season they should be better (despite the loss of co-MVPs Derrick Spires and Ben Gabriel) as a skilled group of juniors return in Rean Turner, Mike Gabriel, Shawn Verlinden and Brian McGeogh. And keep an eye on sophomores Dan Jackson, Jeremy Parrott and Russell Parrott, all of whom saw varsity action last season.

The key will be leadership, something this squad had plenty of last season with a solid group of seniors. It'll be interesting to see the team develop under coach Dan Fitzgerald (52-40-9 overall record).

● If you love excitement, tough play and hard work from your sports team, then go see the girls basketball team play.

Granted they lost two great all-around players in Nickie Winn and Leah Scharl, but return a strong crew ready to tackle the tough OAA Division I once again.

Sue Naboychik, a second-team Tri-District selection, brings her fiery attitude back, while the sweet-shooting Allison Richards should put up more points. In addition, Tiffany Honey is a star in the making.

● The boys golf team could return to the elite once again led by the dynamic duo of seniors Tim Klimek (38.6 average and All-State last season) and Jeff Cumberworth (40.5 avg.), both of whom play year round.

While those two will have to lead the squad once again, look for juniors Bryan Haggard (42.6 avg. and the only sophomore on last season's Tri-District first or second team) and Bob Schultz (43.0 avg.) to provide the solid back-up.

These kids have the skills to do well and you can bet 19-year head coach Jim Chamberlain (150-80 as CHS coach) will have them mentally ready.

● The girls and boys cross-country teams look ready for the prime time.

The girls return senior Kristin Maine and junior Liz Cook as well as Lissa Lukens, all valuable members of last season's fourth-place finishers in the Class A meet.

Record-setter Stefanie Burklow has graduated but the team's depth will be there once again.

The boys squad should be better than its 2-3 record last season with the return of senior Chas Claus, a first-team Tri-District selection, and second teamer Jeff Deevy, a senior. They will set the pace.

● Expect another great year of Clarkston sports from players and coaches.

CHS athletes are college sports bound catchers: She batted cleanup, was a fiery leader, hustled on every play and could throw out runners at will (only three girls stole a base on her all season).

A two-time OAA first team selection, Jenkinson led the team with a .427 batting average, had 38 RBI and stole 14 bases.

Crystal Lemke, Wayne State University, softball:

The Tartars of WSU better be prepared to be dazzled by this defensive wizard. Lemke is another three-year starter and two-time All-OAA pick who excelled at shortstop in her time at CHS.

She expects to play second base in college, but getting to balls most others can't—then gunning them down—seems to be her specialty. In addition, CHS coach Al Land says she is the best student of the game he's coached, always learning from her mistakes.

As a senior Lemke led the team with 41 RBI while also batting .339.

Tim Wasilk, Grand Valley State University, basketball:

New GVSU coach Jay Smith can be sure he has at least one player on his team who knows how to "D" it up.

Wasilk, the two-time OAA first teamer and three-year starter, is also a ball-handling wizard who can pass and hit the three-pointer. His quick feet and hands will most likely make him an immediate contributor at the college level.

He played on two regional championship squads and, as a senior, averaged 14 points, seven assists and six steals per game.

Stefanie Burklow, University of North Carolina-Charlotte, cross country/track:

This top ten student (3.9 gpa) accomplished as much as any athlete could have in track and cross country at CHS.

She set a school record in cross country, and did the same in the 1600 and 3200 runs in track. In addition, at the Class A state meet, she earned three medals, in the 800 run (sixth place), 1600 run (fifth) and the 3200 relay (sixth).

● A few other athletes are still considering walking on for various sports. If anyone has been left off this list, please call The Clarkston News at 625-3370 to let us know who they are.

Fundraiser is congregation's labor of love

Church helps kidney patient with medical expenses

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

They're billing it "Sale of the Century" and the donations are coming in from all over.

In fact, one Clarkston Free Methodist Church member was so moved that she tried to donate her own kidney.

Waterford resident Judy McLaughlin, who grew up in Clarkston, is the recipient of a fundraiser which is scheduled at the church for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 23-24. McLaughlin has been on dialysis for half of her 36 years. As a Clarkston High School senior, she learned just weeks before graduation she had kidney disease.

The diagnosis crushed McLaughlin's hopes of going to law school, but she rallied her tough, optimistic spirit and set about turning the situation into a positive.

She became highly involved in organizations like the National Kidney Foundation and was founding president of the Texas Chapter for the American Association of Kidney Patients, a support group. She even had dreams of opening her own health club-treatment center.

Though a kidney transplant was rejected and her husband Rick Lawrence tried unsuccessfully to provide a tissue match, McLaughlin has never given up hope that one day the quality of her life would improve.

She's ready to fly to Houston's Hermann Hospital immediately, once a successful kidney match is found. Once there, she will try out an experimental immunosuppressant called Rapamycin, which medical experts are hailing as a possible new wonder drug that will trick the body into accepting a new kidney.

The hospital told her "it would take six months to a year and I'm going on five months." McLaughlin carries a cellular phone at all times and will leave "as soon as they call."

A donation fund has been established to defray expenses, but members of Clarkston Free Methodist decided a fundraiser was also needed.

"We heard that Judy was on the list and we were just looking for a way we could help them with their expenses and relieve their stress. Everybody's got a lot of stuff just lying around," said fundraiser co-chair Colleen Klockow.

A network of volunteers has been collecting garage sale items and others have donated handmade items and crafts. Klockow says church members been working for a month and a half.

who's seated on a sled that's already donated for the fundraiser.

"We've had craft day. The ladies have gotten together and worked every Wednesday to finish the crafts."

Besides a garage sale and craft booth, the fundraiser will include a bake sale, a food booth with hot dogs, cold pop, cotton candy and popcorn, and kids' activities both inside and outside the church. Several local businesses have also contributed.

The following items are still needed: unwrapped penny candy, balloons, sandwich bags, lunch bags, paper plates, tin foil, baked goods, craft supplies, coolers and canopies.

Klockow cites the many caring people.

"From what other people said, they never really had a situation like this before. We've helped people in different ways, but not where there was such a large financial need." All proceeds will go to McLaughlin, she added.

Co-chair Barb Passmore, who's made two quilts, said organizing the fundraiser wasn't all hard work. "It's been a lot of fun." She's known McLaughlin, a member of the church choir, since high school.

"That's where we know Judy the best — plus the fact that she was a pom-pon girl at CHS," she says with a smile.

"We knew there was a need and this was coming up for them. And we felt God wanted us to help."

The fundraiser for Judy McLaughlin will be held Friday and Saturday, Aug. 23-24 at Clarkston Free Methodist Church, 5482 Maybee Rd., between Sashabaw Rd. and Dixie Highway. Call Colleen Klockow at (810) 394-0052 if you can help or donate items. Contributions may also be sent to The Judy McLaughlin Kidney Fund, 2515 Blair Dr., White Lake, MI, 48386.

Helping kids ease into middle school

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Children entering the sixth grade this fall are invited to attend a special event put on just for them by the Clarkston Area Optimist Club on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at Bay Court Park.

Called "Make the Most of Middle School," the program is funded by a grant from the United Way of Oakland County and seeks to give kids the information they need to make them comfortable with the jump from elementary to middle school.

Though the middle schools offer orientation, the Optimists wanted to go beyond that.

"We felt we could add something if we did it from a student point of view," said Paul VanKlaveren, a member of the organizing committee.

"We want them to make a smooth transition from the elementary school routine to daily life in the middle schools," said Don Brose, youth club chairman for the Optimists. "At age 11 and 12, today's kids are facing situations many of us can't imagine. There's pressure to do wrong and many will succumb. We want to introduce positive, not negative peer pressure."

Members of the Junior Optimist clubs will be on hand to lead their fellow students in a series of workshops, each on a specific topic. Included are "New experiences, facing your fears;" organizational skills, such as making sure your homework is done and what happens if you're not prepared; "The appearance shop," which will include grooming tips and fashions from Dancers; and fun stuff, such as a dunk tank.

Also making a presentation will be the high school Pride group, which deals with substance abuse.

"It's a great opportunity to make it a little easier to go into middle school," said Mary Mark, another member of the committee putting on the event. As the mother of two grown children, she knows about the difficulty of the transition to middle school.

"It's a big turning point. You can either reach them or lose them. That's my experience with my own kids."

Shannon Fell, an eighth-grader and member of the Junior Optimists, said she believes the program will be helpful to incoming sixth-graders who, up till now, have spent their school year tucked snugly inside one classroom with one teacher.

"There's so many different people at middle school," she said. "Your whole lifestyle changes; your way of thinking changes."

Shannon said the transition to middle school was tough for her, and she'd like to share the wisdom of her experience.

"Not like I know who you should be," she said. "(But) it's a big change ... and you get confused about who you want to be."

During the day students will be broken into small groups but the day will end with a mass get-together. When it's all over, the Optimists, as their grant requires, will assess how the program went. They'd like to keep it going in future years.

"We're really hoping for a big turnout," VanKlaveren said. "We hope kids will have a really good time."

"Make the most of middle school" is open only to students who will enter sixth grade at Clarkston Middle School or Sashabaw Middle School this fall. It's free; lunch and registration begin at 11:30 a.m. Activities run until 5 p.m. Pre-registration is encouraged; call 391-3783, 623-7900 or 623-9348.

Milestones

New arrivals

● It's a daughter for Carl and Ingrid (Vaara) Fuderer of Columbia, Missouri. Claudia Josephine Fuderer was born May 15, 1996. She weighed 6 pounds, 9 ounces and measured 19 1/2 inches long. Grandparents are Jo and Mel Vaara of Clarkston and Theresa and Adam Fuderer of Chicago. Great-grandparents are John and Laini Vaara of Ironwood, Elizabeth Fuderer of Salem, WISC and Margeta Thebes of Waibstadt, Germany.

In service

● Steven Poniatowski has completed training in fundamental military skills at the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps Camp Challenge at Fort Knox, KY. The camp is designed to give college juniors and sophomores who have not taken ROTC courses the chance to enter the program. Poniatowski is a student at the University of Toledo law school. He is the son of Shelagh Vanderveen of Waterford and Stanley Poniatowski of Novi.

Reunions

● The 16th annual Pontiac St. Frederick's memorial mass and all-class reunion will be held Sept. 15 with mass at 11:30 a.m. at St. Vincent de Paul and lunch afterwards at the Waterford Elks on Scott Lake Rd. Tickets are $14 and are available at the Madonna Shop in Pontiac or by calling Marilyn Williams at 682-6069. RSVP by Sept. 7.

● The Pontiac Central High School Class of 1962 is starting preliminary planning for its 35th class reunion, to be held next August, and is looking for classmates' current addresses. To get on the mailing list, call Bob and Marilyn Pomeroy at 625-5301 or Ginny Norvell at 625-8379.

Obituaries

Madeleine Molter

Madeleine Molter, 89, a patient at Holly Convalescent Center, formerly of Clarkston, died Aug. 8, 1996.

She was preceded in death by her husband George, son Marvin, daughter Shirley and brother Fred.

She is survived by a son, Richard J. (Gloria) of Clarkston; seven grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

A funeral service was held Aug. 10 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with the Rev. Tracy Huffman officiating. Interment was at Lakeview Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the Leukemia Society of America.

Harry Monetta

Harry Blas Monetta, 97, of White Lake, died Aug. 7, 1996.

Mr. Monetta came to America from Italy when he was a very young child. He retired from Fisher Body Division of General Motors in 1964 after 50 years of service.

He was preceded in death by his wife Marjorie M.E. (Squire) Monetta in 1968, his parents Joseph and Caroline (Rovetta) Monetta, four brothers and two sisters.

He is survived by two children, William A. Monetta of White Lake and Marjean M. (Robert L.) Kimble of Clarkston; a grandchild, Tracy J. Kimble of Clarkston; a sister, Eula M. Hornbeck of Waterford; and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral service was held Aug. 10 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston with the Rev. Richard C. Nelson officiating. Interment was at Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Oran Watts

Oran R. Watts, 96, of Clarkston, formerly of Florida, died Aug. 5, 1996.

He was preceded in death by his wife Elizabeth. He is survived by two sisters, Pauline Goss of Flint and Opal Maxwell of Clawson.

Mass of the Resurrection was held Aug. 8 at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston with the Rev. Thomas Ankenbrandt officiating. Interment was at New Calvary Cemetery, Flint.

Arrangements were entrusted to the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston. Memorials may be made to Independence Township Meals on Wheels or the American Lung Association.

The box office champion is Steven Spielberg's ET: The Extra-Terrestrial released in 1982. By 1989, the film grossed over $700 million.

Knob Notes

Guys says he's always admired the blend of the latter. "B.B. King had a piano player named Miller. If you go back and listen to some of the records from '48, '49 and '50, you'll hear that every time B.B. hit a note, Miller would play something on the piano. It would sound as if B.B. was playing both instruments. That's how close it got.

"Otis Spann and Muddy Waters had the same thing. When I found Johnnie Johnson (keyboardist on the new album), I just told him to play. Don't look at me, just play like you do. He's playing the music that has been inside my heart, head, whole body and soul since I decided to become a guitar player."

"Live! The Real Deal" steps back in time with some of Guy's earliest and finest recordings for the Chess label. Among the gems: the dramatic "The First Time I Met the Blues," his first Chess single, and a bitter blues ballad, "My Time After Awhile," which melds fiery bursts from his classic Fender Stratocaster with characteristically expressive vocals.

But, the blues master states, live will always be where it's at. He continues to stun audiences with his youthful enthusiasm and soul-stirring delivery.

"When I walk on stage, they motivate me. I know that they are saying, 'Give me what you got, Buddy Guy. Give to me just how you feel tonight.' If a crowd gives me that feeling, it fires me up like a rocket. My hand doesn't even know what I'm going to be doing on stage. All they know is that I'm going to give the people everything I got and they better be there with me."

Buddy Guy appears with the House of Blues Barnburner Tour Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 6 p.m. Also featured are Joe Cocker, The Fabulous Thunderbirds and The Radiators.

DNR seeks comments on habitat plan

The Department of Natural Resources, Wildlife Division, has completed the draft Environmental Assessment for the habitat management to be done through specific forest harvest techniques under the Habitat Management Section of the statewide wildlife management project. This document has been written to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act.

The EA describes and assesses four alternatives for a mixture of habitat management and public use of public lands administered by the DNR.

The public is invited to review and comment on the EA. Copies of the document may be obtained by writing Penney Melchoir, Federal Aid Coordinator, Wildlife Division, Michigan DNR, Box 30444, Lansing, MI 48909-7944 or by calling 517-373-3263.

Written comments may be sent to the Regional Director, US Fish and Wildlife Service, 1 Federal Drive, Fort Snelling, MN 55111-4056. All comments must be received by Sept. 20.

Future Olympians

Gymnastics fill these kids' summer

The gym at Clarkston Middle School was hot and muggy, but that didn't stop the youngsters in the summer gymnastics program from going all-out, just like their counterparts at the Olympics did in the heat of Atlanta.

Kids age 6-12 practiced on the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vault and more under the watchful eye of Kay Riley and her staff of certified instructors from Riley's Gymnastic Center. The program was offered through Clarkston schools Community Education this summer. It is also offered as an after-school enrichment class.

Fans were placed strategically around the room to try to keep everyone cool. But it didn't seem to matter to the little ones dressed fashionably in leotards and other activewear as they made the rounds of the various exercise stations.

Kids showed no fear, and with good reason. Each station was attended by a teacher, and every apparatus was surrounded by thick padding for landing. So if you landed on something other than your feet—as many did—there was laughter rather than tears.
