Planners OK new tower ordinance

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Last Thursday Independence Township's Planning Commission voted 6-0 (Commissioner Todd Moss was absent) to put into action a model ordinance that will enable the township to regulate the placement, construction and modifications of wireless communication facilities as they trickle in to Independence.

The development of the ordinance was prompted by the 1996 Federal Telecommunications Act which says such facilities must be allowed. Township planner Dick Carlisle, a member of the committee which created the ordinance, said it "addresses a big gaping hole in our ordinance regarding towers in Independence Township." Some communities have already adopted it.

The commission recommended approval at its March 27 meeting. The township's Board of Trustees will need to adopt the new ordinance at a future meeting. A moratorium on new construction of towers remains in place; adopting the new ordinance would lift it, said township supervisor Dale Stuart Tuesday, adding that the township's intent is to encourage co-location on towers.

The bottom line is "multiple users, not multiple towers," said commissioners at a previous meeting, agreeing that the concept of "co-location" with existing towers in the township will be encouraged. Carlisle told the board the committee is "strictly advocating" the procedure. The intent is to lessen the impact on single-family neighborhoods, the landscape and property values so as to be as "unobtrusive" as possible, he said.

Although new applicants will be encouraged to co-locate, there are provisions for those who are unable to. The ordinance outlines permitted uses in various zoning districts, but allows for special land uses when a series of conditions cannot be met. It also allows for systems on sites such as churches, schools, government-owned property or public parks.

"There are a variety of possibilities (that are) without restriction," Carlisle said.

Expressing concern over a passage that says "one or more" applicants would be allowed to coexist on a structure, commissioner Jill Palulian asked,

"How many ... Are we going to have 10 providers on one unit?"

"I would rather see 10 providers on one tower than 10 separate towers," Carlisle said. New towers would need individual site plans approved and height limits would be treated case-by-case, he added. Existing tower situations would be treated "administratively" and not have to go before the board.

"I would like to see us make it easy for co-locators than to make it more difficult," he said.

Examples of wireless communication facilities are radio towers, television towers, telephone devices and exchanges and commercial mobile radio service facilities, according to the ordinance. Not included within the ordinance's definition of such facilities are short wave, ham and amateur radio operations and satellite dishes.

Commissioner Dan Travis applauded the efforts of the committee which created the ordinance. "It was sorely needed," he said, adding that he was pleased with the co-location concept. "I remember a time where I thought towers would spring up like little mushrooms," he added.

During the same meeting Sprint Spectrum approached the commission for approval on two site plans for co-location on two existing Detroit Edison towers in Independence. The commission approved both requests unanimously. The two locations are on Clintonville Rd. south of Waldon Rd and at a site on Clarkston Rd.

Commissioners approved both site plans with the condition that they be well landscaped to hide new Sprint equipment at the bottom of each tower.

Also in the audience was Vicki Harding, an attorney who represents AT&T Wireless Services in Southeast Michigan and specializes in zoning issues. During a phone conversation Monday Harding said AT&T has "no specific proposals" for Independence "but, yes, we are looking. And clearly, the first preference would be co-location."

Though she supports the concept, she says there's "a trade-off" when it comes to height and coverage. One tall structure, for example, could cover a larger area, but more structures would have to be built if a municipality had height concerns.

"If you have a 200-foot tower, you might be able to cover more area than two towers," she said. "As a general rule, the taller the tower, the greater the area of coverage."

In other commission action:

● A request by Silverman Development Co. to rezone 33.15 acres of land for its mixed-use development, Waldon Village Towne Center at Waldon and Sashabaw, from R-1R (rural residential) to R-1A (single-family residential) received unanimous approval. Travis, a member of the subcommittee which studied the request, said the consensus was that "the area should be developed in that manner" and was consistent with the master plan.

● A request for additional wall signage for the proposed Rite-Aid at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads received unanimous approval.

● A special land use request for additional wall signs for Farmer Jack's was approved, 6-0.

The news in brief

Roeser named to city council

As expected, Doug Roeser was unanimously approved to serve on the Clarkston City Council at its regular meeting March 25.

Roeser replaces Steve Arkwright, who resigned at the March 11 meeting. Roeser will serve until the November general election when a new seat will be up for grabs.

"He was the next highest vote-getter in the last election," Mayor Sharron Catallo said.

Roeser did not attend the meeting.

Council sets 1997-98 sewer use rates

The Clarkston City Council agreed to maintain the current sewer use rates for city residents for the 1997-98 year.

City manager Art Pappas said Oakland County's rates of $34 per unit per quarter will not change. He said Detroit is charging a small amount more, but not enough to warrant an increase to the users.

Trial date set

A date has been set for trial in the case of a school aide who allegedly touched a student inappropriately.

Douglas James Labrie is scheduled to stand trial in Oakland County Circuit Court May 5, according to a spokesperson for Judge Robert Anderson. The former special education paraprofessional at Sashabaw Middle School is accused of grabbing a female student during school.

Township schedules clean-up

Independence Township has scheduled its annual spring clean-up days for two Saturdays, May 10 and 18. On those days non-hazardous waste will be collected and Freon removal will be offered for such appliances as refrigerators. More details will be forthcoming.

Help for parents

"What do you do when they walk in the home under the influence?"

That will be the topic of a discussion presented by the Sashabaw Middle School PTA on April 10 at 7 p.m. in the SMS cafeteria. Presenter is Dennis Kazeta, ACSW, of Triad Associates in Clarkston.

Kazeta's 30-minute presentation will be followed by a question-and-answer session. Call the school at 674-4169 for more information.

Blood banks scheduled

Several American Red Cross blood banks have been scheduled for the Clarkston area during April. They are:

April 13: Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon. Hours are 8 a.m.-2 p.m.; call 625-1611 for appointments.

April 18: Renaissance High School, 5275 Maybee. Hours are 8-2; call 674-0993 for an appointment.

April 27: St. Daniel Catholic Church, 7010 Valley Park Dr. Hours are 8-2; call 625-4583 for appointments.

Cracking down on cigarette sales

Underage smokers are target of new FDA regulations

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The 16-year-old boy had only been "clean"—this time around—for four days. Now in his second try at a smoking-cessation group at Clarkston High School, he knew he was addicted to cigarettes.

He also had watched two grandparents die from smoking-related illness. He knew smoking was affecting his own breathing; a doctor had told him so as well. He knew he wanted to stop, and needed help.

The boy, a 10th-grader who's been smoking since around his 10th birthday, is one of several students attending the smoking support groups at CHS who agreed to talk to The Clarkston News about underage smoking and the effect of new laws designed to curb it.

On February 28, new federal Food and Drug Administration regulations went into effect banning cigarette sales to anyone under 18. Store clerks are now required to see a photo ID of anyone who looks younger than 26 who tries to purchase cigarettes.

Some local retailers have posted signs informing customers of the new regulations. Others, according to the students we talked to, continue to sell them cigarettes, as they have always done.

In August, further FDA regulations take effect. Retailers will no longer be able to put cigarettes out in self-serve displays anywhere where minors are allowed, and the sale or giveaway of tobacco promotional products will also be banned. A year later, in August, 1998, tobacco brand-name sponsorship of events will also be banned.

Why the crackdown? Because children continue to smoke, placing their future health in jeopardy. And because, according to Kathleen Altman of the Oakland Tobacco Reduction Action Coalition, "Some people just choose to ignore the law."

"Each day, nearly 3,000 American children become regular smokers. Of these, 1,000 will die prematurely from tobacco-related diseases. The new FDA rules will make it much harder for kids to get cigarettes and spit tobacco. It's an important step in protecting kids from nicotine addiction."

Just how prevalent is the problem? Surveys conducted by Western Michigan University reported that 90 percent of eighth-graders say it's "very easy" to get cigarettes and other tobacco products. Of seniors, 40 percent report having smoked in the past month; 27 percent describe themselves as daily users.

The survey given two years ago to Clarkston students revealed the same type of results. (The survey was just given again recently but results are not yet available.) In 1995, 92.8 percent of eighth-graders said cigarettes are "fairly or very easy" to get. Nearly one-third of them said they'd smoked in the previous month; eight percent said they were daily users. Only half said smoking a pack a day was, in their belief, a great health risk.

CHS social worker Jim Butzine, who leads the smoking-cessation groups, said as long as kids can afford to buy cigarettes, they will continue to do so and any roadblocks thrown in their way are good.

"I think it's a great law," he said of the new FDA regulations. "It has to happen. Ninety percent of all adult smokers start before the age of 20. We know adults won't start because they have good information."

The way Butzine sees it, smokers are not the enemy—the tobacco companies are. As one producer recently admitted, they know their product is highly addictive and they market it toward children anyway.

"One of the things I emphasize with my kids is you are not the enemy as a smoker. You have already been had. I want to make sure they understand I do not see them as less of a person because they smoke."

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Hernandez, the school's police liaison officer, feels the same way. Though he tickets students for smoking on school grounds, he understands that the problem is addiction, not defiance.

"I always ask if they're addicted, and they always say yes," he said. "That's why they get caught; they can't wait." Hernandez said smokers are usually caught right outside the building, and are almost never caught twice.

The student mentioned at the top of this story, who requested anonymity, admits he's been addicted for at least two years. He started smoking socially, "just to be cool," he said. And at the age of 10, everyone thought he was.

Now, "Many of my older friends have started to quit, but the younger ones are still trying," he said. "The older ones realize what it's doing to them."

The student said he feels the new regulations are a good idea. "I really do feel it's worth every penny. I've seen what it (smoking) has done to older people dying and seen what it's done to me... My goal is to officially quit."

Though he sounds determined, the last four days of no cigarettes have been hard, he admitted. "I've been shaking a lot, coughing up a lot," he said. At night, he finds himself searching his room for smokes.

His parents know he smokes, and have tried various approaches to try to get him to quit, at first withholding privileges and then, when that didn't work, trying the "tough love" approach. But the only thing that worked has been the student's own realization that smoking is having an effect on his health, and watching his grandmother die, smoking right up to the last day.

"Kids don't really know what they're getting into," he said. "They don't know stuff sticks to your lungs."

The student pointed out that one way tobacco is marketed to children is by the use of coupons or tickets which can be traded in for merchandise. He'd been saving them, but now that he's made a commitment to quit, "I got rid of all those the other day," he said.

Other members of the smoking-cessation group are not as far along in their progress as the boy. One 15-year-old girl who started smoking with other girlfriends in sixth grade, has enrolled in the class with several of those friends. They started smoking together, the idea is to stop smoking together. "It's hard to quit when you're around people who smoke all the time," she said.

"How did we get cigarettes back then?" one of the girls mused. "I don't remember. I'd steal them from my dad... He knows now."

She said she knows now she wants to quit. "Sometimes you get the smokers cough, and plus I think it's unattractive when you see a girl smoke."

Her friend noted that they'd received not-so-subtle messages from some guys at school about their smoking. "Sometimes you'll be in a group and a guy will say, 'I hate it when girls smoke.'"

For these girls, smoking is "something to do" that occupies their hands and keeps them from eating. But once in awhile, one said, "you reach a point where you can't breathe." And she's only 15.

Of these two girls, one had been smoke free for two weeks before she had "one bad day" and relapsed. At the time of the interview she'd been smoke-free again for two days and felt she had quit. Her friend had been off smokes for four or five days, except for one day when she "cheated," in her words.

How do they get their cigarettes

Expansion planned at Main St. building

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston City Council denied a written expansion request from Dennis Kacy at its regular meeting March 25.

Kacy, owner of the Kacy and Associates law building on 21 S. Main St., asked the council for permission to build an addition to the building.

There was just one small problem. Kacy had not gone through any of the required steps to get approval to do so. City attorney Thomas Ryan said there were a number of things Kacy needed to do if he hoped the council would approve the additions.

"He needs a plan with a completed application," Ryan said. "He hasn't gotten approval from the ZBA (Zoning Board of Appeals) or the planning commission yet, so why are we looking at this?"

City manager Art Pappas, who went over the letter for the board, said Kacy wrote in the letter that he hoped the process could be sped up by writing a letter and asking for instant approval instead of coming to the meeting in person.

"He has no plan or application or anything," Pappas said. "He just wants to speed things up."

Kacy was out of town and could not be reached for comment. It remains unclear how he intends to expand the building, since no formal plans were submitted to the council.

In other council business:

I Buck Kopietz, co-owner of the Millpond Inn, addressed the council regarding the ongoing debate over the bed and breakfast. He said he came to the meeting basically just to discuss the issue, but was told by Ryan and other council members that it wasn't an issue the council should be discussing, since an appeals court ruling is still pending. "This council didn't make the decision. We shouldn't even be talking about it," Ryan

This is the building at 21 S. Main that is planned for expansion.

"I've received lots of calls about this, for and against it," council member Laura Aulgur said. "My phone's been ringing off the hook."

● The council approved a group from Habitat for Humanity to collect donations in front of the NBD Bank downtown. The group will be out there April 26 and 27 to get donations for what Mayor Sharron Catallo called "a good program."

● The finance committee will meet at 6 p.m. April 16.

Graduated driver licenses begin

The Michigan Department of State began administering Michigan's new graduated licensing law for young drivers on April 1.

Any young driver who enrolls in driver education on or after April 1 is subject to the new requirements. Teens enrolled in driver education before April 1 are not subject to the new three-step licensing process.

Secretary of State Candice Miller is reminding driver license applicants that anyone applying for an original license on or after April 1 must pass a road test to become licensed. This includes teens who have completed driver education prior to April 1 but who have not yet applied for their original operator license.

"Teens are over-represented in traffic crashes and our goal is to reduce their crash involvement by better preparing them to handle the complex task of driving," Miller said. "Our goal is to give young drivers an opportunity to apply what they learn in the classroom during mandatory practice driving with an experienced driver."

"Further, by reinstating the mandatory road test, we will ensure that young drivers have the skills they need to be safe drivers," Miller said. "These are skills that could save their lives and those with whom they are sharing the road."

The highlights of the new law include:

- Allowing teens to begin the licensing process at an earlier age;
- Requiring 50 mandatory hours of practice driving at Level 1, including 10 hours at night, with a licensed parent or guardian, or a designated licensed adult age 21 or older;
- Reinstatement of the mandatory road test.
- Restriction barring teens under age 17 from driving between midnight and 5 a.m., unless driving with a parent or legal guardian, or design-nated licensed adult age 21 or older, or driving to and from work.

Teens will be eligible for unrestricted driving privileges at age 17 and after meeting all other licensing requirements.

The licensing process begins when the teen has completed segment one of driver education and has

How the new law works

To apply for a Level 1 learner's license, you must:

- Attain age 14 years, 9 months;
- Complete segment one of driver's ed;
- Pass all testing requirements, including vision, and meet health standards set by Secretary of State;
- Have written approval of parent or legal guardian.

To receive Level 2 (intermediate) license, you must:

- Attain age 16;
- Complete 50 hours of practice driving, including 10 hours at night, with a licensed parent or guardian or designated adult age 21 or over;
- Complete segment two of driver's ed;
- Receive no moving violations, suspensions or violations of Level 1 restrictions, or be involved in any crashed during the 90-day period prior to applying for a Level 2 license;
- Complete six months of practice driving at Level 1;
- Pass a road test conducted by an independent road-testing agency approved by the Secretary of State.

To receive a Level 3 (unrestricted) license, you must:

- Attain age 17;
- Have held a Level 2 license for at least six months;
- Complete 12 consecutive months of driving without a moving violation, crash involvement, license suspension or violation of graduated licensing restrictions.

Ei-liners

By Eileen McCarville

Words of God and man

As I look back over "March Reading Month," I remember how pleasantly surprised I was to visit Bailey Lake Elementary as one of its Guest Readers.

I not only liked reading some silly poems to fourth-graders, but I enjoyed listening to a book read by Clarkston schools deputy superintendent Mike LaBay.

It brought back a flood of memories of how reading has always been one of my greatest pleasures. As a child I could become either Bert, Nan, Freddie or Flossie in "The Bobbsey Twins," visit the moors in "The Secret Garden" or fly to Neverland with "Peter Pan."

Being read to was something I remember vividly after a childhood accident at the age of 7. My first-grade teacher visited me in the hospital and read volumes of those "Bobbsey Twins" stories and, while I recuperated at home, my mother let me lay with my head in her lap while she read a chapter each night from Helen Keller's autobiography, "The Story of My Life."

I think listening to that made me feel I could do anything in the whole wide world, a belief that's stayed with me even when the chips are down.

Once recovered, I visited my hometown library whenever possible, thrilling to climb the stairs in the old, gigantic building which eventually became Holland, Michigan's City Hall once a new library was built.

But it never had the sights and smells of the old one. As I climbed those stairs I had goose bumps, anticipating new adventures in the pages between well-worn book covers.

My mother had faithfully driven me to that same library as a preschooler. I've never forgotten "Story Hour." And when I graduated from high school as an English major, my parents bought me volumes of William Blake's poetry in lieu of a graduation trip — a present many would find boring, but an open door for me.

When I talked to several church pastors this week, again, I experienced "deja vu." I remembered singing in the church choir, playing Mary in the Christmas pageant and visiting the Nativity Scene at the local park, in the stillness of a Silent-Night evening complete with the wonder of soft, falling snow.

Out here in Independence, years and years later, families want to capture those same simple treasures money just can't buy. A trip to the local library that will light up their children's eyes with magic, a visit to a small, community church with Christmas pageants that bring out children with crooked wise-men crowns and lop-sided angel wings.

While those in the audience smile softly and shed a few, knowing tears.

All the more charming. Especially in a day and age when stress has become a way of life with people tail-gating each other at home, work and on the expressway. And plastic cards, plastic surgery and plastic values trying to replace the peace we're all yearning for.

I can easily see why churches need to expand out here in Independence, and why the library needs more books and hours.

More books and churches. I can live with that.

Sex offender list at local police agencies

Protecting your family is every parent's job. Starting this week Michigan Public Act 295 gives parents another weapon for protection.

In accordance with PA 295, your local police agency has a list of convicted sex offenders living in your area. The public can view this list, which includes the offender's name, address, date of birth, weight, hair and eye color.

Become familiar with the list, your local police department and their procedures. Protecting your family is a constant battle and it helps to know where the enemy lives — the PA 295 list can aid you in your defense.

However, we also urge caution. Just because the PA 295 list may give a local address doesn't mean it is absolutely, 100 percent accurate. Remember, people input information and people make mistakes: an address can be wrong, or outdated — somebody else may be living at the listed address. Verify any information you obtain. JS

Letter to the editor

As we drive through the town of Clarkston, we take little notice of the century-old buildings which line main street. Neither do we make note of the intricacies of the colonial homes in town. We are so caught up in the hum-drum of our lives and so busy living for the present, often, we forget what precedes us.

I would venture to guess that the "stones" of the early town meant much to Mr. Jeremiah Clark, the man after whom the town was named. Clark, as well as others, put intensive labor into building this town. Stone after stone they would place until finally a house or building would take shape. As they toiled day in and day out, a town was built.

I really do love history. But, I'm afraid that the stones of this town don't mean much to me. However, the stones of the community do.

Since I began attending college in Illinois last fall, I have come to appreciate home much more than I previously have.

Consider summer youth athletic teams or the fall arts and craft festival. Consider parades and high school sporting events, all of which draw us together as a community.

Clarkston is a special town. All of us are the stones which make up this unique community. Each of us play a vital role in determining whether or not this community will continue to thrive and continue to be a special place.

Someone once said, "You don't know what you've got until it's gone." I wonder if the author of that quote knew how on target he really was. Don't take for granted what you have today, whether it's your family, education, friends, or community—don't wait until it's gone to discover how important and extraordinary it is.

Consider your life and ask this question, "What do these stones mean to me?"

Timothy Alan Slevers

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Gardens great at Cypress Gardens

Cypress Gardens boasts of attracting the second highest number of people to a theme area in Florida.

The Winter Haven park has been around over 60 years. It's best known for its water-related events . . . the 3-high, red, white and blue dressed water skiers in particular.

We wouldn't recommend a visit just to see the acrobatic and comic skiers. We do recommend your going to see the things of nature — flowers, sculptured animals, insects and human bushes and live birds and animals.

More than that, we were impressed with the after dark lighting. They've shaped white wrought iron into huge tulips (lots of them), fisherman, flitting humming birds, rocking horse, etc. and lined the shapes with thousands of various colored lights.

The have also lined many tree trunks, branches and buildings with lights. All together the lights add up to over two million, making the night-sight very impressive.

The newest attraction (?) at Cypress Gardens is the laser night light show (at 7:30 and 9). The printed guide refers to it as, "Fantasy on the Lake—a spectacular laser light show."

Well, perhaps the word "spectacular" has become overused and lost its original meaning.

It's a very loud 16 minutes of six songs with lights darting and colored scenes flashing on a cloud of smoke or steam. Probably some loved it.

Cypress Gardens has 13 eateries and 13 shops. Besides the no-extra-charge water and laser light shows, there's a free ice skating show, free "Island in the Sky," a 160-ft lift that gives you an aerial view of the surroundings and there's free entertainment from a gazebo.

And, Cypress Gardens is clean; very clean. They accommodate the ailing and the limber, employees showed patience and good humor and food and gift prices were within reason.

Parking is free at Cypress Gardens, but the gate fee is $25.50, unless you're old like me, then it's $22.50. The year the park opened to the public the entry fee was 25 cents.

Cypress Gardens is what the name says — gardens — well-kept, varied plantings and colorful. With that warning we say, if you don't like that sort of stuff, go to Sea World, up I-4 20 miles.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1982)

The 1982-83 year brings approximate 10-percent raises all around for two elected Clarkston Village officials and other village employees. President Jackson Byers and council trustees bow from accepting raises for their part-time posts and unanimously approve pay hikes for clerk, treasurer and all other village positions.

An unofficial dump site on Maybee Rd. breeds anger and frustration in Independence Township. The site is one of about 12 "drop zones" scattered around the township, says Kenneth Delbridge, building department director. "It's basically like a city dump," says resident Jerry Karr. "We have probably six sofas, mattresses, washers, dryers, stoves, horse manure — everything's dumped here."

Parents of elementary children around the district are taking their concerns about snack items sold at lunchtime to the board of education. The decision to organize a protest against items such as cookies, snack cakes, potato chips, ice cream and peanut butter and cheese crackers begins when Pine Knob Elementary is chosen for a pilot program that offers all those items for sale in addition to its regular lunches.

25 YEARS AGO (1972)

It's a good year with township tax coffers full, says Independence Township treasurer Kenneth Johnson, reporting that the collection for 1971 has reached 94.6 percent. Taxes spread on township property have raised $2.5 million, just $100,000 short of total collection. Johnson says the high percentage return this year compares with about 91 percent collected for 1970 tax bills. The money pays for schools, township and county government.

An abandoned house referred to as a "haunted house" burns to the ground Monday night. The 140-year-old structure on Knox Rd. in Springfield Township has been vacant since September. Springfield Fire Chief Charles Hillman says the house was getting to be such a problem because of vandalism that owners had advised him to let it burn the next time a fire was set.

The Clarkston Flyers tie their game Saturday against Madison Heights with a score of 2-2. Playoffs start soon at the Gordie Howe Arena.

50 YEARS AGO (1947)

News from "By The Way": Last week we were almost convinced that Old Man Winter was gone and spring was in the air. Mrs. Peterson of Walters Lake called on the phone March 17 and reported having seen a robin — a sure sign that spring was just around the corner. That was last week, folks. This week the picture is changed. Fog, rain, snow and strong winds from the northwest kept many workmen in their homes. In fact, most businesses were at a standstill. The schools were forced to close. The trouble men for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., the Detroit Edison Co. and the Consumers Power Co. were all kept busy. The mail carrier could not get to the depot on regular schedules and the rural carriers were unable to cover their routes. Cars were stalled all along the highways and some of the side roads are still impassable ... Even so, spring cannot be too far away because the little crocuses are sticking their heads up under the snow ... (Reporter's Note: Is it any different, 50 years later? EMC)

60 YEARS AGO (1937)

A question posed to "The Inquiring Reporter" of the Clarkston News: The reporter finds the area's Easter Sunday services are attended by most everyone she interviews, but for the remainder of the holiday period interests are varied. Frank Russell builds a boat and goes crew hunting, Ralph Ware hauls lumber into Detroit, Violet Coy and Donis Morgan color Easter eggs at Edna Parker's, Dick Tee takes in a show and repairs a flat tire, Evelyn Davies looks after the young Huttenlochers one evening, Dick Lowrie looks in on the Saturday night dance, George Dupee turns interior decorator, Durward Ash takes "a much-needed rest" and Roy Spencer stays home to plague his sister and her boyfriend Sunday night.

The Junior Class of Clarkston High School announces its presentation of "New Fires," a three-act comedy set for April 2 at the CHS Auditorium. Among the cast are Bettieann Comstock as Lucinda, Mary Gassick as Suzanne, King McIntyre as Jerry, Chester Adams as Billy and Leslie Vliet as Sid.

Specials at Rudy's this week include veal stew, 14 cents a pound; beef roast, 16 cents a pound; grape fruit juice, two cans for 19 cents.

How will the Tigers do this year?

MIKE STROUD, CLARKSTON: Not good. They have no talent, no pitching.

RODGER MILTON, PONTIAC: I hope they don't choke like they did last year. They should do better with a new manager, a new head coach and all that. They need to get all the amateurs off there — know what I'm saying?

MATTHEW MOULTRUP, CLARKSTON: I think that they'll be hoping to get out of the cellar. I wish Buddy Bell all the luck in the world, but I don't think it's gonna happen.

MELISSA SMITH, CLARKSTON: Poorly. So far, they've done badly in the exhibition games. They have a lot of new players though, but there haven't been any advertisements telling you who they are.

PAT McDUNN, INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP: I don't think they're going to do much better than last year because, based on spring training, they don't seem to have very strong pitching. And they just don't seem to have outstanding players. They seem to be lacking that big gun. They might wind up like they did last year — in last place.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Desert Rat and all

About a year ago I bought this Jeep. I always wanted one — and if I recall correctly, since the sixth grade. So, the opportunity came up and I just went out and bought one.

Not some high falutin' Cherokee. Just a Jeep — a Jeep, Jeep — you know, the style that looks like John Wayne drove in all those war movies.

And, it's not some yuppie-larva, generation X, Y or Z, prestige, look-at-me-I-can-drive-a-stick Jeep, either. It's a low-end, plain-jane Jeep used to get up that washed-out piece of earth I affectionately call a driveway.

But, that's not the point of this column — oh no, far from, dear readers. The brunt of this column is about the mail I get for being a proud Jeep owner. I receive numerous (at least three a season) catalogs for Jeep accessories.

I did not know Jeeps are such big business — not just to Chrysler, but all the aftermarket companies too. It wasn't this way when I was the proud driver of successive Pontiac Sunbirds.

I received nothing for toolin' around in a 1972 Chevy C-10 pickup.

Nothing for the glory days of the 1967 Cutlass Supreme convertible (440 Rocket engine, four barrel carburetor, dual exhaust, power windows, antenna, AM/FM stereo — believe me, they were glory days with that ride. I feel a testosterone surge as I write). Not a single piece of literature did I receive (aside from the late loan payment notices) for driving the 1985 Dodge 600 convertible.

Nothing, until the Jeep entered my life.

Now, I have the ACME catalog, the JC Whitney catalog and the Desert Rat Off-Road Centers catalog all mailed to me, free of charge. There may be others, I don't know.

I am surprised as to what I can order (if I had an unlimited supply of throw-away money) for this darned Jeep. I could buy: clevis hooks ($15.99 each), winch kits (from $629), bumpers, seats, horns, consoles, pack racks, hinges (painted or chrome), light bars, Safari tops, replacement tops ($420 and up), dashboards, speakers, gas tanks, steel or fiberglass body parts, carburetors, taillight covers — and I've only scratched the surface.

But, if I just can't get enough of that Jeep lifestyle I could also buy: a Jeep Boom Box ($169.95), Remote Control Toy Jepp ($39.95), Jeep Key Chains, T-shirts, watches, sweaters, travel bags, baseball caps, sunglasses ($89.99), flashlight, medallion, or a Jeep Logo Penna Jacket for only $99.95.

What I didn't see were Jeep fuzzy dice. I am amazed those after-market guys forgot something so simple and basic as fuzzy dice. Maybe that could be my contribution: Don's Fuzzy Dice Jeep Catalog. Nah.

CHS Life

By Meghann Smith

Have you ever been seriously nervous? I mean that whole butterflies-in-your-stomach, sweaty-palms, nightmares-running-through-your-head type of nervous?

Saturday night I was in a play called "The Case of the Mysterious Benefactor." That was the feeling I got about five minutes before show-time.

When I got there and peered into the large, empty room where, in a short time, the play would occur, I didn't feel anything. It was just like a practice that we'd had a million times; after all it wasn't like that many people were going to show up. My friends tried to torment me by telling me exactly how many hundred-and-something people were expected to show up. That still didn't phase me since I had just seen the theater and it was completely vacant.

About five minutes before the play was to begin I looked out at the audience from backstage. Wow! Were there a lot of people out there! Now I started to worry. I was the first to walk out there, all alone and in high heels. Real high heels, mind you, not the fake, chunky ones. Skinny pegs sticking out of the bottom of my shoes had to support me and move me across what seemed to be an excessively long stage in front of what appeared to be thousands of people. I could envision one of those little heels snapping and hurling me face first into the audience. I could see my ankle turning (as it had so many times during practice) and me ending up sitting on the floor, rather than standing, the way my arrogant character would.

My heart began to pound. What if I got up there and completely blanked? Those millions of people would be sitting there watching as I stammered and stuttered without a clue as to what I should say. When I sat in my chair, would one of those flimsy legs decide its life was complete and split in two, sending me sprawling to the floor?

Well, I got out there and nothing really bad happened. Actually, after a while, I was completely calm and A-OK. Of course during one of my hugest lines I came this close to toppling over, but by a sheer act of balance I managed to stand on that wobbling heel. In fact, I only made one mistake.

The part you don't have to know is that it was the simplest task of mine in the whole play. You see, all I had to do was stand, deliver my line, then pick up a poster-board sign and hold it in front of my and my co-star's faces, before we walked off stage. When I got offstage I was so incredibly relieved, I had pulled my part off without a hitch! That is until my friend came and whispered that the sign had been held upside down. Ooops, now that explains why everyone was rolling out of their seats with laughter at a joke that was only so funny.

The thing is that even though I may have been nervous and made a little mistake (well, maybe it was kind of big) I think we did a great job.

Heritage Hunt II

By Virginia Block

If you were following the "Ancestor's" segments to learn the "ropes" of beginning genealogy over your local PBS station, the 10th part was preempted by a local telethon. The good news is that you will have an opportunity to see #10 on Easter Sunday from 12:30 to one p.m.

Initially the series was to promote interest in many younger people, building a renewal of potential members for local genealogical societies. With so many younger people depending on the Internet for information, there develops a serious lack of documentation that is found by researching the "old way."

In a gift of the Spelman (Spellman) received recently, we can provide much information helpful to those searching "female" or spousal lines. Included are the following:

Atwood, Baldwin, Bancroft, Barlow, Bates, Beckwith, Blatchley, Brown, Bugbee, Cady, Canfield, Carrier, Chittenden, Coe, Cowdrey, Crosby, Crowell, Dixon, Downer, Ellis, Fairchild, Fenton, Gibbons, Hamilton, Hampton, Hartley, Harwood, Hayden, Norton, Johnson, Kassen, Kelley, Lord, Lucas, Morgan, Morse, Palmer, Parmelee, Parsons, Philbrick, Purkis, Ranson, Reed, Riggs, Robinson, Rockefeller, Root, Ruffner, Sanford, Saunders, Seymour, Shelby, Sizer, Starr, Stiles, Stoddard, Sutton, Swathel, Tibbals, Tinker, Witham, Wilson, Wing, and Woodworth.

Since these lines all represent females who married Spelman males, we can check to see if they are "yours", too.

As many of you may know we have been busy the past few weeks helping hubby as he recovered from a mild stroke, but are pleased to tell you he is mending well with little ill effects. We are blessed to have been spared so much of the pain usually occurring with such a large family history of strokes in other family members.

Our offer to help you do a family health profile still goes, if you'll send a request and an S.A.S.E. to us.

The annual workshop at the Family History Center of the Mormon (L.D.S.) church in Grand Blanc is scheduled for Apr. 25th and we will once again present our workshop on Family Health History.

Up to date technology has offered solutions to so many problems of our ancestors. Won't you join us?

A 'serious' contest?

Democrats in Lansing have announced the second annual Governor John Engler Honorary Pothole Contest.

Residents are asked to send the location and, if possible, a photo of their favorite pothole for a chance at a prize of a "Do-It-Yourself Pothole Repair Kit."

Rep. Burton Leland (D., Detroit), chair of the House Transportation Committee, said the contest is a bona fide effort to locate the worst offenders. Leland said the state paid out $9.6 million in road-related lawsuit judgements in 1996.

Send entries to House Democratic Caucus, PO Box 241115, Detroit, MI 48224 by April 9.

Obituaries

David Bickerstaff

David Bell Bickerstaff, 42, of Waterford, died March 20, 1997.

Mr. Bickerstaff was a 1973 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1983 graduate of Oakland Community College. He was employed with G.M. Truck and Coach since 1977. He was a member of the UAW Local 594 and the Waterford Elks Lodge #810.

He is survived by his wife Dawn; parents David and Lorna Bickerstaff of Clarkston; parents-in-law Frank and Billy Lou Kerr of Clarkston; brother Kevin of Clarkston; sister Ann (Todd) Weiss of Clarkston; sisters-in-law Sandra Hodge of Pontiac, Carla Bell and Pam Kerr of Clarkston; uncles David Bell of Florida and Rudy Bickerstaff of Walled Lake; aunts Peggy (Ken) Mitchell of Alabama and Betty Cole of California; cousins Cecilia (William) Elliott of Commerce Township, Debra (Leonard) Milliken of Virginia and Kenneth David Mitchell of Virginia; nieces Toni Hodge, LeAnn Hodge, Heather Hodge, Mary Bell, Gretchen Weiss and Amanda Weiss; nephews Christopher Hodge, Ryan Hodge, Bradley Hodge, Justin Hodge, Asad Ghani, Scott Bickerstaff and Zachary Weiss; and great-niece Alyscia Hodge.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents Alfred and Elizabeth Bell and sister-in-law Pat Bickerstaff.

A funeral service took place March 25 at the Riverside Chapel of the Simpson-Modetz Funeral Home in Waterford with Rev. Thomas M. Hampton officiating. Interment was at Ottawa Park Cemetery. Memorial donations can be made to the University of Detroit Reference Library.

James Saile

James R. Saile, 73, of Clarkston, died March 25, 1997.

Mr. Saile was a World War II veteran and received the Purple Heart for wounds he sustained in battle April 17, 1945. He also designed the Athena logo for the city of Troy and presented the U.S. Congress with a flag he designed in the late 1960s commemorating two astronauts and a cosmonaut who lost their lives in space.

He is survived by his wife Jean, a former editor of The Clarkston News; daughters Patricia (Charles) Sowder of Virginia, Janet Woolley of Clarkston and Lizbeth (Matthew) Coleman of Clarkston; sons Michael (Pam) of Waterford; Douglas of Texas, and Peter (Debbie) of Wyoming; seven grandchildren; and brothers Arthur and William.

A memorial service took place Thursday at the Lewis E. Wint and Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston.

Mary Siemion

Mary Elizabeth Siemion, 85, of Clarkston, died March 26, 1997.

Mrs. Siemion was a member of St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston as well as the Fifty and Over Club.

She is survived by her daughter Mary (Jim) Kilcline of Clarkston; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband Joe and sons Joseph and Frank.

A Mass of the Resurrection was held Monday at St. Daniel Catholic Church with Rev. James Strasz officiating. Rite of Committal was at Resurrection Cemetery.

County parks to expand, upgrade this year

Completion of a nature center expansion, campground renovation and a golf clubhouse addition highlight the major capital improvement projects planned for 1997 in the Oakland County Parks system.

"After 30 years of operation, many of our facilities are in need of upgrading and improvement," says Ralph Richard, manager of Oakland County Parks. "We strive to provide the most innovative, up-to-date and most appealing recreational facilities and programs to our guests."

A 4,300-foot expansion of the Lewis E. Wint Nature Center at Independence Oaks will include new outdoor education exhibits, and expanded space for interpretive programs. The late Lewis Wint was chairman/member of the Oakland County parks commission for nearly 20 years.

A $1.9 million project at Groveland Oaks near Holly will reduce camping congestion while adding 157 new modern campsites. Group camping will be expanded and park roads realigned. When completed, 466 sites will be available.

The existing banquet room at Glen Oaks Golf Course Clubhouse in Farmington Hills will be enlarged by 3,000 square feet. Golf cart storage, kitchen areas and restrooms will also be improved.

There will be $3.4 million in new funds for capital improvement projects in the parks system's $14.5 million 1997 budget. Of this amount, $5.9 million comes from fees and charges while the remaining $8.6 million is generated from a 00.25 millage.

The typical Oakland County homeowner contributes less than $15 a year in taxes for the parks.

For 1997, the daily park entry fee is $5 per vehicle for Oakland County residents. These fees have not changed in three years. Cost for an annual vehicle pass, permitting year-round access to Independence Oaks, Addison Oaks, Orion Oaks, Lyon Oaks and Rose Oaks and seasonal access to Groveland Oaks, is $25 for county residents.

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission operates 11 parks and golf courses, on nearly 5,600 acres of land, providing activities for 1.5 million individuals annually.

Honoring a special woman

Rebecca Miller of Springfield Plains Elementary School is this year's winner in the "Telling Her Story" contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women. The contest is open to fourth-graders in Clarkston, Waterford and Pontiac schools in conjunction with Women's History Month. Rebecca made a quilt honoring Mary Mayo, a leader and teacher in the 1800s. One square has an apple on it to represent Mayo's teaching career; another square bears the MSU monogram since the school named a dorm after her. Rebecca received a $50 savings bond at an award ceremony. Over 60 students participated in the contest.

Brose named to United Way board

Clarkston resident Don Brose, president of Brose Electrical Shop, has been elected to the United Way of Oakland County Board of Directors.

As a board member, Brose is responsible for ensuring the financial integrity of United Way as well as seeing that the vision, mission and long-range goals are being reached.

Brose's experience with United Way began when he received a grant to run a program for middle-school students through his work with the Clarkston Optimist Club.

Brose is an economics graduate of the University of Michigan. He's a past president of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and is Michigan District Youth Club Chairman for Optimist International. He was named Clarkston Businessperson of the Year in 1996.

COURT COSTS

Court costs primarily consist of the filing fee paid to the clerk of the court, which can range from a few dollars in a small claims case to hundreds of dollars to file a lawsuit in a federal case. In addition, court costs may be comprised of the money paid to the local costabulary or federal official to serve the summons on the defendant. These charges also vary widely in cost. Moreover, "court costs" may refer to more than filing fees and summons delivery costs in many fee agreements. Attorneys may charge their clients for the costs incurred in taking depositions, procuring documents, etc. With this in mind, those who are about to sign fee agreements between themselves and their attorneys that refer simply to "court costs" should make sure they find out exactly what these costs entail.

If you are wondering what unexpected costs might arise during the process of a court battle, don't hesitate to ask whenever you have questions. Your attorneys are here to give you upfront information so you know exactly what to expect. At my office (820-1030), we handle civil matters as well as business and family law. We offer legal excellence and responsive professionals to serve you. Our offices are easy to reach at 11 North Main Street. We look forward to serving you and meeting your legal needs.

NOTE: Among other things, federal courts usually handle lawsuits involving citizens of different states.

Last-minute filers get a break

Local post offices to sponsor late-night event on 'Tax Tuesday'

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"Here comes the Taxman, yeah, the Taxman."
—The Beatles

Residents need not fear the proverbial "Taxman" with local post offices sponsoring "Tax Tuesday" April 15.

On that day the Clarkston Post Office will join others across the nation to prepare for the onslaught of people who have until 11:59 p.m. to mail their returns. The post office will stay open until midnight for last-minute filers whose ready-to-mail returns will bear the April 15 postmark, thus exempting them from federal and state penalties.

"It happens every year. People, for whatever reason wait until the last minute to mail them in. I'm glad we can help," said Clarkston Postmaster Gabe Viviano.

However, those who opt to drop their returns into area mail boxes should follow these pointers:

- Use the return envelope, if supplied, or type the

'We actually had people who would come in and do their taxes that night . . . You'd be surprised how hectic it is.

Clarkston Postmaster Gabe Viviano

address and include the ZIP code.

- Don't wait till the last minute; deposit early in the day.

- Before you drop in your return, check collection times on the mailbox. If in doubt, call the Clarkston Post Office at 625-0032.

- Affix the proper postage — 32 cents for the first ounce; 23 cents for each additional ounce.

- The IRS will not accept postage-due mail; penalties may be assessed.

- For information on availability of tax forms, contact your local IRS office.

In Clarkston, clerks will be on hand to sell stamps, weigh returns and provide other needed services. State and federal tax forms will also be available.

The Clarkston Post Office is located at 5886 Ortonville Rd. (M-15, just south of Clarkston's city limits). Other area post offices sponsoring the event are located in Lake Orion, Pontiac and Rochester.

"By doing this locally, people don't run the risk of something happening before the returns get to their destination," Viviano, Clarkston's new Postmaster, said.

The event was greatly appreciated at his former post in St. Clair Shores. Not only did people process their returns, but "we actually had people who would come in and do their taxes that night," he said. "The whole purpose is to accommodate people right up to the last minute. And you'd be surprised how hectic it is."

To make the task more tolerable, the post office will provide coffee and snacks.

"If I can ease their pain, I'll be happy to do so," Viviano chuckled. "People tend to look at us like the government . . . it's one of the positive things we can do. I think it's great."

Sheriff's log

MONDAY, MARCH 24, two cars were damaged on Tuson in what are thought to be related events. A 1997 Plymouth had two tires flattened; a 1990 Mazda had all four tires flattened, windows smashed, and the wipers and mirrors torn off.

A 33-year-old Highland woman reported that her ex-boyfriend, a 43-year-old Waterford man, beat her with his hands and a boot at a home on Shell Ct. The woman's hair and jacket were soaked in blood when deputies arrived. While they attended to the victim, the suspect called twice but refused to turn himself in.

A 17-year-old Clarkston boy was ticketed for smoking on school grounds at the high school.

A N. Marshbank resident reported hang-up phone calls for several months, both at home and work, as many as 10 a day.

A radio/CD player was stolen from a 1992 Geo Tracker overnight parked, unlocked, on Mann.

Larceny of a purse from a store parking lot on Dixie. The owner said she apparently left the purse in her shopping cart but didn't miss it until she got home. She then called the store, where a witness told management a female store employee had put the purse in a car, and gave the license-plate number. When confronted, the employee fled. Shortly thereafter, the purse was found on Rood Rd. in Holly, minus some $70-$90 cash. The employee, a Holly resident, later turned herself in at the substation where, with her attorney present, she admitted taking the purse and turned over $50 cash. She was ticketed.

TUESDAY, MARCH 25, a Clarkston woman is being investigated for giving four bad checks to a store on Clarkston Rd.

A deputy dispatched to tag an abandoned vehicle on Sashabaw found a 28-year-old Warren man sleeping in the car. It turned out he had two warrants out for his arrest. He was taken to jail.

Possession of marijuana on Dixie. A Holly man pulled over on a traffic stop smelled of marijuana, which a deputy found in the car during a voluntary search. The driver was ticketed.

Fraud investigation on M-15. A 31-year-old Ortonville woman is under investigation after she opened a credit union account with a $4450 check from a friend written on a closed account. She then wrote checks against the bad check.

A phone was stolen from a 1996 Suburban parked in a Mattawa driveway.

A camera was reported missing from a classroom at the high school.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, a 25-year-old Northville man was seen by employees shoplifting two CDs from a store on Dixie.

Jewelry, coins and cologne were reported stolen from a mobile home on Mann after a resident reported finding the door open. However a suspect said the resident let him in.

Carrying a concealed weapon on Sashabaw. A car was stopped for weaving in traffic when a deputy smelled the odor of intoxicants. He ended up finding a switch blade and marijuana in the car. The driver, a 19-year-old Ortonville man, and a passenger, a 20-year-old man from Ortonville, were released pending the issuance of warrants.

Failure to pay for $10 in gas on Dixie.

Deputies called to a family dispute on Glenalda ended up arresting a man on an outstanding warrant. He was turned over to Lake Angelus Police, where he posted bond.

Unlawful entry on Berry Pt. Deputies were called to a home to eject a relative of the residents, who did not have permission to be in the house. Two days later, they were back to take a report on the house being trashed and broken into.

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, a speeding car on Sashabaw was pulled over and a passenger ended up being arrested on two outstanding warrants, one for a felony. The driver was ticketed.

Larceny of $80 cash from a purse inside a house on Sunnyside.

FRIDAY, MARCH 28, a deputy arrested an inmate who had escaped from Camp Gilman when the man was seen, wearing prison blues, running across Dixie Highway. The man admitted he had jumped a fence at the prison. He was taken to the Oakland County Jail.

Larceny of $10 in gas from a gas station on Sashabaw.

French doors were smashed at a home on Royal Wood Dr.

Domestic assault and battery on Old Cove. A 45-year-old resident was arrested after his 17-year-old daughter called deputies to report her father had grabbed her mother by the throat and shook her. The argument started over a TV show.

SATURDAY, MARCH 29, a thief damaged a door on a 1984 Chevy truck, then removed a window in order to get a speaker and amp.

Larceny from a boat on Ashwood. The owner noticed the boat cover pulled back and found someone had kicked in the hatch of his 23-foot sailboat where it was parked on a trailer. It was unknown exactly what was missing as of presstime.

Felonious domestic assault on N. Eston. A woman called from a pay phone to report her husband had struck her several times with a wooden hammer handle and his hands, then fled. She was found with her face swollen and bloodied and taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. Her home was found in disarray but her husband could not be located.

SUNDAY, MARCH 30, home invasion on Garnet Circle. A camera and lens, semi-automatic pistol and rifle and a jar of coins were reported missing. The resident noticed the theft when he went to put more money in the jar and found it missing. There was no sign of forced entry.

Drunk driving and accident involving a police car on M-15. A deputy on routine patrol around 4 a.m. was sitting at the light at M-15 and Dixie when his patrol car was struck from behind. The driver admitted he was drunk and registered .13 on a Breathalyzer test. He was arrested; there were no injuries.

An 18-year-old Pontiac man was arrested on an outstanding warrant after he ran a red light on Dixie.

A window was broken on a 1988 Dodge van parked in a Dixie lot.

MONDAY, MARCH 31, a 17-year-old Ortonville girl was taken to a hospital after her car slid on the I-75 overpass at Sashabaw and struck a guard-rail.

now? One girl said she buys regularly from the same clerk at the same gas station, even since the new FDA regulations went into effect.

"I've been asked (for ID) but you act like you're getting your wallet out and they give it to you," she said.

Another girl, a 16-year-old 10th-grader, said she has regular buyers over the age of 18 who buy for her. She's noticed recently that she's being turned away at gas stations when she tries to buy.

Vending machines

None of the students buys from vending machines any more. Several said they used to buy at a vending machine at Cherry Hill Lanes, but since a state law went into effect in 1992, it's been moved inside the bar.

Now, visitors to the bowling alley on Dixie Highway will find a sign with a stern warning on the bar door, which states you must be 21 to enter. "Once in awhile we do catch a child walking in there," owner Beverly Gumtow said. "They still try to sneak in." But they must show ID now, she said.

She added that some state legislators are trying to pass a law banning cigarette vending machines totally. Then, she said, she'd have to sell cigarettes from a locked cabinet behind the counter.

According to Altman, state law mandates that cigarette vending machines be within 20 feet of adult "visual supervision" in establishments with Class C liquor licenses, and no more than 20 feet from the bar. They cannot be within 20 feet of an entrance/exit door, to avoid the problem of kids running in, buying, and running back out.

Vending machines are the method of choice for the youngest smokers, Altman said, because they are most likely to be asked for ID when making a face-to-face purchase.

Of course the problem of older people buying for underage smokers is still around and probably will never go away.

"It's frustrating but I still believe (we should) show we feel this strongly about it, that it's a law and people have to obey the law," Altman said.

Penalties for selling to minors are much tougher under the new FDA regulations. Retailers can now receive fines of up to $15,000.

Numbers show the stepped-up enforcement is making inroads. In 1994, a survey of controlled buys around the state showed 75 percent of the time, retailers sold to minors. In the fall of 1996, that number had fallen to 50 percent, Altman said, "which is still terrible but it's better than what it had been in past years."

Parents who put pressure on their kids to stop trying to make money off kids with addictive and illegal products are making inroads. Calls to a hotline for reporting violators are up, she said.

"I think a lot of the credit goes to parents who have said, 'I'm not going to buy my bread and milk here. Or, in a more gentle way, let them know, 'We think you're part of the neighborhood.'"

But Altman knows the bigger enemy is the producers. In 1993, when the state's tobacco tax was increased, major tobacco companies successfully lobbied for an amendment that prohibits local municipalities from enacting laws tougher than state law when it comes to tobacco. That means if the City of Clarkston or the Township of Independence wanted to make it harder to sell to minors by enacting a local ordinance, they would be banned from doing so.

The Oakland Tobacco Reduction Action Coalition is working to have that amendment reversed, and Altman said there is some support for it in the legislature.

But everyone agrees that education is still the key to getting kids to stop smoking. Even the Small Business Association of Michigan, which came out strongly against the new FDA regulations saying they "will cause longer lines and increased frustration for both customers and employees," agrees that education must continue.

"The kids have taught me what it's like to smoke," said CHS' Butzine. "It's more addictive than most of the street drugs you can get. It works on the brain."

"Some of the kids in groups have witnessed a close relative die. They say, 'I know; I've seen it.' But that's how powerful it is. And that's why the tobacco companies are willing to take on Clinton, Bush, Reagan, Carter . . .

"Some people will change if they hear the truth. I think we do need to have a war. Money is the battleground . . . Have the tobacco companies lied? Yes. Yes."

To report retailers who violate tobacco laws, call toll free 1-888-FDA-4-KIDS.

Next week: Tobacco as a gateway drug.

Top colorers

The winners are in for this year's Clarkston News Easter coloring contest and the young artists picked up their winnings just in time for the holiday vacation season. Winners were Darla Peters, first and Peter Swanson, second, in the 5-7 age group, and Gillian Nordquist, first and Matthew Swanson, second, in the 8-10 age group. Pictured are, from left Matthew, Gillian and Peter. Darla lives in Lakeland, Florida and her award, a check for $30, has been mailed to her. Second-place finishers received $20. That's a lot of chocolate bunnies.

Graduated driver licenses begin

passed a knowledge test as part of the course. At that time, teens will come to a branch office, accompanied by a parent or guardian.

With written permission of the parent or guardian, and after presenting their driver education certificate and completing a vision screening, they will be issued a Level 1 learner's license. Graduated licensing ends for all young drivers when they reach age 18.

Miller noted that new drivers, regardless of age, will continue to be on probation for three years. Probation does not end until the new driver has completed the last 10 consecutive months of probation without a moving conviction, crash involvement or a suspension.

Beginning April 1, the Secretary of State's office will provide all applicants receiving a Level 1 learner's license with a handbook to prepare them for the road test.

Information on Road Testing

For a complete list of the third-party testing agencies nearest you, contact your local Secretary of State branch office. Information may also be obtained from the following sources:

Fax - 517/335-4FAX

Internet: www.sos.state.mi.us

Department of State Information Center:
517/322-1460

Regional telephone centers: Detroit -

313/541-5454 and Flint - 810/767-1993.

Fees charged by third-party testers are not regulated by the Michigan Department of State. Therefore, drivers are encouraged to ask about fees prior to scheduling an appointment for the road test skills. Individual testing agencies set these fees.

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

OVERLY EXPRESSIVE LINES?

It is one thing to have an expressive face, but when smile and laugh lines become overly prominent, the dermatologist can plump them out with injections of either collagen or the patient's own fat. For this purpose, there are two forms of collagen: Zyderm lasts for about 4 to 12 months and treats superficial lines while Zylplast is a newer form of collagen that can be injected into deeper folds and creases and maintains its effectiveness for approximately 12 to 18 months. In either case, it is very important to conduct a test prior to undergoing collagen injections to see whether the patient develops an allergic reaction. Rejection or allergic reaction is not a factor with fat transfer, which involves injecting fat from either the patient's abdomen or thigh into a skin fold and manually molding it into place. The plumping effect lasts 3 to 6 months.

Unightly skin conditions such as creases, crows feet, and wrinkles can make one self-conscious to the point of causing psychological problem. They can often be reduced by collagen injections. Discuss your skin conditions with a dermatologist. Be sure you understand the benefits and limitations of the recommended procedures. We are conveniently located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692); and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599). Call us for an appointment.

P.S. Before fat can be transferred from one area of the patient's body to another, it must be cleansed.

CIGARS

DUNHILL

This is a very nice, mellow smoke. It has a strong herbal character and it has a mild, spicy finish.

SANTA DAMIANA

This cigar shows evidence of young tobacco. It has some sharp vegetal edges, but there are flavors of coffee beans on it's medium bodied smoke.

DON TOMAS

A very well balanced cigar. It has leather and spices and strong hints of nuts on the palate. It has a smooth texture on the finish.

DON DIEGO

A pleasant, mild cigar. It has some hints of nutty flavors and clean, fresh finish

DON UNO

A very spicy, medium to full bodied cigar. It has notes of dried citrus on the palate with rich flavors of coffee beans and spice.

ASHTON

A well-made cigar that has a nutty character over a solid spicy core. There is a slight herbal dryness on the finish

INCOME TO SUPPORT MORTGAGE

IN ORDER TO QUALIFY for a loan, a percentage of your income must be devoted to paying the loan.

QUESTION: With all the information you must supply for a mortgage application how do lenders evaluate it?

ANSWER: They do. Take your income ratio for example. A lender will want to know not only the amount of your income, but not more than a certain portion of it is devoted to the payment of principal, interest, taxes and insurance (PITI).

Suppose that PITI totals $700 a month. If a lender allows an income ratio of 28% of your gross monthly income for this, an annual income of $30,000 would be required. If PITI was limited to 25% of gross monthly income, an annual income of $33,600 would be needed to qualify.

Softball squad looks to contend in OAA again

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Many of the girls varsity teams have felt the effect of the loss of an outstanding group of athletes from the Class of 1996.

The varsity softball team is no different, having lost four current college athletes from the team that went 26-8 a year ago.

But coach Al Land will still be able to fill out a lineup card that is talented and versatile at many positions this season.

"We've got a very aggressive team on the field," Land said. "All our pitchers are back, so they will benefit greatly from the experience."

Land said he will have a few players starting the season at positions they haven't played before.

Among them is junior Tiffany Honey, who moved from third base over to shortstop. Land likes having her on the team because she's a third-year varsity player and is one of the team's leaders.

Junior Aimee Giroux will take her sister Stephanie's place in centerfield. Giroux is a terrific natural athlete who can cover the ground necessary to play there.

Land said he hasn't settled on a replacement for catcher Amanda Jenkinson, one of the graduates. Tammi Angel and Corinne McIntyre will likely split time behind the plate the first few games before he will decide on the full-time starter.

Land also has a strong core of returning starters including senior Stephanie Vogler, who will see time in the outfield and at first base.

"She's a very good hitter and we'll be counting on her offense this season," Land said.

Senior Sue Naboychik returns for her third season in leftfield. Land said Naboychik is a vocal leader of the team and is one of the team's tri-captains along with Giroux and Honey.

Land has the rare luxury in softball of having three quality pitchers to go to. Senior Allison Prudhomme, sophomore Rachel Fuller and freshman Candace Morgan will all see action on the mound for the Wolves.

"All three will get an equal chance early, but I will want to settle on two pitchers," Land said. "I'll let them figure it all out."

The 1997 Clarkston softball team.

Land said the Wolves will need the first few games to pick up experience at their new positions.

"Other than Mandy Harrison at second, every infield position is new," he said.

Once again, Ortonville-Brandon is the team to beat in the OAA Division I. The Blackhawks return every player from the team that was ranked second in Class B all last season and lost a total of three games.

Hoop camps at GVSU

Spots are open now to participate in Grand Valley State University's summer basketball camp.

Put on by GVSU head coach Jay Smith, the camp covers all basketball skills for all players.

The sessions for boys ages 10-18 are June 15-19, June 29 - July 3. The boys position camp is June 22-25, while the girls position camp is July 5-8. The position camp is open to players in grades 6-12.

Smith said Clarkston High School alums Jeremy Fife and Tim Wasilk will help with instruction at the camp. Both are current members of the GVSU men's team.

The Little Laker Camp, for players ages 6-8, is Aug. 4-6.

For more information, contact the GVSU men's basketball office at 616-895-3205.

OAA's changing face could leave tennis team sitting pretty

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The more things change, the better they seem to look for the Clarkston boys tennis team.

With traditionally strong teams like Bloomfield Hills Andover and Birmingham Groves moving up to the OAA Division I, the door is wide open for the Wolves to capture their first OAA Division II league championship this season.

Coach Kevin Ortwine said his team has to be considered one of the favorites to win the league, along with Troy Athens.

"In the league meet last year, we came in one point behind Athens and two behind Groves," he said. "If we pull out one more match, we probably take first."

Leading the way for Clarkston are senior co-captains Mike Aulgur and Kevin Kopec. Aulgur, who is entering his fourth season at #1 singles, became the first Clarkston player in 30 years to qualify for states a year ago. He will play tennis at the University of North Carolina-Greensboro next year.

"Mike and Kevin have really taken a leadership role this year," Ortwine said. "Mike played all through the offseason and he'll be tough to beat even for the (OAA) Division I opponents. He kind of snuk up on people last year, but he's known enough now where people will expect a tough day if he's out there."

Kopec will start the season at the #2 singles slot. Ortwine said he and #3 singles player, junior Jim Kyle, can be interchanged with no dropoff in team performance.

"We could flip flop those two and not lose anything," Ortwine said. "Kevin beat the #2 from Grand Blanc 6-2, 6-0 at a scrimmage, which is big."

Ortwine expects freshman Patrick Heber to start the year at #4 singles, saying his endurance is what will make him successful.

"Patrick just keeps running up and down the court until he wins," Ortwine said. "He'll have a lot of long matches because he's not strong enough to put matches away early, but he will still win out because of his endurance."

Ortwine said his doubles combinations are still up in the air, with the exception of the #1 slot, where seniors Kyle Stout and Chaz Claus will start their fourth year together.

"They will be in every match they play in," Ortwine said. "They've been there before and know each other well, so that will be a big help."

Other than the Wolves and Troy Athens, every other team in Division II is new this year. Berkley comes off an OAA Division III championship in 1996, while Auburn Hills Avondale features one of the top individual players around in Peter Voelz.

New fishing rules begin April 1

New fishing regulations took effect in Michigan April 1. Some of the more significant regulation changes, as listed in the Department of Natural Resources Fishing Guide, cover:

- trout and salmon fishing on Lake Huron, the Huron River and 13 lakes along Lake Michigan;
- prohibited use of minnows in certain designated trout lakes;
- former extended-season trout streams which are no longer such;
- changes in coolwater fish regulations (muskellunge and walleye) for certain locations;
- exceptions to the muskellunge and northern pike spearing ban lakes table.

Some of the new regulations are specific to southeastern lower Michigan.

In addition, the DNR reminds anglers that the 1997 fishing license was required as of April 1. "Conservation officers will be checking for valid licenses," said Herb Burns, chief of the law enforcement division of the DNR. Fees and structures have changed as part of PA 585, passed by the legislature in 1996.

● Stamps are no longer used. Anglers now purchase either restricted licenses, which are valid for all species except trout and salmon, or an all-species license. Prices for those age 17-64 are $13, restricted, $26 all species. Seniors age 65 and over pay $5.20/$10.40 respectively. There is also a $3 senior daily fee. Free senior spouse fishing has been eliminated. A voluntary $2 young angler all-species license is available for kid age 12-16. Proceeds benefit the DNR's Youth Education and Outreach Fund.

In addition, the previous "sportsman's license" has been replaced with the option of purchasing any four fishing and hunting licenses at one time (with the exception of waterfowl and 24-hour licenses) at a 15-percent discount.

For more information call the DNR fisheries division at 517-373-0908 or the fishing hotline at 1-800-ASK-FISH or the DNR website at www.dnr.state.mi.us and click on fisheries division.

Davisburg archer places fourth in world

Jamie Van Natta, an 18-year-old Davisburg native, recently finished fourth individually in the world at the World Indoor Archery Championships in Istanbul, Turkey.

Van Atta, currently a freshman at the University of Toledo, was a member of the four-person compound team that captured the world championship by defeating a team from Australia.

CHS sophomore makes select soccer team

Sophomore Thomas Dews was selected to participate at the Coca-Cola Haarlem Classic Soccer Tournament July 27 - Aug. 3.

Dews, who played for the Clarkston junior varsity soccer team last fall, will play in a tournament in the Netherlands that features more than 500 teams representing 35 countries. Each team will play a minimum of six games per week.

Speed a key for baseball team this season

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston varsity baseball coach Roy Warner enters the new year with the opposite worries of the Detroit Tigers.

Unlike Detroit's boys of summer, the Wolves will be able to rely on a strong and experienced pitching staff. Warner's main concern: hitting.

"These last two years have been my worst hitting teams I've had here," Warner said. "Our pitching was fine, but we just couldn't score enough runs to pull the games out."

The Wolves finished the 1996 season third in the OAA Division I, behind state powers Rochester Adams and Rochester. Adams lost to Mount Pleasant in the state finals last year.

This year, Warner sees the same kind of race, with Clarkston contending for the OAA title with the Rochester schools.

"We have 18 league games and play everyone three times," Warner said. "That will be a test to our pitching staff, because if we can't hit, it will be a long season."

Clarkston opens its season Monday with a home game against Rochester, with the first pitch set for 4 p.m.

"We'll get tested right away," Warner said.

Early on, the pitching staff is shaping up to be seniors Dennis Busch and Eric Knake and juniors Josh Clark and Jared Thomas.

Offensively, Warner is counting on improved production from some of the team's seniors. He said he's noticed many players in the past who have struggled at the plate as juniors, then tear up the ball their senior year. He's hoping for that again.

"I've had kids who have raised their averages as much as 100 points from their junior to their senior years," he said.

The players to watch at the plate include seniors Busch, Knake, Mark Endreszl, Jason Ostrom, Jason Frack and sophomore Spencer Hynes.

"I think we've got more unity on this team than last year," Warner said. "We'll have good range in the outfield thanks to our speed, and the guys seem more dedicated to not only winning a position, but improving once they're there."

Warner said a team weakness could be its inability to put the ball in play. That includes not just base hits, but hitting a ground ball or a fly ball instead of striking out when the hitter has two strikes on him.

In the penalty box

with Brad Monastiere

It was with great satisfaction that I watched Darren McCarty of the Red Wings pummel Claude Lemieux (henceforth known as Claudia) late in the first period of the Wings' grudge match with the Colorado Avalanche March 26. So naturally with it being a hockey theme this week, let's open up the penalty box once again to these two individuals.

Hero of the Day: Darren McCarty.

In around 50 seconds, McCarty went from just another player on the Wings to a cult hero here in Detroit. It was only fitting this guy would be the one to exact revenge against Claudia for one of the cheapest hits I've seen in nearly 20 years of watching hockey.

McCarty's 12-stitch performance on Claudia's face only showed part of his talents. McCarty has become a true complete player this season, earning a spot on a line with stars Brendan Shanahan and Igor Larionov. McCarty's night was capped off with a beautiful game-winning goal in overtime. What may have gone unnoticed in that play was the way he positioned himself with his teammates. He slid to the open area of the ice and opened up a passing lane for Larionov to feed him the puck. He waited patiently, stick on the ice, ready for the pass. These are the little fundamental things you teach players early on and McCarty executed to perfection.

So while he will get more pats on the back for his job on Claudia, let's not overlook the all-around game McCarty brings to the Wings. With his toughness and scoring ability around the net, he can really stand out in a playoff setting.

The Unforgiven: Claudia.

Oh Claudia, oh Claudia, where for art thou Claudia? Art thou fighting thine own battles?

No, he's curling up in a little ball anytime anyone takes a run at him. Doesn't he realize how silly he looks when he does that? And how will his teammates view him? I know if I was Peter Forsberg (a player with immense talent, but also a stand-up toughness sorely lacking in most players) I wouldn't even want to play with the guy anymore.

If Claudia were to go toe-to-toe with McCarty and still get knocked around that's one thing. But to sheepishly curl up like that and not even try to fight back to me is not a sign of toughness.

Perhaps if Claudia had shown a slight amount of remorse for what he had done, it might not have turned out this way. But making statements like "I made Kris Draper famous" shows that his lack of courage is only surpassed by the sizeable amount of open space between his ears.

The true impact of the fights and bad blood won't be felt until May, when the inevitable Western Conference Final will pit the Wings against the Avalanche. In just two years, this may have become the NHL's hottest rivalry, and not because of the fights. These are two of the best teams in the league and whenever they play, there's a lot at stake. Any two teams can fight, but only teams as good as Colorado and Detroit can have the true drama to back it up.

So buckle up and enjoy the NHL's playoff ride. Boxing gloves optional.

DNR safety tips for turkey season

April brings more than showers to Michigan. Turkey hunters statewide are preparing for the spring turkey hunt that begins April 21, and the Department of Natural Resources reminds hunters that safety is an important part of a successful hunt.

Although Michigan had only one recorded turkey hunting accident in 1996, turkey hunting is the second leading category for hunting accidents nationally. Turkey hunters should be especially aware of the following safety practices:

- Be sure of your target. Most turkey hunting accidents occur when someone mistakes another hunter for a turkey.
- Never wear or use anything red, white, blue or black -- colors found in the natural coloring of turkeys.
- Always sit with your back to a tree trunk, log or boulder wider than your body. Tie a visible band around the tree against which you are sitting.
- Wear blaze orange when entering or leaving the woods, moving to and from your stand, and receiving a decoy or turkey.
- Carry decoys or turkeys concealed in blaze orange -- otherwise, you increase your chances of being mistaken for game.
- Always set up to call in a fairly open area so that you can see clearly in order to protect yourself.
- Do not move if you see another hunter. Speak to other hunters encountered and do not move until absolutely sure the hunter knows you are there.

A number of workshops are being offered by the National Wild Turkey Federation, in conjunction with the Department of Natural Resources, at various Lower Peninsula locations through April 19. See the License Application Guide for 1997 Wild Turkey Spring Season for details.

DNR fishing program

◆ "Fishing in the Parks," the Department of Natural Resources' popular how-to fishing program, will be offered at 15 State Parks and Recreation Areas this summer.

Now in its third year, "Fishing in the Parks" gives individuals and families the chance to learn how to fish. Fishing fundamentals, such as tying a simple knot, rigging a fishing rod, casting, and selecting and using bait are taught in a 20-30 minute lesson. Following the lesson, everyone heads for the lake to fish, with staff and volunteers ready to help.

The lessons are held every Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. from June 17 through August 12. Although reservations are not required, large groups and organizations are encouraged to call ahead. The program will be offered at Metamora-Hadley Recreation Area, Metamora and Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, Waterford.

Individuals should bring their own fishing equipment, if possible. A small number of fishing rods will be available. A $20 annual motor vehicle permit or $4 daily permit is required for entry into any Michigan State Park. For more information, call 517-373-9000.

Golf outing upcoming

● The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce annual Golf Classic will be held June 26 at Heather Highlands Golf Course. Various levels of support are available, ranging from $135 to $200 (dinner only $35), as well as prize donations. Call 625-8055 for more information.

The Clarkston News Athlete of the Week

Athlete of the Week: Megan Plante - junior
Sport: Track

Events:
Middle Distance
Running

Accomplishments: Megan is starting her third season with the girls track team. She was part of the second-place 4 x 800 relay team at the Oakland County Meet last year and was an All State runner in cross country. She is also a member of the Blue and Gold, National Honor Society and SADD. She carries a 3.4 grade point average.

Coach's Comments: "She works so hard for us every day," coach Gordie Richardson said. "Even when she's given you her all, she tries to give more. She's one of our better middle sprinters, without a doubt. A really good kid."

Plante's Comments: "If I get beat by someone, I always remember who it was the next time I run against them. I also try to know who the best runner is on the opposing team and I try to beat them. I just enjoy the competition and my teammates."

Winter Sports Awards

The freshman and JV basketball teams ended their basketball season with a banquet March 20. Mark Whiteman was named most valuable player on the JV team, Andy North was the most improved, and Tim Loveless received the Coach's Award.

For the freshman team, Rocky Lund was the most valuable player, Chad Booker was the most improved player, and Ryan Marino received the Coach's Award.

"We played very well this season and the players have a very good chance to continue playing basketball," said Coach Neil Sage.

The JV volleyball team also ended its season with a banquet on March 18. Mandy Harrison was the most valuable player on the team. Jenni Gifford and Alison Kolody were the most improved players. Jenny Claus and Krissy Robinson received the Coach's Award.

"We were playing catch-up all year, but we played well and competitively at the end of the season," said Coach Melissa McCauley.

Recent studies show that fat calories in the final product are the same whether chicken skin is removed before or after cooking. That's good news because skinless chicken tends to dry out during cooking.

Rain doesn't stop

Easter fun

In your Easter bonnet ... Hanna Dolinski is a study in concentration as she gathers marshmallows.

Michael and Kady O'Connell take entirely different approaches to an encounter with the Easter Bunny. Michael, 3 1/2 (right), happily told the bunny what he wanted. Meanwhile Kady, 1 1/2 (at left) wasn't quite as anxious as her brother. Both attended the Independence Township Parks and Rec Easter Egg Hunt March 25 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Why hunt for any more when you have one in each hand? Kennadi Wascher enjoys her treats.

Standing outside Clarkston High School in the dismal, rainy weather, a Marshmallow ROAST might have sounded more appealing.

But once the doors opened it was every kid for himself as Independence Township Parks and Rec. employees tossed buckets of the fluffy treats from up high in the school gym.

Rain didn't stop the department from holding its annual Marshmallow Drop, which traditionally takes place before Easter every year. Director Ann Conklin said they had Plan B ready just in case, so parents were able to call a special number early Saturday which told them the show would indeed go on — at CHS instead of at Clintonwood Park.

Because the event was held indoors, Parks and Rec. was able to offer some extra fun like games in the cafeteria and pictures with the Easter Bunny.

But the highlight was definitely the drop, and although kids could trade their marshmallows in for candy, most couldn't resist popping a few into their mouths along the way.

One child, evidently a veteran, still believed the treats would be dropped in the traditional manner.

"When's the helicopter coming?" he asked.

Charge! Kids make a maddash as marshmallows fall.
