Bond issue ready to go to voters

Campaign kicks off with calls for volunteers

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

It's official.

At its regular meeting Monday night, the Clarkston board of education approved the wording of the June 9 bond proposal that would build a new elementary school and add onto other schools.

The wording builds upon the language of the unsuccessful December bond issue, but simplifies and shortens it for better understanding, keeping the entire request in one proposal.

Approval for the bond issue and its accompanying documents has already been given by the state Department of Treasury. The formal documents were approved by the board of education Monday night, as was the Request for Bond booklet which will be distributed to the voters.

The June proposal will cost taxpayers $57,650,000 and will be financed over a 25-year span, adding 1.36 mills to the debt-retirement levy annually at the outset. The money breaks down as follows:

- $13.03 million for a new elementary school (location to be announced);
- $6.4 million for expansion and improvements at Andersonville Elementary, including technology;
- $6.27 million for the same at Clarkston El.;
- $6.44 million for Pine Knob El.;
- $6.89 million for Sashabaw Middle School;
- $6.27 million for Bailey Lake El.;
- $5.95 million for North Sashabaw El.;
- $1.53 million for expansion of Springfield Plains El.;
- $2.85 million to convert the current Clarkston Middle School to a community education center;
- $5.28 million to convert the current high school to a middle school; and
- $6.89 million to improve Sashabaw Middle School.

The booklet which will be made available to the voters attempts to answer the most commonly asked questions, such as how property taxes are affected, why the bond is needed, enrollment growth, and the details of what changes will be made at each building, if the voters approve. The document is expected to be

Councilman hot about M-15

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although it was nowhere to be found on the official agenda, the Clarkston City Council spent around 40 minutes going over the hot topic of road conditions at its regular meeting Monday night.

Councilman David Savage tossed out a series of requests, ranging from lowering the Main Street speed limit to 10 mph to banning all trucks going through the city in an effort to preserve some of the historical buildings along the M-15 corridor.

"If we brought in the city engineer to take a look at the damage done to some of our buildings, then we can put some documentation together for the state," he said. "The roads will continue to deteriorate and we need to do something now."

Walt Gamble, the councilman who is the unofficial "road man," said any damage done to historical buildings because of traffic came because of the bulk and size of the trucks, and the subsequent vibrations they cause, not because of the speed they're traveling at.

"There was a study done here that showed the trucks were traveling an average of 27 mph," he said.

"So it's not the speed limit, Dave, it's just the size of the trucks."

"Walt, you're missing my point," Savage responded. "If you put the speed limit at 10, this damage wouldn't be done."

Gamble said having such a low speed limit would greatly slow down traffic flow through Clarkston. Traffic is already often backed up on M-15 heading north in the late afternoon most days.

"The last thing I care about is moving traffic through," Savage said. "Let all those people go around the village if they're in a hurry."

City attorney Thomas Ryan said the issues Savage was talking about were a private matter between building owners and the state.

"It's not our road. We shouldn't even be discussing it," Ryan said. "This is a private matter and isn't our problem."

Savage wanted to make a motion to look into these issues, but he couldn't because this all came about during a discussion time of the meeting and not during old or new business, when motions can be made and action can be taken.

The council told Savage to look into these issues on his own.

Sentence in one drug case; second pending

Matthew Covarrubias of Clarkston has been sentenced to lifetime probation, community service and a six-month suspended driver's license after pleading guilty to drug and gambling charges.

Covarrubias pled guilty earlier and was sentenced March 24 by Oakland County Circuit Judge John McDonald. He was also told to attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings twice a week and pay fines and court costs.

His brother Jesse, who pled not guilty, is scheduled for trial May 5 in McDonald's court. He is charged with one count of possession of cocaine with intent to deliver. Both brothers were charged after undercover officers from the Narcotics Enforcement Team said they bought cocaine from Matthew. A search warrant on their Pine Knob Lane home turned up cocaine, cash and gambling paraphernalia.

Community Awards nominees sought

Time is running short to nominate local residents and businesses for community awards scheduled in conjunction with Michigan Week.

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and NBD Bank are sponsoring the awards in the categories of Citizen of the Year, Young Person of the Year, Business Person of the Year, Community Preservation, Adult Youth Volunteer and Property Beautification.

Nominations should be sent, along with a brief statement supporting the nomination, to the Chamber at 5850 Lorac, Suite C, Clarkston, MI 48346. Deadline is May 2. An awards breakfast will be held May 21 at Spring Lake Country Club. Tickets are $12. Call 625-8055 for tickets.

Mill Ponds Association to meet

The Clarkston Mill Ponds Association will meet April 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Library. The association is interested in the health of the Mill Pond and is looking at such issues as weed control, dredging and control of the waterworks.

The association is considering organizing a lake board to maintain and eventually control the entire pond system. Ed Adler, current owner of the dam and hydro works that control the water level on the pond, will be invited to speak at the next meeting. Adler owns the waterworks by virtue of owning the Clarkston Mill property.

For more information on the association call Hank Radcliff at 625-3010.

'Never give up on your child'

Parent tells of struggle for help for drug-using daughter

Last in a series

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

To look at her photo, you wouldn't think Kelley Doyle had a care in the world. That fresh-scrubbed face. The smile.

But looks can be deceiving. In reality, Kelley's world was crumbling. "She was in pain and she didn't know how to deal with it," said her mother, Nancy. Kelley eventually found her relief in drugs.

Nancy Doyle decided to go public with her family's struggle in the hope it may help other families going through the same thing. It's a story about the traumas many children face today and one family's decision not to give up on their child, no matter what. Kelley is now in a residential program in Idaho and doing well. Nancy Doyle spoke just after her first visit with her daughter since she entered the program, called Ascent.

As her mother tells it, Kelley was a bright child who did very well at Clarkston Elementary School, despite a hearing problem that led to her repeating first grade. After surgery to correct the problem her school-work improved.

That is, until a classmate in fifth grade died of cancer. "That was real difficult for her," said her mother. That summer she started to smoke.

"She thought it was cool. She thought it was big time." At that time, her parents were beginning to go through a divorce and, Nancy said, tension in the family home was high. That would continue to be the case for several years.

By sixth grade Kelley's grades had begun to drop, and by eighth grade she was smoking marijuana, which, according to her mother, she was able to find at Clarkston Middle School.

"By the end of eighth grade, her grades were non-existent," Nancy said. "The counselors at the middle school, I commend these guys greatly. They did everything possible to help Kelley. Kelley was obviously hanging around with some real rough kids. Kelley just wasn't interested."

'Her dad and I had to do something. She was going to die.'

That year Kelley entered her first program, but it didn't help. Her parents split supervisory time with her, with her mom home during the day and her dad home evenings. Yet Kelley managed to find a way to have parties. Once, when her mom left for 10 minutes to run to the store, she returned to find a friend of Kelley's in the house, smoking pot in front of the younger children.

For her 14th birthday, Kelley and some girlfriends got into her dad's liquor cabinet. "That was a disaster," Nancy said. Nevertheless, facing the beginning of high school, Kelley seemed to be ready to make a change.

"This was different. She was going to be in high school. She was going to make an effort."

But the effort didn't show. Kelley entered Fox Center, which was also unsuccessful, except for widening Kelley's circle of drug-abusing friends. "We were getting a lot of long-distance phone calls," her mother said. She attended school, but didn't do any work. Her behavior at home worsened, becoming abusive toward her mother and younger sisters. At school, she dressed so provocatively that Dep. Dave Hernandez, the Oakland County Sheriff's liaison officer at Clarkston High School, remembers her well. "I always wondered how she could come to school dressed like that," he said. She also wore gang colors, although she wasn't really a member.

"She tried to create this image; the leather coat, the cigarette hanging from her mouth: 'Don't mess with me or I'll kick your ---,'" her mother said.

By the time she reached 10th grade, "you couldn't live with her," said her mom. "I found money missing from my wallet frequently."

That fall, (she was now living with her mom; her father lives elsewhere in Clarkston) she and her dad got into a physical fight. At the time she was in aftercare from Maplegrove, another substance abuse treatment program. After the fight she and a friend ran away, stealing money from her dad.

"At that point her dad pressed charges because he didn't know what else to do," said her mom. "And in retrospect I think it was good he did."

Kelley was placed in Children's Village for a month by court order; the county billed her parents $6,000 for her care. There was no therapy involved; just detention. Her parents waited, hoping the system would work for their daughter.

Kelley eventually returned to CHS, working with a substance abuse counselor. "She continued to do what she was doing. Her dad and I had to do something. She was going to die."

For Nancy Doyle, the ordeal isn't over yet, and reliving these events is difficult. But she continues.

"I say this to parents out there: I think Kelley was really searching for love and acceptance. I don't know why she chose the group (of friends) she did. I knew she was out of control, and one a child is out of control, you're not going to get her back. "Any parent who's going through this should know: Don't beat yourself up over this. Because you're not talking to your own child. Kelley was a stranger in our house."

Kelley was caught in school a number of times with marijuana, which, according to her mother, she purchased in school. That doesn't surprise Hernandez, who believes drugs are available in school.

"It's almost done in a casual manner," he said. "I'm not saying all of it's being done in the school. But some of it is... If you're into that, you know who to go to. And also, you know who to stay away from if you're not."

Nancy Doyle found the school unable to do solve that part of the problem. "It left me feeling very funny. I didn't have anything to get hold of."

However, she understands that reaction, as she herself was going through it too. "People would say to me 'Why don't you do something about Kelley?' I'd say 'What do you want me to do?'"

Eventually, the Doyles came upon the solution on their own—without the help of the courts or the hospitals or the schools. In November, escorted by her parents, Kelley agreed to enter the Ascent program. They would not see her again until March.

"Truly the hardest thing I ever did was when we brought her to Ascent and turned around to leave her. I just didn't think I was going to make it. But of course I did. Everyone does."

For the first eight weeks, Kelley and other teenagers lived in teepees in the woods. They chopped wood for their heat and were only allowed one bath a week. If they were uncooperative, they were sentenced to sit on a stump and think about it. They learned they were in charge of their own fate.

What to do about drugs in school

Perhaps it's unavoidable that where nearly 2,000 teenagers gather on a daily basis, someone will have drugs.

"What we've got going up here is a typical American high school, said CHS school social worker Jim Butzine. "There's an availability of drugs."

Some schools deal with the problem by bringing in drug-sniffing dogs, such as Holly. Others try a more individualized approach, with visible adult supervision, a police liaison officer and a variety of counseling options available. That is the approach currently in use at Clarkston High School.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Hernandez said he would be happy to bring in the dogs. "It is a good tool; it's very, very visible," he said. But there is disagreement among the staff as to whether that's the way to go.

Principal Brent Cooley is against using dogs, citing the issues inherent in random searches and the trust he strives to establish with his students.

"I've got some people who think it's a good idea but I'm not convinced," he said. "What's the cost/benefit ratio to it? ... Am I looking at an institutional problem here or an individual problem? If I have an individual problem, do I turn the institution upside down? ..."

"We ought to be able to deal with every student who comes in here, and if we can't we ought to be able to find a program for them."

Everyone we spoke to agreed that parents are the first line of defense in the fight against drugs.

"We need more parental awareness," Hernandez said. "Parents have to see signals their kids are giving out and act on them."

Butzine agreed. "To be a parent these days you've got to do some tough things that on the outside don't look pretty. You have to commit to working at it or it won't work."

"The cost of being a parent and being involved with young people is to be vigilant," Cooley said. "When adults pay attention to young people, they thrive."

Additional seating approved for Pine Knob

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

More patrons will now be able to enjoy sold-out shows like Jimmy Buffet and all-day HORDE Festivals, thanks to an increase of over 1,000 seats at Pine Knob Music Theatre.

At the April 10 meeting, Independence Township Planning Commissioners approved an amendment to Pine Knob's final site plan for additional seating to accommodate 1,350 more patrons. The request came from Palace Sports and Entertainment which owns the outdoor venue it purchased in the early 1990s. (Pro-Tem chair Todd Moss replaced Steve Board who was absent).

The Palace also manages and books concerts for Meadowbrook Theatre, a smaller outdoor venue owned by Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

Though designated primarily for overflow, six rows of aluminum bleachers will be constructed at the top of the hill where lawn seating is currently available. The rows will be "stepped" to foster better viewing and feature a 6-to-8-foot chain-link fence in back, most likely to be built from wire mesh "that can't be scaled," said Palace officials presenting the proposal.

A new timber stairway to be constructed down the middle back of the hill will provide better accessibility from top to bottom. Two such stairways currently exist, one on either side. According to blueprints in the township's building department, plans include the possibility for future concessions underneath the bleachers as well.

Though the project won't be completed by the season's opener — an Eddie Money concert scheduled for May 23 — it's expected bleachers will be in place by July, officials said. Ticket prices have not been established.

The addition will raise Pine Knob's current seating capacity from 7,252 pavilion and over 8,100 lawn to a total of 16,624. Township planner Dick Carlisle, who recommended approval, said the project "will enhance some of the safety concerns on the hillside," which include folks "rolling" down the back portion.

He has met with police and fire officials to discuss safety issues, like accessibility in case of emergency situations. They agreed the concept is feasible as Pine Knob is "well-managed" with police, security guards and other measures, Carlisle said.

Ironically, though the Palace reduced seating when it took the venue over, it will raise the capacity to about 22 seats less than the old figure. The increase was also needed for "competitive" purposes, admitted Hugh Lombardi, Palace executive director, who attended the meeting with Palace vice president of operations Jim Summers and architect David Rose.

Though voted one of the top outdoor venues in the country, Pine Knob is now becoming one of the smallest. Most new venues are designed for more patrons, Lombardi said.

"A lot of new, bigger amphitheaters are being built for up to 20,000 to 25,000 seats. It means the artist is getting greedier," he said. For example, there is currently a proposal on the boards for a new venue in Detroit's Downriver area, "so there's a lot of competition nobody sees," he added.

Some commissioners and one resident voiced worries over additional parking and restroom needs which aren't included in the plans. The township's ordinance states there must be one car space per every three seats "for a use of this nature," Carlisle said.

"I understand the need to become 1,300 more people competitive but I can't imagine where you're going to put 433 more cars," said Independence Township resident Tom Sacoman, who lives nearby.

However, Lombardi said he felt the parking was adequate with existing paved lots and a large, grassy lot, known as "the Nelson property," which extends north from the main entrance on Sashabaw all the way to Clarkston Rd. Most of the time all that space isn't used, but parking could be "reconfigured" for larger concerts, he said. "We have extended parking on the Nelson property over the last two years. I think we have plenty of room."

Carlisle agreed the situation was stable. "This is all very highly controlled parking," he said, comparing the venue to a shopping center where parking isn't managed at all. "The last thing they want to have is lack of parking. They have demonstrated to us there is sufficient parking to accommodate their demands."

In response to other concerns about additional ingress-egress problems, Lombardi said he felt parking attendants would continue to do a good job flagging cars down several lanes to Sashabaw and to a second exit on Pine Knob Rd.

Admitting they had not planned for additional restrooms, officials agreed the overflow could be met with "crowd pleasers" — portable multi-toilet facilities. Other concerns raised included additional speakers (there won't be any) and viewing from the top of the hill.

"It's a creative way to control what you've got," agreed commissioner Dan Travis. But, he added, "I don't know what the view is like, but I would think it's binocular territory."

"That's why we put those big screens up there," said Lombardi with a smile, referring to three large screens on the pavilion's front roof which benefit lawn viewers.

Commissioners generally agreed with Carlisle that the Palace has done an excellent job of improving Pine Knob since it took the facility over, including Jill Palulian who noted that prior ticket sales meant "whoever you could shoe-horn in."

However they worried about additional seating requests in the future.

"It will never exceed 17,000," Lombardi answered. "You're probably looking at a situation that is close to capacity now."

Homeowners protest cluster development

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Long-time controversy surrounding an old gravel pit on the northeast corner of Indianwood and Dartmouth roads was again brought to the surface as a new subdivision was discussed for the site by the Independence Township Planning Commission April 10.

After almost two hours of discussion and complaints from neighbors, who balked at the idea of a special land use-cluster option for the 182-acre parcel, commissioners unanimously tabled their decision (Steve Board was absent).

According to a heavily amended 1960 Oakland County Circuit Court consent judgment, Burroughs Materials Corp. was allowed to mine gravel on the east side of Dartmouth and transport it to the west side, but was given a timetable to cease its operation. Township building director Bev McElmeel said the consent judgment sets density at 1 1/2 acres per lot for both sides of Dartmouth. Each side features a lake created from holes left by the mining. However, the judgment does not prohibit the property owner from submitting a cluster-lotting plan, which only changes the arrangement, not the density.

JAC Construction hopes to develop 73 lots on the east side, ranging from 3/4 to 1 acre and intended for up to 3,000-square-foot homes priced from $250,000-$300,000 each. A buffer zone around the perimeter is designed to save wetlands, trees and other natural features in the proposed development, Indianwood Lake Subdivision. There are no plans for the west side of Dartmouth, McElmeel said.

The clustering would preserve more open space, said township planner Dick Carlisle. "The idea is to buffer the impact," he said. Some lots would center around the lake, but no gas-powered motorcraft would be allowed. Carlisle has not yet recommended approval but he favors the cluster option. JAC hopes to break ground in July.

"The majority of tree areas can and will be preserved with the cluster plan," Carlisle said, but added that before plans can be approved he would like to see more detail on items like grading, tree preservation and wetland boundaries.

"We have 15 items we feel need to be addressed and that is why we are not recommending approval at this time," he said.

During a public hearing, residents voiced complaints including objection to the smaller lot sizes, traffic congestion, breakdown of the roads, more kids in Lake Orion schools, reduced property values and increased drainage problems.

Two residents said they have ducks swimming in their back yards and construction would compound the problem by unleashing a large quantity of water that sits in the southeast corner near Eston Rd. and Indianwood Ct.

Kathleen Squires, an Indianwood Rd. resident, asked if the developer could contribute to the road chloride program for the eventual wear-and-tear brought about by increased traffic. Squires said the current chloriding job on Indianwood is "rather chintzy."

Paving the road would mean widening it. Like others who sat in the audience last Thursday, Squires enjoys her gravel road and the rural atmosphere in which she's raised a family.

"I was there (at the meeting), hoping to get some help with the road," she said during a phone conversation later in the week. "I'm absolutely, totally, positively against paving (Indianwood) road. We don't want to lose the oak trees."

One resident was concerned over possible contamination as arsenic has been reported in nearby wells.

"I've been told water flows north and south and that's just to the north of us," he said. Others worried over the amount of buffering between their homes and the project, which appears to be vague in the plans.

However, Carlisle assured one resident, "No house could be closer than 200 feet (from) your property line." Also in attendance was Tom Hall, a member of the Independence Land Conservancy, who said he had not seen an existing ILC scenic easement mentioned in the development plans. The conservancy owns 60 acres to the northeast, deeded in 1982, which is "land-locked," though it provides for a 20-foot-wide, 445-foot long right-of-way.

The map currently "does not recognize our right of ingress and egress to our land," Hall said. He and other ILC members are also concerned about "dumping" in the area.

Although Hall said conservancy members wouldn't mind people walking on the property, "Somehow our conservancy property needs to be registered in the individual deeds of the homeowners so they don't trespass onto our property. Our land enhances their property values because it will always remain natural."

Most commissioners seemed to favor the cluster option, but agreed with Carlisle that they need more detail, including a closer look at both the map and the consent judgment.

"It's always tough to see a piece of property develop," said commissioner Joe Figa. "(But) generally speaking, I think it will be a better development."

One resident, a lone voice in the majority of those against the option, agreed.

"Personally, I would rather have a buffer zone than a lot of back yards backing up to me," said Dartmouth resident Louise Bauer.

Township attorney Gerry Fisher, who handled the township's case against Burroughs, is familiar with the complaints.

"They ought to be happy there's no more mining. There won't be any heavy trucks going down that road. But you have to give them a lot of credit. They've had to be so patient."

However, Fisher added, he sees the situation as "maximizing the resources of the land. Here you have gravel needed in the area. Now it's going to provide for a development that has a lake on it ..."

"It should be a nice development and a reward for their waiting."

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

No more Bobs

As I wrote this week's story about a Clarkston girl's descent into the world of drug abuse, I was reminded of a high-school friend of mine. Bob was the best and brightest in band. I will always remember what our band director said about him upon handing him the prestigious award given for musicianship at graduation time: "He has more talent in his little finger than I have in my whole body."

But somewhere along the line, Bob disappeared. I think it started in little bits; so small no one could have ever guessed they would add up to catastrophe.

In school, though bright, Bob didn't put much effort into anything much but music. Socially, he was awkward. His mother had the band director sit down and talk to him, one on one, about applying himself, since he was definitely college material.

Bob did go on to major in music at Michigan State University. He got married even, then divorced. I never saw him again. Over the years, whenever I would ask about him, I was told he 'fried his brains' on drugs. He's no good to anybody now.

Who knows why? Bob had loving, supportive, parents. A baby sister, as I recall. A supportive group of friends in the band.

Yeah, it was the late '60s. Maybe it was inevitable that someone I know would have succumbed to the drug culture. But why him? It will forever remain a mystery to me.

Life is hard. If we thought the '60s were wild, imagine what kids are exposed to today. Our parents had to worry about their kids getting killed in Vietnam. But today, kids can die right at home, thanks to drugs and AIDS. Kids can learn about all kinds of stuff on the Internet, like making explosives and child pornography, that our parents, with minimal effort, were able to shield us from. I remember my dad fitting the roof when John Lennon said the Beatles were more popular than Jesus Christ. I wonder what he'd think about what's played on the radio today in the name of 'entertainment?'

If I were a parent, I often wonder, where would I draw the line? As Clarkston High School social worker Jim Butzine said, "To be a parent these days you've got to do some tough things that on the outside don't look pretty." Sad but true.

But I guess you've also got to pay really close attention. Bob didn't fall into drug abuse because he listened to the Rolling Stones (he didn't) or hung around with a bad crowd (ditto). It was something inside, something no one can explain.

Nancy Doyle isn't real sure why her daughter suddenly began behaving like she herself were 'the leader of the pack.' Parents' divorce? Death of a classmate? They're all just guesses.

But as a videotape she showed me about the CEDU program in Idaho, where her daughter is now enrolled, noted, "It's impossible to explain anyone else's life, especially a child's." It's so true.

You can't explain, but you can't shrug your shoulders either. You have to remember "There, but for fortune, go you or I" and get on with the effort, before it's too late.

Letters to the editor

Everyone can help with tobacco enforcement

To the editor:

Effective February 28, 1997, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration requires retailers to ask for photo identification from tobacco purchasers up to age 27 when selling cigarettes and smokeless tobacco.

Although cigarette use for adults is dropping, teen smoking is on the rise. Every day 3,000 teenagers start smoking. One thousand of them will eventually die from a smoking-related disease. For many, it is the first step toward the use of other drugs as well. Most adults who smoke (82%) had their first cigarette before their 18th birthday and half of them were regular cigarette smokers by that time.

Frustrated young people are likely to take their anger out on the conscientious clerks who follow the law, ask for identification and refuse to sell to underage customers.

All community members can take a positive step to prevent teenage tobacco use by thanking the clerk for asking for identification. Whether you are carded yourself or are behind a carded young person in a check-out line, tell the clerk, "Thanks for asking!" We must create an atmosphere in which our retail establishments know the community supports them in stopping illegal sales to teens and appreciates conscientious enforcement. You can do that every time you thank them for asking.

For those few establishments that continue to sell without checking identification, you can call the Food and Drug Administration toll free at 1-888-FDA-4KIDS. Those stores will be scheduled to receive an unannounced compliance check in the future as a result of your call.

Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth

All night party a tribute to community

Dear editor:

I would like to thank everyone involved in the great undertaking that we call "CLARKSTON ALL NIGHT GRADUATION PARTY." This has become a tradition and a spectacular event for seniors graduating from Clarkston High School, sure to generate fond memories for years after, for the participants and supporters alike.

This year, it will take place June 4 at Deer Lake Racquet Club on a nominal cost basis for the seniors themselves. Businesses, large and small, parents, and other people who have no direct connection as parents - but wanted to support our community's young people, our community's future, made this possible. Together they have already contributed over $20,000 in cash and more will be forthcoming. What a great community!

The seniors' parents will number over 150 and the juniors' parents will also participate. This is an unbelievable event, from the amount of volunteering that has gone on, the money-raising, to decorations

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Noise popular as pollution

What's the strongest complaint heard at public hearings today when someone is considering a shopping center, playground, marina, subdivision, bike path, golf course or school?

Noise! Too much noise! The kids, the cars, the boats, the joggers and the always upset, erratic golf club swingers create too much noise.

I've debated the various, popular pollutions with myself and have determined noise IS the worst pollutant. Pollution of the water and air will kill you, but then it's over.

Noise pollution will drive you nuts. Your mind will be boggled, your eyes crossed, the tongue hanging loosely, etc. . . but your life will go on. Even that might not be bad, it's only a little different than my outlook most of the time, however, if realism reoccurs the noise'll drive you to despair again.

There are several noises that put me in orbit without going to Cape Canaveral. The worst one I'm not going to mention because there are a few people out there in readership-land who would torment me at every opportunity.

The noise of an ailing car is very disturbing to me, probably because I know so little about them.

Television can really get to me. There are times when our 35 channels are far too many, and times when they are far too few. It really can be the vast wasteland.

The ringing of a telephone, urging immediate action whether it's a call of help or trouble, is usually, at first, an irritant. One of the things we men enjoy most about getting out on a golf course or going north fishing is the absence of that ring. And, now with the #@%&*+ cellulators it's more difficult that ever to escape the ringing.

A Michigan State PhD'er says noise can not only damage hearing, but can also affect morale, anxiety, sleep, irritability and fatigue.

I'm sure he didn't need that doctorate to figure that out, but he should've added, "all of which will drive you up a tree."

And, while up there your skin will crawl from the sound of fingernails on a blackboard. Your hair will stand on end from the screeching of brakes when you know your child is playing in the street. . .

Your toes will curl from the sound of that awful noise coming from all teen-driven cars. . .

. . . And, you won't even be able to remember the 911 number after going through one night hearing a combination of a faucet dripping, mice playing in your rafters, your spouse crinkling the paper he/she's reading and the incessant scratching of a wind-blown branch on your nearest window.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1982)

With promises to "keep nudging" the Waterford Hills Racing Association for a cleaner, quieter and safer racing year, the Independence Township Board fields complaints from several residents who've had it with noise, flying tires and uncut grass. During a special public hearing April 7, board members briefly discuss the spring, summer and fall racing schedules and the fact that track licensing is up for renewal.

Independence Township Planning Commissioners unanimously approve a final site plan for expansion of Pine Knob's La Veranda Ristorante, its newest eatery specializing in Italian cuisine. The plan includes a tunnel connecting La Veranda and a proposed annex that would incorporate remodeling for an existing pro-shop and office with additional seating and banquet facilities.

In a 4-1 vote, Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals members approve a sit-down pizzeria for restaurateur Allie Assad who wants to move into an existing shopping center at Clarkston and Eston roads. The plan has been hailed by area residents who complain of having to travel into Clarkston or onto Dixie Highway to find a good family-style restaurant.

25 YEARS AGO (1972)

Teenagers between the ages of 14 and 15, who fit a family-income profile, are eligible to apply for summer jobs through the federally funded Neighborhood Youth Corps program. Applications are available from Tom Collins, a representative of Clarkston Office of Economic Opportunity, located in the old library adjacent to township hall. Job opportunities include typing, filing, teacher and tutorial aides, library and bookstore assistants, building maintenance and recreational employment.

Four Clarkston High School students win awards at the Michigan High School Industrial Competition held April 8 at Central Michigan University. Seniors Bob Wooley and Neal Philpott Jr. win first-place awards in product design. Also capturing honors are senior Mickey Violette, first in architectural competition, and junior Roger Zander, third in beginning drawing.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

An adventure awaits

I'm expecting a lot out of my golf game this year.

(I can hear chuckling in the background already, "yeah, a lot of strokes.") No, really.

I went ahead and took the plunge -- bought a set of irons, three to the pitching wedge. It was under a hundred bucks, so I said, what the heck. Of course, as in every Don Rush Adventure (I could write a series of something with that title), there is a barb, a hook, a rub.

It wouldn't be any fun just to buy the golf clubs off the shelf. Heck no. True to fashion, I bought the set unassembled. Only after the credit card number was given, the order placed and the phone put back on the hook, did I realize the enormity of what I had done.

Dizzily, I was swept back in time. My mind stopped, and there I was hunched over something on my desk, in my bedroom. The light was bright and shone on what I was doing. The door to my room was closed, locked.

I was 12 years old, in my hands was my last attempt at model car building. Even though it was early spring -- not yet even May -- sweat ran down from my forehead. There was a look of determination on my face, my eyes focused on the task at hand. I was building a 1959 Ford Galaxy Convertible as a birthday present for Dad (the '59 Ford was his first of many convertibles).

50 YEARS AGO (1947)

A special news item from "By The Way": Into the great beyond, this week, passed a man who did the impossible because he did not know that what he was doing was impossible -- a man who amazed everyone because he did crazy things that did not seem crazy after he had shown that they were the perfectly obvious things to do and perhaps the only way to do them. Henry Ford will be remembered as a very practical dreamer long after the world has forgotten that he built automobiles... To him water power was fundamental -- which brings Clarkston into his life. His first view of Deer Lake made him like Clarkston and the modern dam on the mill pond was built through his efforts. The factory he erected could be run by water power... Pray to God for more such men.

Showing at the Drayton Theatre are Bette Davis in "Deception" and Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire in "Blue Skies." Featured at the Holly Theatre are Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnett in "Terror Trail" and Betty Hutton and Sonny Tufts in "Cross My Heart."

Specials at The Village Market this week include Lifebuoy Soap, two bars for 15 cents; Birdseye Corn, 20 cents a package; assorted Holly Breads, 12 cents a loaf; and beef short ribs, a quarter a pound.

60 YEARS AGO (1937)

One of Clarkston's earliest settlers, Mrs. Adella K. Chamberlain, passes away at her home in Sylvan Lake Village early Tuesday after a five-month illness. Mrs. Chamberlain, 78, was born in Clarkston on Oct. 12, 1858, the daughter of Jebidia and Sarah Brown Yeager. She attended the Clarkston school and married Charles F. Chamberlain 59 years ago.

Playing at the Holly Theatre are Martha Raye and Shirley Ross in "Hideaway Girl," Victor McLaglen and Ida Lupino in "Sea Devils" and Jack Oakie, Lily Pons and Gene Raymond in "That Girl From Paris."

Specials at Rudy's this week include veal stew, 14 cents a pound; spare ribs, 19 cents a pound; macaroni, two pounds for 15 cents; tomatoes, three cans for a quarter; and mild cheese, 19 cents a pound.

I finished it all right. I even wrapped it and gave it to Dad. And there it sat, on his dresser for years. The clear plastic windshield with globs of dried model glue on it. My finger prints embedded in the paint job. It sat cocked to one side, cause I had to force the body onto the chassis and broke some part of the suspension.

Dad liked it, but it sure wasn't pretty.

Now I'm going to attempt to build a set of golf irons. Even though I shelled out some big money for that model ($1.49) it's chump change compared to a hundred bucks.

The hands with the little knobs of flesh and bone I lovingly refer to as my fingers, are now sweating a little. I actually expect me to put together a set of clubs. Glue the head on the shaft, put that ferret-thingy on, tape and grip 'em.

Oh boy.

And, I thought it was embarrassing to use clubs I had found in the trash (I found my first set of clubs in the sixth grade in the neighbor's garbage, and used them up 'til about two years ago). It's going to be brutal out there if I swing and the head of the iron flies off and kills someone.

Yikes.

Maybe I can issue some official Don't Rush Me Golf Helmets to those who golf, with me as "souvenirs" (and protection) along with T-shirts that say "I survived 9 with Don."

Do I have any takers...?

Crime capers

Like most newspapers, we frequently come across some pretty good yarns in the police reports. Some are truly humorous, although those involved in the incidents may not think so.

My husband often points out the special section of an out-of-state newspaper which reserves a column for such items. Apparently the idea works with readers, for it appears every week. For example, one woman frequently called local police to report she had "brown water" -- as if the police could assist her in the matter: "POLICE INVESTIGATE BROWN WATER."

What do you think of the idea? Would you be offended if it was your report, or would you find it amusing? Let us know by writing or calling The Clarkston News at 625-3370.

Some "real" reports which have appeared in our paper follow. We have omitted the residents' addresses:

Do some people want to be caught? A screen was cut and a window forced. Someone went through jewelry boxes and a money bag and left behind a trail of chicken nuggets on the ground (A spin on the ole' Hansel and Gretel tale).

A deputy arrested an inmate who had escaped from Camp Gilman when the man was seen, wearing prison blues, running across Dixie Highway...

Dispute over paying for pizzas that took an hour and a half to be delivered (Must not have been Domino's).

A driver at a gas station on Dixie drove off with the gas pump handle still in his gas tank, causing some damage to the fixture (No kidding).

A resident reported that a woman knocked at his door asking for a ride home after being dropped off along the road by a man she had met at a party store.

Just joshin'... A resident found a balloon with a note attached to it on her lawn. The note said the writer was trapped under a bridge on Belle Isle and was dated March 8. The information was forwarded to Detroit Police, who checked all the bridges on Belle Isle but found no one trapped there.

A man reported his 1981 VW convertible had been stolen. A short while later he called back to report it was a joke; his mechanic actually had the car.

Manners, manners... A clerk at a Sashabaw gas station said a man got abusive when she asked for identification in order to sell him cigarettes, spitting on her.

A 50-year-old woman said she was bitten on the "butt" by a Flint man at a bar on White Lake Rd.

A 27-year-old woman was arrested and later released after allegedly hitting her husband in the head with a spatula...

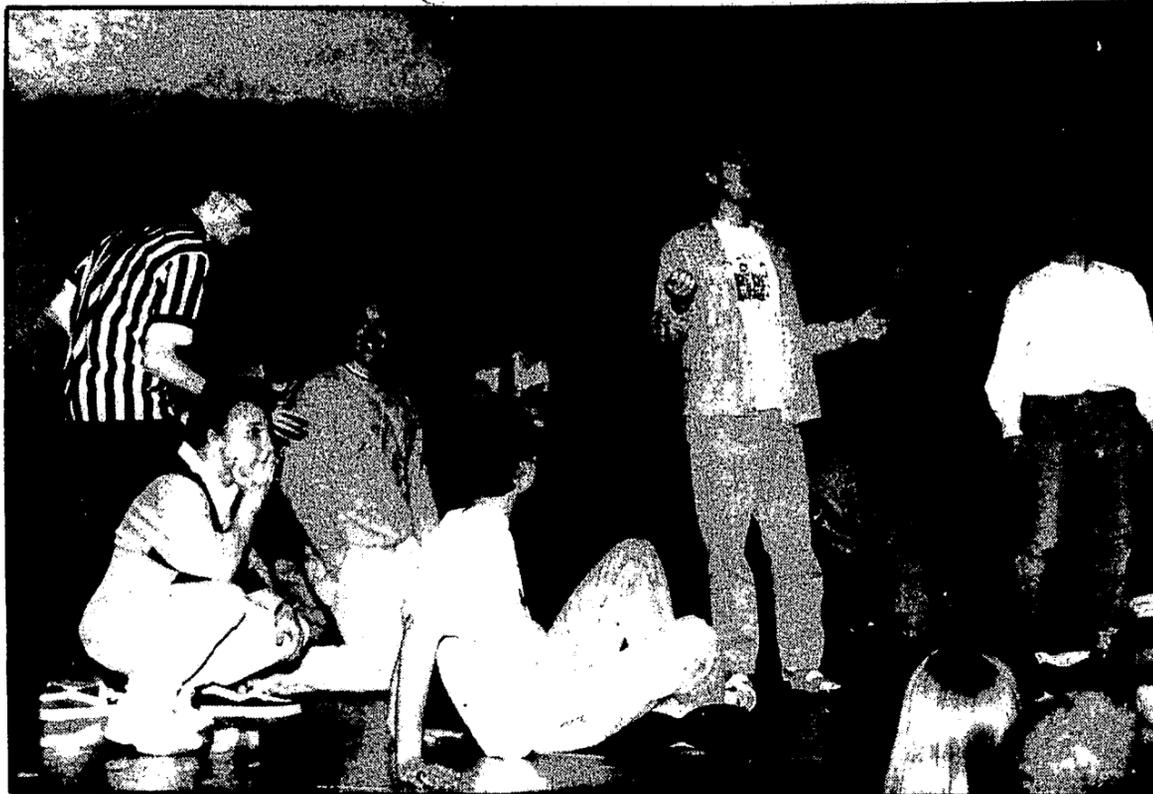

A man pours milk on his wife's head (It's not just for breakfast anymore).

Malicious destruction of three lawns. The guilty party said he was angry at one resident but was unsure where he lived, so he got a couple of lawns just to make sure...

I will gladly pay you Tuesday for a Budweiser today:

A 21-year-old Clarkston man fled a Sashabaw gas station with a case of beer he hadn't paid for... The man admitted he'd stolen the beer, but said it was because it was after 2 a.m. and he wouldn't have been allowed to buy it.

My favorite story, however, during the past year involved a very pregnant and intoxicated woman who took off with a Clarkston police car after she managed to break free of handcuffs and hop over the front seat. The officer who arrested her was immortalized on video tape as he ran after his vehicle. As Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston noted on a Detroit TV station, "She stole half my fleet."

Meet the 'guys' in 'Guys and Dolls'

Rick Davies and friends rehearse "Luck be a Lady Tonight" in preparation for the Clarkston High School spring musical, "Guys and Dolls." The curtain goes up Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with ensuing shows Friday and Saturday, also at 7:30, and Sunday at 2 p.m. in the CHS Kirchgessner Theater. The musical is based on a story by Damon Runyon with music and lyrics by Frank Loesser, book by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows. Tickets ($4 for students and senior citizens, $5 for all others) are on sale now. The spring musical often sells out so it's best to purchase tickets in advance.

Academic achiever

NAME: Heather Schmidt.

GPA: 3.985. "My first A- was ninth-grade art class and I was devastated because I love to draw." She's only had one other A- since.

PARENTS: Theodore and Kathleen Schmidt, of Springfield Township.

PLANS FOR AFTER GRADUATION: "I plan to focus my education in the psychology/pre-med fields for my first four years. I am an accepted member of the Honors Program and the Ford Institute of Public Service at Albion College and await with anticipation a successful learning experience in the university's challenging environment. Gazing into the proverbial "crystal ball," I hope to someday be an honored graduate of Johns Hopkins Medial School, enjoying an esteemed career in adolescent psychiatry."

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES: Heather's list of activities fills more than a one complete typed page. The highlights: church lectern, drama club, forensics, French club, Future Problem Solving, guitar teaching, WOLF, NHS, school newspaper, Peer Listening, PTSA, science club, teacher's aid, tutor and many volunteer activities. She is a published poet, winner of many awards and was named Most Likely to Succeed by her classmates.

"It's a busy schedule because I wanted senior year to be busy . . . It's more fun to live life actively."

FAVORITE SUBJECT, CLASS OR TEACHER: "My interests are broad; I have yet to have a class that I did not find enjoyment in, or a teacher I did not respect the skills of. I adore all of my courses (and instructors) this year, but am most intensely grateful for my opportunity to have an Independent Study in psychiatry, under the facilitation of two incredibly talented members of the CHS faculty, Mr. Bihl and Ms. Rupprecht.

"It was so difficult to arrange. We spent months and months trying to push this through. And my facilitators are wonderful. They spend hours after school with me."

JOB: Works summers at L. Rogers and Associates.

PETS: A Shetland sheepdog named Sir Ladwick Schwarzkopf Schmidt (Laddie).

CHURCH: Calvary Evangelical Lutheran.

BEST SCHOOL MEMORY: "In my experience, theatre is not simply the act of putting on a play. It is more about sharing a high-energy collaboration with fellow dramatists, producing something more than any one person could master alone, and proudly giving a glimpse of the wonder of that creation to an audience. As an avid lover of the stage, I was overjoyed to be chosen for the lead female character, Mrs. Dolly Levi, in 'The Matchmaker,' during my senior year. There is a kinship that builds amongst thespians that I have never found elsewhere. I love all aspects of the theatre, but I feel most at home when I am on stage."

MAJOR CONCERNS FOR HER GENERATION: "The responsibility of each generation is centered in building and exploring knowledge with a curious, open mind, and continuing the never-ending search for wisdom and understanding. As technology advances, it is imperative that we remember to kindle the best of our humanity, the ties that bind us to friends and family, and the power each willing and able individual holds over their future. We must pass on all that we learn through this journey to our children, and they to theirs, link by link, building a legacy for humankind."

PROUDEST LIFE ACCOMPLISHMENT: "Despite the medical hardship encountered through my high-school years, with the unconditional support of my family, friends and the staff at CHS, and a concerted effort toward reaping the fruits of education, I will be graduating first in the senior class."

CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL IS: . . ."not only an intellectually challenging center for education, but also an environment filled with compassionate and supportive individuals who strive to provide everyone with the tools needed to conquer any blocks in their path, to surpass any goal they have set for themselves. It is an honor-filled institution, of which I am proud to be a member."

CHS life

By Meghann Smith

The salty grease of buttered popcorn on your fingers, Jujubes stuck in your teeth, the glisten of the "silver screen," the awesome silence throughout the theater as the heroine walks around a corner (you just know the villain is waiting for her). We've all been to the movies experienced these exact same emotions. Have you ever realized that it's the same thing every single time?

Think about it. I walk in to the lobby and stand in a line for tickets. While I'm waiting I notice the group of kids standing outside the doors (for all I can tell they could be the same ones I see in that same spot, every time I go to the movies) rushing their nicotine fix, the last for the next two hours or so. And there are the inevitable, giggling junior-high girls, whispering about the correct way to pretend to be older so they'll be let into the R-rated film.

I buy candy, probably Milk Duds, a favorite that I eat, ritually, when in front of the big screen. I walk in the movie theater and sit down in approximately the same seats I did last time (7th row, aisle) and prop my feet up on the seat in front of me (just let someone with a big head try to sit in front of me). I lean back and enjoy the show, or at least pretend to. I laugh at jokes that aren't really funny but that everyone watching the movie pretends to love. I pretend to be scared when the villain jumps from around the corner and kills the stupidly unsuspecting heroine (I mean come on, if you were walking around a haunted house and heard the dreaded organ music as you neared a corner, would you look around it to see if it could be the monster that was breathing so heavily from behind the wall?). I try to look like I'm depressed when the lead character dies, but in reality I'm more concerned with staring at the back of a random, cute boy's head. Wondering if he knows ESP and would, hopefully, turn around and make eye contact with me.

As the credits roll across the screen I, coincidentally, exit right in front of Mr. Cutie Pie. When I get home I exaggerate to one of my friends about how good or bad the movie was and then make plans to see the new movie (you know, that horror film that's supposed to be really good) that's coming out on Friday.

and getting things organized for a successful, unforgettable night. I am truly amazed at the talents in this community and the charitable nature of those involved. What a great place to live!

For all those involved, the volunteers, the contributors, thank you very much. The seniors will appreciate this to the extent of over 95% student participation. Why?--Because it is a fun-packed, entertaining, all-night event. The parents will also enjoy it, especially considering the safety of all concerned, and that is the center of this event from the starting point.

Special thanks to the Clarkston Chamber of Commerce and its members for their $5,000 contribution this year and their commitment for the future to make this one of the major events in the community. Additionally, Trev Weiss, co-chair, like a good conductor, keeps the concerted efforts of the group in tune. Again, thanks to you all, to each and every one of you for your volunteer efforts.

Schools add string program

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Sixth-graders in Clarkston will find their academic choices a little fuller next year, at least on the musical side.

The board of education unanimously approved adding a string program to the already successful instrumental music curriculum Monday night. The much-anticipated request has been several years in the making, according to assistant superintendent David Reschke.

The program starts with sixth-graders next year, then adds one grade per year. "It will be phased in; it will not cause a shock to our system," Reschke said. "By 2001-2002 we will begin to see an orchestra forming at Clarkston High School... It is an ambitious program, I will tell you that."

This year a fourth-grade pilot program began in two elementary schools, funded by a district mini-grant and staffed by a teacher during lunch hours. Demand far exceeded the number of violins the grant would cover, and some parents purchased instruments so students could participate.

"The parent response so far has been phenomenal," Reschke said.

He added that the district curriculum council thought long and hard about whether the district has enough manpower, expertise and "stick-to-itiveness" to get the program going without adding staff. No extra expenses are expected for the 1997-98 school year and for the first two years, existing staff are expected to be able to cover the workload. After that, revenue growth is expected to be able to handle the increased demands of the program.

School board trustee Sheila Hughes was happy to approve the program. "When I read this proposal I got very excited. I look on it as a way to keep Cliff

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., April 16, 1997 9 A

(Chapman, director of bands) here for a long time...

"I know Cliff has longed for this for many, many years. I think it's one of the most exciting things we have done for this district in the last seven years." Then, perhaps in reference to the new high school's performing arts facility, she told Chapman, "Fill that pit up."

SETTLING OUT OF COURT

If plaintiffs in civil cases have visions of themselves in court watching their lawyers engaged in legal battles with their adversaries, they should realize that over 80 percent of all cases settle without trial. Ordinarily, the lawyer representing the plaintiff in a personal injury case will, initially, write to the defendant detailing his or her client's version of events and outlining the damages. This will usually prompt the defendant's insurance company to respond. Depending on the facts of the case, the insurer may also make an offer to settle the case. In the event that the plaintiff finds the offer to be unacceptable, the opposing lawyers will attempt to negotiate a reasonable compromise. Failing that, the lawsuit may be filed and the case may go to court. Even then, however, it is possible to reach a settlement anytime; this is precisely what usually happens - even during a trial!

When you need legal help you can completely rely upon, come see us. Our firm offers a general practice handling with real estate, family law, corporate work, civil suits, and a variety of criminal defense matters. We represent clients in civil litigation in both state and federal courts. You'll find our offices at 11 North Main Street (820-1030). For results you can count on, see us soon. We are currently accepting new clients.

HINT: Settlement discussions can even be initiated after a trial to avoid an appeal.

Bay Court to get annual spruce-up

The Bay Court Dreamkeepers are at it again. The dedicated group of volunteers who work to keep the Bay Court Park playscape in tip-top shape will hold the annual "spring spruce up" at the park on Saturday, April 26. Needed repairs will be made and additional benches and picnic tables will be built.

In addition, the Bay Court beach will open this year. A restroom and concessions building has been constructed and the beach has been renovated. A ramp will provide handicap access. Volunteers will help with the finishing touches April 26.

Hundreds of volunteers are being sought to help out that day. If you can rake, hammer, sand, use a saw or plant flowers, you can help. Food and child care will be provided. (If you'd like to provide food, it can be dropped off at Parks and Rec. the day before.)

To volunteer, call Independence Township Parks and Recreation at 625-8223.

Kindergarten orientation

Children who will be 5 years old on or before December 1, 1997 and their parents are invited to attend the Clarkston school district's kindergarten orientation.

Parents will attend an informational meeting; children will meet with teachers and participate in activities designed to help them get acquainted with school in this two-hour program.

Sessions are scheduled from 9-11 a.m. and 12:45-2:45 p.m. on the following schedule: April 28, Clarkston El.; April 30, Bailey Lake; May 2, North Sashabaw; May 5, Springfield Plains; May 7, Pine Knob; and May 9, Andersonville.

Bring the child's birth certificate and Social Security number and two proofs of residency.

MONDAY, APRIL 7, prescription fraud at a pharmacy on Dixie. Deputies waiting while a woman purchased a drug on a phony prescription, then detained her. She told them she learned how to call in the phony prescriptions and then split the drugs with the person who taught her.

Littering on Dixie. An off-duty state trooper witnessed a possible drug transaction and called the sheriff's department. One of those involved fled; the other, an 18-year-old Clarkston man, was ticketed for littering when he threw a cup on the ground and refused an order to pick it up.

Home invasion on Baldwin. Oxford Police reported the crime after taking two suspects into custody in possession of a set of stolen keys who tried to steal a car.

A jacket and phone were stolen from an unlocked 1981 Chevy pick up parked in a Hillcrest driveway.

THURSDAY, APRIL 10, a car left in a parking lot on Clintonville Rd. for three days turned out to have been stolen in Waterford, about one mile from where it was found.

Two Clarkston teens, ages 17-18, were investigated for possession of marijuana, suspicion of stolen property and possible concealed weapon violation when they were found with a sawed-off BB gun, pager, game tapes and marijuana pipe at a Sashabaw fast-food restaurant. The loaded BB gun was cut off to look like a pistol.

Prescription fraud at a pharmacy on Dixie. A 37-year-old Ortonville woman allegedly sent her 17-year-old daughter into the store to pick up a prescription she (the mother) had called in fraudulently. The daughter was picked up when the pharmacist alerted deputies. The daughter said the scam had been going on for about a year; the mother said she used Blue Cross to pay for the drugs. Both were released pending the issuance of warrants.

Injury accident on Maybee. A 16-year-old Clarkston boy was allegedly speeding on Mary Sue when he missed stop sign, tried to turn, ran up on a lawn, hit a tree and rolled his car, landing about a foot from a house. The airbag on the 1993 Ford Probe deployed. The driver received minor injuries; his 16-year-old passenger was uninjured.

FRIDAY, APRIL 11, a 20-year-old woman was ticketed under the host-party ordinance after deputies were called to a loud party on N. Marshbank. She was also ticketed for being a minor in possession of alcohol and consuming alcohol, based on a Breathalyzer test.

A deputy called to remove a man who knocked on a door on Northcrest Village Rd. arrested a 27-year-old Waterford man who was barefoot and soaking wet. Bond ready later this week.

Residents with specific questions not covered by the booklet are invited to call the district hotline at 620-7350 or any school board member. Their phone numbers will be listed in the booklet.

Meanwhile, Cheryl McGinnis and David Meyer have agreed to serve as chairpersons of the bond committee. Meyer was co-chair of the unsuccessful December campaign; McGinnis is president of the Clarkston PTA District Council.

Campaign kicks off

In a related matter, there will be an election "round-up" sponsored by the Help Us Grow (HUG) bond committee at Clarkston Middle School on Wednesday, April 23 at 7 p.m.

Anyone interested in working on the bond issue is encouraged to attend. Architects from French & Associates and HUG co-chairs McGinnis and Meyer will speak, and volunteers will be signed on for various jobs.

"Now is the time to get everyone involved," said McGinnis. "We have big jobs, little jobs and everything in between. If you care about seeing Clarkston schools meet the needs and the challenges facing us right now, then join us for the election round-up. We need everybody."

As an incentive, the committee will be raffling off at least nine full-size Beanie Babies, according to trustee Kurt Shanks.

"We've procured at least nine Beanie Babies that will be give away at a raffle," Shanks said. "You must be present to win so you have to stick around."

In other action:

● The board approved using the $90,000 left from an earlier bond proposal (the one that built Springfield Plains). Of that, about $10,000 will be used at each elementary school for computers, and another $9,540 per school will be used to purchase sound field systems for kindergarten and first grade, which amplify students' voices so they can be heard better in the classroom. In addition, three schools—Pine Knob, North Sashabaw and Andersonville—will pilot the use of AlphaSmart keyboards to improve writing skills.

● This year's National Merit Scholars were introduced. They are Clarkston High School seniors Andy Boissonneau, Colin McIntyre and Anthony Knakal.

● After a presentation on Clarkston Area Youth Assistance by social worker Fred Morden, board president Bill McGregor asked that the board's annual contribution to CAYA be raised from the current $2,000 to $2,500. No vote was taken.

● Textbooks for high school environmental chemistry and advanced placement chemistry were approved, as was a sixth-grade technology curriculum update.

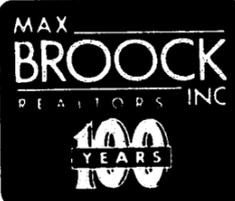

● For the second year in a row, the board opted not to open up Clarkston schools to students from outside the district under the state schools of choice law. The move was made because the district's resident enrollment already exceeds its capacity.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

SELL WITH SILENCE & SPACE

NO BETTER TIME to clean out closets, garage and attic than BEFORE you show the house.

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: How do you set the right atmosphere for prospective home buyers?

ANSWER: There are two elements that help make the showing more effective. One is quietness. Buyers should hear NOTHING when they enter. The TV set should be off and also the radio. Forget about "mood music." If the prospect can't stand that music, the sale is in trouble.

A second important element is the look of space, especially extra storage space. Make your closets, basement, attic and garage (the lifelong collection areas) appear extra roomy with a thorough cleaning. No better time to weed out the junk you don't need than BEFORE you show the house.

Philip R. Seaver Title Company

Joan Wummel, Office Manager

Buying a home is an important purchase. Once the deeds and mortgage documents are signed, the property is yours, so you think, but it may not be. Chances are, you are the owner, but a sure title is not simply having a deed in hand. A deed alone will not cancel prior "rights" others may have to your property—rights and claims you would never expect to exist.

When a title policy is issued through Philip R. Seaver Title Company, you can rest assured that your property is protected by the policy subject only to its term. If a flaw in the title is discovered, the title company will defend the title as issued, at its own expense, and will correct or clear the title or will pay any loss incurred. Now that you may be considering refinancing your home, you'll need title insurance again and the rates at Philip R. Seaver Title Company are very competitive in the area.

A low, one-time premium covers the entire cost for as long as ownership remains in your name. Protection of your property rests on the financial stability, professional integrity and responsible management of the title insurance company. So, select your title insurance as carefully as you would any other insurance. Protect yourself against loss due to title defects. Insist on an owner's title insurance policy through Philip R. Seaver Title Company, located in Clarkston at 6751 Dixie Highway. Phone 625-6100 for additional information today.

Grass fire season returns

It may not seem like it due to the unspringlike weather we've been having, but the season for brush fires is upon us.

One 11-year-old Clarkston boy found that out April 7 when a fire accidentally sprung up around him as he was out playing with his dog in a field off Heartwood Lane. The fire quickly spread and eventually burned about one-half acre before it was put out by the Independence Fire Department.

According to a report filed with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Independence substation, the boy told his mother he was out with his dog and carrying a magnifying glass shortly before 5 p.m. when he accidentally started the fire. He tried to put the fire out by himself but was unable to, so he ran home and his mother called 911. No one was injured.

It wasn't the first grass fire reported in the township this spring. According to fire chief Gar Wilson, a couple of weeks ago several acres burned behind the Clarkston Schools administration office on Clarkston Rd.

"I think we had snow on the ground two days before that," he said.

Wilson said though the majority of grass fires are probably started by children, others are started by cigarettes tossed from cars and from legal burning of trash under less-than-ideal circumstances.

"The very best can watch it very closely and the right wind comes along and it gets away from you," he said.

Independence Township still allows some burning under a local ordinance, even though many other areas of the state have banned it. Wilson said there are Recent studies show that fat calories in the final product are the same whether chicken skin is removed before or after cooking. That's good news because skinless chicken tends to dry out during cooking.

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., April 16, 1997 17 A
several safety factors to keep in mind, even if you have a burning permit and are planning to burn on an allowed day:

- Make sure you have a garden hose or some other means of putting out the fire should it get away from you.

- Don't burn in an area surrounded closely by tall weeds. Mow an area around where you plan to burn.

- Don't burn in high winds, even if the calendar says you can. Wait for the next legal burn day.

"Everyone I've talked to appreciates our ordinance, even though Mother Nature doesn't always go along with it," Wilson said.

Kelley

"When the child goes out there they are stripped of everything. All they have is themselves," Nancy said.

After Christmas, Kelley began attending the Rocky Mountain Academy, which combines high school, a military-style regimen and continued substance-abuse treatment. Like Ascent, it is part of the CEDU Family of Services, founded in 1967. About 130 children are enrolled in the Academy, one of several options available through CEDU.

"Christmas was real hard this year," Nancy said. "When the other two were opening their gifts, I could hardly keep myself together . . . But we knew we had to."

Over the months a few letters and phone calls were exchanged, until Kelley's parents were allowed to go out for their first visit in March. The visit started with a parents' seminar to prepare the adults for seeing their children for the first time. Parents were warned their kids might beg to come home, but that didn't happen with Kelley.

"She looked so good, her eyes were clear; she had

"I think Kelley was really searching for love and acceptance. I don't know why she chose the group she did. I knew she was out of control, and once a child is out of control, you're not going to get her back."

Nancy Doyle

put on some weight. She was happy and it showed."

As part of the program, Kelley shared her version of her life story—her "disclosures"—with her parents. Her parents learned a lot that day: that some of her friends' parents had been supplying her with marijuana and alcohol, that she stayed in school to get drugs.

They also got back the daughter they had known before—"the old Kelley I used to know, but a lot more mature Kelley than I used to know," in her mother's words.

The new Kelley wonders why she used to dress the way she did. She misses her younger sisters. But she knows she needs to be where she is.

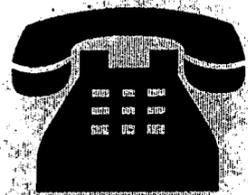

"I can't say enough good things about this program. They are there because they love these kids. A number of them went through similar things as a teenager . . . They're very loving but they don't take any crap. They make the kids look at themselves."

Nancy Doyle has learned some tough lessons from her ordeal. One of them is this: "Be darn careful about who your kids are with, and know them. Be darn sure you know the people." That is also the message of a new Parent Network that has formed in Clarkston.

But the bottom line, what Nancy Doyle wants to convey to other parents who may be facing similar circumstances, is this: Never give up on your child.

"I will talk to anyone. I'm not doing this to sensationalize what happened to Kelley . . . You're not a horrible parent. Your kid's got a problem. You may feel a little embarrassed, but that's OK. Isolation—that's a big factor . . . Occasionally I still feel that way. But my feeling to help people overcomes that."

Union to add pool tables

Although the addition of two billiards tables to the Clarkston Union was approved by the city council, it didn't come without some disagreements.

Yes there was trouble, right here in River city, as Curt Catalo, co-owner of the Union and Mayor Sharron Catalo's son, asked the council for permission to have two billiards tables put up in the basement of the restaurant, which is housed in a former church on Main St. Although the tables themselves were approved, it was a side detail to the proposal that caused the conflict.

Curt Catalo said he eventually hopes to include a bar next to the two billiards tables in the basement. Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston then brought up the question of approval from the Liquor Control Commission.

Ormiston said he was concerned about minors having access to the tables and the bar.

Catalo was then upset at the entire package of the tables and the bar not being approved by the council during Monday's meeting.

Council member Laura Aulgur was the only one to vote against the motion (for pool tables only). Catalo and Bill Basinger abstained, while the rest of the council approved it.

"We're trying to rush this through again," Aulgur said.

City attorney Thomas Ryan agreed, saying he felt the council needed more time to check out where the inclusion of the bar would stand with the LCC.

The council approved of the tables using a very old ordinance which specifically dealt with billiard tables.

"We are not asking for a change in use of the area, just the inclusion of billiard tables," Curt Catalo said. "The tables would be rented by the hour. There would be no coin-operated machines down there."

In a related item, the council briefly discussed whether or not the Clarkston Union and Clarkston Cafe will be able to have outdoor seating this summer like they did last year.

Ryan advised the council not to approve any outdoor seating until the new master plan and zoning ordinance are done. Regulations for outdoor seating will be included in each of those documents.

Ryan said one option for the two restaurants would be to go to the zoning board of appeals and get temporary permits, just as each did a year ago when the issue came up.

Baa-ck to the basics at Bellairs Farm

It's a busy time of year for George and Gloria Bellairs. Nearly every day lambs are being born at their Bellairs Hillside Farm on Big Lake Rd. The couple even have an intercom in their home that conveys the sounds of mothers in labor in the Sheep Shed.

The Romney sheep, cashmere goats and llamas provide a variety of fiber which is spun into yarn and sold to artists who turn it into products which can be sold at a shop on the farm.

Bellairs' 11 acres is one of the last few working farms in Oakland County and the only farm that raises cashmeres in the state. In addition, Gloria teaches spinning and weaving, George crafts lamb holders, stools and other wooden items and the agriscience and agritech students at Oakland Technical Center Northwest get first-hand farm experience — right next door.

The Bellairs also publish two catalogs, schedule tours and will soon hook up with the Internet. It's a lot of hard work, but the couple's never regretted their lifestyle. As George simply puts it, "It's doing what you like to do."

Wolves kick it in high gear with trio of wins

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston 1 Oxford 0

After a pair of easy wins earlier in the week, Clarkston girls soccer coach Biran Fitzgerald said his team needed a test.

Faced with a strong Oxford team Monday night, the Wolves passed nicely in pulling out a 1-0 win.

Clarkston (3-1 overall, 1-0 in the OAA Division II) received a scare less than a minute into the game when an Oxford shot hit the crossbar. Although the ball appeared at first to be headed into the net, it just bounced harmlessly away.

Ten minutes later, junior Georgia Senkyr drove a shot in off a nice pass from junior Jennifer Bauer to give the Wolves all the scoring they would need. It was Senkyr's third goal of the season.

Freshman Allison Barth played beyond her years in collecting 10 saves in the win. It was her first solo shutout of her career.

Clarkston coach Brian Fitzgerald said his team's defensive play was the difference in this one.

"We were just great on defense," he said. "This was our best defensive effort, and that was a dam good team we just beat."

Fitzgerald mentioned sophomore Beth Whittington, freshman Katie Kennedy and freshman Katie Tripi as defensive standouts in the game.

"Allison really came through for us also," Fitzgerald said. "She makes the hard saves look very easy."

Fitzgerald went with a different lineup down the stretch in the game, but it was something he said was successful, so he stuck with it.

"I played three freshmen the entire game, but hey, we won," he said. "They have played well enough to be out there."

Clarkston will get a stiff test Thursday when it hosts Royal Oak Kimball. The junior varsity game starts at 5:30, with the varsity to start at around 7.

Clarkston 6 Lapeer West 1

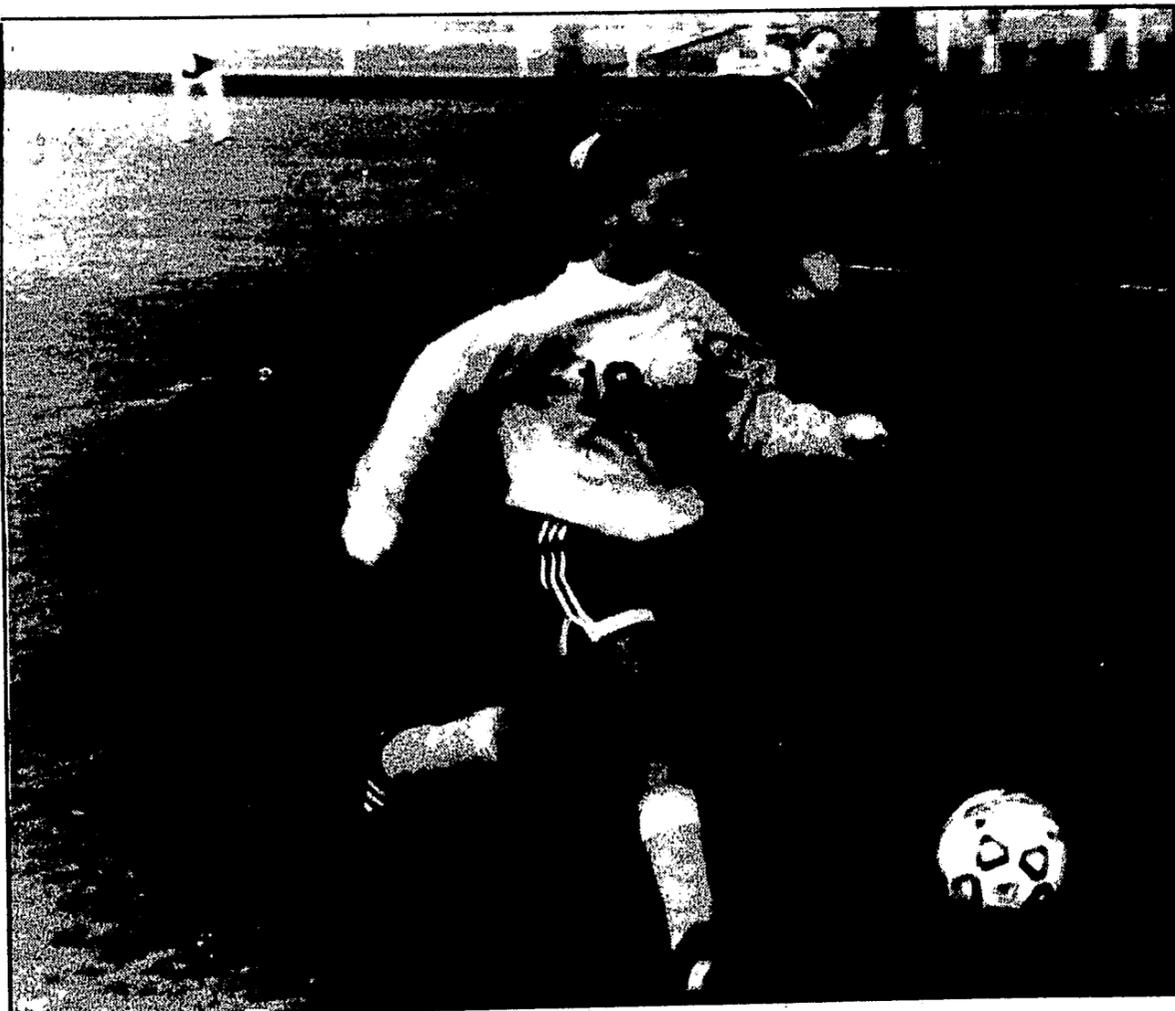

In this non-league contest Thursday, the Wolves received some help from an unlikely source.

The game-winning goal for Clarkston was scored by a Lapeer West player, with 24:23 left in the first half. A Panther defender kicked the ball back towards her own net in an attempt to stop a rush by Clarkston. Instead of the ball drifting safely into a corner, the ball bounced high over the head of the West goalkeeper and into the net.

The goal was credited to freshman Katie Tripi, the last Clarkston player to touch it. The goal was the second of the game in a 6-1 rout by the Wolves.

For the second straight game, Clarkston received a big lift from first-year player Jennifer Bauer. She scored two goals, including the first one of the game.

Bauer, a junior, said she hadn't played organized soccer since she was in sixth grade. But apparently, the skills she learned back then have stuck with her.

Junior Jennifer Bauer moves the ball upfield during the Wolves 6-1 win over Lapeer West Thursday. Bauer leads the team with four goals so far this season.

"I've gotten a lot of help from the team, telling me where I should go and stuff like that," she said. "I think I have good speed, but my skills can definitely use improvement."

Despite the lopsided score, coach Fitzgerald wasn't all that thrilled with how his team played on this frigid night.

"We had our moments, but we can play much better," he said. "We were kicking the ball out of bounds too much. It wasn't pretty, but we'll take it."

Sophomore Alaina Dodds also had a big night, scoring both of Clarkston's second-half goals. The last goal came off a splendid play where Dodds fired the ball into the left side, past the helpless West goalkeeper.

Senkyr also scored in the first half, her second tally of the season.

Clarkston 6 Berkley 0

Winning their first game of the season April 8

must have seemed like a Christmas present to the Wolves.

That's because the game, a 6-0 win over Berkley, was played in blizzard conditions more reminiscent of Christmas morning than the third week of spring.

Clarkston received two goals each from Bauer and senior Becky Olson in the win. Senkyr and senior Lisa Gebus also tallied goals for the Wolves.

Fitzgerald said he was very happy with the team's effort, especially in the second half, when it scored four times.

"They (Berkley) played us real tough in that first half," he said. "It was a close game, but all of the girls really turned it up when the second half started."

For Bauer, it was the first two goals of her career. She ran track the previous two years.

"She has lots of speed and is very athletic," Fitzgerald said of Bauer. "As she gets more experience, she will only get better."

Tennis team roaring to 2-0 start

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston 8 Royal Oak Kimball 0

If the first two matches of the season are any indication, the Clarkston boys tennis team could be in for a fun ride this spring.

The Wolves easily dispatched a previously undefeated Royal Oak Kimball squad 8-0 Monday afternoon.

Once again, the four singles players for Clarkston thoroughly dominated the Knights, losing a grand total of seven games between the four players.

Coach Kevin Ortwine said he knew the singles division was going to be Clarkston's strength, but this performance impressed even him.

"I knew we would be good, but we played even better than I thought we would," he said. "The guys have really taken to the goal that we want to win the league this year."

Along with Thursday's win over Berkley, Clarkston (2-0 overall and in the OAA Division II) holds two key league wins over quality teams.

Senior Mike Aulgur coasted through his match, blanking Kimball's Casey Chambers 6-0, 6-0. Aulgur hasn't lost a game in his past three sets at the #1 singles position.

Ortwine said he was very happy with the way #2 singles Kevin Kopec and #3 singles Jim Kyle played.

"Kevin was just outstanding today," Ortwine said. "He and Jim have really been dominant so far."

Freshman Patrick Heber was victorious at #4 singles 6-2, 6-2. Ortwine said Heber was a little tight in the match, but winning by the margin he did, it wasn't that big a deal.

Senior Mike Aulgur is not one to give less than 100 percent in any tennis match. This determination is on display here, as he disposes of his first foe of the season Thursday against Berkley.

All four doubles teams also pulled out wins, including a 6-0, 6-1 mugging put on by seniors Chas Claus and Kyle Stout at #1 doubles.

"Our doubles teams played the best they have all year today," Ortwine said.

Clarkston returns to action Wednesday at Lapeer West before coming home for Auburn Hills Avondale Thursday. Saturday, the team hosts the Clarkston Invitational starting at 9 a.m.

Clarkston 7 Berkley 1

After being pent up inside for most of the pre-season, the Wolves came out on fire in the season opener Thursday.

The Wolves faced down an early-season challenge by whipping Berkley 7-1 on the home courts.

The four singles players for Clarkston were nothing less than outstanding, going a combined 48-8 in games.

Aulgur actually had the toughest game of the four, struggling early with Berkley's Matt Stoffer in the #1 singles match. Aulgur settled down later to win 6-4, 6-0.

Heber had an impressive high school debut, walking through his #4 singles match 6-1, 6-1.

The win was key, since Berkley captured the OAA Division III championship last year. The Wolves now have one big OAA II win under their collective belts.

Kopec and Kyle were both dominant in winning 6-0, 6-1, and 6-1, 6-0 respectively.

Ortwine's main area of concern before the season was his doubles players. Their performance may have quieted those fears just a bit, as the top two doubles teams for Clarkston pulled out hard-fought victories.

The #1 team of seniors Chas Claus and Kyle Stout scored a narrow 6-3, 4-6, 7-5 win.

Hard times for baseball team

Wolves drop to 0-6 on the season

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lake Orion 8 Clarkston 4

You can see the progress the Clarkston baseball team is making.

You just can't see it on the scoreboard.

An early season of frustration continued for the Wolves Monday as they fell to rival Lake Orion 8-4. It was the first win of the season for the Dragons.

Lake Orion's Brock Siebold drove in three runs in the game, coming off a long double in the third inning that broke open a 1-0 game.

Senior Travis Pegg was the starting pitcher for Clarkston and showed good control during his stint. He was able to work out of jams in most of the innings, showing his resourcefulness.

With the loss, Clarkston drops to 0-4 in the tough OAA Division I.

Troy 6 Clarkston 4

Clarkston coach Roy Warner, ever the optimist, saw some good things in this loss to the Colts Friday.

"We did a nice job at manufacturing runs," he said. "We got our four runs on just four hits."

But seven strikeouts and four errors doomed the Wolves in this contest, as it fell just short of its first win of the season.

Senior pitcher Dennis Busch finishes his delivery in the team's game against Troy Athens April 9.

Troy Athens 10 Clarkston 1

Baseball legend Ted Williams coined the phrase "Hit 'em where they ain't," in reference to where he hits the ball.

The Troy Athens Red Hawks used that phrase to their advantage in an April 9 10-1 win over Clarkston.

Despite the cold temperatures and swirling winds, both teams connected with the ball on a regular basis. The difference was that all of Clarkston's hits seemed to go right to an Athens fielder, while the Red Hawks found all the open spaces through the Clarkston infield and in the outfield.

Despite this, Warner said he was happy with the way his team hit the ball.

"We did make better contact than in the Rochester game," he said. "We hit a lot of 'at-em' balls and those will kill you."

Defense was also a problem for Clarkston, as the team committed seven errors in the game.

Senior Jason Ostrom helped to manufacture the Wolves' lone run. He advanced to first on a fielding error, then stole second and third bases. Sophomore Spencer Hynes drove him home with a sacrifice grounder.

Once again, a brutal first-inning put Clarkston at an early deficit. Athens scored four runs on four hits in the top of the first to give it all the cushion it needed.

Ladies out of the gate with a win

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston 104 Ferndale 24

The Clarkston girls track team started off the 1997 campaign with a dominating win over Ferndale Thursday.

But despite the easy win, coach Gordie Richardson said the meet wasn't truly indicative of where his team is at heading into the season.

"I don't think we were pushed that hard," he said. "We were OK, but it's hard to say where we're at because they just didn't have the same drive they would against a better team."

A reason behind that came with a quick glance at the final scoresheet. It shows Clarkston (1-0 overall and in the OAA Division II) sweeping eight out of the 16 events. The Eagles only took three first places in the entire meet.

Top performers for the Wolves included junior Megan Plante, who took firsts in the 400 (65.58 seconds) and 800 (2:38). She was also part of the winning 1600 relay team. Sophomore Michelle Wilson had "a nice day," according to Richardson. She took first in the high jump (4'10") and came in second in the 100m dash with a time of 17.36, just .01 seconds from first.

The meet also marked the return to action of senior Kammy Powell, who had knee surgery shortly after completing the volleyball season. She showed little ill effects however, as she took first in the discus throw (96'10 1/2") and second in the shot put (29'2 1/2").

Noteworthy also was the first place shot put by junior Latisha Hawley. Richardson said she had the throw of her life with her 29'4 1/2" toss.

"I also thought Brittani Brewer did some nice things for us," Richardson said. "Shannon Carry did well and Emily Hogan gave us a nice double."

The team's scheduled appearance at the Andover

Relays was snowed out Saturday.

Clarkston next hits the track Thursday at West Bloomfield. The next home meet is Tuesday against Oak Park.

SKIN DEEP
by Scott Friedman, D.O.

A PEELING OPTION
The most commonly performed therapeutic peel is currently the TCA (trichloroacetic acid) peel. It involves the use of a mild-to-strong solution of trichloroacetic acid that is swabbed onto facial skin, and slathered over areas that require deeper penetration. The resultant effect is a melting away of the skin's upper layers to lift off shallow wrinkles, acne scars, and sun damage. This procedure stands in contrast to the phenol peel, which often penetrated so deeply that it took melanocytes with it, to give the face a ghostly cast. With TCA peels, the facial-resurfacing effect may not be so dramatic, but for many, it strikes just the right balance between risk and desired effect. It lifts away mild wrinkles and unclogs pores, while leaving the patient with little heavy crusting and the ability to face the world with a "sunburned" look after only a week.
Skin resurfacing can be a viable option for many people. You should consult with a dermatologist if you have any questions regarding these procedures. When it comes to your skin, it's not a good idea to play guessing games. Our offices are located at 8330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (825-0892); and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599) to serve all the members of your family.
P.S. Skin resurfacing with CO2 laser is more expensive and entails a longer recovery period than a TCA peel does.

Boys run Ferndale into the ground

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston 91 Ferndale 37

The opening track meet of the season wasn't a pretty one for the Ferndale Eagles.

That's because the Clarkston boys track team used its depth and evenly spread scoring to take home a 91-37 win. The meet gave the Wolves an early leg up on the competition in the OAA Division II.

Senior Jason Olafsson commanded the field events, winning the shot put and discus throw with distances of 43'6" and 122'9" respectively.

Junior Marc Venegoni also piled up points in several areas for the Wolves. He won the long jump with a leap of 19'7", and was part of the winning 800m relay team.

Senior Chris Evans entered the season with high hopes of going far into states, and his performances indicated he very well might get there. He blew away the competition in the 110 and 300 hurdles, winning in times of 14.8 and 40.7 seconds respectively. Evans will attend Harvard next year and hopes to compete on the Crimson track team.

Freshman David Sage picked up where he left off after a successful cross-country season and won the 1600 and 3200 runs.

The Wolves also swept all the relay races. Winning team members were: 3200 relay - Jeff Deevey, Jason Scheiderer, Jon Burklow and Kevin Breen; 800 relay - Chirs Shea, Venegoni, Jeff Long and Ron Grinold; 400 relay - Shea, Evans, Long, Grinold; 1600 relay - Brenton Bergkoetter, Scheiderer, Burklow, Klinton Powell.

Clarkston hits the track Thursday at West Bloomfield before returning home Tuesday to take on league rival Oak Park. Meet times are at 4 p.m.

CHS volleyball clinic covers all the angles

Never mind the record-low temperatures outside, summer sports clinics will get here before you know it, and that includes the CHS Volleyball Clinic.

CHS varsity coach Gordie Richardson has set the clinic for June 16-20, with two sessions. Girls entering grades 9-12 will have daily sessions from 8-11 a.m., while girls entering grades 5-8 go from 12-3 p.m. each day.

Space is limited to 40 players per session. Instruction comes from seven Clarkston schools coaches, as well as team alumni Heather Steinhilber, Nicki Hard and Lisa Herron. Members of the 1997 CHS varsity team will also be helping out.

Sign-up sheets are available through CHS. Cost is $50 per session. For more information, call the high school athletic office at 625-0906.

Girls basketball clinics at CHS

Girls entering grades 6-9 can get a step ahead in their basketball skills by attending the Dare to Dream girls basketball clinic at Clarkston High School.

The clinic runs from June 23-26 from 9 a.m.-noon. Players will receive instruction from new CHS varsity coach Ann Serra, as well as JV coach Gary Kaul, freshman coach John Zittel and members of the CHS varsity team.

Cost of the clinic is $60, which includes a T-shirt. For more information and registration sheets, call the CHS athletic office at 625-0906.

Knight moves

A normal shirts vs. skins basketball pick-up game had a distinguished spectator at the CHS gym Friday afternoon.

Bobby Knight, coach at Indiana University, was in Clarkston to get a look at junior Dane Fife in a game-like setting. Knight had seen Fife before, at the Clarkston-Ferndale game Jan. 31.

Knight, as a college coach, was forbidden to comment on Fife, who is as yet unsigned. But according to Clarkston varsity coach Dan Fife, his son Dane has received formal scholarship offers from Indiana, Duke, North Carolina, Michigan and Michigan State.

DEAD BATTERIES CAN'T SAVE LIVES

Change the batteries in your smoke detector

Change the batteries in your smoke detector before the old ones run out. That way, your smoke detectors can warn you and your family to escape in the event of a fire.

Follow these tips to keep your smoke detectors in top working shape:

- Test your smoke detectors monthly and put in new batteries at least once a year;
- Vacuum over and around detectors to keep them free from dust and debris.

When it comes to smoke detectors, a new battery goes a long way.

Pitching sparks softball team to solid start

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

West Bloomfield 8 Clarkston 2

Every team in sports is entitled once in a while to a game where nothing seems to go right.

Monday's contest against the West Bloomfield Lakers was one of those for the Clarkston softball team.

The Wolves were unable to generate any kind of offense until it was too late in the 8-2 loss. West Bloomfield pitcher Heather Robbins pitched a perfect game through 4 2/3 innings.

"We saw a quicker pitcher today and I think it took us some time to adjust," explained Clarkston coach Al Land. "I thought we were able to hit the ball hard, but it just took us too long to turn those into base hits."

Sophomore pitcher Rachel Fuller had an uncharacteristic rough outing on the mound. She gave up six runs on five hits in less than four full innings of work. But three of the Lakers' runs resulted from throwing errors.

"Rachel has got to be more relaxed on the mound," Land said. "Sometimes she tries too hard and if you know her, you can tell that she's straining a bit."

Senior Allison Prudhomme finished the game for Clarkston and pitched very well. She came on in the top of the fourth with two on and one out. She worked out of that jam and struck out three the rest of the way.

Both of Clarkston's runs came in the bottom of the seventh thanks to an RBI double by senior Sue Naboychik. She later scored the second run after consecutive wild pitches.

The Wolves will spend the weekend in Farmington Hills playing at the Mercy Tournament Saturday. Monday, the varsity team travels to Lake Orion for a showdown with the Dragons.

Clarkston 12-8 Rochester 2-4

Through rain, snow or wind, the Wolves can deliver, as shown by their dominant performance Friday at Rochester.

The Wolves were terrific in almost every phase of the game en route to 12-2 and 8-4 wins over the Falcons in the first games of the OAA Division I season for both teams.

The first game was called after five innings because of the 10-run mercy rule. And it's a good thing too, because the way the Clarkston bats were going, the game might still be going on.

Carmen Lund puts the ball in play during Clarkston's doubleheader sweep of Rochester Friday. Lund, one of three new infield starters this year, has swung the bat well in the team's first four games.

Senior rightfielder Stephanie Vogler shined at the plate in game one, going 3-for-4 with two runs batted in.

Freshman shortstop Candace Morgan also played a key role in game one, knocking a two-run double into left that gave Clarkston a 3-2 lead.

Fuller had a rocky first inning, but then settled down to record her second win of the season. In the first inning, she allowed two runs on one hit and walked a batter. But after that, she allowed only one hit and struck out three.

Game two was played with a hint of snowflakes in the air. But that didn't stop Prudhomme from pitching a complete-game victory.

The Wolves scored most of their runs in the third and fourth innings. Junior first baseman Carmen Lund drove in three and legged out an infield single that tied the game at 4-4 in the fifth.

Sophomore Mandy Harrison also had two hits and scored three runs for the Wolves in the win.

"I liked the resilience the kids showed out there," Land said. "We got down early in both games, but came right back."

Clarkston 15-2, Lapeer West 1-1

After having their first two games canceled because of the weather, the Wolves came out in their season opener with a vengeance.

Behind terrific offensive performances by juniors Tiffany Honey and Aimee Giroux and two pitching gems by Fuller and Prudhomme, Clarkston swept a doubleheader from the Lapeer West Panthers Thursday.

Giroux struck the big blow in the first game with a bases-loaded double that drove in three runs. She finished the day with four hits, as did Honey.

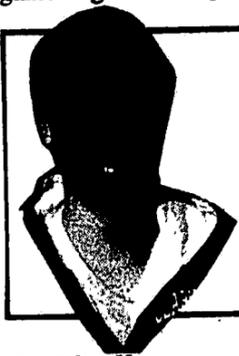

Coach Land said what pleased him the most was the poise the team played with.

"We played very relaxed out there and showed some experience," he said. "We attempted four double plays, and you can't do that unless you know your position well and play with confidence. We did that."

Team experience was a question mark coming into the season, as the team sports three new starters in the infield.

In the first game, Fuller tossed a one-hit masterpiece. Prudhomme followed suit with a three-hitter in game two.

"We had outstanding days from both of our pitchers," Land said. "It was real important for us to start out with some wins heading into the conference season. I'm happy with our attitude and our aggressiveness."

JV sports

By Marc Wisniewski

Softball

The JV softball team opened its season April 11, splitting a double-header against Rochester.

The Wolves came up short 3 runs, losing to Rochester 10-7. After being up 7-4 in the sixth inning, the Wolves made a couple of mistakes and let 6 runs score.

Jennie Winn went 3 for 4 in batting, scored 2 times, and also had 2 RBI's. Courtney Krul also played well, going 2 for 3 behind the plate, scoring 2 times, and also had 1 RBI. Megan Hodges made a good pitching debut.

The Wolves played strong in their second game, beating Rochester 6-1. Sam Hardenburgh had an outstanding game, pitching and batting, with 11 strikeouts and no walks. She was also 2 for 2 batting, including a double, scoring once. Tami Angel went 2 for 3, Liz Harlton went 3 for 3, and Megan Hodges went 1 for 2.

"I thought we played better than Rochester in the first game, but I believe we lost because of inexperience and first game jitters. Overall, we played hard, but still have a lot to learn. We should have an exciting season coming up," said Coach Karen Czamecki.

Baseball

The JV baseball team also opened its season last week, coming up with one win.

The first game the Wolves lost to Rochester April 7, 7-6, giving up 5 runs in the seventh inning. The leading hitters for the Wolves were Chris Mitchell, who went 3 for 4 and had 3 RBI's; Dan Friedline, who went 1 for 1 with 1 RBI; John Drallos, 1 for 3 with an RBI; and Eric Jenks, 1 for 3. Jenks also pitched pretty well, allowing only 1 earned run.

The Wolves didn't have too many problems with Troy Athens, beating them 11-1 April 9. Mitchell pitched a one hitter featuring 7 strike outs. Mitchell also went 2 for 3 in hitting, Nick Upchurch went 1 for 2 with 2 RBI's, Mike Simeko went 2 for 3 with 3 RBI's, Ben Grey went 1 for 2 with 1 RBI, and John Drallos went 1 for 1.

The Wolves were winning against Troy April 11, until the sixth inning when they gave up 9 runs, losing 12-7.

Jenks went 3 for 3 with an RBI, Mitchell 2 for 4 with 2 RBI's, and Upchurch went 2 for 4.

"We have a strong team this year. I'm confident we'll have a good season," said Coach Jerry Ostrum.

Soccer

The JV soccer team crushed Lapeer East April 10, 10-0. Jeanine Post led the team with 3 goals, followed by Amy Warbington with 2 and Mercedes Combs with 2. Lauren Stout played well in goal, shutting out Lapeer.

"We played good defense and offensively we moved the ball well," said Coach Tami Mitchell.

A MAN WORTH REMEMBERING

We all mourn the death of a man named Bob Glover Who was a son, a brother, a father, a lover He was the one who made lots of signs And he will always be in your heart and mine He was worth his weight in gold He was strong and bold We fought and we bickered once in a while But we should only remember him as the man with the smile

—Jessica Glover
