Vandals mar CHS pool

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Last week some significant damage — estimated between $7,000 and $10,000 worth — was done to the new $58 million Clarkston High School, currently under construction on Flemings Lake Rd.

Camps Services general manager Betty Camp, whose company is one of many contracted to build the new school, said the damage was discovered early the morning of June 10. Camps Services, based in White Lake, subcontracted a company to build the new $800,000 swimming pool. On Tuesday, "forms" for the pool's walls were destroyed, she said, projecting the above estimate.

A.J. Etkin Co., which is overseeing all construction on the site, checked things out Monday night and found all was well. It wasn't until the next day the damage was noticed "and we went right over," Camp said.

According to Camp, there have been disputes between both union and non-union employees hired to work on different portions of the new high school. "We are one of the few non-union contractors on the job. The union people consider this to be a union job," she said. "Everybody knows who did it. It's just been reported as vandalism," she added, declining further comment.

A.J. Etkin Co. superintendent Dave Pettijohn declined to comment.

The incident is currently under investigation by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, said Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation Det. Tom Cavalier Monday. Reports indicate the destruction occurred sometime between 6 p.m., June 9 and 7:30 a.m. the next day.

Cavalier believes "It's possible" the incident was aimed at CampsServices because surrounding construction was left intact. "But we have no idea who did it," he said, though he added a "verbal argument" between two contractors took place earlier.

Clarkston schools business manager Craig Kahler said the district has "no firm data yet" and no cost estimate. "I don't know if we're even going to be able to solve all this," he admitted.

Though the damage will set construction back a bit, the good news is CHS still plans to open right on schedule by Fall 1998, he said. Kahler estimates "about a week's worth" of construction time was lost by the damage to the pool.

Clarkston schools superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said Monday, "The insurance covers it, and we're not going to be set back that much, from the school's perspective.

"Are we disheartened? Any time anyone acts in a criminal manner, I'm disheartened." In the meantime, the district has stepped up security at the construction site. "This had to be done by somebody who knew what they were doing," he said.

Ozzy and other Pine Knob gigs examined in proposed ordinance

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Palace has its own "Big Bang" theory. But an all-day concert headlined by popular-as-ever Ozzy Osbourne last Thursday nearly fizzled.

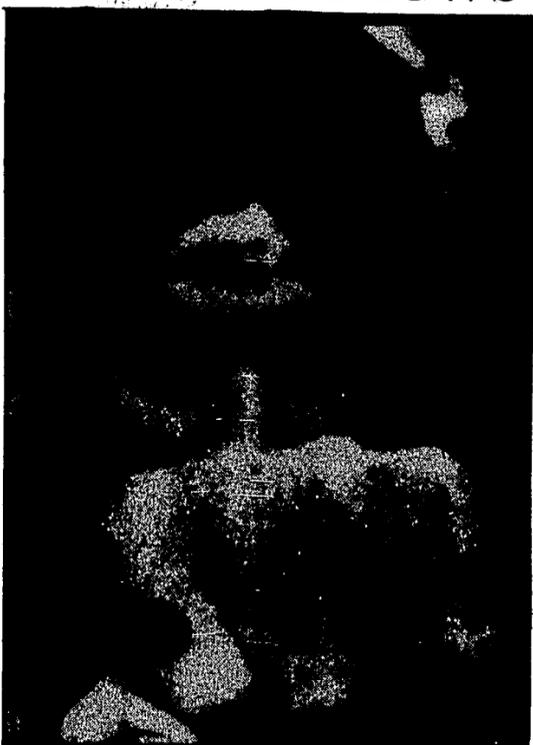

After nearly two hours of discussion at a special meeting held June 10, Palace officials and the Independence Township Board of Trustees finally agreed the show could go on June 12 — but not without some monitoring.

The "Ozzfest," which featured a temporary stage in addition to the permanent pavilion, was one of four all-day, festival-type shows booked this summer by Palace Sports and Entertainment, which bought Pine Knob Music Theatre in 1991.

Palace executive director Hugh Lombardi says the all-day concerts give guests "more bang for the buck," stretching their dollars further to enjoy more acts which are often accompanied by food and clothing vendors and other extras.

The significant revenue generated from big shows like the OZZfest, which sold out in four minutes, also

Clarkston's home-made granola now on TWA menu

TWA has made Clarkston-based Michaelene's Gourmet Granola part of its first-class section breakfast menu for travelers flying out of JFK and St. Louis airports.

Regarded by airline representatives as the "granola for VIPs," the product was first introduced to TWA's VIP travellers in 1995, beginning with Pope John Paul II. Michaelene's Gourmet Granola was special ordered for the pope's return flight to Rome after his visits to New York and Baltimore.

TWA representatives discovered the granola at the annual International Fancy Food and Confection Show and were won over, according to creator Michaelene Hearn. The company was established in 1984 and has received many honors, including best honey-containing cereal by the National Honey Board.

The granolas come in 18 flavors, and include a low-fat variety. All are made from all-natural ingredients. They are available at Rudy's market and Nature's Pantry in Clarkston. For more information call 625-

A fighting chance

Mom and daughter survive cancer, team up for relay

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

They raced against time and the odds to beat cancer. And now they're running for others.

Gari Monroe and her daughter Carrie are two Clarkston residents who plan to participate in the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life, held at Holly High School June 20 from 6 p.m. till midnight. The nationwide event, offered at various locations around the country this summer, is a celebration targeted to raise funds for cancer research.

Each member raises at least $100 from donors before the event, which features the ongoing relay, a Victory Lap for cancer survivors, live music, games and other activities.

The Monroes have a personal interest. Both were stricken with the same type of cancer, Non-Hodgkin's

'There is life after cancer.'

- Carrie Monroe

Lymphoma, although not at the same time.

Carrie, now 23, was a junior at Clarkston High School in 1990 when she experienced symptoms that included fatigue and chest pains. A doctor brushed off her discomfort as "just the flu."

But one day, after doubling over in pain at CHS, she was rushed to Dr. James O'Neill, who sent her to cancer specialist Dr. Roman Franklin in Bloomfield. There was a tumor behind her heart the size of a grapefruit. And what was worse — Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma is "a rapid-growing, spreading form of cancer," Gari, 51, explains.

The impact hit hard with Gari and her husband Al, who were told Carrie would need chemotherapy treatments for over a year — but not with the feisty teenager.

"It just kind of bounced off of me a little bit. I mean, it was kind of scary, but you never really feel the impact when you're only 16 years old," Carrie shrugs.

She didn't let the disease stop her from living a normal life. Carrie endured the treatments, which lasted the rest of her junior and part of her senior years, staying on top of her classes with the help of a home tutor. She sang with the Clarkston Madrigals, played the piano and continued her job with Lerner's at the mall.

She even entered the Junior Miss Pageant, bravely wearing a wig after her hair fell out from chemotherapy, and stoically facing the many practices.

But for Gari, "It was terrible. I don't think you can go through anything worse than having your child severely ill. I said, 'I would rather have it be me.'" At practices for Junior Miss, "Poor little thing, I felt so bad. She kept coughing and we'd send her Thermoses of tea and honey," Gari adds.

Still, Carrie managed to graduate, on time, with the rest of her class, who voted her "Most Outstanding Musician." She applied to Oakland University, obtaining two voice scholarships. Carrie was in remission when she entered OU and since then, doctors have found no further evidence of cancer. "After five years you are considered cured," explains her mother.

Carrie and Gari Monroe stand outside their Clarkston home.

But during that time, the most unlikely thing happened. Gari began experiencing discomfort, not in her chest like Carrie, but in her kidneys, back and neck. She didn't suspect their old foe, cancer, "until I found lumps in my neck."

She immediately contacted Dr. Franklin, who confirmed the feared diagnosis — she had exactly the same form of cancer as her daughter's — Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma, even though the family has no history of cancer. In November '93 Gari started chemo. In a little less than a year she underwent radiation treatments and, finally, a bone-marrow transplant at Harper Hospital in Detroit.

The story has a happy ending. Both Gari and Carrie are currently free from cancer.

Now in remission, Gari admits she has to watch it. Currently she's on leave from her job as a receptionist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, which she misses. "I get sick very easily; I have to watch the grandchildren (She and Al have two older, married daughters).

"I'm short of breath sometimes, I have a hard time fighting off colds, but it's better."

Both illnesses were hard on Al too, whose job takes him out of town frequently. "It was tough," he says of Carrie. "The second time around it was really rough. It was bad with Carrie, but with Gari it seemed it would go on and on and on. She went three weeks and never ate a thing. She couldn't stand the thought of food."

Gari stares at her husband. "Boy, I sure don't feel like that now!" she says with a hearty laugh.

Both mom and daughter admit they've changed their lifestyles — better diets, more exercise and a closer look of the things that are important to them.

"I know Carrie and I are here because of a lot of people's prayers," Gari smiles. "Carrie was our miracle. The tumor in her chest was the size of a grapefruit."

Every team participating in Relay For Life has a leader. The Monroe family's leader is fellow Clarkston Free Methodist Church member Kevin Bertram, a Holly resident, who lost a mother and a father-in-law to cancer. Their team is sponsored by Hilton Mortgage Co. of Clarkston.

Bertram's never had cancer himself, but "once you've experienced" having a loved one suffer, "you're connected," he says. "If one dollar can help us find a better treatment, then that's what it's all about... One of the things that impacted me when my mom got sick was how much more precious life is every day."

Carrie, who now works as a business analyst for EDS, still embodies that same, feisty spirit. During the interview, her eyes dart occasionally to the clock. She's dressed fashionably in a long skirt and top that sets off her tan. Her makeup's flawless, her blonde hair flipped perkily. She's waiting for her date, a special boyfriend, Mom explains.

Carrie's running Friday because she wants people to know "that there is life after cancer." For now, "I'm leading a normal life — like that of a 23-year-old," she grins.

For more information on Relay For Life, call the American Cancer Society of Southeastern Michigan at (810) 557-8733.

Planning commission notes

At the June 12 Independence Township Planning Commission meeting, the following actions were taken.

Planning commission chairman Steve Board said commissioners approved the final site plan for nine additional holes at Pine Knob Golf Course, 6-0, with some conditions. Among them are a provision for petitioner AAC Acquisitions to install an extension of Flemings Lake Rd., east of Sashabaw to Royal St. George, to provide safety paths on portions of Waldon and Sashabaw, and to provide a scenic easement on the property.

Second, Board said the commission also approved, by a 6-0 vote, conceptual plans for a cluster development of proposed Indianwood Estates at Dartmouth and Indianwood roads. Plans call for 73 homesites to be built around a lake left by a former gravel quarry. Four lots need reworking before a final site plan can be approved, said township building director Bev McElmeel.

Finally, the commission unanimously turned down a request for a house at Whipple Lake Estates. The developer wanted to fill part of a wetlands area. "That one went down in flames," Board said. Commissioner Joe Figa was absent.

Well-inspection controversy continues

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

With a quarter of a million Oakland County residents relying on well water, any suggestion that the water may not be safe can have far-reaching consequences—economic, medical, political.

So the fight currently going on between the Oakland County Board of Commissioners and County Executive L. Brooks Patterson is either over safety, or power, or economics, depending upon whom you ask. Any way you look at it, it's gotten ugly—and personal.

On June 12 the Board of Commissioners gave Patterson an ultimatum. By a vote of 15-9, a resolution was passed telling Patterson he has 45 days to comply with an earlier well policy passed by the board, or risk being sued. Then the commission went on recess until July 17.

Two days before that meeting, Commissioner Ruth Johnson (R., Holly) held a press conference in the office of Clarkston physician Nedra Downing, D.O. Also speaking at the meeting, in addition to Downing and Johnson, was Renee Crouch, a Brandon Township woman who says her family suffered severe health problems caused by arsenic in its well. Since installing a system to remove the arsenic, Crouch said, her family's health has nearly returned to normal.

With Johnson's and Crouch's urging, the Board of Commissioners adopted last fall a policy directing the county health department to draw up a map showing suspected areas of contamination for well drillers to use. Though it did not require water testing, the hope was that home buyers in suspected areas would voluntarily submit to testing.

However, the measure was vetoed by Patterson, who favors mandatory well testing. The board overrode the veto, but Patterson has refused to implement the policy anyway. Hence, the stalemate.

A naturally occurring metal, arsenic is a well-known poison. According to Downing, as far back as the Romans it was used as both a poison—and a cure. There is, however, controversy over what level of arsenic is dangerous. The 1996 Safe Drinking Water Act sets the acceptable limit at 50 parts per billion (ppb), though lower levels have been considered.

In a letter to John McCulloch, chairman of the board of commissioners, dated May 22, Patterson refutes the notion that Crouch's well had a dangerous level of arsenic. He also states that raising a false alarm over a large part of the county could cause economic ruin.

At the press conference, Johnson acknowledged that arsenic levels found in wells can vary over time, requiring multiple samples. Downing acknowledged that blood tests are unreliable, saying she prefers to use hair and urine tests to determine the level in the body of a patient.

"There are many wells in this area above (50ppb)," Downing said, adding that she's seen reports that put it as high as 240 ppb in some wells. "Lower level symptoms can be very insidious . . . so that you might not think arsenic is the cause."

Arsenic accumulates in body tissue, she said, and can affect the liver, kidneys, nervous tissue, muscles, bone and skin. It also shows up in nursing mothers' milk.

"Arsenic is well known to interfere with energy, so many times patients go to a doctor with vague symptoms of fatigue," she said. "So arsenic poisoning would be something that would not be immediately suspected by doctors."

There is treatment, and arsenic can be filtered out of well water through the reverse-osmosis process. However, the problem needs to be discovered first. And that is the nut of the controversy.

"Listening to Dr. Downing, I wish I would have known her because I went to 16 doctors first," Crouch said. "Everything she said, I experienced. I nursed a baby. I had all of the symptoms she described."

"I believe what frustrated us the most was the knowledge of arsenic was there with Oakland County, and had they told us, I could have prevented all of what my family went through . . . When we contacted Oakland County they insisted we were the only ones that had this problem. Their only advice was to drill another well. I now know why they gave us that response; they didn't want to acknowledge a problem. Oakland County's way of protecting its people from contaminated water was to keep it a secret."

Frank Millard (R., Independence Township), who was elected to the board of commissioners in November, after the controversy began, said it has degenerated to such a level that compromise appears unlikely.

"I personally think we should have mandatory testing," he said, because he feels voluntary testing will be ignored. But he acknowledged that knowing what to test for is confusing. There are hundreds of compounds that could contaminate a well, and testing for all of them could top $1,000 per well.

"I would love to see us work out something with the executive office and come up with a policy for mandatory testing," he said, acknowledging that he is a Patterson supporter. "Realistically, what are you looking for (in the wells)?" He doesn't agree with the notion that the county is trying to hide bad news.

"I understand that in Independence Township there have been none over 50 ppb," he said. "My concern is the number over 40 ppb." He has asked to sit on the ad hoc committee that is supposed to meet with Patterson in the next 45 days to hash out a compromise.

As for the commission's move on June 12, "I'm absolutely sure Patterson will veto that. And the board won't have enough votes to override it this time," Millard said. "I just want to see the job done and I believe in negotiation and compromise."

Millard is chagrined at the sight of an overwhelmingly Republican board and a Republican executive going at each other in such an undignified fashion.

"Both sides have dug their heels in and the people of Oakland County are going to be the worse off for it," he said.

Council makes Birtsas wait again

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For six months, local developer Tim Birtsas has gone from board to board trying to get his northside condominium project off the ground.

After getting nods from the zoning board of appeals and the city planning commission, Birtsas went to the Clarkston City Council at its regular meeting June 10 with hopes of getting the final stamp of approval for his project.

Instead, he was told he would have to wait another 13 days before getting the council's OK.

Birtsas, a former pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds, wants to have a .82 acre piece of land rezoned from single-family residential to multiple family, for a four-unit condominium project. Each condo unit will be 2,000 square feet and is priced in the $300,000 range. The land is located on N. Main St., just south of Mesquite Creek.

After presenting 16 reasons why the council should approve his rezoning request and after more than an hour of discussion, the council decided to put a subcommittee together to look at some of the finer points of the issue and make a decision at the June 23 meeting.

The council was clearly divided in terms of support for the request. Karen Sanderson, the council's representative on the planning commission, Bill Basinger and city attorney Tom Ryan questioned the merits of the rezoning. Council members David Savage, Walt Gamble and mayor Sharron Catalo expressed support for the project. Laura Aulgur was absent.

Catalo, Savage and Gamble were appointed to the subcommittee.

"The point of zoning is not what the best use of the property is, it's whether or not it's best for the whole community," Basinger said. "If we look at changing zoning based on need, we might as well tear down the whole downtown. After all, we need more hotels around here, right?"

Sanderson said the safest route to go was to leave all zoning currently in the city as it exists.

"Zoning is our only savior," she said. "Once you alter the zoning anything can happen. I'm afraid. I've been places where the zoning in one place was changed and it was never the same. I never supported this project."

"This will have a huge impact on zoning here," Doug Roeser predicted.

The city is currently looking into adopting a permanent master plan, which will act as a guide to zoning decisions just like this one in the future. The city has no current master plan, so it just has the existing zoning ordinance to go by.

But the discussion which caused the council to sit on making a decision came not from Birtsas' property, but a piece of land across the street. The city's planner, McKenna and Associates, used property owned by Whitey Towers, across Main Street from the Birtsas property, as an example as to why the Birtsas property should not be rezoned. But at the meeting, Birtsas said he found out the 54-foot wide property adjacent to the Towers property was not zoned commercial, as his was. Therefore, Birtsas said, the Towers property is not a valid comparison to his own. The Birtsas property abuts a zoned commercial parcel in Independence Township. A shopping center is planned for the site.

Hearing this, the council decided that this was new information neither it nor the planners were aware of. Thus, the naming of the subcommittee to look into it and come back June 23 with a recommendation.

"We have a planning commission that recommended approval without knowing all the facts," Roeser said.

Among the points he wanted to make, Birtsas said the city does not have a master plan in place, and he will intend to cooperate with anyone involved, including the Historic District Commission.

"Your zoning ordinance says there should be some transition between single-family residential and commercial," Birtsas said at the meeting. "This is what I am presenting. The ordinance says a multiple-family residential district can act as a transition between single family and commercial."

"I think this fits the needs of the community," he continued. "This is the last buildable parcel left in the village that's less than an acre in size. This is the sixth meeting I've been to and I'd like to see a vote."

Basinger countered by saying having a multiple-family dwelling at that site is not in the city's best interests.

"The proximity to the community is not desirable," he said. "We might as well tear down all the homes in the village."

Provided that the terms of the spendthrift trust cannot be modified ("irrevocable") and the trustee is given full power to administer the assets of the trust with the beneficiary having no say in its operation, the principal in the trust is

Village needs preservation, not planning

Why a planning commission for the Village of Clarkston? As commonly practised, planning means not only commitment to, but inducement of change. And change, as proposed by Clarkston's planning commission, is not conducive to maintaining the village's character and image.

Let's think instead of a preservation commission, committed to preserving Clarkston as a village in the traditional midwestern sense.

Neither multiple housing, nor the proposed office building at Main and Waldon, add value to the day-to-day living of village residents. Add to this the proposed commercialization of the village's Main Street property, soon to be vacated by the township. A preservation commission would recognize that this important segment of village-owned land should remain public property, serving as park land, and eventually an historic museum.

Along with the Depot Road park, a Main Street park would provide a good balance between private and public property.

It should also be noted that traffic in and out of a Main Street park - much of it evenings and weekends - would be no more and possibly less than present township office traffic. Contrast this with the proposed commercialization which would call for another Main Street traffic signal - and added traffic tieups.

As for traffic volume, a primary objective of a preservation commission would be the elimination of through truck traffic from Main Street, West Washington and South Holcomb.

A proposed solution by the State Highway Commission is local takeover of M-15 from Dixie Highway to I-75, one the village cannot afford. Yet, state highways are by-passed, and I-75 and the Dixie Highway provide a ready-made truck route and an alternate for general traffic. It's somewhat farther, but the time difference is minimal. For the village, it's that or continued impact and vibration on village streets which is damaging structure and interiors of homes in this historic village.

County must work together to protect citizens

If you've ever bought a home that relies on a well for drinking water, you probably know that the only test done on your water is for coliform bacteria. However, literally hundreds of dangerous substances can find their way into the water supply, unbeknownst to anyone.

So the current controversy between the Oakland County Board of Commissioners and County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, while there may be some valid arguments on both sides, does not seem to solve this problem: Naturally occurring arsenic has been found in a large portion of northern Oakland County; now what are we going to do about it?

News about the arsenic showing up in well tests conducted by the state has been showing up in the media for at least a year now. It hasn't stopped thousands of people from buying, building and selling homes in our state's most prosperous, most prestigious county. So Patterson's argument that providing a map of suspected areas of contamination will cause economic ruin doesn't seem to hold up.

Why not agree to provide the map, as other counties have done, then move on to the issue of mandatory testing? While the idea of mandatory testing is appealing, it is fraught with difficulty. Do you only test for arsenic? What about other contaminants that have been found in other wells?

The purpose of government is, at its bottom line, to protect the health, safety and welfare of its citizens. We are moved, and convinced, by the testimony of Renee Crouch and others who have suffered due to unknowingly ingesting arsenic in their water. We believe a way must be found to avoid making other families go through the same thing.

We believe the fight has become unnecessarily personal, overwhelmingly political, and undignified, to say the least. We expect this from Lansing, not Pontiac. AK

The school bond vote

I need to blow off some steam. Once again it has happened. A perfectly legitimate decision by the voters has been overturned. Our "NO" vote in December meant absolutely nothing! In fact, it seemed to inspire a need to increase the amount of money necessary to meet our grade school needs. Although I am not generally a betting person, I am willing to bet we will never be given the opportunity to disapprove this bond authorization if the new school project does not go as promised.

Enough steam. If the new school is intended to meet our grade school population growth for several years, I infer that we do not need all of the proposed space immediately. Has anybody considered the possibility of additions (not portable classrooms) to our existing grade schools? They could be added over a period of time as our school population actually grows. By adding to our existing schools, we should be able to avoid the cost of acquiring additional land, avoid many architectural fees (just make the additions match the existing buildings), avoid the cost of additional administrative staff for a new school (principal, secretaries, maintenance, etc.).

I believe there have to be many other areas of savings by adding to existing buildings versus creating a separate school.

I hope that we are not so intent on building a "NEW" school that we do not consider alternatives. We need to be sure all of the additional money we authorized is spent in absolutely the most effective manner.

Sincerely,
Fred Stark

Grateful for bond support

Dear Editor,

The passage of the June 9th bond issue is a blessing for property values, educational opportunities and community needs here in Clarkston.

Without the broad based support of parents, staff, community leaders, elected officials and our local newspapers, however, we would not be celebrating this week. It was the combined effort of neighbor talking to neighbor and community leader talking to community leader that passed this bond issue.

The HUG committee, which promoted the "Vote Yes" campaign has many people to thank for helping to make this bond issue successful. From principals who gave up their weekends to go door to door with other parents and community members to talk about the bond issue—to staff members, substitute teachers, high school seniors and alumni who not only supported this bond issue but helped work to get the word out about the election. Every person who pushed out of his "comfort zone" to do what he could to make sure this bond passed deserves credit for the win.

This Bond Campaign was a "full court press" to bring awareness to the issues, debate in an open forum and to persuade the community to invest in our children by investing in our schools. The HUG committee appreciates the efforts of this newspaper to publicize information on the bond.

It was all of these activities, all of these discussions, all of these teachable moments which built support for the bond issue and increased voter turnout. Informed voters turned into "yes voters." Thank you to everyone for the time, energy and efforts on behalf of the district's children and our community.

Students experience democracy

To the editor,

Democracy is not a spectator sport—for it to survive and flourish, we all must become involved. This is the message I heard from 602 high school students representing 42 Detroit area high schools

AMBER BLAIR: After lunch we will go outside. We will learn.

15 YEARS AGO (1982)

Officials in Independence Township know how Dr. Frankenstein must have felt. They too have created a monster. Ten 40-cubic-foot dumpsters throughout the township are filled to the brim Monday morning after a weekend of township-wide house cleaning. The board has $4,000 set aside from federal revenue sharing to pick up the tab in dumping costs, but supervisor James Smith estimates costs will now be "at least double." No one knows where the extra funding will come from.

Look for bursts of color over the skies at Pine Knob on Fourth of July. Fireworks are OK'd by the township and will be featured after the Santana concert, but community relations director George White warns township residents to be careful. They should select spots on their front porches and lawns and stay away from the exiting traffic jam, he says.

25 YEARS AGO (1972)

The Village of Clarkston is about to lose its right-hand man. Artemus Pappas, village clerk for the past decade, submits his resignation to council effective July 1. Having survived six village presidents and all of the council members in office 10 years ago, he's been the veteran in village administration.

There's a whole houseful of candidates seeking nomination to Independence Township offices in the August primary, says clerk J. Edwin Glennie, including five for supervisor. Incumbent Democrat Gary Stonerock is running, as are fellow Democrats Luther Fletcher and James Harmon. Republican nominations are being sought by John Lynch and Robert Vandermark.

The Village of Clarkston has a planning consultant. The council votes to hire Todd Kilroy of Sterling/Lehoczy & Assoc. of Mount Clemens for $960. Kilroy will prepare a village land use map, a new zoning ordinance text, a revised zoning map and will coordinate new zoning districts with the township at village boundaries. He'll also work with the planning commission.

50 YEARS AGO (1947)

Three local boys will attend Interlochen Music Camp this summer. David Leak of Clarkston has entered to play bass, while Richard Allen of Waterford plays trombone. Both play in the Clarkston High School band. Tony Siegman of Waterford will be attending with his clarinet and has participated in the Catholic Central High School Band of Detroit. The daily schedule at Interlochen includes sectional rehearsals, public performances, concerts, broadcasts and elective courses in student conducting, baton twirling, theory, harmony, ensembles and solo playing.

Featured at the Holly Theatre are Teresa Wright and Robert Mitchum in "Pursued" and Ida Lupino and Robert Alda in "The Man I Love." Playing at the Drayton Theatre are Louis Hayward and Barbara Britton in "Return of Monte Cristo" and Dick Powell and Evelyn Keyes in "Johnny O'clock."

Specials at Terry's Market include smoked picnics, 47 cents a pound; Spam (fine for sandwiches), 37 cents a can; peanut butter, 33 cents for a 1-pound jar; and Crisco or Spry, a 3-pound can for $1.17.

60 YEARS AGO (1937)

Under the heading "Children In Court" a 16-year-old boy, who was arrested last week for automobile banditry, confesses his guilt in court. At the conclusion of the trial, Judge Malcolm Hatfield draws the parents aside and says, "In the past you have been too lenient with your son. You have pleaded where you should have commanded. You coaxed and humored this child when your own experiences in life should have directed the course for him to follow. As a result, he frankly admits that he lost respect for your judgment and followed out his own wishes. Now the state is forced to step in and take over the responsibilities which you, as parents, neglected to enforce."

Showing at the Holly Theatre are Spanky McFarland and Phillips Homes in "General Spanky," Paul Kelly and Judith Allen in "It Happened Out West," Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in "Parnell" and Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in "Night Must Fall."

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Nudist camp appreciates utility worker's attention

This is being written a few days before our Canadian, fly-in fishing trip. The "our" is son Jim, son-in-laws Bob Offer and Tim Speed and myself.

I think it's my fourth trip and I know it's their first. It's not hard to tell the difference. I've bought no new tackle and am taking a small tackle box.

Jim went to the Grab Bag fishing store in Davison and grabbed handfuls of plugs, spinners and spoons. He also got a killer lure from an Infomercial.

Bob, not satisfied with brochure suggestions, called the headquarters of Daredevil's. Naturally, they highly recommended their spoons and Bob bought two of each color and size. Fishermen always buy two of whatever, because if it works and you lose one you'll always have another.

Tim, nicknamed 'Gander Mountain,' was ahead of the others in having the right equipment (he even has a portable fish-finder). But, he also has "Shore Lunch" fish bread, fishing line in 4 to 20 pound test and rods and reels for each, plus viewing videos on walleye and lake trout fishing.

Their tackle boxes are more like shipping trunks.

This trip took shape during the over-hyped, sportfishing shows in February. I wanted one more fly-in fishing trip. I only wanted three days of it. A week gives one sore buns, too many pounds and far too many black fly bites.

With that short time frame, I tried to get a flight out of Port Huron or Detroit. I had to settle for the Canadian Soo where Air-Dale Flying Service has a field, er river.

They recommended Goulais Lake. Fly in Friday morning; fly out Monday morning. $540 Canadian, $416 American per person.

It wasn't hard recruiting the trio to join me. With reservations made in early March, the planning began. It's great and a little surprising that these 30- to 40-year-olds, otherwise well adjusted, otherwise mature men can get excited about a fishing trip.

"How big should our nets be for the lake trout?" "Do we need deep diving lures for them?" "Are the walleye on their beds?" "How strict is Air-Dale on that 100-pound-per-person limit?" The only question they asked I thought reasonable was, "How much beer should we take in?"

My big concern was what do we eat when we either get rained out or the fish aren't biting. On one of my trips north three speckled trout were caught by four people, then the cook mistook the powdered sugar for flour and ruined them.

For many vacations, the planning is more exciting than the trip, but we certainly hope that's not the case this time. It would sure be nice to get to use some of that Shore Lunch fish bread, especially on a rocky shore, on a sunny day on Goulais Lake, Ontario.

What's not right about grad ceremony

Dear editor,

I attended the C.H.S. graduation ceremony on Wednesday, June 4, and had mixed feeling on the evenings happenings. Please don't think that I am out to criticize the Class of 1997 or their graduation ceremony. I enjoyed myself and was happy to see my friends graduate and begin a new chapter in their lives. The content of the ceremony was great and the speeches by Heather Schmidt and Dan Campbell were among the best I have ever heard, but please hear me out.

I arrived just in time for Pomp and Circumstance and to see the graduates walking down to their seats. It was a typical Clarkston High School commencement. The Madrigal Singers and combined choir each serenaded us with beautiful music. There were speeches and introductions. Superintendent Roberts addressed his first commencement audience, and Principal Brent Cooley gave his own address. Excuse me for this tangent, but, is it me or do all superintendents have the distinct ability to question principals what the "defining characteristic" of this years class is? I think this is a conspiracy to provide principals with a topic for their speeches at commencement ceremonies across the nation. Perhaps a different approach or topic would be refreshing for next year. Then there was the conferring of diplomas, the tassel ceremony and the recessional. Like I said, a typical C.H.S. commencement. But there was something missing.

I wonder if anyone noticed. In the past few years prayer at graduation has been nixed. So this year's omission was no surprise. Also this year a Reverend from the community did not give an address in place of the prayer—I can accept that, we all saw that coming. What did take me by surprise though, was the omission of The Lord's Prayer, which is normally performed by the Madrigal Singers. I remember singing it when I graduated last year. I'm curious to know, "Whose idea it was to cut this time honored tradition from commencement this year?" I suppose this was a continuation of the removal of God or any form of religion from our school system. If we take away The Lord's Prayer, next will be The Parting Blessing, and The Battle Hymn of the Republic, Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, and Brahms. Then we can continue on and terminate the choir program since a majority of their music is sacred. Then we will have to rid ourselves of this social taboo that plagues society. We should applaud all those who have managed to slip this by us trusting community members without any questions.

Next, let's consider the behavior of the audience and the Class of 1997. Isn't commencement the day we celebrate the achievements of the graduating class? You wouldn't know by the way the audience acted during the program. Parents and friends were yelling and screaming more than was necessary resulting in a gain of attention for themselves and a loss of well deserved attention for the graduates. Perhaps it is me, but normally during a program of such magnitude close attention is given to those onstage. Unfortunately, during the musical numbers the choir sang, their words could not be heard over the rude chatting of the audience and the speeches and introductions were constantly interrupted by the selfish actions of the audience. Consider that during Mr. Cooley's introduction of the faculty of C.H.S and the representatives of the other schools in the district, that when asked to hold applause, numerous times, the request went unheeded. A flagrant act of disrespect. Maybe I'm old fashioned, after all, I did graduate in 1996. I was extremely disappointed in the behavior displayed during the ceremony.

The Class of 1997 is indeed a talented class and worthy of much praise and whoops and hollering. I only wish that the acknowledgement was given in a manner more appropriate to the circumstance. Congratulations Class of 1997 and God bless you!

Sincerely,
Timothy Alan Sievers

HUG thanks the community

Dear editor:

The HUG Committee wishes to thank the community for its support in passing the final phase of the district's long-range strategic plan, Phase 3. Over the years many people have spent months, if not years, helping to see this strategic plan to its final phase.

I wish to personally thank the following persons for volunteering their time and expertise during this final endeavor: First and foremost, David Reschke and Dr. Al Roberts, for their never-ending support and leadership; Penny Shanks, Renee Weaver-Wright, and Barbara Johns for their factual, to-the-point and in-touch publicity and marketing strategies; Dr. Bruce Mercado for obtaining our on-line page; Becky Craig and Karen Manvel for keeping us upbeat and nourished; all of our building principals and their building chairperson, where the majority of the person-to-person work was accomplished; our ever faithful "Road Warriors," chaired by Mike Kehoe and Sally Hadden, for helping to remind the community to get out and vote; Bob Brumback, Vince Licata, and Duane Lewis for getting the votes out on election day; and finally to David Meyer, my co-chairperson for his words of wisdom and dedication to the Clarkston Community.

Those of you who may have come in contact with David Meyer may have often heard him quote an unknown graffiti artist to say, "Apathy may kill us, but who cares?" I know who cares—"Clarkston."

Sincerely,
Cheryl L. McGinnis
Co-Chairperson HUG

Head Superintendent says thanks

Please accept my profound thanks and deep appreciation for your coverage of the bond issue over the past several months. Now, the Clarkston Community Schools can look to the future with great confidence. We are committed to making our schools better than ever.

Census funds should go toward Library

Dear editor:

The Independence Township Library is housed in a magnificent building. The ambiance upon entering and walking through the library's various areas is conducive to quiet, contemplated study.

The new library building has been open for five years and there is still a need for MORE BOOKS.

The Independence Township Board is the library's governing body and the board determines the library's budget. The township board has a mid-decade census fund of $300,000 that has not been allocated. We feel that this is the time (opportunity) for the township board to show its support for improving the library by allocating a major portion of the $300,000 for the library.

Most sincerely,
John & Peggy Dwyer

CHS life

By Meghann Smith

School's finally out. That's a word with many meanings. The school year seemed to fly by, but then it was too long. When you add up the numbers school should have been out days ago, but it seems that just yesterday we were buying those notebooks that we threw out of our car windows as we squealed our tires out of the school parking lot.

School's finally out, what does that mean? The lazy days of summer? Not for teenagers. We crowd our calendars with parties in the night and part-time jobs in the day. Part-time has a meaning all its own. When you apply for a part-time job, you're led to believe that part-time means that part of your time will be spent working and the other part hanging out with your friends and spending all of your easily earned money.

After your first day of working you realize a little too quickly that part-time means most of your time working and the rest of your time trying to find a friend whose work schedule coincides with your own. Then you end up splitting fries and a Coke as you argue over whose turn it is to spend their hoarded cash on gas.

Instead of owning every CD Harmony House has to offer and being able to walk into your own closet and imagine you're in your favorite store, you find yourself grumbling over taxes, minimizing your paycheck and depositing all your cash into your car insurance fund.

During school you make millions of plans of what you and all of your buddies are going to do once you're out of school. Party-hopping on weeknights and weekend excursions to Cedar Pointe and beyond. Of course, your parents will let you and your closest 20 friends drive to Chicago over the weekend. How else do they expect you to get back-to-school clothes? Back to School, that's another thing. Do you realize how quickly that's coming up? Not quickly enough, according to my dad, but we're already wasting our dandelion-fuzz wishes on who will be our history teacher. Girls are already counting the pairs of jeans that still fit and figuring out how many more they'll need to buy come August if they want to wear a different pair every day of the month. We've just gotten out of school, but after a few weeks of working, a weekend of friends and a family vacation, we're counting the days until we get back.

My parents say that you can tell school is out just by looking at the cars on the streets. I can just guess what's coming from dad's mouth as a low-rider with its bass vibrating car windows to the full extent, cuts him off. Let's just say he certainly wasn't any more happy when the hooligans in the truck waved to his daughter. "Teenage drivers," he mutters almost every five seconds. I hate to betray my generation, but it's true. You can always tell when a teenager is driving, me included. In case you haven't noticed the tricks of the trade yet, a teenager generally driving in any of these following circumstances: a car cuts across four lanes of traffic without even a sign from their turning signal, a car is doing 90 in a 35 mph zone, a car races up to yellow lights only to slam on the brakes, when it's duh, the light turns red, or when the car pulls a U-turn because another car that drove by looks like it might belong to one of his friends.

But it's finally summer, we finally get to live a little bit. For once, we can sleep until noon. For once, we can hang out with our friends all day and not have our parents ask us if we have homework. For once, we can wait until it's our sibling's bedtime to make plans. All because it's finally summer.

Al Welch is in the driver's seat as he accepts the keys to a 1997 Explorer from Clarkston Farmer Jack manager Kurt Stanfill. Wife Andy Welch is at right. The red car is something she's always wanted.

Clarkstonite wins free two-year car lease in Farmer Jack contest

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The aroma inside the 1997 Explorer was more like coffee than the normal new-car smell last week—and for good reason.

Al and Andy Welch accepted the keys to the snazzy red Ford June 12 after Al correctly guessed the number of bags of coffee inside the parked car as part of the Clarkston Farmer Jack store's grand re-opening.

For doing so he earned a free two-year lease on the Explorer. Al said he was scientific about his approach.

"I measured the Explorer carefully while my wife shopped," he said. "I got the tape measure and I came in and measured the coffee (bag)." His guess—3,392—was only one bag off. "There wasn't anybody else close," he bragged.

A retiree with 41 years in at General Motors, Al has a lease about to expire on a Saturn. But he's driven bigger vehicles for years: With 14 children, 15 grandchildren, one great-grandchild and two more babies on the way, the space has often been needed.

In July the couple will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a camping trip with all their children. "I'm sure we'll have lots of use for (the Explorer)," said Andy.

As he waited for the keys, Al sported a cap with the words "Hell on Wheels." It didn't refer to his driving; rather to his experience as part of the 2nd Armored Division that took part in D Day during World War II. Al went back to France in 1994 for the 50th anniversary of that event.

As for the win, Andy said it only reinforces what she's always told her children and grandchildren. "It pays to study math."

who recently participated in the Close Up Foundation government studies program in Washington, D.C.

For a full week the students had the opportunity to develop a better understanding of our democratic process. By observing Congressional proceedings, questioning journalists and meeting with government experts, the abstracts of history and the process of governing were transformed into concrete experiences. In addition, students were able to share their views with their peers from other parts of the country.

Participants returned home with a deeper awareness of their responsibilities as citizens and the realization that a single individual can make a difference. Their enthusiasm for involvement in the democratic process is to be admired.

The Close Up experience was made possible through the strong support of parents, teachers, and schools. Also, various companies and organizations helped make Close Up fellowships available to students in financial need. These sponsors include the Chrysler Corporation Fund, Consumers Power Foundation, the Detroit Free Press, and The David and Lucile Packard Foundation.

On behalf of all of us at Close Up, I would like to thank all who made the experience possible.

Sincerely,
Danielle Maxwell

A special thanks

We are writing to thank all of the volunteers and sponsors of the Senior All Night Party. Hollywood Nights was a great success and much enjoyed. It also provided us with a safe and enjoyable activity filled with many memories. Along with Trev Weiss and Bob Olsen, the parent volunteers and committee chairs outdid themselves. They provided us with numerous unique activities that gave us a final evening with our fellow classmates. This will not soon be forgotten.

We very much respect the amount of time, effort, and energy put into this event by everyone involved. A special thanks goes out to The Clarkston Chamber of Commerce, Deer Lake Racquet Club and all other local businesses which donated their services and products and/or contributed financially. Everyone involved made this a very special night for the Senior Class of 1997. We realize, after organizing the 1996 Senior Prom, how much time and effort must have gone into the planning of this extraordinary event.

On behalf of the entire Class of 1997, the Senior Class Executive Board offers our extreme appreciation for your time, effort, energy, and monetary support.

Sincerely,
The Senior Class Executive Board

St. Dan's stops spraying

Please pardon our dandelions! We have canceled the usage of any and all pesticides, herbicides, and chemical fertilizers for lawn care at St. Daniel Catholic Community and Rectory. These products used to beautify lawns and flower beds eventually filter into water wells, ponds, lakes, and head waters of the Huron, Clinton, Rouge and Shiawassee rivers. In discontinuing the use of these products we are halting our part in contributing to the pollution of these waters. It can be noted as well that usage of these polluting products puts birds, animals, unseen life forms and our children at risk as they romp and play on lawns that have been sprayed with these products.

All night party worth it

Dear editor,

I would like to thank the many people involved in the 1997 Clarkston High School post-graduation party. The success of this event is due to the generosity of the Clarkston community. Area businesses donated food, supplies, and money totaling in thousands of dollars. CHS parents supplied much of the same, but mostly gave hours of their time, as well as their incredible talent to ensure our seniors had a great farewell party. The combined efforts of all involved were shown in the faces of the seniors as they walked through the racquet club. They had a fantastic time and were eager to let the parents know.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to all involved; businesses, junior & senior parents and Deer Lake Racquet Club for the use of their facility. Because of your help and support of this fabulous event, our kids had a safe and fun-filled night.

To the class of '97, I have enjoyed contributing a small part to your senior year of high school. Congratulations and best of luck with your future plans.

For anyone considering involvement in future CHS post-graduation parties, I highly recommend it. The outcome is well worth the effort!

Sincerely,
Trev Weiss

Proposed ordinance could mean trouble for some Pine Knob acts make it possible to book less-popular shows that appeal to smaller audiences that the Palace would otherwise be unable to offer, he said.

But last month the board met with Palace representatives during a regular meeting to discuss a proposed ordinance that would regulate health, safety and welfare conditions for patrons inside the outdoor venue. Their concern is valid, they say, because the temporary stages are sometimes located in "remote" areas of the venue and not provided for in Pine Knob's existing site plan.

"They were not part of the approved procedure for Pine Knob and this offered up legitimate safety concerns," explained township attorney Gerry Fisher June 10. For example, guests sometimes cut across the parking lot to get to a second stage and the township wants to make sure traffic flow is routed well so walking isn't dangerous. Fisher wants "a comfort zone" in place.

Referred to as "Chapter 14," a current outdoor gatherings ordinance designed for temporary gatherings of at least 2,000 people doesn't fit the profile of permanent-venue Pine Knob, township officials admit. But they are holding the Palace to that ordinance temporarily until the new one is completed. For now, the same kind of information as that in Chapter 14 — police and fire protection, restroom facilities, noise control, etc. — must be provided to the township for all concerts 30 days before the summer season.

However, on June 10 Fisher told the board that complete information on the June 12 OZZfest had not been provided. Nor has the township received a response to the proposed new ordinance since the previous meeting held last month.

Fisher said Palace officials have been "unhappy" about a provision in the new ordinance, as currently proposed, which states that the township has the authority to shut a concert down before or during a show if regulations aren't adhered to. He has been waiting "over a month" to hear back from them, he said.

Furthermore, plans for the remaining concert season, including all-day, multi-stage shows — "Lollapalooza" and the HORDE festival, both in July — have not been submitted.

"This administration has no choice but to inform Pine Knob that this performance (the OZZfest) would be a violation of the ordinance," he said.

During a long, sometimes heated discussion between Fisher, board members, Lombardi and Palace attorney Susan Greenfield, both sides blamed each other for faulty communication. They also disagreed with interpretation of the outdoor gatherings ordinance.

"The reason we're here today is hopefully to find some way to deal with this in a temporary basis for this season until we can find a more permanent way," said Greenfield. But, she added, "We don't feel this ordinance applies to a permanent venue."

Furthermore, "We are not going to be agreeable to any kind of ordinance that gives them the authority to shut us down without due process," she said.

The board eventually approved the OZZfest with several conditions, among them township monitoring of the concert for safety concerns. The Palace also agreed to pay for inspections conducted by township building officials at Pine Knob before the show.

In that 7-0 motion, the board also established the following time frame: Palace officials will be required to provide a response to the new ordinance by June 16, on June 27 they will have to supply full information for all subsequent events for the remainder of summer season, and finally, on July 8 another special meeting will be held. The cost of both special meetings will be assumed by The Palace.

Lombardi said he did not understand why the township is taking such an active interest now. "I guess I question where these concerns are coming from. We've been offering these events since 1991 ... We work very tightly with police, we created a (fire) lane off of Sashabaw and improved that area tenfold to make it more accessible, we've added more police at traffic points ...," he said.

Lombardi also noted that wire storm-fencing corrals patrons around remote stages and security, police and ticket-takers are beefed-up for the added numbers.

The Palace must jump on potential big draws, Lombardi said, admitting competition is a big factor. And while the Palace has say where the stages are located, they don't have control when the artist brings along one or two for the all-day show. "If we want to alter it, they'll go away," he said.

Lombardi and Greenfield also said it's sometimes hard to provide information by a deadline. "This is a very mercurial business," said Greenfield. To obtain a performer "You might wait three months, but then again, you might book in 24 hours."

Though Palace officials claim they have been offering such shows for years, the idea came from noticing the number is "escalating," said township supervisor Dale Stuart.

"We were not aware of the extent you were doing it and you have been doing more of it as time goes on. We started thinking maybe we should be doing something," he said.

Also attending the meeting were township fire chief Gar Wilson and Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation commander Lt. Dale LaBair.

During a phone interview last week, Wilson said he staffs firefighters at the venue only on occasion. He admitted conditions have definitely improved from "the old days" since the Palace took over Pine Knob.

"Things have corrected themselves out pretty good. It was just unbelievable how many accidents we used to have. And now, we haven't had them anymore," he said. Pine Knob has also added hydrants and a water main for fire-fighting purposes, he added. "It's been kind of a mutual happening along the way."

LaBair says the OZZfest is a big concern because of its long history of problems. Alcohol is one. Because they are there all day, "Kids have a chance to be liquored up and be a pain in the butt."

Oakland County Sheriff's Rochester Hills substation commander Lt. Joe Quisenberry has been overseeing the facility for the past five years, under a sheriff's department contract with Pine Knob.

It is Quisenberry's job to set the levels of police service — especially when it comes to shows like Ozzy Osbourne's. He staffed himself and 15 officers for the June 12 concert.

Quisenberry said he looks at a number of factors when determining how many officers he needs. The type of show, "heavy metal or gospel," he jokes, is one. Another factor is the target audience. A crowd over 40 year of age is much easier "because they handle alcohol better" than kids 18-21, he said. He also looks at the size of the crowd.

Summing up the OZZfest as "my toughest show of the year" Quisenberry justified his double-staffing as a "heavy-metal sellout," target audience of age 25-30 drinkers and past experience. "He's played here before."

As for the June 18 shock-rock Marilyn Manson concert, he's getting "mixed signals." Because of the kind of show it is, it needs to be staffed well. But, because it isn't a heavy-seller — viewed as a "freak show" by some — and because it doesn't have a history, it took some thought.

Nevertheless, he will staff it heavily. "I'm going to prepare for the potential and possible problems with Marilyn Manson," he said at presstime Tuesday.

The new owners have definitely improved certain situations, like traffic flow and trash problems, he admits. "That doesn't mean we solve every problem. But their responsiveness has been there," he said.

During a phone interview Tuesday, Fisher said The Palace responded to the new ordinance by the Monday deadline, asking for "substantial modifications" in the document. Among them are a request to "delete the provision that authorizes the township to close (Pine Knob) down without court intervention," he said. But, he added, the need for special regulation "has been borne out."

During the OZZfest, Wilson said, "There were no alarms regarding Pine Knob and no reports of personal injury accidents."

He said Pine Knob complied with several requests when he and acting fire marshal Greg Olrich visited the venue before the show. For example, Pine Knob improved fire-emergency access to both the secondary stage and pavilion, he said.

Township building director Bev McElmeel said Tuesday that protection around the secondary stage area, including weatherproofing of electrical equipment, was provided.

Quisenberry said the OCSO made nine arrests, all all misdemeanors. As for a "sod-throwing" issue, where patrons tore up clods of sod from the lawn and hurled them into the air at OZZfest, Quisenberry said that's par for the course at rowdier shows.

But maybe The Palace needs to assume some responsibility for those kinds of situations, he added. Pine Knob's crowd control eventually evicted many of those patrons, he said. "I'm actually pleased with the outcome of the event as compared to the potential of this type of heavy-metal festival."

Stuart said Monday he visited Pine Knob twice during the day of OZZfest. Though Pine Knob complied with some safety concerns, Stuart said he was still worried about the number of guests staying in the parking lot during concerts. He is also concerned about the noise factor.

The last day of school is a time for bonding, laughs, and yes, shaving cream. As this group of Clarkston Middle Schoolers demonstrate, there's no better place for a good shaving cream fight than Depot Park.

PAROLED!

By far, the happiest people in Clarkston Friday were the many elementary, middle and high school students who celebrated their last day in school.

The second happiest was anyone owning stock in shaving cream companies.

At around 10:30 a.m. Friday, area students began a summer of sun, fun and well, shaving cream as the 1996-97 school year came to a close. Kids took the party with them, ranging from Dairy Dream on the corner of Maybee and Sashabaw, to Depot Park, where a hose was ready and running for all to get rid of the gooey mess. Let the summer begin!

-- By Brad Monastiere

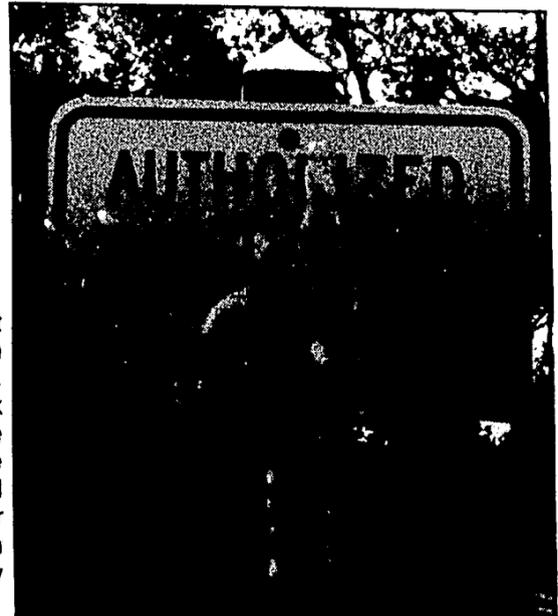

Seventh grader Mark White does his duty by hosing off some shaving cream-covered students at Depot Park Friday afternoon. White's job is a very important one, as he prevents students all over Clarkston from tracking the gooey shaving cream into their homes.

Poor Amanda Childress. Even though the Clarkston Middle School eighth grader experienced the joy of the last day of school, she got coated in shaving cream for her trouble.

Released students aren't the only prank victims on the last day of school. This sign at Depot Park took its share as well. The attack allegedly came from an unidentified seventh or eighth grader who was last seen wielding a can of silly string.

~~Haven't "Been there, done that"~~

Kids get a look into the future

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

New concepts are pretty hard for little ones to grasp, admits Andersonville Elementary principal Bill Potvin.

He likes to tell a favorite story to illustrate this point. As one of his teachers walked down the hall, a young kindergartener chirped heartily, "Hi, Jim!" Since that wasn't the teacher's name, she kept walking. The youngster called out "Hi, Jim!" again.

The teacher finally stopped — putting two and two together.

"We're going to GYM," was what the youngster thought, Potvin says. Because 'gym' and 'Jim' sound the same, "Everytime (the youngster) walked into that (gymnasium), the same teacher was there — so the kid thought, 'It must be her,'" he chuckles.

That's one of the reasons why Potvin and his staff decided to hold a special day this year to acquaint lower elementary kids with their next grade levels — and all the changes that go with them. On June 4 children in grades K-2 were introduced to teachers and classrooms they'll experience next fall.

At Andersonville, kindergarteners sampled a real first-grade scenario — eating hot lunch in the cafeteria, sitting at the bigger kids' tables and going to school all day were some examples, said kindergarten teacher Cindy Omans. And meeting all the first-grade teachers, "was a chance to put a name and face together," she added.

First- and second-graders were also acquainted with their next-year's experience, Potvin said. Holding the special day helps dispell some of the myths, like "war stories" heard on the bus — for example, "You better not get Mrs. So-and-So," he quipped.

Though the day was aimed at the whole lower elementary level, "There was more of a need for kindergarteners to find out more things than anyone else," he said. Children learned, for instance, that they would get their very own textbooks, enjoy recess and see all the "other" kids at lunch, Potvin said, noting that kindergarteners are very isolated with their half-day schedules.

In Omans' classroom last week, children were experiencing the last few days of being a kindergartener forever. They sang songs, heard stories and traveled to their different work stations. They also shared some comments about their introduction to first grade.

Several of them liked the fact that they would be doing some of the same things next year, like Shelby Ellsworth and Michael Richmond, who enjoy artwork.

Michael also likes to read. "I knew how to read before I was even in kindergarten," he said. But he also noted some of the differences. "It's more like you get to stay all day instead of half a day. And you get to go outside for recess."

Because kindergarteners in each of the K classes spend time together each day, it will make it easier because there won't be so many strange faces next year.

"We got to meet our Book Buddies," said Alisa Shirmacher. "Mine is Wendy. Yeah!" Though Wendy was in another kindergarten class, Alisa knew her from the interaction. She has the advantage of hearing first-grade stories from an older sister. "She brought home a paper that was 'claminated,'" said Alisa, solemnly.

Being sensitive to the needs of young children is very important, said Potvin. And preparing them as much as possible for next year was the motive behind the special Andersonville day.

For example, cliches like the "gym" story — which kids take literally — need to be spelled out constantly for little ones. And, like anyone, they don't want to be laughed at.

"There is a need to continually explain things to kids. They need to be comfortable in asking those 'dumb' questions — "Are we really going to see Giants

'Give them enough positive pieces and let them leave in excitement. Then they'll come back to school next fall in excitement too.'

Principal Bill Potvin

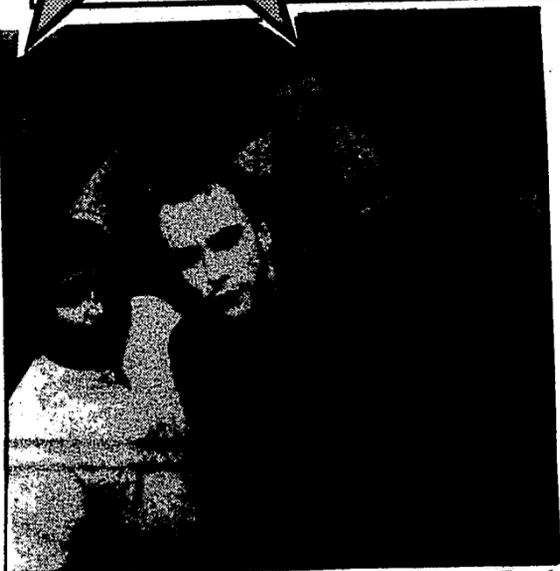

killing Dragons?" he said, imagining a typical question posed by a younger child.

Potvin, of course, was referring to the example of a newspaper headline about two sports teams which might be taken as true meaning ("real" giants and dragons).

"The first month of school for first-graders can be very tiring," Potvin added. Andersonville didn't offer the experience for fourth- and fifth-graders because they've been there, done that. "They're already familiar."

But holding the day for younger kids "helps to take the edge off." The whole point is "to allay those concerns and fears ... Give them enough positive pieces and let them leave in excitement. Then they'll come back to school next fall in excitement too," he said.

NOTES
They're just
"Too Much"

It's hard to categorize the Dave Matthews Band. Just when you dub them run-of-the-mill alternative, they surprise you with the party-down funk of "Too Much," then get you hot and bothered with the lusty musings of "Crash Into Me."

They're not your average three-guitars-and-a-drum-set either. The combo features Matthews' hypnotic vocals and acoustic guitar, and includes mates Boyd Tinsley (violin), LeRoi Moore (saxophone), Stefan Lessard (bass) and Carter Beauford, who varies his skin-bashing with occasional congas, cowbells and woodblocks.

It's tough when you're an original. But with albums like "Under The Table and Dreaming," which went triple platinum and earned two Grammy nominations with the single "What Would You Say," DMB's earned critical applause. "Details" magazine dubs them "unpeppable and totally addictive."

Recording "Crash," their current CD, was an original as well.

"We were more or less in a circle where we could all see each other," says Matthews, remembering the recording session. "That makes this album a lot more in the spirit of how we play on stage."

The follow-up CD is "way more aggressive, way more sexy, way softer and way louder," he continues. And way more experimental. Matthews says Lessard added a six-stringer and acoustic bass to the mix and Moore provided more layers with baritone sax and flute.

Besides the two hit singles, "Crash" features two of Matthews' personal favorites — "Let You Down," which speaks of betrayal from both the cheater's and cheatee's points of view, and "Say Goodbye," a lesson about friends who become lovers one night, and then wake up and smell the coffee.

In DMB's second album, Matthews admits, "I was more conscious of trying to have the lyrics be more inviting or inclusive."

Dave Matthews Band appears at Pine Knob Wednesday, June 25 at 7 p.m., wsg Los Lobos.

Kindergarteners listen raptly to one of the last stories they'll hear from teacher Debbie Licata.

Remember the Tigers?

Just in case anyone forgot, there is an active pro sports season taking place in Detroit. I know, the Red Wings' Cup championship is something worth celebrating all summer. But another team in downtown Detroit making some noise worth listening to.

The Detroit Tigers have been purring quite nicely so far this season. Buoyed by a surprisingly solid pitching staff and some excellent young hitters, this team has come a long way from the forgettable 53-109 season in 1996.

The leader of the team's rebirth is switch-hitting slugger Tony Clark. He was the team's first round pick back in 1990, the year after the Tigers lost 100-plus games in 1989. Watching Clark hit reminds me of a young Frank Thomas, with his raw power and bat speed. When Tony the Tiger nails a home run, the ball leaves the building faster than Elvis. Clark has already hit two balls on the roof of Tiger Stadium in his brief career, just two short of the stadium record held by Mark McGwire. He also has a good eye at the plate and can play serviceable defense at first base. Watch for Clark to possibly be an All Star this year.

Carrying the torch with Clark is lefthanded pitcher Justin Thompson. This guy has had the future of the franchise pinned to his back for three years now, and this season he is showing us what all the fuss is about.

He struck out Ken Griffey Jr. four times in a row over two appearances. I doubt a single pitcher in baseball can lay claim to that. He has a calmness about him and poise that is so important to young pitchers.

The third part of the team's foundation is outfielder Bobby Higginson. I foresee this guy becoming the fiery clubhouse leader, much in the same way Kirk Gibson was. He is a definite leader by example and isn't afraid to let his feelings be known vocally. Bobby is a scrappy player, but gets the most out of his talent.

Just like Clark and Thompson, Higginson is a very steady personality, is very professional about how he plays the game. These characteristics are very important when you're dealing with a rebuilding team over a 162-game schedule.

In addition to these three, you have steady Travis Fryman, the young and explosive Brian L. Hunter as the American League's leading base stealer, and the patient Buddy Bell as manager. In today's baseball caste system, where the richest teams win all the time, the Tigers don't figure to be winning anything this year, but they are a fun team, definitely worth watching.

The best thing the Tigers can hope for is a move to the lower rent A.L. Central when expansion kicks in next year. In the A.L. East, the Tigers have to share office space with big spenders like New York, Baltimore and Toronto. If baseball does the sensible thing (wishful thinking...), then the Tampa Bay Devil Rays with their expansion riches will go the East with the Tigers moving over to the Central and Kansas City jumping to the West. In the Central, Detroit's biggest rivals would be Cleveland and Chicago, teams that do have deep pockets, but are also prone to underachieving. The White Sox actually have a worse record than the Tigers right now.

So folks, be patient with the boys at Michigan and Trumbull. They bottomed out last year, but they are making real progress and are finally building a talented, youthful foundation reminiscent of 1981 when guys like Trammell, Whitaker, Gibson, Parrish, Morris and Petry were coming up together.

● One last footnote to the Stanley Cup Finals. It was not the first time a Detroit and Philadelphia franchise have met for a league championship, like many reported. Back in 1983, the Michigan Panthers defeated the Philadelphia Stars 24-22 to win the first-ever championship of the United States Football League (USFL). Leading that outstanding Panthers squad was quarterback Bobby Hebert, Michigan's Anthony Carter, and of course, who could forget kicker Novo Bojovich, from Central Michigan University. Looking back, not a bad team.

Hockey season is just getting started

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The season may have just ended for our heroes on the Detroit Red Wings, but for our younger, future heroes of hockey, a season hasn't even started yet.

Clarkston High School hockey coaches Rick Rowden and Glenn MacDonald will take a Clarkston team into the summer Detroit city arena league starting June 25. The team will be made up of many of the CHS players who were on last year's 14-6-1 team that made it to the regional finals.

The league has 12 teams made up mainly of players from their corresponding high schools, as Clarkston is. The other teams are: Grosse Pointe North, Grosse Pointe South, Trenton (1997 Class A State Champion), Dearborn, Riverview Gabriel Richard, Allen Park Cabrini (1997 Class B-C-D State Champion), Southgate Anderson, U of D Jesuit, Wyandotte, Dearborn Divine Child, Livonia Churchill, and Birmingham Unified.

Rowden said this is a very unofficial league, with no standings or statistical ratings made. It's just a time for coaches to spend with the players in preparation for the high school season, which starts around Thanksgiving.

"We have a very young club, so it will be good for us to get that exposure versus the upper-echelon teams," Rowden said.

All games take place at the Detroit City Arena, located on Lafayette Blvd., across the street from Martin Luther King Jr. High School.

Postal delivers nationally

Bret Postal, a junior at Clarkston High School, was picked to be on the Select 16 Central hockey team, a group of elite 16-year-old hockey players in the nation.

Postal was picked after he participated in a tournament made up of four teams' worth of the best 16-year-olds in Michigan. He played on one of the two Metro District teams. USA Hockey fills its national team roster from this Select 16 tournament, which will take place June 27 - July 5 at the Ice Cube in Ann Arbor. There will be 10 teams, made up of the best players in the country, playing at this tournament.

Postal was the captain and fifth-leading scorer of the CHS hockey team last winter.

Milestones

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Claxton

Stevens-Claxton

Scott and Leanne (Stevens) Claxton were married June 14, 1997 at Christ the King Church in Oxford, in a ceremony attended by 200 guests and officiated by Pastor Jon Waters. The bride was given away by her father, Larry Stevens.

A reception followed at Silver Lake Golf Club in Waterford.

Leanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Stevens of Alger, formerly of Clarkston. She received a BS in electrical engineering from GMI Engineering & Management Institute and is a system engineer for AEG Automation Systems Corp. in Rochester Hills.

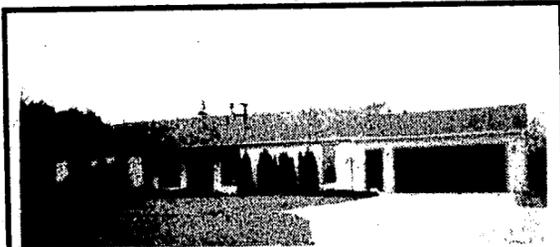

Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Griessel of Lake Orion and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Claxton of Greeley, Col. He graduated from Oxford High School and works as a control systems engineer for Questron Corp. in Auburn Hills.

The couple spent a one-week honeymoon in Trego, Mont. and now reside in Clarkston.

Pamela A. Humphrey, daughter of Evan and Clarice Humphrey of Clarkston, graduated with honors from Oakland University with a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing June 7. She is a 1989 graduate of Clarkston High School.

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

PATCHES OF WHITE

The skin condition known as vitiligo is characterized by white patches of skin caused by the loss of pigment (melanin). Vitiligo arises as a result of the pigment cells (melanocytes) having been destroyed for reasons that are not exactly clear. Advanced cases of vitiligo can be treated by the dermatologist with topical corticosteroid creams. When applied to the skin, these creams may be effective in returning pigment to small areas of vitiligo. Otherwise, the form of repigmentation therapy known as PUVA may be undertaken, which involves taking a medication called psoralens to sensitize the skin to light. The skin is then treated with a special type of ultraviolet light called UVA to return color to the skin.

Dermatologists are medical doctors, specializing in skin problems and diseases. We are best able to advise and treat various conditions ranging from allergic reactions, rashes and hives, to vitiligo and skin cancers. Contact our offices at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692); and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599) for full dermatology services. PS. People with vitiligo should use sunscreens to protect the non-pigment skin from sunburn.

Gladys (Teggerdine) Crawford

A memorial service will be held June 26 for Clarkston native Gladys (Teggerdine) McNaught Crawford, who died May 23, 1997 at the age of 95.

Mrs. Crawford was born October 31, 1901 on the Teggerdine family farm at White Lake and Andersonville roads in Clarkston. She attended school in Andersonville until eighth grade. After that she took a train (from what is now Depot Theatre) to Pontiac to attend high school. The family moved to 61 N. Main St. when her father, David, became president of Clarkston Bank.

Gladys and her first husband, Gerald McNaught, graduated from the University of Michigan in 1924 and were married in the back-yard of her parents home on the Mill Pond in 1925. They had three children, all graduates of the University of Michigan (Donald, Barbara Hunter and Marilynn Morrison). They also had 10 grandchildren.

The couple raised their children in Ferndale while Mr. McNaught worked at Chrysler and she became active in P. E. O. They visited the elder Teggerdines weekly. In 1967 when Mr. McNaught retired, the couple moved to Boca Raton, Fla. He died there in 1975.

At the age of 83, she married Dr. Clarence Crawford, president of Mankato State University in Minnesota. He died in 1996.

Mrs. Crawford returned to Clarkston in 1992 for a visit with the Jim Russell family, which at the time was living in her former family home on N. Main St. The visit occasioned a story with her reminiscences in The Clarkston News.

The memorial service will be held June 26 at 11 a.m. in the chapel of the Boca Mausoleum. Interment is in Boca Raton.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE: May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Oh Sacred heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 8th day prayers will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. IILX26-1

O HOLY ST. JUDE, apostle and martyr great in virtue and miracles, kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage, in time of need. To you I have recourse from the death of my heart and humbly beg whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys, three Glorias, for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your needs. Amen. This novena has never been known to fail. I have had my request granted. CSD. IILX25-2

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit, you who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who in all instances of my life with me, I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Say for 3 consecutive days without mentioning your petition. Your prayer will be answered. Promise to publish prayer. CSD. IILX25-2

Andrea Kathleen Stull

...or to me "Dredie", my favorite niece, (of course you always laughingly reminded me that you were my ONLY NIECE- but no matter, my favorite).

I can't believe that you have graduated from high school and will soon be going off to Western Michigan University. For me, you will always be my dear little Dredie, toddling across the yard to my house, completely oblivious of the trouble you were in for disappearing from your yard-again... "She's over here Kath, I'll bring her home". Now I know it's I who will be looking for you when you come home from Western, anxious to hear your funny stories and see your smiling face. Time has flown by so fast, taking with it my dear little niece, and leaving in her place a beautiful young woman. Andrea, you continue to be kind, caring and compassionate. I have always loved your sense of humor, your "big" smile and your "little" giggle.

Congratulations on the beginning of the next milestone in your life. Your successes have been many, and in your future, I am sure there are many more to come. I've always been proud to have you as a niece, and I want you to know that you can come running across the yard anytime you need me, even if it's only for a hug. I Love You Honey. Are You A "Baby Boomer?"

Chances are, you or someone you know is. Anyone born 1946 through 1964 is considered to be a part of this group.

For the next eighteen years, as each baby boomer turns 50, our senior citizen population will far out-number any other senior generation in recorded history!

Don't ignore this vital segment of our population. This is a group with more disposable income than our grandparents and great-grandparents could have ever imagined!

Tap into this gold mine. If they don't spend it with you, they'll spend it somewhere else.

Here at Sherman Publications, you have the opportunity to get your advertising message out there! The Mature American is our monthly senior publication, appealing to those 50 and over.

So, give us a call. The term "Business is Booming" will take on a whole new meaning!

Hershey track meet to bring state's best

Despite the name of the event, blue ribbons, not chocolate bars, will be the top prize.

Saturday, Clarkston High School hosts the 15th annual Hershey Track and Field Qualifying Meet, starting at 10 a.m. Athletes should be at the track by 9:30.

Top finishers at the meet will move on to the Hershey State Finals in Howell July 11. Last year, the Independence Township team sent 32 athletes to the state meet, with 30 coming home with medals.

Three locals heading for national tennis tourney

Three Clarkston tennis players are among the top eight in their respective age groups heading to the Western Closed Tennis Tournament in Indianapolis
July 28-Aug. 4.

Twelve-year-old Lauren Little, 16-year-old David Lynn and 18-year-old Mike Aulgur will all represent SEM TL (Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association) and are among the top 80 players from this area. They all qualified at the Muthing District Qualifier Tournament at West Bloomfield June 7-9.

Aulgur just graduated from Clarkston High School as one of its top singles players ever. He is headed to the University of North Carolina-Greensboro in the fall to play Division I tennis.

Golf and even more golf

Can't get enough time on the links? The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance has the cure for you.

The CAYA will host its fourth annual golf outing at Pine Knob Golf Course June 30.

Registration starts the day of the event with a continental breakfast at 7 a.m., followed by the 8 a.m. shotgun start. The cost is $95 for the event, which is sponsored by Bowman Chevrolet. Separate prizes will be awarded for men's women's and foursome divisions.

To register, call Amy Loughman at 625-5556,
ext. 104. If you are not part of a foursome, tournament officials will find partners for you.

● Greg Hettich, grandson of William and Sally Jackson of Clarkston, placed in the state Class C track finals at Comstock May 31. He placed third in the 110
