End of an era for Clarkston's "Cheers"

Carol's Village Grill, building sold

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Buck Kopietz had his breakfast cooked just so every morning. Like many others, he's been "a regular" at Carol's Village Grill for years.

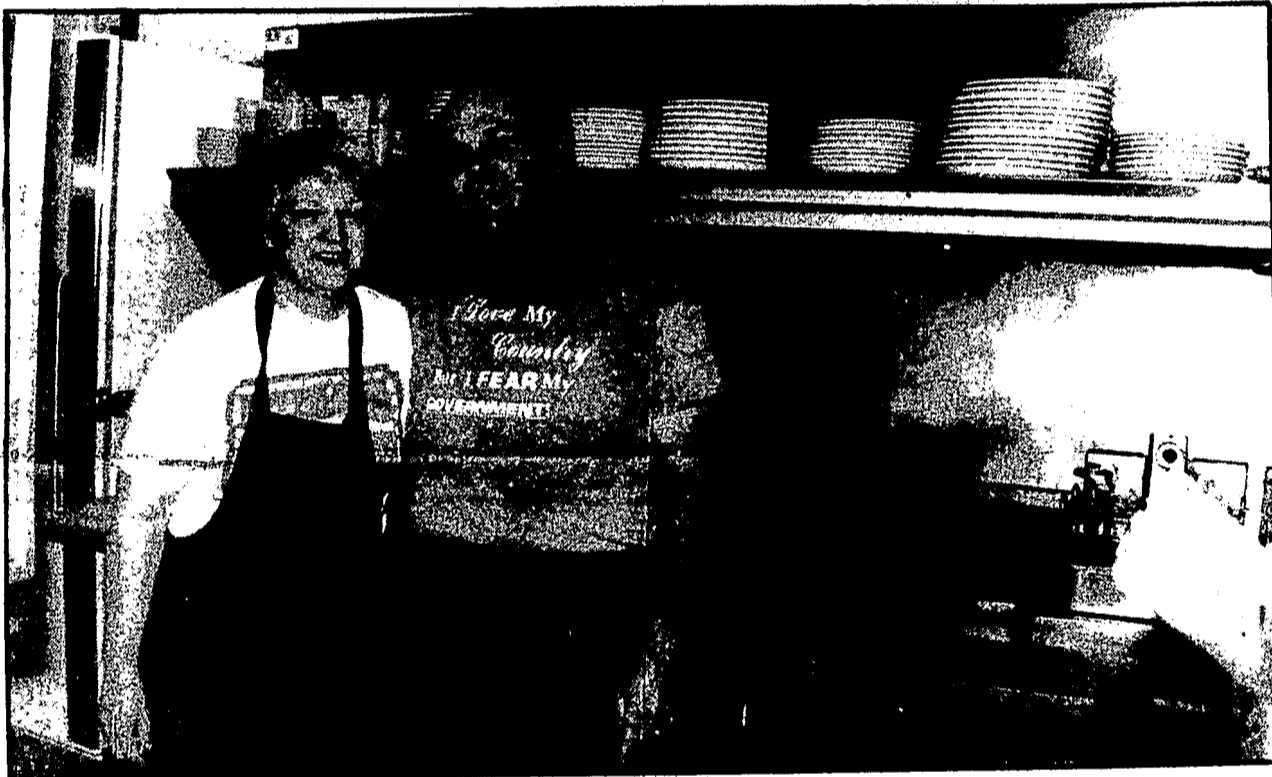

"I either had the #1, the #2 or corned beef hash with one egg on it," said the Clarkston resident, who owns both Tierra Fine Jewelers and the Millpond Inn bed and breakfast. At lunch it would be a Coney Special or a cheeseburger and fries. "That table in the back had my name on it."

Bud Collins, another resident of Clarkston, has his own unofficial perch as well. "That's my stool over there. I've had people get off it and could sit down," he quipped. "I start my day here — every day ... It's been referred to as another 'Cheers,'" said Collins, who's so familiar he's been known to "bus tables and pour coffee" to help out.

On Monday, both Kopietz and Collins said their sad good-byes to Don and Carol Borgmesser, who've owned Carol's Village Grill at the corner of Main and E. Washington in downtown Clarkston for the past 12 years. They served their last breakfasts and lunches Saturday, with many of their customers tearful, the Borgmessers said.

Carol's was officially sold Monday to new owner Peter Berishaj, Don Borgmesser said. In its place will be another restaurant, called the Motown Eatery. The new restaurant will be open for business Monday.

Berishaj has been in the restaurant business for years, owning places all through the metro Detroit area. Included in his handful of eateries is the Industry in Pontiac, Motown Coney in the Renaissance Center

Don and Carol Borgmesser, former owners of Carol's Village Grill, pose for one last picture. and in Rochester Hills.

He said entrees at Motown Eatery will include soups, sandwiches, salads and various coney-type fare.

Kopietz called the closing "the end of an era. The era has been dying for the last five years and this is kind of the end of it."

As rumored, the Rose Township couple has been trying to sell Carol's for the past few months, citing health reasons for their decision. Though they won't miss the work, they'll certainly miss the many friends they've made through the years, they say. After some rest and relaxation, Don plans to look for another job that's not as taxing.

Running a restaurant was the last thing on his mind when he considered owning his own business several years ago. He formerly managed a bowling alley where Carol later worked to learn business matters.

"I always wanted my own business but I said I'd never buy a restaurant or a bar. It just happened," he said. The couple renamed the old Village Grill to Carol's Village Grill when they opened.

Claiming he "hated" cooking, but possessed sharp managing skills, Don eventually learned the biz, relying on cooks with his wife's help. Folks would come from miles around for their food, service and sense of humor. Stories? They've got a million of 'em.

Besides a coffee-and-conversation nook, the restaurant became a popular meeting place. Though those customers were welcome, it was a pain sometimes because they'd tie up booths for hours, Don says. "One day a group came in for breakfast. They suddenly realized it was time to leave. Someone said, 'Oh, it's time for lunch.' So they had their lunch here too," he chuckles.

Most of all, they've enjoyed the people. And they learned to accommodate their special requests — sometimes accompanied by their rapid-fire wit. "What do you think this is, a restaurant?" cracks Carol, providing one example.

They saw "at least a dozen people on a daily

Planning commission OK's 2 requests

Two items considered by the Independence Township Planning Commission were approved 5-0 at the board's June 26 meeting. Commissioners Jill Palulian and Carolyn Place were absent.

Representing local veterinarian Dr. Bryan Cornwall, architect David Katz requested a rezoning of 1.35 acres on Sashabaw Rd. from industrial office park (IOP) to office service two (OS-2). Cornwall, currently located in the Food Town shopping center at Sashabaw and Waldon, wants to build an office on the new site. The commission recommended the rezoning. The next step is approval by the Board of the Trustees, followed by site plan approval from the planning commission.

In addition, Sprint Spectrum's request for co-location on an existing radio tower at the township's Department of Public Works on Flemings Lake Rd. was approved.

Health officials warn of rabies

As it has each summer in recent years, Oakland County is warning residents about the possibility of rabies in wildlife.

Over the past five years, eight bats and one skunk have tested positive for rabies in the state. In the county, approximately 10 percent of bats tested test positive. Dogs and cats can become infected with the rabies virus if not immunized.

"The Oakland County Health Division recommends not handling or attempting to feed wildlife or stray domestic animals," said Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson. "Pet owners are encouraged to get their dogs and cats vaccinated and to immediately check with their veterinarians if their pets are exposed to a possibly rabid animal."

If you are bitten by a wild animal, clean the wound with soap and water. Depending upon the seriousness of the exposure, it may be advisable to contact your doctor or the nearest emergency room.

According to Patterson, the East Coast has been experiencing a raccoon rabies epidemic and a rabid raccoon was found in Youngstown, Ohio. That has led to an alert in southeast Michigan.

County offers pre-school physicals

The Oakland County Health Division is offering free check-ups from birth to school entry for families without an HMO or Medicaid coverage.

Services include physical exams, immunizations, vision, hearing and lab tests, growth and development screening, and counseling with referrals to outside services as needed.

Clinics are offered at 14 locations county-wide. For more information or an appointment, call 858-1311 or 858-4001.

Dream becomes reality for Habitat

Five homes go up in a 'blitz build' in Pontiac

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The quiet of a sunny summer morning was broken last week by the pounding of hammers—lots of them—on a Pontiac street.

Where once there stood only weedy, overgrown fields, a convenient dumping ground for years, now five new homes are rising thanks to some people from Clarkston and other communities in northern Oakland County. The project at the corner of Adams and Allen streets is part of a statewide "Blitz Build" by Habitat for Humanity.

The effort was expected to wind up Saturday, with keys being handed over to five families who will become new homeowners after investing 250 hours of their own "sweat equity" in the project. They will then pay mortgage payments, on principal only, to Habitat, which will go toward funding future homes.

Workers showed up each morning around 6 a.m., according to Shirley Zanoni, publicity chairperson for the Habitat chapter. (The chapter is chaired by Carole Eberhardt of Clarkston.) They worked usually until 8:30 each night, but stayed as late as 10 p.m. if necessary to beat the weather.

"It's great," Zanoni said. "They weren't sure about people coming but they're coming. The way it's going, it's looking pretty good."

On a tour of the site Thursday, veteran Habitat volunteer Shirley Riley pointed out one house being built by teens age 14-18, with the help of a couple of professionals. "They are the furthest ahead," she said. "Most of them are doing it as a community service or Christian service."

Of the adults present, some were school teachers but many took vacation time from their jobs to participate, Riley said. "Every day we've had a big group."

Before the blitz began, a crew of young people cleaned up the lots to make them ready for foundation work. Then foundations were poured, and for two days before the blitz, decking was laid out.

Weather has been a factor, with heavy rains putting some work behind and the heat and sun sending workers scurrying for sunscreen. But they kept going.

As of Thursday morning, Riley said, over 500 people had showed up to volunteer sometime during the blitz. Though one house is being built pretty much by one church, the Church of the Resurrection in Lake Orion, workers do move about as needed.

"They lend out people if others need it," Riley said. "People trade off. You generally work on the same house every day but nobody says 'This is my house'."

"We have everything from unskilled people who just walked in and said 'Put me wherever.' People are willing to do just about anything." Often, if they haven't worked on a Habitat house before they have experience remodeling a kitchen or some other such project, Riley said.

Sheila Hull and her four children are one of the families chosen to become owners of one of the new homes. On Thursday, with her 250 hours of sweat equity already completed, she helped out at the site with her four kids.

Hull said the family will be moving from a two-bedroom apartment into a three-bedroom house. Application for a house had not been difficult, she said. "They came and did a home survey."

When asked if she thought the workers would make the Saturday deadline, she said optimistically, "I'm hoping."

Photos, from top to bottom: Sheila Hull, daughter Jessica, 8 and son Maurice, 7 are waiting for their home to be completed. Sashabaw Middle School teacher Jeff Peariso (right) works on a roof in the hot sun. Monica Geurin (left) and Lisa Hills work as part of a mostly girls drywall crew at one of the houses. New team hired to lead Sashabaw Middle School

Clarkston News Editor

Two new faces will greet students at Sashabaw Middle School when they return from vacation this fall.

On June 23, the Clarkston board of education officially hired John Dilegghio as principal and Charles Rowland as assistant principal at the school. They replace principal Dr. Jean Lang, who resigned, and assistant principal Mike Krystyniak, who is taking a similar position at the high school.

Assistant superintendent Duane Lewis said 52 candidates applied for the principal's job. In addition, Rowland had come in second from among 52 people who applied to be principal of Pine Knob Elementary and was then snatched up for the SMS position when it was found he was still available.

"We feel very, very good about the quality of candidates we found in our search process," Lewis said. "The process involved a strong search effort." Parents, teachers and administrators interviewed eight candidates for each position before recommending Dilegghio and Rowland to superintendent Dr. Al

Roberts. Then, their previous school districts were visited and more interviews were conducted there.

"I feel very good; I know all of us do," Lewis said. "We have two strong candidates . . . We feel especially fortunate he (Rowland) was still available to us."

Dilegghio is a Clarkston resident who had been working as assistant principal at Hartland High School since 1995. Before that he had worked as a middle school assistant principal, high school athletic director, and a teacher and counselor and the high-school and middle-school levels.

He holds a BA from Arizona State University and an MA in guidance and counseling from Oakland University. He has done additional graduate work at Madonna University, where he received administrative certification. He is certified to teach all subjects in grades seven and eight, as well as some high-school subjects, and has worked on school improvement, accreditation and curriculum.

Rowland is a Southfield resident who worked last year as a fifth-grade teacher and team leader in Birmingham Public Schools. In 1996 he served as an interim elementary school principal.

John Dilegghio is the new principal and Charles Rowland the new assistant principal of Sashabaw Middle School.

Other experience includes teaching at the middle-school level and as a special education teacher at Hawthorn Center for emotionally impaired students of a variety of ages.

Rowland has a BS in education from Wayne State University, a master of education from Marygrove College and an Ed. Specialist degree in administration from WSU. He is certified to teach special education in grades K-12 and regular education in all subjects in grades K-8.

Lewis described both men as "well rounded" and said Dilegghio's experience with school improvement and Rowland's in special education were important to their selection.

"I'm excited to get there," Dilegghio told the board of education. "Being a member of the community for awhile, I've had an opportunity to see the fine education provided (here)."

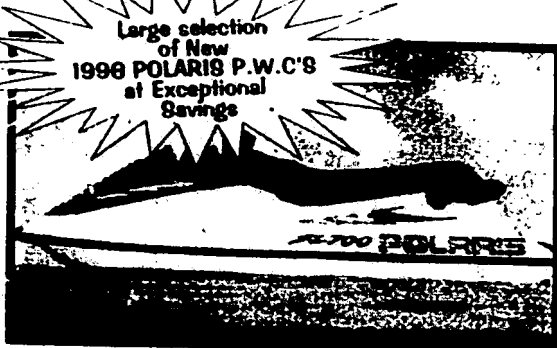

"I've heard wonderful things about the community and the school system," Rowland said. "One of the things that has been important to me is the involvement of the community in the schools."

The hirings come on the heels of the appointment of K. C. Leh as principal of Pine Knob Elementary. "Along with K. C. I think we have three very fine administrators and I'm glad to have them as part of our team," Roberts said

Internet fraud--the new frontier

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

For every new type of technology that comes along, criminals come with it. Just ask Clarkston resident Tracy Zatkoff.

Zatkoff filed a complaint with the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation June 23 stating someone is using her credit card number to purchase services over the Internet. It turns out he also used her credit-card number to open his Internet provider account, giving a phony name and address. Therefore, he cannot be located, even via his e-mail address.

Zatkoff can't figure out how the person even got the credit card number, since she's never used it herself online.

"I used a different credit card online but not this one," she said. "That's why it's so confusing. I have no idea how it happened."

When she received her bill, she called her credit card company and the companies that billed her for two unauthorized items. It turns out the charges were for what she was told was "hard core pornography."

"I said 'Oh my God, I don't do that. I play like Monopoly and checkers.'"

Since then, she has closed her account and the criminal's Internet account was also cancelled. But that's about all that apparently can be done, since no one knows who the perpetrator is.

"They say there's no way—I'm basically screwed," she said. She's appalled that better security measures are not used when someone uses a credit card

Driver injured in racetrack crash

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A crash at a private Independence Township racetrack has left a Farmington Hills man in critical condition at Henry Ford Hospital.

David Hertzberg, 54, was driving in a regular monthly race Saturday as part of the Waterford Hills Racing Club when he crashed into the wall at a turn around 2:30 p.m. Conditions were clear and dry and there were no other cars in the area at the time, according to Jerry Morlewski, president of the club.

The club is part of the Oakland County Sportsman's Club, Morlewski said, and the race is held on OCSC property on Waterford Rd. near Dixie Highway. The club holds races monthly during the summer months.

Hertzberg was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and later transferred to Henry Ford, where he remained in critical condition Tuesday. According to the report filed at the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation, Hertzberg had to be cut from his Formula Vee, open cockpit car.

According to Morlewski, the cars are similar in appearance to those raced in the Detroit Grand Prix but are powered by Volkswagen engines. He estimated Hertzberg was going about 50 mph at the time of the crash.

"He is an experienced driver. He has been racing for quite a long time," Morlewski said. "Right now he's the only one that knows what happened. We don't know why that happened."

Morlewski said Monday night that Hertzberg had not been in surgery but may face some in the future. The police report said he sustained skull and facial fractures as well as a fractured ankle.

Advice from the BBB for online services

According to the Council of Better Business Bureaus, credit fraud artists have been known to get Social Security and credit card numbers by tapping into electronic credit reports and other computer files. Valuable numbers that run your life, such as Social Security, credit cards, bank accounts and brokerage accounts are often stored in electronic files that are not always kept under digital lock and key.

Some suggestions:

- If your Internet bill is charged to your credit card, find out how your Internet service provider protects its database. If you don't like the answer, find another provider.

- Don't send account and personal numbers and passwords via e-mail, unless it's encrypted.

- Avoid easy-to-guess passwords such as your house number, name, etc. Change your password periodically and don't store it near the computer.

- Always check bank and credit card statements for accuracy. Check your credit report once a year.

- Be particularly careful about divulging your Social Security number. Employers, banks, brokerages and other businesses required to report your income have a legitimate reason for asking. Others may not.

The BBB has a website at <http://www.bbb.org>. The local branch can be reached by phone at 248-644-9100.

Ei-liners

By Eileen McCarville

Song sung boo

What's that line Bill Murray utters in "What About Bob?" There are two kinds of people in the world. Those who like Neil Diamond and those who don't.

Put me in the second group, unless, of course you're talking about early Diamond hits like "Kentucky Woman" and "Solitary Man."

But please pass me the barf bag when "I Am I Said" comes on.

Columnist/humorist Dave Barry and I agree on that one. For those of you who don't know, Barry recently put out a book entitled "Dave Barry's Book of Bad Songs," in which he pans the most wretched ditties of all time, conceding, of course, that we all differ on taste and style.

Among Barry's top clinkers, which came via survey from his readers, "MacArthur Park," sung "hyperdramatically" by Richard Harris: "I don't think that I can TAKE it. 'Cause it took so long to BAKE it. And I'll never have that recipe again. Oh NOOOOOOOOOOOO."

He included the poignant "Yummy Yummy Yummy (I Got Love in My Tummy)" by Ohio Express and, "speaking of love in a tummy, (You're) Having My Baby" by Paul Anka, which gave us the tasteful line, "You could have swept it from your life but you wouldn't do it."

I took a survey of my own pet peeves and included some from others.

Bob Jacobson, manager of the local Harmony House, and I frown on the following: "I Am I Said" which, he reminded me, contains Diamond's desperate attempt to find adequate rhyming at the end of a phrase: "And no one even heard — not even the chair." "Maneater" by Hall and Oates got a solid yuck for the metaphor, "Look out, boys, she'll chew you up."

Speaking of rhyming by default, we have composer Burt Bacharach to thank for this "What Do You Get When You Fall in Love" line sung by Dionne Warwick: "What do you get when you kiss a guy? You get enough germs to catch pneumone-ya. After you do, he'll never phone-ya ..."

Then there's the Supremes' laborious "Love Child" and the obvious follow-up, "Livin' in Shame," which contains the memorable phrase, "Came a telegram. Mama passed away while makin' home-made jam."

While fellow reporter Brad Monastiere informed me he hates anything by Whitney Houston and Weezer, editor Annette Kingsbury and I agree on the cheesy oldie "Last Kiss," in which the singer whines on about his dying love who perishes in a car crash. It contains graphic sound effects (squealing tires, etc.) as well:

"Oh where, oh where can my baby be? The Lord took her away from me. She's goin' to heaven so I got to be good, so I can see my baby when I leaa-eeve uh this uh world."

My teenage son Tyler, of course, hates all of the above and his defined "oldies" which are any tunes recorded B.N. (before Nirvana). He wanted to make sure I included "MMMBop," sung by the adorable Hanson brothers, in this column.

15 YEARS AGO (1982)

Word from the high court is "go" for Pine Knob Investment Co.'s proposed 185-foot ski ramp. The controversial 20-story ski-run-roof hotel, dominated by a $30 million lawsuit, remains on the drawing board. Pine Knob Investment Co. has had two consecutive victories in the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court. The court of appeals has concurred with Oakland County Circuit Court. In June it ruled that Pine Knob may apply for a building permit to construct its proposed ski ramp without the hotel.

Ed Santala, owner of Briarwoode Builders, is calling an all-out war on the vandals who caused $10,000 worth of damage to his model home under construction in Chestnut Hills Subdivision. He now knows their names because nails have apparently been used to carve "Jeff, Matt, John, Ron, Brian, Julie, Peter, Jodi and Karen" into the dry wall and insulation.

25 YEARS AGO (1972)

Pine Knob Music Theater has packed the people in during its first week of performance — so much so that traffic has been backed up along Sashabaw Rd., off the I-75 ramp and even along the expressway.

A good-sized crowd attends a banquet in honor of Independence Township Fire Chief Don Beach, who is retiring from the department. Friends and township officials cite Beach's many contributions to the community. "He has given of himself more than anyone will ever be aware of ... He would buy many small things from his own pocket and make trips on behalf of the fire department without turning in a bill," says toastmaster Tink Ronk, who is replacing Beach as chief.

The American rock musical "Hair" will explode at Pine Knob Music Theater on July 11

50 YEARS AGO (1947)

Again the News is published early so that all helpers may have the holiday free from ordinary duties ... It is our understanding that something is being done about the through traffic condition in Clarkston ... Now is a good time to think about outboard motors and boating ... Patterson Brothers' Circus will be in town, under the auspices of the Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, American Legion, Thursday, July 3 ... Mrs. Fred Groven and son Frederick and daughter Elaine came home from Florida a week ago Saturday. Mrs. Groven was rather tired, since her health hasn't been too good, but she is feeling better now and hopes the summer in Michigan will give her the old pep that she needs.

Playing at the Holly Theatre are Roy Rogers and Dale Evans in "Apache Rose" and Sonny Tufts and Ann Blyth in "Swell Guy."

60 YEARS AGO (1937)

When you hear a person mention a persimmon tree you think of the warm southlands and you picture folk gathering the luscious fruit. But a persimmon tree that might be of interest to folks around here is growing in A.B. Wompole's yard. Mr. Wompole planted it about eight years ago and, like Al Pearce, said, "I hope, I hope, I hope." For five winters the tree was carefully wrapped and each spring and summer it was watched just like a little child. At last one winter A. B. decided to leave it in the open. That winter just happened to be one of the coldest that this part of the country had seen in many, many years. The little tree faced the storms and the severe frost just like a sturdy oak. And now this Egyptian persimmon tree is in bud and perhaps by Sunday it will be in bloom. Visit the A.B. Wompoles and see this sight.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Just jotting

Overheard in a sports bar after the Red Wings won the Stanley Cup: "Oh well, sports are over until football." Says a lot about fan opinion of baseball and golf.

June 23 the Supreme Court issued three, 5-4 decisions. Is our Constitution so hard to understand that nine people can't agree on what it says? Or do we have Constitutional Amendments that can't be interpreted unanimously? About the only unanimous opinions the Supreme Court hands down is when they refuse to review a case, like allowing a lower court decision to stand in the Clinton-Whitewater-Starr case.

Time for another poem from Dick E. Bird, chairman of the branch and publisher of the Dick E. Bird News, Acme, MI. This one's entitled, And So It Goes:

*First a little algae in a pond goes floating by,
And asks a little water flea what it's like to fly.
The water flea knew little and never had he flew,
But he ate the little algae, that is how he grew.*

*A minnow happened through the weeds,
And spied the flea that grew.
He sucked him in a great big gulp,
He didn't even chew.*

Before the flea could settle in,

*With others who'd been ate,
Along came fish of greater size,
Who sealed the minnow's fate.*

*It was a happy, healthy fish,
Who ate the minnow whole.
He thought he ruled the universe,
'Til nature took its toll.*

*Basking in the sun alone,
Digesting his last meal,
An osprey glided overhead,
And gave that fish a feel.*

*It was a strange sensation,
As they raced into the sky,
But now that little algae knows,
What it's like to fly.*

John Patrell says, "Some people drink from the fountain of knowledge. Others just gargle."

By now I'm sure you've heard of the conversation between two 6-year-old boys ... One says, "I've got to be circumcised tomorrow." The other replies, "I hope you have better luck than me. I had it done when I was a week old and couldn't walk for a year."

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

This and that

Yuck!
By a show of hands, how many out there thought Mike Tyson's ear-chew of Evander Holyfield was one of the most revolting things shown on television?

Watching the reruns of the incident kind of reminds me of the cult classic, Night of the Living Dead.

Gross . . .
Watching the reruns also got the capitalist-pig in me thinking . . . there's got to be a way to cash in on Holyfield's pain. And, the only thing that is coming to mind is a chocolate ear-shaped cookie with cherry filling. We can call 'em EarNibblings.

I can even see a commercial coming out of this. It's a bright Saturday morning with kids sitting around the kitchen table. Mom enters the picture from stage left, wearing a skirt, apron and a toothy smile.

She places a big ol' plate of chocolate EarNibblings in the center of the table. "Here you go boys, dig in."

The camera pans in tight on each kid's face, one at a time, going around the table. Each boy looks at the ear-shaped cookies with an uneasy face, then to the kid to the right. The camera follows. Nobody grabs a cookie, then the oldest kids says, "Hey, let's have Mikey try 'em, he'll eat anything."

At the end of the table we can have a young Mike Tyson smiling gleefully as the plate of ear-shaped cookies gets passed his way.

"Hey, Mikey," the other kids finally scream, "save some for us!"

Fade to black. End of commercial.

Local electrician Willy Hyder downloaded some one-liners from the Internet and passed them along to me. I'll do my turn and pass them on to you. Never over-night today you can fax to-morrow.

Hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil and you'll never get a job working for a tabloid.

When sign makers go on strike, is anything painted on their signs?

Why is a package sent by land carrier called a "shipment," while a package sent by ship is called a "cargo?"

Why do we call them apartments when they are attached to one another?

Why isn't there mouse-flavored cat food?

Why do we call it a TV set when you only get one?

Why isn't phonetics spelled the way it sounds?

Why do television stations report power out-ages?

And finally . . .

When you open a new bag of cotton balls, is the top one meant to be thrown away?

Ruth Anderson of Clarkston writes poems about people using the letters of their names . . . here's mine:

Daring adventures Don is sure to tackle, just give him a chance.

Oceans of love are there for Don. Does he know how to capture it?

Natural he is in character. Instinct is always there for him, he was born with it.

Reporter, he is ever ready to tell it like it is.

Universal are his thoughts.

Shenanigans are in his heart; it must be the Irish in him.

Happy-go-lucky is his nature; easygoing, free and lighthearted most of the time.

We agree the three resemble David Cassidy at different ages. Tyler describes "MMMBop" as "three kids singing a Barney song; it's too happy." The chorus is worded thusly, "MMMBop. Bop, not doo-wop . . ." followed by the rhetorical, "Can you tell me? No, you can't tell me, 'cause you don't know." No wonder today's kids are searching for answers.

Others that get a solid vote are the ego trippers "I Write The Songs" by Barry Manilow and "To All the Girls I've Loved Before" by either Willie Nelson, Julio Iglesias or both (Does it matter?), "The Love Boat" theme, "(Why, why, WHY) Delilah" by Tom Jones and Maria Muldaur's "Midnight at the Oasis." (Maria does more than just put out the cat out when she wants romance. She puts her camel to bed.)

"Muskrat Love" by the Captain and Tennille, "Close to You" by the Carpenters, the sic-'em rat song "Ben" by Michael Jackson, "I'm Too Sexy" by Right Said Fred and "Play Me" by Diamond also top my list.

C'mon, all together now, let's karaoke: "I am the sun, you are the moon. I am the words, you are the tune. Playyy meeee."

Of course, my husband doesn't agree with me. Every time I rattled off my estimation of a clinker, he said, "That's a great song" and proceeded to warble a few lines.

In fact, this morning when he took his shower I heard him reaffirming his existence. I made out the unmistakable strains of "I Am I Said" from behind the bathroom door.

An open letter to our State Senators

Dear Senators John Cherry and Mat Dunaskiss,

The 1996 amendments to the Federal Safe Drinking Water Act provide Michigan with a unique opportunity to improve our drinking water. The amendments provide federal money to support source water and well head protection programs at the community level.

The state will have to provide 20% matching funds. Based upon this requirement the Michigan House has passed HB-4465.

It is now up to the Senate to pass this important legislation.

The North Area Citizens Conference has repeatedly urged our legislators and others to implement a program as large areas need safe drinking water.

The problems with source and ground water will not go away by themselves. We ask NOW for speedy enacting legislation.

Sincerely,
Henry Gleimer
President

North Area Citizens Conference

How are you beating the heat?

SHAUN CHIODO, CLARKSTON: Staying inside my house where its air-conditioned.

MICHAEL O'BRIEN, DAVISBURG: Drinking lots of water. Today at work I sat in a trailer all day. You know the huge Evian bottles they have? I bought three of those today. I drank them all.

JOHN LEECE, CLARKSTON: Sitting in front of the fan.

KENNY KIDWELL, CLARKSTON: Eating ice cream.

CHARLENE WALLACE, WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP: I'm in sales. Let me tell you, I've been roasting. I'm in and out of all my accounts and into my car with the air conditioning to cool down. But I love summer. I'd rather be sweating than freezing.

It's been fun, but . . .

Two longtime employees retire from Clarkston store

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

One might think that in today's giant grocery stores, people don't notice the faces. And while Don Moody says that's part of the trade-off, you wouldn't have guessed that Friday morning.

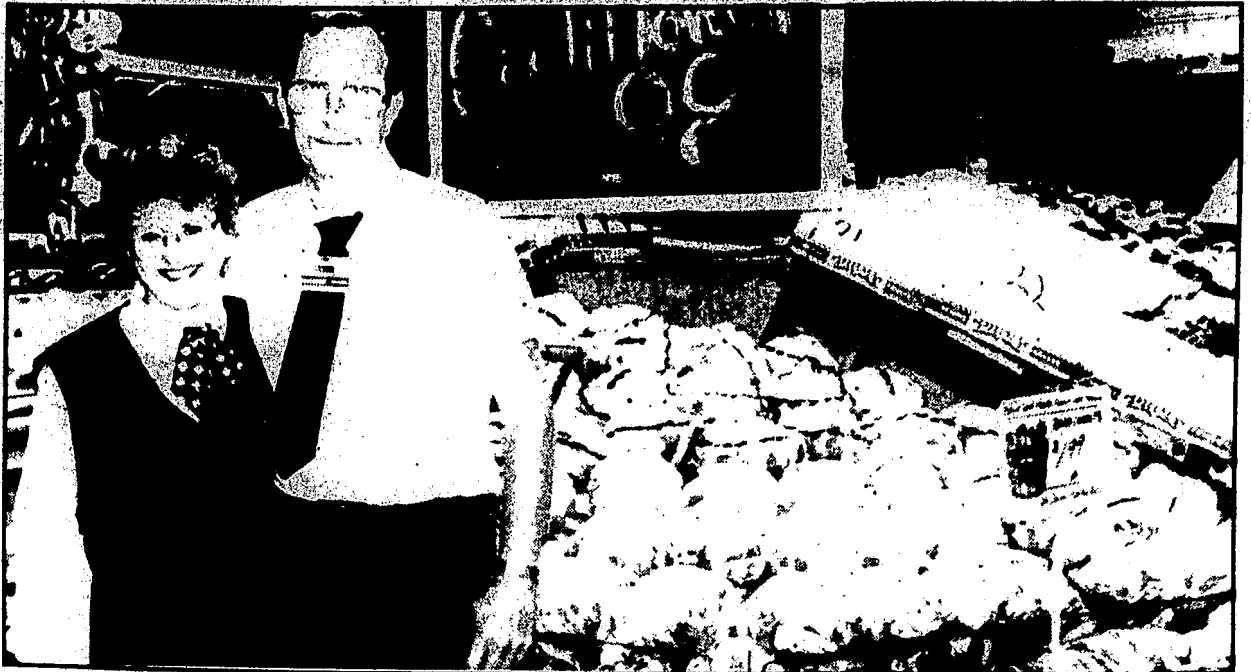

Moody and coworker Kathy Woods Galbraith, both of Clarkston, were both retiring that afternoon after over 40 years each with A & P, the parent company of Farmer Jack. Both worked, until 1:30 p.m. Friday, at the Clarkston Farmer Jack store. And as they took a few minutes to talk about retirement, customers kept interrupting. They wanted to give a hug or a wish for good luck.

Both started with A & P at the company's Drayton Plains store, Galbraith in 1954, Moody in 1956. Ironically, Galbraith had previously worked for the Borman family, which would go on to own Farmer Jack before selling it to A & P. Both were members of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union local 876.

Galbraith, 61, said she started at the store because "I was a single parent most of my life." Starting as a cashier she was quickly promoted to bookkeeper, then head bookkeeper.

Moody, 60, said his family owned a mom-and-pop store in Pontiac, so he grew up in the business. "There isn't anything he hasn't done," Galbraith said of her longtime coworker. He retired as a receiving clerk but had served in every capacity from cashier to produce manager, the latter when there was an A & P at the corner of M-15 and Dixie.

"I know a lot of people," he said, as a few stopped by to offer farewells. "I talk to people. If you don't like people, you're in the wrong business."

Kathy Woods Galbraith and Don Moody on their last day after 40-plus years with the A & P company.

Neither said they had specific plans for retirement. "Anything we want," Galbraith said. Both like to travel. A member of the Nomads travel club with her husband, Galbraith said, "Every time they put up an offer to our liking, we're gone." She also said her husband bought her a fishing boat.

"He bought you a cabin cruiser," Moody joked. He has a woodworking shop, works metal and other materials as well, and has enough work stored up to last him the next year or more. "You break it, I fix it," he said.

Each has two grandchildren; neither expects to miss the job. "How long are we going to miss it—10, 15 seconds?" Galbraith joked.

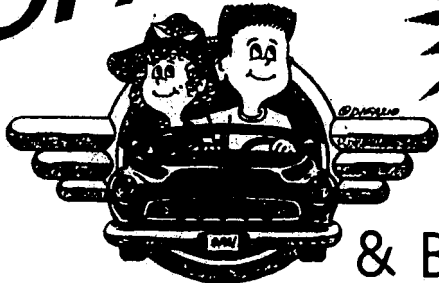

Both say things have changed in the grocery business in 40 years. "They promoted us on our abilities (before); now they promote us on our seniority with the union. And that doesn't work," Galbraith averred.

Moody remembered how, in his parents' store, "We had customers who shopped that little shop every day. That was their entertainment. You lose that in these big places."

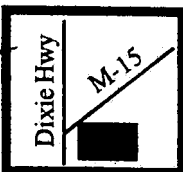

Still, he was philosophical, noting that both big stores and small stores have their place and their fans. He's optimistic they can coexist.

"There's still a place for them . . . They'll survive if they do it right."

felines, though rarely. Harlton said he diagnosed a case way back in 1973.

"That was considered very, very rare and I thought I'd seen one of the first cases in cats," he said. In fact, the case was published in a magazine. However, in the intervening years, "the topic of heartworm in cats was practically nonexistent among vets."

Prescott, of the MVMA, said that's changed. "We've just figured out cats can get it," he said. "You're going to see an increased awareness of heartworm in cats." He said a new antigen test will reveal the presence of infection much earlier than the current blood test, which looks for actual larvae.

Both doctors agree that when it comes to prevention medication for cats, most vets aren't recommending it, though it is available from the makers of Heartguard.

"In my professional opinion it's still very rare," Harlton said. "I personally do not recommend on a routine basis heartworm testing for cats." The owner of three cats himself, Harlton said they haven't been tested.

But Prescott took the longer view. "I'm old enough to remember when people said 'Heartworm's not going to bother dogs in Michigan. That's a southern problem.'"

Vision 2020 Strategic Plan presented

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On a clear day you can see forever, so goes the Barbra Streisand song. Independence Township just wants to see at least the next 20 years.

On June 19 the township's Vision 2020 Strategic Plan was presented, complete with elaborate charts, refreshments and speeches, by officials at the new township fire station on Citation Dr.

The public meeting was the culmination of Phase II, several months of scrutiny by study groups and a visioning workshop. The various groups identified, examined and evaluated community issues and formulated strategies to get a clear picture of what the township would like to look like as increasing growth and development carries it into the next century.

Prior to Vision 2020, township supervisor Dale Stuart and planning consultant Dick Carlisle, who considered updating the master plan, saw the need for future direction. Developing Vision 2020 allowed them to embark on a systematic planning process that would investigate "past trends, current conditions and alternative futures for the township," according to the report.

During an introductory speech Stuart said he "had a dream" that the township "would come together to set a course for what the township would look like in the future" and find "a rational basis for every tenet of our growth objectives."

Citing the plan's uniqueness, Stuart added, "It is more complete, more resourceful ... than any document you will find in the state of Michigan."

Over the past few months people from all walks of life, including township and City of Clarkston officials, business representatives, planners, engineers and residents, have met in study groups, each headed by a member of the planning commission, to study the following issues: historic, rural, open space and natural resource preservation; residential, commercial and industrial land use; transportation; and community facilities, utilities and services.

Some examples of strong priorities they found include good schools, adequate roads, housing for all stages of life, pedestrian walkways and land preservation.

Phase I, Background Studies, which developed the above topics, has been completed. Phase II, the Strategic Plan, which closely investigated these issues and goals, is expected to be adopted by the township's Board of Trustees at a future meeting.

Finally, Phase III, updating the township's Master Plan, which, according to Vision 2020, "takes into consideration the goals and strategies found in the Strategic Plan," is expected to be adopted by the end of 1997, Carlisle said.

Within the plan are six geographic areas targeted for development or remedial emphasis. Called "Target Plans," they include the following: the Northwest Area, the M-15/1-75 Interchange Area, the Sashabaw Corridor, the Pine Knob Area, the White Lake Rd. Corridor and Northwest Dixie Highway.

Carlisle called Vision 2020 "a challenge" to conventional thinking so "the things you value, those of you who live and work here, could be preserved." The Strategic Plan was a very complex effort, he said, but one that, by virtue of including the entire community, put people in not a defensive but "an active mode."

"The spirit of all this has been to foster, to encourage community participation," he said.

Referring to the plan's creative process, planning commission chair Steve Board, one of the key players with Stuart and Carlisle, said, "We cannot build a future we cannot imagine ... We attempted to create a system that's realistic, that's obtainable ... all with continuing the goal we have for this community."

Board said he is often asked, "Why do you drive so far to work every day?" His answer: "I like where I live." Board went on to say what makes this community so special for himself and his family, citing the charming rural atmosphere of Independence with its picturesque farms, horses and the like.

"I'd like my son to see that horse when he's 20," he said.

Carlisle said Vision 2020 will be updated as the township grows.

"Now we know so much more as a result of this effort," he said. "Hopefully we have set up some kind of an arrangement to take up the torch and carry on."

A series highlighting each of the five remaining Vision 2020 Target Plans will be a forthcoming presentation by the Clarkston News. A story on the Sashabaw Corridor was presented in a previous issue. The July 19 Vision 2020 Strategic Plan meeting is expected to be televised on the township's cable access station at a future date.

Heartworm making a comeback?

Despite availability of preventive medication, local vet notes increase in cases

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Dr. Bruce Harlton, DVM, is worried.

Usually in his veterinary practice on Main St. in Clarkston he only sees a handful of heartworm cases in a calendar year. But this year, he's already seen about a dozen, and the year's only half over. He's not sure why.

"Every year we've seen less and less heartworm disease so we feel very good about this," he said last week. "All of a sudden by the end of May we've treated 10 dogs."

Since there is no reporting requirement for heartworm, there are no accurate statistics kept and no way to say whether other vets are seeing the same increases. In 1996, voluntary reporting by the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association showed 819 cases of heartworm disease in Oakland County. "It's gone up every year," Harlton said, though that had not been the case in his practice. Until now.

"It's a hard thing to evaluate," said Peter Prescott, spokesman for the MVMA. "If there's an increase in testing we may be convincing more people to get their dogs tested. It's transmitted by mosquito, so if you had a bad mosquito season last year you could see an increase in heartworm this year."

What's especially troubling to Harlton, though, is that several of the dogs he saw this year with heartworm had been treated with a preventive medicine, leading him to believe it wasn't administered properly.

Heartworm is appropriately named. Entering the body of the dog in a larval stage (after the mosquito has already bitten an infected dog). The larvae grow into long, thin adult worms that attach themselves to the dog's heart and fill up the pulmonary artery, the artery leading to the lung.

"Anything that fills up that pulmonary artery obviously causes disease," Harlton said. Just like in humans, when the artery is clogged, it can lead to heart failure by restricting the flow of blood. And when the heart fails, "then everything else fails," Harlton said.

From the time a dog is bitten until the heartworms reach adult stage is about six months, Harlton said, during which time there are no symptoms. A dog "may not show any clinical symptoms for one to two years after that. The problem with that is by the time the dog is presented with clinical symptoms (coughing, lethargy, passing out) the heart may be damaged to the point where it cannot be repaired."

The good news is that heartworm is preventable, and treatable, though treatment is dangerous. Veterinarians recommend all dogs be tested once a year, in the spring, at the beginning of mosquito season. If they test negative, they can be put on a once-a-month preventive called Heartguard, just during the mosquito months. Heartguard is not recommended unless a dog has tested negative.

"That's the real point I try to emphasize," Harlton said. "If we can test them before they become clinical we can help that dog."

Heartguard is chewable and looks like a piece of meat (Harlton calls it a meat loaf) and is a treat for 99 percent of dogs, Harlton said. It is also available in pill form. It has no known side effects. It works on the heartworm in the larval stages, killing it so it never reaches the point of attaching to the heart. It only stays in the dog's system for about eight hours.

"This is a very, very safe drug," Harlton said. Cost is $5-$10 a month, depending upon the size of the dog.

If a dog isn't tested until symptoms appear and must then be treated for a heartworm infection, the treatment of choice is arsenic, a poison. It must be administered to kill the worms slowly so they don't completely clog the artery as they die.

"That's what makes it so hard to treat," Harlton said. "We have to do literally a sub-clinical dose of arsenic." Four doses are administered intravenously over two days. Then the dog must be kept quiet with enforced rest for about a month.

"The success of the treatment depends on the health of the dog to begin with," such as age and how long it had been infected. "It's always risky."

Harlton is optimistic since new drugs are in trials right now that may make arsenic obsolete. Still, the best treatment is prevention.

Harlton thinks dogs that live in semi-rural, wet areas like Independence Township and the rest of northern Oakland County are more likely to be at risk for heartworm because of the number of mosquitoes. His colleagues in more urban areas tell him they don't see as much heartworm as he does.

basis," Don muses. Of course they'd alter the menu a little to make them happy. For instance, as soon as Don saw a familiar face walking across Main St., "Carol would set 'em up and I put their food on." Or if local therapist Stan Garwood came in he dined on deep-fried French toast. "And we don't do deep-fried French toast for everyone," Carol points out.

There are many memories and milestones, they say. "We've seen kids grow up. We've seen them two weeks after they're born and then till they're 10 years old," says Carol. A Rochester Hills couple, for example, has been coming to the restaurant every Saturday. Their daughter Christina is now six years old and very fond of Carol.

When she was told the Borgessers would be leaving, she "put her head to the wall and wouldn't talk to me," Carol said. But later "she came back to the grill and I picked her up."

The Rochester Hills couple makes the pilgrimage to Carol's because "the other restaurants don't measure up to our standards," Carol continues. "They tell us they use us as a guide, a measuring stick."

It's a rare combination of food and friendship, she admits. One customer told her, "This is one of the few places you can go and just talk to people."

Even the dogs dined well, chained to a post while their masters ate inside. Carol would frequently bring them hot dogs, and ice cream when the weather was warm. Sometimes she took them home with her, calling their owners if they were lost, or finding them new homes if they were strays.

Leaving all those times is going to be "the hardest part," says Carol. "This has been a big part of our social life."

Since Saturday, friends have poured in. Other not-so-frequent guests have also stopped by, surprised to see the "Closed" sign on the door.

"Oh, I'm so bummed," said Holly resident Elmo Apple, who arrived with a friend for breakfast Monday morning.

Collins, who was helping the Borgessers clean up the building, said he's been fielding lots of calls. "Some lady just called. She wanted to know if they'd have the same cooks again."

Added Don with a smile, "A lot of people are asking, 'Are you going to teach them how to fix the omelets before you leave?'"

Internet fraud hard to stop

over the Internet.

"When I call my credit card company they ask for my mother's maiden name and all kinds of questions," she said. "You'd think they'd have something like that on the Internet."

Both the Detroit Better Business Bureau and an Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor said they have not had complaints about such fraud. Generally speaking, credit card holders are protected once they report such illegal uses over $50.

Assistant prosecutor Marcel Hurt said he has heard the state legislature is considering legislation that will include all telephone devices in the criminal codes. Since the Internet is provided over telephone lines, it would be covered.

It's not unusual these days to buy services and goods and give credit card information over the Internet. Such sites usually come with a statement that the service is "secure," meaning no one but the receiver and sender can retrieve the information.

However, Holly Cherico of the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc. in Arlington, VA. said passwords and credit card account numbers must be carefully protected. The Council has issued alerts regarding the crimes of identity fraud, financial privacy in cyberspace and what it calls the "hijacking" of accounts via the Internet. Cherico said she herself has received unsolicited e-mail offering applications for credit cards. One of them ends with the line, "Best of all, you may never have to pay for anything you charge!"

"Such offers must be carefully evaluated," she said.

Though Zatkoff filed her police report as requested by her credit card company, she's not optimistic anything can be done. "They said 'We'll do everything we can but it doesn't look good.'"

A 41-year-old Clarkston woman was arrested on an outstanding shoplifting warrant after deputies were called to her Waldon Rd. home on a family trouble complaint. It was the second time they had been there that day.

A Honda minibike was stolen from a front yard on Snowapple. Golf clubs were also stolen from a car at another address on Snowapple.

A 1994 Chevy van parked "for sale" on a corner on Eston had its windows broken out overnight.

Putting the action in Ozone Action! days

OK. So it's going to be an Ozone Action! day. But what exactly does that mean besides hot and sunny? What's the "action" implied in the term?

Ozone Action! days aren't just some new-fangled type of warning, like the heat index or the windchill. The point of making the public aware that certain conditions contribute to excessive ozone is that protective measures can be taken.

Such actions revolve around reducing the emissions that contribute to excessive ground-level ozone formation, according to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). Cutting the grass with a gas lawn mower and fueling up your car are two things that can be avoided on Ozone Action! days that can make a difference.

Ozone Action! days are tracked by the Clean Air Coalition, which generally issues an alert at 3 p.m. the day before an Ozone Action! day is expected, based on weather forecasts. Businesses can receive early notification through a free fax service.

What can you do? Here are a few suggestions from SEMCOG:

On the road

- plan ahead so you won't need to buy gas on Ozone Action! days.
- If you must refuel, avoid spilling gas and don't "top off" the tank. Fueling creates its own emissions as vapors in the tank are displaced.
- Make sure your gas cap seals tightly. If it's missing, replace it.
- If you must refuel, do so during cooler evening hours when emissions can disperse before the morning sun.

● Don't idle an engine unnecessarily. idling for more than about 30 seconds produces more hydrocarbon emissions than turning off and restarting the engine.

● Minimize "cold starts" by combining trips so your catalytic converter remains warm. Most emissions occur when the converter is cold and inefficient.

● Limit your driving on Ozone Action! days. Consider telecommuting, car pooling, or, for short trips, riding a bike or walking. SEMCOG's RideShare program can help.

● Drive your lowest emission vehicle, usually your newest car. Maintain your vehicle according to manufacturer's engine tune-up and emission control standards.

At home

● Don't mow your lawn with a gas-powered mower or use other gas-powered equipment such as trimmers. If you must, wait until the cooler evening hours.

● Avoid using oil-based paints and other solvents. Avoid using sprayers to cut down on fumes.

● Avoid charcoal lighter fluid when barbecuing.

For more information, contact SEMCOG at their Internet website www.semco.org/ozoneaction. E-mail may be directed to Ozoneaction@semco.org. There is also a free hotline at 1-800-66-33-AIR. Or fax 313-961-4266.

Dick retiring from Oakland Schools

Clarkston resident Dr. Herman Dick retired Friday from his job as deputy superintendent of the Oakland Intermediate School District after 30 years with the district.

Dick joined the district in 1967 as a consultant for the mentally impaired. From there he moved to curriculum management and developed the MEAD program, a special education curriculum used extensively in Michigan and several other states.

Before becoming Oakland Schools' Director of Special Education in 1985, Dick worked with Trainably Mentally Impaired and Center programs. As Director of Special Education, he saw the passing of the first county-wide special education millage in 20 years.

Promotion to the position of Deputy Superintendent came in 1990. Dick described the position as one of oversight of operations of the district's headquarters on Pontiac Lake Rd. In 1994 he served as acting superintendent while the superintendency was vacant.

Dick and his wife Marietta have been Clarkston residents for six years and have two children, one living in Clarkston, one in Rochester. He said he has no specific plans for his retirement. He and his wife are collectors of children's antiques.

Dick's replacement is Rick Simonson, who is the longtime assistant superintendent for legislative affairs and the district's legislative lobbyist. Simonson's old job will be filled by Brian Whiston, a former legislative aide who is now a Waterford school board member and certified teacher.

THE LAW & YOU

by Robert E. Kostin
Attorney at Law

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

All too often, accident victims with legitimate personal injury claims fail to take the proper steps to recover damages. In some cases, these victims decide not to seek the services of a lawyer because they assume the accidents were their fault. Others stonically refuse to seek medical treatment for their injuries, thereby rendering them unable to prove that the accidents caused their injuries. There are also those who drastically underestimate the true value of their cases. They accept paltry settlement offers and sign releases that preclude them from recovering additional money. In all these cases, a better course of action would have been to suspend judgment about guilt, receive medical attention, and consult an attorney. HINT: The typical personal injury lawsuit is settled in private negotiations before trial. You are far better off consulting an attorney just to find out what the possibilities are for your particular situation than you are trying to tough it out yourself without receiving the proper advice. If you have been injured, get the legal muscle behind you that can really make a difference in the outcome of your case. At our offices, you'll meet attorneys who know what to do to make your life easier. Call 620-1030 to set up an appointment. We are conveniently located at 11 North Street.

A youngster gets a swimming lesson from his mom.

With temperatures in the nineties last Tuesday, it was the perfect afternoon to enjoy some surf and turf at Bay Court Beach.

Surf because the cool water beat the heat. Turf because the new beach has much to offer, with a brand-new beach house that includes concessions, a first-aid station, a multi-purpose room with a fireplace, restrooms, changing facilities and a long ramp with handicapped accessibility that meanders down a hill to Green's Lake.

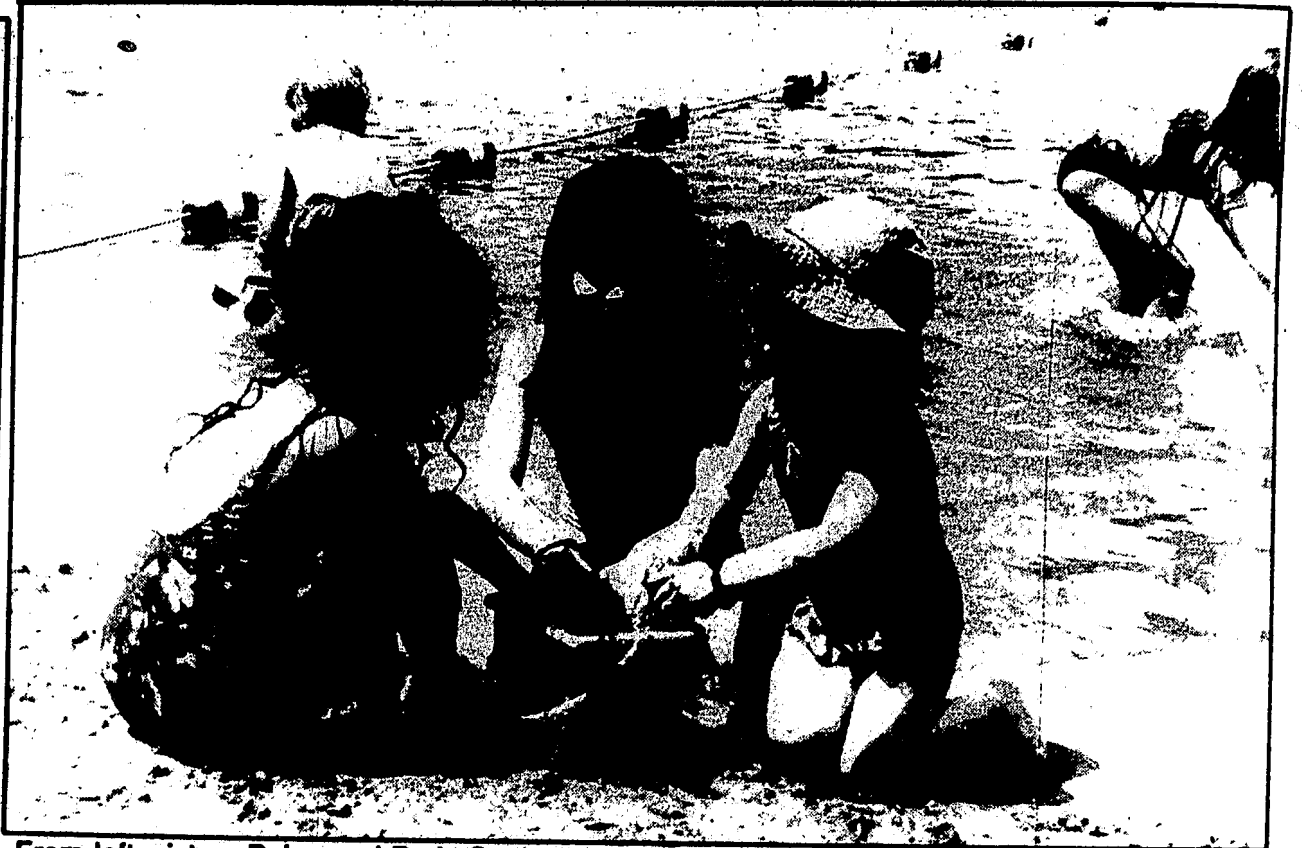

Like Deer Lake Beach, the other swimmin' hole in Clarkston, Bay Court stays open from Memorial Day through Labor Day, affording yet another amenity for beach buffs in the area.

According to Independence Township Parks and Rec. lifeguard Nathan Smith, the beach has been there since 1920 and used for various purposes throughout the years. The township bought it as part of the Bay Court Park project in 1988.

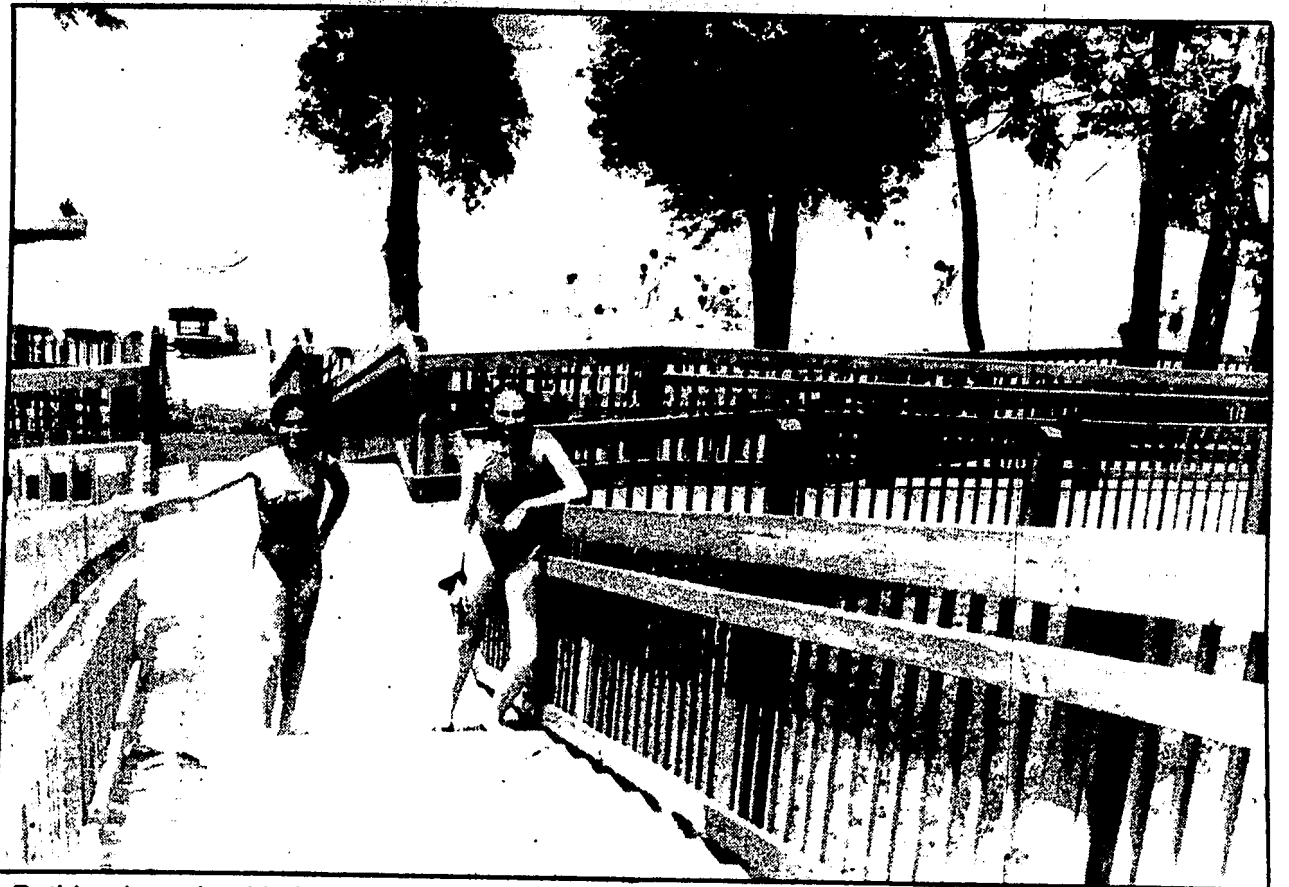

So far, people have commented how much they like the scenery, the quiet and the fact that their kids can enjoy the playscape after they're dry, Smith said.

One mom running after a wayward toddler said she was glad to be able to "grab a Popsicle from the concession stand" whenever necessary.

Bathing beauties Lindsay Townsend (left) and Meagan Campbell, both Sashabaw Middle School students, grace the rambling deck-like staircase to the beach.

Castles in the sand? Not! Chris Cox is building sand animals which include a crab, a turtle and — you won't find them on most beaches — an elephant.

Huey Lewis

Bobby Lewis

Lonesome & Blue

Concert series begins Friday

Like the 1986 hit "Stuck With You," Huey Lewis & the News has fastened itself securely in the hearts of its faithful fans.

For the past 18 years the band has served up a simple platter of straight-ahead rock without frills or gimmicks. In the process it's sold over 20 million albums worldwide and rightfully earned its first greatest hits album, "Time Flies ... The Best of Huey Lewis & The News."

The 16-song release is packed with classic favorites like "Heart and Soul," "I Want A New Drug," "Power of Love" from the 1985 film "Back To The Future" and, of course, the endearing anthem, "The Heart Of Rock 'n' Roll." The package also includes two hits that were never released as singles, "Bad Is Bad" and "Trouble in Paradise." New songs on the album include "When The Time Has Come," "Til The Day After," "So Little Kindness" and a new single, "100 Years From Now."

Huey Lewis & The News was officially formed in 1979, after a humble beginning in California Bay Area rock clubs. Besides vocal lead Lewis, the current Staying in town for the holiday? You might want to visit Depot Park July 4 when the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Concert in the Park series kicks off with "Lonesome & Blue," a bluegrass band recently profiled in "The Detroit News."

Described as a cross between artists as diverse as Earl Scraggs, Benny Goodman, Ella Fitzgerald and classical great Ludwig van Beethoven, the band features three-part harmony with both original and traditional toe-tapping tunes.

Dennis Cyporyn, banjo player and composer, is best known for his own group, The Dennis Cyporyn Band, which has won five awards at the Detroit Music Awards and captured several nominations from IBMA and The Motor City Music Awards. Following the Clarkston gig, they'll appear at the Ark in Ann Arbor July 11 and warm up for country star Trisha Yearwood at the Clio Amphitheater July 9.

Besides Cyporyn, the group includes guitarist and lead singer Larry Hadsall, mandolinist/cellist Pooh Stevenson and acoustic bassist Christee McNeil.

The following artists are also part of the July-only series. They should sound familiar since they've performed here before:

● July 11, Bobby Lewis and the Cracker Jack Band. The group features Lewis on a variety of guitars and banjo, Dave Eversole on bass, Willy Grimm on keyboards and guitar, and drummer Robby Stawinski. Members serve up everything from light jazz to bluegrass to rock, including some hits by Billy Joel, Elton John and Motown. Renowned Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert calls them one of Detroit's top ten bands and "best-kept secrets."

● July 18, One Flight Up. If you miss Peter, Paul and Mary or the Kingston Trio, check out this folktinged group that's described as appealing to both young and old.

● July 25, Moose and Da Sharks. One of the most requested bands for the Concerts in the Park series, Moose and his gang invite the audience to sing, clap, whistle, stomp and dance to oldies from the '50s and '60s.

All concerts begin at 7 p.m. and end around 9 p.m. at Depot Park on Depot St. in Clarkston. Call the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce at (248) 625-8055 for more information.

Len Bokuniewicz of Clarkston is on the right. Pictured with him are gold medalist Mike Lloyd of Holland and silver medalist Jerry Wallace of Ann Arbor. The three competed in the 100 meter dash in the Michigan Senior Olympics, age 50-54 bracket.

Kids qualify for Hershey's meet

Twenty-four Clarkston youths burned up the CHS track on June 21 well enough to qualify for the state level of the Hershey's track and field meet July 11.

Qualifiers from Clarkston are: (9-10) Ryan Breen - 50 dash, long jump; Brad Welbourn - 100 dash, 400 dash, softball throw; Michael Zack - 200 dash; Lauren Smith - long jump, 50 dash; Michelle Zeile - 100 dash, softball throw; Emily Munchiando - 200 dash; Cassie Klein - 400 dash.

Ages 11-12: Andrew Breen - 400 dash, 800 run, long jump; Evan Schneider - 100 dash; Nick Munchiando - 200 dash; Kyle Sweeney - softball throw; Katelyn Armstrong - 200 dash, long jump; Rachel Huble - 400 dash, softball throw; Christyn Rueter - 800 run; Stephanie Parkin - 100 dash.

Ages 13-14: Eric Sweeney - 1600 run, long jump; Ryan Cicciolone - 200 dash, softball throw; Blake Harlow - 800 run; Jerad Morales - 100 dash; Laura Barnett - 100 dash, 200 dash; Lauren Welbourn - 800 run; Sarah Voss - 1600 run; Lindsey Russel - long jump; Olivia Lowrey - softball throw.

A 4x100 relay team from each age group also qualified. The state finals take place in Howell.

First time Senior Olympian calls competing a 'blast'

Clarkston man has sights set on nationals--next year

Len Bokuniewicz has spent plenty of days watching his children compete in athletic events. This year, he decided to turn the tables on them.

A former high-school hurdler before knee injuries ended his career, Bokuniewicz, who turned 50 this year, decided to enter the Michigan Senior Olympics this year in the 100 meter dash. His competition would be other state men ages 50-54.

The race took place June 21 in Frankenmuth. Bokuniewicz placed third for a bronze medal, only one second behind the first-place finisher.

By day a creative director with Ross Roy Communications in Bloomfield Hills, Bokuniewicz started training seriously last winter. He already worked out with weights and for the last two years played basketball at Andersonville Elementary, "where I was usually the fastest guy on the floor, despite being the oldest," he says.

During the winter he began stretching exercises and in April began running outdoors. He also ran sprints when his two sons' Riverdawn baseball teams warmed up for games.

"I was getting in good shape when in mid-May I pulled a hamstring," he says. In the next few weeks he pulled it again two more times. "So I really didn't train much in the last 30 days before the meet."

On race day, the family, including wife Debbie, sons Nick and Gordon and twin daughters Erin and Lindsay, piled in the car for the trip to Frankenmuth.

"I was pumped about competing," Bokuniewicz says. "I had just finished reading Kirk Gibson's autobiography where he tells athletes to think positively and 'defeat the beast.' So that's what I tried to do."

Bokuniewicz finished third in the 100 meters in 13.3 seconds. The winner, Mike Lloyd of Holland, won the race in 12.3. Bokuniewicz also entered the 200 meters, but pulled that hamstring again at the 30-meter mark. Nevertheless, he says the whole experience was "a blast."

"My kids had a chance to see me compete for a change instead of me being in the stands for them. It was even a thrill to buy my first pair of track spikes in 35 years."

Bokuniewicz said he's thinking about trying again next year, a qualifying year for the National Senior Olympics in Orlando.

"Meanwhile," he says, "I've gotten a chuckle out of telling people I'm the 'third fastest human—in Michigan, age 50-54.'"

Riverdawn roundup

The 14-year-old Riverdawn boys have been on a hot streak, winning four in a row over the June 20-22 weekend.

The Clarkston offense was in high gear June 22, as the 'Dawgs swept the Yankees in a doubleheader to up their record to 11-5. In game one, an 8-7 win, Dan Holody scored the winning run. He singled, stole second, advanced to third on a sacrifice and scored on a passed ball. Game two was much less dramatic, as Clarkston scored 24 runs on 23 hits. Carl Smith ripped three doubles, Matt Smith had three hits, and Trevor Manuel went 3-for-4 for the third game in a row to lead the Riverdawn offense. Kevin Jenks pitched five innings while allowing only five hits. At the plate, he went 3-for-5 with a triple and a double.

On June 20, the 'Dawgs ripped the Rochester Prowlers 14-4, thanks to Holoday and Lance Piechura, who combined to drive in half of Clarkston's runs. Manuel scored three runs also.

The Lady 'Dawgs have also been on a roll this season. They kept up an undefeated season with a 15-2, 17-2 sweep of Hartland June 25.

Lacie Rudolph keyed the game one win, going the distance on the mound and adding a three-run homer. Nicole Thrift and Lindsey Talbot also knocked key hits.

In the second game, a five-inning mercy rule game, Kristen Falck, Bonnie Edgar, Diana Doyle and Kathi Wiegand each collected two hits. Mary Warchuck and Rudolph each pounded out triples in the win.

Fireworks safety: Do you know what's legal?

The fireworks season has arrived and the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division is reminding everyone to be careful with fireworks and to follow the law.

Every year there are hundreds of injuries and numerous fires as a result of fireworks. In fact, approximately 11,000 Americans sustained some type of injury from fireworks last year. Most of the injuries are caused by serious misuse of the fireworks.

Children from age 5 to 14 are the ones most frequently involved in fireworks related injuries, pointing out the need for close adult supervision of all fireworks activities. All fireworks can be unpre-

Be careful with insect repellants containing DEET

Insect repellent users, especially children, should limit their use of products containing diethyltoluamide (DEET) due to possible health dangers associated with the chemical, advises Dr. David Wade, toxicologist for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

According to Wade, exposure to high levels of DEET may cause such health problems as headaches, restlessness, crying spells, mania, staggering, abnormally rapid breathing, convulsions and possibly coma.

Children are particularly sensitive to the effects of DEET. "If you must apply repellents on children, consider buying those with low levels of DEET," Wade says. The repellent should contain no more than 15 percent diethyltoluamide. Consumers are advised to check the product's content label which lists active ingredients by percentage.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency warns consumers to immediately stop using a repellent if they experience any of the above symptoms. If the product is swallowed, consumers should immediately contact a poison control center or the emergency room of a hospital. The EPA also advises that people with acne, psoriasis and other serious skin conditions use extra caution when using repellents.

Insect repellents are most often used to deter mosquitoes and deer ticks which can carry Lyme disease.

dictable, including those that are considered legal under Michigan law. Even legal fireworks need to be handled with extreme caution.

"We don't want to see anyone in Michigan injured as a result of fireworks," said Capt. Wade Schaefer, State Fire Marshal. "In the hands of amateurs, fireworks are a serious fire and burn hazard with the potential for extreme harm. We aren't telling people not to celebrate; we just want them to celebrate safely and under the guidelines of the law."

The fireworks law in Michigan defines what is legal and what is not. Legal fireworks include: flat paper caps, toy trick noise makers (fun snaps, pop-its, etc.), sparklers, fountains that are cone shaped and emit a shower of sparks, toy snakes, toy smoke devices, and signal flares (including railroad emergency signal devices). Examples of illegal fireworks include: cherry bombs, comets, firecrackers, M-80's, bottle rockets, roman candles, silver salutes (M-100), and torches. As a general rule, if the firework makes a loud bang or if it leaves the ground, it is illegal.

Violators of the fireworks law are guilty of a misdemeanor, which can result in 90 days in jail or a $100 fine. "We enforce the fireworks law as we do any other law in the state," said Schaefer. "If you possess illegal fireworks, we will take the appropriate enforcement action."

The Fire Marshal Division offers the following precautions and suggestions to help ensure a happy and safe fireworks season:

- Make sure that firework devices are legal for use as determined by state law and any local ordinances that may exist.
- Read the manufacturer's label on all firework devices and follow instructions on proper use. (Illegal fireworks rarely contain safety precautions.)
- Never throw fireworks at another person or carry them in pockets.
- Provide adult supervision for children. Do not allow young children to handle sparklers or other fireworks.

- Light only one device at a time.
- Ignite fireworks only outdoors and away from buildings and combustible materials.
- Do not attempt to alter any firework device or use in a manner not intended.
- Remember to store legal fireworks in a cool, dry place.

"The selling of illegal fireworks, even if accompanied with a signed statement that the purchaser will use the fireworks out of state, is still illegal and is prohibited," said Schaefer. "It is a violation of state law to sell, use, or transport illegal fireworks unless the individual has a special permit for doing so. The safety of Michigan citizens is our primary concern."

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

ADULT ACNE

To adults who develop acne, it must seem to be a cruel twist of fate to experience a skin problem that they thought they left behind with adolescence. An acne pimple begins when structures within the hair follicle produce too much oil (sebum) and too many cells lining the duct that is supposed to carry the sebum to the skin's surface. As the sebum and cells mix, they form a plug (comedo) that appears as a whitehead or blackhead, beneath which bacteria flourish to cause the inflammation and red swellings known as pimples. Adult acne may be caused by a hormone abnormality. Once a proper diagnosis is made, the problem may be cleared up with medications to kill the bacteria and reduce the buildup of sebum and excess cells. P.S. Middle-aged adults should be careful not to assume that they are suffering from adult acne when a proper diagnosis may reveal that their acne-like eruptions are actually due to rosacea, chin dermatitis, or other causes.

Any skin disorder such as acne, or even one that you feel is minor, should be brought to the attention of a dermatologist to ensure successful treatment. Take a step toward healthy skin by calling us to arrange for a consultation. We practice "state of the art" dermatology, geared to prevention as well as treatment. Our offices are located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692); and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion

130-IN MEMORIUM

In Memory

In loving memory of Harry Robertson who passed away July 5, 1972. His smiling way, his pleasant face are a pleasure to recall. He had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all. Someday we hope to meet him. Someday we know not when, to clas his hand in the Better Land never to part again. Sadly missed by his wife, Beatrice, his daughters Shirley Fields and Beverly Tyler, his son-in-law Robert Tyler and his grandchildren Nancy Goss, Ken Tyler and Richard Tyler.

Teenage hoop dreams

The NBA Draft is a time for new hope for hopeless teams, tears from happy mothers and grandmothers and loud suits on players.

But the last three years, four players have made the considerable jump directly from high school to the NBA. It started in 1995 with Kevin Garnett when he went fifth overall to the Minnesota Timberwolves. Ignoring the skeptics, Garnett was an All Star last season.

Last year, Kobe Bryant went 13th to the L.A. Lakers, while Jermaine O'Neal went 17th to Portland. Bryant won the Slam Dunk Contest and scored 31 points in the Rookie All Star Game. O'Neal was recently arrested for cursing at police outside a shopping mall.

Last week, Tracy McGrady was taken by the Toronto Raptors ninth overall.

As you can see, the results of the high school players have been mixed. Garnett figures to sign a $100 million contract when he becomes a free agent after next season. Bryant has nearly unlimited potential. O'Neal is still a big unknown, although he admitted he made the wrong decision when he skipped college.

This issue of high school kids playing in the NBA raises quite a few questions. I'm not sure which is scarier. That the NBA allows 17-year-olds to play in its league, or that 17-year-olds can play in the league.

I disagree with the NBA allowing players to skip college to play in the NBA. I would like to see a policy of the NBA Draft having a minimum age requirement, like the NHL has. Mandate that all players must be 20 years old by the start of the regular season, the first Friday in November. That way, no teenager will ever again play a regular season NBA game.

I think back to when I was 18 or 19 years old. I really had no idea how much about life I didn't know. How in the world can a kids that age handle the rigors of airplane food and travel, never mind the intense competition on the court night after night? I know everyone is different in what they can handle, but 18 or 19 just seems too young.

One argument against my suggestion might be the hardship cases, where a player can't afford to go to college and can't achieve minimum test requirements. In this case, playing in the CBA would be a good option. The attention, travel demands and competition would not be as tough as they are in the NBA. This way, the player earns a salary, while learning from some quality coaches and players. After a year or two at the CBA level, where if the player is as good as he thinks he is he'll dominate, he can enter the NBA much better prepared.

Anyone who uses Garnett as an example for someone who comes out of high school is looking at the best case scenario. Garnett is a humble, yet fun-loving man who shows respect for his elders. I saw an interview with him and Julius Erving, and he actually called him "Mr. Erving." When he was talking to Cheryl Miller he referred to her as "ma'am." He has a complete game on the court to go along with all that. Look for Garnett to share All-NBA First Team honors with Grant Hill into the next century.

But understand Garnett is a rare example. He is the exception to the exception, not the rule.

People ask me sometimes if I think Dane Fife would or could turn pro after his senior year. I think the world of Dane, both as an athlete and a person. He doesn't walk around with an air of superiority like so many of athletes at his level do. He is, like Garnett, humble, and fun-loving and appreciates those around him. But is Dane ready for the NBA? I would say no, and not because he isn't good enough to play there someday. To me, the pressure would just seem to be too great for an 18 or 19-year old to deal with. Plus, I seriously doubt whether Dane's father Dan would endorse such a move.

Letting high school players into the NBA is a mistake. Not because they couldn't keep up on the court, but because they couldn't keep up off the court.

● My two cents on the Pistons picks of Scot Pollard and Charles O'Bannon. Pollard is a 6'11" player who can do a lot of things, but not that well. I was surprised the Pistons took him as high as 19. But getting O'Bannon at 31 was a flat-out steal. He is a Doug Collins-type of player, one you would be willing to share a foxhole with. Not a bad draft, but not a great one, either. I'd give the Pistons a B-minus.
