Worker killed at high school building site

Working the high steel is a dangerous occupation, a risk the workers face every day. Monday the danger was driven home when an employee of Cadillac Iron fell to his death from the roof of the Clarkston High School construction site.

Frank Blissett Jr., 43, of Fenton was pronounced dead at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 11:32 a.m. Monday. According to Lt. Dale LaBair of the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence Township substation, a call came in at 10:55 a.m. saying a man fell from the gym roof. Blissett received CPR at the site from the Independence Township Fire Department and was then transported by ambulance to POH.

Blissett was welding roof panels on the gym. LaBair said it's unclear whether a panel failed that led to the fall, or whether a panel fell with Blissett, but "There was a collapsed panel he rode down about 40 feet."

LaBair reported the incident to MIOSHA, the state's occupational safety agency, which will investi-

State finds more problems at Greenerly

Allegations include lack of supervision, physical abuse , inadequate training of staff and more

An unannounced inspection by the state after the alleged rape of a 92-year-old patient at the Greenery Health Care Center turned up a wide variety of problems at the Clinionville Rd. nursing home.

The Michigan Department of Consumer and Industry Services released a 52-page report detailing three instances where patients were assaulted in one way or another since May. The department certifies and regulates nursing homes.

The report, dated July 17, also states its findings in the alleged rape of the 92-year-old patient July 8. Their findings are consistent with details released by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department so far that say a rape did in fact occur.

The report states that the woman said she was raped by a black man when "it was dark outside the window." After being taken to the hospital, the report stated that injuries she sustained were consistent with those found in a sexual assault.

The report counted 11 different incidents with one resident (called Resident B) from March 20 to July 16, 1997 where he displayed aggressive behavior towards others. The Greenery's failure to properly supervise this resident led to incidents of sexual harassment, the report concluded.

But the MDOC report says the Greenery did not document some incidents. The report states: "The facility failed to protect residents from physical, mental, and/or sexual abuse from staff and other residents."

The report found that the Greenery failed to: provide adequate supervision for patients with special needs, prescribe the proper amount of drugs to some patients, follow proper dietary guidelines, provide proper exercises for patients with those needs, maintain safe food temperatures, and prevent the physical abuse of some patients.

Other shortcomings noted in the report included: failure to use sanitary gloves and washing hands, failure to handle and store linens so as to prevent the spread of infection, and failure to ensure all nursing staff personnel have adequate training. The report notes that much of the current staff has been hired since January 1.

Grace Kerlin, licensing officer for the MDOC, said the Greenery's annual inspection was underway when the sexual assault took place.

"On average, we examine every facility every 12 months," she said. "We were in the midst of our standard survey when (the alleged assault) occurred."

Dennis McCollough, spokesman for the Greenery, said it has until Monday to respond to and challenge the report's findings.

"We are talking about three isolated incidents," he said, referring to the situations with Resident B. "We have a strong preliminary opinion that we disagree with their conclusions."

"There was no criticism in the report of the action we took in response to those incidents," he continued. "There is a process at work here and we will certainly answer what the report says."

Kerlin said the next step will be to wait for the Greenery to present a plan of correction to the state. After that, the state will make an unannounced visit to the Greenery to check and see if the plan is being followed.

McCollough said five of eight black workers suspended in connection with the rape have been invited back to work, but have not returned yet.

County goes smokeless

All county buildings, including lounges, lunch rooms and bathrooms are now off-limits to smoking, thanks to action by Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson last week.

Some county buildings have been smoke-free for up to 10 years. Recent information regarding the dangers of second-hand smoke apparently convinced Patterson to enact a total ban, which includes cigars, pipes and cigarettes.

"When we looked at all the evidence, it was so compelling that we knew this was the right course of action to take to protect the health of our employees."

There will be a two-week grace period, so smoking will officially be prohibited effective Monday, Aug. 11.

This old house goes up for sale

Historic farmhouse is considered one of finest in Independence Township

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A piece of Clarkston history is on the market. The Reese Rd. farmhouse that was built by A. H. Cross in 1875, along with a barn and five acres, is for sale. Currently owned by Ronald Smith and Martha Ponce, it has seen some renovation during its lifetime, including some necessitated by a fire, but is still a stunning place from the moment you drive up.

The reclaimed brick facade is not original, according to Smith, who's owned the house for eight years. That fact is backed up by the Independence Township Historic Inventory. The Inventory states that though the house is "architecturally significant as the only 19th century brick farmhouse" in the township and a "good example of Victorian farmhouse design," nevertheless the brick is "a recent anachronism."

The book "Heritage," published by the Clarkston Community Historical Society, talks a little about the Cross family with information taken from the "History of Oakland County, 1817-1877." At that time, Cross had just built the house and it was considered "one of the finest in the township," according to the history book.

Cross's father was born in England, his mother in Ireland. They came to Independence Township in 1835. A. H. Cross was born within a mile of the present house December 30, 1837, one of a family of three sons and two daughters.

He married Matilda Jones of Independence Township when he was 23 and they had three children.

The history goes on to say "Mr. Cross is still a young man, is a farmer by occupation, and is noted for his energy and enterprise. His home, on section six, is one of the finest in the township, and has been procured by his own industry."

Current owner Smith said what initially attracted him to the house was—well—the barn.

"I was looking for a place to keep a couple of horses," the former West Bloomfield resident said. But he's enjoyed living there, and apparent so did all the former residents. From time to time, one of them will knock on the door and ask to look around.

Smith said the house was in good shape when he bought it, having been extensively renovated in the 1970s after a fire. A family room and bedroom were added after the fire, as was extra insulation that hasn't made it too tough to heat, Smith said, even though it uses oil.

Smith added a room on the north side in 1990, a brick sun porch. The house now encompasses about 4,000 square feet. He also put an antique-style iron fence across the front.

Entering through the front door, visitors will notice a large foyer, an antique staircase taken from a church after the house fire, and graceful, arched double-doors leading into the living room on the left. The doors are thought to be original. The dining room is on the front to the right.

Smith has several horses, a llama, dogs, a cat and some birds that get to enjoy the property with him. Nevertheless, he's decided to sell because he wants more land.

"If you enjoy tinkering about you'll like this (house)," he said. "It's more of a lifestyle than just a house. It takes a certain person . . . I've enjoyed living here very, very much. In fact, everybody I've talked to said they really, really enjoyed living here."

Smith said the house has no serious quirks, no ghosts—and no hardwood floors. Apparently they were lost during the fire. However high ceilings, tall windows and wide wood moldings have preserved the antique feel of the place. Upstairs, there's another large foyer of sorts. There's a total of four bedrooms and five baths, and one end of the house feels very much like a "suite," perfect for teenagers who need some privacy.

Smith has filled the house with antiques and has made his own permanent Christmas tree for the foyer. "It's kind of a different house," he said. "It's comfortable for me . . ."

"I just would like to have a little more property. I have some horses and I would like to have a little more pasture land for them. It saves on buying hay."

The house is listed with Terry Petrusha of Real Estate One in Clarkston for $579,900. "It's just one of a kind; it just kind of gave me the Greenfield Village flair," she said.

Petrusha said it was hard to price the house due to its uniqueness, but she used selling prices from other similar properties in setting the figure. "I've had a lot of feedback" from prospective buyers, she said.

City gets new master plan

Revised zoning ordinance, road plans next on the planning commission's agenda

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Future development in the City of the Village of Clarkston will be of the single-family-residential variety, thanks to a new master plan approved Monday night by the planning commission.

By a unanimous vote, the commission adopted a revised version of the plan that was originally presented by McKenna Associates, the city's planning consultant. Those changes include the removal of multiple-family zonings from several vacant parcels.

Two of those parcels already have rezoning requests before the city. One, owned by former Major Leaguer Tim Birtsas on the north end of the city, is zoned single family. The original draft of the master plan showed it as multiple, but in the final plan it changed back to single family, based on comments from the planning commission and city council. Birtsas requested a rezoning to multiple for condominiums.

Another such parcel is at the vacant corner at Waldon and Main owned by Bob and Deanna Olsen. It too was shown as multiple family on the original draft, but has been changed to single family. The Olsens have said they will go before the Zoning Board of Appeals in their quest to build an office building on the site.

Another change to single family is shown for the site now occupied by the Independence Township Hall. Planners originally thought it should revert to multiple should it ever cease becoming a township hall, but have now changed it too to single family. That move was met with some consternation by the audience at Monday's meeting, which wanted to make sure the property remained civic in some way, whether it be offices or a park.

"Space is becoming endangered," said Lucia Wilford, a N. Main St. resident. "It should be protected. Clarkston should be an oasis."

"The highest and best use would be to keep it public," said McKenna's Terry Croad. But should it cease to become that, "We do want to make it single family because the surrounding area is single family. We want to protect the adjacent neighbors."

"It's such a big building that it could be multiple," said planning commission chairman Stephen Secatch. "But more and more big houses are being built in the township, and it being on Parke Lake, someone could buy it."

"I would hope the township would approach us first before they put it on the market," said city councilman Bill Basinger.

The plan also stipulates that if the city office on Depot ever moves the area would be redeveloped as additional park land.

Now that the new master plan has been adopted, the next step is to write a new zoning ordinance to go along with it. Croad asked the planning commissioners what their top priorities are for the zoning ordinance, and the answers weren't too surprising: parking, signs, setback requirements, density, architectural standards, height requirements—a veritable laundry list of the issues that have plagued the city in recent years.

"One of the things I've found through site-plan reviews is the village currently has standards more appropriate to a suburban area than a downtown," Croad said. "The setbacks are excessive and will actually ruin the village. . . . The whole scale changes from a pedestrian-oriented downtown to one that encourages parking in front of buildings." That's something he'd like to correct in the new plan.

The process of writing a new zoning ordinance will probably take six to nine months, Croad said. He expects to be back before the commission in October to get it started.

Another topic the commission intends to discuss further is roads. At the last city council meeting, the connection of Waldon Rd. and White Lake Rd. was discussed. It's not shown on the new master plan, and Secatch said a public hearing would be held before any such plan was approved. Improvements to M-15 are also slated to be discussed.

Clarkstonite donates $2 M to Oakland U.

Oakland University is $2 million richer, thanks to a Clarkston man.

Dennis Pawley and his wife Carlotta gave the university the big gift July 30. He is Chrysler's Executive Vice President for Manufacturing and a 1982 OU graduate. He said he made the gift to support a $1 million commitment Chrysler made last October and the $2 million gift from another Chrysler VP, Stephan Sharf, in June.

"Chrysler has benefited from being in this community and we want to show our support of the community and foster its future growth. I can think of no better place to do this than at Oakland University," Pawley said.

Dennis Pawley

The gift will benefit two Oakland schools, Education and Human Services and Engineering and Computer Science. Pawley's degree was in human resource development from the School of Education and Human Services.

"I would not be where I am today without these two schools," he said. "My success can be traced to what I know and whom I hire—and Oakland has played a prominent role in each."

Chrysler and OU have a good working relationship, according to David Disend, VP for University Relations.

"They are strong believers in the concept of giving back to the communities they serve," he said. OU faculty members get hands-on experience at Chrysler through the university's faculty internship program agreement with the automaker.

THE CORPORATE ADVANTAGE

Those who form corporations are afforded superior lawsuit protection by virtue of the fact that the corporation is considered to be an "individual" in its own right, with the same rights, duties, and obligations as any individual. As a result, the corporation can sue and be sued. In order to preserve this legal separation between the corporation and its owners, officers, and directors, it is necessary to comply with all the requirements in running the corporation. The corporation must be properly set up with the adoption of corporate bylaws, the issue of corporate stock, the transfer of assets to the corporation taking out the proper state and local licenses in the corporate name, and serving notice that the business is operating as a corporation.

Those who use the corporation to purchase business assets for personal use run the risk of having their corporate veil pierced by creditors who sue individuals behind the corporation, arguing that a valid corporation does not exist.

When you are setting up a corporation, you need attorneys who understand all of the options available for you that best meet the needs of your business and its future. For legal assistance you can count on and attorneys who are great at communicating the ins and outs of the law, come to see us at our offices. # Holly takes Anne Dorian back

CHS assistant principal gets a principalship in her former district

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston High School is looking for another assistant principal.

Anne Dorian, who came to CHS from Holly a year ago, was hired back by Holly as principal of Sherman Middle School last week. She's the second assistant principal to step down this year; Melissa Kentner White is returning to the classroom and is being replaced by former Sashabaw Middle School assistant principal Mike Krystyniak.

Deputy Superintendent Mike LaBay said Monday that Dorian had informed him when she became a finalist for the position in Holly. "So I had advanced warning," he said.

He also said that when White's position became open, it was posted nationally and over 60 people applied for the position. Since it ended up being filled internally, it's possible the district will use that list of candidates as a starting point. He expected interviewing to be conducted this month.

Duane Lewis, Clarkston's assistant superintendent in charge of professional personnel, said Dorian's position has been posted but "I suspect at least we'll use that (list) as a base. We did repost the position but we didn't have a lot of new response from that."

Lewis said it's possible but not likely that the position will be filled by the start of school. The district uses an extensive search process, especially if the candidate comes from outside the district.

Dorian, a Fenton resident, was assistant principal at Holly High School before coming to Clarkston. She had also been athletic director there in 1993-94, and was assistant principal at Sherman Middle School 1991-93. She has bachelor's and master's degrees from Central Michigan University. She did not return a phone call from The Clarkston News seeking comments.

CHS principal Brent Cooley said, "I'm excited for her. I think she'll do a fine job for them. She'll be missed, but that's the nature of the job . . . We prepare them to be principals. We support their success, but sometimes you pay the price."

CHS assistant principal Ron Santavicca said of his former coworker, "I'm personally going to miss her. She is an outstanding administrator. She's a quality person."

Both Dorian and White had been involved in presenting the National Women in Sports program to CHS the last two years. "That's a great thing; that's going to continue," Santavicca said.

Cooley said he hoped the position would be filled by the time school starts Aug. 25, but admitted that might be unrealistic.

"My goal is to rush to get the best person in there," he said. "I look for people that are principal material. I find that a positive, not a negative."

New church to serve North Oakland area

A new church serving north Oakland County has announced the appointment of a minister.

The board of directors of Unity-North has named Rev. Linda Dominik its first minister. Initial weekday classes for the new church will start Wednesday, Aug. 13; Sunday services are expected to begin on Sept. 14, with a location yet to be announced.

Unity-North was established to serve northern Oakland County, including the Clarkston area. It will initially share space with the Orion Oxford Seventh Day Adventist Church, 1990 N. Lapeer Rd. in Lake Orion.

The church was founded after a survey conducted in February determined there was interest in the area. Unity was founded in 1889 by Charles and Myrtle Fillmore. The church believes in the divinity of Jesus and that God is a positive presence in the universe.

The new church's mission statement states, in part, "Unity-North creates a loving, joyous environment which empowers everyone to express their authentic, God-filled life."

Dominik received her BA from Nazareth College in New York and her Certificate of Ordination from the Unity School of Religious Studies in Missouri. She comes to the new church from Church of Today in Warren, where she was associate minister.

For more information on the new church, call Wes Fuelling, business manager, at 693-3322 or Dominik at 641-8713.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

*Happy birthday,
Julia*

I can't remember the first time I noticed Julia Child, but I've been a fan, it seems, forever.

My mother taught me how to make spaghetti sauce; her mother taught me how to make cannoli. My father's mother was the bread and pizza baker in our all-Italian family, and everyone had their specialty.

But Julia was different. Mastering the art of French cooking was her early claim to fame, and thanks to her I dared to make pastries, sauces, mousses and lots of other things that might have otherwise seemed too intimidating. And I didn't worry about making a mess in the kitchen, either.

Over her 30-year career Julia expanded her repertoire far beyond the realm of French cooking, encouraging us to look beyond the familiar, the mundane, and to enjoy cooking as a creative outlet. Heck—she may be personally responsible for the exciting, multicultural state of American cooking today.

That's a whale of a resume for the woman who got her start, at middle age, when she and her husband Paul went to work in France and she fell in love with the food and began to study. This year she celebrates her 85th birthday on August 15, and the entire culinary profession is pouring on the tributes.

The International Association of Culinary Professionals has established the Julia Child Endowment Fund specifically to support culinary education programs and create scholarships. And the IACP is inviting everyone to hold "Tribute to Julia" dinners in their own homes. How appropriate. Chocolate mousse for everyone!

Julia continues to be a part of my life. She still has the occasional show running on public television. She'll bring in a great chef like Jacques Pepin, but still have to get in there and chop the onions or stir the pan, if with a little less vigor than before.

Watching her on TV has always been a hoot. She has that high-pitched voice that regularly threatens to soar out of control. Then there was the classic "Saturday Night Live" skit featuring Dan Ackroyd as Julia with an out-of-control blender that ended up pureeing his arm, or something. Were it not for Julia, would we have a food channel now?

Martha Stewart invited Julia to come make croquembouche (a cream puff tower) on one of her Christmas specials. As they worked side by side, piling their towers high on the plates, I had to laugh. Martha's were, as always, perfect. Julia's looked all lumpy and uneven, but you could tell they were home made. Would Martha Stewart even exist, were it not for Julia Child?

A toast, then, to the first lady of American cooking. Thanks, Julia, for your passion, your humor, your creativity, your instruction.

Oh, yeah, and bon appetit!

Think we missed the point?
Say so!

Letters to the editor

Appreciates support for downtown museum

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the Clarkston Community Museum Foundation I would like to thank the editors of the Clarkston News for the support of the Clarkston Community Museum Project, which was expressed in the article and the editorial of the Wednesday, July 30, 1997 issue of your paper.

It is the support and encouragement of the many civically minded community and business organizations like the Clarkston News, as well as the support of the numerous residents of the Clarkston Community, that give the strength, energy and sustain the enthusiasm of the members of the Foundation, who as volunteers are working to bring to this community a first-class historical museum.

The Clarkston/Independence Township area is rapidly becoming a premier family community in northwestern Oakland County, and there is a large influx of new families, many with school-age children. These families will require important new facilities and services, both of a physical and cultural nature. One such badly needed facility is a place in which our new generation can learn and appreciate our rich and fascinating local history. In short, our community needs a museum.

The Foundation is developing plans for an active museum, which in addition to preservation and display of area historical objects will also focus on forming alliances with school systems to enhance their history programs through field trips, lectures and theme displays, with senior citizen groups to facilitate visits and volunteer participation, and with service club organizations, business community and municipal bodies to enhance cultural and historical awareness in the area.

Additionally, presence of the museum will make the historical district more interesting for visitors and will attract local visitors as well as visitors from further away that otherwise would not be likely to visit Clarkston. There will also be a historical gift, souvenir and art shop in the museum bringing additional foot traffic to the downtown area and helping with the financing of the museum.

After careful deliberations and review of the various options the Foundation came to the conclusion that ideally the museum should be located on Main Street and within the historical district. To that effect, the about-to-be-vacated historical NBD Building represents a nearly ideal site. In addition, the building is in good condition and was built of durable construction, which requires relatively little maintenance.

Understandably, the members of the Clarkston Community Museum Foundation Board are very excited about the prospect of housing the museum in the bank's impressive historic building, should it be donated for this purpose. If it were to become a commercial building, the chances are (historically speaking) that eventually it would become an office building. Using the building as a museum would preserve it for the enjoyment of the whole community for decades to come.

We ask the public and the business community

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Schools like to use own names for classrooms

We voters have always supported increases in taxes to build libraries. We may not use them ourselves, but we know everyone else is a card carrying member of Friends for the Library, The Library Network and Libraries R Us.

Put the word "Library" on a ballot and the Xs will follow.

So, why do school boards, school administrators and architects no longer call the rooms where books, newspapers and magazines are avoided by students "libraries"?

For more than a decade these overseers of buildings-designed-for-physicists-and-dropouts have been calling the book storage rooms, "media centers."

Why?

Would we taxpayers/voters have approved new taxes for libraries if "media center" was on the ballot? I don't think so. Most of us would think it would be a building for watching television.

That's what the word 'media' has come to mean, hasn't it?

This was brought back to mind last week when The Oxford Leader printed a schedule of classrooms being readied for fall in the middle and elementary schools.

They are getting "discovery science and discovery/science classrooms." I have no idea why the slash

(/) is put there in some schools and not in others. It's an educator's thing I suppose.

Having spent (I was going to say educated) my elementary years in a 1-room school, 44 miles and up-hill both ways from our home, where the media center was one shelf of books and all discovery was done in the outhouse, I was uncertain what those brighter-than-me types were talking about.

I was certain television, as in the Discovery channel, had something to do with it.

Where else to find out but call another 1-room educated person, John Cox. Having been raised in the U.P. he knows all about discovery rooms.

Since he's also executive director of operations for Oxford schools he is especially knowledgeable about today's "discovery" classrooms.

He explained, "Jim, you know when we went to school everything took place in the same room. What we're going to do is move students into a room for science and its mini-lab, a room for art, another for special education and another for computers."

"That way," John said, "all the messes made in science will stay in one room."

Thanks for the explanation, John. But, I see you haven't found a new name for school libraries. A couple media centers are in this expansion project.

15 YEARS AGO (1982)

Voters in the November general election can expect to see the results of the race for Congress in Michigan's 6th District covered by national news. An indication of the importance of the race comes Monday night when former President Gerald Ford makes an appearance at the $100-a-ticket fund-raiser at Deer Lake Racquet Club on behalf of Republican Congressman James Dunn, who's seeking re-election.

Clarkston schools' four-year-old building trades program will be no more. Citing the sluggish real estate market and the problems it has created in selling the houses built by the program, assistant superintendent Mel Vaara recommends at Monday night's board of education meeting that the program be eliminated this fall.

Clarkston gets ready for its annual Crafts & Cider Festival, sponsored by the Clarkston Community Historical Society. The festival is planned for Sept. 17-19 from noon to 6 p.m. in Depot Park.

25 YEARS AGO (1972)

Robert Vandermark, township assessor, emerges the winner in a closely contested Republican primary race for township supervisor Aug. 9. The tally is 1,121 to 816 for John Lynch in unofficial returns. Gary Stonerock, incumbent supervisor, outpolls his nearest competitor James Harmon by a vote of 316 to 165.

Independence Township will have its first annual Parks and Recreation tennis tournament Aug. 15-18, announces Timothy Doyle, recreation director. The tournament will be for all ages with single and double matches.

Two new awards are initiated by the Independence Recreation Department at the Pee Wee League Championship game. The "Most Valuable Umpire Award" is presented to Kirk Hart and Mike Jewell. Beth and Jim Ladd receive the "Mom and Dad Award for '72." Many parents deserve such an award, says Bob Davidson, baseball commissioner, "but Beth and Jim's interest goes beyond just their own son's or team's involvement." Both parents performed numerous tasks — even mowing the grass and raking fields.

50 YEARS AGO (1947)

The Malory Stickney family is enjoying a trip out West. A note from them states they are at Yosemite Park. They are amazed to see the place so crowded. They believe that all of San Francisco vacations there and, in fact, they learn that 25,000 is a normal holiday or weekend crowd. The Stickneys do not expect to return to Clarkston until the fall.

Playing at the Holly Theatre are Barbara Britton and Rudy Vallee in "The Fabulous Suzanne" and Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurray in "Suddenly It's Spring." Showing at the Drayton Theatre are Zachary Scott and Alexis Smith in "Stallion Road" and Teresa Wright and Robert Mitchum in "Pursued."

Specials at Terry's Market include smoked picnics, 53 cents a pound; home-grown tomatoes, two pounds for a quarter; cod filets, 33 cents a pound; peanut butter, a quart jar for 57 cents; and Libby's Brown Beans, two jars for 35 cents.

60 YEARS AGO (1937)

Last Sunday's game between Clarkston and Milford on the home diamond results in a victory by the Clarkston baseball team. Clarkston makes 16 runs, 18 hits and 1 error, while Milford makes 2 runs, 8 hits and 7 errors.

Detroit Bobby Price, 12, experiences the limits of endurance when he peddles his bicycle all the way to Clarkston to visit his sister Mrs. Ralph Habermas. He leaves Detroit at 8:15 a.m. and enjoys the ride all the way. Alas, when he arrives at the Habermas home just past noon, he finds the doors locked and the occupants gone. The Habermas family had gone to Detroit. But neighbors the A. B. Womples see the hapless lad and invite him to visit with them. He'll enjoy a few days in Clarkston anyway.

Featured at the Holly Theatre are Pat O'Brien and Sybil Jason in "The Great O'Malley," James Ellison and Terry Walker in "23 1/2 Hours Leave," Bob Burns and Martha Raye in "Mountain Music" and the Marx Brothers and Maureen O'Sullivan in "A Day at the Races."

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Readers' forum

And now a few words from our viewing audience . . .
Dear Don,

Just a note to let my fellow Michiganders know how our State Board of Education feels about our wishes.

The Democratic-led board decided to expel God from Vision, Philosophy and Mission Statement. In the three days preceding the hearing, over 2,500 people called to keep the Mission Statement as it was. More than 400 people came to testify in support. Even after hours of testifying from all walks of life and pleas from three members to allow the citizens to vote on the matter, the board voted 5-3 to repeal the Mission Statement.

Don't our hard-earned tax dollars pay these people? And they still have the audacity to vote against the will of the people. I don't get it.

How frustrating it is to let public officials know what we want and be totally ignored.

Keep this in mind when you vote!

Sincerely, Linda, Orion.

Linda wrote this letter on July 3 — sorry it took so long to publish. I will say this, while I disagree with expelling the word GOD from the mission statement, sometimes our elected officials must act/vote on their own intuition. As a republic, with representative democratic tenancies, the people cannot vote on everything. In a pure democracy, as radio talk guy Mark Scott says, a group of nine cannibals, could vote to eat a tenth. We elect people we hope will act in just ways. And that, kiddies, is why the elections of our representatives and senators is so-o-o important.

The Civics By Don lesson is complete.

A gentleman from Oxford Township called last Thursday morning, with a couple of things on his mind. One: he hoped Oxford Police were not just running people out of gravel pits so they (the cops) could have their own little, private recreation area. He also hoped that it wasn't just taxpayer dollars paying for the protection of this private property.

Caller X, as I will call him, was also pretty darned cheesed that someone left a piece of furniture on Seymour Lake Road. Apparently, the piece fell off a pickup truck. The truck driver stopped, looked at his fallen cargo then left the scene.

A teen driver followed, and received a flat tire because of the furniture. The teen was pretty shook up, and could have gotten hurt.

Caller X, would like to remind folks to pick up after themselves, and he would also like to see police stop and move hazards off the roads when they see them, be it mufflers, garbage cans or couches.

I tend to agree, it's a real bummer to be tooling down the road and have to take evasive action because of a fallen tailpipe. Pick up after yourselves, people, you could save someone from getting hurt.

Will the stock market keep going up?

DEANNA OLSEN, PLANNED FINANCIAL SERVICES INC.: Long-range, I believe the stock market will continue to go up and provide the greatest return. In the next 12 months, who knows? That's why I believe in diversification.

JAMES B. KRUIZAN, INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT & RESEARCH INC.: I actually think the market is over-priced. Corporate stock prices have over-run corporate earnings at this time. To see a 10-percent or a 20-percent correction at these levels would probably bring the stock prices back in line with earnings.

ROBERT FINNIGAN, INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT & RESEARCH INC.: I do. I think we may have an adjustment over the next two or three months, but I think the long-range prospects are very good.

LAURIE RENCHIK, INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT & RESEARCH INC.: Yes, in the face of low inflation, sustained positive corporate earnings and with the global economy. What those are doing is creating an ideal environment for above-average stock market returns.

SCOTT HAZELTON, EDWARD JONES INVESTMENTS: Over the long run it will. Over the short term, nobody really knows what the stock market will do. It's something you really can't predict. If you're well diversified in the market, it shouldn't affect you that greatly.

Support museum

Dear editor,

We support the proposed historical museum to be located in the downtown bank building.

Growth in our community brings an increased interest in preserving the important elements of our past. The bank building is a good location for our history to be assembled. As an attraction for visitors, school and civic groups, the museum will complement downtown retailers and businesses.

Zac and Corena Bell

Dear editor:

What a terrific idea to house a community museum in our wonderful old NBD Bank building! While this notion is still in the planning stages, I, for one, would like all of Clarkston to realize the potential and support this venture.

As previously reported, the search for a museum site has been ongoing for some time, while city and township planners strive to preserve our historic atmosphere. What better use for an historic building!

From a parent's point of view, this will provide an excellent opportunity for our children and our families. By allowing a special place in the center of our town, we link our future to our past and provide a convenient place for all to visit and share in the rich history of Clarkston. Visitors to our town may choose not only to spend some time, but dollars as well, as they shop our merchants.

Let's keep Clarkston quaint and vital at the same time. Offices are dandy in some places, but this is your Main Street. Let's support those involved with turning the old NBD Bank into Clarkston's Community Museum!

Sherry Regiani

Opposes downtown museum

I am opposed to the establishment of a museum in the current NBD branch on Main Street. The City of the Village of Clarkston has very little available commercial property for retail, banking and office use. Can the village afford to lose the property-tax revenue generated by a for-profit property owner as opposed to a non-profit foundation?

A small, non-interactive museum with limited parking is highly unlikely to be the draw that supporters proclaim it would be. Other than the occasional classroom of students from nearby schools, who are these groups of people who would want to visit this museum and then continue to shop and dine in Clarkston? How many of these groups have seen fit to visit the room at the township library currently housing historical data on our community?

Supporters of this proposal refer to studies which show that museums attract more foot traffic than businesses. Were the museums in these studies large, publicly supported facilities like those in Washington, D.C., Chicago and Indianapolis or small community museums such as those in nearby Oxford and Clawson?

As the members of the Historical Society know as well as anyone, the cost of maintaining an older building is obviously expensive. Are there proven, ongoing, substantial sources of funding for the foundation to be able to maintain this property? Or will this be like the many bank buildings in other Michigan communities which have been donated to local, well-intentioned, non-profit groups which ultimately are forced to forego needed repairs due to lack of funds. These donated buildings still look like banks and are usually associated (negatively) with the bank that donated the building. Is this the legacy NBD wants to leave?

I have suggested to NBD representatives that the building be sold to the highest bidder, including another bank if some other financial firm believes that they can operate the facility profitably. After the sale, the foundation can approach NBD for a donation to assist in the acquisition of a more suitable, less expensive to maintain facility.

Sincerely,
Henry S. Woloson

Good neighbor

To the editor,

As a new resident to the City of Clarkston, it is reassuring to know I am living amongst people who are honest and continue to maintain strong morals and ethics. After leaving my purse in Depot Park, the finder, Bryan Fugitt, a Clarkston resident, delivered the purse to the sheriff's department, who in return delivered it to the Clarkston city police, who filed a report promptly. The purse was back in my possession within hours.

If there would be more positive news reporting of this type within the news media, role models and heroes would have a beneficial influence on society.

Thank you Bryan,
Lori Taylor

Wendy's marks opening with donation

Clarkston's first Wendy's restaurant opened its doors Thursday night with a champagne preview for the town's movers and shakers. Oh, and they gave away some money too.

The new restaurant, owned by former Clarkston and current Davisburg resident Howard O'Brien, was officially opened when O'Brien and Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart cut a ribbon made up of 200 one-dollar bills. Then, one half was given to Wendy Halsey, director of Lighthouse Clarkston, the other half to Ann Smith of the Holly Tornado Disaster Fund.

In accepting the donation, Halsey said it's not unusual for her branch to serve 20 clients a day. Lighthouse is currently working on back-to-school needs of local children and has been serving GM strikers this summer.

O'Brien's daughter Kelly dressed up as the restaurant's namesake for the evening. Guests sipped champagne during opening remarks. O'Brien joined the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and gave Stuart the ceremonial "key" to the restaurant. Then the kitchen was opened and everyone got to sample the food with many of the 50 employees staffing the lines.

The new store is located in the White Lake Commons shopping center at the corner of White Lake and Dixie. Hours are Sunday-Thursday, 10 a.m.-11 p.m., Friday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-midnight.

Students sing for their senators

Choir students from Cedar Crest Academy in Clarkston had a special day May 6 when they sang in the Capitol rotunda in Lansing.

The students in grades five through eight performed a half-hour program, then had a tour and lunch outdoors. They were also presented with a Special Tribute by state senator Mat Dunaskiss (R., Lake Orion).

The students are under the direction of Miriam Moore. Shortly before their capitol outing, which was part of the Spring Music Program at the capitol, they took a top rating at the district solo and ensemble festival.

Parent Sonia Foster said that as the children sang, capitol employees came out of their offices and listened from the balcony. Some parents also went to the upper levels to listen.

ONE IN A MILIA

Milia, also known as epidermal cysts, are small, firm white papules that are usually found in clusters on the upper cheeks and around the eyes. These painless and harmless cysts are often wrongly referred to as sebaceous cysts. They may appear following injury, chronic ultraviolet light exposure, or blistering. More often however, they are caused by blocked pores that result from moisturizer use. Milia are also found on the foreheads, cheeks, and noses of about 40 percent of full-term infants. While no treatment is necessary for the very young, milia may be removed for cosmetic reasons among older patients. This usually involves the use of a fine-gauge needle and a cotton-tipped swab, or comedone extractor.

Dinosaurs enter final month at zoo

The exhibit reaches extinction on Monday, Sept. 1. So far this summer, hundreds of thousands of visitors have enjoyed the 27 animatronic, prehistoric creatures, including a three-story-tall Tyrannosaurus rex.

There are educational, hands-on activities, such as Rub-A-Dino and fossil digging. Children can control the movements of a dinosaur with the Dimetrodon Robot. And they can sit in a chair depicting a life-size dinosaur head so they can get an idea just how big a dinosaur can be.

The animatronic dinosaurs were created by Dinamation of Irvine, California. Guests enter a time tunnel that transports them to a lush, four-acre trail recreating prehistoric life. Along the way, man-made bogs stir and fog looms; predatory dinosaurs visit a desert oasis in search of water while tiny mammals hide from view; a Parasaurolophus hatches; and a Saber-tooth Cat conquers a Wolly Mammoth.

The exhibit is open daily beginning at 10 a.m. Admission is $3 with regular zoo admission—$7.50 for adults, $5.50 for seniors 62 and older and students, and $4.50 for kids 2-12. For more information call the hotline at 810-541-5835.

Screen test

"Quiet on the set!" barked teacher Jeff Dove. His young charges echoed his command, then fell silent, except for a pencil that just then happened to hit the floor.

It was "Lights, Cameras, Action" day at the summer science camp offered by Clarkston Community Education and run by Mobile Ed. Science. Students were learning lines, holding cue cards and seeing themselves on TV, each in their own commercial.

Dove would first give the student a prop—an umbrella, an oversized pair of sunglasses, a bottle of orange juice. Then he'd rehearse the lines, posted on two large cue cards, with the star of the production, and show them where to interject the props. Then, when he thought they were ready, he'd step away and the cameras would roll.

Each student could see himself on a monitor as he read. But there was a difference; students stood against a plain green backdrop, but on the monitor they could see something completely different. A farm, a big city—whatever the script called for was placed by computer. Even sound effects were added.

This was just one day in the camping experience, but Dove kept emphasizing the fun aspect for the 14 kids (10 boys, four girls) ages 8-13.

"You're a little nervous, aren't you," he asked Ryan Trobaugh, 11, who had trouble with his cue cards (which included some big words, like 'ultraviolet'—it was a sunglass commercial). I'm going to give him a little advice. Don't worry about the words—have fun."

The counseling seemed to work. Ryan was soon donning the huge sunglasses and shaking his hips. On the video monitor, it looked like he was standing on a beach. When the music came up, it all worked perfectly.

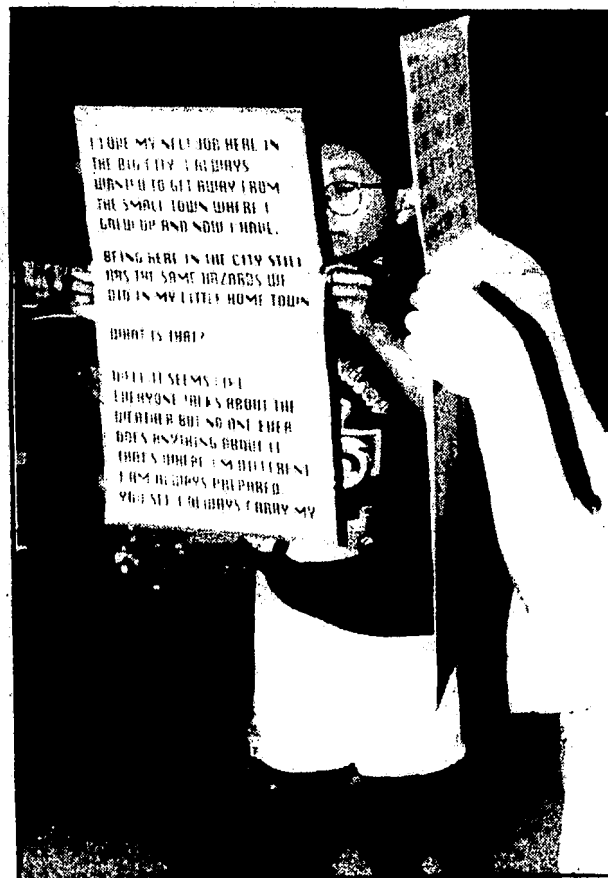

Afterwards, Ryan was asked if it was fun. "Yeah!" he said with a big smile.

—By Annette Kingsbury

Over 25 years ago, a strange little blues band, featuring a wild-eyed flutist, entered the '70s era of anything-goes British music that included Pink Floyd and Led Zeppelin.

Always creative, complex and virtuosic, Jethro Tull has continued its tradition as an accomplished, eclectic ensemble that stands in a class by itself. Backed by the extraordinary musicianship of flutist, singer and songwriter Ian Anderson, it's not unusual to find Tull's Celtic and English folk-style melodies punctuated by bursts or phrases of jazz or heavy metal.

Nor is it out of the ordinary for Tull tunes to deviate from their established time signatures, often jumping from 4/4 time to a 15/8 run by Anderson when he feels like improvising.

Tracks seem to be composed organically, even experimentally — never really aligning themselves to conventional songwriting procedures.

In 1992 the band put out a semi-acoustic live album, "A Little Light Music," and then followed up with Anderson's flute-driven instrumental, "Divinities: Twelve Dances With God."

This year marks the release of their first studio album in four years, their 27th, entitled "Roots to Branches." It unites long-time guitarist Martin Barre, percussionist Doane Parry, keyboardist Andrew Giddings and bassist Dave Pegg, who joined in for the later sessions.

Included are the title track, "Out Of The Noise," "Wounded, Old and Treacherous" and the melancholy "Stuck In The August Rain," which especially supports the album's mood of personal reflection.

Most of the songs came together quickly, in typical Tull fashion evolving from a basic "substance of what to play," says Anderson, and "a title, or line or two of lyric."

Huzzah!

The Vulgarian Court has special plans this year for Hollygrove's new king and queen. Rumors speak of several new "dark court" members who may try to seize power. King Morgan and Queen Eleanor will need the support of everyone in Hollygrove to keep peace in the shire.

Michigan Renaissance Festival returns to the Shire of Hollygrove

The Shire of Hollygrove will once again be home to the magical kingdom of the Michigan Renaissance Festival, which opens Aug. 16.

Now in its 18th year on Dixie Highway one mile north of Mt. Holly, the festival promises to take visitors back to the 16th century with all its color. Merrymaking is by royal decree and all guests must take part, or risk derision. Well, actually, you may get derision either way, but that's all part of the fun.

A village atmosphere is brought to life on the 15-acre site by 150 artisan shops, costumed actors who await around every corner, 15 stages and a wide range of food, including the ever popular turkey drumstick. Just the thing after a hot day at the jousting field.

The first Renaissance Festival took place in Minneapolis in 1971.

In 1980 Detroit civic leaders contacted Festivals, Inc. about bringing the show here. Now the company operates six festivals, including the one in Holly and those in Minneapolis, Kansas City and Largo, Sarasota and Palm Beach, Fla.

The first Michigan Renaissance Festival was held on the grounds of Colombiere Center in Springfield Township and drew 11,000 people. The move to Holly was necessitated by growth. In fact, attendance has continued to increase—nearly 35 percent over the past three years alone. Seems no one tires of going year after year.

New this year are the Monk's Village Bake Shoppe, a woodcarver, a magic show, the King's Aviary, Human Chess utilizing visitors as playing pieces, and more food offerings than ever.

You can also attend a Renaissance Feast in the castle, featuring a seven-course meal and entertainment. Tickets are $60 per person and reservations are required.

The Renaissance Festival is offered on weekends Aug. 16-Sept. 28, including Labor Day. Gates open at 10 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Arrive early to take in all the sites.

Tickets are $12.95 for adults, $5.95 for kids 5-12 ($11.50/$5 in advance at Kroger). Parking is free. If you're taking I-75, get off at exit 106 (Grand Blanc) and follow the signs. Shuttle service is available from the Mt. Holly parking lot.

SERRA'S NEW ERA

Starting Monday, Ann Serra takes the reins of the CHS varsity basketball squad

In April, Ann Serra was named the new head coach of the Clarkston High School varsity girls basketball team after longtime coach Larry Mahrle resigned.

Serra has a playing background that can stand tall against any. She graduated from Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes High School and signed to play at Division I Dayton University in Ohio. After one season, she returned to more familiar surroundings to play at Oakland University, where she became a Division II All-American. Playing the point guard position, Serra owns two of the 10 best single season assist totals in OU history, recording 204 (second-best) in 1988-89 and 127 (10th) in 1987-88. She is also the school's all-time assist queen with 483 from 1988-90.

After graduating, Serra served as a grad assistant at women's basketball powerhouse Auburn University. She then was the head coach at Oakland Community College for a year. But finding that the prep game was still her first love, she returned to Michigan and the high school ranks. She was most recently the head coach at Birmingham Seaholm before taking Mahrle's place. She guided the Maples to two OAA Division II championships the last two years and has an overall career coaching mark of 117-35 (.769 winning percentage). Now in Clarkston, Serra fulfills a dream she always had by teaching and coaching in the same building (she's an English teacher at CHS).

Recently, she sat down with Clarkston News sportswriter Brad Monastiere to discuss her basketball philosophy, the 1997 team and how her experiences have shaped her as a person.

Q: What did you know about Clarkston basketball before taking this job?

A: I have to admit, I didn't know much about the tradition, but I could see the girls are very, very hard workers. I got that from coaching against them at Seaholm. I know these kids want to be successful and I will help them try to do that.

Q: What kind of team do you want to have on the floor for the 1997 season?

A: We are going to be an athletic, running team with a motion offense. We've got a group where every single kid can run the floor well and we are going to use that to our advantage. On defense, I will run some 2-2-1 traps and mix that in with some man-to-man occasionally. I have always been an eight-player coach, meaning I like to play the five starters and three kids off the bench. But with the quality of athletes we have in Clarkston, I might have to expand that. I would rather coach a team that does one thing really well than many things decent. The first month, I will find out what those things are that we need to do to be successful.

Q: What is your coaching style?

A: I am the type of coach that when we have 90 minutes in the gym for practice, we will work nonstop for 90 minutes. I work very hard as a coach and I expect the same from my players. I also think of myself as a good communicator with the players. Everyone on the team will know what their roles are. There won't be any guessing with me. I like open communication, and that goes for my players too. If they have a suggestion, or a concern, I encourage them to tell me about it. I think communication is very important and I think I communicate more than most coaches do.

Ann Serra, pictured last season coaching Birmingham Seaholm, will get a different view of the gym during games this season, as she takes over the Clarkston varsity girls basketball program.

Q: Have you set any concrete goals for the 1997 season?

A: I want the district title. One day I was in the gym and I noticed the boys basketball banner. You'll notice they have won the district almost every year for as far back as that banner goes. The last girls basketball district title was 1976. That's 20 years. But I also believe in setting mini-goals along the way, like Mike Krzyzewski does at Duke. I'd like to first, win all our non-conference games and that starts with the first two games at Davison and Lapeer West. Then, I'd like to be competitive in all of our league games the first time around. Then, be that much more competitive the second time around. Those are goals we can achieve and the kids are hungry for it.

Q: Women's basketball is definitely a sport on the rise nationwide. What do you think of the new pro leagues, the WNBA and the ABL, and could a franchise thrive in Detroit?

A: I think pro leagues for women's basketball have been a long time coming. It's neat for me because I have a lot of friends who are playing in the leagues. It's a nice opportunity for the top women's players in college to not have to go overseas to play and get paid for it. I would like to see the two leagues merge at some point, because I think it's way too early for two leagues to be competing like this. The one thing I worry about is if you have female players coming out of college early like so many of the men do. I think it's very important for women to support themselves and get an education and that comes by staying in school. I just don't want to see us get to that point of coming out early. But you know, I've seen a lot of girls around in WNBA shirts and I think that's great. They can't laugh at our dreams anymore.

Q: Would a team do well in Detroit? I would say no. There's just so much competition here, with the big four teams, the Vipers, and all the others.

Q: Is there anything in particular you are looking forward to this season?

A: Well, I will have a pretty interesting week in October. On Oct. 16, I go back to Seaholm to coach against them for the first time. I know right now that will be very hard. But two days later, I will be getting married. Then, three days later, we have a home game against Lahser and I will be going against my old high school coach from Lakes. It should be an interesting week!

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) — A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis" and is being called a Medical Miracle "by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis®, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis®, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

You know that saying, best of both worlds? That's what you get at your nearby Oxford Bank office.

The reason is simple. We may have one of the largest banking networks in this area, but each office is run on a local basis. Close to home.

So you get an unexpected level of value. Warm, responsive service from people you trust. And convenient access to more of the financial services you need, at every stage of life.

In fact, Oxford Bank is the only bank in the area that gives you the benefits of a small, community bank, and a major financial resource, wrapped into one.

Which is just one more reason we're proud to say Oxford Bank is this area's bank of choice.

CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

SUMMARY

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING

JULY 28, 1997

Meeting called to order by Mayor Catallo at 7:37 p.m. Minutes of the July 14, 1997, Council Meeting approved as presented.

Agenda approved as presented with the deletion of building inspections from Old Business.

Mayor Catallo responded to the letter written by former Council person Laura Augur that appeared in the Clarkston News regarding the City Council as follows: Mayor Catallo could not appoint Tom Zukowski to the Council as suggested as he is no longer a registered voter in the City of Clarkston; Legal fees for the Bed and Breakfast litigation are minimal as the City Attorney is waiting to hear from the other attorney.

With reference to Community Block Grant funds in the amount of $12,000, recently a reimbursement request for approximately $9,000 was submitted. The Waldon/M-15 property had been advertised as Commercial property with a commercial sales price; therefore, prospective purchasers may have not realized it was zoned residential. Mayor Catallo feels, with the concurrence of the City Council, that attendance of the City Attorney at all Council meetings is essential. Mayor Catallo further stated that there are five Council positions up for the November 4 election, three for two-year terms, and two for one-year terms.

Skinner Ford bid of $26,067 for the chassis and the Jursik Truck bid of $18,707 was accepted.

City Council authorized Bob Pursley, D.P.W. Supervisor to request bids for a generator.

Independence Firefighters granted permission to hold the Labor Day Pancake Breakfast in Depot Park, using the City Garage facilities if necessary.

City Council adopted the Criminal Code of the City of the Village of Clarkston, as amended, as Ordinance No. 128.

City Engineer Gary Tressel, Hubbell Rath and Clark, was present to discuss the proposed Master Thoroughfare Plan with the City Council and Planning Commissioners present. The Master Plan will not include the Master Thoroughfare Plan until a later date amendment.

City Council approved the Republic Bank Site Plan as recommended by the Planning Commission, and that within fourteen days Republic Bank is to apply for an exception from the requirements in the barrier-free design rules of the State Construction Board. Also, if the barrier-free exception is granted by the State of Michigan, the occupancy shall become final; however, if the barrier-free exception is not granted, Republic Bank shall have ninety days to either bring the building into barrier-free compliance or vacate the premises.

Anne Clifton was appointed to fill the vacancy on City Council. Jennifer Radcliff of 33 North Main Street was present to voice concerns regarding the sidewalk repairs being made. Mrs. Radcliff felt that the tree in front of her property at 11 North Main had been damaged by the sidewalk repairs, and that the tree's roots had been cut.

Meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Artemus M. Peopas, Clerk

Meadow Brook Hall's elegant Concours d'Elegance made its annual stop in Clarkston Friday night as classic autos filled Depot Park.

The event, billed as "Concours in the Park," is for pre-1972 sports cars only. The event also serves as a fund-raiser for SCAMP, which holds an ice cream social in the park.

As guests peered under the hoods of the fancy wheels, they ate tasty bowls of the cold stuff and listened to Dixieland jazz by the Dixie Strollers. Though there was a threat of rain in the air, the festivities got off without a hitch.

Earlier in the day, racing practice had started at nearby Waterford Hill Raceway in Independence Township. The actual race of vintage cars was held over the weekend. There was also a cruise from Canterbury Village in Orion Township to Depot Park Friday afternoon.

John Coletti, Grand Marshall of the entire event and a Ford's head of Special Vehicle Engineering, thanked everyone for coming and enjoying the cars, even if they weren't all Fords.

Township, schools spar over improving Clarkston-Flemings Lake Rd. corner for new CHS

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the opening of the new Clarkston High School just a year away, tempers are beginning to flare over expected traffic problems approaching the Flemings Lake Rd. site.

At their meeting Aug. 5, members of the Independence Township Board of Trustees criticized the school district for its planning of the entrance to the new high school.

Supervisor Dale Stuart brought up the Flemings Lake - Clarkston Road intersection as one possibility for allocation of Tri-Party funds still available to the township in the coming year.

But the board seemed reluctant to approve the spending when, members said, the school district hasn't been forthcoming with money of its own to improve the intersection.

"The school system has indicated that they won't do anything more with this project. That's dangerous," Stuart said. "I would recommend we go to the school system and have them make some kind of contribution. They have a responsibility and they have to step up to the plate."

Stuart's and the board's concerns stem mainly from the way the entrance from Clarkston Road is being constructed. Trustee Dan Travis said the entrance from Clarkston Road onto unpaved Flemings Lake Rd. right now is not wide enough to allow two buses to drive side-by-side.

"The schools have a strategic problem here," Travis said. "They have jammed themselves with this Flemings Lake Road location. They created this and now they should help to make it better."

"It's absurd the schools aren't interested in contributing to clean up the mess," trustee Jeff McGee said. "It's ludicrous they come here, ask us for support in the bond issue and not do anything with this. We should put the clamps down and get them to lay out some money for this."

The school system has been giving the township board periodic updates on the progress on the construction of the new high school since it started. School superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said Tuesday he re-

Schools search for new site

Problems surface at Springfield Plains site; meanwhile parents urge that remodeling work should come before any new building goes up

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Concerned parents filled the Clarkston Board of Education meeting Monday night, certain the board had already made up its mind to place a new elementary school next to the district's newest building, Springfield Plains.

However that wasn't the case, and most seemed to come away from what they said was their first board meeting with a better understanding of the board's position.

Architect David French of French and Associates presented maps of three parcels of land the district presently owns and talked about the pros and cons of each. The parcels are next to Springfield Plains Elementary on Holcomb Rd., behind the administration building on Clarkston Rd., and at Reese and Rattalee Lake roads.

Contrary to the July 21 meeting, when the board had been told construction manager A. J. Etkin preferred the Springfield Plains site, Tom Landry of Etkin said that wasn't necessarily the case.

"I don't want to see kids bussed from the southeast area to the north. I want to target where growth is going to come."

Trustee Mary Ellen McLean

"That was just off-the-cuff comments," he said, made before he'd seen maps of the other two sites.

Monday night's discussion revealed that due to wetland placement, the Springfield Plains site, at 34 acres, may not be big enough. "It's going to be tighter than either of the other two sites," French said.

The Reese Rd. site offers 80 acres and is a "very buildable site," French said. The Clarkston Rd. site offers 34 acres but with more favorable wetland placement. It also offers water and sewer, "a real plus when
