Clarkston schools budget forecast 'not favorable'

Expenditures to jump $11 million in five years

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

A period of significant financial changes and challenges lies ahead for the Clarkston Community School District. That's the forecast of the schools' business director, Craig Kahler. Kahler presented his five-year budget projection to the school board Monday night.

The problem, said Kahler, is most of the funding can't be determined in advance. "This (budget) is today. Tomorrow everything may change," he said Tuesday.

In the summary portion of his report, Kahler cautioned, "The long range prognosis is not favorable and although we have been able to realize surpluses after initially forecasting deficits, the forecast deficits are getting larger and the years to the larger deficits getting closer. There are a number of uncertainties in the general fund and most of them are political, revolving around state support of education."

The revenues for the district totaled $45,027,030 for 1997-1998 with expenditures at $44,275,654. This year's fund balance is $5,334,420, due to a beginning fund balance of $3,446,867 and a surplus of $751,376.

But this could be the last year for surpluses, according to Kahler. He's forecasting deficits beginning next year and continuing through 2002-2003 unless precautionary measures are taken. Kahler said next year's deficit could be as high as $1,459,467, although the fund balance won't show a deficit until 2000-2001. By the year 2002-2003 revenues are expected to total $51,612,833, with expenditures at $56,317,364.

One of Kahler's concerns is the state legislature has not yet passed a school aid bill. The foundation allowance has been frozen at $5,908.

The primary source of revenue, the state foundation allowance has risen an average of $150 per student per year since Proposal A was adopted in 1993, said Kahler. The loss of the increase is worth about $1 million, he added. If it were to continue, Kahler said next year's deficit would be insignificant.

Rumors from Oakland Schools legislative liaison Brian Whiston indicate it could rise from between $25 to $100 per student. An increase of $25 would bring the schools about $170,000, an increase of $100 would add $650,000 to $750,000, Kahler said.

Additionally, the foundation allowance does not keep pace with the consumer price index, and there is continued demand by employees to keep wages at pace with inflation. Salaries, wages and benefits account for 80 percent of the district's expenses, he said.

Downtown revitalization passes City looks at 1998-'99 budget

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There aren't any monies budgeted for a revamped city hall or downtown revitalization study, but that doesn't mean the city won't kick in some funding during the next year.

On June 9 Clarkston City Council held a public hearing on its proposed 1998-99 general fund budget. Besides providing for a few upgrades like a new DPW worker and tractor, it isn't a surprising change from last year's list. The budget needs to be approved at the next meeting June 22.

The city expects to take in $580,000 this year, with expenses estimated to be $600,640. Reserves are projected at $250,000, some of which is targeted for equipment and other improvements, said city manager Art Pappas, a member of the budget committee.

The budget calls for no increase in the millage rate, still set at 12.3 mills (A mill is one dollar for every $1,000 of taxable value). Pappas said taxable property value rose from $30,658,490 to $32,808,055 this year. The increase comes from both new construction and property sales, which uncaps taxable value on property, Pappas said. An additional $6,000 is anticipated from state shared revenue.

Highlights (changes) of this year's budget include the following:

- A new full-time Department of Public Works person to supplement the part-time staff. Funds would come primarily from street funds, including $20,800 for wages and $3,000 for medical insurance.

- A new tractor, to replace the current 8-year-old machine, will cost the city around $12,000 (using the old model for a $3,000 trade-in).

- The police budget rose by $22,500 to accommodate the hiring of experienced officers, a change recently implemented by Chief Paul Ormiston.

- Fire protection and library services, provided by Independence Township, increased by $7,000 and

Bay Court Park vandalized

Three men, two from Clarkston and one from Holly, were caught vandalizing phone booths, cabins and many other areas at Bay Court Park Thursday night.

When deputies arrived at the scene, they noticed six signs uprooted from the ground, cabins broken into, and lifeguard equipment thrown into the water. Fire extinguisher foam was also sprayed in various places in the park.

The men were caught lying in the woods face-down, and all three admitted to doing the damage. The total damage in the park amounts to around $1,070, not including salaries used in cleaning up the mess. Police are seeking five counts of breaking and entering and malicious destruction of property on each man.

Taking time to say 'thank you'

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At the local Y you might get a hot meal and a shower. But at Andersonville Elementary "you always get a recess and a nice teacher."

Sonoted fifth-grader Chelsea Hughes, when asked to finish the sentence, "I love Andersonville because..." Other students and staff members were also asked to complete that phrase, which was just one activity during "Appreciation Month," a May event set up by principal Bill Potvin.

According to the month's itinerary, the goal was "to stop and say thank you to a lot of very important people and tell them how much we appreciate them." The gratitude extended beyond the close-knit group of students and staff members, to parents, PTO (Parent Teacher Organization) members and volunteers.

"In one sense it's a big deal and in another sense it's not," Potvin said. "We write notes and say thank you all the time. But we stopped and said, hey, let's make this a little more formal. As one of the staff said, 'You can never say thank you too much.'"

Therefore, students created Appreciation Certificates for their teachers and parents, and some classes also filled out certificates for the PTO and volunteers. In addition, teachers told students why they're appreciated too. One teacher even did a cheer (complete with pom poms) for her second-graders on the school's playground, Potvin said.

Putting it down on paper has special meaning, he added. "If you compliment someone verbally it lasts as long as they remember. But if you write it out it can last a lifetime."

It was the first time he coordinated the event at Andersonville, Potvin said, adding it was previously implemented at two other schools where he was principal. The idea emerged after the death of a dear friend and colleague, Bud McGrath, former counselor at the old Clarkston Junior High School.

Potvin described McGrath as a kindly, "big bear" of a man. There were a great number of people who said, "You know, I never told Bud how much I cared about him."

The time is now — to let people know "how much we appreciate them," Potvin said, adding that life's unforeseeable tragedies may never allow you to "have that shot" otherwise.

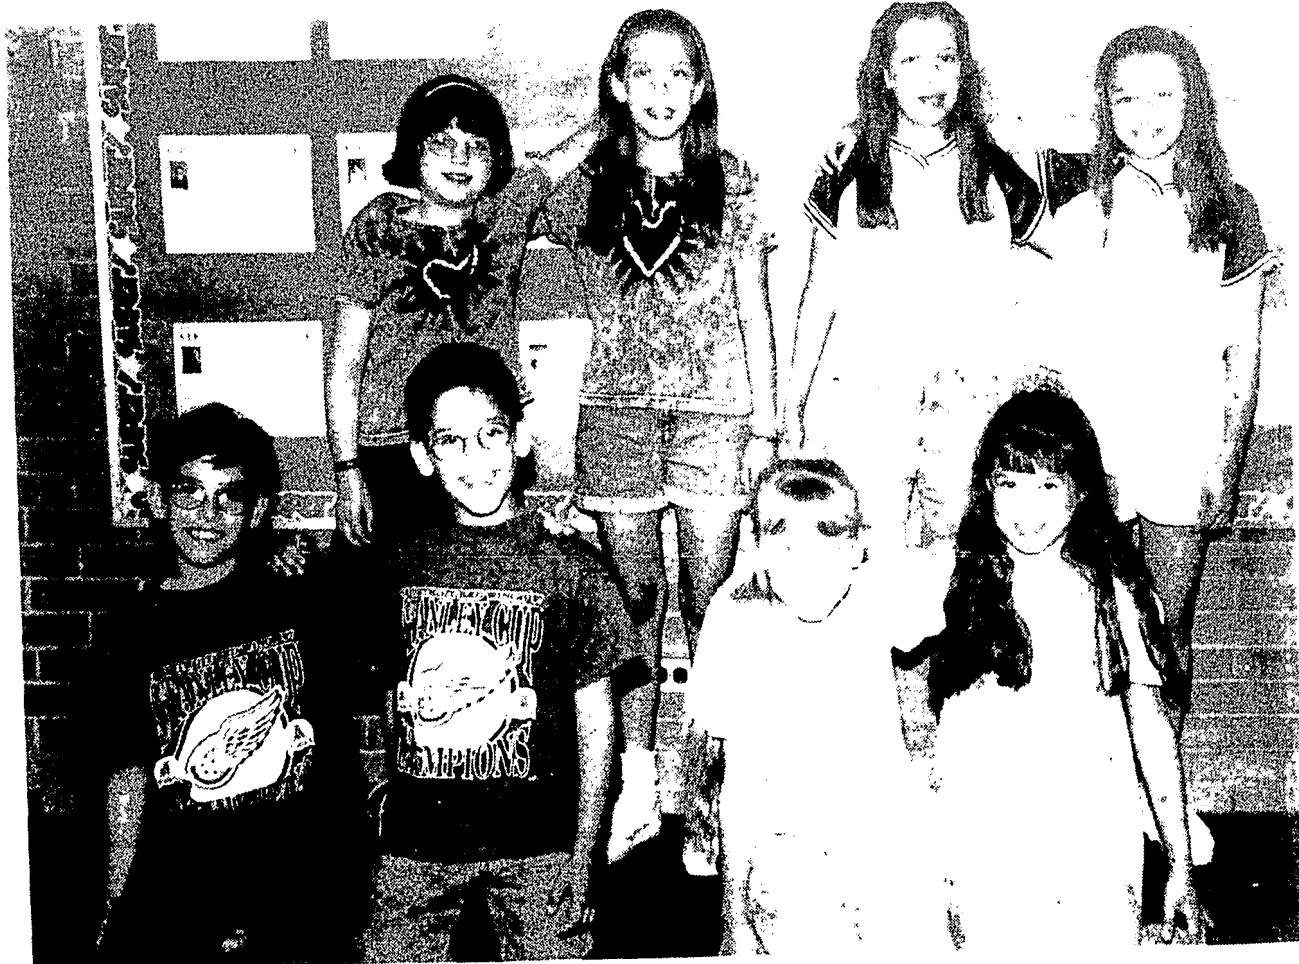

The whole month was a celebration of thankfulness, with lots of fun events for everyone. Different groups, including staff, parents/volunteers and students, were honored each week, and special events included free popcorn, extra recess, pizza parties, assemblies and more. Potvin said students were involved in the planning process.

In addition, Andersonville's Student Council ran a series of "Spirit Days:" sports team shirt day, hat day, mismatch day, animal shirt day and dress like a twin day.

Lots of great things happened during the month-long activity, Potvin said. For example, many children said "I love Andersonville" because it's safe. Because one of the school's missions is to make sure kids know they're safe, that committee's chairperson was elated to read those comments.

"Whatever we're doing, our kids are feeling it," Potvin said.

When you look at some of the comments, you see "recess, recess, recess," he laughed. "But you also see these thoughts coming from kids like 'I love all the day). Row two, Braley Bullard and Lindsay Bokeniewicz (twins for a day), and Erin Bokeniewicz and Sarah Garcia (twins for a day). Note: Braley and Erin are real twins.

Letting Mom and Dad know you care: some Parent Appreciation Certificates:

"I love my mom and dad because we go shopping together, we work around the house together and we all fish. All together, we love each other."

"Mom and Dad, you are so kind, generous and patient. Could we go to Blockbuster Video — please?"

A lesson in composition: 'I love Andersonville Elementary because . . .'

"... I feel safe here. I feel like no one can harm me."
— Cassie Marquis, third grade

"... Recess is fun and lunch is so delicious and very enjoyable. This school teaches like a tornado."
— Amber LaRue, fourth grade

"... I never want to move from this school except when I am in sixth grade."
— Katie Smith, third grade

"... the children warm my heart and make me smile everyday."
— Dru Bergquist, second-grade teacher aide

"... I've been here my whole life and I have something to look forward to."
— Kyle Cummings, fourth grade

"... the teachers are so nice, they feel like my family."
— Sarah Galbreath, fourth grade

learning and the nice people here' ... It's neat to see all these other things come out."

Students also learned how much they appreciate some of the school's unsung heroes, like bus drivers and janitors.

Ditto for Potvin. One day he met with the entire staff, to impress upon them that every member is an educator and therefore, a role model.

"I said, what's the definition of a teacher. One of our custodians said, 'A teacher's somebody who helps anybody learn.'" Then Potvin asked anyone who wasn't a teacher to please stand up. Of course, nobody moved, which proved his point.

"Kids are watching you all the time ... 'What you do speaks so loudly I can't hear what you're saying,' said Potvin, repeating one of his favorite proverbs.

Actions sometimes speak louder than words when it comes to making people feel appreciated, he explained. One of the school's goals is to make sure visitors feel welcome. Those warm fuzzies seem to rub off on everyone, besides creating a real learning experience.

"If you're making an effort to say hi to anyone who walks in, kids pick up on that and say this is a nice, friendly place to be," he said with a smile.

learning and the nice people here' ... It's neat to see all these other things come out."

Students also learned how much they appreciate some of the school's unsung heroes, like bus drivers and janitors.

Ditto for Potvin. One day he met with the entire staff, to impress upon them that every member is an educator and therefore, a role model.

"I said, what's the definition of a teacher. One of our custodians said, 'A teacher's somebody who helps anybody learn.'" Then Potvin asked anyone who wasn't a teacher to please stand up. Of course, nobody moved, which proved his point.

"Kids are watching you all the time ... 'What you do speaks so loudly I can't hear what you're saying,' said Potvin, repeating one of his favorite proverbs.

Actions sometimes speak louder than words when it comes to making people feel appreciated, he explained. One of the school's goals is to make sure visitors feel welcome. Those warm fuzzies seem to rub off on everyone, besides creating a real learning experience.

"If you're making an effort to say hi to anyone who walks in, kids pick up on that and say this is a nice, friendly place to be," he said with a smile.

Kahler also told board members the property tax levy will remain at 7 mills for another six to seven years. The non-homestead property tax is 17.74 mills. One mill equals one dollar for every one-thousand dollars of a property's taxable value.

Kahler is also expecting $1.5 million in new operating costs for the high school, and $375,000 for the new elementary. Enrollment is expected to rise from the current 6,550 to 7,164 by 2002, not including special education students.

"We're trying to anticipate what the changes (in state funding) will be but they're difficult to predict because so much is beyond our control.

"The board is at the whim of the state. If changes are made we don't find out until it's almost too late. We start school in eight weeks and the state hasn't decided how to fund it yet."

Kahler recommended the schools work at identifying alternative revenue sources and continue to emphasize cost-benefit analysis.

He added the schools have two years to offset the future deficits, and administrators must be willing to make difficult decisions.

Trustee Janet Thomas recommended the board look at which adjustments can be made immediately, rather than waiting.

Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said "I see these as opportunities and challenges rather than problems." He added upcoming contract talks will give the schools the chance to cut costs and improve quality.

Kahler said upcoming issues to watch include funding for the autistic center program; how the Oakland Technical Center, Northwest Campus will be run; athletic funding and program expansion with the new facilities; technical replacement and maintenance con-

Road Commission to examine safety considerations Dixie improvements explored

The Road Commission for Oakland County (RCOC) is taking a two-pronged approach to reviewing the situation on Dixie Highway between Davisburg Road and I-75 in Springfield Township.

Following a recent traffic fatality on the road, residents in the area have asked the Road Commission to examine safety considerations. "We are looking at the situation from both a short and long-term perspective," explained RCOC Managing Director Brent Bair.

In the short term, he said, the Road Commission will do three things:

- Review the rate and type of accidents that have occurred on the road.
- Review the appropriateness of the existing traffic signals in the area.
- Review the speed limit on the road.

Bair pointed out that the speed limit is set in conjunction with the Michigan State Police based on actual radar studies of traffic.

If this review indicates additional or different traffic signals are justified, Bair said RCOC will make the changes. He added that if it is determined unusually high numbers of accidents are taking place, the Road Commission will look at ways to reduce the numbers.

One of the requests voiced by some area residents is that the Road Commission install a center left-turn lane on this section of road. RCOC's Engineering Department estimates it would cost $2 millions to build the turn lane.

Bair said from a long-term perspective, the Road Commission will look into whether or not funding would be available to construct a center left-turn lane. He added that typically the Road Commission relies on federal funding for substantial construction projects such as this.

The managing director noted that in order to be eligible for federal funds, the project would have to rank highly in an objective scoring process used by Oakland County Federal Aid Task Force, which disperses federal road money in Oakland County. In order to be selected for funding by the task force, the project would have to rank high enough to beat out other Road Commission projects as well as projects submitted to the task force by cities and villages across the county.

The task force's Funding Committee is an objective, 14-member body made up of representatives of the Road Commission and the county's cities, villages and townships. The committee has already allocated federal funds through the year 2000, so it is unlikely the project would be considered for funding prior to that.

If, after its evaluation, the Road Commission determines the center left-turn lane project might rank highly on the Federal Aid Task Force's objective scale, the project would be submitted for consideration for funding.

"We are very concerned about the safety of motorists on our roads," Bair stated. "If the evidence indicates that a center left-turn lane is warranted on this stretch of Dixie Highway, we will make the strongest case possible for federal funding."

Bair pointed out that the Road Commission this year will resurface the section of Dixie Highway from Davisburg Road north to the county line. This eight-mile section, immediately north of the section being studied, is being resurfaced because of the deteriorated condition of the road surface and the amount of time RCOC crews spend patching potholes.

Springfield adopts sidewalk ordinance

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A ruling by the state Supreme Court found its way to Springfield Township neighborhoods after Thursday's board meeting.

The Springfield Township Board of Trustees voted 7-0 to adopt a new sidewalk maintenance ordinance, effective immediately.

The decision ended months of "i" dotting and "t" crossing the board needed to do.

The ordinance is a reflection of the court decision that stated all local municipalities are liable for sidewalks and other paths that abut public rights-of-ways, even though there is no local jurisdiction over those rights-of-ways.

The ordinance states that property owners with sidewalks or other similar-type paths along their property are responsible for maintaining them. That means if there's a big snowfall one night, the property owner is responsible for clearing the snow and ice off the portion of the sidewalk that runs through his or her property.

If the sidewalk is not cleared within 24 hours, the township will send notice to the property owner with instructions to do so. If the request is ignored, the township will clear the sidewalk and bill the property owner.

Residents will not be required to improve or update sidewalks that currently run through their property because of the new ordinance.

"Property owners are not required to build onto current sidewalks," said township supervisor Collin Walls.

A Disney world

Down in Florida, my daughter is experiencing the summer job of a lifetime.

When she told me, "I'm going to Disney World!" I couldn't have been happier for her. It's a dream she's always wanted.

As one of the hundreds of college kids who work there every year, Tara tells me her summer spot is in MGM Studios, one of four theme parks at the Lake Buena Vista mecca.

So far, as one who hawks roasted nuts and soft drinks, she's helped a lost child find his mother and spotted several celebrities, including Leonardo DiCaprio, Meryl Streep, Steve Martin and another Tara — Lipinski.

While there, she'll have the opportunity to do some job shadowing and is even contemplating the possibility of turning her summer sojourn into a life-long career — perhaps as an animator or a horticulturist, two of her many interests.

As is typical with my rambling, philosophical mind, this experience meandered into other areas.

I soon found myself thinking about "The Truman Show," that neat, little imaginative movie that's turning actor Jim Carrey from a rubbery-faced comic into a serious star.

Though the film seems to be a satire about the television industry, I think it's a whole lot more.

Movie critic Roger Ebert notes it's also about those who don't accept the world around them, and break out of that complacency to find new challenges. For some, it's risky business. In Truman's case, he left his snug cocoon to find the one person he truly loved.

It's ironic that Truman left a Disney-like existence for the real world, and my daughter is leaving the real world for a Disney-like existence.

On the other hand, it's not. Disney looks idyllic on the outside, but behind the scenes kids complain about low wages, long hours, etc. like we adults do. There's someone pulling the strings behind the theme parks, just as there was a puppet master in Truman's world.

Still, wouldn't it be fabulous to have Mickey and Minnie as your next-door neighbors?

Maybe Tara has the right idea. To find a brighter, happier world, at least on the surface, populated by goofy, costumed characters. After all, we all need to lighten up and laugh a little more, right?

So far, I've uncovered only one alleged costumed character in Clarkston. Ed Adler, owner of Food Town and the Mills Mall, claims he's setting the story straight about a black bear roaming in Independence Township.

It was no bear at all, he said, but himself dressed up in a bear suit, "hiding from all the people in the Mill Pond Association."

Now, if we could just get city manager Art Pappas to dress up like Donald Duck ...

City's on the right road with studies

The Clarkston City Council is considering two issues that impact the city's historic downtown business district.

First, it has decided it needs the services of a national planner to improve downtown retail business. Second, it's studying a proposed ordinance that would order inspections of downtown business buildings.

Both issues have been hotly debated over the last few weeks and, in the case of downtown revitalization, even longer.

Those who oppose the inspection ordinance say it would defeat the purpose of recruiting new retail. They claim high rents and other expenses are already a turn-off. They say costly inspections would repel prospective tenants even more.

Those who oppose a downtown study have said Clarkston doesn't need a planner. They argue the exodus of some viable businesses is the natural course of things and can't be prevented.

We're glad city council took proactive stance and appointed subcommittees to study these serious issues. The city and businesses are working together, and it's great to see the teamwork.

One subcommittee eventually found a way to make the downtown study happen. In time, we feel the building inspection committee will find a resolution too.

While who should pay for the inspections and how frequent they should be have yet to be determined, both sides are listening to one another.

That's progress.

We feel both the revitalization study and inspection ordinance are needed to preserve the future of our downtown business district.

The city is a unique jewel. And it provides a quality of life residents and business owners truly treasure. We'd like to see it preserved for future generations as well. EMC

Thanks for support

Dear Editor,

The Bouchard family would like to extend out heartfelt gratitude for the overwhelming expressions of sympathy received by us during our recent tragedy. Your prayers, generosity and compassion are gratefully accepted.

Entertainment was fun

To the Editor:

Just wanted to say "Thanks!" to Sharron and Ed Santala of Hilton Mortgage for sponsoring the Children's Theatre in Depot Park, and to m'Arch and Janet Marie McCarty for the wonderful show.

Several hundred of us kids, parents, and grandparents ignored the rain as we thoroughly enjoyed the great family entertainment of the first Children's Theatre in Clarkston. We all got drenched but hardly noticed because we were having so much fun.

We're looking forward to the next two Thursdays and are hoping for a couple of dry nights.

Thanks again to the Santalas and the McCartys.

An improper government intrusion

Dear Editor,

I read Ms. McCarville's article in the June third issue about the City of Clarkston's proposed inspection ordinance. Mr. Wallace's comments, as quoted, were absolutely laughable!

Mr. Wallace is an Independence Township Trustee and attorney who represents another Independence Township Trustee, Jeff McGee. Mr. McGee has been a defendant in many property disputes on Walter's Lake, as most residents already know. What was laughable were comments about the proposed ordinance being called "an improper government intrusion."

Mr. Wallace and Mr. McGee have been trying, through settlement negotiations, to have building restrictions put on property that we have owned for years. They find no problem in preventing us, and other residents, from even accessing our properties!

That is an intrusion! And they are asking the court to enforce it.

Mr. Wallace and his client have also told us that we would never be allowed to build on our property at the lake due to size. Mr. McGee, Trustee was allowed to build a home on North Eston that received an incredible variance. Residents better begin listening to what our 'representatives' are saying and doing for each other and to us and start becoming involved and take some action.

Mr. Wallace found irony in the discussions about the ordinance occurring on the same night as discussion about revitalization. The greater irony is little men, with a little bit of power, find no justice in the same things that they do to others with no conscience of any kind - and they are doing it to residents in the very community they represent as Trustees!!

Sincerely,
Jody LaLonde

Wow . . .

Just looking over the "summary of fees collected . . ." by the Michigan Secretary of State for the period of October 1, 1996 to September 30, 1997. (The people in state government need to get snappier titles for their reports.) Needless to say, I was taken back.

And, as my cartoon hero Shaggy used to say, I shouted, "Zoinks!" During that time the Secretary of State hauled in $1,724,429,233.49. This is way over a billion dollar operation.

Wow . . .

That's a lot of taxes.

The biggest racket our girl, Secretary of State, Candice S. Miller has is the sales tax from motor vehicle "fee collections."

THIS IS A READER WARNING: Move any breakable items within arm's reach, and hold on to this copy of the newspaper tight. Drum roll please . . . sales tax on vehicle purchases was $799,423,366.53. I guess that two percent bump in the tax a few years back really helped state coffers.

Money from license plate fees for passenger cars (including motor homes) was $384,567,064.82. For commemorative and distinctive plates, $6,979,975.07;

motorcycle plates, $2,627,902.80. The state also made $146,325.50 off of "Olympic Training Center Plates," whatever the heck they are.

People were taxed to the tune of $28,290,167.16 on service charges for record information.

Here are some interesting tidbits from the report (guys you can add these useless hunks of info to your repertoire -- check spelling).

■ During the time 85,529 personalized plates were printed.

■ There were 1,597,466 driver license renewals and 450,242 change of address requests for voter registrations.

■ In Oakland County there were 80,618 water craft registrations purchased -- in Genesee County, 32,081. Also, there were 19,142 snowmobile registrations and 1,538 for mopeds for Oakland County -- in Genesee, 10,032 and 570, respectively.

■ In 1955, the number of licensed cars in the state was 2,722,752. Forty-two years later (in 1997) the number grew to 6,198,496 (that's a lot of cars).

■ In '55 there were 227,345 chauffeur licenses in the state -- in '97 168,464.

UAW Highway Flint's 'un' welcome sign

Years ago, when the 475 expressway was built to bypass downtown Flint, and the name UAW Highway was hung on it, a pundent remarked, "How does Flint expect to attract new industry with a union label as its welcome sign?"

To update the remark, "How is Flint going to hang on to the industry it has?"

This is being written on the fifth day of the strike at the GM Metal Fabricating Division plant on Bristol Road.

Except for the photo session after a contract settlement is reached, when all smile and shake hands, there doesn't even appear to ever be a genuine trust, one side to the other.

Management says labor isn't productive enough to satisfy shareholders.

Labor says management renege on promises.

In Flint, management says it has to close Buick City because the factory is too old to continue and people aren't buying big cars any more.

Local 599 president Art McGee said his local has to strike to get the company's attention..

They succeeded in that. Today at least five GM facilities are shut down because of a shortage of parts. That certainly gets company's attention, but, you know what?

Through previous strikes, work stoppages and interruptions the company was already paying attention.

There is no better way to prove it than to look at the Flint GM employment figures over the last 20-plus years.

The figures change from writer to writer, but in the 1970s there were about 78,000 union dues paying employees at GM-Flint.

Today there are less than 35,000.

Through attrition, improved production machinery and technology, and being able to manufacture cars and trucks in other parts of the world at less cost, GM has cut union membership in Flint more than half in a couple decades.

One of the daily newspaper financial writers concluded GM didn't cut employees in Flint to punish them. They moved jobs and cut employees so holders of GM stock and potential buyers of GM stock would continue to invest in the company. And, so we come to the "bottom line."

Profit! Return on investment!

GM has squeezed concessions out of suppliers. GM has cut production costs, notably by reducing the workforce and outsourcing. And, GM is not making enough money.

Company chairman Jack Smith says they have to make 12.5 percent return on net assets, and they are two points below that.

So, organized labor can strike to keep plants open, to keep its workforce and 'get their attention,' but in the end the bottom line dictates company action.

Downtown study and city hall

On Tuesday the city also approved council member Dave Savage's proposed resolution to hire national planner Hyett-Palma for a downtown revitalization study, 5-1. Mayor Sharron Catallo was absent; council member Doug Roeser objected.

Money is not budgeted for the project, but council agreed $5,000 would come from the city coffers, contingent on the business community picking up the balance. As stated in the resolution, downtown business and property owners have a year in which to raise $20,000 for the $25,000 study.

City hall improvements have not been budgeted as well, as council is still discussing changes that would upgrade quarters for the police department, DPW and city officials. The latest proposal ballparks improvements at $300,000.

City hall additions "will be a separate issue," Pappas said. "The nice thing about (the latest proposal) is, it could be done in stages."

After the meeting, Savage said he was "satisfied" the downtown revitalization resolution had passed, and remarked that the city was taking a leadership role.

"This respects the concerns of the business community, the council and other important people in the community, including our historians," he said. "I think the council has a very positive attitude about this and it's gonna happen."

Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce president Marc Cooper said Chamber members, who also come from areas like Waterford and Springfield Township, support the effort.

"We're in support of what they're doing to keep Clarkston a viable downtown entity. If (the businesses) can come up with it, if they feel that somehow they can do something to keep Clarkston on the map business-wise, I think it's the right thing to do."

Although growth is turning new areas into business districts, Cooper noted it's important to preserve downtowns.

"Sashabaw (Road) is turning into a business corridor, Dixie Highway is becoming a business corridor ... But you still need a downtown community," he said, adding that even Waterford "doesn't have one."

DON'T RUSH ME / by Don Rush

Wow . . .

Just looking over the "summary of fees collected . . ." by the Michigan Secretary of State for the period of October 1, 1996 to September 30, 1997. (The people in state government need to get snappier titles for their reports.) Needless to say, I was taken back.

And, as my cartoon hero Shaggy used to say, I shouted, "Zoinks!" During that time the Secretary of State hauled in $1,724,429,233.49. This is way over a billion dollar operation.

Wow . . .

That's a lot of taxes.

The biggest racket our girl, Secretary of State, Candice S. Miller has is the sales tax from motor vehicle "fee collections."

THIS IS A READER WARNING: Move any breakable items within arm's reach, and hold on to this copy of the newspaper tight. Drum roll please . . . sales tax on vehicle purchases was $799,423,366.53. I guess that two percent bump in the tax a few years back really helped state coffers.

Money from license plate fees for passenger cars (including motor homes) was $384,567,064.82. For commemorative and distinctive plates, $6,979,975.07;

motorcycle plates, $2,627,902.80. The state also made $146,325.50 off of "Olympic Training Center Plates," whatever the heck they are.

People were taxed to the tune of $28,290,167.16 on service charges for record information.

Here are some interesting tidbits from the report (guys you can add these useless hunks of info to your repertoire -- check spelling).

■ During the time 85,529 personalized plates were printed.

■ There were 1,597,466 driver license renewals and 450,242 change of address requests for voter registrations.

■ In Oakland County there were 80,618 watercraft registrations purchased -- in Genesee County, 32,081. Also, there were 19,142 snowmobile registrations and 1,538 for mopeds for Oakland County -- in Genesee, 10,032 and 570, respectively.

■ In 1955, the number of licensed cars in the state was 2,722,752. Forty-two years later (in 1997) the number grew to 6,198,496 (that's a lot of cars).

■ In '55 there were 227,345 chauffeur licenses in the state -- in '97, 168,464.

UAW Highway Flint's 'un' welcome sign

Years ago, when the 475 expressway was built to bypass downtown Flint, and the name UAW Highway was hung on it, a pundent remarked, "How does Flint expect to attract new industry with a union label as its welcome sign?"

To update the remark, "How is Flint going to hang on to the industry it has?"

This is being written on the fifth day of the strike at the GM Metal Fabricating Division plant on Bristol Road.

Except for the photo session after a contract settlement is reached, when all smile and shake hands, there doesn't even appear to ever be a genuine trust, one side to the other.

Management says labor isn't productive enough to satisfy shareholders.

Labor says management reneged on promises.

In Flint, management says it has to close Buick City because the factory is too old to continue and people aren't buying big cars any more.

Local 599 president Art McGee said his local has to strike to get the company's attention.

They succeeded in that. Today at least five GM facilities are shut down because of a shortage of parts. That certainly gets company's attention, but, you know what?

Through previous strikes, work stoppages and interruptions the company was already paying attention.

There is no better way to prove it than to look at the Flint GM employment figures over the last 20-plus years.

The figures change from writer to writer, but in the 1970s there were about 78,000 union dues paying employees at GM-Flint.

Today there are less than 35,000.

Through attrition, improved production machinery and technology, and being able to manufacture cars and trucks in other parts of the world at less cost, GM has cut union membership in Flint more than half in a couple decades.

One of the daily newspaper financial writers concluded GM didn't cut employees in Flint to punish them. They moved jobs and cut employees so holders of GM stock and potential buyers of GM stock would continue to invest in the company. And, so we come to the "bottom line."

Profit! Return on investment!

GM has squeezed concessions out of suppliers. GM has cut production costs, notably by reducing the workforce and outsourcing. And, GM is not making enough money.

Company chairman Jack Smith says they have to make 12.5 percent return on net assets, and they are two points below that.

So, organized labor can strike to keep plants open, to keep its workforce and 'get their attention,' but in the end the bottom line dictates company action.

Clarkston passes revitalization study

$1,800 respectively.

Downtown study and city hall

On Tuesday the city also approved council member Dave Savage's proposed resolution to hire national planner Hyett-Palma for a downtown revitalization

study, 5-1. Mayor Sharron Catallo was absent; council member Doug Roeser objected.

Money is not budgeted for the project, but council agreed $5,000 would come from the city coffers, contingent on the business community picking up the balance. As stated in the resolution, downtown business and property owners have a year in which to raise $20,000 for the $25,000 study.

City hall improvements have not been budgeted as well, as council is still discussing changes that would upgrade quarters for the police department, DPW and city officials. The latest proposal ballparks improvements at $300,000.

City hall additions "will be a separate issue," Pappas said. "The nice thing about (the latest proposal) is, it could be done in stages."

After the meeting, Savage said he was "satisfied" the downtown revitalization resolution had passed, and remarked that the city was taking a leadership role.

"This respects the concerns of the business community, the council and other important people in the community, including our historians," he said. "I think the council has a very positive attitude about this and it's gonna happen."

Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce president Marc Cooper said Chamber members, who also come from areas like Waterford and Springfield Township, support the effort.

"We're in support of what they're doing to keep Clarkston a viable downtown entity. If (the businesses) can come up with it, if they feel that somehow they can do something to keep Clarkston on the map business-wise, I think it's the right thing to do."

Although growth is turning new areas into business districts, Cooper noted it's important to preserve downtowns.

"Sashabaw (Road) is turning into a business corridor, Dixie Highway is becoming a business corridor ... But you still need a downtown community," he said, adding that even Waterford "doesn't have one."

CHS LIFE / by Kevin Kosbab

Almost there

As I am writing this, there are three days left in school — only two if you count the two half days as one whole. And by the time you read this, I'll be free at last.

But in their usual fashion, teachers have saved the best for last, making sure to give us exams in these final otherwise blissful days. It's not their fault, though: exams are required-or at least that's what they say. I think it's a conspiracy so we think exams are a fact of life, when in actuality, there is no such thing as an exam, or a test, or even homework and a "school" is nothing more than the formation of swimming fish.

As happens after one hundred eighty-some days of anything, we're starting to get bored and restless with the school routine. By the time we get to exams, we have absolutely no energy left with which to study. I sat down with my French stuff and tried to read over it, but I couldn't concentrate. It's like my brain has been removed, flopped onto a platter, and is now being served up as Gray Matter a la Mode to some one-eyed, green-haired ravenous beast that is eating in large chunks: I'm falling apart mentally.

The long road to brain-drain is not an enjoyable one. I can never tell whether I'm going to remember some fact when the exam rears its ugly head, or whether something is going to be important enough to try to remember or not. And I never feel like I'm studying as much as I should be although that statement implies that I've been really studying at all. I've only looked over the material for my first two exams so far.

But every evil has an equal good; in this case, exams are evil and summer is good. It's logical to have bad stuff come first so that we can get it out of our way (though in the case of school it's bad followed by good followed by bad starting all over again). And even with exams hanging over our heads, the we're-almost-done-and-can't-be-bothered-to-completely-behave-ourselves mentality gives chances for some events that can only occur in the last two weeks of school.

For instance, my friend and I have been begging our science teacher to kick us out of class for weeks. Finally, last Thursday, he acted like we had done something horribly wrong and we were "forced" to sit in the hall for the rest of the period, commenting on petty things like the boxes being used to pack up for the Big Move to the new high school.

Exams aren't really that bad; they're just a prelude to the end of the year, when we can finally be escorted out of the building like cattle, only with hidden shaving cream.

Subcommittee to study proposed inspection ordinance for Clarkston

Clarkston's City Council has appointed a three-person subcommittee to study issues surrounding a proposed building inspection ordinance for the historic downtown business district.

The need for further investigation surfaced at the city's June 9 meeting, after members reiterated business and building owners' concerns that ranged from ordinance language, who should pay for the proposed annual inspections, and whether they're actually needed.

Council members also agreed there should be more clarity in what the inspections actually do, and how they go beyond annual fire inspections conducted free of charge by the Independence Township Fire Department. The new ordinance provides for additional structural, electrical, plumbing and heating inspections, at a proposed cost of $150-$175 a year per owner.

Those serving on the committee include Anne Clifton, Dave Savage and Dan Colombo. Walt Gamble agreed to be an alternate.

Therapy specialists move to Dixie

New programs for adults, kids

It was getting a bit crowded on Main St. — for the people and for the programs.

That's why, says therapist Stan Garwood, he decided to move his family counseling service, Garwood & Associates, to a new stone-front office at 9340 Dixie Highway, one mile north of I-75.

The group includes Garwood, head therapist, and associate therapists, Susan Droste Wotring and Garwood's wife Kathy, a grief counselor at Donelson Johns and Evans Funeral Home in Waterford.

The new quarters, which are being remodeled, are nearly completed and will provide even more services for adults and children.

Established programs include individual and group psychotherapy, counseling for parents raising their children, and helping people with emotional, behavioral and family breakdown problems. It also specializes in infant intervention for children from birth to age 5, and runs a central diagnostic and referral agency.

Garwood said new programs include the following: Critical Incidents Stress Debriefing, an intervening service for survivors of traumatic events, and Adult Survivors of Trauma, a service to diagnose and treat adults who were victims of sexual and physical abuse, rape, crime/torture and alcoholism/drug abuse.

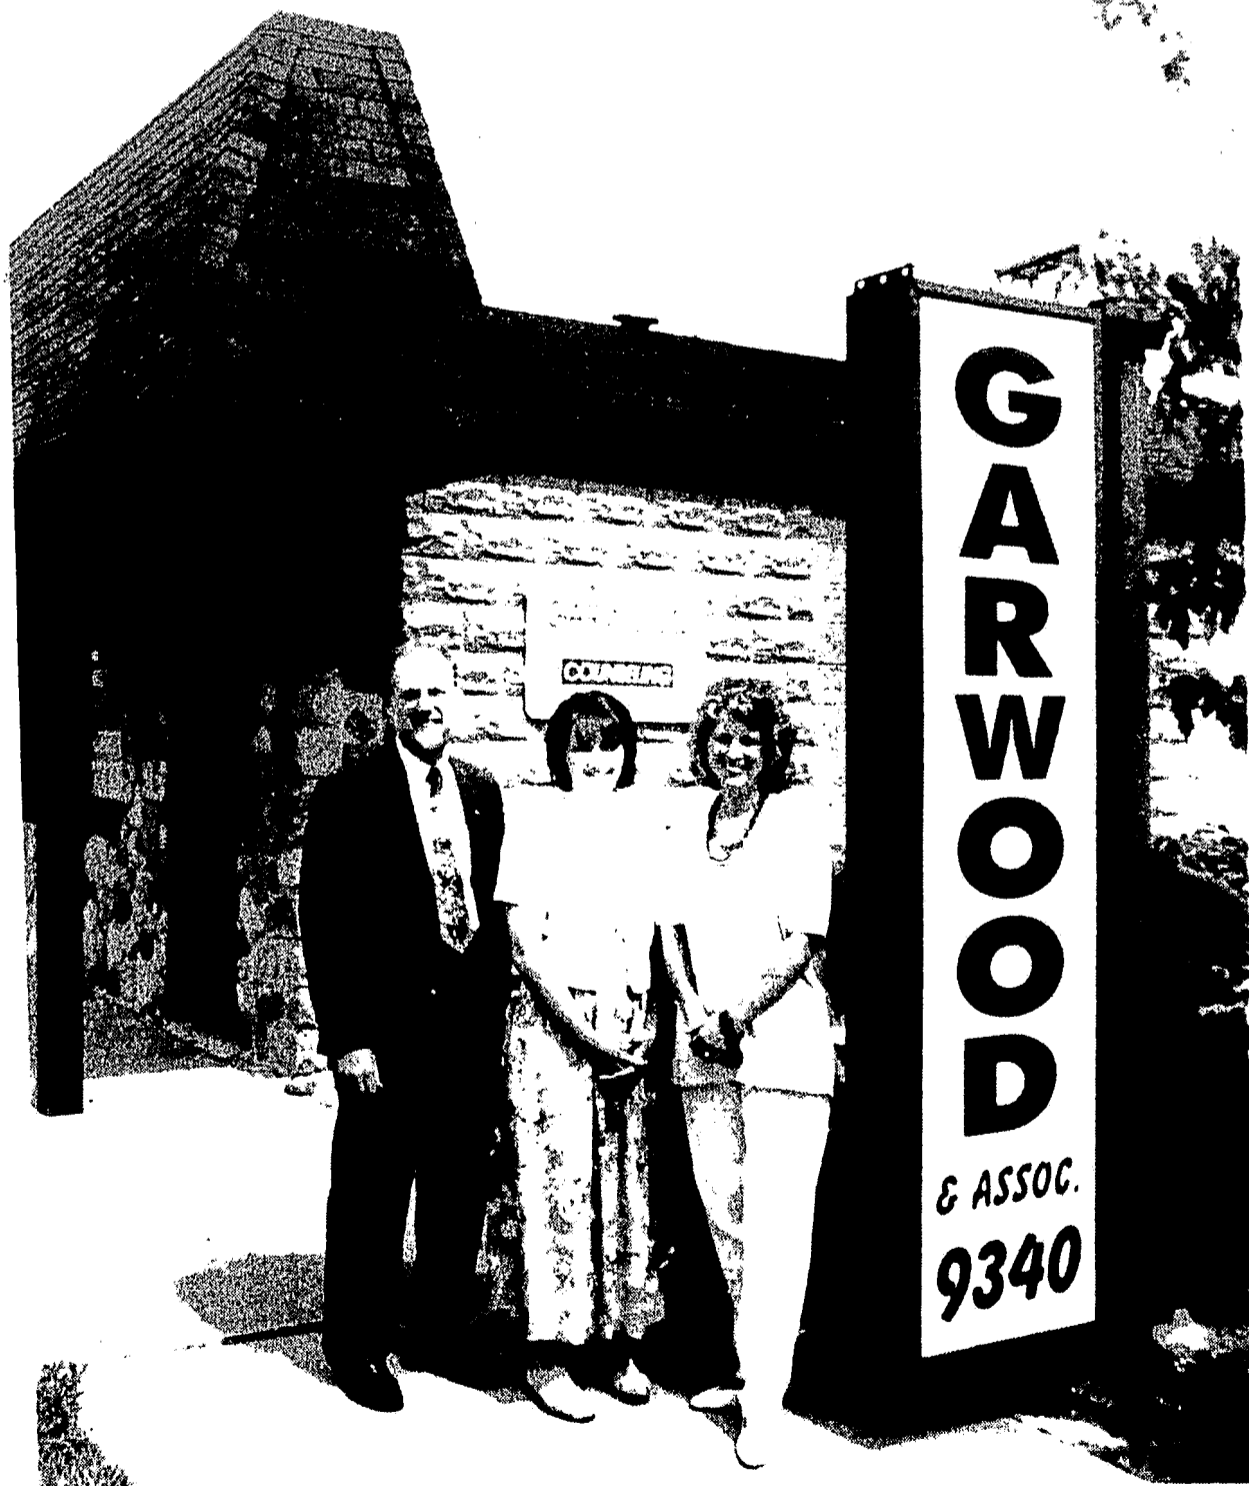

One of the goals at the new location is to offer more group therapy, including sessions for men only.

The need for intervention is growing, Garwood said, explaining that men have lots of issues, including anger, to deal with, which can often lead to domestic violence and other tragedies.

"Lots of people think you can control your anger or repress it. Some just can't," he said. Other topics include depression and mid-life crisis, although all of the above affect both men and women. "We need to get past the stereotypes," Garwood said.

There is also a growing need for marriage counseling and debriefing, said Kathy Garwood, pointing to Clarkston's recent tragedy where a mother lost her two young children from a traffic accident.

According to Stan Garwood, Garwood & Associates is the oldest clinic in Clarkston, beginning in pediatrician Dr. James O'Neill's office and then moving to 5854 S. Main where it remained for 15 years. The clinic accepts most kinds of insurance and provides a sliding fee scale, based on ability to pay. Call (248) 625-3123 for more information.

Owner/therapist Stan Garwood, office manager Renelle Tolan and associate therapist Susan Droste Wotring pose in front of their new digs on Dixie.

Wacky for the Red Wings

Shoppers check out 'The Hat Lady' during hockey playoffs

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Around Clarkston's Farmer Jack, Bernie Tierney is known for her creative costuming during the holidays and other special events.

Besides dotting herself with various buttons and reinventing herself as emerald-green leprechauns, furry bunnies and other characters (nobody even recognized her last Halloween as a cheetah, she says, proudly) she works the checkout most every day with a topper on her head — a gutsy move that has earned her the title "The Hat Lady."

But, perhaps her crowning glory is the enormous "Wing Nut" she plopped on her short, brunette do during Red Wings playoffs, complete with an octopus and miniature broom. Then there's the scarlet jersey and "Raise Your Hands" sign, not to mention the bright red lipstick and nail polish ...

It all adds to Farmer Jack festivity as Tierney tallies the Wings merchandise that comes flying down her lane: T-shirts, flags, hot wings from the deli and — yup, octopi — from the seafood department.

"The customers like it and my manager likes it. It's good for the morale of the store," Tierney says of her costume, as the octopus looks down with beady eyes. Shoppers stroll by, offering smiles and kudos for her latest effort.

Tierney expounds her philosophy beyond the checkout lanes. "I like the hype of the game. I think it's good for the City of Detroit. I love all the flags ..." Detroit gets a bad rap, she explains. "We need a more positive image of the city, versus the negative."

A fellow checker quips Tierney's dazzling duds are not a costume at all, but, in fact, her "normal dress."

Tierney ponders that statement, and what she says next deflates any ideas that she is, indeed, normal. In fact, she alludes, it's lots more fun to be the one who ups the established dress code. She waves her hand, a movement that causes the octopus's eyes to rattle in agreement.

"Life's too short to be normal and boring," says the feisty clerk. "And I'm not normal."

Bernie Tierney (left) is wacko for the Wings. A little less crazy is fellow Farmer Jacker Nancy McKnight, who deals in seafood and real octopi.

Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1983)

Voters pass a 3-mill tax renewal for Clarkston schools and elect Janet Thomas and Elaine Keeley Schultz to four-year terms on the school board, and David Kithil for one year.

Seven teachers and two other Clarkston district employees retire from Clarkston schools.

For the second time in two years, the Clarkston Wolves varsity softball team captures the regional title. On Saturday they down Midland Dow in the semifinals 6-1, then shut out Lapeer West 8-0 in the finals.

25 YEARS AGO (1973)

Nearly 11 percent of the Clarkston school district's registered voters turn out at the polls to elect two newcomers to the school board, Carolyn Place and The Rev. Robert Walters.

Some 189 Clarkston Junior High school pupils will be switched to Sashabaw Junior High School next year, the board of education decides Monday night. The boundary change is designed to take some of the pressure off CJHS, which had about 100 more pupils than SJHS this year.

Resident Sylvia Guilds tells the Springfield Township Board about her unhappiness with a rock concert at the Oakland County Youth Activities Center, after she sees a lot of minors drinking and smoking pot. The board agrees to complain to the county commissioner about lack of policing.

50 YEARS AGO (1948)

News from "By The Way": The writer never knew until yesterday that a red bandanna around a farmer's neck means that he is a dirt farmer while a blue one indicates he is a city farmer. At least that was the comic description given at the tractor demonstration on Wednesday ... Ortonville is planning a big centennial on July 3, 4 and 5. The sign on the rear bumper of the News car that acknowledges we are boosting the affair is perhaps worn because of all the traveling to towns' birthdays around the area.

Playing at the Drayton Theatre are Walter Pidgeon and Deborah Kerr in "If Winter Comes" and Yvonne DeCarlo and Dan Duryea in "Black Bart."

60 YEARS AGO (1938)

On Thursday the Commencement Program at the Clarkston High School features a court scene. The stage is arranged to suit. Of course, the beautiful climax to the whole program is the Judge's Verdict which entitles the graduates to their diplomas. Afterwards they form a reception line and receive congratulations from their families and friends.

New Webster dictionaries are available at the Clarkston News while they last — a $2.50 value for $1.29.

Specials at Rudy's include Bisquick, a large package for 29 cents; Michigan Dill Pickles, a quart jar for 12 cents; A.W. Special Blend Coffee, 14 cents a pound; and Lucky Dog Food, four cans for 19 cents.

OTC student in finals

Oakland Technical Center - NWC student Jacqueline Puroll, was a finalist in national competition at the 51st annual DECA Career Development Conference held in Denver, Colorado, April 25-29, by competing successfully in Business and Financial Services Marketing Research.

DECA, the national association of marketing students, integrates its activities into the high school marketing education instruction program.

DECA's national competition events use interviews, tests, role play and written project reports to evaluate marketing and management skills identified by the nation's business community as essential for success in business.

These skills are taught in marketing education classes and in DECA chapter activities. More than 11,000 DECA members competed this year, and over 800 business owners and executives serve as judges.

Jaqueline Puroll qualified to compete in the Business and Financial Services Marketing Research event at the national level with students from across the country, Canada, Puerto Rico and Guam by placing in the state competition earlier this spring.

Over $200,000 in stock, cash awards and scholarships were presented to competition winners by the more than 65 major U.S. corporations and associations supporting DECA activities. These businesses value their partnership with DECA, and marketing education, as an opportunity to help train America's future businessmen and businesswomen and to increase students' appreciation of America's free enterprise system.

PLAYGROUND INJURIES

Parents who are seeking compensation for injuries their children suffered on supervised playgrounds need to focus on the real issues involved. Many parents of injured children may think their claims may hinge on negligence arising from the playground supervisor's failure to observe the child at the time of the injury. However, the real issue is whether such supervision is reasonable and whether an increased level of scrutiny would have prevented the particular injury. While reasonable care does not require constant and undeviating scrutiny of children on a supervised playground, it would be negligent for a supervisor to tolerate unreasonably dangerous playground activities. It is this latter issue upon which the case may turn. This column is presented as a community service. We provide legal assistance for clients with issues involving personal injury claims, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, criminal defense, business law, real estate transactions, family law, and civil litigation in both State and Federal courts. If you would like additional information on today's topic or are in need of other legal services, feel free to call us at 620-1030. Our office is conveniently located at 11 North Main Street. HINT: Negligent liability requires evidence that a playground supervisor could have prevented an injury and did not do so.

Recently, The Land Conservancy sponsored a special dinner to begin raising $50,000 to hire an executive director. A generous local resident posed a unique challenge of a major gift of land, located at the highest elevation in Oakland County, when the funds are raised. In response, many significant gifts have been received already. The goal is to conclude the fund raising by August 1, 1998.

The Land Conservancy needs a paid professional to help its members and volunteers to assist the community in balancing development with green space. "Time is short, the water rises!"

Students honored

Thirty-five students (a.k.a. mathletes) from Clarkston Middle School's Cyclone Team were among more than 130,000 students worldwide to participate in this year's Math Olympiad program. These students participated in a series of five monthly contests of five problems each, from November to March, and weekly practice under the supervision and coaching of Ms. Karen Czarniecki.

The students responded well and all were recognized with certificates for their participation. Although no student from CMS achieved a perfect score, twenty-eight of the mathletes won awards:

* The gold pin is awarded to those in at least the 98th percentile (top 2%). At CMS, Matthew Prunte and Mark Jackson, each with a score of 17 out of 25, were in this extraordinary group.

* The silver pin is awarded to those in the 90th to 97th percentile. The following students earned this honor: Brad Keusch (16), Brendan Pawlik (15), Kevin Sharkey (15), Scott Bigger (14), and Matt Dudek (12).

* The embroidered felt patch is awarded to those in the top 50% of all participants. Recipients from CMS were: Stephen Coryell (11), Kendra Linenger (11), Katie Stapp (11), Jaime Fugitt (10), Kennet Mangus (10), Anthony Sorise (10), Colleen Mead (10), Andrew Crane (9), Brian James (9), Cindy Dodich (8), Ashley Hudson (8), Kaitlin Kieras (8), Elliott May (8), Lindsay Mozer (8), Elizabeth Dushaw (7), Kyle Linenger (7), Vinnie Pierotti (7), Heather Cole (6), Allison Hillman (6), Mo Kuhta (6), and Stephanie Secord (6).

* The team itself was named to the National Math Olympiad Honor Roll for its score of 321 points. A team must be in the 90th percentile or better to win this plaque.

The Math Olympiads serves over 3,600 teams and 90,000 students nationally and about 1,400 teams and 43,000 students in 25 other countries. For nineteen years, Math Olympiads have provided challenging, thought provoking problems that stretch the abilities of students in grades 4 to 7. The students at Clarkston Middle School have responded well to the challenge.

Having a milestone? You can appear on this page. Color or black-and-white photos are acceptable. Send items to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346. Deadline each week is noon Monday.

The giving tree

Debbie Mockeridge found just the right place for a tree that was outgrowing her back yard — the spacious fields surrounding Springfield Plains Elementary.

The tree, a 16-18 foot Balsam fir, was actually a gift from her daughter's Brownie group, Troop 428, which gathered May 26 to celebrate the dedication. Mockeridge was lucky. She found Tim Berquist, a school custodian who also owns a tree farm, to deliver and plant the towering fir.

It was a good decision, she said. "Plains is kind of barren. They don't have a lot of trees, so anyway they can get trees, they go for it," she said with a laugh.

The contribution also filled another space — the attainment of a Thinking Day Globe Patch, a service project requirement for the first-grade troop.

After the girls calmed down from a game of ring-around-the-rosy — er, tree — troop co-leader Rene Hoisington had some serious words for them.

"It was running out of room to grow, and look at all the children who can enjoy its shade now," she said, adding they would be learning even more about nature at summer Brownie camp.

Just like them, the tree will keep growing too. "Most of you should be here another four years at this school," Hoisington said. "When you leave, you'll be amazed at how big it is."

Marine Cpl. Taylor M. Jewell, son of Jim B. Jewell of Clarkston, recently reported for duty with Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron-13, Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz.

Jewell's rotation to a new duty station exemplifies the worldwide assignability of Marines and Sailors. This flexibility allows our naval forces to protect U.S. national interests by serving as the principal enforcers of peacetime engagement, deterrence and crisis response around the world.

The 1995 graduate of New Canaan High School of New Canaan, Conn., joined the Marine Corps in July 1995.

FOCUS ON THE FAMILY

By Dr. James Dobson
Sponsored by First Missionary Church of Clarkston

Saturn North gets its fence

QUESTION: Can you give us a guideline for how much work children should be given to do?

DR. DOBSON: There should be a healthy balance between work and play. Many farm children of the past had daily chores that made life pretty difficult. Early in the morning and again after school, they would feed the pigs, gather the eggs, milk the cows and bring in the wood. Little time was left for fun, and childhood became a pretty drab experience. That was an extreme position, and I certainly don't favor its return.

Contrast that work-a-day responsibility with some families today who require nothing of children — not even asking them to take out the trash, water the lawn or feed the cat. Both extremes, as usual, are harmful to the child. The logical middle ground can be found by giving a boy or girl an exposure to responsibility and work, but preserving time for play and fun. The amount of time devoted to each activity should vary with the age of the child, gradually requiring more work as he or she grows older.

QUESTION: My 13-year-old daughter has become increasingly lazy in the past couple of years. She lies around the house and will sleep half a day on Saturday. She complains about being tired a lot. Is this typical of early adolescence? How should I deal with it?

DR. DOBSON: It is not uncommon for boys and girls to experience fatigue during the years of puberty. Their physical resources are being invested in a rapid growth process during that time, leaving less energy for other activities. This period doesn't last very long and is usually followed by the most energetic time of life. I would suggest, first, that you schedule your daughter for a routine physical examination to rule out the possibility of a more serious explanation for her fatigue. If it does turn out to be a phenomenon of puberty, as I suspect, you should "go with the flow."

See that she gets plenty of rest and sleep. This need is often not met because teen-agers feel that they shouldn't have to go to bed as early as they did when they were children. Therefore, they stay up too late and then drag through the next day in a state of exhaustion. Surprisingly, a 13- or 14-year-old actually needs more rest than when he or she was 9 or 10, simply because of the acceleration in growth.

In sum, your daughter is turning overnight from a girl to a woman. Some of the physical characteristics you are observing are part of the transformation. Do everything you can to facilitate it.

The Springfield Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved the construction of a fence to surround some of the property occupied by the Saturn North auto dealership. The action was taken at the township's regular board meeting Thursday night.

The fence, which varies from four to six feet in height, comes as a result of an amendment to a planned unit development, because a fence was never in Saturn North's original site plan.

The fence borders the Saturn property near Lavon Rd. The chain-link fence crosses the northern parking lot and continues along the northern boundary lines of the property. The area of the fence that's four feet high is where the Saturn property abuts the rear lots of six homes on the east side of Lavon.

The only change in the original proposal was the construction of the fence to be 32 feet back from the northwest corner of the Saturn property, instead of the proposed 50 feet.

"There's no benefit to Saturn or the neighbors if the fence is 50 feet off instead of 32," township supervisor Collin Walls said.

Local sports each week in The Clarkston News.

Heart beat

Wrapping up a new Christmas album at the Seattle-based Stepping Stone Studio, Ann Wilson admits, "Things are pretty hectic around here."

That's not hard to believe. As the single parent of 7-year-old daughter Marie and 2-month-old son Dustin, Heart's husky-voiced songbird is still singing, composing and recording.

On Monday she spoke to The Clarkston News, waxing philosophical about music and her life as Mom. The Heart tour stops in Clarkston June 24 — sans sis and bassist Nancy, who's also trying to start a family. "And I need to be home with my husband for that," Nancy laughed, during an earlier interview.

Q: What? A Christmas album by Heart? Is it traditional carols or originals?

A: Actually the Christmas album has turned into a big Christmas album. There are a couple of standards, Schubert's "Ave Maria," "O, Holy Night" sung a cappella, "Bring a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella." About six of the ten are originals by myself and Nancy.

Q: Who writes most of your songs? What about great oldies like "Barracuda" and "Magic Man?"

A: Nancy and I wrote (those songs). We try to write our own stuff whenever we can. But a lot of the time a great song comes along by someone else, and we like to do that too.

Q: Your hometown is Seattle. Are there similarities between Heart, a '70s/'80s band, and the Seattle bands of today — gen X bands like Pearl Jam, Alice in Chains and (the former) Soundgarden?

A: Definitely, in that the lyrics are very important to us. Listen to (Soundgarden's) "Black Hole Sun." The lyrics are really important; they're not just place fillers. A lot of the chords Nancy uses are real dark, not just majors and minors. They're strange chords. At times, Heart can be a very heavy band. If you listen to "Barracuda," for example, you can hear the angst sound.

Q: Tell me the story behind "Two Black Lambs," a song on your new album "Whirlygig." You wrote it about you and your daughter, correct?

A: Yes, just after she was born. When your first baby was born, you probably spent a lot of time bonding, right? And sort of falling in love ... There was this new baby and I needed her and she needed me. Like two black sheep.

Q: Has Marie inherited any of her mother's musical interest or talent?

A: She likes to sing songs with the kids in her class, but where she really shines is as an artist. If she chose to do that (music) I would try to support her, but I really wouldn't push it.

Q: How has Heart's music evolved through the years? Is your style still the same, a blend of hard rock and ballads?

A: Yes, because we wrote our own music, then and now, it's going to sound the same. We still do both. I think that duality is the key to the nature of our band. It's tough and tender and it does both with equal force.

Q: I'm sure you've been asked this a million times. As one of the most influential female figures in rock history, how tough was it to compete in an area mostly dominated by men?

A: I think it took a long time for us, and it took a long time for us to be seen as credible. A lot of the male bands would cut us down. Nancy is so incredibly talented, but they'd say, "Is your guitar really plugged in, is there anyone back stage playing, are you sort of the frontman ..." We just kind of walked through it all and just kept going. Credibility will come, and for women now too.

Q: What do you think of today's "girlapaloozas," all-female shows like Sarah McLachlan's "Lilith Fair?"

A: I think it's good. They walk the line of being sexist by excluding men (laughs), but we'll get around to that later.

Heart performs at Pine Knob June 24 at 7:30 p.m., with special guest The Tubes.

Other upcoming shows:

- Vince Gill, June 20
- Boyz II Men, June 21

Jenny Arremony and Jeff Hopcian strut down the aisle starting CHS graduation ceremonies Wednesday night.

Party time!

After the formal pomp and circumstance of the CHS graduation ceremony, etiquette took a back seat to fun Wednesday night.

The Deer Lake Athletic Club hosted the CHS All-Night Party right after the graduation ceremony at Pine Knob.

From 10 p.m. to 5:30 in the morning, students celebrated their hard work and achievements of the last four years with a wide variety of activities, ranging from ballroom dancing to sumo wrestling to getting hypnotized.

Hundreds of hours of work was put in by parent volunteers and many local businesses chipped in with contributions that helped make the party one of the community's signature events each year. It was one final night for the Class of 1998 to celebrate their high school years and each other one last time.

A highlight of the CHS Post-Grad Party was the hypnotist. Six graduating seniors were the object of fun and laughter as they performed hypnosis-induced activities like fishing, putting a shoe on backwards and getting rid of bugs on legs.

Clarkston El. students have a field day

The rain cleared up and the kids were ready for some fun at Friday's Clarkston Elementary Field Day at the Clarkston High School track.

It was the second year the school has had a field day, where all the students get together for a day of fun on the track and on the infield.

Events ranged from throwing a football through a hoop to carrying an egg while walking backwards.

The field day was organized by physical education teacher Glenn Gualtieri and Vicki Navarre, co-chair of the field day.

"This is an all-school celebration with 20 different events," Navarre said. "We also have at least 150 volunteers, between parents, grandparents and teachers. It's a day to have a lot of fun and to get outside."

Evans, Maine excel on college tracks

This is the first in a series of stories updating the athletic adventures of recent Clarkston High School graduates. Chirs Evans and Kristin Maine, members of the Class of 1997, have found success running track their freshman years for Harvard and Western Michigan

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two 1997 Clarkston High School graduates have accepted the challenges at college head-on.

Chris Evans recently completed his first full track season for Harvard University, running indoor and outdoor seasons. A state runner-up in the 110 hurdles at the 1997 Class A State Track Meet, Evans has continued his success running for the Crimson.

Kristin Maine started out the year as a walk-on for the women's cross country team at Western Michigan University, but used her tireless work ethic to make the team and become a runner the Broncos counted on in cross country and indoor and outdoor track.

Kristin Maine

Maine was one of the top distance runners in her class through all four years at Clarkston. She was a state-qualifier for both track and cross country, and she was part of the 4x800 relay team at the '97 state meet in Rockford.

With all that on her running resume, Maine still had to walk-on for the Western Michigan cross country and track teams. It would be the only walking she would do all year.

Maine ended up improving her cross country times by leaps and bounds and ran with the varsity runners in every cross country meet, a good accomplishment for a freshman walk-on. Her best time was 19:22, in a home dual meet.

"The training is much more intense in college than I thought," she said. "The workouts are similar, but they're faster and longer, and I think that helped me to improve as much as I did."

She ran the 3,000 meters in both indoor and outdoor and had a season-best time of 10:47, which she

Hockey team to get new coaches next season

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two years after the program was born, the Clarkston High School hockey team will have new coaches at the helm next year.

CHS Athletic Director Dan Fife confirmed Monday morning that coaches Rick Rowden and Glenn MacDonald did not have their contracts renewed for the 1998-99 season. Rowden and MacDonald were hired nearly two years ago after the Clarkston Board of Education approved adding hockey as a varsity sport.

"To protect all the parties involved, this was the best direction to go," Fife said. "We wanted to make sure the program kept going in a positive direction. Now, we'll need cooperation on everyone's side to help make it work."

Fife said he made his decision after meeting with parents and players and hearing the concerns they had. The parents also wrote a detailed letter to Fife outlining all of their issues after the end of the season.

Rowden and MacDonald coached the Wolves to a 34-15-2 record during their two seasons. Last year, Clarkston won district and regional championships before losing to Grosse Pointe South in the state quarterfinals. The boys basketball team was the only other CHS program to make the state quarterfinal round in the state tournament during the 1997-98 school year.

Both Rowden and MacDonald said they were disappointed in the decision because no one had approached them during the season with concerns.

"There were no conversations of discontent during the season," Rowden said. "We were made aware of a letter the parents wrote with these concerns on the last day of the state playoffs."

"If there was a problem, why did it not surface until after the season," MacDonald said. "We won a district and regional title. I guess they want God to coach this team."

For its first two years, the hockey program received no funding from the school district, relying on parents and fundraisers to pay for uniforms, ice time, and other expenses.

Fife said the positions will be posted within the school district first, and said he hopes to have a new coach in place by the fall.

American Legion baseball has found its way back to Clarkston, fielding its first team in many years. The Clarkston team is sponsored by local Campbell-Richmond Post #63 on M-15.

The 18 and under Legion team consists of Varsity and JV players from Clarkston High School along with other local talent, including, Keith Perez, a recently drafted Detroit Tiger from Holly High School.

In their season debut, Clarkston swept a double header on Sunday, June 7th from Chief Pontiac #1 at the local legion field here in Clarkston. In the first game, Phil Johnston pitched a strong game allowing only four runs on three hits. Travis Boyd came on in the 6th with Clarkston down by one run and picked up the 5 - 4 victory in relief when Clarkston scored the tying run in the 6th and winning run in the bottom of the 7th on a double by Josh Rigg. Outfielder Jeff Oliver was 3 for 4 with two doubles, scoring 2 runs. Adam Petrusis played outstanding defense at 2nd base and was 2 for 4.

In the second game, Keith Perez went the distance allowing only two hits and one run with 10 strikeouts. The 8 - 1 pitching gem was also highlighted by another strong hitting performance from Oliver who was 2 for 3. Others contributing to the hitting attack were Petrusis, Perez, Adam Leech, Justin Nanney and Nick Petrinec.

Happy With Your Smile?

Many people still have old "black" Silver Amalgam fillings. These fillings, because they are metal, expand, contract, and change shape over time. They cause leakage and new decay. Doing old fillings over again is no fun! We recommend only white, bonded fill material. Because it "bonds" or locks into the tooth structure, it helps increase the strength of the tooth. Silver fillings often weaken the tooth, causing fractures and expensive crowns.

Reflections on 1997-98

As the long, hot days of summer begin their annual assault on dry lawns and fair skins everywhere, I sit in this semi-air-conditioned office enjoying the relative calm that's come to my schedule.

Though I do enjoy the quiet, peaceful days and breezy nights this time of year, my mind can't help but reflect back to the 1997-98 athletic season.

All the breathtaking performances. The stale, stuffy gyms. The schools where people lined up two hours before tipoff just to get tickets. The long days at the fields, tracks and stadiums watching four things at once.

This was a year filled with good times for me, covering Clarkston High School athletics. Although the promise of next year lies in wait, this was a tough year to follow.

Even tougher is me having to narrow down my top 10 memories of the year. I thoroughly enjoyed getting to spend time with old friends, meet new ones, and look forward to fun in the future with the best people around. Here's to one last look back, and to more good stuff in the future.

● The success of the girls basketball team. Ann Lowney took this team over knowing she had some talent, but wasn't sure where that talent would take her. A group of determined, hard-working ladies didn't take long to jell on the court and off. With each game, they gained confidence in themselves, respect from their opponents, and the belief that past performance was not at all indicative of future potential. The team went from 2-10 in the OAA Division I to 10-2 in one year, a remarkable turnaround by anyone's definition. The team returns four starters and seven of the top nine players, and everything they learned about basketball and life from last year. It will be a fun fall at the new high school gym.

● Two words: Dane Fife. After losing the Heisman Trophy to Charles Woodson, Peyton Manning said it's tougher to stay at the top than it is to get there. If that really is true, Dane deserves even more credit for all his accomplishments. Pegged as the best player in his class since a 25-point outburst against Detroit Pershing in the 1995 state quarterfinals, Fife has carried the label with class and dignity. He won the Hal Schram Mr. Basketball Award by a near-record margin and helped his team to its third regional title in his four years. In all that time, he's represented Clarkston on the national stage as well as anyone could ask. Look for him on a SportsCenter highlight near you next year at Indiana.

● Closing out the old school. Covering all the teams this year, plus my long conversations with various coaches, teachers and administrators has given me a sense of the Clarkston tradition. Part of that tradition will be left behind, as the new Clarkston High School should be sparkling and ready for guests in August. But the old place had many things the new one won't have for some time. Fathers watching sons play where they played. People packed into every conceivable corner of the gym when Pontiac Northern came to town. The new facilities will be first-class and make Clarkston the envy of many other communities, but we sure will miss the old Clarkston High School.

● Softball and baseball revivals. I was fortunate to witness a little history a couple of weeks ago. The varsity baseball and softball teams won district titles in the same year for the first time in school history. The baseball team, as deep in talent as any recent vintage, sent coach Roy Warner into retirement with a district medal and some fond memories. The softball team was a contrasting group, with seasoned veterans and five freshmen, but blended together better than when marshmallows melt in hot chocolate. Although both teams fell short of their overall goals, they have set a standard for many future teams to come.

● Continued excellence from the track teams. I honestly don't know how Gordie Richardson does it. He spends seven months out of the year being the offensive coordinator for the varsity football team and the coach of the varsity volleyball team, but all he's done with the girls track team is guided it to 14 league titles in 15 years. His team was in another solar system from its OAA II competition, and with six state-qualifiers returning, that standard of excellence won't be cheated anytime soon.

Walt Wyniemko has guided his boys track team to two straight OAA II titles with depth in all events. He's been able to coach athletes that are mentally tough and rise up to any challenge that faces them. He also has a talented crop of athletes coming up the next few years.

● It's all about the trophies. I doubt any high school in the state (public, that is) can match the success Clarkston teams have in the postseason. Seven district titles. Four regional titles. Two state wrestling champions. Fourteen state qualifiers in track. A regional girls tennis champion. Show this paragraph to anyone who says Clarkston is a basketball school only.

● The fan support. I heard a lot about it right after I started here, but have been able to see it firsthand. I go to more road games than I should, but I go because I'm proud to represent Clarkston, along with the parents, friends and fans that go and outnumber the home-team fans at games. That is the best compliment I can give to this community, that they show their support everywhere, all the time, and not just here in town, or when the team is winning. I know the support means a lot to the kids, and it means a lot to me.

● The games. There's nothing better for me in this world than covering a game. By my rough count, I covered 194 games this school year, and here are some of the best: softball beats Lake Orion 4-2 on May 30; girls basketball beats Rochester 56-40 on Oct. 23 and Troy Athens 47-45 on Nov. 6; football beats Rochester Adams 34-30 Sept. 19; baseball beats Royal Oak Kimball 6-5 May 22; volleyball beats Haslett at the Clarkston Invitational semifinals 5-15, 17-15, 15-8 on Jan. 31; boys basketball wins games at the buzzer against Detroit Central 51-50 Dec. 30, Pontiac Northern 48-47 Jan. 9, and of course, the dramatic 58-51 win over Pontiac Central at regionals March 16; the hockey team's hard-fought 5-4 win over Birmingham Dec. 6; and boys soccer with a come-from-behind 3-1 win over West Bloomfield to win the soccer district title Oct. 25.

● The Jungle T-shirts. I was truly honored when the best fans in the world decided to put "The Monster" on the front of the Jungle T-shirts this year. That's something I will always treasure.

● The seniors. This was a special group of people that I was very lucky to watch compete for two years. Not just the considerable athletic skill, but the heart, work ethic and willingness to sacrifice are all common characteristics of every senior I watched compete. I am proud to know all of you and I wish the best for all of you in the years to come. Thanks for the memories.

11 CHS athletes named to winter Tri-District team

Although there was no section produced, staff writers from Sherman Publications, Inc. selected a Winter Tri-District Team for 1997-98.

The Clarkston Wolves were well-represented, with 11 out of 25 total spots. All three teams won district championships, and the boys basketball team captured a regional title for the third time in four years. The wrestling team sported two individual state champions, Pat DeGain and A.J. Grant, and state qualifiers Ryan L' Amoreaux, Bubba Clement, Jon Robinson and Ryan McAleer.

Dane Fife was named Mr. Basketball capping a brilliant four-year career, while Jenny McCue was an honorable mention All-Metro Detroit.

said easily beat her previous best time of 11:27 in the two mile, a race comparable in length. She also ran the 5,000 meters and had a best time of 19:03, better than she expected.

"We were a very young and inexperienced team to compete with schools from the MAC (Mid-American Conference)," she said. "We had 13 freshmen and seven sophomores out of 23 runners. But I'm excited about how good we could be in two years. We will be really good if we all work hard in the summer and come back ready next year."

In addition to reaching personal bests on the course, she did the same in the classroom. She racked up a 3.7 grade point average in the winter semester, her best ever at any level.

"My freshman year was a lot of fun and I'm glad I stuck with running," she said. "We were all so young, we didn't know how to work as a team until the end of the year, but my teammates were great. I can't wait to get started next year."

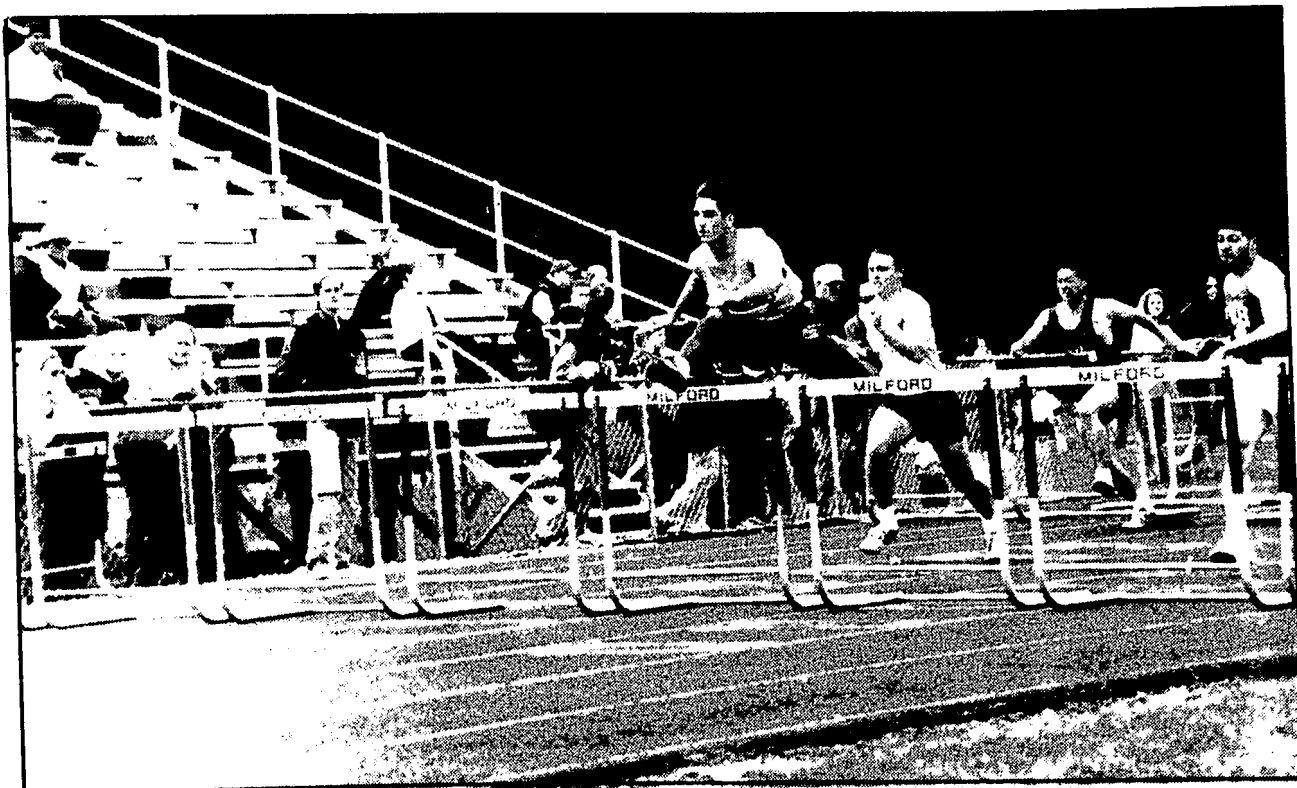

Chris Evans

Evans, with his run of 14.2 seconds in the 110 hurdles for the Wolves at the state meet May 31, 1997, knew he would have to work even harder to compete with national-level talent at Harvard and in the Ivy League.

By his own description, Evans' first season for the Crimson was "not as good as I wanted it to be," on the track.

"I didn't do as well as I was hoping to," Evans recently said. "The competition is just amazing out there. A guy on our team set the Ireland national record in the hurdles, and every race is more competitive than the state finals."

Of course, a season that doesn't measure up to Evans' high expectations is one many other Ivy League runners could take in a heartbeat. Evans ran the 110 high hurdles, where the hurdles are three inches higher than in high school competition, to 42 inches. His best time in the event was 15.2 seconds, just .2 seconds off Harvard's all-time top 10 list in the event. He won the Bridgewater State Invitational's college division, won a dual meet race against Boston College, and finished with several second and third places during the team's league dual meet schedule.

"We had a lot of injuries and didn't finish that high at leagues," Evans said. "Next year, my goal is to finish in the top two, and if I do, I get an all-expense paid trip to Ireland or England for races out there."

Evans' indoor season was also a success, highlighted by his fourth overall finish at the Harvard Invitational featuring 28 Division I schools. Not a bad finish for the second meet of your college career.

Off the track, Evans met the legendary Harvard academic standards well, finishing his freshman year with a 3.3 grade point average. He also made the Dean's List in both fall and winter semesters.

"I loved it out there," he said. "There is a high emphasis on academics, and everyone takes it very seriously. I'm already looking forward to next year."

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

SCLERODERMA

Scleroderma, which literally means "hard skin," is a general term for several chronic autoimmune conditions. The disease typically begins between the ages of 30 and 60 as a thickening and hardening of the skin (initially on the fingers, hands, or face), which occurs due to an overproduction of collagen (the protein that imparts strength and elasticity to normal skin.) Tight, shiny, and thick skin on the face and fingers, with puckering around the mouth, may lead to a mask-like appearance. Collagen that proliferates elsewhere can disrupt function of the gastrointestinal tract, lungs, kidneys, and heart. While there is no effective treatment for scleroderma, some studies indicate that the drug penicillamine helps reduce skin thickening and prevents internal complications.

Any skin disorder should be brought to the attention of a dermatologist to ensure successful treatment. Call us to arrange for a consultation. We practice "state of the art" dermatology, geared to prevention as well as treatment. Our offices are conveniently located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692) and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599).

P.S. The typical scleroderma patient is a woman in her 30s or 40s whose hands and feet were abnormally sensitive to cold for many years before she developed thickening skin on her hands and face.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN
One Of The Best-Loved Movies Is Back
(NAPS)—It's supercalifragilistic! It's back! And it's better than ever.
One of the best-loved movies of all time, Disney's MARY POPPINS, flies back to home video in a brand-new, limited edition release.
Available from Disney only until December 31, 1997, this historic limited edition has been painstakingly restored, digitally remastered, and THX-certified. It features collectible bonus footage never before available on video.

A lovable English nanny and whimsical chimney sweep are the stars of this collector's edition of Mary Poppins.

Hailed as "Walt Disney's Crowning Achievement," by Leonard Maltin, The Disney Films, MARY POPPINS was nominated for 13 Academy Awards (including Best Picture), winning five, including Best Actress, Best Song (Chim-Chim-Cher-ee) and Best Original Musical Score.

A breathtaking blend of live-action, special effects, and animation, MARY POPPINS is the magical, musical story of a lovable English nanny (Julie Andrews) who, with the help of an energetic, whimsical chimney sweep (Dick Van Dyke), helps bring a family back together.

This very collectible video is available for $22.95 at local video, toy and discount stores.

"Don't Rush Me"

(NAPS)—Psychiatrists and other medical scientists have developed a new generation of medications that can help nearly 75 percent of people who suffer from schizophrenia, one of the most devastating and misunderstood mental illnesses.

"Research continues," said Steven M. Mirin, M.D., Medical Director of the American Psychiatric Association. "Still newer medications are in the pipeline that promise to be even more effective while producing fewer of the negative side effects common to some of the older medications."

Schizophrenia is a brain disease that usually strikes between the ages of 18 and 25. Contrary to popular myth, schizophrenia does not cause "split" personalities. It is characterized by hallucinations, delusions, distorted thinking and dulled emotions.

To learn more about schizophrenia and its treatments, write to APA Public Affairs, Dept. 98A, 1400 K St., NW, Washington, DC 20005, or visit the American Psychiatric Association's schizophrenia Web site at <http://www.degnan.co.com/schizophrenia>.

Congratulations 1998 CHS graduates!

Amidst the good wishes of school personnel, family and friends, the Clarkston High School Class of 1998 graduated Wednesday, June 10.

The event was held at Pine Knob Music Theatre, a fitting location for the pageantry, moving speeches, tossing caps into the air, cheers and whistles.

The symphonic band performed the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" processional, and "Sine Nomine" recessional, and accompanied the CHS choirs and Madrigals as they serenaded the audience with "A Parting Blessing," "Like an Eagle," and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

CHS principal Brent Cooley told his students they would be known for the positive relationships they have for each other, parents, community and the school.

He added, "Supportive relationships have provided the foundation for student success at CHS with the Class of 1998 leading the pack."

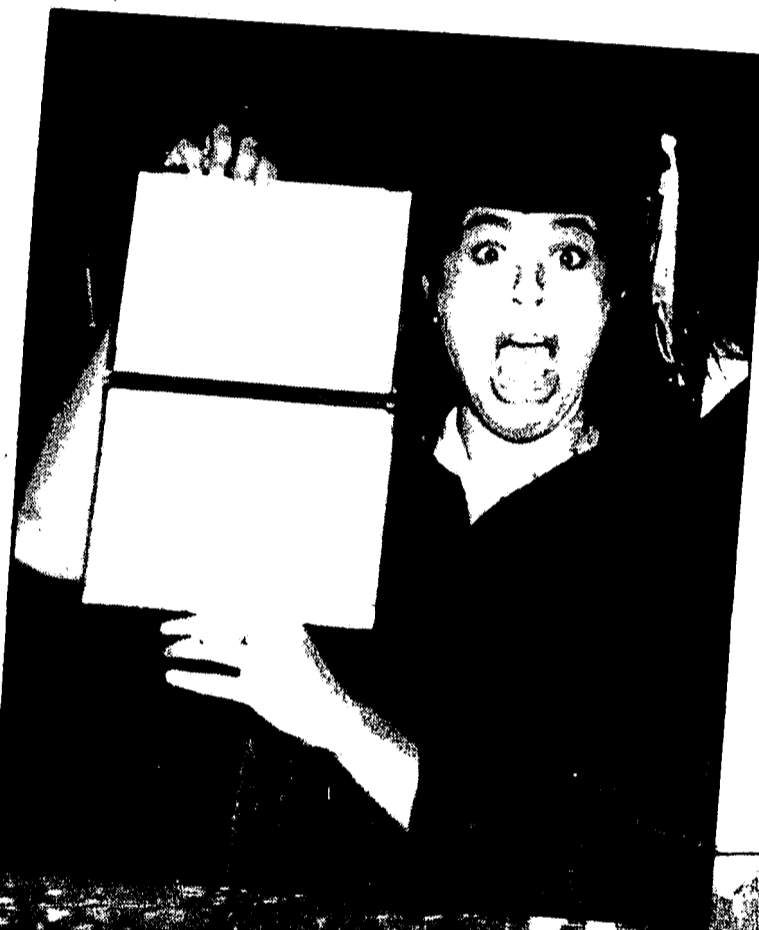

Dr. Al Roberts, superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools, told the students they were, "... kind caring members of the school family, and genuinely good human beings."

He said the students would be capable of changing with the times while maintaining that which made them special.

He advised, "Don't seek happiness, it will evade you. But if you focus on your family, the needs of others, and doing the best you can, happiness will find you."

Celebrations and cheers abound at graduation June 10. Left, Bryan Haggard films the ceremony from the stage as he picks up his diploma. Right, Carmen Lund shows off her diploma. Below, students move the tassels on their caps to the right, signifying their new status as official CHS graduates.

Partying on, all night long

After graduation, students enjoyed good times, good food and good friends at the Post-Grad Party at Deer Lake Athletic Club.

Thoughts about Courage

Principal Brent Cooley gave students Jamie Youness and Derek Bannasch the task of addressing the audience on the subject of Courage. Their speeches are printed below.

How do we survive changes?

Jamie Youness

AIDS, teen pregnancy, gangs, drop out rates. You don't grow up a kid in the nineties without having to hurdle some proportional stumbling blocks. Every newscast another casualty, every statistic another disappointment, every day another choice.

How do we, the next generation, survive these changes? How do we overcome this tidal wave of despair?

I once read that "courage is the ladder on which all other virtues are hung." If we think about it, it is from courage that we find hope. It is from courage that we discover passion. It is from courage that we gain strength. It is these virtues on the ladder of courage that allow us to overcome the despair and allow our generation to thrive.

Courage has enabled us to explore new experiences and gain new insights into our lives. It was courage that got us through that awkward moment just before our first kiss. It was courage that pushed us to speak our minds even if it meant hurting those we love.

And today, it is courage that gives us strength to walk across this stage and take the next steps in our lives, to let go of the past and to build a future.

Today, June 10, 1998, 441 bright, fresh young minds will be set free into the world. Today is the day that we begin to put all of our virtues to the test. At times in our lives our courage will be challenged by the despair that may try to enter our lives. It is at those times that we must remember that if we can just hold on to our courage, we will find that we can accomplish anything.

So as we walk so proudly across this stage and look back at our lives here at Clarkston High, remember yourself and all of the courage that we have shown, and all of the priceless virtues that we have acquired. These are the most important lessons we have learned. These are what will guide us through each day of our lives.

It is quite ironic that a man such as Dr. Seuss can put this in perspective best by writing,

*"Congratulations today is your day.
You have brains in your head, and feet in your shoes.
You may steer yourself in any direction you choose.
You are on your way and you know what you know, only you are the one who will decide where to go."*

From the beginning of our lives, Dr. Seuss has always taught us that anything is possible in life. Now, as we take our first steps down the next road of life, we must remember that our courage is our passport to all of our hopes and dreams. As long as we carry it with us, nothing can stand in our way.

Allowing ourselves to live

'Have the courage to live.'

By Derek Bannasch

In the Wizard of Oz, Dorothy and her friends the Tin Man, the Scarecrow, and the Cowardly Lion all go to Oz to beg for their respective prizes: a way home, a heart, brains, and courage.

Though the other three traits are important and valuable, is there any doubt that of the four courage is the greatest trait of all? After all, the lion is the most pathetic of characters before the visit and after the transformation, the most noble. It is quite clear to me that courage is something to be desired, something to strive for, yet something very obtainable.

The great thinkers of the past knew about courage and wrote on it frequently. Hemingway defined courage as, "grace under pressure," or the ability to handle the stressful situations in our lives.

When exams pile up and we find ourselves with overdue homework assignments, the stress enters our lives. It permeates our bodies and fills our minds with excessive worry and dread.

Having grace under pressure cuts through the stress and returns our lives to normal. It forces us to restructure our game plans and to focus our attention, despite distractions. It allows us to perform magnificently under adverse conditions.

Another great thinker, Robert Cody, knew the importance of courage saying, "Have the courage to live. Anyone can die." This is the ultimate challenge.

Too many times in life, we are afraid to allow ourselves to live. A fear of rejection keeps us from asking a guy or girl we fancy on a date. A fear of conflict will prevent us from speaking our mind when we disagree with conventional thought. A fear of change will stop us from going into the world and experiencing the wonders of life.

In this apathetic state of fear, we cease to live and merely exist. Having the courage to face our fear allows us to get that date we wanted, stand up for our beliefs, and experience life outside of our isolated world. We must not allow fear to intimidate us.

The future is bright, but we must seize the opportunity. Life is our oyster, and courage helps us to shuck it to find the pearl.

Surviving high school for four years proves that we have some courage. What a burden we have carried! It was our courage that brought us through all the adversity we came across.

You can probably relate to my nervousness when I stood on the stage at an audition for a musical, but I found the courage to sing and dance to the best of my ability. You felt the same way when you stood on the football field watching three 200 pound guys running at you, but your courage allowed you to persevere and run the winning touchdown.

You felt that way when you were given a difficult, complex technical problem at voc to solve, but your courage helped you to analyze the problem to discover a solution. It was our courage that not only allowed us to accomplish these things, but also excel in music, academics, cooking, athletics, art, theatre, or any other activity we may do. Even when life seemed bleakest, courage brought us through it. We looked inside of ourselves for power and found it.

That is the ultimate irony of the Cowardly Lion. He perceived himself as a coward and hence was. He sought some magical external solution to his lack of courage, but the real power was always within him. He always had the courage, it only needed to be used.

I suppose the proper thing to do would be to wish each and every one of you the best of luck in the future and happiness in all that you do, but I don't feel I need to.

Actually to wish you luck would be insulting to your abilities and talents. We don't need luck, we need courage and faith in ourselves. You are the true source of power in your life. Overcome adversity. Have the courage to allow that power to shine bright.

Congratulations and good luck in the future!
