Bank on verge of opening downtown

Local group signs deal with NBD

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's deja vu for the City of Clarkston. The vacant NBD building should become a bank again by the New Year.

On Saturday, Independence Township resident Dave Harrison, one of eight local incorporators, said his group signed a purchase agreement with NBD to buy the 15 S. Main Street building for $395,000. They hope to close the deal in September.

Susan Cherry, public relations representative for NBD Bank's Michigan headquarters in Detroit, confirmed the July 10 agreement.

NBD pulled out of Clarkston months ago, after a corporate decision to merge branches. Lack of space for a drive-through was one of several reasons for closing.

In December Harrison's group announced they intended to open a state-chartered bank in the community — but had no location.

The group includes: Harrison, a retired First of America Bank president turned builder with Trophy Homes; Food Town president Ed Adler; Chuck Fortinberry, president of the Clarkston Chrysler-Plymouth dealership; Lou Beer, a lawyer; Bill Clark, a real estate broker for Coldwell Banker Professionals; former Oakland Press publisher Bruce McIntire; Bob Olsen, an investment counselor who co-owns Planned Financial services with his wife Deanna; and John Welker, owner of Numatic Corp. in Milford.

The group has applied for permission to organize the bank with the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau. It was accepted for filing August 3.

In addition to checking and savings accounts, Olsen said the bank will offer a full spectrum of services, with lending and "high-tech electronic services," including a money machine. The bank will have three tellers, with Harrison acting as president "until things get going," Harrison said.

Eventually, they hope to have as many as five branches in the Clarkston-Waterford area.

"The reason to have an institution like this is, we all remember when it used to be that way," Olsen said, "We want to have a place where people know the directors, and the office people. There are locals running these things and they're interested in it."

Fortinberry agreed. "It'll provide the level of banking service the people in this community deserve."

The plan is to invest people's money in their own community,

Harrison said. "NBD didn't do that, First of America and Old Kent aren't doing that ... That's why we're all involved in this."

"If you don't find a way to develop business locally, you don't retain the earnings from the business in the community, good things in the town — economic and cultural, for example — are rarely accomplished because the money everybody spends goes somewhere else ..."

"We are raising $10 million to open the bank, $1 million of which will be put up by the founders," Harrison said. He declined to say how the remaining $9 million will be raised.

CHS class orientations are postponed one week

High school administrators will notify students this week that class orientations in the new high school have been rescheduled for August 24 at the following times: Seniors, 9-11 a.m.; juniors 12-2 p.m.; sophomores, 3-5 p.m.; freshmen and new students, 6-8 p.m. The ninth grade parent meeting has been postponed to Monday, August 24 at 6-8 p.m.

Pat Brumbeck, assistant superintendent in charge of high school operations said, "As we near the start of this exciting year, we can see that work crews need additional days to finish the cabling in the school and ready the facility for student occupancy. We need to give them a little more time to assure that everything we need is ready and waiting when school starts on August 31. We are sorry to inconvenience our students and parents, but it will be well worth the wait!"

Fatal crashes lead to study on Dixie Hwy. speed limit

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fatal accidents and increased development have led to a conclusion by local road officials: the speed limit on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township needs to be lowered. Springfield Township begins just east of the I-75 interchange.

Echoing sentiments expressed by township officials for more than a decade, the Road Commission for Oakland County has recommended to the Michigan State Police that the limit be lowered from its current 55 miles per hour to 50.

The two-month study was sparked by two fatalities on the stretch in the spring. In addition to the lowering of the speed limit, the RCOC will seek federal funds to get the highway widened from four to five lanes to increase traffic safety.

Craig Bryson, public information officer for the road commission, said 50 was the recommended speed limit because anything lower than that would be too slow for the speed people typically drive on the road.

"Our concern all along was that the state police would not support a speed limit that was outside of the 85th percentile," Bryson said. "That means 85 percent of the people who drive on the road travel at that speed. Anything lower than 50, and we would end up with enforcement problems. It's such an open stretch, people probably wouldn't drive much slower than that."

The state police will now take up to six months to decide if the speed limit should be lowered.

Nancy Strole, Springfield Township clerk, said

Chamber tour of high school postponed

The August 20 Chamber of Commerce tour of Clarkston High School has been postponed until Thursday, September 10.

The Chamber luncheon mixer will still be held August 20 at 11:45 a.m. at Clarkston Creek Golf Club. Dr. Al Roberts, superintendent of Clarkston Schools will give an update and slide presentation on the high school for luncheon attendees.

The rescheduled tour of the new high school facilities for Chamber members will be at 7 p.m. and will include light refreshments. Those interested in attending the tour should RSVP to the Chamber office, 625-8055, by September 8.

Public hearing on water and sewer extension to the new elementary school

At their August 5 meeting, the Independence Township Board voted to have planner Dick Carlisle and the township engineering firm of Hubble, Roth and Clark analyze the possibility of extending water and sewer services to the new elementary school at Hubbard Road and M-15 at a public hearing.

A public hearing on the issue is set for Tuesday, September 15 at the Township Annex, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston.

Annual 'Make the Most of Middle School'

Baycourt Park is the setting, ice cream and pop are the props, and having fun and meeting new friends is the theme of the third annual "Make the Most of Middle School" Wed., August 26 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

For students entering middle school, the event is designed to ease the transition and apprehension from elementary to middle school. It's organized and presented by the 7th and 8th grade students from each middle school with behind-the-scenes help from the adult Optimist Club sponsors. The students will be able to be with their friends, as well as be involved in activities which encourage them to meet new friends.

The day is sponsored by the Clarkston Area Optimist and Junior Optimist Clubs, funded by the the Optimist Club and United Way of Oakland County, and supported by Clarkston Schools.

Baycourt Park is located on Andersonville Road between White Lake and Airport roads. There is no charge for the event. For more information, and where to pick up a permission slip, call Don Brose at 623-7900 or Maria Mark at 623-9348.

Independence Township Board meets August 18

Agenda items at the Tuesday, August 18 Independence Township Board of Trustees meeting include hiring a new finance director and finance assistant, and discussion of liquor licenses. The meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at the Township Annex, 90 N. Main Street., Clarkston.

Girl spends summer in Clarkston, away from troubled Northern Ireland

In the name of the children

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

They were three innocents—neither Catholic or Protestant. Yet, Richard, Mark and Jason Quinn died last month in Northern Ireland, victims of a senseless tragedy when their home was fire bombed in Ballymoney, County Antrim. The mother of the three children was Catholic, her boyfriend a Protestant.

According to an August article in The Irish Connection, a newspaper based in the Detroit-Windsor area, it was an apparent sectarian attack which followed a week of mounting violence after a march by Protestants was protested as it proceeded through a Catholic neighborhood.

The tragedy was a painful wake-up call to the fact that, even though a peace accord was reached a week earlier between members of both the Northern and Southern Ireland governments, the violence in Northern Ireland continues.

On a local level, one family is doing what it can to lessen the impact of violence on Irish children. David and Sherry Regiani of Clarkston welcomed a young Belfast girl into their home this summer, through a special organization called "Project Children."

According to a brochure, the national program began over 20 years ago, when a handful of youngsters was flown from Belfast to New York "for a summer holiday away from the Irish 'troubles.'" Last year over 12,000 youngsters took part.

This summer has been a unique experience for both her daughter Angie, 12, a Clarkston Middle School seventh-grader, and Shelley Saunders, 11, who'll be entering her first high school year in Belfast this fall. Angie's mom Sherry says the girls have become fast friends, as close as sisters.

They've gone to the mall, vacationed at Virginia Beach and Mackinac Island and attended church together. Shelley has a growing collection of Beanie Babies (you can't buy the critters in Ireland) and Angie has borrowed Shelley's "button-ups" — a hot, new trend in preteen leggings.

When she first met Shelley, Angie was thrilled to find that she too "has curly hair. Woo hoo!"

Shelley had her first experience riding a rollercoaster and they've loved staying up late at slumber parties. Both wept over the Cinderella movie "Ever After" although, with Shelley, the youngster admits it was just "a wee bit."

Today, Angie and Shelley sit on the couch and admit they've had a glorious summer. It will be only a little over a week before Shelley returns home. They noted the differences and similarities of life on both sides of the Atlantic.

Like Angie, Shelley celebrates Christmas, Halloween and Easter and enjoys vacations. When she returns to Ireland, her family plans to visit Spain where, she jokes, she'll have to get used to yet another accent.

"Angie and her mum. I can understand them," says Shelley in a lilting brogue. But when others talk, "I have to ask them, 'What did they say?'" Sherry says they've gotten accustomed to Shelley's speech as well. "It's real melodic."

Shelley's especially liked going to the mall. Like Beanie Babies, they don't have them in Ireland either. There are more trees in Clarkston than Belfast and, although there are plenty of McDonald's, "they don't have Burger King or Taco Bell," notes Angie. "They don't have a Chili's or anything like that."

Besides going out to eat, Shelley's enjoyed the Regianis' home-cooked meals. She's had her first "Spaghetti Bolognese," cooked by Angie's father — a change of pace from the fish and chips traditionally cooked by her own dad.

From left, Angie and Shelley are surrounded by some of the stuffed animals they've bought since Shelley came to visit. The two have

Music, TV and movies are pretty much the same. Like Angie, Shelley is smitten with The Backstreet Boys, but she says Irish T.V. features fewer commercials. Wouldn't that be nice, Angie and her mother note dryly.

Unlike Angie, she wears a layered uniform to school that includes a "jumper" (sweatshirt), skirt, jacket and knee socks. You're only allowed to take the jacket off in class, she explains.

"You must get pretty hot," notes Angie, while her mother points out that in Ireland, it's much cooler.

Her family, which includes four siblings, will take a second look when Shelley returns home. The fair-skinned colleen now has a tan — something she never experiences in Ireland.

When they picked Shelley up at the airport, the fact that it was Fourth of July — a celebration of freedom and independence — took on even more meaning, says Sherry. When they drove home "fireworks were popping off everywhere. Like, 'Welcome, Shelley!'"

Sherry said the family had a "pow wow" and decided they wanted to be hosts after they heard about a Belfast girl spending her summer in Bloomfield. They were touched by the effort of Project Children. "It gives them some relief and it gives them a summer of just being a kid," Sherry said, noting that we Americans take much for granted, like being able to worship at the church of our choice.

A British Protestant, Shelley enjoyed worshipping with the Regianis at Clarkston United Methodist Church. She's true to her faith, and one of her favorite subjects at school is Mass, in addition to history and acting (They did "Grease" last year).

Americans should truly be thankful for the division between church and state, notes Sherry. In Ireland "Your religion is your political system. They are one and the same ... It's made it hard for the families over there to raise their kids, let them go on to education and be happy and productive."

become like sisters, says Angie's mom Sherry.

For now, she describes the situation in Northern Ireland as "a fragile peace."

Dan Armstrong, president of Detroit's Gaelic League, agrees. The peace accord is a positive step, "but there are still groups on both sides of the borders who are still not in agreement." Hopefully, the outcome will be men, women and children of both faiths living in a peaceful country.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed," says Irish Connection editor/publisher John Pollard.

Recently, the newspaper did its part to help Irish children as well. In conjunction with Wayne State University, it co-hosted a visit from a group of Irish teenagers, both Catholic and Protestant, from Northern Ireland. They went to a Tigers Game, feasted on frozen yogurt and did other things normal kids do.

As for Shelley, she says things are pretty quiet in her own neighborhood. She's more afraid of the tornadoes they have in the U.S. "We only have storms."

The threesome realize it will be only a week before she flies home. Shelley will be glad to see her family, but she admits she'll miss the Regianis.

"I want my family to come over here," she says, then adds, with the impish kind of smile the Irish are known for, "It's like you can get a good tan over here."

"I won't have anybody to say good-night to," wails Angie.

Sherry looks at her "second daughter" with a warm smile. "The house is for sale next door." For now, "We're trying to save all our frequent flier miles."

For more information on Project Children, write the organization at P.O. Box 933, Greenwood Lake, NY 10925. Chairman Denis Mulcahy can be reached at 914-477-2086.

Thank you for giving me some peace of mind for my boys, knowing that even for a short time, they will be allowed to be children.

It was brilliant! The best summer of my life.

New Italian restaurant coming to town

Township approves first of three liquor licenses

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's one down and two to go.

At its August 5 meeting, the Independence Township Board of Trustees approved one of three available Class C liquor licenses for Nino Cutraro, an established restaurateur who hopes to open an upscale Italian eatery in the Independence Town Square (Food Town) shopping center.

Cutraro was the first of three applicants to receive one of the coveted licenses currently held by the township, which allow restaurant owners to serve beer, wine and liquor at their establishments.

Two became available, based on a population increase from the mid-decade census. The third was discovered when the township realized a former applicant never pursued his restaurant plans.

Cutraro, who has appeared at every board meeting concerning the issue, owns two established restaurants: Intermezzo Ristorante in Detroit and Baci Abbracci in Pontiac. He has been eyeing the rapidly growing Clarkston area as another site.

According to Cutraro, he plans to be open 60 to 90 days from now, the same time frame in which he expects his application to be processed by the Liquor Control Commission, which grants final approval. His 130-140 seat "white-tablecloth" eatery will be "modern-style" with draperies and special lighting.

One unique feature is shuttle service for his customers, to and from Pine Knob. "No one has ever done this before," he said. Cutraro plans to include only a very small service bar with two or three stools inside the 5,000-square-foot facility.

He is assuming the remainder of a 15-year lease, which has been held by Mike Alberkat, owner of Mike's Oasis. "Nino is buying out Mike's Oasis," said Independence Town Square co-owner Jim Esshaki.

Esshaki said diners will be very pleased with the new restaurant, to be named Bella Mia. "I've known Nino for over 20 years and I have full confidence Nino will do a good job. I've dealt with him before and he's a man of his word," Esshaki said.

Approval of the first license followed weeks of discussion on how the licenses should be meted. The matter recently culminated in the development of a new liquor license policy designed to establish the best criteria for granting them.

The policy states a variety of procedures, including strict background checks. It also asks applicants to demonstrate commitment in following through with their restaurant plans.

The board agreed Cutraro is an excellent candidate, with two established restaurants and a good track record, and voted 6-1 to grant the license. Supervisor Dale Stuart, who voted no, wanted to wait until the two other applicants were present.

Both Bill Grannis, owner of Opa Restaurant Coney Island, and partners for the proposed Independence Superior Sportsplex, were unavailable. They are expected to be present at the next meeting Aug. 18.

Other board members argued that Cutraro had been delayed long enough, and applicants fall or stand on their own merits. Trustee Jeff McGee said they should be treated on "a case-to-case basis."

Trustee Neil Wallace agreed, saying all three applicants made previous presentations. "This has been handled enough publicly and now we're ready to go. Each one of these applicants has to be measured against this criteria separately, and I think it would be inappropriate for us to measure them against each other."

Trustee Dan Travis, who voted along with the others, nevertheless cautioned that several new eateries will be coming to the township within the next two years. Four are planned for the Victor International site at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, and two are planned for Waldon Village Towne Center, a mixed-use development behind Food Town.

Many years ago, when he first moved into the township, there weren't many choices, Travis said, noting "only two restaurants to eat at — excluding McDonald's. Now it seems we're restaurant central."

In other board action:

● The board joined other county communities in approving a new five-year contract with Oakland County Sheriff's Department for police services, 7-0.

● The board unanimously approved an amount not to exceed $5,000 for a master plan study of the McCord property at Stickney and Pine Knob roads. The 34-acre parcel, which includes an historic farmhouse, was deeded to the township and is being eyed for several possible uses. The property is to be included in the Parks and Recreation Department's updated master plan.

City candidates run unopposed

It looks like this year's Clarkston City Council race won't be a hotly contested one. According to city manager Art Pappas, only four city residents are vying for that same number of seats. All carry two-year terms.

Filing petitions by the August 4 deadline were Mayor Sharron Catallo and incumbent council members Anne Clifton and Karen Sanderson. Newcomer Mike Kelley, a member of the city's planning commission, is seeking a seat presently held by councilman Doug Roeser, who is not seeking re-election.

Write-ins are also eligible, but they must declare their intent by Oct. 30, one week before the Nov. 3 election, Pappas said. Forms are available at City Hall, 375 Depot in Clarkston.

Olrich named new fire marshal

BY EILEEN MCGARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After two years serving as Independence Township's acting Fire Marshal, Greg Olrich has a new job.

The Independence Board of Trustees unanimously approved the promotion of Olrich to full-fledged Fire Marshal at the Aug. 4 meeting.

Olrich has been acting fire marshal since 1996, filling in for former marshal Neil Ashley who left on medical leave and has since resigned.

In a written statement to the board, fire chief Gar Wilson said Olrich has added fire marshal duties to his role as township fire inspector since August 1996. He heartily recommended Olrich for the new post.

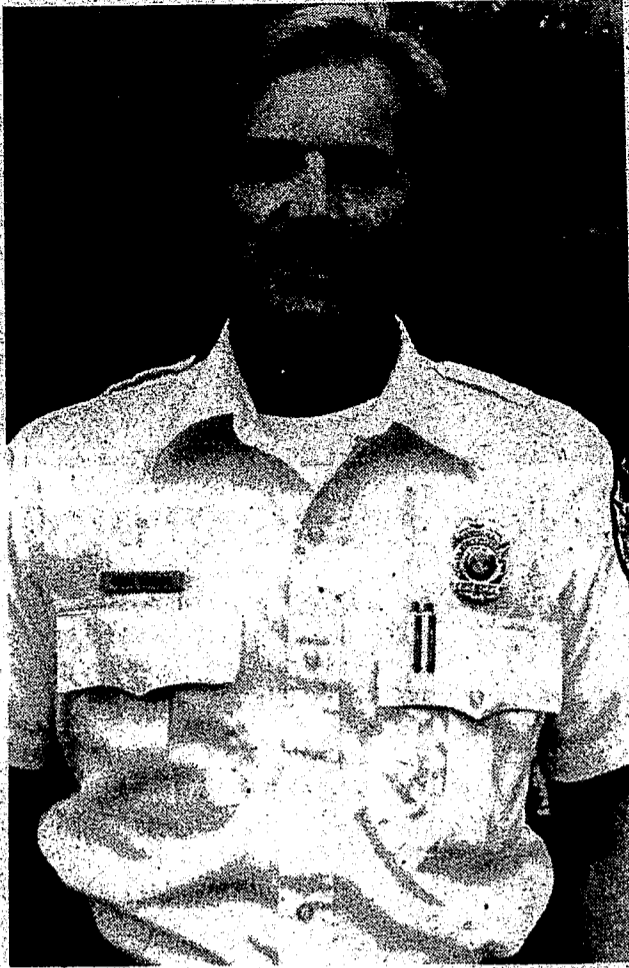

"Mr. Olrich has stepped up to every challenge presented his way, and then some. He not only handles his job in a professional manner, but he has also developed a good and positive relationship with commercial businesses and the general public," Wilson said.

During an interview the next day, Olrich admitted, "It's nice to finally have the position." He's been working for the township's fire department since 1981. A long-time Ortonville resident, Olrich is married to Judy and has three children: Angie, 19, Brian, 16, and Kevin, 13.

In addition to his many duties, one of his functions is conducting annual inspections for all existing commercial buildings in the city and the township. He inspects new construction as well, from start to finish.

"There's been a lot to do because of all the growth right now," he said.

He especially enjoys conducting a fire prevention program for Clarkston schools. Kids learn the basics, "basically anything to do with fire safety," like escape routes, home evacuation, "stop, drop and roll" and, of course, don't play with matches.

He also cautions folks to check their smoke detectors, and points to two recent house fire fatalities. "In both, smoke detectors were not adequate or functioning properly."

On Thursday, Wilson said Olrich was hired at the current annual salary of $42,616.35. He added a footnote: "Greg has been very supportive during the time he's been the acting fire marshal. He's come in and done the job, stepped up to all the problems and he's got good rapport with everyone. So he's fitting in very well."

Walters Lake to get relief from silt problem

BY EILEEN MCGARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Another Independence Township lake will get help from sediment buildup — although it's a much smaller project.

At the Aug. 4 Independence Township Board meeting, members gave the go-ahead for a 50/50 Drainage Split between the township and Road Commission for Oakland County. The township and the RCOC will each kick in $5,000 to alleviate a silt problem that's plagued Walters Lake for years.

The $10,000 project was proposed by trustee Jeff McGee, a Walters Lake resident and member of its lake board. According to McGee, the drainage problem stems from the Sunny Beach Subdivision, south of Clarkston Road. "This neighborhood has no storm water retention and is all unimproved gravel roads," he said. Temporary dredging measures have only been "Band-Aids" for the problem, he said.

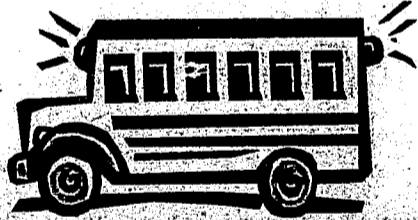

RCOC engineers have proposed a large catch basin with clean-outs, that will allow the RCOC to remove silt. "It's an attempt to stop dirt from washing upstream to the lake," McGee explained.

The project follows a similar situation on Simler Road, where residents hope to correct their own runoff problems, affecting Deer Lake.

The township, RCOC, Michigan Department of Transportation and Simler residents are sharing funding for the $147,000 project.

The work on Walters will start "immediately," McGee said.

ROLLING ALONG

by Maralee Cook
Summer favorites

Every year about this time I start making mental notes of the things I love about summer. I'll call up my favorite summer memories from my memory bank during the gray days of late winter.

In spite of the recent hot, humid weather there have been a few cool days, signaling the onset of fall.

And there are several trees in the area with at least a few leaves turning orange or red -- another sign of colder days to come.

To me, sunlight dancing on deep blue water on a hot day represents summer's warmth and long days of endless sunshine.

Enjoying the beauty of fields of wildflowers and neighborhood gardens is another favorite. I'm not shy about staring at someone's garden, just to enjoy its beauty or to steal ideas for my own.

Each spring I wait impatiently for my one peony bush to flower. The most beautiful fragrance ever is from a freshly-opened white peony with a crimson center. It's better than the fragrance of roses in my book.

Even looking at a large stand of trees is a joy. An art teacher once told me there are more shades of the color green than any other color. Rarely are two trees, even side-by-side, the same shade of green.

Whenever we've traveled to Florida in the dead of winter, seeing color again has a stronger impact on me than feeling the heat. And it is always a nasty shock to touch back down at Metro and see nothing but gray.

Have you ever wondered what chemicals we smell after the first tear into a husk of corn, hoeing a garden or cutting damp grass? I even enjoy the smell of fuel oil off the lake when boaters first become active in late spring.

But more than anything, I love the sounds of summer. Talkative birds, crickets, tree frogs, grasshoppers, dogs and children are all sorely missed when we close up our windows in mid-to-late fall.

We used to have a large population of blue jays on our street, who spent the better part of each day harassing other birds. Their fussing made for some very noisy days. And comical ones too, if you weren't a smaller bird.

Then about six years ago we began to hear crows off in the distance. Every year since their calls became a little louder, until last year, when they finally moved in for good. Most of the blue jays left after the crows moved in.

In the fall and spring we are awakened early by flocks of ducks and geese. And during the summer a great blue heron squawks each morning at 5:45 as it flies by.

One of the most lovely sights on our lake is the V-shaped trail following the muskrats as they leave the shore in the moonlight.

We don't see much of them during the day in the summer. But in the beginning and end of winter when the ice is forming or melting, they sit on the edge of it eating water plants. They're safe from barking dogs a couple of months each year.

Ducks and seagulls will join the muskrats on the ice, and after the ice is about three inches thick, they'll be replaced by fishermen, and kids on skates.

Hmmmm. In a few months, I may be making a list of things I enjoy about winter. But I think it will be shorter.

New bank group sets good example

Hats off to area residents and businessmen Dave Harrison, Bill Clark, Bob Olsen, John Welker, Lou Beer, Ed Adler, Bruce McIntire and Chuck Fortinberry for investing their time, effort and money in the community.

They recently signed a purchase agreement for the former NBD bank on Main Street in Clarkston and intend to open a neighborhood bank by the first of next year.

The group will rename the institution Clarkston State Bank, which was originally chartered in 1913. Harrison, a retired First of America Bank president will act as the new Clarkston State Bank president "until things get going."

Harrison said a portion of the profits will be reinvested in the community, something larger banks don't always do. Examples of community support could range from sponsoring concerts, investing in industrial parks or participating in the funding of a revitalization study of the city. "It's kind of like reinvesting in yourself," he said.

In our story in this week's issue about the intended purchase, Harrison said, "If you don't find a way to develop business locally, you don't retain the earnings from the business in the community, good things in the town -- economic and cultural, for example -- are rarely accomplished because the money everyone spends goes somewhere else."

We applaud the group's commitment, and hope their leadership makes it easier for the rest of us to follow. MKC

Letters to the Editor

Voters heard Jeff Gallant's message

Dear Editor,

In the past eight months, the 46th Michigan State Representative District was exposed to a campaign by an exciting, dedicated, vision-driven young man named Jeff Gallant.

Not satisfied with the status quo, he courageously challenged veteran politicians. Because of Jeff's foresight and vision he was the only candidate to receive a spontaneous applause after his closing comments, July 3 at the Clarkston Chamber of Commerce breakfast.

3,498 voters supported his campaign proposals, therefore, their numbers cannot be ignored. I think there will be great benefit received by the people in having been introduced to the idea of using common sense non-political citizens to turn around our country's government. A vote for Jeff was for a slimmer government, not a fatter government. The voters in our community heard Jeff's message and were not afraid to speak out against BUSINESS AS USUAL!

We have been given a message of hope for our future. How fortunate our community has been to have Jeff and his wife Angie locate here in Independence. His dedication to the 46th District has been tremendous and they have each led an exemplary life.

Most sincerely,
Peggy Dryer

Thanks to election workers and voters

Letter to the Editor:

A very special thank you to all of the Election Inspectors who participated in the August 4th, Primary Election. Thank you, too, to the voters who recognized the importance of nominating our candidates and voted.

My staff and I also want to let our poll workers and, those of you who experienced delays at the polling places, know that we appreciate your patience. We have recently converted our voter registration records to a statewide registration file. This file has been initiated and developed through the Secretary of State, the Election Bureau and each Clerk's office. As in any new computer program there are glitches - which is true of this one. We are working with the Election Bureau daily to resolve any problems. It is such a large project that resolution is not fast and easy but, rest assured, it will be better for all registered voters in the long run.

Sincerely,
Joan E. McCrary
Township Clerk

It's illegal to . . .

A few weeks ago I asked AD Craig of the Oxford Police Department for a short list of misdemeanor crimes. Well, I got those over the phone and later I was given a list of "Stupid Local Laws," that he picked off the Internet.

While reading these one liners I tried to think, what circumstances would prompt these laws. You may too, but I wouldn't waste too many waking hours on it.

So, without further eloquence . . .

■ In Zion, Illinois it is illegal for anyone to give lighted cigars to dogs, cats and other domesticated animals kept as pets.

■ In Oxford (Ohio), it is illegal for a woman to strip off her clothing while standing in front of a man's picture. (Answer me this, women-o-mine, what would cause you to frolic nude in front of a man's picture?)

■ In Carrizozo, New Mexico, it is forbidden for a female to appear unshaven in public.

■ In Michigan (so this list says) a woman isn't allowed to cut her own hair without her husband's permission. (I think all our local salons ought to start asking for permission slips -- just to be on the safe side.)

■ In North Carolina it is against the law to use elephants to plow cotton fields.

■ In Bexley, Ohio, Ordinance No. 223, of 1919, prohibits the installation and usage of slot machines in outhouses.

■ In Clawson (Michigan), there is a law that makes it legal for a farmer to sleep with his pigs, cows, horses, goats and chickens.

■ In Miami, it's illegal for men to be seen publicly in any kind of strapless gown.

■ In Detroit, couples are banned from making love in an automobile unless the act takes place while the vehicle is parked on the couple's own property.

■ In Nicholas County, West Virginia, no member of the clergy is allowed to tell jokes or humorous stories from the pulpit during a church service.

■ In Los Angeles, a man is legally entitled to beat his wife with a leather belt or strap, but the belt can't be wider than two inches, unless he has his wife's consent to beat her with a wider strap.

■ In Kentucky, "No female shall appear in a bathing suit on any highway within this state unless she be escorted by at least two officers or unless she be armed with a club"

■ And, finally, an amendment to the above law, "The provisions of this statute shall not apply to females weighing less than 90 pounds nor exceeding 200 pounds, nor shall it apply to female horses."

You got to know when to fold 'em

I should have learned from Kenny Rogers' song, "The Gambler," only I shouldn't have anything to fold. I'm not a gambler, but I like glitz. That's why I decided to join six other guys at the grand opening of "Casino Windsor."

And, glitzy it is. The bright white casino is high-lighted, riverside (facing Michigan), with 10- or 12-foot colorful neon signs: CASINO WINDSOR.

Opening day might not have been the best day, crowd-wise, to go to this new money magnet, but with five of us seven being knowledgeable gamblers (if there is such a thing) the drawing force could not be overcome.

The entrance is impressive. A circular walk, not unlike the Silverdome, leads people to the hotel, restaurants and gambling if you turn left, and gambling only if you turn right.

Inside the circle walk is 50-60 foot waterfall with greenery and rocks, above which is a cloud painted ceiling. At the bottom is a fountain, when, on the half-hour the waterfall is stopped and music and light come on for a synchronized display of spouting water.

The casino is very Vegas-like. Flashing inviting dollar signs blinking everywhere, bells jingling too loudly and the sound of coins dropping into trays.

There is no sound when coins are dropped into slots in the one-armed bandit machines.

There are quarter, dollar, $5 and $10 slot machines along with poker machines. There are mini-baccarat tables, roulette wheels, a couple kinds of poker tables and several black jack tables.

The minimum bet went up at these tables at 6 p.m.

What impressed us reversely were the lines. It took 20 minutes to go through a cafeteria line at 3 p.m. It took about that much time in the line to convert our U. S. dollars to Canadian.

Then you have to find a person with a red vest to exchange the paper money for tokens for the slots. The tables convert the paper money to chips. I found the slots and tables eliminate having to stand in line to retrieve our U. S. dollars.

Exchanging money in Canada is interesting. My $50 got me $74 Canadian. One "gambler" in our party figures the casino makes 4 percent just on the exchange rate. He calculated that to be $70,000 a day profit to them.

The only part of the gambler's language I understand is "Oh, shucks," which comes right after . . . "hit me, I'll stand, let it ride, etc."

Thus, I expect to lose when gambling, and I do. All of us were, not unlucky. I hung around with John Patrell, our driver and wit (that's half-right) to make sure I didn't get lost and got back to Michigan.

We both got $50 in tokens for the slots. Mine was gone within 20 minutes. I wasn't disappointed. I expected to lose and I did.

On the other hand, just a few bucks into his $50 John hit for $200. After some walking and watching John hit another machine for $1,000. It took the house about a half hour to pay him off. When they did John quit playing.

When I asked John if he objected to me writing that he won, he said, "No, and tell 'em I've been there two times, the first and last."

Are you looking forward to going back to school?

BRADY GARDNER, 7TH GRADE, CLARKSTON MIDDLE SCHOOL: No. Well, I want to go back to see my friends and stuff, but I gotta work.

RYAN PRUENTE, 8TH GRADE, OUR LADY OF THE LAKES: I just don't want to go back to school, but I do want to go back to school to get some chicks.

MANDI WILLIS, 10TH GRADE, CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL: Yeah, 'cause I get to go school clothes shopping.

LYNDSAY YORK, 11TH GRADE, CHS: I wish the summer was longer 'cause I really don't want to go back this soon. But I'm kind of excited about the new high school.

ELISA ("SENORA") HOPPER, GHS SPANISH TEACHER: For the most part, I'm excited about the new high school building. I miss my kids.

The majority of you readers have probably driven on the road at least a few times and know how irritating and often comical it is to see fellow drivers demonstrate their lack of skill behind the wheel. There are people turning when they shouldn't, not paying attention to traffic lights, weaving in their lane, and narrowly escaping collisions.

Take this chaos and shrink it all down to the size of the high school parking lot, add a bellowing man with an attitude, and get rid of all the experience of all the drivers.

Now you've got what we call the range during drivers' training.

You see, when we sit down in a classroom and open the Drive Right textbook, we are not told exactly how to drive, since it is assumed that we already know. And we think we do: everyone knows how to turn a steering wheel and push a couple pedals.

But some extra assurance would be nice when, ten minutes later, we are put in a car and expected to start driving. I was lucky and didn't have to go on the road the first day-I was merely on the range and whipping around curves at the tremendous maximum speed of fifteen miles per hour.

It wasn't difficult, of course, just driving around in circles or going back and forth in a straight line. So for the first few days, we had no problems during range driving-except the occasional person driving on the wrong side of the road.

Then came something that none of us had expected: Backing Maneuvers. Surely, we thought, there was much more to learn about driving forward before we could start backing up, wasn't there?

Too bad. We started parallel parking and backing out of driveways formed out of orange cones and barely-organized turmoil broke loose.

The occasional wrong-side-of-the-road mishap became frequent enough to drive our instructor into screaming rages. Stop signs placed on the range were ignored or run over-yes, the wheels of the car ran straight over a stop sign or two. And as for those "indestructible" orange cones? Completely mauled. Our aim when backing up was even worse than going forward.

We survived driving on the range and the even scarier road, where cones became cars and small children. My road instructor, a biker that dressed the part, shared colorful stories about his childhood in Detroit between moments of giving navigational help, slamming on the brakes, and grabbing the steering wheel. There was also the classroom portion, which included tests, the other thing that caused students trouble. Personally, I didn't think they were too bad-I had more trouble staying awake during the endless hours of video tapes.

So now we're out on the real road with no cones and no instructor yelling directions at us. We apologize for the inconveniences that I'm sure we'll cause you; we'll do our best to avoid them. And every now and then, you'll be reminded of us as you come to a stop sign that's been flattened to the ground.

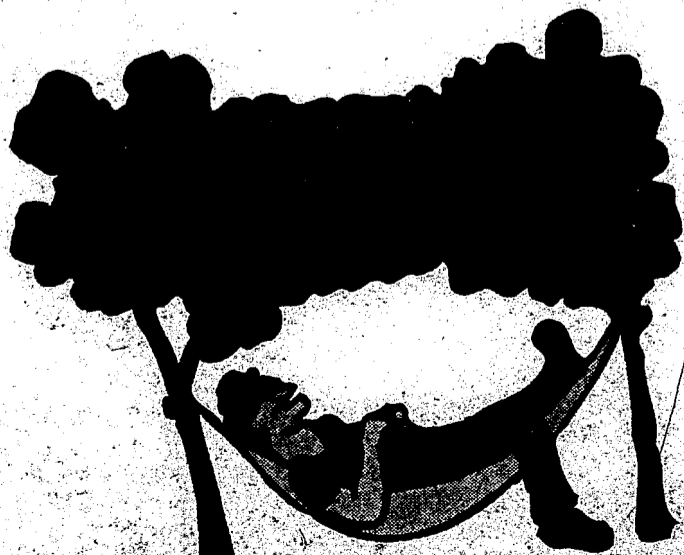

Two weeks ago we gave you Sweetie the pig. Now, The Clarkston News presents Tweety and Sylvester ... er, Patches. Our advertising sales rep Steve Leaver said Patches, his multi-colored tomcat, dropped this baby sparrow onto his deck—unharmd. Although it was lunchtime at The News the next day, this shot of Patches and his pal at the office demonstrates the cat still has his natural instincts in check.

Gearing up for the Labor Day Parade

BY GENNA COTTRELL
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As the dog days of August wind down, preparations for the Clarkston Labor Day parade are gearing up. Fun and safety are high on the agenda.

The Labor Day parade, organized by Clarkston Rotary for over 50 years, promises to be an hour long celebration filled with entertainment and surprises. This year's theme is "Follow Your Dreams," with festivities starting promptly at 10 a.m. Monday, September 7.

The parade begins at Clarkston Middle School, where parade entrants are asked to gather between 8 and 9:30 a.m. to take their places. The parade route winds down Buffalo Street to Main, then on to Miller Street to end at St. Daniel's Catholic Church on Valley Park Street.

Floats, bands, pompon squads, clowns, fire trucks and more highlight the day. A fly over by the Air National Guard out of Selfridge Air National Guard Base is also scheduled.

The parade committee encourages any member of the community with a special talent or inspiration to get involved.

"We're trying to discourage the 'commercial' floats," said Tom McCoskey, parade committee chairman. "This isn't an advertising campaign, it's Labor Day. We'd like the parade to reflect a hometown spirit of hard work and following the American Dream. We know there are lots of folks out there who can make a real contribution - show Clarkston what following your dream really means."

Preparations have been underway since last October for the big event. "There's such a tremendous number of things to do," said McCoskey. "But our number one challenge this year is one of safety, as well as fun."

Organizers of Clarkston's Fourth of July parade

Parade organizers want floats to reflect the Clarkston community.

felt the day was plagued with many problems, including safety concerns regarding the practice of throwing candy to youngsters in the crowd. "The kids are running out into the street to pick up penny candy, and getting underfoot of the floats, horses and cars in the parade," McCoskey said. "The things people like to see in the parade are being put in jeopardy because of the liability factor - we hope we can reduce or eliminate that problem for the Labor Day parade."

McCoskey suggests parade members walk along side of their floats and hand candy to children, instead of tossing it randomly into the streets and crowds. "We can't forbid it (candy tossing), he said, "we're just asking the folks to use a little common sense here."

All entrants in the Labor Day parade must pre-register this year with the Rotary by phoning or faxing McCoskey at 625-6636 with a short note of their group's name and intended parade program. "That way we know who's coming, where to put them and how to plan," he said. "(Pre-registering) will eliminate congestion and confusion at the start of the parade. Everyone will have a spot, get rid of the surprises."

The Rotary will then fax back a short informational sheet about the ins and outs of this year's celebration. "If people know the rules ahead of time, we can make sure everyone has a good time," said McCoskey. "Our goal is a safe parade." For more parade information, please telephone McCoskey at 625-6636 during normal business hours.

Billy Ray Cyrus caused female hearts to flutter — not to mention ache and break — with his first big single in 1992.

Today, "Achy Breaky Heart" remains unsinkable, even with the current blockbuster soundtrack from "Titanic." Cyrus holds the number one title, with a record-breaking 17 weeks at the top of the Billboard charts in both pop and country.

Since then, he's released five more albums and is working on a sixth, still untitled, but it's expected to be out in October, according to publicity contact Patrick Lugo.

He's also a do-gooder. Cyrus and his Billy Ray Cyrus Charities Foundation are responsible for more than $30,000 in grants to various children's groups. Recipients include Helping Hands, the Police Athletic League, River Cities Food Harvest, Flatwoods Library, the Boy Scouts, the March of Dimes and Paramount Arts Center.

Cyrus has fought hard to get rid of that get-a-load-of-these-pecs image. He's trimmed down, toned up and is looking much more tailored these days. He admits it's been hard to change his former persona, and was happy when his fourth album, "Trail of Tears," received critical acclaim.

Since then, he's been taken more seriously. At the 32nd annual TNN/Music City News Country Awards, for example, he won five of six nominated awards: Male Artist of the Year, Single of the Year (for "It's All the Same to Me"), Video of the Year (for "Three Little Words"), Album of the Year (for "Cover to Cover") and Song of the Year ("It's All the Same to Me").

At 36, Cyrus is embarking on his 1998 World Tour, where the emphasis is music, not muscles.

"I want the focus to be on the music," he says in a recent press release from Mercury Records in Nashville. "By making a few changes, I hope we've accomplished that. The music has never been about my hair or clothes, but to some it was. I've always wanted to be respected as a singer, songwriter and entertainer. So I have to live my motto of 'some gave all' to achieve that."

"You know, under the hood, I'm still the same Billy Ray Cyrus. I've just got new upholstery and a new paint job. Hopefully the music will speak for itself. That's what matters most."

Billy Ray Cyrus performs Thursday, Aug. 20 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for both lawn and pavilion seating are still available.

Lawrence Tech opens campus at OTC, NW

Lawrence Technological University will begin offering a bachelor of Science in engineering technology degree in Clarkston this fall, Lawrence Tech President Charles Chambers has announced. Classes will meet one evening per week beginning the week of September 8.

Lawrence Tech will operate from the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus, 8211 Big Lake Road, at I-75 and Dixie Hwy.

"We've seen strong interest from students in the growing northwest portion of Oakland County and southern Genesee County seeking to obtain a Lawrence Tech degree," said Chambers. "This new location on the I-75 corridor allows us to offer a degree of similar high quality to what we offer on campus in Southfield, saving students up to an hour in commuting time."

The engineering technology program will initially be offered evenings only and is expected to be of particular interest to employed students who already have earned or are close to earning associate degrees. Depending on response, Lawrence Tech will consider adding other undergraduate and graduate degrees in the area.

"As the region's premier technological university, we are striving to improve access to the degree programs which prepare graduates for the myriad high tech, high paying careers which abound in this area," Chambers said. "The jobs are here. The students are here. Now we're here, too."

William White, chair of Lawrence Tech's engineering technology department, will lead both the Clarkston and Southfield campus programs.

"This expansion in the heart of a growing area with so many technology-based jobs is an exciting opportunity," White said. "Six courses will be available in Clarkston this fall."

For information about Lawrence Tech's new

Clarkston classes or about any of the over 40 undergraduate and graduate degree programs offered by Lawrence Tech in Southfield, phone 248-204-3160 or toll free: 1-800-CALL-LTU.

Founded in 1932, Lawrence Tech is one of Michigan's largest independent universities and includes Colleges of Architecture and Design, Arts and Sciences, Engineering, and Management.

Duggan's to Duggan's

John Hadwin of Redford, in his 1935 Chevy in front of Duggan's Irish Pub west, helped celebrate Duggan's to Duggan's Classic Car Cruise July 29. Friends and patrons drove classic cars from the Duggan's Irish Pub in Royal Oak to the Dixie Highway location in Clarkston, and enjoyed hors d'oeuvres and beverages. Of his 1935 Chevy, Hadwin said, "Everything's modern underneath." The car has a new engine, automatic transmission, power windows and brakes - even a tape deck. He has owned the car for 28 years.

In Service

Two Clarkston residents enlisted in the U.S. Air Force July 15 and will participate in six weeks of basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Upon successfully completing basic training Michael S. Adair, a 1998 Clarkston High School graduate, is scheduled to receive technical training in the electronics career field. He will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

He is the son of Linda and Michael Adair.

Tina M. Cagle, a 1997 CHS graduate, will receive technical training in a general career field after basic training. She will also earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

***

Marine Pfc. Kevin T. MacDormott, a 1996 CHS graduate, recently completed a six-month deployment to Okinawa with 2nd Battalion 6th Marines, home based at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

While deployed, MacDormott's unit participated in a training exercise where Marines were tasked with securing an airfield and destroying a surface-to-air missile site without aerial or forward reconnaissance. This forced the unit to rely on their maps and land navigation skills.

MacDormott's unit is part of the Unit Deployment Program (UDP). UDP units based in the United States train in Okinawa for six months. From Okinawa they can deploy to mainland Japan, Korea, and many other Pacific countries.

He joined the Marine Corps in 1996.

***

Second Lieutenant Ryan A. Pyke recently graduated from Naval Intelligence Officer Basic Course (NIOBC) in Virginia Beach, Virginia, with a 93.5 GPA. His new job will be an intelligence briefer to the Commanding General. He is currently stationed at Cherry Point Marine Corp. Air Station in North Carolina. He is with the 2nd Marine Air Wing.

Ryan is the son of John and Beverly Pyke of Clarkston, and the grandson of Wilma Moore of Harisburg, Illinois.

Vernier

Air Force Airman Heather L. Vernier has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Vernier is the daughter of Paul and Ellen Schroeder of Ludington.

Her husband, Roger, is the son of James Vernier of Clarkston, and Phyllis M. Vernier of Caro.

She is a 1990 graduate of Ludington High School.

Key

Two Clarkston natives, Airmen Andrea E. Key and Scott M. Champagne, have graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airmen studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

Champagne

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Key is the daughter of Gloria and David Key of Clarkston, and is a 1996 graduate of Clarkston High School. Champagne is the son of Mary and Gary Champagne of Clarkston, and is a 1997 grad.

Clarkston SCAMP held its second annual picnic at Independence Oaks County Park July 21, sponsored by Eagle Valley Recycle and Disposal Facility (an Orion waste management company). Approximately 250 children and young adults with special needs, as well as 150 staff and volunteers, enjoyed a cookout with hot dogs and other food items donated by Eagle Valley, Orion-Oxford Eagles and North Oakland Elks. The picnic was the culmination of SCAMP's five-week summer camp program, where SCAMPers enjoy a variety of activities including boating, swimming, hiking, music, motor skills, nature walks and other fun things to do. One day is an overnight, with SCAMPers sleeping in tents and enjoying activities around a campfire. Geri Batt, executive director of North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp., said SCAMPers come from all over North Oakland County, and range in age from 3 years to 30 years old. Pictured under a shady tree are, left to right, SCAMP'er Erin Oldaugh, volunteer Andrea Logan, SCAMP'er Matthew Knoll held by student aide Andrea Drescher, SCAMP'er Andrew Graham, adult aide Stacie Hauswirth, and SCAMP'ers Brianna Goldsworthy and Brad Foster. Batt and Eagle Valley division president John Spokaeski are at back.

Group is banking on the future

The group has also applied to FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.). "That insures all checking and savings funds for up to $100,000," he said.

The group has chosen to rename the institution "Clarkston State Bank," which harks back to the old days. According to the local book "Heritage," the first Clarkston State Bank was chartered in 1913, responding to a similar scenario when a former bank moved out of the stone building on Main Street.

State regulators have 100 days to approve the charter application. It could take another 30 days for the Federal Reserve to grant approval. "We can't do anything till that happens," Harrison said.

At the latest, they hope to open by Jan. 1. "If (both) took the maximum time, we wouldn't open till the first of the year," he added. They plan to remodel the 3,890-square-foot building.

The new bank will face competition from others in the Clarkston area, including Oxford Bank, another state-chartered bank that operates a branch on N. Main Street, and Republic Bank, which opened downtown last year as a mortgage-lender and is now full-service.

New bank to have classic face

If all goes as planned the new Clarkston State Bank could house a friendly face from the past.

Clarkston resident Bob Jones, 84, started at the original Clarkston State Bank (chartered in 1913) as a janitor when he was 15 years old.

"My first paycheck was $6 for two weeks work," Jones chuckled. He moved up the ranks to become its president from 1945-1965, when the small, local institution was bought by Pontiac State Bank. He stayed on as branch manager, eventually moving down to Pontiac's main office as vice president. In 1972 he retired because of health problems.

One of the founders for the new CSB, Dave Harrison, said he would "like to find a place" for Jones.

Jones thinks the plan to rename it Clarkston State Bank is "a good idea ... If I was younger, I'd do the same thing myself. I'd be right there with 'em."

"I think there's a need for Clarkston State Bank in Clarkston," Jones said, as he referenced the recent merger of NBD with First of Chicago. "They sort of got the big-bank ideas of how a bank should be run. And that isn't Clarkston."

Clarkston groundskeepers excel in Oakland County Parks Olympics

Clarkston resident Nicole Hard "mowed" over the competition to take top honors in the Oakland County Parks Fourth Annual Grounds Keeper Olympics.

The July 21 Olympics tested the precision mowing and trimming skills of the parks system's seasonal grounds staff.

This is the first time a lady grounds keeper has won the highest award of Grand Champ Best Overall. Hard also captured first place for the Obstacle Course competition. She works at Independence Oaks County Park in Clarkston.

Another Clarkston resident, Rob Brownell, was the Grand Champ Runner Up and won the Closest-to-the-Pin event.

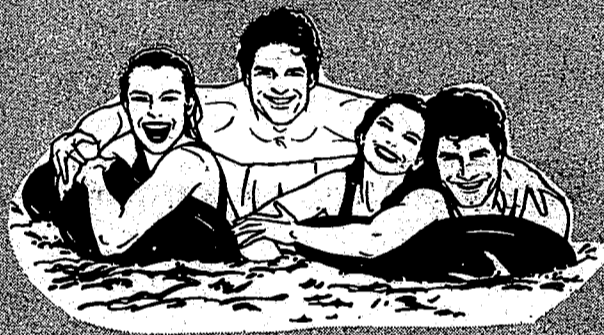

The Groveland Oaks County Park team took home the award for Overall Best Team. Individual honors went to Nic Preece from Ortonville for the Torch and Golf scramble. Groveland Oaks is located near Holly.

THE LAW
& YOU
 by Kelley R. Kostin
 Attorney at Law
ADDING UP THE DAMAGES
 When determining damages to be awarded to a plaintiff in a personal injury case, future economic loss is taken into account. This amount includes lost wages and the cost of future medical expenses. Because they can be calculated with a certain degree of precision, these are referred to as special damages. General damages, which include pain, suffering, and mental distress, are difficult to calculate. It is usually the jury's responsibility to determine the amount of compensation the injured party should receive on the basis of facts presented as evidence at the trial. The jury is warranted neither in giving a blank check to compensate the injured party, not in arriving at an amount based on any sympathies it might have.
 Victims of negligent conduct need a champion with the talent, skill, and integrity to fight for them in the courts. Here at 11 North Main Street, we pledge our skills and resources to the best interests of our clients, always. If you've been injured, contact an attorney before making any statements to another party or to an insurance company. Let us help you protect your rights; call 620-1030 to schedule a consultation.
 Hint: General damages for pain and suffering may include compensation for future pain and suffering that can be reasonably probable to occur as a result of the injury.

SKIN DEEP
 by Scott Friedman, D.O.
A NEW BALDNESS TREATMENT
 Aside from the topical treatment minoxidil, men with male-pattern baldness have a new way to treat their hair loss. It comes in pill form and goes by the name finasteride. This drug was originally approved for the treatment of enlarged prostates, but researchers began studying its potential for hair growth after some patients with male-pattern baldness noticed hair regrowth while they were taking the drug. In clinical studies, 80% of the men who took finasteride noticed either slight-to-moderate hair regrowth or a cessation in hair loss. Unfortunately, the drug is not appropriate for women with thinning hair because it causes birth defects. Finasteride must be taken indefinitely to sustain its effects.
 If we can provide you with additional information on today's topic, please call us. Dermatologists are medical doctors, specializing in skin problems and diseases of children and adults. We are best able to advise and treat problems relating to all types of skin disorders. Our offices are located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692) and 3083 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599), and offer specialized attention to all your skin concerns.
 P.S. A small percentage of the men who took finasteride experienced diminished sexual drive and impotence as side effects, which disappeared once they stopped taking the drug.

MILESTONES

Maria Aparecida and Adorindo V. Crestana of Uberlandia, Brazil, announce the engagement of their daughter Viviane, to Paul Jensen, son of Tom and Carol Jo Jensen of Clarkston. Paul and Viviane are currently PhD candidates in computer science and engineering at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Paul graduated from Clarkston High School in 1988, prior to his attending U of M for his undergraduate studies. The couple will be married in October.

Axel and Ingeborg (Inga) Girschner of Clarkston celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary Saturday, August 1 with a trip to Frankenmuth, a delicious dinner and the enjoyment of a local art fair and festival. The Girschners first lived in Warren, where their two children, Sven Eric then Inga Maria were born in 1964 and 1966. The family moved to their present home in Independence Township in 1968. Sven and Inga graduated from Clarkston High School, and Sven married fellow CHS grad in 1987. The couple now lives in New Berlin, Wisconsin. Inga lives in Chicago. Sven and Denise will make the Girschners grandparents just in time for Thanksgiving. The Girschners said the "holy miracle" is due November 23.

New arrivals

Dirk and Nancy (Westlund) Heitzman of Plymouth announce the birth of their daughter, Erin Nicole. Erin was born July 10, 1998 at Huron Valley Hospital. She weighed 6 pounds, 15 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long. She was welcomed home by her big sister Lynn, 12.

Ron and Tracy (Dawson) Keller of White Lake announce the birth of their daughter, Erin Lindsey. Erin was born June 16, 1998 at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Oakland. She weighed seven pounds, 12 ounces and was 22 inches long.

Proud grandparents are Bill and Midge Keller of Independence Township, and Phil and Diane Dawson of Robbinsville, North Carolina, formerly of Lake Orion. Great-grandparents are Betty Keller of Clarkston and Charles and Donna Nordman of Englewood, Florida, formerly of Bloomfield Hills.

At School

Eight area students were named to the Baker College dean's list for the spring quarter, 1998. From Clarkston are: Casey Baker; Kelly Final; Jimmy Johnson; Jackie Muniz; Leslie Roth; Aaron Shepherd; David Wampfler; and from Davisburg, Jason Wolfe.

To qualify for the president's list students must achieve a grade point average of 4.0 or all As, and dean's list students must have earned a grade point average of 3.5 to 3.99, during a quarter in which 12 credits hours or more were completed.

Jerod Fish, 15, will attend Interlochen Arts Camp this summer.

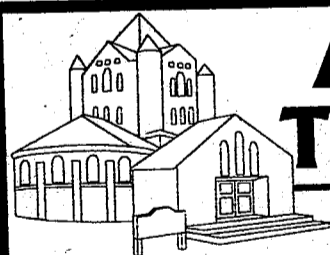

Jerod "Judd," the son of Jamie and Bill Fish of Clarkston, will study drama. This is his first time as a camper at Interlochen. Interlochen, located southwest of Traverse City, has been named one of the top 25 camps in the nation by Family Life magazine.

Wesley Adam Pyke was named to the dean's list by Dr. Matthew A. Beemer, vice president for academic affairs at Pensacola Christian College for the 1998 spring semester. Students named to the dean's list must earn a B average or better. Adam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pyke of Clarkston and the grandson of Wilma Moore of Harrisburg, IL.

Jonathan Dean, son of Michael and Jane Dean of Clarkston, received a 4.0 GPA for the spring semester at Notre Dame University.

Jon will be a senior, majoring in business administration in the fall. He is a 1995 Clarkston High School graduate.

any reduction in the speed limit would be a step in the right direction for the problems in the area.

"We have asked for the reduction several times in the past, so anything would be a help," she said. "But it all just seems superficial to me. What we really need there is a center turn lane."

The proposed widening project will be submitted to the Funding Committee of the Oakland County Federal Aid Task Force by next spring. Even if after the review process, the road scores high enough to get the funds for the widening, the project wouldn't begin until 2001 at the earliest.

Gerald M. Holmberg, the RCOC deputy managing director and county highway engineer, stated that a study showed Dixie Highway was not a "high accident location, and may not justify the federal funding for a widening project at this time."

"We need less smoke and mirrors and less P.R. from the road commission, and more of a focus on what needs to be done on that stretch of Dixie," Strole said. "We need to bite the bullet and say something needs to be done. We need action, not news releases."

The Clarkston News SPORTS

Section B

Wednesday, August 12, 1998

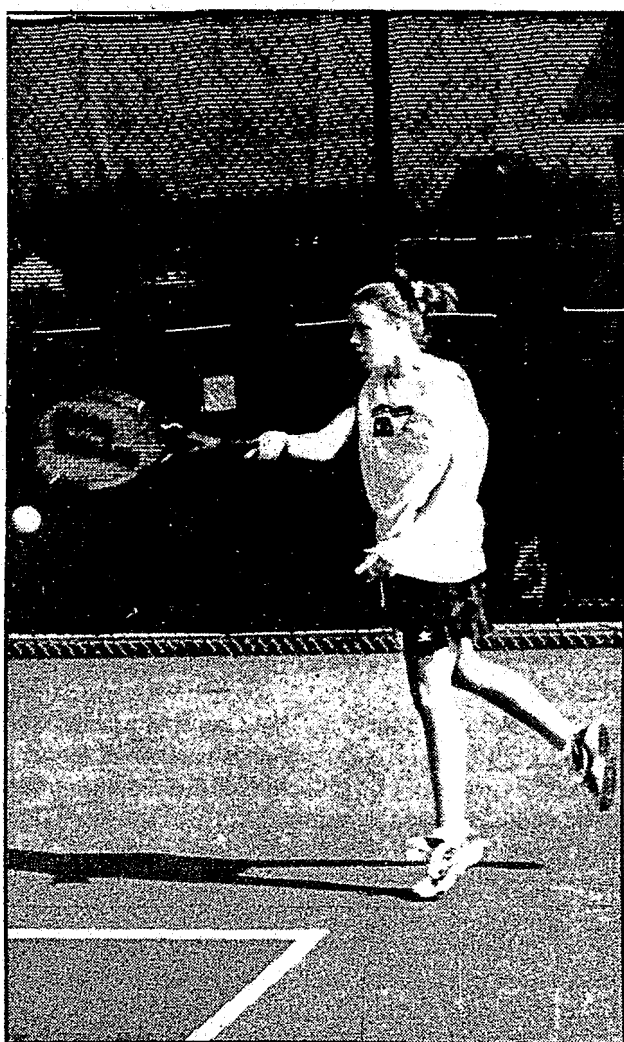

The 1998 Clarkston varsity football team trots onto the Oakland University soccer field for its first workout of the new season Monday morning.

Monday marked the first day of practice for Clarkston High School athletic teams. With a brand-new facility waiting in the wings and a talented group of athletes taking the field, this is the start of the . . .

Glory Days

Senior Eric Jenks takes some practice throws Monday morning. Jenks enters the season as the starting quarterback for the Wolves.

Senior captain Nick Upchurch gets his teammates pumped up with some pre-stretch clapping during the varsity football team's first workout at Oakland University Monday morning.

Offensive line coach Rich Porritt (far right) yells instructions to "The Hogs," the nickname for Clarkston. Getting into the proper stance is one of the basics covered during the first day of practice. The Blue and Gold game takes place Tuesday, Aug. 18, with a scrimmage scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 22. Those will be the tuneups for the season opener Sept. 4 against Waterford Kettering.

Reviewing the football playoff point system

Time to get out those graphing calculators, because here is a refresher on how the MHSAA determines football playoff points and rankings.

Clarkston is a Class AA school, the highest class in terms of school enrollment. Points are awarded based on the team's wins, and the success its opponents have. The point system runs as follows:

80 points for a win over a Class AA or Class A team.

64 points for a win over a Class BB or Class B team.

48 points for a win over a Class CC or Class C team.

32 points for a win over a Class DD or Class D team.

Bonus points: eight points for every game a defeated opponent wins, and one point for every game an opponent Clarkston lost to wins a game. For example: if Clarkston beats Waterford Kettering, it gets 80 points for beating a Class AA team. If Kettering wins five games in its season, Clarkston gets 40 more bonus points, eight for every game Kettering wins. Conversely, if Clarkston loses to Rochester, and the Falcons go 7-2, Clarkston gets seven bonus points, one for every game Rochester wins in the season.

The playoff points are decided by adding the total number of playoff points earned and dividing it by the number of games played. Bonus points are determined by adding bonus points and dividing it by the number of games the opponents played.

Tiebreakers: The top four teams in each region qualify for the playoffs. If two teams are tied, and they played each other during the season, the winning team in that game wins the tiebreaker. If a tie occurs between more than two teams, the following system is applied: opponents' winning percentage; then which team led at the end of the third quarter of the most games through the season; then second and first quarters if a tie still exists; and last, the sure-fire flip of the coin.

None of this may matter a year from now, because the MHSAA and its member schools seem heavily in favor of expanding the playoffs to one degree or another for the 1999 season. Proposal 16, which would have quadrupled the number of teams qualifying for the playoffs, has been shot down by the MHSAA.

Football players seeking canned food for Lighthouse

Friday, August 21, members of the Clarkston High School football program will get the day off of practice, but it could end up being the most productive day of the year for them.

Instead of slamming tackling dummies and running routes, players will head out into the community to gather canned food and other needed items for Lighthouse North in a program called "Rush for Food."

Players will split up and cover area neighborhoods in hopes of stocking up Lighthouse's pantries for the fall season.

Players should meet wearing their home jersey at the old CHS field at 4:30 p.m. They will depart from the field at 5:30, and should give all collected food at the Clintonwood Park Pavilion at 7:30. Food and beverages will be served at the park to all participants.

Anyone wishing to donate food who doesn't have players come to their house can drop items off at the pavilion before 8:30.

For more information on the program, call Jane Carr at 391-0767.

MHSAA changes rules to curb lopsided games

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has tinkered with the rules in football and girls basketball for the upcoming season in terms of one-sided games.

Last year, the MHSAA used a running clock whenever the margin of a football game reached 35 points, with stoppages coming only with called timeouts, player injury, between quarters and penalty enforcement.

This year, the rule will apply to all regular season and playoff games. The only time a Clarkston game was affected by this rule last year was the Wolves' 58-24 win over Troy Athens. Clarkston took a 44-8 lead in the third quarter, and the running clock took effect.

In girls basketball, a running clock rule has also been implemented. If the margin in a game reaches 40 points, the clock runs except for timeouts and between quarters. Should the margin be reduced to less than 30 points, regular clock use will resume. This rule will apply to regular season and playoff games.

IN THE PENALTY BOX

with Brad Monastiere

New beginnings

Even through we're in the middle of the first week of practice, I like what I've seen from the varsity football team so far.

This seems like a very determined group of players and coaches. Determined to bring players together as one. Determined to put last year behind them. Determined to return to the state playoffs.

Monday at Oakland University was the first practice for the 1998 Wolves. With a bounce in their step, and vocal chords ready to go, the CHS coaches got started on the new season.

Many of the players I saw had that "Where else would you want to be?" look in their eyes. Players went about routine drills as if they had waited since the last second of the Lake Orion game last October to do them again. Grass was kicked up by running backs doing cutback drills. The heels of offensive and defensive linemen had the slightest excitable hop to them. Receivers and defensive backs, under the watchful eye of assistant coach Phil Price, danced back and forth, trying to get that precious step to get downfield.

After just an hour of practice at the Oakland University upper soccer fields, the focus had narrowed. The extra effort and sweat put in under the August sun will pay off during the fourth quarter of an October showdown with Troy. That's the kind of purpose the players and coaches attacked the first practice with.

Although the team's stay at OU ends Wednesday, those three days could go a long way to weaving this group of hungry and determined athletes into one of the best teams in the state. The opening kickoff is 23 days away.

Later in the day, I saw the first practice for Ann Lowney and the varsity girls basketball team.

This group of players achieved more than anyone expected last season, winning the OAA Division I title and defeating top-five teams like Rochester and Troy Athens.

There were 18 girls trying out for 12 or 13 spots, meaning there will be quite a few quality players who won't make the team, and with the players that do make the team, the depth will be outstanding.

Last year was one of learning for Lowney and her players. But this year, with seven of the top nine players returning, she knows this team could achieve greatness. So naturally, she ran a tough practice, complete with wind sprints for missed layups and the occasional yelling at a player. Look for her to stay tough with her players all year long. When you combine the talent these players have, with the work ethic Lowney can instill in them, you have a team that can compete with anyone in the state.

I'd like to send a get well wish to boys varsity soccer coach Dan Fitzgerald, who has gone through some tough times lately. He's landed in the hospital with a blood clot in his leg. While dealing with that, his house on Perry Lake Road caught fire, was extinguished, then started up again a few hours later, taking almost everything.

Thankfully, no one was injured in the blaze, although that doesn't replace much of the pain associated with such an event.

Dan sounded like he was in wonderful spirits when I talked to him last week. He should also feel a lot better when he gets a look at his team that will take the field this fall. With Lake Orion gone to Division I, the door is open for the Wolves to win the OAA Division II championship. With a deep and talented group of players coming back, that's a very strong possibility.

Get well soon, Dan.

White gets started as new girls tennis coach

24 come out for first practice

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

There's a big transition going on in Clarkston High School athletics, and the move into the new building is only the tip of the iceberg.

The first of several first-year coaches making their debut in the 1998-99 school year is Melissa White. She takes the helm of the girls tennis program after 29-year veteran Dick Swartout retired at the conclusion of the 1997 season.

White, who officially began with the opening of team practice Monday morning, said she's looking forward to the challenge of coaching a team at CHS for the first time.

"This is such a neat team," she said during the hot and humid practice at the old CHS courts. "There are some very talented players out here, and they are very helpful with each other, and that's nice to see."

White may be in her first year as a coach, but she's no stranger to Clarkston. She has been a part of the district for 11 years, starting at Sashabaw Middle School. She was an assistant principal at CHS during the 1996-97 school year before returning to the classroom last year. She will continue her duties as a Spanish teacher this year also.

White played tennis in high school in Ohio for two years, and says this is a team that can have some success this season.

Melissa White

"We should do well in our division, and that's something I'll talk with our seniors about," she said.

Look for the girls tennis season preview in the August 26 issue of The Clarkston News.

Kaul answers the call as new CHS varsity golf coach

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The two settings can't be much different: the gentle greens with a cool breeze floating in from the trees, making the flag wave ever so slightly as it hangs over the cup. More than 2,000 screaming fans, a tie game with seconds left as sweaty, exhausted players scratch, claw and fight their way into position for the game-winning shot.

These are the two worlds Tim Kaul reside in. Kaul, a longtime JV and assistant varsity boys basketball coach, was named to replace Jim Chamberlain as the head coach of the varsity boys golf team. Kaul had been the only JV boys golf coach in its 11 year history before taking over for Chamberlain.

Chamberlain, who has won state titles in Clarkston for boys and girls golf, retired at the end of last season. Kaul takes over looking forward to the enjoyment of golf and the opportunity to teach it to a team full of younger players.

"I was hoping Jim would keep coaching at first," Kaul said. "We had a lot of fun working together over the years, but I was also fortunate to get a good JV coach in Larry Sherrill."

Kaul said the experience of coaching golf is in a high contrast to coaching basketball, both in the atmosphere and in the style of coaching.

"Basketball, you get excited about, but in golf, it's more of a laid-back atmosphere," he said. "You want the kids to compete hard, but if a guy shoots three

U-12 Riverdaws take on the world

The under-12 Riverdaws advanced to the NSA Fastpitch Softball World Series in Columbus, Ohio last week. The team lost a pair of games to a powerhouse from New York, and the Maryland state champions. Although the team went winless at that high level, just making it that far was an accomplishment for a program still in its infancy.

bogeys on the first three holes, you can't substitute him for someone else like in basketball."

Kaul spent part of his offseason coaching the 15-and-under Motor City Mavericks AAU basketball team, and took it to a second-place finish in the state, losing to the powerful Michigan Mustangs team 48-46 in the finals. Kaul coached Clarkston players Ryan Kaul (his son), Ryan Briceland and Andy North on the team.

Daniel Smith of the under-12 Everest in-line hockey team moves the ball upcourt during a Friday game at Clintonwood Park. The team is called "Everest" because most of the players attend Everest Academy School. The team is coached by Don Nelson, a former hockey player.

In-line hockey league growing quickly

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was hot and muggy, with a patch of rare late-afternoon fog in the distance. Perfect conditions for a hockey game, right?

That is, an in-line hockey game. Clintonwood Park has hosted the Independence Township Parks & Rec. in-line hockey leagues for three seasons, and each year has seen exponential growth.

Beth Walker, athletic events coordinator for the parks and rec department, said in-line hockey is one of the fastest growing sports in the area, and the increased number of teams and participants in the leagues reflect that.

"In-line is very big with the under-10 crowd," she said. "This is our third year offering in-line hockey, and we've got five divisions now and more than 1,200 participants. It should keep growing in the future also."

Don Nelson, who has coached in-line hockey for all three years it's been an activity through the township, has also seen the big jump in interest in the sport.

"We weren't even sure the first year if we would have teams," he said before a recent game for his under-12 team. "Now, we've got 10 teams and around 100 kids in this league alone. That's a big jump from just three or four teams the first year."

Nelson's team calls themselves Everest Academy, because most of the players attend school there, he said.

TO AMEND DISTRICT BOUNDARIES

Date: September 15, 1998
Time: 7:30 p.m.
Place: 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that, on September 15, 1998, at 7:30 p.m. in the Township Hall Annex of The Charter Township of Independence, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, the Township Board shall meet for the purpose of hearing public comment on the request of Clarkston Schools to amend the boundaries of the water and sewer districts established in the Independence Township Water Distribution System and Sanitary Sewer System Master Plan so as to include within the boundaries of the water and sewer district the property proposed for the new elementary school, located at State Highway M-15 and Hubbard Road.

The Township Board is considering the request of Clarkston Schools to amend the water and sewer district boundaries based upon the standards contained in the Water Distribution System and Sanitary Sewer Master Plan, as amended February, 1995. A copy of the Master Plan, and the request to amend the district boundaries, including the reasons advanced by Clarkston Schools for the amendment, may be examined in the Township Clerk's office during normal business hours.

Showing two sheep and one pony in this year's competition, Molly McCabe of Ortonville takes a moment to make a friend.

Metamora resident Kelsey Colt and her dog Toast take a break from the fun at the fair Sunday afternoon.

Hey - ewe there! The Oakland County 4-H fair is the place to be!

Young lumberjack Alex McLeod was sawing logs in the hot summer sun - hard work!

Lookit there! Shane Gradzicki of Waterford peers in on some porkers.

What does the cow say? One year old Jack Reaume of Clarkston can tell you - MOOOOO!
