Township taxes to drop a few dollars this year

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township residents will see a slight decrease in the township portion of their 1998 winter taxes this year.

All millage rates were rolled back this year, except for the police millage -- a renewal proposed for the November ballot -- and the library operation millage, which was approved by township voters in August.

"The rates are all slightly decreased because of new construction," township clerk Joan McCrary said.

The township board of trustees set millage rates for 1998 taxes at a special meeting Sept. 29 for general, police, fire, library operation, library debt and safety path funds. Each millage rate passed unanimously, 7-0 and had to be approved by October 1 before the 1999 budget is developed.

However, on Tuesday, the township called Oakland County and discovered it could reduce the library debt millage even further, due to new construction. At presstime, the board of trustees was expected to approve the lower rate at its Tuesday night meeting.

Taxes levied this year will fund the new budget, which must be submitted to the State of Michigan by November 1, McCrary said. Public hearings on the 1999 budget must take place before that deadline and are expected by the middle of this month.

The overall tax rate of 7.7991 mills is expected to generate $6,798,105 in total revenue. The break-

'What a fabulous night!'

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Last Saturday's Fun DAZE/Taste of Clarkston is estimated to have drawn a crowd of over 2,000 to downtown Clarkston. But plans for next year will include an even bigger, better event.

The Taste of Clarkston restaurant EXPO raised over $5,000 for community service projects, including the Clarkston High School All Night Party, the 4th of July fireworks display, Independence Township park improvements and drug and alcohol prevention projects for the Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth.

Nearly 200 runners participated in the fun run, 5K and 10K races. "What a great family event," said Chamber president Wendy Halsey. "We're very pleased with the turn out."

Over two dozen businesses stayed open until 9 p.m. and added to the festive event with sidewalk sales and special promotions. One happy shopper left Coach's Corner with a big grin, according to Chamber reports. "I got the last Clarkston football shirt," she said. "I think the only thing left in there are some Notre Dame shirts."

After sampling a selection at the Taste of Clarkston from The Clarkston Cafe, resident Sandy Sieg said she was full. So she walked home, picked up several plastic containers and a tote bag, and returned to the different booths at the taste-fest to purchase samples to take home.

Tierra Fine Jewelers kicked off their 25th anniversary celebration at the event with a sidewalk sale that included Seth Thomas clocks. Owner Buck Kopietz was thrilled at the turnout. "What a fabulous night! Everybody's smiling and it's just great."

Chamber administrative assistant Penny Shanks said the event was so successful they plan to expand it next year. Tentative plans include closing M-15 from Washington to Waldon for the taste fest with a band at one end and a DJ at the other.

A gift from the heart

Clarkston man donates time and effort to Ukrainian homeland

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lu Hewko does not take freedom for granted. That's easy to understand when you consider he spent the first 14 years of his life in war-torn Europe.

Now, a retired GM worker who has lived in Independence Township for 20 years with his wife Natalie, a school teacher, he's giving back to his homeland. Both the Hewkos are natives of Ukraine and experienced horrors during the era of World War II.

The couple is working to improve conditions overseas since Ukraine became a democracy in the early 1990s. One of the most significant projects is Lu's initiation of the first Ukrainian Rotary Club, established in Kiev several years ago.

But first, it's important to understand where his dedication comes from.

This boy's life

Born in Ukraine, Hewko lived among the horrors most of us only experience through books or in movies.

When he was 10 and World War II broke out, the Germans moved in and occupied his homeland.

Although he lived in the then-democratic western part of the country, communism was moving closer.

"When Stalin's armies were rolling over Eastern Europe, my parents didn't want any part of that. We kind of knew eventually the western allies would be coming." At that time his family, which included his mother and school teacher father, was in the midst of danger. Schools were closed and his parents educated him secretly underground.

Under the Germans "It was a death penalty if you had a radio, firearms or binoculars. Many of the movers and shakers were sent to concentration camps. They all disappeared." Far worse, was Hitler's idea of "collective responsibility." If one person committed a crime against the government, "they took 100 people and shot them."

When the Russians came, "they were just as bad as the Germans," Hewko said. "And everybody who could flee fled westward. We waited until the Soviets were on the edge of town. We just left everything we had. We traveled like pioneers going west," he said, comparing the journey to America's early frontier. "We even had a covered wagon."

The family crossed the Carpathian Mountains into Slovakia and Austria. During the journey, the law system collapsed behind them. "There were bandits, the allied air force shooting everything that moved, there were guerrillas in the woods fighting with both sides ... It was a very dangerous time."

As the Russians advanced, "We had to keep going west. We ended up in Bavaria, Germany." The family was put in a labor camp, where Hewko's job was to cart wheelbarrows full of cement and pour them into foundations — not an easy task for a growing, 14-year-old boy. "I used to come in so tired I couldn't even eat." There were air raids and bombings. Sadly, his mother didn't survive the war.

"She was killed by one of the air raids. She was drowned in the river off a bridge after it exploded."

When the war was over, Hewko and his father lived in a refugee or "displaced persons" camp run by the U.S. and the United Nations, where he continued his education and eventually graduated from high school. Through the newspaper, his father located a distant relative in Detroit and the two emigrated to New York where they were given "$5 and a railroad ticket to Detroit."

A new life in America

"We were just overwhelmed," Hewko said of their new-found freedom — and the value of the American dollar. "We bought a Coke for a nickel and potato chips for 15 cents and said, 'This is an ungodly high price,'" he laughed. His father had to work at a factory to make ends meet, but eventually Hewko was able to attend college and graduate with both a bachelor's and master's in engineering.

His life is like climbing a ladder after that. Retired from GM after 37 years of service, he now lives in a comfortable home in Clarkston, which is filled with beautiful artifacts from his homeland. His three children are grown and, ironically, all of them have prestigious jobs in Eastern Europe.

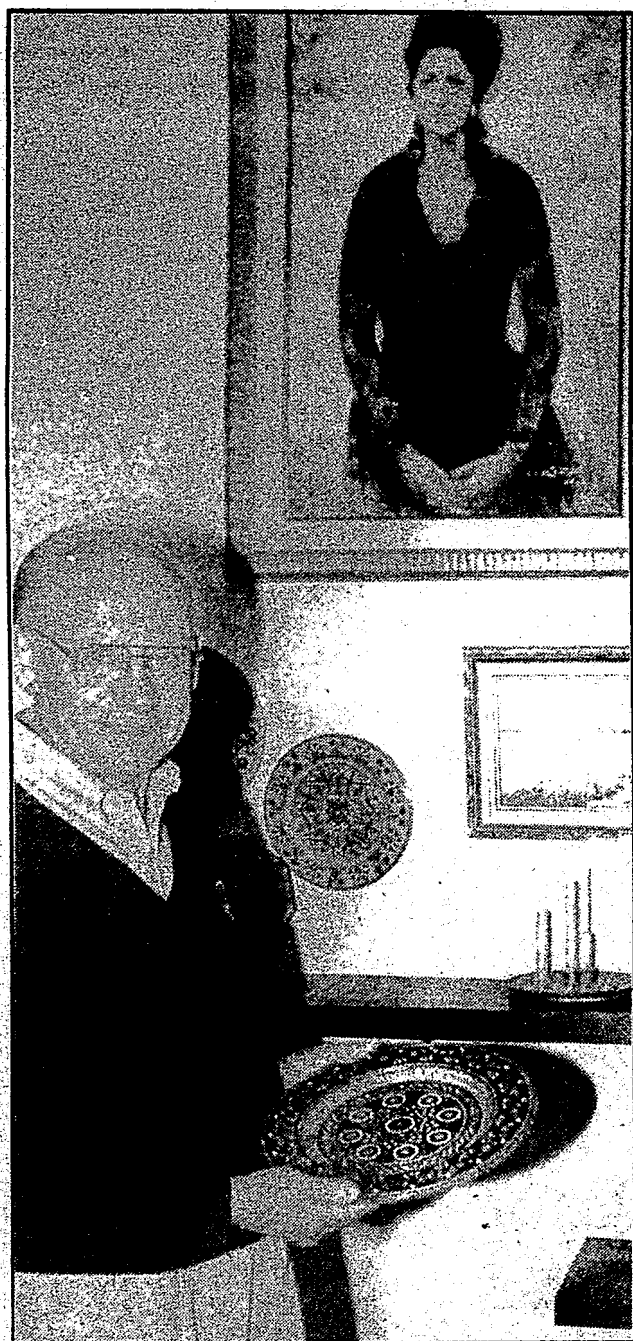

But Hewko hasn't forgotten the past. And he wants to help his homeland, which is now struggling to overcome the effects from years of Communist rule into a new, democratic way of life.

Perhaps the most significant project has been the establishment of the first Rotary Club in Ukraine, initiated by Hewko after the Soviet Union began undergoing reforms in the early '90s.

Soon after, a group of 25-30 students came to visit an area high school and were invited to a Clarkston Rotary Club meeting. During that time, Hewko was also invited to present a lecture in engineering at The Technical University of Kiev, Ukraine's capital. He talked to the university president about starting a club and the president agreed it would be helpful. "He liked the idea," Hewko said.

Clarkston man awarded Carnegie medal for saving woman from burning car

A 4 Wed., October 7, 1998 The Clarkston (MI) News

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Philip Smith didn't think when he rescued a woman from the fiery furnace of her burning car. He just acted.

The Clarkston resident learned recently he was among 18 U.S. and Canadian residents slated to receive the prestigious Carnegie Medal, awarded for extraordinary acts of heroism to those who have risked their lives for others.

To date, 8,221 people have received the award since the fund's inception in 1904 by industrialist-philanthropist Andrew Carnegie, according to the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. In addition to the bronze medal, Smith, 30, who is married and has two young children, also receives $3,000 cash.

The image of the car crash is still fresh in his mind. On May 4, 1997, he and several members of his family had just attended church in Birmingham. They were sitting at the intersection of 12 Mile and Greenfield, when a car in another lane was hit from behind — by another car he estimates was going more than 50 miles an hour.

The impact forced the first car into the intersection and it burst into flames. "This all happened in a matter of seconds," Smith said. "I backed up about 50 feet. We were so close to it. Then I realized nobody had gotten out of the car."

Although, he admitted, "I didn't know what I was doing," Smith found himself forcing the front door open, attempting to get the elderly woman driver out. She appeared to be stuck, he said. He reached through the flames three times before he finally pulled her to safety. "It was pure adrenaline," he said.

He didn't think about himself at all — until his wife, Aimee, a nurse, told him he was hurt. "I said,

"Let's get in the car and go." He had suffered second-degree burns on his face, hands, wrists and — later, he found — his knees.

"I told him to sit down. The skin was all sloughing off," said Aimee, as the couple played with their 10-month-old son Jacob in their family room last week. Aimee said she ran to a nearby donut shop to get towels to soothe his skin until medical help arrived.

Smith spent time in the hospital, first receiving artificial skin, then later, plastic surgery. The woman he saved survived and he later called her at U of M Hospital to find out how she was doing. He considers himself very lucky.

"She knew who I was and she thanked me a few times. But she said she was still afraid to look in the mirror. I can't imagine what she went through. She was burned so bad. Being young, my skin's still pretty tight. But her's wasn't going to heal as quick."

He was amazed at his own reflection, which, he remarked, was "a Freddie Krueger type of thing."

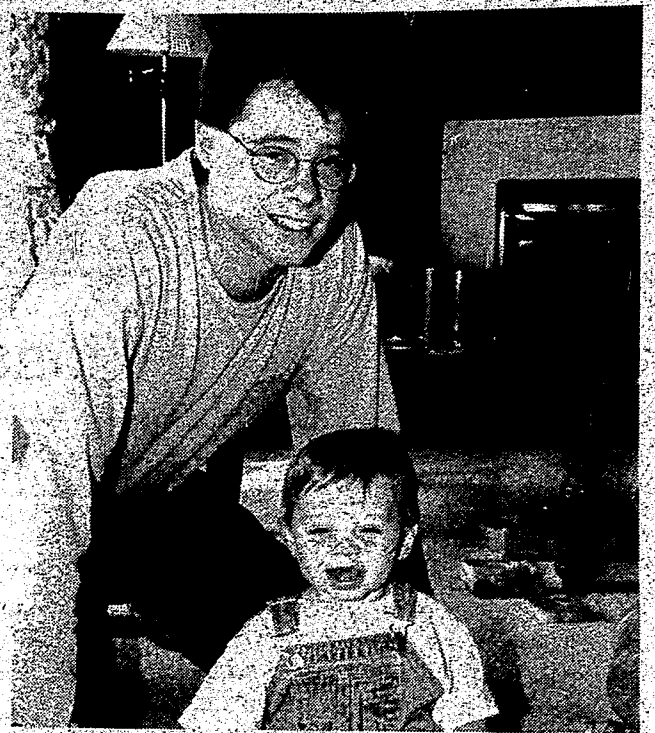

Today, the pigment in his hands, wrists and right side of his face is lighter and pinker. Only the left side of his face is still freckled.

Despite his heroic act, Smith remains modest. And, he adds, he certainly wasn't used to all the media attention, which hadn't backed off since that first day at the hospital.

"I'm not the kind of person who says, 'Look at me; look at how great I am.'" Nevertheless, he appeased the news hounds by calling a press conference.

"There were all these lights, all these cameras. I felt so out of place," Smith said. The press were sticking microphones out, waiting with baited breath, expecting him to say "something profound."

But what they got was not a speech of derring-do, just words from a reluctant hero. "I said, 'Hey, I'm just an ordinary man. This lady was stuck in a car and I helped her."

Philip Smith, with his 10-month-old son Jacob, doesn't think of himself as any hero. Just "an ordinary guy" who did what needed to be done.

Philip's recovery took a long time, said Aimee, who at the time of the rescue was five months pregnant with Jacob. "Please mention how great our Clarkston neighbors were, our friends and family."

Asked to offer a comment about her hero-husband, Aimee said the family is very proud of him. But he is her hero everyday, especially while she's at work. "He makes dinner and takes care of the kids," she said with a smile.

Locals question Clinton's future as president

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With all the issues of the Clinton-Lewinsky scandal storming America, some people may be confused. But for others the answer is loud and clear:

The president should resign. Don't mix personal business with politics. Let him go on running the country. Kick him out. Quit talking about it already.

In Clarkston, it's no different than the rest of the country. While the House of Representatives considers whether to begin a formal impeachment inquiry, Clarkstonites continue to reflect upon their own perceptions.

For Clarkston resident Sheryl Eckles, a Democrat, what Clinton did is not grounds for impeachment. "I think he made a mistake. He was caught in a lie," Eckles says. "But he still knows how to run the country. It's between him and his wife and his family. He's still a good president."

Like Eckles, Clarkston High School senior Mike Moran, president of the Student Council, praises Clinton's leadership skills. But he lost a lot of respect for him when he lied, even though he's not sure Clinton's actions are impeachable.

"I understand where he's coming from when he talks about 'personal business.' But he lied before the public, and he's coming out months later saying he lied. That's really disturbing."

Independence Township trustee Larry Rosso thinks it's a "weak case" for impeachment, although he calls Clinton's behavior "reprehensible" and "pathetic."

A Republican and retired teacher who taught government, law and history courses in Clarkston for 27 years, Rosso is careful to hang up his partisan hat and put on his instructor's cap when talking.

"It really is a political issue, interpretation of the Constitution with 'high crimes and misdemeanors,'" Rosso says. But Clinton's dishonesty really bothers him. "He lied to protect his family from the embarrassment of the illicit affair. And himself -- which resulted anyway."

Rosso feels there are three possible solutions: impeachment, resignation or compromise. In the last, Clinton could be censured, which means he would come before Congress and be chastised publicly, something experienced by only one other president-- Andrew Jackson.

While Rosso muses about the task laid before Congress, township clerk Joan McCrary calls it a matter of trust.

"You know me, I'm a very patriotic person," says McCrary, a Republican. "And I think he has really blemished the image of the president-- not because of the sexual encounters, but because he kept lying about the whole thing."

McCrary thinks the right thing for Clinton to do is to resign because the rest of his term will be "irrelevant." She compares the situation to former President Richard Nixon. "It wasn't the (Watergate) break-in that finished him off. It was the deception. And that is where Clinton has failed miserably, in the trust people put in him."

Mike Odette, a longtime Clarkston resident and Democratic candidate for State Senate, agrees.

But he doesn't think Clinton should have had to disclose his personal life. "If he had started out by saying, 'I don't want to talk about it,' that would have been OK. But when he looked everybody in the face and said, 'I did not do it,' it hurt him."

"Like everybody else, I'm tired of hearing about it," Odette continues. "I think the thing to do would be to resign -- but I don't think he'll do it."

His opponent, State Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion), feels the Starr Report didn't cover the real issues.

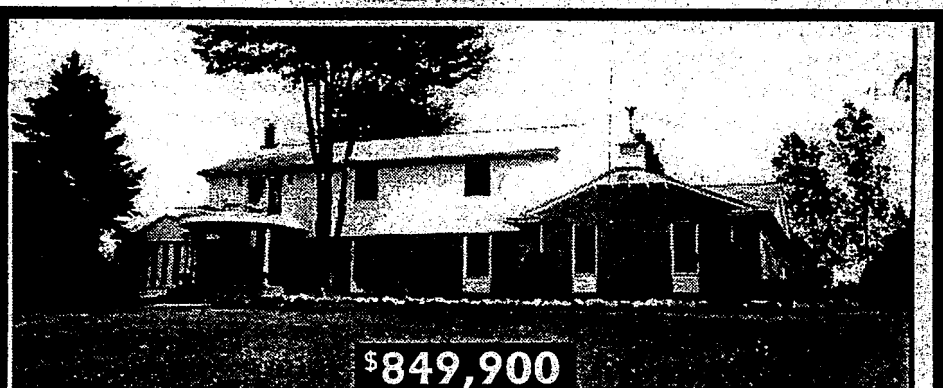

"My greatest disappointment is that the Starr Report didn't focus on things that were of major concern to the country, long-term impact on the country such as corporate financing which allowed the Chinese to buy our technology. I consider that to be an act of treason."

Dunaskiss says independent counsel Ken Starr should have included this "outrageous" act and others in addition to the Lewinsky tryst.

As assistant superintendent for elementary and middle school operations for Clarkston schools, Dave Reschke is concerned about the effect on children.

"My overall reaction to the situation in Washington involving President Clinton is one of sadness," says Reschke, a self-admitted "conservative" who votes according to the candidate and the issue. "It's unfortunate that our kids are learning about the U.S. Constitution while also learning about some pretty ugly

ROLLING ALONG

by Maralee Cook
Clarkston is too much fun

It seems there's just no getting away from fabulous weekend activities in Clarkston.

Really. If you like to be bored, prefer a community where nothing ever happens, this is the wrong place to live.

In the last month we've hosted the Labor Day Parade, Crafts and Cider Festival, opened Clarkston High School's new stadium with 6,000 people in attendance, hosted 13 schools at the marching band invitational, treated 2,000 people to the first-ever Taste of Clarkston-Fun DAZE event, and there's more to come.

This Friday the CHS football team hosts Troy at the Homecoming Football Game, followed by Saturday's Homecoming Parade at 10 a.m. and the dance that evening at the high school.

At 1 p.m. Sunday, Governor John Engler comes to town to help dedicate the new CHS. And at 4 p.m. three top-notch choral groups will perform at Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Interesting activities at other churches, the library, community education, parks and rec, the schools and civic groups abound. And one of the benefits is they are free or relatively inexpensive.

The Clarkston News was proud to be one of the sponsors of Fun DAZE. Advertising manager Mary Harkins and I volunteered for pre-event activities and helped set up for the event. The News also sponsored a raffle for six free subscriptions to The Clarkston News.

Like most people involved, we were pretty apprehensive about the event when we woke up to rain, wind and cold temperatures Saturday morning.

But Mother Nature was kind and blessed us with a fairly normal October day by late afternoon when the event began.

Everyone on the committee is thrilled with the turnout and we haven't heard one negative comment. Everyone we spoke to Saturday night marveled at the children's games, music, sidewalk sale bargains and especially the varied menu offered at the Taste of Clarkston. We have quite a selection of high-quality restaurants in town.

The ticket prices were reasonable, the portions were generous and the food was oh-so-good. I am not ashamed to say I stuffed myself.

Clarkston News reporter Eileen McCarville noticed there were several community leaders at Fun DAZE/Taste of Clarkston last weekend. And we see government and school officials at many events around town.

Aside from the obvious show of support for the community, it's a great way for citizens to meet the people who run their schools and local government.

The number and quality of activities in this area is a tribute to the commitment to this community by the people who sponsor them and those who support them by attending.

Let the revitalization begin!

Congratulations to the many supporters and participants in last weekend's Fun DAZE/Taste of Clarkston. It was a success on many levels.

Not only did it raise over $5,000 for community service projects, it also brought an estimated 2,000 people to downtown Clarkston.

The event was an excellent example of good teamwork, between Independence Township's Parks and Rec department, the City of Clarkston, the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, the Wolf Pack Running Club, and the other businesses, service clubs, groups and individuals who worked together to make it a success. We were proud to host the children's games in our parking lot.

Various groups have been trying to find ways to revitalize downtown Clarkston for years. But it is a job that cannot be accomplished by one group. The collaborative effort exhibited last weekend showed it can be done when all do their part.

Last weekend's Fun DAZE/Taste of Clarkston could be the start of a wonderful annual tradition, and the beginning of the revitalization many have sought for so long. MC

Letters to the Editor

Fire department staffing poses problems

Dear Editor:

I have been reading the articles and Letters to the Editor appearing in The Clarkston News regarding the Fire Department for the past several weeks. The articles/letters I am referring to are those by Fire Engineers Wormnest and Przybylski, Independence Township Supervisor, Dale Stuart, Trustee and Nell Wallace.

Through all the letters and articles, there was one point that I picked up on - the fire fighters are prompting Mr. Stuart and Mr. Wallace with a question that they seem to side-step at every opportunity - staffing.

I am truly shocked that none of the residents of Independence Township have picked up on that question: Who is affected by the lack of staffing? US!! The residents of Independence Township.

Why hasn't Supervisor Stuart answered the question as to why the staffing at the fire department has not increased in 10 years when the township has clearly grown by leaps and bounds as a residential and business community?

A better question to Mr. Stuart is why did the question need to be asked? Isn't there a Fire Chief that gets paid good money to inform Mr. Stuart of the fire safety needs of Independence Township? Where has he been in these discussions?

Nonetheless, as supervisor, shouldn't Mr. Stuart be overseeing a growing community and make sure that we are provided with the best possible safety services that our tax dollars can provide? Why isn't the fire chief making these recommendations to the "higher ups" with regards to staffing?

These letters and articles have prompted me to do some checking on my own as to "our" fire department staffing for the safety of my family and home -- it is our duty as residents to question the Elected and Appointed Officials and it is their duty to respond to our questions and concerns.

As residents of Independence, are you aware that there are ONLY 15 full-time fire fighters who are split into three 24-hour shifts of 5 men each? Each shift consists of four Engineers and one Captain. Station 1 (M-15 station) is staffed with two Engineers and one Captain. Station's two & three (Sashabaw & Maybee stations) are staffed with one Engineer each.

Beginning in October, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) will implement a new law that requires a "2 in/2 out procedure" on all structure fires. Before any fire fighter can enter your home to put a fire out, there must be a minimum of four fire fighters at the scene. This will allow two men to go inside while two men stay outside as back-up. This new law covers a safety issue in case there is a need to rescue an injured or trapped fire fighter.

For a structure fire in Independence Township, two stations are sent to the scene leaving one station back to dispatch fire department units, ambulances, Sheriff's Department, etc., and answer any other calls that may come in while the other two stations are at the scene.

Say for instance that the fire is on Clintonville Road. This puts Station 2 (manned by one person) as the prime person) as a back-up on the scene. The captain responds to all calls. That is only 3 people responding to the fire - which is not in compliance with the OSHA requirements to begin interior fire fighting procedures.

If by some chance this fire is during the day or late at night, when most or all of the 12 current "on-call" personnel are at work or otherwise, not available to respond, three fire fighters may be all that can respond for an extended period of time.

The fire department does have mutual-aid with other townships, however, waiting 20-30 minutes for additional aid will not save a building. As we all know, in an emergency situation, EVERY second counts!

Why has Mr. Stuart not responded to the needs of a rapidly growing community? According to a census report from 1980 there were 20,569 residents in Independence Township as compared to the census report from 1995 of 28,498 (1996 estimated figure - 29,537) - an increase of over 39%.

The residential figures have almost doubled in 15 years and we are still being protected by five fire fighters per day. According to National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA) there should be one Fire Fighter per 1,000 people in a community. Being that Independence has approximately 29,000 residents that would equal 29 staff members at any given time.

Obviously, 29 employees is a very large number but since there are ONLY five fire fighters per shift now available in our growing community, any staffing increase would be a benefit. Why hasn't the township responded to the ever increasing needs and new OSHA requirements? Even if the staffing number was increased to nine per shift, this would allow for a minimum of two fire fighters per station - therefore, complying with the OSHA requirements and better serving our community.

I'm Sure Mr. Stuart feels that in his mind the questions have been answered by telling the community in his article that "we were waiting for the contract to be settled before hiring anymore staff." What if they didn't settle until November or later in the year or even next year?

As stated in the articles, contract negotiations had already gone on for almost two years. How does this help us? It doesn't!! Why am I meant to pay by possibly losing my family and, minimally, my home?

DON'T RUSH ME / by Don Rush

Blah, blah -- words from Wash. DC

On July 14, 1993 I wrote a column, headlined: An Impeach Clinton Campaign? Back then all the hullabaloo was about such mundane things as health care and raising taxes.

I'll be the first to admit my sincere dislike and distrust of President William Jefferson Clinton and the record shows I've used my pulpit here to rail on him. Should the President be impeached?

Hell yes -- on something, but not the Monica thing. Is the sex-not-sex thing impeachable? Heck no. Were the lies wrong. Yes. Was trying to cover up stuff wrong. Yep. Was his wife hurt? Who knows. His daughter, you bet. Was the country hurt? It sure wasn't helped.

Should the President be president? Nope.

But should he be impeached because of no moral fiber? No. If he really cared about anything other than himself, he'd resign. But there is no honor in the White House.

Maybe character does matter.

I like the fact that those Republicans and Democrats in Washington DC say they are not partisan in their opinions on what should be done.

Hah! They really do think we are dumb.

Maybe we're just so-o-o-o-o tired of their opinions of us.

Interesting... heard somebody say the United States Government spends $40 million dollars in 14 minutes. I don't see anybody jumping up and down bemoaning that fact.

I just see folks whining about how Ken Starr's 10-month investigation spent $40 million (they also don't mention the fact that the investigation brought down an Arkansas governor and about 11 other convictions -- all highbrow folks connected to the Clintons).

How much of that $40 million could have been spent on more useful things like $400 toilet seats and $100 wingnuts if only the President wasn't a liar and a obstructor of justice?

Would the president of the one of the Big Three be in trouble if one of them got caught with their pants down? I believe 21-year-old intern affairs would cause the board of directors to bounce them faster than you can say prophylactic, prophylactic, prophylactic.

JIM'S JOTTINGS / by Jim Sherman

From ages 10 through 50 I was an ardent baseball player/fan. As a kid I wanted to be the next Schoolboy Rowe.

As a freshman at Owosso High School in 1940 I pitched three games, losing two, 2-1 and winning one by the same score.

In Gladwin at my first newspaper job I tried out for the White Star Tavern baseball team. I thought I was doing fine until the college players came home for the summer. They were so much better.

The "fan" part of me continued until there got to be too many teams, too many players and too many other important things for me to do, like golf and fishing.

Now comes the home run hitting of Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa. My TV clicker got a real workout the last few weeks of the season as WGN and the ESPNs made sure we saw the duo's every swing.

Clean, exciting stuff. Particularly impressive was the saluting, applauding and hugging of the two sluggers when McGwire hit his 62nd.

***

Now switch emotions to the under oath statement of Bill Clinton... "I'm trying to be honest with you, and it hurts me."

Will anyone, politician, reporter and common man, ever be able to say "oval office" without it bringing a smile or snicker. Chances are Clinton will never broadcast from there again or even be allowed in there again without the accompaniment of Hillary.

***

I liked this statement by Leonard Pitts, Jr., a twice a week columnist in the Free Press: "Only a bunch of lawyers in a town that would pay $700 for a toilet seat could have so much trouble defining sex."

***

With so much being written about "slamming" in the telephone industry, I decided to check out a reference on my telephone bill recently. It was a free (888) number. It's a good thing I'm retired with lots of time. After the very irritating "punch" various numbers, I was left on hold for nearly 15 minutes before deciding even I didn't have that much time, and hung up. If I'm being slammed, I'll pay rather than hold.

***

We've been a Paul Harvey listener for a long time. We like his voice, delivery and choices of news. He's the best speaker our Michigan Press Association has had in our 40 years of convention going.

We continue to try to hear his broadcast at 11:50 a.m. on WJR, but now our attention is focusing more on his product pitches. This man has to be one of the greatest hucksters in America. He might even convince me to buy a Bose radio or an air mattress or allergy air filter.

According to the articles, fire department staff has been telling management for years of the need for more help. I know that the fire fighters have personally been requesting additional staffing for years from the fire chief and Mr. Stuart, well before the contract was even an issue.

I am also curious to know if this is new news to the Trustees. Have they been made aware of the problems that our community is faced with in regard to the new requirements and needs of their township fire department?

As far as I can see, these questions still have not been answered. What is Mr. Stuart's plan to help remedy these problems? And, is there some type of long term planning that the fire chief has for this growing community?

I recommend that you contact Supervisor Dale Stuart, as well as trustees Jeffrey McGee, Larry Rosso, Daniel Travis and Neil Wallace, and board members Township Clerk and Township Treasurer, Joan McCrary and Jim Wenger, at Town Hall on Main Street and convey your concerns to them as a community in possible trouble.

We need to stick together and see this problem through to the end -- making sure our family's needs are taken care of in every way possible.

Thank you,

Jennifer Roberts

CHS LIFE / by Kevin Kosbab

The loss of my social life

There's a commercial out there that says "In a world of technology, people make the difference." This is true in the halls of Clarkston High School, where one can watch the announcements broadcast onto televisions and get on the in-building network and the Internet from any classroom, and still find no time to talk to anyone.

The former social standby of students was passing time, where we could converse with our friends before and/or after moving between classes. When there's a larger building to navigate, there's less time for discussion unless I happen to meet someone that is headed in the same direction as me.

Okay, so how about before or after school. The busing has at least been improved enough that I'm not running into geometry late every day, and I do have enough time to talk to some of my centrally located friends before class starts. But I dare not roam far from my first period class, or I risk a tardy. It's some time, though, unlike after school, when I'm fighting to get from Mrs. Chambers's class, nestled far from civilization in the rear of the Terrace, before my bus departs.

That leaves the most significant chunk of free time—lunch. Curiously, we suddenly found ourselves missing fifteen minutes from lunch this year—decreasing its length from forty minutes to only twenty-five.

Like the transportation, it has been improved from the first week of school, in which people who had to buy their lunch were lucky to get a few minutes in which to eat after standing in the lines. But it's still indigestion on waiting to happen and, though I can only speak for myself, it does.

However, that's not my major concern regarding lunch. Since we spend so much time concentrating on finishing our grub and getting to class afterwards, there's little time to discuss the trials and tribulations of our high school career—pseudorelationship woes, passing the blame for course failure, and the like.

The more I think about it, the more I realize that it's primarily not even the length of lunch that distresses me. Our lunch period is structured so that there are three separate lunches during fourth hour. Last year, these lunches intersected and there was a decent overlap so that I could talk to friends that had first lunch while I had second. Not so anymore. There are no overlaps; lunch can no longer be the home base where we can plan, congregate, and chat.

I think classes are longer now, and the time had to come from somewhere. But don't we deserve a little bit of time to relax.

My bus, after picking us up after school at the high school, goes to Clarkston Middle School and waits fifteen minutes before they get out of class to get on with us. Couldn't we extend our school day by using those fifteen minutes and then meeting the middle school when they were actually released? We could then use the time towards lunch, and an overlap could be worked in somehow. I don't understand the reasoning: we fit more people (two lunches' worth) in the old cafeteria, can't we fit more in the new one? Maybe there's something I'm missing.

Please, dear administrators, hear my plea!

It's not to be

Dear Editor:

They say bad things or deaths always come in threes.

When I got Brandy 10 years ago from the dog pound, I promised myself I wouldn't look at the cats, I didn't turn my head towards them, but out of the corner of my eye I saw an orange nose. I didn't see who it belonged to, so I got Brandy and went home.

All night I thought about the orange nose, so the next morning I called, and the lady said she was going to be put to sleep in about 10 minutes.

I told her not to, I wanted to see who the orange nose belonged to. I went and she came home with me. About 6 months ago she was diagnosed with throat cancer. Through medication and love it went into remission.

The day after Brandy died I noticed Mandy acting strangely. I called my vet and she said it was probably due to her cancer.

So, shortly, I'll be losing my baby, a good and loving cat no one wanted but me.

I still want her to live so badly but it's not to be again.

Sincerely,
Theresa Rivenbaugh

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1983)

Independence and Springfield township residents won't have to go to nearby communities for medical help anymore. Clarkston pediatrician Dr. James O'Neill is planning to staff a walk-in clinic on M-15.

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital wants to build a 100-bed satellite hospital in Independence Township and is looking at several sites, including a 50-acre parcel at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway.

After winning the first soccer game in the history of Clarkston High School last month, the junior varsity team falls 4-1 to Lake Orion.

25 YEARS AGO (1973)

Independence Township makes its first major move toward establishment of a local police department by hiring Jack McCall as full-time director of police services.

According to assistant school superintendent Milford Mason, "busless school days," the result of a lack of fuel to supply Clarkston's fleet of 42 school buses, may become a real possibility after the first of the year.

A new Food Co-op is getting ready to open in Independence Township. The unit price of $3.50 includes several items, with cheese and eggs costing extra.

50 YEARS AGO (1948)

A crowd of about 200 people attend the second annual Firemen's Ball in Clarkston School's auditorium. Emergency fire fighting equipment and the E & J resuscitator are displayed.

Featured at the Holly Theatre are Dan Dailey and Nancy Guild in "Give My Regards to Broadway" and Cary Grant and Loretta Young in "The Bishop's Wife."

It's cider time at Ritter's Farm Market, with apples, prune plums, grapes, canning tomatoes, squash and more.

60 YEARS AGO

Independence Township now has a 15-year-old mother. A son, Gerald, is born to Mr. and Mrs. Vernal Drake Sept. 26. The mother moved to the township with her husband, 22, from Philmore, Kentucky.

The Clarkston Schools football team defeats Farmington Friday, 7-0.

Specials at Rudy's include Stokely's Kidney Beans, two cans for a quarter; Pet or Carnation milk, four cans for a quarter; sugar, five pounds for 24 cents; and Camay Soap, three bars for 17 cents.

Neighbor for Neighbor eases tough times

BY GENNA COTTRELL
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Television and newspaper reports abound with stories of economic prosperity - interest rates falling, unemployment at new lows and home sales at record highs.

But Ruth Karash knows that those numbers don't always tell the whole truth, and that in the face of the economic boom there are still families who struggle to make ends meet.

Karash and the Neighbor for Neighbor program in Springfield Township see the other side of the coin, the other side that often is forgotten in times of prosperity.

"Most of the folks who come here are working, but not making a great deal of money. Some have just had a streak of bad luck," she said. "Doesn't matter to us, we help them out any way we can."

"We have senior citizens on fixed incomes, the handicapped, single parents - a real range of people actually," said Karash. "Most only need us for a short space of time, but we'll keep helping out for as long as they need us."

And help they do, providing food, clothing, household goods and emergency financial aid to an average of thirty families from Springfield, Independence, Rose, Groveland and Holly townships every week.

A dream in 1982 and a reality in 1983, the Neighbor for Neighbor program in Springfield Township continues to serve families in times of need. Founded by the late Don Booth, Norris Walls and other local residents, Neighbor for Neighbor has eased the tough times with a handful of volunteers and a shoestring budget for 15 years.

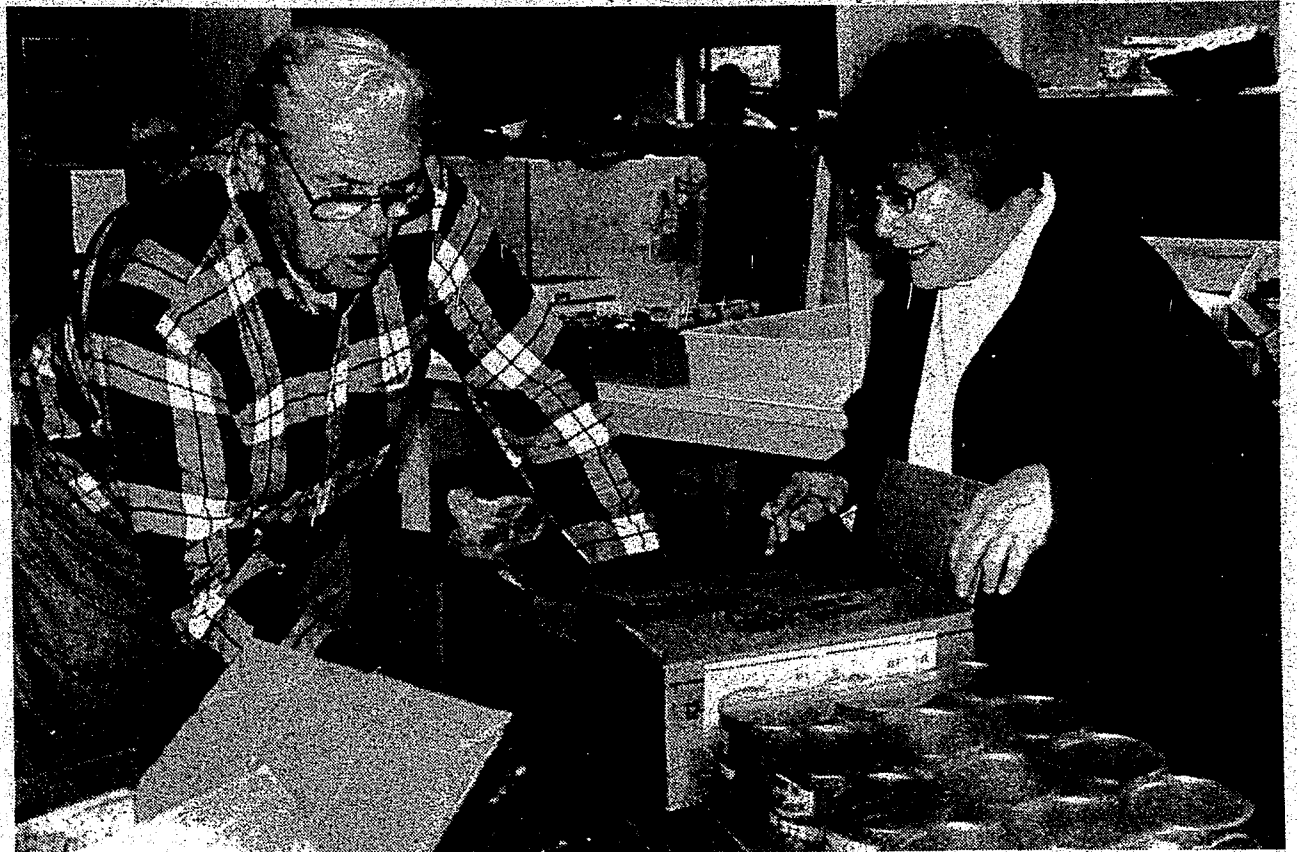

This is Karash's fourth year with Neighbor for Neighbor. "I came here to volunteer with a friend," she said. "She went home, and I never left."

Karash functions as the program's vice president and on-site director, but her role may be better described as a one-woman show. With a dozen volunteers by her side, Karash keeps the entire organization on its toes with her vibrant energy and positive attitude.

Her self-appointed duties include everything from bookkeeping and food ordering to unloading trucks and sorting through donated items. She admits to spending "more time than she had imagined" with Neighbor for Neighbor, but said the great group of volunteers keep her coming back week after week.

"If we don't do it," she said, "who will?"

Neighbor for Neighbor volunteers spend every Monday morning preparing boxes of food for distribution on Wednesday. Although the contents vary, an effort is made to include the basics, such as soups, vegetables, pasta, tuna and the like.

Norris Walls and Ruth Karash unpack boxes for the Neighbor for Neighbor program.

Karash purchases the food for distribution from the Oakland County Food Bank. The Food Bank buys surplus food and supply overruns from companies all over the country, and also receives free donations such as cereal from Kellogg and Post each week. The Food Bank then passes their stock along to smaller local organizations like Neighbor for Neighbor.

"Well, you never know what's going to be there every week," said Karash. "Sometimes we can get some real bargains, other times it's a little skinny."

"By buying the food ourselves and packing the boxes, we can put together a food order for about eight dollars. To buy it all pre-packaged would average out to $15 a box - it really stretches our budget."

Neighbor for Neighbor receives funds from both local and governmental sources - last year they spent just under $15,000 to feed 245 area families, which included 368 children and 35 seniors.

"We have to make the most of what we have," said Karash. "The whole funding thing can be tricky, especially when it involves money from the Commubehaviors on the part of the president."

Local therapist Fred Baumann of Triad Associates also worries about the impact on kids, "especially the way young adults look at that position. I think we all want to believe that character does count," Baumann says.

Unfortunately, Baumann adds, "We're living in a society where sports figures, movie stars, people of high position, are able to avoid the ramifications of their behaviors."

Is Clinton a sex addict?

"I'm not going to go there," Baumann quips. "I just think the legal process has to bear out. And the results will tell the tale."

Another local therapist, Jim Evans, an Independent, says, "Look at monogamy in the animal world. We find there are very few monogamous animals. Still, though many find their idea mate, some still stray, and Bill Clinton seems to be in that variety."

Local businessman Fred Ritter, also an Independent, who once worked as an aide for a former U.S. Representative, says, "I'm not surprised that Clinton did it or that he lied about it. I'm surprised that everyone else is surprised."

"Politics at that level is not clean living. It doesn't excuse any of it; that's just the way it is."

Ann Dutton, board member of Clarkston's Optimist Club, is fed up with all the polling. "My question is, who makes up these polls? They're so favorable," she complains.

She feels the presidency has lost its credibility. "We salute, we play 'Hail to the Chief.' How can you pay honor to someone who's lied from the very beginning? The man is a disgrace. I think the person I feel the most sorry for is his daughter."

Jim Keough, pastor of First Congregational Church in Clarkston, may have a unique perspective because he donned another hat this year, running (unsuccessfully) for Oakland County Commissioner.

In the short span of campaigning before the August primary, Keough admits his natural idealism was somewhat squashed when he saw all the politicking going on -- even at the local level.

A Republican, Keough feels disheartened about the whole political game and includes Clinton in those feelings.

"My personal reaction is a profound sadness. 'It's a terrible thing for the presidency; it's bad for the young people who look forward to the future of this country.

"And it bothers me, the justification given for this thing. I think it's difficult to separate public from private life. If a person is dishonest in the bedroom, he's more likely to be dishonest in the board room."

The president should be held to the highest standards because he is, after all, the leader of the country, Keough says. If it was any other kind of job, "they'd remove him."

"Basically, he's neutered himself," says Keough. He feels the media, the Republicans and other entities are in "a feeding frenzy" to get rid of Clinton. What bothers him are the choices. Vice president Al Gore would be next in line. "Then Newt Gingrich." Keough pauses to chuckle. "Let us pray."

Rotary clubs, a consortium was developed and met in Scotland. The group decided it had three missions: to improve medical and education efforts, and to start Ukraine's first Rotary Club.

"When I came to Kiev, I could see the poverty and isolation and especially the great medical needs," Hewko said. The problems were compounded with the tragic nuclear power plant explosion in Chernobyl, which left thousands of radiation victims, many of them children, with inadequate or no medical care.

The Clarkston Rotarians organized "Project Kiev," which has funneled over $500,000 of medical help over the past six years to hospitals treating Chernobyl victims. Because the project was "almost impossible" to organize under local government, Hewko says, they channeled their efforts through the new Kiev Rotary Club, chartered in 1992 with 47 members.

Most of the money went to the Kiev Pediatric Cardiovascular Institute, the first institution in the former Soviet Union to perform open heart surgery on infants who suffered birth defects from the Chernobyl disaster.

The group also worked with the Kiev Club to change education. The club is sponsoring an experimental school, where children from grades 1-12 have half-day language studies in both Ukrainian and English. Called "Leaders for the 21st Century," the program is also making strides in other areas, including economics, marketing, civics, constitution studies and history, to update culture with the West.

But it's going to take a long time to change the Communist past, Hewko notes, which he estimates is 70 years behind. "We helped the schools convert from party-run Communist ideology to democracy. The history was all twisted," he said.

One of the ways in which the Rotary Club helped locally was to organize a book drive at Clarkston High School, where textbooks from outdated curriculums were taken overseas. Hewko took over one huge briefcase of books himself, "which (CHS principal) Brent Cooley gave to me. And they translated every book."

Hopefully, students will take their new-found knowledge into careers and continued education to improve the country although, Hewko notes, only a small percentage goes on to college.

Since the implementation of two more Ukrainian Rotary Clubs, the consortium has disbanded. But the seed it planted has grown. "We started the first three clubs," Hewko notes. "Now there are 19."

Future efforts overseas

The Clarkston Rotary Club is continuing its mission to Ukraine through fund-raisers and other efforts. One such project is the "Ukraine Vision Mission," where a group of eye doctors sponsored by the Clarkston and Rotary Clubs transported supplies and performed nearly 150 cataract operations free of charge. A second part of the mission was to train Ukrainian doctors so they can do the surgery themselves.

Lu and Natalie are also involved on an individual basis. Natalie, for instance, belongs to a group that supports the democratic press in Ukraine. She gives library readings, taking Ukrainian authors and poets and analyzing their works. The Hewkos support the press financially and other reforms, such as a school for gifted students.

Hewko says International Rotary Clubs are now firmly rooted in 168 countries. Perhaps it's fitting he's the Clarkston Rotary Club's chairman of the International Service Committee, coming from such a difficult background.

It bothers him when people criticize the United States. Granted, there are worries like the Clinton scandal and other news-making headlines, but "It's still the greatest country," he muses. That feeling is evident when you notice the smiling faces of his family on the living room walls.

But it's also evident his homeland is still very near and dear to his heart. Throughout the home there are Ukrainian plates and artwork, photos of his ancestors — even basketfuls of intricately painted Ukrainian eggs.

"This is why I am active helping over there. We are lucky we could come here. We could have ended up being stuck over there under Soviet rule and had a miserable 50 years," Hewko says.

He smiles. "I sometimes have a hard time understanding the complaints over here. It's a wonderful country. It's very rare to have the opportunities you have here." Success is "pretty much within everyone's reach."

On a local level, Hewko is a member of The Land Conservancy and board chair of the Clarkston Community Museum Foundation. He's also been a past member of both the township's zoning board of appeals and planning commission.

The Rotary Club gives him an opportunity to make things better. "In Rotary, the rationale is that you are in contact with other clubs, bypassing government, and promoting peace among countries of the world ...

"What it means personally is that I could go back and revisit the areas I was deprived from visiting for 40 years, and also to be able to do something for those who were not as fortunate as I to go to the United States ...

"We don't realize how solid and opaque that black curtain was. There really was an Iron Curtain. Those people missed out on 70 years of not being part of progress of the Western World ... "

Here, Hewko pauses with a faraway look in his eyes.

"So, that's my biggest wish: that democracy takes hold and grows and they join the rest of the Western World as free people."

Rotary facts (supplied by Rotary International)

● The world's first service club was the Rotary Club of Chicago, founded in 1905. Today, the organization is the most international of all the world's service club groups.

● The international Rotary organization is made up of over one million business and professional leaders united worldwide, which provides humanitarian service, encourages high ethical standards in all vocations and helps build good will and peace.

● The organization is non-political (non-governmental) and non-sectarian. "Service Above Self" is a Rotary motto.

● Each club decides its own service activities. Some local examples from the Clarkston Rotary Club include sponsoring the annual Labor Day parade, Goodfellow newspaper sales which provide shoes for needy children, city Christmas decorations on Main Street, a yearly cookout for SCAMP and a fund-raiser/raffle for the Kentucky Derby.

Natural rubber latex is responsible for a recent and widespread outbreak of allergic skin reactions, ranging from mild irritation to anaphylactic shock. Latex reactions were rarely reported prior to 1970, but increasing numbers of reports since the late 1980s have led scientists to believe that increased exposure to latex products in recent years has caused more people to become sensitized. This increased usage may be linked to the AIDS epidemic and the resultant increase in the use of latex gloves and condoms. About a third of those who develop hives from contact with latex also develop such symptoms as asthma and even anaphylactic shock. This should lead people who suspect they are allergic to latex to have a professional diagnosis.

Allergic reactions to rubber latex are far more common than you might think. For information on just about anything related to your skin call us. ## Independence Twp. millage rates drop down of individual funds is as follows:

● General fund (covers parks and recreation, senior center, elections, assessing, building, planning and zoning, and the three full-time township positions of supervisor, clerk and treasurer): the 1.0276 mills levied will generate $895,689 in revenue for these areas.

● Police fund: 2.7264 mills, up from 2.5763 mills last year, will levy a total of $2,376,489, contingent on approval of this millage in the November 3 election.

● Fire fund: 2.6489 mills will generate $2,308,943 in revenue.

● Library operation and library debt, 0.7436 mills and 0.3058 mills, respectively, will levy a total of $914,718

● Safety path fund, at 0.3468 mills, will generate $302,266.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of taxable property value. Therefore, a township resident with a $165,250 home can expect to pay $84.90 to the general fund, $225.27 for police, $218.86 for fire, $86.71 for both library funds, and $28.55 for safety paths, totaling $644.29 in township taxes for 1998.

"That resident will be paying $9.72 less this year," McCrary said.

All the remaining millage rates, except for police and library operation, were rolled back this year, due to the Headlee Amendment, which limits an increase in property taxes, based on the rate of inflation and the township's total taxable value.

In August voters also approved an increased rate for safety paths, but that rate won't take effect until next year, McCrary said.

Clarkston News garners state awards

The Clarkston News was given two awards from the 1998 Michigan Press Association's Better Newspaper contest.

Entries, stories, columns and photos were judged by members of the Virginia Press Association. This year The Clarkston News was one of 137 state newspapers who entered over 3,000 entries.

The Clarkston News' Eileen McCarville won first place in the Spot News category, with a story about the closing of Carol's Village Grill. Wrote the judges, "Paints a beautiful picture with just a hint of 'another one bites the dust. Great use of metaphor, anaphora.'"

McCarville also won a third place award for Local Reporting with an article on the end of gas service at Morgan's. The judges said, "Great local news with outstanding reflection angle. Powerful quotes tie package together."

"I am proud and I am sure readers are too," Leader publisher Jim Sherman, Jr. said. "It's nice to be recognized by others in our industry, but when you get down to it, all we really do is write for our readers. There's always room for improvement, and we won't sit down and look at our awards for long. We have work to do."

The Clarkston News' sister publications also won awards at the contest. The Lake Orion Review brought home two awards. Jim Ingram's historical column, "Time Tracs" won second place in the Local Columns category. Gordon Johnston's picture of a tree frog earned a third place finish for Feature Pictures.

The Oxford Leader won first place in the Enterprise Feature category, with a series penned by Peggy Murray titled, "The Invisible Enemy." This two-part series examined water conditions in Oxford. Wrote the judges, "Hard to believe such problems exist today. This package was well researched and written. Very stiff competition this year."

The Leader also won two third place awards.

Eileen McCarville

Leader reporter Phil Stayhue won for his Spot News Picture, of a horse that was shot last year on Oakwood Road. Owner and columnist of The Leader, Jim Sherman, Sr., picked up his award for his picture story of bringing a water main up Draher Road, under a creek and past his house.

Murray also won an Honorable Mention for her spot news story on "Local residents join search for Jessica Garner."

Oxford resident and Sherman Publication sales representative Chris Hoard also won an award in advertising. Her ad in last year's Christmas Carol book won third place for Best Ad Idea: Black and White. Her ad had Santa (Lake Orion's Charlie Harkins) in a chair at Sabrina's Salon in Oxford.

Gotcha!

Approximately 29 Clarkston business owners and officials took part in Muscular Dystrophy Association's annual MDA Jail Lock Up Sept. 24 at Mr. B's Roadhouse on Dixie Highway.

The event provides an opportunity to raise money for MDA, through a rather humorous scenario. The "notorious villains" are locked up and have to raise bail by the end of the day. Phones and service are provided free of charge by Airtouch Cellular.

It's not such a bad deal, with more than bread and water to snack on as the jailbirds make their calls. By the end of the day, they raised $18,197 in pledges, said Andrea McLellan, MDA program coordinator for North Oakland County.

Judge Gerald McNally bailed out early, with others doing the work for him. He explained, because he is a judge, he can't solicit money.

"This was not a genuine experience. It was a spoof. It wouldn't translate into a real experience," he said. It was a spoof in more ways than one.

"The jail food at Mr. B's was excellent," McNally added.

For Clarkston Cafe general manager Carroll Harris -- who actually raised half her $1,000 bail before being whisked away by a limo -- the day meant getting away from her own restaurant for awhile.

"I actually don't have to worry about what's going on. It should be fun because I can get obnoxious down there," she laughed.

As she left the Cafe, chef Adam Siano deadpanned in a monotone, "No. Wait. She didn't do it."

Neighbor for Neighbor

nity Block Grant program. "(The block grant program) requires different documentation, and sometimes our folks could slip through their cracks. That's when donations from the community here fills in the gap. We always get by."

"And," she added, "I have a few private anonymous donors who I can call on when things get a little squeaky - they always come through for us in a pinch."

"Local organizations come through for us, too. The Rotary, Lighthouse and near-by churches pitch in when we get short - there's always a way to get things done."

"Our biggest problem is having the space to store the stuff we do get in. Every corner of this place is crammed full of whatever we can fit in there," she said, referring to a corner of the Hart Community Center that functions as Neighbor for Neighbor's headquarters.

"That and we always need volunteers," said Karash. "During the summer months, we get students in here from the National Honor Society helping out, but once the cold weather hits, they're back in school. Plus, some of our senior volunteers take off for Florida, too. And we always need an extra hand on Monday and Wednesdays - always."

Wed., October 7, 1998 The Clarkston (MI) News 19 A

For volunteer information, please telephone Neighbor for Neighbor at 634-0900 or stop by the Hart Community Center at 495 Broadway in Davisburg. Donations of food, clean and seasonal clothing and monetary donations can be taken to the same address.

97 seconds, 83 yards, 1 amazing win

Clarkston 13

Pontiac Northern 12

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There's something about visiting Pontiac Northern that makes for heavy doses of drama.

The latest chapter in a great rivalry was written Friday night as the Clarkston varsity football team went on a drive for the ages to pull out a 13-12 win over the Huskies at storied Wisner Stadium.

Senior QB Eric Jenks scored on a 1-yard plunge with :00.5 seconds left to tie the game, and senior Chris Himburg's extra point gave Clarkston another incredible victory. The score capped a 13-play, 83-yard drive in the last 1:37 of regulation that will go down as one of the most memorable in Clarkston football history.

"I don't even know what to say. I feel like I'm going to start crying," senior FB Tim Loveless said amidst a wild post-game celebration. "For the seniors, this is about as good as you can feel after a win."

Loveless was also on last year's varsity boys basketball team that won at Pontiac Northern on a last-second shot by Brad Phalen.

Coach Kurt Richardson, who was literally jumping for joy after the extra point went through, said the win was another example of the Wolves overcoming adversity and finding a way to win.

"Coaches Mike (Stefanski) and Gordie (Richardson) were calling the plays, and the guys just went out and did it," he said. "This team manages to find a way to win from whatever hole they dig themselves into. Just unbelievable."

Clarkston, now 5-0 overall and 2-0 in the OAA Division I, plays its biggest game in two years Friday when the undefeated and No. 2-ranked Troy Colts visit the new field. For a preview of this Homecoming game, please see Page 2B.

It appeared as if Northern would be the team to use a long fourth-quarter drive to get the win. Northern QB Jimmy Landrom handled the ball on 10 plays in a 15-play, 74-yard drive that gave the Huskies a 12-6 lead late in the fourth. Senior DL Mark Whiteman sacked Landrom on the following two-point conversion attempt to keep it a six-point game.

The following kickoff was muffed, putting the Wolves at their own 17-yard line with 1:37 to go in the game. Then, "the drive" began.

The Wolves were able to manage the clock and their two remaining time outs to perfection, mixing in big-gaining run plays along with accurate passes to the sidelines that kept the ball moving.

"That drive gave Eric some confidence in himself, but more importantly, I think it gave his teammates a lot of confidence in him too," Richardson said. "We called some rollout passes for him, because it improves his sight down the field, and I think he throws better on the run too." For a play-by-play description of the drive, please see the graphic on Page 2B.

A confusing play on the drive came on a second-and-four from the Northern 13-yard line. Jenks completed a fade pass to senior WR Erich Poley for an apparent touchdown. But the officials ruled correctly that the play wasn't a touchdown. Poley's feet and lower body were in the end zone, but the ball was just outside the end zone. The ball was placed on the one-yard-line, setting up Jenks' dive that tied the game.

But it wasn't the touchdown that won the game. Himburg's extra point ended up being the difference, and he said he never doubted he would kick it through the uprights.

"I didn't even know what was going on on the field," he said. "I kick a hundred extra points a day, and all I was doing was visualizing the ball splitting the uprights. I had no doubt whatsoever that I would make it."

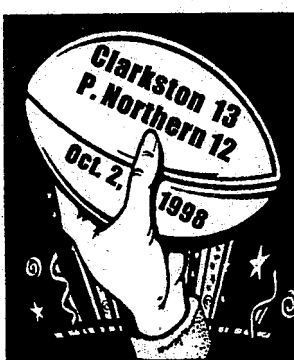

Himburg missed an extra point after Clarkston's first touchdown, but the one he made ended up being the one that counted.

Loveless led the team with 105 yards on 17 carries. He had to shoulder most of the workload in the second half because junior HB Chris Mitchell was knocked out of the game with a concussion and did

Mark
Whiteman

Senior defensive lineman Mark Whiteman is the modern-day definition of the strong-and-silent type. Although he speaks little on or off the football field, his play for the 5-0 Clarkston Wolves says plenty. His latest big play came late in the team's 13-12 win at Pontiac Northern. The Huskies drove 74 yards in 15 plays resulting in a two-yard touchdown and a 12-6 lead. Northern went for the two-point conversion and a possible eight-point lead, but Whiteman fought through the line and sacked Northern QB Jimmy Landrom. If Northern had converted the attempt, the Wolves would have had to make a two-point conversion after its touchdown just to tie the game and go to overtime instead of kicking the extra point and getting the win. "Mark has played nothing but consistent all year for us," said coach Kurt Richardson. "He never says boo in practice, he's just made big plays for us all year long."

Senior QB Eric Jenks runs for daylight through the chilly night at Wisner Stadium. Jenks will lead his Clarkston teammates onto the new CHS field for a showdown with the 5-0 Troy Colts Friday night. The winner of the game will be in excellent position to secure a playoff berth and an OAA Division I championship.

Homecoming game a battle of unbeatens

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The annual Homecoming game is usually a tribute to returning alumni and the recognition of the King and Queen, as selected by the students of Clarkston High School.

This year's game has all that, and plenty more, as the 5-0 Clarkston Wolves welcome the 5-0 Troy Colts to the new CHS field Friday night. The game kicks off at 7 p.m.

Clarkston and Troy have hooked up for a number of classic battles in recent years, usually with a lot at stake for both teams. This year follows that pattern almost exactly.

The Wolves are coming off a breathtaking 13-12 win at Pontiac Northern Friday. The team is also 2-0 in the OAA I and tied for first with Troy. A win would not only give Clarkston sole possession of first, but a lot of playoff points from defeating a team as strong as Troy.

The Colts have motored through their schedule, allowing a total of 29 points in five games while averaging 38 points per game on offense (190 total).

In the past, Troy has featured a power running attack with a big, strong offensive line. This year, the latter is true, but the team has one of its most potent passing attacks in recent memory.

"I don't think they have a running game like they used to, but (QB Mike) Clinton to (WR Tim) Fralick is a good combination through the air," Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson said. "They look so tough on film. They handled Lake Orion easily, and I think Lake Orion's got a pretty good team this year."

The Colts have shut out their last two opponents - 46-0 vs. Ferndale and 31-0 vs. Waterford Kettering. Despite the five lopsided scores, Troy coach Gary Griffith said he is concerned about how his team would do in a pressure situation, since it hasn't faced one since last year's playoffs.

"That's a legitimate concern for us," he said. "Clarkston has had to play four-quarter games and has come out on top, so you know they know how to win those. I don't know if we can win those types of games because we haven't done it yet."

Troy's offensive line is anchored by senior Brian Ottney, who checks in at 6-foot-6, 290 lbs. He has been rated as one of the top 15 offensive linemen in the nation.

"We have quickness on our defensive line, and that can combat their size," Richardson said. "They aren't any bigger than us on their defensive line, so we hope our quickness is to our advantage."

Griffith said he isn't a bit surprised that Clarkston is undefeated, and said his team is in for a big test.

"Kurt and his staff run a very solid program," he said. "They have a huge offensive line and two running backs that are just tough. The kids play with excitement and enthusiasm, and play the game the way it should be played."

These teams have hooked up for some memorable games the last few years. The Colts handed Clarkston its only two losses of the 1994 season, winning in the first game and in the second round of the playoffs. Troy won a hard-fought meeting in 1995 14-0, but the Wolves exacted revenge the next year. Clarkston routed the Colts 33-8 en route to a 9-0 regular season and its first OAA I championship. Last year, Troy won a thrilling game 21-20. Dane Fife threw a touchdown pass to Marc Venegoni with no time remaining in regulation for Clarkston, but the two-point conversion attempt failed. Troy has won every OAA I title, except for the 1956 season.

Tough district looms for soccer team

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff writer

This past week, the Clarkston varsity boys soccer team had a good game, a bad five minutes of another game, and bad news the morning of a game.

It all got started Sept. 29 when the team played one of its better games of the season by tying Waterford Kettering 2-2 at the CHS field. Kettering entered the game undefeated and ranked in the top 10 in the state in Division II.

Thursday, the team played a near carbon copy rematch against Brandon. Unfortunately for the Wolves, that meant a loss after controlling the play most of the game. The Blackhawks tallied two goals in the last five minutes of the game to win 2-0.

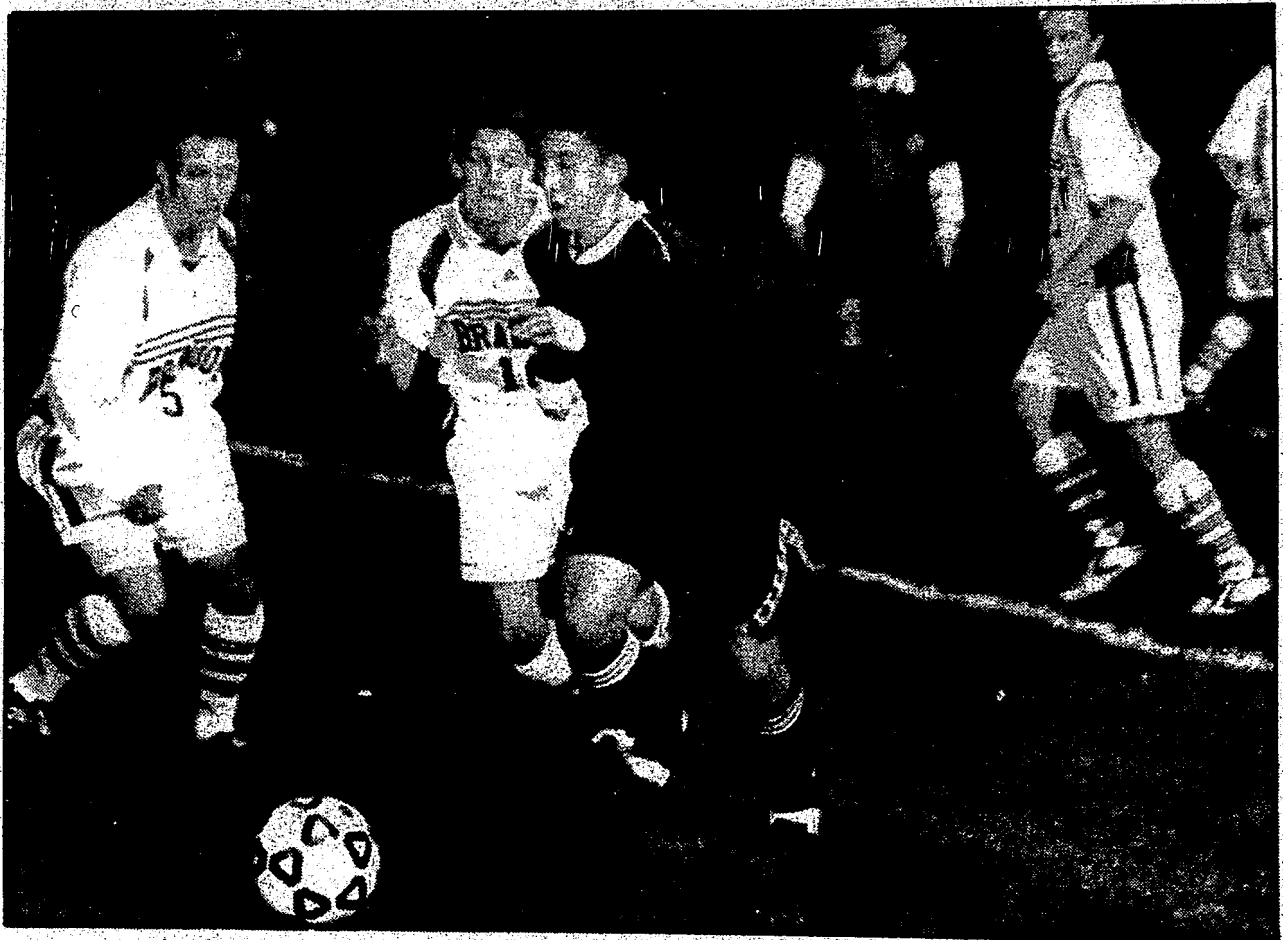

Clarkston now stands at 3-8-4 overall and 1-4-2 in the OAA Division II.

Tuesday morning, the team learned who it would be matched up with when district play begins in two weeks. The Wolves received a first-round bye and will play the winner of the Waterford Mott-Romeo game Wed., Oct. 21 at the new CHS field. The district finals are set for Sat., Oct. 24 at Rochester Adams High School.

In the other bracket, Lake Orion visits Adams in the first round, with the winner taking on Rochester.

Coach Dan Fitzgerald acknowledged that the draw could not have happened more in Clarkston's favor.

"It couldn't get any better," he said. "A bye does make it easier for us. We can get some injured guys ready to play, and it gives me a chance to scout the other teams." Clarkston tied Mott 1-1 earlier this season. Fitzgerald said Adams is the favorite to win the district, but said Lake Orion is a team to watch because the Dragons have been on a recent hot streak, now that their full lineup is together.

Clarkston's Mike Licata and Tom Dews scored goals in the tie against the Captains, a game Fitzgerald said his team deserved to win.

"Kettering was a game we should have won,"

Fitzgerald said. "We had a 2-1 lead, then they tied it with seven minutes to go. We had some good opportunities in the end, we just weren't able to capitalize on them."

Golfers heading into regionals on winning note

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Coach Tim Kaul is realistic about the Clarkston golf team's chances for success as the end of the season draws near.

With the regional meet set for Friday at Sylvan Glen and the end-of-season OAA Division I meet Tuesday, Kaul said his young team's chances for success are slim.

"I'd like to see Ben (Ness) play well," he said. "When you know the team isn't going to achieve goals as a team, you root for individuals to do well. I'm pulling for him to have a real good week."

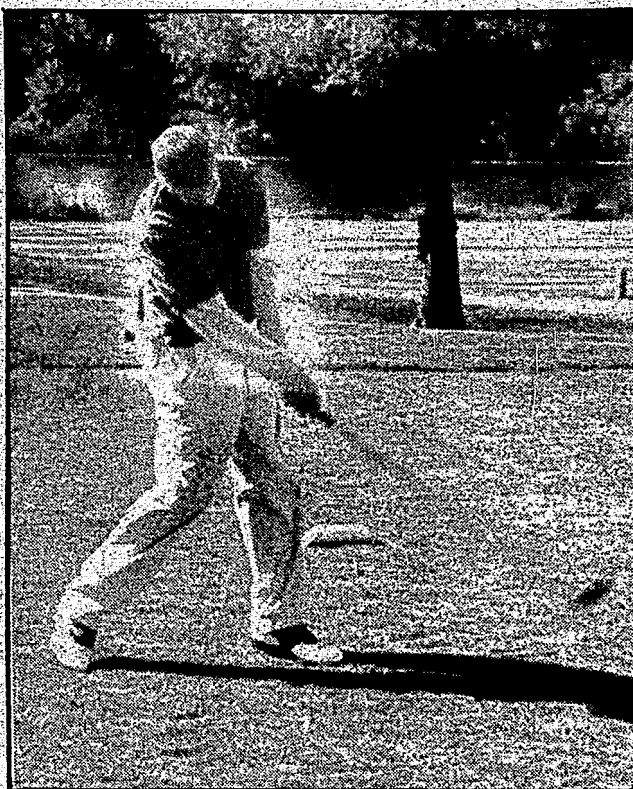

Clarkston wrapped up regular-season dual-meet action Thursday with a 161-170 win over Waterford Mott. Kaul complimented the play of Trae Moreen, who finished with the low score of 37, one of his best rounds of the season.

"He missed a couple of birdie putts that could have made his score even lower," Kaul said.

Ness and Mark Churay each shot 40, and Derek Hool finished out Clarkston's scorers with a 44.

The list of other teams at regional had not been released as of Monday night, but Kaul said he felt good about his team playing at Sylvan Glen.

"We've played the front side twice, and we've shot well there both times," he said. "It's a course similar to ours. It's a public course and there's some speed to the greens, which is more to our liking. There's a generally large landing area for most holes on the fairways also, which helps a team like us which isn't as accurate as other teams."

Kaul figured it would take a two-round score of 74 or 75 to qualify for states from regionals. Last year, Bryan Haggard was the only Wolf to qualify, after he shot his best round of the year at regionals.

"In a dual match we had there, Ben shot a 36 on the front nine," Kaul said. "We want to go out there and just tee it up, and hopefully, not be intimidated by anyone else that's out there."

Cagers snap out of slump in big way

Subs take center stage in easy win

Clarkston 32
Pontiac Central 13

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most basketball teams need a game like Clarkston had at Pontiac Central Tuesday night.

The Wolves, playing their worst opponent of the season, rested starters and got subs off the bench important experience while gaining a 32-13 win over the winless Chiefs. Clarkston improves to 6-4 overall with the win.

Coach Ann Lowney said the game was an opportunity to shore up the team's defense, something she says had been lacking in recent games.

"I went back and looked at tape of some of our games, and our defense was absolutely pathetic," she said. "And that's my fault. I wasn't having them work defense enough in practice, only offense. So for the next three weeks, that's all we'll work on."

The defense was on the mark in this game. Clarkston allowed Central a total of two field goals and six points through the first three quarters of the game. The team rebounded well as a group and got everyone involved in the offense.

"Our offense will be taken care of," Lowney said. "You're going to see this team work their butts off on defense from now on."

With Clarkston having a big enough lead to never feel threatened, every player on the roster got quality playing time. Among those taking good advantage of that time were senior guard Nicole Colosimo, junior Mercedes Combs, and sophomore Kristen Falck.

"I thought Kristen and Nicole played very well," Lowney said. "We'll need more reliable point guards, so it was nice to see them do that."

"Mercedes did a good job of rebounding, then kicking out to start our inside-outside offense."

Combs set career-highs with six rebounds and three steals in a tough performance. Colosimo dished out a pair of assists and had two steals to go along with two points.

Junior Lindsey Prudhomme led the balanced attack with seven points and three steals. Freshman Kaye Christie tossed in six, while sophomore Sarah Morgan and junior Rachel Uchman scored four apiece.

Uchman also collected six rebounds, while senior Corinne McIntyre grabbed five boards. Sophomore Tovah Bazley also had a nice effort with more playing time, getting six rebounds.

'Our offense will be taken care of. You're going to see this team work their butts off on defense from now on.'

Coach Ann Lowney

The Wolves now stand at the halfway point of the 1998 season. There have been a lot of frustrating moments for the team, and several close losses. Lowney said the team is still searching for its identity.

"We had a long talk today, and it seems like this team doesn't put forth the necessary effort unless I tell them to," she said. "John Wooden, who I just idolize, says you can have a great engine, but if you don't have good tires, the car won't run. The kids need to step forth and give that effort we need every day."

"We've got 10 games to go, our record is 0-0, and we control our own destiny."

Junior Lindsey Prudhomme floats in the air during third-quarter action Thursday night against West Bloomfield. Clarkston recovered from the pounding the Lakers gave it with a resounding win Tuesday night at Pontiac Central.

Clarkston 47

This was just a good-old fashioned tail-kicking.

The Wolves were handed their worst defeat under Lowney Thursday night in a 63-47 loss to West Bloomfield at the new CHS gym.

The 16-point loss more than doubled Clarkston's previous worst loss, at the hands of Lapeer East in last year's district final (51-44).

After the game, a frustrated Lowney said the second half cost the Wolves the game.

"Our defensive intensity totally disappeared," she said. "In the first half, we played OK. But in the second half, they beat us bad."

Clarkston ended the first half with a 30-29 lead, its only one of the game. But the Lakers charged back, using two separate 9-0 runs to outscore Clarkston 33-17 in the second half.

At the 3:11 mark of the third quarter, West Bloomfield's star center Kim Kilpela committed her

IN THE PENALTY BOX

with Brad Monastiere

Excitement then, anticipation now

I sure wish the football team would play some dramatic games. After all, this has been a pretty boring season, hasn't it?

Just kidding. Friday's 13-12 win over Pontiac Northern was the most dramatic finish to a football game I have ever seen in person.

Eighty-one yards. Thirteen plays. With clutch passing. Are you kidding? All in 1:37?

You almost didn't believe it actually happened. You waited for a yellow hanky to be thrown onto the field, bringing about tears to the Clarkston faithful. You thought the receivers would let one of those bullet passes slip out of their hands. You thought running plays could never work in a two-minute offense.

Hey, if the Lions were playing, you could count on one - if not all - of those things happening in a similar situation. But this 1998 Clarkston varsity football team showed guts, pride, and a confidence that no matter what the situation, it would win the game.

On this classic fall night at Wisner Stadium, the team pulled together for a win that will go down as one of the most memorable for the Clarkston program in years.

With the win, Clarkston improves to 5-0 overall - just where I said they would be a month ago - heading into Friday's Homecoming showdown with the Troy Colts, ranked second in the state in Class AA.

Runners sweep away Athens at only home meet

The Clarkston boys and girls cross country teams made the most of their only home meet of the season Sept. 29.

Both teams defeated Troy Athens at Independence Oaks County Park. The boys easily defeated the Red Hawks 19-42, while the girls won their second dual meet of the season with a tight 27-28 victory.

Clarkston took four of the top five places at the meet, led by David Sage. He continued his dominance with a first-place time of 16:47. Matt Haver finished third with a time of 17:22. Following him were Kevin Breen (18:11) and Chris Weber (18:14).

The boys improved to 4-0 in dual meets and in the OAA Division I this season. Athens dropped to 0-4.

The girls bumped their dual meet record up to 2-2 with the victory. Clarkston was strengthened by taking the top two places at the meet and holding off Athens late in the race to win.

Nicole Fischer ran one of her best races of the season with a first-place time of 20:57. Senior Jennifer Rooding was a close second at 21:20. Coach Deb Zonca called the Red Hawks one of the preseason favorites in the league, making this a key win for her team.

The teams are in the middle of a key week in their seasons. Tuesday, the teams traveled to Troy for an OAA I showdown. Saturday, the teams participate in the competitive Oakland County Meet, starting at 9 a.m.

not play in the second half. He finished with 75 yards on 14 carries in the game.

Jenks ran for both Clarkston touchdowns, and had his best passing game of his career. He completed 7-of-10 passes for 67 yards, most of that coming on the final drive. He had only completed six passes in the team's first four games combined. He also rushed for 14 yards in the game.

Poley led the receivers with 57 yards on four receptions. Senior Nick Upchurch led the defense with six tackles, two coming for a loss.

I was happiest for two people as the game ended - senior QB Eric Jenks and senior PK Chris Himburg.

All Jenks has heard this year is how Clarkston has to run the ball because the team can't throw, and how he has to live up to the standard set by Dane Fife.

Hopefully, he has silenced many of those words with his poised play against Pontiac Northern. In a successful two-minute drill, players all over the field have to make plays, but ultimately, it comes down to the quarterback engineering the drive and making the right decisions. And please, no more comparisons to Fife. They're totally different players, and Jenks is the best quarterback to run this team.

Jenks made some terrific passes in the red zone during "the drive." He threw sideline strikes to Ryan Leach and Andy North that stopped the clock and gave the team precious time to collect itself and get ready for the next play. He then threw a perfect fade pass to Poley that was this close to being a touchdown.

At the one-yard line, he did what any sensible quarterback would do in this situation - follow that huge offensive line into the end zone.

Applause is also due to Himburg, who kicked the game-winning extra point through the uprights to give the Wolves the win. He missed an extra point earlier in the game, which made his successful kick with no time remaining all the more impressive.

To be able to come back from a missed opportunity early to come through late is the sign of true character. Himburg has done an excellent job on kickoffs, punts and extra points all season, but the one he booted Friday should be one that gives him something to smile about for years to come.

Last year, I predicted Clarkston would beat Troy 22-21. If the two-point conversion at the end of the game was successful, I would have nailed the score (not bad for someone who's not a famous seer).

But beware Clarkston fans. This Troy team is just outstanding. Last year, the Colts relied on the running of Jim Essian to carry them to victories. This year, the team can throw the ball as well as it can run behind that massive offensive line.

No predictions for scores this year, but if the following three things happen, the Wolves will win: Clarkston wins the time of possession battle; HB Chris Mitchell is at 100 percent after his concussion against Northern and runs effectively; and the defense forces at least two turnovers. Troy hasn't played a close game this year, and with Clarkston winning three games by a total of seven points, it knows how to play in high-pressure situations. Get a seat early, folks. It's going to be quite a ride.

Co-Athletes of the Week: Jenny Claus and Lauren Stout

Salut, Jenny and Lauren: The Clarkston girls tennis team's #2 doubles tandem of senior Jenny Claus and junior Lauren Stout is living proof that talent does run in the family. Their older brothers, 1997 CHS graduates Chas Claus and Kyle Stout, were a top #1 doubles team for the boys tennis program, and were named Athletes of the Week on June 4, 1997. This fall season, their little sisters have played some very big tennis. They started the season as the #1 doubles team and compiled a 3-1 record there, with the only loss coming to a state-ranked Rochester Adams team. As the #2 doubles team, they have cleaned house, going 12-1 and winning the Fenton Invitational. Both are very powerful players, earning the nickname "The Pummel Twins," from their teammates.

Coach Melissa White and Jenny and Lauren: "They are a very confident team, but not overconfident. They go into matches with good strategy and are very supportive of each other. Lauren is one of the most natural athletes I've ever seen. Jenny can flat-out crush the ball. They are just neat people, and I laugh with them a lot."

Jenny on Lauren: "We are best of friends on the court. We don't worry about mistakes we make. She is very forgiving of me when I mess up. She has an awesome serve and is great at the net."

Lauren on Jenny: "She keeps me from going crazy out there. She has a great baseline shot. She always seems to know when I'm going to miss a shot, because she's always there to back me up."

Theryoung wins bronze at World Championships for the Blind

'97 CHS grad excels in goalball, a cross between soccer and handball

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was a feeling that reached beyond any of Robin Theryoung's senses.

The feeling of standing on the podium, representing your country on a world stage and being recognized for your athletic achievements.

This is the feeling 1997 Clarkston High School graduate had July 27 when her U.S.A. team won the bronze medal at the World Goalball Championships in Madrid, Spain.

"It was a very unreal feeling for me," Theryoung said. "I never expected to be on the team, but it was such an amazing feeling to put on a U.S.A. jersey."

Before you think this could become just another teenager-achieves big-things sports story, Theryoung's accomplishments in Spain was just the latest example of courage she has shown throughout her life.

Theryoung is blind.

In most sports, vision is a talent that is needed at the most acute level, especially in baseball and football. But goalball is a different kind of sport, one where the mind's eye is the most important.

Goalball is a sport developed shortly after World War II for blind veterans coming home. People thought this would be a good way for them to stay active despite their misfortune. Both men and women play the sport competitively, and Robin's father Bob says the sport is very popular in Europe.

The game of goalball is played with three players per team on a court 30 meters long and 10 meters wide. The object of the game is to roll a weighted ball with bells inside it across your opponents' goal line. Players are allowed to stop the ball with any part of their bodies.

Once the defending team successfully stops the ball, it becomes the offensive team.

Ropes are taped down to the court for the players marking the back goal line and the 10-foot overthrow line. If a goal is scored off a ball thrown from the overthrow line, it is disallowed.

Theryoung has four years of experience playing goalball, and was the starting center for her team at Western Michigan University last year.

This year, she is attending Albion College when she isn't traveling back and forth from the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado.

Theryoung's next goal is to qualify for the U.S. team once again for the 1999 competitions in London, England, then qualify for the Paralympics in Sydney, Australia in 2000.

"We'll be playing at some of the same venues the Olympians compete at," Theryoung said in an excited tone. "Now that I have this international experience behind me, I have an advantage, but I still have to work hard to make the next U.S. team."

Part of that hard work comes three times a week for Theryoung, who works out with her WMU teammates in Kalamazoo, in addition to keeping her own training regimen.

"I feel very fortunate to be able to be a part of something like this," she said. "To compete at something like this has been a dream of mine for a long time."

At the Madrid games, Theryoung was a key player for the U.S. team, scoring one goal while not allowing any while she was on the court. She was also the starting center for the WMU team when it won the U.S. Goalball championships in Colorado Springs last spring.

Tennis team finishes 2nd at OAA II tournament

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls tennis team wasn't planning on being a bridesmaid at Thursday's OAA Division II tournament at Berkley.

But that's what the team had to settle for, as Troy Athens played the part of the bride, winning the tournament over the second-place Wolves. The tournament that next awaits Clarkston is the big one - regionals, starting at 9 a.m. Friday at Troy High School.

Coach Melissa White, who had been hoping to win the league championship all season, said she was disappointed in the results but saw progress in some of her players.

"We had a great season, so this was a disappointing way to end it," she said.

The #1 doubles team of Kristen Atkinson and Alaina Dodds kept up their dominant season with a second-straight league championship. The dynamic duo will look to defend another title it owns - the regional one from last year - Friday morning.

"They're experienced and very quick," White said of her top team. "They were very focused (Thursday) and were no-nonsense out there. They click very well and do a lot of communicating off the court. They were very good out there."

Following their lead was the #4 doubles team of Emily Tate and Jenny Leninger, who capped off a strong season of their own with a league championship.

"Both of them are juniors, which makes me feel real good about next year," White said. "They might not want to play doubles next year, but the experience they got this year will help them out a lot."

Clarkston suffered narrow misses at the #2 and #2 doubles spots in the league tournament. Both teams lost in the finals in three sets to Royal Oak Kimball and Athens, respectively.

"Kimball played a tremendous match," White said. "We were very close to winning that one, it just didn't go our way."

The loss by Jenny Claus and Lauren Stout in the #2 doubles final was only the second of the season for the duo. They lost a match to Rochester Adams playing as the #1 doubles team early in the season.

Junior Courtney Schuberling was the highest placing Clarkston player at the tournament, finishing third at #1 singles. Lauren Bogart (#2 singles), Kim Lytle (#3 singles) and Michelle Dodge (#4 singles) each placed fourth.

"I was very proud of Kim Lytle," White said. "She played very well. Lauren played hard, but I know she wasn't happy with how she did. I'm excited to see how Michelle does next year. The potential is there, and now that she's gotten through this year, I'm looking forward to seeing her improve."

The regional tournament is usually held at two or three sites around Troy. The seedings were due to be released Monday night. White said she is hopeful Atkinson and Dodds will receive a number-one seed at regionals.

The stories...the articles...the ads... that's what I like about THE MATURE AMERICAN magazine!

Each month, The Mature American is distributed all over Oakland County, offering readers 50 and over, ideas about places to go, people to see, amusing anecdotes, poetry and informative articles. Our ads help seniors decide where to turn to for medical care. Some offer savings for travel. Our classifieds offer many services and bargains. The point is...you should be advertising in Oakland County's information and service magazine for seniors!

Lady cagers stand 6-4 after 10 games

fourth foul, giving Clarkston an opportunity to cut the four-point deficit it faced at the time.

However, the team couldn't capitalize on the Lakers' foul trouble, and by the time Kilpela returned to the game at the 7:25 mark of the fourth, West Bloomfield actually extended its lead to 45-40.

Shortly thereafter, the Wolves made one final comeback attempt. McIntyre swished a jumper from the lane to cut West Bloomfield's lead to 48-44. But the Lakers responded with its second 9-0 run to put the game away.

The loss was Clarkston's third in four games, leaving Lowney to wonder what she could do to snap the team out of its recent funk.

"We've just got to keep learning," she said. "This is a game of lessons, and hopefully from tonight, we learn that it's a 32-minute game and not a 16-minute game. If we lax for one moment, someone will take advantage of that in this league."

Senior Deana Kanipe, playing her first game against her former teammates, turned in one of her best games of the season with 16 points, seven rebounds and six assists. Uchman played tough against the Lakers' huge front line with 10 points and 10 rebounds. Christie tossed in nine for the Wolves.

The schedule doesn't get any easier for Clarkston this week. Thursday, Rochester comes to town for a key OAAI showdown. Tuesday, the Wolves travel to Troy for a game against the surprising Colts.
