Residents protest warehouse

Too close to Pine Knob Elem., too much traffic and pollution

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 450,000-square-foot auto parts warehouse, proposed for the south side of Bow Pointe off Sashabaw Road, drew complaints from a record crowd at the Independence Township Planning Commission meeting last Thursday.

"Congratulations. This is probably the largest group we've had before us," said chair Steve Board of the number of residents who packed the township annex, some standing around the room's perimeter.

Nearby residents who showed up to protest the issue were mailed notices by an unknown who claimed the facility will equal "eight football fields."

Proposed by Cunningham-Limp Co., a designbuild firm, and Professional Engineering Associates, the warehouse would be used to store parts for the General Motors plant in Orion Township, leasing 83 bays to Ryder Dedicated Logistics. The facility would be built on 31.76 acres at the end of Bow Pointe, with a major portion to the south.

Cunningham-Limp project manager Steve Guidos said Thursday's meeting was "informational" only, intended to present facts and collect input before requesting preliminary site plan approval.

He said the warehouse is expected to operate from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. five days a week, with two shifts staffing 80-100 employees. An eight-foot wall would be built on the south and east to buffer noise and reduce impact on homeowners, with berming on the west side as well.

"Granted, it is a large project. It is a large building," he noted. "But we will make every effort to buffer it and soften it from its view."

Guidos said the project is an appropriate use for IOP (industrial office park) zoning. Other allowable uses such as "technical use and biological production" could equal "10 times the amount of truck traffic going in and out of here. We believe this is a much less intense project," he said.

That view wasn't shared by residents. Concerns included truck traffic — an estimated eight to 10 trips per hour on Sashabaw from Bow Pointe to I-75—drainage, pollution, decline of property values and other matters.

A Dvorak homeowner called the warehouse "the lesser of two evils," comparing it to a factory that would manufacture biological weapons. He noted the warehouse would not serve the local area. "I feel there should be a value to the community. So what value are you going to be bringing to Clarkston?"

Repaying may come to M-15

No guarantees, but MDOT considering area for federal grant project

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston city councilman Dan Colombo called it "an opportunity of a lifetime."

That opportunity came in the form of a meeting between Gary Tressel, the city's engineer, and the Michigan Department of Transportation where a hoped-for repaving project for M-15 through downtown Clarkston could be pulled off at no cost to the city.

Tressel told the council the project is pending on federal funds MDOT could receive for the repaving, which would take place in 2000.

"There is no guarantee Clarkston would be selected for this," Tressel said. "MDOT is looking for two or three projects for the enhancement fund it will receive. The township has a need for this, and you have a need for this."

The funds would come from the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21). Communities apply for the federal funds to Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). SEMCOG directs the funds into three different programs: Congestion Mitigation/Air Quality, Safety, and Enhancement. These funds for the M-15 project fall under the Enhancement Fund area.

The Enhancement Program funds projects in broad transportation categories, such as aesthetics, historic preservation, non-motorized facilities, and mitigation of environmental problems.

Communities must apply for these funds and submit a letter of support to MDOT by Feb. 1, 1999. Plans for all the projects should be done by September, and bids will be awarded for the work between Oct. 1, 1999 and Jan. 1, 2000, Tressel said.

"Their intent is to do this project in 2000," Tressel added. "Once the project is done, you will be responsible for maintaining the road from the curb out."

The project would extend on Main Street from Paramus to the I-75 exits. The resurfacing would include upgrading all sidewalks, turning Main Street into a three-lane road through town, and possibly a fourlane boulevard south of downtown, and improving the lighting.

This would all be done at no cost to the city, but it would be responsible for maintenance of the improvements forever. MDOT would be a co-sponsor

'The Giving Season'

Author inspires kids to tap their own imaginations

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most everyone thinks of the holidays as "the giving season." But children's author Matt Faulkner has turned that title into an imaginative allegory that includes a castle, a princess and "Phelonious Quirk" - an ornery jester who's never learned how to give.

Faulkner was recently commissioned by the Somerset Collection to develop a holiday story for children. He was told it should be "eclectic, not based on faith," a tale that would appeal to those who celebrate Christmas, as well as Hannekah.

"I said, 'I don't want to do a book about credit cards and shopping ... what do you want?" quipped Faulkner, the featured author at Andersonville Elementary's Author Day Celebration Oct. 28.

The Royal Oak-based author/illustrator tailored his charming tale "The Giving Season," to fit different age levels, presenting several assemblies during the daylong event.

Among them were "a Reader's Digest Condensed" version to keep kindergartners entertained. A slide show for fourth- and fifth-graders featured illustrations, sculptures of his characters (he sculpts them "so I can get to know them") and information on how he conducts research. He passed around some of the Faulker also drew caricatures of some of the students. Adrienne Cross was given the body of a bird and high-top sneakers, and Michael Sommer was drawn with chipmunk ears and an Arnold-Schwarzenegger build.

Faulkner -- introduced by Adrian as " an author, illustrator, sculptor, teacher and dad" - not only showed himself to be gifted, but a real kid-pleaser. Both kindergartners and older students were transfixed as he punctuated his story-telling with gestures, voices and a whole lot of humor.

He also previewed his new book "Black Belt" which included photos of himself in various kickboxer positions. When you can't find someone else to pose, you use yourself, he explained — while kids laughed at a picture of him doing a karate kick, high up in the

Some characters are patterned after people he knows. For instance, one of the scowling, Oriental characters in "Black Belt" looks like his brother. "Don't tell him. He's much bigger than me," Faulkner quipped.

'Children understand why there are witches and giants because that's how adults appear to them.

Matt Faulkner

He also gave children pointers on how to be more creative. He wanted to know how many of them liked to write stories and draw pictures, and if they remembered their dreams. "Dreams come from the same place all our great ideas come from," he said, urging them to keep sketch pads near their beds.

Principal Bill Potvin said Faulkner was an excellent choice because he mirrors what Andersonville students are learning.

Currently they're writing stories about characters they see in pictures. Without knowing anything about those people or animals, kids "zoom in" and "do a thought shot of the kid standing by the side, or what the dog is thinking." The process has been a big hit. "They go bonkers because it gets them to be creative," Potvin said.

Providing "more detail" fulfills one small part of the process, added Potvin, while students work on their stories from beginning, the middle, to end.

In an interview prior to the assemblies, Faulkner said his first book, "Jack and the Beanstalk" was written and illustrated in 1985. Out of eight published books, some were illustrated for other authors as well.

He has a 7-year-old son Gabe who "enjoys my stories." At first, when Faulkner began dreaming up his characters for books, " (Gabe) didn't want me to read to him because he wanted to read his stories to me," he quipped.

In "The Giving Season," Faulkner said he worked to incorporate children's perceptions of adults. For example, young Princess Sophie is imprisoned in a tower because she's the only child left in the kingdom. Her parents "just don't know what to do with her. So they lock her up — with the best of food and drink — so they won't have to deal with her."

Sadly, that illustrates how adults frequently "stick their kids in front of the TV. (They say) 'It's a great show. You should be happy," Faulkner said.

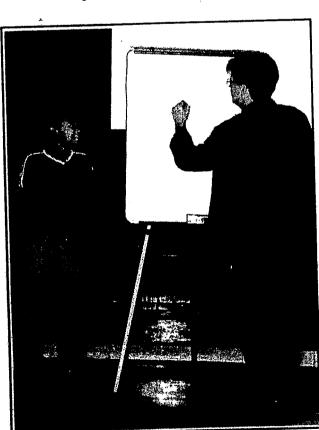

"One of the main things in this kind of story is to include a child's point of view in their relationship to adults. Children understand why there are witches and giants because that's how adults appear to them."

It's important for kids to tap their own creativity and not rely on images from other authors, illustrators and coloring books, he said.

In a recent workshop for fourth- and fifth-graders he included "a quiet time — a guided-visualization where they meet a character. It's like a walk through their own creative hall." The effect is almost hypnotic. Some of the children even fall asleep.

"When I bring them back, I say 'Draw me something fantastic." The object can be anything from their own imaginations. Whatever is down on paper is what the child sees.

Faulkner stressed this point, exuberantly throwing his hands into the air."If you see a purple cow there's a purple cow out there."

What animal do YOU look like? Sometimes Faulker likes to size a person up and draw the animal he or she best resembles. Here, he gives Adrian Cross the body of a bird with high-top sneakers.

Faulkner reads his story "The Giving Season" to a group of kindergarteners.

Council gets look at zoning ordinance

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The city planning commission gave it the nod, now it's up to the city council.

At its Nov. 9 regular meeting, the Clarkston city council got its first glance at the proposed city zoning ordinance, recommended for approval by the planning commission at its last meeting.

The ordinance sets zoning for every square foot of property in the city, whether it's commercial or residential property.

At the meeting, most of the discussion centered on the controversial property located at the corner of Waldon Road and Main Street, owned by Bob and Deanna Olsen.

The proposed ordinance lists the property as single family residential. Terry Croad, a planner with McKenna and Associates, speaking on behalf of the Olsens, said the property would be better used zoned for office space.

"We were asked to develop a transitional use for this property," Croad said. "We have designed the property as village office for that purpose. We were unsuccessful with the planning commission with that, and you're our next step."

Some council members disagreed with Croad, saying the property would be better utilized as a single family residential.

"Nothing has changed my mind with that piece of property," mayor Sharron Catallo said. "It's still better used as residential. It's transitional for who?

There are homes all around it, and we would rather have homes on that side of the road."

Councilman Dan Colombo suggested an outside group examine the proposed ordinance and give opinions on the entire plan, including zoning for the Waldon-Main property.

"Our eyes will be opened a lot with this process," he said. "I want to hear from someone from the outside and make a recommendation. This is a unique, controversial piece of property. People feel strongly both ways."

Other council members questioned the potential zoning of the property, saying it was spot zoning, a concept they would rather stay away from.

"I can't see another piece of property in the village that would fit that kind of zoning," Anne Clifton

"If we create a particular kind of zoning on one parcel for one person, that would be spot zoning," Croad said. "That's not what we're asking for. The property owners feel the land is suited only for village office. This would allow the property owners to develop the land the way they would see fit.

"The land is on the two most-traveled roads in the city," he continued. "It's not connected to the rest of the neighborhood, and that constrains its ability to be attractive as a residential property."

The council took no action on the ordinance at the meeting. Most of them said they had not had a chance to read it through yet. The council can't adopt the ordinance until its had two readings. The earliest it could be adopted would be the Dec. 14 meeting.

Schools finalize deal with Pepsi

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

At their regular meeting November 9, the Clarkston school board finalized a contract with Pepsi Cola Company that has been in the works since March.

Retroactive to July 1, 1998, the three-year contract gives Pepsi sole sales prvileges at Clarkston High

According to the contract, for granting Pepsi exclusive marketing rights CHS receives funding and educational support in the form of:

A $21,000 signing bonus.

One $1,000 scholarship to a CHS student for the next three years.

A computer software program valued at $2,000, designed to help students locate scholarships and other financial aid for college tuition that will be updated annually.

Commission on beverage sales from the vending machines.

The contract also gives Pepsi a "one-year right to meet and therefore beat any Pepsi competitior" to market Pepsi products at other Clarkston schools.

The Pepsi products include soft drinks, and to a lesser degree, Ocean Spray beverages, Lipton ice tea, Aquafina water, All Sports drinks and Frappucino.

Board president Kurt Shanks and trustee Mary Ellen McLean have been against the deal since the beginning, and were the only two board members to vote against the final contract last week.

During a discussion of the contract at the board's October 12 meeting McLean said, "I would like to see more health-related drinks sold to the kids."

Shanks said Monday while he was pleased with the contract revisions, he agreed with McLean. "The school district shouldn't promote products that are not in the best interests of the health of the children. But the contract minimizes the commercial impact on kids and we've moved forward from where we started."

Shanks said the administration has the ability to increase the juice products that are for sale at the fountains and in the vending machines.

He added there are currently no proposals to sell Pepsi products in the middle or elementary schools.

of the project along with the architectural firm T.Y. Lynn, Tressel said.

"The plans will show what Main Street will look like through the village," he said. "This will improve the quality of the curbs and the riding quality of the pavement on Main Street. There will be no parking spaces lost to the village through this project."

City councilman David Savage, who has spearheaded the overall downtown revitalization effort, said this project would complement that effort in a very effective way,

"This ties in with everything we're doing," he said. "The physical improvements that could take place are badly needed by everyone here. It also provides us with the funding we wouldn't have to raise."

The council members were unanimous in their support of the project.

"This is a generous gift from the state," Anne

"We won't get an opportunity like this again," mayor Sharron Catallo said.

Tressel emphasized that there's no guarantee the state will receive the funds for this potential project, nor is there a guarantee M-15 would be picked by the state if it gets the funds.

Savage said the council plans on coordinating with McKenna and Associates, the city's planner, and Hubbell Roth and Clark, the city's engineering firm, to come up with a plan that works for everyone to send to MDOT.

"That way, we can have input and control over the changes that will take place downtown," Savage said. "We will also give discussion to moving the water line in with this. A lot of people talk about the bad water, and if we can bring that in, we won't have to tear up the new infrastructure that would go in."

The council unanimously voted to approve the concept of the project, 7-0 at the meeting.

City hears another pitch from architect

The Clarkston city council heard a second presentation from an architect hoping to be in charge of designing a new city hall building.

Gary Currier of the architectural firm Wilson and Associates in Oxford, made a brief presentation to the council, outlining policies, philosophies and ideas he has for the new building.

"We have worked on quite a few municipal projects in the past," he told the council. "We did Brandon Township's number two fire station, site selection for the Oxford Township Hall, and several fire halls for Rochester and Farmington Hills."

Council members said they were looking for an architect they had a good rapport with before making a selection.

"We want someone we have a good chemistry with," said councilman David Savage.

"Our building (where the firm is located in downtown Oxford) is 100 years old, and we are located within a historic district," Currier said. "We have worked on projects like this before."

Savage said the council was 30 to 60 days away from making a selection on a firm.

Pepsi deal with CHS not in the best interests of the students

On November 9, the Clarkston School Board approved a contract with Pepsi Cola giving the company sole marketing rights for Pepsi products at Clarkston High School.

For selling Pepsi the school receives a $21,000 signing bonus, three $1,000 scholar-ships and scholarship software for students. Pepsi also receives the right of first refusal to enter into agreements with other schools in the district.

We don't like the deal, and commend board president Kurt Shanks and trustee Mary Ellen McLean for voting against it.

Both Shanks and McLean think it's a mistake to promote unhealthy products in the schools and we agree.

Soda pop is known to leech calcium from bones and we know of at least two athletic coaches who ask their athletes not to drink pop while participating in sports.

Additionally, an article in the July 13 issue of Newsweek magazine said studies showing high sugar consumption throughout our lives can result in insulin resistance (damaging our bodies' abilities to regulate blood sugar levels), leading to adult-onset diabetes, hypertension, stroke, cancer and heart disease.

More importantly, the school board's encouraging the purchase of soda pop to earn money for the school, while its health curriculum and athletic program promote healthy eating habits, sends a duplications message to the students.

That "they're going to drink pop anyway," is not a good enough reason to promote it.

Teens need to be encouraged to make the right decisions for the right reasons.

We urge the administration to increase the number of healthy drinks available through Pepsi, and not to renew the contract when it expires in 2001. We also urge them not to extend the deal with Pepsi into the middle or elementary schools in the future. MKC

Proposed warehouse a risk to children

Dear Editor,

I would like to make the Clarkston school board aware, as well as the parents of Pine Knob Elementary school children, of the proposed office and warehouse facility near the Pine Knob Elementary School.

If this goes through, it will pose a traffic problem going in and out of the school, as well as a higher risk of accidents, both auto and children. It also poses a threat of contaminating the air inside the school from the trucks' exhaust. The fumes will be transferred through the school's air handlers when the units are in economizer mode.

Will the children be able to learn with all of the truck noise? A 10-foot wall will not stop noise or fumes.

How long does it take a semi to stop going at 40 m.p.h. if a child by chance gets in its way?

I feel as a parent that the school board should make the parents aware of this proposal and do whatever it takes to stop it. Let's keep our children safe and healthy. Let's not let a few people profit at the risk of life and health of thousands.

The next Independence Township Board meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the annex board room at the Charter Township of Independence, 90 N. Main Street.

Frank Nido, Clarkston

In loving memory of Patricia Ann Lilac

Dear Editor

Most of your readers have heard by now that our friend, Patricia Ann Lilac "Pat," former owner of Dineros, died on September 29.

She passed away unexpectedly in her sleep. I worked with her for 13 years and she was a dear friend of mine.

Many of you were shocked to hear about her death and showed great concern for her grandson, Chance. Because of Pat's love and concern for his future, I have set up a fund to purchase a U.S. Savings Bond which will be given to Chance on his 21st birthday.

If you were looking for a way to show Pat how much you cared, I feel this would be the answer! Between now and Christmas, the monies collected will be accumulated and a Savings Bond will be purchased.

I am going to record the names of those who donated toward this bond. This list of contributors will be given to Chance at the time he receives his bond.

You can send your donation in the form of a check made out to "Chance's Fund," and mail it to Clarkston. Brandon Credit Union, Attn: Sheila, 8055 Ortonvill Rd., Clarkston, MI 48348.

This is our way of helping Chance, in memory o

Invest in community values

Dear Editor,

There is an opportunity this week to invest in the preservation of community values. These opportunities come along less and less in a high-speed world of mega developments and mergers.

The Clarkston State Bank is that opportunity. Its stock will go on the market Monday, November 23 at approximately $10 a share (100 share minimum). The principles of the bank have requested that local investors be given first chance. Call Roney & Co. by No vember 20.

We are continually complaining about the pres sure of outside influences on our community and the little control we have in what happens. Here is a chance to be a part of a new enterprise dedicated to keeping our money within our community and not in Chicago New York or wherever.

The stores are a little more spread out now, bu shopping in Independence and Springfield township can still make for an enjoyable day.

You may need to do a bit more driving, but you can't beat the scenery of the beautiful homes on Mair Street, or the bucolic countryside in Springfield town ship on the way to Davisburg. Sashabaw Road can be a pain at rush hour, but it's never as aggravating as mall traffic.

And let's not forget the recent increase in grea restaurants around the area. They will make a warm cozy place to stop for lunch or dinner, as well as good gift certificates for presents for the hard-to-shop-for person on your gift list.

When you're making up your gift list, take minute to think about which gifts can be purchase around town. Check out the ads in our paper from local businesses, look for some ideas in our Season's Specials on page 15 and in the Gift Guide which come out in the Penny Stretcher November 25.

Patti says we need 'national empathy check'

Don't

Rush Me

Don Rush

One of the groovy perks of writing a weekly column is the exchange of ideas readers often provide. I received such an exchange — via letter — from Patti Marmom of Clarkston.

In October I wrote a bit on so-called "hate crime" legislation. In a nutshell, my penned opinion stated, "We cannot legislate against what is in peoples' hearts. If they hate and kill because of race or sexual preferences or whatever, it is in their hearts and no law will stop them .

. . therefore such legislation is a waste of time and money. Besides, murder of anybody is already wrong and against the law."

Here's Pat's two-cents on the topic:

You and I can navigate around our community, as well as most of the United States, with a certain amount of privilege. We don't think about it as privilege because it's always been there, as part of our life experience. For example, I think that if either one of us is pulled over by a police officer for say, going a bit over the speed limit, we can be pretty certain that we'll be treated with a bit of respect.

If we go shopping it would be unlikely that we would be automatically "tailed" by a sales clerk who might brand us as shoplifters.

Talk to a Black American, and he or she might have very different views regarding these experiences ... An African American mother once told me that if she raised her son by telling him to expect to be treated equally out there in the world, that this would be tantamount to child abuse.

. . . I will say murder is murder and that hatred seems to prompt any and all murders. It's all equally reprehensible. However, there are fellow human beings living among us, who are more vulnerable to myriad crimes and general mistreatment, simply because they're different from what's viewed as mainstream.

Again, those of us in the "majority" have a different experience. I'm assuming that hate crime legislation wouldn't be limited to murder and that it would include other atrocities such as racist graffiti and vandalism. (How many White Americans have actually been subjected to racist graffiti?)

I'm not sure what to do about this, because I too have grown weary of the zeal to legislate everything. I'm not a psychologist or a social scientist, but I tend to think that many hate crimes are prompted by low life scum who see their only 'privilege" (being White, straight, fill in the blank) threatened by others who are different. These creeps aren't going to pay any more attention to hate crime laws than they are to basic human decency.

What we all really need is a national empathy check: Do unto others as you would have others do unto you. . . Walk a mile in another's shoes. Whether such adages originated from the Bible or from folk wisdom, they're something most people agree with but often forget to pay attention to in the course of day to day living. A national empathy check . . . the more I think about it the more I like it. Let's call upon the politician to start the process!

So Patti, what do you really think?

And a short note to the students at Clarkston High School who actually admitted reading this column. Thanks for your support -- and keep the new school looking good. If you don't I'll have your Principal, the Cool Man, send you back to the old school.

"I'm a season ticket holder for the Pistons, so yeah, I miss it." - Jim Batz

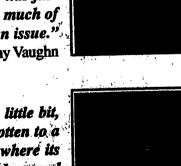

"If they don't want to play for the love of the game, then I don't need to watch them."

"I don't miss it either. The whole thing has just become too much of an issue." - Amy Vaughn

"I miss it a little bit, but its gotten to a point where its ridiculous and stupid that the players are holding out for more and more money." - Ryan Rathbun

Elizabeth Baldwin lived today and yesterday

Jim's

Jottings

Jim Sherman

Elizabeth Baldwin would clip Farmer Jack coupons, put them in an LS Super Market bag and send them to Chic and Charlie Drumheller, owners of the Oxford IGA store.

Her husband, Pansy, hated cooked carrots, so she put them in every soup, chili or gravy she made for him. She also had a note pasted on the ceiling over their "Kiss Mrs. Baldwin bed: goodnight."

When a friend's wife was sick, Liz sent him a box with a note to make the wife some chicken soup. In the box was a live chicken.

I dislike green peppers, so she made me green pepper sandviches. In a 1969 Jottings column I wrote, "Liz'll spend $40 and 3 weeks on a practical joke, but will shop 4 grocery stores to save a penny on a box of Kleenex."

After her mother died, Elizabeth Baldwin regularly lunched with her mother's widowed friends. She remembered numerous birthdays and anniversaries with cards and notes, and always sent something to ill friends and the bereaved.

She had eccentricities, but she was very thoughtful and sensitive.

Hazel and I met Liz and Pansy shortly after we came to Oxford in 1955. We spent hundreds of Friday nights together . . . after they closed Baldwin's Party Shop and our children were in bed.

Liz was secretive, particularly while ill later in life, however she communicated by mail and phone with people long gone from this community.

When Liz was in low elementary grades her actions foretold her future. She told us her mother often said, "Elizabeth, why can't you be like . . . (anyone who was neat and clean?)"

She grew up being neat and clean, but never like the persons her mother suggested. She wasn't "average." She often wore clothes from the early 1900s, like a patched, old dark coat. She avoided television nearly all her adult life.

A lover of antiques, her house showed it. I doubt if she ever owned Teflon. She used lard instead of Crisco and had no clothes washer or dryer or dishwasher in her house.

Elizabeth read profusely, and not just because she was on the Oxford Public Library Board for several years. Community-wise, she also headed the Oxford United Fund drive one year.

Many of us teased, joked and commented about her Girl Scout calendars. They were her diary and reminder. From them everything worthwhile in her life was recorded. She noted peoples' likes (therefore their dislikes) as well as events, appointments and incidents for future reference.

Just as Elizabeth Baldwin could be reclusive, she would also happily welcome visitors. She'd see that sick friends were remembered, yet wanted few to know of her sickness. She died October 22.

She willed her body to the University of Michigan, but gave her husband a full funeral, though she didn't believe in them, because "that's what Pansy wanted."

The Baldwins were our friends in the truest sense of the word. Liz even took Hazel to the hospital when we were expecting our second child . . . who was born on Liz's birthday.

Elizabeth Young Baldwin was an "individual" one of a kind . . . friend of many, really close to few . . which is as close as she came to being like most of us, and we miss her.

Construction projects: promises made, promises kept

As our Phase 3 construction projects get into full swing, I thought it would be appropriate to give readers a quick recap of the status of each project. Phase 3 refers to the $56 million bond issue approved by voters in June 1997. It is the last of three planned stages of construction; and it provides resources for a new elementary school and the remodeling of our elementary and middle school buildings.

The first tier of work has already begun and includes remodeling at North Sashabaw, Clarkston Elementary, the vacated high school, and the building of the new elementary school. The second tier of work, scheduled to begin in summer 1999, will include Pine Knob Elementary, Bailey Lake Elementary, Andersonville Elementary, Sashabaw Middle School, Springfield Plains, and the vacated Clarkston Middle School.

New Elementary

The design of the new building reflects a "community context" with the Greek Revival architecture of historic homes in the City of the Village of Clarkston. It promotes an awareness and appreciation of Independence Township's unique historic and natural Landscaping plans for the school call for measures to protect and enhance tree-lined Hubbard Road. Berms, screens, and landscape buffers will help to create a perception of open space. Safe traffic flow around the school will necessitate the removal of some trees, but planners will keep tree removal to a minimum. The rural character of the property will be preserved with the use of orchards, fences, and natural fencerows.

We are hoping to open the building to students in the fall of 1999. As of this writing, site work for the building "pad" is complete and masonry work continues as walls go up. Satisfactory resolution with Independence Township has been made including parking lot setback, curb cuts (number of driveways), protection of natural features such as wetlands, safety path, lighting and landscaping. Work continues with residents regarding off-site drainage. Underground plumbing and electrical work has also begun.

North Sashabaw Elementary

The beautiful "cafetorium" addition to this elementary is taking shape as structural steel is set. Foundations for the additions were completed at the end of October, and underground electrical and underground plumbing is proceeding nicely. Walls that had to be removed from both Multipurpose Room and Kitchen were "shored up" at the end of Steptember. These walls have now been demolished and temporary walls have been erected while construction continues.

Clarkston Elementary

Bids for work at this building were approved by the school board in mid-October. Foundation excavations should begin this week with masonry to follow soon.

Clarkston Middle School (former high school)

The former high school, built in 1959, is undergoing a total update of mechanical and electrical systems that have served the building for 38 years. This includes removal and upgrade of all old duct, pipe, and wiring. The school will also be equipped with the voice, video, and data technology that will be installed throughout our school district. The building will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1999.

So, you can see we are truly readying our facilities to meet the demands of an increasingly complex world. As we progress, there are likely to be some inconviences and some real challenges to overcome; but the finished product will benefit our students for years to come! The community and our children are worth it!

Note: Continuous updates on all of our construction projects are published in our website http:// www.clarkston.k12.mi.us

There's an issue facing our nation that every one of us will have to deal with eventually. No, it has nothing to do with Clinton, Iraq, or even Great Lakes Crossing-it's plain, simple pop. Yep, soft

Locally, a topic of debate has been how to deal with the agreement between Clarkston High School and Pepsi. A recent news article said there are fifteen or twenty machines throughout the building, selling a variety of Pepsi products in twenty-ounce bottles.

There are about half a dozen such pop machines in the cafeteria. which leads me to my first question: what happened to the other ten or so machines? I know at least two of them are in the athletic complex, and I suspect a couple are up by the pool. This still leaves a number of them unaccounted for.

Perhaps there are more in the locker rooms and gym area, but even athletes don't need that many toothrotting beverages. So that leaves one more pop-consuming party unaccounted for: staff. All you teachers out there, I've figured you out-you're keeping your own stock in the teachers' lounge, aren't you?

Okay, so I really don't know what happened to the other machines. I guess it's one of the enigmas of our school. Here's another: why on earth do we throw our pop bottles away every day?

sugar, too. Nutritionally superior drinks could be offered at

Though I haven't gone dumpster diving to count, I am fairly certain hundreds of bottles from the school machines and cans from home-packed lunches are pitched during lunch each day. In a school of two thousand, it seems a reasonable figure.

Michigan has the good fortune of having a tencent deposit. Why isn't CHS taking advantage of this? We could potentially be making hundreds of dollars a day if we recycled bottles and cans. Actually, I think we may have a couple recycling bins illogically placed - what we need is a bin for every trash can, and they need to be enforced. With all the pop we drink at school - I bring a can of it every day, and sometimes buy a bottle after school - the school could build up money like crazy. Or, if the school declines to implement such a plan, extracurricular clubs could share the responsibility and profit.

On another side of the pop debate, it is argued in our country and in our school district that pop sales to minors such as myself need to be decreased because carbonated beverages have no nutritional value. Caffeine! Sugar! Eek!

We drink a lot of pop. I admit it. But how 'bout coffee, that favorite of the adult population? Where's the nutritional value there? It can have caffeine and school, but I, for one, would not buy them. In fact, they're already there - but if I'm going to spend a whole buck on a drink, it's not gonna be a bottle of water or some juice. I'm gonna buy something I like. Same reason I wouldn't buy a smoothie over a coffee. If the amount of pop available for us to buy is decreased, so would the money the school gets from commission. To me, the Pepsi agreement represents something the school board is doing right. We get to drink what we like; the school gets money plus certain educational programs from Pepsi. And as I said, the school could increase the money drawn from pop sales by making recycling more visible.

See? As far as I'm concerned, everyone's a winner with Pepsi! And with that cheesy remark, I'll leave you to argue the merits of the contract on your own. Remember: like coffee, pop is our friend!

Individuals who suffer from Raynaud's syndrome know immediately when the temperature goes down—their fingers (and less commonly, toes) turn white and become numb when exposed to cold, then turn blue or a plum color, and burn or ache as the temperature rises. Under extreme cold conditions our bodies, normally reduce blood flow to fingers and toes to minimize heat loss. In patients with Raynaud's syndrome, this process is exaggerated; if may occur when the temperature is not particularly low, and upon rewarming, it takes too long for the blood vessels to return to normal Rain can be significant. # Melodrama 'Bullshot' aims for the funny bone

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

The best classic melodrama features three main ingredients -- a hero, a villain, and a damsel in distress who might be tied to the railroad tracks.

There are no damsels tied to the tracks at Depot Theater, but Clarkston Village Players' "Bullshot Crummond" features the same kind of exaggerated theatrics inside.

The hilarious parody of 1930's low-budget detective movies, now playing at the Depot, needs few props, owing its success to a cast of colorful characters. They're a delight to watch, partly because they resemble people we know — animated and real.

Remember the "Rocky and Bullwinkle" show? Bob Kaminskis and Elizabeth Wingert Nelson are the Boris-and-Natasha-like villains who are after Professor Fenton's (Mel Case) secret formula.

Wingert Nelson shows her natural flair for comedy, adding a little Marlene Dietrich/Mae West oomph with her seductive, come-hither glances. Sweeping an outlandish feather boa across her shoulder and constantly wielding a too-long cigarette holder, she's a walking vamp.

Case plays a variety of roles, among them a bumbling inspector and stuffy waiter. A long-time Player, Case proved Friday he's a perfect character actor — which is all the more amazing because he was ill with a cold throughout the entire weekend.

(Parents of young children, beware. There are a few "campy" scenes that suggest sexual situations, enough to earn a PG-13.)

Last but not least, there's the title character, of course, who smokes a long, curved pipe like famous detective Sherlock Holmes. But he's more like Dudley Do Right because he can get out of any scrape in the universe. That means, if he fell off a cliff like the Road Runner, he wouldn't fall until he looked down. And if he did fall, he'd probably brush himself off and say "I must be off to save the day!"

For example, at one point we find our hero Bullshot (wonderfully played by David Nelson) tied to a chair with a stick of dynamite in his mouth, after drinking some brandy. The Von Brunos are gloating, waiting for him to blow up. Curses! Can he get out of this one? You bethe can After escaping, he puffs up his manly chest and tells adoring damsel Rosemary Fenton (Nancy Penvose at her suffering best) how it was done -- besides providing some of the best run-on sentences you have ever heard:

"You see, there was this one small thing that Von Bruno hadn't accounted for. As you entered, the static electricity neutralized the force field, giving me time to take advantage of the inflammable properties of the brandy I drank earlier. Within the small amount of neck movement available to me under the magnetic paralysis, I formed my nasal cavity into a type of Liebig's Condenser, thereby concentrating the brandy fumes in one place. I then forced the fumes down each nostril with such intensity that they combusted the lighted end of the dynamite, thus forming a natural blow torch which completely severed the fuse, rendering the dynamite totally harmless -- The rest was easy."

It's enough to make a woman cry, "My hero!"
"Bullshot Crummond" continues its run Nov.

Teresa Puzerski

Teresa "Rose" Puzerski, 92, recently of Clarkston, died Nov. 15, 1998.

Mrs. Puzerski lived in Troy from 1944-1969 where she drove a school bus and enjoyed supervising children on a school playground. She and her late husband Ed retired to Fountain where they owned a small resort.

She is survived by daughters Clare Alexander of Ferndale and Mary Sloan of Davisburg; and grandchildren Melissa (Chris) Gedraitis and Chip Sloan. She was preceded in death by her husband Ed.

A funeral service took place Wednesday morning at the Lewis E. Wint and Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston. Burial will be Thursday at St. Mary's Cemetery in Custer. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to your favorite charity or to plant a flowering plant to serve as an annual reminder of her simple and gentle spirit.

Kicking off the holiday season in Clarkston

The sound of songs and the sight of lights help to kick off the holiday season in Clarkston, and the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce is helping out on both fronts.

The events start Friday, Nov. 27 with the lighting of the Tree of Caring, located at the corner of Washington and Main Streets at 7 p.m.

The tree lighting is sponsored by Lighthouse North and the Clarkston Rotary Club, and is a tribute to "very special people."

People can purchase lights in honor of those they'd like to remember in six different colors and six different prices. For more information, call Lighthouse North at 673-4949.

The Chamber is also looking for Christmas carolers to sing around town after the tree lighting ceremony. Refreshments will be provided, and anyone interested can call the Chamber at 625-8055.

Tough season comes to tough end

Missed opportunities cost Wolves in district loss

1998 Basketball Districts

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Considering the tough luck the Clarkston girls basketball team has had all season, Monday's first-round district game against the Oxford Wildcats came as no surprise.

Once again, Clarkston lost a close game late in the fourth quarter, losing at Oxford 40-35 in a game that ends the Wolves' season at 8-13 overall.

After the game, Clarkston coach Ann Lowney said key turnovers cost her team the win.

"We had our chances, we just didn't do it," she said. "The refs let both teams play, and they were consistent about it, but I think the physical play was to their advantage."

their advantage."

Sparking that physical style was Oxford's junior forward Liz Holbrook. She scored 17 of her 23 points in the second half and blocked five shots on a night when Sue Guevara, the head coach at the University of Michigan, came to scout her.

"I think they were looking to Liz more in the second half," Lowney said. "In the first and second quarters, she didn't get a lot of touches. But she's a good player, and she played well for them."

The Wolves jumped out to a 13-5 first-quarter lead and held it through the half despite missing seniors Deana Kanipe and Corinne McIntyre due to foul trouble

The Wildcats went on a 15-3 run through the second and third quarters to turn an eight-point deficit into a 27-23 lead halfway through the third quarter.

In the fourth, Clarkston clawed its way back into the game thanks to improved defense on Holbrook. The Wolves pulled to within 31-30, but the team missed five straight free throws in that stretch that could have given it a lead.

Freshman Kaye Christie nailed a 3-pointer from the left side to tie the game at 35-35 with 2:12 left in the game, but Oxford's Dana Millard threw up a prayer that rolled into the basket to give the Wildcats a 37-35 lead with 1:33 left, a lead they wouldn't lose again.

Clarkston had chances in the last minute, but the team missed four 3-point shots on the final possession of the game.

"It's the same story as it was all year," Lowney said. "We didn't take care of the basketball and didn't have kids in the right spots on offense."

McIntyre capped her basketball career by scoring eight points and grabbing a career-high 11 rebounds. She also made two critical free throws in the fourth quarter that pulled Clarkston to within three points, setting up Christie's tying 3-pointer. In her last six games, McIntyre averaged five points and nine rebounds per game.

Friends help each other out on the basketball court. Senior Nicole Colosimo (10) uses the pick set by senior Corinne McIntyre (24) to drive to the basket Thursday night at Waterford Kettering. Colosimo started the last two regular season games for Clarkston, while McIntyre collected a career-high 11 rebounds in Monday's 40-35 district loss at Oxford.

Junior Candace Morgan had her best offensive game in weeks with 10 points, all coming in the first half. Junior forward Rahcel Uchman, who along with Morgan will be the team leaders next year, scored five and had nine rebounds in a tough effort. Christie scored eight and had six rebounds.

"I learned that I have to keep teaching the game," Lowney said, looking back on the season. "When we started to struggle, I tried to become and Xs-and-Os coach, when we needed to keep learning the game, and that's my job. Tonight, we just got tired and worn down."

The team loses two key components in seniors Kanipe and McIntyre, but returns the other six players in the eight-man rotation. There will also be a group of talented players coming from the JV team, like frontcourt players Katie Jerge, Jen Karstensen, Nicole Thrift and Mary Warchuck.

Regular season wrapup:

For one night, the Wolves looked exactly like the team that rolled to an OAA I championship last year.

With a high-scoring offense and an excellent defensive game plan, the Wolves won a thrilling overtime game 59-53 over the Troy Colts Nov. 10.

Senior Deana Kanipe cuts to the basket during Clarkston's 39-30 loss at Waterford Kettering Thursday. Kanipe capped her career by eclipsing the 1,000-point barrier, which she did in her 31-point performance in the 59-53 overtime win over Troy Nov. 10.

Krygier gives hockey team a fresh start

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Through the first two years of the Clarkston hockey program, success has been high, but expectations have been even higher.

Entering its third season, the Wolves are headed into a new direction with a new coach and a veteran squad ready to compete with the best teams in the Bryan Krygier is the new head coach, replacing Rick Rowden and Glenn MacDonald, who were let go after last season. His assistant coach is Livonia resident Ralph Humphlett.

Last year, Clarkston advanced to the state quarterfinals before losing 4-1 to eventual state finalist Grosse Pointe South. The Wolves finished second in the North Division of the Suburban Prep Hockey League with a 19-8-1 overall record.

This year marks the first for the Oakland Activities Association sponsoring a hockey league. The Wolves are in Division I, along with Troy, Birmingham, Royal Oak, Waterford Mott and West Bloomfield, a first-year program.

Krygier gets a team loaded with talent, especially in the forward positions, to work with in his first Headlining this group are three-year players Bill Kalush, Anthony Facione and Adam Leech. All are high-scoring playmakers and will lead the team offensively.

Adding more depth to the offense are sophomores Steve Janowiak and Jon Bemis and juniors Derek Hool and Jason Stoecker. First-year players Nick Turner and Ryan MacKinnon will also figure into the offensive mix for the Wolves.

Bemis was one of the team's most improved players last year, and has a nice scoring touch around the net. MacKinnon moved to Clarkston last spring from Texas, and brings a quick skating style to the forwards.

"We've got four solid lines we can put out there," Krygier said. "We have good depth there, but we haven't settled on any line combinations yet."

Defensively, Clarkston will be counting on four veteran players: Ron Wells, Tom Newman, Brian Welbourn and D.J. Thomas. Wells was an All-County player last year and is one of the most physical players on the team. Newman improved greatly last year and brings size to the group. Welbourn is a big hitter and has solid all-around skills. Thomas was one of the team's captains last year and is very intelligent with the puck on offense and defense.

"Both Ronnie and D.J. are seniors, and we'll be counting on them to set the tone," Krygier said. "They come to play every day, and we need them to do the basic things."

Wells will be out for the first two to four weeks of the season after undergoing ankle surgery.

The Wolves are blessed with excellent depth in goal this year. Junior Steve Badger returns for his third season between the pipes. He doesn't rattle easily and improves his play as his workload increases.

After 14 years, I'm home

I finally made it. Last week, with the timely help of my family, I moved into a cozy little apartment right here in Clarkston. This move is a very big deal to me, for several reasons.

Naturally, it's great that I can finally live in the community that I work. I feel that is very important for anyone in my type of work. I've gotten to know many of you that have lived here, but I always saw myself as someone who was just visiting, despite the amount of time I actually spent

But now, I can see things here from the inside as well as the outside, and this will make me better able to serve the community in many ways.

Oh, how I will miss driving up and down M-15 all the time! In reality, I will miss that endless drive about as much as President Clinton will miss Ken Starr's subpoenas. I had to wave a sad goodbye to many M-15 landmarks I've grown to . . . deal with in the last 2 1/2 years, like those lovely ruts through the village of Ortonville and randomly scattered sand piles just north of Goodrich. Not to mention that blasted stop light at the Deerwood sub, which stays green most of the time, except when I happen to be jetting down the road and it suddenly turns yellow even though there's no traffic from the sub in sight.

My new place is within walking distance from work, and hey, just in time for below-freezing temperatures in the morning.

On another note, moving to Clarkston is the end of a goal I've had for 14 years. Until I was 11, we lived in Farmington Hills, and like many of you, those carefree childhood days were some of the fondest

As we packed our last few belongings into the truck on that day in April 1984, I promised my parents that someday, I would return to Oakland County to live and work. Like most 11-year-old boys, I figured it would be easy. Just graduate from high school and college, then just come to the Detroit area and find a

Of course, it wasn't that easy. But the bottom line is, I am now a resident of Oakland County, a real dream of mine for a long time.

It may not seem like a big deal to people who have lived here all their lives, but when we left Farmington Hills, I felt the separation almost as a physical thing, I never felt like I belonged in Midland, and anytime we came to the Detroit area, it felt so natural, so comfortable to be here.

Even after I arrived here a little more than two years ago, it was different because I always had to go home to Davison, which is near Flint, which is considered to be the same part of the state as Midland, Saginaw, etc.

Now, home is just around the corner. It's good to be back.

The Wolves finished the season with a 9-11 record after a 51-27 loss at Waterford Kettering Thursday, and a 42-31 win over Troy in the home finale Nov. 10.

Coach Jenny Warren said she was pleased with the progress her team made throughout the season. "It's nice to see as a coach the players make the improvement they have," she said. "We competed with everybody. Our second half of the season was totally different than the first half. We cut way down on our turnovers and we took much better care of the

Against Troy, Clarkston was sparked by the play of Lindsay Simko, who finished with a game-high 13 points. Mary Warchuck, who Warren said was one of the team's best players by the end of the season, had seven points and four rebounds. ### Turkey shoot on the way

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department will host its fourth annual Turkey Shoot next week.

The event, scheduled for Monday at Andersonville Elementary School, tests the free throw shooting ability of boys and girls of all ages.

There will be 11 age divisions, and winners will receive a frozen turkey, courtesy of Kroger.

The cost is $2 for youths (ages 8-17) and $3 for adults. The contest begins at 6:30 p.m. for ages 8-17 and 7:30 for those 18 and older. All participants must pre-register with the parks and rec. department by 6 p.m. Friday. For more information; please call Beth Walker at 625-8223.

Lady cagers lose to Oxford in first round of playoffs

It was the last home game of the season for Clarkston, and the emotional night was highlighted by terrific performances by the team's senior co-captains.

Kanipe lit up the Colts for a career-high 31 points in the win. She also surpassed 1,000 career points, including her two seasons with West Bloomfield.

McIntyre tied her career-high with 10 points, and added nine rebounds and three steals, and made several clutch plays on offense and defense that helped Royal Oak is ranked in the preseason top 10 in Class A, as are future opponents Cranbrook, Livonia Stevenson and Trenton. Krygier said he likes his team having the tough schedule, because it will get tested against the best teams in the state every week.

"Royal Oak is the team to beat," Krygier said. "We're looking forward to playing them.. They are in the top 10, and that's where we want to be, so we've got to step up our game against them. Birmingham should have a strong team also."

Basketball season over

Clarkston win the game.

"We went to a man-to-man defense to start overtime, and that was the difference," Lowney said. "My assistant coach came up with that, so I have to give him the credit."

Kanipe said the win couldn't have come at a better time for the Wolves, who picked up an important confidence-boosting win heading into districts.

"We were due for a win like this," she said, "We all have worked so hard in practice, this kind of game gets us pumped up."

The Wolves led most of the game, thanks to Kanipe's 10-point first quarter. Clarkston held a 28-19 lead at halftime, and led by as many as 12 early in the third

Troy battled back thanks to its 3-point shooting. The Colts nailed four 3-pointers in the fourth quarter, the last coming on a buzzer-beating shot by Thea Pappas to tie the game 51-51.

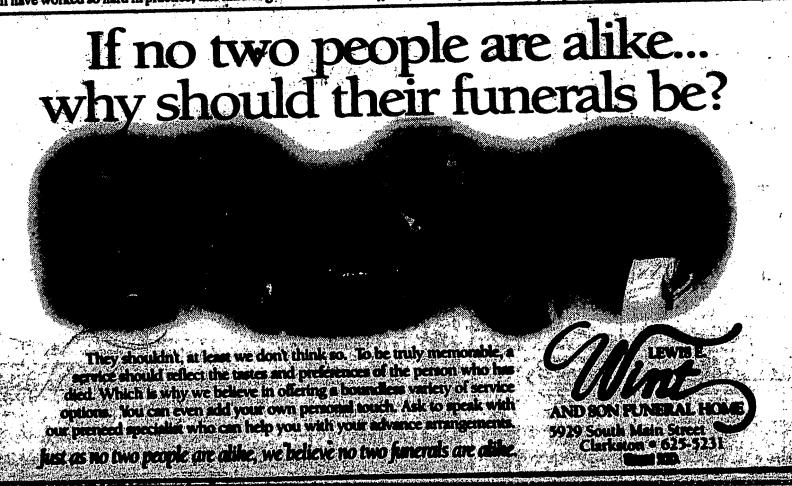

After that shot, it looked like another heartbreaking loss for the Wolves, who have lost more than their share this year. But the team's confidence stayed high.

"We told each other that we worked too hard to lose this game," McIntyre said. "We knew that if we kept working, we would win it."

The Clarkston coaching staff switched from its 2-3 zone defense to the man-to-man in overtime because the Colts' two best players - Samantha Essian and Carrie Geden - had both fouled out.

The defensive change held Troy to just two points in the five-minute overtime, while Clarkston made six-of-eight free throws in the extra session. For the game, the Wolves hit on 26-of-40 foul shots, both season-

Christic played a strong game at point guard, scoring three, while dishing out six assists and swiping five steals.

Several audience members were current or retired employees from the Orion plant. One man said he felt the estimated hours of operation were far from correct. "I work from 6:30 (p.m.) to 1(a.m.)," he said. "That's a consideration you need to have."

Another man noted the Orion plant is down to one shift -- headed toward yet another plant closing with GM's expected exodus from the U.S. "They may ship the (Orion) GM plant down to Mexico and then we're stuck with an empty warehouse," he said. One man suggested a GM representative be sent to the next meeting.

Other residents were concerned about the impact on Pine Knob Elementary School next door, pointing to its air-conditioning system which could draw toxic fumes from diesel trucks.

"You have school children. I can't see this project is feasible," said Frank Nido, a building engineer for a heating and cooling company.

Commissioners sided with residents, agreeing developers need to provide more information and extensive revisions.

Referring to the eight-foot wall, Dan Travis said, "It still reminds me of Jackson Prison." However, he added, "It is a change for your neighborhood. But something is going to go there."

"It's an appropriate use," agreed Todd Moss. "But it may be a too-big use."

Board said developers will be required to provide traffic, lighting and environmental studies and landscape upgrades. "You have a lot of work to do, folks,"

A special meeting is scheduled for Thursday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the township annex. Board said commissioners are expected to vote on conceptual site plan approval.

On Friday, township engineer Tom Biehl said counters were placed near another GM warehouse in Canton Township in order to determine traffic impact. Traffic signals would most likely be installed at the Bow Pointe-Sashabaw intersection, he said.

Biehl said developers may also be required to widen Sashabaw at Bow Pointe, as part of the road widening project from Maybee to I-75. "If they're coming to town, let's make it better," he said.

In other commission action:

■Commissioners approved a one-year extension for the Rite -Aid pharmacy planned for the corner of Clarkston and Sashabaw.

Oakhurst received special land use and conceptual site plan approvals for Phase 6, Montclair.

Commissioners passed final site plan approval, 5-2, for Pine Knob Wine Shoppe, contingent on bringing signage plans into conformity with township ordinance. Moss and Rich Oppmann voted no.
