Lending a helping hand . . .

Mary Halpin loads up some bags to be delivered to area families by Lighthouse Clarkston Monday morning. Halpin has helped Lighthouse feed needy families in the Clarkston area for eight years.

Holiday tree lighting ceremony Friday

Roasted chestnuts, apple cider, Christmas Carols and a visit from Santa — a perfect way to start the holiday season.

It all begins at 7 p.m. Friday, November 27 at the 4th annual Tree of Caring at the corner of Main and Washington streets in downtown Clarkston to benefit Lighthouse Clarkston.

Enjoy roasted chestnuts from Rudy's Market, cider from The Clarkston Cafe and sweet sounds of the Clarkston High School girls Bell Canto Choir singing Christmas Carols. Santa, arriving on a fire truck, will plug in the lights.

Through a partnership with Clarkston Rotary Club, community members will have the opportunity to purchase "love lights," in honor or memory of family and friends. Your contribution to the Tree of Caring will assist Lighthouse in its mission to · respond to families and seniors who have an immediate need for food, medicine, transportation, utilities and shelter.

The love lights range in price from $5 to $50.

The top star may be purchased for $100.

Last year, Lighthouse brought a joyous holiday to 1,180 families and seniors. Donors can adopt low-income families and seniors and provide wish list items. They can also give general donations of new clothing and gifts which will be used to stock the Christmas Store, or contribute financially to the Good Neighbor Fund to help those with special

Developer to reduce density for new sub

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A rezoning request took an unexpected turn last Tuesday — to lower, not higher, density.

Pitching his request to the Independence Township Board was Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, president and CEO of the Silverman Companies in Farmington Hills. Silverman asked to rezone the firm's latest Independence project, — a 33.15-acre parcel on Waldon near I-75 to be called Waldon Preserve - from rural residential (R-1R) to suburban residential (R-1B).

An earlier request to rezone the parcel to singlefamily residential (R-1A) was denied by the board last

The revised proposal calls for the number of lots in the reduced from 59 to 46, with larger building aites.

In the single-family residential, the smallest lots would have been 15,000 square feet. Under suburban residential, they'll be nearly twice that large — at least 33,000 square feet.

At an earlier planning commission meeting, the firm figured as many as 89 homesites could have been built under R-1A.

Silverman said he surveyed neighbors and local officials, and looked at surrounding uses such as Pine Knob Golf Course, before deciding on the transitionaltype project that will "move up gradually from the current (rural residential) zoning."

He said the development would be compatible with existing uses, as well as another Silverman community, Waldon Creek, further east. Referring to his other projects in the Waldon Road area, Silverman said the firm wants to continue its "excellent relationship" with Independence Township.

He said forested tree stands will be preserved along the service drive and I-75, acting as a natural fence or buffer. A cluster-type development will "pull" homes away from the busy freeway, he added.

The board approved a first reading, 6-1. Supervisor Dale Stuart voted no, because he didn't think Silverman needed to include a "developer's agreement" in the plans.

Trustee Neil Wallace and Clerk Joan McCrary applauded the revisions. In the past, both have criticized fellow officials for "chipping away" at the township's rural character by supporting higher-density projects.

Wallace, in particular, has objected to three rezonings north of Clarkston Road. At an earlier meeting he called for a moratorium on development until the township could re-evaluate its master plan.

"It is no secret that I have been uniformly opposed to what I view as a rash of recent rezonings, and called for the re-examination of the master plan, he said.

McCrary referred to the rezoning as "a gift. I was all prepared to argue with you about from R-1A

It's final - no water park

By Genna Cottrell Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's official - Springfield Township says no thanks once again to the proposed water park.

A request by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority to rezone 41 acres in Indian Springs Metropark from resource conservation (RC) to planned unit development (PUD) was unanimously denied by the Springfield Township board last Thursday, shutting down the HCMA's latest bid for a waterpark at that

The vote comes as no suprise to residents, who had voiced displeasure at the proposed project during recent township board meetings. The board also previously expressed grave concerns regarding the water park, and their vote put the final nail in the coffin for the project.

In other board action:

The board unanimously accepted a second reading of the excavation and extraction ordinance, regulating the removal of dirt and gravel and the fill-

Nancy Strole, Springfield Township Clerk, said the ordinance is mainly aimed at stopping developers from prematurely excavationg and grading on proposed building sites before final site approval is granted by the board. Violation of the ordinance can result in up to $500 in fines.

Clarkston's Gordie Richardson honored as he attends 50th straight Thanksgiving Parade

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Death, taxes, and Gordie Richardson attending America's Thanksgiving Day Parade in downtown De-

Not many things happen in this ever-changing world for 50 years in a row, but the above three items all fit into that category.

Thursday, Richardson, a Clarkston resident, will attend his 50th consecutive Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit, and is being honored with a commemorative jacket and a spot on one of the floats.

Attending this parade will be special for Richardson, who saw his first one when he was three months old and living on Grand River and Wyoming in Detroit with his parents Harlan and Gladys.

"It's something I look forward to every year," he said. "I like getting up in the morning when it's a little crisp in the air. The drive isn't that bad, and we make the walk from Gratiot and I-75 to Woodward to see the parade.'

Richardson's honor came as a result of a lot of work by his wife Ann. She spent the better part of two years making phone calls and cutting through red tape to get permission to use the parade's official logo for the varsity-style jacket.

"Ann decided two years ago that if I got to 50, it was something worth commemorating," Gordie said. "So she called the parade company and tried to get permission to use the logo. They ignored her for a while, but she finally got through and got the permission."

Ann Richardson said she was very impressed that anyone could do anything for 50 years in a row. After all, Major League Baseball couldn't even play the World Series for 50 straight years from 1944-1994.

"You always have to be healthy and always be able to get there," Ann said of her husband's attendance at the parade. "My only goal was to get him that jacket."

Gordie and Ann credited the efforts of several other people with helping to secure the logo for the jacket. Julie Geiger, who works with the parade company's public relations firm, got the permission for the logo use. Lee Ann St. Dennis did the embroidery of the J.L. Hudson's logo on the front, and "did a phenomenal job," on it, accoring to Ann. Bob Von Bargen of Tri-County Sports also did work on the jacket.

"They really went out of their way to do a nice job," Ann said. "We got the permission so late, but they had the jacker ready. They have been bety accomodating

The spot in the parade caps a year of honors for Richardson: He was the meet honoree at the Oakland County Track Meet in May, getting recognized for his years of service to the sport of track. He is a teacher at Clarkston High School and is the head coach of the varsity volleyball and girls track teams, and is the offensive coordinator of the varsity football team. He is Richardson appeared in the parade on one other occassion, in 1985. He shook hands, passed out candy, and did lots of waving when he joined with other walkers when his brother David worked for the Kmart corporation and invited him to join. Richardson appeared in the parade dressed as an astronaut, making it an out-of-this-world expereince.

In those 50 years, Richardson said not much has changed, except for the length, which has more than doubled from 45 minutes to two hours-plus. There have also been some days where the weather was less-thencoopertive for the parade, but Richardson didn't mind.

"As you know there its't much kind of weather

Surprisingly, in those 50 years. Richardson couldn't recall a time when he was even late for the parade, let alone not make one at all.

"There were a couple times we can a little line because of transportation problems," he said. "We would think. 'Do we really want to go?', and we would always end up going.

"It's fun to be out there for the parade;" he said. "We enjoy the people and enjoy watching the band and band directors. I've had some of my kids in the Turkey Trot, and we would yell for them, and they would wave back. But the kids will be able to look for me in the parade now."

Churches match growth in Independence Township

Focus is not just building expansions, but increased community service and activities for youth

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Records show crime has risen -- even in the suburbs. It's especially alarming when you consider the stats on young people: an 11-year-old boy gunning down a man in front of a party store; a 14-year-old who rapes a 9-year-old girl.

Some feel church membership is declining. But in Independence Township, it seems to be the opposite, with churches keeping pace with a growing community. More and more, churches are expanding their facilities to include, not only building space, but activities to guide children and parents in a troubled world.

One example is Calvary Lutheran Evangelical Church on Bluegrass, which is planning an 8,100square-foot expansion that includes doubling its worship space, a new gathering space, nursery, offices and a "cry room" for parents who need to remove little ones from church services when they're fretful.

Calvary has expanded several times since the first structure was built in 1962. Last month it received a preliminary nod for a new site plan from the township's planning commission.

"We have just grown and keep adding," says Senior Pastor Dr. Bob Walters, who has been with Calvary for 27 years. Since last year, Walters estimates average attendance at the Sunday service has risen from 316 to 336 people. The new sanctuary will Recently, the church decided it needed to add a second service. Sunday worship is now at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. A new private day care center, which operates out of the church, has also opened.

Walters remembers the first congregation 27 years ago as "small and struggling." Since then, it's been nothing but growth.

Many new - and young - families are moving into the Clarkston area, he says. And they're looking for a certain quality of life, including the best ways in which to raise their children. Walters cites a "spiritual hunger" and says the old days of attending church "for sake of show" just aren't relevant anymore.

Two years ago township trustee Dan Travis, a veteran of various township boards for nearly 30 years, joked it's far easier to name churches that haven't expanded. Those that have include St. Daniel Catholic Church, Everest Academy (a Catholic church and school), Maranatha Baptist Church, and First Congregational Church of Clarkston.

Recent projects include Oakland Woods Baptist Church on Maybee, with a $1 million plan to more than double its space, and Mt. Zion Temple, which has grown from a handful of parishioners in the '70s, to a new facility that now serves hundreds at its current home on Maybee.

But building additions are only part of the picture. Churches like Mt. Zion have grown to be community-oriented -- providing needs and services that extend beyond the boundaries of their own congregations.Mt. Zion has added a Performing Arts Center on Maybee, a school and recreational/ministry facility in Waterford, and Clarkston Christian Association, a youth center at Sashabaw and Maybee that targets middle-school-age children.

Clarkston Community Church of God on Clarkston Road also has kids in mind. With the Clarkston High School just across the street, the church hopes to draw high-schoolers into its fold.

One plan is to hire a new youth pastor, a position currently vacant. "We want to have a ministry for the young people in Clarkston," says Senior Pastor Greg Henneman.

The church has "very active" music and drama programs, says Associate Pastor Bonnie Laudeman, noting two areas that draw young people. In the last four years, the Wednesday night youth group has grown from five to 40, members who come from elementary through high school Called "No Fear" (Night of Fellowship, Enrichment and Recreation) the evening includes dinner, worship, recreation and Bible study.

Activities include hay rides and "lock-ins." Recently, kids spent the night at Saginaw State University where they enjoyed the pool, gym, track and basketball court. No Fear night also features a youth choir, children's choir and a drama team, where children create skits they perform at Sunday services.

'What we'd like to do in the next couple of years is to increase it to two nights," says Henneman. The church also plans to expand youth theology and Bible classes.

Youth participation is one reason why "we're outgrowing the building," says Laudeman. On Wednesday, night "every single room is used."

To accommodate those and other needs, Clarkston Community is also planning a huge building expansion. The church recently retired its $325,000 mortgage debt and is launching the next phase: "Project Expand ... Forward By Grace."

The goal is to raise over half a million dollars for a new sanctuary, gymnasium, additional classrooms and an expanded child care/school facility, which currently serves infants to third-graders. "We want to expand it to fifth (grade)," says Laudeman.

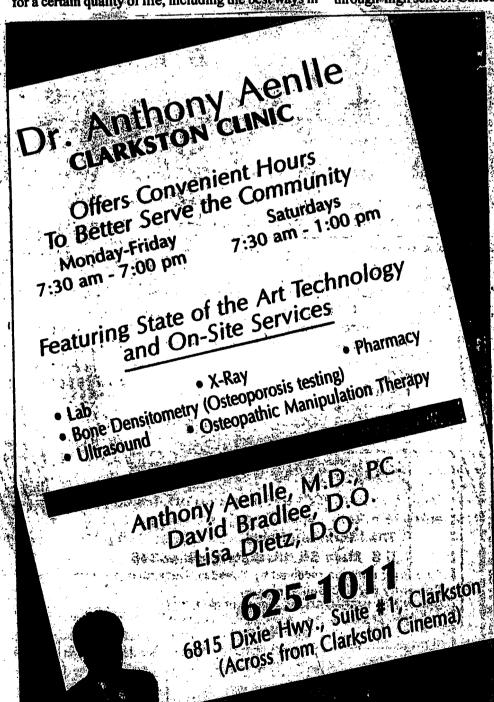

"We decided to develop a master plan as we grow now and will grow to add on. Not haphazardly, but with a long-term vision in mind."

The new facility "will close to quadruple our size." adds Henneman.

Like others, the church emphasizes community service. In December it holds a drive-through "Live Nativity," with members silently depicting the scene of Christ's birth outside, and a "Living Christmas Tree," complete with a choir amidst a huge display of 10 Christmas trees -- with lights that flash to the music.

This year the Live Nativity is Dec. 23, from 6-9 p.m., and Dec. 24, from 7-9 (6-7 p.m. is a special Christmas Eve service). T ing Christmas Tree service is Dec. 19 and 20 p.m.

"Both are big community events," says Laudeman. On Tuesday, Nov. 24, the church will also host the annual Community Thanksgiving Service, held at a different local church each year.

Currently, the church is exploring ways to work with the new high school, in conjunction with CHS Principal Brent Cooley, a church member.

This year it hosted the "See You at the Pole Breakfast." Generated by a group of CHS students, the event drew students around the new flagpole for a national day of prayer.

As always, "it's a matter of choice," said Cooley, when it comes to student involvement. "The church is very interested in helping kids with positive activities-teenage night, open recreation or whatever they'd be interested in.

"Almost every kid drives by there every day. It's a great opportunity to be of service." Many students also attend the church, "so that's just a natural outreach."

Laudeman says, "People will go to a place where their needs are met. From day one, the plan of this congregation has been community-oriented."

Further east on Clarkston Road, First Congregational Church has also expanded to two Sunday services. "We were just overloaded," says Pastor Jim Keough.

The church also places top priority on community service. Two examples are its work with Lighthouse Clarkston and membership with Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. The church even has a booth at the annual CACC Business Expo.

This year it promoted "Festival of Trees," a Nov. 21 event that included Christmas trees and greens for sale, Santa and more. It also hosted a recent "What Kids Need to Succeed" program that examined 40 prime assets kids need in order to develop into well-rounded individuals.

"More people are coming to church because there's evidence of this need," says Keough. "In order to do that, (kids) need to have moral and religious teaching ...

"Young families are coming to Clarkston for the safety, the wide open spaces -- all the things that draw people to the suburbs." He notes churches keep pace with that fact. "All the churches out here are developing and growing."

Though not currently planning an expansion, St. Trinity Lutheran Church on Sashabaw has purchased a 10-acre parcel next door -- with an eye on future growth. That's good planning, notes Pastor Michael Klafehn.

"We may not see it, but the next generation will. Our children will say, 'Boy, those people really knew what they were doing."

Senior Pastor Dr. Bob Walters and Associate Pastor Jonathon Heierman of Calvary Lutheran stand next to a stake that marks the end of the new sanctuary addition.

Nothing is impossible for the man who doesn't have to do it himself.

Winter tax bills on their way

Dear Editor,

Hats off to true 'vision'

Editorial

We would like to applaud Buzz Silverman for lowering the density he's proposing for a new sub in Independence Township.

The proposed development is located north of I-75 on the east side of Waldon Road, across from the entrance to Pine Knob Golf Course.

Though turned down for a higher density rezoning earlier, Silverman could have come back and pursued his request with some revisions. Instead he chose to canvass neighbors and find out what they'd like to see in their back yard. He also assessed the impact on surrounding areas and returned with plans for fewer, larger homesites.

Silverman says he plans to save as many trees as possible, which will create a natural buffer from the I-75 freeway. A cluster-type development will also pull homes away from the noise and traffic, making the development a more desirable place in which to live.

Silverman joins others who have relinquished plans to squeeze as many homes as they can into the township's rural atmosphere. It doesn't mean they will make less money. In fact, they may make more because people will have larger, more valuable homesites.

One such development is Bridge Valley. Both Springfield Township and the developers won state awards for their painstaking care to preserve natural features — which meant sacrificing some prospective homesites for breathtaking vistas that everyone can enjoy.

We also applaud township officials Neil Wallace and Joan McCrary for taking a stand against higher-density developments in Independence Township. It is this kind of stubbornness and refusal to become "urban" that makes the township special and different.

When Independence developed Vision 2020, its guide to future planning as the township grows, it decided rural preservation was one of the top priorities. Where, we ask, is that vision when there's a chance to deny these types of rezonings?

Maybe Silverman was just doing what he could to insure another project. But he's setting a good example. We hope other developers will step up to the plate as well. EMC

Winter tax bills are mailed by the 1st of December. Taxes are payable from Dec. 1 through Feb. 14. This year, Feb. 14 falls on a Sunday. Also, Monday, Feb. 15 is President's day which is a legal holiday. Therefore, winter taxes can be accepted on Tuesday, Feb. 16 without late charges. Starting Wednesday, Feb. 17 winter taxes paid will have a 3 percent penalty. After Monday, March 2 taxes are delinquent and can be only paid at the Oakland County Treasurer's office. In March, you should contact the township treasurer's office for a revised bill to pay at the county.

This Christmas season the township offices will be closed Thursday, Dec. 24 and Friday, Dec. 25. The township treasurer's office hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you are paying your own bill you can mail it; put it in the night drop box located by the front door of the township hall; pay at a local branch of NBD, Old Kent, National City (formerly First of America), or Oxford Bank; or pay in person at the township hall. Local bank branches may not provide this service in the future. Charge or debit cards are not accepted for payment at this time.

The winter tax rates have been set for residents in Independence Township. Your winter tax bill consists of township and county taxes. The township rate is 7.7991 mills. Included in the total is the voter approved funding for police, fire, library, safety paths, and general operations. The county portion this year is 4.6564 mills. The total winter tax rate is 12.4555 mills.

Last year, the total of winter taxes was 14.5334 mills. The biggest factor in the drop of tax rates for Clarkston school district residents this year is the transfer of 1.80 mills of school debt that was moved from winter to summer taxes this year. There are additional small decreases for all residents in their township and county rates this year.

Your tax bill is calculated by multiplying the taxable value of your property times the approved millage rate and divided by 1,000. For example, take a house worth $200,000. This house would have a taxable value of about $100,000 (SEV of at least $100,000) would owe $1,245.55 this winter. Last year this home owner would have paid $1,453.34.

There are a couple of variables that could increase your total winter property taxes. Any special assessments that you may have are added onto the winter tax bill. Specials could include such things as street light districts, sewer or water projects, lake maintenance, or road paving projects. Also, if you have delinquent water or sewer bills, they are added on the winter bill.

Low interest rates have resulted in increased numbers of real estate sales and refinancing of mortgages. Contact the treasurer's office to verify that your taxes have been paid up to date. Please make sure if you close on a new home that you file a property transfer affidavit and a homestead exemption, if applicable, in the Assessor's Office. Any name change or mailing address change for a property must be communicated to the Assessor's Office.

If you have changed your mortgage company or have dropped your mortgage tax escrow account, you need to contact the treasurer's office. The treasurer's office will make every attempt to ensure property owners receive their bill in a timely fashion. If you pay your own taxes, you need to make sure you receive a bill. If you don't receive a tax bill or a customer copy by the second week in July (summer taxes) or second week of December (winter taxes), you need to contact the Treasurer's Office.

Please contact the treasurer's office at 625-5111 ext. 209, 212, or 248 if you have any questions.

Sunday was one of those days I decided to pull out all the stops and goof off.

Oh, I did my usual grocery shopping and quick cleanup around the house, but this day was going to be different. With both my son and husband working, I had time for myself.

That's quite a change from the old days of balancing a baby on one knee while vacuuming and answering the phone.

What would I do? Go to the gym? Read a trashy novel? Paint my toenails Raving Red? Finally, the call of the mall won out.

Well, why not, I said. I owed it to myself to visit Great Lakes Crossing (or Great Lakes Expectations, as my husband's friend calls it). I'm lucky. Michigan's biggest, newest mall is right in my own backyard. Why, I've heard some people even check themselves into local hotels to enjoy the experience.

With my purse (one strap attached with safety pins) slung over my shoulder, I was a wide-eyed kid in a candy store. When you don't have a lot of money, you're amazed at all the parcels people are carrying. Can they really afford all that stuff?

I sat down on one of those narrow ledges along the storefront — barely big enough to balance my keister — and got out that piece of plastic that says Master Card, I also got out the mall map.

After positioning myself in various directions, I finally figured out just where "You are here" was. I made my way to Burlington Coat Factory and picked out a new purse for me and a new coat for my son. Hallelujah! I only spent $60.

This year I've been a little blue anticipating the holidays. It's the combination of my daughter moving out of state, my son's last year of high school and premenopause. It's comforting to know other women in my age group have been experiencing the same thing.

Saving a little money with those outlet prices sure helped toward putting me in the holiday spirit. I even treated myself to a freshly squeezed lemonade.

Today, things were better. The sun was shining, God was in his heaven and all was right with the world. At my age, you never know what your hormones have in store.

Even my sweet husband has been helpful. He offered to cook Thanksgiving dinner this year — Boston Market style.

He suggested picking up a fully cooked turkey breast Thanksgiving morning and said he could manage the rest — even the mashed potatoes.

The change from the usual sounds tempting.
Change is what I'm fighting, I figure. Change from the days of having both kids around for dinner and bouncing through the kitchen like a teenager.

But my mother and grandmothers went through it, so I guess I can too.

And change is OK. I can still bake a couple of pies while watching "Miracle on 34th Street."

However, I am going to have to turn down my husband's idea of opening a can of gravy.

Clarkston United Methodist Church progressive, timely with Human Sexuality Seminar

Dear Editor,

In light of what is going on in our nation's capitol, the Human Sexuality Seminar for middle school youth and their parents came to Clarkston United Methodist Church at a very opportune time.

The facilitator, Terry Gladstone, used humor and first-hand experience in her two-day seminar held Nov.

With the support of youth director John Leece, and parent Mary Bauer, 23 students and their parents took part in this hands-on approach to sexual education in the church. Each student received literature, and parents received information about asset-building for Christ, reflective listening and some very valuable communication skills.

I am so pleased to see how progressive Clarkston United Methodist Church is by bringing this to our community. It shows how much the church cares about the education and well-being of our youth.

They have earned respect for themselves ... and it seems a shame that there are Tripps and Lewinskis

The creep factor is taking over Washington

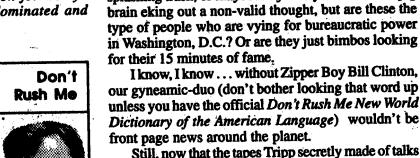

"Don, I'm really glad to see you, Patricia Ireland, Jane Fonda and Gloria Steinem are all on the same page. Your stance on womyn's rights and fighting spirit has been an inspiration for womyn all over this fair (if overly-male dominated and genderly biased) country of ours."

Needless to say, the mailman has never come up to my home on Keebler Mountain to deliver such a letter. I can honestly say, folks haven't accused me of being sympathetic with the liberation movement. That said, I believe the fairer sex is taking an unfair pounding at the hands of gold-digging Monica Lewinksi and Linda Tripp.

These chics certainly ain't giving women a good name (as the reverends Jim Baker and Jimmy Swaggart didn't do good by the collar, and as Prez Clinton has shamed fathers and husbands).

I know plenty hard-working, dedicated women. Those who put in a solid day's work at home, in government and at their places of business. These gals (I'm sure it fills their hearts with warm, fuzzy feelings to be called "gals") go about their business and lives without chips on their shoulders or any sort of martyr-syndrome. our gyneamic-duo (don't bother looking that word up unless you have the official Don't Rush Me New World Dictionary of the American Language) wouldn't be front page news around the planet. Still, now that the tapes Tripp secretly made of talks with Lewinski about the latter's presidentially sealed of approval affair are out . . . well, gosh darn it, it just doesn't look good. It's embarrassing and it's another slam-dunk about life in the nation's capital. One's a shark, the other a ding-bat.

Am I saying all the men and women in Washington D.C. are crooks and sleaze-balls? No. But we certainly hear and read enough about creeps on either side of the isle and gender table to make honest folk run for the hills and not for public office.

Do women deserve better, you bet, and so do the rest of us red-blooded Americans.

(PS: I promise not to write anymore on the subject . as far as you know.)

Our newspaper for seniors, The Mature American, often gets news releases for the hard of hearing. It may be captioned movies or new medical discoveries or where to find help.

After spending several hours with our 10- and 13-year-old grandchildren, I've concluded the news releases should also be aimed at that age group.

I repeated more to them than I ever repeated after a spicy meal.

Of course their hearing is not mal. It's the same as all children and grandchildren of people we've talked to throughout our lives.

They don't hear what is directed at them the first time be-

1. Everything and anything they are doing at that time is more important. 2. They know whatever was said to them is probably important enough for the speaker to say it again.

3. Most of the time it is bad news and they aren't ready for:

- a. Bed.
- b. Meals
- c. Chores
- d. School e. Anything having to do with picking up, cleaning

Parents/grandparents know this hearing deficit is not confined to 10-13-year-olds. It starts earlier than that and lasts much longer.

Come to think of it, some of our aging friends have to be spoken up to rather frequently.

Probably the least likely time we get an answer from our grandkids on the first try is when they are watching cartoons. The idea for this column came while sitting with Karen and Danny on a Saturday. If it had been Sunday I know they would have been watching "Meet the Press."

It's been a long time since I watched TV cartoons, and they've gotten right into the mood, social climate and permissiveness of today's culture.

The cartoon people were saying "hell" and "damn" just like people on TV shows the other six days a week.

Our nation's morals are in the pot. If I were from today's generation that description would be a lot more apt and vulgar.

Retired pharmacist Bill Patterson said a little boy told him he learned the fourth commandment Sunday School: "Humor thy father and thy mother."

Tim Sievers is a 1996 Clarkston High School graduate. He is currently a junior at Greenville College in Illinois, studying history and political science. Currently he is attending the American Studies Program in Washington D.C., which is an extension campus program offered through the Coalition for Christian Colleges and Universities.

During the semester we have seminar classes on domestic and international policy and participate in an internship. My internship is in the White House, Office of Presidential Personnel.

When I came to our nation's capital city I made a promise to myself that I wouldn't let my experience be ordinary and that I wouldn't let the city make me cold and hard. My time here is now halfway gone and it's time to evaluate my progress or lack thereof as the case may be.

You can call me young, naive, idealistic, and you would be right - with great hope for a political future I came, and hope to make a that changed me. After attending the Republican National Committee election night celebration, I exited the Ronald Reagan building to head home via the metro. The closest stop I could think of was about a half-mile from Freedom Park, where I was, so I started in that direc-

No sooner had I begun my trek, than a man my parent's age approached me. He wasn't clean cut like me, his hair was greasy and he was wearing a soiled ball cap. In his hands he held a stale loaf of Italian bread.

I stopped. I always stop. The long and short of it is that he asked for some money. I reached in my pocket and gave him the eleven cents that I found.

He thanked me profusely and as a gesture of thanks asked if he could walk me to my destination. I agreed and he walked me to the metro station just a few blocks from where we met. (At this point, all I could think of was my mother telling me that everything I was doing and that I was about to do was a bad idea). Along the way we exchanged some small talk about where we grew up, our college experiences and our families.

As we were nearing departure he thanked me and asked again if I could do anything to help him out. I looked him straight in his bloodshot eyes. Every time I meet someone new I make it a goal to look them in the eye — it shows that you feel secure and that you care about who they are and what they are saying. I told him I didn't have any more to give. He proceeded to tell we what an honorable and decent person I was and that though he couldn't be my father while I was away from home, he could still be my best friend. Then we parted company.

Until that night, I considered myself a pretty decent person. Most of you would probably agree, from what you have read so far. After all, how many of us would have even stopped, let alone hold a conversation for half an hour with a stranger. The problem I have is that while this strange man was telling me what an honorable man I was I had twenty-four dollars in my pocket. For whatever reason, I chose to give not even one dollar to that man, Perhaps one dollar was all that was separating that man and a decent meal for the day.

Now, I just spent five weeks discussing and researching the impeachment process and what justice demands of the system and of me. The conclusion I came to in the end was that a major social and biblical component of justice was equity and that should be a value that drives our actions in the impeachment pro-

My biblical heritage demands that I "Give justice to the weak and the orphan; maintain the right of the lowly and the destitute. Rescue the weak and the needy ..." (Psalm 82:3-4). The fact then is that I failed my faith, the foundational tenets of who I am I shoved to the wayside.

Socially, equality is a major component of our society. We have special interest groups of all kinds to promote equality for senior citizens, immigrants, the poor, and minorities.

I had a social and biblical responsibility to promote social justice, the equality of all peoples and in this situation I negated that principle.

The great struggle that I have is with the notion comings.

Should I have given this stranger some money? Should I have bought him supper? Should I have even stopped? Was the just thing for me to do to hide the fact that I had money to give, whether that be out of a sense of fear or a sense of needing to protect myself? What presuppositions do I have about homeless people that led me to act the way that I did? Is it right to base my actions on ill-founded notions?

I don't pretend to know the answers. I do believe, however, that my actions were not just and if that man had been "one of the least of these," (Matthew 25) I think Jesus would have been disappointed in my actions. I bet, though, that homeless man I met, though he may not be a college graduate or a prominent public figure could help me understand what justice is and what its role is in our society.

SCAMP Christmas cards available

You can give a Christmas card to a child with special needs thanks to a program run through SCAMP.

Christmas cards can be given to the children, who attend a summer camp for those with special needs. Cards can be purchased atthe Clarkston Community Schools Student Support Services Building, near the old Clarkston High School. The cards are $10 for a package of 15.

The cards come in three different designs. A nativity scene was designed by Heidi Wangelin, a 7year-old special needs child in the 1998 program. A second card, titled "Happy Holidays" with candles and holly, was designed by Cathy Eby, an advertising design student at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus. A third card, a white pine tree on a blue background, was made by another OTC-NW student, Ellen Winohradsky.

Contributions "in honor of" or "in memory of" of someone special are also welcomed. Contributions can be mailed to: Clarkston SCAMP, 6590 Middle Lake Rd., Clarkston, MI, 48346.

For more information, call Geri Batt at 625-3330. Donations are tax-deductible.

- pounds Bosc or Anjou pears peeled, cored, and sliced (about 5 cups)
- cups fresh or frozen cranberries
- cup granulated sugar cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- % cup all-purpose flour
- teaspoon ground nutmeg Tablespoons (a stick) cold unsalted butter, cut into 1-inch
- cup coarsely chopped hazelnuts (filberts)
- cup quick-cooking oatmeal Heavy cream or vanilla ice cream

Preaheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Combine the pears and cranberries in a deep 11/4- to 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle the granulated sugar over the fruit and toss thoroughly.

Mix the brown sugar, flour, and nutmeg in a medium bowl. Cut in the butter with a pastry blender or rub in with your fingers until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Mix in the nuts and oatmeal. Sprinkle evenly over the fruit.

Bake for 35 to 40 minutes, or until the fruit is bubbly and the top is golden brown. Spoon into bowls and serve hot or warm with heavy cream or ice cream.

Remember that old saying -"Do not judge a book by its cover?" Too many of us seem to have forgotten the importance of this.

Recently the press has been relentless on the accusation that Calista Flockhart, the actress that plays Ally McBeal, is anorexic. This accusation is based solely on the fact that she appears extremely thin.

I myself also get accused of this - and have been accused of it all of my life. I have never had anything even close to an eating disorder. In fact, I probably eat more than many people twice my size due to my fast metabo-

Beeker * Street

Have a list of hard to shop for folks this holiday season? Your problems are solved, and without spending hours wandering endless stores at shopping malls. Stay close to home, and discover a unique and beautiful source for gift giving at Beeker Street. Located at 7012 Dixie Highway, Beeker Street offers the latest designs in home accessories and personal tokens of love. Judy Heaton and Ramona Ludvigsen proudly display one of this year's treasures, hand crafted boxes from Italy. Carved in an old world design and lined in silk, each box is a original work of art, signed by the artist. Although an obvious choice to hold trinkets and baubles, Ramona likes to add them to living areas as a decorative way to hide remote controls and other every day objects. Check out their fine array of Murano glass and other unique items for the home. Beeker Street is open on Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4

HARASSMENT CLIMATE THE NEW SEXUAL

The Supreme Court recently handed down three rulings that may change the way sexual harassment cases are handled. The first says that a company may defend itself by arguing that it had procedures set up to prevent and correct sexual harassment. The second ruling says that a company with considerable anti-harassment procedures can make a strong defense argu-ment by claiming that the victim "unreasonably failed" to use the system to his or her benefit. Lastly, victims of sexual harassment no longer must show that they suflonger must show that they sur-ferred tangible consequences to prove their cases, in adde/'s chang-ing environment, those who feel they have been sexually harassed in the workplace have even more reason to discuss their circum-etances with a knowledgeable law-

Wallace acknowledged the "internal and external" effects of density on those who live in and move to Independence Township. He said said this kind of development will attract new residents who share the philosophy of not wanting to see the township turn "urban."

"When all of us are long gone, the kinds of folks who move here ... will be sitting here - making the same kind of defenses in the future that will need to be made," he said.

OTC-NW chef culinary award

Close to 100 family members, friends, co-workers and students helped honor Deb Trudeau last week as the American Culinary Federation's (ACF) National Chef Professionalism Award Winner for 1998.

At the ACF ceremony in California in July, Trudeau, a lead teacher at Oakland Technical Center, Northwest Campus, received a gold medal, plaque and $2,500 honorarium.

Two scholarships will also be presented in her name to Macomb Community College and Oakland Community College.

The surprise reception at the Northwest Inn at OTC-NW November 19, was catered by professional colleagues of Trudeau's. The menu featured delectable hors d'oeuvres, entrees and desserts, and featured a toast with sparkling grape juice, accolades and gifts.

Trudeau was completely surprised by the event and complimented her staff and students who had been preparing for the evening event since early morning.

Trudeau is the first finalist from the Central Region to earn an ACF National Chef Professionalism Award. She is a member of the Flint/Saginaw Valley Chapter, and has been an instructor at OTC-NW since 1989.

OTC-NW principal Dan Manthel and chef-instructor Deb Trudeau display her awards and an engraved silver platter and crystal bowl gifts. She received proclamantions from U.S. as gifts. Rep. Dale Kildee and Governor Engler and

State Sen. Mat Dunaskiss. She also received

'A Very Holly Christmas' to benefit Toys For Tots

About 18 Clarkston members of the On-Stage School of Dance will be part of the cast of the school's annual Christmas benefit production of "A Very Holly Christmas," next month at Holly High School. Profits from the performance will be used to purchase presents for the United States Marine Corps Toys for

The Christmas production includes 200 dancers from the ages of four to 45 performing to Christmas Carols, as well as carols sung by the Sweet Adelines, Fenton Lakes Chorus International directed by Jeanne Lundberg and the Holly Festival Band Players.

Members of the Marines will be in attendance and Master of Christmas Entertainment will be Santa with Mrs. Claus, according to Mrs. Richael M. Harris, owner and director of On-Stage School of Dance.

Last year the performance raised over $5,000 in gifts to Toys for Tots -- one of the area's largest individual contributors. And many members of the Holly and Fenton community have donated their time and talents to the production of the up-coming benefit.

The shows will take place Friday, December 11 at 7 p.m. and Saturday, December 12 at 2 and 7 p.m. at the Holly High School Senior Auditorium, 920 E.Baird, Holly.

Tickets are available through the mail for $8.50 each. Mail your check with a note specifying which performance you want to attend, and a stamped, selfaddressed envelope to Tickets, 843 Milford Rd., Holly, MI 48442. Call (248)634-1700 for more information.

The participants from Clarkston include: Lauren Giordano, Dana Hakin, Stephanie Vanicelli, Kathryn Emerick, Taryn Emerick, Katherine Houston, Heather Chojnowski, Holly Chojnowski, Monica Denis, Meghan Ronk, Mallory McCafferty, Jennifer Henry, Sarah

Additionally, some of the Clarkston dancers will perform December 18 at 3 p.m. at Andersonville Elementary School for the school's annual Christmas sing.

Andersonville El. will be accepting new, unwrapped toys for the Toys for Tots program from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. December 18. The school is located at 10350 Andersonville Rd. For more information call Debbie Licata, 625-5300.

Developer says Sportsplex still planned for Bow Pointe

Global Sports Management partner Jack Leech has dispelled rumors that the Independence Superior Sportsplex project is dying, due to lack of financial support.

"That's not the case at all," Leech said recently. "We are still trying to assemble the right investor mix. All but one investor has committed to the scope of the projecti

The Sportsplex slated for the north side of Bow Point Road was rezoned to a planned unit development and has received conceptual site plan and special land use approvals from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

The 200,000-square-foot facility includes two ice arenas, an in-line skating rink, two full-size basketball court, a restaurant and more.

Leech said the group is ready to return to the planning commission for final site plan approval. "We have completed final engineering, site plan work and we're ready to go."

The Sportsplex is one of two uses eyed for Bow Pointe Road. A 400,000-square-foot warehouse that would store auto parts for the GM plant in Orion Township has also been proposed.

Wolves split first 2 games of new season

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

In its first year as a program, the Clarkston hockey team won a lot of games with a ton of talent. Saturday night, the tables were turned on the Wolves.

The West Bloomfield Lakers, themselves a firstyear team with plenty of talent, defeated the Wolves 3-2 in an exciting, well-played game at Waterford's Lakeland Arena.

Clarkston, now 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the OAA Division I, couldn't capitalize on three power play chances in the last seven minutes of the game, and allowed the bigger and stronger Lakers to get the victory.

First-year head coach Bryan Krygier said the game illustrated the team's need to practice the new system he has put in place.

"We have to play more within our system," he said. "We have to create our own chances to score and not let them dictate the style of play. If we allow that, we won't get many scoring chances."

That was exactly the case, as the Wolves could never get their high-powered offense in gear. Although they outshot West Bloomfield 17-16 for the game, the team didn't get many high-quality scoring chances.

"It will take some time to adjust playing within a system," Krygier said. "This team isn't used to having any kind of system in place. Eventually, we'll be OK. We just have to keep doing these things in practice and transferring them into the games."

The Lakers jumped out to a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period. The Wolves tied the score just 37 seconds into the second when senior Adam Leech slapped in a rebound shot from in front of the net. Sophomore Jon Bemis and junior Bill Kalush assisted on the power-play goal.

The Lakers quickly responded with a goal to take a 2-1 lead before Clarkston tied it again. Bemis lifted a beautiful shot into the upper right-hand corner on a breakaway tying the game 2-2 at the 9:55 mark. Bemis leads the team with five points in the first two games of the season.

'This team isn't used to having any kind of system in place. We just have to keep doing these things in practice and transferring them into the games.'

Clarkston hockey coach Bryan Krygler

West Bloomfield answered with a breakaway goal of its own with 2:21 left in the second to close out the scoring.

Krygier complimented the play of Clarkston goaltender Steve Badger, but added his team's lack of intensity cost it also.

"Our goaltender came up with some big saves for us," he said. "We needed make sure we didn't allow them odd-man rushes, and that's how they got their third goal. They took it to us and took advantage of their opportunities tonight."

Clarkston's Tom Newman lets go of a shot during the second period of Clarkston's 3-2 loss to the Lakers. Newman scored a goal for the Wolves in their 6-1 opening-night win over Bloomfield Hills Lahser Thursday.

The first game of any season is not expected to be a masterpiece, but the Wolves put together an effort worthy of critical praise.

Clarkston won its season opener for the third straight year with a dominating 6-1 win over the Bloomfield Hills Lahser Knights Thursday at the Detroit Skating Club.

The Wolves scored two goals in each period and showed a newfound patience on offense in getting the win.

Krygier acknowledged that his team still has a long way to go before it's executing to its best.

"We still have a lot of work to do," he said. "But it was nice to get the first win in the first game. We had good intensity and controlled the game. I liked how we did on the power play and defensively also."

Clarkston's first goal was scored by first-year player Ryan MacKinnon, who moved to Clarkston from Texas last spring. "Tex," as he's known to teammates, fired in a wrist shot from the slot at the 9:23 mark of the first period.

Leech deflected in a shot from the point by junior Jason Stoecker on the power play with just 24 seconds left in the first period to give Clarkston a 2-0 lead

Junior defenseman Tom Newman scored on a low shot from the point to give the Wolves a 3-0 lead. Just 2:01 later, Nick Turner banged in a tipped shot to put the Wolves up by four.

Leech scored on a backhand shot, and Bemis tipped in a nice pass from MacKinnon to round out the scoring.

Leech said the team kept its composure and played well defensively in the game.

"As the score got bigger, we stayed with our defensive system," he said. "We stayed with the 1-2-2 forecheck and cycled the puck in the corners well. Our coach knows we were undisciplined last year, so we are working on more set plays with our breakouts this year."

Junior Steve Badger got the start in goal, and gave way to freshman Jordan Conley, who played the final two periods in the game. Clarkston outshot Lahser 27-7 in the contest.

Lahser's only goal came on a fluke play two minutes into the third period. A shot from the high slot defelected off two pairs of skates and into the net to make it a 5-1 game.

The Wolves killed off all three penalties it had in the game, while converting on one out of two power play opportunities. Clarkston's three penalties were a sign that the team is playing with more discipline this year and is less prone to take bad penalties behind the

"We have to improve on playing within our system," Krygier said. "We were a little tentative in the beginning, but once they start doing in games what we work on in practice, we'll be better."

The Wolves travel to Allen Park Saturday for an 8 p.m. game.

5 - My sister Amy, who will be the star of the show in her high school play next week. But I will never tell anyone to "break a leg," unless he plays football against Michigan the following week.

6 - Tom Tippen, that infamous U-M fan. We love having fun at the expense of Michigan State, which leads us to . . .

7 - Mike Prudhomme, that infamous MSU fan. His fun will come this winter, when State will beat Michigan by about 50 twice. Enjoy it, Mike!

8 - Kurt Richardson's love of his kids. In typical football coach fashion, he yells and gets red in the face during games, but I can't imagine a coach enjoying his time with his kids more than the man they call 9 - Getting to cover Dane Fife for two years. Right now, he's probably trudging through another gray Indiana day to practice, but we're all pulling for him.

10 - The X-Files. This is the only show on television that is completely original every week.

11 - Clarkston's and Michigan's football helmets.12 - "The Hogs," who show you can work hard

Drallos decides on Valparaiso for baseball

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although there was a big pile of recruitment letters, only one stood out for John Drallos.

Drallos, a senior at Clarkston High School, has decided to attend Valparaiso University in Indiana to play baseball. He gave his verbal commitment to the school last week, and he is in line to receive an academic and athletic scholarship to the school.

While he was sorting through the many letters he received from schools such as Florida State, Purdue and Virginia, John said it was the letter he received from Valpo, a Division I school in baseball, that sparked his interest.

"Their letter stood out to me the first time I read it," he said. "It talked about the desire to play baseball, and that was exactly what I'm looking for. The coaches were very helpful, honest and up front."

Drallos is a starting infielder for the varsity baseball team and will enter his third season with the team in the spring. In 1998, he led the district-champion Wolves with 19 runs batted in. He also hit two home runs, had a .343 batting average and drew 11 walks.

He had an even better season with his summer league team, the Rams. Playing for his father George, John led the team with 36 RBI, 12 doubles and five sacrifices. He hit .381 and was second on the team with a .496 on-base percentage.

Wrestling team aiming for the pinnacle

4 returning state-qualifiers raise expectations for Wolves

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For eight months, members of the Clarkston varsity wrestling team have had to live with the fact that Rochester Adams won the Division I team state title. Now, the Wolves get their shot at redemption.

The 1998-99 Clarkston wrestling team opens one of the most anticipated seasons in its history when the Wolves participate in the Jenison Invitational Saturday, Dec. 5.

Coach Mike DeGain brings back a team that is loaded. Two wrestlers ranked in the top three in the nation. Four state-qualifiers. Six starters back from the team that defeated Adams in the regular season and won the OAA Division I title and another district title. So are his expectations higher than normal for this season?

"Overall, we should be pretty strong," DeGain said. "From 119 on up, we are very experienced. The kids have been working very hard and we should win a lot of our matches."

The headliners on this team are senior A.J. Grant and junior Pat DeGain. Both went undefeated and won individual state titles last year. Grant is ranked third in the nation in the 112-lb. weight class for seniors, but Coach DeGain expects him to wrestle at 125 this season.

Pat DeGain finished second at a world cadet wrestling tournament in England last summer, and is ranked No. 1 nationally in his 189-lb. weight class among juniors. Pat will alternate between 189 and 215 for the Wolves, depending on the opponent this sea-

"Pat will wrestle most of the time at 189, but wherever we need him at the end of a meet, we'll put him there," Coach DeGain said.

Coach DeGain also said Grant will attend the University of Michigan on a wrestling scholarship next year. Grant follows his older brother Corey and Pat's older brother Joe to Ann Arbor.

Clarkston has state-level performers at several other weight classes also. Junior Ryan L'Amoreaux is a two-time state-qualifier and moves up to the 119-lb. weight class after spending his first two years at 103 and 112. Brian Chism had a breakout season last year and will give Clarkston a consistent winner at 130. Ryan McAleer, another state-qualifier, moves up to 135 this season.

Senior Dave Welanko was one of the team's most improved wrestlers last year, and can wrestle between 130 and 140 this year. Rocky Bills, John Naboychik and Chris Labrie will all battle for spots in the middle weights, while senior Andy Auten solidifies the 152 slot after winning a district title last year.

Junior Jon Robinson starts the season at heavyweight. He also improved by leaps and bounds last year, and has high expectations for himself this year. Senior Klint Powell has started his first season with the program, and could round out the heavier-weight rotation nicely.

"Klint is catching on pretty well," Coach DeGain said. "He could fill in at 189 when we have Pat at 215. We have Chris Genereski, a sophomore, who could also fill in there too. Aaron Carnes will be a solid backup for Jon too."

Coach DeGain said the lower weights is the weakness of the team right now. He said he has no idea who will start at 103, a spot L'Amoreaux filled admirably the last two years.

One of the best additions to the program could come in the form of its new practice room. In past years, the team has practiced in the old high school's cafeteria, which involved rolling out mats, putting them away, and premature ending of practice for other groups who needed to use the area.

"It's nice because now the kids don't have to roll mats out, and we can run while the new mats are being mopped," Coach DeGain said. "It makes the right kind of atmosphere for practice, and we shouldn't get kicked out like what used to happen at the old high school."

Once again, Adams figures to be the biggest roadblock in Clarkston's path to states. The Highlanders return six state qualifiers, but were hit harder by graduation than Clarkston was. Coach DeGain said Lake Orion and Troy Athens will also return solid teams from last year.

"There are no weak links in the league this year," he said. "Adams is still the team to beat, and they should be number one in the state when the preseason rankings come out. But we have as much a chance as anyone to go all the way this year."

Weight loss a net gain for Chiefs player

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Picture an athlete who is unable to compete because of weight limits.

The athlete competes hard at practice and suits up for a game, only to find out right before it starts that the numbers on the scale are too big, and he's not allowed to participate.

The athlete then goes on a salad and chicken diet, slimming down to the point where being able to play is the greatest accomplishment.

Now picture this athlete being a wide-eyed 10-year-old boy.

That's part of the story for Steve Herron, a student at North Sashabaw Elementary School who signed up with the Clarkston Chiefs football program in hopes of starting an athletic career, but was delayed because of the program's weight limits for its players.

It's not every day you see a 10year-old boy having to diet, but that's exactly what it took for Steve to get on the playing field with his Chiefs JV team in October.

"It meant a lot to me to play for the Chiefs," Herron said while sitting in his comfortable chair recently. "I have a lot of friends that play, and it was neat to play in the Silverdome too."

Steve's mother Debbie said it broke her heart to see Steve exceed the weight limit to play for the Chiefs every week, and she wanted to do whatever she could to help him get on the road to playing for the team.

"When the season was starting,

Steve Herron sits with his Clarkston Chiefs coach Sam Buckley as Herron proudly displays his True Grit award, given to him for his ability to lose weight in time to play for the Chiefs this year.

Steve was getting frustrated and didn't want to play anymore," she recalled. "We wanted to know what we could do to help. So we walked with him five miles in the morning and five miles at night, and he went on a nothing-butchicken-and-salad diet."

The diet, a far cry from the usual 10-year-old's taste for french fries and pizza, helped Steve lose a total of 33 pounds in less than two months. He started the season weighing 158 1/2 lbs., and got all the way to 125 lbs. when he was cleared to play for the JV team.

"I didn't think he could do it," Debbie admitted. "He did it himself. He just cut out all the junk food, and there's a lot of it around, so that must have been hard for him. When he got to play, we all cried."

One of Steve's inspirations is Detroit Lions defensive tackle Luther Ellis. When Steve and his teammates played at the Silverdome, he was able to get autographs of Ellis and quarterback Scott Mitchell, but a conversation with Ellis caught Steve's attention.

"He told me he was proud that I lost the weight," Steve said with wide eyes at the memory. "He told me he was a lot like me, and didn't have the willpower to lose weight like I did. It was fun talking to him and Barry Sanders."

Steve's determination was also an inspiration for his coach, Sam Buckley. Buckley said he didn't expect Steve to be able to lose the weight in time to play, but he was proved wrong.

"Losing weight is an uphill battle," he said. "He went on a strict regimen of diet and exercise, and pulled it off.

"A story like this reminds me why I got into coaching in the first place," Buckley continued. "Everyone needs that one thing that brings you back year after year, and I was getting a little burned out of doing this after seven years. He was beyond our MVP. Tenyear-old kids just don't deal with those kind of things very much."

Steve said he doesn't intend to slack off of his new diet just because

John Drallos to play baseball for Valparaiso University next year

John has also been accepted to the engineering school at Valpo, and said the academic strengths of the school were a big factor in his decision.

"I feel blessed to be able to play college baseball, but I'm there to get an education first," he said. "But college is still a year away, and I'm looking forward to this coming season so much. I'm glad to have made the decision so I can enjoy my senior year."

George said he's happy to see his son go to a school where he knows he will get a good education, but also to fulfill a dream of playing college baseball.

"Baseball is the love of his life, but Linda (John's mother) and I are confident he will get a good education there too," he said. "This is a real proud time for us as parents. It's great to see all his hard work paying off."

Linda said she's happy John could make a decision early in the school year so it wouldn't stress him out as the year goes on.

"I'm glad he's chosen a school so now he can relax in his senior year," she said. "It's a big relief off everyone's mind."

Clarkston varsity baseball coach Phil Price said John's love of the game will be just one of the attributes he will bring to college with him.

"He's got good size, which is an excellent advantage, and he's a great hitter," Price said. "He loves the game of baseball and is willing to work to get better."

John spent this fall with the boys cross country team, and wound up as one of the top seven runners. Price said the cross country experience will be beneficial to him next spring.

"That will help him get quicker and faster," Price said. "He's in the weight room three or four times a week, and he does the little things that will help us win."

George and John agreed that a big step in the process came when they visited with Valpo head coach Paul Twenge on their visit last winter.

"There was a point where we shook hands, and it was one of those non-verbal communications," George said. "He just kind of looked at John and said 'We'll see you again soon.' By then, we knew."

Herron nets honors at Kalamazoo

Lisa Herron, a 1996 Clarkston High School graduate, keeps racking up the honors as part of the Kalamazoo College volleyball team.

Herron was recently named to the 1998 GTE Academic All-District IV College Division Women's Volleyball Team. She was one of six players named to the team.

Herron is a biology major at Kalamazoo and carries a 3.94 grade point average. She was the Valedictorian of the CHS Class of '96, and was a National Merit Scholar and president of the National Honor Society.

On the court, Herron led her team with 377 kills this season, leading Kalamazoo to a 24-10 record. She also had 120 digs, 36 blocks and seven service aces. She was a second-team selection in the MIAA this season.

Wolfpack basketball tryouts coming up

The Clarkston Wolfpack girls AAU basketball team will be holding tryouts for interested players in grades five through eight.

The tryouts will be held Sunday, Dec. 6 at Clarkston Middle School. The sessions run one hour each, and start with fifth graders at 1 p.m., sixth graders at 2 p.m., seventh graders at 3 p.m., and eighth graders at 4 p.m.

The tryout fee is $10, and season fee is $250. For more information, call Charlie Robinson at 625-9182.

Elks Hoop Shoot contest

Boys and girls will get to test their free throw shooting at te Elks National Free Throw Shooting Contest coming up Saturday, Dec. 5.

The event, open to boys and girls ages 8-13, will take place at Waterford Kettering High School and is sponsored by the Pontiac/ Waterford Lodge #810 and Waterford Parks and Recreation.

Registration will be 30 minutes before competition begins. Each player will shoot 25 free throws, and the one who makes the most will win. Eight and nine-year-olds will shoot from 11 feet out, just inside the free-throw line.

Boys and girls 8-9 will start competition at 1:30 p.m., 10 and 11-year-olds at 3 p.m., and 12 to 13-year-olds at 4:30 p.m. The winners will each advance to a district final.

For more information, call the Waterford Parks and Rec. department at 674-5441.

football season's over.

"No, I'll stay on my diet," he said when asked if he was going back to the chocolate shakes and hot dogs. "I want to start wrestling and playing baseball. I want to stay active."

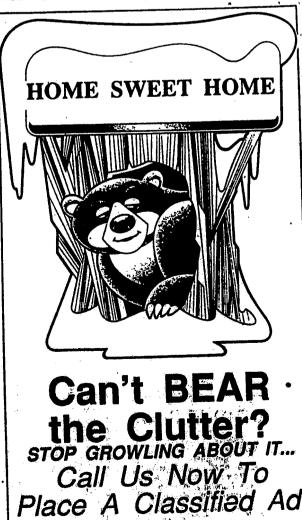

"It's a real good feeling to see these kids succeed," Buckley said. "I live vicariously through these kids. If I had 12 kids like Steve on my team, it would be very easy to coach."

McGrath league signup deadline looming
