Clark gas held-up

Police look for Waterford man

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An Independence Township gas station, whose clerk was trying to close the doors early for New Year's Eve, was robbed of $325 in cash by a man wielding an unknown black firearm.

Police have a suspect, a 33-year-old Waterford man, but are unable to find him, said Oakland County Sheriff's Department Det. Dirk Feneley of the Independence substation. A warrant has been issued for the man's arrest.

According to police reports, the clerk, 21, said she was visited around 7:50 p.m. at the Clark gas station, 4951 Sashabaw Road, by a 20-year-old female, a friend and former co-worker. After both left the building to smoke cigarettes, the clerk noticed a young African-American man, dressed all in black with a black ski mask, near the station's cooler, and both returned.

He produced the weapon and yelled for both women to get on the ground. As he beat the cash register, trying to force it open, he pushed the clerk against a small space heater. He broke the cash register key, but escaped with the cash.

During the ordeal, several customers came into the store, including the clerk's mother. The young woman mouthed that she was being robbed, and her mother left and called 911 from another location.

Feneley responded around 8:30 p.m. "There were numerous patrol cars there when I arrived," he said.

The 20-year-old co-worker and alleged girlfriend of the suspect has been questioned, Feneley said Tuesday. The incident has been turned over to the Fugitive Apprehension Team (FAT).

City council finds humor in zoning ordinance draft

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In its second look at a proposed zoning ordinance, the Clarkston city council found things that just didn't jive.

At its regular meeting Monday, the council plowed through several more chapters of the 25-section ordinance, and had a little fun with some of the contradictions and unapplicable terms and definitions used in the draft it's not sorting through.

Among the humorous findings included provisions for airports located in the city. Councilman Walt Gamble said, "Where's the taxi lane for that?"

Council member Anne Clifton, who had several of these inconsistencies marked with bright red tabs, pointed out a commercial vehicles provision that didn't allow trucks over a ton to be on a piece of property less than five acres in size.

"What is this city, one acre total?" Clifton said incredulously.

Another curious area of the ordinance Clifton found came in reference to drive-through areas. At the Dec. 28 meeting, the council agreed upon an area of the zoning ordinance that would strictly prohibit drive-ups in businesses. Yet as it proceeded through the document, several references were made for zoning in the city that would apply to drive-through businesses.

"We don't even have drive-throughs that are allowed, and yet here it is again,"

'You never know it, maybe we'll annex Independence Township. Then, we'll annex Oakland County... then we'll have room for an airport...'

David Cozart returns a ball for the Clarkston Senior Setters. Cozart plays on the team with his wife Mary.

Sarah Brown (7), coach of the Clarkston Senior Setters volleyball team, talks strategy with players Kip Jones (8), Rosie Evarts (9), and Bill Debnlak (6). Brown's team is run through the Independence Township Senior Center and participates in a league with eight other metro Detroit teams.

Senior setters stay active in volleyball league

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the term "senior activities" is tossed about, many people think of games like shuffleboard or bingo.

But for a group of seniors from Clarkston, being active means spikes, kills and digs.

The Clarkston Senior Setters volleyball team is in the middle of its 10th season on the senior sports circuit. The team plays three games per week, and according to its coach, has fun doing it.

"There's a great fellowship between our players," said coach Sarah Brown. "It's a great way to meet new people, and of course we go out to eat after the game!"

The team, run through the Independence Township Senior Center, has 11 members including two husband-and-wife pairs, David and Mary Cozart, and Kip and Hattie Jones.

Kip says he enjoys getting the exercise and being in competition through volleyball.

"My wife and I play, and we look forward to it every week," he said. "We want to win every game, but if we don't, we still have a lot of fun."

The Setters play in a league with eight other metro-area teams, from Clinton Township, two from Pontiac, two from Southfield, Oak Park and Waterford.

The season runs through March with a 42-game schedule. The team plays at various schools each week in three 25-minute sessions.

The rules of this volleyball league differ slightly from regular volleyball. Players are allowed to play the ball off of one bounce, like a tennis player can play the ball on one bounce. Jones, 71, says this makes it an easier game to play for the seniors.

"A lot more people can play the ball on the bounce," he said. "It's a lot easier with the bounce."

"It's not as demanding as power volleyball," Brown said. "We have a hard time playing that way."

Ages of the players on the team range from 55 to Dick Balmer, who celebrated his 83rd birthday in August. While most players don their powder-blue team shirts, Mr. Balmer insists on keeping his burnt-orange sweater on.

Jones, who has been part of the team all 10 years of its existence, says the team is fun to be a part of.

"We get some new people coming in, and it's enjoyable for them," he said. "It's good exercise, and I enjoy the people on the team."

To find out more information on the Senior Setters, contact coach Sarah Brown at 623-7011.

Fun on the Mill Pond

Cousins Amanda Bartenbaker and Allca Kottmann, both 8, enjoy some skating on the Upper Mill Pond before a recent snowstorm. Amanda's dad Dan said he always checks the ice depth and safety carefully before he lets the girls go out.

Teen sentenced in fatal car crash

Oakland Circuit Judge Denise Langford Morris ordered the maximum prison time for 19-year-old Joseph Carl Weeder of Holly for involuntary manslaughter resulting from a June 6, 1998 car crash.

Weeder will spend 15-22 1/2 years in prison for the high-speed crash that killed Gregory Benninger, 27, of Lake Orion, and Andrew Hartke, also 27, of Keego Harbor and a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate.

Weeder was legally drunk when the accident occurred, with a blood alcohol level of .13 (.10 is the legal limit).

A court spokesperson said Weeder was also convicted of two counts of operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol causing death; two counts of fleeing and eluding a police officer causing death; and driving with license suspended, second offense. He was also ordered to pay over $29,000 in restitution to Benninger's family.

Cold temps and snow removal: 'a recipe for disaster'

On Sunday, January 3, Bob Livingston died from a heart attack after clearing snow. His wife Judy asked us to help her alert others to the potential danger of mixing physical exertion and cold temperatures. Bob's physician, Dr. Larry Baylis, helped explain why it's dangerous.

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

When Bob Livingston retired five years ago he refocused his energies on his life with his wife Judy and the couple's home and yard.

Bob and Judy enjoyed ocean cruises and planned one for later this month. The large yard with Bob's rose garden surrounding the couple's Independence Township home was "immaculate" said Judy.

He loved animals and there are several bird feeders and a squirrel feeder dotting the yard. One of the bird feeders even has a heated bird bath. "Our birds are the only ones with a jacuzzi," laughed Judy.

An active, healthy man, Bob was "always outside, even in the winter," said Judy. "He took care of the walkway, driveway and road in front of our house and his mother's or a neighbor's."

But on Sunday, January 3, all that came to a halt. That morning, after Saturday's big snowstorm, he powered up his snowblower to clear the walk, driveway and road in front of his home and a neighbor's. He began to clear the driveway in front of another neighbor's home, but never finished. He collapsed and died from a heart attack.

Bob was only 57, healthy and active and his death came as a complete shock to his family and friends. But his physician, Dr. Larry Baylis of Clarkston, understands the combination of cold temperatures and physical exertion is a potential problem for many people.

Bob was using a snowblower, not a snow shovel, but the wind chill was recorded at 25 below zero that Bob and Judy Livingston had planned to take a cruise later this month.

Sunday, according to meteorologist Dick Wagenmaker of the National Weather Service state forecast office in White Lake.

"Heart attacks arising from these activities are quite common," said Baylis. "The cold constricts the vascular system and causes the heart to work harder, elevating blood pressure. The physical activity increases the demand for oxygen, also increasing blood pressure, acting like a double-whammy."

"Shoveling snow is a no-no for men or women over 50 with a history of coronary artery disease. Men and women with diabetes or high cholesterol should use caution," he said. "I don't want to scare people, but Bob Livingston was a healthy man. He had mild controlled hypertension with low cholesterol."

Baylis said people like Bob with minimal arterial disease need to be just as cautious. The plaques present with mild blockage tend to be unstable and can break off, causing blockage in one of the main arteries.

But combining cold temperatures with vigorous isometric exercises like shoveling snow is a "recipe for disaster," said Baylis.

Judy said her husband had only been out in the cold for two or three hours, and when her neighbor came to tell her he had collapsed, they both thought he had fallen and broken an ankle or leg. She said she never would have suspected he'd have a heart attack.

"Last Sunday morning we were watching TV and eating breakfast and this Sunday morning he was gone," said Judy. "I just hope someone else will be able to relate to this experience... perhaps it will help someone else."

Chiropractor Dr. Paul Rumph passed along some snow shoveling tips from the Michigan Chiropractic Council (MCC):

■ Instead of straining to push and heave snow out of the way, the MCC suggests pulling snow from their driveways and sidewalks.

Using a flat piece of plywood, metal, plastic or cardboard roughly 4x14 inches in size, attach it to the back of the tines of a common garden bow rake with string, wire, screws or clamps. Use the rake in an upright position, similar to the way you would use a household broom.

■ Do a brief warm-up to stretch back, neck, arms and legs.

■ Bend from the knees while lifting and keep the spine as straight as possible.

■ Work at a pace fitting to your age and strength.

■ Shovel with your feet planted firmly in one spot. Allow your legs and thighs to help your upper body and arms deposit the snow to the side.

■ Shovel light to moderate amounts of snow per load.

■ Don't overwork yourself.

Redistricting plan still needs work

Clarkston schools officials are continuing to tweak the elementary school redistricting plan.

Following over an hour of discussion at the regular Clarkston Community Schools board meeting Monday night, trustees decided to consider a request by city residents to have all children in the city attend Clarkston Elementary School.

As currently drawn, the redistricting plan would send about 28 of those children to the new elementary school at M-15 and Hubbard Road next fall. If the new recommendation is adopted they will walk to Clarkston Elementary School as they have in the past.

In order to balance attendance at the schools, trustee Sheila Hughes suggested sending about 17 children located in a triangle bordered by Clintonville Rd., Waldon Rd. and I-75 to the new elementary.

One of the points that makes the move attractive to the board is that the children will be able to be bussed quickly up I-75. And because of future building in the area, the schools expect an additional 20 students from that area as well, making for a more equitable change in attendance.

After the administration studies the proposed change, the board will review the findings at a public board meeting Tuesday, January 19 at 6 p.m. in the Administration Offices, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Clarkston.

At the meeting the board also approved the addition of three advanced placement courses to the Clarkston High School curriculum: AP psychology, AP European history and AP economics.

The following AP classes will continue: AP U.S. History, I, II; AP Government; AP biology; AP chemistry; AP physics; AP calculus I, II; AP composition II; AP literature 12.

Pat Brumbeck, assistant superintendent for 9-12 operations and student support services said 198 students enrolled in AP classes in 1998.

Students must have a grade point average of 3.0 and be recommended by a faculty member to qualify for an AP class.

'Name the new school' contest

Clarkston Community Schools officials are looking for a name for the new elementary school and they want your help.

The new school is under construction at M-15 and Hubbard Road and will be the seventh elementary school in the district.

There are only two conditions for the contest to name the school:

- No names of persons living or dead will be considered.

- Names of historical significance are encouraged.

The person (or persons in the case of two or more identical suggestions will be honored by having a reference book dedicated to them in the new building.

Send your suggestions with your reason why you think it's a good name to: Clarkston Community Schools, 6389 Clarkston Road, P.O. Box 1050, Clarkston, MI 48347-1050.

Remember to include your name, address and phone number.

Chris Turner, currently principal of Bailey Lake Elementary, and slated to take over as principal of the new school when it opens in the fall said the deadline for accepting ideas is Feb. 1.

The suggestions will be reviewed by a committee and submitted to the school board for consideration at their regular February 8, meeting.

Turner said he's particularly excited about the new school but added, "we're getting tired of calling it the 'new school.'"

Township engineer's house burns

The family of Independence Township Engineer Randy Ford suffered a significant garage fire that destroyed their Rochester Hills home Jan. 4.

According to Rochester Hills Fire Department Deputy Chief Greg Walterhouse, the fire started in the garage Sunday night and spread to two cars inside. The fire was "of an accidental cause," he said.

The smoke detectors went off early Monday, and Ford and his wife discovered smoke coming from underneath the garage door, Walterhouse said. They left to call 911 from a neighbor's home.

Firefighters received the call at 5:52 a.m. and arrived to find the garage and house engulfed in flames. Firefighting efforts were compounded by snowy, icy roads, the driveway and sidewalks, Walterhouse said. "Plus, the water coming from the fire house was almost instantly converting to ice," he added.

The couple's teenage daughter was spending the night at a friend's home when the incident occurred. The family's dog was also reported safe. Walterhouse said the Fords would be able to rescue some items from the basement, but everything else was basically lost.

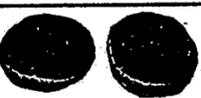

Fellow Township Engineer Tom Biehl, from Hubbell, Roth & Clark, said the family had good insurance, which will enable them to reside in a townhouse until their home is rebuilt. He said the family appreciates the outpouring of support they've received from township officials and friends.

The sky is the daily bread of the eyes.

The Clarkston (MI) News

Editorial

Helping hands, warm hearts

Each year when the boxes of holiday decorations go back into hiding after the season, we're called to think about what changes we will see by the time they are brought out again next year. What will the new year bring? Who will we meet, what will change and what will stay the same?

And what will we see together, as a community? Working for your hometown newspaper gives a unique perspective on what does and doesn't change from year to year. Stories come and go, fads run their course, but in the end the heart and soul of our townships and villages stay the same.

Many fantastic community memories of the New Year have already been tucked away to treasure for times to come.

1999 was just a few days old when tragedy struck. Several families were left homeless after a blaze on Pine Knob Lane. That was the sad part. But what happened next made the stories worth remembering.

Friends, neighbors, and complete strangers banded together to help those who were touched by tragedy. The relief effort headed by the North Sashabaw Elementary staff and students has been no less than remarkable. The teachers, kids, parents and the entire Clarkston Schools community made it their personal mission to see that a family displaced by fire could welcome in the New Year with a smile.

Lighthouse Clarkston and the local chapter of the Red Cross have taken under their wing all of the families whose lives were turned upside down by the blaze.

The Tudor family of Springfield has felt the warmth and generosity of our neighbors, too. Jason and Michelle Tudor were born with ataxia-telengelia, an incurable disease that ravages their muscular, neurological and immune systems. Their parents, Linda and Bill, were faced with mountains of medical bills. But in stepped many members of their church and community to lend a hand. A December fundraiser for the children at Fenton Cinemas raised over $15,000 — three times as much as had been expected.

Kindness for others doesn't stop at the county line. Several local organizations, in conjunction with St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston sent over 600 boxes of supplies to aid in the Honduran relief effort after Hurricane Mitch.

So while we steel ourselves for the snows to come, and brace for what unexpected events make our way, take heed. We live in a place that will warm your heart, no matter how cold it gets outside. And we here at the paper are lucky to see it all — thank you! GC

Letters To The Editor

Thanks to those who helped after the hurricane

Dear Editor,

The citizens of Clarkston, its surrounding areas and beyond, are phenomenal! Within three short weeks, you donated over 600 boxes of clothes, medical supplies and food to the victims of hurricane-devastated Honduras. You should be very proud of yourselves!

A special thanks goes to all who helped load the semi-trailer which was in the St. Daniel Church parking lot for this project. The use of the tractor trailer was arranged by Jerry Dumont of Applegate Insulation Manufacturing Inc., Webberville.

Steven B. Moore of Moore Greens, Inc., made arrangements with Robert Roche of Tropical Plant Company (TPC/J & P Trucking, Apopka, FL.) to pick up the relief supplies in our parking lot and deliver the goods to World Relief at Miami International Airport. From there, the supplies were flown directly to Honduras, and the clothing was shipped by boat.

I had the good fortune of living and working in Honduras in August. I learned then what poverty was, and how little the people really had (living hand to mouth). Having experienced this first hand, I can readily feel for these people.

Hurricane Mitch, in just a few days, wiped out crops, housing, water supplies, jobs (unemployment is now 42 percent), etc. The countryside is devastated with mudslides that washed away homes and bridges, cropland is layered with mud and left unplantable, and now there are thousands of homeless, parentless children.

With this picture in mind, I, along with fellow parishioners, removed often times very heavy boxes, taped them and loaded them back in the truck. When the designated date and time arrived, many volunteers helped transfer the boxes from one truck to another. Following four hours of this arduous work and feeling exhausted, I encountered a very moving experience.

With the truck for Florida now loaded and ready to head out, everyone spoke of their appreciation to the drivers and I and my crew who had worked so hard. In the midst of this, a voice from the back of the group said "Merry Christmas."

It was a rare and special moment in time. These magical words hit home with me, and summarized what all this was about — a season of giving, a season of sharing with our fellow man and a time to put others first. Those two words made my Christmas! I am grateful to have had this opportunity.

This relief effort will continue through 1999.

Bad weather doesn't stop maniac drivers

"Oh, the weather outside is frightful. But the fire is so delightful. And since we've no place to go, let it snow, let it snow, let it snow..."

Well! Those of us who warbled that innocent little ditty before Christmas didn't realize how ominous it would turn out to be.

Clarkston got hit like the rest of Southeastern Michigan as one of the worst one-day snow storms attacked the area the day after New Year's. In fact, Channel 4 meteorologist Chuck Gaidica labeled it possibly the worst one-day snow storm of the past 25 years.

I don't know about you, but I had a little foresight. I went grocery shopping the day before, stocking up on everything I'd need for the coming catastrophe. One local grocery store closed early, I guess, since it was New Year's Day. Another was already out of the essentials: eggs, milk, coffee cream, etc.

It reminded me of the "Cold War" scare of the late '50s, early '60s, when everyone thought they'd have to stock those fallout shelters that never got built. Or, at the very least, a new "Twilight Zone" episode.

I also rented plenty of videos to get me through the next snowbound day(s). I made sure I had some comedies, with the post-Christmas letdown and winter depression blahs surely coming.

And, I followed the wise advice — don't go out unless you really have to.

The news said lots of folks were holed up at Detroit Metro Airport, the victims of numerous cancelled flights. Pillows and blankets had even been borrowed from one local jail to keep them warm as they slept.

Sunday dawned clear, cold and peaceful. The winter blast was past. People began the long process of digging themselves out. But plenty of the area's roads were still snow-covered and treacherous.

I saw lots of people stuck and stranded off the road. Some of them probably couldn't help it. But I couldn't help thinking, others were probably driving too fast or carelessly.

And, wouldn't you know it. Some doofus in a cream-colored GMC Sierra decided to tailgate me all the way down snow-covered Clarkston Road, from Sashabaw to M-15.

Yes, you know who you are, sir. You of the dark mustache with the blonde in the seat next to you. Surely you couldn't have thought it was safe to follow behind me with only a few inches between the front of your four-, five-, six- or whatever-wheel drive and my new, mostly unblemished Neon — thanks to the care I take with it.

You didn't even get the message when I waved my hand at you, vainly trying to signal you to stay back so you wouldn't get ticketed for "failure to stop at an assured clear distance ahead." Perhaps I should have "flipped you off." But, being the lady that I am, I didn't produce the obscene finger gesture, nor did I lay on the horn.

But — grrr — what I would have given, right then, for two of those Yosemite Sam mud flaps that blare "Back off!"

I recently watched a very disturbing video where an officer accompanied a driver, showing him what can happen when you don't follow several car lengths in back of another driver. There was a simulated crash ahead. And this was in clear, un-snowy conditions.

When there's a sudden accident in front of you, it takes six or seven car lengths to avoid an impact. That is, if you stop immediately and have decent brakes. And that's not even going freeway mph.

Whoever you are, I hope you read this and realize you could have caused an accident. At one point, you, I and other drivers happened upon a scene near Clintonwood Park. A car was stuck in a snow drift and another car was stopped in the road.

If you had been going faster, the situation could have been critical. You might have hit me and forced my car into the poor guy who was directing traffic.

It looks like it's going to be a busy winter, and roads are going to continue to be treacherous. This time you were fortunate. The next time you — and your victims — might not be so lucky.

A ride for Dorothy on a cold, winter night

I guess I am a little naive. Some call me a sucker, gullible, a pawn, a mark. (I don't have to elaborate anymore, you get the picture and I'm getting depressed). I reckon I just want to believe in people. Growing up — and I can remember thinking this quite often — I wanted to disprove the old saying, "Good guys finish last."

I always considered myself one of the white, cowboy-hatted good guys. And it's not because I have gone out of my way to do wonderful acts of charity or kindness. I just haven't, and don't go out of my way to do the opposite. I see going out of my way to hurt somebody as a waste of energy and time.

So, I have just gone through life with a smile on my face, putting myself in the Goodguy Club, invited or not, because I believe I should be there.

Like I said, I'm a little naive.

Last Thursday, I was finally put to the test. My eleven-year-old nephew was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after blacking out, falling to the floor from his chair — he had been on a computer at his school. He's doing okay, they're trying to figure out what caused the seizure. At any rate, we left the hospital at 11 p.m. I hadn't any dinner, so, hungry I pulled into the Burger King drive through. Oh, I was on Perry Street, just north of WideTrack.

I'm sitting there in my Jeep listening to Sports Rap on WJR, and I hear this woman's voice through my unstopable's canvas top. I pay no attention to it . . . I'm in Pontiac, on the backside of a building, it's late, I'm hungry and I'm minding my own business. My grip tightened on the steering wheel and I kept my eyes on the red tail lights in front of me.

Before I knew it, this lady on the other side of the passenger door started yelling at me to let her in and drive her home. I forgot my chivalrous good guy oath.

Don't Rush Me

Don Rush

"I'll let you in up there," I pointed to the end of the drive through by Perry Street. "Wait for me there." Despite the fact it was zero outside, not including the windchill, I had no intention of letting this strange lady in my car.

She had other ideas.

"Let me in, it's cold. I need a ride home." I repeated my lie, then she opened the door and in a fluid motion hopped up and into the passenger seat. Damn, I didn't have the doors locked.

Had this been in the middle of the day, in Oxford, Clarkston, Lake Orion or Ortonville and had this woman been white, I would have not felt frightened. But none of those things were true. Her skin was as dark as her eyes. "Bless you, I just got off work and need a ride home," she smiled and said as she closed my Jeep's door.

What kind of man, what kind of human would not help another in this kind of weather? How could I honestly justify my "good guy" status? What was wrong with me? I was — I am — ashamed.

"Well, get in," I said. "Want a coffee or hamburger?"

"Just a coffee, dear. That would be fine, thank you."

I told her my name, found her's was Dorothy. I figured she was in her 60s, asked if she was, "what, 45?" To which she smiled again and answered, "No, I'm 52, dear." We got the coffee, my Whopper (extra onions, cut in half) and Coke. She pointed the way through a few neighborhoods, and over to her home by Wisner Stadium. I gave her an extra pair of gloves, told her to stay warm and drove home.

I know, I know. Some will call me stupid. Some will remark, what some guys won't do for a column. I guess I have to say I did it for the heart, to prove to myself I deserve to wear a white cowboy hat. Maybe it was just the right thing to do.

Old Farmer's Almanac, depend on it

Writers of The Old Farmer's Almanac say they are right in their weather predictions 80 percent of the time. Television, radio and newspaper weather writers make no such statements . . . that I'm aware of.

So, let's repeat what the "1999 Almanac" had to say about weather for our part of the United States for the first six days of this new year in their book that came out last November:

"Just a dusting, then we're powdered!"

In case the snow's gone by the time you read this, remember we got 10 or so inches of the beautiful/ugly, welcomed/unwanted, delightful (to winter lovers)/backbreaking (to shovelers) stuff starting January 2.

Our lying president remains unchanged in 1999. While repeating over and over, "I'm going to continue working to save Social Security, improving education," etc., during and after his impeachment, the first thing on his 1999 agenda turned out to be a tax credit for family health care. Where'd that come from? He told us, ah, never mind.

Elizabeth Dole's a shoo-in as the next president of the United States . . . assuming the Republicans want to win the White House.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Knowing that the attention span of 98 percent of the people is 20 minutes and most people forget things in 3 days, I feel comfortable that only my enemies will remember that prediction.

Since about the middle of the 1990s, newscasters/writers, fashion-types and statement-people used the term: "It's a 90s . . ." whatever!

Of course, the phrase has to be updated, redated and repeated, often.

So, how will this decade be phrased? "It's a double zero style?" "It's a double ought design?" "It's music of the 2-O's?"

Seems like every time a radio personality takes a time off the replacement says, "He/She is on a 'well-deserved' vacation."

The statement has become so overused I swear I heard a tube reader say it about I guy getting a prison term.

In the weather people's rush to put as much emphasis as possible on bad news, we heard one reporter saying, "and the wind chill factor is minus 15."

Nowhere in that report was there a thermometer reading. If the temperature is 35 and the wind chill is 20, the dog dish won't freeze.

But a freezing temperature reading won't, I guess, put the fear of freezing to death in a snowbank in us like a wind chill factor is intended to.

Here we go again!

It seems to me that a sure way to perpetuate failure is to look for simple solutions to complex problems while reducing major issues to sound bites. Of course it's a great strategy if the purpose is to avoid dialogue and reduce the exertion required for genuine thinking! The school voucher debate is a good example of our nation's tendency to simplify problems and create contentious camps.

Proponents of vouchers appear to see it as a matter of freedom and choice (two emotional words which mean a great deal to most Americans). They point to increasing support for schools of choice, home schooling and voucher plans as evidence of the need to support vouchers or tax credits. They believe competition will result in better schools and a system that is consumer-driven.

Opponents say the operation of the public school system will be undermined if dollars are diverted from them. They believe that non-public schools are selective, turning away those who are expensive (special education students, children who exhibit poor behavior, etc.). They are convinced that losing students who are most likely to attend private schools, would hurt public schools in a number of ways:

Brain Drain: Losing students who are the "best and brightest" from the ranks; and increased per-pupil cost to teach students who represent a narrower range of abilities.

Clarkston Schools

Loss of Funding: Diverting tax dollars to private schools at a time when demands upon teaching and learning are increasing.

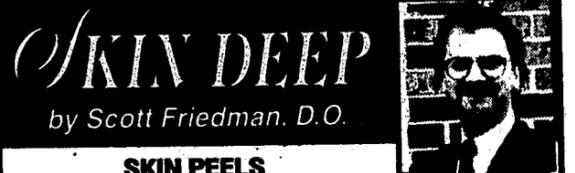

Superintendents have strong feelings about this topic, but our viewpoints must be balanced by solid data and we must be committed to acting in the best interest of children. So, how do we react objectively? How can we think – and get the public to think – about an issue as potentially divisive as this?

I think the place to start is by trying to understand both sides of the issue. My first step was to review the literature on vouchers, including studies and articles that supported the concept. My conclusions (which may be considered "expected" by those who support voucher plans) represent a genuine attempt on my part to think about both sides of a complex issue.

- I agree that public schools, particularly those in urban areas, need to find better ways to educate the children in their charge, but diverting tax dollars will impede progress. The loss of the funds might very well doom the public school system, harming the youngsters who remain in attendance.
- Redistributing dollars to another entity will not necessarily improve instruction for the vast majority of students. Even in those urban districts where vouchers have been tried, the research is inconclusive. In fact, one study suggests that students attending private schools established specifically to serve the voucher program are performing worse in all subjects than students in the local public schools.
- Our democratic ideals may be compromised if vouchers become commonplace. Andrew Denson's article in the Dayton Daily News (11/25/98) expressed concern that a school voucher system lessens the ability to affect change through the democratic process. Denson stated that citizens currently vote for school board members who set the direction of their local schools and they vote on local tax levies that support school spending. He argued that only parents of school-age children would get this opportunity if vouchers were enacted.

The surest way to improve our schools – public or private – is to place children first! While dollars alone will not improve schools we must discuss difficult issues, use research productively, and be willing to pay for excellence. It has been said, "If you think education is expensive, try ignorance." I guess that premise is a start!

SKIN PEELS

After years of exposure to the sun have taken their toll upon facial skin, patients often turn to skin peels to improve the appearance of their skin. Skin peels are effective in modifying the superficial lines, furrows, and discolorations associated with chronic sun damage. The procedure involves careful application of a peeling agent of appropriate strength (such as phenol or trichloroacetic acid) to the skin with cotton-tipped applicator sticks. The depth of the peel is determined by the strength of the caustic agent used. After the peeling agent is removed, the skin will eventually peel and/or scab. Once healing is complete, new skin emerges to give the face a rejuvenated appearance that is relatively free of fine lines, discolorations, and other skin imperfections.

While summer may be over, exposure to the sun can still create a problem for your skin. Any questions regarding your skin should be brought to the attention of a dermatologist. They are best able to advise you as to the proper treatment. Contact our offices, located at 6330 Sashabaw, Clarkston (625-0692) and 3003 Baldwin, Lake Orion (391-9599), for personalized attention to your total skin care needs.

P.S. After a skin peel, skin is likely to be sensitive to sun exposure.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

And now Clarkston is to have an amateur show. One complete with prizes, gong and lots of amateur stunts. It will be held a week from Thursday night . . . the 30th. This is one of those shows where you are invited to not only be entertained but to entertain.

I played my first game of indoor hockey at the P. T. A. meeting Wednesday. It is said that Hockey is one of the fastest games there is but I believe that indoor hockey is still faster.

We have company down at our house. They do not come in the house but they hang around expecting us to set them up three good meals a day. They do not talk to us. They even run away when we try to call them but they seem to enjoy our hospitality. Anyway the 10 or twelve phantasms on our premises are attracting the attention of some of the sportsmen around.

O. E. S. Penny Supper Draws Large Crowd

Everyone who attended the Penny Supper at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening enjoyed a good home-cooked meal. There was a splendid crowd and plenty to eat and the sponsors wish to thank all who helped with the work and all who attended.

Seymour Lake

Miss Velma McIntyre was hostess at a chicken dinner on Sunday evening for eighteen young folk after a toboggan and sleigh-ride party. Dorothy Greenwald was a guest of Opal Workman on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Miller entertained Mr. and Mrs. Will Baldwin at dinner on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller attended a family dinner in Rochester on Sunday before leaving for a three month stay with relatives in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burr and Mrs. Nora Blashill attended the County Eastern Star Matrons' and Associate Matrons' luncheon at the Masonic Temple in Pontiac on Thursday.

The Farmers' Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. George Scott on Jan. 15th. Mrs. Malvina Wiley and Mrs. Victor Gray are in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Malvina Stickey of Cadillac and daughters, Janet and Honor, were dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Iva Miller last Friday evening. Mrs. Stickey, Janet and Honor will be leaving this week with Mrs. Stickey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolson of Detroit, to spend the remainder of the winter at Lake Hamilton, Florida. Mr. Stickey will return to his duties as CCC director near Cadillac.

During the months of January, February and March the Sunday School will sponsor an attendance contest. Olive Taylor and Velma McIntyre are the leaders. In the spring the contest will end with a banquet given by the losing side. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. There were 44 in attendance last Sunday. An interesting program is given each Sunday beginning at 10:00 o'clock a. m. with teachers for all classes and our grand superintendent, Mrs. Iva Miller, always on hand.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Dunlop entertained the West Oxford-Pedro Club last Friday evening.

Athletic News

Clarkston High School basketball teams had little difficulty in taking three games from Brighton High School Friday, Jan. 10. The second team set the pace by defeating the Brighton seconds, 16 to 8. The varsity team did not play the same brand of ball it did in the Walled Lake and Milford games but ended up on the long end of a 20 to 9 score. Parker and Souby led in the scoring with five points each. The Girls came back fighting from the Milford defeat and displayed some of the fight that won the Walled Lake game for them, and trounced Brighton, 30 to 5.

The feud still remains between the varsity team and the girls, each having two victories and one defeat. There is no girls' game this week as Farmington does not have a Girls' team.

Senior News
Warning to all high school boys, especially Seniors: Beware of the girls. This is Leap Year.

Hugo and his new car are becoming very popular.
NOTICE!!! We would like some new yells for C. H. S. In fact, we need some new ones. We would also like a few cheer leaders (at least, one). If you have any good yells turn them in to any member of the staff of the Blue and White Flash.

Erma seems to have her troubles. First it's Raasie then it's her boy friend and then it's both of them. It seems as though the Seniors had to invite the Juniors to join them in a tobogganing party Sat. night so they would have at least one party this year.

If you knew that:
Bart is going to tap dance in the amateur program.
Junior is going to play the sax.
Tucker is going to play the mouth organ.

Hugo is going to imitate birds and animals, especially crows.
Bill is going to play the violin.
Phyllis is going to sing.

And Don and Lyle are going to show us how true members of the O. F. F. act.
Would you be surprised?
It seems that Jr. Waterbury is going the way of all good men.

The Community Chorus Meets Monday Evening

Special Business to Be Discussed

The Community Chorus met at the school last Monday evening with a very good attendance and the director was pleased to see so many men interested. However, more men are needed and their presence would be appreciated next Monday eve. at 7:30. The alto division is also making a plea for more voices.

The numbers that Mr. Hutton has selected for this season are exceptionally pretty and everyone present on Monday thoroughly enjoyed the two hours. Next Monday evening the chorus is to discuss several important items of business and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance. Every member is needed and is greatly missed when absent. Remember the meeting at the school on Monday eve. Jan 20th at 7:30 o'clock. Make an effort to be there on time.

Clarkston Locals

Rev. C. E. Edwards attended the Flint District Methodist ministers meeting held in Goodrich last Monday. While there he visited Will Pearce, confined in the Hospital with a broken leg, and found him much improved and on the happy road to a soon recovery and return home.

Mrs. Ada Mills, Mrs. Emma Finks and Mrs. George Harris held a quilting "bee" in the Methodist parsonage last Wednesday. Rev. Edwards, who are reliably informed, refused to assist, and after lunch "took to the woods" until the "bees" stopped bawling.

Little Bobby Rowland was taken to Hurley hospital in Flint last Saturday to be treated for blood poisoning. He is getting along quite nicely but expects to be there for a week or so.

Tobogganing parties seem to hold the spotlight for a while. The William Edgars entertained at one last Saturday evening and that same evening the Epworth League of the local Methodist church held one and everyone had a good time.

PULLING CONTEST AT EAST LANSING

Horses vs. Men Will Be Feature of Farmers' Week

Which can pull more weight for weight—horses or men?
One of the interesting features during Farmers' Week at Michigan State College February 3 to 7, will be a pulling contest between a champion draft team and Charley Bachman's near-champion football team.

The contest will take place in the college demonstration hall on Thursday night of Farmers' Week. This is only one of the many unusual features of the Farmers' Week program.

Several departments on the campus are cooperating to make the program as interesting as well as instructive by preparing unusual exhibitions of entertainment as well as educational character.

The Engineering show is always popular, and the students this year have still something new to offer. The chemistry department is preparing to show some of the wonders of simple compounds and members of the history department will present today's world problems.

The Rural Drama contest, for which groups of actors have been rehearsing for weeks, will prove an attraction to many. The players have been providing entertainment for themselves and their home audiences, and the winner in sectional contests will compete for the state prize.

The completed program for the week is now being printed and will be mailed out within a few days. Those who do not receive a copy within a reasonable time may do so by writing to the college.

Andersonville

The Andersonville Christian Endeavor will meet at the church on Sunday evening, Jan. 19th, at 8:00 o'clock. Miss Beta Halsey will be the leader. All the young people of the community are invited to attend.

From January 26th to Feb. 2nd is Christian Endeavor week and societies throughout the nation will celebrate the 55th anniversary of the founding of the organization and pay tribute to the founder, Dr. Francis Clark. Bank Stockholders Hold Annual Meeting

Clarkston State Bank Reports 40% Increase in Resources

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Clarkston State Bank of Clarkston, Michigan, was held Tuesday afternoon at the bank.

A summary of activities disclosed that the bank had enjoyed growth of 40% in resources or $93,000.00; had made 538 ordinary loans, 151 chattel mortgages, 29 mortgage loans and had purchased $116,000 in bonds. Net earnings on the capital stock, approximating 11% were placed in the reserve account.

After the report on the condition of the bank the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. H. Alger, T. J. Foley, G. E. Harris, G. D. King, C. J. Sutherland, C. G. Waterbury, and G. A. Walter. The directors then chose the following officers: President T. J. Foley; Vice President G. A. Walter; Vice President and Cashier George D. King; Assistant Cashiers R. C. Ainsley and Robert Jones.

HOLLY THEATRE

If it's songs you are looking for, "Thanks a Million" has more than you count; if it's laughs, it's the season's top joy show; and if it's romance and stars, how about Dick Powell, Ann Dvorak, Fred Allen, Patry Kelly, Paul Whiteman and his band with Ramona, Rubinfon and the Yacht Club Boys!

Crammed with entertainment, 20th Century's spectacular new fun-music film, "Thanks a Million", comes today to the Holly Theatre for a 3-day engagement.

It has a frivolous plot, woven about the wildest adventures of a troupe making one night stops under the masterful misguidance of comedian Fred Allen.

Dick Powell is the company's songster, and Ann Dvorak its leading dancer, and as you might guess they're wild about each other.

In some fantastic manner, Allen manages to get the troupe entangled with a bunch of wild-eyed politicians, and before they have extricated themselves, plenty of laughs are theirs.

The romance of Powell and Dvorak is threatened by the intrusion of Margaret Irving. Powell becomes temperamental and Allen becomes more nutty than ever.

But it all opens out happily in the end, with Powell's "wild star" and Miss Dvorak ready to say "I do!" The film's songs, largely from the pens of Gus Kahn and Arthur Johnston, include "Thanks a Million", "I've Got a Pocket Full of Sunshine" and "Sugar Plum".

Adapted from a screen story by Nunnally Johnson, "Thanks a Million" was personally produced by Darryl F. Zanuck and directed by Roy Del Ruth.

Raymond Walburn, Benny Baker and Alan Dinehart are prominent in the supporting cast.

For Homemakers

Although the program for Farmers' Week at Michigan State College, February 3 to 7, is set up under a number of divisions, with one expected to be especially interesting to home makers, those in charge of the meetings expect nearly as many women in certain of the agricultural sections as in those sponsored by home makers.

Among the discussions expected to be especially interesting to farm women are those on bear-and-honey production, poultry and its care, meat cutting, curing, and canning, various phases of dairy production, fruit and vegetable canning, flower culture, and horticulture.

In addition to the programs of music, those of the Country Home Makers' association will, no doubt, attract many of the farm women. The Home Economics division is expecting a full attendance at the meetings devoted to lighting, nutrition, home crafts, table decorations and table service.

The discussions of the present situation and conditions in Ethiopia are expected to hold the attention of the feminine visitors. Miss Bess M. Rowe of the Farmers' Wife will be a welcome speaker, as well, also, as Dr. Mary S. Rose, Columbia University.

The sea lamprey and the alewife are comparatively recent arrivals among the 177 different fishes present in Michigan. They are believed to have made their way to this state from the east by swimming through shipping canals.

Never Underestimate The Power of HYPNOSIS!

Just how powerful is hypnosis?

Well maybe not quite as powerful as we're showing here.

But the real facts are just as impressive.

Read what these folks have to say. Then you be the judge...

Success Times Two!

"I lost 23 pounds and kicked my smoking habit. I quit smoking after the first session. Done! It was easy.

The weight loss was easy too. No stress. No fuss. I still have treats. Not because I feel bad. Just for a treat! Someone recently said, "You have terrific legs." I didn't get that before. My husband's lost weight too.

I read in the newspaper about folks who got success with hypnosis. I was a wreck at the time. I had every diet book on my shelf. Nothing worked. I was taking aspirin every day. I was drinking too much. All this stopped. PMS symptoms vanished. I say to myself, this is what life's supposed to be!

I was unsure about hypnosis. I didn't want a hypnotist to take control of me. During the sessions I got control back. What I got from hypnosis was worth ten times what I paid!

I met a lot of other folks who were losing weight like me. I have recommended hypnosis to several of my friends. I recommend it to anyone."

*Theresa Carter,
Medical Receptionist*

"I walked out a nonsmoker!"

"I smoked for 32 years. My husband had been badgering me to quit for years. I tried patches, gum, cold turkey. I didn't have the willpower. Hypnosis was my last resort. I was amazed at how easily I quit with hypnosis. I walked in the door a smoker and out the door an hour later a nonsmoker. I had no urge or desire for cigarettes. I realized my entire cigarette addiction was in my head!

Every aspect of my program was upbeat and positive. I look and feel vibrant. I have not had an asthma attack. I handle stress without even thinking about cigarettes. I am extremely satisfied with my results."

Sandy Green, Administrative Assistant

Food Cravings Extinguished!

"In six short months I lost 37 pounds. Hypnosis made my weight loss effortless."

I was the "big guy" my entire life. I was moody and miserable. I'd open Oreos and eat half the bag. I tried diets. I couldn't stick with it. I was skeptical of hypnosis. I kept thinking of old movies. I was impressed from the moment I walked in.

After my first session, I noticed that I wasn't hungry. Hypnosis extinguished my food cravings. I lost 5 lbs. the first week. 16 lbs. the first month. I went from squeezing into a size 42 to a trim 38. My doctor encouraged me to continue with my hypnosis program.

It's been fun to watch the success of other folks. It looks like they're melting under their clothes! I think my weight loss is permanent. My new eating habits are easy. I think anyone who has a weight problem needs to look at hypnosis seriously. I'm confident hypnosis can work for anyone.

Bob Trader, Trainer

Dentist Recommends

"I was dissatisfied with the way I looked and felt. I worried about my health. I had some familiarity with hypnosis and knew it was powerful. The hypnosis ads about weight loss intrigued me. I came for an evaluation. I was hypnotized and lost 26 lbs. in 5 1/2 months. Hypnosis made weight loss remarkable easy. I never felt deprived. Never felt hungry. It happened automatically.

I was notorious for gaining weight on vacation. Since joining I have spent four weeks traveling. I continued to lose weight. I think hypnosis is a tremendously powerful way to change habits without feeling that something is imposed on you. I strongly recommend hypnosis to anyone who wants to lose weight, lower stress, or change a habit, like smoking. Take it from me, hypnosis gives you control over your behaviors."

*Madison R. Price,
Doctor of Dentistry*

Quitting Smoking "Easy as Pie!"

"I was smoking over 2 packs a day for 23 years. I tried everything to quit. I couldn't handle the mental cravings. So I'd start back to smoking.

Quitting smoking was a piece of cake after I got hypnotized. I don't want cigarettes. It doesn't bother me to be around smokers. Thanks to hypnosis my children won't be brought up around smokers.

Quitting smoking with hypnosis was easy as pie. I recommend hypnosis to anyone who wants to quit smoking without withdrawal. With hypnosis you sit back, relax, and let it happen."

Chuck Davis, Maintenance Superintendent

Hypnosis Takes Place of Willpower

"When I went to Navy boot camp I started smoking a pipe. It lasted 3 years. I met a ship-builder who smoked pipe tobacco cigars. That's when I started cigars. Most folks smoke 4 or 5 a day. I was smoking 4 or 5 packs a day! I tried the patches. The gum tasted awful. I tried subliminal messages. I heard about hypnosis on the radio. Hypnosis did the trick. I have been a nonsmoker more than 6 months. Hypnosis took the place of willpower. I've saved more than $2500 since I quit smoking. That makes it well worth it! I am constantly telling other folks to give hypnosis a try. I say go for it!"

Steve McVey, Ironworker

'Earnest' pokes fun at life, love

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Don't let the Victorian dress fool you.

The themes in Clarkston Village Players' current production "The Importance of Being Earnest" are just as timely today.

The farcical, comedic masterpiece by great 1890s playwright Oscar Wilde ridicules the whole spectrum of institutions we humans hold serious: birth, baptism, love, marriage, death, burial, illegitimacy and respectability. In fact, Wilde subtitled his play -- designed to target Victorian England's leisure class -- "A Trivial Comedy for Serious People."

The plot concerns key character John ("Jack") Worthing's Mike McAuliffe) quest to find his family and to marry the beautiful Gwendolyn (Monica Trybulski). Likewise, his more flamboyant friend Algernon (Shaun Pittman) has designs on charming Cecily (Melissa DeLaire).

Both men have invented fictional friends as convenient excuses to escape from responsibility. "Algy" fabricates an invalid pal named Bunbury; John has created Ernest. Hilarious problems ensue when Algy redubs his fictitious friend Ernest also -- turning the situation into an even more serious case of manufactured mistaken identity.

Digging themselves in deeper, both eventually learn the real "importance of being earnest." (Hint: Pay attention, Bill Clinton!)

There are some new -- albeit, young -- faces in the CVP production, and all shine. McAuliffe -- appropriately stuffy with a handlebar mustache that drew guffaws from Saturday night's audience -- and the younger Pittman, 21, a former drama student at Waterford Kettering High School, are perfectly balanced.

Pittman) -- two men who claim to be "Ernest" in order to woo them.

Pittman, whose expressions occasionally reminded me of Saturday Night Live alumnus Dana Carvey, is particularly funny as the excessive Algy, who wolfs down muffins and cucumber sandwiches as if they were potato chips.

The two young women are equally skillful. Both embody stereotypically female characteristics like fickleness (they fall for, not the man, but the name "Ernest") and the emerging feminism of the Gay Nineties.

At one point shy, sweet Cecily throws down her schoolbooks with a "Horrid Political Economy! Horrid Geography! Horrid, horrid German!" -- not befitting the ladylike attitude Victorian girls were expected to wear.

But -- forgive me, men -- it's really your gender that's being spoofed here. Consider these lines and ask yourselves collectively -- have we changed much?:

■ Algernon: "There is nothing romantic about a definite proposal ... Then the excitement is all over. The very essence of romance is uncertainty."

■ Jack: "It is a terrible thing for a man to find out suddenly that all his life he has been speaking nothing but the truth."

The cast includes seasoned actresses Amy Seaman as the stern, maternal Lady Blackwell, and Mary Beth Skinner as Cecily's governess Miss Prism. Mark Delcamp as Rev. Chasuble and Don DeLaire and John Fanning, as servants showing division between the classes, round out the play.

CVP Director Al Bartlett, who first directed the play 31 years ago, agrees it's a comic masterpiece. The play shows Wilde "was very much ahead of his time," Bartlett said. "He was poking fun of the British

Students help out fire victims

BY GENNA COTTRELL
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If tragedy can turn into triumph, Clarkston Schools has found a way to make it happen. Responding to a call that one of their own families had been left homeless due to a fire, students, staff and the entire community at North Sashabaw Elementary has sprung into action, providing a local family with the resources needed to rebuild their lives.

A January 2 fire on Pine Knob Lane destroyed the home of several families living in the building, one of the families with children attending North Sashabaw Elementary. Unfortunately, the family was uninsured and lost all of their possessions in the blaze.

When Sheree Sommers, the main office secretary at North Sashabaw, heard of the family's plight she wasted no time in spearheading a relief campaign. Flyers were quickly sent out throughout the district, asking anyone who could to help in the form of donations of household goods, clothing, money and more.

"The response has been overwhelming," said Sommers. "Everyone has gotten on board with this -- the kids, the staff and the whole town. I'm so proud of them all."

Elementary students spent the week bringing box after box of clothing, small appliances, toys, food and more to contribute, piling their treasures in front of the office. Often, the kids also had a check from their parents tucked into their pockets, waiting to make their way to the growing pile of monetary donations made for the family.

"We've collected almost $2,000 for them," said Sommers. "Our parents, staff and PTO members have all been a part of this. And now donations are coming in from the rest of the community as well."

A few phone calls by the office staff started a chain of kindness from local businesses and service organizations who stepped forward to add their contributions. Sam's Club and Wal-Mart offered a $250 store gift certificate for the family to use, with more contributions trickling in from the chain's employees.

Kroger corporate offices had a $100 gift certificate for groceries, prompted by employees at the Dixie Road store. Local churches and service organizations have played their part, opening their hearts and pocket-books for the family.

Oxford Bank, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and GM Delphi in Flint have produced checks as well. Lighthouse Clarkston made a significant donation of clothing, and the local chapter of the American Red Cross provided the deposit on the family's new home.

And to help keep the family safe for the future, the Independence Township Fire Department will personally donate and install four smoke and fire detectors in the family's new home.

But it's the kids, both at the elementary and high school grades that are still coming up with plans to add to the effort. The North Sashabaw Elementary Student Council plans a bake sale this Friday to raise funds, and the CHS student council petitioned the administration to have a "hat day," where students could wear a hat to school if they made a contribution to the fire fund.

"The kids are thinking up this stuff all by themselves," said Sommers. "They're thinking ahead and thinking about one another. It's heartwarming to see."

"Things are looking better," said the family's mother. "It's been devastating, but folks have really come through for us. I am overwhelmed by everyone's kindness and generosity. People who are complete strangers -- they don't even know us -- it makes me know it will all be O.K. I couldn't even begin to thank everyone who has helped us, they're all angels!"

Contributions are still rolling in, and are welcomed by the North Sashabaw staff. "Anything anyone can give would be most appreciated," said Sommers. For more information, please contact Sheree Sommers at North Sashabaw Elementary School, 674-3139.

Students from North Sashabaw help one of their own by donating food to a family who's house recently burned down.

Pursley, city DPW staying busy with heavy snowfall in the new year

The city of Clarkston has been getting dumped on by Mother Nature this month, and it's keeping some city workers busy around the clock.

Bob Pursley, the city's Department of Public Works supervisor, said he's taken to bringing a cot into the city's DPW garage so he can spend all night clearing the city's streets of snow.

"We have been extraordinarily busy," Pursley said at Monday's city council meeting. "This has been the most snow we've had here since I've been here."

Pursley started with the city's DPW as a part-timer in high school, and has worked there ever since, around 15 years.

Mayor Sharron Catallo said she's received a lot of positive comment from people on the condition of Clarkston's streets with the recent heavy snowfall.

"I've had people from out of town come in, and they've commented how great the streets are when they drive through," she said. "You guys did a great job last weekend."

Nearly a foot and a half of snow has fallen on Clarkston in the past 10 days, with more expected in the next week.

THE LAW & YOU

by Robert E. Kostin
Attorney at Law

TAKING A RISK

A defendant in a personal injury case may adopt an assumption of risk to establish that the injured plaintiff assumed the risk of the injury that he or she suffered. If the wrongdoer can prove the injured party knew and understood the specific danger involved, and voluntarily exposed him- or herself to danger that led to injury, then the assumption of risk defense may successfully negate the wrongdoer's negligence. This defensive strategy is employed when an injured party makes a deliberate choice to subject him- or herself to a potential risk. Even if the wrongdoer were negligent, he or she would not be considered proximate cause of any resulting injury, thereby negating the plaintiff's efforts to recover damages.

When your rights are at stake, never underestimate the power of having effective counsel. For matters involving personal injury, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, criminal defense, business law, real estate transactions, family law, and civil litigation in both State and Federal courts, call 620-1030. Here at 11 North Main Street, we're responsive, experienced professionals dedicated to serving the needs of our clients.

HINT: In cases involving negligence, proximate cause must be established, meaning that the actions of the wrongdoer resulted in the plaintiff's injuries.

School construction on the move

BY GENNA COTTRELL
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Cold weather and frequent snow squalls have done little to slow progress on Clarkston Community Schools' $57 million building and renovation projects. The Third Phase-Tier I level of construction projects for the school district are coming along nicely, according to George White, construction coordinator for the district.

White retired as North Sashabaw Elementary School principal last year and was hired as a consultant by the district to oversee the elementary and middle school building projects.

"We've had a few small setbacks due to the weather," he said, "but nothing that will unduly delay any of our current projects."

To date, renovation and repairs to Clarkston and North Sashabaw Elementary, and Clarkston Middle School (formerly the old high school) are on-schedule. The new elementary school on Hubbard Road is progressing as well. Here are the current updates for the building projects:

■ At the new Clarkston Middle School, the ceilings are down but the pipes and wires are going up in a complete air quality and electrical renovation started this fall. The current system is original to the building, constructed in 1959.

"We hope to improve air quality and circulation dramatically," said White. "Thirty years ago, concerns such as allergies and pesticides were not thought of. Today, we must address those issues." Completion is slated for this summer, with the building opening for the 1999-2000 school year.

North Sashabaw and Clarkston elementary schools are undergoing major renovation projects. Both schools are due to have new and expanded media, art and music centers, as well as redesigned entrance ways, administrative offices and cafeteriums.

■ Progress at Clarkston Elementary has been slowed due to a utility pole in the middle of the site that must be relocated before further building can resume. "We are currently coordinating all of the utilities which run service off of this pole to make the changes necessary so we may proceed," said White. "The steel for the framing has been delivered, and once we can get Pipefitters work to complete heating and cooling remodeling at Clarkston Middle School. The building will have a vastly improved air quality system, according to George White.

'It's just the way you see things'

Artist exhibits work this weekend

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Independence Township resident and artist Betsy Travis calls herself an innately curious person.

It is a quality that has kept the expression of her creativity in a constant state of evolution.

For over 20 years her hobby, which developed into a vocation, has also been driven by the materials she finds in daily life.

Currently, Travis is making planters and garden stones out of found materials or objects supplied by people she creates for. She will exhibit her work this weekend at the Snowflake Fine Art Show in Lake Orion.

Mussel shells from Thailand, industrial items, old pottery pieces and objects from architectural salvage warehouses are among the odd assortment of items set in cement for her creations.

"I'm the family dumpster diver," said Travis about her collection. "We've dug up old pottery pieces near our place in Kalamazoo, the kids (now grown) dive for things in the lake."

In one of her garden stones Travis has incorporated car parts from a junk yard in the Upper Peninsula, copper pieces from the roof of Clarkston Mayor Sharron Catallo, pine cone petals from Bermuda and copper filings from Detroit.

Travis first began weaving and quilting, taking classes at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association. She then enrolled at the University of Michigan, graduating in 1980 with a bachelor of fine arts in weaving and textiles with a minor in ceramics.

But after teaching at Michigan State University, Travis began to feel she was missing too much time with her family. She centered her activities in Clarkston, creating a fine arts curriculum for Clarkston's alternative education program, where she taught for about eight years. She was named Outstanding Teacher of the Year for the State of Michigan for 1988-89. Travis now exhibits widely and works on a commission basis.

Betsy Travis will exhibit her garden art this weekend.

Her husband Dan, a manufacturer's rep, township trustee and planning commissioner will join her at the Snowflake Fine Art Show, exhibiting commission-only bird houses. They are actually reproductions of homes for customers.

The Snowflake Fine Art Show is at King's Court Restaurant at Canterbury Village, 2369 Joslyn Court, Lake Orion Jan. 16 and 17 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Local artist Russell Cobane is also featured. Call (248)391-5700 for more information.

she said. "Let's just strike any references to drive-ups anywhere in this thing."

Councilman Dan Colombo, who said he spent 12 hours last weekend reading the document, commented, "There are inconsistencies all through this thing."

The council approached many of these entries with a sense of humor. Gamble, in response to the airport references, said you never really would know what could happen in the future.

"You never know, maybe we'll annex Independence Township," he said with a laugh. "Then, we'll annex Oakland County. Then, maybe the whole state! We'll have room for an airport then."

The council also recognized the document was drafted by people who wanted every imaginable possibility accounted for, including some as unrealistic as having an airport in a city a few square blocks in size.

Another issue the council tackled in the ordinance was storage of vehicles. The council agreed to allow some of the ordinances to stay, but not enforce them too strictly. An example is parking vehicles on front lawns. The council agreed to enforcing it if the abuse was excessive.

"Why have the ordinance at all if we're not going to call somebody on it," Clifton said.

The council ended up getting through the entire document, but left several issues for further explanation or possible removal from the ordinance.

The council will fine-tune the document at the Jan. 25 meeting with the help of Terry Croad, the city's planning consultant from McKenna and Associates, the city's planning firm. Croad will be in attendance at the meeting to offer explanations the council still has with the document and offer dialogue to the council's concerns.

Once the council and Croad get through all those issues, the council stated it should be ready to have a first reading on the document in February.

the steel shell erected, the cement slab can begin underneath. Within the next couple of weeks we'll be back on track."

White is still optimistic the additions at Clarkston Elementary will be completed for the new school year next fall.

■ The additions and remodeling projects at North Sashabaw Elementary are further along, with crews able to get some framework completed before the bad weather struck. The temporary wall separating the old gymnasium from the new cafeteria addition is scheduled to come down this week, allowing the students to go back to the gym for their physical education classes. The new entranceway to the north of the building is taking shape, with steel girders in place and the floor slab poured. White is pleased with the cooperation the students and staff have shown with the construction work.

"The renovation work has been somewhat inconvenient to everyone here, but in the end it will all be worth it."

■ The new elementary school on Hubbard Road is on track to open for the fall as well. The load-bearing walls are going up, with the steel for framing due to arrive this week. Once the framing is in place, a metal deck and then roofing can be installed to start closing in the structure. All of the underground plumbing and electrical systems are in place. Masons have been working at the site for several weeks, placing the checkerboard-patterned brickwork around the perimeter.

"The cold has hampered us a bit here," said White. "The brick and cement layers have to have certain temperatures in which to work so their materials can cure properly. Some of that work can be done despite this by creating temporary structures, but some of it will have to wait until the building can be closed in and the heat controlled."

The current projects are the third phase of the district's Tier I construction and renovation program. Tier II construction is set to begin this summer, with renovations due for Sashabaw Plains, Bailey Lake and Pine Knob elementary schools and Sashabaw Middle School.

Despite the cold temps, construction is moving right along at the new elementary school on Hubbard Road. The masons had to create a temporary heated work area to properly cure their materials.

Wolves win ninth game of season; unbeaten streak at nine

Sophomore Jon Bemis scores Clarkston's second goal of the game. He is tied for the team lead with 11 goals this season.

Nine was the operative number at Clarkston's hockey game with Waterford Kettering Saturday afternoon.

The Wolves played another excellent all-around game in the 5-0 win over the Captains. The Wolves now stand at 9-1-1 overall and 5-1-1 in the OAA Division I.

The win extended the team's school-record unbeaten streak to nine games, and came on the ninth day of January, 1999.

To cap it all off, senior Adam Leech - who wears jersey number nine - scored on a breakaway with under three minutes left in the game to close out the scoring for Clarkston.

Coach Bryan Krygier didn't play any number games, but did say the team's all-around effort was a big positive.

"Everyone contributed and everyone played well," he said. "I saw some nice improvement in our defense today, and that was really important for us."

Junior Steve Badger recorded his second-straight shutout by making 11

Believe it or not, the Clarkston ski teams couldn't even run time trials two weeks ago because of a lack of snow.

But as January has rolled in and the snow has piled on, coach Bruce Rosengren has a better idea of what he's got with this year's team, and its first meet of the season yielded some very good results.

The boys team swept Rochester 10-31, while the girls did nearly the same, winning 12-26 in the team's opening meet Jan. 5 at Pine Knob. Points in ski meets are tabulated by adding the places a team's skiers finish. For example, a team gets 10 points by finishing 1-2-3-4 overall. A score of 10 is the best a team can get in a dual meet.

The boys meet was limited to just one run because a skier from Detroit

Cagers notch first two league wins

The flight pattern for the Clarkston varsity boys basketball team all season has been turbulent, with several bumps and wind shears along the way.

But Monday's game at Rochester Adams restored some stability to the team's plane ride through the 1998-99 season. Clarkston (5-3 overall, 2-2 in the OAA Division I) played its second strong game in a row for the first time and defeated the Highlanders 71-57.

Keys in the victory was the team's biggest offensive output of the season, and holding Oakland County's highest-scoring team 11 points below its average.

"They pressed us right from the start, and that made the game quicker," coach Dan Fife said. "We got a lot of good looks in transition, and Ryan Kaul did an outstanding job of handling the press."

Kaul, a sophomore point guard, was able to engineer Clarkston's offense and set up teammates for several wide-open layups. He converted many of his own on his way to a career-high 14 points.

His solid transition play also meant lots of points for Clarkston's top scorers, Ryan Marino, Andy North and Mark Whiteman. The trio combined for 41 points, led by Marino's 19. He hit three 3-point baskets, giving him seven over the last two games.

"Marino shot the ball well," Fife said. "If we hit our outside shots, that opens up the inside game. Mark and Andy were outstanding on the boards, and Mark did a great job in the paint all night."

The Wolves used a 21-10 second quarter to break the game open and take an 11-point lead into half-time. The Wolves played the Highlanders even the rest of the way to get the victory.

"The kids still have a long way to go," Fife said. "Physically, they're talented, but sometimes they get too high in the highs and too low in the lows, because they are so young. We are getting a lot of playing time for a lot of people, and that's going to help us a lot down the road."

Clarkston 61 Pontiac Central 56

The up-down trend in the Wolves' play continued on Friday's home game against the Pontiac Central Chiefs.

After coming out flat and playing with little intensity according to Fife two days earlier at Troy Athens, Clarkston showed much more spunk and enthusiasm in the team's 61-56 win over the Chiefs at the CHS gym.

"The effort was there physically and mentally tonight," Fife said. "I thought we outthusted them tonight, and that made the difference."

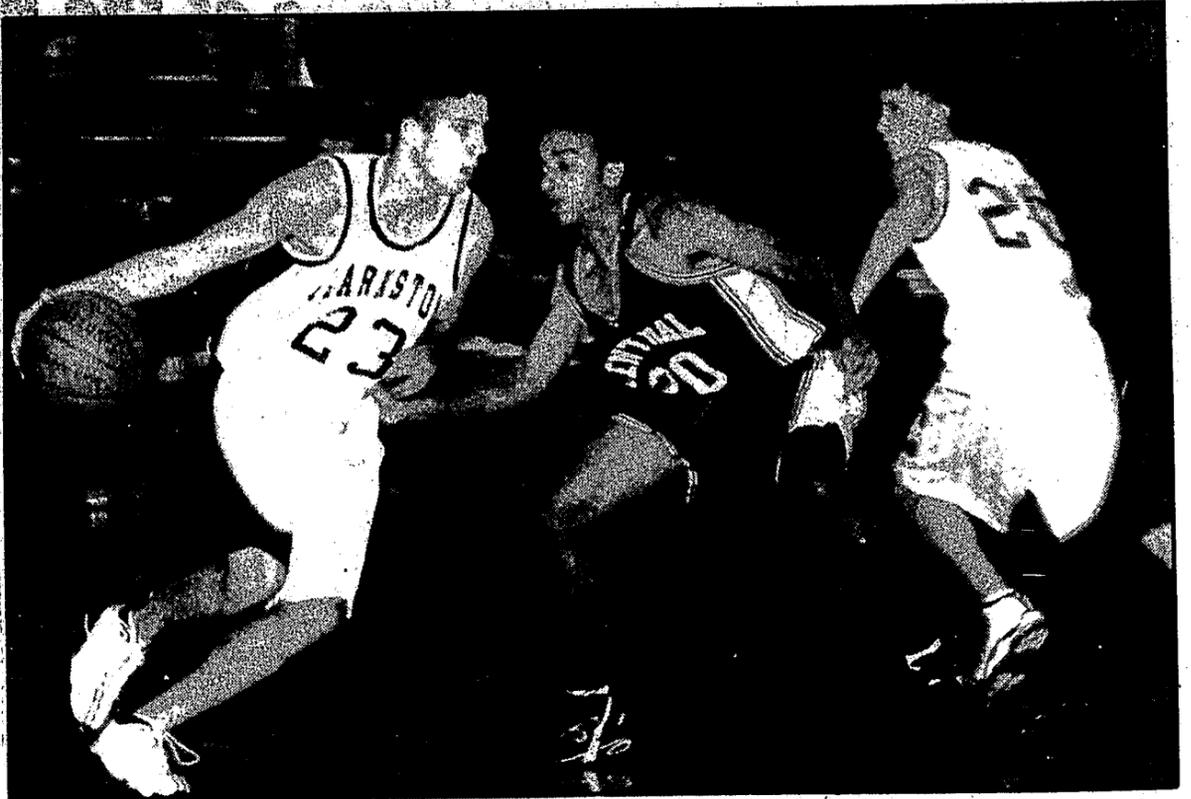

The teams played a near-even first half with Clarkston clinging to a 27-26 lead. In the second half, it was time for the team's three amigos to jump start the team on offense.

North, Whiteman and Marino scored 28 of the team's second half points and made enough big plays to maintain the lead through the rest of the game.

Marino led the team with 16 points and nailed four 3-pointers in the game. Whiteman had his best numbers of the season with nine points and 11 rebounds. North scored 15 and was solid on both ends of the court.

"We knew we weren't playing the way we should, and tonight we tried to increase our intensity," North said. "We knew they would try to outjump us for rebounds, so we knew we had to be in the right

It's going to be a fun NBA season

In the wake of the NBA labor agreement, I've read about the expected fan anger and apathy over billionaires and millionaires haggling over large sums of cash.

But allow me to present the lesser known point of view: this has the potential of being one of the most exciting NBA regular seasons in recent memory.

With a 50-game schedule, competitiveness should be very high. No longer will teams be able to go through the motions in mid-season games. A five-game losing streak could be terribly damaging to a team's playoff hopes, since it's going to take a minimum of 24 wins to make the playoffs.

Teams will take time to get into game shape, but that should happen quickly with most teams playing four games per week, sometimes five. Also, the play should be sharper as the season goes on because east-coast teams won't be making as many west coast trips due to the shortened schedule.

I'm also looking forward to the free agent frenzy that will take place once that period begins next week. It's interesting to see how teams deal with the rush of activity and how teams with several new players develop chemistry.

The best-case scenario for the NBA has come true, with the apparent retirement of Michael Jordan. Why, you ask? Jordan is able to go out on the absolute top, after hitting the title-clinching shot in last year's NBA Finals. How can he top that?

This move could benefit the league, although you won't hear many people say that. Jordan's departure opens the door for several teams to realistically contend for the championship, like the Utah Jazz, Los Angeles Lakers and Indiana Pacers.

His absence also creates a void because he was the torch-bearer for the league for many years. With a higher number of teams competing for the title, a high-profile player from one of those teams has a chance to help rescue the NBA by becoming one of those transcendent personalities he was for so long. Maybe now, the Pistons's Grant Hill will be known as the first Grant Hill, and not the next Jordan.

I'm sure attendance will be low and the number of critics will be high, but I enjoy the game of pro basketball when it's played at a high level, and this fast-food season should provide die-hard fans with some enjoyable basketball for the next six months.

If Clarkston wrestling coach Mike DeGain were to get a couple of late Christmas gifts, I'm sure he would want competitive wrestlers to fill out the 103 and 112-pound weight classes.

The Wolves had to void those two classes in the team's 40-28 loss to Rochester Adams Wednesday. The 12 points given up by those two voids equalled the margin of victory for the Highlanders.

Clarkston's only other loss this season was to Northville, 35-32, and the Wolves had to void 103 there as well, handing their opponents six free points.

It's going to be very tough for Clarkston to get to the state finals as a team without anyone wrestling in those two weight classes.

A team with this many talented and dedicated wrestlers deserves to have a full lineup when it takes on the best in the state. So I call upon any high school boys out there who fall into those weight classes to give coach DeGain a call. He sure could use you.

Curious Photo of the Week: Friday I received a 78-page kit on this year's MHSAA Women in Sports Leadership conference. With that kit came a three-color brochure advertising the summit for Feb. 7-8. One of the athletes pictured on the cover of the brochure is a girls basketball player from Redford Bishop Borgess, a small private school that seems to do awfully well in the state tournament every year. The MHSAA (where the "S" stands for sportsmanship) being represented by a private school athlete? Makes for strange bedfellows, eh?

Students were also asked to show involvement in other school and community activities, submit two letters of recommendation, and a 500-word essay about the importance of sportsmanship in educational athletics.

Every MHSAA member school is allowed to select one student-athlete per sport it offers. Finalists will be named on Jan. 29, and all 24 state-wide winners will be honored at halftime of the Class C state basketball finals at MSU's Breslin Center on March 27.

position and box out."

Central pulled to within a point, 49-48 with 4:30 left in the fourth. Junior Rocky Lund then made a pair of big plays that sparked Clarkston to a 6-0 run that put it comfortably ahead.

Lund stole the ball and completed a textbook 2-on-1 with Marino to put the team up by three. He converted a layup on the team's next possession.

North scored four points during the late stretch, and scored on a bullet pass from Kaul, who did a great job breaking Central's full-court press in the game's waning seconds. Whiteman and Marino went a combined 4-for-4 from the free throw line in the final minute to clinch the game.

"When the players start to lose confidence, I started losing confidence in what I was saying to them," Fife said. "Who knows what flips the switches for these kids, but we started watching some film, and they saw some of the things we've been talking about."

Clarkston travels to Southfield Lathrup Friday night for a game against one of the top teams in Oakland County. The team returns home Tuesday for a non-league game against Sterling Heights. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Athlete of the Week: Adam Leech

Salut, Adam: If there was one player on the Clarkston hockey team that personifies quiet effectiveness, it would be senior co-captain Adam Leech. One of seven third-year players for the Wolves, Leech has been a rock of consistency in Clarkston's 9-1-1 start to the 1998-99 season. He leads the team with 11 goals and 12 assists for 23 points. He scored the final goal in Clarkston's 5-0 win over Waterford Kettering Saturday afternoon. He blocked a shot with his shin pad, picked up the puck, and scored on a beautiful deke to cap one of the team's best games of the season. He scored three-goal hat tricks in wins over River Rouge and Bloomfield Hills Andover this season. His team lead in scoring is more impressive since he's spent quite a bit of time playing defense. He has added quality depth to the defensive corps and is a smart player who rarely makes mistakes. Adam carries a 3.4 grade point average, and plans to attend Central Michigan University next year.

Coach Bryan Krygier on Adam: "I'm sure moving back to defense was a big shock for him, but he's done real well there. He can play any position on the ice in any situation, whether it's the power play, penalty kill, or even strength. He works hard at every practice, and gives everything 110 percent effort. He also brings the guys together a lot and makes sure everything goes smoothly in the locker room, which is a big help for me."

Adam on Adam: "Last year, I was much more quiet, letting the older guys do most of the talking. This year, I've wanted to set more of an example for the rest of the guys. One thing we needed to do coming into the season was to come together as a team. All the upperclassmen have done a great job of that. This year, I'm happy with the fact we're improving each game. You can tell we're getting better as the season is going on, and we're doing a good job with our defensive systems."

Ski teams sweep Rochester in opening meet of season

14.93 seconds. Senior Russ Parrott was second at 15.34. Rounding out the top four were senior Chris Himburg at 15.47, and sophomore Michael Atkinson at 15.53.

Rosengren said he couldn't ask for a better start to the season for the boys, sweeping the top four places from Rochester.

"I am thrilled with Chris Himburg," he said. "He's come up to the varsity team this year and done an excellent job. He is physically stronger and he wants to do well his senior year."

The other varsity racers for Clarkston were Jeremy Parrott and Brent Schermerhorn, who took sixth and eighth, respectively.

"Our varsity team is not complete yet," Rosengren said. "We'll have some other kids ready to move up real soon. We'll be able to get more time trials in, and we've got the Don Thomas Cup coming up. But we do have a strong team with the 12 (boys and girls) we already have."

The girls team nearly swept the Falcons, winning 12-26. Nicole Villiere was first overall, barely edging Kristen Atkinson and Megan Whipp. Villiere finished her races with a time of 32.01 seconds, just .37 ahead of Atkinson and .59 ahead of Whipp.

Kristin Dolzinski finished sixth for Clarkston with a time of 35.22. Kelli Morton was seventh at 35.24, and Lauren Benner was 12th despite getting disqualified on her second run of the day.

"I am very pleased with Lauren," Rosengren said. "She is really coming on and wants to be a part of the team. She had some first meet jitters, but she did very well."

As for the tightly bunched group at the top of the time sheets? Rosengren said the competition will only make each skier better.

"I love that," he said when asked about the narrow margin between the three. "Before the meet, we didn't have any time trials at all because of the lack of snow."

Rosengren named Jeremy Parrott and Himburg captains of the boys team, and Atkinson and Dolzinski captains of the girls team.

Last year, the team never knew when it would be able to practice because of the warm temperatures and lack of snowfall. But this year, more snow and colder temperatures have made for near-perfect conditions.

"Pine Knob is in great shape and the surface is perfect for racing," he said. "The more snow we get, the better the base is, and that's what you want for racing. It might be miserable standing out in the cold all day, but it makes for much better racing."

Clarkston hits the slopes Wednesday for a dual meet with Cranbrook, coached by Thom Halsey, who held the head coaching spot at Clarkston until the 1997 season. The meet starts at 4 p.m.

Voided weights the difference in loss

Rochester Adams 40

Clarkston 28

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Through 12 weight classes, two of the top five wrestling teams in the state battled to a dead heat, each scoring 28 points.

The difference turned out to be the two individual matches that didn't even take place.

The Clarkston wrestling team lost to the top-ranked Rochester Adams Highlanders 40-28 in front of a packed CHS gym Wednesday night.

The 12-point margin of victory for the Highlanders came because the Wolves had to void the 103 and 112 weight classes, giving them 12 points without having to wrestle.

Clarkston coach Mike DeGain said he was pleased with how hard the Wolves battled against the favored Highlanders.

"It's difficult giving up two weight classes like we did," he said. "But I can't be upset with our performance. We've got the kids who can compete with them, we'll just have to wait until regionals to get another shot at them."

A big turning point came in the 152-pound match between Clarkston's Jon Naboychik and Adams' Mark Lazzo. Naboychik is in his first season as a varsity wrestler, while Lazzo is one of the career leaders for Adams in wins.

Lazzo took an 11-5 lead, but in the second period, Naboychik had him in a pinning position for around 35 seconds. Naboychik was just inches away from a huge upset win, but the end of the second period saved Lazzo.

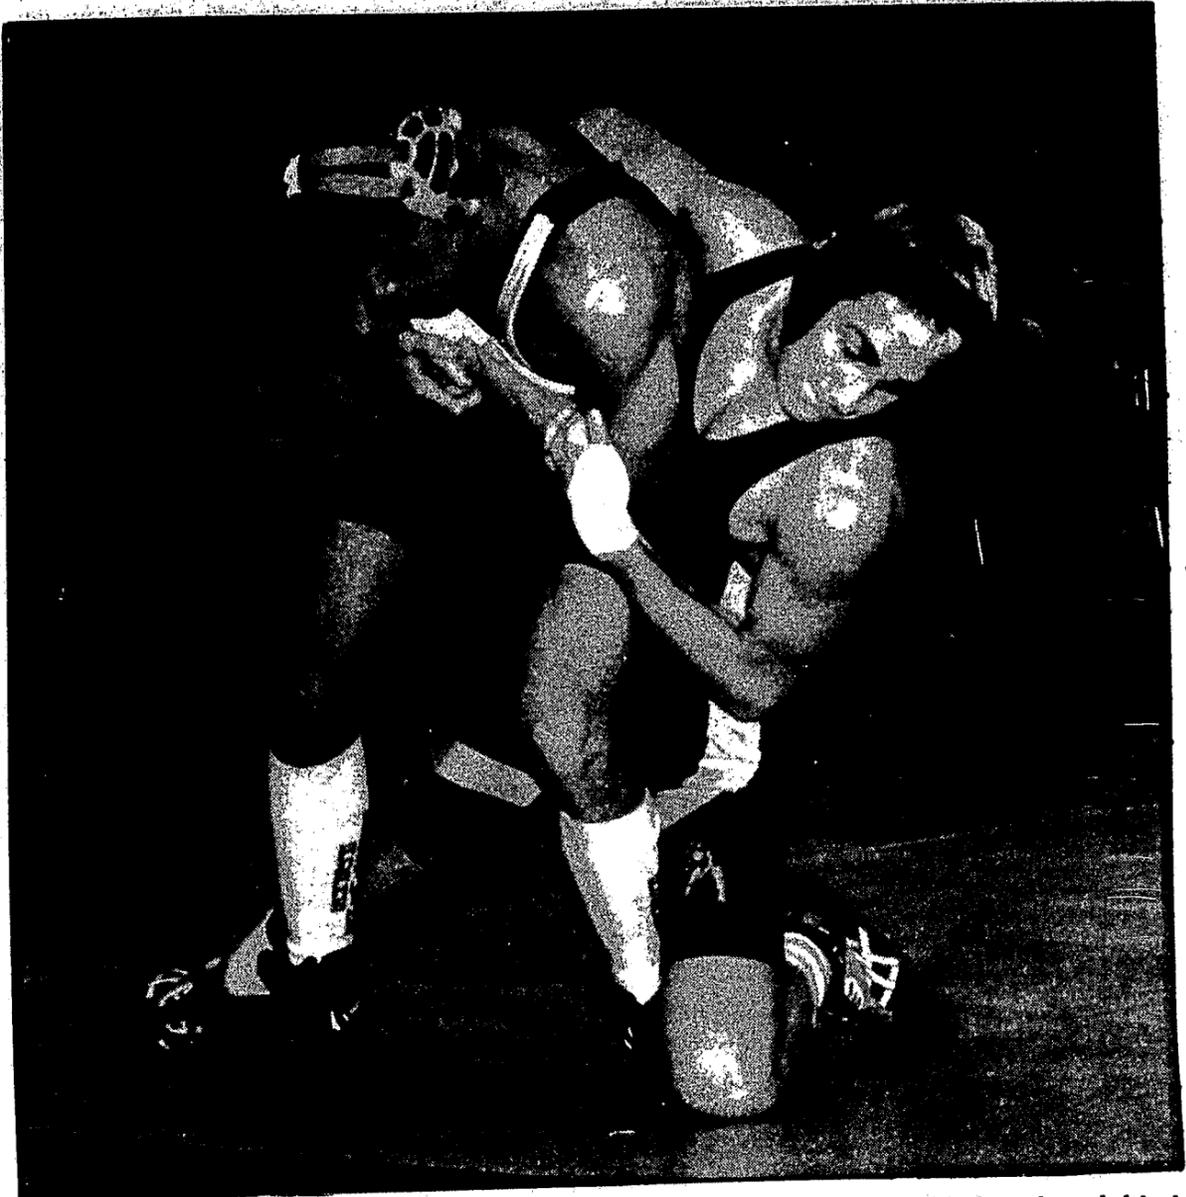

Lazzo went on to pin Naboychik early in the third period.

"Jon wrestled a kid ranked third in the state as well as you could ask for," coach DeGain said. "He did a great job in getting him down. But close is only good in horseshoes."

If Naboychik had been able to pin Lazzo, it would have made the score 25-21 Adams instead of 31-15. After the Lazzo-Naboychik match, Clarkston outscored Adams 12-10.

Pinfall winners for the Wolves were A.J. Grant (119), Ryan L'Amoreaux (125) and Pat DeGain (215). Rocky Bills pulled out a 5-4 win at 145 despite getting penalized two points for stalling. Andy Auten notched a win over his arch-rival Luke Lazzo 12-2 at 160, and Chris Labrie defeated Kirk Anderson 7-2.

The strangest match of the night was the last, a heavyweight battle between Clarkston's Jon Robinson and Adams' James Pack. Robinson forced overtime when he was awarded a stalling point late in the third period. No points were scored by either wrestler in overtime, so a sudden-death session took place. This is where there is a coin toss, and the winner of the toss chooses whether he wants to start in the down or up position. If the down wrestler escapes within 30 seconds, he wins. If not, the wrestler in the up position wins.

Pack went against conventional wisdom and chose the down position. He was able to escape within 10 seconds, and was awarded the three-point win.

"Adams is ranked first in the state for a reason," coach DeGain said. "They have a solid team from top to bottom and they have kids who compete hard."

Clarkston fell to 4-2 this season in dual meets, and 1-1 in the OAA Division I.

■Detroit Catholic Central Invitational
Competing with a lineup that wasn't even close to full strength, the Wolves finished fifth at Saturday's Detroit Catholic Central Invitational.

Clarkston only brought nine wrestlers to the meet, and were without top-ranked junior Pat DeGain, who sat out the tournament due to a rib injury.

Grant won the 119-pound weight class bracket

Wolves win marathon match over Falcons

	Clarkston	15-7-17
	Rochester	11-15-15

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In two hours, most people can clean an apartment, go grocery shopping, or watch "You've Got Mail."

Last Tuesday, the Clarkston and Rochester varsity volleyball teams took two hours to play just one match.

The Wolves remained undefeated in league play with a thrilling, but exhausting 15-11, 7-15, 17-15 win over the Falcons. Clarkston is now 7-3-2 overall and 3-0 in the OAA Division II.

Most dual matches take between 50 and 70 minutes to play, even for three-game matches. However, a high number of side-outs and service errors pushed this game just a minute shy of the two-hour mark, comparable to a basketball game that goes to triple overtime.

Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson said the length and drama of the match made for a tired, but happy team.

"The last four timeouts we took, all I told them was to relax and take deep breaths," he said. "We had a lot of nervous excitement in that third game, and that was reflected in all the service errors by both teams."

The first two games of the contest proceeded rather normally, with the teams splitting the two games. Seven blocking errors in game two hurt Clarkston the most.

Then, the third game. The Wolves took an early lead and maintained control of the play. After taking a 12-9 lead, Clarkston committed three straight mental mistakes, and before they knew it, Rochester had the game tied 12-12.

The Falcons carried the momentum to two game points, but were unable to put the game away. The Wolves responded by tying the game 14-14 and 15-15 before the final sequence of the match.

Senior Ingrid Zimmerman - one of the key players in the match - fired a service ace to give the Wolves a 16-15 lead. Then, a Rochester player was called for a net violation, giving Clarkston the winning point and providing a fitting end to the bizarre, exciting contest.

"The last game alone took 55 minutes," Richardson said. "It may have been exciting to watch as a fan, but it's different coaching in a game like that."

Richardson credited the team's win - and much of its early-season success - to the three senior captains, Zimmerman, Jenny Claus and Kara Bergkoetter. All three led the team in many categories in the match and have provided valuable leadership for a team that entered the season short on varsity game experience.

"Our three senior captains are all great kids. Quiet, but very responsible," he said. "They do things the right way and do a great job for us."

A look at the stat sheet from this game reveals how much these three players did for the Wolves. Zimmerman went 15-for-16 serving, was 15-for-17 on serve receptions, and added seven kills. Claus, the team's defensive specialist, had a game-high 13 digs. Bergkoetter was an offensive juggernaut, with five kills, 13-for-13 serving, and was 23-for-28 in attacks. She was also 15-for-16 in serve receptions.

The Wolves were led in kills by junior Brittani Brewer with 12, her career-high. Sophomore Angela Humphreys was 9-for-11 in serve receptions and had six kills. Senior Brandi Garlitz also played a strong game offensively, going 15-for-15 in attack.

"Brandi had a good day at the net," Richardson said. "Brittani did a good job all the way around for us, even in the back row. We need that from her."

Senior Mandie Harrison and junior Melanie Arnold also saw significant playing time in the match and got valuable experience in a game that was close all the way to the end.

Clarkston could enjoy the win, because it came during the team's most sparse part of the schedule. It plays only one match in a two-week span. The team returns to action Saturday when it travels to Grand Blanc for its annual tournament.

Hockey team beats Kettering for ninth win of season saves in the game.

The game was the first the Wolves played since Dec. 22, a layoff of 18 days. Krygier said the rust was evident in the first two periods when the Wolves held a tenuous 2-0 lead.

"It took us a couple periods to get going," he said. "We got it going in the third, though. Badger played an excellent game for us, and kept us in there in the first two periods."

Senior defenseman Brian Welbourn got the scoring started early for Clarkston when he picked up a loose puck and slid it past the Kettering goaltender. The goal, which came just 38 seconds into the contest, was the first of the season for Welbourn.

The teams went nearly two full periods before another goal was scored, as the regional rivals played a hard-hitting, physical contest.

Both teams had power play opportunities, but were unable to cash in. Sophomore Jon Bemis scored a big goal with just 1:54 left in the second when he stuffed in a shot from the near side to give the Wolves a little more breathing room heading into the second intermission.

Having finally shaken off the rust, Clarkston dominated the third period on the scoreboard and on the ice. Sophomore center Ryan "Tex" MacKinnon scored back-to-back goals within 3:26 of the third to put the game away. The first came when he banged in a rebounds off of a terrific 2-on-2 play with junior Derek Hool.

Hool and junior Jason Stoecker each recorded two assists in the win. Also notching points for Clarkston were junior Jay Manojlovich and sophomore Steve Janowiak.

Junior defenseman Tom Newman played one of his best games of the season, despite not getting on the scoresheet. He delivered several crushing checks to Kettering forwards and was a big-time physical presence from start to finish.

"The physical part of the game gets me going," he said. "Unless I deliver a hit, I feel like I haven't been in the game yet. If I do get a hit in early, I know it pumps up the rest of the guys too."

The Wolves' long unbeaten streak will get a severe test this week, with three games in four days, all on the road against quality opponents. The trip starts Wednesday when Clarkston visits defending Class A state champion Trenton.

A pair of huge league games then awaits the Wolves this weekend. Friday, the team travels to Royal Oak for a contest with the defending league champs. Saturday, the team gets a chance to avenge its only loss of the season with a game against West Bloomfield.

"We can be in a position to win each of those games," Krygier said. "The most important thing is we can't get behind early. We have to concentrate on getting the first goal, something we've been doing a pretty good job at. The guys have to learn that if you play one game or three, you have to play hard all out every shift and every period."

Wrestlers lose to Adams; 12 points from voided weights the difference with a 12-4 win over last year's state finalist Craig Trombley of New Baltimore Anchor Bay.

Junior Jon Robinson finished second at heavy-weight, losing to defending state champion Casey Rogarski from Catholic Central. Ryan L'Amoreaux (125), Brian Chism (130) and Andy Auten (160) all finished third for Clarkston. Senior Chris Labrie took sixth at 171.

"Ryan lost to a bigger guy, and had him in position for a pin," coach DeGain said. "He tried to get him turned on his back, but the guy was bigger than he's used to, and he ended up losing, when it could easily have gone the other way."

Coach DeGain said Pat's injury may have occurred during the Goodrich Tournament of Champions Dec. 30, and wasn't sure when he would return to action.

"He had a rib that was out of place, and we had a chiropractor put it back in," he said. "He was really sore with it, and there was no reason to rush him back. He's got plenty of experience, and it's something that's been nagging him."

Perennial state power Temperance Bedford won the meet. Holt took second, followed by Davison and Catholic Central. The Wolves finished with 105 1/2 points.

Also on the injury front, coach DeGain said senior Kevin Turnbull is recovering quicker than expected, and could be back within a week to 10 days. Turnbull, who won the Oakland County championship at 140, missed the Adams meet because of the injury.

Wednesday, Clarkston travels to Troy for a league dual meet starting at 6 p.m. This weekend's travel itinerary takes Clarkston to Adrian for an invitational Saturday.
