Holiday Inn proposed for M-15

Planning commissioners defer unresolved zoning matter to board of trustees

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new hotel has been proposed for property on M-15 north of the City of Clarkston. But the future of the project hangs in limbo, due to a proposed rezoning of the site.

According to records from the building department, Flint-based Eagle Investment of Mid Michigan has petitioned the township for an 80-room Holiday Inn Express Suites on 2.33 acres on the east side of M-15, north of I-75. If approved, the facility would be built on an L-shaped parcel between an existing gas station and medical offices south of Amy Drive.

Eagle Investment owner/developer Steve Flemmings said the hotel is a standard size Holiday Inn and would include an indoor pool, an exercise facility and a restaurant. The proposed two-story brick structure is intended for "a mix of business and families."

The property is owned by Maria Baylis, who owns several other M-15 parcels, and formerly owned the property sold for the new Independence Elementary School.

However, following Thursday's Planning Commission meeting, Commissioner Joe Figa asked that the hotel's request for conceptual site plan approval be tabled from the Feb. 25 meeting agenda. Commissioners supported his motion 5-0 (Jill Palulian and Todd Moss were absent).

Figa called for the board of trustees to revisit an

Waldon-Main property to become senior assisted living facility

Although the city of Clarkston is not a big place, one small piece of property has generated big-time attention over the last few years.

That property, located at the southeast corner of Main Street and Waldon Road, has a new owner. Local business owners Bob and Deanna Olsen have sold the property to Sunrise Developments, a Virginia-based senior assisted-living company. Olsen said a 50-unit facility would be built on the property, with the project costing between $8-9 million. Olsen said the selling price of the land was in "six fig-

CHS Principal Brent Cooley moves to administration office

Administrative shift at schools

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston students will find new principals in at least five of the 10 Clarkston school district buildings at the start of the new school year in August.

On February 9, CHS principal Brent Cooley announced to students and staff he would resign his position at the end of this school year to become director of resources, planning and evaluation for the school district.

Last week Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said Cooley will assume the duties of the recently retired Dr. Mike LeBay. He called Cooley's new job "a service and leadership position," in that he will concentrate on grants and other outside funding sources. Cooley will also assist Linda Nester, director of personnel and administrative services and Dave Reschke, assistant superintendent for kindergarten through eighth grade operations with research as Roberts takes a more direct hand in curriculum development.

Brent Cooley

John Dilleghio

John Dilleghio, principal at SMS for three years, will become principal at CHS. Roberts added CMS principal Vince Licata will leave CMS for an unspecified position at the high school.

Roberts called teaming Dilleghio and Licata "perfect in terms of middle school students' transition to the high school. He added Dilleghio will help in the selection process for prospective SMS and CMS principals who will work well together.

The three or four finalists chosen for the positions will be interviewed together to see how they interact with each other as a team.

On Tuesday, Cooley said he would concentrate on helping his seniors finish out the school year, but in was looking forward to working toward closing the gap between low- and high-achieving students and setting new benchmarks for learning.

Dilleghio said he was excited about the move.

How you can contribute to B.R.A.D.

The family of Bradley McCue has started an organization in his memory dedicated to increasing awareness of binge alcohol drinking. It is called Be Responsible About Drinking, or B.R.A.D.

Bradley died of acute alcohol poisoning the night of his 21st birthday in November. This organization has been set up by his parents John and Cindy, and sister Jennifer. Rich's American Cafe in East Lansing, the bar where Bradley was the night he died, has donated $30,000 to B.R.A.D.

For more information about B.R.A.D., write to P.O. Box 1021, Clarkston, MI, 48347-1021. A website for the organization is currently under construction. The site is www.BRAD21.com.

"The formation of B.R.A.D. is a beginning," the McCue family said in a statement recently. "It is an opportunity for us to provide a positive response to our personal tragedy. We hope that others will join with us in encouraging our youth to be safe and assist others to be safe as well."

Virginia Rotta remembers doing a lot of dancing during the World War II era. The Swing and Charleston were two of her favorites. And she loved all of the popular songs from that period of history too.

John Zarzycki is proud that all of his sons and one of his grandsons were in the U.S. Navy. John, who built tank engines during World War II, and his boys worked to make this country what it is today, he says.

Along with other senior citizens, John and Virginia shared their memories with students from Clarkston Middle School on February 4. The occasion was a get-together at the Independence Township Senior Center to do research for an elderly unit for the students' sixth-grade language arts class.

The project was started three years ago for the sixth-grade Challenger classes by CMS teacher Angela Pegouskie and Sashabaw Middle School teacher Kathy Cromwell. It has since been expanded to other language arts classes. Cromwell's students interviewed seniors at the center February 5.

Pegouskie said the students paired up to research one of the last several decades. The "grand finale" of the month-long project is the morning spent with the seniors, which will be followed up with reports or biographies of the men and women the students met.

Students spent about a half-hour interviewing the seniors about their lives, then had lunch and performed dances and music selections for the group.

Through their personal histories, students were also able to learn about some of our culture's older customs. Virginia told Emily Booth, Allison Sowles and Kiley Stone that her son brought home a dead six-foot python in a container filled with formaldehyde from school one day and the container broke in the basement of their home.

While Virginia was cleaning up the mess she used a trick learned from a morgue attendant to keep out the smell. She covered her nose tightly with a wet cloth handkerchief because people didn't use Kleenex tissues then, she said.

Allison and Kiley studied the 1970s, researching what was going on in the world, the president, music, TV and clothes.

Allison said she thought the music was, "cool," while Kiley liked the fashions. She said her mother made her a pair of bell-bottomed pants, with bright-colored flares.

Stacy Dearing, who studied the 1930s with partner Jenny Howse, said she found the Depression and the kidnapping of Charles Lindbergh's baby the most interesting.

The girls also received some sound advice from Zarzycki. "My best advice for kids today is to keep your mind on what you're doing and look ahead. There's a reason for everything. And think well of others. That way they'll think well of you."

Musical 'Camelot' at new CHS Performing Arts Center

King Arthur, Guinivere, Sir Lancelot, the Knights of the Round Table and the magical kingdom of Camelot will be brought to life by the Clarkston High School Drama Club Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 26 to 28.

The musical will be performed in the new Clarkston High School Performing Arts Center. The lead roles include: King Arthur - Joe Baldiga; Guinivere - Jessica Williams; Sir Lancelot - Phil DeVries; Pellinore - Mike Lenhardt; Mordred - Nic

Thompson; Merlin - Brian Fitzgerald, and the rest of the CHS Drama Club.

Showtimes are 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $5 for students and senior citizens and $6 for adults. The high school is located at 6093 Flemings Lake Road.

Senior adult Gold Card members 62 and over may reserve a spot for the Dress Rehearsal and Tea Tuesday, February 23 at 2 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling Barb Johns at the Clarkston schools administration office, 623-5420. Over 150 CHS students are involved in the musical which is based on the book The Once and Future King by T.H. White.

The story begins as King Arthur meets his wife to be, Guinivere. They are soon married and peace is seemingly restored to the land.

It does not last long as Sir Lancelot and Guinivere strike up an affair. Mordred, King Arthur's son, plans to reveal the lovebirds and become king himself, placing the kingdom in peril.

Board considers postponing safety path, asking Independence for funds

Walters Road paving costs increase

MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Last fall the Clarkston school board made a commitment to residents of Walters Road to pave the road this year.

At their regular meeting February 8, board members restated their commitment, but added a catch - they want help paying for it or part of the project may have to wait.

In November, Craig Kahler, director of business services for the schools estimated the paving would cost about $250,000. Current estimates put the cost closer to $400,000, said Kahler, due to the addition of curbs, gutters and an eight-foot safety path.

Concerned about taking additional funds from the general fund, Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts and board members discussed postponing the safety path portion or seeking financial help from Independence Township and the Road Commission for Oakland County.

Roberts said road and site improvements so far at the high school have cost about $1.1 million and the school has absorbed 70 percent of the cost. He commended Independence Township and the RCOC for helping to get Flemings Lake Road paved. "They made the impossible possible," he said.

He said he was hoping for help again from the township and RCOC but cautioned, "I was not given any reason to believe so," after a preliminary meeting with Stuart.

Other school board members agreed that the schools should not bear the cost of the paving and improvements alone. "This is not a school problem but a community problem," said school board President Kurt Shanks.

Vice President Karen Foyteck and Trustee Sheila Hughes suggested that because Detroit Edison and township DPW trucks frequently use the road they should bear some of the costs of the improvements. Foyteck added the schools have been, "extraordinary in terms of picking up road improvement funding," and perhaps should wait on constructing a safety path.

On Tuesday, Ann Conklin, Independence Township Director of Parks and Recreation said Walters Road is not yet part of the safety path master plan. She added Safety Path Committee members chose to wait until after the high school was built to discuss safety path designations for that area.

At the meeting, Roberts said he and Kahler would continue talks with Stuart and RCOC and present more information to the board at their March 8 meeting.

Knights and Eagles to work with Independence on expansions

Independence Township Planner Eric Carlisle said Monday the township is working with the Knights and Eagles property on Columbus and Clarkston-Eagles properties on Maple Road.

The township recently approved first reading of parcels from C-7 (Blended Shopping) to OS-2 (Office Services) to be used for retail and final approval needed from the township trustees.

Both the Knights and Eagles have objected to the zoning change they would reduce their property value. They ever wish to move they have asked for a violation of property ownership. However, both entities have clearly stated they don't want to move and have asked for the township's help in planning costly expansions.

Carlisle said the issue seems to be moving in a positive direction. He recently had "a very positive meeting" with Knights and Eagles representatives, and members from the CPC (Committee for the Preservation of our Community), a new community support group devoted to preserving the rural character in Independence Township.

Steps are being taken to help both nonprofit organizations make "affordable" improvements that meet with minimum standards, Carlisle said.

"They (the Knights and Eagles) want to stay, the CPC and the neighbors want them to stay. What better emphasis to have them stay in their area," he added.

McCrary elected to new MAC position

Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary was elected first Vice President of Michigan Association of Clerks, at the group's annual meeting in Detroit Jan. 19. Her duties will include Legislative Chair and coordinating communication between members of the MAC Board.

McCrary, who has held other positions with the organization, said she's looking forward to future challenges and working with "such an outstanding group of people."

The MAC has over 650 members dedicated to enhancing the professional standing of the Municipal Clerk through education and training. McCrary said it also fosters cooperation and communication among clerks, and addresses legislation relating to elections and other responsibilities.

CMS math team places third at math invitational

Let's say there are three volcanoes of differing heights on an island, each growing at a different rate per year.

Given the height and circumference, which would get to a certain circumference and in which year?

It was a story math problem that didn't faze Clarkston Middle School math students Kevin Sharkey, Ben Kosbab, Derek LaHousse and Matthew Prunte at the recent Detroit Country Day Math Invitational for 48 teams of Oakland County middle school students.

The team of 7th and 8th graders came in third in the three-part competition, behind Detroit County Day and East Middle School in Farmington Hills.

The first section of the competition is a 30-question individual written test. The second is a team relay math problem in which each team member receives part of the question. The problem must be solved as a team. Points are awarded based on how long it takes to solve the problem and how correct it is.

In section three the team works to solve up to 10 problems, continuing on if each preceding problem is solved correctly.

Their teacher, Howard Andress, said the invitational is used as a tune-up for the Math Counts competition for all middle school students in Southeastern Michigan on February 27 at Lawrence Technical University.

The boys will be warming up with Sashabaw Middle School students today. Andress said last year his group finished in the middle of the pack at Math Counts. He's hoping they'll be in the top 10 this year.

CMS 7th grader Kevin Sharkey (front) is part of a team of Clarkston math wizards that includes 8th graders Ben Kosbab, (left) and Derek LaHousse and 7th grader Matthew Prunte. The boys came in third in the Detroit Country Day Math Invitational recently.

Olsens sell corner property to assisted living facility ures."

"We have a need for this type of facility in Clarkston," Olsen said Monday afternoon. "This is not a nursing care facility, but a facility for the elderly who need some assistance."

Olsen said Sunrise has a similar building on Walton Blvd. in Rochester, just outside its downtown district. Another facility broke ground in Northville just before Christmas.

Sunrise is a company that will make sure its building and use fit in with the city, according to Laura Hester, project coordinator for Sunrise. She works for Gerald J. Yurk and Associates architectural firm in Rochester, and worked with Sunrise on its Rochester facility.

"The buildings are all Victorian in nature, and the one in Clarkston will be a smaller prototype," Hester said. "Our next step is to get in touch with the historical commission in Clarkston to make sure this building won't conflict with the surrounding neighborhood."

The property has been the center of legal haggles between the Olsens and the city for years. The Olsens had been pushing for an office building on the site, but the land was always zoned residential, and the city council was reluctant to stray from that.

"Hopefully, we can stay away from lawsuits and bad feelings if this goes through," Olsen said. "This will take all that stuff away."

Clarkston city councilman Mike Kelley said he has toured the Rochester facility, and said he was impressed with the architecture of the building, but didn't think if the building would fit under the city's current master plan.

"They'll require a rezoning to multiple family, and that property is currently zoned single family," Kelley said. "We're going to need a PUD (planned unit development), and we don't have one on the books right now."

Kelley said one of the advantages of having a PUD is to give the city more control over the use of the property now, and if the land is ever sold to another developer.

"A PUD gives us a lot of control and installs a lot of safeguards," he said. "We will be able to keep it the same zoning that it is right now, and we can make sure any new buyer will have the same use for the property, and they won't be able to put something else there."

Hester said one of her duties is to work with local governments on those types of issues. She said the issue will be on the agenda for the next city council meeting on Monday.

"Sunrise owns and operates every facility they build, with very few exceptions," she said. "They don't come into a community, build the facility and leave. This will be a multi-housing complex, two stories high with a turret entrance and a high-pitched roof."

Hester said Sunrise has 70 facilities in 13 states, and 13 more are under construction.

"I am concerned about the size of the building," Kelley said. "Whatever happens, it's going to be a big building."

Olsen said he has seen pictures of the Rochester facility, and said the building would fit in very well with the classic-styled architecture of downtown Clarkston.

"It's a beautiful structure," he said. "We will have more people here, who can use the downtown's shopping district. It will be very spacious, very gracious and glorious."

Walters Road residents deserve a paved road and safety paths

Last fall, officials from the schools, Independence Township and Road Commission for Oakland County patiently listened to and addressed complaints from Walters Road residents.

Residents complained of a myriad of inconveniences with the opening of Clarkston High School and Walters Road becoming a major bus route. The list ranged from traffic to dust, cars parked in front yards and people urinating in public during football games, to rude language from construction workers and construction vehicles parked in front yards during the day.

The board agreed to be "good neighbors" and pave Walters Road this spring, estimating the cost to be about $250,000. However, costs have risen. At the February 8 school board meeting, Director of Business Services for the schools, Craig Kahler, said the project will cost about $400,000, with the addition of curbs and gutters, protection of the tree canopy and an 8-ft. safety path.

Some board members said they felt Independence Township and the RCOC should bear some of the costs, or the scope of the work should be downgraded to the original offer, simply paving Walters Road.

Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said a preliminary discussion with Supervisor Dale Stuart indicated the township might not cooperate. Roberts added the schools have spent about 70 percent of the $1.1 million road and site improvements completed to date. The remainder came from the township and county. The board feels they have done more than their share.

We agree that since the school serves the entire community and Walters Road residents are bearing the brunt of the burden, the road should be paved at no cost to them. They also deserve safety paths for the protection of their families.

However, the schools did not choose Walters Road as a bus route until last June — barely two months before the start of school. The decision should have been made when the school location was determined. The cost could have been negotiated and scheduled in the appropriate manner, and the project finished with the completion of the school.

It is reasonable to expect the township and RCOC to balk at the request for thousands of dollars at short notice, regardless of the urgency of the request. It is reasonable to expect the schools make their request in a timely manner as other entities must.

Judging by past history the township will probably cooperate with the schools on this project, but it is unreasonable for the schools to expect them to.

We hope the issue will be resolved in an equitable manner before football games resume in the fall, and future school projects be completed with a "team" concept for all parties concerned.

Letters To The Editor

School board should 'adopt' hockey team

Dear Editor,

Bravo to Brad Monastiere for his February 10th sports column praising our Clarkston Wolves Hockey Team. At long last, somebody has come to the support of this plucky group of players. Monastiere is so right. Coach Bryan Krygier, has certainly shaped the Clarkston Wolves into a competitive hockey team — one to be reckoned with indeed.

But Monastiere has also underlined the importance of having the Clarkston School board adopt this team as one of its own. Up to now, the parents have financially supported them — incurring all the expenses of this sport. Parents have uncomplainingly driven the players back and forth to all game destinations and practice sessions for three years.

Yes, we agree that the Clarkston School Board would do all of us proud if they would step up now and adopt this hockey team as one of their own. The Clarkston Wolves Hockey Team has more than earned that right. From this point on, the school board should, as Monastiere pointed out, pay for all its expenses. As grandparents of one of the players, we feel this long-awaited adoption is long overdue.

Sincerely yours,
Peter and Irma Facione

What happend to 'Customer is always right?'

A couple of weeks ago I received a very nice letter from a faithful reader who wove a column of mine into a composition for her college English class.

Reader Lynne Swayne said her professor instructed her "to find an article containing attitude." My column about a tailgater fit the bill.

Well, Lynne — and you other loyal readers out there — here's another "attitude article" for you.

My husband and I celebrated Valentine's Day early this year because we both had commitments Sunday. We had been looking forward to a movie, a visit to see our new niece, and a nice dinner at Pike Street Restaurant to end the special day.

I'd made the dinner reservations the week before, and planned to use two gift certificates I received from The Palace of Auburn Hills, where I'm employed as a part-time hostess.

I won the certificates during a class where we employees learn how to sharpen our service skills. The Palace does a very fine job, I feel, of putting patrons first. We're taught to go out of our way to accommodate our guests if there are ticket or seating problems and other matters.

How ironic, then, that this age-old ideal of bending over backwards for customers was not followed at Pike Street Restaurant.

After ordering our dinner drinks, my husband noted a tiny message at the bottom of the menu that stated "gold certificates" were no longer honored.

We could have left right then and there, yes. But we chose to stay, trusting this establishment — that touts itself as fine dining — would certainly take care of us.

Instead, our server made a brief trip to the manager, and came back saying the perks stamped "Good through August 1999" weren't valid. A more compassionate waitress said she'd see what she could do.

Soon, the manager appeared at our table and explained the business had recently been bought by a different owner and there was nothing he could do. But, oh yes, here's my card and a number to call. They will reimburse you for the dinners — and if they don't, please contact me.

Well — since when has it become the customer's responsibility to do the legwork? This is something my husband pointed out in a complaint letter that should have reached Pike Street by now.

The owner should have been prepared to honor all outstanding certificates. Instead, he reinforced our "attitude" to never visit his eatery again. As my husband wrote, we were left feeling "embarrassed and devalued."

There's also the ripple effect to consider. You have a nice experience, you tell others. You don't have a nice experience, you send a negative message loud and clear.

That's the message I want to send to your readers. Stick up for your rights when you haven't been treated accordingly. If you don't say something, nothing changes.

I remember the time my children and I were ignored at a restaurant in Walt Disney World. When we complained, the manager not only picked up our tab, he ordered dessert on the house.

We didn't have to do any legwork, and we left happy and satisfied. I couldn't wait to tell my friends about the experience. No wonder WDW is the number one vacation spot for families.

Pike Street's owner would do well to remember that, in light of the Pontiac renaissance. As my father-in-law pointed out, Pontiac is spending millions of dollars to "clean the city up." They'll also clean up in big bucks if they treat their visitors right.

Much of a business's success is traced to word of mouth — And that means a lot more than what's palatable on the palette.

Incidentally, our favorite restaurant is "Tenuta's," also a long-time Pontiac eatery. We're always treated like royalty, even though their Mexican food menu is far less pricey than Pike Street's. We'll go there next time we want to mark a special event.

As my father-in-law wryly observed, restaurants would fare better if they served their "gourmet" customers as well as their gourmet food.

Walters Road residents deserve a paved road and safety paths

Last fall, officials from the schools, Independence Township and Road Commission for Oakland County patiently listened to and addressed complaints from Walters Road residents.

Residents complained of a myriad of inconveniences with the opening of Clarkston High School and Walters Road becoming a major bus route. The list ranged from traffic to dust, cars parked in front yards and people urinating in public during football games, to rude language from construction workers and construction vehicles parked in front yards during the day.

The board agreed to be "good neighbors" and pave Walters Road this spring, estimating the cost to be about $250,000. However, costs have risen. At the February 8 school board meeting, Director of Business Services for the schools, Craig Kahler, said the project will cost about $400,000, with the addition of curbs and gutters, protection of the tree canopy and an 8-ft. safety path.

Some board members said they felt Independence Township and the RCOC should bear some of the costs, or the scope of the work should be downgraded to the original offer, simply paving Walters Road.

Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said a preliminary discussion with Supervisor Dale Stuart indicated the township might not cooperate. Roberts added the schools have spent about 70 percent of the $1.1 million road and site improvements completed to date. The remainder came from the township and county. The board feels they have done more than their share.

We agree that since the school serves the entire community and Walters Road residents are bearing the brunt of the burden, the road should be paved at no cost to them. They also deserve safety paths for the protection of their families.

However, the schools did not choose Walters Road as a bus route until last June — barely two months before the start of school. The decision should have been made when the school location was determined. The cost could have been negotiated and scheduled in the appropriate manner, and the project finished with the completion of the school.

It is reasonable to expect the township and RCOC to balk at the request for thousands of dollars at short notice, regardless of the urgency of the request. It is reasonable to expect the schools make their request in a timely manner as other entities must.

Judging by past history the township will probably cooperate with the schools on this project, but it is unreasonable for the schools to expect them to.

We hope the issue will be resolved in an equitable manner before football games resume in the fall, and future school projects be completed with a "team" concept for all parties concerned.

Letters To The Editor

School board should 'adopt' hockey team

Dear Editor,

Bravo to Brad Monastiere for his February 10th sports column praising our Clarkston Wolves Hockey Team. At long last, somebody has come to the support of this plucky group of players. Monastiere is so right. Coach Bryan Krygier, has certainly shaped the Clarkston Wolves into a competitive hockey team - one to be reckoned with indeed.

But Monastiere has also underlined the importance of having the Clarkston School board adopt this team as one of its own. Up to now, the parents have financially supported them - incurring all the expenses of this sport. Parents have uncomplainingly driven the players back and forth to all game destinations and practice sessions for three years.

Yes, we agree that the Clarkston School Board would do all of us proud if they would step up now and adopt this hockey team as one of their own. The Clarkston Wolves Hockey Team has more than earned that right. From this point on, the school board should, as Monastiere pointed out, pay for all its expenses. As grandparents of one of the players, we feel this long-awaited adoption is long overdue.

Sincerely yours,
Peter and Irma Facione

What happend to 'Customer is always right?'

A couple of weeks ago I received a very nice letter from a faithful reader who wove a column of mine into a composition for her college English class.

Reader Lynne Swayne said her professor instructed her "to find an article containing attitude." My column about a tailgater fit the bill.

Well, Lynne — and you other loyal readers out there — here's another "attitude article" for you.

My husband and I celebrated Valentine's Day early this year because we both had commitments Sunday. We had been looking forward to a movie, a visit to see our new niece, and a nice dinner at Pike Street Restaurant to end the special day.

I'd made the dinner reservations the week before, and planned to use two gift certificates I received from The Palace of Auburn Hills, where I'm employed as a part-time hostess.

I won the certificates during a class where we employees learn how to sharpen our service skills. The Palace does a very fine job, I feel, of putting patrons first. We're taught to go out of our way to accommodate our guests if there are ticket or seating problems and other matters.

How ironic, then, that this age-old ideal of bending over backwards for customers was not followed at Pike Street Restaurant.

After ordering our dinner drinks, my husband noted a tiny message at the bottom of the menu that stated "gold certificates" were no longer honored.

VISION 2020 rears its ugly head again. A plan, by the way, that has never officially been adopted. The Independence Township government will have its way by picking off one by one zonings that do not fit there plan or way of thinking.

Are you free? This question is asked by Gerry Spence, P.C. in his new book "Give Me Liberty: Does the Government serve the people? I think NOT! You select them, you pay their wages (and benefits plus cars ect.). But do they serve you? Can you plan for the future? Can you believe them? Can you stop them? We call this freedom? "Pick on the church, they can't fight us". Let's put light industrial at M-15 and I-75s northwest quadrant. "Let us decide that all previous plans and planners were wrong," they are saying.

The people have come under the tyranny of the government! I ask again are you free, is your freedom honored? Is the law (the government) choking the very life, wage and freedom from you?

Answer these questions and the great majority will realize, we are puppets, slaves, and no consequence to those we give such awesome power.

The problem is absolute power corrupts absolutely. Gary Stonerock author of "Government Gone Amuck" articles

Finding some good in the impeachment

In the beginning of the entire sordid affair we all shook our heads — maybe not all for the same reasons, but we all shook our heads. Now that Prez. William Jefferson Clinton has been acquitted of the two impeachment articles I find myself still shaking my head.

Actually I've been twisting my noggin so much in the past 13 months my neck is getting that Jessie "The Body" (er The Mind) Ventura look to it. Or, maybe the cords in my neck are just bunching up 'cause the mere mention of this impeachment farce makes me clench and grind my teeth.

Yet — and there is always a "yet" or a "but" in anything I write — I will miss it. No, not because it gave me tons of column fodder. This is only my third column on the topic, so banish that thought from your mind, ye of little faith. Hear me out.

While the District of Criminals focused its energy on Clinton's sex life, they left us alone. I think it's fair to say most of us agree our nation's capitol brings out the worst in all those "in charge" of the nation's business. For the past 13 months we've had a sabbatical from their shenanigans. Our taxes haven't gone up, interest rates are still low — all because they have been preoccupied with one of their own. The nation's business has been left up to Alan Greenspan and the rest of those actually in business. Democrats and Republicans should keep on minding their own business and leave our's alone.

It's interesting how partisan the whole thing has been and now how fast everybody up on "the hill" is now trying to be bipartisan. Like everything else they do, they're getting this wrong, too. They shouldn't be partisan. The folks who voted them into office have different views on where the country should go and how to get there. It needs to be a donnybrook, with the best arguments winning.

It should be messy, too, with all standing on principle — not everybody trying to be mamby-pamby, nicy-nicy.

In retrospect: The last two years of Clinton's presidency might actually be good for the country. An egotist-extremist, he's gonna' bust his butt to save his reputation as a president.

Further, congress may actually give us a tax-break to get back into our good graces. I, for one, vote for the 10 percent plan the Republicans are touting now.

Observations, political and otherwise

Bear with me through two political observations, then on to something more meaningful.

1. The behavior, excusing and accusing actions of the people on/in the U. S. Senate/jury during the presidential "trial" makes one nauseous. As Free Press columnist Brian Dickerson writes, "Is it any wonder most voters figure the whole solemn affair has about as much integrity as a professional wrestling match?"

2. Look for our former governor and former ambassador to Canada Jim Blanchard to run for the senate seat currently held by Spencer Abraham. Look for the 'former' to defeat the 'current.' Abraham will have a lot more money for his campaign, but Blanchard was a good governor, good ambassador and is a good person who has offended few and will make a good senator.

"Riverdance" is a Broadway/Fisher Theater/television production that features a lot of enthusiastic, fast dancing. Energy abounds. If you were to dance to it you would burn 320 calories. Tell me again doctor, how easy it is to lose weight with exercise?

I vowed to boycott the National Basketball Association when the lock out was unlocked. Then I remembered I've only gone to one professional basketball game in my life, and that was freebee. So, I decided to never watch another NBA game on the tube the rest of my life. Then the Pistons won their first two games. Sports junkies are fickle, too.

I'm sure I heard this right. President Clinton says he will send (he claims he can do this without congressional approval) 4,000 U. S. troops to Kosovo after there is a peace agreement. If there is peace, why do we need to send anyone? Or, if this is good policy, shouldn't we be sending troops to all countries who are at peace? This comment does not fall under the "political observations" mentioned at the top.

Annually we read and write something from The Old Farmer's Almanac. Well, there's another Almanac published by Lee Almanac Co., of Louisville, KY. It was in this one, sponsored by Barden Funeral Home in Ithaca, that we learned there are body parts related to zodiac signs. The school principal -- every building's catalyst

This is the time of year when the significant contributions of individuals and groups are recognized. So it wasn't surprising when Governor Engler proclaimed January as School Board Recognition Month. This was a richly deserved honor for the Clarkston Board of Education, a group that has placed our community's children first. Now, our principals take center stage. The week of February 14-20, has been proclaimed "Principal's Week" in Michigan. My experience as a building administrator gives me particular appreciation for that position.

The School Principal is the catalyst that makes things happen in his or her building. Not only is he/she an important ambassador for the school, but the person responsible for the overwhelming number of actions that must be tackled every day. Student safety and pupil performance; the quality of instruction; maintenance of the school building; and the purchasing of materials and equipment are but a few of the thousands of tasks necessary to keep a school running smoothly.

Our principals understand the need to have a view of education that transcends the hectic daily schedule. They know that planning, research and evaluation are necessary albeit time consuming tasks! While they handle discipline problems, complete faculty evaluations, and oversee events in their building, they also work to keep abreast of new knowledge, analyze enrollment and curriculum needs, and plan for our future.

Recently the National Association of Elementary School Principals surveyed over 800 middle and elementary school principals. The survey asked them to rate twenty-four major issues impacting schools. Their responses are very telling:

- Ninety-seven percent ranked motivating students at the top of the list.
- Ninety-four percent rated parent involvement in their children's schoolwork as crucial.
- Ninety-three percent expressed concern about the cost and effectiveness of special education accommodations.
- Ninety-three percent found keeping up with educational technology an issue of concern.

While I have not formally surveyed our principals, my guess is that the results would be somewhat similar. In Clarkston, every one of our school principals is deeply concerned about student motivation, parent involvement, the implementation of technology, and accommodating student needs.

In addition to the routine faced by most building administrators, our Clarkston group is in the midst of several major construction projects. Some work is well underway (Clarkston Elementary, North Sashabaw, new elementary, and the new Clarkston Middle School). Other projects are well beyond the planning stage and will begin this year (Andersonville, Pine Knob, Bailey Lake and Sashabaw Middle School).

Planning ahead for smooth transitions while keeping our eye on the ball (student achievement) is complicated; but we are fortunate to have the leadership of Charles T. Rowland III, Chris Turner, Sharon Deveraux, William Potvin, K.C. Leh, Debra Latozas, Vincent Licata, John Dilliegghio and Brent Cooley. Please join us in saluting their dedication during School Principal's Week.

Kosbab Hula Guy of '99? No thanks!

I have devious friends.

I guess I should explain. Since Homecoming last year, I have thought the idea of the Homecoming and Snowcoming Courts is kind of goofy -- it's never really mattered to me who the "king" and "queen" are.

"You don't care because you're just jealous," my friends told me, thinking that if I ever won, I would sing a different tune.

I don't know which one of them got the whole idea together, or if there even was a conscious effort towards organization, but come third hour two Fridays ago, a few cheerleaders wandered into my biology class with a video camera and a Burger King crown. Obviously somebody in my class had been nominated, or tapped, for this year's Snowcoming Court. I, of course, did not assume that I would be the one made to wave at the camera and wear the crown.

But that's just what I did, amidst the laughter of those friends of mine present in the room and the disbelief of myself. Why me? I don't play any sports and I don't even care to watch them -- heck, I spend my spare time playing villains in Drama and writing columns for the paper. More importantly, I couldn't care less about the onerous nomination.

So the next week I heard a lot about my new status as Snowcoming Court nominee, and I think my friends expected that I would have a fresh perspective regarding the Court, but I'm afraid not. Sorry guys, after almost being a part of it, I still think it's just as goofy. I was relieved during last Friday's assembly when I learned that I had not been voted into the final position of "Hula Guy" (our theme for Snowcoming was a Hawaiian luau). I never had any desire to deal with whatever obligations it would entail.

I did go to the dance, as I had been planning to do all along. I went with my friend Katie Funk, who, at long last, will get to see her name in print in this column (she's been telling me to write about her since last year). We stopped off at Mr. B's for some dinner with friends and then headed to the dance. I think Snowcoming comes at a time of the year when few people are in the mood to go to a dance for some reason -- there were only about three hundred people there, which, for our school, is pretty small. We danced for a while, but got discouraged when "Love Shack" came on and we couldn't dance on the cafeteria's countertop due to a contingent of administrators sitting nearby -- they weren't there when we did it at Homecoming.

After a bit more time at the dance, we decided to go to a small party at another friend's house. This friend had prepared a cake which, when I saw the whipped cream on the top and he started coming towards me, I figured was going to end up smashed on my face, but, in fact, he was just showing me that he had inscribed "King Kevin and Queen Kate" on the top. Thanks for the cake -- I would never think to pass up an opportunity for sweets. But now my not quite brush with royalty is over, so you can all stop bowing to me.

ON APPEAL

The losing side in a civil case may decide to appeal the trial court ruling on the basis that the court made a mistake in courtroom procedure or in its interpretation of the law governing the case. Otherwise, the party filing the appeal (appellant) usually cannot re-argue the facts of the case before the appeals court. The appeals court can remand (return) the case to the trial court for further consideration of the facts, putting a new interpretation on them according to the appeals court's instructions. While this provides a general outline of the appeal procedure, lawyers can provide their clients with information about the exact procedures that must be followed in the court where their cases are heard. Township budget pared to last year's amount

The Independence Township board pared their budget at the last regular meeting to come in line with the amount that the Oakland County Allocation Board had okayed. The budget was then adopted by a unanimous vote of the board. The adjusted budget amounted to $211,605.54.

The Allocation Board okayed 1.35 mills, which was the same as last year. Originally the budget figure was $220,585.

Those departments from which the extra was trimmed are: capital improvements, supervisor's plating and police protection, all under general operating expenses.

In other action at the meeting, the board granted its approval to issue a special beer and wine permit to the Oakland County Sportsman's Club for the weekend of July 21-22 which is a weekend of racing at that club.

A special report was presented by a citizens committee regarding the township's land fill operation. John Lynch and Marie Brendle are the committee members from Independence township who have been working with representatives from Brandon and Groveland townships.

Their recommendations were as follows: That through the joint efforts of the 3 townships plus Springfield, Holly and Rose that a third Oakland County land fill site should be developed to serve the northwest Oakland County area. This proposal had been made in an Oakland County Road Commission report released in May. Due to the prohibitive costs involved for the 3 townships to develop and maintain a land fill properly and to the rules set forth by Act 87, the committee urged prompt county action.

The committee also sought the approval of a coupon system to be used at the present site on M-15. This is to discourage the use of the disposal site by outsiders. The coupons would

Township zoning ordinance published

Included in this issue of The Clarkston News is a new zoning ordinance for Independence Township. A Public Hearing relative to the adoption of such will be held on July 31st at 7 P.M. at the Auditorium of the Clarkston High School will be held by the Planning Commission.

The ordinance represents many months of work by members of the commission and the planning consultants for the township, Driker Associates, Inc. of Birmingham.

During the last 3-4 years there have been many major and minor changes and amendments made to the original ordinance. This new document has tried to consolidate the best of the old ordinance and the new amendments. It also contains new elements not used before such as portions dealing with Education Research and Office Districts.

Encompassed in the ordinance are greater definition of uses in the commercial sector and the use of performance standards in industrial zoning.

It is hoped by the planners that it will become a tool by which the township will continue its growth in an orderly manner. Although major changes have not been made to the map, some have been made to reinforce the township's general development plan.

To avoid the controversy which has ensued when other township's have tried to adopt new ordinances, the township has gone to the expense of having the ordinance and map printed in its entirety prior to the public hearing. In this way, township residents may study the plan at their leisure. Also purchased in advance.

Also recommended by the committee was some type of policing the present site so that it would maintain a proper appearance and conform with the rules as set down by Act 87. If these steps are followed, the group felt that the M-15 site could be used satisfactorily for several years.

The Township board gave their approval to the recommendations of the committee.

though residents could have picked up copies at the township office, it was believed that more preliminary study of the plan would be made if it were published prior to the hearing.

New type operation for local store

The name will be the same, but the operation will be different.

Starting August 1 Clarkston will have a nearly exclusive meat market.

It will be Terry's Market, 12 South Main.

For 28 years Terry's Market has been a familiar grocery store in Clarkston. Earl Terry served customers through those years until his death in February 12, 1967. Since that time Mrs. Terry has been operating the business.

August 1 the Terry's son-in-law, Howard Altman, will be the owner. It is he who is changing the operation to a meat market.

To manage the market and serve as butcher, Altman has hired Dixon "Dick" Lawrence.

DICK LAWRENCE

Dick worked for Terry's and managed the meat department for 15 years prior to 1965.

Dick was born in Royal Oak and attended schools in Clarkston. He married a former Clarkston area girl, Charlotte Bentley in 1950. They now make their home at 6591 Clintonville with their five children, Pam, 16, Joanne, 15, Dixon, Jr., 14, Shanna, 7 and Linda, 5.

Dick, in describing the new meat market, said, "We will be carrying all fresh meat, no packaged meat, and will make cuts to individual desires while they wait or we'll cut meat on order."

The store will also carry fresh fish, poultry and dairy products, along with a limited line of groceries.

Howard said at the time of the change, August 1, Tasty Bakery will also locate their retail outlet for this area in the store.

Friends of present butcher, Jerry Hess, will be pleased to know that he is going to continue in the meat department.

Public Hearing Aug. 14 will review Village Zoning change

A Public Hearing has been slated for Monday evening, August 14 in the Village Hall at which time zoning changes within the Village of Clarkston will be reviewed.

A copy of the ordinance, by which these changes would be adopted appears in this issue of the paper, as well as a map outlining the proposed alterations.

The proposed changes to commercial include the area in back of the stores in the block on the east side of Main Street between Washington and Church Streets. Also included will be lots 15, 16 and 17 on the east side of Buffalo Street between Washington and Church Streets.

Further proposed change to commercial designation are lots 65, 66, 67 and 68 on the west side of South Main Street beginning at Waldon Road.

The proposed changes in the residential area involve the following parcels of land. These areas will be classified as Class A Residential (single family) Lots 103-106 on the west side of Madison Street, south of Church street; the southeast corner of Washington and Holcomb Streets involving Lots 82-86; an area on both sides of Miller Road from the Mill pond to North Main Street with Lots 44 and 45 facing Main Street excluded. This also includes parcels on both sides of Glenburnie Lane.

All of the south side of Parke Lake on the North side of Washington Street east of Buffalo is included. This also will take in Lots 35 and 41 and 42 in the block which includes the Masonic Temple and an area at the end of East Washington Street.

These recommendations for changes were made to the Village by the Planning Commission.

Terms extended for township officers

A major change was made in the dates on which township officers will take office took place when Governor Romney signed into law last week a new piece of legislation which will eliminate the lame-duck period.

On the local level, Independence Township officers, Supervisor Duane Hurstall, Clerk Howard Altman, Treasurer Kenneth Johnson and Trustee Merle Bennett will remain in office until November 20, 1970. The other Trustee, Harold Bauer who was re-elected in November, 1968 will remain in office until November 20, 1972.

Officers of a township are elected to serve two-year terms while Trustees were elected to four year seats. Former expiration time for the township officers with the exception of Bauer would have been in April, 1969.

The waiting period before being sworn in has also been eliminated. It will now be two weeks instead of five months, November to April. Starting in 1970, township officials will be sworn into office on November 20.

As a result of the new legislation, on the November 1968 election ballot, there will be no township contests.

Bring 'em back ALIVE!

Privacy and beach pleasure come closer each day for residents of Independence Township as fencework continues at a proportionate rate with sand spreading at Deer Lake.

Paczki Time

Monday afternoon was a busy time at the Village Bakeshop in downtown Clarkston with Fat Tuesday just around the corner. Above, Jeremy Bazley pours glaze over dozens of paczkis. The round, fruit filled pastries are a Polish tradition, made once a year to mark the beginning of Lent. But you don't have to be Polish to join in the feast; bakeshop owners Eric and Stephanie Vo expected to sell 800 dozen of the tasty treats this year.

Players present 'Death and the Maiden'

Are you looking for a theater production that's adult and on the serious side? Clarkston Village Players' next production "Death and the Maiden," which debuts Friday, March 5, is described as a "serious thriller" and not intended for those with "delicate" tastes.

Set in an emerging Latin American democracy, the play features three characters. According to the Players' synopsis, Gerardo Escobar, the new head of an investigation about human rights abuses, is given a lift after his tire blows out. The Good Samaritan, who picks him up and takes him to his house, is married to a woman who recognizes Escobar as the man who raped and tortured her.

Intent on mock justice, she coerces her husband into a mock trial, creating a moral dilemma for him, and an intellectual and emotional conflict for the audience.

The cast includes Rikki Schwartz as Paulina Salas, Verne Vackaro as Roberto Miranda and Rick Shaw as Escobar.

Play dates are March 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20. Thursday shows (7:30 p.m.) are $9; Friday and Saturday shows (8 p.m.) are $10. CVP productions take place at Depot Theater, 2861 White Lake Road in Clarkston.

Call (248) 625-8811 or 625-2511 (Tierra Jewelry) for more information. You may also E-Mail CVP at Cvpdepot@juno.com or reach them via Internet on their web site: <http://members.aol.com/kvovillia/Cvpdepot.htm>.

Note: Because of adult subject matter and strong language content, this play is intended for mature audiences only. No children under age 16 will be admitted.

Childbirth classes offered in Clarkston

What will it be like to give birth? What can you expect to feel after you give birth? How long will it take for your body to recover after delivery?

As a Beaumont obstetrician/gynecologist, Brian Torok, M.D., knows that pregnancy and childbirth can be overwhelming for both parents. That's why he's made his office space available for a Beaumont community health education class called Childbirth Education. The four-session class is open to any expectant parents in the Clarkston area.

This course teaches parents-to-be how to cope with the physical and emotional changes that occur with pregnancy, labor, birth and recovery. The course is held once a week for four weeks. The next session begins April 12 and runs each Monday until May 3, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Participants are asked to bring two pillows and a blanket to class.

For more information or to register for the Childbirth Education class, please call Beaumont's Physician Referral and Information Service at 1-800-633-7377. Dr. Torok's office is located at 6480 Citation Drive, Suite A in Clarkston.

Dr. Torok is currently accepting new patients. He is on staff at William Beaumont Hospital in Troy and Royal Oak, and accepts most major insurance plans. For an appointment, please call 248-922-0856.

A DREAM COME TRUE

Huston comes up big at Tiger Fantasy Camp

Definitely backed into a corner with a two strike and a one ball count, Bob Huston's steely glare at the mound narrowed under a blinding afternoon sun as the pitcher sporting the Old English D on his jersey.....somebody by the name of Lolich.....reared back and delivered a pitch.

The pitch, a third knuckle ball, followed two earlier pitches that sailed harmlessly off Huston's bat into foul ball territory. A good pitch by all accounts, in the big game of the year at Joker Marchant Stadium in Lakeland, Florida, spring training home for the Detroit Tigers.

A good pitch that is, for any lesser batter than Hammering Bob Huston, an Oxford native since 1974.

Huston answered the pitch with a strong line drive up the middle, earning a base hit off Mickey Lolich, recognized by Detroit Tiger fans as a familiar and vital member of the 1968 World Champions and the MVP of the World Series.

Cheering for Huston on his dash to first base, familiar faces like Gates Brown, Jim Northrup and Al Kaline could be seen, along with some members from the 1984 World Championship team, including Alan Trammell, Lou Whitaker and Darrell Evans.

Are you confused about the 1968 and 1984 world champs mingling on the same diamond with a former Oxford Police Department officer known since 1986 for his involvement at the Barclay Huston Skylis Real Estate Firm in Clarkston?

Don't be. This was the Detroit Tigers 1999 Fantasy Camp, held over a two week span in Jan. on the same fields where the 1999 Tigers will soon be starting spring training.

The fantasy camp, complete with actual team trainers and former major league stars, provides a rare opportunity for lovers of the game to take to the field with their childhood heroes.

Divided into two separate sessions, the first week involved 90 participants, called campers. The second session, from Jan. 24-31, involved 120 players, and included Huston. Campers were divided into more manageable teams, and pairs of former Tiger greats assume head coaching roles while their teams play twice daily in the seven-day program.

Rounding out the week of play between their peers, each team (with the order decided by the best record over a series of games) squared off against the Tiger All-Star team for two special innings designed to permit every camper to step up to the plate. Huston's team finished fifth.

BY PHIL STAYHUE

Prior to traveling south for the camp, participants traveled to a snow-covered Tiger Stadium at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull for some indoor batting practice.

"My coaches throughout the week were Jason Thompson and Pat Dobson. There were eight teams that played throughout the week, with playoffs on Friday and the big game Saturday. It was a first-class operation from beginning to end," said Huston, adding that his team finished fifth.

A normal day during the week that featured temperatures in the low 80's and not a drop of rain started at 6:30 a.m. for campers wanting breakfast, followed by a 7:30-8:15 arrival time at the stadium. The first game of the day started at 9 a.m., with lunch promptly following at the stadium cafeteria. Following the second game of the day, each night featured a special event, like autograph night. Daily clinics gave each player an opportunity to brush up on specific aspects of their game, like Kirk Gibson's pointers on base running and batting basics from Kaline and Evans.

"It was just like in the majors. After a game, you throw your uniform in a bag, and when you come back, it's hanging up in your locker again," said Huston.

Gathering at the Holiday Inn used by the professionals, former Tigers and campers gathered by the swimming pool for long talks on the game reaching late into the night.

Smiling, Huston admits the latest he stayed up was around midnight, due in large part to the early game times.

One late-night highlight included driving Dick Traczewski back to the hotel, with Huston trading insights with the coach throughout the ride. "It's (the camp) a life-changing experience, and it's something you'll be doing for the rest of your life with these guys," said Huston.

The 51-year-old Huston estimated half of the camp members were returning veterans, with one team member celebrating his 18th anniversary in the program. Average age for the participants was 40, with a range of age from 20 to 70.

Universal feelings among all players, regardless of age, were the aches and pains of daily play. Gates Brown started the camp with a brief warning that Huston said he couldn't understand until the end of the week: "The best way to do this thing is to start off slow, and then to taper off."

As the muscles tore and strained over the week, so too did the call for ice and aspirin. "We called it the camper's shuffle. The athletic trainer's room was full, and they had gallons of aspirin," Huston said.

Limping away after one game, Huston felt an arm wrapping around his waist. Turning, he faced Kaline face-to-face, and the baseball legend said with understanding, "Hey, big guy, looks like you've got some aches and pains there."

Campers are allowed to play any positions they desire, and Huston sampled duties from second base, third base and the pitcher's mound. Taking the mound against the likes of Milt Wilcox, Dave Bergman and Lolich, Huston admits the results from his pitches remain a blur to this day.

Experience isn't required, but familiarity with the game is important, Huston said. Playing little league baseball since the age of nine, Huston played varsity baseball at Pontiac Northern High School, three years of ball in the United State Navy and a year of class-A ball in a Pontiac league.

Huston also has experience on a pair of state championship-winning softball teams, including the locally based Herk's squad, although he hasn't played organized ball in 15 years. That might change following the camp experience, he added.

Camp participants receive authentic Tiger uniforms, an invitation to appear at a Tigers game in the upcoming season, and many more benefits for the $2,995 package, although Huston said the costs can rise to about $3,500 with added souvenirs and the optional personalized video.

Huston admits his errors were numerous, particularly in one game in which a cameraman praised Huston for making enough mistakes to fill a blooper reel for the week.

Of course that personal video should capture Huston's glory.

"I made a real nice play, catching a high fly to shallow center field from my position at second base. I received a nice ovation, and Trammell called out, 'Nice play Huston.'"

Huston has one simple piece of advice for potential Fantasy Camp participants. "Anybody even considering it should just do it. It's an awesome experience, and I will definitely be going back."

Additional Tigers attending the camp included: Ernie Harwell, John Warden, Jim Price, Johnny Grubb, Doug Bair, Tom Tresh, John Hiller, Tom Brookens, Lance Parrish, and Dave Bergman.

CHS LIFE

The size and fries are great, but keep those improvements coming

Eating lunch at the new CHS cafeteria

BY JEFF GINN

Clarkston News CHS Intern

Lunchtime for Clarkston High School students became a brand new experience at the start of the school year. The cafeteria at the new school is not just any old lunch room. Designed as a Pine Knob-style cafe, it has nine points of sale and offers a new menu.

So, after several months of food and service what do students think?

It still needs improvement.

Students like the fries and the size, but say that there is not enough time to eat, the food lines are too long, and people cut in line.

"It's bigger," said senior Shaun Bennet, summing up many students' thoughts about the cafeteria. "But there's always people cutting in line and you don't have time to see your friends. Lunch needs to be about 15 minutes longer."

Senior Matt Bennett, in the upper southwest corner of the cafeteria, was waiting for lunch. He said the food is good. "Almost the entire length of the cafeteria is lined with service counters, located in the corners and along the walls."

Senior Matt Bennett said the seating problem. He said the cafeteria is too small. "Something with a table in the middle of the room would be helpful because the seats near the walls are hard to get to."

Senior Matt Bennett said he disagreed. "I think the amount of time people spend in the cafeteria is fine. They should just bring their lunch."

Senior Matt Bennett said he likes the menu. "The menu has a lot of options. Burgers, pizza, chicken nuggets, french fries, and hamburgers. You can buy all combinations of the menu items."

Senior Geoff Denstaedt said, "The food's not any worse than it was before, maybe it's a little better. There's not as much of a selection as there was before," said Denstaedt.

On the bright side, it looks like more improvements are in the works.

The school's WOLF club, a group of about forty seniors, is working with cafeteria director Janet Mead to improve food distribution time during lunch. At the beginning of the year members of the club, under the direction of senior John Drallos, got behind the counters and helped cafeteria workers distribute food.

Club members are also making continual improvements with input and criticism from the entire student body.

As a way to generate pride in the cafe CHS sponsored a name-the-cafeteria contest last year. From a number of student-generated ideas the name Wolves Den was chosen. Principal Brent Cooley hopes the name Wolves Den will go beyond the cafeteria and become generic with the rest of CHS.

He added there are efforts being made to balance the food lines and students have been patient and understanding.

"I expect to see constant improvements in food quality, presentation, speed in which it is served, and clean-up," said Cooley.

The Wolves Den offers many improvements on the traditional lunch room that the school's upper classmen have become accustomed to.

Students are allowed to pay with their "smart card." Smart cards are student I.D. cards which also have a bar code that allows students to use them as debit cards.

The traditional bench seats are still there, but round tables and a bar running the length of the room are offered as alternatives.

In addition to lunch, students can also buy a light breakfast of donuts, muffins, and juice and afternoon snacks of popcorn and pop can be purchased before and after school.

The room can seat up to seven hundred people which has been advantageous to a number of groups throughout the school who held programs there while awaiting the opening of the auditorium.

These programs include fine arts concerts, the Chenille letter presentation, college assemblies, P-SAT testing, the cross country team banquet, and a marching band party.

Junior Pat Heber thinks the pop machines are a plus in the new CHS cafeteria.

'I Prayed For A Miracle... I Found Hypnosis And Lost 71 Lbs.!'

Holding my fifth foster baby on September 12, 1996, before shedding 71 lbs.

My name is Marjorie Garst. I live with my husband, John. I am a homemaker and mother of four. I volunteer as a foster mother for newborn babies. I lost a remarkable 71 pounds in eight short months without dieting. I went from a chubby size 20 to a trim size 10! This is my true-life account of genuine, lasting weight loss success.

I had read the hypnosis ads for months. Frankly, I was skeptical. It seemed too good to be true. Then I saw a special report on the News. It featured folks who had quit smoking and dropped weight with hypnosis. One lady said she lost over 90 lbs. She said hypnosis made it simple. That got my attention.

I honestly didn't think the people in the ads were real until I saw it on the 11:00 News. Now it's happened to me and I have my own true story to tell.

Embarrassed and Ashamed

I dreaded my yearly visits to the doctor. My weight was climbing at a rate of ten or more pounds a year. It was dangerous for me to gain weight. My blood pressure and cholesterol were sky high. My joints were stiff and ached constantly. I could barely lift myself out of a chair. My health was in jeopardy. Yet I couldn't stop eating. I was out of control.

I was a career snacker. I sat on the sofa, watched TV and ate. I sat at the kitchen table, read the newspaper and ate. When I fed my foster babies, I fed myself too. I lived on sweets and soda pop. Food seemed to have some mysterious power over me. I ate all day. With every expansion of my hips and thighs my self-confidence withered. I was embarrassed, shy and reserved.

Dieting was the most confusing and frustrating experience of my life. Diets made me crave and binge. The only way I lost weight was by starving myself. I lost ten pounds once. Then I gave up and my weight came right back plus ten pounds more. My self-esteem was demolished.

Immediate Results

I was nervous when I called for the appointment. I didn't want to be pressured. The free hypnotic screening was a wonderful surprise. My consultant was genuinely interested in me. The high-pressure sales pitch never happened. She explained hypnosis in a relaxed, entertaining way. She went over the guarantee. I was impressed. If I couldn't be hypnotized, I would get a full refund. I had nothing to lose except a lot of fat. I signed up.

My new eating habits started immediately after my first session. My hunger pangs disappeared. My taste for soda pop vanished. I found myself craving healthy foods. Fruits and vegetables tasted different. It was like my taste buds came alive.

One day I was walking through the grocery store. I marched right past the bakery, candy, chips and soda without a glance. That's when I was convinced. Hypnosis had completely changed my tastes.

Doctor's Delight!

My last visit to my doctor was a thrill! My doctor nodded his head with delight. He confirmed my 71-pound weight loss. For the first time in my life my blood work and cholesterol are normal without pills!

I feel fantastic. No more aches and pains. No more cravings or binges. Best of all, hypnosis eliminated dieting for good!

Hypnosis made my weight loss easy and effortless. I know I will never gain the weight back. All the changes are permanent. I have a whole different way of thinking about what I put into my body. I never feel deprived.

Self-Confidence Soars!

When I was overweight I was extremely withdrawn. Some days I hardly spoke a word. I thought everyone was judging me. My self-worth was zero.

When the weight came off I felt better about myself. Hypnosis helped me relax. I gained a feeling of inner peace. I knew I was back in control of my life.

One Sunday my minister asked me to stand up in church to announce how much weight I had lost. After the service folks surrounded me to ask how I did it. I was completely comfortable chatting away with them. I couldn't believe it was me! So relaxed! So confident! There are now eleven members of our church losing weight with hypnosis, including my husband, John! He's already lost 30 pounds!

My entire family has changed thanks to hypnosis. My son lost 30 pounds. My 83-year-old mother lost 18 pounds. We're saving money on our food bill every week. What a bonus!

Twenty Years Younger

I thought I'd never wear a bathing suit again. On the 4th of July I gazed at myself in the mirror. I was wearing a sexy black and purple one-piece suit. I loved what I saw! I wore it that day and many days since. The best day of my life was spent filling two giant boxes with fat clothes I'll never wear again.

People say I look twenty years younger. They wonder why I'm always smiling. I have tons of energy. I'm light on my feet. I have a social life! I owe it all to the power of hypnosis.

Invaluable!

My results using hypnosis are invaluable to me. That's why I'm sharing my story with you. I believe in hypnosis. I'm certain you'll be as thrilled as I am. I know because I've met lots of other folks who are getting results like mine. They've shed 50, 60, even 90 pounds with ease.

Call now and schedule your hypnotic screening. It's absolutely free and there's no obligation. Ask about their no-risk guarantee. You'll be glad you did. If your evaluator doesn't think hypnosis is for you, she'll tell you so.

I know how much it hurts to be overweight. I've been there. If you have a weight problem, don't put it off. You'll probably just gain more weight. Do what I did. Call and schedule your free hypnotic screening. Hypnosis worked for me. It can work for you. Call now.

Don't waste one more minute being overweight. Your happiness is too important. Call us at 628-3242. It won't cost you one penny to find out more.

Clarkston High School senior Brit Detkowski and Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes senior Laura Kraly receive flowers, a certificate, pin and lunch with family members as part of their DAR Good Citizen awards presentation.

'Good citizens'

Dependability, service, leadership, patriotism, honor and understanding are important character traits to members of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), and area students Brit Detkowski of Clarkston and Laura Kraly of Springfield Township were two of seven students honored February 4 by the Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the DAR with Good Citizen awards.

The students and their families were treated to lunch in their honor at Mesquite Creek in Clarkston and presented with a certificate, pin and flowers.

Dorothy Lowe, Chaplain for the Sashabaw Plains Chapter, said area high school administrators are given the criteria for the award and choose the students who are most deserving. Any and all graduating high school seniors are eligible. Brit and Laura also participated in a written essay contest and state awards will be announced in March, said Lowe.

Home based in Camp Pendleton, Calif., Dunn's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. Dunn's unit is divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group and a command element. With the combination of these teams, Dunn's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces.

prise Battle Group and USS Belleau Wood ARG, which recently participated in Operation Desert Fox, during which U.S. forces attacked military targets in Iraq.

Prior to departing their home base of Camp Pendleton, Calif., in December, Uhley participated in a Pacific Joint Task Force Exercise with more than 15,000 Sailors, Marines, Airmen and Coastguardsmen in the Eastern Pacific Ocean to test the ARG's ability to respond to situations they may encounter.

Holiday Inn proposed

issue left unresolved several years ago — proposed rezonings for the corridor. Several pieces of property, including the parcel for the proposed hotel, received first readings in 1994 that would downgrade their zonings from the current status. Second readings and final approvals were never adopted.

"I don't think it's fair to review a plan with all of this in motion," Figa said.

Commissioner Rich Oppmann said Monday the general consensus was "to advise the petitioner that he should delay his request until this issue is resolved with the township." If the issue isn't stricken before the next planning commission meeting, "one of us will make a motion to table," Oppmann said.

The action, as in other areas of the township, is being taken to bring several properties into conformance with Vision 2020 and the township's master plan. According to Township Planner Dick Carlisle, the last major revision of the master plan was in 1984. Vision 2020, currently a "tool" for future planning, is expected to be officially adopted within the next six months.

At a 1985 planning commission meeting, Carlisle said the purpose for the rezonings was "to try to avoid commercial development and promote more of an office-type atmosphere" on M-15. Carlisle has cited traffic problems and the abundance of residential properties as two of the reasons to keep the area lower-density.

"We were trying to promote uses that would reduce the impact of traffic on M-15 and create a more-compatible relationship with the adjacent neighborhoods," he said Monday. "These zoning recommendations have been on the table for a long time."

The parcel that would house the Holiday Inn is proposed to be changed from C-3 (Highway Commercial) to OS-2 (Office Service Two). Under C-3 a hotel is a permitted use. But it's not a permitted principal use under OS-2. Instead, a special land use for the project would be required.

Special land uses require a public hearing in front of the township board before they can be adopted, Carlisle said.

Flemmings stressed he had participated in numerous conversations with Carlisle, the township "and all the powers that be. We were told a hotel would be OK there. I was told to go ahead and file the application because it would take a considerable time to go through the rezoning process ... there's never been a mention of it for two years or more."

However, Oppmann said Monday, "For many years, the planning commission has been saying commercial is not appropriate for M-15. And that position has been backed by our master plan and Vision 2020."

And, Oppmann added, under former supervisor Frank "Tink" Ronk, property north of town was already becoming developed as office.

"The master plan was being assessed back when Tink was supervisor and it was recommended commercial not be the master plan for that area. The current zoning was not right," Oppmann said.

Ten years ago, he continued, there was a request to change the zoning to just "Office." But with the development of OS-2 came more flexibility because, under the special land use category, facilities like hotels are permitted. "There's certainly more latitude," Oppmann agreed.

Baylis said she also understood the township was in favor of the project.

"My only comment is I hope they would realize how beneficial it would be to have a nice hotel in the Clarkston area," she said. "We have no facilities in this area for families who want to stay overnight and all."

Flemmings agrees. "There are no hotels from M-15 to Davison, which is 22 miles," he said. "And on I-75 there's nothing until you hit Grand Blanc."

A hotel was also proposed for the I-75/Sashabaw Road interchange several years ago. That project died when a co-developer withdrew his partnership.

Rep. Johnson supports substance abuse screening for welfare recipients

Fulfilling another priority in their Families First agenda, House Republicans on February 9 passed legislation authorizing the Family Independence Agency to require substance abuse testing as a condition for welfare assistance.

State Rep. Ruth Johnson supported House Bills 4090-91, which authorize the FIA to start pilot programs for drug testing and treatment of welfare recipients. The bills only apply to recipients with children.

"This legislation is about families," said Johnson, R-Holly. "It's a pilot program designed to protect children, prevent drug dependency and promote healthy behavior."

"Drug testing identifies and eliminates the most significant barrier recipients have to obtaining and maintaining steady employment. Drug abuse also has a horrendous effect on children. We must feed these children, not the addictions."

Drug and alcohol abuse causes seven out of 10 cases of child abuse or neglect, according to a recent national study.

Applicants who test positive for illegal drugs are referred to health officials for treatment. The FIA plans to test the program in three counties before taking it statewide.

"Those who test positive will get the treatment they need to break the cycle of drug dependency," Johnson said. "We're not looking to punish those on welfare, we're trying to help."

HBs 4090-91 now await consideration in the Senate.

VEGAS NIGHT

Above, Kathy and Dave Pickering gamble the night away. Kathy had two cups full of blackjack winnings. Dave volunteered his services as a dealer, passing another card to a player. At left: volunteers Frank Kulha and Ruddy Pittaway set up a game at the craps table. Below right: Number 059 was the big winner for CPA and Chamber director Karen Ayoub. She spent $200 for three raffle tickets and the Chamber dinner dance that took place before Vegas Night and earned $1,000 on her investment. Below right: Debra Monroe of Lake Orion rolls the dice while volunteer Ruddy Pittaway looks on.

There were no slot machine bells ringing and Wayne Newton wasn't singing and twining in the upstairs lounge, but judging by the oohs, aahs and the occasional oh no! that didn't seem to bother the people enjoying the Clarkston Chamber of Commerce's version of Las Vegas.

About 150 people joined in the fun at the Chamber's Vegas Night at Clarkston Creek Golf Club February 6, all for a good cause. Vegas Night is the Chamber's major fundraiser for the 4th of July fireworks display at Glenwood Park.

This year Vegas Night pulled $2,300—$300 more than the goal, and $1,000 more than last year.

"We're very pleased with the turnout and with the financial success of the fireworks fundraiser," said committee chairman Ed Cornell of Auto Lab. Cornell also donated Red Wings tickets to the silent auction.

The Chamber's total goal for fireworks fundraising is $10,000, and the second phase of fundraising includes corporate sponsorship and individual donations.

Oxford Bank has committed $1,000 as a corporate sponsor. "We hope other businesses will realize how very special and important a hometown fireworks celebration is, and join us to support this event," said Marc Cooper, chairman of the Fireworks Committee.

The $1,000 corporate sponsorship includes four car passes for reserve parking at the fireworks display. Individuals or businesses wishing to help the fireworks fund may send contributions of $25, $50, $100 or $250 to the Chamber office, 5850 Lorac, Suite C, Clarkston, MI 48346. Wrestlers take second in OAA

Adams again blocks Wolves' path to glory

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer
Friday, the Clarkston wrestling team tried to win the OAA Division I Tournament with one hand tied behind its back.

That's what it was like for the eighth-ranked Wolves, who had to void three weight classes at the league meet held at Troy Athens. Still, Clarkston finished second overall with 156 points. Rochester Adams, the Wolves' nemesis all season long, took first with 258 points.

Lake Orion was third with 148 points. Most of the season, Clarkston has been hamstrung by its lack of having anyone to consistently fill the 103 and 112-pound weight classes. At the league meet, the team had to operate without one of its top competitors when junior Ryan L'Amoreaux - the county champion at 119 pounds - sat out the meet because of an illness.

Coach Mike DeGain said he has been frustrated by the team's lack of warm bodies in those weight classes, but the team members have done a good job keeping their focus.

"Yes, it is frustrating, because we just can't hang in tournaments when we void three weight classes," he said. "If we can get hold this team together with tape, we still have a chance to go far. But the boys aren't getting too frustrated. They know it's out of their hands, and they just go out and do their best."

The Wolves were buoyed to their second-place finish thanks to three wins

In the movie "Jaws," if the shark smelled blood, it was usually all over for the unlucky swimmer.

This year's Clarkston varsity volleyball team is playing the part of the big fish with the teeth. After Thursday's 15-11, 15-5 win over Rochester at the CHS gym, the Wolves can smell the scent of a league championship very close at hand.

With the win, Clarkston improves to 22-10-2 overall and 9-0 in the OAA Division II. The team can clinch the league title with a win over second-place Ferndale Thursday in a road contest. The Eagles are 8-2 in the league.

Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson, who is on the brink of his first league title in three years, said the team has been showing progress with the way it plays, and the confidence it shows as a unit.

"We're starting to show some poise and confidence out there," he said. "We're playing with a little athletic arrogance, which is very good." This match with the Falcons was a big departure from the teams' first meeting, which lasted an hour and 59 minutes before the Wolves finally pulled out a thrilling win. This match lasted 70 fewer minutes, and was a display for the team's depth and flexibility.

In game one, the two teams traded scoring runs, with neither one able to establish control. Rochester scored five straight points to take a 5-2 lead, but after a Clarkston time out, the Wolves went on a 6-0 run to take an 8-5 lead.

The game went back and forth until an ace by senior Jenny Claus started the team on another 6-0 run that turned a tie game into a 14-8 Clarkston lead.

Game two saw the Wolves pass and serve extremely well, forcing the Falcons to hurt themselves with serving and hitting errors. Rochester committed four service errors in game two alone, killing its chances for a comeback.

The Wolves finished the match by going on a 7-0 run. Junior Jennie Winn delivered three aces in the game, and sophomore Tricia Brewer contributed with a kill tip and served the game-winning point for Clarkston.

Wolves fade in fourth quarter vs. Vikings

 Flint Northern	53
Clarkston	44

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tuesday night's varsity basketball game between Clarkston and Flint Northern was a perfect example of a team going through growing pains.

The Wolves played one of their best quarters of the season in the third, outscoring the Vikings 17-7. But a six-point fourth quarter doomed the Wolves to a 53-44 loss at the CHS gym.

Clarkston is now 9-8 overall and 4-6 in the OAA Division I.

Clarkston trimmed a 12-point halftime deficit to two by the end of the third, thanks mainly to the hot shooting of junior Ryan Marino. He scored 11 straight points in the quarter, nine coming from the perimeter, on 5-for-6 shooting. He finished with a team-high 16 points, but it wasn't enough.

"We turned the ball over four straight times at the top of the key in the fourth, and that cost us the game," coach Dan Fife said. "That's not taking care of the basketball. When they turned their intensity up, we let ours down."

After an even first quarter, Clarkston fell victim to Northern's superior athleticism and quickness. The Vikings outscored the Wolves 20-9 in the quarter to take a 33-21 halftime lead.

Clarkston responded well to the adversity, playing much more aggressive defense and forcing Northern into several ballhandling mistakes.

"In the third quarter, we forced them to make mistakes, which is unusual for us," Fife said. "But we weren't attacking them all the way through the way we need to. We have to meet that challenge."

Marino's scoring binge started with two quick jump shots halfway through the third, pulling Clarkston to 40-29. He then nailed a 3-pointer, and rebounded his own miss with a nice wraparound basket, getting the home crowd excited for the first time. A pair of free throws by senior Mark Whiteman pulled the Wolves to 40-38, which was the score after the third quarter.

Then, the fourth quarter dry spell hit. The Vikings held the Wolves scoreless for the first 5:40 of the period, during which time Northern outscored Clarkston 7-0, upping its lead from two to nine points. Northern then played a smart, more patient offense for the last two minutes, preventing any late-game comeback by Clarkston.

"They have a good team," Fife said of Northern. "Their coach does a nice job with them. We have played them every year for the past 10 or 12 years, and they are almost always quicker, faster and stronger than us. We need to play with more character, play smarter, and make better decisions."

Northern, which plays in a conference with three of the top five teams in the state, is now 9-7 overall this season.

■ Clarkston 80 Rochester Adams 66

Friday night's game between the Wolves and Highlanders was one like the classic NBA games from the 1980s - lots of scoring, not a lot of defense.

Clarkston hit the 80-point mark for the first time in many years in an 80-66 win over Rochester Adams at the CHS gym.

Seven players scored six points or more in the offensive show for Clarkston, who finished the game with 28 fourth-quarter points, the most it has scored in a single quarter this season.

Fife said he was happy with the win because the team overcame the style Adams played and stuck with its game plan.

"They make you play physical and sloppy," he said of the Highlanders. "The winner in these games is determined by who takes care of the ball and who steps up defensively. But this was a good win for us."

After an even first quarter, the Wolves started to pull away as they did a good job of converting on all their opportunities, making Adams pay for stretching their defense.

Senior Mark Whiteman led the team with a season-high 18 points, including the team's first six of the second half when Adams was making a run.

Also playing his best game of the season was junior guard Kevin Stalker. Settling in as the backup point guard to Ryan Kaul, Stalker scored 12 points to go along with four rebounds and four assists.

"Stalker played well," Fife said. "He did an outstanding job of taking care of the ball."

Ryan Marino got the team off to a good start, scoring eight of the team's first 12 points on his way to 16 on the night. Juniors Rocky Lund and Adam Schapman scored nine apiece, and delivered several timely baskets. Kaul scored six with five assists, while Ryan Briceland scored six and handed out three assists.

"In the first half, we hung in there and got something from everyone," Fife said. "We went inside to Whiteman in the second half, and he helped to get us going. when we broke their press, we scored on it consistently."

The Wolves get Friday night off, but return to action Tuesday with their third home game in a row against Rochester, starting at 7:30 p.m.

It's crunch time for wrestling team

It's all come down to this for the Clarkston wrestling team.

After a season of wins, injuries and state rankings, postseason action begins for the team this week when it hosts team districts at the CHS gym at 6 p.m. Thursday. Clarkston will face Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering in the three-way team meet.

Saturday, the Wolves make the long trek up M-15 for individual districts to be held at Davison High School starting at 10:30 a.m.

Coach Mike DeGain said he is looking forward to good things from the team from this postseason.

"We could sleepwalk and beat those teams," he said referring to the team districts. "I think the regional we will be going to will be the toughest in the state."

The Wolves could be without 171-pound senior Chris Labrie at team districts. Labrie, who has had a solid season, injured his wrist and is questionable for individual districts.

The Davison district will host some tough individual competition, but with defending state champions A.J. Grant and Pat DeGain, and top competitors Ryan L'Amoreaux, Andy Auten, Jon Robinson and Brian Chism, the Wolves figure to place several wrestlers into the individual regionals.

The team regional is scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 24 at Lake Orion High School. Coach DeGain figures the Wolves will meet Swartz Creek in the first round, while Rochester Adams will meet a tough Davison team in the other first-round matchup. Last year, Adams edged Clarkston in the regional semifinals before winning the state championship.

"It should be a very tough regional," Coach DeGain said.

league champions: A.J. Grant, Pat DeGain and Jon Robinson.

Grant and DeGain breezed through their weight classes, 125 and 215 respectively, with pinfall wins. Grant beat Rick Kallis from Lake Orion in the finals, while DeGain also kept his undefeated record intact with a pinfall win over Mike Brennan of Troy Athens.

But the sweetest win of the day for Clarkston came from Robinson, the team's heavyweight. He avenged several frustrating losses by beating James Pack from Adams 2-1 in a dramatic final match of the tournament. Pack, famous for his stalling tactics and ability to win matches by not losing, beat Robinson in double overtime when the two teams met in a dual meet Jan. 6. Robinson also lost to Pack at the finals of the Oakland County Meet.

Runner-ups for the Wolves were Andy Auten at 160 and Jon Naboychik at 152. Each lost to a Lazzo brother from Adams - Auten lost to Luke Lazzo 5-1, while Naboychik lost to Mark Lazzo 10-4. Auten had beaten Luke twice earlier this season, while Naboychik nearly pulled off an upset of Mark Lazzo in the dual meet.

Brian Chism (130), Dave Welanko (135) and Rocky Bills (145) each finished third at the meet.

It marked the second year in a row the Wolves have finished second to Adams at the league meet. Two years ago, Adams won the dual meet between the teams, but the Wolves came back to win the league meet.

■Detroit Catholic Central 43 Clarkston 32

Through the years, Clarkston athletes have been known for not being as big and strong as their opponents in a sport, but having more heart and team unity.

This makes it even more strange that this Clarkston team is being troubled by their lack of small athletes.

The Wolves had to once again void the 103 and 112-pound weight classes, giving away 12 points that proved to be the difference in a 43-32 loss to ninth-ranked Detroit Catholic Central at the CHS gym Feb. 9.

When a team voids a weight class, it gives the opposition six free points, if it has someone to fill that class. All season, Clarkston has been hindered by not having anyone to consistently fill 103 and 112, and it has been costly in dual matches and in tournaments.

In the individual matches they won, the Wolves were dominant, winning four by pinfall and another two by major decision.

However, the Shamrocks bounced back and won four matches by pinfall and a fifth by major decision, in addition to the two voids.

Grant, L'Amoreaux, Auten and DeGain each won by pin, while Welanko (21-8) and Chism (15-2) won by major decision.

Golf and racing - to sport or not to sport?

This past weekend, two people stood out on all the sports highlight shows: Jeff Gordon and Tiger Woods.

Both of these men have achieved a great deal in their professions in just a short period of time. Gordon has become the premier auto racer in the country, and Woods is nothing short of a golfing phenom.

But I have some news for all of you: I don't think either one of these guys should dominate the sports page headlines the way they do.

First of all, let's look at Gordon. Heck of a nice guy. Beautiful wife. Very courteous to the media. But he's not an athlete, and auto racing is not a sport. Before all you NASCAR fans start waving red flags at me, hear me out.

I don't feel that any activity which requires you to drive at high speeds and pass other drivers is a sport. Heck, I do that every time I drive on Woodward, and I don't consider that a sport. Because Gordon is at the center of this non-sport, that automatically disqualifies him to be an athlete.

Now let me distinguish my definition of an athlete. What Gordon does requires nerves of steel and a good deal of endurance. These are similar qualities that you would find in an athlete, but that doesn't make Gordon an athlete. Yes, auto racing is competitive, but think about this: every highlight I've ever seen features a crash. Any event where the mistakes are the highlights can't be a sport.

with Brad Monastiere

Another thing that bugs me about auto racing is the corporate presence. I saw Gordon being interviewed on ESPN Monday morning after his win at Daytona. He was being photographed from the upper part of his chest up. Just on that area, I counted 12 (that is 12) patches that represent corporations, including three for Dupont alone. Dupont is also splattered all over his car and the uniforms of his crew. I'm talking overkill here!

The NASCAR league also keeps point standings through an association called the Winston Cup. No, Winston is not the former English prime minister from World War II, but Winston cigarettes. I don't like anything associated with sports figures that endorses the use of tobacco products in naming its league.

How much outcry would there be if the new Tiger Stadium was called Marlboro Park? Parents would protest the use of the name, and justifiably so.

Auto racing is an activity, and certainly a big event, when you see crowds of over 50,000 at most of the big-time events. But that doesn't make it a sport.

Now, let's take the case of Mr. Woods, the guy who set the world afire two years ago by winning the Masters by a wider margin than anyone else. But I saw a clip of him that deserves him a spot in the hall of shame, and calls into question the true sporting definition of pro golf.

As he was teeing off at his tournament, he hit a shot into the trees and immediately started berating a photographer, who's shutter went off at the moment Woods was in his swing.

Woods went into a tirade, ordering this devil-reincarnated off the golf course right now. The way

Woods was pointing and shouting at the photographer, you'd have thought the guy was a spy for Ford in the middle of a GM board meeting.

Woods got that upset over a shutter clicking? Yes he did, because it apparently ruined his concentration in a tournament he was already winning. Gee, so sorry Tiger to drop a pin in the big outdoor silence that is pro golf. If a bird had chirped when he was swinging, would he have ordered the bird off the course as well?

My point is, golfers in general, and Woods in particular, get too spoiled and pampered by everything that has to be in place around them. Distractions are a part of an athlete's life during the game, and if Woods can't handle a camera, he shouldn't be competing.

Real athletes not only have to put up with cameras clicking, but flashbulbs popping and tens of thousands of screaming fans, both pro and con. Mark McGwire seemed to concentrate just fine, even though last summer, thousands of flashbulbs popped with every pitch he faced.

If pro golfers are really this annoyed at simple cameras, maybe pro golf isn't a real sport. There are no teams competing, and the same course (or game) is played three or four times before a winner is determined. A basketball game isn't played four times before a single winner is determined.

Athletes at Clarkston High School have to put up with my camera and flashbulb all the time, and they don't say anything. That makes them real athletes. If Woods, who makes more money for eating cereal than I'll ever see in my lifetime, has another outburst like that, he will not only call into question his won place in the sports world, but the place of his game.

Spikers on verge of league title

In the middle of several Clarkston scoring runs was junior six-footer Brittani Brewer. She delivered several key kills and side outs for Clarkston in the match that helped to change the momentum back to the Wolves' favor.

"I was just trying to work on being there for the quick sets," she said. "I get a big thrill out of hitting those quicks, and it pumps the team up too."

A quick set is where the setter taps the ball just inches over the net, while the middle hitter slams the ball into the opposition court. It's the volleyball equivalent of a slam dunk.

"We've been working hard to make Brittani and Brandy Garlitz more aggressive at the net," Richardson said. "They have been getting quicker to the ball and tonight, they were making exactly the right plays."

Brewer finished the match with a team-high five kills and two solo blocks. Winn was 16-for-17 serving with three aces and 12 assists. Senior Ingrid Zimmerman was 10-for-10 on serve receptions, and senior Kara Bergkoetter was 11-for-11 on serve receptions. Sophomore Mary Warchuck was 10-for-11 on attacks, and Garlitz was 6-for-6 on attacks.

The Clarkston-Ferndale match Thursday at Ferndale will begin around 7 p.m.

16-U Riverdaws searching for coach

The 16 and under Clarkston Riverdaws girls fastpitch softball team is searching for a head coach.

Applications for the position are available at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department office, located in the township hall at 90 N. Main St. The position is open for the 1999 summer season. For more information, call 625-8223.

Senior Jenny Claus gives the varsity volleyball team superb defense, as she shows here in Thursday's game against Rochester. Claus, one of the tri-captains of the team, has been a leader on the team that can clinch the OAA II title Thursday night.

JV Volleyball

Thursday night, the Clarkston JV volleyball team got well just in time to post another victory.

The Wolves had to sit out some key players in a game one 15-1 loss because of illness. But in games two and three, the players returned and it made a big difference.

Clarkston bounced back to post a 1-15, 15-7, 15-12 win over the Rochester Falcons at the CHS gym. The Wolves are now 8-1 in the OAA Division II and a game ahead of the Falcons in the standings.

In game three, Clarkston jumped out to a 10-4 lead, but allowed Rochester to close the gap to 12-11 at one point. But improved passing and a pair of game-ending kills by Tracey Honey sealed the win.

"Everyone on our team has been sick," said coach Missy Macauley. "We just lost it in game one, but in game two, we went back to our normal rotation and the kids played a lot better."

The Wolves travel to Ferndale Thursday night for a key league match. The action begins at 6 p.m.

Youth baseball camp coming to CHS

First-year Clarkston varsity baseball coach Phil Price is looking to get future Wolves started early.

Starting in March, he will host the Price Baseball Clinic, for boys in grades four through eight.

The cost is $65 per child, and includes a t-shirt and four Saturday sessions, starting March 6.

Sessions for fourth through sixth graders will be from 2-4 p.m., and seventh and eighth graders will go from 4-6 p.m. The sessions run from March 6-27 and will take place at the new CHS.

The registration deadline is March 3. Forms are available at the CHS Athletic Office. Make all checks out to Clarkston baseball. For questions or more information, call the office at 623-4050.

Icers stumble through week

Livonia Churchill 3
Clarkston 1

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
 Clarkston News Staff Writer

Just when the Clarkston hockey team had drawn its biggest crowd of the season, the wheels fell off the bandwagon.

The Wolves finished a difficult week with a 3-1 loss to Livonia Churchill Saturday night at Lakeland Arena, a loss coach Bryan Krygier called the most disappointing of the season.

"It's one thing when a team beats you because they're better than you, but when you beat yourself, it's not acceptable," he said after the game. "That team isn't better than us. We beat ourselves tonight."

After the team's stirring 3-1 win at Trenton Feb. 6, it was moved up to number seven in the state rankings, and visions of state titles started to dance through the team's head. But now the Wolves (16-5-1 overall) are on a three-game losing streak and are trying to pick up the pieces before districts start Feb. 25.

Against Churchill, Clarkston was playing its third physical game in four days and had to play with much of its lineup at less than 100 percent because of a flu bug that has spread on the team. The Wolves didn't have the jump in their skates they normally do, but Krygier wouldn't accept that as a reason for the loss.

"There's no excuse for a loss like this," he said. "You can go hard for 30 seconds and get off the ice. Everything that could go wrong for us did. We just didn't play well."

The two teams went through two periods of play without a single goal being scored, thanks to the splendid play of the two goaltenders. Clarkston junior Steve Badger turned in another excellent performance, making several point-blank saves against the Chargers. Churchill's goaltender was equally sharp, stopping quality scoring chances by Anthony Facione, D.J. Vogt and Adam Leech.

Churchill took a 1-0 lead off of a Clarkston defensive giveaway at the 11:49 mark of the third period.

Junior Derek Hool knotted the game for the Wolves just 1:30 later when he scored on a rebound off of a rush by Leech.

Churchill scored the game-winning goal with 2:22 left on a one-on-one play. The Chargers added an empty-net goal to finish the scoring. Churchill outshot Clarkston 31-23 in the game.

Junior Derek Hool closes in on the Livonia Churchill goaltender during the second period of Saturday night's hockey game. Hool has been one of the team's hottest offensive players recently, scoring goals in two of the team's three games last week.

Port Huron Northern 4 Clarkston 2

At Port Huron, Clarkston lost for the first time this season when scoring the first goal of the game.

Hool gave the Wolves a 1-0 lead, with assists going to Bill Kalush and Steve Janowiak.

Jon Bemis scored at the 4:39 mark of the third, tying the game at 2-2, but an exhausted Clarkston team couldn't keep up with the physical Huskies, who scored twice within 1:35 late to get the win.

Cranbrook 4 Clarkston 3

The Wolves went into a fierce battle without some of its biggest guns, and still almost beat the top-ranked team in the state in Class B-C-D.

Playing without five regulars, Clarkston saw its seven-game winning streak come to an end Wednesday night, 4-3 at the hands of Cranbrook-Kingswood. The Cranes won the B-C-D state title in 1996-97, and lost in the finals last year. This year, they have been number one all season.

Krygier said he was pleased with the team's effort, despite it not being at full strength.

"They put the effort out, and I was pleased with how they did, given the situation," Krygier said. "It's too bad we came up just short because we had some guys out."

One trend continued for Clarkston in this game. The Wolves are 0-3 this season when giving up the first goal of a game, and 16-0-1 when scoring first.

Cranbrook opened a wild first period with a goal just 4:40 into the game. Clarkston then stormed back with a pair of goals within 99 seconds of each other.

Tom Newman scored for the second straight game on a low, hard shot from the point, tying the game 1-1. Facione put the Wolves ahead with a goal on the short side at the 7:20 mark. The play was set up on a terrific cross-ice pass by Brian Welbourn.

But the Cranes struck back just 13 seconds later, knotting the game again at 2-2. Cranbrook added a goal with just over a minute left in the period to take a why should their funerals be?

They shouldn't, at least we don't think so. To be truly memorable, a service should reflect the tastes and preferences of the person who has died. 3-2 lead after one.

Jon Bemis sent a slapshot through the Cranbrook goaltender 2:18 into the second period, tying the game for the third time at 3-3. The game stayed that way until the Cranes scored the game-winning goal at the 9:50 mark of the third.

The Wolves had three power play chances after that goal, but could not cash in on any of the chances.

The Wolves conclude their regular season schedule this week, starting with a trip to Livonia Stevenson Wednesday night for a game against the No. 2-ranked Spartans. Monday, the team travels to Troy for the regular season finale. Both games start at 7:30 p.m.

JV Basketball

The Clarkston JV basketball team went one up and one down in its back to back games Monday and Tuesday.

Monday, the Wolves routed Orchard Lake St. Mary's 70-40, with every player but one scoring in the game. Tuesday, Clarkston (12-5) fell to Flint Northern 42-30.

"We won the second half by three, but we were down by 15 at halftime," coach Tim Kaul said of the Northern game. "We shot very tentatively tonight."

Matt Pearsall led the team with 14 points against St. Mary's, while Bryan Endreszl had 12 against the Vikings.

The Wolves returned to their dominant ways Friday night as they pounded Rochester Adams 73-35 at the CHS gym.

Clarkston upped its league record to 7-3 overall with stifling defense, which allowed the Highlanders just 16 first-half points.

"This was a great win for us," Kaul said. "I was surprised at our margin of victory. Adams played us real tough at their place. But when we got up 16 at the half, they didn't respond very well."

Bryan Endreszl kept up his hot scoring streak with a game-high 19 points despite getting in early foul trouble. Ten different Clarkston players scored in a game, where everyone got plenty of playing time.

"When you can get all the kids six or seven minutes in a game, it helps the whole team's mental attitude. These are the dog days of the season."

Clarkston hosts Rochester Tuesday night, starting at 6 p.m.

Athlete of the Week: Ryan Marino

Salut, Ryan: This year, the varsity boys basketball team welcomed 11 first-year players, and one of those has emerged as the team's most consistent scoring threat. That is junior guard Ryan Marino. Ryan has led the team in scoring in more than half its games, and has a deadly outside jump shot. He scored a career-high 24 points in the Wolves' 64-59 win at Pontiac Central on Feb. 9, and scored 22 in the team's near-upset of first-place Troy on Jan. 29, making him the only Clarkston player to crack the 20-point barrier more than once this season. Against Flint Northern Tuesday, Ryan scored 11 straight points in the third quarter, on his way to a team-high 16. When Ryan has the touch from the outside, it makes Clarkston's offense much more dangerous, because it opens up the inside for Mark Whiteman and more perimeter space for creative point guard Ryan Kaul. Ryan carries a 3.4 grade point average.

Coach Dan Fife on Ryan: "In his first year on varsity, we've tried to change Ryan's mental approach to the game. Coming into the year, he was having a hard time staying focused. But he's gained confidence in his play, and I've gained confidence in him too. In the offseason, he has to work on the physical part of his game, but so do 99 percent of our guys. I am real happy with him this year. Against Detroit Denby, he hardly got into the game at all, but he didn't pout, and he's improved since then. We need him to shoot the ball for us."

Ryan on Ryan: "I'm not a vocal leader on this team, but I just try to go out and play hard every game. It has been a frustrating season for us, because some nights we play real well, and others we don't play anywhere near our capabilities. When we play well, we are a tough team to defend because we have a lot of guys who can score. This year, there are no great teams out there, and there's no one we can't beat in the playoffs."

Help for the historical

New legislation hopes to encourage preservation efforts

Governor John Engler has signed into law landmark legislation that will provide state residents with tax incentives to restore historically-significant homes, commercial buildings, farms, barns and other property.

Jennifer Radcliff, Clarkston resident and president of the MHPN, thanked Senator John Schwarz (R-Battle Creek) for introducing the legislation. She praised Secretary of State Candice Miller for her support. Thanks were also expressed to House and Senate legislators and their leaders, including former representative Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti, for approving the measures during the past legislative session.

"The Michigan Historic Preservation Network would like to express its highest appreciation to Senator Schwarz for introducing these measures, which will boost our economy, promote tourism, and preserve Michigan's architectural and cultural history," Radcliff said. Besides creating additional jobs in the construction and trades fields, the new legislation will boost revitalizing downtowns, neighborhoods and large and small cities across Michigan. The new laws provide a 25 percent single business tax credit or an income tax credit for qualified and approved preservation and rehabilitation work done on residential or income producing properties. The tax credits apply for work done on eligible properties starting with the 1999 tax year and thereafter.

Anyone wanting to learn more about the incentives should contact the State Historic Preservation Office at (517) 373-1630 or the Network at (248) 625-8181. Also available from the Network for a nominal fee is a brochure titled, "Facts About Michigan's New Historic Preservation Tax Credits." To order, call the Network or write to: P.O. Box 720, Clarkston, MI 48347.

Clarkston Community Schools Celebrating the past, creating the future

A strong attachment and interest in the school system is a big part of life in the Clarkston area community. Our residents have traditionally taken ownership in their schools. You can find them supporting the football team on a crisp Friday night in the autumn; you can see them delight in spring musicals at the high school auditorium; you can hear them discussing schools issues in the coffeeshop.

This caring and interested community has kept Clarkston Schools on the move since 1949 and they're still moving today.

Clarkston residents are proud that the district consistently spends a larger percentage of its money on student-related activities than any other district in Oakland County -- administrative costs are kept to a minimum.

The district currently finds itself in the middle of over $120 million in new building construction and remodeling. This includes Springfield Plains elementary (1994) and a new Clarkston High School (1998).

In August 1998, the district broke ground for a
