While King Arthur met his knights around the round table -- rehearsing for the high school musical "Camelot" -- four local boards mingled at their own round tables just down the hall.

The event was the Feb. 23 joint board meeting, held at the brand-new Clarkston High School on Flemings Lake Road.

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart originated the idea and hosted the first joint board meeting in the early 1990s as an informal get-together.

This year, members of the Clarkston Board of Education, Independence and Springfield townships and the City of Clarkston again met to share thoughts and discuss common goals and problems in the theater department's practice room.

Clarkston Board of Education President Kurt Shanks welcomed the participants, asking them to "think beyond typical boundaries" and share "knowledge, talents and resources to enhance the quality of life in the greater Clarkston area.

"This is the place where people should want to live," said Shanks. The meeting focused on the "cooperative spirit" of joint board members. Shanks noted the headaches and ultimate resolution of the redistricting problem as one example.

"We were very pleased with the result and would like to see the cooperative spirit in other complex issues," he said.

Following Shanks' comments, Board of Ed. Vice President Karen Foyteck, Stuart, Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, and Clarkston City Mayor Sharron Catallo presented their respective board mem-

'Camelot' casts a spell

Clarkston High School Drama Club members enchanted audiences last weekend, as they brought the legendary tale of "Camelot" to life in the school's new Performing Arts Center.

Seniors Joe Baldiga, Jessica Williams and Phill DeVries shone in their respective roles as King Arthur, Queen Guenevere and Sir Lancelot.

The cast also included Tara Matkosky as sinister fairy Morgan LeFey, Nic Thompson as the evil Mordred, Brandon Scheiderer, Lorne Deacon and Brian Witkowski as a trio of knights, and Brian Fitzgerald as Arthur's psychic (but memory-impaired) teacher Merlyn the magician. Senior Mike Lenhardt as King Pellinore and junior Andrew Szykula as Lancelot's bumbling squire Dap provided the comedic touches.

Lords, ladies, peasants, knights and other characters rounded out the cast, and the CHS musical orchestra, conducted by Director Cliff Chapman, provided the stunning score.

In the program notes, Drama Club Director Jeff Tice welcomed patrons to the first-ever performance in the new theater: "look around. You, the community, have given the children of this community a great gift.

"As Arthur devotes his life to peace and chivalry, so do we devote our energies to providing you with a standard in theatre that was established long before I came to Clarkston and will continue long after I've left. With your gift, this is guaranteed."

-By Eileen McCarville

The magician Merlyn predicts Arthur will soon meet the lady who will become his wife.

"Here comes the blow, here comes the blow ... Oh, nooooooooo!" The king's subjects watch a jousting tournament with trepidation.

Star-crossed lovers Guenevere and Lancelot have eyes only for each other.

King Arthur tells his wife, the lovely Queen Guenevers of a change he feels in their rela-tionship. He also senses trouble brewing in Camelot. Later he learns Guenevers and Lancelot have fallen in love.

At the Member's Luncheon at Oakland Technical Center's Northwest Inn, several awards and grants were announced, and Clarkston High School foreign language teacher Melissa Kentner-White was named teacher of the year.

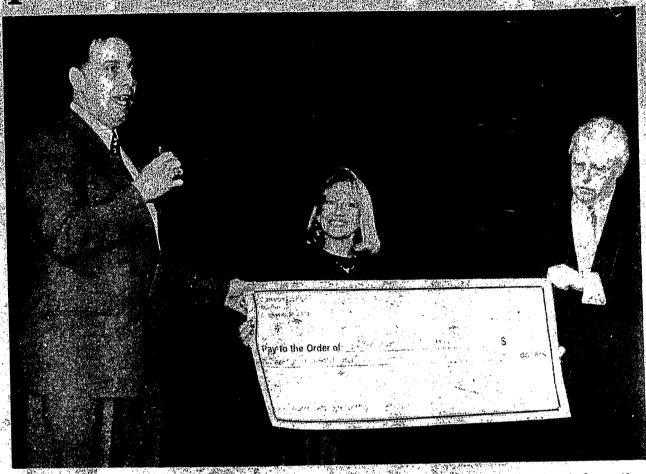

Dave Reschke, assistant superintendent, said she had been nominated for the honor because she's an "outstanding teacher in all regards. She's a good role · model for kids, she connects language instruction to real use in their lives, she's a strong motivator, and she extends her activities beyond the classroom." Kentner-White who is also the CHS girls tennis coach, will receive a $500 grant to be used for her classes.

Other honors included the Partnership in Education Award to Clarkston State Bank for its $10,000 donation to the Foundation's Endowment Fund for the Performing Arts. The Outback Steakhouse also received an award for donating $4,000 to the Foundation from its grand opening celebration last year.

Saturday night, before the CHS Drama Club's performance of "Camelot," Foundation president Sherry Regiani presented a very large "check" to schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts. The check represents $40,000 in donations to the Foundation's Endowment Fund through honorary seat sponsorships. Interest from the fund will be donated back to the schools in the form of performing arts grants.

Regiani said the original goal for the fund was Oxford Bank names 3 new officers.

The board of directors of Oxford Bank has appointed three bank employees to office status. Jean Thorpe, Sandra Whitehead and Connie Adams were elevated to bank officer last December.

Thorpe began her career Oxford with Bank in September 1978 as a parttime teller. During her 19 years in the retail area, she was a customer service representative, secretary to the branch administrator and assistant branch manager of the Lake Orion office.

In September 1997, Thorpe was assigned to the consumer loan department and has taken responsibility for and growing managing the bank's home equity loan portfolio.

Jean Thorpe

Sandra Whitehead

She is a 1997 graduate of the Robert Perry School of Banking at Whitehead was hired by the bank as a part of Oxford High School's co-op program in 1981. She began working as a proof operator in the bank's data processing department and transferred to the accounting area in June 1986.

Connie Adams

Whitehead's training brought her full circle when she rejoined the data processing area as a specialist in March 1993. She took on supervisory and administrative duties while overseeing the items processing area of the bank.

A long time Oxford resident, Whitehead now resides in the Lapeer area.

Adams joined Oxford Bank in January 1995 as a customer service representative in the bank's new Dryden office. She was promoted to assistant branch manager in December 1995 and assumed the duties of Dryden branch manager in September 1996.

Adams spent the majority of her 21 banking years with a large regional bank holding company prior to signing on with Oxford Bank.

She was one of five employees who were hired by Oxford when their bank exited the Dryden market in January 1995. Adams and her family live in Dryden.

Joint board meeting 'an opportunity to make the community better' on February 23 members of the Clarkston Board of Education, Independence and Springfield townships and the City of Clarkston met for their annual joint Clarkston Board of Education President Kurt Shanks characterized the meeting of the boards as "an opportunity to make the community better," and we agree.

If pursued, the five initiatives discussed could help weave better relationships among the boards with concrete results as the area continues to face rapid growth.

Clarkston schools have faced two redistricting processes in the last four years and officials are not ruling out another one in the near future. The first initiative discussed was school input on development in the area as it impacts school populations — a great idea.

Increased cooperation between the schools and the townships may also ward off some of the past problems with school site development and roads.

Student mentorships, student involvement in the study of our natural resources, shared use of community buildings and a tiein of library resources were other ideas

They all offer great possiblities for students and community members. The initiatives also have the potential to increase a spirit of cooperation and loyalty to the community in residents as well. MKC

Bravo to the Clarkston High School Drama Club, Director Jeff Tice, the CHS band and Director Cliff Chapman for the enchanting production of 'Camelot' over the weekend. It was a great way to kick off the first-ever performance of a musical in the new Performing Arts Center. EMC

News paving editorial misses mark

I can't help but respond to the recent editorial in this newspaper urging the school board to put up all of the money for paving Walters Road. While no one would disagree that the road needs to be improved, the editorial was off the mark. Certainly, paving and safety paths would be beneficial for our youngsters and for all that use this road; but to expect any school system to completely foot the bill is simply wrong! You will notice I said wrong, not unpopular! Allow me to explain my position by providing some food for thought:

The Clarkston Board of Education does not control community growth. Even if restraint was possible or legal, closing the community's door to developers is not within the charge of a board of education.

The Clarkston Schools are responsible for providing a free, public education to all the youth that live within our borders. This is a constitutional obligation that must be met, regardless of the number of students who are enrolled.

The Clarkston taxpayer would have good reason to be incensed if we did not use the money they provide for its intended purpose, to improve the education our students receive. After all, our district receives relatively few dollars per student when comparisons are made with other Oakland County school districts. We must be competitive, and to do so, requires us to keep our resources focused upon our

The high school is the result of a twenty-year dream for this community. If you have visited this building, I believe you will agree it is a real gem. This building is and will be used by the community at large, not just students. We already are working with our Community Education Division and Independence Township's Parks and Recreation Department to make this dream a reality.

So, when I say the schools will not be able to bear the full brunt of road paving, I do so with the understanding that my position might not be popular in some circles. It is not my aim to insult anyone, nor do I want to be seen as being miserly with district resources. It is my intention, however, to maximize the use of district dollars in a way that benefits the approximately 7,000 pupils we are responsible to educate.

It is important for me to express my viewpoint because the editor's comments might very well lead the reader down a different path. It is incorrect, for example, to say that the schools gave the Oakland County Road Commission and Independence Township "short notice" on the need to pave Walters Road. After all, the building project stretched over three and a half years; and the entire community was aware when the steel and masonry was being erected. In fact, we contacted each of the above entities long before the building was completed.

It is correct to characterize any success we have had thus far as a team effort. The Independence Township Folks, the Oakland County Road Commission people, and your school board worked together to get the tasks done. It would also be accurate to say the process has not always been as smooth as it could have

Are any of the entities solely responsible for the perceived cooperation or lack thereof? I don't think so. Schools, municipalities and road commissions have their own constituents to represent, and therefore perspectives can often differ. Working through differences takes time, energy, and a willingness to understand the other person's point of view; and relationships, especially those that might have some past baggage, are not transformed overnight. The good news is that last

Tobacco settlement a state decision

From the State Rep.

Capitol

This week the state House passed a resolution urging Congress to prohibit the federal government from claiming any of Michigan's tobacco settlement money, or directing us how the money may be spent.

Last year, 46 states settled a lawsuit with the tobacco industry for $246 billion. Michigan stands to receive more than $8 billion over 25 years.

What is important to remember is that the states, not Uncle Sam, settled with the tobacco industry. The federal government was not part of the lawsuit so it does not make sense for Washington to expect a share.

Furthermore, the federal government tried to reach its own deal with the tobacco companies, but failed. The deal fell apart because of partisan squabbles.

The resolution passed in the state House through a bipartisan vote. Although we have not decided how best to use the settlement, we are on the same page when we demand it is our right to make the decisions. In his State of the State address, Gov. John Engler suggested using the interest off of our settlement to set up Michigan Merit Awards. High-school students who pass the MEAP exams would be given a $2,500 scholarship for further study at a Michigan college or uni-

As vice-chair of the House Education Committee, I support the governor's plan. It is important we reward students who study hard, play by the rules and meet high standards. Every student is eligible to participate, whether they attend public, private or home

Since we will not receive our slice of the settlement pie until the millennium, we still have plenty of time to decide how best to use it. But it is ours to use and ours to decide.

The federal government needs to remember that this settlement is not for Washington but for Michigan

Community newspaperin's more than a job

The other night while having an adult beverage with friends, I found myself talking faster and more passionately. How we got onto the subject of "the community newspaper. I really don't know.

I do somehow recall hearing in the background a choir singing softly, sweetly while accompanied by a lone bugler, "... Glory, glory hallelujah, glory, glory hallelujah, glory, glory hallelujah . . . his truth keeps marching on . . ." as I climbed up onto by well-worn

I'm not positive, but I'd bet my left arm hacheted through the air while the index finger on my right hand poked at nothing in particular.

I had been thinking about the niche of a community newspaper for the past coouple o' weeks and all the words, phrases and cliches flowed like fine wine at an Italian family reunion. I was in my element. It was glorious. But, I digress . . .

... A community newspaper does have a special place in America - in our towns and cities. And, communities with such newspapers are fortunate. I do believe fiercely a community newspaper is a bonding element of a community. It can give direction. It can be the conscience. It is often the bearer of bad

At this community newspaper we believe we are invited into your homes, week after week. Our job is to keep you inviting us. Like an old friend that sometimes you agree with and sometimes you adamantly disagree with, but a friend just the

A community newspaper is more than that.

Book tells how to make plants look grateful

It's been several weeks since the first Guerney seed catalog for 1999 arrived in our mail box.

Having never ordered anything for our flower beds or vegetable patch before, there was no reason to spend any time with it this year, though as the winter cold drags on it might give some comfort if we'd left it laying open on the coffee table.

By the way, aren't coffee tables misnamed? They're more of a catchall table; or intermediate platform to drop things on before deciding whether to keep or toss, or in our house, a foot rest.

I do recall leafing through the seed/plant pages to see if there was anything new in gadgets; like something to reduce bending, an organic dandelion eater, a waterless waterer

At the time the catalog arrived we had 16 inches of snow, so out went the pretty pictures.

With the snow now gone and temperatures hovering around 40 (above zero) we found ourselves more susceptible to garden-type stuff. It came in the book review section of the morning friendly

That's it. I've read enough. What kind of a personality does a gardener have who can see the expression on a cabbage leaf?

I've done a lot of flower and vegetable growing, and weeding in my life and absolutely know that the only one, or thing, grateful when a weed is pulled is the puller. And their expression is as unreadable as Perhaps Carol Williams has seen too many Disney movies where branches sway to music or give warning signs to beware of garden gophers.

I wonder how a plant shows its gratefulness to Carol Williams: Does a dew drop fall from its petal? Is there a different movement to its stem?

How does Carol Williams know that the plant and weed didn't have a thing going, that they weren't in love? After all, they were in bed together.

week's joint board meeting (the schools and municipalities) illustrates what can be done when people of good will decide to work together. I do not have an answer to the Walters Road project at this time; but I do believe a solution will be found.

The recent/editorial/disappointed me because I firmly believe it should have commended our schoolboard for their commitment. They have already spent significant dollars to improve the roads adjacent to the high school (70 percent of the entire cost); and they have authorized another $250,000 to be spent on the Walters Road project! The members of the Clarkston Board of Education clearly want to be good neighbors, but they understand their charge is to improve education, not repair roads.

Clerk Nancy Strole said the high quality of natural resources available in the communities should be used by students as a learning tool. Internships on selected projects would give students an opportunity to understand how some of the systems in the pristine areas

Use of Community Buildings: Springfield Township Supervisor Colin Walls offered that all of the communities' building could be shared. Pat Brumback, assistant superintendent for Clarkston schools said the schools have computer software with information on. all of the buildings including a list of categories for each building's use and a schedule of activities.

Libraries: The group also discussed the possiblity of tying in school libraries with the Independence and Springfield township libraries.

During the meeting Brumback, Stuart, Walls and Catallo also shared updates on community projects.

Like Shanks, Brumback noted joint planning efforts -- for example, the cooperation between the schools and Independence on community activities at the CHS pool. New programs began March 1.

"People are so excited. They're saying, 'When can we do the back stroke and take swimming lessons," Brumback said.

She also noted other activities that could extend to the greater-Clarkston community, for example, athletic and walking programs at CHS. "Our goal is to have this a true community facility," Brumback said.

Brumbeck pointed to additional possibilities with the private sector, such as the schools transporting middle-school students to Mt. Zion's Clarkston Christian Association youth center (CCA).

Walls cited population growth and preservation, and praised Independence parks and rec. director Ann Conklin for her transportation program that also includes seniors and the disabled in Springfield.

"The problem with Ann is she works for Independence, not Springfield," he quipped.

Catallo noted the city's use of township services like the fire department and library, and pointed to downtown redevelopment as a work in progress.

The revitalization project "impacts all of us," said City Councilman Dave Savage. He reported nearly all the funds have been raised.

Stuart cited growth, Independence's safety path system, the development of a regional drainage system on Sashabaw, the township's new web site and the recent "two for one" grant match for new books at the library, which is used by all residents.

"We're very pleased to have a first-class library facility." he said.

Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said sharing is important "to understand how our actions impact each other. Actions the boards take certainly impact the rest of us."

Roberts noted that, although there may be different perspectives, "We can agree to disagree in an agreeable fashion. If we can pull that off, we can not only be a model for the state, but if you look at what happened in our nation the past year, a model for everyone."

Wed., March 3, 1999 The Clarkston (MI) News 15 A

On Monday Shanks said he was excited that the group came up with the five initiatives. He added the schools have "ownership" of the initiatives with joint ownership of the schools' participation in development with Independence Township.

"It will be the schools' responsibility to followthrough on all issues and develop action plans. I expect something tangible by next year," he said.

Shanks added it was possible the group could meet again in the fall. "This is an opportunity to make the community better. We're developing more trust between these entities and developing good working relationships."

This response may be used to deny the plaintiff's charges entirely or it can be used to askert an "affirmative defenses to the plaintiff's claim, such as the plaintiff was injured through his or her own negligence. The defendant may also file a counterclaim that states in fact, that it was the plaintiff who took some action which who took some action which resulted in damages to the de-fendant. For instance, while the original compleint may charge the defendent with negligence in operating his or her car (resulting in an accident and damages to the plaintiff's car) the counterclaim may state that it was the plaintiff who was negligent, and responsible for damage to the defendent's car. Milford stuns Wolves in districts

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston hockey team deserved a better ending than it got.

But the end is what happened, when the Wolves lost to a strong Milford team 4-2 at Saturday's district semifinal game at Lakeland Arena.

Clarkston, the OAA Division I champions, finished the season with an 18-7-1 record.

The team expected to go further this year, especially after beating defending state champ Trenton and taking other elite teams like Cranbrook and Livonia Stevenson to the limit. But the loss came because the team got outplayed at a time when effort and emotion count the most.

"There was a lack of desire, a lack of enthusiasm on our part," first-year coach Bryan Krygier said. "You've gotta have a will to win, where you will do whatever it takes to win. I don't feel Milford was a better team than us, but they wanted it more than we did."

That is the way it appeared, as the Redskins - co-champions of the Kensington Valley Conference - outhustled and outskated the Wolves most of the night, even though Clarkston finished with a 27-25 shots on goal advantage.

Milford scored first on a perfect 2-on-1 play at the 8:29 mark of the first period, capping a sequence of high offensive pressure.

Clarkston showed its first signs of life towards the end of the first period and into the second. Just 37 seconds into the second period, senior D.J. Vogt tied the game when he blistered a shot into the upper righthand corner.

The Redskins didn't stay down for long. They scored twice within 39 seconds just a few minutes after Vogt's goal to take a commanding 3-1 lead. Both of Milford's goals came when little pressure was being applied by the Wolves. Milford's leading scorer Corey O'Toole, scored a goal and had two assists on the night.

Tolves great effort falls short again

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

For a few moments, it looked like the Clarkston varsity boys basketball team had turned the corner.

Thanks to excellent defense and another 3-point aerial show by junior Ryan Marino, the Wolves were in a position to knock off Southfield Lathrup, one of Oakland County's best teams.

But down the stretch, the Chargers showed why they are rated so high. They made the shots when they had to, and pulled away with a 67-58 win over the Wolves Friday night at the CHS gym.

The physically overmatched Wolves played a terrific third quarter where they held the explosive Chargers to just 12 points, and had a 39-38 lead. The team had a six-point lead with five minutes to play, but the combination of Lathrup's clutch shooting and Clarkston's missed free throws made the difference.

Clarkston (10-9 overall, 4-7 in the OAA Division I) made just 9-of-18 free throws for the game, including just 4-for-11 in the fourth quarter.

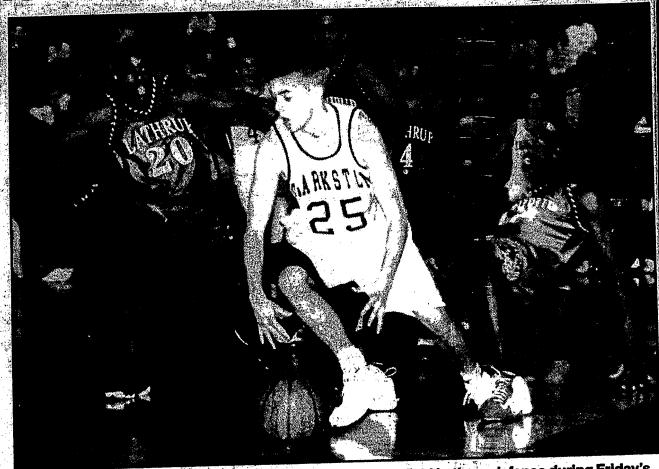

"We have cost ourselves five ballgames this year because of free-throw shooting," coach Dan Fife said. "Physically we played hard and competed, it just wasn't enough."

Clarkston's highlight of the game was another terrific performance by Marino. He scored a careerhigh 27 points, most of them in exciting fashion. He made five 3-pointers in the game, but got the biggest cheers when he converted a pair of twisting, parallelto-the-ground baskets in the second half.

"Marino is an outstanding shooter, and tonight he was making them right after coming off the bench," Fife said. "He and Kevin Stalker are kids who didn't play football who put in the extra time, and it shows."

The Wolves hung tough with the Chargers in the game's first half, battling back from a 10-point deficit to trail 26-22 at intermission.

The third quarter saw Clarkston treat the lively crowd to some of its best basketball of the season.

Sophomore Ryan Briceland tries to get around the Southfield Lathrup defense during Friday's game. Briceland and the Wolves wrap up the regular season this Friday against Troy.

The Wolves went on a 16-4 run to take a 38-34 lead after a jump shot by junior Andy North. Marino scored 10 of the points in the team's run.

The fourth quarter saw Lathrup's Antoine Johnson take over. He scored 16 of his team-high 20 points, several of them coming on cold-blooded jump shots right in the face of the Clarkston defense. Lathrup also made 11-of-14 foul shots in the last six minutes, paving the way for the win.

"I'm encouraged," Fife said after the game. "They gave us their best shot in the first half, and we came back and played a much better second half. We are still a mentally young team. We don't realize how competitive it is at this level. But there are no moral victories. This is a game we should have won."

Sophomore Ryan Kaul, who is growing as a player according to Fife, had seven points and eight assists in the game. North scored eight to go with seven rebounds and three steals. Junior Rocky Lund also played well, collecting seven rebounds in a hard-nosed Clarkston plays its final home game of the season Friday night against the Troy Colts, who still hold down first place in the OAA I. On Friday, Troy was upset by Auburn Hills Avondale 53-52. The Colts are led by the school's all-time leading scorer Tim Fralick, and sharpshooter Bryan O'Keefe. The JV game starts at 6 p.m., with the varsity game to follow.

One title down - more to follow?

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The sign of a good team is that it gets big wins when it doesn't play its best.

This just in - the varsity volleyball team is good.
That was proven again Thursday, when Clarkston struggled at times, but still beat longtime nemesis
West Bloomfield 11-15, 15-9, 15-9 at the CHS gym.
The win gave Clarkston the OAA Division II title, its first league title since the 1995-96 season.

Coach Gordie Richardson, obviously proud of this team, said they were determined from the beginning of the season to prove it was the best in Division II.

"These kids are playing with a confidence that is greater than their ability," he said. "And that can take you a really long way. It's a group feeling between them. They just look at each other and know they are going to win."

That team confidence Richardson spoke of was once again on display against the Lakers. Clarkston struggled in all facets in the first game, losing 15-11 after having an 11-7 lead. But in games two and three, the Wolves seized control and never let go.

Clarkston jumped out to an 8-0 lead in game two thanks to more consistent defense and better team play. The Lakers closed the gap to 10-8, but Clarkston was never shaken by the comeback. A kill by senior cocaptain Kara Bergkoetter started the Wolves on a game-ending 4-1 run.

"It's nice to be league champs, but even nicer for a kid like Kara," Richardson said. "She's been through two pretty tough years here." Clarkston went a combined 7-17 in the OAA I over the prior two seasons.

In game two, the Wolves jumped out to a 13-3 lead with everyone getting in on the act. Six different players recorded kills in helping the team to the 10-point lead. Three different players recorded solo blocks, and three had service aces, keeping West Bloomfield off balance with its defense.

"We have this team unity that allows us to win close games," Richardson said. "In the league, everyone is young and so balanced. But we had six seniors, and maybe that was the difference in us winning it."

The team's depth also showed at the end of the third game. Bergkoetter, Brandy Garlitz and Brittani Brewer all recorded kills after the Lakers scored five straight points to make it 13-7.

"Brittani has come such a long way," Richardson said. "She did a lot of good things for us tonight. She is a totally different player than she was last year, and her improvement has just been tremendous."

Brewer led the team with six kills on the night. Sophomore Angela Humphreys had a nice all-around game, with five kills, two solo blocks, and was 11-for-11 in attacks and 7-for-8 on attack receptions. Bergkoetter was 17-for-18 on serve receptions and 14-for-16 on attacks. Garlitz was 6-for-6 serving with an ace, and junior Jennie Winn had seven assists and two service aces.

The six seniors on the varsity volleyball team pause for a moment before taking on West Bloomfield Thursday. Thanks to this group's leadership and the team's balance, Clarkston won the OAA Division II title with an 11-1 league record. Districts begin Saturday at Mott.

Adams 15-11, 15-9 in a very competitive match.

Earlier in the day, the Wolves won their pool thanks to wins over Hazel Park, 15-4, 15-6, and Royal Oak Dondero, 15-12, 15-9. The Wolves split with Troy Athens 15-12, 16-14, but won the pool based on more total points in the head-to-head matchup with the Red Hawks.

In the next round, Clarkston went the distance with Rochester before pulling out a 15-10, 13-15, 15-9 win, with the third game being rally-scored.

In the tournament quarterfinals, the Wolves got their long-awaited matchup with Rochester Adams, but came away with a 15-11, 15-9 loss to the team in first place in the OAA I. Adams ended up losing to Birmingham Seaholm in the tournament finals.

"We can play with that team," Richardson said of Adams. "When we fell behind, we made too many errors, and that cost us."

Athlete of the Week: Kara Bergkoetter

Salut, Kara: The varsity volleyball team likely would not have won the OAA Division II title without the contributions - both on and off the court - of senior captain Kara Bergkoetter. Kara, the only threeyear varsity player on the team, has been a leader of the Wolves in every sense of the word. She is the first to hi-five a teammate after a good play, pick up a teammate after a bad one, and is a unifying force on the team. She also contributes on the court in big ways, as shown in the team's league-title clinching game against West Bloomfield Thursday night. Kara led the team in two key categories: 17-for-18 on serve receptions and 14-for-16 on attacks. Kara is also preparing for her fourth year with the varsity girls soccer team, and is an honors student. She said she was thinking of attending Central Michigan University in the fall.

Coach Gordie Richardson on Kara: "Kara has been great as a captain. She takes charge, is easy for me and her teammates to talk to, and she has a wonderful demeanor. Everything she does has been an improvement this year. She is more confident in herself, and she can do almost everything proficiently. I would love for other kids to follow the example she sets every day."

Kara on Kara: "This team has had a good time playing together. We started the season with a lot of confidence, and we had something to prove after we got moved down to Division II. I think it started with the Waverly tournament, where we went 3-1-1. We surprised ourselves a little bit. Fenton

JV Volleyball

The Clarkston JV volleyball team completed one of its best seasons ever with a 15-13, 15-13 win over West Bloomfield Thursday night.

The Wolves battled back from deficits of 13-8 and 8-1 in the two games and still came out on top. Clarkston finished 11-1 in the OAA Division II, getting crowned league champs just like the varsity team.

"Our comebacks tonight showed how much the kids have matured," said coach Missy Macauley. "We got the ball over and were more consistent tonight."

Clarkston's comebacks were sparked by their captains Lisa Ferguson and Tracey Honey. Ferguson served during the team's game-clinching 5-0 run in game one, and served the team back from an 8-1 deficit to an 8-8 tie in game two. Honey served the final three points for the Wolves in game two. Ferguson and Honey, along with Lyndsay Vincent, have been called up to the varsity squad for the postseason.

"Tracey brings a lot of leadership to us," Macauley said, "She has a great attitude Lisa is coming along real well as the setter, knowing where to put the ball. Lindsay Simko has also done an incredible job for us this year."

This was the first league title for Macauley.

In another volleyball note, Clarkston Middle School player Stephanie Reitano served 15 straight aces in a game for CMS against Mason Middle School on Wednesday. CMS beat Mason 15-3, 15-0 in the team's third game of the season. The team is coached by 1996 CHS graduate Stephanie Giroux.

JV Basketball

Clarkston's JV boys basketball team had its finest game of the season Friday night, against one of its toughest opponents:

The Wolves were dominant for four quarters on both ends of the floor in a 71-48 dismantling of Southfield Lathrup at the CHS gym. Clarkston improves to 14-5 on the season, and stands tied for first place in the league.

"Early on, it was nip-and-tuck, but we shot the ball better against their zone," said coach Tim Kaul. "Matt Mahrle scored 10 points in the first quarter, and he gave us an outstanding start."

Clarkston ended the first quarter with a 14-10 lead, and kept creeping further and further ahead. A nine-point halftime lead turned into a 13-point lead by the end of the third quarter. In the fourth, the Wolves put the nail in the coffin by outscoring the Chargers

"I'm thrilled to death to get a win like this," Kaul said. "We prepared really hard for this game, and it's nice to see that when you put the work in, you're removeded."

Mahrle scored a season-high 17 points to lead Clarkston. Bryan Endreszl, who Kaul calls his "warrior," scored 15 in another good all-around effort. Clarkston faces Troy in the season finale Friday night at the CHS gym, starting at 6 p.m.

L'Amoreaux, DeGain and Grant all won regional titles, held at Flint Carman-Ainsworth High School. Robinson finished third while Auten took second:

Coach Mike DeGain said he was pleased with how the wrestlers did, especially Grant and L'Amoreaux.

Ryan and A.J. were sick, but they still came out on top and were never really threatened," he said. "What's nice is now we've got two weeks to get them healthy for the state meet."

Grant once again beat the defending 125-pound champion Scott Norton from Romeo in the regional finals 6-4. Grant also beat Norton in the district finals, and the two could meet again in the state finals.

L'Amoreaux beat William Gray from Flint Carman-Ainsworth 5-1 in the 119-pound district fi-DeGain also maintained his perfect record with a regional-final pinfall win over Mike DeLorge of Carman-Ainsworth in the first period.

Robinson lost to James Pack of Rochester Adams in the semifinals 5-3, losing a 3-2 lead with less than a minute left in the third period. He went on to beat Charles Perez from Midland Dow 16-4. Auten also lost to his rival from Adams, Luke Lazzo 6-3, losing a 3-2 lead with 10 seconds left in the third period.

Team Regionals

Rochester Adams 47 Clarkston 26

Dating back to last season, the Wolves have had one thorn in their side, and that thorn ended the team's season Wednesday night.

Clarkston lost to top-ranked Rochester Adams 47-26 in the Division I regional finals at Lake Orion High School. It marks the second straight year the Wolves' season has been ended by the Highlanders, who won the state title last year.

Once again; Clarkston was behind the eight-ball early by having to void the 103 and 112-pound weight classes. Adams then won five of the next seven matches to take a commanding 35-9 lead in the match.

This year we never had a full team, and you can't give away 12 points and expect to win at this level." Coach DeGain said. "We tried to change some things around, but it just wasn't our night."

Coach DeGain did some slight shuffling of his lineup, moving senior Chris Labrie up to the 189-pound weight class and bumping Jon Naboychik up to 171 and Dave Welanko up to 140, Top to bottom, it was one of Clarkston's strongest lineups of the season, but Adams was just a little bit stronger.

Even the matches the Wolves won were frustrating. L'Amoreaux had a pair of near falls, but could not pin Omar Youssef of Adams, settling for a 13-4 win. Grant also could not pin his opponent Mike Holtz, even though it appeared he had the shoulders down on the mat on more than one occasion. Grant won 19-3.

As a result of the two non-pinfall victories, the Wolves still trailed going into the 130-pound match

12-9 instead of being tied 12-12. The missed three points didn't end up mattering anyway, as the Highlanders wrestled to their full potential against Clark-

Auten won his match 18-1 against an Adams JV wrestler, and Adams voided the 215 and heavy weight classes, having the match already wrapped up.

"Adams has a very strong team," Coach DeGain said. "They have a lot of experience and a lot of poise. They know what it takes to win, and I'll be rooting for them at states."

Adams can give the OAA Division I four state wrestling titles this decade, counting Lake Orion's win in 1990 and Clarkston's in 1991. Coach DeGain said this shows how strong the league is, and that he takes pride in that.

"It's good to see all the teams from our league do so well," he said. "We've had teams get to the finals, and that shows that we have one of the best leagues in the state."

The Wolves ripped Swartz Creek, the co-Big 9 champions, 41-27 in the regional semifinals.

Adams beat the other Big 9 co-champion Davison 35-29 in the other semifinal.

The Big 9 had been tooting their horn about what a tough league they have, and our teams from the OAA beat them both tonight," Coach DeGain said.

Sophomore Brian Chism won a key match against Swartz Creek 11-10 in the 130-pound weight class. The team won nine of the 12 matches that took place against Swartz Creek.

Neiters looking for seventh district title machiveas

In recent years, the district tournament has just been the first step for the varsity volleyball team. This year, that step will be more perilous

Clarkston begins district play Saturday at 11 am at Waterford Mott High School. The Wolves take on the winner of the first-round winner between Waterford Kettering and Fenton.

Fenton, the champions of the Flint Metro League is the heavy favorite in that matchup. The Tigers defeated Lapeer East earliet this season, a team Clarkston lost to at the Essexville-Garber Tournament on Feb. 6.

Many of Fenton's players were also on the basketball team in the fall that went 22-0 and lost to Kettering in regionals. Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson is hopeful this could play into his team's in the second period when Vogt scored his second goal of the game, backhanding in a rebound on a shot from senior Adam Leech.

Just as it appeared the team would take momentum into the locker room, Clarkston broke one of hockey's cardinal rules: never give up a goal in the first or last minute of the period. Milford capitalized on a Clarkston turnover and scored with just 18 seconds left in the second period, retaking a two-goal lead.

The Wolves had their chances in the third period to come back, but they couldn't score on back-toback power plays within the first five minutes of the period. The team then hurt themselves by taking a pair of penalties shortly thereafter, ruining any chances at a comeback.

Krygier said the loss was harder to take, because he believed Clarkston has a better team than Milford.

"It's definitely hard, especially when you know your team is capable of beating better teams," he said. "In the playoffs, if you don't show up ready to fight tooth and nail to win, you'll be done."

Despite the bitterness of the loss, Krygier did say he enjoyed his first season leading the team, reflecting on highlights like the team's 3-1 win over defending state champion Trenton last

"I thought we had an exceptional year," he said. "I was new coming in here and I didn't know a lot about this experience. But I'm pleased with how the season went, and I appreciate the parents allowing me to coach this team.

"This was a building block year, and hopefully next year, we'll get more kids interested in coming out for the team," he continued . "We got up to seventh in the state, and ended up 10th. Maybe some of those kids that didn't come out for the team will take notice next year and give us a second look."

The team appears to have a ton of talent returning up front, with fouryear veterans like Anthony Facione and Bill Kalush coming back to lead the offense, and Steve Badger ready for his third season as the starting goaltender. Defense will be the team's least experienced position next year, since four of the top five defensemen are all graduating. In its three years, the Clarkston hockey team has a combined record of 52-22-3, with one district, one regional, and one league title to its credit.

Where the heck did all the basketball fans go?

We're back, after a oneweek sabbatical, and I have just one question for everyone out

Where are all the Clarkston basketball fans?

I know they're here somewhere. I saw them all the time the last two years. Piling into those old double doors at the old CHS gym. Each finding their "assigned" seat. Walking past a screaming visiting coach, on their way back from the concession stand.

I know those rans used to be here. I not only saw them, but felt them. Shake the walls, that is. After a thunderous Angelo Taylor dunk, or a clean 3point swish by Tim Wasilk. Or what about another no-look pass from Jeremy Fife? And Dan Neubeck diving on the floor for a loose ball, all sense of self well-being on the backburner.

But something has changed this year. It's not just the building or the faces in those Clarkston uniforms. Something bigger has changed, and it's quite troubling to me. Fans, both adults and students alike don't seem to be in the game as much, whether they are actually there or not.

Appearances can be deceiving. A crowd that fills half the sparkling new gym may have filled the old gym to the ceiling. The noise this year's crowd may generate could get lost in the wide-open spaces between the court and the freshly painted girders. Either way, the atmosphere at Clarkston basketball games just isn't the same this year, and that's a shame.

with Brad

I have talked to so many people this year who have told me the following line, in so many words: "I have been to almost every Clarkston basketball game the last 10 years. I never missed a game. But I just haven't been able to get there this year."

All of you that have told me that, well, you're not alone. I have heard this from parents who currently have kids at the high school, and from parents whose kids have long since graduated.

But why this year? Why all of a sudden has the level of support dropped off? Is it because Clarkston doesn't have an all-state player on its team?

Let's start with the Jungle, a group of rabid Clarkston basketball fans who were rivaled only by Duke's Cameron Crazies in their vocal ability, chant originality, and most important of all, support of the home

This year, there hasn't even been a tame version of the Jungle. The first time I remember this infamous group making any kind of appearance was Friday's game against Southfield Lathrup, when a small group of fans, led by Mike Moran, stood up and cheered.

I have heard many stories about how the Jungle used to be, from former members and former players. But after the OAA banned noisemakers - read pennies in those empty milk cartons - the level has gone down ever since.

An auxiliary part of the Jungle I always liked was the signs. The signs ranged from the simple, yet effective - "U cannot stop Dane Fife," - to the original - "I 'Taste' a power slam tonight," the latter combining Taylor's Pontiac nickname and specialty. Other signs, like "The Italian Stallion" for Marc Venegoni and "Welcome to Brice-land" for Ryan Briceland made for a fun atmosphere, and gave the players a little extra giddiness when striding out onto the court.

I think it's a shame that signs like these are no longer put up in the gym. Now I've heard different reasons why this is so. Some say the administration has banned all signs, while others say the administration has only banned vulgar signs, and that the kids have decided not to put up any signs.

I don't care what the real reason is for the lack of signs. I can understand, and agree with, banning vulgar, trash-talking signs from the gym. The CHS administration wants its kids to exude class in every way, and I applaud them for that. But it is wrong to ban or not make signs that support the Clarkston athletes. I have wonderful memories of when I would see a sign at the Midland Civic Arena made just for along with signs for my teammates.

These athletes deserve the same support all Clarkston kids have received in the past. It's unfortunate to see the lack of fan support, both in numbers and volume, this year's team has received. The boys deserve better.

Ironically, I thought the best home crowd of the season was Friday's crowd. The number of people appeared to be a little bigger, and they certainly were louder. I believe this played no small part in the team's near-upset of one of the best teams in Oakland County. The sight of all the fans rising out of their seats as Ryan Marino took another 3-pointer brought back memories of last year, and the kind of atmosphere these games generated.

I'm still hopeful for a great crowd at Friday's home finale against Troy. These two teams have always been big-time rivals, and the Colts are regarded as one of the top teams in the area. Clarkston nearly pulled off the upset at Troy last month, and with a little more fan support, might just pull it off this week. The Oxford Leader : The Clarkston News: The Lake Orion Review
