Reports state the 19-year-old employee was "surprise" by a black man in this 20s or 30s. The man was described as wearing a dark, hooded sweatshirt. He reportedly grabbed and "pistol-whipped" her with a large handgun, said Independence Substation commander, Lt. Dale LaBlair.

LaBlair said the second woman, 33, kicked at her assailant and threw the money bag at him, pleading with him not to hurt her. The second suspect was described as a white male, also in his 20s or 30s.

When police arrived, the 19-year-old was hysterical and the 33-year-old had a tuft of hair fall out as she was questioned. An employee of the Dandy Oil gas station across the street witnessed the assault, and was helpful in providing information, police reports stated.

The men fled on foot with the night deposit of over $100.

OCSD Det. Dave Hendrick declined to offer further comment, saying the incident is under investigation.

'At the Edge of Mirror Lake' Area writers part of Michigan group publishing a book this spring

BY MARALEE COOK Clarkston News Editor

Anger, friendship, family, men, laughter, love, nature, spirituality ... the topics go on and on. Stories from the soul, for the soul, womens' stories.

"At the Edge of Mirror Lake, A Woman's Reader" is a collection of stories and poems by 13 Michigan women, including two writers from Clarkston and one from Lake Orion.

It is a result of a year-long collaboration designed for the creation of a book of essays and poems for women written by female writers willing to reach into their pasts, futures and fantasies to share thoughts, hopes and dreams that will touch the lives of others.

Membership in the group was by invitation only from Margo Lagattuta, the book's editor and an instructor at Oakland University.

Former Clarkston News staff writer and Clarkston resident Carolyn Walker is one of those women. Currently a free-lance writer and journalist, she says her family is her muse. Some of her essays are drawn from her imagination and others from life's lessons.

"I like to make people think and feel," she says. "That's what I think I'm good at, whether it's through laughter or tears."

She has also created a fictional character-named "Mrs. X,"and through her Carolyn relates real experiences of her own, family members and friends, and the lessons learned from them.

Native Australian Naomi Long now lives in Lake Orion and teaches woodcarving at Upland Hills School in Oxford. She has been writing since she was a child and says she has a need to express herself through poetry. "I have a great love for poetry, and sometimes you can express yourself better through poetry." She also writes to share her experiences with people.

She was involved in the civil rights movement in the south and helped organize a Head Start Program in rural Mississippi.

For Clarkston resident Laura Mosey, writing is a process that teaches her about herself. "I learn things about myself (through writing) that shock me, or that come from a place I didn't know existed. I hope it reaches other people."

Laura said one of the writing exercises she learned from Lagattuta is to look at an object on a desk and write from within that object. "It can surprise you. It's something magical, something spiritual."

Carolyn agrees, adding, "I surprise myself sometimes. I start off writing about one thing, and it comes out as something else. I can't imagine not writing. I can't imagine not going to that place you're talking about.".

Laura, who has three children, currently works as an account manager, selling CAD/CAM equipment and services to automotive suppliers. She is an English major at OU and plans to pursue a master of fine arts degree after graduation. She hopes to put together a manuscript in the future.

Laura's inspiration came from her mother. "Some of my pieces are in the southern storytelling theme. My mother was a writer, and we never really connected well until we realized we were A. A. Mary both writers."

One of Laura's stories is about her mother, while another relates one of her mother's adventures as a child.

Several cultures are represented in the book as well as an age span from 20 to over 70 years. The group met twice a month for about three hours at a time and a "wonderful bonding took place."

Some of the women were in the middle of life crises, including divorce and cancer treatments, and each was lifted up "literally and spiritually."

"We began as strangers, and we'll leave as life-long friends," said Carolyn.

There are places in the world where women do not go naked. Where they do not let their forms go free, nor their spirits fly.

By tradition, they are the places of men. Sparse dojos set aside long ago forthe teaching of the martial arts. Places layered in rules and steeped in the ancient formalities of the Orient.

They are places where the smells of men's skin and sweat vie with those of wood or metal, and sometimes blood, for a place in the air. Where touching is an act that comes from the will, not from the heart. Where whispers and prayers are a rarity. And kisses are an unknown thing ...

Now all the woods are waking. The mauve and pink and white little stars of the hepatica are sitting up all over, for the sun is creeping down through the branches of the oaks and maples, making patterns on the matting of last winter's leaves. A 4 Wed., May 5, 1999 The Clarkston (MI) News Shows wetlands, water and sewer lines, zoning, prices and more New mapping system for assessing office

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new computerized mapping system designed to benefit Independence Township staff and residents was unanimously approved by the board of trustees atits April 20 meeting.

Township Assessor Dave Kramer said $8,500 was transferred from the township's capital projects fund to the assessing budget to purchase the Geographic Information System (GIS), which is available to all Oakland County municipalities.

Before casting its vote, the board heard a brief presentation from R. Scott Oppmann, GIS utility program supervisor and the son of planning commissioner Rich Oppmann; and Robert Daddow, assistant deputy county executive for special projects, Kramer said.

The system includes computer software and a color laser printer capable of printing 11x17-inch paper, or sections of the map which would feature "layers" of water and sewer lines, wetlands delineation, zoning boundaries, square footages on houses, sale prices of residential and commercial properties and more.

The county provides a base map which includes aerial photography of Independence Township, Kramer explained. Unlimited layers of information can be extracted from the base. "The layers are only limited by your imagination. If you can relate some data to a spatial environment -- i.e. a map -- you can create a layer to superimpose on that map.

"The possibilities are endless. You could do all the characteristics for a building. You could have a layer for age or type; one-story versus two-story. You could do a layer for utility rights-of-way." According to a definition provided by the National Center for Geographic Information and Analysis, GIS is "a computerized data base management system for capture, storage, retrieval, analysis and display of spatial data."

The computer required for the system is expected to be installed within a month, Kramer said, adding that he and Chief Appraiser Bonnie Watson will be trained to

"The township will benefit at three immediate levels," he added. "At the base level it will be able to produce maps. And those maps can be customized, depending on the data required. The township will also benefit because we will be able to analyze spatial data from these maps."

He provided an example of how the new system might be utilized by residents or township personnel. "Suppose you were looking for sales of houses having square footages between 3,000 and 3,500 square feet. Instead of us having to search the entire data base, the system will (do that) and highlight those on a map." Homes that fall within that specified range would be pin-pointed on the map, he explained, indicating the data would be fast and accurate.

Grant could increase library's Internet service

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer Independence Township Library received support from the township board April 20 to apply for federal funding that -- if approved -- will increase Internet services at the library.

Library Director Mollie Lynch said the $50,000 grant from LSTA (Library Services and Technology Act), administered through the Library of Michigan, would provide enough monies for the following additions: 12 new computers with Internet access, scanners, an instructor's station, a digital camera system, an overhead computer/projection system and more.

The new features would be incorporated into the library's media room, and be invaluable for training purposes. Currently, library staff has to travel to Southgate for that service, which takes an entire work day, said Lynch.

The public would also benefit from the increased Internet service, mainly in the evenings when computers aren't utilized by library personnel.

"We expect to hear in October if we received the grant," Lynch said.

Match grant for books

Lynch also provided an update on the challenge grant, approved by the board several months ago. We've completed our goal," she said.

Last November Pine Knob Music Theatre, owned by Palace Sports & Entertainment, committed $30,000 to a match grant that was met with another $30,000 from Independence Township.

The "two-for-one" grant was matched by another $30,000 from residents, reaching the $90,000 goal that's buying approximately 4,000 new books for the adult, young adult and children's libraries.

"We collected all the money in early March," Lynch said, expressing her appreciation for all who contributed. "It was well-received by our residents. We were very pleased."

'Little Shop' a bitingly funny musical

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Village Players ended its 1998-99 season with a mighty chomp -- and a winning musical, "Little Shop of Horrors," now playing at the Depot Theatre.

The whimsical tale of a plant with an insatiable appetite for human blood is appropriate for the whole family, and might be the Players' most challenging work to date.

The story -- set in a failing flower store on "Skid Row" -- begins as proprietor Mr. Mushnik (Mel Case) plans to close up shop. But his employees -- nerdy clerk Seymour (Dean Vanderkolk) and dizzy-blondewith-a-heart-of-gold Audrey (Elizabeth Wingert-Nelson) beg Mushnik for one last chance.

Seymour has been working on "Audrey II," a Venus flytrap-type plant he bought from an old Chinese man. All it would take is passers-by to notice the "strange and interesting plant" in the window to make business bloom again.

No sooner has the specimen been set on the window sill, than a businessman walks by, jerks his neck, and rushes into the store. It's deft handling by 1994 CVP scholarship winner Ryan S. Moore, who plays a myriad of minor roles in addition to the prime role of "Orin," Audrey's sadistic dentist-boyfriend.

"Excuse me, but I couldn't help notice that strange and interesting plant," he says brightly. It's the start of numerous tongue-in-cheek (or it it pistil-in-stamen?) lines the comedy is known for. continued on page 17

Editorial Adding sports to middle and high school programs a good idea

Wed., May 5, 1999

6A

One of Clarkston schools' proposed solutions to help kids stay drug and alcohol free is to offer more options for keeping them busy after school. The suggestion was made by Assistant Superintendent Pat Brumback at the April school board meeting following her presentation of the Western Michigan University high school drug and alcohol survey.

Expanding the middle school and high school sports programs would solve part of the problem.

With the middle schools and high school serving such large student populations, many students who would like to play sports have no opportunity to do so.

Compounding the problem is the number of students who participate in several sports, eliminating more positions for others.

We're glad to see the expansions are being. considered, and hope the offerings continue to keep pace with the growing school populations.

How does the master plan deal with OS-2 zoning? gerous.

Dear Editor.

Regarding the recent Holiday Inn controversy, my concern is: if a hotel/motel becomes a reality on M-15, north of 1-75 as proposed, it will open the floodgates to similar high-density, high-traffic noise, pollution, and development along the M-15 corridor.

The developers will then go back to Flint or wherever, and the township will be left with a replica of Dixie Highway, but on a two-lane road. The existing traffic situation in this area is already extremely dan-

My question is: where does the master plan, which designated this area for OS2 zoning, fit in this scenario, and why won't the township officials adhere to it? It is my understanding the master plan was designed to preclude this exact type of situation.

The Clarkston (MI) News

Sincerely, M. Zawacki

Editor's note: The property in question is not zoning OS-2 at this time.

Motherhood -- a real learning experience

Things I've learned after my first full year of motherhood:

I've learned that I can go with a lot less sleep than I ever thought possible. A teething baby makes those college all-nighters seem like a cake walk. Exams last a week at most, but with little ones, the teeth just keep coming.

I've learned that obsessive worrying on my part is the only thing standing in the way of imminent danger on my son's part. To a mom, worry is the magic mantra to ward off all evil, despite what reason says.

I've learned that no matter how good a mother you are, your kid's car seats will be filthy. I used to scoff at my sister's car, horrified at the two-inch layer of McDonald's toys, Cheerios and Kleenex in the back seat. Last month I called to apologize after cleaning out my own sea of smashed Cheeze-its and baby wipes. (Tip: take the dog for a ride every once in awhile, she'll make sure those stray Zwieback are cleared up pronto.)

I've learned that I would give my own life or take that of anyone else's if it means keeping my child safe from harm. It's a powerful and frightening instinct --one that I'm still not comfortable admitting - but it's there none the less.

I've learned to look at everybody differently. After gazing at my son and feeling my chest tighten with pure emotion and love, I realize that all mothers feel the same about their own babies, even if those babies have grown up to be the ditzy driver going 35mph in a 55mph zone.

I've learned that I prefer to see my son's face clean rather than my own shirt sleeve clean.

I've learned that nothing can take the place of a great caregiver in a working mom's life. My caregiver is an angel from God Himself, she will never know the strength and happiness she has given me by protecting and loving my son like her own. Thank You, Sheree.

I've learned the awesome power of a blankie, binkie or other lovable woobie in a child's life. Our family was brought to a halt when the beloved "nee-nee" was accidently dropped into the tub and a dry replacement could not be located. They're great when it's night-night time, but you curse the thing when it rolls under the front seat while speeding down the highway.

I've learned that fatherhood should be defined as a caring man who makes time in his life for a child each and every day --- willingly, lov-ingly and without exception. God bless the man who steps in for our kids when another man checks out. Thank you, Donald.

I've learned that nothing beats sitting down with your kid to share a bowl of cheese popcorn and letting him wipe his hands on your shirt.

I've learned that Friend of the Genna Cottrell Court is just that — a friend of the courts, not of mothers or children.

I've learned that just because your child is coughing does not mean that he now has cystic fibrosis and needs to be rushed to the Emergency Room at two in the morning. My apologies to the ER staff at St. Joe's...

I'm learning to accept that picky toddlers can subsist on nothing but cheese triangles and air for days without any noticable ill-effects. And yes, they actually will eat when they get hungry enough.

And I've learned that it's nothing short of true joy to see my own mother scoop up and kiss my son - a grandmother's love brings a family around full circle and makes the world seem right again.

Thank you, Mom.

And Happy Mother's Day.

Memories are made of this

L stood there for a moment, there, in the bedroom that was "mine" for nearly 30 years and stared at the aged knotty pine walls.

It was a melancholy moment. A moment where a lifetime of moments ran together like a short silent. movie. It was a kaleidoscope of my life on Keebler Mountian, or what is better known since 1971 as the Rush residence. Nephew Dylan called it "the castle of the neighborhood." I just called it home:

I guess I never realized how much a body can become attached to four walls and a roof, or the roll of the land, the trees and the critters you are sure to see there. So many smiles, laughs and tears. You cannot count the passages of life and death that occur at one tiny spot on this earth:

I remember many evenings lying in bed and gazing at that knotty pine ceiling much like the ancients of old look up to the heavens. In the stars they saw constellations. In the pine, I saw faces, a sheep dog, a bearded wizard, an ostrich and frogs, lots of big-eyed frogs.

In my moment of moments I reached out and, touched the indentations in the wood next to the door. One, two ... 19 short, horizontal lines, one on top of the other made with pencil and pen. They marked my growth from the time I was a full 12-inches shorter than I am now. Dad loved it when I desecrated the knotty pine walls, I could tell by the pained look in his eyes whenever I proudly announced the hanging of a new shelf or picture or a quarter inch taller.

I remembered in the girls' room we played a game we called "shark." Whomever was "it" — the shark, after the release of the movie, Jaws — was on the floor, on their hands and knees. The other kills stayed on the beds (there were three). Jumping from bed to bed was not only allowed in our rules, its was encour-aged. Anything was OK as long as the shark didn't touch you. This was done, of course with the door closed and the lights out. Darkness was fun.

We'd play until the play turned so riotous that Dad couldn't hear his beloved TV. That would drive him to pound on the wall and yell, "Knock it off in there!"

So many Christmases, Easters and birthdays. We celebrated life up there, even threw a good oldfashioned Irish wake.

I remember Dad pounding on the kitchen table. I remember he and Mom hugging and kissing (Yuck! Out in the open, even!) I remember the dogs: Lady, Hauss and Fluffy. I can still see all the stray mom cats who had their kittens in our garage, right across from the birds who also nested there.

Ah, the times had in that home by the Rush family. I bought the homestead in 1992 and sold it last week. Regretful I am not for the move, it was time. I didn't shed any tears, but I'll sure miss the comfort of knowing when I closed my eyes I would be Home, where all the memories were made.

Northwest and other observations

It's easy to pick on (bash) Northwest, the almosthave-to-use, Airlines out of Michigan.

In fact, on a recent flight to Arizona I wrote a column critical of the airline. I knocked their food choice (ham or bagel sandwich). Their "on time" airlines was late. They ran out of ham sandwiches. Their potato chip snack was salt filled. My notes stayed in a dresser drawer while in AZ. Back in Detroit's Metro Airport three weeks later we were told our flight to Flint would be a half hour late. My feeling toward the "on time" airline hadn't changed, so I shrugged and sat. During that half hour one man approached every Northwest-badge wearing person. He obviously didn't like the idea of waiting. He gestured, he pointed, he got in their face, he reddened.

My thoughts of bashing Northwest began to wane.

Back in Oxford a few days later the bashing thoughts were completely dashed. Thoughts were put in proper perspective.

A friend of many years, Jeff Davidson, reminded me of telling him once, "Take a minute to watch the sunset."

MAN!

ALL PARTY INC.

1.5

That thought came back to him after his flight. rom Ft. Myers, FL to Detroit. Shortly after lifting off an engine blew up. It was a frightening moment for all 200 on board ... for that instant and the next half hour. Bagel or ham. Bad chips. Half hour late. I should be thankful to be able to watch the sunset, to smell the roses along the way, to be able stand, to walk, to breath in and out every day. KEEP THINGS IN PERSPECTIVE; SHER-

Working to improve health care choices and accessibility

As a member of the Health Committee, I am working for a nine-bill package to improve choice and accessibility to health care coverage for all Michigan residents. These bills were passed in committee, debated in the House last week and final passage in the House is scheduled to take place later this month.

This package of bills has three goals: continuity of care, parental choice of pediatricians, and increased access to non-formulary prescription drugs.

Patients may run into serious problems when their provider leaves their health plan or network.

It is important that Michigan residents are guaranteed protection under their coverage. This legislation allows patients to continue receiving treatment for-90 days, or the duration of treatment for an active condition, when a provider leaves a health plan or the patient's health plan, changes. The patient's continuity of care is ensured under this package of bills.

Continuity of care also is guaranteed in cases of pregnancy. Patients in the second or third trimester are permitted to stay with their provider for pregnancy-related care through the course of the pregnancy. For terminally ill patients, any treatment related to the terminal illness will be covered for the remainder of the patient's life.

The legislation further gives parents access to pediatricians who are affiliated with their health plan without a referral from another physician or pre-authorization from the plan.

The legislation I am supporting encourages health plans to consult physicians, dentists, and pharmacists when developing a drug formulary. Cooperation between parties involved will result in fewer situations where doctors are prescribing medicines not included in the patient's health plan.

The bills further call for medicines not in a plan's formulary to still be provided when prescribed by physicans for necessary medical conditions.

Through this package of bills we are continuing our commitment to give all Michigan residents the best health care possible, while increasing health care access and choices.

As always, I welcome your questions, comments, and suggestions on these and other issues. Contact me by E-mail at rujohnson@house.state.mi.us, by phone at (800)510-RUTH or send your mail to Rep. Ruth Johnson, P.O. Box 30014, Lansing, MI 48909.

That great silence that followed the nation-wide sigh of relief was caused by the closing of polls.

Can anyone explain why the postal service had a 4-color stamp printed on their postal cards saluting the "weather services" on their 100th year? Are blue, orange, black and yellow the services' colors?

Maybe postal rates have now climbed sufficiently high to cover costs of 4-color printing. It would be nice to know my postage bill of over $17,000 a year wouldn't be any higher next year.

I'm not too sensitive to criticism of our media. I don't jump when the journalism is attacked and scream out for "freedom of the I thought some of press." vice-president Spiro Agnew's comments concerning dispensers of news was justified.

Mr. Agnew is, of course, a politician. Being such he has that peculiarity many of his breed have of saying what his particular audience wants to hear. Cheers and acknowledgement are their fertilizer

Eric Sevareid of CBS Evening News, did take some exception to Mr. Agnew's remarks on TV news commentators in Chicago 2 weeks ago. Some of his comments fitpeople in public office on all levels, just change a few words.

I'm not going to reprint the entire statement. This will do: "We can't cast one vote in committee, an opposite vote on the floor; can't say one thing in the North, and opposite thing in the South. We hold no tenure, 4 years or

Democrats, Altman win

The Democrats, except for the clerk's office, swept to victory in Independence Tuesday and by a wide margin.

Unseated after 13½ years in the office of supervisor was Duane Hursfall, 119 N. Holcomb. Moving into the office in January will be Gary Stonerock, 34, of 4780 Mohawk. It was the first time he sought public office.

In gaining the victory Stonerock carried every precinct except the incumbent's own. The unofficial tally was Stonerock, 2964; Hursfall, 1767.

Going down to defeat with Hursfall, in what must be considered a protest vote, was incumbent trustee Harold Bauer, a Republican like Hursfall, Bauer served 13 years as trustee.

Keith Humbert, 47, 6440 Snow Apple, will take Bauer's place, based on the 2758 to 1799 totals. Humbert gained popularity in recent petition campaigns seeking referendums on 3 rezoning decisions favored and passed by Hursfall, Bauer and the other trustee, Merle Bennett, who was not up for election.

Over 2300 people had signed at least one of the petitions. The 3 favored a vote on a mobile home park, multiple dwelling complex and shopping center.

Incumbent Ken Johnson led the Democratic ticket with 3218 votes over his Republican challenger, Shirley J. McDonnell, 1505.

The one Republican to survive Tuesday's vote was clerk Howard Altman. He outpolled his opponent, Louis J. Gavar, 2855 to 1856 in unofficial returns. Altman, who has been independence's clerk, for 9 years, did not vote in favor of the rezoning for the trailer park or shopping center. The same is true for Johnson.

The above results are unofficial and printed before the 197 absent voters ballots were counted.

The closest race in Independence was for constable. In it a second Republican on the ballot won. Harry Fahrner, incumbent, won along with Donald Trarop. Defeated were incumbent Earl R. King, Dem and Harry W. Yoh, GOP. Trarop polled 2335, Fahrner, 2318; King, 2243 and Yoh, 1980.

The request for one mill for police protection in the township passed by the narrow margin of 21 votes. The final tally, unofficial, was 1997 to 1976.

Headwaters Conservancy spring meeting slated for May 8

The North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy (NOHLC) will hold its annual Spring Meeting on Saturday, May 8 at 9:30 a.m. in the Springfield Township Hall Annex, 650 Broadway, in Davisburg. The public is invited to attend.

Paraphrasing the State's motto, "If you seek a lovely community in which to live, look around you.' Residents of Northwest Oakland County are fortunate to live in such an area of natural beauty, with its reminders of a by-gone era and a promising future. Appropriately, the theme of the May 8 NOHLC Spring Meeting is "Bring Back the Future, Naturally!"

In celebration of 27 years of service to the community, the meeting will feature an update on the work of the NOHLC, a feature presentation, and a tour of a NOHLC protected property. Light refreshments will be served at the meeting.

The first 25 people at the Spring Meeting will receive a White Pine seedling for planting.

The NOHLC update will include reports about new efforts to protect properties in Springfield, Independence, and Groveland Townships, and a report about the progress being made toward hiring an executive director.

The May 8 NOHLC Spring Meeting features a presentation by Carolyn Henne, the Forestry and Wildlife Biologist for the Oakland and Macomb Conservation Districts. She will describe the natural features and character of Oakland County before it was settled, discuss the current state of the County, and demonstrate alternatives for the County's future.

Ms. Henne is studying for her masters degree in Natural Resources, with concentrations in Wildlife Management and Forestry, at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. She received her bachelors degree in Biology and Environmental Studies from Lawrence University in Appleton, Wisconsin. A tour of the NOHLC Suzanne G. Knorr Preserve conservation easement follows the meeting. The easement consists of two sites located in southwest Independence Township. The property is a part of what remains of the natural features which characterize the township and Oakland County. The sites are gorgeous, possessing dramatically varying terrain. One site of 30 acres has steep hillsides populated by hemlock, native oak, and other trees. They overlook a glacial kettle lake, hemmed by Tamarack trees, in a glacial moraine unique to this area. The other site of 22 acres is a low open area, with low lying growth and a beautiful natural fen. Both areas are part of one of nature's most important corridors in the community. The Preserve was donated by David V. Johnson in 1998.

NOHLC is a 501(c)(3) non-proft, tax-exempt corporation, receiving tax-deductable gifts of all kinds. Also, various membership donation categories exist, such as a renewable Life-Membership donation of $100 and an annual Family Membership donation of $25.

'Little Shop of Horrors'

You know the rest, if you've seen the '80s musical that starred Second City TV alumnus Rick Moranis as Seymour and Steve Martin as the dentist. Or better yet, if you know the black-and-white, '50s campy comedy it's based on, which featured a young Jack Nicholson as the dentist's masochistic patient.

The starring roles are cast perfectly -- Case as a blustery Mr. Mushnik and Wingert-Nelson as Audrey (whose dream is to cook like Betty Crocker and look like Donna Reed). Moore is a hoot as the sadistic dentist ("Say ah ... Now, spit!") with his edgy "Kids in the Hall" type delivery, and Vanderkolk, who carries the lead as the hapless Seymour, is puppy-dog-face perfection. Vanderkolk is Seymour, and his character voice works well when he sings lines like these:

"I've given you sunlight. I've given you rain. Looks like you're not happy, unless I open a vein."

The doo-wop trio -- Elizabeth Baldiga, Amy Seaman and Linda Killewald -- are outstanding as the tellers of the tale, and Gordon Bardell is hilarious as the soul-full voice of the plant. The live score is provided by a skillful group of "Little Shop" musicians.

But the real star is undoubtedly the plant, or plants (made by the Players), which resemble a red, green and yellow nightmare after Christmas. There are four models as Audrey burps and grows, the last two of which are worked by Player Nancy Penvose, an experienced puppeteer.

Penyose says the third model is the most fun, demonstrating how she gets to pull the strings and dance around inside. The fourth puppet -- huge. enough to fill half the Depot stage -- is worked from behind.

Director David Nelson said the musical was indeed challenging, and the Players tried some new techniques. "We had fun making it eerie -- a lot of color changes and special effects lighting."

At a good musical comedy, I'm a laugher and had to smother my audible mirth more than once opening night. Combined with the near-perfect weather, the sunny score -- especially the prologue "Little Shop of Horrors," "Feed Me" and "Suddenly Seymour" -- kept me whistling a happy tune throughout the weekend.

I did, however, keep an appreciable distance when I watered my houseplants Monday morning.

"Little Shop" continues its run May 6, 7, 8, 13, 14, 15, 20, 21 and 22 at the Depot Theatre, 4861White Lake Road in Clarkston. Call (248) 625-8811 for information and tickets ($15 each). Tickets are also available at Tierra Jewelry.

Getting creative

The students at Oakland Technical Center, Northwest Campus, are celebrating spring with a burst of creativity.

Landscape design and horticulture students will present their Annual Plant Sale, Wednesday, May 12 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Great selections of perennials and annuals, plus new and unusual varieties will be available.

Instructor Donna Papatheodoroupolous says students have grown herbs, "like crazy," plus heliotrope, true Provence lavender that is "just gorgeous," and blooming and clinging vines, Calla lillies and nicotania.

You'll also find colorful bleeding heart and a large variety of perennial grasses, mixed planters and combination pots.

Scentiments, the student-run store, will also be open (the kids are working through their lunch hours), and beautiful silk and dried flower arrangements, door wreaths and other items will be available for purchase.

All plants and arrangements have been grown or created by the students, and all funds raised support the horticulture program. You may stop in Monday or Tuesday to look at the varieties of plants and flowers, but no sales can take place until Wednesday. Before or after you shop, treat yourself to lunch at the Northwest Inn, run by culinary arts students. A full menu is available on Wednesday, May 12, 19 and 26, and a buffet lunch will be available Thursday, May 13, 20 and 27. The dining room is open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Thursday mornings a buffet brunch is available from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m., also through May 27. The cost for brunch is $5.25 and the buffet lunch is $7.50.

But OTC-NW isn't done yet. The students in the Advertising Design class are hosting an art show from 7 to 9 p.m. Illustrations, packaging and poster designs will be on display in the classroom.

OTC-NW is located on Big Lake Road just off Dixie Highway. For more information, call OTC-NW, 625-5202.

Culinary Arts student Erik Vestal of Holly will gladly take your order for lunch at the Northwest Inn.

fection causing fungi exist naturally but only become problematic due to prolonged exposure to warm, moist conditions. Such infections typically start as white or yellow spots under the nail tip. As the fungus spreads, the nail may turn thick, crumbly, and ragged, then begin to separate from the nail bed. The nail may also turn green, yellow, gray black, or brown, and the skin surrounding the nail may become itchy, red, and swollen. Athletic programs expanded at Clarkston schools freshman boys and girls soccer, and lightweight football."

The group also considered how to reduce cheerleading and pom pon expenses.

Fife and the board took time examining each possibility, and seemed to agree that adding all of them would work within the athletic framework of the school district.

Hockey

The Clarkston hockey team was officially added as a varsity sport by the school board in the summer of 1996. But for the past three seasons, the team has been fully funded by parents. This includes ice time, equipment and transportation. Hockey is known to be one of the most expensive sports, to run, and according to Fife, costs $1,035 per player. Middle school track has a cost of $67 per player.

Hockey cost $22,752, and that was for only eight home dates," Fife said. "We can schedule as many as 12. Next year, we will have 12, and that will push the cost to $26,000 to $30,000. It's a large expense for 22 kids."

Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said the board should pick up hockey because the parents have fulfilled their committment of paying for all costs through three seasons, and the players' conduct, especially in the 1998-99 season, warrant the board begin paying for the sport.

調査に対応

The hockey parents have kept their committment, and it is in line to be accepted," he said. "We had one rough year, but with the new coach we have here, the kids have lived up to expectations in some adverse conditions. We are very proud of that. So the concern is nolonger behavior, it is a dollars concern. We made a committment, and the board will honor it."

The board indicated that it would fund all game expenses for hockey, which includes game ice time, transportation, and the exterior uniform, which includes the helmet, home and away jerseys, pants and socks only. Practice ice time and jerseys would still be paid for my the parents.

Freshman soccer

Fife said adding boys and girls freshman soccer was almost a necessity. He said 40-50 players each tried out for the JV teams able to only keep up to 20. He said adding a freshman program would not only strengthen the high school varsity programs, but would allow more student athletic participation in the fastest growing sport here and around the country.

"Varsity coaches have a difficult time competing with only a JV program," Fife said. "We are in (the OAA) Division II, and we should be in Division I. We need a program that starts low and builds up, and that includes middle school teams.

"The start up costs are relatively small, and we don't have the facilities we need," he continued. "But we will

The start up costs for the teams would be around $7,500 each, Fife said.

Cheerleading and pom pon

Several board members were concerned about expenses of these two programs, which includes new uniforms and outfits more often than other sports, and camp costs, while stated as optional, may be seen as mandatory.

According to Fife, pom pon expenses total $740 per participant. This includes two camps, a warm-up outfit, a jazz outfit, and different regular uniforms.

"As I understand it, the cheerleaders and pom pon girls get together with a catalogue and pick their own outfits out," said board vice president Karen Foyteck. "If that is true, we do not allow any other sports team to do that. We pass down uniforms in skiing and football, and those take a lot of wear and tear, and there's no reason they can't do the same. These uniforms have been purchased and not reused."

"We don't want them to be kids in a candy store," Fife said. "We can get control of uniform costs."

Trustee Mary Ellen McLean said she was concerned about how the two sports were counted from a gender equity standpoint.

"These ladies are tremendous athletes, but are they a legitimate sport?" she said. "Or are they a dance team, or exhibition team or a club?"

"The pom pon team should probably be more like a dance team or a club," Fife said. "But they sign the athletic contract and abide by the athletic rules."

Roberts said he would like to see policies consistent for all sports, cheerleading and pom pon included.

"There's no question these girls are athletic, but I want to puch consistency,' he said. "We have the right to define what a uniform is, and set some parameters that way."

Lightweight football

Fife said the driving force behind adding this middle-school level sport is to get more kids participating. He said there were a total of 100 football players at the two middle schools last fall.

"We want to get more kids participating," Fife said. "The middle schools petitoned the state to add a fifth quarter in the Clarkston-Sashabaw game last year so more kids could play."

"MYASTONISHING TRUE STORY..." "How I Lost 64 Lbs. and Gained My Self-Confidence!"

My name is Tania Olsson. I am a single mother. My son, Chaz, is eight years old. I am a customer service representative. I dropped 64 lbs, of fat in 11 short months. My story is so remarkable. I would like to share it with you.

By Tania Olsson

My cheeks burned with embarrassment as I stared at the television screen. We were watching a recent family video. "I'm huge!" I gasped.

I had always been tall and trim in high school. I was on the swim team and volleyball team. I was shocked and appalled to realize how fat I had become.

My folks never allowed junk food in the house. When I got old enough to make my own food choices, I went hog wild. Chips, ice cream and soda pop were my routine. When I was pregnant I started eating for two. After Chaz was born I cooked for two and ate for four!

I used food as comfort. I told myself it was just baby fat. It would go away. But it didn't go away. I was getting fatter every week.

With fat came anxiety and depression. My self-esteem was nil. I could see folks turning sideways to squeeze past me. I'd cringe inside.

My weight made me crazy. I refused to eat in public. I knew what people were thinking...Look at what you're eating...no wonder you're so fat. Go ahead, honey, have another cheeseburger.

I used to be so hard on fat people. Now I was fat, hurt and desperate.

Dieting Nightmares I was always trying the next fad diet.

I tried grueling exercise routines. It my appetite diminished. I feel comwould never stick. When I didn't feel the results, I'd get discouraged. The cravings were unbearable.

I lost 30 pounds twice with weight loss drugs. My weight shot back up so fast it made my head spin. The drugs set me on an emotional rollercoaster. I couldn't bear the thought of a third go a third go around. Nothing I do works, I told myself as I sat on the couch with a gallon of ice cream. What's the use of trying?

Ray of Sunshine ______ One day a close friend encouraged me to try hypnosis. I was skeptical. "I've heard they get great results," she said. I could only hope. The free screening was like a ray of sunshine. My consultant was caring and concerned. The office is professional and comfortable. Their level of confidentiality was impressive. I held my breath for the sales pitch. It didn't happened. They explained the program in detail. Left it for me to decide. The fee was much lower than I expected.

"You

I did!"

After Hypnosis

I signed up and lost 64 lbs. in 11 short months. I lost ten inches off my waist. My dress size plunged from a bulging 22 to sleek size 12.

OUR EXCLUSIVE DOUBLE GUARANTEE

Whole New Me! Immediately after my first session pletely satisfied with small, healthy portions. Next my food choices changed. When I was fat I would not touch raw vegetables. With hypnosis I have developed this strange attraction to carrots! They're as appealing as potato chips used to be. I know I will never, ever gain the weight back. Now that I'm thin and happy with my body, I can't think of a single reason to overeat.

Hypnosis Delivers Benefits!

I used to feel sluggish by 9:00 a.m. I was so depressed. Even my hair drooped.

Since hypnosis I look and feel young, alive and vibrant. My skin is glowing. My hair is thick and shiny. I have tons of energy. I'm light on my feet.

My family and friends all want to know how I did it. They want to be like me. The other day a coworker said, "I wish I could have even half your energy." That was the best compliment of all.

When I was fat I smoked skinny cigarettes to make me feel thin. Quitting smoking was a side benefit I had not expected. I breathe better. Move better. Enjoy more activities.

I hated walking in and out of plus size stores. I would rush my shopping bags to the car. Everybody knows you're fat, but come on, that's the big girl's store. Shopping for a size 12 is the most wonderful feeling in the world. I no longer worry about eating in public. When eyes are on me. I know they're thinking, "Hey, she's got it together."

Chaz is tickled to see my biceps. We recently went rock climbing. We enjoy rollerblading. There's no way I could have done that before.

Recommends

I suffered when I was overweight. I lived in a state of overwhelming helplessness. I was out of control. It was frightening.

Hypnosis was the smartest investment of my life. My consultant took the time to listen to my fears. I never felt pressured. My success was their main concern.

I got more than I expected from my private hypnosis sessions. I feel wonderful about myself. If it wasn't for hypnosis I wouldn't be enjoying my slim, healthy body today.

Don't think I'm a lone success story either. I meet other successful clients all the time.

My only regret is that I waited and suffered for months. You don't have to suffer another second. Call 628-3242 right now to schedule your free hypnotic screening. 4 set new Mile Relay mark at Ashley Relays

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer You know it's a tough track meet when a group of runners breaks a nearly three-decade old school record, and the run isn't even good enough for first.

Such was the level of competition at Saturday's Ashley Relays at Waterford Mott High School, Clarkston finished fifth overall at the meet with 37.5 points: The top four teams were Walled Lake Western: Pontiac Northern, Walled Lake Central and Waterford Mott.

The highlight of the day for the Wolves came when Mark Carlson, Brett Quantz, Kevin Breen and Klint Powell all teamed up to break the school record in the mile relay. The four finished with a time of 3:26.2, but the performance was only good for fourth place. The previous record had stood since 1970.

"It was a difficult meet, but those guys did extremely well," coach Walt Wyniemko said. "They have been talk-ing about breaking that record, and if they were going to do it, they needed to do it in a meet like this, with a lot of big teams there."

Powell had one of his finest days wearing the blue and gold. He threw a personal best in the discus with a toss of 142 feet, seven inches, good for third place. He also teamed up with Breen, Quantz and David Sage to take second in the distance medly relay.

"Dave Chavers even threw 47-8 in the shot put and didn't place," Wyniemko said with surprise in his voice. "Normally, that's a throw good enough to place."

Sage finished third overall in the two mile run with a time of 9:34.8. The 4x1600 relay team of Dan Burke, Jeff Ginn, Chris Weber and Matt Haver finished fourth with a time of 19:16.9.

In addition, the shuttle hurdle relay team of Paul Kinetti, Matt Evans, Nick Holland and Cody Senkyr, who were second.

After Tuesday's meet against Rochester Adams, the boys travel to Oxford Saturday where they will compete in the Oxford Invitational.

BY BRAD MUNASLIER Clarkston News Staff Writer This was the Clarkston girls track team coach Gordie Richardson was used to seeing. After having its 15-year dualmeet winning streak snapped a week earlier, the Wolves came roaring back with a vengance, whipping Troy 85-44 in an OAA I meet April 27.

"I was pleased with many of the performances," Richardson said. "We got some good runs out of our hurdlers, and a decent performance out of our throwers, but Troy was just better in that event." Clarkston utilized its depth by taking 10 first places, six second places, and five third places. Sophomore Junior Brittani Brewer took second in both hurdle events, and won the high jump with a leap of four feet, 10 inches. She was also the number two runner on the winning 4x400 relay team, running with Courtney Bates, Nicole Fischer and Rachel Uchman.

'Most performances were better than we have done this year. but still not where they should be," Richardson said. "It was good for the kids to get back on the winning side in that meet."

Tuesday, Clarkston will host a three-way meet with OAA I powers Southfield and Pontiac Northern starting at 4 p.m.

Female Athlete of the Week: Lissa Lukens

Salut, Lissa: Persevering and overcoming long odds to have success are characteristic qualities of many track and cross country runners, and few exemplify that like senior Lissa Lukens. Thanks to an almost-stubborn will to run well and help her teams, Lissa has bounced back from numerous leg injuries. to be a key contributor to the girls track and cross country teams in her four-year high school career. She broke her leg as a sophomore in the 1996 Class A state cross country meet. She already had a stress fracture in her leg, but wanted to run and help the team anyway. After more than a year of rehab and recovery time, she has returned with a bang on this year's track team. In the team's dual-meet win over Troy April 27, Lissa took first overall in the 1,600 run with a time of 5:38.42, second in the 800 with a 2:36, and was part of the winning 4x800 relay team. As good as she is on the track, she is even better in the classroom, sporting a hefty 3.905 grade point average, and will attend the University of Michigan next year.

Coach Gordie Richardson on Lissa: "Lissa is like (1996 CHS graduate) Stefanie Burklow in that she has come a long way to overcome injuries. She is tremendously coachable and she gets as much out of her ability as she can. She sets goals for herself that are realistic, but challenging. She is very motivated, very dedicated and very personable."

Lissa on Lissa: "The injuries I've had have helped me to stay positive and keep up the hard work on trying to get healthy again. It has shown that I can set goals and achieve them. I know what to be alert for, and I can better avoid injuries in the future. We have a young team this year, so yes, there is a little more pressure on the seniors to lead. The younger girls look up to us a lot, and we have to set a good example for them."

Male Ahlete if the Week: Klint Powell

Salut, Klint: On every team, there will be an athlete you just want to pull for and see have success. Senior Klint Powell has been one of those Clarkston athletes for four seasons. A four-year veteran of football and track, and a one-year starter in wrestling, Klint has excelled in all. He was a defensive starter for the varsity football team for two seasons, and spent this winter season as the starting 189pound wrestler for Clarkston's highly respected wrestling team. His pinfall win against Waterford Kettering clinched the Wolves's district title in February. He is also a top all-around performer for the track team. His goal is to break the school record in the 400 run, and has been one of the county's top discus throwers the past three years. He is also a key part of Clarkston's 4x200 relay team, making him a top point producer in many areas for the Wolves. He said he hopes to continue his track career in college, possibly at Western Michigan or Michigan State.

Coach Walt Wyniemko on Klint: "He is an example of what being a track athlete is all about. He throws the discus, runs the 400, and is in some relays for us. Each event he does takes practice time from another, but he finds a way to keep doing well: I like his leadership. He talks to the guys a lot, but he also leads by example. He's not a rah-rah type, but he lets the guys know where he stands." Klint on Klint: "The discus has always been my favorite event, mainly because I always seemed to be good at it. Being in different events makes it. harder to do well in each one, but I like doing everything. I am a little surprised at how well the team is doing, but I knew we were going to be good coming into the season."

needed through all different events. Clarkston won three of the four relays, swept the 800 run and took two places in the 1,600 run, the 400 dash, the 300 hurdles and the 3,200 run.

Clarkston's dominance in the running events was needed, after Troy dominated the throwing events.

"It was 16-2 Troy after the field events," Wyniemko said. "But the nice thing is that the rest of our guys came through. When the opposition is having a good day in certain evets, you need others to step up and pick up the slack. Our hurdlers did an excellent job on the day."

Cody Senkyr won the 300 hurdles with a time of 42.53, while Nick Holland picked up a key third place with a time of 43.21. Powell won the 400 with a run of 51.38, and Sage was a double winner, 10:18.7 in the 3,200, and 4:29.3 in the 1,600.

Holland also finished second in the 100 high hurdles with a time of 13.92. Matt Haver was second in the 1,600 with a time of 4:22.92, and second in the 3,200 with a time of 10:26.3.

Middle School track results

The Sashabaw Middle School track teams are off to fast starts this season after some convincing wins.

The boys team whipped Pontiac Washington 96-32, and Lake Orion Scripps 83-45 in recent action. Clarkston winners included: Mark Sitko in the 3,200, Steve Chenet in the 800, Nate Davis in the 70 dash and the 100 dash, Jeff Morearty in the 400, Derek Ranck in the 200 low hurdles, Brian Oltman in the 200 dash, and Derek George in the shot put. Jacob Smith was a first-place runner in the 1,600 against Washington, while Mike Claus, Brandon Parks and Brian Curry were also first-place finishers for the Cougars.

The Sashabaw girls team had similar success, beating Scripps 94-34, and Washington 96-31.

Emily Cushing took first places in the 55 hurdles and long jump, Christine Terry won the 800 and 3,200 runs against Scripps, Kristi Hertzler won the 100 in both meets and the long jump against Scripps, and Jody Piechura won the 1,600 run against Washington.

Clarkston Middle School left Lake Orion Pierce in shambles after its boys and girls teams won convincing opening meets. The boys team had 10 events with at least two competitors in the top three en route to a 97-31 win. The girls meet was even more onesided, as the girls ran away with a 118-14 win.

First placers for the boys included: Jared Elmore in the 3,200 and 1,600, Dan Howard in the 55 hurdles and 200 hurdles, Andrew Breen in the 800, Jack Kinsey in the 100 dash, and Paul Mesi in the 200 dash, long jump and high jump.

The girls team took first and second place in eight different events. Frist-place finishers were: Colleen Mead in the 3,200, Christyn Reuter in the 800 run and 400 run, Jenny McLeod in the 55 hurdles, Kelly Dougherty in the 1,600, Jenna Clavette in the 100 dash, Kim Wilson in the 200 hurdles and high jump, Maria Vermeulen in the 70 dash, Sarah Mehaffey in the 200, Andrea Forst in the shot put, and Anna Trim and Casey Bolten tied for first in the long jump.

Wolves avoid E's, get all A's vs. Falcons

 $\sim 10^{-1}$

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

In coach Phil Price's math classes, he uses mostly numbers to complete equations. But his varsity baseball team used letters on Friday; K plus D equals W.

The Clarkston varsity baseball team played a splendid all-around game in defeating defending league champs Rochester 6-0 at the CHS field. It marked the first time the Wolves beat the Falcons in six years.

The K's in this equation were provided by junior pitcher Chris Mitchell, who was masterful in picking up the complete game victory. He struck out 13 batters in the shut-out performance. He allowed only five hits and walked just one in the game.

"I was keeping the ball down today, and that was a big factor," he said. "We didn't commit any errors, and that will help our confidence go up so much." Mitchell improved his record to 3-1 on the season.

Price said Mitchell pitched a "huge" game, and recovered nicely from a rough outing six days earlier against Midland.

"He was the difference today," Price said. "We had a lot of guys contribute and get timely hits for us."

The second part of the equation was the D - for defense. In its 11-1 loss to Troy Wednesday, the Wolves committed an unbelievable 10 errors. That trend was stopped in its tracks with a key play in the first inning.

Rochester led off the game with a triple, putting a runner on third base with no outs. After a popfly to catcher Derek Casper, senior shortstop Mike Simko made the biggest defensive play of the game. He snagged a line drive, then tossed the ball to third to double off the Rochester runner, ending the inning with no score.

"That first double play was big," Mitchell said.

"If Mike makes an error on that play, the floodgates might open," Price said. "But today, he makes that catch and makes a heads-up throw. It made a big difference for us."

The Wolves didn't stand pat long after the double play. Casper smacked an RBI-single in the second inning to give Clarkston a 1-0 lead, and as it turned out, all the run support Mitchell needed.

Francis Hodges scored the Wolves' second run in the fourth when he was brought home on a sacrifice by junior Brett Crawford. Hodges had his best offensive game of the season with three hits for Clarkston.

The Wolves finished Rochester off with a fourrun fifth inning that was sparked by a leadoff triple by senior John Drallos. Josh Riggs, pinch-running for Drallos, scored on an infield single by Mitchell. Rocky Lund, who faces knee surgery this week, walked and later scored on an overthrow on a play where Hodges slammed his third hit of the day. Crawford finished off the explosion with a single that brought Hodges home.

Price said revenge was sweet in this game, after having endured several big losses to ultra-talented Rochester teams over the past few years. The Falcons were the Class A state champions in 1997, and were ranked in the top three in the nation for much of last season.

Senior Spencer Hynes lays down a bunt during the second inning of Friday's baseball game. Hynes and the Wolves whipped Rochester, the 1997 state champs, 6-0, the Wolves' first win over the Falcons in six years.

Not only did Chris Mitchell (above) throw a brilliant game, he was the beneficiary of some splendid defense. A double play engineered by Mike Simko ended a Rochester firstinning rally when it had a runner on third with nobody out.

"Last year, Andrew Good struck out 15 of our guys, and we felt so helpless up there," Price said. "It's been six years since we've beaten those guys, and it was good for the guys to beat them."

Fuller is in her first season on the OCC softball team, and is one of the top starting pitchers.

She went 2-1 with a 1,67 earned run average in three appearances the week ending April 26. She struck out six batters and only allowed two walks in 21 innings pitched. Junior Chris Mitchell pulls up after a Rochester bunt rolls foul. Mitchell struck out 13 batters en route to the Wolves' 6-0 win.

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston softball coach Al Land has preached to his team all season that good pitching and good defense will lead them to success.

The Wolves had both of those working well in Monday's game against Troy, but still came up short in a 2-1 loss to the Colts Monday at the CHS field.

Despite committing only one error in the field, and a very good pitching performance from sophomore Lisa Ferguson, Clarkston's inability to push runners across cost it the game.

"We played well, but are still too inconsistent with our hitting," Land said. "The middle of our lineup is not hitting very well at all right now."

Clarkston left runners in scoring position in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth innings, and had runners on first and third with just one out in the fourth, but were unable to score.

"We have three kids that I thought would be hitting by now that just aren't," Land said. "We are just too inconsistent."

Troy scored its first run on a most frustrating play. Ferguson struck out Troy's number-eight hitter, Amy Nelson in the second inning for the third out. But a passed ball allowed the batter to advance to first, and a run to score. The Colts had runners on first and second, but each moved up a base on a wild pitch.

Clarkston bounced back in the bottom of the second to tie the game. Sophomore Tracey Honey who has been hammering the ball lately - led off with a single and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Sophomore Mary Warchuck legged out an infield single, and senior Corinne McIntyre beat a tag on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Senior Mandie Harrison then did a nice job of hitting, and grounded into a fielder's choice, bringing a run home.

The game stayed 1-1 until the top of the seventh, when the Colts came through with clutch plays. Nelson smacked a double to center field that drove home the winning run. Clarkston went out 1-2-3 in the bottom of the seventh.

Ferguson was the bright spot for the Wolves, as she allowed only five hits, just three out of the infield. She threw with poise, and although Land said she got behind some hitters, stayed calm and threw strikes.

"Lindsay Simko said Lisa is starting to show leadership on the mound," Land said. "And you get that feeling in the field. A good pitcher makes good defense, and we saw that today."

The Wolves host Rochester Wednesday in a doubleheader and travel to Lapeer East Friday for a twin bill, Clarkston also participates in Saturday's Fred Pieper.Memorial Tournament in Royal Oak. The first game is at 10:45 a.m.

What it takes to throw the perfect octopus

Since the beginning of time - at least the 1950s, man in Detroit has pondered many sports questions:

Will the Lions make the Super Bowl in my lifetime? How many runs did the Tigers give up last night? Dick Vitale - Pistons. coach?

But one question has risen above them all. How do I make the perfect octopus to throw at a Red Wings playoff game?

Octopus? At a hockey game you ask? Never fear, this is a long and respected tradition, as old as the game itself, or as old as Larry Murphy.

The tradition began back in the 1950s, before there were teams in the NHL that hadn't had snow since the ice age. Back then, there were only six teams and two playoff rounds, best-of-seven each. That means it took eight wins in the playoffs to win the coveted Stanley Cup.

Thus one fan, we will call him Louie the butcher, came up with the idea of tossing an eighttentacled octopus onto the ice when the Red Wings scored a goal, symbolizing the eight wins they needed to win it all.

But alas, this tradition has fallen on hard times recently. The deep symbolism of the octopus has been replaced by hats - for a three-goal hat trick - and amazingly enough, rats.

Yes, the fine tradition of the octopus was done in by a rat.

Back in 1996, the Florida Panthers used up their lifetime supply of smoke and mirrors to qualify for the Stanley Cup Finals, against the Colorado Avalanche. The Panthers' top forward that year was Scott Mellanby, who found fame and death by killing a rat in the locker room with his stick before a game. That bludgeoning got him fame across the league, as well as a number-one ranking on Mighty Mouse's Public Enemy list. When news of this act spread, Florida hockey fans (oxymoron alert!) decided to pelt the ice with plastic rats every time the Panthers scored a goal in the 1996 playoffs. There were even reports of live rats being thrown on the ice, but last I heard, that story is being saved for a future X-Files episode.

After the continuous rat rain, the NHL decided to ban the throwing of all living or dead objects onto the ice surface after the home team scores a goal. Violating this rule gets the home team a two-minute penalty, and a letter of reprimand from PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals).

This is a proud tradition we as Detroiters need to bring back. The octopus is really quite a brilliant idea. It's symbolic, it has tradition, and it means something. I can just envision the birth of this idea now. Let's go into the back room of Louie the butcher's shop.

"Should we throw a chicken out on the ice? Meaning the other team is too chicken to keep us from scoring? Or how about a turkey leg, meaning the other team's goalie is a turkey for letting in a goal? No ... must be something better ... yes! An octopus,", the day

Now never mind the fact that octopus and Detroit go together about as naturally as Michael Jordan and hair gel, this monumental decision has led to sweeping changes in behavior in Detroit fans. Now, a huge purple octopus, that can be mistaken for a grossly mutated Barney, gets lowered to the Joe Louis Arena ice before each playoff game. The Red Wings' Zamboni driver has even achieved some fame, becoming everyone's favorite mollusk-waving driver.

So now that you have the basics, you must decide how to pick the proper octopus for your grand throw at a game. There are three qualities to look for.

First is weight. You don't want to pick an octopus that is too heavy, or else it will land in the lap of a third-row attorney chatting away on his cellphone. You want to pick one large enough to be seen, yet light enough to get a good trajectory on your toss.

Second is composition. Too many octopi look like oversized eggplants. You want Jeff and Trevor in section 227 row 25 to be able to tell that you did in fact, throw an octopus. Make sure it has the characteristic light-bulb shaped head.

And last, but not least, is tentacle size. This is a quality overlooked in most tossed octopi. Too many of them look like they have tentacles which better resemble limbs on a cactus plant. Make sure those tentacles are long and gangly so they fold up over each other when it lands, giving it that attention-grabbing quality

With those three ingredients, not to mention a big coat and a nice throwing arm, you can write your way into Detroit hockey lore too.

Congratulations to the Clarkston boys tennis team for its win at Saturday's Clarkston Invitational.

Coach Kevin Ortwine doesn't get enough credit for building the fine program he has. He's had to deal with steady losses to graduation each of the past three years, and has found players who can fill those holes. The participation among athletes in the tennis program has grown each year he has been the coach.

He is always enjoyable to talk to and very positive about his players. Especially one of my coolest regular readers, Pat Heber, who is the number-one singles player. Keep up the good work, guys.

2 B.H. Lahser Clarkston

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

On the surface, a loss to the number-two ranked girls soccer team in the state in Division II might not seem too appealing for Clarkston, but the reality was much different.

The Wolves played perhaps their best game of the season in battling the Bloomfield Hills Lahser Knights to a 2-1 loss Thursday night at the CHS stadium. The loss drops the Wolves to 2-6-1 overall and 1-3-1 in the OAA Division II.

Coach Tami Mitchell was very complimentary of her team after the game, saying they played with effort and determination.

"I'm not going to complain about this one," Mitchell said. "I hope they don't hang their heads, because that was a great second half they played."

This season, Clarkston has traditionally gotten off to slow starts, but the emotion and intensity in the players' eyes was there from the start. Lahser ended the first half with a 1-0 lead thanks to a goal midway through the half, but the Wolves were solid defensively in marking their players.

Clarkston started stronger in the second half, and tied the game 10 minutes in on an unusual goal by senior captain Kara Bergkoetter. She lined up a free kick from 40 yards out, and the Lahser goalkeeper ended up making the save behind the goal line, which counts as a goal.

The Wolves turned up the heat over the next three minutes, bouncing two shots off the post and sending another sailing just over the net. But Lahser provided the ultimate rally-stopper with a goal at the 25:39 mark, finishing off a goal-mouth scramble.

Wow, did they need that.

After struggling through the first five games on the league schedule with a single win, the Wolves put together a pair of fine performances in sweeping 10thranked Lake Orion 3-2 and 4-3 Friday at the Lake Orion fields.

Lisa Ferguson kept up her fine season in the first game by tossing a complete-game victory, her team-high fifth of the season. Fellow pitcher Candace Morgan helped her out with a two-run single that made the difference in the first game.

In game two, senior Corinne McIntyre broke a 3-3 tie with a single in the top of the sixth, her first game-winning RBI of the season. Morgan went the distance on the mound in the second game for the Wolves.

Rochester Adams 2 Clarkston 1

The wind was blowing in at the CHS field Wednesday, but it could not pick up the Clarkston offense.

The Wolves lost to Rochester Adams 2-1 in a tight, defensive struggle. Land said the team was flat throughout the game, and that was the reason for the loss.

"We had no energy out there today," he said. "Their pitcher was throwing high pitches, and we kept swinging at them, and we didn't make them make any mistakes."

Adams scored its only two runs in the top of the third when two hits bounced out of Clarkston gloves in the field.

Clarkston threatened several times, but didn't score until the fifth, when senior Corinne McIntyre led off with a single and later scored off an infield bunt by Melanie Arnold.

The Wolves left four runners in scoring position in the game, a trait that has become too common for Land's tastes.

"When we had scoring opportunities, the girls couldn't bring them around," Land said.

With a little more than four minutes remaining, Clarkston missed a penalty shot that could have tied the game. Lahser was called for a handball violation in the goal box, but the Wolves could not capitalize. "We were hustling a lot more and making things happen instead of reacting to them," Mitchell said. "Katie Kennedy played well on defense and made some great decisions, and Sarah Morgan had a great game in goal."

You can decorate like a professional Do-It-Yourself Center helps the 'talent-impaired' fear, Do-It-Yourself Center-Northwest is here!

Owners Tammy Domke and Char Blair can teach you some simple tricks for breathing new life into old furniture; building elegant new furniture; and decorating your home with easy-to-make slipcovers, pillows, window treatments and similar accents.

Equally important, they can teach you how to save money -- in some cases, LOTS of money -- while creating a beautiful, comfortable, personal ambiance throughout your home, with a professional flair.

Domke and Blair provide instruction in faux finishes (ragging, sponging, marbleizing, color washing), custom cornice boards, swags and jabots, window treatments, slipcovers, upholstery and glass painting.

They also can teach you how to make a settee, ottoman, armoire, custom headboard, fake fireplace (which can be converted for use with gas logs), armless chair and chaise lounge. Upcoming new classes will offer direction on making sleigh beds and hobby chests.

"A lot of what we teach is no-saw, no-sew," said

Do you consider yourself "talent-impaired?" Never Domke. "We teach a lot of 'workroom' tricks for the talentimpaired. The way we teach, anyone can do it. The costsavings are immense, but you end up with a product that mimics the items you find in finer stores and exclusive boutiques."

In addition to providing instruction on techniques. Domke and Blair also guide people on how to purchase supplies, where to go to get quality merchandise for affordable prices, and how to decide what it is you will like.

We provide a full education," said Domke. "We teach every step, from which tools to purchase and where to purchase them, to how not to 'overdo' everything."

"We also provide 'aftercare,' so if someone gets into the middle of a project and they're stuck, they can call us and we'll talk them through it."

Do-It-Yourself Center-Northwest is such a multifaceted business, it's difficult to describe all that it offers.

To get a full appreciation for what Domke and Blair offer, attend one of their open houses. The next is from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 15.

It was a fun night for the Wolves, who have seen too many other teams have fun at their expense this season.

Clarkston had its biggest offensive output of the season April 27 against the Waterford Kettering Captains, winning 4-0 at the CHS field.

Mercedes Combs, Katy Piechura and Jenny Kerney all scored their first goals of the season, while Alaina Dodds scored her second of the season for the Wolves.
