Living on in the hearts of others

Members of the Clarkston High School community sent good wishes to Columbine High School last Friday in the form of cards, letters, a banner and 1,000 paper cranes made by students in algebra and Japanese language classes. Making the cranes was the idea of Japanese language teacher Barbara Rice, based on a story about a memorial made for children who died in Japan because of the atom bomb. The memorial reads, "This is our cry, this is our prayer, peace in the world." Pictured with the banner and cranes are, from left: Principal Brent Cooley, students Nicole Mohlman, Dave Hudson, Lisa Champagne, Margaret Stingley, Jenifer Way, Crystal Hall, Beck Cabra, Adam Bellefueil, who designed and made the banner, Jason Abbott holding the cranes and counselor Judy Medlin. Medlin said, many students were deeply moved by the tragedy and needed to do something positive to show their sympathy.

Road block lifted on Walters' paving project

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Finally -- it's the end of the road for paving problems on Walters.

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart announced last week, Road Commission for Oakland County has agreed to pay any contingency costs over the $253,000 bid recently approved by the school board.

The township will continue to pay for the safety path on the west side of Walters Road, Stuart said.

Earlier, the school board was told road construction costs could reach $300,000 -- as estimated by township engineers Hubbell Roth & Clark -- and said Clarkston schools could not afford that amount.

Stuart then sent a memo to board members, recommending all bids be rejected for the project. Walters, currently a gravel road and a bus route, is designed to be paved from Waldon Road to the new high school on Flemings Lake Road.

Stuart said he conveyed the matter to the RCOC, which had already agreed to oversee the road construction cost-free. "I called the road commission because they have an important stake in all this," Stuart said. "I asked them for ideas on how to resolve this."

He called the RCOC's offer "very generous. I think they need to be highly praised when you look at all they have to do in Oakland County," he said: "I just can't say how pleased I am at their responsiveness. It would be very easy for them to say, 'It's not our problem We have bigger fish to fry."

RCOC managing director Brent Bair confirmed the schools have agreed to pay the $253,000, and the road commission "will pick up any additional. However, please remember we we'll be out there; we will have control over the project."

That means the RCOC expects to complete the project on the mark or even under the bid amount, he explained.

No target date has been set for road construction, but the RCOC has scheduled an open house for next Wednesday, June 9, at the township annex; 90 N. Main Street in Clarkston. The 3:30-6:30 p.m. gathering will include road plans and the opportunity for the public to have their questions answered.

Bair stressed the RCOC has budgets too. "We don't print money," he said with a chuckle. "We're going to have to cut something else to pay for this:"

But, he added, the road commission stepped in because Stuart conveyed the importance of the project -- and its impact on other roads like Snowapple.

Reading, writing and ... yo-yos?

Hands-on science experiments and role playing in reading circles involve students in learning process

Editor's note: This is the second in our Day in the Life series on people in Clarkston.

BY MARALEE COOK Clarkston News Editor

Science can be fun.

It's a lesson Nancy Battishill's fifth graders at Pine Knob Elementary School have learned this year.

Earlier in the spring, when Battishill asked her students to design their own science experiment, they asked her to use yo-yos.

It was the fourth unit in the schools hands-on science curriculum. During the year students learned about models and designs by making rubber band powered go-karts, and about mixtures and solutions by creating their own recipes for Kool Aid ("kid-tested, mother approved," said Battishill).

The yo-yo experiment helped the students understand principles of science and math.

Battishill explained potential energy as the yo-yo all wound up, and kinetic energy as the yo-yo in motion.

The students each threw 10 "sleepers," counting the number of seconds the yo-yo spun on each throw and dividing to get the average. The focus was to understand the purpose of averaging in the collection of data in science, as well as for other uses in daily life.

The kids worked in teams to time and average their throws of the yo-yos, which focuses on teamwork

"It's a neat thing for them to play with. It's more physical, better than a Gameboy. They can play it outdoors or indoors, and it uses more skill," Battishill said.

The science curriculum focuses on a more handson approach, she said. "The kids are more excited and understand more with hands-on experiments."

The fifth grade classes are structured to prepare students for sixth grade. Battishill teaches science and language arts. After lunch and recess her students will move on to math and social studies in other classrooms. Battishill will teach science to two other groups of students, and her class will return for 50 minutes at the end of the day.

Batishill's students usually begin their day with writing assignments. On the day I visited a spelling assignment was waiting on the chalkboard when the kids entered the room.

"What would you do if you were stuck in the mountains with another person? How would you survive? Answer in one or two paragraphs."

Joe Rademacher's response was noted by Battishill because of its reference to a story the kids read earlier about survival:

"I would try as hard as I could to survive and try to get out as fast as possible. I would gather up food like coconuts and find water, and get in some kind of shelter. I would have to use the resources around me to make a shelter (for) us!"

For another writing project, students created short "thought shots" or "snap shots" of the image of a man releasing a large bird into flight while it was still attached to him. The image was projected on a class-room wall using an overhead projector.

A thought shot is going inside a character's mind to see what he's thinking, Battishill said, while a snap shot gives concrete details of a character or setting as if the writer is taking a picture with words.

"If you were an author of a book, what would you write for this?" Battishill asked her students. "Zoom in on the action. A person is letting go of a bird. What's going on in his mind or in the mind of the bird? Talk for a moment with the people at your table about what you

Some wrote from the point of view of the man, and others from the point of view of the bird.

Eric Perysian, left, times Steven Sprague as he sees how long his yo-yo will spin. Students got together to choose their yo-yo science project. The experiment taught the kids both math and science. The following day they were rewarded with a yo-yo skills competition.

Nolan Cesario creates a stamp on his computer for Kid Pix.

Tiffany Lawson's script included thoughts from both:

Human: "That's it! Oh no, don't go into the water, flap your wings."

Bird: "I'm free! I'm free! I'm happy that the human let me go, or I could of been dinner!"

"Oh, look, water. Yeah. Oh man, I thought I was free."

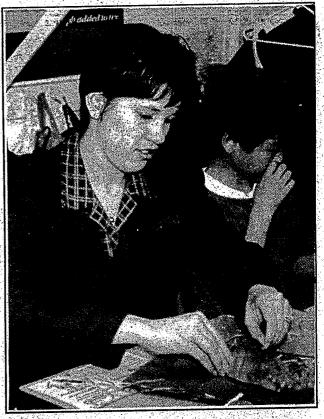

The students continued writing during their trip to the computer lab. Some created books as presents for their parents, and others took accelerated reading tests focusing on comprehension of books they had been reading.

After working on his computer, Steve Sprague said he'd read all 17 of author Mary Pope Osborne's adventure stories, reading two chapters each night.

Nancy has her students read and write every day.

Kayla Neynaber, the student of the week, demonstrates how to make Gloworm Beadie Bunnies to the class. Kayla said she likes to draw, paint and color.

Teacher Nancy Battishill becomes a student temporarily, creating a Gloworm Beadle Bunny with Michael Cerniglia. Battishill has been teaching at Pine Knob for five years. She received her bachelor of science degree at the University of Dayton. She is now working toward a masters in educational technology. She is also a graduate of Clarkston schools.

They create personal narratives, poetry, and mysteries. When reading, she presses them to notice writing tricks to experiment with and embellish their own writing. She also ties writing back to reading.

"Some of the best writing I get from the kids comes from their own experiences. I've provided opportunities for them to write fantasies, for example,

Cancer center, kidney dialysis facility come to Clarkston

BY RENEE LUTZ

Health care in Clarkston has reached new heights.

Health services ranging from cancer treatment to kidney dialysis and CAT scan equipment are now available at Mid-Oakland Medical Center, 6770 Dixie Hwy, north.

Dr. Charles Munk, orthodonist, is co-owner of the multimillion dollar facility. Munk, who has been practicing for the last 25 years, said it has been a goal of his since moving to the Clarkston area to offer such services to residents.

Beginning Monday, the Clarkston Cancer Center, housed within Mid-

Oakland Medical, began seeing patients, he said.

Aside from general care, the cancer center incorporates the Michigan Institute for Radiation Oncology and focuses on research, education and prostate screenings for the community, said Cay Bernock, practice administrator for the center. Bernock said support groups such as breast cancer groups are encouraged to meet at the facility as well.

"We want to be very active in the community in that regard, too," she said.

In memory of a longtime Clarkston resident who recently died of prostate cancer, the Judge Robert C. Anderson Memorial Institute for Prostate Cancer also is housed in the cancer center.

In addition, the center features three exam rooms, a nursing station, and two lab rooms — one set up to perform simulations, and the other for radiation treatment.

Through the aid of a computer, the simulation room shows specialists the best means by which to treat the cancer in patients, Bernock said. Then the cancer is treated through use of a linear accelerator, or radiation treatment machine.

The treatment room itself is shielded with cement seven feet thick on all sides, including the ceiling, to prevent scattered radiation.

rology specialist "You have to be exact, seeing patients, every time. (The beam) goes directly to the tumor, to where it's supposed to be going," Munk said.

Bernock said patients visit the center on average five days per week, for six weeks, for treatment.

"It's very important for the community, to know they can get this kind of treatment here," she said. "We have integrated care. . . the least side effects possible for patients."

Residents complain about sub and golf course

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Residents who came to protest the rezoning of a golf course left complaining about another matter at the Independence Township Planning Commission meeting Thursday.

Chair Steve Board told the audience the proposed rezoning of Clarkston Golf Club on Eston Road was off the agenda due to inaccuracies in the application and legal description. However, commissioners addressed a new sub planned for the same area -- on the northeast corner of Indianwood and Dartmouth roads.

The 18-acre site, Indianwood Lakes, is planned for 72 homesites, most of which surround an existing lake left by a former gravel quarry.

Representatives for developer JAC Construction requested an amendment to their final site plan, approved earlier. They asked that building envelopes be modified because of steep slopes and other matters. JAC president Jack Rosenzweig said prospective buyers are also requesting "different views and different lots."

Township engineer Randy Ford agreed "there is quite a bit of topography" involved. But he and township planner Dick Carlisle called for more specific information, and also pointed to the fact that developers have not yet built a required safety path along Dartmouth.

After some discussion among board members, who concurred with Ford and Carlisle, Mesa Court resident Mike Kohut stood up and argued the same developers had not completed his subdivision, Indianwood Estates. The subdivision is on the south side of Indianwood, just down the street.

AND RECYCLING

"I wouldn't give them any approval ... until they're finished with their last project," he said adamantly. "I would hope they finish the last project before they start another one." Carlisle agreed, saying JAC Construction has

'outstanding problems' in finishing Indianwood Estates. "The gentleman is correct," he added. He pointed to landscaping problems, as well as a missing grate pipe fover for the retention pond."I would say it . was not till this week that I found out what was going

However, Rosenzweig is working on those problems, Carlisle said Friday. "What we're going to do is go out to make sure he is completing those items." He recommended approving JAC's request for Indianwood Lakes, contingent on safety path installation, which was supported by commissioners, 6-0 (Jill Palulian was absent).

Supporting Kohut's concerns about landscaping problems in Indianwood Estates were several fellow neighbors, including Eston resident Sheryl Eckles.

After the meeting one resident confirmed, "Some landscaping has not been completed according to (JAC's) punch lists."

As for the golf club, which has been sold and proposed for an upscale subdivision, Kohut said the township should "buy it" and aruged it shouldn't be rezoned from Recreation.

Kohut said the land should be turned into another township park, complete with tennis courts and baseball diamonds.

"Everybody loves it," Kohut said. "I think the township should buy it. There won't be enough parkland five, 10, 25 years from now."

X-ray retrieval may be on hold for patients of former Clarkston office

BY RENEE LUTZ Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a Clarkston x-ray office closed in recent months, former patients have been retrieving their films in several ways. However, those means may not be available any longer.

As of press time Tuesday, Chris DeWitt, director of communications for the state attorney general's office in Lansing, said he is reviewing the process for disbursing x-ray films from North Oakland Radiology of Clarkston, 5825 Ortonville Road, and said he should know by the end of the week how the films can be obtained.

The office closed after filing Chapter 7 bankruptcy. DeWitt said patients may not be able to continue receiving x-rays by contacting an office in Dearborn or faxing requests to another office in Oakland County -- until matters are resolved through the attorney general's of-

"We are working with (U.S. Bankruptcy) Trustee (Michael) Stevenson and the Bankruptcy Court. Nothing has been finalized," DeWitt said. "There are issues which need to be worked out."

County, Independence rescue schools, Walters Road paving project

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart and Brent Bair, Managing Director of Road Commission for Oakland County, deserve pats on the back. They have stepped up to the plate to help Clarkston schools pay for paving Walters Road.

While Clarkston schools had committed to the $253,000 paving costs, they were unable to come up with additional design, engineering and contingency costs.

Last week Stuart brought the problem to Bair's attention, and Bair committed RCOC to paying the tab for additional costs. Stuart said Independence Township will pay for a safety path.

The spirit of cooperation among the three entities is to be commended, and the residents of Walters Road will reap the benefits. MKC

Hooked up on reading at Pine Knob Elem.

Dear Editor,

The students and staff of Pine Knob Elementary wish to extend our sincere gratitude to the many parents and community members who assisted in our '98-'99 reading programs. Over thirty trained volunteers enthusiastically committed to tutoring as many as three students each week throughout the year. More than sixty youngsters benefited from these individualized programs!

The capable and patient one-on-one instruction the children received helped to increase reading skills, fluency, and confidence. Strategies learned in the classroom were reinforced and practiced at each lesson. Our tutors are remarkably dedicated sharing the gifts of time and friendship with each student.

We thank each of you for your indispensible contribution to the success of our young readers!

There must be alternative to expulsion

Clarkston

Dr. Al Roberts

Schools

Public uneasiness and disquiet over the rash of "copycat" bomb threats and other acts of both violence and stupidity has reached a fever pitch. The cry across the nation seems to be "Throw the culprits out!"

Sounds right, doesn't it? After all, most law-abiding citizens expect their schools to be the safest of organizations and, getting rid of the "problem kids" looks like an easy answer. But expulsion isn't punishment enough for letting a community down and creating a dangerous environment for students and staff. Besides, allowing those who exhibit outrageous behavior to roam the streets during school hours is hardly my idea of a good solu-

Unfortunately there are few alternatives at present, and those that do exist are costly. But - think about it the students who engage in behavior serious enough to warrant expulsion are not usually the type that love being at school. Why reward them with time off?

Allow me to dream a little. My suggestions below represent options that may not be popular and, under the present state rules and regulations, they may not even be practical. But it is time to think creatively and boldly. (Please understand that these suggestions pertain only to students who perpetuate acts that warrant expulsion. They are not meant for pupils who may just need an alternative school experience). Here is some "food for thought":

· Rather than expel students, place them in an off-campus facility, and lengthen the school day.

 Make the schedule for such students year-round and keep them in school well beyond 2:30 p.m.

· Require such youngsters to take additional classes in civic responsibility and ethical behavior.

· Require parents to sign them in and pick them up at the end of each day.

· Provide the additional supervision necessary to help these youngsters become productive citizens. If a student refuses to "change," have him/her under direct surveillance.

Withhold driving privileges for any student who is expelled, until he/she has made progress enough to be reinstated.

What stands in the way of implementing these ideas?

Money

 The need for increased supervision would not be cheap! Why is it that we (citizens) are willing to spend about $100,000 dollars a year to jail someone, but feel that $6,000 a student should be enough to provide an education for all students, even those who are troubled, or who require additional assistance? Perhaps one solution would be to develop partnerships with other school districts.

Legalities

- The law only requires students to attend school until the age of 16.
- Some would argue that the suggestions are too restrictive or punitive, and additional dollars would be spent in legal debates with the lawyers representing those who have been expelled.
- Some would point out that schools have no jurisdiction over parents, nor can school officials restrict driving privileges. Under the present laws, they would be correct.

Politics

Making demands such as the ones above will not be universally popular. The impact for those who transgress the rules is unlikely to be seen as productive; and unfortunately, the solution requires the assistance of others (parents, and the motor vehicle folks in particular).

Maybe there are better solutions, and I would like to hear from readers who have them. The bottom line is that we cannot accept failure. Students - including those who make terrible mistakes must get a message from this community: "You will be in school, you will behave, and you will be expected to be a productive member of the Clarkston family. No one in this community will accept less from you!" That's my dream.

The dreaded cow heart and music class caper

I remember that final, long trek from Redford told me to sit back down—which was in front of the glob of wiship to north Oakland County. Dad and Mom cow heart. I think I asted for another two in the front seat of their white, 1970 Buick station minutes before an adult helped me down to Township to north Oakland County. Dad and Mom 🐰 sat in the front seat of their white, 1970 Buick station wagon. For much of the ride I looked up at the sky, through one of the skylight windows on Buick's roof.

Moving to Clarkston half way through third grade made be a little nervous. To make matters worse, Pops Rush sailed that boat of a car up Pine Knob Road to show us kids our new school, Bailey Lake Elementary.

We rolled through the school's driveway and Pops said something to the effect: "Not only do you have to learn your math and how to spell, up here you have to learn to milk cows."

Directly north of the school was a dairy farm. I don't know about my sisters, but I believed Dad. Our evil parents had uprooted the family and planted us in Hicksville, USA, or as Dad called it, "God's Country."

The rest of third grade was rather traumatic. I was the rolly-poley city kid, trying to fit in with the others whose stomachs weren't bothered by well water. Miss (or was that Ms?) Milkem was the lucky teacher who got the new

Needless to say, I wasn't her star student. The Rush parents received frequent notes: "Donald doesn't always pay attention." "Donald daydreams a lot." "Donald likes to talk." "Donald looks out the window." Ah, the good ol' days, before Attention Deficit Disorder and drug-induced calmness.

In the spring of that year, Bailey Lake's third grade classes got a special treat. Dave Hertler, a fellow comrade of the third grade brought in cow hearts for the kids to examine. Yep, you read that right: big red, fleshy, freshcut cow hearts.

All the third graders piled into our room and we were divided so there were three kids per cow heart. I don't know about the other kids, but the sight of that cow heart plopped on my desk, made this hombre green.

My hands got clammy and the blood drained from my face. "Oh God, what had Dad gotten me into?" The thought you in my office again. Now go back to class." of milking cows was bad enough, but this!

I asked twice to be excused from class, Ms. Milkem narrow. Hallelujah! Ah, third grade:

I had to escape this hell on earth, known as Bailey Lake Elementary. I joked, I talked while Ms. Milkem talked. I didn't do my math assignments. During music class, when Mr. Wright tried to show us the way to sing "Rain Drops Keep Falling on My Head," I'd sing off key, or whistle.

My plan was simple: Escape via being a pain in the neck. I was good at that, so all had gone well. Then the big day came, the crescendo of my efforts was at hand. I gave it my all. During music class I sang, "Row, row, row your boat," when I should have been singing "gently down the stream." It was the last straw. Mr. Wright popped up off the piano bench and promptly escorted me to the principal's office. He left and I probably smiled to myself. This was too easy, a proverbial walk in the park. In Redford Township I had been in the principal's office a zillion times. What could some hick-farmer principal do?

My moment of smugness was also when the floor fell out from under my plan. The farmer principal was a giant. His massive frame filled the doorway to his office. He had a white shirt on, a tie and his sleeves were rolled up. His tree trunk arms were folded. He meant business.

I was to learn many, many years later that the principal, Mr. Rebe, was a football player back in his heyday — even had a tryout to be a lineman for the Baltimore Colts. He didn't say much. I think I sat down and he told me to stand up - he hadn't told me to sit.

He looked at me and politely said, "I do not want to see

City signs contract with Hyett-Palma; downtown study to begin soon

Culminating two years of work, the Clarkston city council officially entered an agreement with Hyett-Palma, a firm specializing in revitalizing downtowns Monday night.

The council unanimously approved entering into the agreement, but mayor Sharron Catallo gave her yes vote "with reservations."

Councilman David Savage has been at the forefront of trying to hire the firm in an effort to revitalize the retail presence downtown. He was able to raise $25,000 needed to hire the firm.

"We have collected all the funds needed for the project," Savage said. "I want to thank the city council for its diligent effort on this project, and the businesses who contributed."

Savage was able to raise $16,000 from area businesses and the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

The city contributed $5,000 to the study, and the city received a $3,750 discount from the National League of Cities.

Clarkston had not been a member of the NLC until Monday, but the council also approved the $391 membership fee Monday night.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1984)

Due to a 9.9 percent summer unemployment figure, estimated by the Michigan Employment Security Commission, Independence Township may be entitled to a federal windfall of $52,000.

According to a telephone survey conducted by Polly Carrithers of Oakland Intermediate Schools, over half of the district's voters say they'll support a four-mill increase for Clarkston schools. Voters go to the polls June 10.

Business owners Dr. and Mrs. Michael Wittenberg say their new "mini-mall" at 31 S. Main is brimming over with ideas. The three-level building could include both offices and boutiques. Clothing, jewelry, flowers, even a tuna bagel shop, are some of the ideas discussed.

25 YEARS AGO (1974)

Michigan's First Lady Paula Blanchard visits Clarkston to praise a special arts project in the schools. A former Clarkston resident, she finds you can go home again. Among the memories is her former home at 74 Washington, which was also her grandparent's residence.

An historic home may be moved from Dixie Highway to Main Street — to make way for a new Burger King. Hank Radcliff hopes to relocate the 120-year-old building, owned by the Ritter family, from the restaurant's proposed site.

The Clarkston Wolves varsity softball team mercies Grand Blanc in a pre-district game at Clintonwood Park, 10-0 in five innings. Clarkston's Julie Marshall is credited for disposing of the opposing team's hitters in the opening inning.

50 YEARS AGO (1948)

A free street dance is planned for downtown Saturday night, music furnished by "Dub" Masters' band. Start out the holiday by bringing your friends.

Playing at the Drayton Theatre are Johnny Weissmuller in "Jungle Jim," Laurel and Hardy in "The Dancing Masters" and Jeanette McDonald and Lassie in "The Sun Comes Up."

Specials at Rudy's Market include Spam, 43 cents a can; Good Luck Salad Dressing, 52 cents a quart; Hills Brothers Coffee, 52 cents a pound; and Lucky Dog Food, three cans for a quarter.

Labor dispute settled

A grievance filed by an Independence Township union employee has been settled.

Supervisor Dale Stuart said last week Accounts Payable Clerk Sandra Miller has been hired as Elections Clerk, to fill a post left vacant by Cari Polidan who was recently promoted to Deputy Clerk.

Miller, a member of the American Federation of State, County and Municipality Employees (AFSCME) union, filed the grievance because the position was posted at a lower rate of pay. Miller wanted a lateral move at her present salary.

She will receive her current rate of pay, Stuart said. Miller's former position, Accounts Payable Clerk, has been posted, he added.

Tryouts for Youth Theater set

Auditions have been scheduled for Clarkston Village Players' annual summer Youth Theater production. This year's play "Kilroy Was Here," by Tim Kelly and Bill Francoeur, is described as "a patriotic musical salute to the GI Joes and Jills of the 1940s."

Audition dates are this Saturday, June 5, at 10 a.m. and Monday, June 7 at 6:30 p.m. at Depot Theater, 4861 White Lake Road in Clarkston. Children must be prepared to sing a song of their choosing (nursery rhymes are acceptable). A female tap dancer is also needed

Show dates are July 23, 24, 25, 29, 30 and 31. Tickets are $5 each. Donations are welcome. Proceeds go toward the Pete Rose Scholarship fund. For more information, call (248) 625-8811.

Another job I won't be competing for is driver training instructor.

I sat through several hundred white knuckle, Rolaid eating, miles on our recent trip.

The people who ruled that a student driver should be accompanied by parents the first 30 days of his eligibility are sadists.

When I first learned I had to ride with my son behind the wheel, while he learned to come back onto the highway, I reasoned it was supposed to be so he would listen to Dad's suggestions . . . suggestions offered from years of experience behind wheels of numerous vehicles.

This conclusion was wrong. Suggestions from the passenger seat are taken no differently than from the dinner table, bedroom or woodshed The effect of parental guidance on a To-year-old is about as lasting as a plank in a political platform.

The first thing I did when son Jim took the wheel was go to sleep. This wasn't from confidence. My nerves were shot from anticipation of the occasion.

Jim knocked down two plastic highway marking cones, approached the rear of a very slow moving tractor at 65 mph, narrowly missed a bridge and otherwise kept his former loved ones in constant danger.

I've got to check with the driving instructors to see if they teach students to keep the right two wheels off the pavement so they get more traction.

I noticed he never drove with less than two hands on the wheel. I don't believe that is part of the instruction either. At least you never see a teenager, without his parents, in a car with two hands on the wheel.

Speed is Jim's bit, too. I'm going to try to overcome that one by limiting his solitary driving to our old Model A, however, some elderly people have told me that didn't stop

By the way, why is it taxpayers have to pay to have my kid learn how to drive in high school? I would think under the new court ruling it would be charged for . . . and should be.

Teachers - Bd. of Ed. ratify contract

At special meetings of the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA), on August 31, both bodies ratified the contract proposed by their negotiating teams for the 1970-71 school year.

According to CEA president, George White, the teachers approved the contract, with 137 voting for ratification and only 4 dissenting.

The new contract provides for a starting salary of $7840 for teachers with 11 equal increments of $12,490. Minimum salary for an M.A. degree is $8465 and $13,550 is maximum.

An EDS (Educational Specialist Degree) will receive $9250 minimum and reach a maximum of $14.550.

Two additional steps were added for longevity teaching in the Clarkston system. After 16 and 20 years' service to this community, a teacher, will automatically receive an extra increment proportioned as the other steps.

Increases were also granted for extra curricular activities.

The new contract provides that desirable goals in class loads will be recognized; 28 in kindergarten; 30 in grades I through 6 and the ratio of 30 to I as prescribed by North Central Accreditation Committee for secondary grades.

If the class load exceeds the 32 to 1 ratio, a committee, consisting of building a B.A. degree and reaches a maximum in, principal, a person from central 11 equal increments of $12,490, administration; the teacher and a representative of the CEA will meet to representation.

The Blue Cross-Blue Shield Insurance was changed from the deductible policy in effect last year to a comprehensive hospitalization policy. Group life term insurance in the amount of $5,000 will be provided by the Board of Education.

leave day was stressed. Each teacher will be allowed I day for personal business. He must notify his principal of his intentions in advance and state his reason for requesting the leave.

If he violates the contract and the day is used for affairs that could be transacted outside of a school teaching day, the administration may withhold his pay for

The school calendar in the contract provides that 2 days will be provided for in-service parent-teacher conferences. School will be closed on November 26 and 27 for the Thanksgiving holiday. Christmas vacation will begin on December 24 and school will resume on January 4.

Easter holiday will last from April 8 until April 19. Students will be dismissed for summer vacation on June 11 and teachers will complete their year on June

Remembering Ryan

A memorial presentation for Ryan Lorion took place Wednesday at Clarkston High School. Ryan, who died Sept. 10 after sustaining injuries from a car accident on Clarkston Road near Eston Road, would have graduated from CHS in the year 2000. Classmates helped raise the more than $500 to create the memorial, which included a plaque and red crimson tree, planted between the student parking lot and side entrance to CHS. "The symbolism of the tree will be a reminder of Ryan and will serve as shelter and shade for years to come," said CHS Principal Brent Cooley.

Donna Lorion hugs Brent Cooley, principal at Clarkston High School, following a memorial presentation Tuesday afternoon of a plaque and tree planted in honor of her son, Ryan.

This plaque, dedicated in Ryan's memory, was placed on the grounds at CHS last week. Both Ryan's parents and more than 20 others gathered to remember him.

Milestones

Young achievers excel at colleges and universities

Senior David Barks of Clarkston is one of twentyfive students from St. Mary's College at Orchard Lake with a grade point average of 3.3 or better, is in the upper 10 percent of their respective classes and named to the National Dean's List.

Sarah Fenton, of Clarkston, who earned a Girl Scout Gold Award in 1996, will receive $2,000 from Bank One for her studies in chemical engineering at Michigan Technological University.

The Gold Award is the highest award a Girl Scout can earn, and represents the culmination of personal skills, leadership experiences and a large-scale community service project. Through the Gold Award Scholarship Program, Fair Winds Girl Scout Council continues to provide opportunities for Golden Girl Scouts to pursue their dreams after graduation.

Kristy Swartout of Clarkston is a member of a team of advertising students from Western Michigan University which captured the top prize recently in a national advertising design competition.

The students claimed first place in the Yellow Pages Publishers Association Student Creative Competition.

The competition, which drew 265 entries from 41 schools nationwide, required teams to design three print ads in various sizes, give a written analysis of the team's creative strategy and produce a 30-second audio recording of a talking Yellow Pages ad for a fictional Chicago florist.

Swartout's team will share a $2,500 prize. The WMU Department of Marketing will also receive $2,500.

In-remembrance...

Close to 200 Clarkston residents attended this year's Memorial Day Parade and memorial services Monday morning, to honor veterans of past wars. The parade traveled through downtown Clarkston before ending up at Lakeside Cemetery, where a roll call of deceased veterans with close to 400 names was read. In addition, TAPS were played by three members of the CHS Band and the Gettysburg Address also was read, and a memorial wreath also was presented during the ser-

Close to 200 spectators and their pets lined Main Street in downtown Clarkston for the Memorial Day Parade Monday morning, including Clarkston resident Dana Currie and her pet ferret; Togo. Currie also brought along her neighbor's retriever, Alex.

Members of Clarkston's local vocal group stand as the National Anthem is played by the Clarkston High School Band. The men later sang "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground Tonight" at Memorial Day services held at Lakeside Cemetery Monday morning.

but the quality was better if the subject was personal. We also think it gets better results for the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP), because they're required to write a personal narrative."

In Literature Circle, a team of five students chooses one novel appropriate for fifth grade, Battishill said.

The kids read on their own but play different roles in analyzing the books. The Word Wizard finds exciting or hard-to-understand words. The Reader reads favorite passages or chapters back to the group. There is also an Illustrator and a Storyteller, who develops discussion about the book.

"By providing roles, it gives structure to the groups and the progress is student-paced. It also gives them power." said Battishill. The students read one novel per month, then make commercials to advertise their books to encourage other groups in the class to read the book.

Power is also a purpose behind Battishill having a student of the week.

Each week, a student reads from a book created for himself or herself. The student talks about friends. family and the choices he or she is allowed to make at home. Then the student gives a presentation to the class.

Power is one of the basic human needs, according to psychologist and philosopher William Glasser, said Battishill. The others are love and belonging, freedom, fun and survival.

Battishill passes the books out to the students to complete at the beginning of the school year. The book helps kids understand the importance of quality work, she said.

"Meeting all the basic human needs enables students to do quality work. Quality work is your best work. It looks fantastic. It is not easy; you have to work hard. When you are trying to do quality work, you sometimes have to make improvements. When you are finished you feel proud."

"It's needed and we don't know if it's going to cost us anything," Bair said. "If we bring this under the $253,000 limit, it's a done deal."

Speaking in behalf of the school board, Clarkston Schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said the board "is very pleased the project will get done. We thought from the start it was a project that should be completed for residents of that road, and we're glad to be a part of the solution."

"We want people to be comfortable," Munk said.

There are an additional five exams rooms used in chemotherapy, also housed in the cancer center.

Bernock said all types of cancer and all ages of patients are treated at the center.

"Each cancer is treated differently. Everybody is looked at on an individual basis," she said,

Also at Mid-Oakland Medical, a CAT scan machine is utilized to view tumors precisely, Munk said.

Beginning May 17, kidney dialysis also was made available at Mid-Oakland Medical.

The facility allows for up to 60 patients a day to have their blood cleaned by the 20 machines, said Meegan Ellis, facility administrator.

This is going to be nice for the people here. It's been sorely needed," Munk said.

The equipment used includes an extensive water filtration system and specially designed kidney dialyzers, which act as artificial kidneys, said Marilyn Childers, registered nurse for the facility.

The water is softened and filtered of chlorine and bacteria through carbon filtration. The dialyzers pull toxins from the patient's blood through an extensive process of osmosis, Childers said.

Patients' blood pressure and heart rate also are monitored closely, she said.

"(The equipment) is state of the art - it's brand new," Munk said. "This is on the cutting edge of technology."

The facility uses a team approach similar to that of the cancer center when dealing with patients, Childers said.

A health care team, consisting of dialysis technicians, facility administrator, nurse case manager, dietician and social worker provide patients with a variety of needs, including nutritional advice and insurance aid, she said.

Mini television sets also are set up at each station for patients to view movies while the dialysis is taking place, Childers said. There is also a private treatment room for patients with Hepatitis B or for other reasons, she said.

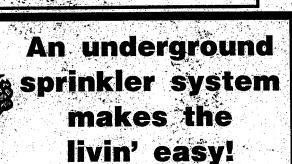

Patients can also perform dialysis at home through a system called CAPD (continuous ambulatory peritoneal dialysis), she said. Patients are trained to perform CAPD at the facility.

In addition, "there is always someone on call, 24 hours," in case of emergencies, Childers said.

Lighthouse volunteer featured on "From The Heart"

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

When Holly resident Eulah Nichols was granted custody of her grandson several years ago she was a senior citizen living on a fixed income.

At the time, her 14-year-old grandson was a strapping six-foot, twoinch tall eating machine and Eulah worried about how she would feed and clothe him.

She found the help she needed through Lighthouse Clarkston, a connection that sparked future volunteer activities, a new career and next month will put her in the spotlight on WXYZ televi-

"Lighthouse really helped me through a dark part in my life. When you have no one to help you in a situation like that, you don't know where to turn," Eulah said recenly about her need for help. "I didn't really care for coming here to ask for help. I like to stay independent."

The first time she brought her grandson to Lighthouse the pair felt like "kids at Christmastime." She said her grandson are cold hot dogs and bread on the way home in the car.

Because Lighthouse Clarkston had helped her, Eulah became a volunteer and followed by a new career as supervisor of the facility's Clothing Closet, which distributes free clothes to needy Eulah's story recently came to the attention of the producers of "From the Heart." a human interest feature hosted by longtime anchorman Eric Smith of Channel 7.

Smith and a camera crew visited

Eulah in May at Lighthouse Clarkston and also paid a visit to her farm near Holly.

'We're here because this organization is so important to so many people in Oakland County." said Smith. Features on other branches have been presented but this is the first for the Clarkston branch, he added.

"We don't often see county agencies doing what they do." Smith said. "This just opens up an opportunity for people to see another aspect of Lighthouse Clarkston — it's a more intense outreach program. Someone will call after they see the program and say, 'I didn't know you were there.' There is always someone who doesn't know how to get

Smith said "From The Heart" has been running for two years about six times each week. It was developed because Channel 7 wanted to add a regular positive feature to its news broadcasts, "I haven't done anything in my 36 years at Channel 7 that has lit such a fire in me," said Smith.

Eulah said she enjoyed being interviewed and said Smith was "very nice."

Former Lighthouse Clarkston Branch Manager Dori Edwards called Eulah hardworking and popular. "The thing I find so wonderful about Eulah is volunteers and clients come back to visit for her grandmotherly advice."

"They don't want me to say anything," Eulah said about her many visitors, "They just want me to listen. I like people. This makes me feel good."

Eulah's segment on "From the Heart" is scheduled for mid-to late-June.

Fit for playing treasury turned out to be a windfall for students last month, in the form of a new playground.

And it's not just any playground, but one designed to promote physical fitness.

Daneen Kincaid, PTA treasurer, said after the group realized they had a surplus, she and PTA third vice president Kelley Thomas, member Laura Markarian and Laurie Eller, Bailey Lake's physical education instructor, puttogether the idea for a new playground.

Designed by Eller and the committee like an obstacle course; the colorful

A surplus in the Bailey Lake PTA playground includes a sit-up bench, climbing wall, balance beam and other structures to alternate upper body and lower body workouts.

The PTA budgeted $11,000 for the project, but thanks to donations of time, materials and funds, they came in under budget at $9,200.

A crew of about 20 adults and 15 kids helped spread 30 yards of gravel and 100 yards of woodchips. The gravel was donated by Holly Gravel, and the woodchips (special playground chips made of virgin wood) from the school district, said Kincaid.

Bailey Lake Elementary School PTA members Kelley Thomas, Daneen Kincaid and Laura Markarian (from left) with student Lynn Daniels in the wheelbarrow, take a break from spreading woodchips and gravel around the new playground. The PTA wanted to donate something to Bailey Lake that "would be around for years," said Kincaid.

Baseball and softball teams preparing for district tournament

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The preliminaries are over, and now it's time for the final examinations.

The Clarkston varsity baseball and softball teams are looking to repeat last year's district championships.

The teams played at Lapeer East Tuesday night in the first round of district play. For the game results, please see page 7B.

Last year, the two teams won district titles in the same season for the first time in school history. The baseball team hadn't won a district title since 1993, softball since 1987.

The softball team finished the regular season strong before being swept in doubleheaders by Troy and Okemos, one of the top teams in the state.

Clarkston coach Al Land said he's been pleased with the improvement of his younger players this season, and is counting on them to help the team to a repeat performance.

"Age doesn't matter on this team," Land said. "I am quite pleased with our record, especially considering the number of young players we do have."

The Wolves, 26-17-1 overall, went through a stretch of just three losses in 20 games last month. The team got more consistent hitting from the entire lineup, and the pitching tandem of junior Candace Morgan and sophomore Lisa Ferguson have settled into a nice groove.

Ferguson and sophomore Tracey Honey were the heroes of last year's district tournament. They scored the winning runs in Clarkston's thrilling 4-2 win over then third-ranked Lake Orion.

in 10 innings in the district semifinals. Honey's pinch hit bunt turned into an errant throw that allowed her and Ferguson, a pinch runner, to score the winning runs.

The baseball team faces a familiar path on its way to a second straight district title. The Wolves (21-10 overall) take on Grand Blanc Saturday morning in the district semifinals at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Clarkston swept the Bobcats 13-7 and 7-4 in the season's first games back on April 13.

Coach Phil Price said he is counting on his veteran players who won a district title last year to guide the team through the tournament this year.

Female Athlete of the Week: Nicole Fischer

Salut, Nicole: A common sight at many track meets is one of the distance runner, hunched over in total exhaustion after a long, grueling race. One athlete who personifies this is junior-Nicole Fischer. She's in her third season with the girls track team, and has seen more and more success each year. Last year, she was part of the 4x800 relay team that set a regional record at Holly with a time of 9:46.1. She continued to have success through this year's track and cross country teams. She is heading to the state track meet for the second time this year, after helping the 4x800 relay team qualify with a time of 9:55. She also finished fourth at regionals in the 800 run with a time of 2:25.2. Nicole is one of the most dedicated athletes on the team, and is very supportive of her teammates. She also finds time to play the flute in the marching band, and carries a 3.9 grade point average.

Coach Gordie Richardson on Nicole: "Nicole is an integral part of our top two relay teams. When she came out, she had no concept of what track was about. The terminology was foreign to her, so she just had to take in that information and run with it. But she's done a good job of learning from others, and she will give you her best every single meet, whether it's at practice or at a meet. And she's got another year to get better."

Nicole on Nicole: "I did a lot of winter mileage this year, which I had never done before, and that has made a difference for me this year. The coaches have given me a lot of good pointers and have shown me how to control my nerves. Last year-I thought the state meet was this huge meet where you had to run miracle times. I found out that it was just like any other meet, but you are running against the best."

Middle School track results

For the first time in school history, both the boys and girls track teams at Sashabaw Middle School finished with 7-0 records.

Coming off their big wins over Clarkston Middle School, SMS completed a sweep of Brandon Middle School, with the girls winning 83-45, and the boys winning 113-15.

The girls took 11 out of 15 first-places at the meet, led by Emily Cushing's performances in the 55 hurdles and the 200 hurdles. Jody Piechura also had a good day, winning the 400 run with a time of 1:10, and teamed up with Christie Terry, Ashley Lambert and Christina Kozarski to help SMS win the 4x400

Kelly Robinson won the shot put and Johanna Larson took first in the high jump for the Cougars. Other first-places included: Lauren Witt in the 3,200 run, Whiteny Bomier in the 800 run, Terry in the 1,600 run, and Kristi Hertzler in the 100 dash. The team of Kristin Brandage, Jessica Henry, Megan Matz and Sally Dickie won the 4x800 relay with a time of 12:34.

The boys could not have been much more dominant, winning the meet while allowing Brandon only one first place, two second places and four third places in the entire meet.

Brian Curry took first in the 55 hurdles, and finished right behind Derek Ranck in the 200 hurdles. Nate Davis scored first places in the 100 dash and high jump, and teamed with Mike Claus, Jay Martello and Brian Oltman for first in the 4x100 relay.

Other first places were earned by the following boys: Steve Chenet in the 800 run, Mark Sitko in the 1,600, Claus in the 70 dash, Derek George in the shot put, and Martello in the long jump.

The Clarkston Middle School teams wrapped up their seasons with impressive wins over Waterford Mason Middle School. The boys won 97-31, and the girls emerged with an 87-41 win.

The boys swept all the relay events for the first time this season. The 4x200 team of B.J. Cooper, Mike Moore, Cam Darrow and Justin Whitestone won with a time of 1:52.4. The 4x800 relay team - Brian Lichty, Andrew Breen, Jared Elmore and Rocky Vanchina was first with a time of 10:21. The 4x400 relay team of Lichty, Nick Riegal, Bobby Perna and Whitestone was first with a time of 4:30.8. The 4x100 team - Darrow, Ryan Elliot, Brandon Burton and Joe Kinsey - edged Mason by .9 seconds, winning with a time of 53.0 seconds.

Paul Mesi finished first in the long jump, 400 run and 200 dash, pulling off another triple first place. Breen added a first in the 800 to his relay win. Cooper added a first in the long jump, and Dan Howard took first in the 200 hurdles and the 55 hurdles.

Male Athlete of the Week: Kevin Breen

-Salut, Kevin: Junior Kevin Breen is part of a talented group of distance runners which have been making life miserable for Clarkston track and cross country opponents for three years now. But this track season, Kevin has expanded his repertoire of events and is an even more valuable member of the team. He is a steady performer in the 800 run and the 4x800 relay team. He is part-owner of the 4x800 school record, a mark he helped set at last year's state meet. He has continued his excellence in those events this year, but has also become the team's top long jumper. His season-best jump of 19 feet, 11 inches in the team's dual-meet loss to Rochester Adams May 4. He also holds a share of the school record in the 4x400 relay, setting it with Klint Powell, Mark Carlson and Brett Quantz at the Ashley Relays May 1. At Saturday's regional meet, Kevin finished first in the 800 with an impressive time of 1:58.1, qualifying for the Class A State Meet at Midland High June 5.

Coach Walt Wyniemko on Kevin: "Kevin is a pretty versatile athlete. He's come through for us all season, and has just shown steady improvement every year. He doesn't vocalize a lot of things, but people respect him for his skills."

Kevin on Kevin: "I never practice the long jump, but I really should. I was doing it in some of the early meets, and I was PR-ing every time, so I just stuck with it. It was good for us to see the competition (in the OAA Division I) but it's really disappointing we lost to Adams. Being at the state meet last year helps, because I'm not nearly as nervous this year. But I like that nervous energy too. At this meet. I know all of our competition and what I have to do to do well."

Track teams measure up to county foes

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three of the toughest meets the Clarkston boys and girls track teams have gone through took place last week.

Even though the state meet awaits several athletes on Saturday, the Wolves saw some of their toughest competition yet at the OAA Division I Meet Tuesday and the Oakland County Meet Friday.

The boys team had a terrific day at the league meet, finishing second with 91 points, behind league champion Pontiac Northern. Although the Wolves beat the Huskies in their dual meet battle. Northern's elite sprinters garnered it more points in a multi-team tournament setting.

"We went into it controlling our own destiny," coach Walt Wyniemko said. "We knew it would be a tough battle, and we were able to knock Rochester Adams out of contention, which was nice."

Junior David Sage proved himself to be the best distance runner in the league, taking first in the 1,600 (4:31.64) and the 3,200 (10:02). He also helped the 4x800 relay team to a first place finish, along with Jon Chenet, Kevin Breen and Brett Quantz. The winning time for the team was 8:27.

Raphael Fauza was the team's most pleasant surprise, finishing in first place in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 1 inch.

The high jump was a strong event for Clarkston, as sophomore Adam Gebus was third with a jump of 6-0, and senior Dave Chavers was fourth with a jump

Other placers at the meet were: Cody Senkyr, fourth in the 300 hurdles, Breen and Quantz, second and fourth respectively in the 800, Gebus, fifth in the 200, Haver, fourth in the 3,200 and the 1,600, Chavers, fifth in the shot put (45-10 1/2), and the 4x200 relay team, which took fourth.

Clarkston finished its first season in the OAA I tied for the regular season championship with a 5-1 record. The team's only loss came to Adams, the team it knocked out of contention for the league title at the

At the county meet, the 4x800 relay team finished third despite not having one of its key components. Breen was out with a 103-degree fever, and was not at full strength.

"That team didn't do as well, but the county meet is very tough," Wyniemko said.

The 4x400 relay team finished sixth overall with a time of 3:30.2, and Sage placed second in the 3,200 with a time of 9:26.9.

Breen, Quantz and Sage are the team's only representatives at the state meet, held this year at Midland High. Breen and Quantz qualified in the 800, while Sage will run in the 3,200.

The girls completed their first season in the OAA I with a respectable third in the league meet.

The Wolves finished with 81 1/2 points, 22 behind second-place Southfield. Rochester Adams steamrolled its way to the title with 140 points.

Several Clarkston athletes had strong days at the league meet. Rachel Uchman continued her lateseason surge in the long jump, taking first with a jump of 17 feet, 5 inches.

Senior Jennifer Rooding was the pace-setter in the 800, winning with a time of 2:25.11. Teammate Nicole Fischer was second at 2:26.8.

The 4x800 relay team was solid in winning with a time of 9:54.1, and the 4x400 relay team finished second to Southfield with a time of 4:16.1.

Sophomore Katie Jerge took second place in the discus with a toss of 95-6.

Clarkston made a strong showing at the county meet, finishing third. This time, Southfield took first with 111 points, and Adams followed with 59. The Wolves tied with Southfield Lathrup with 42 points.

One of the highlights came when the 4x800 relay team blazed to a career-best time and a first-place finish. The team of Rooding, Uchman, Lissa Lukens and Fischer finished with a time of 9:42.25, three seconds better than its previous best time.

Uchman was fourth in the long jump (15-11 1/4) and Rooding was second in the 800 (2:21.8). The 4x400 relay team took third on the day's final event, with a time of 4:10.

Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson will once again bring a solid group of athletes to the state meet Saturday. Rooding will run in the 800, and will team up with Fischer, Lissa Lukens and Uchman in the 4x800 relay. Uchman, the league and regional champ in the long jump, will go up against the best in that event as well.

Diamond teams ready for repeat district performance

Baseball and softball are unique games in that a team can have games during the season which register from the top to the bottom on the game beauty scale.

In The

Box

Penalty

with Brad

Monastiere

On Monday, a team can play flawless ball, throwing strikes, making clean defensive plays and coming through with base hits with runners in scoring position.

Then, two days later, that same team can watch a ball drop squarely between two fielders not five feet apart. Batters will wildly swing at pitches above their heads, and pitched balls will skid in the dirt so much, it appears as if a small tornado has sprung up around the catcher.

These fluctuations in team performance in these sports are accepted over an entire season, but now is when the pressure builds.

Clarkston's baseball and softball teams are in the middle of district play this year. The teams played at Lapeer East Tuesday night in the first round, and now prepare to play Saturday against Grand Blanc.

Last year's baseball and softball district tournaments was one of the sports highlights in the 1997-98 school year. The softball team won an incredible game with Lake Orion, 4-2 in 10 innings before dispatching Lapeer West to win the district.

The baseball team encountered no such drama, easily beating Lake Orion and Lapeer West on its way to a district title. It marked the first time in school history both teams had won district titles in the same year.

The task won't be easy this year, but if the teams follow this formula, you should be seeing more trophy pictures in this paper in the near future.

■ Play intense, but not tight.

Baseball and softball are very mental games. Teams that have the best talent can lose to far inferior teams if the players are not focused on the game, or allow other things to break their concentration. A team that can find the balance between intense focus, and loose, comfortable play, is the one most likely to advance

■ Do not overlook any opponent.

In district play, each opponent comes one at a time, because there is a chance that will be the last opponent of the season. The temptation is there to possibly overlook a particular team because of the conference it plays in, or common opponents. Here is an example.

"We play Grand Blanc, and they lost to Lapeer East, a team we beat earlier in the season. Therefore, we should beat Grand Blanc."

This is such an easy trap to fall into, but a trap that has ensnared many a quality team in playoffs past. If that formula actually rang true, there would be no upsets in any round of the playoffs. Teams from inferior conferences beat teams from better conferences all the time. A team's mindset going into districts can't be dictated by the quality of the opponent.

In October, the Rochester Adams boys soccer team had won the OAA Division I title, and was playing Clarkston, a third-place team in the OAA Division II. Logic would dictate Adams would win, right? But it was the Wolves taking the trophy home.

■ Captains have to be captains.

One of my favorite things about sports is seeing athletes have such a strong will to win, it rubs off on their teammates. Former Piston Isiah Thomas had the greatest will to win of any athlete I've ever seen.

When it comes down to playoffs, team captains and leaders are the ones the rest of the team looks to for leadership and inspiration. When a team leader has that fire ablaze in their eyes when up to bat, or getting ready to deliver the third strike, it's something that can lift the entire team up.

■ Crunch time is winning time.

Often in districts, more often in regionals, talent between competing teams evens out, and games come down to which team can execute in the late innings in the proper situations.

Last year, the Clarkston and Lake Orion softball teams battled to a dead-even 1-1 tie after seven innings. Both teams matched the other's intensity, and each clutch hit was answered by an ice-in-the-veins defensive play.

The Wolves and Dragons were a dead-even matchup until an innocent-looking bunt by Tracey Honey. The Lake Orion catcher fired the ball to second base, where no one was waiting. Lisa Ferguson and Honey each hustled all the way around the bases and scored, making the plays in the clutch situations. Lake Orion made one mistake, and Clarkston took full advantage of it.

Mistakes will happen. Afterall, this is high school sports, and these kids aren't getting paid millions of dollars to play in front of huge crowds. But the successful teams are the ones that minimize their own mistakes, and maximize the other team's mistakes.

Districts are when a team's season can be made or broken. Having success in districts sticks in a player's memory for years. While an unexpected loss in districts is a source of bitterness for months.

I have seen enough of the Clarkston teams to know they are capable of winning the district - and going further. Both teams have the success of last year as a confidence booster, and have the talent to do it again. Here's one person who thinks it will happen.

Kickers fight to the end in district loss

1999 District Semifinals

Rochester 2

Clarkston 1

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

For one wild-eyed, fantastic minute, the Clarkston varsity girls soccer team had visions of turning around a tough season with a colossal upset in Wednesday's district semifinals.

But Clarkston's fleeting 1-0 lead in the second half didn't last two minutes, as the Rochester Falcons responded with two goals within three minutes, ending the Wolves's season with a 2-1 win at the CHS field.

Clarkston finishes with a 2-13-3 record.

Despite the loss, coach Tami Mitchell couldn't suppress a smile after the game at her team's effort.

"We were so pumped and ready to play today. That was exciting," she said. "We needed our seniors to put on a show and they did. Everyone thought we would get blown out of this game, but we made it a lot closer than they thought it would be."

This was a game not expected to be close. In the first round of districts, Rochester beat Waterford Kettering - a team the Wolves lost to - by a score of 8-0. Wednesday's game was not expected to be any different.

But Clarkston came out playing aggressive defense and not allowing Rochester's players much open space to do anything. The Wolves seemed to get more scoring chances and clearly had the momentum on their side in the first half.

Clarkston caught the first break of the game when a Falcon goal five minutes into the second half was disallowed because of an offsides call:

After a couple of good scoring chances, the Wolves cashed in Senior Alaina Dodds - playing in her final game at CHS - popped in a shot after a huge scramble in front of the Rochester net, giving Clarkston an unexpected, but deserved, 1-0 lead. The goal came with 15:57 remaining in the game.

"We were beating them to the ball and making good passes," Mitchell said. "We were outhustling them to that point, and we wanted to show them that we could hang with them."

The euphoria over Dodds' goal was short-lived. Rochester marched right down the field and tied the game 1-1 just 81 seconds later. Rochester's Kimberly Raetz fired a shot that deflected off the crossbar, and headed the rebound into the net.

The Falcons took the lead for good only 1:53 after that, when Kelly McDermott headed the ball in off a corner kick play. Rochester controlled the play from there, not allowing the Wolves any hopes of tying the game.

Completing her first season as varsity coach, Mitchell reflected back on some things she learned, both the easy way and the hard way.

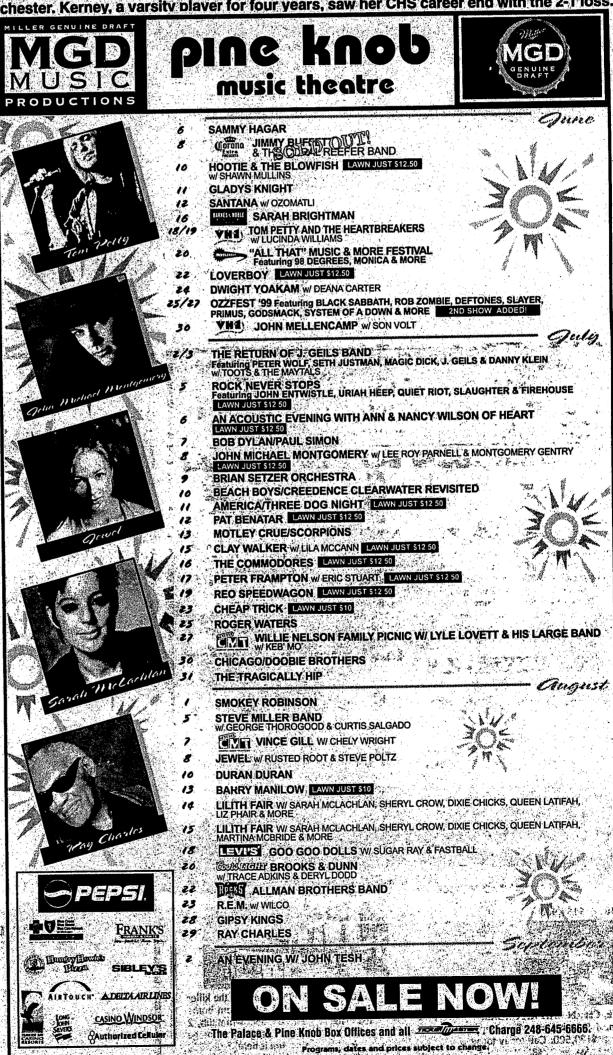

"It's difficult to coach 21 girls on a team," she said after thinking for a moment. "It's difficult to get them out of old habits and teach them new ones."

The entire soccer program will benefit next year from the addition of a freshman soccer team. Adding the team will not only encourage more players to get involved with the program, but will get them used to seeing the caliber of competition Clarkston plays through its schedule.

The varsity team will also have several top players returning next year, including goalkeeper Sarah Morgan, midfielders Brooke Petrinec, Katie Kennedy and Lauren Welbourn. Katie Tripi will return as a top defender, and Angela Humphreys and Jessica Thomas will spark the forwards.

Senior Jennifer Kerney takes a rest after the end of Wednesday's district game against Rochester. Kerney, a varsity player for four years, saw her CHS career end with the 2-1 loss.

Wolves make quick work of Eagles

Baseball, softball teams move on in district play

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's varsity baseball and softball teams wasted little time in advancing in the state tournament Tuesday afternoon.

The softball team took a mere 62 minutes in defeating Lapeer East 3-0, while the baseball team took slightly longer in beating the Eagles 11-1 in a mercy-shortened game at Lapeer East High School.

Softball coach Al Land said his team used its superior speed and excellent defense in securing the victory.

"We haven't been hitting the ball well lately, so we decided to bunt our people around," he said. "We had to stay aggressive and stick with the game plan, and we did."

The main perpetrator in Clarkston's win was junior centerfielder Melanie Arnold. She chased down several tough fly balls on defense, and produced two of the team's three runs on the day.

"We played our game and didn't go down to their level," Arnold said. "We knew we could do it."

"Mel sets our table," Land said. "She had some nice catches for us in the outfield."

Junior pitcher Candace Morgan was also sharp in shutting out the co-champions of the Flint Metro League. She struck out six and only allowed four hits on the day.

Junior Bret Gove heads for the dugout after scoring a run in Clarkston's 13-6 loss to Rochester Adams on May 26.

The game stayed 0-0 through the first two-and-a-half innings until Arnold sparked the team on offense.

Freshman Stacie Giroux hit a one-out single that hugged the rightfield line in the bottom of the third. After a Corinne McIntyre sacrifice, Giroux scored when Arnold's speed wreaked havoc with the Eagles. She beat out an infield bunt, and the subsequent overthrow scored Giroux and sent Arnold to second base.

One pitch later, Arnold stole third, and scored on another overthrow.

The Wolves picked up an insurance run in the bottom of the fourth thanks to some timely hitting. Pinch-runner Lisa Ferguson used her speed to score on another overthrow. Jennie Winn reached first on an error, and Ferguson took advantage and scored Clarkston's third run.

Morgan only faced nine batters in the final three innings. She caught a line drive and doubled off a runner from first to end the game.

Land said he has come to count on the team playing solid defense every game, but still would like to see the team's hitting improve before Saturday's district semifinal game with Grand Blanc.

"Defensively, we normally do well," he said. "But we just haven't had time to practice our hitting. Now, ngle that for 11:3 ne third: the swith scored The dis Eagles. All dis

Saturday's district semifinal softball game between the Wolves and Bobcats has been rescheduled for 11:30 a.m. Lapeer East officials said they made the switch to allow Clarkston fans to watch both games. The district finals are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday. All district games take place at Lapeer East High School.

we have a couple days to work on some things.'

The first-round district baseball game between the Wolves and Eagles took slightly longer than the softball game, and was not nearly as dramatic.

The Wolves dispatched East 11-1 in a game that was called after five innings. The MHSAA's mercy rule calls for a game with a margin of 10 or more runs to be called if it is the fifth inning or later.

FOLLICULITIS

Folliculitis is an inflammation of one or more hair follicles, the sheaths of epidermal cells and connective tissue that surround roots of hair. The causes of such inflammation may range from bacteria to irritants and chemical exposure. Staphylococcal folliculitis may occur in any area of the skin, but most often can be found on the hairy areas of the face, neck, armpits, thighs, and buttocks. On the face, this bacterially induced folliculitis may be characterized by pustules, while boils may form in the armpits. Fourtunately, staphylococcal folliculitis can be cured with antibiotics; however, measures should be taken within the infection's spread. When irritants or chemical exposre is the cause, these factors must be and the staten with a proposed.

'MYASTONISHING TRUE STORY. 'How I Lost 64 Lbs. and Gained My Self-Confidence!"

My name is Tania Olsson. I am a single mother. My son, Chaz, is eight years old. I am a customer service representative. I dropped 64 lbs. of fat in 11 short months. My story is so remarkable. I would like to share it with you.

By Tania Olsson

My cheeks burned with embarrassment as I stared at the television screen. We were watching a recent family video. "I'm huge!" I gasped.

I had always been tall and trim in high school. I was on the swim team and volleyball team. I was shocked and appalled to realize how fat I had become.

My folks never allowed junk food in the house. When I got old enough to make my own food choices, I went hog wild. Chips, ice cream and soda pop were my routine. When I was pregnant I started a gallon of eating for two. After Chaz was born I cooked for two and ate for four!

I used food as comfort. I told myself it was just baby fat. It would go away. But it didn't go away. I was getting fatter every week.

With fat came anxiety and depression. My self-esteem was nil. I could see folks turning sideways to squeeze past me. I'd cringe

My weight made me crazy. I refused to eat in public. I knew what people were thinking...Look at what you're eating...no wonder you're so fat. Go ahead, honey, have another cheeseburger.

I used to be so hard on fat people. Now I was fat, hurt and desperate.

"I was shocked when I saw my family video. How did I get so fat?" Tania Olsson before shedding 64 lbs.

Dieting Nightmares

I was always trying the next fad diet. would never stick. When I didn't feel the results, I'd get discouraged. The cravings were unbearable.

"You

can lose weight -

I did!"

Tania Olsson

After Hypnosis

I lost 30 pounds twice with weight loss drugs. My weight shot back up so fast it made my head spin. The drugs set me on an emotional rollercoaster. I couldn't bear the thought of a third go around. Nothing I do works, I told myself as I sat on the couch with ice cream. What's the use of trying?

Ray of Sunshine

One day a close friend encouraged me to try hypnosis. I was skeptical. "I've heard they get great results," she said. I could only hope. The free screening was like a ray of sunshine. My consultant was caring and concerned. The office is professional and comfortable. Their level of confidentiality was impressive. I held my breath for the sales pitch. It didn't happened. They explained the program in detail. Left it for me to decide. The fee was much lower than I expected.

I signed up and lost 64 lbs. in 11 short months. I lost ten inches off my waist. My dress size plunged from a bulging 22 to sleek size 12.

Whole New Me!

Immediately after my first session I tried grueling exercise routines. It my appetite diminished. I feel completely satisfied with small, healthy portions. Next my food > choices changed. When I was fat I would not touch raw vegetables. With hypnosis I have developed this strange attraction to carrots! They're as appealing as potato chips used to be. I know I will never, ever gain the weight back. Now that I'm thin and happy with my body, I can't think of a single reason to over-

Hypnosis Delivers Benefits!

I used to feel sluggish by 9:00 a.m. I was so depressed. Even my hair drooped.

Since hypnosis I look and feel young, alive and vibrant. My skin is glowing. My hair is thick and shiny. I have tons of energy. I'm light on my feet.

My family and friends all want to know how I did it. They want to be like me. The other day a coworker said, "I wish I could have even half your energy." That was the best compliment of all.

When I was fat I smoked skinny cigarettes to make me feel thin. Quitting smoking was a side benefit I had not expected. I breathe better. Move better. Enjoy more activities.

I hated walking in and out of plus size stores. I would rush my shopping bags to the car. Everybody knows you're fat, but come on, that's the big girl's store. Shopping for a size 12 is the most wonderful feeling in the world. I no longer worry about eating in public. When eyes are on me, I know they're thinking, "Hey, she's got it together."

Chaz is tickled to see my biceps. We recently went rock climbing. We enjoy rollerblading. There's no way I could have done that before.

Recommends

I suffered when I was overweight. I lived in a state of overwhelming helplessness. I was out of control. It was frightening.

Hypnosis was the smartest investment of my life. My consultant took the time to listen to my fears. I never felt pressured. My success was their main concern.

I got more than I expected from my private hypnosis sessions. I feel wonderful about myself. If it wasn't for hypnosis I wouldn't be enjoying my slim, healthy body today.

Don't think I'm a lone success story either. I meet other successful clients all the time.

My only regret is that I waited and suffered for months. You don't have to suffer another second. Call 628-3242 right now to schedule your free hypnotic screening. I know your consultant will answer all your questions and put your fears to rest. If they don't think hypnosis is right for you, they will tell you so.

You owe it to yourself to find out. CALL NOW. 628-3242

Baseball and softball district preview

"We have eight guys back from last year's team, and having that experience will help us out a lot," Price said. "We are healthy and strong, and all of our pitchers are ready to go."

Last year, the Wolves encountered little resistance in capturing their first district trophy in six years, defeating Lake Orion 12-2 and Lapeer West 7-3.

The Wolves finished the regular season strong, with a 10-2 drubbing of Oxford Friday. Price said he likes where the team is at, after battling some inconsistency early in the season.

"We had some frustrating losses, and I think you could easily take half of those losses and turn them into wins," Price said. "But that's baseball. No one goes undefeated, but we have gotten over that hurdle. The guys aren't going up there being afraid to make mistakes anymore. They just go up and play."

The Bobcats have been among the top teams in the Big Nine Conference all season, along with Clio and Flint Powers.

"Grand Blanc is a very good athletic school. Their teams are always strong," he said. "If we play our baseball, there's no reason we can't win."

Baseball and softball teams march on

Clarkston jumped out to a 4-0 lead after the top of the first inning, and was never threatened. Coach Phil Price praised all of his players for taking care of business.

"We put the ball in play, didn't strike out and forced them to make some mistakes," he said.

Chris Mitchell slammed a two-run homer and pitched three scoreless innings. Adam Leech also nailed a solo home run, and Ryan Marino and Eric Jenks each pitched well in relief, John Drallos hit a ground-rule double to help the Clarkston offense.
