X-ray films turned over to trustee

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Former patients of North Oakland Radiology of Clarkston now have a new way of obtaining their x-ray films and mammograms.

Following a hearing at the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Detroit June 16, U.S. Bankruptcy Trustee Michael Stevenson will be responsible for all records being retrieved by former patients of the office, located at 5825 Ortonville Road, and its satellite offices in Bloomfield, Southfield, Novi and Waterford.

To order records, former patients or their physicians can contact Stevenson at (248) 423-8200. The minimum fee to obtain a record is $15.

The date of the test or x-ray number also are required to obtain films.

Teen drug and alcohol use: What are the answers? Schools, community and kids cooperate on solutions

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

Editor's note: This is the last in our series on alcohol and drug use among teens in our area. Last spring we published the results of Clarkston schools' Western Michigan University drug and alcohol survey. Use among Clarkston teens was above the national average.

This spring Clarkston schools also surveyed middle school and high school students on the possible issues in their lives that may make them susceptible to using alcohol and drugs. Those results are expected toward the middle of July.

The Clarkston Community Task Force For Youth is a proponent of Developmental Assets, a list of about 40 qualities necessary to raise children into adults who make healthy choices.

Buck and Joan Kopietz — and Snore Stop. Things are quieter at the Millpond Inn now.

Snore no more at Millpond Inn

B&B owners hype anti-snore product to be seen on Channel 7

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you want a quiet — really quiet — stay for the night, Millpond Inn is now your best bet.

Joan Kopietz, who owns the bed and breakfast with her husband Buck, calls the establishment "the first 'Snore Stop' zone in America."

That's because the Clarkston couple is participating in the promotion of a product that has shown significant success in stopping all those gasps, snorts and fog horns — that force many to grab their pillows and head for the couch.

Joan was one of those victims. But now, thanks to "Snore Stop" — a homeopathic remedy derived from natural plants, minerals and protein sources — she sleeps like a baby.

Luckily, she's a sound sleeper most of the time. "I go to bed before Buck, so I get a running start."

When Buck first tried Snore Stop, "he was so quiet, I kept waking up all night to see if he was dead," she quips. Now, she not only gets a good night's sleep, "but a snore-free night's sleep."

Buck admitted — before taking the product — he even woke himself up at times.

The couple was approached by a spokesperson for the company, who stayed at the inn three years ago. He thought of the Kopietzes when promoting the product at several area Kmart's, including the Drayton Plains store.

He thought the Kopietzes and their inn would be the perfect vehicle to hype "Snore Stop" when Channel 7 healthy living reporter Carolyn Clifford called him. She wanted to include the product in a program on snoring.

Clifford interviewed Buck and Joan last Friday. Michelle Donaldson, producer for Clifford's Sunday 10 a.m. show "Healthy Living," said the segment will run on an upcoming 5 p.m. news broadcast, as well as the Sunday show.

According to Joan, the cameraman took pictures of the couple inside and outside near their beautiful flower gardens. He also included shots of Buck

Springfield Twp. Library receives challenge grant

A recent challenge grant made to Springfield Township Library could bring the facility a great deal more books -- up to $10,000 worth.

Barry Stulberg, a developer from Farmington Hills who also has developments in Springfield Township, will match up to $5,000 toward the purchase of new books and multimedia for the library, said Cathy Forst, library director.

"This is our first time for a challenge grant, but hopefully it's not the last," Forst said.

Fund-raising efforts by the Friends of Springfield Township Library began two weeks ago and "donations have just started to trickle in," she said.

There is no set time limit for the grant to be matched, Forst said. But the goal is to raise the money in the next six months, she said.

The library will move to the second floor of the Springfield Civic Center in Davisburg, which is slated to begin construction by late September or early October.

To send a donation, write to The Friends of Springfield Township Library, 10900 Andersonville Road, Davisburg, MI 48350. Donors should indicate if they wish to remain anonymous.

Pancake breakfast July 3

The Clarkston Masonic Temple will host a "Big Pancake Breakfast" at the temple Saturday, July 3 from 7 to 11 a.m. Discounts for children and seniors are available.

'Roadeo' drivers win top awards at regionals

Six Road Commission for Oakland County employees recently won three of five awards at the regional "Snow Plow Roadeo" competition in Southfield.

Drivers from several governmental agencies competed in an obstacle course while driving a large salt truck with a front snow plow. RCOC took first, second and fifth place in the event, sponsored by the American Public Works Association.

Forty teams participated in the county-wide competition.

The first place winners were the father and son team of Tom McArdle Jr. of Lake Orion and Tom McArdle III of Grand Blanc. Taking second place was Rich Wood of Clarkston and Bryan Green of Highland Township.

Fifth place winners were Bob Tyson of Lake Orion and Rod Bedell of Highland Township.

'G'Day' for Reading

Australia is the theme for this summer's reading program at Independence Township Library. Events begin June 24 and run each Thursday through Aug. 5.

Kids in grades 1-3 meet from 10:30-11:45 a.m. and those in grades 4-5 meet from 1-2:15 p.m. at the library, located at 6495 Clarkston Road in Clarkston.

The program, created by the Michigan Library Association, will feature different activities each week, such as a magic show, live animals, and use of the internet to talk online to Australia, as well as tales of the Outback from local storytellers.

For more information, contact Anne Rose at (248) 625-2212.

In Japan: CHS junior Adie Verla

While many students head to the water parks this summer, Clarkston High School junior Adie Verla is learning about another culture on the other side of the world. Adie left Clarkston Monday to begin a six-week stay on the island of Kyuushu in Miyazaki, Japan.

She was one of two students at CHS to receive a Japan-America Friendship Scholarship, through Youth for Understanding International Exchange. Each year, 120 students throughout the nation are selected for the scholarship.

Adie said she learned just one month ago of her opportunity to stay with a host family there and is thrilled about the trip. While in Japan, Adie will attend school for two weeks. She will also have the chance to meet with top Japanese government officials in Tokyo.

Karen Zynda, also a CHS junior and the other scholarship recipient from Clarkston, will visit Hiroshima during her six-week stay. She and Adie have taken three years of Japanese classes at CHS and plan on taking a fourth year of Japanese next fall.

'We are going to miss this guy'

Brent Cooley leaves a 'people person' legacy as he retires from Clarkston schools

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Brent Cooley and his family - wife Phyllis and daughters Janae and Courtney - travel up to Traverse City every summer, one of his favorite activities is picking cherries.

"My in-laws are cherry farmers, and their family is one of the original pioneers in Grand Traverse Bay," Cooley explained. "I like going out there to pick cherries with my kids because I want them to understand what that means."

Passing along lessons learned from the past to future generations is something Cooley takes pride in, both in his personal and professional life. Passing those lessons along is an essential element in being a high school principal, a position Cooley has held at Clarkston High School since 1993.

Cooley is leaving his position at the high school effective July 1. He has decided to retire from Clarkston Schools after a 13-year career that saw him move from assistant principal to principal.

He was originally slated to take a position at the board office assisting Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts, but Cooley has decided to retire instead.

In that time, Cooley has seen thousands of students pass through the halls of the old and new Clarkston High School buildings. And he hopes he has had a positive effect on each one of them.

"I would like to think it's a mutual rewarding relationship," Cooley said. "The most critical thing (about being principal) I would say is the mass interactions you have with the students, with your professional staff. I will miss watching these kids grow up and basking in the glow of their accomplishments."

Cooley has been able to witness many of those accomplishments first hand. You can always find him at home and away football and basketball games, chatting away with a fellow school principal, or mingling with parents and students. He makes sure he's at many school plays and concerts, leaning back, taking great pride in his kids' performances.

"I do bask in our kids' success," Cooley admits. "It's ok to have pride without being prideful."

As he sits on a metal bench just outside the high school's main entrance, Cooley's attraction to people is easily apparent. A small group of students from Waterford, using the auditorium for a play practice, ask him for directions. Cooley ends up engaging them in a five-minute conversation, asking them about their production, making sure it's sold out, and asking if the facilities are adequate. Almost as an afterthought, he directs the eager young thespians to their destination.

Later in the afternoon, several staff members walk by, exchanging quick-hitting comments with their boss. Several ask him if he's made plans for lunch. Others offer comments - for the record.

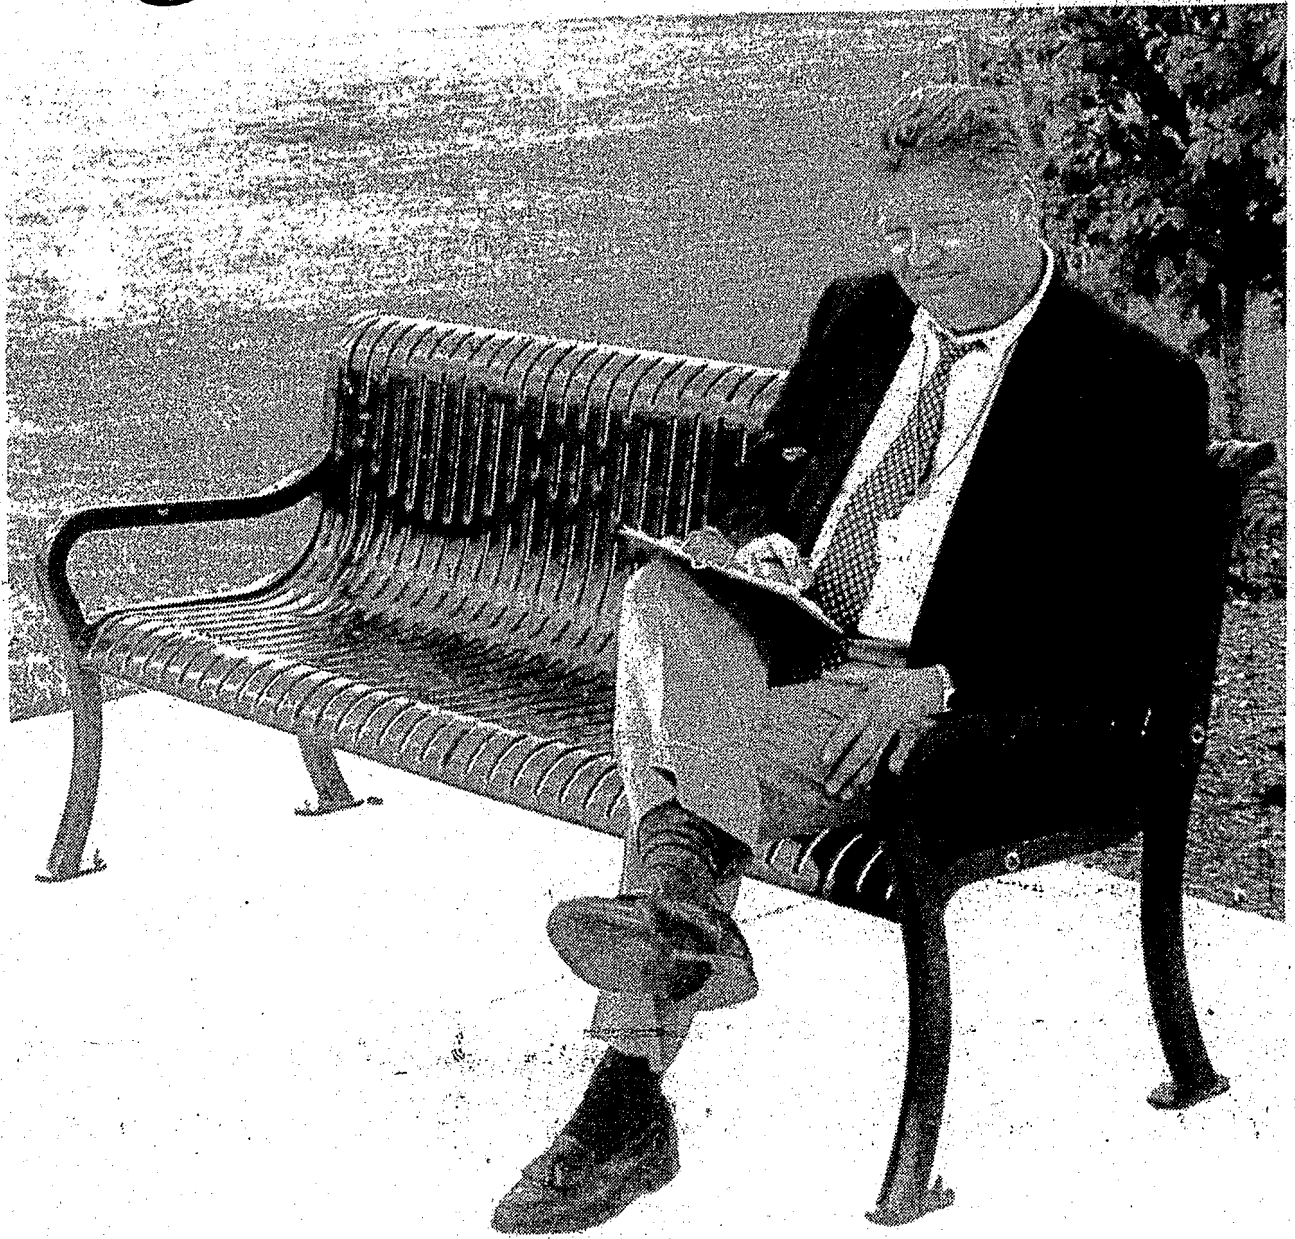

"It sure was fun working for this guy," said history teacher Walt Winiemko.

"We are going to miss this guy," says assistant principal Ron Santavicca.

Tom Shelton, a CHS staff member, said "CHS is going to be a different place without this guy."

Rick Detkowski, father of recent graduate Britt Detkowski, made sure Cooley was attending Britt's open house, scheduled for an upcoming weekend.

"See, they are all part of our family here," Cooley said, after pausing to collect his thoughts. "Guys like Brent Cooley, retiring Clarkston High School principal, watches the last few students leave the high school on the last day of classes June 16. Cooley, 49, is retiring from Clarkston schools after spending 13 years in the district, six as high school principal.

Rick Detkowski, parents like that are what makes this place so great. They see things all the way through for their kids."

Those are the kind of "people" skills that Cooley brings to his job. It is those skills that have helped him become an effective principal, according to Roberts.

"Brent's been a valuable member of our team and his care for his students is legendary," he said. "He has phenomenal people skills, and he's been a tremendous help to me, making contact with folks in the community. He's been an outstanding principal and an even better friend."

Cooley's road out of the CHS doors began a few years ago, a little north of the city he calls home. A graduate of Alma High School, Cooley didn't stray too far from his roots when he chose to attend Central Michigan University. He graduated from CMU in 1972 with a degree in political science. He has a master's degree in guidance counseling and a specialist's degree in educational administration. He also met his wife there, in her last year of school.

"If I had missed her, I would probably still be there," he quipped.

His first teaching job took him to Owosso, a town on the west side of Flint. He taught there for five years, including subjects like U.S. history, government, psychology and sociology.

He began his move into administration at Chippewa Hills High School, where he served as an assistant principal, athletic director and curriculum coordinator. In 1981, he moved a little further north, to Kingsley, a town outside of Traverse City, for his first principal's job. He stayed there until 1985.

Cooley said each stop he's made he believed to be his last.

"A common thread of everywhere I've been is that there are good people in every community," he said. "They are concerned with making things better and are supportive of doing the best things for the kids."

In 1985, with his young family in tow, Cooley arrived in Clarkston, becoming one of the assistant principals at CHS, the same year his daughter Courtney entered kindergarten. He became the school's principal on June 28, 1993.

"It was a culminating experience for me," Cooley said of becoming principal. "This is one of the finest high schools in the state and I have developed many personal relationships that I cherish."

Ever upbeat and outgoing, Cooley has been accused by some of always seeing the proverbial glass as half-full. He takes it even further than that.

"I see the glass as seven-eighths full," he says with a wink. "But I take it all as a compliment."

As positive as he stays, Cooley recognizes the inevitability of bad times. This school year presented Cooley with a new set of challenges, working out the logistics of opening a new high school building in the fall, and dealing with the fallout of the shootings at Columbine High School in Colorado in the spring.

"There have been rough times as well as good, and those times help to temper you," he said. "We have to make sure this place is good for kids all the School board secretary shares two decades of change

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After more than two decades of service to Clarkston Community Schools, Janet Thomas has seen many changes in the district -- and looks forward to what's yet to come.

The Clarkston resident has spent the last 24 years on the school board -- first as a trustee in 1975 and then serving as treasurer, vice president, and president, before becoming its current secretary.

She is also president of the Oakland County School Boards Association and received an award from the OCSBA for her 24 years of service to the Clarkston school board at the June 14 board meeting.

Thomas sees many changes in store for the next generation, in terms of education. First and foremost, she predicts technology will continue to evolve.

"It used to be kids having calculators, and now you're talking about computers with Pentium processors."

She said educators need to be aware of the pace at which technology changes, in order to better educate youth.

"They have to be aware of things not even thought of 30 years ago," she said.

Thomas said distance learning and virtual reality also will become more refined and enhance education.

"They (the children) still need the school for social opportunities, but we need to start preparing the children for the next century," she said.

Also as a result of technology, Thomas believes a resurgence of interest in math and science by kids is taking place. She said this interest will benefit them once they enter the "real world" setting out of high school and college.

She said in order for the district to continue to produce quality education, parents must also involve themselves.

"To have a good working school district, people will work on a PTA. . . . The school district is part of your community."

Thomas said it is parent participation that drives children to achievement.

"I think we all rise to the expectations that are set for us. Should we 'raise the bar?'" Should we have high expectations of our kids? Of course we should."

"There's no such thing as staying in that comfort zone. They (educators and parents) have to go a step farther."

Thomas and her husband, Michael, moved to Clarkston in 1968 and built a home just prior to when her first child, Gina, started school. All four of her children, now ranging in age from 36 to 28, were educated at Clarkston schools.

"There was the village and all relatively new subdivisions, and a lot of farmland," Thomas said of the area during the early '70s. "Clarkston was always a poor district, before the population explosion."

Thomas said it was her early involvement in the community, such as being a part of parent-teacher association meetings and volunteering for other projects for kids that spurred her to join the school board.

"I wanted to be able to have a say in what was going on with my children, and that's how I got involved."

She has worked with each superintendent that has been in office since Clarkston schools were consolidated, and said of the experience, "all of the gentlemen brought with them different perspectives, and it has been a pleasure working with them all."

Thomas is paid $30 per meeting, and she considers this a decent sum compared to $150 a year (what she was paid when first elected to the board).

But Thomas said being a member of the school board is more than just going to the meetings.

"To be a knowledgeable board member, you must inservice yourself on everything, from finance, to team building, to curriculum development," she said.

In addition, Thomas said keeping up on legislative policy in the state is an equally important facet of the job.

"It's an exciting time in education, and processes/procedures in the past are not as effective as today," she said. "And the kids are different today. You have

New Italian eatery applies for liquor license -- again

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new Italian restaurant opened in Independence Township last week. But diners will have to wait a little longer to enjoy a glass of wine with their meals. At its June 15 meeting, the board of trustees recommended the issuance of a Class C Liquor License for La Villa Ristorante, a fine-dining establishment which opened June 17 on Sashabaw in the Independence Town Square (Food Town) shopping center (see related story).

Kelly Allen, attorney for owners Sashabaw Properties LLC, said she expects the license in about two weeks. The state's Liquor Control Commission approves the issuance of Class C licenses.

Three licenses became available to the township last year — the first two because of a population increase from the mid-decade census. The third was due to a former applicant who never built his restaurant. Class C licenses allow restaurants to sell beer, wine and liquor.

Ironically, it was the second time Sashabaw Properties appeared before the board. The township recommended approval for a license to former member Nino Cutraro last November. However the license was denied by the LCC in April, based on a series of violations Cutraro incurred with other establishments.

Allen said problems stemmed from the fact that Cutraro "was involved in a lot of operations at once." Violations included young people "sneaking beer bottles out" of his larger, more youth-oriented establishments in Wyandotte and Ecorse. "He (Cutraro) was not on site."

Cutraro sold his 51-percent interest in Sashabaw

Properties to his brother Luigi Cutraro, who plans to manage La Villa. Donald Tocco owns the other 49 percent of the business. Luigi Cutraro has no violations record, Allen said. He was born in Italy and has prior restaurant experience in Florida and Michigan.

The Independence eatery would be "a major difference," Allen said, pointing to the smaller, more family-oriented eatery. Rather than submit a new application to the LCC — which might take months for approval — Allen submitted a supplemental application to the state, naming Luigi Cutraro the applicant.

She submitted the application "to get some idea whether they would entertain a family member. At this point, the LCC needs to investigate and approve the supplemental liquor license application," Allen said.

Members of the board agreed the local issue is separate. "The past should not be a concern to us," said Trustee Neil Wallace, also noting the smaller eatery in Independence. "I don't see underage folks going in there, trying to walk out with a beer. That is really how I founded my concern — what effect does it have on us."

Clerk Joan McCrary said she had already visited La Villa. "It's a real nice place. I would support Mr. Luigi," she said.

Though Supervisor Dale Stuart voted with the others, he said he was concerned about approving one of the coveted licenses for a restaurant of this size. "It's not particularly a good use for a liquor license for our community," Stuart said, noting the boom of restaurants in the township — and that more will come. "I think it would be better to save a liquor license for a larger site."

Area beaches tested for E. coli

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Swimmers and fishermen aren't the only ones wading in Oakland County waters this summer.

Testing of E. coli has resulted in the shutdown of several beaches in the last week, including one in Independence Township.

Steve Presby, supervising sanitarian for the Oakland County Environmental Health Services Department, said testing of area lakes occurs once or more each week, depending on previous E. coli readings. Bay Court Park, located on Greens Lake, was closed June 15 but reopened the next day when the bacteria level dropped significantly, Presby said.

"Because of die-off and the natural flushing action of the water, that often happens," he said.

In general, E. coli levels rise after a rain, Presby said. Beaches located near septic fields and storm drains in particular may be more susceptible to E. coli, and heat is also a factor.

"These both together can cause this elevation. It wasn't all that surprising," Presby said.

After heavy rains and high temperatures two weeks ago, Greens Lake had an E. coli count of 558. However, the following day, the level dropped to 44, he said.

E. coli is a subcategory of fecal coliform and is an indicator of other organisms present

Yes, Mr. Cooley will be missed

Clarkston schools is losing one of its biggest cheerleaders with the retirement of Clarkston High School principal Brent Cooley.

He is the quintessential optimist and was a driving force behind the success of the new Clarkston High School.

Fiercely loyal to the school district, if a critical comment was needed on school personnel or a school policy for a news story, it was not to be found from Brent Cooley. While this quality made it difficult to write an objective story, it is a quality to be admired.

We are sure he will be missed in the school community, and we wish Mr. Cooley and his family well in the future.

■ The collaboration between the schools and the Community Task Force for Youth in an attempt to stem the tide of rising drug and alcohol use is to be commended.

The schools are taking a proactive stance with the developmental assets survey and the funding for after-school activities for middle school youth.

Collaboration among all of the service groups, churches, businesses, schools and individuals will be what makes the attempt successful. MKC

Renaissance program deserves praise

Dear Editor,

As proud parents of another Clarkston Renaissance High School student graduate, enough can't be said about the staff and the program.

Without such wonderful people, and you all know who you are, these kids would have only one choice of a school. Instead they have an opportunity to have an excellent alternative. Congratulations, class of 1999, the best of the best!

Sincere Thanks,
The Parents of Jessica Moore

More gun laws won't solve violence problem

Dear Editor,

Our society and our legislator's response to the killings in Littleton, Colorado and elsewhere is truly pitiful.

In every single instance of the misuse of a gun to perpetrate a crime, a number of laws that are already in place are being broken. Only helpless, ignorant people could believe that additional laws will solve the problem.

In addition to not solving the problem, their fear and lack of knowledge proposes to take away the ability of honest, law-abiding citizens to protect themselves. It is a proven, statistical fact that where more citizens carry concealed weapons, there is less crime.

Our legislators, as the elected leaders of this nation, have a duty to educate their constituents, not promote and pander to their ignorance and fear.

Our once proud nation of strong, independent people has become lazy, and unwilling or unable to give critical thought to a problem, much less take responsibility for themselves. And I'm afraid that our legislators want to be caretakers of a country of cowering victims, instead of representatives and leaders of the strongest nation on earth.

Collaboration: What will the outcome be?

Will the partnership between the schools and Clarkston Community Task Force For Youth be the answer to stopping alcohol and drug use among teens in our community?

It may help, but it's obvious we must all be a part of the solution.

The students I interviewed for this week's installment in our drug and alcohol series (beginning on page 1) think the Search Institute's principles of developmental assets, treating each other with respect and more community activities for kids are some of the answers.

A very wise CHS student, Kenny Leonard, said some parents in this community (and all upscale communities) are working too much and don't spend enough time with their kids.

But another student I interviewed said kids will pretty much be kids and try drugs and alcohol anyway, and admitted to being one of the students the group targets.

The youth said teens who are drinking are more responsible than adults because they vow to each other not to drive or take risks, while adults are driving.

Hmmmm.

I love honesty in kids. It's fresh and exhilarating. As adults we often give it up so we don't make ourselves look foolish, or to protect ourselves. We're experts at skirting issues and some of us are becoming experts at personal "spin."

But the only way to address an issue is to face the truth about it, and that can't be done without honesty.

If what this kid says is true, there will always be groups of teens (and adults, for that matter) who drink or use drugs that we will never be able to convince otherwise.

Rebelliousness has been a part of our culture forever. It is what created our country, and when there is no healthy outlet for it, it finds expression in darker ways.

Years ago Time magazine published a theory about attention deficit disorder (ADD). The theory was that current sufferers of ADD had ancestors from the hunter-gatherer group of early man.

Their genes programmed them to respond to stimuli differently than, say, those whose ancestors were farmers.

When I researched a story on why American students consistently tested below students from other countries, a theory proposed by an education specialist said that Americans raise their children to be more independent than in other countries, and rebelliousness is a natural outcome of that.

Without a shred of evidence to back me up, I agree wholeheartedly with both of these theories. It is probably why extreme sports have become so popular here.

The developmental asset and prevention program proposed by the Task Force, and the cooperation and collaboration with Clarkston schools is very encouraging.

The enthusiasm of the Task Force's PARTY (People Are Relating To You) kids is catching. Some of their wishes for Clarkston are already here, just scattered and hard to find. But it is the working together that is the important part.

It will be interesting to see the final outcome.

OTC technical training at its best

Dear Editor,

I am a junior student in high school. I spend half my day at the new CHS and half at the Oakland Technical Center for a two-year program called the Manufacturing Technology Academy.

I recently completed my first year and plan to attend the second program during my senior year. The academy has opened my eyes to a lot of different career fields in Manufacturing and Engineering that I would not have been introduced to if I had stayed at CHS. The hands-on technology, such as Pneumatics, Electrical, and Hydraulic systems as well as AutoCAD, Robotics, and Quality Control areas we work with on a weekly rotating basis has taught me how algebra, trigonometry and physics are used out in industry.

The guest speakers and various field trips to manufacturing companies around Michigan have given me more than just an education in how things are designed and produced, but have also shown me that hard work and dedication pay off in the end not only in school but in real life, too. In my case it paid off in an "A" and a summer internship with Dura Automotive.

It has been fun learning about something that I can actually use out of school in the real world, and that is what I plan to do this summer.

A special thank-you to the staff at OTC for making learning fun.

Sincerely,

Benjamin James Lawrence

Kevin is a library sales brochure

So now the summer is here. And I'm out of school. I've been driving around town to get to my friends' houses and just generally enjoying the Three-Month Freedom.

But this is the first summer I've had a job - I'm working at a page at the Independence Township Library. So I'll always have something to do, keeping summer boredom to a minimum.

Although, some of the other pages might disagree. I'm not naming names, but the general consensus is that shelving books and keeping them alphabetically ordered and in proper Dewey Decimal order grows tiresome very quickly.

I would far rather be shelving books than doing a lot of things. It beats running the drive through window, with car after car pulling up and ordering, and me surely putting ketchup and mustard on the plain cheeseburger, resulting in a lovely reprimanding from the customer (not that I wouldn't get mad if someone put that garbage on my burger). And it's better than toiling under the sun, pushing lawn mowers around all the little long day. Or being responsible for the lives of fearless young swimmers.

I'm not quite what you'd consider a "people person." I don't mind - in fact, I need - time away from people. And I'm somewhat of an obsessive-compulsive organizer. Aside from that, I love books. So hiding away between the shelves and putting the books back into the Dewey arrangement they are supposed to already be in, with no one to bother me, is not a bad thing at all.

It's funny what changes when you begin to work in a place. After discovering the video section of the library is practically a Blockbuster, I was searching for tapes with a friend of mine. She had decided against a movie beginning with D, and placed it back on the S shelves. I could not allow myself to leave the video in its improper location.

CHS Life

Kevin Kosbab

Maybe it's just by own unique compulsion allowing me to not see this job as a chore. But the people there are easy to deal with and aren't your stereotypical librarians with a finger constantly in front of the mouth to visually assist vicious and icy "Shhhh!" commands.

Over the past few years, I've used our library very little due to availability of the high school media center and Internet research. As a result, I'm still being amazed at what all is really in the library. There are more books than can fit on the shelves, which I did expect.

But the same is true for books on tape - and I didn't even know we had any. The children's section has a vast array of videos and books on tape as well. There's a teen lounge in the young adult section. Internet terminals are scattered throughout the building, and there are circulating CD-ROMs available for home use. But I think I'm starting to sound like a sales brochure.

But maybe that's not so bad. Come on into the library! Check things out! Make a tax-deductible donation! More money for the library means more money I could be making!

Don't Rush Me by Don Rush will return next week.

Recently heard, old stories

Wayne Mickelson spent nearly 25 years in Oxford mining gravel and developing land. He's been gone from our scene for 20 years, but his name and reputation live on.

Honesty, integrity, quick wit and earthiness are his reputation. Mickelson Lake, which he made on the Captain Tareff property off Seymour Lake Road in Oxford Township, will keep his name going.

At a recent 4-day golf outing at Walter (Red) Rewold's place at Hubbard Lake, Wayne (who is in no way related to pro golfer Phil Mickelson) told of the almost-great discovery he made while moving earth west of Oxford.

Wayne and his brother Walter started mining with a bulldozer and chain-driven truck. Some earth had to be moved as part of the pre-mining procedure. Wayne had made about a 10-foot cut in the land with the bulldozer when he uncovered a large bone.

After another pass he saw another large bone. At that time he had to leave the job to meet someone. He left specific, excited instructions to his brother to not touch that area.

He said he had uncovered a dinosaur skeleton. Wayne was speculating that it may very well be worth considerable money, which they had little of.

When Wayne returned he saw that his brother had ignored his instructions. More earth had been moved in the dinosaur bone area.

Wayne was livid. And, he took after his brother. Walter said something like, 'Come here. I'll show you the dinosaur bones.'

With that he showed Wayne what he had uncovered. . . four more legs, each with a horseshoe attached at the hoof.

Wayne still doesn't understand why they buried that horse that deep.

One other "Wayne" story. One day Bill Patterson, then owner of Patterson Pharmacy in Oxford, and now Oakland County Commissioner, called Wayne to tell him he won a snowmobile.

Wayne asked, "How did I win that?"

"Well," Bill answered, "You bought four tickets on the Oxford Rotary Club raffle and your ticket won."

Without hesitation, Wayne asked, "What about the other three tickets?"

Wayne and his wife Pat now spend a couple months a year on Lake Huron south of Alabaster on U.S. 23, and the rest of the year on Pine Island, Florida.

'Once in a lifetime opportunity'

BLE principal excited about move to Independence Elem.

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Chris Turner will turn over a new leaf this fall. He becomes the new principal of Independence Elementary School July 1 after serving as principal of Bailey Lake Elementary for the past five years, and said he is looking forward to the job.

"My decision to apply was only because I see this as a once in a lifetime opportunity to be a part of a school from the beginning," Turner said. "I felt like I wanted to give it a shot."

He applied and interviewed for the position in December and the decision to select him was announced at the Dec. 14 school board meeting, he said.

Since then, Turner has been working to make sure the school is fully ready for its first class of students in late fall.

He was responsible for the hiring of 30 teachers for Independence Elementary -- five of whom will transfer from Bailey Lake with him. In total, 25 teachers will come from Clarkston Community Schools and five others will be new to the district, he said.

In addition, part of the planning has involved his ordering furniture and helping with interior design plans during the past few months.

However, due to construction delays, Independence Elementary, located at the corner of M-15 and Hubbard Road, is not slated to open its doors until Nov. 1, Turner said. He and the students and staff will be housed at Sashabaw Middle School until construction is completed, he said.

Students from Sashabaw Middle School will be taught at Clarkston Middle School for the next year, until renovations at Sashabaw are completed (following Independence Elementary students' relocation to the new school). CMS students will move to the former Clarkston High School.

Preparing for the move has been a challenge for Turner, but he said he does not anticipate any problems in relocating.

"The staff and I have been working to make that as smooth a transition as we possibly can," he said. "We've been working on how to make that school (Sashabaw Middle School) into an elementary school for a couple months."

He said he does not expect his responsibilities as an administrator to change a great deal when he moves to Independence Elementary.

"(At Bailey Lake), I manage the building, supervise the teachers... anything and everything regarding the school. It will not be a lot different once we get going," he said.

"I'm looking forward to focusing on one school and not just two."

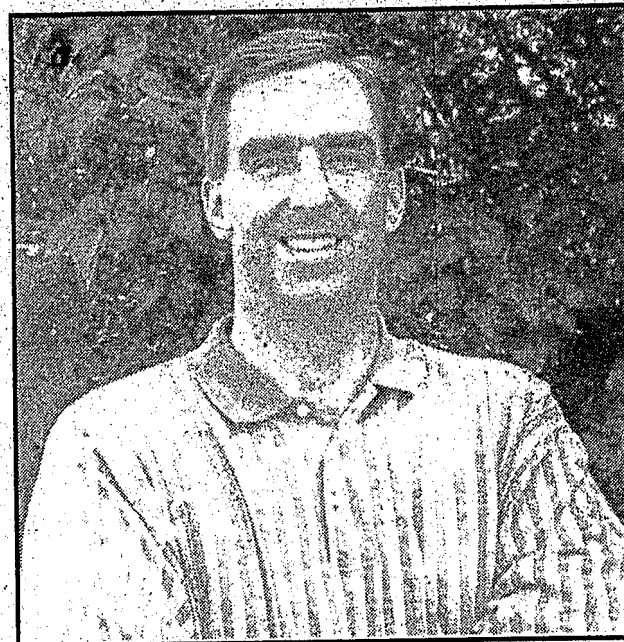

Staff input will be essential to all that is implemented at the school, Turner said.

"I've got lots of ideas of developing our own traditions and creating our own history," he said. "The staff and I are working to create a positive, challenging learning environment."

"We have to help them adjust," he said of the students, the majority of whom will be relocating from other schools. "For the first year, our focus is on making sure that goes smoothly."

To help with the transition, Turner has met on several occasions with the teachers and has a retreat planned for sometime before the fall. In addition, he has met with a parent transition team to plan activities for the upcoming year, and will hold three "Meet the Teachers" nights, where parents and their kids will be able to meet with instructors prior to the start of school.

He said he and the staff are excited about starting up in the fall.

"We're so positive about what we're heading into, despite the fact that we're not getting in there on time. I'm very excited."

Turner is a 1981 graduate of Central Michigan University, where he received his undergraduate degree, and also holds a masters and education specialist degree in administration from Oakland University.

Prior to coming to Bailey Lake Elementary, he was a principal at Ferndale Elementary for three years. Turner also taught elementary school for 10 years in both Michigan and Nevada.

Turner, now 41, has three children with his wife, Sandy -- Jeffrey, 7; Rebecca, 5; and Meredith, 2.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

This week I'm going to open and close what I call the de-stereotyping department. Through the years, various working groups have gained reputations different from each other. Somber ministers, sympathetic undertakers, etc.

I like to see people in work categories going against the reputation continued by others in their chosen field.

The reputation of drinking probably follows more trades than any other. And, it's good at times to see sober, teetotaling printers, butchers, tool and die men and editors.

On occasion it's nice to see a CPA appear in a colored shirt and broad stripes, a smiling banker, used car salesman who always tell it like it is, and politicians with a reputation of truth and honesty.

You get the de-stereotyping idea. Fill in some for yourself.

You're getting old when you remember mother turning over the collar of your shirt when it wore through and sewing it back on. I'm getting old.

One night last week I tightened the last nut on an engine overhaul of my wife's Model A. I was rejoicing that I had completed several hours of auto repair work in recent weeks without scrubbing the skin off a knuckle.

Then I discovered one last loose nut around the timing device. You guessed it! First finger, left hand.

Incidentally, the A didn't start. I didn't expect it to, only hoped. My auto mechanical ability is limited to asking a mechanic to check out something that sounds like so and so. I'm great at naming "sounds-like" noises.

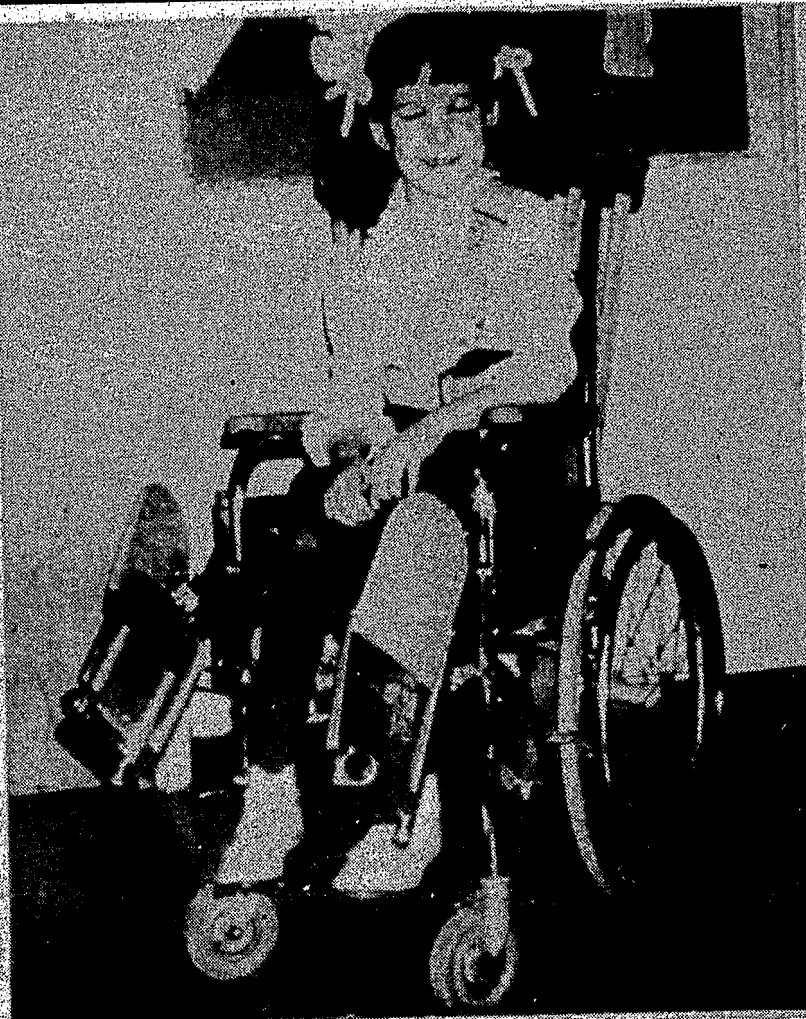

I tackled the A only because I've heard for years how you can fix them with a hairpin or baling wire.

That's a bunch of malarkey. The list of people I called for help and tools goes on forever, including Ross Tope, Gail Shafer and Kelley Stewart of Oxford, Bill Rausch of Clarkston and men in Davison, Port Huron and Chicago.

I consulted the "Model A Service Manual and Owners' Handbook of Repair and Maintenance," parts catalogues and talked to anyone I thought old enough to have driven Barbie Kevern posed for the Clarkston News at Easter time 2 years ago.

Building report

Building in Independence Township in March of 1971 increased by over $177,000 compared to that of March, 1970, according to the figures released by the Building Department.

During March of 1971 34 permits were issued for a combined value of $433,400. In the same period of time in March 1970, 24 permits were issued and building was valued at $256,189.

The permits issued were as follows:
13 houses	$374,950
8 add. and remodeling	16,100
5 garages	11,150
1 commercial	12,000
2 demolitions	500
4 swimming pools	17,000
1 barn	1,700

a Model A.

I learned one thing early. You need tools to repair an A. Spring lifters, piston ring clamps, valve grinders and compound, and assorted hand tools that were always on the other side of the car.

I broke a bolt off the oil pan and one off a cover on the manifold side. It was then after 11 p.m. The threads of the bolt are still in the engine block, but it doesn't leak. Of course, as I said, it isn't running yet either.

I did pick up a lot of auto mechanic language. Most of it is very much like a printer's language when things aren't going well.

Barbie takes a breather from her lessons.

Re-arraignment of teens scheduled

Three Clarkston High School students charged with malicious destruction of property had their case bound over to Oakland Circuit Court last week.

Steven Paul Selberg, 18; Zachary Robert Sartell, 17; and Aaron Lee Hayward, 17 allegedly snipped the air valves of the tires of 37 school buses May 12, causing over $3,000 worth of damage.

On Friday, Judge Gerald McNally waived preliminary exams at 52-2 District Court in Clarkston. The three now face re-arraignment on those charges before Circuit Judge Langford Morris, June 28 at 1:30 p.m. Steven was also charged with possession of a switchblade.

Malicious destruction of property is a felony, punishable by up to five years in prison and/or up to a $10,000 fine. Possession of a switchblade is a misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in prison and/or a $300 fine.

None of the youths have past criminal records. Steven and Zachary graduated with the rest of the CHS senior class this year, but were not allowed to participate in commencement exercises. Aaron, who will be a junior next year, will attend an alternative high school, his parents said.

None of the three were expelled, said Clarkston schools assistant superintendent Pat Brumbach.

Robbery suspect's court date changed

A Waterford man charged with three counts of armed robbery had his preliminary exam rescheduled Friday at 52-District Court in Clarkston.

District Judge Gerald McNally reset the exam to July 2 at 9:30 for Clifford Terry, 36, who has been charged in connection with the April robberies of Family Video and Frosty Boy.

Terry's former attorney withdrew, and he retained another attorney who requested more time to review the case, a court spokesperson said.

In the April 27 incident at Family Video, Terry allegedly pistol whipped a 19-year-old female employee as he robbed the store of the night deposit. Police are seeking a second suspect who allegedly assaulted another female employee.

During the April 9 robbery of Frosty Boy, he allegedly forced a 16-year-old female employee into the back office with a rifle, where a store owner, his wife and 9-year-old daughter were counting cash. According to police, Terry left with two bundles of money, but no one was assaulted.

Terry remains lodged at Oakland County Jail, with bond set at $150,000 ($50,000 per count) cash, no 10 percent. The maximum sentence for armed robbery is any term of years up to life.

Concerts in the Park to take place in July

A variety of music will fill the air next month as Concerts in the Park take place in downtown Clarkston. This year marks 20 years since the concerts began at Depot Park, located on Depot Road west of Main Street.

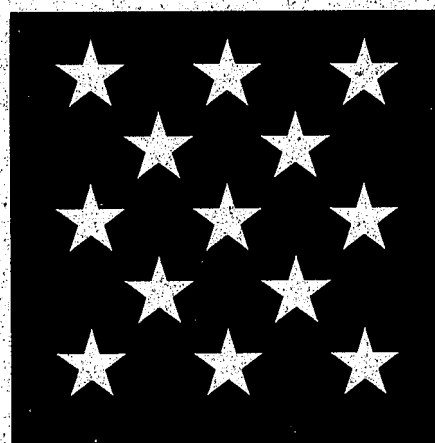

Concerts in the Park run from 7-9 p.m. each Friday in July. Concerts scheduled are:

July 2 — Air Margaritaville, Jimmy Buffet-style music; July 9 — Bobby Lewis & the Crackerjack Band, with music of the 60's and 70's; July 16 — Paul Ventimiglia's smooth jazz, likened to Route 66 and Take 5; and July 23 — Moose and Da Sharks will feature 50's tunes.

For more information on the summer schedule of concerts, call the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce at (248) 625-8055.

to be aware of that."

"If you just show up at the board meetings, you're not doing your job."

She said another myth about the school board is that certain board members have authority over each other and over the school district. She said the superintendent is the only board member who can take direct action on an issue.

"No board member has authority over the other members. We're supposed to reflect the attitudes of the community, and set the guidelines for negotiations."

"The school board is unique in that no individual has authority outside the board meetings. The boards of education are policy-setting bodies," she said.

"We're supposed to set the broad parameters."

Thomas said although the position of board secretary is very time-consuming, it isn't her only job.

A graduate of University of Detroit-Mercy, she holds a bachelor of business administration degree and a major in accounting, and owns her own business, Thomas Accounting, located in Springfield Township.

She is a trustee for OCSBA and has been president of Oakland Schools for the past five years. In addition, Thomas spent three years serving on the Special Education Advisory Committee for the state and served on several committees for the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Aside from her award from OCSBA, she also has received an Award of Distinction and her master's certification from MASB.

Thomas is also a grandmother, with three granddaughters, ages six, three and two.

Mel's Grill, one of the newest establishments to join Clarkston's restaurant row, opened for business the first week of June.

Breakfasts and lunches are served, with an emphasis on sandwiches. The highest priced entree is the Southern omelet at $5.25.

Kids' meals are also served. Specials include Coney Islands ($.99) Mondays, a fish fry ($4.95, less for kids) Fridays and two daily breakfast specials: for $4.50 you get three eggs, two pancakes, hash browns, toast and choice of meat. A smaller breakfast special ($2.95) includes two eggs, two pancakes or hash browns, and bacon or sausage.

Reubens and club sandwiches are the most popular lunch items. "I know because I make them," says cook Angie Boberg. They also feature several salads, including a popular grilled chicken salad served with pita bread.

Mel's Grill is located at 4545 Pelton at Sashabaw Road. Hours are Monday-Friday, 6 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Saturday, 7 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. The phone number is (248) 673-9655.

You'll find a delightful 'assault on the senses' at La Villa Ristorante

LaVilla Ristorante is now open on Sashabaw at Waldon Road in Clarkston.

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

General manager Dave Borowiec describes the atmosphere at La Villa Ristorante as "an assault on the senses." And this reviewer agrees.

Indeed, the new Italian eatery, which opened in Independence Township last week, attacks your eyes and ears as well as the palate. Borowiec describes the decor -- with its stone columns, greenery and tiny, twinkling lights -- as "very authentic Italy. When you walk in, there's the feeling you're in an Italian villa. You'll smell garlic and basil. You'll hear Italian music."

Then, there's the menu: a barrage of mouth-watering dishes from the northern region that will make you want to take your time to enjoy the full culinary experience.

I sampled three dishes: an appetizer, an entree and a dessert, whose visually pleasing presentation by chef brothers Zog and Lee Vulaj was almost too pretty to dismantle.

The Zafferano Risotto, an appetizer which blended lobster, morel mushrooms, saffron, risotto and asparagus, was succulent. The risotto, which I enjoyed in two dishes, was nutty, and the golden color (accomplished with saffron) -- well, I could have eaten a whole plateful. The lobster was plentiful and chunky -- in fact, the whole appetizer was plentiful enough to share.

I've tried Tiramisu several times, and I can honestly say this is the best I've ever tasted. It's melt-in-your-mouth delicious and light enough to enjoy after even the heartiest of meals.

However, my favorite was the Vitello Filleto: medallions of veal tenderloins sauteed with wild mushrooms, shallots in Madeira wine and demi-glaze sauce. Such bliss. It was served with that same delicious nutty risotto -- Milanese-type -- and a fan of fresh asparagus.

It's a beautiful-looking dish and, at $21.95, one of the priciest items on the menu, but definitely worth it. As I savored the chewy, Madeira-laced medallions, I felt I'd died and gone to heaven.

Minestrone soup is, of course, offered, as well as salads, pastas, chicken, seafood and red meat entrees. The chefs point out other favorites: Salmone Della Cassa, a grilled Norwegian salmon fillet served over wilted greens with sun-dried tomato vinaigrette; and Gamberialla Chef, gulf shrimp sauteed in olive oil with shiitake mushrooms, garlic, house-dried tomatoes and basil. It's served over angel-hair pasta.

The Spaghetti Alla Bolognese originates from the region of Bologna, and Chef Zog says it's made from the trimmings of tenderloin and Roma tomatoes. "It's just wonderful," he gushes. I tried it and found he is a man of his word.

Besides Tiramisu, desserts include creme brulee and cheesecake with fresh-fruit compote. Everything is created "in house," says Zog. Pasta, sauces and other items are made from scratch and to order. Entrees range from $10.95 (some pasta dishes) to $22.95 for the lamb chops.

La Villa Ristorante combines many talents. Borowiec's past experience includes general manager of Joe Bologna Trattoria in Clarkston as well as The Golden Mushroom in Southfield. Lee and Zog Vulaj come from Largo's in Troy. Waiter John Paul Slovak, a 25-year veteran, said he's looking forward to serving the good folks in Clarkston. "I feel our prices are really, really reasonable."

Borowiec hopes to include lunch hours within a month. Carryouts on any dinner item are available, and dishes may be ordered a la carte. Daily specials will begin next week.

Upcoming plans also include wine-tasting adventures, the second Sunday of each month. The first is set for August 8, from 4-8 p.m. and features four to six dinner courses and four to five wine courses. He estimates the cost at $70-$80 per person. Reservations are required.

Borowiec plans to draw patrons -- and performers -- from Pine Knob Music Theatre. "Had we been open a week ago, we would have catered to Carlos Santana."

The 136-seat restaurant includes an "Al Capone" banquet room, with seating for 16 people. Hours at La Villa are 5 to 10 p.m. Tues., Wed., Thurs.; 5-11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and noon-8 p.m. Sundays. Closed Monday. Reservations are not required, but are suggested. The phone number is (248) 922-1700.

Snore no more

pretending to sleep. "We call it Buck's first acting job," Joan cracks.

Clifford also interviewed a doctor and a company spokesperson for the show. Donaldson figures the public is intrigued by snoring and would like to know more about the subject, as well as the success of Snore Stop. It's marketed through other drug store-type chains as well.

"From what I understand, Meijer's is having a difficult time keeping it on the shelf," Donaldson said. She expects the segments to air sometime after Fourth of July weekend (stay tuned).

Waterford Meijer's employee Kathy Pack, who works in the health and beauty department, says there are actually two Snore Stop products available. The regular product sells for $5.99, the extra-strength brand for $8.49.

Manufactured by Green Pharmacy, Snore Stop — which comes in 20 chewable tablets — is taken 15 minutes prior to bedtime. Children take a half tab.

"We've got it on the fast track," Pack says of sales. "Anything that stops snoring, I think we'll sell a lot of. Probably save a lot of marriages too."

Joan has become a firm believer in Snore Stop.

"Apparently the product has been growing and growing. Even a medical journal says it's 80-percent effective.

Though she couldn't produce any statistics, Joan figures snoring is more common among men. "I don't know if men snore more than women, but it's thought they snore louder." She likes the packaging. "It's really cute. The box says, 'Make him take the pill,'" she laughs. Free samples are available for the inn's guests.

"We've got the display ad by the guestbook so everyone can see it. If they want it, they can take it."

Teen alcohol and drug use: what are the answers?

The assets are promoted by the Search Institute in Minnesota. Last fall the Task Force sponsored community workshops on asset building and this spring Clarkston schools surveyed 7th, 9th and 11th graders anonymously on the number of assets they have in their lives.

The survey results should be completed by mid-July, said Task Force coordinator Cindy Dixon, and then a strategy will be developed on how to use the data.

Pat Brumbach, assistant superintendent of Clarkston schools, and a member of the Task Force board of directors, has been in on the discussion of developmental assets for some time, said Dixon.

Concerned that it would be seen as "just another survey," Dixon said they realized it was important in conjunction with the Western Michigan University drug and alcohol survey results released this spring.

"The WMU survey tells us usage numbers and the Search survey tells us why. It shows us what's missing in kids' lives. The Search Institute calls that the 'Aha!' moment — why this all ties in," Dixon said.

The schools also sponsored three health teachers and three students to attend a Developmental Assets seminar in Caro, last spring.

Cheryl McGinnis accompanied the teens on the trip, which included viewing videos, receiving handouts and participating in workshops.

"Our kids were heads above the others (youth attending the seminar) in terms of knowledge of assets," said McGinnis. The only group from Oakland County, McGinnis said the Clarkston students, Tom Forst, Justin Diggins and Sandy Amble, realized that youth must take more control over what they want in their lives and show other kids how to do so.

For example, McGinnis said the students were disappointed in one of the Search Institutes videos and youth members of the Task Force are now making their own Public Service Announcement asset videos, which

Developmental Assets

According to research from the Search Institute, there are 20 External and 20 Internal Developmental Assets. Proponents recommend families quiz each other on them and discuss ways to build new strengths. A sampling of the assets are printed below.

External Assets:

- Family life provides high levels of love and support.
- Child receives support from three or more non-parent adults.
- School provides a caring, encouraging environment.
- Child perceives that community adults value youth.
- Youth are given useful roles in community life.
- Family has clear rules and consequences.
- Parent(s) and other adults model pro-social behavior.
- Involved three or more hours per week in lessons or practice music, theater or other arts/involved three or more hours per week in sports, clubs, or organizations at school or in the community.
- Involved one or more hours per week in religious activities.
- Out with friends with "nothing special to do" two or fewer nights per week.

Internal Assets:

- Child is motivated to do well in school.
- Child reports one or more hours of homework per day.
- Child places high value on helping other people.
- Child accepts and takes personal responsibility.
- Child believes it is important not to be sexually active or to use alcohol or other drugs.
- Child has skills to plan ahead and make choices.
- Child has empathy, sensitivity, and friendship skills.
- Child feels she/he has control over "things that happen to me."
- Child reports "my life has a purpose."
- Child is optimistic about his/her personal future.

Results of the Developmental Asset survey completed at Clarkston schools should be available in mid-July. —Task Force Coordinator Cindy Dixon

Forst is taping.

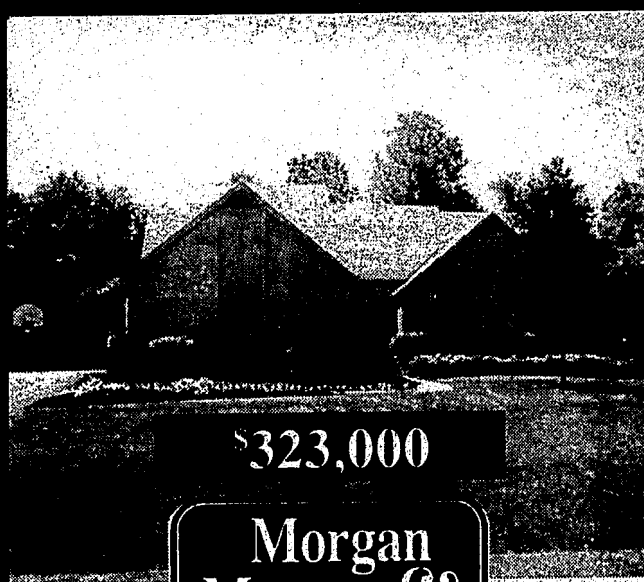

"Lots of kids realize they can empower themselves to get these (assets) in their lives," she said.

This is the first time McGinnis has worked with youth in such a way. "It's very eye-opening and gratifying," she said, adding she intends to refocus her time so she can do more of it.

What attracts teens to PARTY?

Can what it represents keep kids off drugs and alcohol?

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Adam Bridgewater is not a joiner. No school clubs for him. He skateboards, roller blades and has a part-time job. But when his counselor at Clarkston High School asked him to attend a Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth meeting as a favor, he agreed, thinking it would be a one-time only obligation.

"We're two kids (he and buddy Justin Diggins who attended with him) who would not normally go to anything like that. But when we heard we could do some things, get respect from the older community we joined up."

The boys attended the Town Hall meeting March 20 at Clarkston Christian Association. Bridgewater, who will be a senior in the fall, said he didn't think they'd like the other kids there. The boys saw some familiar faces at the meeting, and, "once we all started talking, we realized we're all the same."

"I saw what we could actually do, from something so little as extending lunch periods at the high school to developing better relationships or building a place for kids to do something. It shows the range of what they're involved in," said Bridgewater.

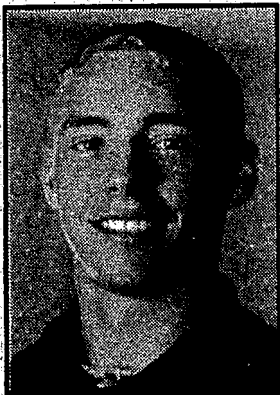

Courtney Craven

Bridgewater is part of the PARTY group of the Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth. It stands for People Are Relating To You and is an outgrowth of the Town Hall.

Task Force coordinator Cindy Dixon said members have known since the group's beginning in 1995 that to be effective they would have to increase youth membership and participation and it looks like the PARTY idea has worked.

In the last year Dixon said she has added more than 100 new names to the mailing list and over two-thirds of them are kids.

"Once the kids really believed we wanted to empower them for leadership, they flocked into the Youth Focus Committee." While preparing for the Town Hall meeting, the group came up with the attention-grabbing name, PARTY, then the acronym to make it work - People Are Relating To You.

Dixon is excited about the PARTY kids because the group is large, and is a cross-section of the youthful society in the area. Also, the group has a lot of young male members, which is unusual, she said.

Courtney Craven joined PARTY at the suggestion of CHS teacher Dave Bihl. She is also on the board of directors of STAR, Students Teaching Acceptance and Respect.

She said she thought the first TASK force meeting was interesting because she had never before attended a meeting that was run by both adults and kids.

She thinks some kids who are using alcohol and drugs do so because they have nothing to do and the Clarkston — 2004 goals are good ones. "If they had the things, even 10 years from now, it would still be a big help."

Kenny Leonard agrees the community needs more activities for kids. A student council member who will chair his second Homecoming Parade next fall, he Is CCA the community center everyone wants?

Many of the Clarkston Community Task Force meetings are held at the Clarkston Christian Association (CCA), an outreach of Clarkston's Mt. Zion Temple.

The CCA has been open for about one and one-half years, and is well-known for its indoor-outdoor skate-park for skateboarders and rollerbladers.

CCA has expanded its community programs to include toddlers, families and senior citizens, said Dan Niewoit. Niewoit is a pastor at Mt. Zion and is co-director of CCA with his wife, Laura.

CCA has been host to middle school parties, and middle school kids were bussed to CCA after school through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation bus service.

Niewoit said next year the schools are considering increasing the number of kids who attend CCA.

The reason is that kids are most at risk for using drug and alcohol after school, until dinner, according to surveys, said Niewoit.

Free tutoring is offered with study areas for homework, games like sumo wrestling, human bowling, pingpong and air hockey are available, plus 10 Sony Playstations, a billiards hall, satellite TV with parent-approved shows, movies and sporting events.

As a bar alternative, a swing dancing program for young adults ages 18-25 is available Friday nights from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. with free lessons for the first one to two hours.

A cyber-cafe is under construction and CCA will hook up to the Oakland County library system. CCA is also developing programs and an area for high schoolers.

Next fall drama, art, home economics, sign language and nutritional education classes will be offered.

CCA is completely funded by Mt. Zion Temple, said Niewoit and enjoying great success.

"It's not a controlled environment, but safe and positive. Parents feel good about leaving their kids here. We adhere to Christian standards. You can't swear, you must respect individuals, and we hold social etiquette as a standard. It's considered a place they know they need to behave," he said.

Niewoit estimates there are 3,600 members — based on the number of waivers which have been signed by parents, a requirement to get in.

Summer hours are Tues. 2 to 5 p.m. and 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Wed., 2 to 5 p.m. and Youth Group from 7 to 9 p.m.; Thurs. 2 to 5 p.m. and 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Fri. 2 to 5 p.m. Admission is $7 for the whole day or $5 for the first session and $2 for the following session. Sunday evening the youth group meets at 6 p.m. Call 620-4900 for more information.

How PARTY kids would like to see Clarkston in 2004

If you could picture Clarkston in 2004, what would it look like?

The Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth's PARTY (People Are Relating To You) youth group have imagined Clarkston in the year 2004, and this is what they'd like to see:

An intergenerational community that shows love and respect for all ages, embraces diversity, and concern for all opinions. Open communication is a staple.

Elected youth representatives serve on local government and school boards. The history of downtown Clarkston has been maintained and new opportunities for commerce and entertainment for youth and adults have been created.

A community center has opened up across from the high school and is home to many activities and meetings. It offers a coffee house that showcases local talent and art, and an outdoor pool and skating rink.

Under-21 dance clubs offer diverse dance music and a place for kids to safely hang out and feature local bands and talents.

There are weekly intergenerational "Dancing in the Street" activities at Depot Park. A Memorial Day weekend event showcases youths' talents with art displays, poetry and short story readings and band performances. All money raised from food sales, is used to help the arts programs at the schools.

There is more parking in downtown Clarkston and a cable car system links the various parts of Clarkston.

Clarkston neighborhood associations have worked hard to create a family atmosphere. Those who can help those who can't. Neighborhood directories list names, addresses and those able to baby-sit or help with lawn care. Neighborhood block parties are common.

A weekly mailing to community residents highlighting service opportunities and activities keeps residents informed, and an electronic announcement board highlights community events.

A Clarkston schools program welcomes new students and their families into the community. CHS seniors can volunteer to pair up with freshmen and act as mentors.

A student union is responsible for being proactive about political and social issues in Clarkston and beyond. Student council members are accessible to the student body and implement ideas from the student body.

Students want to get involved in community service and are active in projects that assist the local and surrounding communities. Service activities can be promoted at the national service website which is linked to the CHS website.

The faith community understands its part in the community and provides activities that are alcohol free. CCA plays a big part in providing safe after-school activities. Local churches take turns providing dances and after school sporting events.

THE LAW & YOU

by Robert Kostin
Attorney at Law

WILLING TO SETTLE

Parties to civil lawsuits should take more than monetary amounts into consideration when weighing the decision to settle the lawsuit out of court. Litigation is a time-consuming and expensive proposition that many people tend to underestimate. It involves being away from normal activities, disruption of life, and a drain on emotions. Settling out of court enables litigants to avoid these distractions, something to consider when being offered a settlement figure. While there is no precise formula for calculating settlement amounts, plaintiffs usually settle for less than they want and defendants usually settle for more than they feel they should. Thus a good settlement can be said to be one that does not leave anyone entirely happy.

Often times, the best service an attorney performs is action that keeps his or her client out of court. However, if a settlement cannot be reached and a courtroom is the only recourse left to pursue justice, you should have the services of a lawyer that is knowledgeable and comfortable with the judicial system and trial procedures. For matters involving personal injury, slip and fall injuries, auto accidents, criminal defense, business law, real estate, family law, and civil litigation in both state and federal courts, call us at 11 North Main Street (620-1030).

Hint: While it is a lawyer's job to provide advice concerning a settlement, the client has the ultimate responsibility for the decision to settle a case.

Restaurateurs provided the board with copies of the new menu. "I'll have the salmon," Wallace quipped.

■The fact that there's another fine-dining Italian restaurant nearby — Joe Bologna Trattoria — provides "healthy competition," said La Villa manager Dave Borowiec. In fact, he managed Joe Bologna's for one year.

Joe Bologna agreed. His white-tablecloth eatery opened in White Lake Commons (Farmer Jack) shopping center on Dixie Highway two years ago. "I welcome the competition. I enjoy it, just like Tiger Woods enjoys the U.S. Open. Besides, what can you do? It's America."

His restaurant also serves alcohol. Bologna, who owns two other restaurants in Sterling Heights and St. Clair Shores, says he loves the area so much, he's building a house "13 minutes away." He plans to recruit his son, two daughters and wife from the other two restaurants.

Future plans include building a larger, free-standing facility in Independence Township within the next few years. The restaurant would include catering, Bologna said. He would sell the current facility on Dixie.

"We enjoyed our little party when it was just Joe's," he added about the new kid on the block. "We'll work even that much harder. My passion for the business will never die. I have tremendous passion for it, the staff and the people."

■The township approved the first Class C Liquor License for Opa Restaurant Coney Island last fall. At presstime, owner Bill Grannis said he expects the LCC to issue the license this week. He plans to expand the front, and says he's acquired a building permit. That was confirmed by a building department spokesperson.

"By the end of the summer, we'll have a new addition with more seating and a bar," Grannis said.

became involved with the Task Force through his step-brother, Tom Forst.

"I wanted to make a difference," said Leonard. "I had so much on my mind I wanted to express. The PARTY group is so open-minded. You can state whatever you want to state."

"I like the idea of adults working with youth. It brings the community closer and shows you can do things if you just take the time to do it," he added.

Leonard said he would like a place to hang out. "I wish I was older and could buy (the vacant building at 6 S. Main Street). I'd open an ice cream parlor."

The PARTY group meets at the Clarkston Christian Association (CCA) at the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads. Currently, the group is working on a float for the 4th of July Parade on Saturday, July 3.

For more information about the PARTY group, call the Task Force at 394-0252.

in the lake water which can cause serious illness. If 300 colonies of E. coli are present in 100 milliliters of lake water, the beach must be closed until the level falls below 300.

"It's not like E. coli 451, found in hamburger. This is a general strain and it has a harmful strain, but it is not expected at these beaches," Presby said.

In 1996 and 1997, no beaches were closed due to the levels of E. coli bacteria in Independence or Springfield townships, or in Clarkston or Davisburg.

Aside from Bay Court Park on Andersonville Road, in Independence Township and Clarkston, sampling occurs at Cranberry Lake Estates, Crooked Lake at Independence Oaks on Sashabaw Road, Deer Lake Beach on White Lake Road, the Deer Lake Green Acres subdivision, and at two beaches in the Woodhull subdivision — Oakland Ridge and Woodhull.

In Springfield Township, Mill Pond at Hart Community Center also is tested.

Testing kits are available for those living on lake property. Ask for surface water testing bottles at the county health department, located at 1200 N. Telegraph Road in Pontiac.

Water samples must be turned in to the department and results are given within a few days, or sooner if E. coli levels are high.

For more information, call (248) 858-1312 or for beach closures, check out the health department Web site at www.co.oakland.mi.us.

time. If it isn't we have to do a gut check, because this has to be a good place for kids to be."

One of his favorite hobbies is reading. He subscribes to several newspapers and reads nearly any kind of book he can get his hands on.

"Reading helps me to understand the human condition," he said. "It helps me to increase my foundation of understanding. I can understand how to make others better and it helps me to become more insightful."

But the long, well-traveled road has ended for Cooley, who says he has retired. But don't expect Cooley to spend his days lazily swaying on a cot sipping lemonade.

"I certainly would like to stay involved with education-related activities," he said. "I have grown an attachment to the community, and plan on staying here."

Filling Cooley's considerable shoes is John Dilegghio, principal at Sashabaw Middle School. Cooley offered simple advice for his successor.

"Pay attention. Pay attention to your kids, pay attention to your staff. And John does a wonderful job of doing all those things at Sashabaw. We think we communicate a lot, but we can do more."

"The essence of everything is that we recognize we can do more. We're pretty good right now, but we can be better. If we continue improving each year, we will do our best for our kids."

Police and fire

Sunday, June 20, larceny of a CD player from a car on Lancaster.

A Caribou resident saw two white males, 16 or 17, in his son's car while it was parked in the driveway, unlocked with the windows open. They fled into the woods and nothing was taken.

Larceny of a cell phone, $5 in change and a nylon computer cased from a car on Staghorn. Prescription medications and a cell phone were missing from two cars on Tahoe.

A couple in the process of divorce got into an argument on Pine Knob Lane. The woman said her soon-to-be ex started pulling on her car door when she left her mother's house. She claimed he grabbed her shirt, slammed her against the car door and threatened her with a handgun. The man admitted he'd been drinking. He was arrested for spouse abuse and taken to Oakland County Jail.

Saturday, June 19, a N. Marshbank resident said his 16-year-old daughter violated her curfew several times and wanted her returned to Children's Village.

A craft sign was broken, flowers and bushes uprooted, a hose was turned on, rocks were moved, mustard was sprayed on the garage, and mustard and ketchup were poured on a driveway on Horncliffe.

Customer trouble at a Sashabaw gas station. A female clerk, 20, reported a 67-year-old woman came into the store yelling because there was no window washer fluid outside. She was advised by the clerk she could use an inside bucket to fill it up herself. The woman swore at the clerk and asked to speak to the manager. The clerk said she was the only person working and asked the woman to leave several times. She refused. A customer witnessed the incident and said the woman treated the clerk badly. He swore at her and the woman left.

Complaint of a graduation party on Clintonville. Police cited the homeowner for a host ordinance violation, after several youths were reported drinking. One 20-year-old was cited for underage consumption. The father said he was having the party for his 17-year-old daughter and didn't realize the teens were drinking until one hour before police arrived. Numerous beer cans were found in the yard, on the deck and in the woods.

A "for sale" sign was missing on White Lake. Larceny of a cellphone from a car on Clarkston. The doors were locked, but the sun roof was open.

Failure to pay for $10 in gas from a Dixie gas station.

Two female roommates got into a fight on Joy. One woman said the other woman grabbed her by the throat. The other said her head was bashed on the corner doorway. Both admitted to pulling one another's hair.

Friday, June 18, a cellphone was missing from a car on Ortonville.

An Oakvista resident said the 200 personal checks she ordered were never delivered. She called her bank and found one had been cashed at a building supply store in Macon, Georgia. She said she never shopped there.

A 69-year-old Clarkston woman was caught shoplifting at a Dixie grocery store. A store detective witnessed her stuffing items in her purse and plastic store bags, and covering the items with an ad flyer. She was cited for larceny. The groceries totaled $38.25. She told police she had $58 in cash and another $70 in her wallet.

Thursday, June 17, employees of a Dixie business found damage to the front door when they arrived at work.

A cellphone, canvas bag and soccer jacket were missing from an unlocked van on Pinewood.

A 20-year-old Lake Orion man said his 19-year-old Auburn Hills girlfriend scratched and kicked him in the face while he was driving down Clarkston.

An Eckles resident reported her son had been fighting with another 14-year-old boy.

Wednesday, June 16, two-car minor injury accident on M-15. A 17-year-old Clarkston girl was cited for failure to stop at an assured clear distance ahead.

An 8-year-old Clarkston Elementary School student, cutting home through Clarkston Middle School on Waldon, said he was approached by a stranger in the hallway. The white male, described as having short, straight blonde hair and dressed in a blue T-shirt and blue jeans, offered him two suckers and said he had more for him and his friends. The boy's mother called police.

A 16-year-old Clarkston youth and an 18-year-old Davisburg youth were cited for minor in possession of alcohol. The manager of a Dixie fast-food business said they were yelling and causing problems for customers. Breath tests revealed blood alcohol levels above .02, the zero tolerance level for minors.

Bad checks were written to a Dixie business.

A N. Marshbank resident found his door wall damaged and shaving cream sprayed on his front door.

Tuesday, June 15, several juveniles got into a fight on Oakvista, after one claimed another owed him $10. Juvenile petitions were filed on two 16-year-olds who allegedly assaulted each other.

Monday, June 14, damage was reported inside the old Clarkston High School on Middle Lake Road. Police found evidence of three small fires. Two doors were glued shut, a window was broken, the showers were turned on in the girls' locker room and hot sauce was poured on a desk and into an electrical box.

state of Michigan, represented state Attorney General Jennifer Granholm at the hearing and argued in court it is in the state's interest to not abandon the records, which are now housed throughout Oakland County in storage facilities.

"This is just a short-term solution," Chrysler said. "It's a huge number of records and it's costly. It's been a lot of finger-pointing (as to whom is responsible for distributing the records)."

The x-ray office and satellite offices closed after filing Chapter 7 bankruptcy in May. Thousands of patients were without a clearcut means by which to access the estimated 200,000 mammograms and other x-rays kept in storage.

In addition to the state's claim, an affidavit was filed by Dr. Murray Rebner, co-chief of breast imaging at Beaumont Hospital, that stated many patients in need of the records could not obtain them.

"It's affecting his patients. There may be unnecessary biopsies, which has occurred, incidentally," Chrysler said. "There are lots of important reasons to have these records."

Representatives from the American Cancer Society Great Lakes Division, and state department of community health officials also attended the hearing, to advocate the most expedient means for patients to retrieve their records.

A second hearing will take place July 8 at U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Detroit and was ordered by Judge Walter Shapiro to either determine a permanent means for distribution of the records, or to abandon them, Chrysler said.

Track teams rack up postseason honors

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In their first year in the OAA Division I, the Clarkston boys and girls track teams wasted little time in establishing themselves as teams to be reckoned with.

The boys team shared the league title with Rochester Adams and Pontiac Northern, and beat the Huskies in a dual meet.

The girls finished 4-2 in the league while beating state powerhouse Southfield in a dual meet.

The teams recently handed out its postseason awards.

The Most Valuable Player for the boys team was David Sage, the team's lone participant in the state track meet. Kevin Breen, who qualified for the state meet, but had to miss it because of mononucleosis, received the Heart Award. Cody Senkyr, a top hurdler and relay runner, was named most improved, and Shane Bennett was the Rookie of the Year.

Klint Powell also received a special award, the Two Decade Award. It signifies 20 years that his family has been involved in Clarkston track. Klint, the baby of the family, is a recent CHS graduate.

Sage was also named to the All-Academic All-State Team.

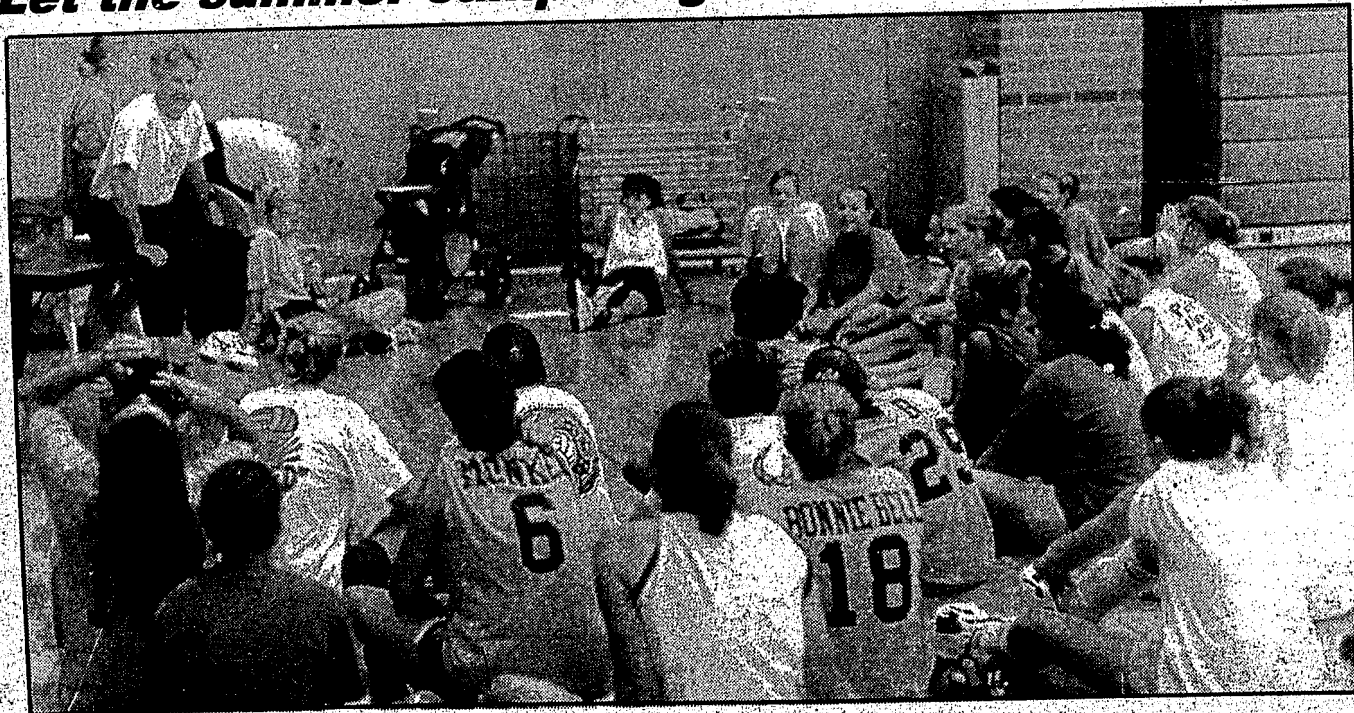

Coach Gordie Richardson faced a tough challenge this year, taking a young team (seven seniors out of 48 athletes) into the OAA I. Five athletes qualified for the state meet, and the team took third in the county meet and finished in second place in the league.

Jennifer Rooding, a recent CHS graduate, was selected to participate in the Midwest Meet of Champions for her strong finish in the state meet in the 800 run. She is the first Clarkston athlete to be selected for this meet since Chris Evans, after he was the state runner-up in the 1997 state meet in the 110 hurdles.

Rooding ran a 2:19.8 split in the 4x800 relay, 1.4 seconds off Carrie Roeser's school record. She was joined by Lissa Lukens, Nicole Fischer and Rachel Uchman in the team that was first in the county and fifth in the state.

Fathers and sons share softball experience

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's not unusual to see a father encouraging his young son to run to first base after getting a hit, not third.

Such is the life of little league baseball families, where the highlight of the day isn't as much the game-winning hit, but the cooler full of pop afterwards.

The father-son bond to baseball has spanned from little leagues right through to the Independence Township Parks and Recreation adult softball leagues for one team.

The Mr. B's team in the Adult Men's Sunday "C" League, coached by Mike Lozano, is made up of mostly father-son combinations. Lozano said the group began with the group of fathers, who played as a team 30 years ago.

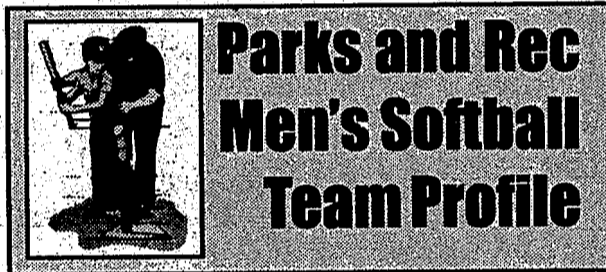

"We retired seven years ago, then when our sons got old enough to play in the leagues, we came back," Lozano said.

Team manager Ralph Landry said a "requirement" to be on the team is that you have to be an alumni of Pontiac St. Fred's High School, where many of the fathers on the team met.

"Most of us have played together since then," said Landry, who has a son-in-law on the team. "I think it's fantastic that so many of us can share this with our sons. What a feeling."

Lozano said the fathers on the team are mostly in their 50s, while the sons are in their mid to late-20s.

With the age differences, Lozano said the dads usually defer to the sons when the first pitch gets thrown out.

"They have the desire. We don't," he said with a chuckle. "I have two sons, and I coached them all through grade school, and now I get to play with my one son Michael. We let the sons play most of the time."

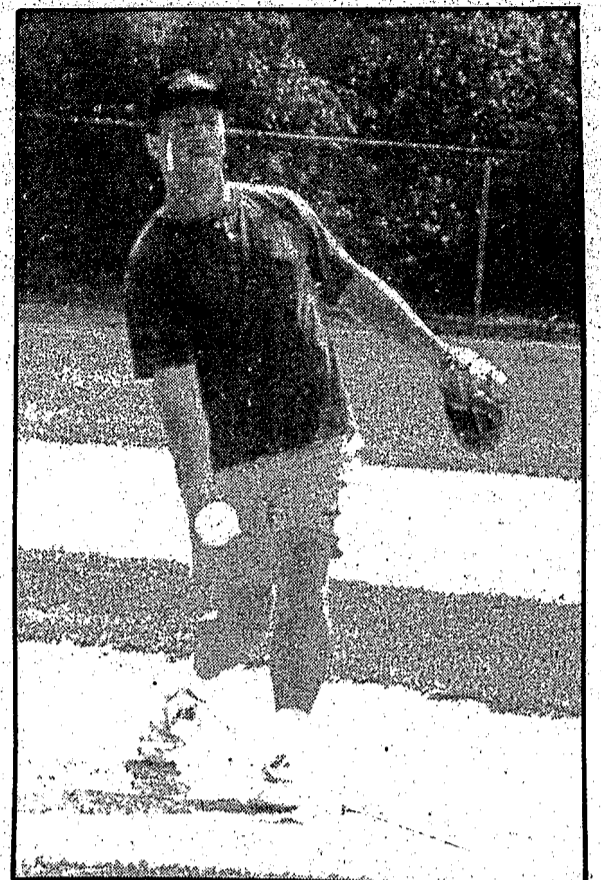

Greg Glynn has three sons on the team, and for the team's first game of the season, Lozano decided to start an all-Glynn outfield, with Greg's sons Jeff, Marc and Michael.

"That was so cool when that heppened," Landry said. "Dad was out there with all of his sons in the outfield. That was so neat."

"We are pretty competitive, but we like to have fun with things like that too," Lozano said. "We don't stack our teams like they do in other leagues, but when we go out there, we want to win."

In addition to their on-the-field work, Landry said it stays active in the community as well.

"For us, it's not as much about playing softball as it is keeping our kids drug and alcohol-free and keeping them off the streets," he said. "We raise money for needies every Christmas and Easter. When we do things like that, we see that playing softball is secondary."

Louie Savarino tosses a pitch for the Mr. B's Men's "C" League Softball team Sunday afternoon. The Mr. B's team is made up of mostly fathers and sons. The fathers have played together for nearly 30 years, and have brought their sons on board to share the playing experience.

Troy's success is a badge for all OAA teams

It was quite an emotional weekend for our arch-rivals to the south.

The Troy High School baseball and softball teams reached the state semifinals, with the baseball team getting to the state finals. Although both teams fell just short of their goal, their success is something Clarkston athletes can take a certain amount of pride in.

High school sports is so emotional and competitive, it's easy to get caught up in rooting against a rival almost as much as cheering for your home team. Troy and Clarkston are tough - if not bitter-rivals in many sports. The football and basketball games between the two schools end up being classic battles every year, regardless of which team has the most talent.

When the state playoffs come around, it's inevitable that excellent teams get knocked out before they should. That happened to Clarkston's baseball and softball teams this year, who had terrific regular seasons, but could not get out of districts.

But players and coaches on those teams can take a small measure of pride in the postseason success fellow OAA teams had in the postseason.

In baseball, Troy and Rochester Adams each reached the quarterfinals. Berkley won its district. In softball, Waterford Kettering made it to the quarterfinals also, and Lake Orion emerged with a district title, in addition to Troy's unexpected run to the state semifinals.

Clarkston athletics prides itself on measuring up to the best possible competition in each sport. The Wolves may not always emerge victorious in these meetings against heavyweights from Oakland County, but those teams get few battles as tough as they receive from Clarkston.

This year, the Wolves lost one-run games to Troy and Kettering in softball, and Adams in baseball. Although these losses may be frustrating for players, coaches and parents, I would take some comfort in knowing that the Clarkston kids went up against the very best, without fear or reservation, and deserved to win as much as anyone.

Many coaches in the Clarkston system strongly believe in the philosophy of scheduling tough teams instead of lesser teams for the sake of a won-loss record. I hope the coaches continue to subscribe to this philosophy. The kids will be better served in the long run by learning what it's like to go up against the best, rather than settling for someone they can beat. With the skill and commitment of Clarkston athletes, I know one day, it will be good teams from Troy and Rochester sitting home, watching the Wolves on the state's center stage.

■ In the past couple weeks, I have been seeing a trend in high school baseball and softball that is troubling to say the least: the influence of umpires in outcomes of games.

Most of my colleagues in the sportswriting business try to shy away from even mentioning officials in their game reports if at all possible. We try to keep the focus of our stories where it belongs - the game on the field.

But it seems this year, officials are becoming more and more a part of the story, for right or wrong. The relationship between players and coaches and officials has broken down, and it's very troubling to me.

In the state semifinal softball game between Troy and Okemos, the Troy pitcher was called for throwing an illegal pitch three times, twice leading directly to Okemos runs in a 3-0 victory. According to published reports, the umpire who made the call refused to explain it to the Troy coach, and commanded that no other umpires be consulted on the call.

I was not at the game, so I cannot give an opinion. But in a game like the state semifinals, where every play - never mind every run - is magnified to the extreme, I feel umpires have an obligation to explain every gray-area call to both coaches, so there are no disputes.

Similarly, a regional game between Waterford Kettering and Lake Orion was centered around an official's call. Softball rules state that a runner has to slide on every close play at home plate. A Kettering player did not do this, yet was called safe on a play that led to a run. The Lake Orion coach protested, as he had a right to do, but the umpires would not even hear of it.

I have always said that officials at all levels have very tough jobs. A job I never want to have. But these kids and officials have worked too hard to get to these kind of levels in state tournament play, only to have unexplained and disputed rulings make the fate of their day.

I hope the MHSAA takes heed of the deteriorating relationships between officials and coaches. Both sides have work to do in this relationship. Coaches must allow the officials to be human, and officials should take the time to explain themselves on disputed calls. It will make the high school sports experience better for the kids, and really, this is why we are all doing this in the first place.

Mitchell named HM All-State in baseball

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although his team didn't see any action in the state regional tournament, Chris Mitchell still represented Clarkston at that level.

Mitchell was named All-Region Team by the MHSAA. After getting named to that team, Mitchell was named honorable mention All-State. The Clarkston varsity baseball team lost in the district finals 18-15 to Lapeer West.

The spot on the team was the culmination of a terrific season for Mitchell, his third on the varsity team. Mitchell is also the starting halfback for the varsity football team.

One of the team's starting pitchers, Mitchell compiled a 5-3 record on the mound, striking out 51 batters in 51 innings pitched, while walking only 13.

He was also one of the team's all-around leaders offensively. He finished with a .480 batting average, slamming 49 hits in 102 at bats.

He finished with four home runs, 29 runs batted in, 35 runs scored and 20 walks. He only struck out six times all season, and drew 20 walks. He also had a .963 fielding percentage.

His best game of the season came April 30 when he shut out the Rochester Falcons. He struck out 13 batters in a magnificent performance, a 6-0 Clarkston win.

"He is an All-State player," varsity baseball coach Phil Price said of Mitchell. "He's outstanding now, and I can only imagine how good he will get in the future."

Clarkston's Chris Mitchell had a terrific baseball season for the Wolves, and was named to the All-Regional Team.

Richards earns OCC academic honors

Allison Richards, a 1997 CHS graduate, was recently named to the Michigan Community College Athletic Association All-Academic team for the 1998-99 season.

Richards, a forward for the Oakland Community College women's basketball team, played in 15 games with one start, and averaged three points per game. A two-year veteran of the Lady Raiders program, Richards has a 3.41 grade point average and has 49 credits.

To earn all-academic honors, athletes must carry a 3.2 grade point average and have earned at least 45 credits.

Michigan Rams host tough tournament

Although the Michigan Rams baseball team finished with a 1-3 record at last weekend's third annual Great Eight Classic, it wasn't because they played bad baseball.

The Rams, coached by Clarkston resident George Drallos, hosted the tournament at Madonna and Oakland Universities, brining in some of the top amateur summer baseball teams in the state.

"The creme of the crop," Drallos said of the competition level.

The Rams lost close games to the Michigan Bulls 6-5, the North Oakland Stars 3-1 and the Michigan Braves 4-3 in eight innings. The Rams bounced back to beat Livonia Travel 8-3 in the tournament finale.

The game against the Braves was called because of darkness with the score tied 3-3. The teams had to return to Madonna University at 6 a.m. Sunday to finish the game.

"The kids showed great character in doing that," Drallos said.

The Rams have several Clarkston players on its team, and they came though with solid performances. Senior Chris Mitchell went 5-for-12 in the tournament with a run scored and two runs batted in. 1999 CHS graduate Eric Jenks had two hits and two RBI, and fellow graduate Spencer Hynes had three hits. John Drallos, another recent graduate, went 4-for-10 with two stolen bases, two runs scored and a run batted in.

George Drallos marveled at the quality of competition, where only three of the 21 total game splayed had a margin of more than one run. Many college scouts also came out to see some of the area's top talent, including representatives from Central Michigan, Western Michigan, Oakland, Madonna, Ball State, the University of Detroit, and Wayne State.

"There was great competition and the pitching was just tremendous," Drallos said.

Convenient Clarkston Classes!

M.B.A., Information Systems, and Industrial Operations classes added in Clarkston!

In response to popular demand, courses leading to Lawrence Tech's prestigious M.B.A., M.S. Information Systems, and M.S. Industrial Operations degrees are being added to the University's Clarkston offerings. The master's programs join Lawrence Tech's B.S. in Engineering Technology courses launched in Clarkston last year.

Lawrence Tech's Clarkston campus is in the Oakland Technology Center-Northwest, situated at Dixie Hwy. and I-75, exit 93. All programs meet in the evening and some master's classes will be available on Saturdays.

Lawrence Tech's graduate programs in management traditionally rank among America's highest in customer satisfaction. Alternately, if what you need is a bachelor's degree to advance, LTU's B.S.E.T. courses enhance your preparation for high tech, high paying careers!

Why wait? For information on classes in Clarkston or about any of the over 40 degree programs offered at our main campus in Southfield phone 1-800-CALL-LTU, ext. 4, today! Fall classes begin August 25.

Celebrity golf classic to benefit low-income families

Salomon Smith Barney will present the 10th annual Lighthouse Emergency Services Celebrity Golf Classic on Monday, June 28 at Wabek Country Club in Bloomfield Hills. Golfers will enjoy 18 holes of golf on this course designed by Jack Nicklaus and Pete Nye, and lunch and dinner. Tickets are $285 per golfer and a local celebrity will join each foursome. Call (248) 335-5400 to register.

Master of Ceremonies Rich Fisher, UPN 50 news commentator will join other celebrity golfers including Joanne Purtan, Randy Bhirde, and Nancy McCauley. Jim Brandstatter and Reggie McKenzie will be the keynote speakers during dinner. Wabek Country Club is located at 4000 Clubgate Drive, Bloomfield Hills, off Long Lake Road between Franklin and Middlebelt.

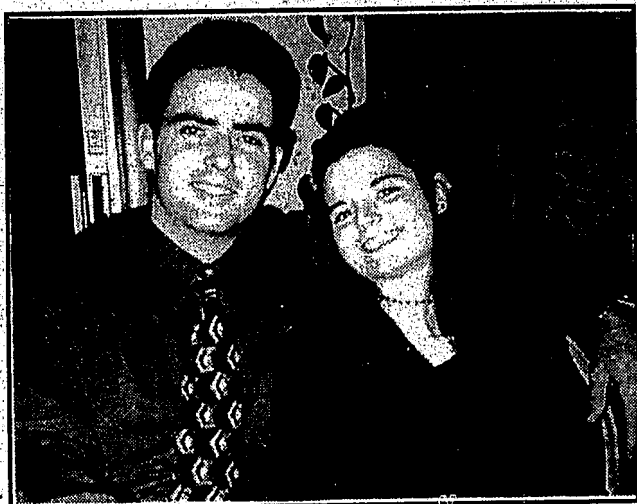

Milestones

Greaves - Leonard

Tom and Cathy Greaves of Rochester Hills announce the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie, also of Rochester Hills, to Matt Leonard, son of John and Charlotte Leonard of Clarkston.

The bride-to-be is a sophomore at Oakland University and a 1996 graduate of Rochester High School. The groom-elect is a 1999 graduate of Oakland University with a bachelor of arts degree in communications and management information systems. He is also a 1995 graduate of Clarkston High School.

A May 2000 wedding is planned at Christ the King Church in Oxford.

Welcome, Joseph!

Tom and Amy (Goerss) Beattie of Clarkston are proud to announce the birth of their son, Joseph Eric, Feb. 16, 1999. Joseph was born in Pontiac, weighing 9 pounds, 10 ounces and 20 inches long.

Excited siblings are Thomas, 11; Emily, 8, and Clark, 3. Proud grandparents are Bob and Doris Beattie of Clarkston and Bill and Regina Goerss of Fort Wayne, Ind., and great-grandmother Golda Cecil of Fenton.

Jurginac - Frisch

Tom and Janice Jurginac of Lake Orion announce the engagement of their daughter, Holly, also of Lake Orion, to Tim Frisch, son of Barbra and Robert Frisch of Lake Angelus.

The bride-to-be is working on her bachelor's degree and is employed as a nanny, and the groom-elect holds an associate in business degree and works as a foreman for G.A. Frisch Roofing and Sheet Metal of Troy.

A May 2000 wedding is planned at Pine Knob Mansion in Clarkston.

At School . . .

Music scholarships have been awarded to two Clarkston Middle School students by Marshall Music Company of Lansing. The students, Ashley Doyle, daughter of Nancy Doyle, and Lisa Wilke, daughter of Vicki and Greg Wilke, will attend summer study at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

Each scholarship is $300 and is given on the basis of musical achievement, citizenship and recommendations.

Re-elected . . .

Jennifer L. Radcliff has been re-elected President of the Historic Preservation Review Board, an appointed board responsible for reviewing Michigan's nominations to the National Register of Historic Places. The review board is also charged with hearing appeals to decisions made under Michigan's Local Historic Districts Act. Ms. Radcliff serves as president of the statewide Michigan Historic Preservation Network, and volunteers on numerous local, county, state and national boards.
