Local businesses caught selling alcohol to minors

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Detectives Perry Dare and Dave Hendrick of the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation recently conducted a surprise sting operation in Independence and Springfield townships and Holly.

Two female youth decoys, 18 and 19, were used to try to buy alcoholic beverages from party stores, restaurants and other establishments.

Twenty-seven businesses were targeted, with over two-thirds passing the sting operation. Eight establishments were caught selling alcohol to minors. They include:

■Independence Township: Arbor Drugs, 7091 Dixie Highway; Waterford Courts, 6110 Dixie Highway; and Mr. B's Roadhouse, 6761 Dixie Highway.

■Springfield Township: Springfield Inn, 10197 Dixie Highway in Davisburg

■Holly: PNC Country Store, 3005 Grange Hall; Quick Sav #6, 820 N. Saginaw; Holly Inn, 902 N. Saginaw; and Downtown Holly Party Store, 101 E. Maple.

Dare said information is turned over to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission and the local district court. The LCC fines store owners, the district court fines the individuals (store clerks, bartenders, etc.) who sell to minors. The judge sets amounts in the latter, but the average fine is $75, said a 52-2 District Court spokesperson.

According to a LCC spokesperson in Lansing, a store owner can be fined from $300-$1,000 per charge. "It depends on their violation history," she said. A license can also be suspended or revoked, depending on that history.

The comments from clerks and bartenders ranged from thinking they were old enough to being too busy to check IDs. Dare said some people checked IDs, but still sold to the decoys anyway. "Two places actually checked the ID, looked at it and still sold to her," he said.

Noting the oldest decoy's birthday — October 1979 — "the best she could be would be 20 years old."

Schools budget approved for '99-'00

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Community Schools Board has taken yet another step toward preparation for the upcoming fiscal year.

An "abbreviated" hearing on the 1999-2000 budget took place June 28 to further explain details of the budget first presented at the June 14 board meeting.

Craig Kahler, director of business services for Clarkston Community Schools, said he was pleasantly surprised by the fact that state aid, which he predicted would decrease, will actually increase significantly in the next two years.

For the 1999-2000 and 2000-01 school years, "as a rarity, they actually worked in our favor," Kahler said, although he said he has no quantitative figures yet as to how much the schools will benefit.

In addition, debt retirement fund revenues will allow the district to continue the seven mill levy, he said. Also on the plus side, property tax revenues will increase from $7.6 million in 1998-99 to just over $8.3 million in 1999-2000.

Kahler said investments are expected to rise, and in special revenue funds, the athletic budget was changed to show hockey as a board-sponsored sport.

Also, Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus was removed completely from the budget and transferred to the Oakland Schools Intermediate School District.

City water main opposed

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Main Street residents flooded the Clarkston city council Monday night, protesting a proposed special assessment district that would help pay for a new water main to go through downtown.

The free-flowing discussion often turned heated, as several residents believed the council was ready to move ahead with the assessment. The council defended its position, saying it was only looking into possible options at this time.

At its June 14 meeting, the council discussed

The News in Brief

Clarkston man dies in accident Saturday on I-75

A Clarkston man was killed Saturday afternoon when he was struck by an oncoming car at the 94-mile marker on I-75 near Dixie Highway.

Reginald Darnell Perry, 40, of Clarkston, pulled to the shoulder of the road when his car overheated. His brother was inside the car and his girlfriend had been leaning into the car when an oncoming car hit Perry, who was standing alongside the vehicle, said Springfield Township Fire Dept. Chief Charlie Oaks.

Oaks said the accident is still under investigation by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. He said negligent homicide by the 49-year-old driver from Monroe, who hit Perry, is not being ruled out in the cause of the accident.

OSCD Det. Walter Blackmer, traffic investigator for the sheriff's department was unavailable for comment Monday.

Rezoning of Ellis property faces Springfield board

The Springfield Township Planning Commission voted unanimously June 14 to support having a small portion of acreage to be developed by Tim Birtsas rezoned.

The township board will make a decision at their upcoming meeting as to whether or not the 6.067 acres of land on the historic Ellis Farm should be rezoned from R-1 (single family residential, one and one-half acre lots) to R-2 (one acre lots), said Nancy Strole, township clerk.

In May, Birtsas requested 58 acres of land be rezoned for homes, and at the board's June 10 meeting, reduced the amount of acreage he wanted as C-2 (general business) on the approximate 79-acre parcel from 21.3 to 16.8 acres.

The commercial rezoning was approved, but the acreage left over from the reduction still needed support from the planning commission.

"From a planning standpoint, it doesn't make a lot of sense (to leave the six acres as is)," Strole said.

Board members will decide the fate of the parcel at their July 13 meeting.

'Air Margaritaville' headlines Concerts July 2

Air Margaritaville, featuring Jimmy Buffet-style music, will take the stage July 2, kicking off this summer's Concerts in the Park at Depot Park, located on Depot Road in downtown Clarkston.

Concessions including pizza, lemonade, pop and ice cream will also be available throughout the evening. All concessions benefit Lighthouse Emergency Services.

The concert runs from 7-9 p.m. and is the first in a series of concerts to take place at the park. Other concerts are: July 9 -- Bobby Lewis and the Crackerjack Band, music of the 60's and 70's; July 16 -- Paul Ventimiglia's smooth jazz; and July 23 -- Moose and Da Sharks, with 50's music.

Dileggghio takes over CHS principal's seat

Former SMS principal hopes to make the new CHS a true home for students

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tomorrow, John Dileggghio officially becomes the new principal at Clarkston High School. It may be his first day on the job, but it's something he has spent a career preparing for.

Dileggghio, a graduate of Dearborn Fordson High School and Arizona State University, has served as principal at Sashabaw Middle School for the past two years. Prior to that, he had served as an administrator at Hartland High School and was a teacher at Waterford-Mason Junior High and Waterford Kettering High School.

He takes over the CHS principal's position from Brent Cooley, who retired from Clarkston schools.

Recently, he sat down with reporter Brad Monastiere to discuss his thoughts on the new job and the challenges that await him.

Q: Gives us your definition of a good high school principal.

A: "One that listens. Just like any administrative position you would hold in a school, you have to listen to the students, the staff, and anyone else you work with. You also have to be decisive. You collect the data by listening, and turning that into meaningful information. And when you make those decisions, you have to be compassionate about it."

Q: How is the principal's position at a high school different than at a middle school?

A: "The first thing is, you have to understand that these are still kids, and they are still forming values and learning how to make good decisions. One difference here is that you can rely on these kids to have some maturity and you can expect them to make wise choices. When you work with students here, you work more with the cognitive area, whereas in a middle school you work more in the affective area. At a high school, the students have those skills, and you just work with taking them to the next level."

Q: What did you learn, as an administrator, from the fallout of the Columbine High School shootings?

A: "We were pretty busy at Sashabaw with that as well. I still talk with lots of administrators from around the state and out of the state, and we learned that everyone is facing the same problems. The biggest part of it is communication. We have to get the kids to communicate with each other. They tend to segregate themselves, but this is nothing new. It's been going on for decades. We need to have kids communicate with each other and listen to each other. If we give them the opportunity to do that, we can make this the safest place it can be."

Q: What are your thoughts on extra-curricular activities at the school, and the importance you place on them as a function of the school?

A: "This facility dictates that we can have more activities for everyone. The first thing we have to realize is that this is not the old CHS. We have to make new traditions, while carrying on the heritage of CHS here. The physical plant of the building allows us to get more kids involved than ever before. We certainly have a very rich heritage in athletics, and while I want to maintain that, I want to build up the academic arena. We already are competitive with kids from places like Detroit Country Day and (Detroit) Catholic Central in the athletic arena, but I want us to be competitive with them in the academic arena as well. That means having Quiz Bowl teams that are competitive at the state level. Our band is also outstanding. We have great participation in it, and they have a huge following. I want to see more academic stuff."

John Dileggghio, wearing the shirt of his college alma mater, sits in his new chair as principal of Clarkston High School. Dileggghio takes over at CHS after two years as the principal at Sashabaw Middle School. He said in his first year, he wants to help begin new traditions at the one-year old building, as well as continue old ones.

Q: We have heard from some students and staff that the new high school building is too impersonal. How will you address this?

A: "First of all, we have to realize that first and foremost, this is a school. The building has an aura about it, with all the technology it has. But the spirit of a high school has to come from the kids. We recently had our class elections where we picked the executive-board, class representatives, and the student council. I will call many of these kids sometime in July, and we'll just walk around the building. I want to hear from them what kind of things we can do, in terms of paintings, graphics and that sort of thing, to make it more their school. We want to find where we can paint the CHS logo, other places where we can have "Home of the Wolves," and that kind of thing. We are moving The Rock from its spot at the old high school to here. We are going to work with the little courtyard area we have out front. We're adding some granite benches. We want to consistently improve to help meet the needs of the kids."

Q: What is Vince Licata's role at CHS?

A: He will be an assistant principal. We will have more than 2,200 students here next year, so he will be picking up some of that. It's a leveling off. And if some of these new subs fill up, we could get even more students than that."

Q: How has technology changed education, and how will it affect education here at Clarkston High School?

A: "Technology is a tool for students, and we have to make sure our teachers are well in-serviced in it. It's a new way for students to demonstrate their knowledge. They can research with the technology, problem solve, and demonstrate what they have learned at the same time. We have a TV studio here, and we will use it. The technology we have here is better than at most high schools in the state. I asked our staff, 'What would

'We need to have kids communicate with each other and listen to each other. If we give them the opportunity to do that, we can make this the safest place it can be.'

John Dileggghio, new CHS principal

you like the kids to be like when they leave here?" We want our kids to be technologically sound as they go on to a university or to a job. They have to be."

Q: Tell us a little about yourself. What do you like to do away from the job?

A: "Well, I just got back from the Chamber (of Commerce) Golf Outing, and that's one of the things I enjoy. But really, I have fun with what I do here. Attending a Friday night football game. I have fun at what I do, and that's important. But I enjoy traveling also. When you go to different places, you learn that we are all not that much different. When I travel around the country, I see how they deliver their educational services."

Q: What are your tangible goals for the upcoming school year?

A: "I want, for the kids, to make it their school. I want to start to bring in some of the old traditions and start new ones. I want to develop a culture here, to make this a great place to be for everybody. To make this a building the kids recognize as a high school. I also want to see some of the curriculum shifted a bit. I want to challenge our students to be their best."

Judge denies zoning for Holiday Inn

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A motion that would pave the way for a new Holiday Inn Express has been denied by an Oakland County judge. But a lawsuit filed against Independence Township still isn't resolved.

On April 15, plaintiffs Baylis Properties, Eagle Investment of Mid Michigan, Shelby Baylis profit Sharing Trust and Robert Barron and Ann Barron filed the suit against the township, asking the court for relief in their efforts to build the 80-room inn on M-15 north of I-75.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Colleen O'Brien denied the plaintiffs' request for a preliminary injunction at a hearing June 17, which would have prohibited the township's new zoning classification of their property.

The township board approved rezoning 16 parcels on M-15 from C-3 (Highway Commercial) to OS-2 (Office Service Two) in April. Earlier, the zoning board of appeal upheld the planning commission's decision to deny developer Eagle Investment's conceptual site plan.

Eagle Investment originally filed the application under C-3, which allows motels. However, motels require special land use approval under OS-2.

O'Brien rendered her decision based on preservation of "the status quo." According to the court order, "The status quo to be preserved is the present zoning ordinance in effect," O'Brien said. Rezoning the parcel back to its original status would "undermine" the township board's objectives, she added.

O'Brien also noted, "Plaintiffs are not foreclosed from their objective of building a motel." Township attorney Gerry Fisher interpreted that comment as "They can still apply for it, and they don't need a lawsuit to do that."

Fisher said the "key" to the whole scenario is that the township discussed rezoning all the parcels a decade ago. "The reality is, the township has been studying land use on the M-15 corridor for 10 years — consistently. And, although the master plan has designated the property for lower-intensity office use, the township took the very unusual step of negotiating with the Baylises and (Gary) Stonerock (who owns another M-15 parcel, but has not filed a lawsuit)."

As a result, the township developed two office zoning categories, OS-1 and OS-2. The OS-2 zoning is "more liberal" and allows "significantly more uses" such as motels and restaurants, Fisher said.

Rezoning the two properties from the more restrictive OS-1 represented "a compromise and a concession," he continued. "The township hasn't been just stiff-arming them or getting in their face. The township has been working with them."

On June 24, O'Brien heard summary dispositions to dismiss the lawsuit, as requested by the township. The judge took the motion under advisement in order to study the case, said a court spokesperson. She will issue a written opinion at a later date.

"I would expect within 10 days to two weeks," said Southfield attorney David Black, who represents the plaintiffs.

His clients may pursue other options, if she dismisses the lawsuit. One could be appealing that decision to Michigan Court of Appeals, said Black, calling the township's rezoning action "a subterfuge."

"They could also submit a site plan under the new zoning ordinance. And I'm sure that will be one which will be given serious consideration. Although, given the reaction of the planning commission and the ZBA, we're not optimistic that such an application would be granted."

Officials debate swapping zoning on Dixie

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

In some ways, the desire for more restaurants is turning out to be a double-edged sword in Independence Township.

During the last few years, officials and residents have wrestled with issues like alcohol, traffic, safety and parking at establishments like Mr. B's Roadhouse, Duggan's Irish Pub and the Outback Steakhouse.

The most recent proposals have included a Bill Knapp's for M-15 and a Red Robin sports bar-type restaurant for Dixie Highway. The establishment part of a chain of Red Robins, would be Planet Hollywood-style and serve alcohol. The 2.18-acre parcel rests between Clarkston Big Boy and Ottawa Park Cemetery, just north of Waterford Hill.

At the June 15 board of trustees meeting, officials voted down a request that would rezone property for that intent. Earlier, planning commissioners denied a recommendation to rezone the vacant parcel from

City gets MDOT grant for M-15 repaving

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Within the next couple of years, downtown Clarkston will have a much different look.

Improved curbs, classic-style lampposts and new sidewalks are just part of a grant the city has received from MDOT and the federal government to improve the quality of Main Street and some of the downtown infrastructure.

The city will receive a grant totaling $562,650 that will plant new trees, create 10 new pedestrian sidewalks and install new sidewalks, lighting and brick paths.

MDOT will contribute $112,530, with the remaining $450,120 coming from federal monies. The grant, known as the TEA-21 grant, represents a big step in the city council's desire to revitalize downtown Clarkston.

Gary Tressel, the city's engineer, said the project will go out for bids in December, with construction to take place next year.

"This will preserve M-15 for another 12 to 15 years," he said. "This will be done at no cost to property owners."

The council was extremely pleased that the city received the grant.

"If we had champagne, we would toast you," councilman Dan Colombo said to Tressel and Terry Croad, of McKenna and Associates, the city's planning firm.

"We are delighted," councilman David Savage said, just before the council applauded the work of Tressel and Croad.

Croad said this grant was not easy to obtain, and it would include work that many larger communities could not get in a grant form.

"I am proud to be a part of the team that got one of the largest grants statewide," Croad said. "You will be getting great value for your dollar."

"Typically, the community would be asked to come up with a matching total of 25 percent of the costs for a project like this, plus construction costs. In this case, you don't have to pay that 25 percent."

The city requested a grant that totaled $712,000, and although it didn't get that entire amount, city engineers, planners and council members all agreed the grant it did receive was a step in the right direction.

Vacant Main Street building gets its tenant

Victorian Village to move to downtown by Aug. 1

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Downtown Clarkston will be getting a new retail business later this summer.

The Victorian Village, which sells indoor and outdoor Victorian furniture, has signed a lease to move into the vacant building at 6 N. Main St., the building located next to the Village Bakeshop.

Victorian Village owner Terry Coventry, a Clarkston resident, said she will spend July renovating the building, and plans on moving in Aug. 1.

"The downtown was attractive to us, and we had been looking at that building for some time," Coventry said. "It's a great place for us to be. I feel like our business fits in well with the community, and I'm a little tired of all the realtors and lawyers downtown."

The Victorian Village is currently located on M-59 in Waterford Township, near Elizabeth Lake Road.

The Victorian Village will only occupy the bottom floor of the building, with is 2,900 square feet.

Coventry, who lives in the pink Boothby house near the north end of the city, said she deals in all kinds of furnishings from candles to patio furniture.

The business has been in operation for eight years at its Waterford location. Coventry said she had been tracking the progress of the vacant building, and added Stephanie Vo, co-owner of the Village Bakeshop and the building, is a customer of hers.

Creative spark will set my son on life's path

"Where are you going, my little one, little one?
Where are you going, my baby, my own? Turn around and you're two, turn around and you're four. Turn around and you're a young man, going out of the door."

— A song from the '50s — or '60s?

This is the column I promised you, faithful readers. Yes, my youngest — my son — graduated from Lake Orion
High School this year.

I am reduced to blubber, much like my sensitive father and mother, who wept when they heard this tune, as well as "The Men in My Little Girl's Life," sung by former talk show host Mike Douglas.

So, this is an open letter to my sweet, wonderful, gregarious, talented son Tyler. If you can stomach a devoted mother's bragging and reminiscences, this will hopefully find a common thread.

Dear Tyler,

Was it so long ago that I held your precious form in my arms, just moments after returning from the hospital?
You were slightly blue at birth, and your father noticed. I did not. I was too star-struck with the joy in having you.
All I was aware of was this perfect gift from God. A new baby — a son, to join his beautiful 2-year-old sister.

You came into this world with a cute upturned nose, big blue eyes and a disposition that made few demands.
I had to check often to make sure you were breathing.
When I bent over the bassinet, I was met with a sunny smile and a gurgle that recognized me — your mom.

That's continued over the years. You've been a handful, I'll admit. A chatterbox, a rebel who did not like to practice his piano lessons in second grade, a prophet, a sage who smiled at me like a little old man, raising his eyebrows knowingly when only a few days old.

You were a rough-and-tumble boy who had stitches in three places by the time he was three. A child, a young man who befriended the outcasts. From day one, you had many friends — boys and girls — who recognized your giving nature.

I remember one Christmas you saved enough money to buy me a coffee maker. You were so proud and you beamed with love. "It's black," you noted. "So it won't get dirty."

That touched me — because you know how much
I hate to house clean.

You're a sweet boy who will someday make a loyal, affectionate, devoted husband — if you choose a wife. You were never too busy to leave the house with a smile, a hug, a kiss, an "I love you." I still have the plastic coffee cup you planted with a marigold sprout.

It's cracked, splattered with the Crayolas, Magic Markers and charcoal-pencil stains from a budding artist who loves to draw his original, but Salvador Daliand-Picasso-inspired, creations.

It now holds paper clips, pens and other items which have no designated place. And it always will.

Who loves to investigate the many spiritual facets of the world's religions on the Internet, and decide his own. A young man who was voted "Most Musical" by his eighth-grade peers, and continues to compose works of musical genius — from rock to classical — playing everything from saxophone to guitar, bass, piano, drums and flute (sometimes with much gusto).

Oh, there have been struggles with a creative son.
The regular contacts with teachers, the nights spent to make sure you did your homework — and that you turned it in.

On June 11, you mugged for your mother on the video with your friends who, I'm sure, will be lifelong comrades. You walked down the aisle and grabbed your best bud in a mock "Joe, don't leave me!" just seconds before you received your diploma. Ever the ham.

You have set goals: college, a chance to decide whether you want to pursue music, art or both. You will find your way. I have no doubt about it. The kite strings have been cut, and I'm experiencing the empty nest. But you and I will always be happy because we share that strength of spirit.

And that's the best graduation present a mother could have.

Don't love the symbol, love the ideal

What was it former mentor-ish fellow worker but now retired to Gladwin Bill Ardelan used say? It has to do with the July 4 holiday ... oh yes, "Buy of fifth on the third for the fourth."

How could I forget -- even momentarily -- such sage advice? No sense mucking things up contemplating memory loss. I have other fish to fry and there is no better time than now to stoke up the fire ... now as we near our nation's birthday, the Fourth of July -- our beloved Independence Day.

As I type our elected officials in Washington DC are contemplating amending the Constitution of The United States of America. They want a provision "protecting" Old Glory. They want to make it illegal to disrespect our country's flag.

What a bunch of hooley. We still have people starving in our country. We have murder and rape. We have vile and evil predators stalking our children. We have a social security system destined to crash and burn sometime early in the next century. The government is still trillions of dollars in debt. But, we still have time to pay bureaucrats to research and debate whether or not messing with a piece of fabric is detrimental to our nation.

It must be an election year. You can tell when the hypocritical-ilk scurrying about in Washington start wrapping themselves tightly in our flag (that ought to be against the law!). I've vented now and feel better. Hyperbolae aside, I can type without passion and think critically.

I am against a flag protection amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America. It's not that I don't like the flag, I do. Heck, I still am very cautious as not to let Old Glory touch the ground when I take her down. But, it is only a symbol, a piece of cloth. Flags are mass-produced without thought and sold for a profit. Flags are not sacred. Flags are personal property made of cloth or plastic.

Rush Me

It is a dangerous road we tread when we start curtailing free speech. Make no mistake about it: A constitutional amendment banning messing with the flag is a direct assault on the freedoms spelled out in the Constitution. The founding fathers realized that people are born with unalienable rights. Symbols do not share these rights.

If symbols did have rights, if the bums in Washington grant "rights" to lifeless things, where do we draw the line? Do we make it illegal to disrespect the memory of dead presidents? After all they are now symbols of our country and their pictures are on our currency.

Once thought -- expression -- is legislated against we become a closed, oppressive society. A scary place where talking against the party is a sure way to ruin your life and that of your family. When the law of the land makes it against the law to disagree with the government you start pitting neighbor against neighbor. Get rid of free thought and we become a country like the one we spent years, money and lives fighting against.

This will not make me popular at the VFW or American Legion -- so long to cheap adult beverages. If a flag amendment becomes reality, I will burn a flag somewhere in town. I will do this not because I hate the flag, but because I love what it stands for. I'll a thing I love for my admiration of those who fought and died protecting those cherished ideals.

I hope you understand. Call your representatives and tell them this flag amendment business is a very bad idea.

Computer-heads are killing the hyphen

Just as sure as night follows day, and as sure as those who complain about potholes are the same people who complain about orange barrels, it's a sure thing that the hyphen is headed for extinction.

The dot com people apparently had trouble with using the word 'period.' They weren't satisfied saying or writing www.period.com. They had to have their own language -- www.dotcom, or www.com.

They weren't concerned or embarrassed that the word dot means small speck, something like a fly leaves.

And these software writers and hi-tech, silicone-valleyed megabyters are not satisfied with confining their language to the Internet (why is that word capitalized?) references.

They want us to drop the hyphen from our phone numbers. Have you noticed how often phone numbers like ours, 248.628.4801, are being being written these days sans hyphens, with period (excuse me, dot) substitutes?

Names will be next for these anti-period people. The woman who just married the British prince, Sophie

Jim's

Rhys-Jones and the pro golfer, Cindy Figg-Currier better start planning for dots in their names.

And what about our favorite road-ender that has eliminated dead-ends in subdivisions, the cul-de-sac? Cul.de.sac? That's terrible, but the modem manipulators will likely party all night when the first dotted road sign goes up.

Personally, I like hyphens. When we don't know for sure if a word is one or two, we can drop in a hyphen, like quick-step. Unless you look it up, you might think it has no hyphen. Quick now, is it re-write or rewrite? Sawed-off or sawed off? Sawlog or saw-log?

I'm probably going to have to get over my affection for the hyphen, just as I've had to stop believing the Detroit Tigers and Lions will ever win a championship again.

But I do feel for all the gals in the world named Dorothy. They're hearing "dot" so much their heads must feel like they are on a swivel.

Textile pattern makers will likely have to come up with a new description for their polka dots. Please note those are two, unhyphenated, undotted and uncapitalized words.

And, think of all the confusion for us and joy for the chip mega.herters that's coming when we, who use middle initials, have to start saying James Adot Sherman.

Youths arraigned on school bus tire charges

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three Clarkston youths, charged with slashing the tires of 37 school buses in May, were arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court Monday.

Steven Paul Selberg, 18; Zachary Robert Sartell, 17; and Aaron Lee Hayward, 17, each pled guilty to one count of malicious destruction of property before Judge Denise Langford-Morris.

Steven also pled guilty to possession of a switchblade.

Sherry Martens, assistant attorney for attorney Dennis Kacy, who represents Zachary, said the boys pled guilty to the charges, contingent on obtaining Holmes Youthful Trainee Act (YTA) status. The decision was turned over to the probation department for review "to see if they qualify."

Langford-Morris will sentence the youths at their next court date August 2. She will also determine whether the boys are responsible for over $3,000 in damages, Martens said.

Malicious destruction of property is a felony, punishable by up to five years in prison and/or up to a $10,000 fine.

Possession of a switchblade is a misdemeanor, punishable by up to one year in prison and/or a $300 fine.

However, under YTA the sentence would be less severe, since the youths are all under 21 years of age, said attorney Charles Spiekerman, who represents Steven. "It's for first-time (felony) offenders who don't have a criminal history. You're allowed one screw-up. It's an opportunity to make one mistake and not have a record."

If they qualify for YTA, the boys would be required to perform "some type of probation work," said Oakland County Sheriff's Lt. Dale LaBair of the Independence substation. That could range from "1,000-word essays to jail time to community service."

At the completion of the sentence, "they would be expunged," LaBair said. "It would essentially erase their criminal record from the public file."

Office (O) to Highway-Commercial (C-3), following a public hearing.

Voting to deny rezoning were Clerk Joan McCrary, Treasurer Jim Wenger and trustees Larry Rosso and Dan Travis. Voting against the motion were Supervisor Dale Stuart and Trustee Jeff McGee. Trustee Neil Wallace abstained, citing a business relationship with one of the parties involved.

Township planner Dick Carlisle does not recommend the parcel's rezoning, based on the present zoning's conformity with Vision 2020 and the master plan. The office use is transitional, he said. Rather, he recommended the lot be rezoned to Office Service Two (OS-2), which would allow a restaurant under special land use, and be more restrictive.

Despite the action, Realtor Rudy Lozano, who is representing property owner Keith Davis, says he will continue to fight for the project. Lozano claims the property was zoned office less than 12 years ago. "We're going to the ZBA (zoning board of appeals) and if we're denied, then we'll end up in circuit court," he said after the meeting.

Officials addressed numerous concerns. The most worrisome was the fact that this would create three restaurants at the base of Waterford Hill, which raises severe traffic safety questions. "I could imagine a Stanley Cup party, for example," said Wenger.

Carlisle estimated a restaurant of Red Robin's size would generate 600 traffic trips per day. An office building would generate "half that amount."

The Outback also serves alcohol, and Big Boy's owners are already facing problems with Outback patrons parking in their lot — so much so that they have to patrol the lot on weekends. The situation is even more serious with intoxicated patrons running across the street, said Big Boy general manager Dan Scully.

Some officials have noted the township needs to address the parking requirements for free-standing restaurants, saying there are not enough spaces. Others argue a traffic light is needed.

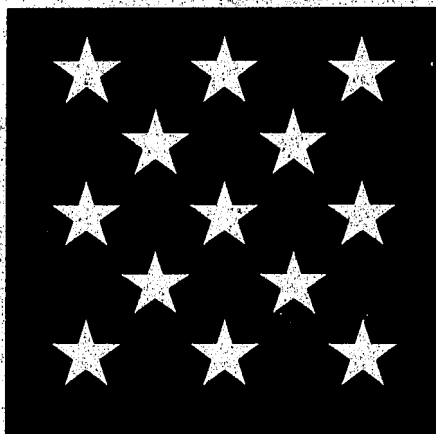

Stuart suggested the township consider swapping zoning with another parcel across the street, zoned C-3. Stuart said if that parcel were switched to office, sharing parking with the Outback could be one solution because they would be open different hours. However, McCrary noted, "It wouldn't make any difference with the traffic on Waterford Hill."

After the meeting, Scully said he didn't feel it was the township's job "to put these things together. It's between developers." His parents, Cal and Betty Lang, own Clarkston Big Boy.

Betty Lang also cited safety. "When you come down that hill, you're putting your brakes on." Added Cal Lang, "And do we help — adding another sports bar?"

Stuart noted, as the township grows, it's faced with the difficulty of developing smaller parcels, such as the lot eyed for Red Robin.

Travis agreed. "We're shoe-horning things into sites — but we're trying to do the best we can."

It was a chance for the Clarkston High School Marching Band to earn rock 'n' roll glory and status among teenagers.

It was a chance for the band to add $750 to its summer camp fund.

It was a chance for this reporter to wheedle her way into fulfilling a couple of fantasies: marching in a band and appearing on the Pine Knob Music Theatre stage.

Approximately 45 band members shared the stage with the J. Geils rock group, whose rough and rowdy rock 'n' roll drew capacity crowds to Pine Knob Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights. I tagged along Sunday.

In the increasingly theatrical world of rock musicians, this was the first time a high school band was used to introduce a concert act, according to Joel DeShane, Pine Knob Music Theatre operations manager.

Dressed in band regalia and toting a piccolo, I posed as a CHS student musician Sunday night while the kids played Issac Hayes' hit "Shaft" moments before Geils' lead singer Peter Wolf roared on stage on a green motorcycle.

It was the climax of several hectic hours.

The late afternoon and early evening were spent in an empty Pine Knob Resort banquet room awaiting a dress rehearsal which never took place.

But CHS band director Cliff Chapman brought word from the stage that we were to come on from the right, play our song and exit before Wolf made his grand entrance.

We practiced our moves and excitement began to mount.

The CHS band members relaxed by playing impromptu jams, giggling, talking, tapping their fingers and swinging their legs nervously.

"I hope we don't sound like a bunch of little kids. I want us to play good," said Dawn Stuart.

"I not excited. I know I can play," Brad Beattie said. "At first you're a little nervous. You're not really sure about it. Then you go up there and wail!"

Another boy voiced a fantasy.

Said Dean Irelan, striking a pose, "I can hear it now: 'The J. Geils Band cannot be here tonight, but we have to entertain you THE CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL BAND!'"

And some kids fretted that the crowd would be hostile.

They weren't alone with their worry.

Geils' audience are reputed to be loud and sometimes violent.

How would the crowd react after waiting through a warmup band for the stars and, instead, a bunch of high school musicians march on stage?

Aware of the potential problem, Pine Knob officials ordered extra security for the concert. And the CHS students were hustled through their performance.

By 7:15, the kids were really wound up. They didn't heed Chapman's warning not to get psyched. Forming the three-person columns to be herded on stage was done with some difficulty.

Up the stairs we went, inside the building—keep your marching time—for the chance of a lifetime.

It all happened so quickly once we hit the stage. We entered playing "Shaft," marched in place for approximately 40 seconds, turned to our left and marched out of the bright lights.

Members of the Geils band, screened behind us, appeared as the audience screamed its approval.

"Hey, they're giving us a standing ovation," one boy said as Wolf hurled on stage.

Once out of the lights, the kids ran, some shrieking with excitement.

"It was too fast!"

"Oh, wow, that was cool!"

"That was great!"

"It was EXCELLENT!"

Later inside the lodge, as the band members scrambled out of their uniforms and into jeans to head for their lawn seats for the remainder of the show, Chapman expressed his delight with their performance.

"The audience really bought it," he grinned. "Just the impact it had on those kids—you could see the stars in their eyes when they got off stage. By Tuesday night, they'll be old pros. Some of them are going to want stars on the doors of their dressing rooms."

But the real surprise will come if the CHS-Geils band performance is covered by the national rock press as DeShane said it might be.

There, in Rolling Stone or Creem Magazine, will be the J. Geils band and a group of Clarkston High School students, playing their tune and having a glorious time.

FINANCING THE AMERICAN DREAM

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1984)

A bad situation turns into a nightmare for Drayton Plains teen Kelly Martin, 14, when she falls from her bike on Church Street and is knocked unconscious. No one stops to help her. She is rescued by Independence Township firefighter Gar Wilson and his wife, who calls the EMS unit. Kelly sustains a head injury and fortunately recovers.

A general contractor building a greenhouse frame on Holcomb Road touches electrical wires and is thrown from his ladder. He suffers second-degree burns and dislocates his shoulder.

A junior varsity soccer player makes a comeback after a field injury. Jim Bohl, 16, who butts heads with a Brother Rice High School player, ruptures an artery in his skull and undergoes brain surgery. Today he still has trouble with his speech, strength, coordination-- and uncontrollable laughter. "It's better to be jolly anyway," he says, good-naturedly.

25 YEARS AGO (1974)

Clarkston Village Council unanimously appoints a two-woman committee to send letters to village residents, asking for input on the possibility of acquiring cityhood.

Little progress is reported for a tentative agreement for Clarkston schools' next calendar year. Contract negotiations continue between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association, which represents the teachers.

Approximately 3,000 people show up for Independence Township Recreation Department's Fun Day. Pre-ticket sales total $3,700.

SKIN DEEP

by Scott Friedman, D.O.

NOT-SO-PRETTY POISON IVY

Sensitivity to the oil (urushiol) of poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac is the most common allergy in this country. At some time, nearly half of all Americans will develop blisters and oozing sores as a result of the body's blood vessels' reaction to this oil, which is colorless or slightly yellow resin. Its name comes from a Japanese word meaning "lacquer." The entire plant contains the oil and is, therefore, poisonous. Anything that is contaminated with urushiol can cause poison ivy in anyone with whom it comes in contact. Poison ivy is not spread by scratching open blisters or by skin-to-skin contact unless there is some urushiol that still has not been washed off.

City residents oppose water main option

putting in a 12-inch water main along Main Street, because the quality of water there is questionable. Many members felt this would be a good time to do this, since Main Street would be torn up when the street receives a facelift as a result of the TEA-21 grant from MDOT (see related story).

Although the council has not made any decisions on whether to move forward with the assessment, many residents protested even the possibility.

Many residents objected to the fact that only Main Street residents and businesses would be assessed for the new water main.

"I am upset, because it sounded to me like the entire city will get to vote on a special assessment for Main Street," said Steve Secatch, a Main Street resident.

Residents have a 45-day period after a notice of intent is published to petition the council to have the special assessment question placed on the November ballot, where all city residents would have the opportunity to vote on the issue. That notice was approved by the council Monday, and appears on page 19B of The Clarkston News.

Secatch said he believed all other city residents would vote to assess Main Street residents and businesses.

"Of course they're going to vote yes. They won't have to pay anything," he said. "It's not right for all the residents to vote on it. If you bond Main Street, why not bond the whole city?"

Gary Tressel, the city's engineer, said the cost of running a water main through the entire city would be too expensive.

"The law states you can only assess a city up to 10 percent of its state equalized value," Tressel said. "The SEV for the city is $38 million, and we estimate the cost for putting in a main for the entire city at $5 million."

Residents said there was not a problem with the water, and didn't see a need to have a new water main run through the city. Councilman Dan Colombo disagreed.

"It is broke, and it needs to be fixed," Colombo said. "I think people who won't get water will be upset."

"If only the people on Main vote for it, then fine," Secatch said.

An SAD works by assessing only those who benefit from the service. If the SAD were to go through Main Street, only Main Street residents would have access to the water main. No other city residents would pay for the service, nor would they receive any benefits from it.

Mayor Sharron Catallo told the audience that they were premature in their protests.

"You are getting all worked up over what could be nothing," she said. "We had one conversation with a gentleman who does bonds, and he gave us some criteria. We discussed that, and everyone here is like, 'This is what you are going to do.' If this is what we choose to do, we have to find a way to get it done in a timely matter."

City attorney Tom Ryan said he would have a SAD ordinance prepared for a first reading at the council's next meeting on July 12. With an ordinance, two readings are held - each as part of a public hearing - before it is signed into law. It becomes effective 20 days after it is published. The public will have a chance to voice its opinion at the first and second readings of the ordinance.

But should the council pass the ordinance, it does not mean the SAD will be put into effect.

"Just because we have the ordinance doesn't mean we will use it," Catallo said.

Although the council was in favor of exploring all the options for a water main, one councilman said he would vote against being assessed.

"I'll tell you, if I have to pay $1,000 a year for water, this councilman will vote against it," Mike Kelley said.

Kelley and Anne Clifton are Main Street residents, and Catallo owns property on Main.

Tressel estimated the assessment would cost Main Street residents $1,000 per year, with businesses getting charged a greater amount. He said it was too early in the process to have any solid figures.

Councilman Walt Gamble said the council would not take any permanent action without full input of city residents.

"This is just an initial thing," he said. "We have to discuss all the options, but we also have to get your input. Nothing will be getting done without a lot of public hearings. We are still fact finding."

The council approved a resolution to publish an intent to issue bonds by a 5-1 vote. Catallo voted against it, and Karen Sanderson was not present at the meeting.

"This is just an announcement that states we are thinking about this," Catallo said.

Clifton said it was in the best interests of the residents that the council pass this resolution.

"This is being done for the people who were here," she said. "That way, they do have the option to vote for it."

"The people now have the ability to make a decision," Kelley said.

The notice of intent is only a first step, and does not represent a solid decision to move forward with creating the special assessment district. The notice only makes the SAD option available to the council, should it decide to go forward, which it has not at this time.

Main Street residents have until Aug. 11 to petition the council to have the SAD placed on the November ballot. If a petition is turned in, all the residents in the city will be able to vote on whether the SAD is created.

In a related motion, the council voted 5-0 to support a resolution made by councilman David Savage that stated the council's intention to pursue alternative forms of financing the water main project besides an SAD.

J. Geils returns to Pine Knob this weekend; CHS alumni recall gig with school band 20 years ago

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

In 1979 Gregg Ryeson had long hair and was a top athlete at Clarkston High School. Today he owns a popular hangout — Gregg's Gourmet Cafe in Clarkston.

The front wall is filled with photos of rock stars: Ted Nugent, Motley Crue's Vince Neil and Ryeson's personal favorite, Van Halen. Over the years, he's catered to their record company and met them several times backstage at Pine Knob Music Theatre.

But, in earlier days, he enjoyed being a young concert goer too — including the time some of his schoolmates performed with the J. Geils Band at Pine Knob. In 1979, the group opened each one of its four consecutive shows with a brief performance by CHS band members (see the historical page, 9A).

They strutted across the stage, playing their marching band piece "Shaft" and blocked the band's appearance for about one minute. That was enough time for vocalist Peter Wolf to roar up behind them on his motorcycle. The crowd — may of them Clarkstonites — roared too.

Told of fellow class mate Megan O'Neill-Nini's comment that she sat within arm's reach, Ryeson chuckled. "She was a lot closer than me. I think we snuck down to the pavilion, if I remember correctly."

This summer Geils plans a return tour with three dates booked solid at Pine Knob — Friday and Saturday as well as July 14. The third date was added "because of demand," said Jeff Corey, public relations director for Palace Sports & Entertainment, which owns the outdoor venue. Though the band hails from Boston, it has a loyal following in Detroit, Corey said, calling J. Geils "the adopted sons of the city."

The following Clarkstonites reminisced about the landmark concert 20 years ago.

■George White, retired Clarkston schools educator, was Pine Knob's community relations director in those days. It was his job to coordinate good relations between the venue, performers and local residents. If anything was amiss, White was there.

In an earlier interview, for example, White told of how he once shared popcorn and conversation with Kiss's Gene Simmons. He also recalled a Beach Boys concert, where people singing along with the group broke the township's noise ordinance. "They just buried the decibel meter."

One night, White and former theater manager Joel DeShane hammered out the idea of the CHS band opening for J. Geils. White called band director Cliff Chapman, who liked the idea. "It turned out being a fund-raiser too. They were paid for their time on stage."

According to a 1979 article in The Clarkston News, the band raised $750 for its summer camp fund. They also got to sit through all four shows — free. White remembers the J. Geils Band as "very high energy. The concerts were fun."

■Brad and Tom Beattie recall that infamous night because they were a part of the show. Brad (Class of '81) took the stage with his alto saxophone and Tom (Class of '80) played trombone during marching band season.

Their mother, Doris Beattie, hasn't forgotten the sound — or size — of Tom's major instrument, the baritone. "I'll be darned if he didn't drop it the first day of class." She also recalls "Brad played the sax better than Bill Clinton."

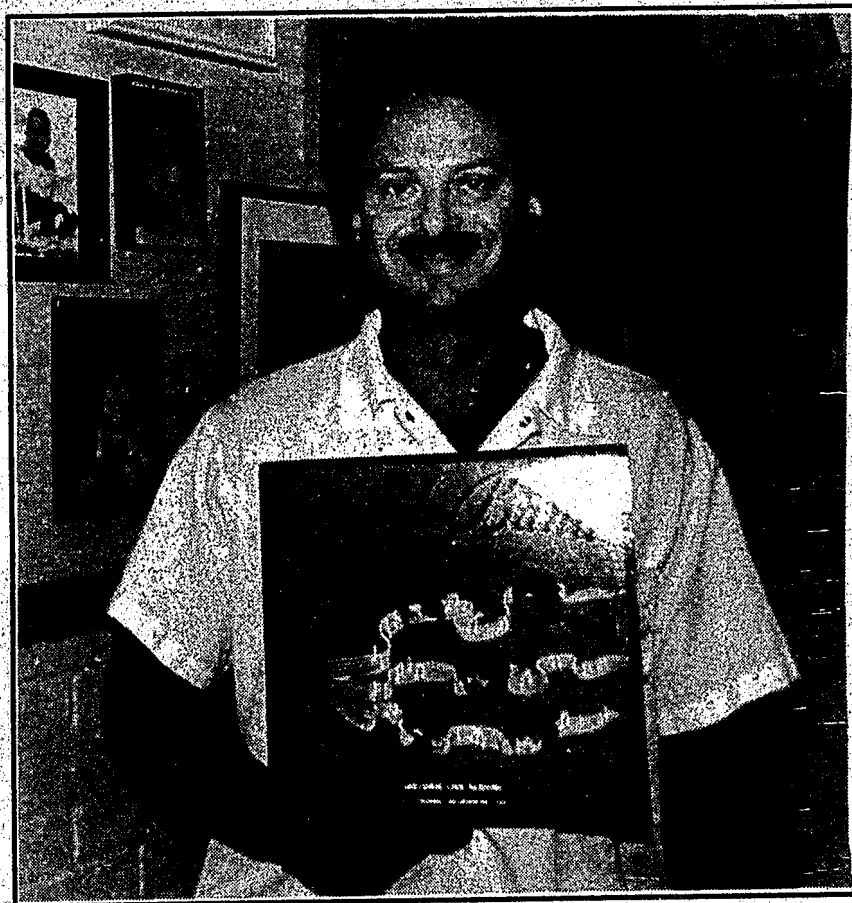

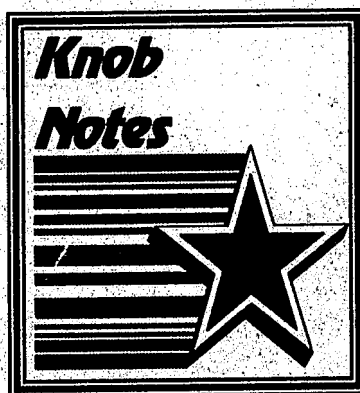

"Mr. Chapman asked a bunch of us if we wanted to play," said Brad, who remembers playing the "Sanctuary" tape in his car non-stop.

Today, the brothers work together in their own business. Twenty years ago, Brad, then a CHS sophomore, admitted he was only a little nervous before taking the stage for J. Geils. "You're not really sure about it. Then you go up there and wail!" he said in the 1979 News article.

Brothers Tom and Brad Beattie during their rockin' years at Clarkston High School. Tom, left, graduated in 1980 and Brad in 1981.

Liking J. Geils was one of those "really cool" things you did as a kid in the '70s, said Tom. He recalled, "Peter kicked us off the stage to get the concert going ... The best part was, it got us in to the concert every night."

Like other family members, the boys' parents came to cheer them on. Supporting their sons' activities was "a big thing to us," said Bob Beattie, their father. "It's a big stage to be on," he said of Pine Knob. "I've done a couple of announcements up there. You don't think it's even you."

■Tom's wife Amy Goerss Beattie, then a Hartland High School student, also came to the show — and was able to touch her idols.

"That's actually the first concert I ever saw without my parents," she laughed. "It's funny because we went without any tickets. We ended up having front

Special meetings scheduled for Independence Township

The following special meetings are set for Independence Township within the next two months:

■Friday, July 9, 7 a.m. A special meeting of the Compensation Committee, composed of all four township trustees, will discuss compensation packages for the three full-time elected officials.

New compensation packages have not yet been approved for Supervisor Dale Stuart, Clerk Joan McCrary and Treasurer Jim Wenger. Recommended increases include 3.28 percent for Stuart; 3.02 percent for McCrary and Wenger. The meeting will take place at the township annex, 90 N. Main Street.

■Monday, July 12, 7 p.m. A joint meeting is scheduled for the township board and planning commission to discuss coordinating the updated master plan with the Vision 2020 Strategic Plan. "Before it's finalized by the planning commission, we want to hear opinions on the future adoption of the revised master plan," Clerk Joan McCrary said.

■Tuesday, August 24, 7 p.m. The board will address the proposed Land Division Ordinance, drafted by township attorney Gerry Fisher. The issue has been removed from the agenda several times during the past few weeks. The meeting will be an opportunity to discuss the proposed ordinance, which has seen "many various opinions" from board members, McCrary said.

The state recently passed a new Land Division Act, which affects all municipalities in the state on how they divide land, she explained. It affects both "our Lot Split Committee and our ZBA (zoning board of appeals)," McCrary said.

The last two meetings take place at Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Road.

Police sting nets eight sites selling alcohol to minors

Dare said. The legal age for buying alcohol is 21.

Independence incidents are detailed below.

■At Mr. B's, the 19-year-old decoy ordered a Bud Light, which was served by a 25-year-old bartender. When asked why he didn't check her ID, he said he thought she was "old enough."

■At Arbor Drugs, the 18-year-old decoy purchased a six-pack of Zima from a 19-year-old sales clerk, who said she looked "at least 27." (Clerks have to be at least 18 years old to sell alcohol to minors, Dare said.)

■A 45-year-old bartender was cited at Waterford Courts when she sold a Bud Light to the 19-year-old decoy. She also said she thought the decoy looked old enough to purchase alcohol.

OCSO Sgt. Patrick Miles said Dare called to ask if Springfield Township would like to be included in the operation. "I told him we wanted our area covered too," Miles said.

This time of year is especially troublesome, with kids just graduating and out of school, Miles said. "This time of year, we want to minimize the impact."

"We work to make sure store owners are aware of their responsibility not to sell to underage individuals—and of their responsibility on holding liquor licenses from the state of Michigan."

Stings are conducted "periodically to insure (store owners) are performing the rules correctly," he said.

Dare agreed stings typically take place three or four times a year. Store owners never know when they will be conducted. "It was nice to see some of the places turn the decoy down," he said. "It gives you peace of mind they're responsible because they check. For the people who don't, it's a good wake-up call."

In an earlier interview, OCSO Lt. Dale LaBair of the Independence substation estimated kids in Clarkston have the money to purchase alcohol—which is compounded by their older friends' willingness to buy for them.

Dare said he's not sure whether alcohol use among minors has increased or decreased in Independence Township. But he notes youths use "alternative substances" such as marijuana, cocaine and gel-tab LSD.

One of the biggest problems is the lack of parent patrol, he said. Moms and dads need to take responsibility too, knowing where their children are, and where they spend the night. "I think parents need to be a little more aware of their children before they leave (for work) and when they come home," Dare said.

THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

FOR THE RECORD

Anyone who is involved in a car accident may find the police officer who responds to the scene of the accident to be a valuable resource. He or she will likely write up an accident report, particularly if someone is injured. If so, the report may make mention that a driver violated a specific section of the vehicle code, with the result that it led to the accident. There may even be an indication that the officer issued a citation, or mention that a driver drove negligently. Any of these police report references can be very helpful in proving the other driver's negligence in the event that he or she is sued for damages arising from the accident.

It is very important to obtain evidence at the time of the car accident and not a few days later when memories may be hazy or people difficult to track down. The sooner we reconstruct the events at the scene, the better chance you have to be compensated for your injuries. If you've been injured in a motor vehicle accident, call our law office at 11 North Main Street (620-1030). We're here to help.

HINT: The most important thing that you can do after an automobile accident is to document the situation in writing for future reference.

Clarkston schools budget approved for '99-'00

trict.

"The county will pick that up. If in fact that does change, we will need to amend our budget," Kahler said.

Tier 2 building programs will begin this summer for the 1997 bond issue and projects will continue through 2001. "We'll be very active there," he said.

Kahler added that most of the funds taken from the Durant Settlement bond, which are at $1.3 million, will be depleted in the coming year. Kahler said in his report he will also work to get the 1993 bond issue "off the books."

In total, the general fund balance has decreased from $6,464,483 in 1998-99 to $5,711,309 for 1999-2000.

The budget was adopted by a 6-0 roll call vote. Trustee Rick Crigger was absent.

Board President Kurt Shanks encouraged board members to formulate questions on the budget for future discussion. "We will be talking about the budget for the next couple months," Shanks said.

Further discussion regarding revisions to the budget, followed by an amendment for the board to adopt, will take place in September, Kahler said.

One such amendment will be the addition of costs for hardware and software for Clarkston Middle School, Sashabaw Middle School and Independence Elementary School, he said. Another amendment will determine residual funds from the 1995 bond issue, if any occur.

A workshop discussion on general fund support for athletics also will take place in coming weeks.

In other business, change orders for Clarkston Elementary totaling $87,341; Clarkston Middle School totaling $168,217; and North Sashabaw Elementary School totaling $53,990 were approved by the board in a 6-0 vote, despite lengthy discussion on the number of change orders to come before the board in recent months.

The orders were for a range of additional work needed at the sites, including roof work necessary at North Sashabaw Elementary.

Janet Thomas, board secretary, showed concern in having a great deal of change orders.

"This seems to be a never-ending cycle. This shouldn't be an 'oh-woops,' because we're paying money for professionals," she said.

Kahler said he was confident in the claims and the company requesting the orders, A.J. Etkin Construction Company.

"(The change orders) are a pain in the neck and they don't enjoy them either. Frankly, it's an embarrassment to an architect (to request orders)," Kahler said.

He said the requests have been added to the budget for the coming fiscal year, but do not reflect the actual amount which will be needed.

"This doesn't have a negative impact on the budget," Kahler said. "These numbers are actually on the high side." Further discussion of the change orders will take place at the July 12 board meeting.

In addition, construction bids were approved by the board 6-0 for Pine Knob and Andersonville Elementary schools. At both schools, asbestos abatement and the addition of acoustical ceilings, framing and drywall need to occur, as well as painting at Pine Knob, totaling $688,293.

Police and fire

Sunday, June 27, family trouble on Glenwood, Clintonville and Ravine.

Someone broke into a Dixie gas station, taking an ATM, its currency, and a safe containing pre-paid phone cards and lottery tickets. Entry was gained by breaking an outside wall and removing a concrete block. The items were later found in a next-door lot.

A customer became irate at a Sashabaw gas station, claiming the 18-year-old clerk hadn't turned the pump on. He pounded on the window and threatened to jump over the counter and choke the clerk and also harm a co-worker. The clerk left to get his license plate number, and was threatened again.

A Clintonville resident reported a former boyfriend broke into her home, taking jewelry, keys, a cellphone and her truck. She called him on the cellphone and he said he would return the truck and phone.

Saturday, June 26, a cell phone was missing from a car on Pelton.

Family trouble on Mann.

Residents on Maybee reported a line of sump pump missing. Next-door neighbors said they would replace it, tracing it to a mistake made by a worker who was cleaning and mowing their lot.

Larceny of a cellphone, credit cards, a wallet and camcorder battery from a car on Pelton.

A Reese resident said 15-18 pieces of furniture were damaged by cleaning company workers, possibly with a screwdriver, which was missing from a drawer. Five pieces had the initial "C" carved in them. He said all the alarm clocks were set to go off exactly at the same time.

Friday, June 25, a $150 mountain bike was missing on Sashabaw.

A Sashabaw gas station employee said a woman drove off without paying for $2.91 worth of gas. The woman said it was due to a faulty pump. When she removed the nozzle, gas poured out all over her and the ground. When she tried to explain, she said the clerk wouldn't listen, so she left.

A pedestrian walked between two parked cars in a Maybee parking lot, injuring her left leg.

Thursday, June 24, larceny of a cellphone from a car on Staghorn.

A police officer stopped at Clarkston Creek Golf Club on Maybee, after seeing several cars parked in the lot after 2 a.m. The officer found several employees drinking at the bar, and cited two minors for consumption under 21. A 26-year-old worker said she was in charge. Her speech was slurred, and the officer observed her pouring several beverages out as IDs were checked. The owner was called and stated police were trying to catch his employees drinking after hours.

A 34-year-old Clarkston man was arrested for drunk driving on Sashabaw, after an officer saw him going north in the southbound lane and driving into a ditch. Breath tests revealed a blood alcohol level of .18 (.10 is the legal limit) and he was taken to Oakland County Jail. The officer asked how much he'd been drinking and he said, "One too many, I guess."

A 41-year-old moped driver was arrested for drunk driving on I-75 near M-15. He admitted he drank a dozen beers and decided "to go for a ride." Breath tests registered .126 and he was taken to jail.

Wednesday, June 23, a 27-year-old Oxford man was found passed out and snoring in his vehicle, after crashing into a residence's landscaping rocks on Fawn Valley. He was arrested for drunk driving, with breath tests registering .169, and taken to jail. He said he thought he was "on M-59 in White Lake."

A Snowapple resident claimed she saw three youths in a gray Ford Escort drive into her mailbox and garbage cans.

Larceny of a $2,500 personal computer from a car on Staghorn.

A car's side door was damaged and interior wires cut on Wahtawah.

A Davisburg woman reported larceny of three checkbooks and 30 keys to 30 houses she cleans, from her unlocked car on Dixie.

Damage to a garage, shed, gas grill and trailer on Sashabaw.

Tuesday, June 22, a Clarkston resident said her $3,000 boat was picked up for maintenance and never returned. When she called, she found the business's phone disconnected.

Two Clarkston Middle School students, 14 and 15, were cited for minor in possession of tobacco when they were caught smoking in the girls' restroom.

Monday, June 21, larceny of a trash can with wheels from Balmoral.

A White Lake resident said his son lost his cellphone at a Pine Knob concert.

A car's window was smashed on Ortonville and a purse, wallet organizer, checkbook, credit cards and $1,500 in currency were missing.

A 20-year-old Pontiac man was charged with felonious assault after stabbing a 20-year-old Clarkston man in the right arm at the S/L Body and Frame Shop lot on Sashabaw.

According to police, the Clarkston man said his 18-year-old sister and the Pontiac man's 12-year-old girlfriend met at the lot, and the suspect pulled out a five-inch knife. He said he tried to protect the girls, after the suspect took a swing at them.

The suspect, Kenneth Michael Polley, was arraigned in 52-2 District Court June 25 on a $2,500 personal bond and ordered not to make contact with the others. He cried and said he didn't mean to stab the 20-year-old, who was treated at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Davisburg woman's candle store features unique, creative gifts

Burning the candle at both ends -- and doing just fine

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

With Y2K on the home stretch, many people are stocking up on batteries, food, water -- and candles?

The Davisburg Candle Factory offers a practical and fun way to prepare for the millenium with its own Y2K candle kits.

Mary Tebo, store owner and Davisburg resident, has created three different Y2K packages -- a pillar candle kit, votive kit, and another package which features 700 hours worth of candles already made.

Tebo said the kits are excellent for any type of emergency, such as power outages from severe weather.

"It's just strictly a safety kit," she said. "If there's a storm, and the power goes out, you have that available."

But that's not all Tebo's store has to offer. Her candles are handmade and come in a variety of shapes, fragrances and colors. There are more than 40 different colors of wax, which can be blended into additional colors.

Tebo said a great deal of the candles are specially made for events such as weddings and bar or bat mitvahs. What the candle factory is known for, however, are the decorative candles, which are handcrafted from wax blended in the store.

"No one else in the country can do what we do (with those candles)," she said.

Aside from making candles, Tebo also teaches classes in candlemaking once a month on an appointment-only basis, and gives demonstrations and tours to groups of more than 10 people, also by appointment.

Tebo said she hopes to expand the store to the next two buildings to the west, to be used to teach classes and to hold supplies.

When Tebo moved back to her hometown of Davisburg, she had no idea she'd be running her own business.

Tebo, who lives just two blocks away from the Davisburg Candle Factory, bought the store from its original owner, Charlie Going, 14 years ago. She said when she started out, she had no prior experience with entrepreneurship -- or with candlemaking.

Mary Tebo, owner of the Davisburg Candle Factory in downtown Davisburg, says she "would never go back to a 9 to 5 job" after running her own business. Tebo's store boasts a clientele which spreads across the country and hopes to someday host classes on candlemaking in an expanded facility.

"I hadn't the slightest idea how to do it," Tebo said. "(The business) was for sale and I bought it. I never made a professional candle and never had a business before."

Originally a school counselor in Oregon, she felt drawn back to Michigan, where her mother has lived for over 80 years.

Now, Tebo's clientele spreads across the country.

"We ship all over the United States," she said. Roughly half of Tebo's business comes from shipping outside of the area. The other half is generated from visitors passing through Davisburg, she said. "We have a lot of people who roam the back roads, a lot of tourists from out of town."

The store sells between 3-4,000 candles each

Fan nabs giant tequila bottle at Sammy Hagar concert

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The first words out of Sammy Hagar's mouth might have been "Cabo Wabo robbo."

Following his June 6 show at Pine Knob Music Theatre, Hagar -- former frontman for the rock band Van Halen and owner of his CaboWabo tequila company in Florida -- found the 15-foot, baby-blue, inflatable plastic bottle used to hype his business missing.

It was recovered by Oakland County Sheriff's detectives Perry Dare and Dave Hendrick, said Lt. Dale LaBair of the Independence substation. Dare and Hendrick received several tips, and found the suspect, a 28-year-old Madison Heights man, two days later.

According to police reports, a female roommate observed the bottle -- inflated again -- in the man's backyard. He admitted he took it from the venue.

LaBair said it's not easy to steal an object of that size, but figured nobody saw the heist. "They probably pulled the plug and threw the damn thing over the fence." Reports say the suspect had some help from friends. He has not been charged, since Hagar and business affiliates haven't "shown interest" in bringing the matter to court, LaBair said.

The incident made numerous news reports, and a reward was out for the $5,500 bottle's return, he added. After its capture, officers couldn't resist re-inflating the structure in front of the substation, which turned into a conversation piece.

"A construction worker even came running over and said, 'Say, isn't that the bottle I heard about on the radio?'" LaBair chuckled.

Several Kodak moments were captured, including one with LaBair himself. He had several ideas for other photo ops, but "I opted out before I got into too much trouble."

week from August to December, and around 1,000 candles during the off season.

However, Tebo said the lack of heavy foot traffic through the downtown area causes business to suffer from time to time.

"We're a pass-through for most traffic. You know what they say, business is location."

Tebo said being located in a small town also has its advantages.

"People get to know us on a first-name basis. They kind of look out for you, and you kind of look out for them," she said.

She said the working environment also lends toward a small-town atmosphere.

"You're almost like a family. I have five or six employees who've been here 10 years."

Tebo said being a small business owner has other privileges.

"You have the freedom to make your own decisions. And you can take time off for lunch whenever you want to, if you can figure out when to do it," she joked.

Despite the benefits, Tebo said the job is not for everyone. During the busy season, she may spend 15 hours a day, seven days a week working in the store and making candles.

"Don't expect to just (buy a business) and just walk out. You don't get vacations much," she said.

All the same, Tebo said she loves her work.

"I would never go back to a 9 to 5 job if I had to," she said.

The Davisburg Candle Factory is located at 634 Davisburg Road. To call for appointments or for store hours, contact Tebo at (248) 634-4214.

Wasilk heading to Aquinas' basketball team

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Going through a year of not playing basketball actually did 1996 Clarkston High School graduate Tim Wasilk some good.

Wasilk, who had an outstanding career for the Wolves, is transferring from Grand Valley State University to Aquinas College for the 1999-2000 season. Because Wasilk is transferring from a Division II school to an NAIA school, he will not have to sit out next season.

A two-year starter for Grand Valley, Wasilk said his reason for transferring centered around the coaching situation at both schools.

Tim Wasilk

"I came to Grand Valley to play for Jay Smith," Wasilk said, referring to the current men's basketball coach at Central Michigan University. "I needed a change, and wanted to stay in Grand Rapids, so Aquinas was a natural for me."

Wasilk, GVSU's starting shooting guard the past two seasons, averaged eight points per game while playing along side fellow CHS alumnus Jeremy Fife, the team's point guard. He tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee last summer and had to sit out the 1998-99 season. He believes he could have returned from the injury late last season, but is glad he chose not to.

"I would have only been able to play 13 games or so, and then I would only have one year of eligibility left," he said. "I just didn't agree with a lot of things going on in the program."

At Aquinas, Wasilk will play for coach Rick Albro, who said he is elated to bring Wasilk to his program.

Former Clarkston girl wins race at Illinois state meet

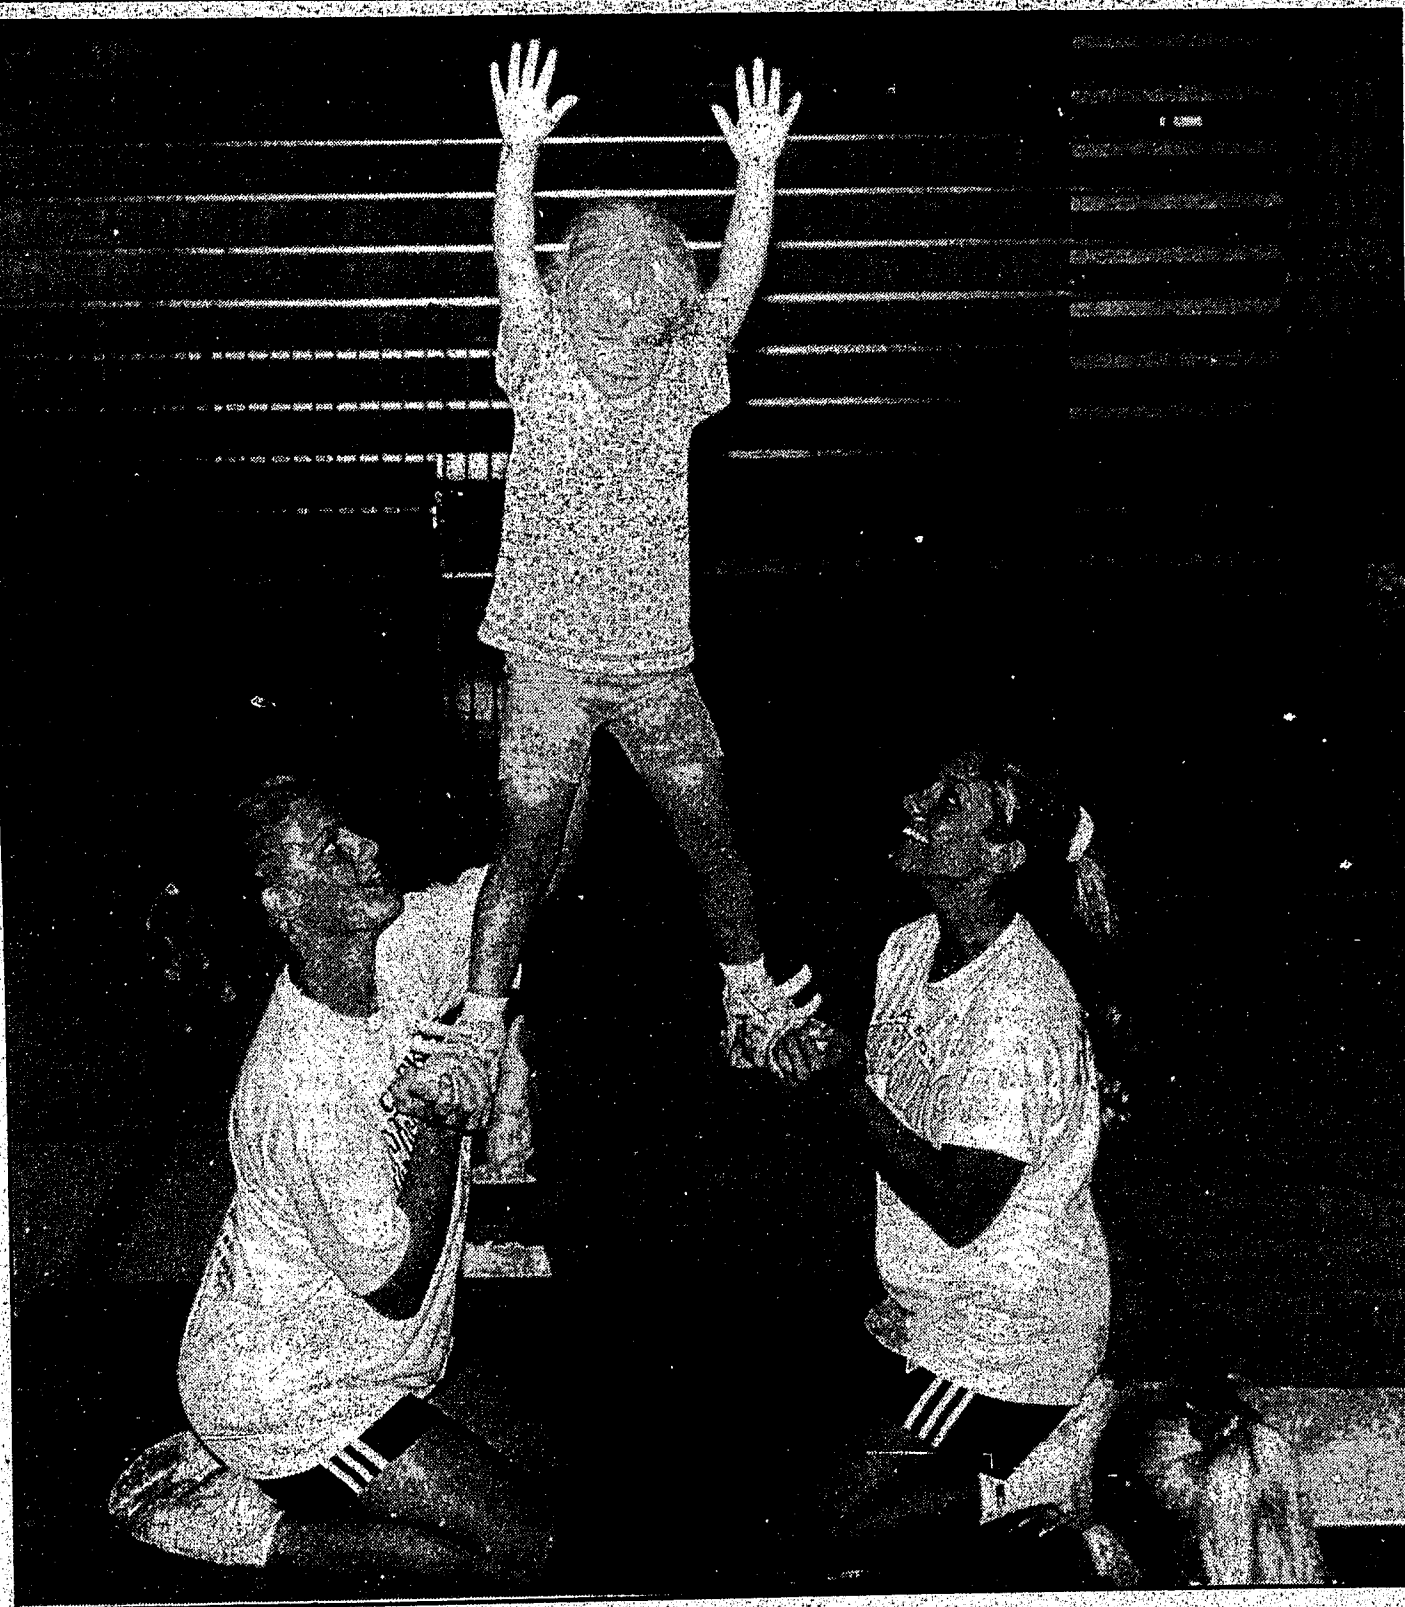

Victoria Jackson, a Clarkston resident from 1985-90, recently won the 3,200 run at the Class AA Illinois State Track Meet.

Jackson, a junior at Lake Forest High School, won the event with a time of 10:44.91, five seconds better than her previous personal best.

Jackson also competed in the 1,600 run, finishing in 10th place with a time of 5:09.82.

Jackson is also a three-time All-State selection in cross country, and has finished in the top 10 in both the 1,600 and 3,200 runs at the Illinois State Track Meet all three years of her career. She also had to overcome sore shins and a viral infection this season before winning it all.

Jackson's father Bill, is the former business manager of Clarkston schools. Her mother Amy said Victoria's first inspiration to run track came from Gordie Richardson, her physical education teacher at Clarkston Elementary School and longtime CHS girls track coach.

The Clarkston High School cheerleaders of the present help to bring up the cheerleaders of the future. Marie Fahrner (left) and Stephanie Nault, members of the 1999-2000 CHS varsity cheerleading team, help a youngster balance Monday morning. CHS JV cheerleading coach Chandra Price and some of her girls helped to put on the third Clarkston Cheerleading Clinic, going on all this week at CHS. Price said 61 girls are enrolled in this year's clinic, the most in its existence. More coverage is on page 19B.

Rams baseball team has Clarkston flavor

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

During the high school baseball season, Clarkston residents Spencer Hynes, Eric Jenks, Chris Mitchell and John Drallos are used to playing in front of a small group of family and friends as members of the Clarkston Wolves.

But when the summer comes, and those players don the uniforms of the Michigan Rams, scouts from many state colleges and Major League Baseball teams like the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates turn out.

Rams coach George Drallos said college or professional scouts have been at all of the Rams' games so far this season.

"At our tournament, we had Pittsburgh and the New York Yankees there," he said. "I got a letter the other day from the Baltimore Orioles asking for our schedule, and scouts from the Cincinnati Reds are also interested in coming out."

This is the second year the four have been teammates on the Rams, coached by Clarkston residents Dave Mitchell, Rich Hynes and Drallos.

The Rams are made up of top players from Oakland County, including players from Madison Heights Lamphere, Birmingham Brother Rice and Lake Orion.

Drallos said the caliber of competition in the Midwest Super League is a notch higher than high school baseball.

"What we do is take the best players from each high school team and they go on teams like this," Drallos said. "It's a tremendous benefit for everyone to play baseball of this caliber."

The Clarkston players on the Rams bring their own impressive set of credentials. Drallos, Hynes and Jenks are all playing college baseball next year, while Mitchell figures to be a Division I prospect after his senior season.

John Drallos will play at Valparaiso University next year, while Jenks (Saginaw Valley State) and Hynes (Oakland University) will play closer to home.

Recent Lake Orion High School graduates Tim Clous and Steve Seargeant are also top players on the team and college prospects. Clous is walking on at Central Michigan University next year, while Seargeant received a baseball scholarship to Eastern Michigan University.

The Rams are 7-3 so far this season, and 3-2 in league play. One of the things bringing these baseball scouts out is the quality of the league and competition the Rams play in.

Among the teams popping up on their schedule, include the Rochester Yankees, who have a number of players from state runner-up Troy and Rochester Adams. Livonia Travel boasts of eight players from Detroit Catholic Central, the Division I state champions. The Michigan Braves have a pair of all-state players from Redford Union, while the Michigan Bulls also have all-state players. Clarkston's Derek Casper plays for the Bulls.

Monday night, the Rams whipped the Kalamazoo Maroons 15-9. Derek Jeter of the World Series champion New York Yankees used to play for the Maroons when he was in high school.

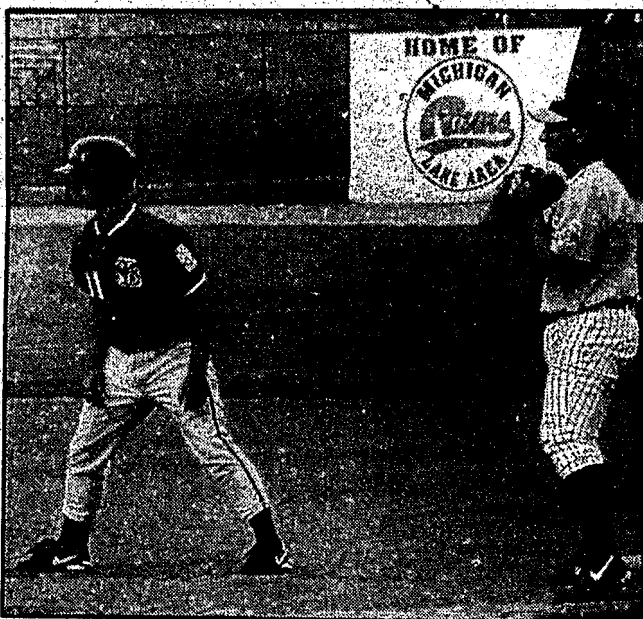

"It's a high-profile league," Drallos said. "Last year, with us making the world series, and with most everyone coming back, it enhances our exposure. We know we will have a good year."

Dave Mitchell said this caliber of baseball was clearly a notch above high school baseball.

"Everyone has pitching staffs four deep, they can hit one through nine in the order, and they don't make mistakes in the field," he said. "It's two steps up from high school ball, and it really prepares these kids well for what they will see in college."

The Michigan Rams baseball team has a strong Clarkston influence. (L-R) Spencer Hynes, Chris Mitchell, Eric Jenks and John Drallos are all in their second season on the team. Hynes, Jenks and Drallos are all 1999 graduates of Clarkston High School and will play college baseball next year. Mitchell, a senior, figures to be a Division I prospect next year.

Teammates during the season, opponents in the offseason. Clarkston's Chris Mitchell, a first baseman and pitcher for the Michigan Rams, watches the play unfold. His teammate on the Wolves, Derek Casper, leads off first while playing for the Michigan Bulls. Mitchell and Casper will be two of the top players for the CHS team next spring.

Spencer Hynes slams a double to right field during a game Wednesday night at Oakland University. Hynes and the Rams took on the Michigan Bulls in a league game. The Rams are 7-3 so far this season, with a 3-2 record in the league.

The Monster's all-time top 10 sports memories

Sports has certainly been a big part of my life. From the time when I was seven years old and watched Billy Sims gallop through the Los Angeles Rams defense to the Red Wings' two Stanley Cup wins, I have many wonderful memories from sports.

Here is a list of the top most memorable sporting events I have witnessed in person. Seeing it on TV doesn't count.

1. Game 2 of the 1989 NBA Finals - June 8, 1989.

This is the only championship final I have ever attended in a pro sport, and what a magnificent game this was. The Pistons edged the Los Angeles Lakers 108-105 to take a 2-0 series lead. Joe Dumars scored 33 points and carried the Pistons through a tough first half. This was also the game where Magic Johnson injured his hamstring. There is a famous picture of him flailing his arms in the air, knowing he was too injured to compete. It was also the last away game in the brilliant career of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who despite being the NBA's all-time leading scorer, still seems underrated. An amazingly loud crowd, an NBA Finals atmosphere, and another win on the way to a championship.

2. The Detroit Lions destroy the Dallas Cowboys in a playoff game - January 5, 1992.

I feel part of a very exclusive club. I witnessed the Lions only playoff victory in the past 42 years. There were 80,000 screaming fans at that game, and it was as close to a perfect football game as there could be. Lion QB Erik Kramer was near perfect, throwing for 338 yards and three touchdowns. The Lion defense held the powerful Cowboys to just two field goals. And Barry Sanders ripped off a 55-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter to finish the deal. The Lions beat the hated Cowboys 38-6 in a game where I yelled myself hoarse by the end of the first quarter.

3. My first game as a reporter for the Clarkston News. The football game between Clarkston and Troy - October 25, 1996.

Talk about a grand entrance. I walked into a buzzing CHS stadium on a cool October night three years ago and was caught up in an absolute frenzy. The Wolves were on their way to an undefeated season, and just pounded their bitter rivals from Troy. The game started a wonderful ride for me with Clarkston sports, a ride I hope doesn't end soon.

4. The Red Wings' Stanley Cup victory parade - June 18, 1998.

This was just a party attended by myself and 1.2 million of my closest friends in downtown Detroit. This day marked the highlight of the Wings' two-year run as Stanley Cup champions. But the best part of the day was how well-behaved all the fans were. It truly was good clean fun.

5. The Tigers take first place over Toronto - October 2, 1987.

Like a Lions' playoff win, not many people can remember the last time the Tigers made the playoffs, but I was lucky enough to watch them close in on it. In 1987, the Tigers swept the Toronto Blue Jays on the last three days of the season to win the American League East. I was at the Friday night game, where it was about 35 degrees, and the Tigers won 3-2 when a run scored on a double play ball.

6. Clarkston's boys basketball team topples Pontiac Central - March 17, 1998.

Pontiac Central had a starting lineup loaded with Division I-caliber talent. But Clarkston played a brilliant game, led by Dane Fife's 34 points and Justin Dionne's five 3-pointers. This game matched the two best teams in the state that year, and marked a performance the players and coach Dan Fife should always be proud of.

7. The CMU baseball team plays in the NCAA Regionals against Louisiana State - May 23, 1995.

Alex Box Stadium on the campus of LSU is the best baseball atmosphere I have ever been in. A classic-style ballpark, with an open-air pressbox and old-fashioned baseball tunes blaring over the loudspeaker, you would swear this is where the game was invented. Although the Chippewas lost to the eventual two-time College World Series champs, they played the Tigers very tough in baseball played on a beautiful plane.

8. The Pistons celebrate back-to-back titles - June 18, 1990.

The victory celebration at the Palace - similar to the Red Wings parade - marked the high point in the Pistons' two-year run atop the NBA. I vividly remember a sane Dennis Rodman overcome with emotion when the crowd cheered for him. My, how times have changed.

9. The Lions beat the Cowboys, again - November 8, 1981.

In another era in the NFL, the Cowboys were still strong and the Lions were trying to establish themselves. In this game, the Lions were down 17-0 at half-time, but came back to win 27-24 on an Eddie Murray field goal with no time left. The Lions even had 12 men on the field at the time of the game-winning kick, and the victory stood. There is justice in the world.

10. Seeing Cal Ripken Jr. play in person - July 11, 1997.

Cal Ripken, Jr. represents everything that is right about sports. He works hard, is a team leader, is wonderful with the fans, and excels at his craft. I was able to see him play during his streak at Camden Yards, the best pro baseball park ever built. There were 47,000 people there on a weeknight regular season game in the middle of the season, showing me what a great baseball town Baltimore is.

Welcome to the Hall, Pops

On June 21, former Clarkston varsity baseball coach Roy "Pops" Warner was inducted into the Michigan High School Baseball Coach's Hall of Fame. The banquet was held at Zuccaro's Country House in Mt. Clemens. Warner and the other nine inductees were honored the next day at a ceremony at the High School Baseball All Star Game at Tiger Stadium. Warner, who coached the Wolves for 29 years, called it "one of the biggest thrills in my life."

Wasilk to play hoops at Aquinas next year

"Tim brings a competitive spirit you won't find surpassed," Albro said. "He loves to play, and he loves to win. He has an understanding of how to make his teammates better."

Wasilk said the opportunity to play for Albro was one of the things that appealed to him about Aquinas.

"That was a big thing for me, playing for a coach I respect and wanted to play for," Wasilk said.

Wasilk said he will be able to continue along the same academic track he began at Grand Valley at Aquinas. He's majoring in international business, and called Aquinas a "very good business school."

Aquinas finished with a 14-17 record last year in the tough Wolverine Athletic Conference. Cornerstone College, a member of the WAC, won the NAIA national championship this season, and Siena Heights was a basket away from winning the title in 1997.

Albro said Wasilk will improve the team in clutch situations, something the Saints struggled with last year.

"We were 14-17, and had a hard time in the last three minutes," Albro said. "Tim will help us out a lot there. He wants the ball in those situations, whether it's to make a shot, or to have the play go through him."

Wasilk averaged 14 points per game for the Wolves in his senior season (1995-96) and led the team to two regional championships.

You don't get a double five-star safety rating overnight. It takes a lot of really long nights.

At Saturn, we work hard on safety. So perhaps it's no surprise that the Saturn SL, SL1 and SL2 are the only cars in their class to receive a double five-star rating for both passenger and driver in frontal crash tests.
