Clarkston hooking up to township water is a many-sided issue

'Somewhere down the road we are going to need a water main here.' -- Former city councilman Bill Basinger in 1994.

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

On March 7, 1995, a proposal that would have run a water main through the entire city of Clarkston was voted down by residents.

Now, nearly five years later, the issue of a new city water system is again at the forefront, but with a few different twists.

The Clarkston city council is looking into options to loop a water main through Main Street only. This would link up with existing mains owned by Independence Township that are place at the north and south ends of the city.

Although no reports of water contamination from wells have been reported along Main Street recently, residents and council members alike feel strongly about the water issue on several fronts.

The history

In the spring of 1994, 26 Main Street residents were discovered to have contaminated wells. The state of Michigan then stepped in and provided bottled water for those residents. They were hooked up to township

The contamination news sparked a water survey done by council member Karen Sanderson that was distributed throughout the city. Results of that survey showed that a majority of city residents were in favor of paying for a water main that would run throughout the city. Gary Tressell of Hubbell, Roth and Clark, the city's engineering firm, estimated the cost of such a project would be around $2.2 million at that time. At the most recent city council. meeting, Tressell said the costs of such a project today would cost $5 million, more than the city is allowed to assess its residents for. A special election was held around a year after the contaminated water was originally found. By a 139-100 vote, city residents turned it down. The 239 total votes represented 26 percent of all registered voters in the city. At the time, city manager Art Pappas said the vote went down because it was a health versus dollars issue. He added that he would be very surprised if the ocal man arrested for indecent exposure

Police have arrested an Independence Township man for two incidents of indecent exposure—one involving a 12-year-old girl.

Allen James Foreit, 25, was arraigned before a magistrate at 52-2 District Court in Clarkston Friday and charged with one count of indecent exposure. According to the Oakand County Sherrif's Department, the charge stemmed from a June 25 incident where Foreit allegedly exposed himself to a woman in her thirties as she walked home on Allen Road.

He was released on a $2,000 personal bond. However, six hours earlier he allegedly exposed himself to his 12-year-old female cousin.

Reports said the girl, who is living with Foreit and his wife at Foreit's uncle's house, was watching television around 3 a.m. in the family room. Foreit came in and exposed himself to her. He left briefly and returned. He sat next to her on the couch, exposed himself and asked her to touch him.

When she refused, he threatened her and said he would take the rest of her Ritalin. OCSD Det. Dave Hendrick of the Independence substation said police found an empty bottle, but there was no evidence Foreit took the medication.

Foreit was confronted by his wife, who called police. A warrant was issued by the prosecutor's office Saturday, and Foreit was rearrested and arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court Saturday morning.

He was charged with the second count of indecent exposure and taken to Oakland County Jail. Bond was set at $100,000, cash 10 percent.

According to OCSD Lt. Dale LaBair indecent exposure is a misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in jail.

Wetland fill concerns environmentalists

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A local developer has filed for permission to fill some wetland in his new condo project, causing concern from members of the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy.

On June 18, Forrest Milzow applied to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) for a permit to place 2,000 cubic yards of fill dirt in wetland areas to create a road in his proposed development Possum Hollow.

The site which borders I-75, is located on the east side of Clintonville Road, south of Maybee Road. Milzow has already received conceptual site plan approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission. He intends to build 72 single-family condominiums on the 33-acre parcel.

Jim Scharl of Kieft Engineering, engineer for the project, said the fill is needed because approximately. half the site is isolated by a wetland. The road would connect the two buildable pieces of property. "We have to cross this wetland to get to the usable side," Scharl explained.

He said the excavated portion of wetland would be placed elsewhere and actually create more wetland on the site. "It's a 150-percent situation. We're filling .42 acres of wetland, but we're creating .63 acres of wetland. So we're giving back more wetland than we're filling.'

He explained the "mitigation" theory, traditionally used by developers, as a system of "give and take, whereby a percentage of wetland is filled for the desired need. And to compensate for that, one-and-ahalf times of existing upland is excavated to create additional wetland."

However, Tom Stone, president of the land conservancy, says the situation will have a negative im-

New research shows mitigation "just doesn't work," Stone said. "By taking away from one area, you don't create another area. Wetland isn't just the stuff on top. It's layer upon layer that goes down.

'We've been able to figure out, they'll be putting in 40 truck loads of fill (dirt). We're concerned because, if this is an example, it could be a bad example of wetland being affected just to link up proper-

Stone said he's concerned that if the permit is approved, it will set a precedent for other developers to do likewise. "The next developer who comes along who has an isolated portion will say, if the wetland's in the way, let's move it.

"Our position is wetlands are not in the way. They serve a function." He noted recent rain storms. "... the rain needs to be filtered into the aquifers. That's where it ends up recharging the lakes and the ecosystems. Wetlands are critical to the process."

If they're disturbed, "that can create all kinds of problems, runoff problems, collection in larger areas. As someone said, the wetlands are the kidneys of our ecological system. They clean things out."

Township building director Bev McElmeel said Milzow's permit is contingent on approval from both the MDEQ and the planning commission, which is the township's wetlands board.

The township is also waiting for a review from Derek Stratelak, wetlands specialist from Hubbell, Roth & Clark, McElmeel said.

Stone said if residents are concerned they can write to MDEQ's Land and Water Management Division, Southeast Michigan District, 38980 Seven Mile Road, Livonia, MI 48152.

Correction

In a June 30 story about businesses cited for selling alcohol to minor decoys, there was some incorrect information. According to a 52-2 District Court spokesperson, an individual (store clerk, bartender, etc.) caught selling alcohol to a minor would be fined an average of $75. However, District Judge Gerald McNally said the fine is $200 for the first offense, and doubles for each offense thereafter.

Sounds of summer?

Residents upset over noise and obscenities from Pine Knob

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Apparently, residents within earshot of Pine Knob Music Theatre are not as happy as patrons are about the summer concert season.

Independence Township supervisor Dale Stuart said he's been getting numerous complaints about "excessive sounds and vulgar language" emanating from the venue since Pine Knob opened in May.

Most complaints stemmed from the OZZfest—an all-day event with two stages and 16 bands, headlined by rocker Ozzy Osbourne and Black Sabbath, June 25 (Friday) and June 27 (Sunday). Stuart said he also received complaints about the Dwight Yoakum country show June 24.

In the wake of those complaints, Stuart wrote a letter to The Clarkston News (see Letters to the Editor, 6A), urging residents to call either Palace Sports & Entertainment (248-377-0100), which owns the venue, or Pine Knob (248-625-6830).

He said people may express their concerns to him in care of Independence Township, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, MI 48346. The date, time and type of objectionable activity should be included.

Stuart said complaints have come from nearby residents to those who live two to three miles away.

"When you can stand at the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston Road and hear the concert as much as you can in the arena, there's something wrong," Stuart said

In most instances concerning the venue, Pine Knob has been a cooperative neighbor, he added. "But I don't think they've made much progress in this area since they've been here." (The Palace bought Pine Knob in 1991.) Stuart wants Pine Knob to tone down and buffer the language "so it won't be so objectionable."

According to Stuart, Palace officials say they have not received the same complaints." What we hear from them is, they're not hearing from anyone." If people continue to call, write and voice their objections, it will "build a record," he said.

Building Director Bev McElmeel said the venue has not been cited to date. "We are investigating the noise levels to verify if they are in compliance with the township's noise ordinance." she said.

Palace Public Relations Director Jeff Corey said Tuesday, "We definitely want to hear any noise concerns because we do try to address them."

Last year a new lawn-speaker system was installed to improve and direct sound to patrons on the hill, he said. Also, new absorbent material was installed in the pavilion walls and ceiling to help buffer sound. More was added this year.

"It not only improves the sound, but less sound echoes out of the payilion," Corey said. Pine Knob is still "tweaking" the new system, and continues to work to address people's concerns, he said.

"OZZfest is always a problem because we have a second (temporary) stage." Corey said.

"When we find out where people are calling from, we try to get out with decibel meters," he said. "Artists are given a decibel ceiling they're supposed to follow, but it all depends on balancing the sound."

Corey admitted the Palace doesn't always hear about complaints or "the people hang up. But we definitely try."

Robbery case bound over to Oakland court

Clifford Terry of Waterford, who was charged with the April robberies of Family Video and Frosty Boy, had his case bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court Thursday by 52-2 District Court Judge Gerald McNally.

He remains lodged in Oakland County Jail, charged with three counts of armed robbery. Bond is set at $150,000 cash ($50,000 per count), no 10 percent. Det. Dave Hendrick of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said Terry's circuit court arraignment will take place within the next two weeks.

City right to move toward water mains

Last week Clarkston's city council approved a notice of intent to establish a special assessment district for water mains.

Main Street properties appear to be the initial targets. Since Main Street is scheduled for renovation, some council members feel the water lines should go in prior to the restructur-

Thus the very initial, first step has been taken by the Council (the notice of intent) to bring public water through town.

Of course, there are objections. Affordability, adequate private supply, more government and coliform-free wells are some of the anti-issues being raised.

On the other hand, some of us with wells on Main Street feel certain our coliform-free, quarterly health department examinations are numbered.

Cost will have nothing to do with it when our wells are ruled contaminated and public water becomes mandated. People in all communities who have faced this ruling have found it "affordable." Maybe some move but maybe increased property values offset the monthly charges.

The same objections to a public water system were heard when sanitary sewers were forced on the community.

Is there any mandate to return to septic systems because they cost less or are not government run?

Forever, the building that houses The Clarkston News had its well in the basement. When a new well was needed the rules called for us to have an outside well. We were fortunate enough to have a vacant lot to drill on.

What are businesses with wall-to-wall buildings on their lots doing, or going to do? I know, many private property owners could care less, but do they really think that their "good" water will always be there?

Contamination is inevitable.

Industries, businesses, septic systems, highway treatments, spilled oil and gas, polutants in the Mill Pond and lawn treatments will continue to add contamination.

A public water system will not cost less in the future, and we believe such a move is inevitable.

If it's inevitable, why not now? And, as a non-resident property owner, we won't even get to vote on it. JAS

Letters To The Editor

Complain if Pine Knob is too noisy

Dear Editor.

Summer time must be here. No, it's not the beautiful flowers. No, it's not the balmy temperatures. It's complaints about excessive sounds and vulgar language emanating from the Pine Knob Music Theater.

I need your help!

When you hear sound that is objectionable at your home coming from Pine Knob, please do three things:

1. While you are hearing the sound or vulgarity, call

Pine Knob at 248-625-6830 and complain;

2. The next morning call 248-377-0100, Palace Entertainment and complain;

3. Write to me (Independence Township, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston 48436) describing the date, time and type of objectionable activity.

Please take these actions every time.

Living life with a positive news angle

Writer's

Some mornings you wake up feeling a little better about yourself because you believe you've made the world a little brighter the day before.

When I came into this profession (going on about two months now), I knew I wanted to affect people positively, giving them needed information, and most of all, sparking their interest in goings on around them. That's why this last week, as I headed out to Independence Oaks County Park for a photo essay on the Girl Scouts Day Camp, I hadn't a care about what the reporters at the "big" papers were doing.

You see, two months ago, if I'd been told the front page of any newspaper should stray from war coverage or other scenes of national and international trauma, I probably would have been taken aback. I was educated to focus on the unusual and horrifying events of the day - crime, fire, and other tragedies. But why does the news have to shock people? These situations are becoming so exploited they become commonplace in society. And I don't think I'm exaggerating.

Back to my story about the day camp. Although the heat was excessive in my work attire, and campfire smoke nearly blinded me as I tried to shoot, I left the park feeling like a good samaritan that day.

It happened when a little girl sitting at a picnic table inquired if I'd taken her picture among the many I'd shot over the last couple minutes. Upon my soft 'no,' her eyes welled with tears and pulled at my heartstrings so much so that I knelt back down and shot a few more.

Her smiling face making the cover of our June 30 paper with another scout gave me an all-over feeling of warmth. I love seeing the front page of our paper, with these and other happy faces and other situations which don't recount casualties or bomb sites as the norm.

Another recent assignment required my visiting the home of a local woman hosting a tea party for a friend celebrating her 90th birthday. Many "big-time" reporters might scoff at the thought. On the contrary, the elderly woman gave me insight into a time not so long ago, but all-too-soon forgotten.

As our world and our communities change by the minute, there has to be room for reflection.

There is also a need for celebration, and I couldn't define this better than when I attended the Fourth of July Parade in downtown Clarkston this past weekend. I was pretty surprised by the number of attendees — which had to be in the thousands — to this event.

But then again, judging by the sense of community that is ever-present here, I shouldn't be so amazed.

In this town, I find myself looking forward to assignments of kids working on projects and senior citizens planting gardens more so than getting the statistics on how much ozone is being lifted from the atmo-

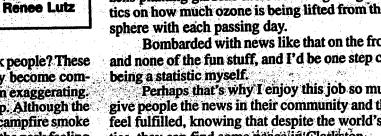

Bombarded with news like that on the front page and none of the fun stuff, and I'd be one step closer to

Perhaps that's why I enjoy this job so much. We give people the news in their community and they can feel fulfilled, knowing that despite the world's atrocities, they can find some peace in Clarkston.

Sure, there are the city and township meetings that get people riled up from time to time, but there are also new faces coming to town and new opportunities for area residents to enjoy life. In the parks or in the area shops, there's plenty going on.

Community newspapers, I salute you.

Life is what's precious, and we shouldn't waste newsprint by focusing on the horrific and unusual. I'd rather look at the terrific and out of the ordinary.

Curses! The golf gods have cast their spell on me

As kids, the sisters and I loved to play in the rain. For most of our childhood we lived in Independence Township; our house was built on the side of a hill.

When we had the hard, summer rain storms we'd head out in our bathing suits, run as fast as our little legs would take us and then slide down the raindrenched hill.

It was a lot of fun. We had our own slip-and-slide before the toy manufacturer marketed their plastic

But that was as a kid. As an adult I reckon that playing in the rain is, well, un-adult-like. So why then did I play golf in the rain this past weekend?

A better, and more probing question is, why do I play golf at all? It surely isn't because I'm good at it. In the words of some of my college chums, I "SUCK!"

What is it about this stupid game, invented by the Scots, that keeps attracting me back to the links? WHOOMPH, WHOomph, Whoomph, whoomph is the sound of my five iron swirling away from my outstretched arms — usually straighter and farther than my golf ball.

Oh sure, I took lessons last season, but that just improved my club throwing by about 10 yards.

I can just picture the golf gods, in their little plaid kilts, sitting in the brush and laughing. "Ah laddies, did ye get a good look at that one?" They must have cast some sort of spell on me. Curse their red beards!

And yet, as much as I suck at the game, there I was whacking away at that stupid little, white, dimpled ball, as the rain came down from the heavens.

Prior to the golf lessons I was what some called Kid Slice. Everything I hit careened to the right. Now, you might as well call me Captain Hook. Everything seems to go 90 degrees to the left.

Don't Rush Me

Go figure. -I-don't-even-use-my-woods-anymore. I just carry them around in my bag to look good -- along with most of my clubs. Me, I use the five iron, the seven iron, and the putter — and of course range balls on any course that has water.

The others in my foursome wanted to head to the clubhouse because of the rain. I, for some reason did not.

Something burned inside and told me I must stay. Stay and embarrass myself one more hole. Let the rains fall, just one more

Despite another stellar performance, the great number of swings, lost balls and flying sod, I actually had a fun time. (For the record I shot a 54 — on nine holes).

It wasn't my game, it must have been the rain. Too bad I couldn't bring myself to slide down the hill on Number Seven.

While Rush is off enjoying his vacation, we've rerun a favorite column of his from Summer, 1995.. By the way, he has NO plans to golf while on holiday

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1984)

For the sixth straight year, Janet Thomas is elected president by her fellow Clarkston School Board members. The decision is unanimous at the board's annual organizational meeting Monday.

25 YEARS AGO (1974)

As usual, there's a big turnout for Clarkton's annual Fourth of July parade. A float sponsored by the "Trim for State Representative Committee" wins a $50 first prize. It features three youths dressed in uniform and a backdrop of the U.S. Constitution.

50 YEARS AGO (1949)

On Thursday, Independence Township voters increase the millage sufficient to buy the Seeterlin Brothers' Garage on East Church Street. The vote is 45-9 to purchase the building.

Clarkston girl Joyce Lawson wins first prize in the bathing beauty contest at the Fourth of July celebration in Davisburg Park. She is chosen from a group of twelve contestants.

Teacher tenure granted at June 14 school board meeting

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

More than 40 Clarkston school teachers can rest easier.

Following a reception in their honor, the teachers were granted tenure through a 6-0 approval by the board at the June 14 school board meeting. In addition, several others at the meeting were presented employee recognition awards and outstanding volunteer service awards.

Linda Nester, director of administrative and personnel services for Clarkston Community Schools, said the Tenure Act was established in the 1950's and was essentially created as an employment security measure.

"It serves as protection against dismissal, unless it is for certain stated reasons," Nester said. "There used to be a lot of politics involved and those doing the hiring would play favorites. The Tenure Act was passed to help the children and to keep the dignity of the teaching profession."

Michigan legislature changed the state law on tenure in 1993, requiring teachers to be observed and evaluated for four years prior to receiving tenure (double the amount of observation time in previous years). Those meeting qualifications for tenure are then recommended to the school board, Nester said.

"It's a very serious thing. It is a difficult and important thing for the teachers to accomplish," she said. "We're very proud of them. They're very qualified teachers."

Those teachers granted tenure are:

Local barber retires after nearly four decades of service

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Longtime barber Dave Larkin of Clarkston is putting away his talc and scissors after more than 30 years of cutting hair at his shop on Clintonville Road.

Larkin has cut hair for 39 years - 34 of which have been in the Clarkston area at Larkin's Barber Shop, 4831 Clintonville Road. He and his wife have lived in Clarkston since 1966, and as a local barber, he's had the opportunity to sculpt the heads of up to four generations of several families.

One such family is the Elkins, also of Clarkston, with three generations of men who have received haircuts from Larkin. The youngest of the generations, 15-month-old Nathen, had his first haircut Friday.

In his time shaving and clipping, Larkin said he has many fond memories. One occured several years ago during the Christmas season, a man came into his shop and requested he cut his son's hair.

"He was a 25-year-old with a kid and he said, 'You gave me my first haircut and I want you to give him his.' I didn't even remember the guy," Larkin said.

Aside from the more pleasant moments, Larkin also remembers the mishaps.

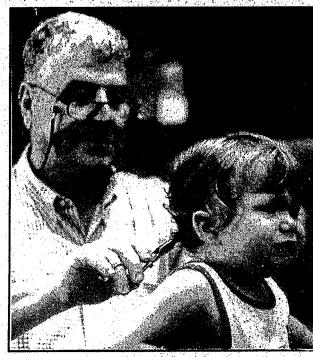

"One time I started giving this guy a flat top, and he wanted a regular haircut. He took it well," Larkin said

Larkin has come to know hundreds of people through his profession, through conversation.

"The first thing (we talk about) is the weather, then we talk about family and sports," he said. "A lot of people bring up political stuff, but we try to stay away from political conversations."

Larkin says he's happy he became a barber, although he can't remember why he started.

"I can't say why I chose it. I'm glad I did. It's been good to me," he said.

Larkin said he sees barbershops disappearing everywhere, but hopes to see them continue.

"We're kind of a dying trade. There doesn't seem to be too many young people going into it," he said.

Now retired, Larkin said the only hair he will cut is a that of a friend who in turn cuts Larkin's hair. He also plans to spend more time with his children and grandchildren, who live in the Clarkston area.

CVP announces 1999-2000 season

Clarkston Village players has announced its community theater line-up for the 1999-2000 season. Play dates are Thursday, Friday and Saturday during each run at Depot Theater, 4861 White Lake Road in Clarkston. For more information, call 625-8811.

"Murder by the Book," Sept. 10-25: A present-day mystery thriller, set in a northwest London flat, tells of a novelist who tests the premise of his new book, faking murders based on his own experiences. His scheme misfires when a real homicide happens. It's a lighthearted romp, with wit and crisp dialogue.

"Close Ties," Nov 5-20: Humor and compassion are key elements in the tale of a Berkshire family which tries to solve the problem of how to provide for its aging, perhaps senile matriarch. Three generations grapple with family ties, which produce tensions and good-natured bickering in this warm-hearted drama.

■ "Weekend Cornedy," Jan 7-22: This comedy is set in a cabin in upstate New York during Memorial Day. Two couples — one young and liberal, the other, older and committed — learn from each other over the holiday. Parental warning: there is adult language and "a mooning."

■ "A Case of Libel," March 10-25: This

"A Case of Libel," March 10-25: This drama concerns a clash between a celebrated war corespondent and a popular, syndicated columnist. It is described as a strong endorsement of free speech and an indictment of extremism.

■ "A Bad Year for Tomatoes," May 12-27: In this comedy, a famous TV star holes up in a New England hamlet to write her autobiography. Curious neighbors force her to invent a demented sister to scare them away. Hilarity ensues when the neighbors try to help her, and the actress is accused of "murdering" the sibling.

Bill Basinger, a city councilman at the time of the study, said, "Somewhere down the road, we are going to need a water main here."

Two years ago, Morgan's Gas Station on Main Street had leaks into its well, and the state dug up the soil and replaced it. In addition, Tressel said the Muffler Shop on Main is in the process of having its underwater releases cleaned up by the state. He said that project will be ongoing over the next 18 months.

The water issue returns

The return of the water main issue can be directly traced back to the city's application, and subsequent awarding, of a TEA-21 grant. The purpose of the project is to refresh the look of downtown, with improved curbs and sidewalks, as well as new lighting through Main Street.

The city council figured that because Main Street would be torn up by MDOT for these improvements, now might be a good time to revive the water issue.

"If we don't do it now, it's going to cost a lot more, because the road will have to get torn up again," said city councilman Walt Gamble. "It will cost less to run up the side roads, if that's what we end up doing eventually. MDOT would do the work of laying in the pipes, so we would save on tear-up costs."

The TEA-21 grant, which comes from state and federal monies, does not cost city property owners anything. Construction bids are scheduled to go out in December, with construction set for next year.

"We had a real good opportunity five years ago to do this, at a reasonable cost," councilman Mike Kelley said. "This is worth doing now because the TEA-21 project is coming here."

The health issues

Most city residents receive their water from wells

Mayor Sharron Catallo said she feels the health aspect of putting in a water main is of primary impor-

"It's a real important health issue, and we did not push it before," she said at the June 12 council meet-

Kelley, a Main Street resident, said he has received no indication there is a current problem of contamination on Main Street:

Who's going to pay

At the June 26 council meeting, many Main Street residents in attendance expressed concern over the eventual possibility that the entire city could be hooked up to this water main, and only they would be assessed for it. Council members said that is not going to hap-

"We have to find an equitable way for everyone to pay for this thing," Gamble said. "We cannot afford to miss an opportunity like this, and we need to look at every possibility we can in order to do it."

Although the council has made no decision on what form of financing this project could have, it has discussed a couple different avenues. First is to create a special assessment district within the city for Main Street residents and businesses only. They would be charged for access to water that would come through the new main, and they would be the only ones to benefit from it. Since Clarkston became a city, it has never had a special assessment district.

Another form of financing discussed is a general obligation bond. This is different than an SAD because everyone in the city will be assessed for water main service, and everyone will be hooked into it eventually.

"Financing is what is driving a lot of this (controversy)," Kelley said. "There's no way the city can bear

As the funds from such a bond are collected, different parts of the city would be hooked into the water

Dale Stuart, Independence Township supervisor, said the township would be willing to work with the city to help accomodate its needs.

'Anytime the system is more complete, you get a better servicing of everyone," he said. "But it's not something the township needs. This would not be a profitmaking project for the township. But we are working with the city just like we would with our own people."

Tressell said the issue of looping the water main through downtown is currently in negotiations, and did not wish to comment. However, he added that doing this project with the TEA-21 project would save the city and its residents a lot of money.

"It can be postponed, but the construction costs. won't go down," he said. "By waiting, we would significantly increase the costs of doing this."

Where the issue stands

The council has not formally approved anything with regards to a water main in the city at this time. At its last meeting, the council approved a notice of intent, which is only a required step in the process of bringing a water main into the city. The council is still looking at all of its options.

City attorney Tom Ryan said he would have an SAD ordinance prepared for Monday night's meeting. The ordinance would have two readings, both held at public meetings, before being passed into law. However, even if the council approves the ordinance, it does not guarantee a water main coming to Clarkston.

"It's just something we need to have on the books," Catallo said.

Simkos race across the generations

Mike is the latest to burn up the track in racing stock car

BY BRAD MONASTIERE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three generations of the Simko family have spent time together in the pits

The latest to get behind the wheel is 1999 Clarkston High School graduate Mike Simko, who is currently racing his family-built late model in the Late Model Division circuit. A rookie on the raceway, Mike is living out a dream of a lifetime and carrying on a long family tradition.

Mike races every Saturday night at the Owosso Speedway in the Late Model Leagues. This is his first season on the circuit, and he says his learning curve is very high.

"This year, I am not worried about where I finish, just out there learning," Mike said. "Next year, I expect to be more competitive."

Mike is following in the footsteps of his father Dave and grandfather Elmer, who have a long background in stock car racing themselves. Elmer raced midget cars at the now-defunct Mt. Clemens Speedway in the 1950's, and owns the Owosso track where his grandson now races.

Dave was an award-winning race car driver as part of the ARCA (Auto Racing Club of America) circuit, which is one notch below the Winston Cup series. Dave was the ARCA Rookie of the Year in 1984, and held the track record at the Talledega (Fla.) track for four years, with a lap that averaged 201 mile per hour.

as long as he can remember, and always wanted to be a race car driver.

"When I was young, all I wanted to do when I grew up was to race cars," Mike said while eying his white stock car. "I would just watch them in awe. I would go with my dad to the races sometimes, and help time him when I was 12, 13 years old. You had to be 18 to get into the pits, but they would sneak me in sometimes and I would time my dad."

Dave, who has temporarily retired from active racing to be his son's crew chief, said he has enjoyed passing the torch.

"It's been an experience for me, watching him and teaching him," he said. "He's been going with me fro a while, and when he became old enough, there was an opportunity to buy a car that we could race at Owosso.

"He has a lot to learn yet. But you develop your stamina and acquire your knowledge as you go," Dave said.

Mike's top speed at the 3/8-mile oval track at Owosso is an average of 83-84 mph. He says he reaches speeds of around 100 on the straightaways, but has to slow down significantly on the turns.

"You really have to slam on the brakes," he said. "I can tell that I'm going fast, but it's hard to tell how fast I am going. I can be doing 95 on a straightaway, and guys would still be passing me, so it doesn't seem that fast."

At this point in his career, moneymaking is not at the top of Mike's priorities.

Locals help Oxford Legion team win

Several Clarkston baseball players helped the Oxford Legion Baseball team to a late-inning win over the Farmington Legion Team in a Wednesday night game at Oxford.

Ryan Marino, a senior at Clarkston High School, was excellent on the mound, tossing a three-hitter to help the team to a 6-1 win. He only allowed one hit through the first six innings of the game before securing the win.

CHS graduate Adam Leech knocked in the game's first run for Oxford in the first, giving Oxford a lead it would never lose.

Farmington knotted the game 1-1 in the second before Oxford pulled away.

Oxford scored five runs in the bottom of the fourth. CHS graduate

Nate Jerdon got the rally started with a single to left-center, and later scored on a fielder's choice by Bobby Schmidt.

Oxford's Jon Strauss, who scored the team's first run of the game, hit a grand slam home run right after Jerdon scored, putting Oxford up 6-1.

The Oxford Legion team is coached by 1993 CHS graduates Chris Simko and Aaron Phillips. Simko played baseball for a season at Ferris State University after being named All-County.

Phillips was a pitcher for four years at Oakland University, and was an All-State pitcher for the Wolves under longtime coach Roy "Pops" Warner.

Oxford has a busy weekend coming up. Friday the team hosts Milford for a 6:30 p.m. single game. Saturday, Oxford takes on Berkley at 11 a.m. in a doubleheader. Sunday the team is in another doubleheader, this time against Chief Pontiac starting at 1 p.m.

Michigan Rams update

There were fireworks in the field as well as in the sky over the weekend for the Michigan Rams baseball team.

The Rams went 3-1 at the Firecracker Tournament in Warren, finishing in second place in its pool.

The team won a 7-0 forfeit game, and a 10-2 decision over the Livonia Spartans and a 7-4 win over the London (Ont.) Badgers. The Rams lost a tough 7-4 game to the Darrborn Heights Hawks, ending their run in the tournament.

Coach George Drallos said the loss was a frustrating one; because it Continued on Page 15B

Wrestlers gear up for busy summer

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Every summer, wrestlers from Clarkston disperse around the globe, measuring their talents against some of the best the nation and the world have to offer.

This summer will be no different, as several past, present and future Clarkston Wolves head to prestigious tournaments all over the map. They started Saturday, June 12 with the Michigan Cadet Junior Freestyle Tournament at Ann Arbor, and will keep on flying all through the summer.

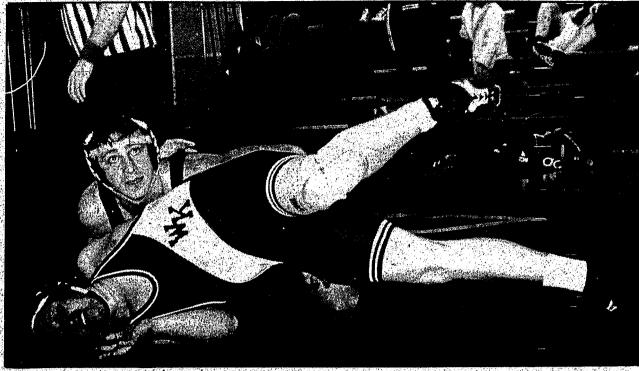

The Ann Arbor event was organized by CHS wrestling coach Mike DeGain, and featured several top finishes by Clarkston athletes.

"It is a dual meet against other teams, made up of national qualifiers," DeGain said. "We see the top wrestlers from Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Ohio."

At the Ann Arbor event, 1999 CHS graduate A.J. Grant (University of Michigan) led the way with a 5-0 record. CHS senior Pat DeGain went 3-0, but had to withdraw from the tournament early because of an injury. Freshman Clint DeGain went 3-1, a very impressive performance for a wrestler with no high school experience, according to coach DeGain. Senior Jon Robinson went 4-1 in the heavyweight division, with his only loss coming to the top-ranked heavyweight in the nation.

Clint DeGain wrestled on the Michigan Cadet team, while the rest wrestled on the Junior team.

The Michigan Junior team, led by the Clarkston wrestlers, finished in second place at the meet, just behind Pennsylvania. The Cadet team took third, behind Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Senior Pat DeGain is ranked number one in the nation in the 215-pound weight class.

The next leg of their national tour kicks off this week, when Pat and Clint DeGain, along with Robinson, 1999 CHS graduate Ryan L'Amoreaux and senior Dave Welanko head to Fargo, North Dakota for the annual Cadet National Tournament. This will be Clint's first trip there, but the other three went last year.

"Ryan might not go, because he has to have shoulder surgery," coach DeGain said. "But we've got a good crew of kids going."

L'Amoreaux, a Division I state champion this year, is looking at several possibilities for collège wrestling. Coach DeGain said he's been interested in Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan, as well as Muskegon Community Collège. CMU finished fourth in the NCAA Tournament last year.

team took third, beThe youngest DeGain - Clint - is carrying on the family's winning wrestling tradition. He went 5-2 at the Cadet World Wrestling Trials in Puerto Rico, losing to a top-ranked wrestler from Puerto Rico and another one ranked fifth in the world. He defeated the New Mexico state champion in the tournament. Last year, Pat never gave up a point at the trials and finished second in the world in a tournament in England. Coach DeGain said Pat chose not to participate in this year's tournament so he could be 100 percent recovered from his nagging injuries.

Clint was also listed as a Future Champion in Wrestling USA Magazine, based on his winning the Challenge Cup in Tennessee in March.

Grant was named third-team all-American by the magazine, while L'Amoreaux was an honorable mention all-American. Pat DeGain finished the 1998-99 season ranked as the number-one wrestler in his age and weight class in the nation. It marked the second year in a row he has been ranked that high.

money," he said. "It's just a matter at this point of getting the driving experience."

Dave said the money spent on racing each year pales in comparison to what the Winston Cup driving teams do.

"For us, if we spend $100,000 in a year, that's a lot," he said. "Those Winston teams spend around $10 million per year. The cars are similar, except ours are a notch below the speed of the Winston Cup cars."

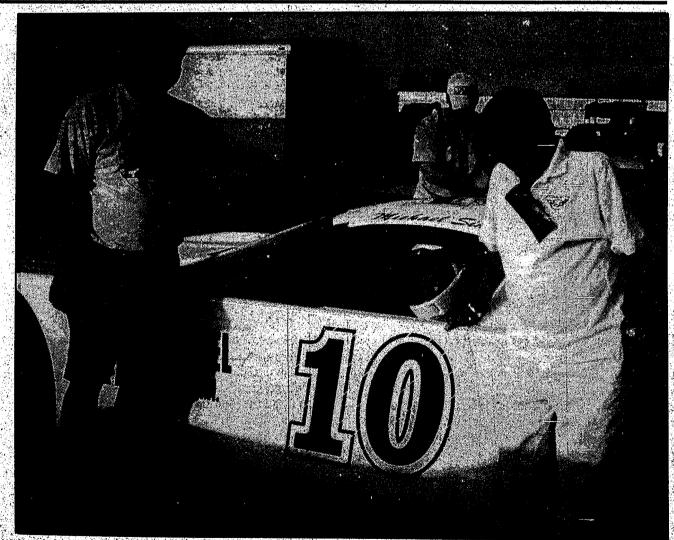

Mike's car is white with red trim, and is sponsored by Mound Steel, the family-owned business out of Auburn Hills. Much of the front is made up of sheet metal which is stamped into place when it needs replacing.

There is no passenger seat, and no doors, meaning Mike has to climb through the window and remove the steering wheel just to get into the car, Most of the interior is made up of padded roll bars, with the sheet metal pounded in over it.

The car does not have a normal transmission, and only has three gears; high, low and reverse. Mike says compared to a normal car, low is third or fourth gear, with high gear being, well, real fast.

"Until the green flag drops, I get all giddy, anticipating the start of everything," he said. "It's just a big-time rush."

Jack Leech, friend of the Simko family, contributed to this story. For more on the Owosso racing circuit, go to www.owossospeedway.com.

Soccer: the sleeping giant of American sports

As I absently flipped through TV stations the other night, I came to a most unusual scene on ESPN for this time

In The

Box

Penalty

with Brad

of year.

Jack Kent Cooke Stadium. Washintgon D.C. A packed house of 54,000 screaming people. A green field. Fans with their faces painted. All these signs should indicate a Washington Redskins game was taking place on a sunny September afternoon. Afterall, the Redskins have one of the most loyal followings in all of sports, with season tickets tougher to come by than a straight answer out of a Congressman.

But no. This wasn't football. It was soccer. Women's soccer at that. Screams rose in pitch and volume every time the ball came near the German goal. A rollicking frenzy ensued on the field and off every time someone scored. Women's soccer?

Yes, women's soccer. For far too long, women's sports have been relegated to the small print of daily sports sections, with the exception of golf and tennis. A women's pro basketball league was tried in the 1970's. It failed. Through the 1980's and much of the 1990's, the true glamour sports featured all men. Men were the ones drawing huge crowds. I mean for cryin' out loud, they once packed 93,000 fans into the Pontiac Silverdome for Wrestlemania!

But the times, they are a-changing. The WNBA is starting to really catch on nationwide, with thriving franchises all over the country, including a very competitive one here in Detroit. And the women's World Cup is shaping up to be the biggest national sports news event of the summer.

Big, blown up pictures on the front sports pages.

Packed stadiums. Feature stories on bench warmers on off days. This is phenomenon growing right before our eyes, and we could be entering a new era in sports.

Every venue the U.S. women's soccer team plays in is packed. And I mean packed. The aforementioned stadium in Washington actually had to add 4,000 seats to accommodate the demand for tickets. Ticket prices were affordable. Many families could be seen in the stands, cheering together and waving the flag together.

Contrast that with the rising fan apathy in other sports. Attendance at NBA games in the most recent lockout-shortened season sunk to 20-year lows. Sixty percent of Major League Baseball teams have little or no hope of contending because of the current economic structure. That leads to declining attendance, payroll slashing, and less competitiveness. The NHL, while incredibly strong here, is still trying to become established as a true nationwide sport.

This women's soccer team is one that seems to have appeal across gender lines and state borders all around. Girls idolize them. Boys marvel at their athleticism, and sometimes, their looks. It's easy to get swept away in the emotion of a rare goal. Superstar Mia Hamm has even risen to the level of becoming one of Nike's primary promotional tools, and this coming from a company that never seems to have enough.

I hope a lot of athletes are watching this team. Notice the genuine fun they seem to have while playing the game. Too often, we get caught up in wins and losses and forget that this is a game we started out playing when we were young because it's fun. The way the players on the bench become the biggest cheerleaders in the stadium, all hints of playing-time envy absent.

I feel we do a good job here in Clarkston of supporting all athletes. The National Girls and Women in Sports Day is a great way for female athletes to feel the kind of enthusiasm seen by these soccer players.

But I still hear too many whispers in the wind of jealousy or questioning coaches around town. Look at this U.S. women's soccer team. It's all for one and one for all. A team divided falls apart. A team unified becomes stronger, and this team is a great example of that. One would think it natural for the players to be jealous of Hamm because she shared commercial time with Michael Jordan. But when another player scores a goal, she's the first one to offer hugs and congratulations. I am sure this is appreciated by her teammates and coaches.

This has been a fun team to follow, and one that could do more for sports in this country than any single team has done in a long time. I hope other sports, other teams and other athletes follow its example.

■ I just read where a 21-year-old woman in Minnesota won the Powerball lottery, worth $150 million.

Besides being the newest object of my affection, she has a chance to fulfill some of those dreams many kids have for their parents. Of course, my whole plan at 21 was to win the lottery and live the life of a simple man. A small house for myself. A nice new van for mom. My sister's college education. Some wise investments courtesy of dad.

But here's my gripe. The woman won the lottery, but a full one-third of the money is going to state and federal taxes. That's $50.4 million! What in the world is done with that money? The state and federal government get a check for $50 million all at once. I mean, even beyond the government's penchant for dropping $600 on a toilet seat, there has to be something constructive done with that money.

As I understand it, proceeds from the lottery go towards education. As worthy a cause as any, to be sure. I just hope the government suits are at least up front about this to take some worthwhile action with all this money. Fifty million dollars could pay for a lot of kids' college educations, or new roof tiles at innercity schools. Here's hoping the young lass and the

MHSAA crowns 85 different schools in 1998-99

A continued high level of competition was evident in Michigan High School Athletic Association tournaments during the 1998-99 school year.

Eighty-five different schools won titles in the recently completed school year, two less than the 87 in 1997-98. The continually high number of schools winning championships is primarily due to the competitive environment for high school teams around the state created by equal divisions in nine sports.

The 1998-99 school year saw a total of 113 team champions crowned, an all-time high. Next year, the minimum number of titles will decrease to 109 when girls volleyball will hold a unified tournament for the first time, involving teams from the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

The schools which won their first MHSAA titles in any sport were: Detroit Mumford in Lower Peninsula boys track, Morrice in girls basketball, Whittemore-Prescott in team wrestling and Wyoming Rogers in softball. In addition, there were 38 schools which won tournaments in a given sport for the first time.

Sixteen of the 85 schools winning in 1998-99 took more than one crown. Marquette won five titles, while Ann Arbor Pioneer and East Grand Rapids won four championships apiece. Five schools won at least three championships and eight won at least two. Detroit Catholic Central led all schools with three championships in unified tournaments and Detroit Country Day claimed two unified tournaments. Eleven of the

1998-99 Class A state champions

Baseball - Detroit Catholic Central
Boys Basketball - Ann Arbor Pioneer
Girls Basketball - Birmingham Marian Girls Competitive Cheer - Rochester
Boys Cross Country - Novi
Girls Cross Country - Rockford
Football (AA) - Detroit Catholic Central
Football (A) - Farmington Hills Harrison
Boys Golf - Birmingham Brother Rice
Girls Golf - Farmington Hills Mercy
Ice Hockey - Detroit Catholic Central Boys Skiing - Traverse City Central

Boys Soccer - Novi

Softball - Okemos
Boys Swimming - Ann Arbor Pioneer
Girls Swimming - Farmington Hills Mercy
Boys Tennis - Birmingham Brother Rice
Girls Tennis - Ann Arbor Pioneer
Boys Track - Detroit Mumford
Girls Track - Ann Arbor Pioneer
Volleyball - Portage Northern
Team Wrestling - Temperance Bedford

* - all listed champions are Lower Peninsula only; out of the 24 listed state champions, 10 came from Oakland County, the most from one county in the state.

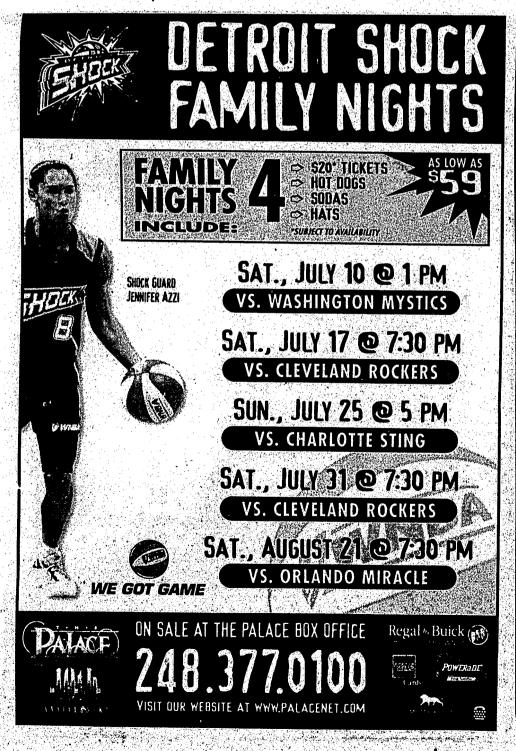

MHSAA's 24 championships are unified, involving teams from the Upper and Lower Peninsula, while separate competition to determine champions in both Peninsulas is conducted in the other 13 sports.

Girls Soccer - Rochester Adams

Marquette won its ninth straight Upper Peninsulas boys swimming and diving title, the longest active streak in any sport. There was also no repeat champion in girls competitive cheer for the first time in the six-year history of the event. Grosse Pointe Woods University Liggett, won its 33rd MHSAA crown in Lower Peninsula boys tennis, surpassing the 32 boys track titles by Pickford. Liggett's mark is a new national record in boys tennis, while Pickford's total in boys track is second nationally.

wasted a very good pitching effort by Eric Jenks."

Jenks pitched a solid game, allowing eight hits and striking out seven. But none of the runs Dearborn scored were earned. "We didn't play very well behind him," Drallos said. "And Eric pitched his heart Against the Badgers, Chris Mitchell led the way by going 2-for-4 with a double and a run batted in. John Drallos doubled and had an RBI, and Jenks and Spencer Hynes each chipped in with a hit.

In the win over the Spartans, Hynes had one of his best offensive games of the summer by going 3for-3 with two doubles and 4 RBI. Mitchell had a hit and scored two runs, while Drallos drove in a run and scored once.

Monday, the team lost a tough 5-4 decision to the Michigan Bulls in a game played at the University of Michigan field in Ann Arbor.

'Just a tremendous ballgame," Drallos said.

The Bulls scored the game-wiining run when the leadoff hitter advanced to first on a strikeout, stole second, was sacrificed to third, and then scored on a passed ball. A batter can advance to first on a strikeout of the third strike is not caught by the catcher.

On June 30, the Rams whipped the Bulls 9-2. Jenks had an excellent game, going 3-for-3, inlouding a single, double and a home run, driving in five runs. Drallos went 2-for-4 with two steals, and Mitchell slammed a two-run homer.

The Rams now stand at 11-6 overall and 4-4 in the league.
