How 'bout a nice, cool drink?

Clarkston kids Bryan Bates, 11, and his brother Justin, 9, along with their friend Amber Stokes, 12, man their lemonade booth at the corner of Washington and Holcomb streets Thursday. The trio is earning money to buy things they want, but will use some of the funds from lemonade sales to buy flowers for the Bates' mom, who made the lemonade. On Wednesday, the group sold 24 cups of lemonade in five hours, and have high hopes for upcoming hot summer days. "We'll be here all summer," said Justin.

Foyteck back as school board president

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new slate of officers was elected to the Clarkston School Board Monday night.

In a 4-3 vote, Karen Foyteck will resume the president's spot, which she lost last year to Kurt Shanks by the same margin. Sheila Hughes was elected vice president by a 5-2 vote, Mary Ellen McLean was unanimously elected secretary, and Ron Sullivan was unanimously re-elected treasurer.

surer.

Shanks declined a nomination for board secretary. He said Tuesday he is looking forward to the coming school year on the board, although he was not re-elected president.

"Elections are always a surprise, (but) we work together as a board very well and it's a very good board," Shanks said.

He said serving as a trustee will be no different than serving in any other board position.

"There is absolutely no individual power or authority. Only as a board is there power."

Foyteck said her reinstatement as president came as somewhat of a surprise, but she is prepared for the Independence zoning categories revisited at joint board meeting

Board members begin work on master plan revisions

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Vision 2020 is one step closer to reality.

At a special joint workshop at Independence Township Library Monday night, Township Planner Dick Carlisle presented suggestions for the long-awaited update of the master plan. In attendance were board of trustees and planning commission officials, Building Director Bev McElmeel and community planner Carey Nyberg from Carlisle's firm.

Dick Carlisle

Plans call for the master plan to be revised according to the objectives and goals of the Vision 2020 Strategic Plan, a planning tool designed to guide the township into the next millennium.

Carlisle presented a rough draft, and an overview of past planning methods, including revisions to the master plan dating back to 1976.

Over the course of two hours, suggestions for new and amended zoning categories for the township's land use plan were discussed as well as a new "Greenways Plan," designed to link open space.

The proposed zoning categories are as follows:

■ Estate Residential: Formerly Suburban Farms Residential, this would permit single-family residential at 1 1/2 acres per unit. It would be a transitional zone between the lowest density — rural residential, which is proposed to be increased in the northwest sector — and higher-density areas.

■ Suburban Residential: This amended category would cite a new minimum lot-size requirement of 1 acre per dwelling unit. It replaces the old range of 1/2 to 1 1/2 acres. Carlisle said this would provide more consistent development.

■ Traditional Lakefront Residential: Traditionally, lake front lots are high-density, ranging from 30 to

Rotary gears up for '99-'00, awards given

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Presentations and congratulations were the order of the evening at the Clarkston Rotary Club's 60th Installation Banquet June 28 at Devil's Ridge Country Club in Metamora.

The banquet marked the last night of Jeff Lichty's presidency. Lichty, who has been a member for 10 years, turned the gavel over to Mark Deacon, whose term will run through June of 2000.

Paul Harris awards were presented to four people who "have helped to make the Clarkston community a great place to live," Lichty said in his program notes.

"Communities don't just happen, they are created and maintained by people. Without these people, communities become just a place where the traffic slows down," Lichty said.

Past President and six-year Rotary member Barry Hranach was honored because he "led the way with all of the activities that our club does."

Former Clarkston High School principal, past Rotary president and 13-year Rotary member Brent Cooley was honored, because "he has made sure that the Clarkston High School is open to as many people as possible and that is not just an educational gas station separate from the community."

Ann Conklin, director of Independence Township Parks and Recreation, "has made sure that when our workday is done, that there is some place and something to do that is fun and healthy for all of us."

Former Clarkston News publisher Jim Sherman Sr. was also honored, because he has "helped every non-profit organization in the community and without his support our Goodfellows newspaper drive would not be nearly as successful."

Paul Harris was the founder of the Rotary clubs. The Clarkston club will donate $1,000 in the names of each of the honorees to Rotary International. Lichty said the money is invested for three years, then 60 percent will be returned to the district. The rest is held as matching grant money or used for programs.

Four Special Service awards were presented to Rotary members who devoted a lot of time to community service on behalf of Rotary last year.

Sam Huff and Dick Miller were honored because they were in charge of the club's two major fund-raisers, the $10,000 raffle and the Kentucky Derby Party.

Ron Davis "volunteered for everything in sight," said Lichty and Lu Hewko received his award because he put together the Goodfellows newspaper.

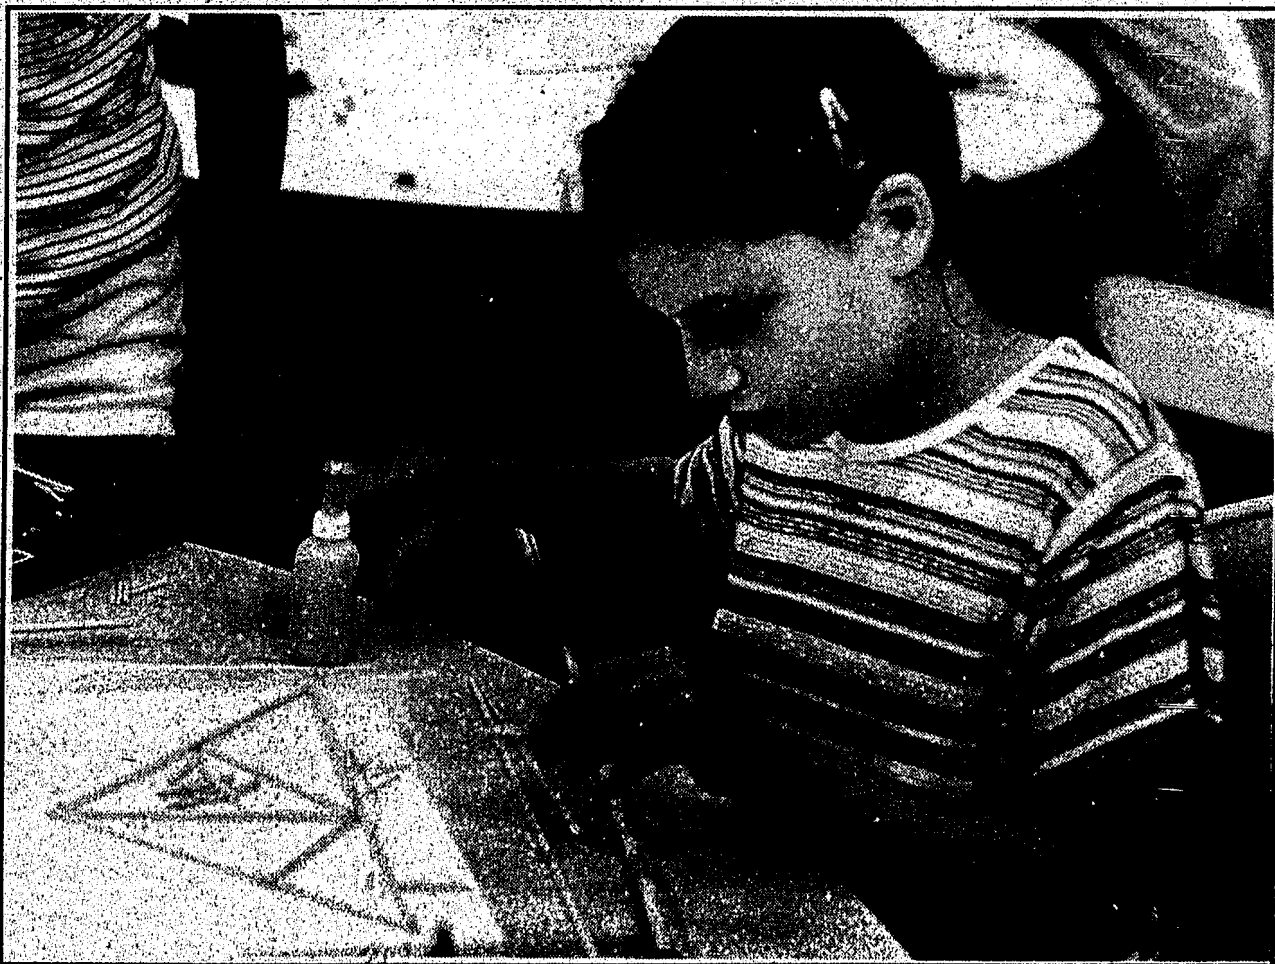

At the banquet, the following officers and directors were also named for 1999-2000: Bob Vandemark, vice-president; Harold Wiederhold, secretary; Ron Davis, treasurer. Directors are: Jeff Lichty; Mike Packard; John Halleran; Sam Huff; Burke Reid.

Wetlands violation prompts action in Springfield Township

Property owners at Autumn Shores subdivision receive cease and desist order from MDEQ

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Wetlands preservation may be more important to the Springfield Township Board than residents of an area subdivision realized.

Township officials held a meeting July 13 to determine what will happen next concerning a violation to an area of wetlands by a group of property owners at Autumn Shores subdivision. The meeting took place after a cease and desist order from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality was given to the property owners June 29.

The subdivision, located near Springfield Plains Elementary School on Bridge Lake Road, contains some wetlands which are outlined specifically by the homeowners association bylaws as to how they must be maintained, said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

In early May, Walls noticed what he believed to be was a violation of the bylaws. He said approximately 300 feet of property at the sites on the shores of Wah-Me-Gah Lake's south side had been dredged and filled in with sand.

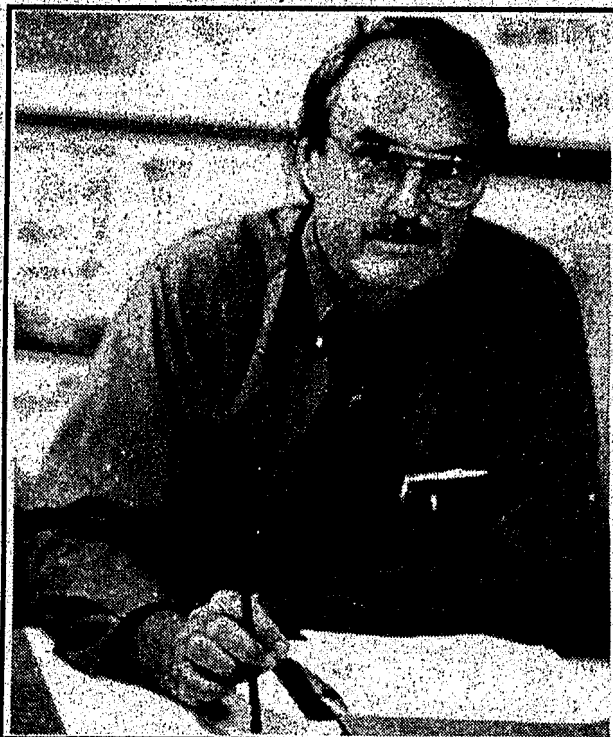

Walls said he contacted the MDEQ immediately.

The MDEQ issued a land use permit to three property owners of Autumn Shores, but the permit allowed for only 40 feet of each parcel to be made into sandy beach -- in the water, Walls said.

Since the dredging took place, he said one of the property owners he's had contact with "clearly indicated that they went beyond the length of their permit."

Ken Stillson, press secretary for the MDEQ's main office in Lansing, said a district office representative was sent out June 29 to inspect the site.

Friday, Mary Vanderlaan, MDEQ district supervisor, said a violation was apparent and a cease and desist order was given to four property owners after that inspection.

Springfield Twp. Supervisor Collin Walls

Vanderlaan said three permits were issued only for beach sanding underwater, yet all three property owners dredged wetlands up the beach. The fourth property owner did the same, without any permit, she said.

She said the order requests they restore the area back into a wetland, and present a plan for restoration to the MDEQ within 30 days of receiving the order.

"Once approved, there is a time limit for the restoration (to take place)," Vanderlaan said. "We're not a party to legal action at this point."

She said if the property owners do not follow through with the restoration, she can refer the case to the MDEQ's criminal investigation office, "and proceed in filing some legal action."

Walls said he is uncertain what, if any, action the MDEQ will take in the matter.

"There are all kinds of potential or possible enforcement mechanisms. There are legal remedies clearly available to the MDEQ," Walls said.

Walls said he has been contacted about the order, but has yet to see it in writing.

"We have not seen the order. . . . It is my understanding it was a verbal cease and desist order," Walls said.

John Chalmers, one of the property owners given the cease and desist order, said Monday he could not comment on the situation.

"At this point, we are still trying to resolve this issue. We have no comment at this time," Chalmers said.

In a written statement presented to board members at the June 10 township board meeting, Walls suggested the township take action if necessary by filing suit against the homeowners association.

In an interview June 25, Walls said, "In my opinion, it would have been the level of authority and responsibility (of the association). The homeowners association clearly didn't understand the importance of preservation to township officials."

He said the association's straying from the bylaws "is more serious than a violation of the bylaws

Problem solved for former x-ray office patients

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

After months of confusion as to where former patients of North Oakland Radiology could obtain their records, a permanent solution has been found.

At a second hearing which took place July 8 in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Detroit, Judge Walter Shapero appointed Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital custodian of all x-ray films from the Clarkston office and four other offices in Oakland County.

Approximately 200,000 x-rays have been stored at several sites in the county since bankruptcy was filed earlier this summer. Patients were asked to contact their physician for information on how to receive their records prior to Judge Shapero's decision.

Julie Nemeth, media relations representative for Detroit Medical Centers, said Huron Valley-Sinai will have until July 25 to move the records to the hospital, located in Commerce Township.

"Then we will determine a plan. But we need a little bit of time," she said.

In the next two to three weeks, Nemeth said information such as a possible fee for obtaining records will be determined. The number to call to inquire about films is (248) 360-5810.

Nemeth said the decision to move the records to Huron Valley was made in part because many of the people seeking records already are patients there.

"It was pretty much our decision to volunteer our space for the records," she said.

Nemeth said an "expert staff" in the hospital's medical records department will handle the films and their release to patients.

City looks at SAD ordinance

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The city of Clarkston has never had a special assessment district, nor has it had parameters for setting one up.

The city council took the first step in completing the latter Monday night, with the first reading of the new special assessment district ordinance. The council will have a second reading on the ordinance at its July 26 meeting, and could pass it at that time. The ordinance would then take effect 20 days after its published in The Clarkston News, the city's official newspaper.

The ordinance includes 29 sections which cover the entire SAD process. The sections are: definitions, power of council, advisory petition, project plans, notice of hearing, hearing on project, determination by council, preparation of roll, filing roll, notice of hearing on roll, hearing on roll, review of roll, final confirmation, installments, collection of assessments, early payment options, spreading installments, collection of installments, advance payment of installments, determination of actual cost, deficiency assessments, excessive assessments, re-assessments, collection by suit, assessment to precede project, single lot assessments, closing of assessments, severability, and effective

The ordinance is available at the city offices for public inspection during normal business hours.

Council member Anne Clifton said this was an ordinance the city needed, separate from the possibility of the city creating an SAD for a water main on Main Street.

"This is just to preserve the rights of the people in case we decide to go with an SAD," she said.

"This is something we have to put in place in case we need it," added mayor Sharron Catallo.

The city has not made a decision on how its going to pay for a water main through downtown. It applied for a grant through Clean Michigan Initiative Monday night, and should it get the grant, it would greatly reduce the amount the city has to pay for, and would affect how it would ask residents for help.

The two most popular options the city has discussed are a special assessment district and a general obligation bond. The SAD would only apply to residents in a certain area.

Only those residents would pay for, and receive the benefit of, the service. A general obligation bond would be paid for by the entire city, and the entire city would get hooked up with a water main eventually.

Editorial

We all benefit by Springfield's sensitivity to the environment

Many north Oakland County communities have become staunch supporters of the environment over the last several years and the Springfield Township Board of Trustees is leading the pack.

Developers know well the board's reputation for being sticklers when it comes to preserving wetlands and open space when possible.

Cluster developments, which concentrate buildings in one area, leaving open spaces natural or for common use are becoming a staple in Springfield Township.

Earlier this year clerk Nancy Strole helped lead a movement which successfully shifted a proposed gas pipeline route away from delicate wetlands and headwaters.

Township Supervisor Collin Walls recently corraled three homeowners who allegedly violated their subdivision wetland bylaws by dredging and filling the shores of their property on Wah-Me-Gah Lake.

According to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Springfield Township's population increased from 9,927 in 1990 to 13,739 in 1998. The 38.4 percent growth ranks it the sixth fastest growing township in Oakland County.

The Springfield Township board has done an excellent job of maintaining sensitivity toward its precious natural resources while managing its growth.

We are fortunate to be on the receiving end of their diligent concern for the environment.

■ From the "We couldn't have said it better ourselves" department:

In the program notes of the June 28 Clarkston Rotary 60th Installation Banquet, immediate past president Jeff Lichty had some comments on what it takes to make a good community.

"Communities don't just happen, they are created and maintained by people. Without these people communities become just a place where the traffic slows down."

In an era when job and family constraints or apathy are reducing the number of civic group volunteers in communities, his comments are especially important. MKC

Just what is the value of time?

Although I don't look a day over 21, I celebrated my 50th birthday earlier this month.

Perhaps because I've been blessed with good health, I haven't had much trouble marking my milestone birthdays.

But during the last year I have become acutely aware of how quickly time passes and the need to work harder to make my remaining years count for something.

My much older husband prepared me for this "passage" ten years ago when he turned 50. He explained then that if he was lucky he would live another 20 years, and at that stage of his life it was easy to conceptualize how quickly 20 years passes.

I have thought about his comments over the last several years, but just recently have been able to truly understand.

Coincidentally, at last week's Clarkston Area Optimist Club meeting, Geri Batt shared thoughts about the importance of time that her husband Roy found on the Internet, printed in part below.

The Bank Account

Imagine there is a bank that credits your account each morning with $86,400. It carries over no balance from day to day. Every evening it deletes whatever part of the balance you failed to use during the day.

What would you do?

Draw out every cent, of course!!!

Each of us has such a bank. Its name is TIME. Every morning, it credits you with 86,400 seconds. Every night it writes off, as lost, whatever of this you have failed to invest to good purpose. It carries over no balance, it allows no overdraft.

Each day it opens a new account for you and each night it burns the remains of the day. If you fail to use the day's deposits, the loss is yours. There is no going back. There is no drawing against the "tomorrows."

You must live in the present on today's deposits. Invest it so as to get from it the utmost in health, happiness and success! The clock is running. Make the most of today.

To realize the value of ONE YEAR, ask a student who failed a grade.

To realize the value of ONE MONTH, ask a mother who gave birth to a premature baby.

To realize the value of ONE WEEK, ask the editor of a weekly newspaper. (It goes by too fast, like all of the other blocks of time).

To realize the value of ONE HOUR, ask the lovers who are waiting to meet.

To realize the value of ONE MINUTE, ask a person who missed the train.

To realize the value of ONE SECOND, ask a person who just avoided an accident.

To realize the value of ONE MILLISECOND, ask the person who won a silver medal in the Olympics.

Treasure every moment that you have! And treasure it more because you shared it with someone special, enough to spend your time with.

And remember, time waits for no-one.

Yesterday is history.

Tomorrow is mystery.

Today is a gift. That's why it's called 'the present.'

Well said. Thanks, Roy and Geri.

Mr. Clean sets off once more

The best part of having company at one's home is when they leave.

My aunt, uncle, and two cousins came up from Texas last week - the pattern seems to be that we go down there every summer they don't come here. And I have a splendid bedroom completely equipped with a bathroom (a design element my parents wished was not in the house when we bought it), so I end up being the one to get kicked out whenever someone else shows up on our doorstep.

So I slept on the couch in the basement. It's not too bad: the basement's finished and the couch is comfortable, and all our electronics are in the basement. If there had been anything on late at night, I might have watched it. Just knowing I could flip on the TV at three in the morning without leaving bed was enough.

But then, in the morning, I get woken up by the face of my little brother, which was rather obnoxious. Before I was even dressed he and my cousin were playing the Nintendo in what I thought was my room. I guess my lease ended at about nine o'clock every morning. I would have slept longer, but he was waking me up, of course, and I can never sleep in unless I'm in my own bed.

The really irritating thing is the cleaning. The trade-off in having my own bathroom is the cleaning of it, which only really gets done when someone else is gonna be using my room. So I did an entire scrub-down in there, and dusted and vacuumed my room. I stripped all the sheets off the bed, but managed to get out of the house before they were clean and had to be put back on.

As I make a quick survey of my room now, it is apparent I'm going to have to clean it again. It happens every time: not only do I have to clean up for the company, but I have to clean up after it. Clean sheets need to be put on again, and the bathroom is often worse than before I cleaned it the first time.

It's not I don't appreciate seeing my family. We have a good time making our annual idiotic video (involving the one and only Death in a dance number last year and a disembodied skull singing Cher and the Chili's Babyback Ribs song this year). It is only once a year we see these people, after all. So it's not the being here itself that's such an annoyance. It's that my house is no longer mine. Not that it ever was mine, nor will it ever be. Unless I inherit it. But my parents will have probably moved by then. Maybe not. Would I even want it? Anyway, it's no longer a private place where I can say anything I want. I've gotta watch what is coming out of my mouth (and that little piece of rambling above shows there's often a lot of extraneous stuff flowing out) so I don't offend anybody.

So now Mr. Clean must go take care of his room. Since I am balding, I might just be able to play that part well in a few years.

Response time from our friends in Leonard

I guess when you put your opinion out there for the world to see, you gotta' expect someone to respond in kind with their own.

A couple of weeks ago I penned my dismay over those in our legislature who would wrap themselves up in the American Flag, pull at our heart-strings and muster more votes. Rather than tackle serious issues, they try to amend the Constitution of the United States to make it illegal to disrespect the flag.

While I love the flag, I loath such an amendment.

Here's what Marlene and Gino Mallia of Leonard sent in reply:

Dear Don,

After reading your column, I couldn't resist sharing this article with you. It expresses our views right to the tee.

Remember Me?

Hello - remember me? I'm your flag. Some folks call me Old Glory, others call me the Stars and Stripes, the Ensign, or just ... the flag. But whatever they call me, I am your flag. And, as I proudly state, The Flag of the United States of America.

Something has been bothering me lately, I was wondering if I might talk it over with you. It's about you and me.

I remember sometime ago (I think it was Memorial Day, or was it the 4th of July) when people lined up on both sides of the street to watch a parade. When your father saw me coming along, waving in the breeze, he took his hat off and held it against his left shoulder. His hand was directly over his heart. Remember?

And you. I remember you! Standing there — straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat on, but you gave the correct salute. They taught you in school to place your hand over your heart. Remember your little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you. I was proud, very proud, as I came down that street! Oh, yes, there were some servicemen there, standing at attention, giving the military salute. Ladies as well as men, civilians as well as military, paid me respect ... reverence.

Now if I sound a bit conceited ... well ... I have a right to. I represent the finest country in the world — The United States of America. More than one aggressive nation has tried to haul me down, only to feel the fury of this freedom-loving country. Many of you had to go overseas to defend me. A lot more blood has been shed since those patriotic parades of long ago and I've had a few stars added since you were a boy, but I'm still the same old flag.

Dad is gone now ... and the hometown has a new look. The last time I came down your street, I noticed that some of the old landmarks have given way to a number of new buildings and homes. Yes sir, the old town sure has changed. I guess I have too, cause I don't feel as proud as I did back then.

I see youngsters running and shouting through the streets, college boys and girls disrupting our campuses, people selling hot dogs and beer while our National Anthem is played ... everything from apathy to riots. They don't seem to know or care who I am. Not too long ago, I saw a man take his hat off when I came by ... he looked around, didn't see anybody else with theirs off so he quickly put his back on.

Now when I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets. Occasionally, you give a small glance and then look away. When I think of all the places I've been ... Normandy, Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima, Battle of the Bulge, Korea, and now, Vietnam; I wonder what's happened? I'm still the same old flag.

How can I be expected to fly high and proud from buildings and homes when within them, there is no thought, love, or respect for me. Whatever happened to patriotism? Have you forgotten what I stand for? Have you forgotten all the battlefields where men fought and died to keep this nation free? When you salute me, you salute them. Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometime. Look at the names of those who never came back. Some of them were friends or relatives of yours ... maybe even went to school with you. That's what you're saluting — NOT ME!

Well, it won't be long before I come down your street again. So when you see me stand straight and place your hand over your heart. Do this because I represent you. You'll see me wave back, my salute to you ...

The Boston Pops 'Goes the Fourth'

After a family-day of swimming and feasting on the Fourth of July evening, I fell onto our family room sofa with TV clicker in hand.

Arthur Fiedler had made me a fan of the Boston Pops Orchestra some years ago, and there on the A&E channel was the Boston Pops. There was no need to try to improve on the listening/watching.

Keith Lockhart is now conducting the Boston Pops Orchestra, and the evening's salute to the USA's Independence Day was called, "Pops Goes the Fourth."

It was a live show from a bandshell on the bank of the St. Charles River. And it was a hot night. Within a few minutes Lockhart's blue shirt was soaked, but it mattered not to the active, charismatic leader.

Nor did it matter to the musicians as they played the full range of instrumental and singable music fitting the day's theme.

Too bad I couldn't have had a preview of this great patriotic presentation so our readers could have been made aware. As it is we can only recommend your seeing Lockhart conduct the Boston Pops Orchestra when they visit The Fox Theater in Detroit August 12.

Good looking teeth will make even an ugly person attractive. It is this continuing thought that keeps me up on daily brushing. Eventually, perhaps a compliment will come of the effort.

Anyway, while brushing recently I started wondering when the habit began. I think I was about 9, and living on a farm 2 miles south of Vernon on M-78, which was gravel in those days.

Our water came from two sources, a windmill and a hand-crank pump. In good weather we'd go outside with a glass of water, wet our brush, dip it in Pepsodent toothpowder and scrub our teeth.

We'd rinse with the same tooth-brushed water, wipe our mouth on a sleeve and report to mother for approval.

Plans for twp. civic center stalled

Site plan review will not take place as scheduled

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The plans for a civic center in Springfield Township are being put on hold, despite hopes for a property purchase to take place in the next few weeks.

At the township board meeting July 8, Collin Walls, township supervisor, said a property conversion (or land swap) and property purchase, as well as any other items of discussion on the agenda, would have to be postponed another month before further action could take place.

Walls said problems with the wording of a revised purchase agreement with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources delayed the township's opportunity to be placed on the MDNR's agenda concerning trust funds this month, and to seek approval of the property exchange.

"Obviously, we have lost the chance to have a site plan to review to the committee," Walls said. "Short of cutting my wrists this morning, I don't know what else to tell you."

The board has hopes to build the civic center on part of the Shiawassee Basin owned by the state of Michigan, about a half-mile west of the township hall's current location on Davisburg Road.

In a letter written by Walls and presented at the board meeting, he said the revised purchase agreement for 10 acres of land (conversion parcel) to be substituted for 78 acres, was to his knowledge, acceptable. However, a submittal date for a site plan on the civic center passed June 21 and the plan did not become available until July 5.

Walls said that in turn, the planned site plan review scheduled for July 19 with the township planning commission will also be missed.

Also concerning the civic center, a closed session took place near the close of the board meeting to determine whether or not a counter offer should be considered. Any action on the counter offer was tabled when board members reconvened at the end of the meeting.

In other business, a budget workshop was scheduled by board members for Aug. 24 at 7:30 p.m. Walls said the township budget will be discussed in depth and then the board plans to adopt the budget at its October meeting.

Walls said township millage rates may also be set at that time.

Drowning averted

Gerald Van Tine is lucky he's alive today. The Ortonville man was swimming alone near the middle of Round Lake Sunday evening.

Suddenly, for an unexplained reason, he went under. But, Donald Smith of Houghton, and a friend watching from shore hopped in a nearby boat and sped to Van Tine's rescue.

Smith dove into the water and pulled Van Tine to safety, administering artificial respiration. Upon their return to shore, Van Tine was breathing and the township rescue squad administered oxygen and stabilized the victim. He then refused to be transported to the hospital.

Mrs. Stageman doing well

A Clarkston woman was hospitalized last Thursday (June 30) after she apparently ran into the path of a northbound vehicle on Main Street in the village's downtown district.

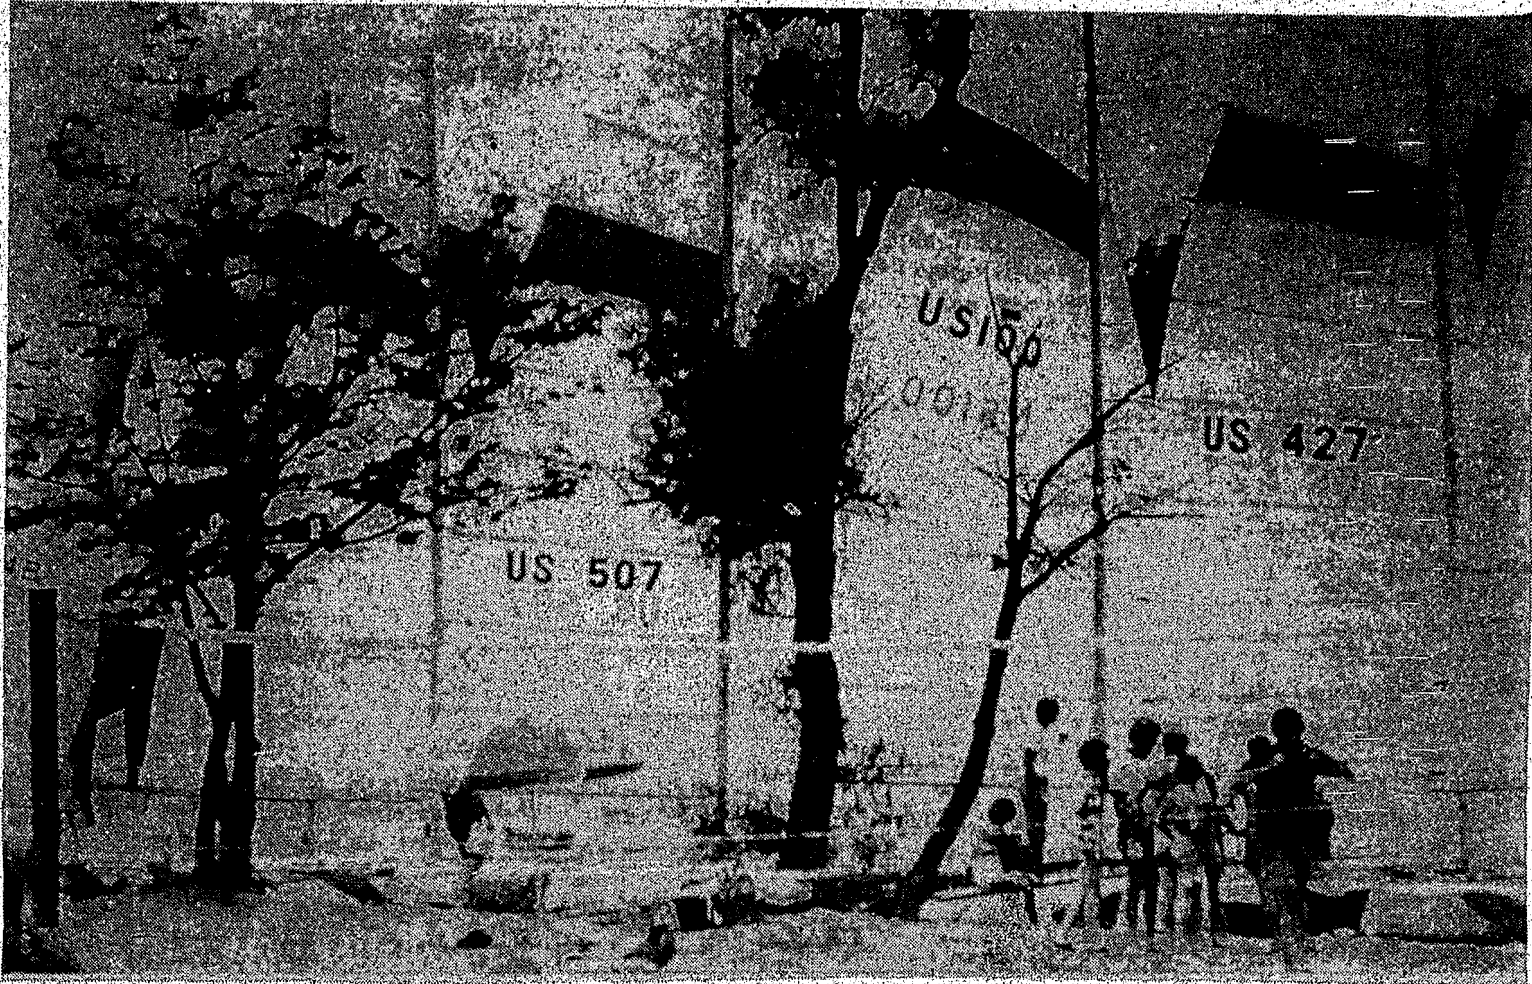

Hospitalized was Mrs. Leola Stageman, 69, 6065 Middle Lake Road, with lacerations on the right side of her forehead.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies, Mrs. Stageman was at the corner of Church and Main when she darted in front of a car driven by Evonne Larsen of Independence Township.

Witnesses, deputies added, said the driver of the car had no chance to avoid Mrs. Stageman.

Mrs. Stageman was reported in good condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Teachers assess TV impact on children

By Hilda Bruce
of The Clarkston News

It's Saturday morning. Do you know where your children are? Are they out playing ball or are they glued to the TV cartoons?

In a recent study, Dr. Charles K. Atkin and Dr. Bradley S. Greenberg, professors and researchers in communication at Michigan State University, found that Saturday morning was "the most violent and deceitful time block of programming. Physical aggression is almost twice as high on Saturday morning as for adult prime time," they said.

The impact of TV violence, they said, "is greatest among boys, older children, and those who perceive TV violence to be realistic."

Many researchers have produced such reports recently but without the researchers' tools and control groups, it is hard for other professionals, let alone parents, to pinpoint TV as the reason for aggressive behavior in children today.

Teachers of the young are more concerned about the impact TV has on their charges.

"They imitate TV characters. I don't know if they think it's real or if they know the difference between reality and fantasy," said Cynthia Omans, kindergarten teacher at Bailey Lake Elementary.

"I do find that they are surprised if they hurt someone. They see the karate chops and such as play. I try to explain to the children that although they might not intend to hurt another, they do."

"I also remember my brother imitating TV cowboys. And I wonder if color adds to the sense of reality."

Maryellen Steele has been teaching for 36 years and sees few changes in five-year-old behavior patterns.

"They're still so sweet," she said. "I do see a lot of difference in older children. Some seem very aggressive. But that isn't all bad — if it can be directed in the right way."

"It's hard to say youngsters are more aggressive today," said Doreen Cutshall, fifth grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary. "I do see less respect for adults. Children are more inclined to speak up. That's not all bad, but there is a time to speak and a time to listen."

"The youngsters today have a different perspective of what is right and what is wrong. Whether the changes are a result of TV is hard to say. I still feel that home values have the biggest influence. If children are well disciplined at home, they're no problem at school."

Mrs. Cutshall finds that youngsters are more abusive in their language than they used to be, too.

"Their adjectives are most descriptive," she said emphatically. "I learn a lot of new words each year!"

"We do talk about the TV programs they watch. They seem to know it's 'all made up.' They realize the fantasy."

Joette Kunse, first grade teacher at South Sashabaw, and Rosetta LaMagna, who works with children with special problems in the school district, are both concerned about the passive role of the children while viewing TV.

"I see a lack of emotion in children," Mrs. Kunse said. "They get instant gratification from TV. Because it is a visual medium, they don't have to listen. That spills over into the classroom. They can't 'see' what I'm telling them. Listening is not easy for them. School is hard work. There is no instant gratification."

"Because children cannot talk back to the TV they have a reduced ability to express themselves," Mrs. LaMagna said.

"Children must be able to share and express themselves and TV hinders that growth," she noted.

"TV also produces too much stimuli for them. They learn to tune out much of it."

Both teachers feel that TV habits are not carefully formed by parents.

"Children have a hard time regulating themselves. If they are not watching TV, then the parents have to find ways for children to fill those hours. That is not easy," Mrs. Kunse explained.

It is the callousness toward hurt and death, not potential violence, that most concerns the teachers.

"Death has no meaning to children. How many murders do they see on TV before they say, 'Oh, it's just another murder,'" the teachers asked.

"I see no change in out and out violence," said North Sashabaw Principal Lynn Jervis. "Fist fights are no more vicious than they were 10 years ago."

In spite of TV's negative influence, teachers still see a great deal of good resulting from the medium.

"Kids are more sophisticated, they are more prepared for school," Mrs. Omans noted.

Mrs. Steele added that children are much brighter because they are exposed to more.

"Kids believe TV. If they see it on TV it has to be true," Mrs. Kunse said.

To counteract that parents have to provide a lot of good examples, she said.

Golf course rezoning moves a shot closer

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township Planning Commissioners gave the go ahead to the proposed rezoning of an historic golf course July 8 -- despite protest from surrounding residents.

Commissioners recommended approving, 4-1, two zoning requests from Andrew Milia, president of Franklin Property Corp. in Southfield. Voting yes were Chair Steve Board, Dan Travis, Cynthia Lohmeier and Joe Figa. Todd Moss voted no, and Jill Palulian and Rich Oppmann were absent.

Milia has an option to buy the 47-acre parcel, which includes the 50-year-old, nine-hole Clarkston Golf Course on the northwest corner of Eston and Algonquin roads. His first request was to rezone 37 acres from Recreation (REC) to Suburban Farm Residential (R-1C).

Milia proposes 25 estate-size homes, ranging from $400,000-$700,000. Lots would be at least one-and-a-half acres, the township's minimum lot-size requirement under R-1C, which is the lowest-density residential zoning in the township.

His second request was to rezone 5.25 acres in the southwest corner, which includes the home of Dean and Feather Buchanan. Feather's family has owned and operated the golf course since the early 1950s.

The reason given for the sale is that nine-hole golf courses are not profitable in today's market because of "grander and larger 18-hole courses," Milia said.

The decline in play has caused a decline in income for the Buchanans, who closed the golf course this spring. "It was not financially sound to open it. So we closed it and began selling off the equipment," Dean Buchanan said.

Despite those reasons, homeowners attending the meeting expressed their unhappiness during a public hearing.

Mesa resident Mike Kohut, who has visited the site many times with his three children, said there are few places where a family can afford to play a round of golf. "We cannot afford Pine Knob, we can't go into Oakhurst," Kohut said. "That was the nicest, cutest little course I've ever seen. It was a nice, cheap date with your dad." If the course is sold, Kohut would like to see the township -- or neighborhood -- buy the parcel to preserve as parkland.

"We've got to think of the future ... the next generation," Kohut said to commissioners. "You're splitting this township up pretty good."

"What drew me to this area, there was a golf course. It was nice and quiet," said N. Eston resident Cheryl Eckles. "Now it's all homes. The beauty is gone. Money talks, but you're taking away the whole aesthetics of Clarkston," Eckles also noted Eston, a dirt road, cannot handle even present traffic.

Agreed Algonquin resident Don Coppersmith, "I have to sneak out of my driveway."

Board reminded residents that the planning commission is "a recommending body" only, and that project would go through several processes before it is approved.

First and second readings must be approved by the township board, before the petitioner returns with a site plan, he said.

Iroquois resident Rick Hedden argued the township is required to provide a certain percentage of parkland, according to its master plan.

Township planner Dick Carlisle said Monday there is no percentage, but there is a master recreation plan that's "appropriate for a community of our size." About 2,500 acres or nine percent of the township is currently developed as parkland.

This includes three township parks (including Deer Lake, which the township leases from the City of Clarkston), as well as Independence Oaks County Park. Both he and Board noted the township tries to incorporate natural features into new developments as much as possible. For instance, a cluster option groups homes closer together, providing for greater areas of open space.

Carlisle noted a fourth township park is currently under consideration, at the northeast corner of Pine Knob and Stickney roads. The 40-acre parcel, donated to the township by Alex Bruni, developer of Stonewall Farms, would be a "passive park" for all residents to enjoy. "You're not going to see ball diamonds and soccer fields," Carlisle said. "There would be trails, nature studies, bird watching."

During the meeting, Milia asked to speak to the displeased residents. "This is never a very popular position to be in," he admitted. "Naturally, people want land to remain in its natural state. It's a social and human element. But this is private property being sold to private property."

Prior to voting, Figa said the decision was "tough for the community and tough for us." He would prefer to see the property stay recreational, but "it's not making money."

Moss, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said he would not support the rezonings. "I believe strongly we have to protect the open land we have," he said. "We're not taking anything from the property owner. They're asking to change the texture of that area and I'm not going to support that."

"If I had a nuclear waste area, we're certainly not going to let them build on it. That same rationale applies here."

DEALING WITH A NUISANCE

Nuisances are inconveniences caused by others, whether intentionally or as a result of negligence. These nuisances, which can be either private or public, are invasions or interferences of any kind that get in the way of a person's enjoyment of his or her personal property. A public nuisance involves interference with the public's right to use, have access to, or enjoy property. When such interferences arise, such as the encroachment of a neighbor's tree limb that is causing damage to an adjacent home, a person may address the situation by asking the neighbor (in writing) to correct it. If that fails, these and other nuisances should be put in the hands of attorneys who can attempt to get satisfactory resolutions.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1984)

Independence Township Hall has a new mascot. According to officials, some have come nose-to-nose with "Rocky," a bright-eyed raccoon who's caught inside the heating system. Clerk Richard Holman says he'll call animal control to set a live trap and remove the critter without harm.

Over 250 people attend the Hal James Orchestra concert, part of Concerts in the Park. The traditional summer series sponsored by the Village Business Association is relaxed, "not like the concerts at Pine Knob" where it's harder to sit and talk, says organizer Joan Kopietz. "There's always some conversation going on -- people like it."

25 YEARS AGO (1974)

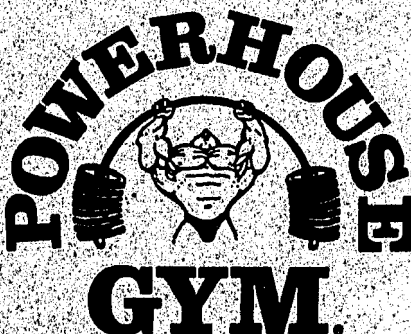

Swimming in Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lake is presently a health hazard, according to the Environmental Health Division of the Oakland County Health Department. Septic tanks are suspected to be dropping raw sewage into the lakes.

Justice being sought by Detroit Edison may depend on a balance of whose hand was on the switch and whose is on the purse strings. The company says $4,907 is owed by Clarkston District Court. However, the court says the miscalculated fee is due to an electrical hookup snafu that occurred when the building behind Independence Township Hall was renovated for court use.

50 YEARS AGO (1948)

The Cathy Richardson Fund passes the $500 mark, with contributions reaching $524.53 at Clarkston State Bank. Cathy has not learned to walk yet on her artificial limb, and is waiting to have a joint added. It is hoped that before too long, she will be able to get around as well as other little girls her age.

Weekend specials at Terry's Market include potato salad, 31 cents a pound; Cloverbloom Butter, 59 cents a pound; and Swanson Whole Chickens, a can for $1.85.

Brent Cooley lands new career with UDI

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Universal Data, Inc. is not run by the fictional Corleone family, but it made Brent Cooley an offer he couldn't refuse.

Cooley, the recently retired principal at Clarkston High School, has accepted a position with UDI to become its director of educational services. He began working at UDI last week.

Cooley said part of his job will be incorporating UDI technological services into other school districts. One method is through the Smart Cards, which Cooley helped to bring to CHS during the 1997-98 school year.

"They gave me an offer I couldn't refuse," Cooley said. "This will allow me to stay involved with technology and stay involved with schools, but in a new way."

John Phyle, the president of UDI and a 1989 graduate of CHS, said Cooley brings many skills to the company that don't have to be taught.

"The largest thing he adds is experience," Phyle said. "He brings a lot of knowledge on how to develop a school and to make relations with the staff. It's one thing to talk to people and to try and sell them on an idea. But he's done it in the past, and that's hard to replace."

UDI, one of the biggest employers in Independence Township with around 80 employees, incorporates bar coding technology for a variety of uses. UDI worked with Clarkston schools on developing the identification cards worn by all CHS students and staff. This is a project Cooley looks forward to bringing to other schools in the Detroit area.

"We are looking at ID badges that have difference access points," he said. "These proximity cards will have certain access points people can get to throughout their buildings."

Cooley recently announced he was retiring from Clarkston schools after declining an offer from the school district for a position in the administration offices. Following his announcement, Cooley said he received several job offers, but didn't plan on taking any of them, until UDI came along.

"After it came out, (in The Clarkston News) I got four phone calls right away from companies, two of them from school districts," Cooley said. "This is a nice segue for me, going from the school to UDI."

"They are very supportive of the schools here. They donated $5,000 to the All-Night Party, and are one of the biggest sponsors of our theater program."

Phyle was a student at CHS while Cooley was an assistant principal, a position he held from 1985-93. Cooley was the CHS principal for six years, starting with the 1993-94 school year.

Former Clarkston High School principal Brent Cooley (left) stands in front of his new workplace with his new boss, John Phyle (right). Cooley was recently named director of educational services at Universal Data, Inc., a company that works with bar coding technology. Cooley will still be involved with working with people and schools in his new position. Phyle, a 1989 CHS graduate, was a student while Cooley was assistant principal.

Gettin' funky on the monkeys

A few youngsters climbed the bars – physically and vocally – to practice for a mini “concerts in the park” recently. The six residents of Bridgewater Apartments sang along and lip-synched with popular teen vocalist Britany Spears via boombox. They hope to perform the routine for their parents and friends at a small park in the complex soon. From left: top, Amanda Summers, 9; Samantha Paquette, 11 (with mike); and Sara Tolstyka, 8. Police and fire

Sunday, July 11, both sides of a car were keyed on Maybee. The car's owner told police that he works for Oakland County Animal Control and recently cited some neighbors for having unlicensed animals. But he does not know who could have done the damage, which amounted to $1,000.

A truck was stolen from the parking lot at Pine Knob Music Theater. The truck owner's friend was the last one seen with the keys.

Medicals on Cecilia Ann, Bluegrass, Deer Ridge, Sashabaw and Hummingbird.

Injury accident on Sashabaw.

Saturday, July 10, medicals on Clintonville and Dixie.

A minor-damage accident took place on Depot in the city. No citations were issued.

Friday, July 9, an 18-year-old Clarkston man was cited for possession of marijuana on Waldon. Police were called to a loud party complaint, and the man was pulled over. Five baggies were found in the car. The man said he purchased 3/4 of an ounce of marijuana and split it up into five smaller portions to help pay for what he purchased. He was cited and released.

A 31-year-old Clarkston man was arrested on a charge of domestic violence on Delmas. His live-in girlfriend accused him of hitting her in the stomach, grabbing her by the arm and throwing her out of the front door. No marks were seen on the woman, and she said this had happened before and did not report it.

A total of $29.98 was stolen from a cash register at an M-15 business. Employees said a 35-year-old male asked for change to buy a newspaper, and kept asking for change back, each time short-changing the employee. He then reached into the register, took the money and left the store. A man fitting his description has been seen trying to do the same thing at a Main Street restaurant in the past.

Several items were stolen from the cab of a truck on Sylvan View. The items were: a $1,400 power washer, a $100 back-pack sprayer, a $300 CD radio player, and $250 in cash. Access was gained through an unlocked sliding window in the rear of the truck.

Medicals on Delmas, Princess, Dixie, Clarkston Road and Parview.

Thursday, July 8, a 40-year-old Clarkston man was cited for disorderly conduct and for littering in a lake on Lakewood. A neighbor complained about his radio being too loud, and he started yelling and cursing at his neighbor, and his mother, who lives with him. In response to the complaints, he started up his boat, turned his radio up louder, and yelled to the neighbor: "If you call 9-1-1, I'll kill you." Police impounded his boat and canoe.

Later that day, the same 40-year-old man was arrested for felonious assault after he allegedly threw a radio at his mother, hitting her in the face. The 68-year-old woman refused medical treatment, but was bleeding from the inside of her nose. The man was taken to the Oakland County Jail, and refused to answer questions while being booked. He became angry, and appeared to be intoxicated. He was then taken to a segregated cell.

Two plastic garbage cans were set on fire on Greenview. There was nothing left but melted plastic, and the cans were valued at $20 total.

Four pieces of outgoing mail were taken from a mailbox on Dvorak.

A car was spray painted and a large amount of toilet paper was found hanging from trees at a house on Boyne Highland Drive.

Several items were taken from a car on Spring meadow. The items were: a $2,500 sand compactor, a $1,000 generator, a $1,000 construction laser, and an $850 concrete saw. The items were taken from a trunk over the holiday weekend.

Hang-up phone calls on Oakstone.

Four tires were flattened and a car was scratched on Joy.

Injury accidents on Clarkston Road and Dixie Highway.

Medicals on Stowe, Pine Knob Lane and Clarkston Road.

Tuesday, July 6, a personal protection order was served on a 59-year-old man on Pine Knob Trail. His estranged 45-year-old wife said he has been harassing her for months.

A 66-year-old Clarkston woman had more than $2,000 of unauthorized charges appear on a credit card bill to a N. Telegraph business.

The driver's side window was smashed, and a CD radio was taken from a car parked in a lot on Maybee.

A 22-year-old Clarkston man was arrested on 14 outstanding warrants out of the Waterford Police Department on Fawn Valley. He was arraigned at 52-3 District Court.

A temporary door on a construction site was pried open, and some tools were taken.

An unknown man exposed himself to an 11-year-old girl and ran off before he could be identified on Mann Road. He was described as wearing a white t-shirt, baggy blue jean shorts, a dark blue baseball cap with a yellow bandana draped over his face. He was estimated as being 5-foot-10 to six feet tall with a thin build. She told him she was going to tell her mother, and he left. The girl's mother said she didn't hear anything and the rear door wall was unlocked because of the warm temperatures.

Medicals on Dixie, Lorac, M-15 and Parview.

Fuel spill on southbound I-75.

Monday, July 5, $200 in cash was taken from a car on Iroquois.

Joint workshop looks at zoning revisions

40 feet wide. This new category would target Walters, Round and Whipple lakes.

■ Single-Family Attached/Detached Residential: This special category is designed for alternative housing options, such as elderly housing or adult foster care in free-standing buildings.

■ Planned Mixed Use: This permits a combination of commercial, office, residential and light industrial uses in a setting designed to preserve natural features.

■ General Commercial: Several old commercial zonings would be consolidated into one general category (Local Commercial would stay).

■ Industrial Office Park: This would accommodate very limited manufacturing, warehousing, research and laboratory uses, enclosed within a building.

■ General Industrial: This combines the old categories of light and heavy industrial zoning, designed for White Lake Road south of Clement.

■ The proposed Greenways Plan was explained as a method that would link existing areas of open space and plan for new areas as well. The linear system would connect features such as parks, lakes, rivers, woodlands, wetlands, cluster developments, the safety path system and established tree-canopied streets.

This would provide aesthetic amenities as well as preservation of natural features — both cited strongly in the Vision 2020 planning process.

During discussion, a chief concern was Suburban Residential zoning. Commissioner Joe Figa wondered if the township might be increasing density, because the minimum lot requirement would be 1 acre, instead of the old requirement which ranges from 1/2 to 1 1/2 acres.

However, Supervisor Dale Stuart argued the change would provide more "homogenous" density.

Trustee Neil Wallace said — if adopted — the new lakefront zoning should be strictly enforced so people don't overbuild.

"It's amazing what a lot of money and bad taste can do," he quipped.

Finally, Carlisle said the township should take "a fresh look" at Pine Knob and how it impacts surrounding areas and traffic. Officials also asked him to study a triangular area near the venue, proposed to be changed to the higher-density zoning of Suburban Residential.

dential.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary warned such a change could "open the floodgates" to all sorts of problems.

Commissioner Jill Palulian said Pine Knob should also do a better job of exiting drivers after concerts. Following two all-day "OZZfests" it was noisy for one-and-a-half hours after the show closed, she said.

Carlisle told officials his goal is to complete the new master plan into "a finished form" by fall. Both a public workshop and a public hearing are required before it can be adopted.

Residents can review the proposals at the building department on the third floor of Township Hall, 90 N. Main Street in Clarkston.

The Clarkston News will continue a series on the Vision 2020 Target Plans next week. To date, the series, which began more than two years ago, has profiled four Target Plans: the Sashabaw and Pine Knob corridors, and the M-15/I-75 Interchange and Northwest areas. Look for a story on the White Lake Road Corridor next week.

themselves. It's very clear we have the ability to take action to force the homeowners association to step up to the plate."

A similar situation which occurred at Dixie Lake Manors about two years ago has Walls concerned as to if and when restoration will take place. Shoreline containing wetlands also was dredged by residents there, and although the developer received a fine, that wetland has not been restored, Walls said.

He said with site condominiums and other new developments coming to the area, documents "inches thick" for property purchasers to read over should not be ignored.

"They are asked to seek advice from an attorney, and they need to read over those documents -- and make sure their attorney reads those documents."

Walls requested the property owners provide a detailed plan of how they shall restore the area at the July 13 show cause hearing, in hopes they will then follow through with the plan.

"I am convinced good people make mistakes, just like people who aren't so good," he said. "I prefer to live life positively. I have a very positive feeling of the outcome of this."

upcoming year.

"This is a wonderful board to be on," she said. "We're going to keep our focus and keep moving forward."

Board appointments for the coming school year also were made at Monday night's meeting. Trustee Rick Crigger will serve as the Oakland Schools designee, Oakland County School Board Legislative Committee representative, and Michigan Association of School Boards legislative member.

Sullivan was appointed to continue serving as local board technology coordinator, and will also serve as the board's local finance coordinator.

Hughes will serve as liaison to Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, and Thomas and McLean were appointed as policy revision committee members.

In other business:

■ Contracts for 1999-2000 for head custodians/maintenance, grounds and mechanic employees were extended (a two-year period for head custodians and a three-year period for all other positions).

■ Salary increases and contract extensions for central office administrators, building administrators, central office secretaries, supervisors and confidential secretaries received 7-0 board approval. A total of $2,901,896 was approved to be taken from the general fund; renegotiations of the contracts will take place next year.

■ Five additional instructors for the Renaissance Program were placed on the Clarkston Education Association salary schedule for the 1999-2000 school year.

■ Administrative/instructional/non-instructional staff were approved 7-0 by the board, which included the recommendation and approval of Thomas Bialk as the new principal for Sashabaw Middle School. At that time, Linda Armstrong, new principal for Clarkston Middle School, also was welcomed by board members.

"Welcome to you both. We're so glad to have those positions filled," Foyteck said.

■ By roll call vote, the board supported 7-0 providing preschool education to 12 "at-risk" 4-year-olds in the school district, through a $37,200 allocation from the Michigan Department of Education, under provisions of Section 38 of the State School Aid Act.

■ A request for $834,599 to be used to install file servers and bids on computers and other technology was approved 6-1 by board members, with Shanks voting against the motion. Shanks said with budget cut-backs in the coming school year anticipated, he could not support the motion, which also included a $50 per computer upgrade.

"I don't think a case has been made (for upgrades). These simple things I just can't support at this time," Shanks said.

McLean said the ultimate issue should not be cost, but quality. "The question is, are we giving the best equipment to our teachers and children? We could go round and round on this," she said.

Sullivan agreed the upgrades and other equipment were necessary.

"We might be good for two years, we might be good for three. No one can look into the crystal ball and tell you," Sullivan said.

Matt McCarty, director of technology and information services, made the point that the request fell below the budgeted amount of $1,150,692 for the schools to receive the systems, which include Clarkston Middle School, North Sashabaw Elementary, Independence Elementary, Clarkston Elementary and Springfield Plains Elementary schools.

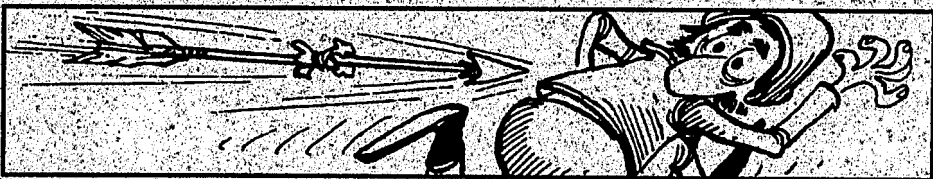

"I'm trying to present to you the best computer for the money we have to spend," McCarty said. "I really feel that it's a good recommendation."

■ Construction bid awards totaling $322,193 were approved 7-0 for Independence, Pine Knob, Andersonville and Bailey Lake elementary schools. Costs will cover landscaping at the schools, in addition to painting costs at Independence Elementary.

Also included in the bid awards are moving costs for Clarkston and Sashabaw middle schools.

Young umpires
learn about life
on the other side

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Yelling the word "Safe!" normally isn't something that would warrant a threat on someone's life, but such can be the life of a little league umpire in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Baseball Leagues.

"One time, I had a parent say he was going to wait in the parking lot for me," recalled site supervisor and former umpire Marc Venggoni. "He threatened my life, and I was kind of scared. But everyone else was very nice, telling me I made a good call."

Few jobs in this world call as much grief upon it as a baseball umpire. With the subjectivity of called balls and strikes, to emotionally charged parents looking out for their little boy or girl, being a little league umpire can be the kind of summer job that brings on more than its fair share of stress.

For Clarkston High School senior Rocky Lund, being a little league umpire is a lot of fun, but a job with a lot of other things thrown into the mix.

"I hate having to strike a kid out," said Lund, who plays for the CHS varsity football, basketball and baseball teams. "Those kids go up there hoping to get a hit, and when the strike out, it just ruins their whole day. I just hate having to hurt their feelings."

Hurt feelings can sometimes get taken to the next level. Angry parents and coaches yelling at umpires is not an uncommon sight Lund says, but one that is all part of the game.

Township umpire Rocky Lund lends a helping hand.

"I don't really get it too bad, because I've lived in Clarkston my whole life, and I know a lot of people here at the games," he said. "That's the game of baseball. You're never going to make everyone happy."

Lund's partner Adam Schmansky, said disputed calls come with the territory, but now that he's in his third season as an umpire, he's learned to deal with it.

"I just ignore it, or do my best to calm them down," he said. "I figure as long as I have a consistent strike zone, I'll be ok."

Summer season baseball update

The Michigan Rams baseball team struggled through last weekend's tournament, but expect better things ahead this weekend.

The team went 2-4 in the Welland International Invitational in Welland, Ontario. The tournament results drop the team to 15-10 overall on the season.

The Rams won their second and sixth games played in the tournament, beating the host team Welland Renegades 7-4 and the Niagara District team 13-5.

In the first win, Spencer Hynes went 2-for-3 with a triple and three runs batted in. His triple bounced off the center field fence, 400 feet away.

In the team's last game of the tournament, the offense cranked up, helping winning pitcher Eric Jenks. He scattered six hits and allowed just three earned runs in gaining the victory. Chris Mitchell went 2-for-4 with two RBI, and John Drallos went 2-for-3 with three RBI.

In the other games, the Rams suffered defeats at the hands of Edmonton (6-3), the Ontario Thunderbirds (14-8), Long Island East (2-1) and Long Island West (12-3).

Jenks slammed a home run in the loss to the Thunderbirds, and went 2-for-3 against Long Island East.

This weekend, the Rams head to Battle Creek for the Mayor's Invitational, a tournament coach George Drallos said the team can win.

"This is one we expect to win," he said. "We knew that tournament last weekend would be tough. If we play as well this weekend as we did last, we'll do very well."

Tuesday, the Rams take on the Rochester Yankees in a doubleheader.

CHS soccer teams returning to old field for home games

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The best place for the Clarkston High School boys and girls soccer teams to play their future home games is where they played in the past.

A group of soccer parents has successfully lobbied the Athletic Department to have all the soccer program's home games take place at the old CHS soccer field, located on Waldon Road. The boys team played most of its home games there, before playing a couple home games at the new field late last season. The girls team played all of its home games last season at the new field.

Ad Bauer, a mother of two past and present CHS soccer players, said this is a move that will benefit both programs.

"This is the best option we could come up with. All the facilities are there," Bauer said. "We felt there was too much wear and tear on the football field, so it was decided to turn the old field into the new home soccer field."

Bauer said work will be done on making the old CHS football field a true home for the soccer teams. The storage building will be turned into more of a true locker room. She added the smaller size of the stands will be in better proportion with the crowds soccer games draw, and there is an existing concession stand.

"We are working on soccer logos for the field and doing some other painting there," Bauer said. "These are things which will help us to take ownership of the field."

Another factor in the decision was the addition of freshman soccer teams. This makes one more set of teams that will use the field, causing more wear and tear on the field. Bauer and the parents felt the old field would be better able to handle the additional use coming from the freshman teams.

"One of the things Mr. (Dan) Fife (CHS Athletic Director) felt was that football teams put wear and tear on a

As a site supervisor, Venegoni steps in when an argument begins to interrupt the flow of the game. He will often act as a mediator to these disputes, and to makes sure the umpires that work for him, and the coaches and parents, all stay in line.

"The biggest thing is just to listen, and then to try and calm them down," he said. "You give your input to a situation, then you try and come to an agreement."

Venegoni was an umpire through the township parks and rec department for seven summers. That experience gave him a unique perspective when he was an athlete at Clarkston High School. He ran track for four years, and played varsity basketball and football for two.

"It helped me to realize how tough a job officiating is," he said. "I referee basketball too, and you can't always see what coaches or players on the bench see. As I understood that, it made me more willing to cut them some slack. But it also made me realize how bad some officials are too."

Beth Walker, recreation programmer for parks and rec, is one of those responsible for training umpires. That training not only involves understanding the rules of the game, but knowing how to handle confrontational situations.

"We do talk about how to handle yourself in those situations," she said. "It's the kind of job that can build a lot of character. It's good preparation for dealing with confrontational people, and that kind of thing happens in everyday life. I started as an umpire, and many of our other supervisors started as umpires."

This year, Walker said 60-65 youths work as umpires, and their training starts in April with a written test. If they pass that, they go on to five days of training, which includes on-the-field positioning, becoming familiar with the different rules in different leagues, and making judgements on unusual plays, like the infield fly rule.

"For a lot of the kids, this is their first job because they are 14, 15 years old," Walker said. "They learn how to deal with parents and how to keep their cool."

Although the emotional arguments and the constant questioning may not seem like the best way to spend a summer evening for some, Lund wouldn't have it any other way.

"They're out here to have a good time, and so am I," he said. "I don't have any negative feelings about the job at all. No one cares who wins or loses, it's all about the fun."

"I like baseball, and it's a good way to spend time around the game," Schemansky said.

Impact '85 soccer team roars through season

The Clarkston Impact '85, the under-14 Boys Soccer Select Soccer Club turned heads as it captured second place in the Fall Little Caesar's Premier League with an outstanding 10-1-1 record. The team outscored its opposition 41-10 during the season.

The Impact finished in first in the 1999 Oakland Yard first session with a 7-0 record.

After its successful fall season, the team was promoted to the Little Caesar's Select Division III League in the spring of 1999. In that league, the team finished with a 6-1-2 record, outscoring its opposition 23-10 in the nine games. That strong showing got the team moved up once again, to the Little Caesar's Division II League for the spring 2000 season. With the eventual goal of getting to Division I in mind, this team has advanced to the highest league of any Clarkston youth soccer team, boys or girls.

The team has also made strong showings in several top tournaments, including the Oakland University Fall Tournament, the Troy Soccer Classic, the Saginaw Seven-Eleven Classic, and the Petoskey Tournament, often playing against teams in higher-caliber divisions.

The Impact '85 was the first Clarkston soccer team to compete in the State Cup, losing to the eventual champions Michigan Wolves.

Sunday, the team started competing in the prestigious USA Cup, which welcomes more than 60 teams from all over the nation, and seven different countries.

The team's coaches have noted that this is truly a team, one that functions well as a unit. The team's coaches in the past have included Lee Gardner, Mike Hall, Mike Bontumasi, and former English professional "footballer" Liam Crosbie.

The Clarkston Impact '85 Boys Soccer Team has had much success recently, and will go up against some of the best teams anywhere in the upcoming USA Cup Tournament. The team is: (bottom L-R) Michael Hall, Nicholas Bontumasi, Brady Gardner, Erik Kammeyer, Nicholas Munchlando, Steve Alle, (middle L-R) Bryan Gower, Sean Gardner, Edgar Grech-Cumbo, Eric Pinkos, Derek Pritchard, Tim Moyer, (top L-R) coach Mike Bontumasi, Chase Morris, Ryan Coleman, Matt Stevens, Derek Steele, Matthew Orris, and assistant coach Liam Crosbie.

Journalistic ethics take a hit at Wimbledon

A story came out last week that sent chills through my body.

A 19-year-old tennis player, Alexandra Stevenson, advanced to the semifinals of Wimbledon as a qualifier, the first ever to do so. That story, while interesting, is rather begin compared to the off-the-court story involving the player.

It was confirmed that she was born to basketball Hall-of-Famer Julius "Dr. J" Erving, and Samantha Stevenson, a sports-writer who covered Dr. J's team, the Philadelphia 76ers. The two had an affair, and Alexandra was the result.

This is the kind of story the British tabloids I'm sure had a field day with, but when I read a more objective account of the story, it hit me like a cold reality that in this world, nothing is sacred.

While going through classes at Central Michigan University, many parts of our world are covered through classes or in our experience at CM Life, the student paper. Ethics in journalism are taught with the tightest scrutiny, but this is a lesson we were never taught. Why? I feel that it's the kind of thing so obvious, so closed to debate or discussion, it need not be taught.

Samantha has personified the worst kind of negative stereotype about media types: the kind of person that will stop at nothing to get the story, or to get the quote.

But this story struck me in more ways that the way I see it as a journalist. For 30 years, people have associated Erving with words like "class," "integrity," and "excellence." He was a true role model for aspiring basketball players in the late-1970s and early-1980s. He was, and still is, a true gentleman of the sport.

For me to see that even someone as squeaky-clean as Dr. J fall prey to the temptations of having an extra-marital affair is more than a little disturbing. But that he did it with a journalist who was covering his team is like a shock to the system.

One thing my father has taught me above most everything else is the value of having integrity and character. One time, my mother told me, "Your father has the most integrity of any man I know." Out of all the messages we get from our parents, that one seemed to cut through all the "noise" and get right to me. Hearing that at a young age, made me understand that those are two characteristics I really want to have as I grow older.

Seeing such high-profile people in the sports world and in my field display such a lack of integrity serves as yet another reminder, that the world we live in is not always a pretty place.

■ Okay, enough of this heavy, depressing stuff! On a much brighter note, there was a decision made last week involving local athletics that might actually make everyone happy.

A group of soccer parents successfully lobbied to have home soccer games played at the old CHS football field, located in front of what will be Clarkston Middle School in the fall. Only soccer and middle school track will take place at this facility.

I feel this is an excellent decision for the soccer program, and the football program, which has had to share a field with the soccer teams for years.

People from both sides would quietly wonder if it was the other which chewed up the field the most. It wasn't unusual to have a week where there would be four soccer games and one football game played on the same field, with varsity and JV soccer, as well as varsity football. Very few high school fields can withstand that constant wear and tear, and it only makes the field progressively worse for any team that plays on it.

With this new plan, the football team will only have to share its field with the band, while the soccer team can play in a facility more befitting it at the old field.

At the old field, the stands are smaller, which is appropriate for the size of soccer crowds compared to football. Locker room-type facilities and a concession stand already exist, and the field is very well-maintained.

In reality, the team never really left the old field. All but two home games last season were played at the old field.

Playing at this field will give the soccer team its own identity. Coming off the enormous success of the U.S. Women's World Cup team, soccer has caught on with the casual fan much more. With this move, the soccer team will have a true home, one which it deserves.

■ The aforementioned women's soccer team captured everyone's imagination with its 5-4 win over China on Saturday.

Many other national teams have won championships, but few have picked up the kind of following this one did. And the genuine nature of that following is what struck me.

The fans went nuts over the players, and the players seemed to return that affection in a very real way, something rare and refreshing in this time.

The final game against China drew ratings that would make executives from any major pro sport blush. Almost 40 million people - including myself - watched the dramatic finale.

I hope male athletes didn't tune this team out, simply because they were women. If all teams conducted themselves the way this team did, sports' little corner of the world would be a better place.

Soccer teams return to old playing field field up the middle, and soccer teams need that area to be in good shape," Bauer said. "In the long run, it will be better for the soccer teams to have their own field."

Grand Blanc and Brandon High Schools play their home games at middle school facilities, and Bauer said they have received positive feedback from those schools.

Dan Fitzgerald, the CHS varsity boys soccer coach, said this was a good move for the program.

"It's a well-maintained field and a good environment for soccer," he said. "At the new field, there were just too many games in too short a period of time, and now we're adding freshman teams to the mix."

Fitzgerald stressed that this was not a case of the team being "shoved off" the new field, but it was a choice made to the benefit of the program.

"We certainly could have stayed at the new field if we wanted to," he said. "But the players and parents liked the idea of moving back to the old field, and I was very much for going that way also."

The boys team only played two home games last season at the new field. The girls team played all of its home games at the new field, but those games will also be played at the old field, starting next spring.

Fitzgerald said the team will practice at the practice fields behind the new football field, and will use the old field only for games.

The boys soccer team has won two straight district championships, and has produced a steady flow of solid teams over the past four years.

Summer baseball update

at Oakland University starting at 4 p.m.

The Oxford Legion baseball team had an up and down week, while trying to get by with a depleted pitching staff.

On Wednesday, Oxford beat the Shelby American Legion team 3-0. Clarkston's Nate Jerdon, Bret Gove and Adam Leech all drove in runs for Oxford, and Leech and Jerdon scored runs in the win.

Saturday, Oxford was drubbed by Berkley American Legion 13-1 and 20-5.

The next day, Oxford bounced back to defeat Chief Pontiac 9-7 in an exciting game. Jerdon and Leech combined to get the win on the mound for Oxford, as Jerdon baffled Chief Pontiac with his favorite pitch, the eifus pitch. Leech belted a two-run single in the fifth inning, while Jerdon scored twice for Oxford.

More soccer camps coming up

Techniques Soccer is a camp at Clintonwood Park that emphasizes the skill and fun of the sport of soccer.

Camp sessions are currently taking place, with more to follow. The camps will run from July 19-22, Aug. 2-5 and Aug. 9-12. All run from 9 a.m. to noon and are run by Clarkston Physical Education teacher Nate Hunter, a former professional soccer player with more than 16 years of coaching experience.

Techniques Soccer is designed to teach developmentally appropriate soccer skills to players of all ages and skill levels.

The camp is open to youths ages 8-14 and costs $60 per resident and $70 per non-resident. Required equipment includes a ball, shin guards, water bottle, and a white and dark t-shirt. Space for these camps is limited and pre-registrations are only accepted. Registration deadlines for each camp is the Friday before the first day of the following week's camp.

Forms are available through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation office, located at 90 N. Main St. For further information, call 625-8223.

'We're just a bunch of regular guys'

The Dick's RV men's softball team may be made up of a "bunch of regular guys," according to coach Jamie Carey, but they treat their softball as anything but regular.

With a strong competitive spirit, the players have gotten together for the last few summers and participated in the Independence Township Men's Softball "C" League.

"A few of us are from Clarkston, others from Waterford," Carey said. "We just go out and enjoy playing. We've played in the same league, and most of us have been together."

Members of the team include: Rick Hurst, Jamie Carey, Jamie Kennedy, Chris Sullivan, Erick Barber, Kevin Marshall, Nate Mallet, Christian Hornbeck, Nathan Sloan, Darrin Sliwa, and Chris "Taco" Chavez.

How hypnosis helped me say...

"So Long Size 16...Hello Size 8"

Marnie
Before
Hypnosis

My name is Marnie Fertal. I'm a full-time student. I lost 51 pounds in six short months. I kept my weight off for over 3-1/2 years. The story you are about to read is true and factual. It happened to me.

By Marnie Fertal

I lost 51 pounds without dieting. It was easy. My dress size plunged from a size 16 to a petite size 8 and it was effortless. If someone had told me this was possible five years ago, I wouldn't have believed them.

MORE RESULTS!...

"Weight Leaves... FOR GOOD!"

"You learn to love yourself and the weight just leaves...FOR GOOD! I lost over 50 lbs. I like myself again, which has strengthened my marriage and my self-confidence. I recommend hypnosis to everyone!"

Roseanne Greer,
Administrative Assistant

"Saved My Life"

"It may sound a bit dramatic to say that hypnosis saved my life, but this is what I believe. After smoking for 25 years, I can now say I am a true non-smoker. Thank you for giving me my life back."

Linda Mandeville, Administrative Assistant

Skeptic to Believer!

"I was skeptical at first. I had tried to lose weight before. Nothing worked. With hypnosis I lost 45 pounds. Hypnosis made weight loss fun. If you are a skeptic like me, be open minded. Your free screening will speak for itself. For life-long weight loss success, choose hypnosis."

Glenda Seawel, Retail Banking

Out of Control

I was overweight my entire life. In my house junk food was everywhere. The shelves were lined with cookies, chips and snack cakes. I told myself the weight was in my genes. Look at the rest of my family. They're fat too.

One day I realized I was out of control. I wanted to lose weight but couldn't. I felt helpless. I craved. I binged. I got depressed. The more I tried to diet the more I thought about food.

I wanted to be a model. Even took modeling classes. Learned the postures. How to walk and talk. My body betrayed me. I was miserable about my weight. It broke my heart to be around those skinny girls. I felt like an outcast. I found excuses to miss class. I dropped out.

I was on an endless dieting roller coaster. One stupid diet after another. Take a little off. Put more back on. I starved on shakes. Gained weight with diet pills. Pain, suffering, misery. I went out less and less. I sat home, lonely and afraid. I looked at my family and saw no end in sight. Being overweight hurt.

Stop the Pain

My mother heard about hypnosis for weight loss from a friend. She said hypnosis made her weight loss easy. I gave them a call, went in, discussed my problem, signed up and lost 51 pounds. That was 3-1/2 years ago. Hypnosis gave me back control. I know my weight loss is permanent. Keeping it off is effortless.

Instant Change

Immediately after my first hypnosis session I noticed changes. I stopped thinking of food all the time. My cravings totally vanished. My self-confidence soared. I felt gung-ho about life. No more cravings. No more binges. I was amazed when the hunger pangs vanished.

Now I am on the go all the time. I am getting A's in my college courses. I feel comfortable around everyone I meet. When I was overweight no guy would look at me. I don't have that problem anymore!

What a Discovery

People ask me what hypnosis is like. Does it work? Many folks tell me they think they can't be hypnotized. I tell them, YES! You can be hypnotized. Hypnosis is safe and natural. Like being awake during a pleasant dream. I joke with my brother that hypnosis is the lazy person's way to weight loss. It's relaxing and fun.

Yes, yes, yes, it works. I'm living proof that hypnosis gets real and genuine weight loss results.

The Miracle

Don't think I'm an isolated case either. My Dad lost 33 pounds. My brother lost 65 pounds. Hypnosis was 100% responsible for our weight loss success. So there you have it. Three people, 149 pounds. It was easier than we thought possible. Our results with hypnosis are a dream come true.

Dreams Came True

Hypnosis made my weight loss success possible. They gave me confidence, better health and a slim, attractive body. They helped my dad and brother too. That's why I believe hypnosis is the easiest way to lose weight and keep it off. It cost much less than expensive diet programs and I didn't have to fuss with weighing, measuring or counting. What a relief to know I will never have to diet again.

Free Screening

I recommend hypnosis without reservation. It worked for me and I'm convinced it can work for anyone who wants lasting weight loss. You can find out how hypnosis can benefit you and it won't cost one red cent. Pick up the phone and call right now. Schedule your free hypnotic screening. It's fun and informative. Takes about twenty minutes.

From the first phone call I felt reassured. Everyone was friendly and helpful. There is no pressure to buy anything. If the hypnotic evaluator doesn't feel their program will benefit you, she will tell you so.

Call Now Without Risk

I believe in hypnosis because it gave me my life back. That's why I'm sharing my story with you. Do what I did. Call and schedule your free hypnosis screening. What have you got to lose, but a lot of weight! Call now. You can tell them Marnie sent you.

Don't waste one more minute being overweight or destroying your health with nicotine. Your happiness is too important. Call us at 628-3242. It won't cost you one penny to find out more.
