Senior apartments get first nod

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
 Clarkston News Staff Writer

There will soon be more living accommodations for the aging population of Independence Township—especially along Dixie Highway.

Township planning commissioners unanimously approved revised preliminary plans last Thursday for a new independent senior living project for 25 acres on the northeast corner of Dixie and Maybee Road.

Called "Trillium Place," the heavily wooded site includes two buildings (Trillium North and Trillium South) with 218 rental units to be built on either side of an existing two-acre pond.

It's the first such project since the township adopted a new Elderly Housing Ordinance several months ago, which provides for both assisted living and independent living for senior citizens.

Assisted living includes 24-hour supervision and support for daily living tasks, while independent living is designed for those seniors who are still self-reliant and active. Currently there is a small assisted living facility on Parview, and Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital's new Clarkston Medical Campus at Dixie and White Lake Road will include a more intensive assisted-living complex, plus care for Alzheimer's patients.

Jim Scharl, one of four local developers purchasing the property from Ritter LLC said of the independent living project, "We definitely feel the master plan shows us there's nothing like this in the area."

The partnership group under Berit LLC includes Scharl, president of Kieft Engineering; Phil Seaver of Seaver Title Co.; Realtor/developer Chuck Sower; and builder/developer Forrest Milzow.

One or two bedroom units will be available, ranging from 650 to 1,000 square feet. Architects from Ann Arbor-based Edward Schullak, Hobbs & Black Inc. said the design would include earth tones, brick, horizontal and shake siding, and a combination of one, two and three stories.

There would be six central core areas with skylights, fully-equipped kitchens, a great room and some walkouts. Other amenities like a craft room, library, chapel, coffee shop, green house, card room, and a dining/community room would be included in each building, along with several large courtyards.

Tenants could opt to cook meals in their own kitchens or join their neighbors in the dining rooms. "The facility will offer complete meal service," Scharl said.

Plans also include a private road, with access from both Lorac Drive and Maybee. Security gates would prohibit cut-through traffic. Internal pathways would surround the pond and other areas, hooking up with the

So, just how do you make a banana split for 165 kids?

Celebrating the end of Vacation Bible School with a giant banana split is a five-year tradition at Oakland Woods Baptist Church in Clarkston.

And with the growing number of kids in the program each summer, the banana split keeps getting longer and longer.

This year 165 kids attended the program and were at the Maybee Road location to celebrate the final day.

Parents and church helpers set up 80 feet of plastic cave-through sections covered in aluminum foil, on tables in front of the church.

Then they scooped seven gallons of ice cream, cut up 40 pounds of bananas, poured one gallon of Hershey's chocolate syrup and sprayed six cans of whipped cream to make the dietary delight.

And then they got out of the way.

It didn't take very long for the tasty banana split to appear, and the timing was perfect. After the kids finished, helpers cleaned up moments before the big split hit.

Pastor Bob Galey attributes the success of VBS to director Sharon Ashton, who says of the program, "This is my love."

Galey said he has a friendly competition going with a church in Walled Lake which also trumpets the largest banana split.

"We have the longest church building in Clarkston, so we have to have the longest banana split," he said.

City water, repaving delayed

BY BRAD MONASTIERE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

After 90 minutes of discussion Monday night, the Clarkston city council decided that a plan to repave Main Street and possibly to install a water main next summer is all wet.

Following a suggestion made by Gary Tressell, the city's engineer, the council voted 6-0 to delay the repaving project for one year so it could work out solutions to have a water main installed on Main Street at the same time the repaving project takes place.

The council gave itself a deadline of Jan. 1 to have decisions made on these projects.

The council had decided to piggy-back the Main Street repaving project with the water main project in order to significantly reduce the cost. If the projects

The News in Brief

Paving of Walters Road to be complete by late August

Traffic delays may occur through August as Walters Road (from Flemings Lake Road to Waldon Road) will be paved by Road Commission for Oakland County.

In a recent press release, the RCOC said it is a goal of the road commission to interfere with traffic flow as little as possible.

Paving was scheduled to begin the week of July 21-28; however, project startup dates are subject to change depending on weather conditions or emergency situations.

Independence Township to discuss new twp. hall site

At its Aug. 3 meeting, the Independence Township board will discuss a new township hall site, in addition to hiring a fire inspector and four driver engineers for the township.

The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Road in Clarkston.

Westwood Hills prelim. plat on Springfield Twp. agenda

The preliminary plat for Westwood Hills subdivision will be presented to the Springfield Township planning commission at 7:30 p.m. July 29 at the township hall, 650 Broadway in Davisburg.

Plans for the 112-homesite cluster sub were brought forward earlier this year; the concept plan gained township board approval in March.

Storms knock out power in area

About 1,800 Independence Township residents and 2,200 Springfield Township residents lost electrical power due to storms last Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Carl Just, with Detroit Edison's public information department, said by Monday morning the figures were down to 1,200 in Independence, and 100 in Springfield.

Repair crews were working hard in spite of the hot humid conditions, Just said, and all power was expected to be restored Tuesday.

A total of 120,000 lost power in Oakland County.

Pine Knob Elem. receives top school improvement award

The North Central Association of Colleges and Schools announced July 19 that Pine Knob Elementary School was awarded their highest school improvement honors.

David Reschke, assistant superintendent K-8 operations, said each school in the Clarkston Schools District is at one stage of the process, which has eight phases and includes multiple peer reviews.

"We expect all of our schools to go through the NCA process. It's a really good process," Reschke said.

John Dilegghio, principal at Clarkston High School, said faculty develop a school mission statement and target several areas, such as reading or writing skills.

"It's an ongoing process, because your students change -- your population is redefined," Dilegghio said. "It takes a lot of work. That's where the pride comes in, improving your building from within."

Talent and creativity abound in art classes

'How their abilities grow and develop, and when they discover talents they're not even aware of, that's really fun to watch.' -- Sandy Grider

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston High School's art students are creative award winners. At last year's Scholastic Art competition and exhibition, the students brought home both Gold Key and Silver Key awards.

The opening of the new CHS last fall saw vast improvements in the art facilities. And according to art department chairperson Sandy Grider, that was just the beginning.

The new high school offers the department three art rooms, up from just one. Three two-dimensional design classes were offered, one three-dimensional sculpture class (two semesters) and three drawing classes.

Grider was the only full-time art teacher last year. Part-timer Jan Danoski will become full time in the fall, Grider said.

With the expansion of Danoski to full time, a second advanced art study class will be added, as well as two more introduction to art classes.

Grider is expecting more art classes to be added in the fall of 2000, including an Advanced Placement art class which she is very excited about. Also planned are advanced sculpture and computer graphics.

Art history is incorporated into each class, Grider said. "It's important to show how and why an artist came up with an idea, and how to use it now and expand it for future work," said Grider.

Picasso, Renoir, Modigliani, Georgia O'Keeffe, Degas and Cezanne have all made appearances in the art classrooms. "The (French) Impressionists (Renoir, Degas, and Cezanne among them) were the granddaddies of modern art and abstraction. Picasso started out as an impressionist, then moved into cubism. His work also reflected African art," she said. "(Picasso's style) is fun, very free. Kids can distort things, do self portraits, combine collage and painting," by copying his style.

Having kids paint in the style of surrealist Salvadore Dali "is a good way to transition from introduction to the concept of design," Grider added.

Introductory classes researched artists and their styles last year. The project included a self-portrait in an artist's style. Grider said one student painted a snowboarding competition in the style of Picasso. "It's very exciting what they're capable of doing," she said.

Three-dimensional structures out of foam core made by students in sculpture classes were designed for the viewer to be able to see in and through the object.

Abstract plaster carvings, clay flat-relief sculptures, whimsical sculptures using shoes, and found-object sculptures are also projects completed by students.

In the ceramics class, students begin by creating pots by hand using the slab, then coil method. They can go on to an independent study using a potters wheel.

Grider hopes to add an advanced ceramics class in the future which would concentrate on the "throwing" technique using the potters wheel. Adding welding and soldering to the sculpture curriculum is also a dream for Grider, as is developing more advanced projects for clay, and eventually jewelry classes.

The computer graphics program scheduled to begin in fall 2000 will offer Corel Draw Aid and Photoshop 5.0 and will be geared toward commercial advertising.

The potential for what the students can learn is what excites Grider the most. "I have so many students with hidden talents. How their abilities grow and develop, and when they discover talents they're not even aware of, that's really fun to watch."

Lighthouse is growing in size and services

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

There are big changes in store for Lighthouse Emergency Services in Pontiac and Clarkston.

Lewis Hickson, retired executive director for Capuchin Kitchen in Detroit, was recently named executive director for Lighthouse Emergency Services. Kathleen Carolin, Pontiac branch manager, has assumed the duties of branch manager in Clarkston following the departure of Dory Edwards in late spring. Hickson and Carolin are going to be very busy.

Hickson will shepherd the non-profit human services agency through a substantial building process encompassing its facilities and services.

The Pontiac location will begin construction of a new $4.5 million site at Wide Track Drive and Cottage this fall. The Clarkston branch, currently located in a historic former church on Maybee Road east of Sashabaw Road has also outgrown its facilities.

Hickson and Carolin are in the process of studying the possibilities of enlarging the current facility or building on a new, donated site.

To prepare for the changes at the Clarkston site, the two met with Clarkston staff and volunteers earlier this month to gain input on how to best focus efforts to serve the needs of their clients.

"We are volunteer driven -- we can't do anything without our volunteers. The Clarkston branch has a great staff. It runs so well," said Carolin.

They are also working with Oakland County's Office of Emergency Management to put together an emergency preparedness plan for natural disasters that would serve north Oakland County, Hickson said.

Hickson saw the Capuchin Soup Kitchen in Detroit through its building program before retiring nearly a year ago, and found he didn't like retirement.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to stay busy," Hickson said of his work at Lighthouse. "I've got a lot of energy."

Carolin joined Lighthouse in 1996 as a case manager for the agency's homeless program, after earning her masters in social work at University of Michigan.

"The homeless and poor people often make self-sufficient people uncomfortable. They become invisible," she said.

Volunteers are needed to staff the Lighthouse concession booth at the opening weekend of Renaissance Festival Aug. 14-15. All shifts are available and costumes will be provided if necessary. The weekend's theme is Legends and Lore. Call Mary Ann Emmick for more information at 673-4949.

Lewis Hickson, left, has been named Executive Director for Lighthouse Emergency Services. Kathleen Carolin, branch manager in Pontiac has also been named branch manager at Lighthouse Clarkston on Maybee Road.

Independence OKs '98 audit

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Once again, Independence Township's audit reflects growth.

Board of trustees members approved the 1998 audit, 6-0 at the July 20 meeting after a brief presentation by township auditors from Plante & Moran. Trustee Jeff McGee was absent.

The good news is revenues (over $18 million) exceeded expenditures (over $15 million) for the fiscal year, which runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31. Highlights are as follows.

■ Expenditures were higher in 1998 than the previous year. Much of the increase came from special assessment districts for road paving costs, explained township finance director Susan Hendricks during an interview last Thursday.

■ The general fund balance contains $1.6 million for undesignated projects; $1 million for designated projects.

■ Water fund revenues were higher than expenditures, due to customer billings and installation charges.

■ Sewer fund revenues were less than expenditures, due to depreciation of sewer systems.

Board members were provided with graphs and a detailed financial report.

Trustee Neil Wallace raised two primary concerns. One was the fact that the township adjusted the budget at a special meeting June 25 and found it had spent around $150,000 "we hadn't budgeted for."

"There could be many possibilities on how we could end up over budget," Wallace said. "One possibility is a department head could be spending money that hasn't been authorized."

Hendricks attributed much of the problem to the "housekeeping" that had to be done after former finance director Kerry Donahoe resigned. "There were six months (in 1998) when the township had absolutely no one in the position," Hendricks said. She was hired in September, but wasn't able to make all the adjustments by the Dec. 31 deadline.

During that period, she says, projects were authorized but the township didn't keep tabs on the spending. However, "Nobody snuck out and bought something we shouldn't have," she said. Because revenues exceeded expenditures in basically all the departments, the township was covered. The exception was the fire department which added personnel. The monies came from its fund balance, Hendricks said.

She said part of her mission is to make sure this doesn't happen again. She plans to provide quarterly financial reports. Her goal is to eventually report to the board monthly.

Hendricks said she will also walk through the process with department directors when they approach the board for new projects. "We will talk to the board right then and there. Not only will we get permission, but we will get the budget adjustment," Hendricks said.

Stuart agreed with Hendricks' analysis of the problem. The board did authorize projects, but what it didn't do was "follow up with a budget adjustment to account for them. In my impression of looking at the stuff, that was the majority of the time," he said. A few projects might have caused "budget over-run," he admitted.

"The township has never been in better financial health that it is today," Stuart said. While he respected the discussion, he didn't like "the innuendo floating around." The problems that surfaced with the 1998 audit "are behind us," he said.

Paving funds lacking for Thendara road

Wallace also addressed the special assessment district for the Thendara Park road paving project, completed in the early '90s. There is not enough money to pay the bonds back, he said.

"The result is, there is a deficit." He cited three reasons: a mistake in projected construction costs, the effect of the previous derivatives loss under former township treasurer John Lutz, and a miscalculation in the bond payments.

Though one suggestion was to adjust the SADs, Wallace said that might be "unrealistic" because some have already paid their bills in full.

Citing a large turnover of residents in the sub, it wouldn't be fair to tax new homeowners with the burden of paying the balance, he said.

Trustee Jeff McGee, a Thendara Park resident, who does not live in the special assessment district, said he's been pressing Stuart to resolve the matter for years. "I've always made my position known on that. I will continue to be vehement on that until there is a solution," he said.

The road project took place under former supervisor Tink Ronk.

McGee feels either the township should foot the bill or homeowners should be reassessed. They've already been reassessed once.

In answer, Stuart said Monday, "The solution, unfortunately, is pretty simple. We either have to make additional payments out of the general fund balance, or we have to reassess the property. It's whatever the board feels is appropriate. And they have not come to a conclusion on that. It's not as easy as it is simple."

He said the matter would be addressed at a future board meeting. "We soon are going to be looking at the 2000 year budget. And it will certainly be a part of that."

City's delay on water main and repaving M-15 the right choice

Monday night the Clarkston city council decided to delay the Main Street repaving and water main projects for a year so it could have more time to make decisions on payment issues.

We feel this is a good move for the council. This will not only allow it more time to pursue grant opportunities, such as the Clean Michigan Initiative, but also to give residents and businesses a chance to voice their opinion on the project, and how it will get done.

This is a complex issue. Decisions on whether to create a special assessment district, or to issue general obligation bonds with the hope that the entire city will get hooked up to a main in the future - take time. Any decision made in a rush is not a good decision. The council has done the smart thing by giving itself time to consider all the possibilities, and listen to the voices of its residents before moving forward. BMM

Memories triggered from "A Look Back"

Dear Editor,

What a surprise to be reading through my latest issue of The Clarkston News, only to discover my name included in the "Fifty Years Ago" ("A Look Back") article!

The collection taken up by the people of Clarkston has always been included in the stories my family has told me of my struggles as a one-year-old. After surviving several major surgeries, including amputation of my right leg, and a lengthy stay in the hospital, I was taken home by my parents and raised in the most normal life they could give me.

I'm a 1966 graduate of Clarkston High and a 1970 graduate of Western Michigan University. I taught in the West Bloomfield schools for five and a half years, where I met my husband (we just celebrated our 25th anniversary). Then I retired to raise our three children.

Now I am newsletter editor for our church, besides being involved in school and community activities. Although I have not lived in Clarkston as an adult, I maintain a connection with school friends, including the group who organizes the Class of '66 reunions every five years.

My parents retired to Roscommon, but brother Craig works for the Independence Township Water Department and brother Kurt is a teacher and coach at Clarkston High School.

Clarkston was a great place for us three and brother Jeff to grow up and I thank all those who helped my very young parents in an overwhelming situation fifty years ago! The strength and support shared with my mom and dad blended with their own gifts and talents to help take me past a difficult start to a rich and happy life!

Todd Moss made right decision on golf course

Dear Editor,

Hats off to Todd Moss, the only (Independence) Township Planning Commissioner who had the guts and good sense to vote "no" on rezoning the Clarkston Golf Course on Eston Road from recreation to residential.

More houses, more road congestion and less open space is a sure-fire formula for making Independence Township the next paved-over poopville. Let's hope the board has the courage to vote no.

One alternative would be for the township to buy it and operate it as a golf course. There must be something other than this seemingly new zoning approach, i.e. voting for what is in the best economic interest of the owner.

Respectfully,
Thomas K. Bullen

Police should slow down in City too

Dear Editor,

lights or siren.

Police cars are no less dangerous to the public than private cars. Private citizens driving this area are frequently ticketed at 10 MPH over the limit.

This type of action creates disrespect and lack of John John's death triggers many musings

"I read the news today, oh boy"

The Beatles, circa 1960s

"Has anybody seen my old friend John?"

Dion, circa 1960s

"Is he gone? Can you tell me, is he gone?"

Gone in one dark moment on a sunny day?"

Eileen Cavanaugh (McCarville), 1963

The sixties were a mixed bag of tragedy and wonder for us baby boomers. Three assassinations — John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr. The Beatles and the Beach Boys. Rebellion and riots. War, Watergate and Woodstock.

But, during those growing-up years, nothing touched me as deeply as November 22, 1963. Where were you the day President Kennedy died? I was in eighth-grade band, playing my flute. And I remember the ripple of shock that tied us teens together as our director wept and broke the news.

Being a romantic, sensitive — and yes, impressionable — sort, I was caught up in the whole, bloated Camelot sort of thing. I cut our newspaper articles — including the famous photo of little John John saluting his father's casket — and taped them into a scrapbook.

Overwhelmed, I wrote a poem (excerpt, above) about how the death affected me. It was so hard to fathom this vibrant man with the thick red hair and beautiful family was gone. I sent it on to the White House and received a gracious thank-you note and autograph from Jackie.

Now, 36 years later, the memories come flowing back. But, to be honest, I didn't think JFK Jr.'s death would affect me much.

Yes, I was shocked when I heard about it while working at Pine Knob over the weekend. A couple of co-workers snickered the ribald Kennedys had it coming. What you sow you reap. JFK, Bobby and Marilyn Monroe. Chappaquadick and Teddy. Michael and the baby sitter. The Kennedy curse is really Kennedy karma.

It seemed to be yet another episode of The Young-and-the-Restless-Kennedys soap opera. Add the ever-present newspaper photo — of handsome Sr. Lancelot kissing beautiful Queen Guenevere's hand at their wedding — and you've got a sure best seller.

Now older and less impressionable, I did not clip newspaper clippings this time. Nor have I kept my eye trained on CNN coverage as cameras train their eyes on Hyannisport and ships at sea.

But I did feel my eyes well up as I drove to work, on the day the body was found. JFK Jr. did not survive, even though we had hopes he would emerge from an island like some invincible Robinson Crusoe.

During the past few days — like so many spin-off stories — I have debated many facets of the tragedy within my own mind.

Among them have been the media-coverage overkill and the inevitable comparisons to Princess Di. Both were young and beloved for their beauty, individuality and glamour. And, as said, the Kennedys were the clos-

Hide the kids, the Unhandy Man cometh

Let me start with the ending: The next house I buy will be brand new and will require no — I repeat, NO — home improvements. (Just typing that, getting it off my chest and sharing it with you, makes me feel better. This feeling of relief, I have a sneaky feeling, will be short lived.)

When we saw this home, built in 1916, well we sort of fell in love with it — the charm warmed us on the winter's night we first entered. The wood trim, floors, fireplace, sliding french doors and leaded windows piqued our imaginations — a little elbow grease and tender loving care was all this great old girl needed to be restored to its former glory. Her walls were plastered inside and stuccoed on the outside — unique and appealing to eyes that don't like cookie cutter homes.

Then when we saw the solarium, to which all other rooms surround, with its wooden beams and aged-from-blue-to-green Italian tiling floors, the hook was set. We were caught — the house, we bought.

As I type the tips of my fingers — the fleshy round parts that actually press the keyboard — sting. Were I a thief, now would be the time to go rob something as I need a few weeks to grow back my finger prints. Pulling off plaster from the lathe on two walls in three hours has a way of exfoliating the upper epidermal in the area of your finger tips.

The thinking man's home improvement guy, I jumped in and chip, chip, chipped away with a putty knife and hammer until all was clear... as would be the case when I relayed the news of my latest conquest in home ownership, I was reminded of the fact that since we are drywalling the room, and the lathe needs to be removed, I could have saved myself time (and finger prints) had I taken big hunks of plaster still stuck to lathe versus the three-inch pieces I pulled.

Rats — why hadn't I thought of that?

This room remodeling was way down on the project's priority list (first was the roof, then the gutters, then...). But, like a swamp gas bubble pushes its way to the water's surface, so too did this room beg to be paid attention to. And, as things like this usually go, it begged for attention not on a Friday, which would have left a weekend to work, rather on a Sunday afternoon.

Don't Rush Me

Don Rush

While I was trying to remodel the half bath in our then two-and-a-half bath house into a linen closet, Jen poked around and pulled up some paneling in the aforementioned room. What she saw wasn't pretty.

On the southside-outside wall — there under the set of three windows, was what is basically crumbling cement walls. Well, crumbling cement with a flaking plaster coat.

Our plans were to have Jen and Shamus move into our home at the end of August. This was to be Shamus' room. The die was cast, I had a new project — the to-be linen closet would be shelved for a while.

Don't expect to see me much these days. With the plaster and lathe down, next comes the tiled ceiling. Then the rug. I'll drywall, mud, sand and paint. Then I'll have the furnace air ducts cleaned, then I clean the house — all that plaster dust will be wiped away. All this by August 27. Anybody taken bets on whether or not I can pull it off? (Better yet, anybody want to help?)

Like I say, the next house will be new.

Why don't newspeople write tv instead of TV?

Whenever I've written about television and abbreviate it to tv, our proofreaders have always tried to change it to TV.

Why?

Actually, I never asked them. I think I thought they might ask the question back; why do I continually use lowercase letters.

Then I'd probably show my stubborn, prejudice side. That's the side that believes newspapers should give no publicity to a competing industry.

Why should newspapers promote an industry that is trying to put them out of business by taking advertising money that rightfully belongs to newspapers?

Thus I write tv!

Now, finally, after nearly 45 years of writing "tv," and harboring this ill-feeling, comes a columnist who agrees with me.

Jeff Jacoby writes for the Boston Globe, but on a recent Sunday the Detroit Free Press picked up one of his columns which they headlined, "Dream editor tackles papers."

It was an "If I were editor" thing. In part he wrote: "Speaking of TV: (he nearly lost me there) I would cut way back on the amount of newsprint devoted to reviewing television shows. TV is the enemy of newspapers, and I feel no obligation to provide publicity for my enemy."

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

"Once upon a time in America, everybody read the paper; in some cities, readers could choose from four or five dailies, most of which put out new editions every few hours.

"Then came television, and newspapers began their long decline. No tv (I can't continue to use his capital letters!) show urges couch spuds to turn off the tube and go read a paper.

"Yet newspapers are forever coaxing readers to check out the latest sitcom or HBO special. Here's one editor who wouldn't play that game."

Later he says, "Viewers have no trouble deciding for themselves which shows they like and which shows they are happy to miss." Thus why do newspapers review them?

While I'm on the tv subject, isn't it amazing that channels 2, 4, 50 and 7 in Detroit all have number one rated newscasts in Michigan?

And how misleading of each of them when their lead-in promo says something like "where local news comes first" but doesn't?

There were something like 16 shootings of people in Detroit on a recent weekend and the tv news readers we saw lead with an out-of-city, non-local story.

Whoops!

The southeast Michigan daily newspapers we read didn't have the shootings up-front that July 18 weekend either. But then, I can't pan them by putting their abbreviations in lowercase letters: 'cause newspapers don't have that reference. Maybe we could start one, say np (or should I write NP)?

erger. We sold more newspapers than usual.

Despite all the hoopla, the bottom line for me is this is a part of my history. The JFK assassination was perhaps the defining moment of the century. That era evokes memories of incense and peppermints. And of one dark moment on a sunny day.

A little boy lost his father that day.

Perhaps another baby-boomer's poem — amidst the heap of memorial flowers — best sums up the JFK Jr. tragedy: "When I was 16 and you were 3, my heart broke. I now realize I never fully recovered."

the People Poll

BY RENEE LUTZ

The Clarkston News asks diners and employees of Opa! Restaurant in Clarkston:

Do you think media coverage of JFK Jr. and Princess Diana's deaths was excessive?

"It's ridiculous. (The public and the media) should be concerned about their own lives and not the lives of people they don't know."

-- Will Sanborn, Opa! Restaurant cook

"I kind of understand because of who (JFK Jr.) is, but I think it should be more equal coverage. It's too overdone."

-- Kasey Collier, Opa! Restaurant waitress

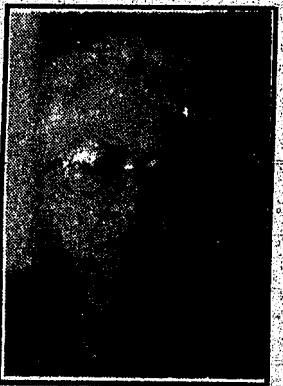

"I didn't necessarily think it was excessive. Both of those people deserve the coverage that they got."

-- Carol Zeller, Clarkston resident

"I think there was a lot of coverage of both, but I don't think too much. Everybody's concerned."

-- Dolores Cavalier, Clarkston resident

"Diana's was excessive but JFK Jr.'s was fine. I actually gained something from his death. My husband died over 10 years ago and it's closure for me. Now I know what to do with (his ashes). Even if it's someone else's death, people can benefit."

est thing to royalty we had in the U.S.

I don't believe the over-coverage is all the media's fault. I think it's a vicious cycle. We buy the publications and products that pay for advertising — cosmetics, booze and cars. What does that say about us? The media eats it up because we ask for it.

One local book store said it can't keep enough books and magazines about John Jr. on the shelf.

And, the cold, hard truth is sensationalism sells. I remember one of our own issues ran the headline, "He's going to kill someone!" It was about a drunken road-

Time and energy of grounds crews shows at school buildings

Dear Editor,

We would like to extend a very special thank-you to the custodial and grounds crew of Clarkston Community Schools for the incredible time and energy they have contributed toward the opening of the renovated school buildings.

One of the reasons Clarkston Community Schools is so outstanding is the support provided by the custodial crews. The painting, repairs and cleaning will make our buildings a wonderful place for children to learn.

The grounds crew is another reason for excellence by improving and maintaining the landscaping and making our buildings an attractive addition to the community.

The transition to various schools would be impossible without your efforts and we applaud you.

Sincerely,

The Transition Team

Providing information to schools was Larry Rosso's idea

Dear Editor,

It was my fellow Independence Township trustee, Larry Rosso who first raised the idea that the Township should provide information regarding residential development proposals to the schools. He proposed that last February at the joint meeting with the school board.

It was a good idea and I supported it.

It was not my idea. Some time later I found out what we thought we had agreed to had not been implemented. So all that I did was propose that we adopt it as a formal township policy.

I know that it will be invaluable to the schools for their planning. I am hopeful that the schools will provide us with feedback that will assist the township in its planning decisions. I was glad to read in your paper that the school officials intend to participate.

Very truly yours,
Neil E. Wallace

City delays paving

were to be done separately, the cost of tearing up the newly repaved streets would be added to the water main project, an unnecessary addition, according to council members.

The Michigan Department of Transportation has told the city all the TEA-21 funds will still be there if it wants to delay the project for one more year. The repaving was originally scheduled for the spring and summer of 2000, but with this delay, the work will likely take place in 2001.

Tressell said the delay will allow the city enough time to make decisions based on everyone's best interests.

"Considering how complex this issue is, and the fact that we haven't heard from the business community yet, I think it would be best if we delayed this for one year," he said. "The money is still guaranteed to us, and I see many issues which require much more discussion."

Mayor Sharron Catallo said the delay will allow the city to pursue more funding opportunities, including state grants.

"The upside is that we can look for more money to do this," she said.

One example of new funding is the Clean Michigan Initiative, a grant through the state which helps communities with water main projects like the one the city is pursuing.

Council member Anne Clifton said the delay in making the decision won't make it easier, but will allow the council not to have to rush through the process.

"I support the delay, because I am afraid we would do something wrong and the people wouldn't have a fair chance to speak their peace if we rush through this," she said. "It's a hard sell, but if we don't jam this down people's throats, we may have a better chance of getting water."

In a related move, the council rescinded a previous resolution stating its intent to issue bonds to fund the water main project. The reason for that resolution was to give people the opportunity to oppose it if they wanted, and to have it placed on the November ballot. Ryan said there's no way this question will be on the November ballot, so it would make sense for the council to rescind it, which it did by a 6-0 vote.

No major incidents from Friday's storm

The severe thunderstorm that passed through Clarkston Friday afternoon left some power lines down around the city, though no major structural damage was reported.

Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson said there were some reports of downed power lines. Reported incidents took place on Waldon Road, Transparent, Mary Sue, Sashabaw and Princess.

Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said a three-pronged tree in Depot Park lost one of its prongs and fell, crushing a picnic table. No one was near the table at the time of the incident, and the city's department of public works cleaned up the table in time for the Concert in the Park Friday night.

Ormiston added that the DPW spent much of Saturday cleaning up items like fallen branches from the city streets and sidewalks.

Bicentennial parade Saturday

Capped by governor's ball Saturday night

There'll be a fife and drum corps and Rotary Ann members on bicycles and even a hot air balloon flying over the crowd Saturday as Clarkston launches its bicentennial observance with a big parade at 10 a.m.

Air planes from Selfridge Air Base are expected to fly overhead as three local bands plus the Brandon High School band perform for the crowds.

Adding to the parade atmosphere will be the 5th Michigan Regimental Band, a re-creation from earlier days, the Dearborn calliope and the Sons of Scotia out of Lake Orion with their bagpipes.

Three Shrine units are expected to take part, including the contingent of incomparable Arab saddle horses.

Antique cars and unicycles, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department posse, color guards from Selfridge and the local American Legion, plus families proud of their early Independence heritage will make up the bulk of the parade.

The parade is under the sponsorship of the Clarkston Rotary Club, and will result in the closing of M-15 to traffic from Dixie Highway to Bluegrass from 9:45 a.m. to noon.

Police Services Director Jack McCall noted that traffic headed for the stores or doctor's offices along M-15 will be allowed to proceed to destination, but he said no traffic would be permitted through north of Paramus.

Waldon and Clarkston roads will be closed to through traffic. Traffic will be diverted in both instances to Snowapple, McCall said.

The parade is due to begin at the empty lot at Main and Clarkston Board of Education its way to Main Street (M-15) and proceed south to Paramus where it will wind back to the school complex off Waldon.

The day's activities which are to include an ice cream social during and after the parade on

Washington, special activities at the village mini-mall at Depot

Road and Main Street, and a 5th Michigan Regimental Band Concert at 1 p.m. at Clarkston High School football field will be capped with the governor's ball at Springfield-Oaks Activities Center, Davisburg, that night.

Tickets for the dance are $10 a couple and are available at The Clarkston News.

Two boys engage in high adventure

by Jean Saile
of The Clarkston News

A couple of eight-year-old adventurers have promised their parents and the police they won't be hiking into unfamiliar territory for "devotions" in the future.

The two, Shawn Holey of 5800 Everest and Mike Peterson of 5796 Mary Sue, were picked up at a phone booth at Oak Hill Mobile Home Park about 8:30 p.m. Friday after dark and after Shawn had called home.

The phone booth was about 10 miles and six hours from their homes.

Mike's mother says both the boys had apparently left notes, however Shawn's wasn't found. Mike's said they were going for a hike and would probably go to the family church, Drayton Heights Free Methodist, about a mile away from home.

She doesn't think they got to the church, but they did stop in at the Whoopee Bowl on the Dixie Highway in Springfield Township. There Mike bought a Bible storybook with which to carry out his religious intentions, his mom said.

Mike had a $2 bill he'd gotten for Easter from his grandparents, one his mom says he'd been told not to spend.

As it turned out, he didn't really spend it. He and Shawn started off by taking the $2 bill to the bank where they exchanged it for two $1 bills which were then divided between them.

They were able to buy sustenance for the journey with the funds derived, and Mike's mom believes everything was pretty copacetic until dark. That's when the boys began to get a little scared, she thinks.

In the meantime the kids had been discovered missing and at about 6:30 p.m., the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the State Police tracking dog, the CB's organization complete with two-way radios, and the Independence Township Fire Department were all alerted to possible tragedy.

They all turned out to hunt, but it was Shawn's phone call that gave searchers their first clue.

The boys came back not much the worse for wear.

"Mike doesn't worry much," his mom said.

The minuet is back in style

Ready for the Ball are Jim and Shirley Mahar of Miller Road. Shirley, chairwoman of the May 1 Governor's Ball made the Bicentennial costumes, a three-week long project. Jim is a member of the Bicentennial committee.

Springfield Twp. Fire Dept. strives to keep up with times

Full-time help, additional equipment desired at both stations

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the Springfield Township Fire Department has seen many changes over the past few decades, it still faces many of the same problems as other fast-growing north Oakland communities — a lack of manpower and facilities and equipment.

Township Fire Chief Charlie Oaks began working at station #1 in downtown Davisburg in 1974 and is currently the only firefighter working full time at either station.

He said the need for more workers is always apparent, and because of the strain on volunteers, he believes it will become necessary at all levels for firefighters to be hired on a full-time basis.

"At the present rate, they're needed right now," he said.

Oaks said as the community develops, firefighting becomes more essential and complicated.

In January, Oaks became the first full-time paid firefighter for the township. He has served as chief of the department for more than two years.

He remembers when he first came to Davisburg to volunteer as a firefighter, how experience wasn't criteria for the job.

"The chief said, 'Here's your hat, your coat, and your gloves, and when a call comes in, you're a fireman,'" Oaks said. "Things have changed. You just don't quite work it that way anymore."

Extensive training is required for those who wish to fight fires. Aside from attending a basic fire academy, the minimum requirement to become a firefighter is to have first responder skills, and emergency medical technicians are preferred, Oaks said.

"The training is so much. Young people with families and just starting out can't be working these hours and not be getting paid," he said. "They just don't have time to do that."

But the amount of training is necessary to the job. Between January and May 1999, the department has responded to 265 calls — 50 percent of which were medical related and 17 percent of which were personal injuries.

Springfield Twp. Fire Dept. Chief Charlie Oaks says a need for full-time firefighters is becoming essential for most fire stations around the country. "At the present rate, they're needed right now," he said.

Eleven percent of the calls were for grass and structure fires.

Oaks said it is not uncommon to work 10 to 11-hour days, go home and then be out again until three in the morning. He said his salary is in the lower $30,000 range — much lower than the average salary for full-time fire chiefs.

"Being in the fire service takes a lot of time, a lot of loss of sleep and everything else," he said.

And if someone approached Oaks and wanted to work for the department, he said it would take a minimum of six months before the person could begin working there.

In 1993, there were approximately 10,000 firefighters who volunteered in the state. Now, Oaks says there are no more than 4,500.

In nearby Brandon Township, six people rotate on 24-hour shifts, and sleep at the station in case of an emergency run during the night, said Chief Bob MacArthur. In addition, 40 are employed on a paid-per-call basis in the township, he said.

In the area, Rochester Hills is also seeking full-time help, Oaks said, and they aren't alone.

However, through fundraisers and the help of the township board, the Springfield Township Fire Department's acquisition of new equipment aids in their current situation.

"We've had everything from pancake breakfasts to private donations," he said. "But these purchases have forced us to cut down on other purchases."

Equipment including a new fire truck in April 1998, a thermal imager (a camera which allows firefighters to find people in smoke-filled rooms) and a four gas analyzer help Oaks and his crew of 15, paid per call to the station, do their job more efficiently.

Also, a Jaws of Life is on order and expected to be delivered in the next few weeks, Oaks said.

Despite these gains, Oaks said he has several other items on his "wish list."

He would like to obtain more property at the station #2 fire hall, located at the corner of Ratalee Lake Road and Dixie Highway, in order to expand the facility, adding on at least two rooms.

"But my dream and what the township's might be is another thing," Oaks said.

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said the township board was approached some time ago about expanding the fire hall, but no further action has taken place on the matter.

"There have been no specifics as to how much space we're talking about," Walls said.

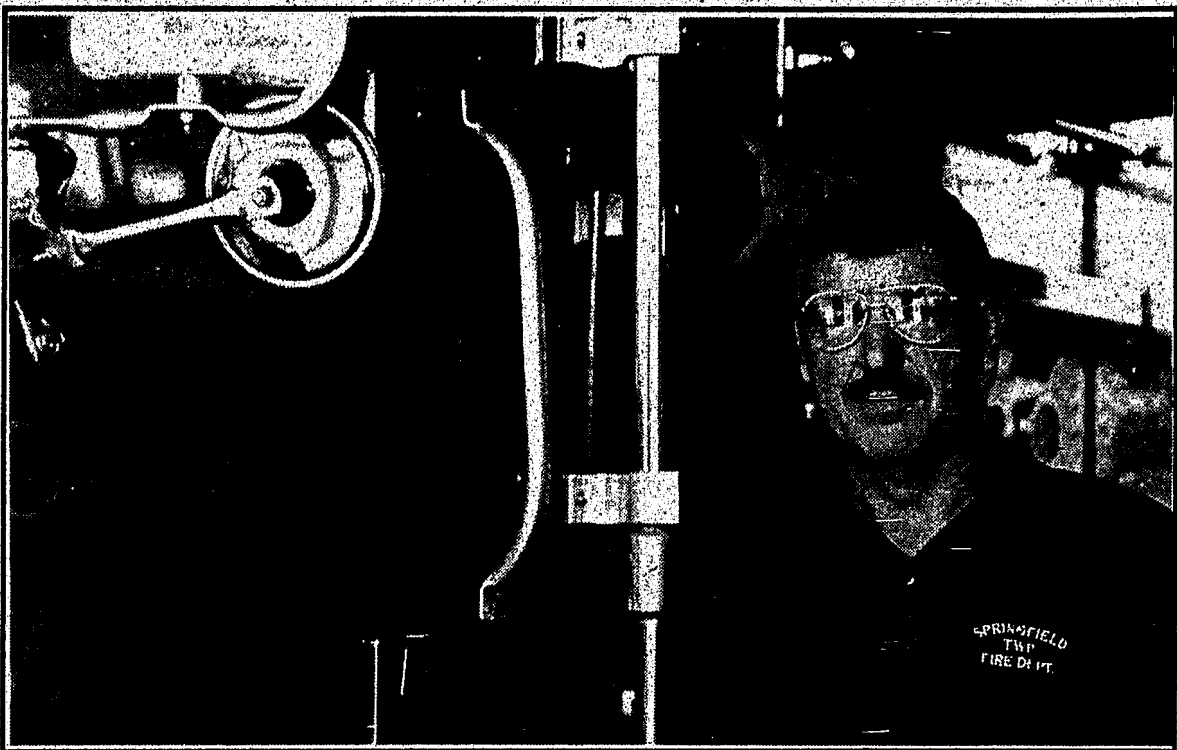

At the I-75 interchange near Dixie, a number of accidents has prompted Oaks to consider the station #2 expansion. During the week of June 21-25, he said three accidents had occurred near the interchange.

"It seems to be a dangerous stretch of road," he said.

Oaks also would like to increase the number of firefighters from the 13 that are paid per call at that station, and gain full time workers there, in addition to obtaining a water tanker for that location.

New principal prepares for year at 'Sashabaw West'

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tom Bialk feels fortunate to be in Clarkston.

Bialk, who was approved by the Clarkston schools Board of Education at the July 12 meeting as the new principal for Sashabaw Middle School, said he has reached the beginning of the end of a 10-year goal.

"To be a principal of a middle school."

Sashabaw West, as the old Clarkston Middle School is being nicknamed for the coming school year, will be home for Bialk and the 700-plus students while renovations take place its original site, located off Pine Knob Road.

Before coming to Clarkston, Bialk worked as an assistant principal at Central Middle School in the Port Huron School District. He also was the principal at Sanilac Career Center near Port Huron, a career technical program for students in seven school districts.

Bialk has worn other hats — he was the administrative vocal director for the Iosco Intermediate School District in East Tawas and taught special education at East Tawas High School.

In the 70's, he taught special education at Chatterton Middle School in Warren, as well as coaching football and track at Fitzgerald High School, also in Warren. In total, he's spent 10 years in the classroom and 13 in administration.

Bialk, who is 49, also has a blended educational background — he first attended Arizona Western, a community college, on a football scholarship. He then went to Wayne State University and received his bachelor of science degree.

He has a master degree in special education and learning disabilities from Eastern Michigan University, and also studied at Ferris State University.

Bialk said he applied to several districts in the state for a middle school principal position, but was glad to know Clarkston accepted him.

"I think Clarkston is a wonderful place. I happen to be fortunate enough to be here, at Sashabaw."

"I've worked in several districts and this is a great district. It's only going to improve," he said.

He has two main goals for the coming year, to better student MEAP scores and reorganizing the school day structure — both of which are part of the North Central Accreditation program goals.

"They had a large improvement last year (with MEAP scores). I want to continue with the progress of improving their scores."

"There is also a challenge to continue to move into the middle school delivery system, where teachers are teamed and the school day is arranged in a flexible block schedule. We can continue to develop strategies to help students deal with conflict."

Bialk, who officially began work last week, said although he's met some of his new staff, he will host a barbecue to introduce himself.

"It's just so we can get to know each other on an informal basis. What better time for a barbecue than summer?"

Tom Bialk, newly-named principal at Sashabaw West Middle School, stands outside the school's temporary location on Church Street, at the former Clarkston Middle School.

mer?"

He said he is also looking forward to meeting people while a spectator at upcoming sports games.

"I plan on attending a lot of sporting events. You can't keep me away," he joked.

"It gives me an opportunity to get to know people, to see the kids outside of a school setting."

Bialk remains involved in athletic activities, such as sailing and scuba diving. He also runs three to five miles each day.

His wife, Gabrielle, and two children are still living in the Port Huron area, from where Bialk currently commutes each day.

He said his family is very involved with his new job and showed their support by attending the July school board meeting.

mill and the levy is slightly under that amount, Walls said. Therefore, he doesn't anticipate the board supporting the hiring of more full-time firefighters.

"The township board has made no plans for full-time other than chief," Walls said. He said Oaks has not yet made a presentation to the board concerning the need for full-time firefighters.

Oaks said he is also working with the township board to gain more access to nearby water sites, to better response time to fires.

The department recently received an ISO (Insurance Service Organization) rating of 7/10 — significantly better than the previous rating of 9/10, with 10/10 being the worst response time to homes in the area.

However, Oaks hopes to lower the rating even further by traveling shorter distances to obtain water. Mutual aid, or calling in other area fire department trucks to large structure and grass fires, helps in response time, although more access to water sites by his department also is desired.

"Sometimes we have to travel a little too far for water," he said. "They're making the homes bigger and bigger, so we need more water."

Walls said the township planning commission is looking at some standards as to when the fire department would require holding tanks for water.

He also said plans are in the works to install a dry hydrant in coordination with Shepherd's Hollow Golf Course, located south of Big Lake Road. The hydrant is a pipeline into a tank or pond, accessible by firefighters.

Also, Westwood Hills planned-unit development, which received concept plan approval by the township board in March, is slated to construct three 3,400-gallon buried water storage tanks near station #2, located at the corner of Dixie Highway and Ratalee Lake Road, Walls said.

New CMS principal 'very impressed' with Clarkston

BY RENEE LUTZ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

As Clarkston Middle schoolers move across the street to their new building this fall, they'll also find a new face in the crowd.

Linda Armstrong is taking the reins as the school's principal, and said she is "very impressed" with Clarkston Community Schools thus far.

"Every person I have met has been so cooperative and considerate, whether it be an administrator or construction worker, or custodian or teacher," she said. "They've been so wonderful. I'm very impressed."

Armstrong, who officially became the school's principal July 1, is beginning her 23rd year in education. Prior to coming to Clarkston, she was an assistant principal with Huron Valley Schools at Oak Valley Middle School.

She has also served as a teacher in several areas, including vocal music, language arts and special education, all at Oak Valley. Armstrong also was the gifted and talented program coordinator for the school district.

Armstrong, 43, is a graduate of University of Michigan, where she received her bachelor and master degrees, and also holds a specialist degree in educational leadership from Eastern Michigan University.

Although familiar with Clarkston,

Armstrong said she is looking forward to getting better acquainted with the area and its residents in coming months.

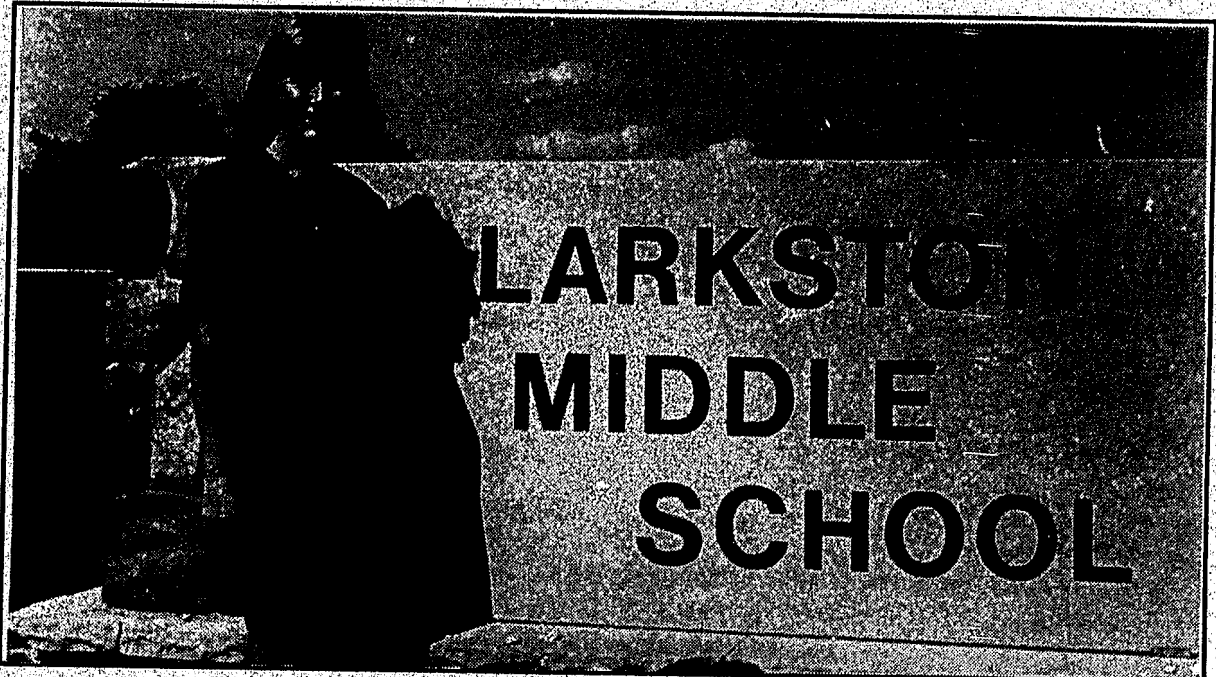

In mid-July, she invited her new staff to join her at Depot Park for a welcome picnic, and to gain input on ideas for the coming year.

"I have lots of ideas," she said. "The middle school student is so special and unique, and we need to address those needs."

Armstrong hopes to maintain a friendly atmosphere during the school year with both her colleagues and the students.

"Basically, I'm picking up the ball in the middle of the game and running with it," Armstrong said.

"The goal is to make the building belong to the kids and staff, like home, so when they walk in the door, it won't be the old high school. It will be the new middle school."

New Principal at Clarkston Middle School Linda Armstrong stands next to the new sign for CMS outside the former Clarkston High School on Middle Lake Road — the new site of CMS. She said she is looking forward to Aug. 30, when the kids arrive.

More than 1,000 kids will file into the new locale on Middle Lake Road in late August.

Armstrong said she is ready for the challenge.

"Everything has to be done right the first time. We're going to be starting off slow and moving forward." She and her staff move into their new building in early August.

Aside from her drive for better education, Armstrong also has a passion for running.

She said she plans on running in the Detroit Free Press/Detroit News-sponsored marathon in October. She also enjoys the fine arts.

"Clarkston has a reputation for music and theater, so I'm thrilled," she said.

Armstrong also has two children, a son, 17, and daughter who is 20.

OSMTech instructor receives national award

On July 23, Kyle Hughes, a teacher at Oakland Science, Mathematics and Technology Academy in Clarkston was recognized among three teachers in the United States for the FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology)/United Technologies Corporation Teacher Pioneer Award.

The Teacher Pioneer Award was created to honor teachers across the country who could demonstrate their use of creative techniques for teaching difficult subjects in their classroom. Hughes was chosen for her innovative style in robotics and engineering curriculum.

She and the other award winners, Susan Godez of Columbus, Ohio and Bill McGowan of Flanders, N.J., were in Manchester, N.H. July 23 to begin meetings aimed at developing a national robotics curriculum.

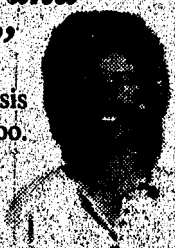

The ideas will be piloted in the teachers' high school robotics courses in November, and offered as teacher workshops at FIRST Robotics Competition regional events beginning in January.

Drainage problems solved for Simler residents

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At long last, Simler Road residents are getting relief from a drainage problem that has plagued them for more than a decade.

On July 20 the Independence Township Board of Trustees approved a "two-pronged" approach that will solve the problem of silt filling a canal in back of people's homes. The canal provides access to Deer Lake. The problem has been so bad that even small boats get stuck in the canal. Residents are also concerned about wildlife.

Residents came before the board a year ago, asking for support. At that time, the board approved preliminary engineering work for the project which includes erosion-control methods and hydraulic dredging. On Tuesday, the board authorized, 6-0, to spend $154,567 for Part I, the erosion repair, within a budget not to exceed $195,000. (Trustee Jeff McGee was absent). That amount was awarded to the lowest bidder, Inland Lakes Landscaping.

MDOT is contributing $74,880, with additional funds to come from Road Commission for Oakland County and Oakland County. The remainder is expected to come from a special assessment district created for residents of Simler Road. Approximately seven to 10 homeowners are affected.

Part II, the dredging project, will be dealt with at a later date, said township engineer Randy Ford. The second phase, contingent on approval from Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, is expected to cost $71,065, within a budget of $90,000 — funded entirely by the residents.

The entire project is estimated at $225,682. Ford said he anticipated the repair work to be completed by fall, with dredging to take place next summer.

Several reasons have been offered for the run-off problem — among them MDOT's widening of Dixie Highway several years ago and surrounding development projects.

RCOC is providing funding because Foster Road — a county dirt road on the other side of the highway — has contributed drainage problems. Until it is paved, problems will continue, board members said. Estimates for the project were discussed by the RCOC two years ago but, so far, he hasn't heard anything, Ford said.

"We think the biggest source of the problem is the storm sewer that runs across Dixie," Ford said, explaining the culvert underneath. During heavy rains, water travels "with so much velocity, it's scouring the banks."

Sediment travels with it, filling up the canal.

Simler Road resident Dan Kelly, whose home abuts the canal, has been a spokesperson for residents' concerns. He was present at the board meeting, and praised Supervisor Dale Stuart for his work in setting up meetings with MDOT and RCOC.

"Dale has done a very good job for us," Kelly said. "He's really taken the lead and pushed this forward."

Additional funding for the dredging may be sought from MDOT, which would take the burden off homeowners. "They are the primary, responsible party," Kelly said of MDOT. "I said to the property owners to call the state rep. — to try to get some contribution from MDOT as well."

However, if that's not possible, "We will bear the expense," he added. All the dirt eventually leads to Deer Lake — which could lead to the much larger project of lake pollution. The problem affects not only lake (lot) owners "but lake users," he noted.

Stuart said he was "very pleased" the program got off the ground, and appreciated homeowners' patience. "I think it's a good example when people are on the same page and work together for a good solution," he said.

Schools study tuning up music program

BY RENEE LUTZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Music was in the air as a formal presentation on the subject in Clarkston Community Schools was presented to the school board July 12.

Pat Brumback, assistant superintendent 9-12 operations and student support services, gave the board details on the current status of the music program at all levels — elementary through high school — and outlined a plan for strengthening the program.

Along with Brumback, Clarkston High School principal John Dilegghio and Cliff Chapman, CHS performing arts K-12 curriculum coordinator and band director, presented the board with ideas as to how the music program can receive more funding, as well as what needs are apparent with the program.

Chapman said in the elementary schools, the ratio of students to teachers needs to be reassessed. At the middle school level, he said the vocal music department is lacking.

Students at CHS are showing great interest in music and band; however, Chapman said not enough instruments and uniforms may be a threat to participation.

Among ideas for revenue sources, Chapman said using receipts from renting the CHS performing arts center, or from professional performances held there were possibilities. He said a reallocation of per pupil funding could be another option for drawing money into the program.

"We would like to bring all things to par, all things equal to students," Chapman said.

Dilegghio stressed interaction between those interested in music and athletes and gave examples of positive group activities in which different interests could be combined.

For example, Dilegghio said he would like to see more athletes attending concerts, and vice versa.

Dr. Al Roberts, superintendent for Clarkston schools, agreed with Dilegghio's notion.

"It's time for football players and band members and cheerleaders to be on the same page, to develop respect and appreciation for each other," Roberts said.

Over the next several months, Brumback said she and Dilegghio and Chapman will continue to present new information on the subject.

She said in August, they will present an inventory of band and orchestra instruments, with a purchase request for additional instruments and uniforms.

City council accepts SAD ordinance

Monday night, the Clarkston city council unanimously approved the second reading of its Special Assessment District ordinance.

The ordinance will take effect 20 days after it is published in The Clarkston News, the city's official newspaper.

The ordinance sets parameters for setting up a special assessment district, something the city's never had before.

Each step in the special assessment process is covered in the ordinance, with one addition from the first reading. The council has to have a two-thirds "yes" vote of all council members before a district can be established.

Kelly resigns from City council

Mike Kelley, one of the newest members of the Clarkston city council, tendered his resignation from the council effective Monday.

In a letter to the council, Kelley explained that he had to resign because he had to change shifts at his job with General Motors, and that his new work schedule would not allow him to attend meetings.

City manager Art Pappas said Kelley's vacancy cannot be filled for 14 days. Mayor Sharron Catallo will nominate someone to fill Kelley's position, and that person has to be voted onto the council by the other members.

Kelley's seat will go up for election on the November ballot, but for only a one-year term.

Springfield Twp. trustee named to State Rep. staff

Elaine Field-Smith, Springfield Township Board trustee and Davisburg resident, was recently appointed by State Rep. Ruth Johnson, R-Holly, to serve as her district legislative aide.

Field-Smith first met Johnson at a township meeting when Johnson was a county commissioner, and is a third generation public servant. Her mother, father and grandfather also served in office, as trustees, town clerks and a justice of the peace.

As part of her duties, Field-Smith will keep Johnson in touch with local officials and area residents. In addition, an office will be set up in the fall for she and Johnson to meet with community members once a week.

"I'm very excited and I want to do a good job for Ruth," Field-Smith said.

A glimpse into the past...

Catching a glimpse of a piece of history is worth the wait. And so is waiting to buy it.

Almost an hour prior to the start of the Ellis family estate sale July 16, anxious shoppers stood outside the front doors to the family homestead. The second estate sale to take place at the property, located off of Dixie Highway just north of the I-75 interchange, drew close to 100 locals and others interested in the family's heirlooms.

Dorothy K. Ellis, granddaughter of the late Norman J. Ellis, founder of the estate, said the house and its wares hold many memories for the family. Several pieces are very important to her past.

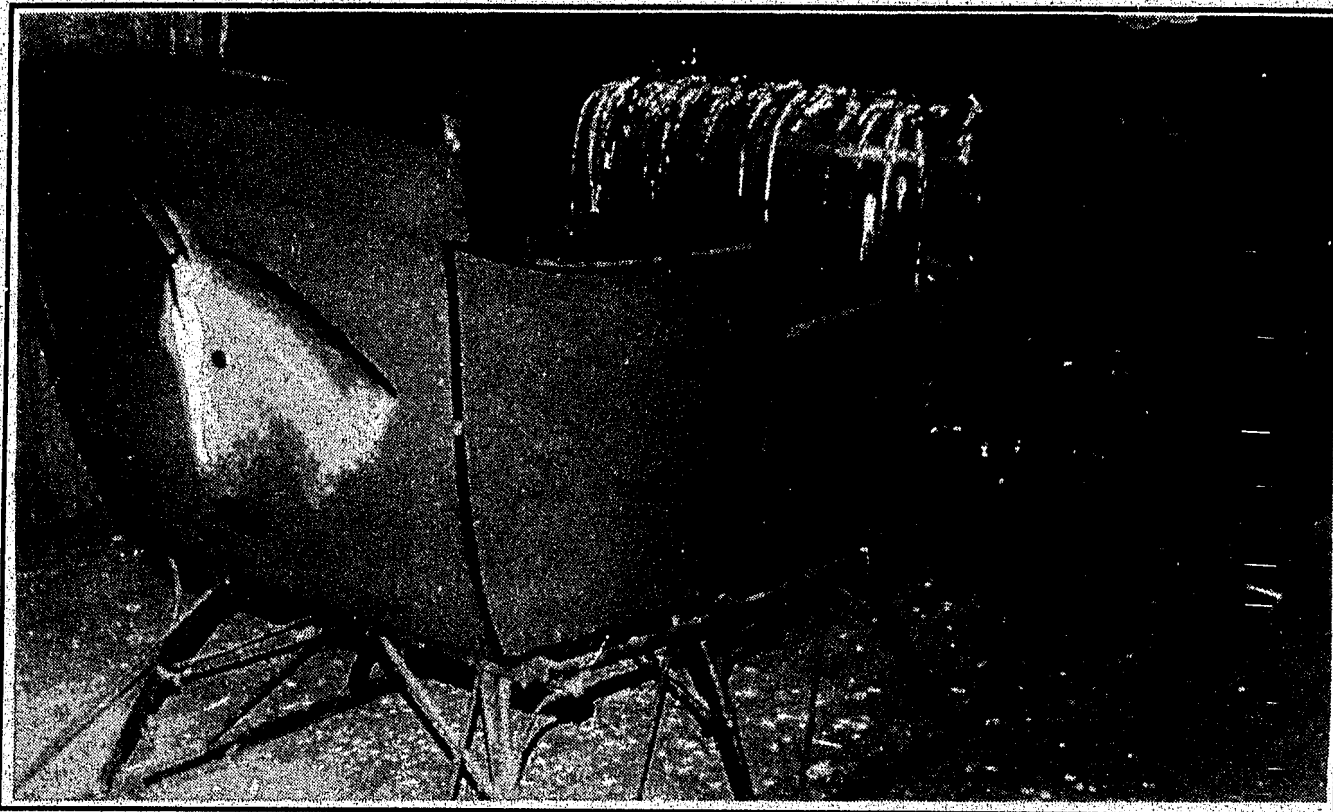

For example, two portraits dating back to the early 1900's of Detroit Belgian Consulate members (whose names have since been forgotten) evoke memories. The consulates took care of mother, Mabel, since she was 12, after Mabel's mother died.

Her daughter-in-law's graduation dress from Clarkston High School in 1926, a daybed used by house servants, and books her grandfather used to read were just a sampling of items for sale beginning Friday morning.

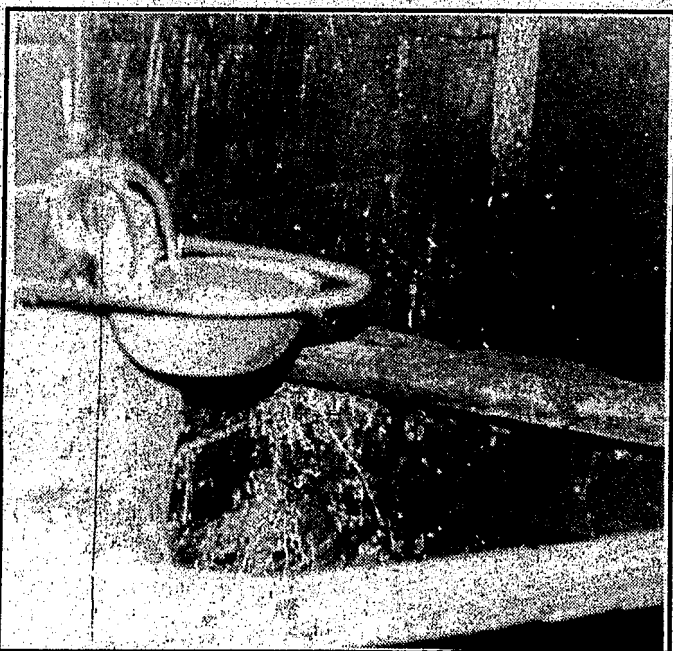

Also included in the estate sale were horse and tack items from the Ellis' barn.

The Ellis family home, built in 1883, neighboring barn — which is about 125 years old, according to Jim Ellis, Dorothy's son — and remaining acreage has been sold to developer Tim Birtsas for re-development.

Birtsas will present a site plan for the 59 acres of property to the Springfield Township board in the coming weeks. He said hopes to use the barn and house in his site plan for a new shopping center.

(Above) The upper level of the barn holds this sleigh and a breaking cart, both used by the Ellis family for hauling hay and other materials. "This was a pretty well thought out operation, 100 years ago," said Jim Ellis, great-grandson of the farm's original owner, Norman J. Ellis.

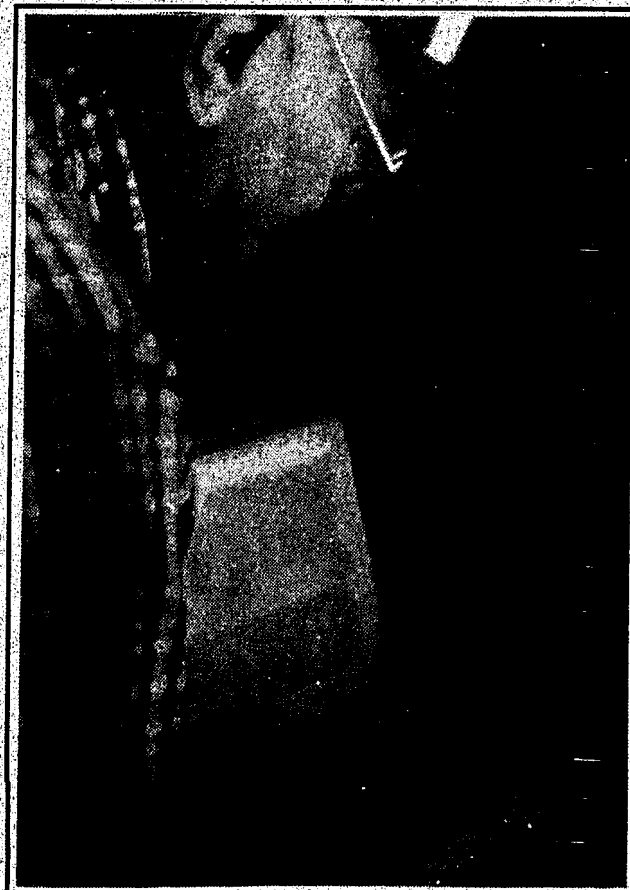

(Above) This drinking fountain was used by horses at the Ellis farm stables for decades. The fountain was activated by the horse pushing on the handle with its nuzzle.

(Above) These bridles were once used by horses kept at the Ellis' barn, located in Springfield Township. Jim Ellis said many horses competed in professional riding shows, in which several generations of the Ellis family participated.

(Above) Among the antiques at the July 16 estate sale at the Ellis family homestead in Springfield Township was this set of early 1900's silver.

(Right) Wallace Smith of Clarkston examines the detail of a Bible dated 1857 at the Ellis family estate sale July 16 in Springfield Township. "I like to look for old books like that," Smith said.

Clarkston's Lynn makes Div. I all-state tennis team

David Lynn, a Clarkston resident and junior at Birmingham Brother Rice High School, was named by the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association to the Division I Singles All State Team.

Lynn has been a state finalist in Division I singles each of his first two seasons with the Warriors, falling short of the state title each time.

Lynn was one of six Oakland County players to be named First-Team All-State, out of the 17 total that were named. Lynn's teammates Sean Cafemeyer and Justin Smith were also named First-Team All-State in Division I Doubles.

Rams win AABC baseball district

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Michigan Rams baseball team is making sure its last chance is its best chance.

The Rams won their second straight tournament last weekend, capturing the AABC district tournament in Saginaw, winning two of the five games with two outs in the seventh inning.

The team capped its weekend with a dramatic 6-5 win over Bay City Hagen Ford. Dave Alexander singled home George Maroulitsas with the game-winning run.

Clarkston's Eric Jenks and Jason Pawlak shared the win, allowing a total of seven hits in the game.

Coach George Drallos said this is the best he's ever seen the team play.

"We've won 13 of our last 14 games, and in that time, our competition's gotten tougher," he said. "A lot of these guys have played together for the past six, seven years, and they know this is their last shot together. Next year, they will all be going their separate ways and they want to make this count."

The Rams opened the districts with a 5-4 squeaker over the Ontario

Seahawks.

Game two was all Rams, as they pounded Damon's of Grand Blanc 13-0. Clarkston's John Drallos knocked in two runs, while Jenks, Spencer Hynes and Chris Mitchell each had two hits and a run batted in.

There was more drama in game three, as the Rams beat the Grand Rapids A's 5-4. The A's finished seventh in the nation last summer. Mitchell led the attack with three hits while holding the A's to just eight hits in the complete

The Oxford American Legion baseball team shows its joy after its league championship win over Auburn Hills. The team now heads to the American Legion Regional Tournament Aug. 3-5 at the University of Toledo.

American Legion championship win sends Clarkston and Oxford baseball players to regionals

BY JACK LEECH

Special to The Clarkston News

The Oxford Legion Post clinched the championship of the Oakland County American Legion League with a two-game sweep over the Auburn Hills Post at Avondale High School Sunday.

The win sends the 18 and under team, varsity baseball players from Oxford and Clarkston high schools, to the National Amateur Baseball Federation regional tournament August 3-5 at the University of Toledo.

The Oxford Post took their host Auburn Hills by 10-4 and 5-4 margins. In the first game, pitcher Ryan Marino went the distance to collect the win.

Marino gave up a three-run homer in the first inning then settled down to scatter only three more hits, quieting the Auburn Hills offense. Meanwhile, the Oxford offense went into high gear in the second inning, exploding for six runs.

Run scorers were Nate Jerdon (2) Adam Leech, (2), Mike Simko (2) and Bret Gove, all of Clarkston. Pat Jacobi and Bobby Schmidt scored a run each from the Oxford High School varsity players.

In the second contest, Jerdon pitched three innings and was relieved in the fourth by Leech. Leech shut down the Auburn Hills threat in that stanza, entering the game with two runners in scoring position. In just three pitches he retired the side, giving up only one more hit for the save and the win.

With the score tied in the bottom of the 7th inning, Jerdon walked, was sacrificed to second by Alan Weber's bunt, stole third base and dashed home on a wild pitch to end the game. Ryan Marino was two-for-two at the plate leading Oxford hitters.

The team ends regular season play with a 14-4 record, topping both the Milford and Berkley posts' teams by just one game.

Highlights of the season included Jacobi slugging for a .404 batting average, 16 RBI and four home runs. Marino went 5-1 on the mound with a stingy 1.51 ERA and 27 strikeouts.

A regional win in Toledo could lead the Oxford Post squad to the Baseball Federation World Series in mid-August.

Clarkston Middle School 7th grader Lauren Little was one of 128 girls competing in the United States Tennis Association National Hardcourt Championships for girls 12 and under in Georgia July 9 to 15. Lauren, who competes all over the U.S., completed six rounds to reach the semi-finals. She said she enjoyed the experience and the competition. She intends to play for Clarkston High School and in college in the future. Lauren is the daughter of Tracey and Chris Little of Clarkston.

game victory, sharing the win with Jenks.

Game four saw the Rams once again hold off the Seahawks, this time by an 11-7 score. Drallos had two hits and two RBI, while Mitchell led the way with a triple and four runs batted in.

The Rams now head to the North Central AABC Regionals in Battle Creek starting Wednesday. The double-elimination tournament groups the top 16 teams from Michigan, as well as Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana, Ohio and Canada. The winner of this tournament advances to the NAABC World Series in New Mexico.

George Drallos said team chemistry has been another key ingredient in its recent 13-1 streak.

"These guys are not only talented, but they know how to win," he said. "The chemistry is there. The Clarkston and Lake Orion guys (Steve Seargeant and Tim Clouse) are all hitting over .450 on the season. They've been together for a long time, and they can sense it."

In the middle of a Hall-of-Fame type of season

On both the local and national levels, Halls of Fame are taking center stage.

■ We begin locally with the selection of Clarkston's A.J. Grant as this year's David Schultz High School Excellence Award winner for the state of Michigan. This award, presented in memory of the late Olympic wrestling champion, goes to one high school wrestler in each state each year. The award is based upon athletic, scholastic and community achievement.

What does that mean? It means that A.J. was chosen to be the best wrestler in the state of Michigan this year, regardless of high school age or weight class, and I can't think of a more deserving athlete than A.J. He was a fine example of what a good work ethic, leadership, and excellence are all about in sports.

This is an award which truly fits how good A.J. was in his high school career. He never measured himself by how well he did against certain opponents, but against his own standards. Even if he won a match 6-3, against a quality opponent, I can still clearly see a frustrated A.J. stomping off the mat, almost upset at the victory.

But after that frustration, he would be on the edge of his seat, yelling, cheering, and encouraging his teammates, often yelling louder than the coaches.

A.J. has been a treat to cover for his three seasons, but I wish I had seen him compete more. He is sure to have a brilliant future in front of him at the University of Michigan, hopefully as bright as his past was at Clarkston High School.

In The Penalty Box

with Brad Monastiere

■ Last weekend, the baseball world paused to salute three Hall of Fame inductees: Nolan Ryan, Robin Yount and George Brett.

I watched all the speeches, but was most impressed by Brett's.

It's not often in this world that a man allows his deep emotions to be shown in public, but that's what Brett did. His voice was noticeably shaking when he was giving his speech, and thanking his family, particularly his brothers, for their help in his career.

George's brother Ken toiled for the California Angels for years in the 1970's, and did not have the type of career his brother had. George, the younger of the two, talked about always looking up to his older brother and just wanting to be like him.

This kind of humility and perspective is quite refreshing, especially in the sport of baseball, where it's known that professional players are among the more arrogant pro athletes to deal with, for people in my profession, as well as the fans.

This goes back to the character Brett has. Here's a guy who spent his entire career with one team - the Kansas City Royals - and played the game with passion and determination every step of the way. I'm sure there were points he could have left the Royals for a bigger paycheck in New York or Los Angeles, but he stayed true to his baseball roots and completed his career with the same team he started.

In 1993, his final in the majors, I got to see him play at Tiger Stadium. He hit two home runs, and the fans gave him a standing ovation after the second. At first, I was reluctant to stand and cheer an opposing player, but then I considered all the good things he has contributed to the game of baseball, and joined the fans in the stand-up cheer.

■ Another reason why the sports world and the real world are unrelated: Lawrence Phillips signs an incentive-laden, two-year contract with the San Francisco 49ers.

In an amazing turn of events, Phillips seemed to go from America's Most Wanted, to America's Most Wanted free agent running back.

The fact that this guy is getting yet another chance to play in the NFL shows that no matter who you are, if you can run a 4.5 40 and rush for 1,000 yards in a minor football league (NFL Europe), you will get a job somewhere.

I can understand a player getting a second chance after one slip up, or one run in with the law. After all, we are not perfect, and even mistakes of a criminal nature can be excused in some cases.

But Phillips has consistently shown a blatant disregard for the laws of society, his obligations as a football player, and worst of all, disrespect towards women.

He was arrested three times in 19 months during his stint with the St. Louis Rams, and has been brought up on two charges involving hitting women, pleading no contest to one of those charges. Rams coach Dick Vermeil, who risked a first-round pick on Phillips in 1996, was in tears the day he had to cut him, because he knew he didn't have a choice.

A month later, he was signed by the Miami Dolphins, who haven't had a running game since the Nixon Administration, and managed to get cut from that team as well.

The 49ers used to represent the class of the NFL in terms of on-the-field excellence and off-the-field drafting that turned the franchise into the NFL's best since 1981. But recent accusations of dirty play, salary cap circumvention, and a gambling scandal by its former owner, Ed DeBartelo, have tainted this once-proud franchise. The signing of this habitual criminal only adds to it, and it's sad to see. Players with the class of Steve Young and Jerry Rice deserve better than Lawrence Phillips on their team.

Undefeated champs!

Clarkston Auto Wash boys 9-10 years old baseball team went undefeated in the regular season in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation baseball league. The team compiled a 10-0 record in the league, and 16-1 overall. Coach John Ogg said the team's success is due to hard work and dedication to the game by the players. Thursday, the team captured the championship with a 10-6 win over the Watson Group. PACE schedule announced for 1999-00

One of the most popular educational services offered by the Michigan High School Athletic Association is PACE – the Program of Athletic Coaches' Education, which is co-sponsored with the Youth Sports Institute at Michigan State University and the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association.

The 1999-00 schedule includes seven single-day Level I programs; five one-day Level II seminars; six two-day Level I programs; and three two-day Level II programs. The two-day programs meet on Monday-Wednesday within the same week. Last year, 845 coaches attended the program.

Among the PACE venues are workshops scheduled at major meetings of statewide coaches and athletic administrator associations. During 1999-00, PACE Level I and II programming will again be offered at the fall meeting of the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan, the winter meeting of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association, and in conjunction with the MHSAA's Women in Sports Leadership Conference.

"We continue to receive excellent cooperation from allied groups which integrate PACE workshops into their major annual meeting programs," said Jerry Cvengros, MHSAA Associate Director and coordinator of PACE from the Association office. "PACE continues to be one of the most popular services the MHSAA offers to the coaching community."

Cvengros adds that PACE continues its popularity because it teaches the game outside the line – teaching much more than game strategies. "We see whole coaching staffs, sometimes veteran coaching staffs, enrolling in the program because the coaching environment has changed so much in recent years. Many schools are requiring attendance at PACE as a condition of employment for its new coaches, be they faculty or non-faculty. More colleges and universities now include enrollment in PACE as part of their undergraduate coaching curriculums."

PACE provides training in legal responsibilities, prevention and care of sports injuries, physical conditioning, planning and evaluating instruction, motivation of student-athletes, positive coaching and MHSAA regulations.

Registration for PACE is $50 per individual for the single-day, Level I seminars, and those who complete Level I may register for Level II at a cost of $25 each. The four-week seminars are $75 per individual, or $60 if five or more coaches from the same school system enroll at the same site. For more information, contact the MHSAA at 1661 Ramblewood Drive, East Lansing, MI 48823. Telephone: 517/332-5046. E-Mail: meetings@mhsaa.com.

The MHSAA is a private, not-for-profit corporation of voluntary membership by over 1,300 public and private senior high schools and junior high/middle schools which exists to develop common rules for athletic eligibility and competition. No government funds or tax dollars support the MHSAA, which was the first such association nationally to not accept membership dues or tournament entry fees from schools. Member schools which enforce these rules are permitted to participate in MHSAA tournaments conducted in 12 sports for girls and 12 sports for boys which attract approximately 1.3 million spectators each year.

"I never felt deprived!"
Pat Carley
after hypnosis

My name is Patricia Carley. I'm a civil servant, homemaker and grandmother. Amazing as it seems, I lost 105 lbs. of fat with hypnosis. It was easy and fun. This is my true story.

By Pat Carley

I came into the world at five pounds. I was overweight from there.

With a name like Pat, which rhymes with fat, I was the brunt of cruel jokes. I had no friends. Never developed self-esteem. Confidence was zero. I would gaze in the mirror, tears in my eyes, asking, 'Why me? Why am I so fat? Why can't I be normal?'

The Diet Rollercoaster

I went on every crazy weight loss scheme. Tried the grapefruit, egg, special soup, all protein, all vegetable, only starch, high fiber and all fruit diets. Spent a fortune on tasteless prepackaged food. Went to support groups. Starved on protein shakes. I even guzzled down straight vinegar praying it would help me lose weight. The result was always the same. I'd lose weight slowly then quickly gain it back plus more. I was ashamed and embarrassed.

Instant Results

I was amazed by the change after my first hypnosis session. My brain got the message to zap my appetite. Hypnosis gave me instant control over my eating habits. My cravings came to a dead-halt stop. Binges dissolved. My confidence and self-esteem soared. My fat melted off at an average 3.5 pounds a week.

I received so many benefits from hypnosis, I could write a book. No more headaches, cravings, binges, bloating or weight gain. I'm more confident at work. I feel alive, vibrant, active and energetic. I'm in tune with my feelings. I have never felt better emotionally, mentally and physically.

Losing my weight with hypnosis is the best experience I ever had. It worked for me. I know it can work for you. Call now to schedule your free screening. It won't cost you one penny to find out if hypnosis is for you. I guarantee you'll get no high-pressure sales talk. Just low rates, excellent service and a program that works.

Don't think I'm an isolated case either. Just read what a few other folks have to say about their results. Then you be the judge.

20 Lbs. in 12 Weeks

"I lost 20 lbs. in twelve short weeks with hypnosis. My weight loss was quick and easy. I lost 8 lbs. the first week. The great part about hypnosis is there are so many benefits. It's like I changed my life and the side effect is the weight melting off my body. It's that easy. I recommend hypnosis to anyone who wants to get off the diet rollercoaster forever."

"Thanks to hypnosis I have been a non-smoker for two years! I stopped instantly. The easiest way to go is hypnosis!"

Father & Daughter Lose Weight Together

"I lost 12 lbs. in 4-1/2 weeks. It's effortless. Hypnosis eliminated my cravings for junk food. Hypnosis made my new eating habits automatic!"

Frank Rachubka,
Retired Air Force

"I was overweight since eighth grade. I hid myself under baggy clothes. Then I lost 34 pounds with hypnosis! I went from a size 18 to trim size 10. I thought losing weight would be hard. Hypnosis made it easy! I no longer have to hide anything about myself"
