City remains stagnant on water issue

BY RENEE WIGHTMAN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

City officials are still debating whether a water main should be installed through downtown Clarkston.

Despite new information given at a special meeting Thursday night, council members are at a standstill as to a decision.

Dennis Neiman, senior partner at Miller Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C., advised council on financing the project. Restrictions and benefits of choosing either general obligation bonds, setting up a special assessment district, or a combination of both were explained.

"The most common method is to special assess. It's your call," he said. "I'm a believer in special assessments."

With special assessments, a certain area is defined as a special assessment district, or SAD, which is taxed for a certain feature they benefit from in their area. General obligation bonds are given to the city each year and are distributed according to need.

Council woman Anne Clifton showed interest in combining general obligation bonds with the SAD plan.

"It can be done. You could do it, but the question is, should you do it. It's up to you," Neiman said. "There's no limitations on your ability to mix and match."

Councilman Dan Colombo asked how much in general obligation bonds could be used.

"We have a lot of residents who would want to tie in to this system. As time goes by, it would probably be higher," Colombo said. "We want to sell this one time; we don't want to sell it several times down the road."

Clifton agreed.

"We want this to be equitable," she said.

Council also expressed concern about their decision affecting the survival of downtown businesses, since they would be taxed a great deal more than Main Street residents.

"We'll create a hardship for them. The cost to them is astronomical," Mayor Sharron Catalo said.

For example, with use of the SAD, the Clarkston Cafe on Main Street would pay around $19,000 per year in taxes to the city, based on its 18 REUs (Residential Equivalent Unit). One REU is equal to the amount of water a single-family home uses in a given year.

Councilman Dave Savage emphasized how conflicts would likely occur between installing the water main and revitalizing the downtown area, a concern brought forward at prior council meetings on the subject.

"This would be a significant burden for businesses. It would harm our other (revitalization) program," Savage said.

Councilman Walt Gamble added, "We could put Township closer to master plan adoption

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township's long-awaited master plan is nearing completion.

At the Aug. 26 planning commission meeting, Township Planner Dick Carlisle briefly summarized some results from last month's joint planning workshop between the planning commission and board of trustees.

Plans call for the revised master plan to incorporate objectives and goals of the Vision 2020 Strategic Plan, a planning guide for the future. During the workshop, several possible new land use categories were also introduced.

Carlisle said a few items still cause concern, including the land east of Pine Knob, which includes the Clintonville-Pine Knob-Clarkston roads area. He has urged township officials to consider the impact Pine Knob (which includes the music theater, golf course,

Phase I underway for new POH medical campus

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital has begun cleaning a 50-acre site at the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway to prepare for its new Clarkston Medical Campus.

Phase I plans call for the development of four new projects. A 60-unit assisted living complex is designed for senior citizens who need help with basic care needs. Two special care units will provide assistance and treatment for up to 40 patients with dementia-related illnesses and Alzheimer's disease. The fourth project is a new medical office which will house specialty physicians for the POH system.

"It will take approximately three weeks to clear the site," said Ann-Marie D. Morris, coordinator of marketing and public relations for POH. "The anticipated completion of the assisted living and special care units is fall of 2000. The anticipated completion date of the medical office is December 2000 or January 2001."

Until Phase I is underway, details about Phase II will not be announced, Morris said.

The News in Brief

Walters Road paving will continue through Sept.

In a recent press release, the Road Commission for Oakland County has announced that paving of Walters Road from Waldon to Flemings Lake Road will not be completed until the end of September.

Great Escape! fire drill scheduled for Oct. 6

As part of Fire Prevention Week Oct. 3-9, Springfield Township Fire Department will participate in the nationwide Great Escape! fire drill Oct. 6 beginning at 7 p.m.

The drill, designed to help people establish a home fire escape plan, will take place at the Springfield Twp. Fire Dept. The event was originated by the National Fire Protection Association and had close to 250,000 participants last year.

Charlie Oaks, Springfield Twp. Fire Dept. chief, said in a recent press release the drill is important for people to take part in because it gives them a true idea of the situation they could face in the event of a house fire.

"Most people underestimate fire's power and speed. In the best case, you only have just one or two minutes to escape a typical home fire safely," he said.

Those interested can pick up the necessary materials at the fire department. Students in local schools also will be receiving information on the drill in coming weeks.

Clarkston Crafts and Cider Festival kicks off Sept. 18

More than 100 artisans and crafters will exhibit their work at the festival, which takes place at Depot Park, located at the intersection of Main Street and Depot Road. The festival will be open each day from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Also during the weekend, face painting and sand art for kids, plus cider, donuts, gourmet caramel corn and roasted almonds will be featured.

Admission to the festival is free. For more information, contact Jennifer Arkwright at (248) 922-3757.

Renaissance men

Clarkston residents ham it up at 1599 festival in Hollygrove

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

D.J. Parkin and Jarod Yax are dashing, to be sure -- that is, if you like your men 1500s style.

The two Clarkston 21-year-olds are having the time of their lives in this year's Michigan Renaissance Festival.

The auburn-haired, freckled Parkin, a 1996 Clarkston High School graduate, changes from body puppet to human marionette to Irish rover during the course of the festival, which runs to the end of September.

The darker Yax, of German descent -- and Parkin's roommate in Clarkston as well as Grand Valley State College in Grand Rapids, where both are seniors -- also delights in the spirited foray. Like Parkin, he frequently dons a monstrous body puppet suit and cheerfully admits he enjoys it -- even in the most sweltering of temperatures.

Those are the tall, imposing figures of lords, ladies and other Renaissance characters. Actors hoist the puppets high from inside the costumes.

On an 80-degree day, "the heat index gets to be about 100 degrees inside," Yax says on a recent Sunday, where there was a gentle breeze and patrons wished they'd brought sweaters. The day before it was scorching. "It could have been 110 (inside the costumes)."

On cooler days, toward the end of September, "They're nice and warm Everybody wants to get in them," Parkin adds.

Both are members of festival acting troupes, The Hazelhurst Players, who assume a variety of roles each weekend. The group formed last year. "Up to last year, we were known as a body puppet troupe," Parkin says. "You only knew us by our shoes."

The Hazelhurst Players are where the two actors truly get a chance to shine. "The story behind it is we were exiled from Hazelhurst, a village down the road (from Hollygrove, the fictitious location of the Renaissance Festival). It has to do with the mayor's daughter," says Parkin, with a mischievous smile.

On Sunday, a few of the Players assembled on the stage of Lyttle Globe Stage, near the Children's Dell, to perform "Captain Bill and the Pirate Horde." It's a dizzy tale where a queen (who wears what looks like a Burger King crown) is captured by an evil Sea Witch. A bawdy group of pirates sets sail to rescue her.

They sway with sea-sickness and it gives them a chance to say "Arrrrgh!" alot. Parkin and Yax whoop it up.

"It's basically a group following the captain around, being redundant in saying, "We're glad to be part of the pirate horde," Parkin explains.

The two also have a show later in the day, a spoof of the Royal Family which includes Queen Eleanor Warwick and King James Dundas. They each choose one character to mimic. This takes place at the Royal Dias near the Jousting Field.

In addition to the above, Yax dons a troll mask, playing the character silently. "It's kind of creepy, but little kids have fun with it. I just walk around and peer at people. Sometimes I hide behind people."

As a human marionette, Parkin has strings and is controlled by another human. His face made up as "Satan" or "Beelzebub," as he puts it, for a morality play -- a popular form of theater during the Renaissance era. The other character is "Jolie," a doll.

Morality plays were just that -- designed to teach a lesson or moral, Parkin says. This particular play is "about temptation and struggle. Most are not intended to be humorous, but we make it humorous."

Afterward, his face still painted, Parkin says he likes to take Satan one step further. "I go up to people and say, 'So ... would you like to make a deal?'"

The two also provide a variety of accents. "I generally talk with an English accent," says Yax. "People don't understand (the German accent)."

Parkin talks with four different accents: Irish, Scottish, Italian and English. Impishly, he provides some examples. For Italian, "It's really a much softer tone -- and you have to think of pizza." British is "a snotty accent; the royalty thing of being stuck up. You use more pure vowels."

Scottish and Irish are similar, but Scottish is "a low, droning, spitting kind of accent." With Irish, you simply "think of Lucky Charms."

Yax, who plans to become a history teacher once he graduates from Grand Valley, was a stage manager in high school. He quips, "The Lord sent me to learn the work of the Hazelhurst Players."

Parkin, who hopes to teach high school English and drama, says this year the festival is concentrating on the Renaissance year 1599. Next year, the sixteenth century will start all over again with 1500. While guests enjoy all the bawdiness, the period is very authentic.

Groups such as the Hazelhurst Players represent different classes at the time. Two other examples are the Royal Family and the Mummers, a group of peasants in tattered togs. The Royal Family's opposites are the Vulgarians. "Basically, their whole plot is evil," Parkin says.

There are "characters from all over Europe" and other continents, he adds, mentioning Spain, Scotland, Arabia, Africa, England and Ireland.

There are no special requirements to become a character, although you should have some acting experience. Auditions "are all improv," Parkin says.

As part of their auditions, the men had to tell the story of "Little Red Riding Hood" in their own way. The story was told by several people. Each person told a part where the other person left off.

This is Yax' first year, but Parkin has spent the past five years at the festival. He started working summers when he was a student at Clarkston High School, where he was heavily involved in the Drama Club.

CHS Director of Theater Jeff Tice remembers Parkin as "an outstanding performer, an outstanding young man, very dedicated to the art."

Parkin starred in a variety of plays and musicals, including "The Outsiders" and "The Music Man." He was also a member of the Clarkston Madrigals.

Everest Academy provides strong learning environment

BY RENEE WIGHTMAN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the year 2006, Everest Academy will send out into the world its very first graduating class of students.

Eighth graders in 2001 will become members of the academy's first freshman class in 2002, and then in 2003, the first group of sophomores, and so on until they become the school's first grads in 2006.

The academy, nestled in the woods off Clarkston Road west of Sashabaw, currently teaches only pre-school through eighth grades. But due to enrollment increases since opening in 1992, administrators at the school believe it's time for additions to be made.

Enrollment has increased 30 percent each year for the past three years, said Richard Cross, director of boys for the academy. The school's long-term projection for enrollment is 1,600 students, he said.

Aside from plans for the high school, another building is now under construction to house girls' classes and serve as an administration building, Cross said.

Maura Plante, director of admissions for Everest, said when she began working at the school in 1993, only 37 students attended.

"We've seen a lot of growth," she said.

Currently, 440 students are enrolled in classes. There also are 12 "border" students, who attend classes from September to June and come from Mexico and South America, Plante said.

The school cornerstone was taken to Rome to be blessed by Pope John Paul II prior to opening. The school focuses on rigorous academic and foreign language study. Its crest is engraved with the words "Semper Altius" -- meaning "Always Higher" in Latin, Plante said.

Everest is an independent Catholic school, not supported by a parish and directed by the Legionaries of Christ. Tuition for the 1999-2000 year ranges from Heather Bradley, an instructor at Everest Academy, reads a Winnie-The-Pooh book to her group of kindergarten students Wednesday morning.

$1,850 for preschool (two half days) to $3,950 for lower (grades 1-4) and middle (grades 5-8) school, full tuition.

The school is situated on 96 acres, 40 of which hold the campus. The two main buildings house the main school and a dormitory for international students, Cross said.

In addition, students have access to a computer lab, Spanish language lab and two gymnasiums. With 40 staff members, the student to teacher ratio is 10-1

Shepherd's Hollow to welcome golfers next summer

BY RENEE WIGHTMAN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Standing on the site of his latest development brings Mike Bylen a great sense of peace.

Shepherd's Hollow Golf Club, located at the Colombiere Center off Clark Road in Springfield Township, is slated to open to hundreds of golfers beginning July 1, 2000, said Bylen, a Rochester resident who builds and operates golf courses. The club is situated on 350 acres and is nestled in by an abundance of white pines, spruce trees and other wildlife.

"The idea is to keep it as natural as possible," he said of the club, which will be open to the public. Fees to golf daily or for other passes have not yet been established.

"It's a special place. Every time I come here, I feel more peaceful."

The club will feature a 10,000 square foot clubhouse, with restaurant, pro shop and locker rooms.

"Everything you need for golf," Bylen said.

The project was proposed to Bylen in July 1997 by members of the Detroit Province of the Society of Jesus at Colombiere Center. By November, a lease agreement was reached between the two parties.

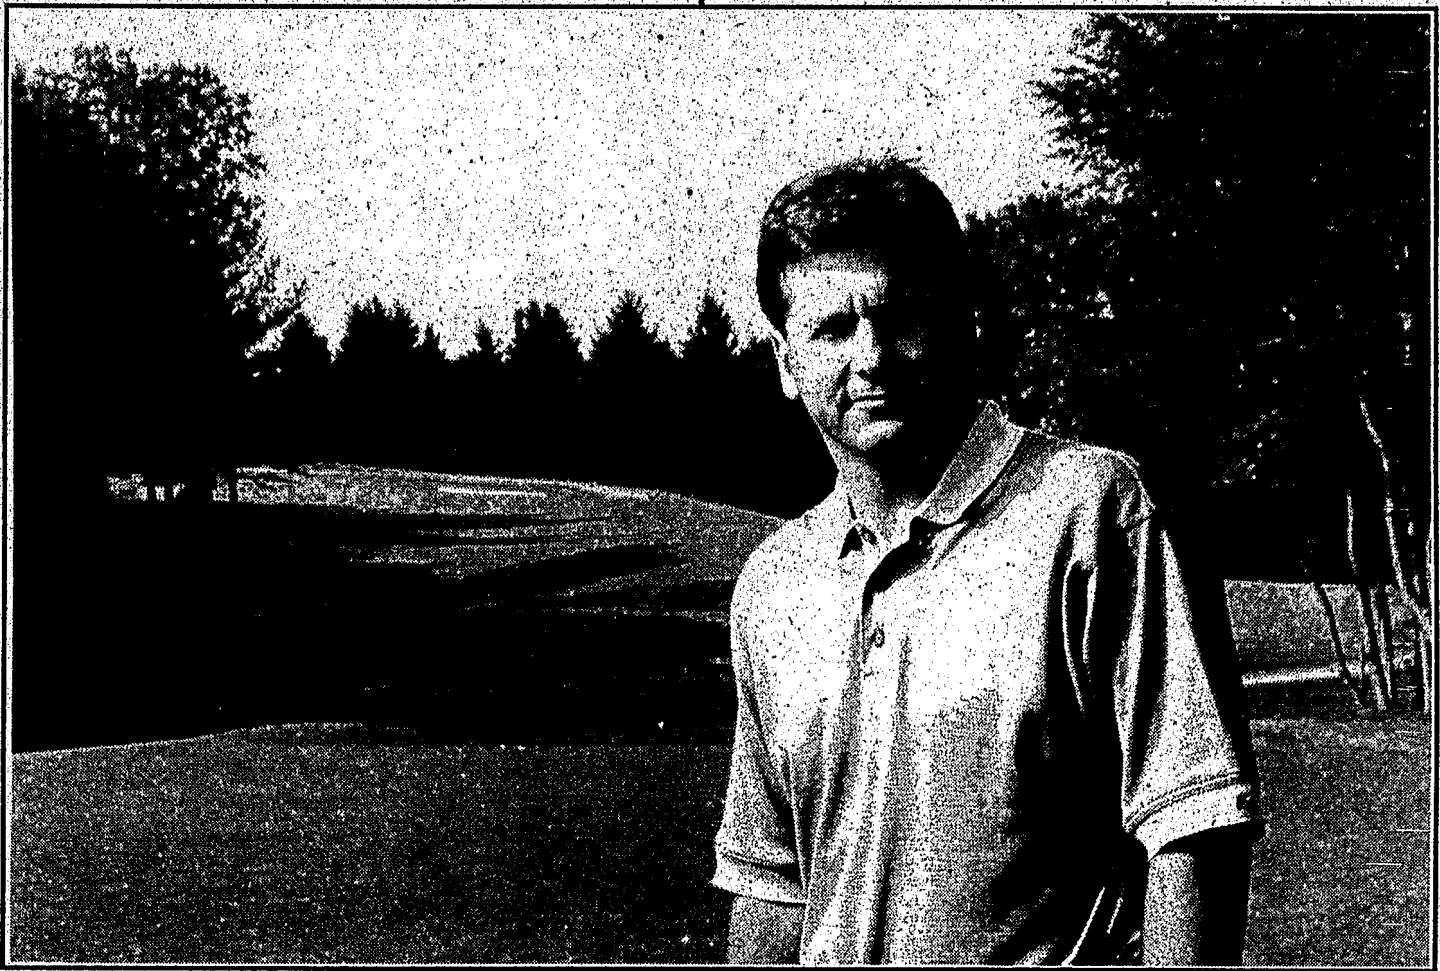

The proposal was then presented to the Springfield Township board of trustees in January 1998. After several visits to the board, Phase II of the site plan for the course received board approval at the June 10 board meeting.

Bylen said the Jesuit leaders had considered developing homes on the land, after an earlier agreement with another golf course developer failed. However, the decision was made to give the golf project

City needs to move forward on water issue

The Clarkston city council has known for years that the city would be faced with supplying clean water to its residents at some point.

The cost to install a water main on Main Street to hook up with Independence Township water has doubled since a 1994 estimate of $2.2 million.

The cost is sure to continue to rise, as will the risk of contamination to wells. Working with MDOT in the revitalization project will reduce some of the costs.

The most important issue is the health of the city's residents, a point vocalized by Mayor Sharron Catalo at a city council meeting earlier this summer.

Concerns voiced by city council members at last Thursday's special meeting that the township would be unsympathetic to their needs are unfounded.

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart indicated in a July 7, 1999 Clarkston News article that the township would work with the city.

The only question to be answered should be how, not when. MKC

Letters To The Editor

Walters Road safety path not long enough

Dear Editor,

Will it take the death of a child before the school officials respond to our safety needs?

Walters Road residents have been asking for help from the school board, township, and Oakland County Sheriff Department to control speeding since the new high school opened.

The OCSB informed me they have taken action in patrolling on a daily basis. The township is putting in a safety path on Walters Road up to the school property line leaving two-thirds of the street with no safe path for bicyclists or walkers.

The school board says they care about the quality of education but how about the safety of students by providing a safe passage from the southeast end of the high school's property to the front door?

Does our school board promote driving as opposed to walking to school? We've noticed there are more students walking home than walking to school. We believe if a safe path were constructed, walking or bicycling to school would be more popular, healthier, and safer.

Sincerely,
Dave and Margaret Provenzano

Legislating penalties for disruptive students

The school year has barely begun in some states and already national news coverage is highlighting students who are in trouble. Putnam County, Florida is the spotlight because two male students (who are in a school for troubled kids) were accused of plotting to return to their former high school and to attack former classmates and teachers.

This is a sad story, to be sure, but the case is striking because the arrest of the two boys was largely based on a drawing one of them had made. No weapons or supporting evidence of a plot have been found other than the student's drawing and verbal comments.

Of course I have no idea whether or not these boys were serious. But the story does underscore the fact that in today's school climate there is no tolerance for off-hand threats, jokes, inappropriate "art" or careless comments about harming people. There are stories all over Michigan about kids who thought they were being funny when they phoned in a bomb threat, scrawled graffiti, or wrote a threatening note. Some of these kids have ended up in the courtroom and others are on probation for their "comic" behavior.

Are we coming down too hard on kids? Is the community overreacting? I don't know, but I can tell you that the Michigan Legislature worked quickly this summer to pass a Safe Schools Amendment that took effect July 6. This amendment mandates expulsion up to 180 days for students in sixth grade or above for "physical assaults" or "verbal assaults" at school against other students, school district employees, volunteers, and contractors.

In addition, the amendment gives classroom teachers the right to suspend students up to one day without agreement of administrators. By law, these provisions are now part of Clarkston Community Schools' policy.

On the surface these changes seem correct. Few people would argue that we need to be tough on crime, especially in light of the alarming behavior of some students. But I maintain that expulsion as a remedy only sets these kids loose on society. We can and should find better ways to deal with young offenders.

I'm not suggesting that they go to school with other kids or put people in harm's way, but we must find better alternatives than expulsion. If you think about it, expulsion actually lets youngsters off the hook, and sets them free to create havoc in the community at large. Does anyone really believe that a youngster who fails to comply with school rules (under the supervision of a school full of adults) will miraculously follow the laws of the land while unsupervised and free to roam?

I know that good alternative programs require time and money. In my opinion, dollars are better spent on modifying behavior than on building more prisons for adults who never learned how to behave when they were young.

My other concern about this legislation is that I'm simply not ready to give up on a sixth grader - an eleven-year-old! Throwing him or her out of school is a 1950's solution to a 1990's problem. It provides little opportunity to see that these children get the right message and are rehabilitated.

Shouldn't schools be creating programs such as the "discipline academy" suggested in the legislative mandate? Keeping kids supervised and learning is certainly better than the alternative. Of course, the legislature has provided no funding for such programs, and I'm not holding my breath.

No need for a traffic cop here

I believe I pointed the same thing out last year at about this time, but it's worth saying again. For all those who were not yet attending Clarkston High School and have wormed their way in now: yes, there are other stairwells.

Every freshman has by now found the main stairway. And only that. The result is a royal mess in the middle of the hall, with traffic at a standstill for much of the passing time.

It brings me back to my days at the old high school, where every minor intersection was just as crowded.

Now, I'm not an ogre. If the main stairs are the most convenient for you, then use them by all means. But I know this is not always the case, and there are some of you sneaking onto it simply because you don't know better.

So once and for all (class of 2004, hark, for I don't wish to repeat myself again), the two secondary stairwells are located inside the student entrance vestibule and across from the bathrooms on the way to the cafeteria.

Find them! Use them! Get out of my way! I guess that was rude, but I'm sure there are more direct routes than the main stairs for many people.

The advantage of the clogging is the necessity of these alternate routes. I will confess that I too have been led astray by the main stairs, drawn into the thick of the traffic while other, shorter routes to classes did present themselves. There's something intrinsic about the huge, open staircase that drags us unwilling into its clutches, pulling us halfway around the school when the awkward quadrilateral geometry of the building presents a much shorter trip on the other side.

It feels strange to be pointing advice out to freshmen. It was just yesterday that I was one of them in awe of the size of the school. But back in my day, we were using a school with only one floor, one gym. We didn't have a pool! We didn't have computers in every classroom! No round tables in the cafeteria! We had to write on clay tablets and papyrus, and we walked barefoot to school in the snow, and it was uphill both ways. Kids these days.

Really, the weird thing is being over halfway done with all of high school. I've seen two classes graduate now, and it'll only be one more before they throw us out, too. Or we take off quite happily. I think that's more accurate.

Until that day, I'll pummel my way through the stairwell crowds and spend my free time analyzing the traffic patterns. It's not such a bad existence — as long as I don't buy a helicopter and start radioing all my analyses around the school.

Ortonville via New Mexico a reader responds

Ed Auten, 85, decided to take some action -- not that he hasn't already done his share. The former Ortonville resident -- now residing in the sunny side of New Mexico -- has written his Congresswoman, Heather Wilson.

Congresswoman Wilson is a cosponsor of H.J. Resolution 54, a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States to protect the American flag from desecration.

Ed's not too hip on such an amendment. He believes a constitutional amendment should be passed only when "the issue is vital to the country." And while he contributed to her campaign, smitten he is not with the good congresswoman. So he wrote her, actually he wrote her twice and then me once.

His first letter explained his feelings for the proposed amendment to the Constitution. Congresswoman Wilson wrote him back:

"... The Flag of the United States has always had a special meaning to me. It is a symbol of our freedom and the unity of our nation. As a veteran, I have very deep feelings for the flag and the people who fought for it... A constitutional amendment that limits freedom to desecrate the American flag is a relatively insignificant limit of one's liberties... blah, blah, blah, Sincerely Heather Wilson."

Our boy Ed took it to mean that Ed didn't have as deep of a feeling for the flag as the congresswoman. So he gave her some background on himself from World War One forward.

"On November 11, 1918 I stood with my mother and grandmother and watched the parade in Flint, celebrating Armistice of WW1. I had several uncles in military service and now they were coming home. One great uncle was killed in France.

"We were eleven cousins on active duty in World War 2; three were killed, including my 19-year-old brother. I also lost several friends.

"I lost a friend in Korea.

"I lost my son in Viet Nam because he thought he was fighting for his country."

Ed was involved with the military of the United States from 1941 to 1963 and he sees a slippery slope to less personal freedoms with this amendment. He asks these tongue in cheek questions:

1. If I am taking the flag down from the pole and slip, fall and sit or stand on it, is that desecration because I should have been more careful?
2. If it is on the shelf and my son puts a blanket on top of it, is that desecration?
3. If I don't fly it properly on the pole, is that desecration?
4. If I don't stand properly at attention when the flag goes by, is that desecration?
5. If I stand in the park and criticize the government (which I believe is still my right as an American citizen) and I have an American flag beside me, is that desecration?
6. Ad Infinitum.

Ed does not see good things happening by making "Holy Idols out of hundreds of millions of pieces of cloth." I tend to agree with him. And I sure as heck don't doubt his patriotism.

Congresswoman Wilson states HJ Resolution 54 was passed by congress 305 to 124 on June 24, 1999. It must now pass the Senate with two-thirds majority and then three-fourths of the states must approve the amendment within seven years.

I guess that means we have our work cut out for us until June 24, 2006. Write your senator.

Mother, father, twins all doing quite well

Trevor Allen Speed beat his sister, Haley Marie, into this world by three minutes. It wasn't a race.

It was a predetermined bearing. Daughter Susan's doctor, Richard Duff, set a time and date with Crittenton Hospital and all surprises were eliminated.

Because Haley couldn't keep up with her brother's growing, the doctor decided on cesarean birth in their 35th week.

Thus at 10:51 a.m. September 30, Trevor was taken, and as he was handed to the nurses Haley's turn came three minutes later.

Trevor: five pounds, four ounces, 19 inches.

Haley: three pounds, fourteen ounces, 16 and three-quarters inches.

For reasons doctors know and granddads don't, girls have a higher survival (born healthier?) rate than boys.

So, though Haley's lack of weight was of the most concern prior to her birth, Trevor needed the most attention after his birth.

Something about the intake of oxygen and workings of the lungs. Anyway, doctors thought it best to have Trevor taken to the prenatal unit at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, and as a convenience to the parents, they sent Haley with him.

Or, the doctors thought Haley would miss having someone to kick, like she'd had for 35 weeks, and Susan's ribs weren't as handy as before.

Through the years I've been both a patient and visitor at Crittenton. In both circumstances we've been pleased with our reception. But the friendliness in the natal area is really outstanding.

You're treated like a VIP there when all you are is a grandparent. I know, you're "family," but really, the only thing you had to do with this 'happening' occurred 37 years before. That's not very close, actually.

But it's nice to have a selection of comfortable places to sit and wait, have a magazine to read that was printed the same month as our visit, be offered free coffee or juice and have helpful, knowledgeable people within range.

Now, it's a week later. Susan has been home for four days. The twins have needed some special attention... oxygen, monitoring of various functions and learning how to eat.

They're fine, but have to go two days without force-feeding before they can come home. They were getting the hang of it today (Labor Day) when grandma and grandpa got their first "hold."

I've never been so careful about holding anything in my life. But, they are so precious we have to be extra careful.

Jim's Jottings

Personally, I'm not anxious for 1969 to end. It's not that 1969 or all the 60's have been super-outstanding as much as it is that the first year of the 1970's doesn't stack up to one of fun, games and profit. In case you've forgotten, profit is that portion of pay anyone has after expenses.

Last year sounds like one long vacation when I reread my columns. Golfing in Florida, fishing in the Upper, a long week-end at Boyne Highlands, pheasant hunting, vacation in the Bahamas, and deer hunting. Funny, nothing there for July and August.

Then there was house planning and building... at times exasperating, at times exciting... but, in 1970 payments will have to start.

There is a line in one of Tennessee Ernie Ford's songs that says "another day older and deeper in debt." Well, 1969 was like that to me. It's unbelievable that anyone would keep loaning me money, but they have and 1970 will be "deeper."

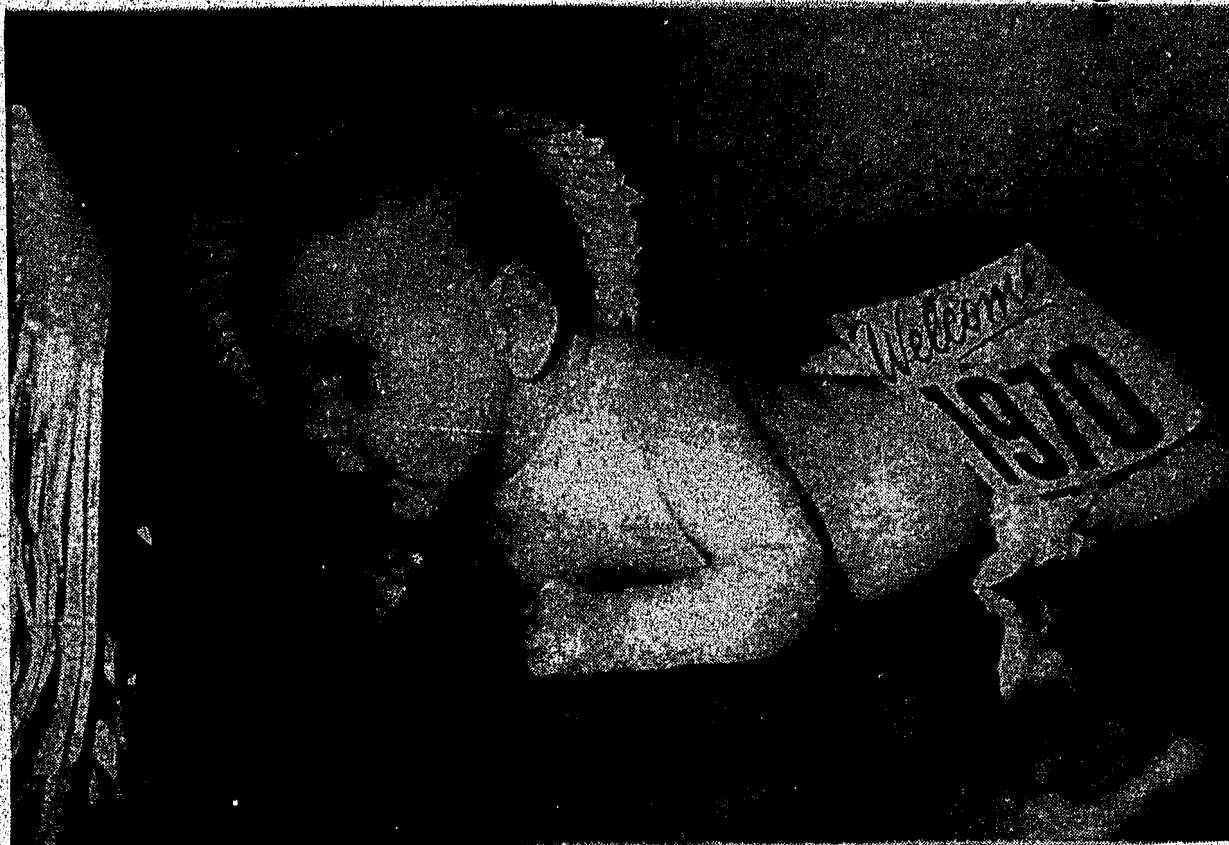

You finding it the same way? We're practicing what the Federal government has taught us about spending, and we didn't even want to.

The trend is changing, but businessmen generally talk good times even while approaching the bankruptcy court. Since newspapering is a business, I should fit in the business category. But, regardless of what is expected, I think 1970 will be a year to tighten up. Watch spending and accounts receivable. For the consumer I'd suggest he cut up his credit cards or train his mind to keep track that spending doesn't exceed income too greatly.

We're headed into a decade that will end with more luxuries, more leisure time, more money, more everything, but 1970 won't start out that way. Unemployment is up, buying is down, interest rates are high, money is still tight, profits are nil.

Merchants I've talked to say the gross is up, but profits aren't. Grass may very well be up, prices are higher... customer count might be up, but individual sales down.

Just to show you how I follow my own advice, I've already told Greeting the New Year will no doubt be of importance to Steve Harken... many years from now, but shortly before the new year's official arrival, the two-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harken of Snowapple Drive, found it only cool on his tummy.

New traffic light at Maybee and Sashabaw in January

The first news of local interest out of the county road commission for this decade should delight the residents of the Maybee-Sashabaw area. New traffic signal lights will be installed, probably in January.

Bob Osgood, road commission engineer, said this week that 2-signal heads will be installed.

He gave much of the credit for the lights to Duane Hursfall, supervisor of Independence. Hursfall has been persistent in his efforts to get the lights and called a public meeting last June to bring the road commission and people together.

Osgood said signal light installations are based on traffic count, and they have been counting traffic at this intersection since 1965 at regular intervals. He said they do this at intersections throughout the county when a noted increase in traffic takes place.

The 2 signals, while not precisely mandatory now, are expected to be. The uniform traffic manual for the state and federal roads is being rewritten and my Florida golfing companions of last spring that my son and I wouldn't be taking such a trip this year. Even if I didn't get robbed as I did in 1969, it's an extravagance I'll forego.

"Before I get carried away on cancelling my much needed respites from this daily and nightly toil let me suggest you live each day like it was your last and you'll have the happy new year I wish for you.

require dual signals.

Osgood says the 2 lights are a safety feature. When both are working there is a better chance they will be seen and if one should go out, the other is still operational.

The county road engineer also remarked about the speed traffic counters observed. One car was clocked at 82 mph going through the Maybee road-Sashabaw intersection. Many others were far above the speed limit. Osgood said, "Should drivers continue exceeding the limit in this area, the traffic light may cause an increase in accident rates. People get dependent on stop lights to stop people."

Teachers ratify '69-'70 contract

The Clarkston Education Association ratified the teaching contract for the 1969-70 school year at a meeting on December 23.

Within the next week, it is probable, according to Mr. George Barrie, that the necessary signatures will be affixed, completing the negotiations between the teachers and the school board for the present year.

These negotiations climaxed work that began last March. In 3 months, work will again begin to establish a basis for next year's contract.

"The difficulty of these negotiations certainly emphasizes the need for fiscal reform in school finance," said Mr. Barrie. "Much that will be decided is dependent on the outcome of the legislature's actions in Lansing."

Sharpen your blades

It appears at this writing that there will be public skating on the Mill Pond soon, if not by the time this paper comes out.

Bill Rutherford and Lewis Jewell, members of the township citizen recreation board, have met with township and village officials and been given the go-ahead.

Insurance has been obtained covering the township against liability and the township is making a pump, hose and snow clearing unit available for the men from the recreation board.

Also to be contacted about the rink is Hawk Tool and Engineering Company, which owns the water rights to the Pond. Bud Hawke told the News Monday morning he would find no objection to putting an ice rink on the Mill Pond if the township goes along with it. "I might even join them," he said, adding, "though I'm a poor skater."

Renaissance Men

"As a performer, his main assets were his sense of timing, his comedic flair and his stage presence," Tice said. "Plus, he has an outstanding voice. He could fill a theater."

Parkin's family thinks he's a perfect fit for the Renaissance Festival. "He stays in character out there the whole time," says his mother, Sheri Bond. Playing an Irishman this year is appropriate, given Parkin's coloring, and the fact his great-grandparents came from County Cork.

His comedic flair is evident at the festival also. "He always has been kind of goofy," laughs Bond. "It's more verbal comedy that he does. It's kind of an improv-type."

Parkin's younger brother Trevor, 16, a junior at CHS, says, "He's pretty good. He's always been involved in acting."

He particularly remembers the time his brother walked in with a big restroom sign that read WOMEN. "I knew something was up," Trevor says. At the festival, "He covered up the W and the N and sat in the middle of a field and started meditating — you know, OME. It was funny."

Parkin said he used his hands to cover up the letters. He'd change them to form other words such as OMEN. "I would tell people, you know, I think there's a reason I bumped into you."

Or, if there was a group of women approaching, he'd cover up the WO and point frantically to MEN in the distance. Or, using WOMEN, vice versa.

Parkin says he'll continue to appear at the Renaissance Festival "for as long as I can." The two men returned to college Monday, but will make the trek across Michigan for the duration of the festival.

Parkin is caught up in the magic each year. Every summer the Renaissance Festival becomes "just our world, basically. People still call people by their real names. But this is our playground."

The Michigan Renaissance Festival continues weekends through Sept. 26, rain or shine. The festival is located in Holly off I-75, Exit 106, on Dixie Highway between Pontiac and Flint. Call 801-601-4848 for more information.

in lower and middle school, and 20-1 at the kindergarten and preschool levels, Plante said.

Although it is not required, students are encouraged to attend daily mass each morning, she said.

Several events take place each year at the academy, including a science fair and Heritage Day, in which students learn about their native cultures, she said. There also are many sports and extracurricular activities, including both intramural and club sports.

Girls and boys can participate in competitive sports through the Catholic Youth Organization, such as soccer, volleyball, baseball and softball, Cross said.

There also is a mother's and father's club for interaction with students and their parents, in which classroom parties and field trips take place throughout the year, Cross said.

Classes began Aug. 31 at the school; despite recent talks across the country about shootings which have taken place in schools, Plante said she does not see a similar situation posing a threat to students at Everest.

"With being an elementary school, there's not a lot of concern about that," she said.

An annual open house takes place each February. "It's a popular way for people to see the school," Plante said.

Sixty percent of those enrolled live in the Clarkston area, Cross said. The remaining kids come from the northern part of Oakland County, he said.

Following their education at Everest, most students attend Notre Dame Preparatory School in Auburn Hills or St. Mary's in Orchard Lake, Cross said.

Tours for admission are given each Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. Those interested are asked to call ahead at (248) 620-3390 for details, Plante said.

Clarkston man dies from drug overdose

Stephen Reilly, 44, of Clarkston was found dead Sept. 2 in a room he rented in a house on Waldon Road. Clarkston City Police Chief Paul Ormiston said Reilly's body was discovered by his landlord when she delivered his mail.

Ormiston attributed the death to an accidental drug overdose. The Oakland County Medical Examiner ruled the cause of death as drug abuse, Ormiston said.

"There was no sign of foul play," Ormiston said. "The type and quantity of drugs won't be known for at least a couple of weeks until (state) toxicology tests come back."

THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

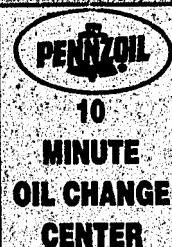

A WINNING ATTITUDE

Many personal injury cases are handled by attorneys on a contingent fee basis, which means the lawyer receives a percentage of any money recovered on the client's behalf. Put simply the attorney wins if the client wins. Thus, attorneys have every incentive to win their client's cases. Generally, if no money is recovered, the client is not responsible for any attorney fees. Contingent fee arrangements are most beneficial to injured parties who could not otherwise afford an attorney to protect their legal interests. No one who is injured as a result of another person's negligence, therefore, need feel that he or she is not able to file a suit in civil court to recover damages for the injuries suffered.

Here at 11 North Main Street, we handle a variety of legal matters involving personal injury, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, criminal defense, business law, real estate, family law, and civil litigation in both State and Federal Courts. We're here to protect your rights. To schedule a consultation, call 620-1030 today.

City water talks continue

the downtown out of business."

Gary Tressell, city engineer, also was in agreement.

"That's the real crux of the problem," he said.

Gamble showed concern in the SAD and its costs to residents as well, referring to four years earlier, when the same issue was voted on by the city and residents turned it down.

"An overriding number of people voted against this. We could have afforded it then. We can't predict the future or the costs," Gamble said.

However, Neiman said the process is not as frightening as it may seem.

"If it's planned correctly, there's ways of dealing with it," he said. "(But) you'll never carve it out where everybody's the same."

He suggested the formula used for assessing must be fair, whether council take into consideration frontage of a home on Main Street, REUs or other conditions.

"There's no magic, this is good, this is bad (when assessing)," Neiman said.

Clifton asked if Independence Township officials had shown interest in partnering for the project.

She noted 25 people who live on the south side of Main Street are not city residents, yet could benefit from the water main. Currently, the city cannot assess them.

Clifton said with the township's help, both the SAD and general obligation bonds could be used to "spread the burden."

"We own the line, but (the township) owns the water. We need a little assistance," she said. "That's all I want is a little sympathy (from the township officials)."

Gamble said township officials will not support the water main project. "I don't think they really care," he said.

Colombo mentioned development on White Lake and Dixie Highway that will bring in thousands of residents in the township also in need of clean water.

"If we're not careful, we're gonna be surrounded by people with water, and we don't have it. There's no outs. There's not a lot to go after."

Then Tressell brought a new idea forth to the council. "I hate to say this. You can delay the water main project. You can put sleeves across the road."

"The sleeves would cross the streets, so the water main would not be on Main Street, but in the alleys," Tressell said.

He said by doing this, Main Street would not have to be torn up once more following the revitalization efforts, due to the water main's location behind businesses downtown.

If this option were chosen by the council, Neiman said a special election would have to take place in March or April. He also suggested the council sell municipal bonds; so proceeds would pay for some future construction costs.

If a special assessment is chosen, Neiman suggested a 15-year plan for the city.

Neiman first met with Catallo and City Manager Art Pappas in May to study the water main funding issue, which has been discussed at meetings throughout summer. The council has given itself a Jan. 1 deadline to make a decision.

Council is still awaiting news from the state concerning a grant application for the project. Tressell said the application should take another 45 days to arrive.

In other business, the site plan for changes to the parking area at Clarkston United Methodist Church was reviewed and approved by the council 6-0. Karen Sanderson, council member, was absent at the meeting.

A handicapped access will also be constructed which connects to the church driveway, said Pappas.

Master Plan

ski resort and vacant acreage) has on surrounding development and traffic.

"The master plan overall plan for that area is R-1B (Suburban Residential), which averages one dwelling unit per acre," Carlisle said.

Carlisle said Township Trustee Neil Wallace, raised some "very interesting points" to consider before the master plan is adopted. They include the effect of Pine Knob, which Wallace called "the thousand pound smiling gorilla of Independence Township."

"Most of the comments are designed to ask us to better document the township's continued plan for lower density development and the impacts of growth," Carlisle said.

But, the master plan's adoption is expected to happen soon. "We are very close to being able to have a public hearing on this," Carlisle said.

Officials are expected to discuss the master plan in more detail at the next planning commission meeting Thursday, Sept. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Clintonwood Park Carriage House on Clarkston Road.

Monday, Sept. 6, a Dixie resident complained a Similar resident is harassing her because she feeds stray cats. He claims the cats attack his pets. The man was arrested for domestic violence and taken to Oakland County Jail.

California dreamin' a reality for young dancers

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

All the fancy footwork has paid off for two Clarkston girls, Lisa Licata, 14, and Lauren Giordano, 17, recently received scholarships from Encore Showcase, a national company that honors dance troupes.

The girls took part in a competition sponsored by the organization for young dancers in the greater-Detroit area. One reason the award is so outstanding is they were individually picked out of the ensembles they performed with — in a "Chorus Line" sort of way.

It wasn't a real "competition," they added because they didn't compete against other dancers. Rather, all the dancers were rated individually.

The honor meant they were selected to participate in a national dance production in Los Angeles July 19-23.

They performed with other senior-level award winners (age 13-17 years) from all over the U.S. Only 250 girls were chosen.

Prior to the trip, they learned three new dance routines, which were fine-tuned through dance classes in L.A. Two of the numbers were selected, culminating with performances at the Nickelodeon Theatre at Universal Studios and Pepperdine University in Malibu.

The music harkened back to their grandparents' era. The first was "an updated version" of the classic "Let Me Entertain You." The other, "Mr. Zoot Suit," incorporated swing dancing — the 1940s style making a comeback with today's youth.

Free tickets to Universal Studios were included, and the girls also enjoyed sight-seeing with their families. Debbie Licata, Lisa's mother, said they especially enjoyed oohing and ahing over the pricey ocean-front homes in Malibu.

Both girls have been studying a variety of dance forms, including ballet, jazz and tap, for years. They are members of the On Stage School of Dance in Holly.

Lisa is a freshman and Lauren is a senior at Clarkston High School. Each would like to pursue a career in dancing.

Lauren is eyeing a dance major in college. Lisa, whose idols include Janet Jackson and Paula Abdul, would like to become a choreographer.

"My dream is to be in a video," she said.

Laboring to have a whole lot of fun

Marching Into The New Millenium was the theme of Clarkston's annual Labor Day Parade, hosted by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

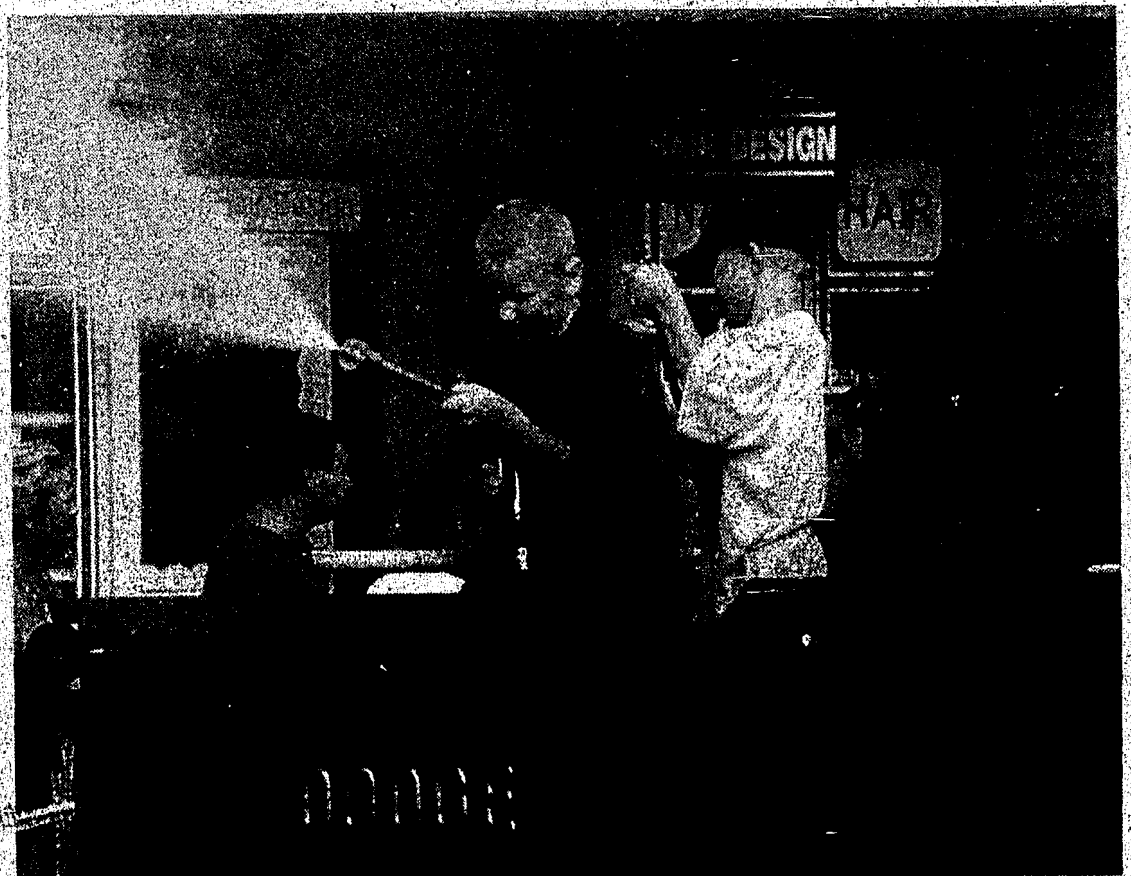

Thousands of onlookers lined the streets Monday morning to enjoy the parade in weather more suited to the 4th of July.

Obituaries

Thomas V. Walker

Thomas V. Walker of Spring Hill, Tenn., formerly of Clarkston, died suddenly Sept. 1, 1999, at age 68.

He was the husband of Mary Margaret (LeMarbe) and father of James (Nickey Sue) Walker of Burton, Irene Eastman of Tenn., Arlene (Charles) Frank of Mayville, John Walker, Dianna (James) Farnsworth of Millington and Donella (Brian) Richley of Waterford.

Mr. Walker also was survived by 17 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. He was the brother of Jack (Linda), Marion, Evelyn, Jean and Joan, all originally of Pennsylvania. Mr. Walker was the special friend of Don Wilkinson, Lee Eastman, Mike Livingston, Diane Mallo and numerous others.

another try and Bylen was contacted.

"They needed to do something with (the property). They looked at this as a stewardship -- a gift from God -- and they wanted to make the best use of it for the community.

"It's perfect for a golf course. Versus building homes, it's the perfect use for this site," he said. "The land, for the most part, is undisturbed."

For example, Bylen said several of the trees removed to make way for the green were transplanted in other areas on the site.

Although it's the third project of its kind in 15 years for Bylen, he says building a golf course doesn't get any easier. Recent problems with erosion from rainstorms has put a damper on construction, but not on Bylen's spirits.

"We just need a little bit better weather and we'll be rolling," he said. "Either way, we'll get the job done."

Eighteen holes of golf with a total par of 72 are set for use in July, and an additional nine holes will be ready by September. On a busy day, Bylen expects around 500 golfers and up to 250 additional visitors to the club daily.

"It's a great game. It's something you can play when you're five and when you're 85."

Doris Crosby

Doris Crosby of Pontiac, formerly of Clarkston, died August 20, 1999, at age 77. Doris was a member of the Marimont Community Church in Waterford.

For many years, Doris and her husband, Joe, made their home in a converted school bus residing in Adel, Georgia, camping in the forests of Florida winters and returning to their family in Clarkston summers.

Mrs. Crosby was survived by her daughter Nancy Gugliemello, brother Ellis Jencks and sister Laura Miller, as well as daughter Stella (Paul) Schudlich, sons Alvin (Annetta) Crosby and Allen Crosby, all of Clarkston. She also was the grandmother of nine, great-grandmother of five and was survived by several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Joseph "Whellin' Joe" Crosby, and her parents, George and Lena Jencks of Clarkston.

Cremation was entrusted to Coats Funeral Home of Waterford. A memorial service for Doris took place September 12 at 1:30 p.m. at Marimont Community Church, 424 W. Walton Blvd.

Defense does Rochester

Wolves hold Hillery to 54 yards in win

	Clarkston	19
	Rochester	7

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
 Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the Rochester Falcons zipped a touchdown pass with less than four minutes left in Friday night's football game, frustration set in on the Clarkston sidelines.

Not because the team was on its way to losing, but because its shutout streak had been broken.

Such is the new standard by which the Wolves' defense measures itself. Despite giving up the lone score, Clarkston played a solid all-around game in defeating Rochester 19-7 in the Wolves' home opener.

Clarkston stays home this week when it takes on the Troy Athens Red Hawks. Kickoff is at 7 p.m.

The game was highlighted by another terrific performance by the entire defensive unit, and a 15-play drive by the offense to start the second half, which put the game away.

"Tonight, it was attitude," said senior linebacker Jeremy Williams. We shut out Waterford Kettering, and we weren't going to be satisfied with anything but a shut-out tonight. We threw a lot of blitzes at them, and our defensive line was in their backfield all day long."

Rochester's offense featured tailback Ed Hillery, hailed as one of the top skill players in Oakland County. In his first game against Berkley, he ran for 183 yards and two touchdowns. But the Clarkston defense held him to just 54 yards on 12 carries, 17 of those yards coming on the last play of the game.

"We worked on tackling all week," said Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson. "Luckily, he never got into a one-on-one situation with our (defensive backs)."

While Hillery was contained, the Wolves countered with a pretty good running back of their own.

Senior Chris Mitchell ran for a season-high 141 yards on 32 carries. He scored the game-winning touchdown with 10:24 left in the second quarter on a 37-yard touchdown gallop where he sprinted through the Rochester defense virtually untouched.

"It was a counter play, and the line opened up a huge hole for me," Mitchell said. "They blocked so well. I only had one guy to beat, and Steve Schornak did a great job of blocking him. Those downfield blocks help me to make cuts in the secondary."

Clarkston's strengths on offense were on display all through the game. The team's other two touchdowns came off long drives where the beefy offensive line cleared the way for Mitchell's runs and gave junior QB Ryan Kaul time to make short passes.

Kaul found senior fullback Chad Booker with a 15-yard touchdown pass to complete a 14-play, 52-yard drive, Clarkston's first offensive series of the game. The Wolves converted two fourth downs and two third downs on the drive.

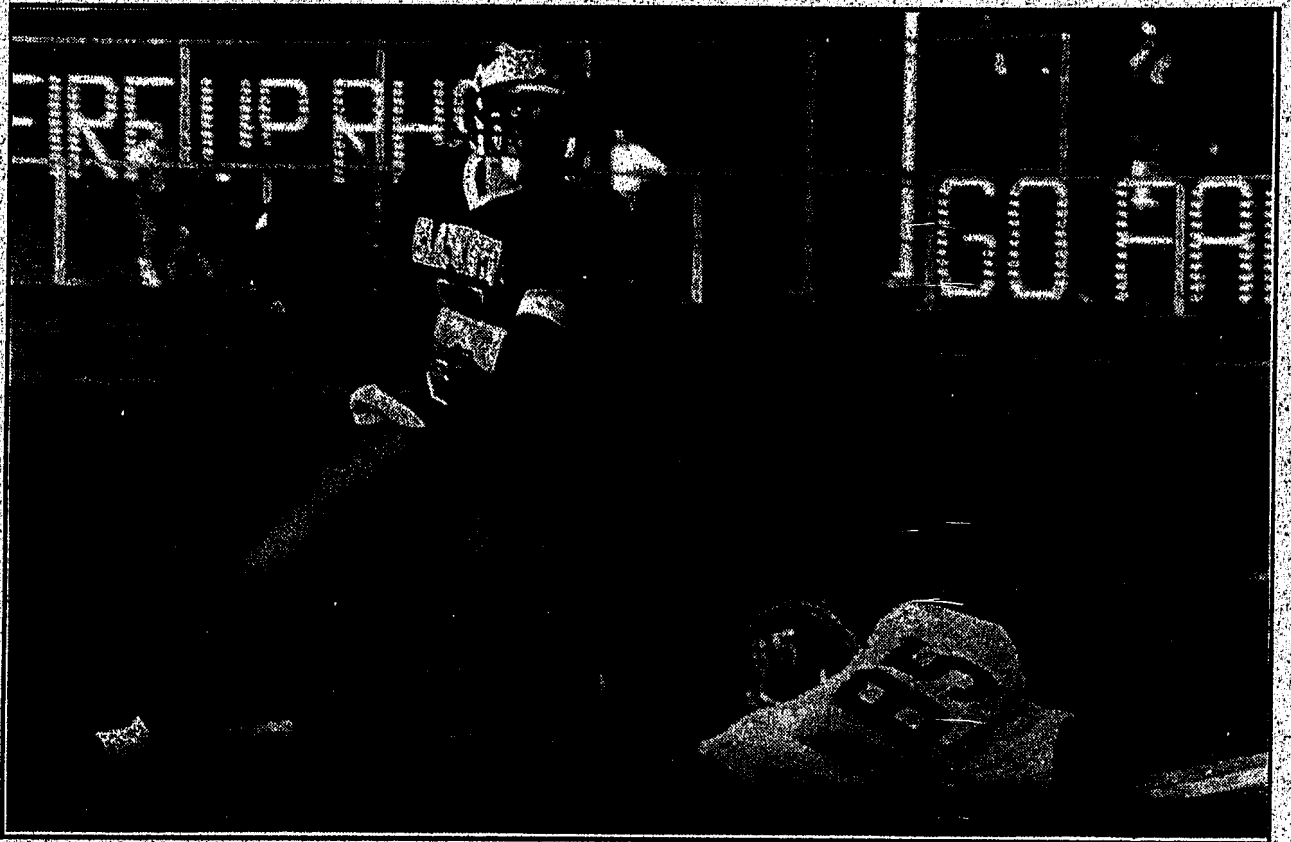

Clarkston's opening drive of the second half was about as good as it gets. The team marched 76 yards in 15 plays, capped by a one-yard touchdown plunge by Kaul. The longest play of the drive was a 14-yard pass to Schornak.

"That was the drive," Richardson said, with the emphasis on the "That was what won it for us."

"We had to get the knockout punch," Williams said. "The past two years, Rochester has made second-half comebacks against us, and we didn't want to just roll over for them. The offense did a great job on that drive."

The defense held the Falcons down from there, killing drives with big plays. Senior Ross Martello recovered a fumble early in the fourth quarter, and Jon Robinson, Ian Ramsey and Andy North all recorded sacks of Rochester QB Chris Potts.

Richardson said he saw plenty of room for improvement from his team, now 2-0 overall and 1-0 in the OAA I.

"We made a lot of mistakes tonight," he said. "We had too many penalties. But Ryan (Kaul) made some big plays by scrambling and we contained them well."

The Falcons' lone score came when the Wolves muffed a punt snap, giving Rochester the ball at the Clarkston 7-yard-line. Potts completed a touchdown pass on the first play, ending Clarkston's nine-quarter shutout streak, going back to last season.

The game's low point for Clarkston came when senior center Jay Manojlovich went down with an injured knee in the second half. It was not the same knee he's had surgically repaired, but as of Monday night, he was able to move around on it. An emotional Richardson rallied the team around Manojlovich after the game.

"You can print this: Jay Manojlovich will be back this year," Williams said.

Kaul finished 7-for-13 passing for 69 yards. Junior Rob Conley was his favorite target, catching three passes for 35 yards. Conley also rushed for 31 yards on five attempts. Junior Cody Senkyr led the team with five tackles and two assists, while Williams finished with four and four assists.

Last week, the Clarkston Soccer Stadium was dedicated, with a fresh coat of paint, school officials on hand, and one of the biggest soccer crowds in recent memory.

Unfortunately for the varsity boys soccer team, those factors did not translate into wins.

The Wolves dropped their first two games of the season, 3-1 to Royal Oak Kimball Thursday and 5-2 to Rochester on Aug. 31.

The Wolves try to get back on track Thursday night when they travel to Brandon for a match against a tough Blackhawk team. The varsity game begins around 7:20 p.m.

Against the Knights, Clarkston jumped out to a 1-0 lead early in the second half thanks to a nice goal by senior Bill Kalush. But Kimball turned up the pressure and scored three goals within 10 minutes late in the game to get the win.

"Both teams had their chances, but they started converting theirs," coach Dan Fitzgerald said. "We played well the last 10 minutes of the first half and the first 20 of the second. But then we gave up a corner kick when we didn't have to, and it just went from there."

A scoreless first half was highlighted by an excellent performance by senior goalkeeper Dustin

For a half, the Clarkston varsity girls basketball team played the tough Oxford Wildcats to a draw. Then, Oxford started making its shots, and the game got away from the Wolves.

The Wolves just could not contain the athleticism of the Wildcats Thursday night, and lost to Oxford 74-59 in the finals of the Oxford Tournament.

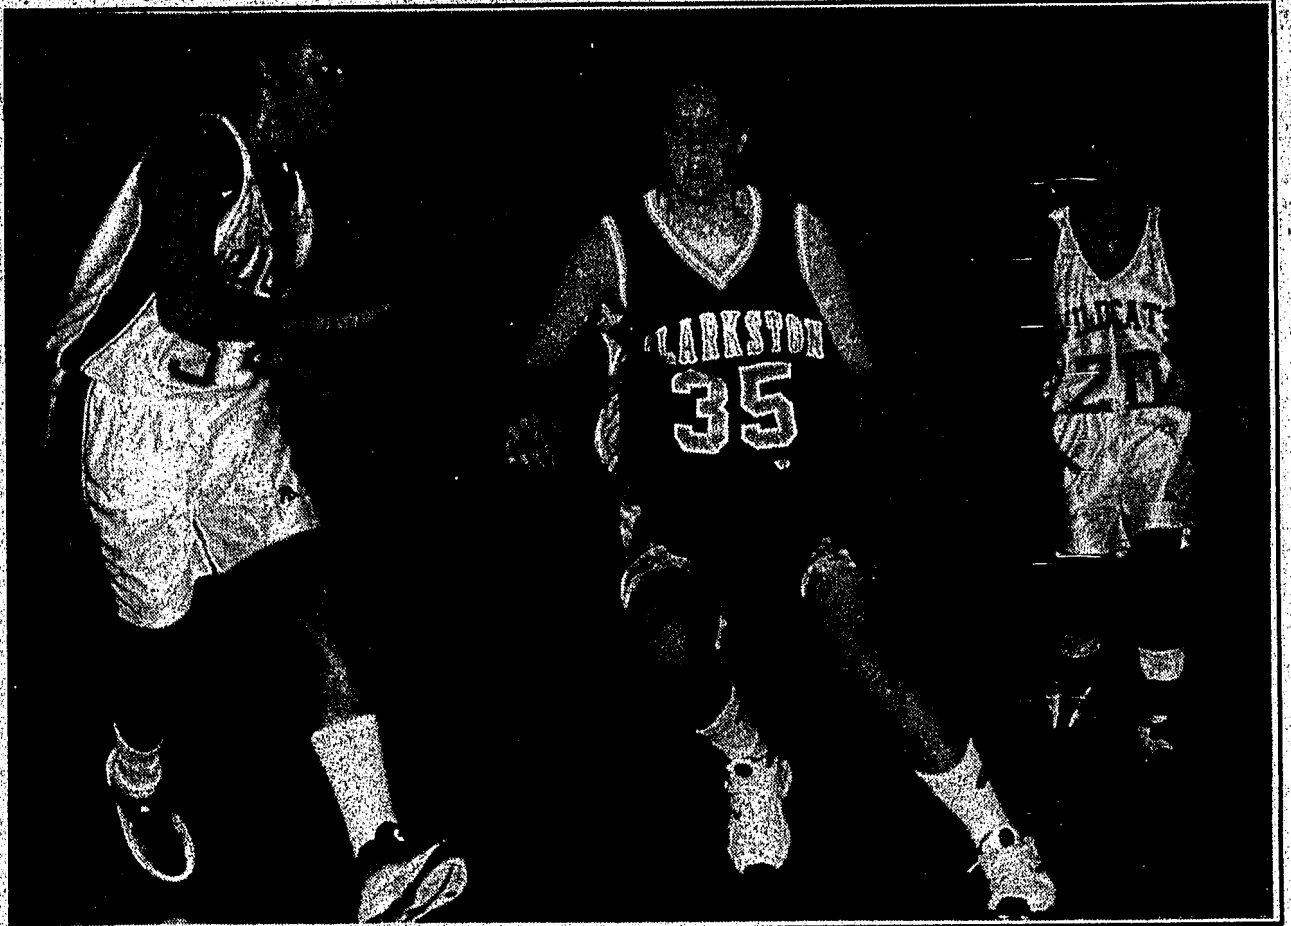

After its season-opening rout of Lake Orion, Clarkston fell to the team that ended its season a year ago despite tying the game at 32-32 early in the third quarter.

Coach Ann Lowney said she was pleased with the performance, saying the Wolves showed poise and played under control, even when Oxford was playing well.

"We have a young team, and they kept their composure very well," she said. "We didn't make our free throws, which really hurt us."

Last year, the Wolves whipped Oxford in the consolation game of the tournament, only to lose the rematch in the postseason. This year, the Wildcats are rated as one of the top teams in Oakland County and have senior center Liz Holbrook, who is one of the most highly recruited players in the state.

Holbrook led the way for Oxford with 32 points, 15 rebounds and three blocks. Although she lit up the scoreboard on offense, the Clarkston defense made it tough on her all night.

Senior captain Rachel Uchman drives to the hoop against Oxford's Payge Salquist.

"We made her work for her points," Lowney said. "In the second half, she made the shots she missed in the first half, and their outside people started hitting also."

Clarkston's Rachel Uchman was all over the court against Oxford, leading the team with 16 points, 14 rebounds and four steals. She scored 11 of the team's 13 first-quarter points and seemed to do everything everywhere.

The Wolves hung around through the second quarter, trimming the deficit to as little as one when junior center Sarah Morgan banked in a shot over Holbrook.

Senior guard Candace Morgan's short jumper tied the game at 32 apiece early in the third. Then, Holbrook's teammates took over for the Wildcats, sparking the team on a 23-8 run to end the quarter with a 55-42 lead. Clarkston never got any closer after that.

Junior center Tovah Bazely gave the Wolves a nice spark off the bench, scoring seven points and collecting three rebounds in the second quarter alone. She finished with a career-high eight points and six boards.

The play of freshmen Kira Karlstrom and Jenn Carlson was another positive for Lowney and the team. Karlstrom scored 15 and had six rebounds and was a

When bad things happen to good people, and vice versa

The scene at the end of Friday night's football game between Clarkston and Rochester was more reminiscent of the last game of the season instead of a solid early September win.

There were hugs, tears, and high emotions as the team gathered around injured teammate Jay Manojlovich in the post-game huddle. Manojlovich injured a knee in the second half of Clarkston's 19-7 win over the Falcons, and missed the rest of the game.

Coach Kurt Richardson took Manojlovich in a powerful embrace and was visibly emotional after the game. It was not only because he had lost one-fifth of his starting offensive line, but because of all the hours Manojlovich had put in just to be able to play this season.

Manojlovich had knee surgery last year after a season-ending injury in football. He was able to play his third season with the hockey team last winter, and spent much of the summer getting stronger, preparing for the much-anticipated football season.

He's part of one of the best offensive lines in school history. He is actually the smallest of the starting linemen, listed at 6-feet, 195 pounds. No one knows the hours, the sweat Manojlovich put in preparing for the season, but at the time of the injury, he and his teammates faced the prospect of having it end before it really began.

But hold everything. As of Monday night, Jay was walking around on the knee, and according to his mother Beth, was not having the same type of swelling he had with previous injuries.

And Jay's teammates seem confident in a return. While standing in the CHS cafeteria after the game, I was talking with linebacker Jeremy Williams, who had an outstanding game against the Falcons. He declared to me, "Jay Manojlovich will be back this year." He said it in a way that bore no argument, from anyone.

And who am I to disagree, as Annie Lennox and the Eurythmics once asked. I have known Jay since his freshman year, when he was on the first Clarkston hockey team, struggling like the rest of his teammates to get a talented group of players together and form a solid team.

Over the past three years, I have seen him grit his teeth, battle back and never take "no" for an answer. Whether Jay plays this season again or not, he has formed the character that will take him far in life. He sets an excellent example for his teammates, working hard, staying humble and sharing in the joys of the teams he's played on.

I'm not a doctor, and I could not give an educated prognosis of Jay's injury. But knowing him the way I do, I would not bet against seeing number 51 out there again, maybe playing in November.

■ The local college football season got off to a strong start last week, as Michigan, Michigan State and Central Michigan all won, and Western Michigan stayed competitive with Florida.

Thursday night, I saw that green-blooded State fan, Mike Prudhomme at the girls basketball game. When I asked why the heck he wasn't in front of the TV watching his Spartans take on Oregon, his answer betrayed a cool confidence in his bunch.

"If they can't beat Oregon with me not there, well..."

And of course this does not take into account that his daughter Lindsey is a starter and captain of the girls basketball team either.

Michigan's win over Notre Dame had all the good stuff you'd expect from a rivalry like this. Good special teams play, ridiculously lucky plays by the Irish, and a thrilling finish.

Although Notre Dame seemed to pull plays from out of nowhere, you have to wonder about their discipline. The Irish basically gave Michigan 30 yards on its final drive of the game, thanks to an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty enforced on the kickoff, and a silly late hit out of bounds. Michigan's Anthony Thomas nudged the ball across the goal line, giving the Wolverines the 26-22 win.

Here, I have to give Notre Dame coach Bob Davie credit. He could have lashed into his players during the post-game press conference, but did not. He accepted full responsibility for their actions, and said his team needed better coaching.

But Davie showed me that he is a man with integrity and one who wants to teach good lessons to his players. He has all week to rip into that receiver who did the "knucklehead" pose after scoring the late touchdown and that defensive back who delivered the late hit. He didn't need to do that in front of a national press audience, and for that, I give him a thumbs up.

■ Now that the high school seasons are in full swing, you will notice that the coverage of the sports section leans that way heavily. But that doesn't mean I am still not interested in running team pictures of youth teams of all sports from the area.

I want to thank everyone who submitted team photos through the summer, and corresponding photo IDs and team write-ups. I am glad to get a new group of kids recognition each week, and to get their photos in the paper.

As the fall youth seasons get underway, I want to encourage everyone to keep submitting those team photos. While I can't guarantee publication dates on any of them, I will do my best to get them in for you. People can also e-mail sports briefs and announcements to me at bradmon@prodigy.net. Comments, suggestions and information on local events are always welcome.

force on both ends of the court in the second half.

"Both freshmen played better tonight," Lowney said. "They have been playing basketball a long time, and they have the respect of the upperclassmen."

Lowney said she still feels good about the progress the team has made from its first practice, less than three weeks ago.

"I think we can compete well with good teams," she said. "This team picks things up quickly, and we just have to learn that we gotta keep learning. If we do that, we will get better."

The Wolves, 1-1 on the season, take on Bloomfield Hills Lahser Thursday night at a home crossover game. The JV game begins at 5:30 p.m., with varsity to follow at around 7.

On Aug. 31, the Wolves opened with a 62-35 pasting of Lake Orion. Senior Candace Morgan led a balanced attack with 12 points, while Carlson scored 11. The Wolves led 22-12 at halftime, and blitzed the Dragons with an 18-8 third quarter to finish it off.

Girls harriers finish second at first meet

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Featuring a young and inexperienced lineup, the Clarkston girls cross country team has realistic, but high expectations for the 1999 season.

That season got off to a solid start with a second-place finish at Thursday's Flint Carman-Ainsworth Invitational.

The Wolves were led by senior Nicole Fischer, who was the top individual runner at the meet with a time of 19:56.

Clarkston featured two other medalists (runners who were in the top 25 individually), Carla Delvecchio and Lisa Gauthier. Megan Pocs, Karyn Erkfriz and Jessica DuFresne rounded out Clarkston's scorers. Swartz Creek won the meet.

"Nicole ran a super race," said coach Deb Zonca. "But we still have some big room for improvement. We need our second and third runners to close the gap with Nicole a little bit, and then have our fourth and fifth runners step it up as well."

The race took place on a hot and steamy day in Flint, and Zonca said times were slower than she expected across the board.

"I think the heat had something to do with the times," Zonca said. "I'd like to see our second and third runners get under 21 minutes and our third and fourth and fifth runners under 22. Once we get those times, then we can start being competitive with the teams we need to be competitive with."

Zonca said the meet was a good experience for her younger runners, some of whom had no varsity experience until Thursday's invitational.

"I don't think we were aggressive enough, and that's something that will come with experience," she said. "We don't seem confident enough to go out and take it when we should."

The cross country teams have this week off from competition, but return on Sept. 14 with a meet against league foes Lake Orion and Rochester at Lake Orion. The meet begins at 4:30 p.m.

Tennis team routs Mott

Wolves to get first tests of new season this week

	Clarkston	8
	Waterford Mott	0

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston girls tennis coach Beth Manojlovich isn't quite sure how good her team is yet.

Despite seeing her team breeze to a second straight 8-0 win, this time Thursday against Waterford Mott, she said she still is unsure of how good the team is.

"We haven't really been tested yet," she said. "It was a great match to show our concentration level though. Mott was just overmatched."

The four singles players, Courtney Schubring, Lauren Stout, Allison Olinger and Sarah Sweeney all swept their ways to wins, 6-0, 6-0.

At one doubles, Carrie and Jenny Linenger coasted to a 6-0, 6-1 win. The three doubles team of Emily Tate and Andrea Gibson moved up from four and won 6-0, 6-0. The four doubles team of Laura Wilson and Kiley Banycky cruised to a 6-1, 6-0 win.

Manojlovich said the team will get its first real tests of the season this week. Tuesday the Wolves played at Royal Oak Kimball and Thursday, it takes on Berkley, both OAA Division II rivals.

"Then, we'll see how much we've improved," she said.

Saturday, the Wolves will participate in the Fenton Invitational. This tournament was one of the high points of last season, when the Wolves took home the first-place trophy. It was the first tournament the Clarkston program had won in at least five years.

The team returns home Monday for a 4 p.m. match against Lake Orion.

Soccer team opens 'new' facility

Coleman, who stopped several point-blank shots by the Knights.

Senior Mike Renda had two excellent scoring chances late in the first half, one coming on a clean one-on-one shot, another off a nice pass by Mike Licata.

Kalush scored his second goal of the season, following up a shot by Renda. After the initial save, Kalush followed up and popped the ball into a wide-open goal, giving Clarkston a 1-0 lead. Senior Jared Bauer also picked up an assist on the play. The goal came just 1:44 into the second half.

Clarkston maintained steady control over the next 10 minutes, keeping the play in Kinball's end.

Kimball slowly started to take back the momentum as the game wore on, finally getting through Coleman with 10:34 left in the game, scoring on its sixth corner kick opportunity of the game.

Kimball's Carlos Escobar scored the game-winning goal less than three minutes later, getting by the Clarkston defense and scoring into an open net. He added his second goal of the game with 2:23 left.

"We didn't do a good job of playing under pressure," Fitzgerald said. "We were getting the ball stripped off our feet and were playing too much in our defensive third of the field. The game was thre for someone to put away. They did it, and we didn't."

5 PAPERS-2 WEEKS-$9.50
10 WORDS (30¢ EACH ADDITIONAL WORD)
(Commercial Accounts $7.50 a week)
Get The Word Out! Guaranteed

Our pledge to you: if after 30 days you don't get any inquiries on your want ad, we'll refund your money (less a $2 service charge. Automotive specials not included).
We guarantee it.
Here's how it works:
1. Run your want ad with us for at least two weeks and pay within one week of the start date.
2. If no one contacts you within 30 days after the ad's stop date, fill out a refund application and mail or bring it to us.
3. We will refund the cost of the ad (less the $2 service charge) within 7 days of receiving your refund application.

Or, we'll run that ad again for the original number of weeks. The choice is yours, a win-win situation all the way around.
(We can only guarantee that you'll get inquiries--not that you'll make a deal.)

This guarantee applies to individual (non-commercial) want ads. You can pick up a refund application at any of our offices. In Oxford, at 666 S. Lapeer Road. In Lake Orion, 30 N. Broadway Street. In Clarkston, 5 S. Main Street. The refund must be applied for between 30 and 90 days of the want ad's start date.
