Bad gas burns motorists

'There were cars stalled all along Dixie,' OCSD deputy says

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Filling their tanks wasn't a gas for several motorists last week.

Approximately 20 drivers were affected at a snafu at the Speedway service station, 6594 Dixie Highway in Independence Township, Friday — the recipients of allegedly bad gas as they tanked up their vehicles in the early afternoon.

It took two deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to quell the disturbance, which occurred between 1 and 3 p.m. Several disgruntled customers, including Snow Apple resident Rick Schwarb, called the Independence substation.

Schwarb gassed up his car around 1:45 p.m. "When I left, I was coming home and got as far as downtown Clarkston," Schwarb said. "The car just started cutting out. I turned down Washington to go down M-15. It stalled and stalled again."

Schwarb called the Speedway and asked if there could possibly be water in the gas. "They said no. They don't have water in their gas and they check those pumps every day."

He "nursed" his car to Randy Hosler Pontiac on Dixie, which is across from the Speedway. "They couldn't get it started," Schwarb said. However, employees poured about two inches of the substance in a cup. "You could see the water on the bottom and the gas on top," Schwarb said.

He took the cup across the street. By then, there was a group of irate customers. "Some of the cars didn't even make it out of the parking lot," Schwarb said.

According to Schwarb, Speedway district manager Art Malty was making an announcement. "He says he's not saying anything till they check the storage tanks." After Malty checked the tanks, Schwarb said he made another announcement. "(He said) there's no water in the storage tanks and, as far as he's concerned, he has no responsibility."

Schwarb showed his cup to Malty who told him, "There's no guarantee that gas came from your car. That's when I called the cops."

OCSD deputies Todd Vanderver and Dave Presnell responded around 3:15 p.m. "We were called for a disturbance. All I knew was there was a whole crowd of disgruntled people there," Presnell said. "I thought they were going to lynch the guy," he said of Malty. "It was so heated."

There were cars stalled all along Dixie, Presnell said. He "hit the blue lights" on his patrol car and blocked two lanes of traffic on northbound Dixie. Presnell tried

Hearing on former Ellis land Feb. 10

Developer considers relocating farmhouse

BY RENEE WIGHTMAN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A public hearing will take place Feb. 10 at the Springfield Township board meeting over a special land use request by Tim Birtsas, area developer, for land he purchased from the Ellis family of Davisburg.

Approximately two-thirds of the property, or 63 acres, is zoned R-2 (single family residential, one acre lots), said Nancy Strole, township clerk. Birtsas has proposed a concept plan for a 43-unit cluster development on the 63 acres of property known as Ingomar Farms.

Birtsas recently presented the concept to the planning commission and mentioned he might move the Ellis' farmhouse onto the 63-acre parcel, Strole said. The planning commissioners recommended Birtsas' concept plan, with stipulations.

Strole said the board will hear public comment on the matter near the start of the meeting, which begins at 7:30 p.m.

If approved by the township board, Birtsas will be able to submit a detailed construction site plan. The property in question is located south of Dixie Highway, north of I-75 and east of Old Pond.

Birtsas first brought forward plans to rezone the remaining 21.3 acres C-2 (general business) in May. Based on several concerns made by the board, he returned to the township board in June with a reduced amount of acreage (16.8 acres).

At the June meeting, Birtsas said he was interested in keeping the farm on the commercial property, utilizing it to create a smaller version of Lake Orion's Canterbury Village, or making it into a covered bridge.

Daughter's gift to dad is a new kidney on Valentine's Day

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Deeann Cummings remembers her "old, junker car" from teenhood. And that her dad was always there to rescue her when it broke down.

"He was always bailing us out," says the Haslett, Michigan resident, referring also to her four siblings.

Now, she's able to give something in return. Cummings will be admitted to Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital on Valentine's Day to donate a new kidney to her father, Jim Davis, a resident of Independence Township.

It's an act of love, but something she believes any daughter would do. "I think it's important these days to have your dad. A lot of people don't have one," Deeann, 37, says from her parents' cozy family room on Frankwill Avenue.

At 61, Jim, a retired General Motors general supervisor, says his condition has been an "ongoing thing" since 1982. At that time, he was experiencing joint pain in one of his legs and put on medication for a chronic arthritic condition. Two years later, "I took a hot shower and my skin was blotchy," he said. "I went back to the doctor and he referred me to a urologist."

Tests, including a kidney biopsy, revealed both kidneys were damaged. Later, they suspected the earlier medication was the culprit.

The condition has really altered Jim's lifestyle. He's lost a lot of muscle in his arms and legs -- and weight, due to a restricted diet. Because potassium accelerates the condition, as does protein, Jim has had to abandon foods like potatoes and bananas.

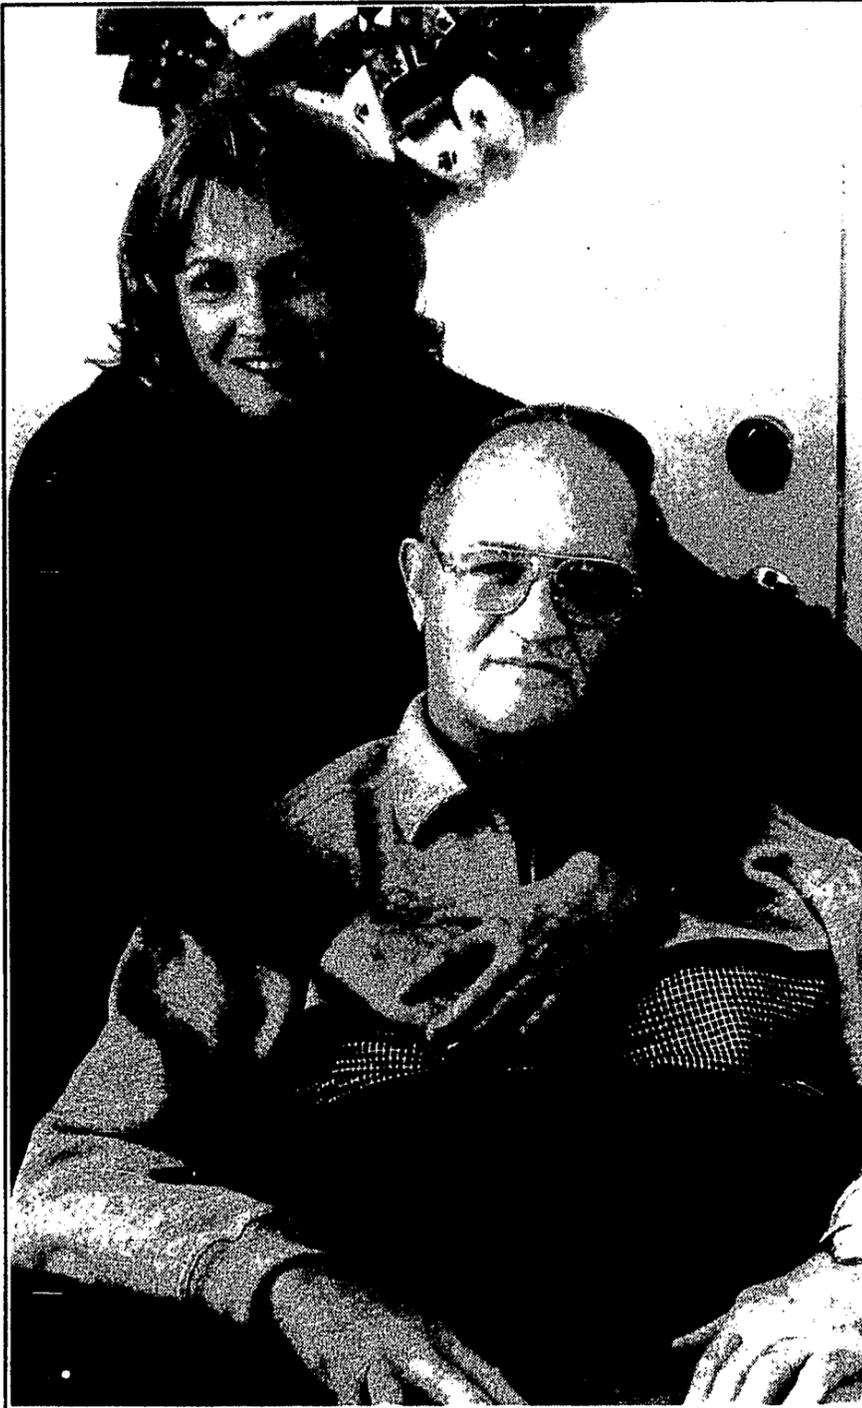

"No red meat, no fresh fruits or vegetables. I could eat lettuce if I soaked it for two hours."

"It was really hard cooking for him," adds Ardis, his wife. With a chuckle, Jim admits he's "cheated" from time to time, on foods he should not eat, but has pretty much remained faithful -- and resigned -- to his daily regimen.

Jim's weight has dropped from 213 to 180 since he retired, and his doctor wants him to lose even more. But he's already so weak. "You retain fluid more. You're short of breath ... At one time, I could cut the grass and stop one time. Now I stop four or five times."

"There's some days he doesn't have enough energy to walk across the street," adds Ardis. The two spend time watching TV, and Jim likes to fuss with the computer, but he wishes he could be his old self.

Son Jim Jr. -- one of the couple's three triplets (their birth was chronicled in a July, 1965 edition of The Clarkston News) -- cuts the lawn most of the time and also snowplows their driveway. Their other children include Deeann, fellow triplets Tom Davis and Nancy Snyder, a clerk at Farmer Jack on Sashabaw Road, and older sister Sherry Wicker.

Jim says he still tries to help out as much as he can around the house.

"We share the housework pretty much," he says of Ardis. "She's got two dishwashers. She's got the automatic one and she's got me."

Over the last 18 years, his creatinine level has been dangerously climbing. According to the National Kidney Foundation, a normal person's level is around 1.0. Jim's was 2.8 when the kidney problem was detected. It rose higher over the years, even with all the precautions he took.

Things really took a turn for the worse one hot day last August. Jim was building a shed in the back yard, and though he was working slowly, and drinking plenty of lemonade, "I got dehydrated."

He went in for his regular blood tests, and they confirmed "my kidneys were continuing to fail." His creatinine level had skyrocketed to 6. Instead of calling the doctor for his results, as he usually does, "He called me."

His physician, Dr. Ravi Parasuraman, senior staff of nephrology at Henry Ford, decided an access (shunt) should be put in, to ready him for dialysis. Kidney patients typically spend four hours, three days a week, at the hospital for the treatments, which filter waste from the system. Jim had nearly decided he wanted to opt for home dialysis. "You sleep on it and unplug it after you wake up."

That's when Deeann stepped in. She decided to voluntarily submit herself to testing, since the other option was a kidney transplant.

"I knew we matched blood types (A positive) right away," explains

Deeann. She and Jim underwent a series of tests and x-rays, including sessions with psychologists. Deeann says she has no fear of the surgery in which one of her two kidneys will be removed, via a four-inch incision under one of her arms.

"I've had a few surgeries, so I'm scarred up anyway," she laughs. "He's the one who could go through the rejection ..."

"Dialysis would just be prolonging life. This would give him quality of life."

Maurie Ferriter, director of programs and services for National Kidney Foundation of Michigan's Ann Arbor office, confirmed Jim's creatinine level was much higher than the norm. Even a level of 2 will tell you, "you've lost 50 percent of your kidney function," Ferriter said. At 6, he said, it's certainly time to take action.

"A person can live with over 15 percent function of a kidney. When it drops below that level, it's time to get dialysis or a transplant or the person will die." He said the risk depends on a series of variables, however, individual to the person.

He called Jim's level "abnormally high. He's already lost half of his kidney function." Kidney transplants have a 10 to 12 year life expectancy, he said.

"You're talking to someone who's had a cadaver kidney for 14 years. However, that's not the normal," Ferriter said, adding the body still recognizes the transplant as foreign tissue. If the kidney fails, "you go to dialysis or have another transplant -- if medically possible."

Ferriter said it is very possible Jim suffered the kidney damage from the nonsteroidal, anti-inflammatory drug he took for his arthritis. For people suffering from that condition, "You should consult with your physician and have kidney tests run."

Ferriter said over-the-counter, anti-inflammatory medications such as the common Motrin can cause kidney failure -- when a kidney problem is already present. Of course, Jim didn't know that. That's why Ferriter says one of the Foundation's primary jobs is to educate people about prevention.

His associate, Katie Spillane Knights, director of development, agrees. "Arthritis, diabetes and hypertension (sufferers) make up 75 percent of all new kidney failures each year," she said.

Ferriter said the outlook is good, with a 90 percent success rate for kidneys donated by a cadaver. If the person is living, the rate is slightly higher, 95 percent. The bottom line is, Deeann was a perfect match.

Deeann was told the only risk she'd have is if damage -- say, from a car accident -- hurt her lone, remaining kidney. She is expecting a "two-day" hospital stay, so her husband will take two weeks off while she recuperates.

Business students win big at competition

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

Area students in the Business Services and Technology program at Oakland Technical Center Northwest Campus earned some prestigious awards recently.

The students took five first-place awards at the Business Professionals of America Academic Regional Competition at Baker College January 14, and seven will go on to the state competition in March.

The categories included economic research, desktop publishing, keyboarding and entrepreneurship.

Clarkston High School senior Becky Olive placed in three categories. She took firsts in administrative assistant and office specialist, and second in financial math and analysis.

Olive said a variety of office duties were required in the administrative assistant and office specialist categories. The financial math and analysis category required she answer 50 multiple choice business math questions.

She also received a scholarship to Baker College, and said she plans to study math and business there for two years.

Future hairstylist Darcie Phinney took first place in the entrepreneur category. The Brandon High School senior presented a 10-page business plan on opening her own beauty salon.

"I didn't realize how much work it took to own a salon," she said. Phinney said she had to research the amount of money it would take to lease a building and remodel, pay for insurance and equipment and hire employees.

Phinney, who hopes to own her own salon someday, has already graduated from the Michigan College of Beauty and can begin work as soon as she passes the state exam and receives her license.

Brandon senior Shelly Warren took fourth place in desktop publishing. She made business cards, letterheads, ads and luggage tags. She plans to study hotel and restaurant management at Oakland Community College next year.

Third place in keyboarding went to Greater Life Academy junior Melissa Adcock. She was required to type a memo, letter, table and report. She plans to study at OCC after high school, then transfer to University of Michigan.

Holly McNeil, an American Home School senior, took first place in economic research with partner Alicia Hickey, a senior at Brandon. Hickey also won a TV, said McNeil.

The pair submitted a five-page report on their assigned topic, the Euro dollar, three weeks prior to the competition. They then made a five-minute oral presentation without props to the judges, followed by a question-and-answer session.

Holly also took fourth place in the office specialist category, which required her to do office tasks like typing memos and proofreading. She wants to attend OCC part time and said she's interested in office work.

CHS in the spotlight

TV commercial filmed at CHS

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

Although they didn't have speaking parts, some Clarkston High School students may enjoy celebrity status thanks to a commercial that was filmed at the school last week, under the direction of 1985 CHS graduate Dawnaree Demrose.

A film crew from Detroit's Channel 62 CBS WWJ-TV filmed students in different settings throughout the building on Friday. And In-Depth Detroit anchor, Rich Mayk, was filmed in one classroom, promoting careers based on "chance, not choice."

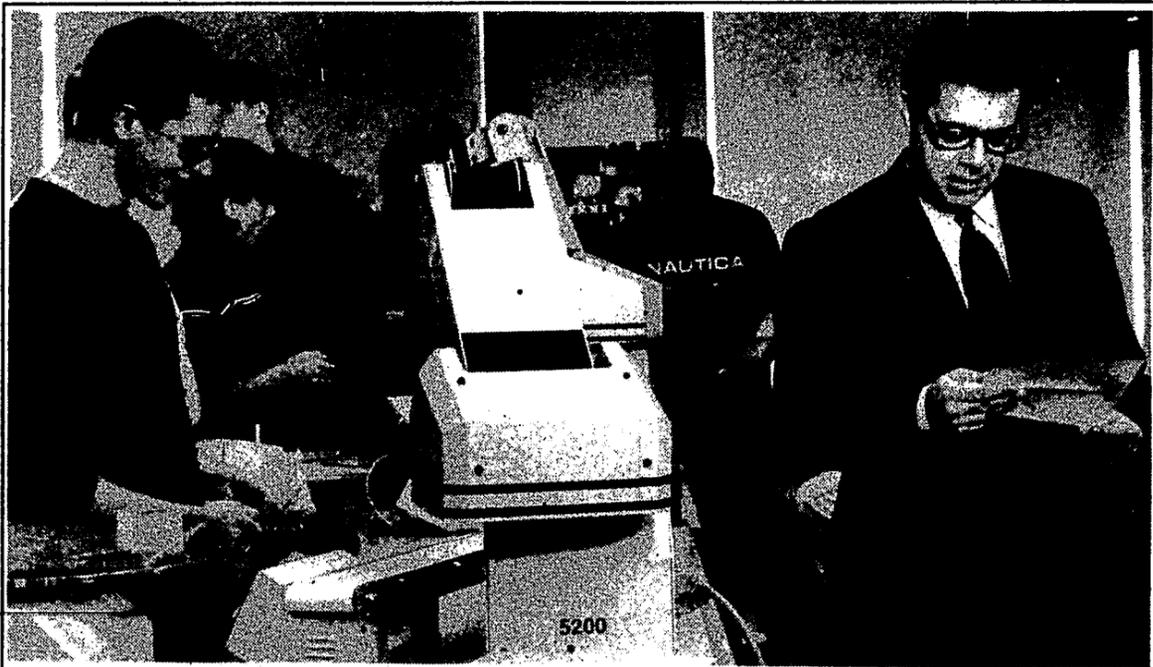

The commercial was filmed for the Southeastern Michigan Regional Career Preparation System Leadership Team. The organization consists of one representative per county whose job it is to make sure career preparation is instituted in each school in each county, from kindergarten through college, said Demrose, corporate marketing executive for the station.

"It will be an ongoing commercial for career preparation. It has an element of an educational development plan for counselors and teachers, to make children prepared to have the career of their choice, not chance, based on their own interests and aptitudes," she said.

The group has been in existence for five years, and was initiated by Gov. John Engler with grant money to implement the program in the representatives districts, Demrose said.

"They chose our station to create an awareness in the marketplace. The commercial will first be shown in Southeastern Michigan, but the state will use the leadership team as a template to create a state-wide focus. They may use the commercial or some footage of it around the state," she added.

Penny Shanks, executive director of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, said Demrose is a Chamber member and decided to use CHS as the "Jan Meagher (CHS assistant principal) and everybody at CHS was so organized and helpful -- the shoot went so smoothly, we had 15 minutes to spare," said Demrose.

The commercial should air next week. Demrose said she would alert The Clarkston News so word can be passed along to viewers.

Don't stop the music

Sportsmanlike conduct among players and staff has long been a top priority for Clarkston athletics. With few exceptions, student athletes, staff, volunteers and fans exhibit behavior to be proud of. Clarkston is also known for strong support of its athletic teams at contests away and at home:

That is why one incident which took place at the Clarkston-Troy hockey game Saturday night is particularly disturbing.

During play on the ice at the Troy Sports Arena, a Troy player held Wolves' co-captain Anthony Facione down on the ice with a hockey stick across the side of his throat. The incident took place behind the Clarkston goal.

At the same time, less than 10 feet away, a referee was keeping watch on a scramble in front of the Clarkston net which resulted in a goal for Troy. If the referee saw the Troy player's cheap shot on Facione, he gave no indication — no penalty was called.

The game was also attended by the Wolves Pack — the CHS pep band, which led the Clarkston fans in support of the team during lulls in play, time-outs, and the few seconds before the puck is dropped in a face-off. During the second period, they were asked to stop playing by Troy's athletic director.

It turns out there is a rule about bands from opposing teams playing at games that governs when students can play and conduct.

There was no Troy pep band, only canned sports music between periods and occasionally during the lulls, face-offs and time-outs. Student band director Blake Coe said he spoke to Troy's person in charge of the music before the game and got the OK to play. The Clarkston Wolves Pack was well behaved and courteous as usual, as were the fans. But rules are rules.

Coe said the Wolves Pack has played at two home hockey games and three away games. Only once have they seen another pep band — for the first period at the Royal Oak Unified game at Royal Oak last month.

Coe said he's heard the band keeps the players fired up and they appreciate the support, especially at away games. The fans feel the same way. Pep bands add spirit and soul to school sporting events, and zesty, competitive fun if there are opposing bands at one event.

The Wolves clinched the league title in their win over Troy Saturday, and it was a sweet victory, indeed.

Revenge may be sweet, but it is sweeter to be part of a team and a community with an old-fashioned sense of honor and good sportsmanship. MKC

Paid for gas, got something else

Dear Editor,

Having been one of the customers who pumped more water than gas into my gas tank on Friday, Feb. 4 at the Clarkston Speedway gas station, I would like to thank Oakland County deputies Presnell and Vanderver for their professional assistance and understanding at the Speedway station.

Had it not been for these two deputies, a lot of frustrated customers with water-filled gas tanks and autos that wouldn't run long enough to leave the station could still be there.

Possibly Speedway could take note of the way these deputies assisted the gas station's paying customers instead of the way the Speedway personnel, especially Speedway's district manager, handled the situation.

Thanks again,
Rick Schwarb

New dog license deadline -- get them now

Dear Editor,

This year Oakland County Animal Control has moved up deadlines to purchase dog tags. Year 2000 tags have been on sale at the township since Dec. 1.

In order to avoid the late fee you must purchase your dog tags by Feb. 29. This is a change from previous years when the county deadline was May 31.

The cost, if paid by Feb. 29 is $7.50 for a neutered or spayed dog, and $15 for a dog not fixed. Seniors (65 or older) pay a reduced rate of $6.75 for a neutered or spayed dog and $13.50 for a dog not neutered.

Starting March 1, all dog tags will cost $30 regardless of the sex of the dog or age of the owner. The only exception will be for a newly-acquired dog or one four months or younger.

Verification of rabies vaccination and sterilization papers are required to purchase a dog license.

If you have any questions, please contact the Treasurer's office at 625-5111 ext. 211, 212 or 248.

It would be a dog-gone shame to miss the deadline.

Innocent childhood friendships

I don't cry very much. It gives me a headache, and I'm vain enough to not want to be seen in public with red, puffy eyes and streaks of make-up on my face. Normally, I can reroute my thoughts — put off emotional tuggings until I'm alone, or the intensity of a situation naturally wears off.

But a recent encounter with an old friend caught me off guard, and there I was, in the middle of a mall, tearing up like a guest on Oprah.

I ran into Mary Ann Brecht, whose son Chris was close friends with my son Pat from kindergarten at Pine Knob Elementary School until ninth grade. That's when Chris started attending St. Mary's in Orchard Lake, and Pat went on to Clarkston High School. Over the last four years, the friendship gradually dwindled. Both boys will graduate this spring.

A few years ago, I asked Pat what he remembered about his first day of kindergarten. To my great surprise he said, "Seeing Chris's face and wanting to be his friend."

The boys were a joy to have around from the beginning. They were spunky, giggly, active little monkeys, and were happy together in almost any setting. They spent time together after school, on weekends and during vacations.

Chris came up north with our family and Pat traveled to Florida with Chris' family, and their friendship continued as they matured. They enjoyed the same movies and hobbies — especially fishing, golf and that horrid World Wrestling Federation stuff — and until they were separated by schools and developed new interests and friendships with classmates, they stayed pretty close.

Rolling Along

Maralee Cook

Mary Ann and I had one of those great, easy-going, casual friendships centered around our kids' activities. We shared news about our families, work or hobbies, minor gripes and groans. Although we never became close, I liked her tremendously, and enjoyed the time we spent together. But when the boys drifted apart, so did we, and have rarely bumped into each other over the last four years.

So I was totally startled by my reaction to seeing her last month. At the mall we exchanged pleasantries — news about the boys, and our two oldest kids who are both away at college. My husband Ty was waiting for me in the car, so we kept our conversation short. We promised to get together for lunch, and Mary Ann invited us to come to Chris' graduation party. (After witnessing all the hoopla around his sister's graduation party two years ago, Pat has said "no way" to one of his own.)

After saying good-bye, I took my purchases (two purses for the price of one!) up to the check-out counter with tears welling up in my eyes. By the time I got in the car I was sobbing so hard I could hardly breathe.

I know this is just one of those "mother" passages; one I'll come to understand sometime in the future.

Pat's and Chris' friendship, and I suppose Mary Ann's and mine as well, was part of the sweetness of the childhood of our young men.

I don't know if the boys yet grasp the specialness of innocent childhood friendships — I suspect not.

But I hope they will keep a place in their hearts for those memories. I know I will.

As for lunch with Mary Ann in a public place, or attending Chris' graduation party, I'm not so sure. Perhaps if I bring my Advil, wear big "Jackie O" sunglasses, don't wear any makeup...

Valentine, sweet Valentine

I consider myself a red-blooded, all-American kind of guy. At times, of course, this makes me a male chauvinist type pig. I guess it goes with the territory. That said, I can admit that I have always enjoyed the company of the fairer sex (there I go again. Dang, those chauvinistic tendencies are hard to shake).

The first gal I hung around was a skinny kid named Teri. I can't remember her last name, but I can still recall her freckled face, short brownish-red hair and the fact that she lived right across from the playground at Ashcroft Elementary School in Redford Township.

We were an item from kindergarten until I moved to Clarkston in the third grade.

In Clarkston, the flame of my heart was Cheri — she stayed there through high school. Of course, she never knew the pitter patter of my heart. I think that secret crush started in the fourth grade with a class field trip to Greenfield Village. I was thrilled when the teacher told the class to hold hands with each other as we walked through the parking lot because I was strategically located next to Cheri.

Valentine's Day in elementary school is big business. With construction paper, markers and crayons, each kid carefully designs and creates their own mailbox for collecting Valentine's Day cards from classmates. These cards of course came by the gross in a box, parents had to buy the weekend before.

These cards were small with cute animals and sayings, like: I think you're just ducky. And pictured was a duckling holding a heart, or something. I always saved the "best" Valentine's cards for her.

Ah, puppy love, tragic as it is, it's nice to look back and smile. The world spins and each of us grows up (and in my case I have the added bonus of growing out, too) and love finally lands on your doorstep.

It's a tough old road, but, somehow it finds you. For some, the road is harder and longer. It wasn't until my thirty-somethings that it found me. I wasn't looking, figured I made the wrong turn at Albuquerque when I found my Valentine.

Or, rather she found me. Why she chose me I don't know and frankly, I don't care. I was taught early on not to look a gift-horse in the mouth and to count my blessings. Through the fog of all the girls, puppy loves and broken hearts, Jen shines brilliantly through as my Valentine, and for that I thank the Lord every night.

There's only one problem, though: What do you give the woman who has given all that she is, to you? What sort of Valentine's Day gift can be good enough to give to the person who trusts you enough not only with her life, but the lives she has borne?

As the average American male, I inherently have a hard time choosing the right gift. For any occasion, not just Valentine's Day.

"Here, Honey. It's the sewing machine you've been wanting. Happy birthday!" just doesn't sound good. I have found that vacuums don't make good Christmas presents, either. Actually, true to their design, they suck.

When you throw the love of your life into the Valentine's Day, gift-giving mix, you got a heap of pressure coming down on you. What "something" will show her just how wonderful she is, how much you care and how grateful you are? Can you buy that something and if so, where?

A simple "I love you," doesn't seem enough. Got any suggestions for the goo-goo eyed Rushman? E-mail Dontrushme@juno.com or dontrushmedon@aol.com

"I would say Freddie Prinze, Jr. or Ben Affleck."

"Probably Rebecca Stamos. She's a model."

"Christina Aguilera."

You know they're lying, their lips move

Ours may be the greatest country in the world, but lordy it's exasperating to see how it's run.

Our government lies to us, and hides things from us.

The leaders of our government lie, even under oath, and they beg the opposition to not run a negative, dirty campaign.

Recently an American college librarian was released from prison in China after serving six months for smuggling state secrets.

Song Yongyi said he was doing research on China's Cultural Revolution. The Chinese government said he was smuggling.

Upon his release, Song said, "In China we have a saying that the small officer gives small lies, bigger officers gives bigger lie and the state department gives the biggest lie."

That saying applies in America, too.

Since the beginning of the Manhattan Project in 1943 that developed the first atomic bombs, our government has minimized the risks to workers handling radio active materials at up to 14 plants.

Our government lied to the 600,000 American workers who worked in the plant . . . workers who have been found to have elevated cancer rates.

Now our Energy Secretary Bill Richardson says those exposed and the survivors should be compensated. How do you compensate those who might have leukemia, Hodgkin's lymphoma and prostate, kidney, salivary gland and lung cancer?

Why did our government continue a lie that dates to the 1940s?

One of my brothers, in his youthful days, said, "Why tell the truth when a lie will do just as good?"

Government heard him, believed him, and we've seen and heard our president lie to us, our vice president say he didn't say what he actually did say, and various other people in government coming down with, what Hazel says I sometimes have, a 'convenient' memory.

Some of our money reads: "In God We Trust," and cynics add: "All others pay cash!"

Those running our governments and those wishing to, all want our trust, but to get that trust they must tell the truth. They must pay cash.

The "mass" media, or is that "mess," and politicians running for office seem to think the public hates negative campaigning, and bring it up endlessly.

Don't let this be a mud-throwing contest, don't mash your opponent, be nice, each says to the other.

But, in truth, the mass media loves it when one calls the other a liar. And, so does the public. We love repeating juicy rumors. We love hearing the 'other side' bashed. We love it as long as it's not us our our side.

Teens run all the way to finals in Junior Olympics

Place in top one-third of national competition at South Carolina

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With young talent like Mark Sitko, Jared Elmore and Evan Schneider, the Clarkston cross country and track teams should be in good shape for some time to come.

The three Clarkston boys competed in the Junior Olympics this past fall, quite a feat considering two of them are freshmen and one is only in eighth grade.

Sitko traded in his soccer cleats for running shoes and ran on the Clarkston cross country team last fall. The decision to take up running has proved to be a good one for Sitko, who credits his soccer background for much of his running success.

"I got tired of soccer and wanted to try something new," Sitko said. "Soccer really conditioned me well though and put me in good shape to run."

Sitko and his two friends, Elmore and Schneider began their quest for national recognition at Metro Beach Metro Park, in the first of three two and a half mile races. There, Sitko took second place, Elmore fourth and Schneider took sixth.

It was at that race where Sitko said he discovered his running niche.

"I did a lot better than I expected," Sitko said. "After that race I thought I had some ability."

Elmore, who's been running since he was in the sixth grade said he got his start in running because of his father.

"I knew I wanted to run once I saw my dad's medals," Elmore said. "I started out in first place and ended up taking fourth. It was cold, but it was still a pretty easy race."

Schneider said running against high schoolers and extra preparation gave him an edge in the race.

"It gave me some adrenelin when I found out I'd be running against older kids," Schneider said. "I got there early and walked the course to get familiar with it."

After the Metro Beach race, the boys headed to Lexington, Ky. for the regionals race.

There, Elmore took eighth place, Sitko took 10th place and Schneider took 19th.

Sitko said he gained more confidence after regionals.

"I did better in Kentucky than I expected," Sitko said. "I became a lot more confident and got better at pacing my running."

Elmore said the two and a half mile regional race was a high point in his running career.

"At the two-mile point I was 15th and I finished 8th. That was one of my best races," Elmore said.

Schneider said his sixth place finish at the Metro Beach race gave him added confidence, but the course was different than the previous one.

"That one had some long rolling hills, and Metro Beach was pretty flat," Schneider said. "I knew that I was in good shape and if I ran my hardest I'd probably make it to nationals. They only took the top 20 spots, and it was the first time I'd beaten the only other kid who's beaten me so far. He took 21st."

With the Metro Beach and Lexington races already under their belts, the three boys then headed to the national competition in Spartanburg, S.C. where they ran in the 13-14 year old age group. Roughly 400 runners competed at the national competition last Dec. 11.

There, Schneider and Sitko placed in the top third of the group.

"I was nervous, very nervous. I expected to do better, but I wasn't disappointed," Sitko said.

Elmore said the heat caused him problems during the race.

"It was real hot and I got dehydrated," Elmore said. "I think I did okay, but those were the best runners in the nation."

Both Sitko and Elmore said they plan on running cross country and the one or two-mile in track for their next three years at Clarkston. Schneider is still debating on whether or not he'll run cross country next fall as a freshman, but said he'll run track.

"The national competition was a great experience," Schneider said. "I knew I wouldn't do as well as the other two races, but it was still a good experience."

Sitko said the seniors on this year's cross country team and coach Mike Taylor have helped him.

"They've been a big help and have taught me a lot about running," Sitko said.

After Shedding 49 Lbs., Stacey Harrington Says... "Hypnosis Put Me Back in Control!"

My name is Stacey Harrington. I am a homemaker and a part-time bookkeeper. This is my true story. I will tell you how I dropped 49 pounds in five short months. And how I made my marriage sizzle. I'm sharing my story because I know that if you are reading this, you may be feeling just as miserable and desperate as I was only a year ago...

by Stacey Harrington

"So when's your baby due?" my husband's uncle asked, staring at my bulging stomach. "I'm not expecting," I said, my cheeks burning with shame.

When I got home, I stared at my reflection in the mirror. Tears streamed down my cheeks. It was true. I was that fat.

"I couldn't stop eating..."

I had become overweight during my first year of college. I gained the "Freshman 15." My weight kept adding on from there. In desperation, I started dieting. My weight went up and down like a yo-yo.

On one of the national diet programs I finally lost some of my weight for my wedding. I felt starved and deprived. Once I stopped the program, I gained my weight back plus more. I had tried every diet imaginable and here I was at a disgusting weight once again.

I was desperate. Yet I couldn't stop eating. I craved and binged. Every day I'd hide a sleeve of chips in my desk drawer. I hid it for two reasons. First, I was already so overweight. I didn't want people to see me scarfing down potato chips. Secondly, I didn't want to share them. I wanted them all to myself!

One day I saw a story in the newspaper about a woman who had lost 47 lbs. with hypnosis. She looked so pretty and confident and sexy in her "after" picture. I told my sister, I want to look just like her! I called to schedule my free hypnotic screening.

Glimmer of Hope:

I was impressed with Positive Changes Hypnosis right off the bat. I watched a video

"My weight went up and down like a yo-yo." Stacey Harrington before Hypnosis in all. When I first started Positive Changes I was stretching the seams on my size 16 jeans. I recently bought my first pair of size 6's. That's when I knew I had reached my goal. I cried tears of joy!

Easy and Fun!

Hypnosis made my weight loss easy and fun! I don't feel like I'm depriving myself. I don't fight it with willpower. It's automatic.

Being in hypnosis is serenity itself. Any worries or cares seem to drift away. I walk away from my sessions feeling refreshed and in control of my life.

Passport to a New Life
I used to let the scale determine my mood in the morning. Now, I just wake up in a good mood. I no longer think about my weight.

Before hypnosis I stayed home all the time. I didn't want people to see me. My clothes were too tight. I was lethargic. Now I'm out and about all the time. My friends call me an energizer bunny. I always have a smile on my face.

Diet programs never gave me the confidence I've gained since being hypnotized. I've thrown out all my fat clothes. I would never have done that before. That's how confident I am that I've lost my weight for good.

Sleek and Sexy
Thanks to Positive Changes Hypnosis, I get compliments daily. My mother recently came to visit. Her jaw dropped when she stepped off the plane. I saw an old friend the other day. He barely recognized me. "Wow," he said. "How did you do it?" He was astounded when I told him hypnosis.

The best compliment of all came from my husband. One night he gazed into my eyes and said, "Stacey, I think you're the sexiest woman alive." The best part was that I believed him. I actually felt sexy. Our passion has been sizzling ever since.

Success Happens

I would say Positive Changes Hypnosis was the smartest investment of my life. I'm saving money every week because I no longer crave junk food and fast food. Just a short year ago I never would have believed it possible.

With hypnosis I feel 100% in control. I love it! I have control of what I eat. Control of how I look. Best of all, my "after" picture is sleek and sexy and confident. I owe it all to Positive Changes Hypnosis.

So that's my story. Everything you've read is 100% true. I have not been paid to write this article. I believe in Positive Changes Hypnosis. They've given me my life back.

Now it's up to you. If you're feeling miserable and desperate about your weight, don't wait another minute. Don't suffer another second. Just pick up the phone and call Positive Changes Hypnosis.

Don't worry. They won't pressure you. If they don't think hypnosis is right for you, they will tell you so.

So call now. If you're like me, it will be the best decision of your life.

Sweetheart, sweetheart, sweetheart

Today is for sweethearts and tonight is for singing about them. In a musical valentine for the Clarkston community, Miriam Parr and Larry Bate will sing love songs at 7:30 p.m. at the Depot Theatre, 4861 White Lake Road. Miriam and Larry, who are engaged, are members of the Clarkston Village Players, and tonight's concert will benefit that organization. Admission is $3 for a single or $5 for two sweethearts.

School site chosen

A new Clarkston junior high school would be built next to the school district administration building, if voters decided to finance the project.

The 45-acre parcel on the south side of Clarkston-Orion Road was picked as the site for the proposed school because it is served by sewer and water lines.

The Clarkston School Board Monday night noted the other possible site, 56 acres the district owns at Bridge Lake and Holcomb roads, would require construction of a sewage treatment plant before it could be used for a school.

"Over a 10-year period, it would mean a quarter-million-dollar difference in operating," said School Trustee Vincent Luzzi in explaining his "yes" vote on the selected site.

The school board selected a site for the proposed building in preparation for a June bond election on a junior high school and improvements at the high school.

The site must be known by the architect before he can come up with a design on which to base a cost estimate.

A new junior high school, which the board is planning to be comparable to Sashabaw Junior High, would share the Clarkston-Orion Road parcel with the administration building and the Independence Township Library.

Independence gearing for police cuts

By Kathy Greenfield
Staff writer

Proposed rates for Oakland County Sheriff's deputies show a cost increase of 10 percent over last year.

The proposed budget for Independence Township police services suggests dealing with higher costs by cutting "one or two daytime deputies" and providing daytime police protection with officers from the local department, according to Supervisor Whitey Tower.

Tower stressed, however, that the township budget is only proposed and could change drastically before approved by the township board.

Last year, the police services budget was presented at least four times before approval was given, he said.

Township Director of Police Services Charles Kimbel refused to discuss the proposed budget.

"I'll have to let Mr. Tower do that," Kimbel said. "He'll have to release any information on the budget."

"I don't handle the purse strings, I can only try and convince them my way is best," Kimbel said, adding, "If only the millage had passed..."

Tower attended a meeting regarding the sheriff's contract last week.

The meeting, attended by eight township supervisors that have contracted sheriff's deputies in their communities, was requested to discuss the proposed contract with the Oakland County Budgeting Division represented by James Brennan.

"Rather than each individual supervisor throw out their comments at Jim, we asked to meet with him to go over the proposed budget," Tower said.

"We didn't get an awful lot done," he said. "Disappointingly enough, not too many arguments. Mainly just a 10 percent increase again."

Deputies have been contracted by the township since 1974, the first year the contracted services were offered, Tower said.

"I guess this year, we have less to argue about," he said, adding that most problems have been solved in the past.

One item discussed was the possibility of a two-year contract, but Tower said he does not think the county will consider lengthening the contract.

Pending problems with changes in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) was another area discussed.

Of the five deputies presently contracted by the township, one is a CETA employee.

"So that position may be lost to us," Tower said, adding there is a possibility of rehiring under different guidelines of a new road patrol program by the state.

"One thing we are looking heavily at is the writing up of local ordinances," Tower said.

As it stands now, deputies do not use local ordinances and most of the money does not come back to the township.

Following state guidelines, the main return is about $4,000 allocated to the local library from fines levied.

"If we take it on ourselves to write all local tickets, we have to prosecute," Tower said.

The next scheduled meeting for a presentation of the proposed sheriff's contract by the county public services committee is Feb. 20, Tower said.

If all goes smoothly, the contract prices should be set in early March by the County Board of Commissioners, Tower said.

As in the past, three rates for deputies have been proposed.

The base rate of $32,448 per deputy is the lowest, up from $29,979 last year.

In past years, the proposed base rate was used with slight reductions at times, Tower said.

Fire chief can 'do' with new hairstyle

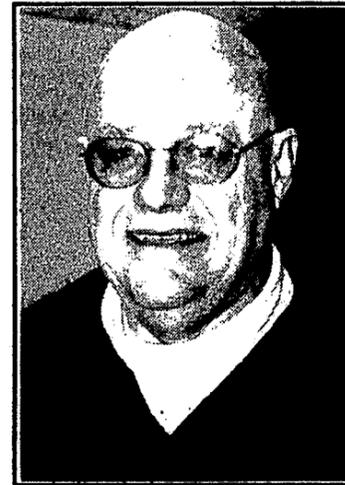

He's in fine company, with the likes of Grant Hill, Mr. Clean and Jesse Ventura -- although he has no plans to run for governor.

However, Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson is happy with his new do. Or un-do, depending on which way you look at it.

After 56 years, Wilson has returned to the ... er, roots ... he had as a baby. He shaved his head last week. "I love it," Wilson said, adding he should have done it years ago.

The first stage was a 1/8-inch buzz cut, given to him by his local stylist. But Wilson didn't like it, so he shaved the whole thing off in the shower, using a safety razor.

Wilson says he had super-bad-hair days -- everyday. "My hair is so thin, it's baby people say, 'You had good hair before.'" fine. I don't have a lot of hair anyway," Wilson quipped. "I had to spray it all the time, just to keep it in place. I finally said to heck with it." He can maintain the look with a battery-operated, wet-and-dry razor. "You can just lather it up in the shower and do it then."

Chief Gar Wilson

Wilson said he can really feel the wind whip around his scalp now -- and will have to wear a hat for the rest of the winter. "The same thing for the summer," he added.

His wife will have to get used to the new look, although she encouraged him to go for it. Friends have been heads up about the change, but he's been surprised by some of their comments. "I've had some

Police and fire

Sunday, Feb. 6, phone threats on Mann while a resident's caller ID was unhooked. Police said the calls sounded like they were made by a teenage boy disguising his voice.

Officers responded to a breaking and entering alarm at a home on Green View. An open window was found but no footprints were seen in the snow. It appeared someone had been painting and possibly left the window open for ventilation. It was secured and a business card was left in the door.

Clerks at a Sashabaw gas station reported three reports of failure to pay for gas during the day. They were advised to check the pumps to see if the gas was being paid for by credit, and to notify management.

Saturday, Feb. 5, a 29-year-old Waterford man was cited for malicious destruction of property after he threw a garbage can, breaking the glass front door at a Dixie bar. A bouncer detained him prior to the incident and escorted him around the bar to look for his girlfriend. When he failed to find her, he was told to leave but refused. He was escorted out, and threw the garbage can. The man was intoxicated and said it took five bouncers to throw him out. He suffered cuts to his face and forehead and was driven home.

A gas pump suffered minimal damage, after an unknown customer pumped gas with the hose still connected to his car. An employee at the Dixie service station said he was talking on his cellphone when the incident occurred, but he paid for his gas.

Larceny of skis, bindings and poles at Pine Knob Ski Resort on Sashabaw.

A 17-year-old Clarkston youth was cited for minor in possession of alcohol when a Dixie bowling lane manager caught him concealing something under his coat. He smelled of intoxicants and said he and his friends found a half case of beer along Dixie Highway. Breath tests revealed a blood alcohol level of .056 (above the zero tolerance law for minors) and he was released to his mother.

Friday, Feb. 4, injury accident at Sashabaw and Pine Knob. A 35-year-old Clarkston man lost control of his car, hit a mailbox and ran into a ditch. He complained of head and shoulder pain and was transported to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Police were called to Clarkston Middle School on Middle Lake Road of a reported kidnapping. A Clarkston resident said his ex-wife, who now lives in San Diego, picked up their 13-year-old daughter without his permission. A neighbor, who arrived to pick the girl up, said she was not there when he arrived at school.

The father's 13-year-old son, also a student there, said he visited with his mother at lunch earlier in the day. She asked him to leave with her, but he refused, saying he didn't want to get into trouble. The father has custody of the children, and the mother has visitation privileges. He was worried that she might have taken his daughter back to California, or even Mexico, and said she frequently flies a national airline.

Police detectives sought a warrant, and found a flight for the mother and daughter was booked at that airline, but they weren't on the plane. They have alerted other police forces to be on the lookout, and continue to contact other airline companies, as well as rental car agencies.

A 21-year-old Clarkston man was spotted parking his car in a fire lane at a Dixie grocery store. When he returned, he told police he was going to move the car for a friend who was shopping. Police said they noticed he was the only occupant of the car, and he admitted he lied because he had a suspended driver's license. He was cited for that offense, and his license plate was confiscated and replaced with a paper license plate.

A Dixie grocery store's video security system caught a female customer removing photos from their packages and stuffing them in her purse. She told police she had no intent of stealing them and would have paid at the checkout. However, the store manager said he confronted her earlier and she denied having them. She was cited for larceny in a building.

Thursday, Feb. 3, larceny of man's skis with poles from Pine Knob Ski Resort.

A 41-year-old Clarkston man was picked up on Clintonville for an outstanding felony warrant out of 52-2 District Court.

A female customer said her driver's side mirror was damaged and pulled off in a car wash at a Sashabaw gas station. The station agreed to replace it.

Wednesday, Feb. 2, phone threats and harassment on Elk Run. The resident, who runs a home business, said she has been bothered by a male caller who rants and raves about being Lucifer. He says he has to destroy the devil and calls them all devils. The man also states he is going to hit the lottery and become a millionaire. She has notified the phone company as well as police, who traced the calls to an unpublished number. When it rings, a high-pitched sound like a fax machine is heard.

Tuesday, Feb. 1, civil matter custody dispute on Dora.

Suicidal subject on S. River. A 34-year-old man was taken to a local hospital for psychiatric evaluation.

A Clarkston teenager returned to her car on Sashabaw and found scratches and obscenities on one window.

Larceny of an AM/FM cassette radio, two cell phones, a radar detector, snow skis, ski boots, 50 tapes and sunglasses from a Chevy Lumina on Parview. There were no signs of forced entry.

Monday, Jan. 31, a 41-year-old S. River man was arrested for domestic violence after he allegedly struck his 36-year-old girlfriend. He was taken to Oakland County Jail.

Springfield Twp. police

Sunday, Jan. 30 -- Larceny of a snowblower from a residence on Sunset Cove. The owner found it missing from his garage Jan. 29; the item is valued at $740.99. The owner said he is unsure if the garage door was left open at the time of the theft or had been forced open.

Saturday, Feb. 5 -- Malicious destruction of property at Pine Lake subdivision. The president of the sub homeowners association reported someone drove through the gates to the sub, causing damage. There are no suspects at this time.

Springfield Twp. fire

The week of Feb. 1-6, 2000, the Springfield Township Fire Department responded to three calls for medical assistance and two personal injury accidents.

Feb. 3 -- Call for personal injury accident at southbound I-75 and Dixie Highway. Two injuries were reported.

Feb. 4 -- Call for personal injury accident at the intersection of I-75 and East Holly Road. Nothing was found at the scene when firefighters arrived.

Cost is $25 per person and includes buffet dinner, dancing to DJ music, a cash bar, silent auction and a 50/50 raffle. Hosts are Diane Kwitowski, Rayna Handleman-Pyle and Beverly Weddle.

For information and tickets, contact Beverly Weddle at 248-625-9063. Tickets are also available at the door. No children under 12 may attend.

Derek and Danielle have been working hard to raise money for the cost of the program. They both have been involved in community service for 10 years, winning many awards. They collected hats, socks, mittens and money during past Christmas seasons to donate to the Oakland County Children's Village, 1989 to 1997. They both attend Calvary Lutheran Church.

They are the grandchildren of the late Delton Lohff. He was very active in the community and was the former owner of Kieft Engineering, and a long-time member of the Rotary Club.

Donations for the silent auction are also needed.

Bad gas burns motorists

to warn people with cries of "Don't pump the gas" but "there were so many people yelling, I couldn't hear myself yelling... I think Statewide Towing towed about 20 cars."

Presnell said a "big suit" came out of the service station who was identified as Malty. Presnell said he told the crowd, "That wasn't water. It was just sediment." One customer said, "Irregardless, my car doesn't run good on sediment."

It was quite a scene, Presnell said. "The customers were filling up pop bottles. You could actually see one color here and another color there."

Presnell handed out papers and pencils, so people could record their complaints and exchange phone numbers. He told them the issue was now a civil matter between themselves and Speedway.

Schwarb said his whole afternoon was "shot." He spent $507 to get the problem corrected, which included cleaning out the fuel tank and fuel injection system, draining the fuel and "putting some good gas in it." The process took three-and-a-half hours, he said.

Schwarb called Speedway Super America's toll-free number and was told he could turn in receipts for the bad gas and repair work and he would be reimbursed.

Speedway's station manager declined to comment. District manager Art Malty did not return calls to The Clarkston News.

Chuck Rice, manager of communications for Speedway's corporate office in Enon, Ohio, confirmed Monday that customers affected by Friday's incident will be reimbursed. They are advised to call Speedway's customer service number at 1-800-643-1948.

"Legitimate complaints are being investigated," Rice said. "There are also other things we can do," he added. For instance, if repair work is lengthy, "we can provide them with a rental vehicle."

The cause of the bad gas is under investigation. "We have a feeling we received a bad shipment of gasoline," Rice said, adding the occurrence was extraordinary. The problem could be a phenomena called "phase separation," he said.

People may have witnessed this occurrence when they filled up the pop bottles. "Good gas is not supposed to separate. It's supposed to be blended," Rice said. The problem could also be temperature-related or a difference between the existing gas in the tanks and the new product, he added. "There are lots of reasons but it is a rare occurrence," Rice said.

Dawn Gauthier, who lives and works in Grand Blanc, was another customer affected by Friday's incident. Gauthier, who banks in the township, said she was in the area that day to have lunch. Initially, she fared worse than Schwarb. "My car died right in the lot, right at the pump." It cost about $250 for repair work.

"Actually, to me, (Speedway) was pretty good. I faxed them all my bills and stuff. So, they're already on it to reimburse me," Gauthier said.

She felt that, although other customers were irate, it wouldn't do any good to lose her temper.

"I just waited for the cops to come," Gauthier said. "I knew it would be better if I were calm and rational. You get things done a lot quicker if you act that way."

Welcome to 'da Jungle!

Plans for the Class of 2000 post graduation party are well underway.

This year's theme is Welcome to 'da Jungle, but as most people familiar with the annual event know, all the details are kept as secret as possible until the last minute.

The party is at Deer Lake Athletic Club, and begins at 10 p.m., following graduation at Pine Knob Wednesday, June 7. It lasts until 5 a.m.

As in past years, committee members expect about 98 percent attendance by the senior class. "This class likes one another — they like to be together," said publicity chair Brenda Kalush.

A barbecue on the last day of senior classes, June 1, is in the planning stages. It will take place at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road. A decorated car contest and a procession to the park from school plus other activities such as a dunk tank are under consideration. Debbie Clement and Ralph Przybylski are co-chairing the barbecue. If you would like to volunteer, call Clement at 625-9329.

Donations are also needed for the post-graduation party. Kalush said. "The community has been so receptive, and anyone wishing to donate should call Ways and Means Committee Chair Jim Evans at 625-2647."

Parents who would like to volunteer for the post graduation party should call Mickey or Ted Ginn at 625-3459 or Trev Weiss at 620-0091. The next meeting is March 1 at 7 p.m. in the CHS Media Center.

'The basis on which all other personal relationships depend' Honor your father and mother

BY PASTOR MIKE SANDERS
Maranatha Baptist Church

The first four commandments outline the fulfillment of the greatest command, to love God with all our heart, soul and mind. The last six commandments define what is meant by the second greatest command, to love our neighbors as ourselves (Matthew 22:37-40).

It is only fitting that this section of commandments that deals with man's relationships to other men begin with the honoring of parents. This is the first arena of interpersonal relationships and is the basis on which all other personal relationships depend.

By God's standards, honoring parents is not an optional behavior, but a necessary behavior to maintain a right relationship with him and others. According to Old Testament Law, consistent rebellion, striking, cursing or mocking of parents was a capital offense.

For one to properly honor, he must show love and respect to his parents as his natural superiors. While the Bible teaches the equality of all humans, regardless of race or gender, it also delineates various specific role distinctions, one of them being the parent as an authority and the child as their subordinate. Respectful obedience to parents is honorable in God's sight (Ephesians 6:1). It is through this vein that a child's sense of responsibility, accountability, work ethic and response to authority is developed.

Our natural response in life is self-autonomy. Therefore a parent must demand honor from their children at the earliest of ages. Sassing, tantrums, disobedience and rebellious attitudes are part of growing up, but must never be ignored. To lovingly correct your children is not mean; it is actually an expression of our love to them. If a child does not learn to properly respond to parental authority, he will find difficulty in properly responding to his school teachers, government officials and law enforcement officers.

Along with demanding honor, a parent must also teach it by example. While the aspect of obedience diminishes as a child establishes his or her own home, honor is a lifelong obligation. We adults greatly influence our children's perception of honoring by the way we treat our parents who are living and the memories we share about those who have died.

When the care of grandpa or grandpa is viewed as cramping our busy lifestyle, a very important aspect of honoring is lost. What if they had considered us as too much of an inconvenience and neglected to clothe, feed, and change us as helpless infants? As our parents cared for our needs, it is only in honoring that we care for their needs at a time when they are unable to do so themselves.

Contrary to popular thought, it does not take a village to raise a child. It takes parents dedicated to creating a value structure for their children according to the moral truths of God. While honoring father and mother may be supported by other institutions, it is only through the parents that this truth can be taught and truly instilled in a child. Consequently, by doing so the child will not only be pleasing to God, and a joy to his parents, but an exemplary citizen in the community in which he or she lives.

Happy Valentine's Day: Daughter gives kidney to dad

"He thinks it's going to be a piece of cake," she says with a wry grin -- referring to the upkeep of their house and three children -- ages 8, 7 and 6. He told her, she jokes, "not to let them take any important parts."

On a serious note, Jim will have to spend eight to 10 days in the hospital. His new kidney will have to be closely monitored, and doctors will be on the lookout for any rejection.

But he's very optimistic, and a big smile spreads across his face, as he's asked about the first thing he will eat. Deean figures he will respond, "Chili dogs," and thinks it would be great to throw a party -- with plenty of formerly no-no foods.

However, Jim's eyes light up as he answers, "Steak." A neighbor, who is also a friend, has told him, "I'll take you out to eat and you can get anything you want."

Business students

took fourth place in office specialist and received a BPA scholarship and also a $4,000 scholarship to Northwood University, where she intends to study business management and marketing next year. "We had tons of fun and met lots of people," she said of the competition.

Instructor Barb Mack, who's been on the OTC staff for 13 years and teaching this program for one year, said "The girls worked hard and had some fun at it."

The girls will compete in the same categories at the state competition March 17 and 18 at the Renaissance Center.

THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

IN HARM'S WAY

When a person is physically harmed as the result of the negligence of another, the law requires that the plaintiff be restored to his/her pre-injury condition. Both economic (out-of-pocket) and non-economic (loss of physical and mental well-being) losses are restored through monetary compensation. "General damages" refers to such noneconomic losses as "pain and suffering." The valuation of such loss is left largely to the jury's discretion. "Special damages" are those awarded for such compensable harms as medical expenses and lost wages. These can easily be quantified with the help of bills, pay stubs, and the like. The important thing for plaintiffs is to give a full accounting of their losses so they may be properly compensated for them.

How will you protect your family if you are seriously injured? Is there adequate insurance coverage to compensate you? Insurance adjusters are calling wanting to record your statement. They insist you make important decisions. Before talking to anyone, get advice from an experienced lawyer. Here at 11 North Main St., we handle a variety of matters involving personal injury, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, business, real estate, family law, CRIMINAL defense and civil litigation. For an appointment, call 620-1030.

NOTE: Nominal damages may be awarded in the event that a plaintiff establishes a defendant's liability but is unable to prove any actual damages.

What a wild week

Wolves top Pontiac Northern, fall to Ferndale in OT

Clarkston 59;
Pontiac Northern 57

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

By no means was it easy, but the effort was well worth it.

After suffering losses in some close games this season, Clarkston found a way to win a close one Tuesday night by beating longtime rival Pontiac Northern 59-57.

Clarkston coach Dan Fife said the win wasn't the biggest of the year, but it did reestablish the Wolves as a team that can compete with elite teams.

"That game speaks to your heart and character and tells you how bad you want something," Fife said. "This was big for us because it reestablishes us that we can compete with those kinds of teams."

Pontiac Northern had won the last five meetings between the two teams and came into the game with a 9-3 record. The win improved Clarkston's record to 9-4-1 overall.

"We started making them guard us on offense and we were able to get good shots when they guarded us," Fife said.

After jumping out to a 22-14 first quarter lead, the Huskies battled back to cut the lead to three as Pontiac Northern's Dominique Hardiman drained a three with less than 3:30 to go in the first half. A late-half Clarkston foul sent Pontiac Northern's Ricky Morgan to the line where he connected on one free throw which put the Huskies within two at the half.

Morgan struck again in the third quarter, this time with another Huskie three-pointer, which tied the game at 39. On the next Huskie possession, Morgan gave the Huskies the lead on a three-point play.

In the fourth quarter, Pontiac Northern went up by six with 7:20 to play as Hardiman hit another three to make the score 51-45.

Clarkston bounced right back connecting on four consecutive three-pointers of their own. Ryan Kaul, Ryan Marino and Brian Endreszl connected from long range to put the Wolves back on top by two with 2:37 to play. The Wolves went up by four as Endreszl made a tough put back with just over two minutes remaining.

"I called a couple of time outs to get us in sync and then they started hitting all those big baskets," Fife said. "Endreszl hasn't had a lot of time all year, but he's been playing better all year. It was nice that his work has paid out for them."

Adam Schapman fouled out with Clarkston's Andy North looks for the open man. The Wolves will visit Rochester Adams on Friday.

13 points late in the game and sent Pontiac Northern's Paul Haynes to the line, where he made both free throws and cut the Wolves lead to two.

On the next Huskie offensive possession they missed a three-point attempt and the Wolves hustled down the rebound. Forced to foul, the Huskies Anthony Styles Jr. fouled Marino, but he missed his free throw attempt.

A jumpball with 34.8 seconds to go gave the ball to Pontiac Northern. They immediately fouled Marino, who again missed his free throw.

The Huskies' Lester Abram fouled Ryan Kaul with 4.5 seconds remaining. Kaul missed from the line and the Huskies had one final opportunity after calling time out with .9 seconds to play.

On the game's final play, Haynes' jumper fell short, sealing the ninth victory of Clarkston's season.

The Wolves held the Huskies scoreless for the last two minutes of the game.

"I'd like to say we played great defense, but we played good help defense and their shots didn't fall," Fife said. "This team has taken me from the mountain to the outhouse. Those kids sure don't want to make it easy on me, but I still like them as kids."

Ferndale 63, Clarkston 56

Three days after a dramatic win over OAA rival Pontiac Northern, Clarkston played host to Ferndale, but came up short in overtime.

Technical fouls in the extra stanza were key factors in handing the Wolves their fifth loss of the season.

"I think we lost our composure," Fife said. "We got caught up in the emotions of the game. You can't do that and win. You can't get too high on the highs and too low on the lows."

The Wolves battled back from a 10 point third quarter deficit by starting the fourth quarter on a 10-2 run.

Clarkston regained the lead as Rocky Lund hit a three-pointer after a steal by Brian Endreszl with 3:55 remaining in regulation.

The Eagles retook the lead as Gerald Turner hit two free throws with less than a minute remaining to go up by three.

Ryan Marino answered back with a dramatic three-pointer with 30 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 52. Ferndale failed to score on their final posses

Wolves repeat as OAA league hockey champs

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News staff writer

The Clarkston hockey team clinched the Oakland Activities Association title last week by beating rivals Troy and Waterford Mott.

The Wolves defeated the Colts 4-2 and shutout the Corsairs 3-0.

Clarkston goalie Steve Bader stopped all 17 Waterford Mott shots. Jon Bemis scored two goals and Jason Stoecker added another. Five Wolves tallied assists.

Bemis leads the team with 20 goals and 19 assists. Anthony Facione has racked up 17 goals and 19 assists this season. Stoecker also has 17 goals. Bill Kalush has 32 points this season on 14 goals and 18 assists.

The recent wins gave the Wolves a 15-4 overall record and 10-2 in the OAA.

Usually repeating as league champions would be reason to celebrate. But the Clarkston hockey team still has a tough road ahead of them.

Currently the Wolves are ranked fifth in the state but their remaining opponents are some of the best in Michigan, coach Bryan Krygier said.

"We've still got six games left. One is a cross-over game against Bloomfield. But we've still got Cranbrook, who's number two or three in division two, Brother Rice, Livonia Churchill and Trenton. All of those teams are very well coached and tough," Krygier said.

Krygier said he attributes his team's success to hard work.

Clarkston's Jim Lattanzi skates away from a defender.

"The kids have played well as a team and things are really coming together. Jon Bemis and Steve Badger have really given us a boost this year."

Bryan Krygier - Hockey coach

"The kids have played very well as a team and things are really coming together," Krygier said. "Jon Bemis and Steve Badger have really given us a boost this year."

Krygier is hoping to get another boost soon. Bill Kalush, who has been out of the lineup because of an injured ankle suffered in the Birmingham game, should return in time for the Bloomfield game Feb. 19.

The playoffs are set to begin the last week of February.

Girls ski team still undefeated

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Nobody's perfect. Not even the Clarkston ski teams, but they're close.

The Clarkston boys and girls ski teams recently competed in a five-team tournament at Pine Knob Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The Wolves faced off against Rochester Adams, Detroit Country Day, Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Waterford Mott.

The girls remained undefeated and are now boasting an 8-0 record. The Wolves went into the meet with a 4-0 mark.

"Our girls are so deep. Each meet somebody else is stepping up and skiing better. Nobody's slowing down either. The girls are just so competitive and supportive of each other," coach Bruce Rosengren said.

Monday, the girls competed in the slalom race. Taking the top spot for Clarkston was Megan Whipp. She was followed by Katie Kennedy. Taking third place was Kellie Morton, who was followed by Nichole Villiere. Fifth place went to Allison Spinweber and sixth went to Becky Schermerhorn.

Tuesday saw the team head into the giant slalom competition with the same six girls taking the team's top spots, but in a different order.

First place went to Morton, who was followed by Schermerhorn. Third place was won by Whipp and fourth went to Villiere. Kennedy took fifth place and Spinweber took the sixth spot.

"Megan, Nichole, Kellie and Becky are our leaders for the girls team," Rosengren said. "They're consistently on the top."

While the girls stayed perfect on the season, the boys suffered their first loss of the year at the hands of Rochester Adams and fell to 7-1.

"I'm not ashamed at all that we lost to Adams,"

Clarkston's swim team aims for OAA title

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News

The good times continue to roll for Clarkston's swim team.

Under coach Kenwyn Chock, the Wolves have earned a 5-2 overall record and have are 5-1 in the Oakland Activities Association.

On Feb. 1 the Wolves took conference rival Southfield and beat the Bluejays soundly 144-66.

The Wolves have been setting records on a weekly basis, and the win over Southfield proved no different. Four more Clarkston records were set.

The 200 medley relay team of Ryan Wheaton, Joe Kraut, Kevin Miller and Rob Bryan took first place with a combined time of 1:55.77. Miller set another record, this time in the 200 individual medley. The 200 freestyle relay team of Rob Bryan, Miller, Kraut and Paul O'Connor set a new record with a time of 1:43.84. Wheaton set the fourth Clarkston record with a time of 1:09.84, which earned him second place in the 100 backstroke.

Clarkston took first place in four of the first five events. O'Connor, Dan Reed, Miller and Wheaton joined forces to take first in the meet's last event, the 400 freestyle relay as well with a time of 4:13.39.

Bobby Masterson, Miller, Josh Rigg, Kraut, O'Connor, Bryan, Wheaton and Reed all qualified for the Oakland County Boys Swimming and Diving Championships.

Defending state champions, Brother Rice won the meet.

Coach Kenwyn Chock said her teams was in awe of the competition.

"All the best schools from Oakland County were there and our kids were kind of intimidated and nervous," Chock said. "The meet was good exposure because they got to see the other teams they don't

The 200 freestyle relay team of Bryan, O'Connor, Reed and Rigg broke the Clarkston record with a new time of 1:40.12.

Wheaton, Kraut, Reed and Byran swam the 200 medley relay in 2:00.43, which was an increase in their time.

"They were basically scared," Chock said. "We swam the 200 medley first and then got to sit and watch for a little while and then came back with the other relay."

Bryan qualified in the 50 freestyle and O'Connor dove.

Volleyball team inconsistent at Invitational

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston volleyball coach Gordie Richardson can't figure his team out.

"If we could focus and play every match the way we're supposed to, we'd probably be 25-7, which is where I think we're supposed to be. But we've lost some games where we were equal to the competition," Richardson said.

The Clarkston volleyball team visited Essexville High School Saturday and competed in the Garber Invitational, but not at full strength. Richardson said his team began the day short-staffed due to illness.

The Wolves first opponent was Holland Christian, who beat Clarkston in the first game, 1-15, but Clarkston bounced back on week the second game, 15-3 to split the match.

"We weren't ready for the first game. They're a pretty good team, but once we made some minor changes in our lineup after the first game we started to play better. I'll take the split considering we started out crappy," Richardson said.

Clarkston's next opponent was Garber and the Wolves dropped two straight, 13-15, 4-15. Richardson said his team started out well, but then fell apart.

"We were up 15 to whatever and then we lost. In the second game we did nothing. All the wind was taken out of our sails. We didn't seem to get anything right. I was really disappointed," Richardson said.

The troubles continued with their third match, which saw them drop another two straight 15-4, 15-12 to the Lakers.

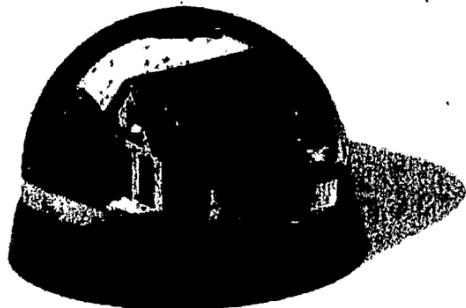

"I thought we'd come back, but we were horrendous at the net. We couldn't make anything happen. We fought back in the second game so I felt a little better," Richardson said.

The next opponent for Clarkston was Bay City Central, who Richardson said has a pretty strong volleyball tradition.

"They've had some good teams in the past. They've had some runs at the quarterfinals and

Dragons pin Wolves in OAA duel

Clarkston in three-way tie for second place in OAA

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News staff writer

With six freshmen in the lineup and the team's two top wrestlers, 275-pounder Jon Robinson and 215-pounder Pat DeGain, out with injuries, Lake Orion beat Clarkston for the first time since Mike DeGain has been coach of the Wolves.

The 43-33 loss dropped Clarkston's record to 10-6 overall and 3-2 in the Oakland Activities Association. As a result, the Wolves are in a three-way tie with Rochester Adams and Lake Orion with Troy leading the conference at 4-0.

"I would've liked to come out with a win, but I don't see the kids giving up. They all gave a good effort tonight," DeGain said.

The Dragons didn't waste any time getting on the scoreboard as Lake Orion took an early 18-0 lead after winning the first three matches by pin.

Clarkston's Dave Endreszl put the Wolves on the board by edging out Lake Orion's Derek Russ with a 6-5 decision.

The Wolves won the next three weight classes by pin thanks to the efforts of Brian Chism, Brett Gove and Clint DeGain, which cut the Dragon lead to four.

But just as soon as Clarkston started to gain some momentum, the Dragons took it away as James Turner and Matt Champine scored pins putting Lake Orion back up by the score of 37-21.

Clarkston's Chris Joroneski and Aaron Karns both won their matches at the 215 pound and heavy-weight divisions, but the Dragons had piled up more than enough points for the win.

Clarkston's next action will be Friday at 3:30 p.m. when the Wolves host the OAA Division I Championships.

"If anybody's going to knock Troy out of that number one spot, both us, Adams and Lake Orion will have to finish ahead of Troy at the league tournament. Now is that possible? I still think in this league anything's possible. From meet to meet you don't really know what to expect. It's still a wide open league," DeGain said.

Goodrich Tournament

Injuries continue to plague the Clarkston wrestling team.

Clint and Pat DeGain, Jon Robinson and David Welanko were out of the lineup last weekend, when the Wolves competed in a five-team tournament in Goodrich. Clarkston finished with a 1-4 record on the day.

"Our kids gave a solid effort today, but we had too many injuries," DeGain said.

Clarkston did beat Brother Rice, 45-32, but fell to Cedar Springs, 62-18, Stevensville, Lakeshore 56-14, Richmond, 43-25 and Fowlerville, 36-33.

The weekend's action dropped Clarkston's overall record to 11-10, but the Wolves are still tied for second place in the OAA with Lake Orion and Rochester Adams. All three teams are 3-2 in the conference.

Clarkston's Chris Jaroweski and Aaron Karns both went undefeated Saturday.

Shawn Miller tied the Clarkston school record for fastest pin against Brother Rice with a time of seven seconds.

Friday the Wolves will host the OAA championships at 3:30 p.m.

"Our kids gave a solid effort today, but we had too many injuries."

Cheer teams excel in recent competitions

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News
Staff Writer

They've had plenty to cheer about this season, and thanks to hard work and discipline the Clarkston varsity cheerleading team has cheered their way to a first place finish in a recent competition.

The Wolves cheerleading team, coached by Debi Hool, took first place in the Red Wing Cheer Classic Jan. 29 in St. Johns.

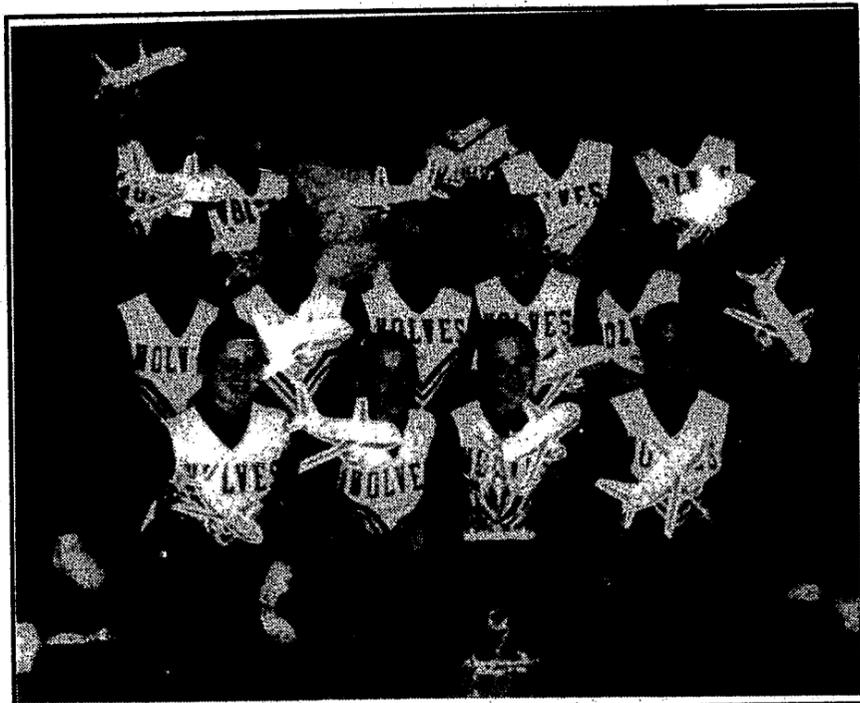

It was the first competition of the year.

"The season's gone very well for us so far," Hool said. "The girls are working well together and have really come together."

Cheer competitions are split into two rounds and teams are judged by originality, creativity, precision, difficulty, floor mobility, leadership and overall impression.

The first round, or leadership round, is a flat cheer, which is strictly motion and floor mobility. At least seven formation changes must take place. Gymnastics and stunting are not allowed in the first round. Clarkston had 11 formation changes during their opening round.

The second round, or stunting or creative round, allows gymnastics, stunting and gives the cheerleaders much more freedom than the opening round.

"It's basically anything goes in the second round," Hool said.

The Wolves second round of action featured eight different stunts and three sets of gymnastics. A jump in unison is required in both rounds.

"Our girls train all summer and are all educated in their jobs. Our stunts went very well in the second round. We knew we'd take first place after the second round," Hool said.

The Wolves cheer team competed again in the second OAA league competition Saturday, where they took second place at Lake Orion.

The Wolves were in fifth place after the first round.

"Our division is the hardest and the girls were nervous. I sat down with them and told them to be more confident."

The Wolves bounced back in the second round and were the only varsity squad not to drop any stunts. Clarkston had a 20-point edge on its competition and bounced into second place after the second round.

"If we performed in the first round like we did in the second we would've taken first place for sure," Hool said. "I want to give a lot of credit to Sarah Hool, our assistant coach who makes up all of our motions and words."

The regional cheer competition will be March 4. Last year the Wolves made it to state, and Hool said she thinks the chances of returning are strong again this year.

"Eleven of our sixteen cheerleaders are seniors, but I don't credit our success to that. Our underclassmen are just as strong as our seniors. The girls communicate very well and support each other. I just tell them to practice like you're going to play."

JV Cheer team thrives

Clarkston's varsity cheer team isn't the only one enjoying success. The JV team has done well in recent competitions as well.

The JV team competed at the same competitions as the varsity team, the Red Wing Classic and the OAA league meet in Lake Orion.

The girls took first place out of seven teams in St. Johns and took second out of six teams at the OAA sion and the game headed to overtime.

A controversial flagrant foul was called on Clarkston with 2:42 left in the extra period which sent Ferndale's Herbert Goliday to the line where he made one free throw, but more importantly gave the Eagles the next possession.

Moments later another technical foul on Clarkston sent Ferndale back to the line where they made four more free throws and extended their lead to eight which put the game out of reach.

"Endreszl and Andy North both played well for us, but we were out of sync," Fife said. "At this stage of the game you can't be out of sync. I thought we played hard. We made some mental mistakes, but I'm not disappointed with my kids' effort."

Clarkston is now 9-5 overall and 4-3 in the OAA.

The Wolves next game will be Friday at Rochester Adams.

league meet.

"The girls had an extremely difficult routine," coach Chandra Price said. "Even though we had one foul we still came out on top."

Price said even though the team took second place in the OAA meet, her team put together a first-place type performance.

"We were ranked second after the first round and stayed there after the second round. But in my eyes the girls were a first place team. They did much better in round two," Price said.

This year marks Price's fourth year as coach in Clarkston and attributes her team's success to having a lot of returners this season.

"They've used every ounce of potential they have," Price said. "They're very hard workers and fight through pain."

"I'm not ashamed at all that we lost to Adams," Rosengren said. "They're an excellent team with a lot of seniors. They should do well in the state finals, assuming that they qualify, and I don't see any reason why they wouldn't. They're losing a lot of their seniors, and we'll only lose two boys to graduation."

Matt Evans took the team's first place in the slalom event. Second place went to David Pierce and third place went to Eric Kenerson. Brent Schermerhorn took fourth place and the fifth place spot went to Bobby Olson. Rounding out the top spots for the Wolves was Brandon Rosengren, who took the sixth spot.

Giant slalom winners were Rosengren, Evans, Schermerhorn, Olson, Whisner and Pierce.

"Brandon, Matt, Brent and Eric are my leaders," Rosengren said.

The teams will race at Alpine on Thursday. The MHSAA regionals will take place at Pine Knob Feb. 17.

The Wolves finally got back on track after losing the first game 4-15, by winning the next two 15-4, 16-14.

The last opponent of the afternoon was Cranbrook Kingswood, who the Wolves beat 15-8, 15-8.

"We played two pretty solid games. I wouldn't call it spectacular, but it was steady," Richardson said.

West Bloomfield Duel Meet

The Wolves lost two straight in an OAA duel meet against West Bloomfield, 5-15, 11-15. The loss dropped Clarkston's record to 20-13-12 and 4-5 in the OAA.

The team's only freshman, Reed, agreed that the Wolves are having a great deal of success for a first year team. "We've done very well for a first-year team. OAA, here we come."

Bryan said he thinks the Wolves have a good shot at the conference title.
