City will hold public hearing and vote on water issue

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The city council announced March 28 that a public hearing and informational meeting will be set up regarding construction of a water main on Main Street.

A vote on a bond proposal to pay for the water main will be Tuesday, May 9.

The water subcommittee, which is made up of Chairman Scott Meyland, Steve Arkwright, Douglas Roeser and William Basinger have been working together for several months on the construction plan.

The public hearing/informational meeting will be April 19 at 7 p.m. at the Independence Township Fire Department Station No. 1 on Citation Drive.

The plan, if approved by voters, would see the City of the Village of Clarkston connect to the Independence Township's community water well system.

The plan has three main parts. The first portion would see a water main installed on Main Street. The portion of the project which would be funded by general obligation bonds would be $800,000, with assessment beginning in July of 2000. Another $400,000 would be funded by special assessment districts. The city will borrow no more than $3 million and issue its general obligation tax bonds.

The estimated millage to be levied in 2000 is 1.4 mills ($1.4 per $1,000 of taxable value). The estimated simple average annual millage rate required to retire the bonds is 3.87 mills ($3.87 per $1,000 of taxable value).

The remaining construction and general obligation bonds would be assessed at the time they are borrowed, in 2004 and 2007, which is the reason for the increase in mills. The city will borrow $1.1 million each year.

The bond proposal

Shall the city of the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County Michigan, borrow the sum of not to exceed $3 million and issue its general obligation tax bonds therefore in one or more series, payable in not to exceed 30 years from the date of issuance, for the purpose of paying all or part of the cost of acquiring and constructing water supply system improvements to service the City? The estimated millage to be levied in 2000 is 1.4 mills ($1.40 per $1,000 of taxable value) and the estimated simple average annual millage rate required to retire the bonds is 3.87 mills ($3.87 per $1,000 of taxable value.)

Is Gulick Lake dying?

Brenda Vanderheyden and her Brittany Spaniel "Punkin" next to what is left of Gulick Lake. This dock, once surrounded by water, now stands on dry land. The dark area at the edge of the dock is dry area. The water has receded far out into what was the center of the lake. Vanderheyden, a five-year resident of the sub, said Punkin had to be pulled out from the muck twice. Neighbors are cautioning people to stay away from the area (note the "danger" sign). "The wildlife's dying, the fish are dead and the blue heron that used to be out here are gone," Vanderheyden said.

Receding waters prompt neighbors and officials to consider action

Lake Waldon Village residents are continuing to find themselves stuck in a quagmire of sorts.

Their lake, Gulick Lake, is drying up and they want to know why. It will take a study to find the answers and a possible augmentation well for the cure, said resident Chuck Hamann during a homeowners' meeting at Clarkston High School last Wednesday.

Hamann and fellow subdivision residents listened to Dep. Jim Polidan of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Marine Division relay the latest findings. Polidan said the OCSD has two major worries: "the lake could eventually be gone and a safety concern." The subdivision is located off Waldon Road southwest of Sashabaw Road.

The department has been out to investigate. Although many lakes in Oakland County have seen declining water levels, Gulick's situation is severe, Polidan said. The average lake depth is "two feet or less" and it's "95 yards of muck to where the water starts. That muck could be deeper," he added. "Who knows how deep that muck is."

Polidan said some longtime residents told him they remembered the lake as being six to eight feet deep.

He urged residents to keep children away from the lake, and said he was also worried about teenagers who sometimes party on a beach, the site of a former Campfire grounds. Polidan encouraged residents to post "no trespassing" signs. The next day he said lake association members should file a request to the OCSD to enforce the no trespassing area.

Polidan said it would also be difficult to make rescues with the OCSD's new Hovercraft, a portable vehicle designed for thin ice and other emergency situations on waters. It would be hard to get

Massage parlor shut down

Police do not expect to charge business or property owners with prostitution or any other offense in connection with the raid of a local massage parlour in Independence Township Feb. 28.

Sgt. Gary Miller, in charge of Special Investigations for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, said he anticipates neither business owner Pok T. Hamlette nor property owner Tom Wilhelm, who owns a real estate business next to the parlour, PK's Salon on Dixie Highway, will be charged.

"The business has been closed since the raid. It has not reopened," Miller said. "The township is looking at some violations of building codes. The windows were boarded up."

Township Building Director Bev McElmeel said the township is consulting its attorney on that matter. "We are in the midst of an investigation as it relates to the (township's massage facility) ordinance," McElmeel said last week.

Insuk Kim Kang, 39, a Texas resident of Korean descent, was charged with two counts of accosting and soliciting, two 90-day misdemeanors, based on two incidents with an OCSD undercover officer at the massage facility. The OCSD planned the raid after Kang allegedly offered sex for extra cash, said Oakland County Sheriff Michael Bouchard prior to the raid of the one-year-old business.

Although there had been rumors of illegal sex operations occurring at the facility, an anonymous tip provided sufficient information to conduct a search, police said.

"I don't look for it to reopen," Miller said.

PMS patients have more spinal problems

The May, 1999 issue of the Journal of Manipulative and Physiological Therapeutics reports that women who suffer from PMS are more likely to have spinal problems.

The study involved 84 women, 54 who had been diagnosed with PMS and 30 without PMS. The goal was designed to determine whether or not chiropractic may help ease PMS symptoms.

A thorough chiropractic exam on both groups revealed that the PMS group was more likely to experience spinal problems such as spinal tenderness and disability and muscles weakness. So much so, that the researchers concluded that the correction of the spinal problems by a chiropractor may well be an effective way to relieve the symptoms of PMS.

This study focuses on the concept that the chiropractic correction of spinal problems allows your body a better chance to correct organ and system malfunction. Proper organ and system function allows your body to regain and maintain its health on every level. Regular care by your chiropractor will help make sure that your body stays as healthy as possible, functioning the best it can.

AP classes offer jump start to college

BY RENEE WIGHTMAN

It pays to think ahead.

Students across the nation are entering college with an extra boost that can get them through quicker, thanks to college-level courses offered in high school. Like many schools, a slew of AP, or advanced placement classes, are offered to students at Clarkston High School.

Judy Medlin, AP coordinator and counselor at CHS, says the growth AP classes has seen since its beginnings in Clarkston is phenomenal. In 1994, there were only four AP classes, with 55 students enrolled. Last year, the number of classes doubled and the number of students grew to 245, she said.

Economics, U.S. history, psychology, biology, chemistry, physics, literature and language all are offered as advanced placement, Medlin said. In the fall, two new classes will join the list — AP studio art and AP environmental science.

A combination of mostly juniors and seniors are currently enrolled in AP classes, although sophomores are eligible to take U.S. history at the AP level. A few intensive classes for freshman and sophomores also are offered.

Medlin says it is not unusual to see students taking more than one AP class in a semester. But she does warn students from taking on too many advanced placement classes at once.

"They are at the college level, with college materials and textbooks. They are more demanding," she said. "It's up to the individual students."

Kathryn Zarzycki, a senior, took two AP classes her junior year, biology and composition, and is enrolled in two more this year. She says the experience has given her a better idea of a college major.

"I enjoyed AP biology. It shows you if you like it," Zarzycki said. "You move a lot faster. It's more on your own."

Jenni Salata, a senior, adds, "You read a lot more

Linda Denstaedt discusses the novel "The Stranger" by Albert Camus with her group of AP literature students. AP literature was the first AP course taught at CHS in 1984.

— no more busywork."

Another AP student and senior, Tom Wisniewski said the AP classes are more comprehensive than other courses, and students must be prepared for more independent study.

"It's a lot more independent. If they're willing to do the work, and interested in the subject, then why not (take an AP class)?" Wisniewski said.

Tricia Greve, a junior enrolled in her third AP class, said it is important students are motivated when taking AP classes.

"If you want to be prepared for classes (in college), you should do it, but if you don't want to do the work, you shouldn't do it."

Medlin expects continued interest in taking AP courses. However, she emphasized a student does not have to be enrolled in an advanced placement class to take the final exam in May for placement at the college level. The exam cost is $76 per subject and is timed; most exams last about three hours, she said.

A score of between one and five is received, with five being the best score. Medlin said scores of three to five are very often accepted by most colleges and universities, who will award credit or waive a class.

Eric Romein, a 1999 graduate of CHS, took eight advanced placement classes while in high school. He entered Michigan State University as a sophomore with 43 credits and is now at junior status.

Romein plans to graduate in 2002 with bachelor's degree and will pursue his doctorate in genetics. He said the challenge of AP is worth getting ahead in college.

"You have to be hardworking and motivated in the (AP) subject. For any student that's motivated enough, they should try," he said. "It's very beneficial."

CHS gets new band uniforms, TV studio equipment

New equipment for Clarkston High School's TV production studio and a new look for the CHS Marching Band highlighted the March 13 meeting of the Clarkston Community Schools board.

The board approved 6-0 to allocate $59,152 for camera equipment, mixers, speakers and other studio equipment from Thalner Electronic Laboratories Inc. Board members also approved a $46,536 band uniform bid from Demoulin Brothers & Company, for 200 new uniforms. Trustee Rick Crigger was absent.

Among items purchased for the CHS TV studio is a digital camera, which will be an upgrade to the current system, said Matt McCarty, director of technology for Clarkston Community Schools. An original bid for equipment failed when the company went out of business before completing the school's order, he said.

Cliff Chapman, CHS band director, presented the new uniform with Craig Kahler, director of business services for the district. Chapman said the last time a purchase was made for new uniforms was 12 years ago and the new uniforms would not need replacing for another 10 years.

The three-piece uniforms have adjustable straps to fit each body type, and are lightweight for layering purposes, Chapman said. "This is economics with quality in mind," he said.

Chapman also showed board members the black West Point-style hat, which will be worn with a long black plume. "We're going back to the old style," he said.

In other business:

■ Board members approved 6-0 a resolution to call for a regular school election June 12, 2000. Petitions for school board positions were made available starting March 14.

Karen Foyteck, board president, and Mary Ellen McLean, board secretary, have terms expiring this year and both have announced intentions of running for re-election.

■ All district programs and subjects currently offered through Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus were transferred to Oakland Schools, following a roll call vote 6-0. The transfer is the result of an agreement between Clarkston schools and the Oakland Intermediate School District.

■ By roll call vote, board members approved 6-0 reinstating a CHS student who had been expelled for violating Section C-29, Physical Assault, of the Student Code of Conduct. The student shall be readmitted March 14.

■ Board members approved 6-0 a second reading of recommended administrative guidelines for the district, with two exceptions. Kurt Shanks, trustee, requested the word "tenth grade" be omitted from language about post enrollment options. He said the options also should be available to students in grades 11 and 12.

In addition, a new policy on school safety information will be discussed further, following a request by McLean to remove the item. McLean said confusion over language stating the district was responsible for a student "while enroute to or from school" made it necessary to study the item further.

■ Pat Brumback, assistant superintendent, presented studies on costs to the district for special education and fees for facilities use to the board.

Brumback said rising costs in special education are a concern to the district. "This is an underfunded mandate in our state... so local effort is needed to keep the costs down," she said. As an example, $33,000 per student is estimated for 2000-01 tuition costs.

However, Brumback said efforts to keep the students within the Clarkston school district is an excellent benefit for parents. Currently, 34 students are being served in the district in grades K-12.

In Michigan, school districts must provide special education from preschool age through age 26, she said.

Brumback said a draft of guidelines for fees regarding facilities use will be implemented in coming months. Fees would vary, depending on whether a community group, student group or others asked for use of a facility, she said.

■ Supplemental health materials for eighth graders and students in grades 9-12 were approved 6-0. The materials include a video, "Abstinence: It's the Right Choice," for eighth graders; "Abstinence" materials for S.W.E.A.T. classes in grades 9-12; and "Health: Making Life Choices" materials, also for grades 9-12.

Independence Township Treasurer seeks second term

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Another top official of Independence Township has vowed to run in the 2000 election. Treasurer Jim Wenger made his announcement to fellow board members and the audience at the March 21 meeting.

"I will be seeking a second term to run as treasurer in Independence Township," Wenger said.

Wenger, a retired Clarkston High School teacher who taught for 30 years, was first elected in 1996.

He has been enjoying his role as treasurer and said his duties include collecting all monies from the township, including summer and winter taxes; maintaining all investments, and working with township financial consultants to oversee the "whole financial picture of the township."

Wenger said his accomplishments in office have included providing quarterly financial reports to the township board. "I think we're a lot more accountable now with regular reporting," he said. He said he has also "grown" with the township's new computer software system, which has made communication with other officials and the public more effective — making more available online.

Jim Wenger

Wenger also noted improvement in the township's general financial picture, which he attributed partially to its hired consultants from Aileron Ltd., the manager, and Munder Capital, the investor for fixed income. Although there has been controversy on the board as to whether the consultants should stay on, Wenger feels "it's good to have the outside input."

Aileron's expertise was recently reduced from a set salary to a "by-project" basis. "For three years now, we've had a good track record with Munder," Wenger said. Many other Michigan townships now have professional money managers on board, he said. "We're in good hands. I know that our financial strides were not because of me, but I think I've been a part of that."

He said his strengths include "a strong work ethic," plus "an open mind on policy decisions. I'm objective. I want to do what's best for the township," he said. He doesn't see himself as "a politician. I just try to do the best job I can."

"Hopefully, I've tried to keep the residents informed, by cable or by letter to (newspaper) editors. I probably wouldn't have liked the job when the kids were young, with all the night meetings," he joked. His family includes wife

Sharon, a Clarkston Elementary School teacher, and two grown-up sons, Jason and Matt. Jason's family includes wife Jeanette and Wenger's first grandchild, Drew.

Wenger serves on the board of directors for both the Clarkston Optimists and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance. He also serves on the Auditor's Team for the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy.

Wenger predicts 2000 will be a definitive race because of "all the divisiveness on the board." He expects many people to run.

Wenger is the third full-time elected official who has announced his candidacy. Supervisor Dale Stuart said in February he will seek a third term, and although she has made no formal announcement, Clerk Joan McCrary is seeking her third term.

Newcomer George White, a retired Clarkston schools educator, announced in February he will run against McCrary in the 2000 race. Dave Wagner, who ran in the last election, will also run as trustee (see related story). White and Wagner are the only two candidates thus far who have filed petitions, although several have been pulled, according to the clerk's office. Both filed as Republicans.

Dan Travis has also announced he will seek a sixth term as trustee. Fellow trustees Jeff McGee, Larry Rosso and Neil Wallace have yet to announce whether they will run again.

Petitions must be submitted to the clerk's office by 4 p.m. May 16. The general primary is August 8; the general election is Nov. 7.

Genessee man charged in car-jacking

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Genessee Township man has been charged with car-jacking in connection with an incident in Independence Township March 14.

Roy Depottey, 30, of Genessee Township was arraigned before 52-2 District Court Magistrate Kelly Kostin at 1:30 p.m. March 21 and charged with the offense, a felony, which is punishable by up to life in prison. Det. Dave Hendrick of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Independence substation said.

His preliminary exam is set for March 31 at 10 a.m. before District Judge Gerald McNally.

Depottey was returned to Oakland County Jail with bond set at $100,000 cash surety.

According to reports, Depottey allegedly car-jacked a township woman's 1998 Ford Taurus while she was filling it with gas at the Roy Brothers Amoco Station, 6840 Sashabaw Road. The car was unlocked with the keys in the ignition.

Former candidate returns in 2000 race

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Township resident Dave Wagner is the newest candidate to file a petition in the Independence Township 2000 race.

According to the clerk's office, Wagner filed his petition to run for township trustee last Wednesday, March 22. He ran unsuccessfully as trustee in the last election in 1996.

So far, one other newcomer, retired Clarkston schools educator George White, has been the only candidate to file a petition, although several incumbents have also announced they plan to seek re-election this year (see related story).

Wagner sat down with The Clarkston News last week and talked about his reasons for running, and some of the key issues he thinks need to be addressed in the township.

Personal: Married to Janice, an accountant, with four children: Lisa, 28, Julie, 25, Mike, 19, and Laura, 13. Wagner retired from Avis Ford (a car dealership) 12 years ago and "dabbles" in real estate now. He was a precinct delegate for the Republican party from 1996-1998. Wagner currently serves as chairman of the township's Safety Path Committee. He is a frequent audience member at township meetings. Wagner has lived in Independence Township for about 14 years and in Oakland County (formerly Waterford and Springfield Township) all his life.

Issues he's the most concerned about: Wagner's main concern is a restoration of harmony to the board. He agrees with Treasurer Jim Wenger that the board is currently divisive in many areas. He's concerned that currently there is no cable broadcasting of township board meetings, due to the recent change from TCI to AT&T. "It really gives people the chance to see the board inaction," Wagner said. "I think we need to look hard at the cable contract."

Growth is another concern of his. "I'd like to see this area stay a bedroom community. Development is going to happen," but he thinks it should be planned carefully. He hopes the township will develop more like Springfield Township, with cluster options that are less intrusive to the rural character and "friendly to neighborhoods." Vision 2020 is "good, but are they going to follow it?" he questions. He's also concerned about fire and police services keeping up with the growing population. "I really feel strongly about the fire and police," Wagner said.

Dave Wagner

Wagner says, about the controversial Clarkston Creek Golf Course issue, "there's too much not known. The township needs a lot more information (before they enter into any deal) ... I love Parks and Recreation and I think Ann (Conklin, director) does a great job, but the thing has lost money for so long, what's telling them they're going to make money?"

Why he wants to run: "Because I'm really concerned about the township and the direction it's heading. I think the board needs people who've been here, know the area, and have the time to spend on issues — which I have. Because I'm retired, I can put the time in where others are unable to."

Another reason for running: "It's corny, but just the relationship the board has with itself. That's really big. If they don't get along, you don't have anything. Look at the city of Warren, it's unbelievable. I saw it on the news and thought it was Taiwan," he quipped. "Everyone yelling and screaming."

In Independence "there doesn't have to be confrontation at every meeting," he stressed. "For example, the compensation package. Why did it drag on so long? It wasn't that much of an issue. Teamwork — that's the biggest thing."

Independence planning commissioner approved

A planning commission member is leaving and her brother was "reappointed" by the Independence Township Board last week.

Supervisor Dale Stuart's recommendation to appoint David Lohmeier to a seat which will be vacated by Cynthia Lohmeier was approved 6-1. Trustee Neil Wallace objected.

Stuart said Lohmeier, who is leaving in the middle of her three-year term, is no longer eligible since she's moving to the City of Clarkston. She was appointed to fill her brother David Lohmeier's seat when he moved out of town. However, she recently informed the township he's moving back.

Stuart quipped, while "this is not the Lohmeier seat," there was a need to appoint someone immediately who is "up to speed" on township issues.

Before voting, Clerk Joan McCrary agreed David Lohmeier is a good choice. But she said she is "disappointed" the supervisor is not bringing more "new people" on board. "Especially a female now and then."

"I think it's good to have a broad range ... and having (women's) input is a healthy thing," agreed Trustee Neil Wallace.

Stuart said Thursday he has a "good track record" of appointing women to various boards and committees. "It's been my goal all along to have the planning commission and other committees well balanced, from different walks of life and genders," Stuart said. He explained he didn't have much notice when he heard Cynthia was leaving and knew the township would be stuck with "a six-person board. I thought I should consider him," Stuart said. The appointment means current commissioner Jill Palulian will be the only female member.

"This is an election year," Stuart added. He said he thought it was "pretty self-serving" for McCrary and Wallace to make those comments.

Letters To The Editor

Thanks for helping out the fire department

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank Steve Sawyer of Beardslee Excavating and Randy Ellis of Ellis Trucking. They had no problem taking time out of their busy day to devise a way to load two fire trucks that were sold to out-of-state fire departments. Their time and effort was greatly appreciated. Thanks, guys!

Pope and Catholics don't need to apologize

Dear Editor,

I must protest the distorted and erroneous coverage accorded the message of Pope John Paul II while in Israel. Journalists, without exception, repeated the old cabal that Pius XII was silent during WWII.

Please note information printed in The Wanderer, a weekly paper in St. Paul Minn.: After the Nazis invaded Poland in September 1939, Hitler imposed a news blackout on Poland. This blackout was pierced when Pope Pius XII revealed horrible Nazi atrocities against Jews and Catholics. A New York Times editorial (January 24, 1940) confirmed the Vatican's public condemnation of the Nazi atrocities.

These Vatican condemnations told the world in detail that what is now called a Holocaust had begun! New York Times articles reporting the January 1940 denun-ciations by Pius XII on Nazi atrocities were carried on January 23, 1940 ("Vatican Reveals Terrors in Po- land"), on January 25, 1940 ("Vatican Continues Atroc- ity Charges"), on January 26, 1940 ("Atrocities on Poles Denied in Germany"), on January 29, 1940 ("Mass Shootings in Poland Laid to Nazis by Cardi- nal, Memorandum Presented to the Pope"), on January 30, 1940 ("The Text of Cardinal Hlond's Report to the Vatican on Persecution by the Nazis") and an editorial on January 30, 1940, ("In German Poland"), saying the atrocity reports "were presented to Pope Pius and published with his authority."

Protests by Pius XII of Nazi persecution of the Jews were published by The New York Times throughout the Holocaust years. For example, on the front page of the August 6, 1942 Times it was stated "Pope Pius has protested through his nuncio against mass deportations of the Jews from occupied France."

Oscar night was a Beauty this year

Hello, dahhhings. Have we all recovered from Oscar night? Those of us who indulge ourselves each year?

This was the best year ever — best because, although I never miss it, I slept through the most boring parts. Which was pretty much all of it.

I can't believe how my mind worked like an alarm clock. My husband and I were moving all weekend and I was exhausted. My plans to hog the living room couch for the next five hours didn't materialize. By nine I was prone in front of the guest room TV — too pooped for popcorn.

I did, however, make it through the fashion celeb preview — which included everyone, including a hyper Tyra Banks, asking: "Who are you wearing this year." Although I don't know my Armani from my Versace, I thought Julianne Moore, Ashley Judd, Lucy Liu and Nicole Kidman were particularly stunning. By the way, did you also get the impression icy Nicole and her studly husband (Tom Cruise) had been sparring? Meow!

The plunging necklines (thank you Jennifer Lopez for not showing up) and overt sexiness of the past gave way to a new refinement. Most of the guests, including the men, looked like they were on their way to an inaugural ball. Even Cher dressed down. Garbed in black, literally from head to toe, she resembled an elegant feather duster.

I stayed awake to watch Billy Crystal's opening musical monologue — in which he was whisked into movies of the past. But, heaven help me, did he have to rely on that overused line from "The Sixth Sense" when he met up with Charlie Chaplin? "I see dead people." I'm surprised they didn't say it before the annual parade of deceased film stars — which, this year, included Hedy Lamarr and George C. Scott.

Anyway, I stayed awake long enough to see best supporting actor and actress go to Michael Caine and Angelina Jolie. I dozed intermittently through the next three hours, awakening for good to catch the final four:
best actor, actress, director and movie, which mostly went to my favorite "American Beauty."

Although I didn't see many of the other nominees, I can't imagine anything more witty and wonderful than this sharp, slick satire of American suburbia and dysfunctional families. I was disappointed Annette Bening didn't win for best actress — she was stunning — but hey, I've heard Hilary Swank was truly amazing in "Boys Don't Cry."

Some personal picks:

Best execution of a song: Robin Williams' delivery of South Park's "Blame Canada" was classic.

Best line from a celebrity receiving an Oscar: Swank, from the gender-bending "Boys," prayed people would accept differences and grow to "celebrate diversity." That must have been hard for the conservatives to take. I loved Bill Maher's "Politically Incorrect" after show in which guests debated that some of the conservatives who went to see films with decidedly un-conservative topics like "The Cider House Rules" (abortion) and "Girl, Interrupted" (mental illness) were "closet liberals."

This woman (girl) interrupted: By the way, Channel 7 — and I risk getting hate mail here — what's up with following the event with an hour of boring metro news before Bill Maher kicked back with Oscar stuff at 2 a.m.? Who cares about updates on the Tigers after the biggest TV night of the year?

I don't know about you, but I had enough of the warm and fuzzy stuff and couldn't wait to see Maher or whoever else he had on the show diss who was tacky and who talked too long.

Biggest snubs: I was surprised Denzel Washington didn't win for best actor because most critics gave him the nod. But I'm happy it was Kevin Spacey. Nobody could have played "Beauty's" pot-smoking-body-building-ingenuelustling Lester better.

Also, I'm mad at the Academy for ignoring the brilliant Jim Carrey for the second time around — for "The Truman Show" and now, "Man in the Moon."
Come clean about why he wasn't nominated, please.

Must sees: "Cider," "Girl" and "Boys." See you at the movies! If I'm late, start munching the popcorn without me.

A St. Patrick's Day to remember

Songs of drink, women and rebellion came through the CD player speakers, crisp and clear. The Clancy Brothers never sounded better, I mused to myself.

And, why not? Wasn't it the first St. Patrick's Day of the new century? Why, of course it was. I even had a pint of Guinness and ate a plate steeped with steaming corned beef, cabbage, carrots and potatoes.

March 17, 2000, a blessed day.

Of, course I celebrated.

Saint Patrick's Day has always had a special place in my heart. Of mostly Irish-stock, the Rush family celebrated March 17 as many Irish-American families. That is to say, if we felt like it we wore some sort of green clothing. Somewhere along the way, during the day somebody would sing both versus of Danny Boy. (Nobody drank green beer — that swill was saved for Irish-wannabees.)

March 17, 2000 was a little different. As in years past, I had on my shamrock socks (even had a pair for my Polish-American gal, Jen, to wear). And, I had donned a greenish, blue outfit for the occasion. This past St. Paddy's day, however, has forever changed all future March 17s for me. I'm changed, not because I saw inside my wife's guts (men, I saw things in there no one but doctors ought to ever see). St. Patrick's day for me will still be a day of celebration, to be sure, but not for the Irish, rather the birth of John Theodore Rush. We call him Sean.

Yep.

And I saw it happen.

Which, was no small feat for this hombre. Jen goes to great pains to make sure everybody she meets, knows that when I watch the television show ER, I only watch part of the show. Much of the time I have my eyes covered so as not to see too much make believe gore. I don't watch PBS shows on any operation and if I even don rush

don't rush me

think I'm gonna hear a TV doctor set a broken bone, I'll leave the room.

Yet, something guided me through the birth of our son. Maybe it was my love of Jen . . . I wanted to be there, not because I was curious, but to hold her hand. Caesarian birth is big-time surgery.

I'm glad I was there. Heck, I didn't pass out, throw up or hyperventilate. I watched some of the operation through the reflection of Dr. Smith's glasses and then when it was time to start tuggin' on Sean-oh-boy's noggin. I tried to focus on the baby, not the slimy, giggly, stuff that he was coming through.

I watched, not with trepidation, but awe as they unwound the cord from Sean's neck — not once, but twice. I guess this is why you place your trust in your doctor's hands and your faith in God's. I wasn't scared.

Up to that point — for a good couple of months — I was scared stupid. What can go wrong? What will go wrong? What would I do? What would happen to two-year-old Shamus? Scared and selfish — I didn't want to go throughout life without Jen. I'm sure those feelings made Jen's last days of pregnancy much harder, so hopefully she'll forgive my weaknesses.

At 12:51 p.m., they pulled the baby, all covered in white gunk, out, announced it was a boy, Sean, cut the umbilical cord (which, by the way, looks an awful lot like a big, old thick computer cord), and got him over to the table to clear his lungs.

Then he cried.

Then Jen cried.

Yep, then I cried. Don't get me wrong, guys, I didn't wimp out. I wasn't balling or anything. But, tears of joy did wet my cheeks.

That's how I spent my St. Patrick's Day, this year — can you top it?

Substitute teaching is not an easy task!

Last week I had the opportunity to do some substitute teaching at Sashabaw Middle School. My schedule included sixth grade language arts and social studies and seventh grade math. It was quite an experience!

My first task (according to a lesson plan provided by the teacher) was to administer a spelling test. I found it ironic that the list began with the word "anxiety." Despite years of experience as a teacher, principal, and central office administrator, I was a little anxious. Teaching three subjects at two different grade levels is a challenge, and I wanted my lessons to be productive for the students.

Since most middle school youngsters become accustomed to the habits and rituals established by their teacher, the first trial that I faced was to learn the established routine in each of the classrooms. Next I had to review the concepts and skills to be taught and make certain the instructional materials were ready for use. Lastly, I needed to remind myself that sixth and seventh graders like to "test the waters" and they don't necessarily care about rank. After the routines were examined, the instructional strategies were reviewed, and my state of mind was prepared, I headed to my first class.

When the boys and girls entered the classroom, they immediately asked me if I was going to be the "sub." They then went about their daily routine without much direction from me. As they waited for the bell, they placed their homework on the desk and entered into conversations that could be understood only by someone who had spent time with youngsters of this age. For example, I watched as several students talked to each other, all at the same time! Once the class began, the real story of our Clarkston Kids unfolded before my eyes!

The boys and girls realized that the "substitute" was feeling his way through the normal routines, so they offered help. They told me how their teacher takes attendance, collects homework, and sets up the day's work.

- The youngsters did test the resolve of this substitute to maintain an orderly, productive atmosphere, but once they knew that I was serious about helping them to learn, they did everything I asked of them and more!

- The pupils displayed a genuine interest in learning, and they seemed to appreciate the time spent explaining the purpose of the lessons.

Nowadays it is easy to expect less of young people. After all, the national media seems bent on bringing their failures to our attention. The truth is that middle school students are in the midst of the maturation process, and life's lessons aren't always pleasant. You may have read how some schools have lowered standards by "dumbing down" the curriculum. My direct experience with our youngsters confirms my thoughts about most middle school students:

- They are usually ready, willing and able to assist adults as we work to help them learn. If we provide them with appropriate opportunities they will make us proud.
- They know that their capabilities are often underrated, and they recognize that they can soar if we provide them with the right learning environment.
- They can play an active role in setting a high standard if we help them think through the options.
- They need to be challenged to do their best.

Every superintendent should be so lucky! Our administrators, faculty and staff are working tirelessly to "raise the bar" and our youngsters seem ready, willing and able to participate in the process! It is clear that we need to develop an environment that is more effective in building positive attitudes, raising expectation levels, and offering pupils a chance to be active participants in their own learning. Don't you agree?

No need to apologize You can always go home if home is Clarkston have nothing for which to apologize. Convents and monasteries all over occupied Europe gave shelter to Jews and provided them with documents to enable their passage out of Nazi occupied countries. If I ever read a newspaper which checks the authenticity and historical accuracy of what they print I shall probably die of shock. It isn't just the Detroit papers. I have noticed the same flaws in Minneapolis/St. Paul, Des Moines, Arlington, VA and Indianapolis. All newspapers have libraries and hopefully degreed librarians. Do any reporters seek out such resources before printing lies?

Sincerely,

Dear Editor,

When I moved to Florida from the Clarkston area 15 years ago, little did I know that my two daughters, Lisa Rodriguez and Amy Wilson would return to the small town where they attended school and were brought up.

So I was very pleased to read about Grandma Greene's birthing house, which is now a labor of loving restoration by my daughter Amy and her husband, Greg Wilson.

I was born in a birthing house operated by Elizabeth Rockwell on West Washington Street and attended school in Clarkston until the 6th grade. I moved back in 1961 and all four of my children grew up there.

Now my grandchildren are growing up in my hometown. When I grew up there during the war years, it was a small town and you knew almost everyone. I am so happy that my grandchildren are going to share that wonderful feeling and I am sure they, too will look back on their school days with the same nostalgia that I feel. The word "home" always means Clarkston to me. For the last three years we have become summer residents and enjoy it so much. Who says you can't go home again?

Sincerely,
Nancy Davis Landry

Animals in the circus endure abuse and inhumane conditions

Dear Editor,

The Shrine Circus is at the State Fairgrounds March 17th through April 2nd and the Royal Hanneford Circus rolls into the Palace shortly after that. I urge anybody considering taking their families to strongly reconsider.

Many people may not be aware, but elephants, tigers, bears and other wild animals who are used in the circus endure inhumane and abusive training and living conditions. When not performing, they spend the great majority of their time in extremely close confinement and have little legal protection.

In addition, performing wild animals pose a real threat to public safety, precisely because they are wild and therefore unpredictable. No amount of training or affection can eliminate this danger.

If you are a fan of the circus, please attend shows that DO NOT use animals. The use of performing wild animals not only creates a dangerous atmosphere, but also desensitizes individuals - especially our impressionable children - to animal suffering.

From talking to teachers about the subject, kids are very sensitive to animal suffering and do not want to go to the circus once they find out the truth. These beautiful creatures do not deserve this kind of life. Please do not support those that have enslaved them.

Sincerely,
Laura Wittkowski

Rob's changing his name to Zeus

Through my capitalist pursuits (working at the Clarkston Union), I've come to realize that my reader base is a lot larger than I ever thought it would be.

I'll be in Berzerker mode, thriftily removing empty plates and pint-glasses, when I'll hear something like, "So, you've got senioritis, huh?" or "How's that senioritis?" or the frank, yet profound, "Why are you so bitter?"

I never really thought about anyone reading this little project of mine except for a few of my friends and my fearless editor. Apparently, I must have some sort of cult following here in Clarkston, like the movie Evil Dead 2. There are actually people who like my work.

Now that I have a public, the first thing I'm going to do is have everyone refer to me as Zeus. You see, we famous people can do this sort of thing. Now, whenever you're at the Union showering critical praise on my Art, you can be hip to the jive with phrases like, "What a great article you wrote, Zeus!" and "You truly are the king of the Greek Gods of Writing, Zeus!" whilst you plead with me to autograph your bill.

My phone will be off the hook with famous authors and publishing firms applauding my work and offering me multimillion dollar book deals. I'll say to my private secretary, "Tell them I'll call them back. I'm busy with the President of the United States discussing mores on a higher level."

When I'm pulling up to work in my gleaming new Lincoln Stretch Limo (black, of course), license plate: Zeus 2 (Zeus 1 will be my private F-22), thousands of downtown goers will flood the streets, causing hour-long traffic jams. Ah, the troubles of being a legend.

But, as I am a humble star, I'll be quick to shun the vanity of celebrity life, and retreat to my villa on Deer Lake, Robwalker Ranch. I can practically hear the paparazzi's shouts of protest as they are escorted from my property. The Clarkston News headlines will read, "Reclusive Writing Genius Has Love Child With Swedish Super Model!", "Elvis Sighted At Robwalker Ranch!", and "Who Killed Jon Benet? Zeus Knows."

Not being able to escape the demands for book and movie deals, I will, alas, return to the industry after my long sabbatical. I'll sign on a number of sponsors. After I sell out, a typical paragraph will probably look like this:

Adidas adidas sprite. What's the deal with school? Adidas, Wu-wear Taco Bell, Don Pablos, Brose Electric Shop doritos munchems, wonder bread edy's ice cream. The windows don't open, DC shoes obey your thirst. Make 7 Up yours. Miramax Kool Keith Dr. Doom adidas? Why can't we just listen to N'Sync? Fubu adidas image means nothing thirst means everything.

All of my artistic genius will be replaced by the latest catch-slogans, causing my once great work to fall from grace. All of my real fans will disappear, but I won't notice at first, because they will be replaced by scores of pre-teen girls after I make my debut as a Backstreet Boy (they're owned by Pepsi, you know). After this happens, I'll go into what will be later called my Betty Ford period, due to the great probability that I'll spend most of my time there. I'll be released a number of times, only to be caught drunk or drugged after I've thrown Tom Hanks through a bar window because he called me a has-been.

Chances are, after the possession and assault charges, (and due to the fact that I'll have been in and out of rehab) I'll get out on parole having done a couple of years. The Robwalker Ranch will have been auctioned off to O.J., bought with money from his fourth book deal.

The Limo will be in the hands of John Gotti Jr., and I'll have sold the F-22 a couple of years earlier when I ran out of money in Vegas. Zeus, resident 13 Skid Row.

But they won't keep me down. I'll start working again; picking up the pieces. I need the job anyway, otherwise I'll end up back in prison bunking with a huge inmate named Bunny. Maybe I'll even write for this paper. At least I'll be doing something; what is life without something to live for? I'll live for my return to the top.

And, if you'll excuse me, I have a mental hospital to check into.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

Independence Township Fire Cpt. Dale Bailey reacts to losing his bid for fire chief, despite the fire commission's recommendation. Hurt, Bailey questions why the decision was made. Petosky resident William Carver, who is appointed to the position by the board of trustees, says he's confident about his ability to tackle the new role.

A "Pot-of-Gold" drawing at Howe's Lanes comes under scrutiny by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission. The investigation is for possible illegal gambling.

Supervisor Collin Walls says his primary concern is to protect the environment in Springfield Township. A life-long resident, Walls says maintaining stability while growing is a challenge and can be aided by sound zoning ordinances.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

Clarkston Village Council votes to lease to the non-profit Economic Development Corp. 12,000 square feet of land off Depot Road in order to build a 4,500-square-foot district court building.

The newly formed Business Association of Clarkston fails to agree on whether or not the district court should remain within the village confines. But it votes in favor of Independence Township rezoning for the Nickelodeon restaurant on M-15.

After serving 27 years with the Michigan State Police, Lt. Raymond J. Hoopengartner of Clarkston is honored at a retirement party at Donelli's Restaurant in Lake Orion.

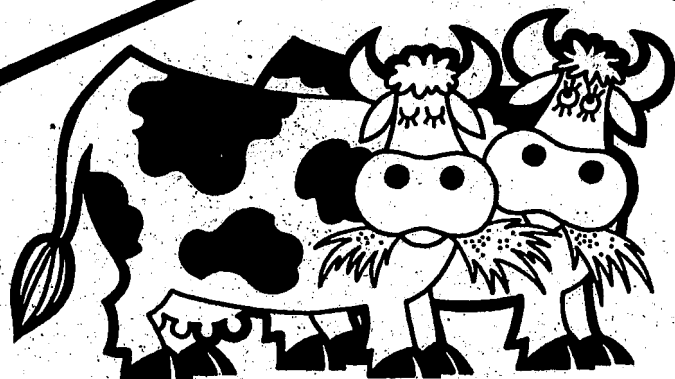

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

The Clarkston schools are closed two days due to muddy roads. It is impossible for the buses to pick up pupils. Mailmen also have trouble making their rounds, as well as some citizens who try to mail news to the paper but have to call with their messages over the phone.

The Clarkston School Junior Class readies to present its mystery-comedy "Once Upon a Midnight." The cast includes Clark Rouse, Jim Smith, Bob Rose, Steve Bilby, Nora Brewer, Mary Jane Beattie, Jim Huttenlocher, Sylvia Peterson, Gail Oswald, Gail Robertson, Gerry Lang, Joice Carte and Wayne Orr.

Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra star in "On the Town" at the Drayton Theatre.

Local officials urge residents to mail in census forms

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

The amount of money the state returns to local communities each year in revenue sharing is based on the community's population, and the formula changes each year. That's why local officials, especially those in fast-growing communities like Independence and Springfield townships are concerned that residents fill out and return their census forms this year.

Independence and Springfield townships made the Southeast Michigan Council of Government's list of top ten fastest growing communities in Oakland County last year.

In 1990 the population in Independence Township was 23,717. By 1996 it had grown to 27,939. Clerk Joan McCrary said officials expect the count to top 32,000 — a figure SEMCOG estimates Independence Township has already reached.

Based on unaudited 1999 revenue figures, Independence Township received $1,355,930 from revenue sharing — 28 percent of its General Fund, she said.

Springfield Township's population in 1990 was 9,927. After the 2000 census, local officials expect the population to be 14,200 — a 40 percent increase, said Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole.

Strole said this year Springfield Township expects to receive about $770,000 in revenue sharing funds. "I don't know if most people realize we receive far more in revenue sharing funds than we do in property taxes. The funding comes from sales tax, basically."

Strole said her concern that all residents be counted is two-fold.

"First, because Springfield, like Independence is a growing community with new streets and developments, I'm concerned that some of those new people will be missed. I've been working with the census people to make sure they have the latest information."

Strole said her second concern is that residents don't understand how many programs are funded from revenue sharing.

"It's actually money in residents' pockets,"

Strole said. "It translates directly into programs and services."

Strole listed spring clean-up, graveling eight to 10 miles of roads, putting chloride on roads in the summer for dust control, and parks funding as some of the most important programs funded by revenue sharing.

"The risk is that in growing communities every resident will not be counted, or that a new resident may not feel a sense of identity with a new community, and not understand the need to fill out a census form," she said.

McCrary said another problem is that prior to the 1990 census, the amount of money returned to local communities was determined by a formula set in the state constitution.

McCrary said during an economic downturn in the early nineties, the legislature changed the system. Revenue sharing is now part of Governor Engler's annual budget and the formula changes each year.

Because the economy has been good during the last few years the township is receiving more money from the state than in prior years. But the amount is still less than it would have been under the old sys-

Sunday, March 26, larceny of a boy's BMX bicycle from in front of a residence on Clinton.

Indecent exposure at Independence Township Library.

Saturday, March 25, residents on Dora reported several items in their neighborhood were vandalized. A pontoon boat, all-terrain vehicle, windows, trailer/camper and riding lawn mower were spraypainted, some items with obscenities. Shrubbery was cut down and an electric motor was damaged. Two juvenile boys, ages 8 and 9, were thought to be responsible. One admitted his part to police. The boys were released to their fathers who said they might pursue complaints. One father refused to let his son provide a written statement and the other father said he would tally the damage.

Suspicious person on Ennismore. Two young girls said they were chased by a 31-year-old man, who thought they threw a rock at his car. When the girls asked if he'd like to buy some cookies and he said no, he said he heard a thump on his car.

Friday, March 24, tools and two snowblowers were reported taken from a garage on Fox Creek East. The lock was cut with a bolt cutter and the door pried open.

A 42-year-old Holly man was arrested for drunk driving after he drove erratically on I-75 near Dixie. Breath tests revealed a blood alcohol level of .120 (.10 is the legal limit) and he was taken to Oakland County Jail.

A 23-year-old Clarkston man was cited for driving with a suspended license on Sashabaw after he was stopped for defective equipment.

A Ford Explorer was scratched in the Clarkston High School parking lot on Flemings Lake.

A truck bed was dented at a Dixie bar's parking lot. Some items were taken, including 32 CDs, a woman's leather jacket and sunglasses.

A Chevy van's passenger vent window was broken while it was parked at a Sashabaw business. Nothing was reported missing.

Several mailboxes were damaged on Reese.

Thursday, March 23, someone removed a wood barrier at the Pine Knob Elementary School construction site. A tool box was cut open and some tools removed.

A parent brought her juvenile-age daughter into the substation because she thought she was drinking. Breath tests revealed a slight blood alcohol level and the girl was cited for minor in consumption of alcohol.

Retail fraud at a Dixie grocery store. Two juvenile girls were spotted taking eye makeup. A 16-year-old was cited for retail fraud after she was found with the items on her. The girls were released to their parents and referred to juvenile authorities.

Monday, March 20, police were called to a Dixie grocery store's parking lot for a report of two men fighting with a hammer. A woman in a car with three children said she had called one of the men to meet her because she needed money for food. The other man, her husband, showed up and said he thought the two were cheating on him. He produced the hammer and a lug wrench and they began fighting. The other man suffered a bite wound to his hand. Police sought warrants for felonious assault for them both.

Police were called to Sashabaw Middle School where three juvenile boys were reported fighting. Two students, ages 14 and 15, were suspended. A third boy, age 15, was suspended for the rest of the year.

Retail fraud at a Dixie grocery store. An employee saw a 67-year-old Springfield Township man take a plastic bag from his pocket and fill it with sliced turkey, Mozzarella cheese and meat patties from the deli. He was confronted with the items in his pocket after he made it through the checkout without paying.

Oxford man sentenced

An Oxford man was sentenced in Oakland County Circuit Court Monday in connection with a fatal car accident that occurred last summer.

Judge Colleen O'Brien sentenced Paul Douglas Werner, 28, to 25-40 years in prison for homicide and murder in the July 18 death of 22-year-old Stephanie Steele of Sterling Heights. He was also sentenced to 0-15 years for under influence causing death, 0-15 years for under influence causing injury and one year for driving with a suspended driver's license. In addition, Werner was ordered to pay $10,753 in restitution and additional fees.

According to reports, Werner was traveling the wrong way in the southbound lane of I-75 near Clintonville Road July 18 when he struck two cars. Steele, the daughter of a Troy police officer, was a passenger in one of the cars driven by her boyfriend, who was seriously injured but is recovering.

Werner's blood alcohol level was found to be more than twice the legal limit, police said. He had posted his $100 bond from another drunk driving arrest earlier.

Census forms should be mailed by April 1

tem. "We definitely would be getting more money," McCrary said.

McCrary said Michigan Townships Association has been lobbying for a return to the old system.

"Because the whole formula is based on the census, it's another reason we went to the expense and effort of doing a mid-decade census (in 1996) — so the state would use the figures in determining revenue sharing," McCrary said.

The City of Clarkston recorded a population of 1,005 in its 1990 census. SEMCOG estimated its population was 1,029 in 1999. City Manager Art Pappas said he's pretty sure most city residents will return their census forms.

His major concern is that the census bureau will not have the correct borders for the city. "Sometimes the mapping on computers doesn't work out right," he said, adding he will have to monitor the situation through completion of the census.

Another concern is that many Independence Township residents think they live in the city. "Ninety-nine percent of our calls are from people who want information about the library or the (Independence Township) building department," said Pappas. He added other calls come from people who say they are moving to Clarkston, but are actually moving to Independence Township and don't realize there is a township government.

"And then we get calls misdirected from directory assistance from people who want to reach the city of Clawson. We have a good time here," Pappas joked.

Gulick Lake may be dying

the Hovercraft down to the lake because of limited access, but on Thursday he said the OCSD was working on improving methods to get there.

Several residents have wondered if the problem is related to drainage problems with construction of the two-year-old Clarkston High School — or the year's dry weather. Until a study is done, no one will know what the cause is, Hamann, a five-year resident of the subdivision, said. Other residents wondered if perhaps the lake might be "dying" a natural death and revert to a wetland.

Those attending the meeting also listened to horror stories about how residents and even their pets had been out on the lake and found themselves sinking into beds of a substance like quicksand. One resident, for instance, recounted his own experience a year ago while trying to retrieve a boat. "I sank to my chest in muck," he said. Residents also worried about liability problems if someone is hurt.

Residents said they have had their worries shared by several township officials, including Oakland County Commissioner Frank Millard, Township Supervisor Dale Stuart and Township Trustee Neil Wallace, who recently drafted a letter to township engineers, describing the lake as having "a spongy feel to the soil."

Hamann estimated a study — which would determine the source of the problem — would cost from $10,000 to $16,000. An augmentation well, which would be dug to provide a source of water to rehydrate the lake, would be costly — $30,000 to $40,000. Hamann said the well might make the lake "swimmable." Currently, you also cannot fish or boat, Hamann said.

Township Engineer Randy Ford of Hubbell, Roth & Clark said township engineers "have not been requested to do anything at this point." However, he remembers a homeowners' meeting last fall where the idea of an augmentation well was discussed. Residents also mentioned possible help might come from the state's Department of Natural Resources and/or Department of Environmental Quality. Both the DEQ and DNR have been out to the site, Hamann said.

Residents also worried about having to fund the entire study and possible augmentation well out of their own lake association budget. Hamann said, at the fall meeting, Stuart thought the township would be able to contribute about 10 percent to the study. Stuart said Thursday he thought the township might be able to contribute to both the study and the augmentation well, if needed.

"I would recommend that to the board," Stuart said, noting the lake is in "terrible condition. It's got to be devastating for those poor people.

"I'm suggesting they do some studies — what is the cause and what are the solutions. If not, everything is a guess." However, he added, there could be problems with the augmentation well, which would be used to help pump water back into Gulick Lake. "The difficulty is, if they hit an aquifer, it could dry up (area) wells."

Deputy Clerk Cari Polidan, Dep. Jim Polidan's wife, represented the township and took notes for the event. In response to whether monies from the Oakland County Infrastructure Fund could be used to supplement the costs, Cari Polidan said the next day, those monies have already been earmarked for other projects.

Sara Bonnette, aquatic biologist with the DEQ, said the Great Lakes and many inland lakes are low right now. "Water levels now in lakes and streams are low, due to the small level of precipitation we've gotten — meaning it hasn't rained very much and we haven't gotten a lot of snow this winter," Bonnette said. "I don't think we got much snow last year either."

Mary Vanderlaan, from the DEQ's land and water management division, said Monday residents need a hydrogeologic study, but the DEQ doesn't have "the funding, equipment or expertise" to do studies for local communities.

Vanderlaan said groundwater wells would have to be installed to "look at groundwater elevations, flow directions and quantity of water to the lake."

Traffic congestion is another concern and Wagner says M-15 is a bad location for the proposed Holiday Inn. A much better site would be the Sashabaw Road/I-75 area, he said.

Personal strengths: He owns his own businesses. Also, "the ability to get along and to understand and to listen to the concerns of people," he said. "And having the time to do it."

reports said. The woman, 29, threw herself on the hood to keep Depottey from driving off. According to police, he lurched the car repeatedly until she fell to the ground. She received minor injuries and did not require medical attention, police said.

Hendrick said the motive was drug-related. "He (Depottey) is a heroin addict. He was enroute from his resident to the Detroit area to buy drugs," Hendrick said. Depottey's car broke down on I-75 near Sashabaw and he walked to the gas station, where he car-jacked the woman's auto, Hendrick said.

The car was recovered later in the Square Lake-Telegraph roads area, and Depottey turned himself in to Maplegrove Clinic, a rehabilitation center in West Bloomfield, where he was picked up by police.

'Anything Goes' coming to CHS

The musical from the Clarkston High School Drama Club Anything Goes by Cole Porter runs April 6, 7 and 8.

Some of the famous songs include "It's DeLovely", "I Get A Kick Out of You", "You're the Top", "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" and the title song, "Anything Goes".

The story opens in New York as the cruise ship "America" is about to depart for London. Abroad is famed evangelist and nightclub singer, Reno Sweeny (Annie Whittington) with her eight "fallen angels." Young up-and-comer Billy Crocker (Nic Thompson) decides to sail at the last moment when he runs into Hope Harcourt (Lisa Smith), who he has been searching for since they met at a crowded party.

Reno, a close friend of Billy's, offers to help out by distracting Hope's fiance, the imperceptive Englishman, Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (Daniel Jones).

Billy also befriends a traveling criminal, Public Enemy #13, Moonface Martin (Andrew Szykua), and Bonnie (Jessica Holman). They help him evade his boss Elisha Whitney (Kevin Kosbab), the Captain (Brian Witkowski), the Purser (Jeff Steele), and the "sharp-tongued" Mrs. Harcourt. (Truly Render), determined to see Hope marry Sir Evelyn. It is a wonderful humorous show full of confusion, mistaken identity and romance.

The production will be presented in the Clarkston High School Performing Arts Center at 7:30 p.m. all three nights. Tickets are $7 for adults and $6 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are on sale through Apr. 8 at the CHS PAC box office located next to the CHS Cafe, and are reserved by calling 623-4024. They may be purchased during all school lunches (10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m) and after 6 p.m prior to each performance.

What's an old-fashioned romantic comedy without an interfering mother? The "sharp-tongued" Mrs. Harcourt (Truly Render, rear) tries to keep her daughter, Hope (Lisa Smith, center), from getting too close to up-and-comer Billy Crocker (Nic Thompson, right). Mrs. Harcourt wants Hope to marry Englishman Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (Daniel Jones, left).

Boys track team is big, deep and eager for season

The 2000 boys track team is hoping for a stellar season under 21 year Clarkston coach Walt Wyniemko.

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer
They've come out in big numbers this season.

Walt Wyniemko's boys track team has over 70 members on it, combining athletes from many other varsity sports. Athletes from cross country, football hockey and others have joined forces to put together this year's varsity track team.

This year's team has 23 seniors, which makes Wyniemko confident his crew should do well this season.

"We've got solid nucleus of returning kids. It's been a good class for us numbers wise. We have a lot of exceptional athletes at Clarkston. We should be pretty strong in the distance and middle distances," Wyniemko said.

Last season the Wolves came in second place in the conference, right behind Pontiac Northern. Clarkston's only league loss was to Adams and all three teams were tied heading into last year's league meet.

"We should be very competitive again this season. Track is a big deal in Oakland County. Pontiac Central should be strong, but they don't have a lot of numbers so they're not as deep as we are. Rochester should be strong too. We don't take anybody lightly. If you don't come to run anything can happen," Wyniemko said.

Wyniemko got a sneak preview of what could be in store this season when the Wolves took second place in the Class A division at the Saginaw Invitational indoor track meet. The Wolves won the meet last year, but were edged out by first place Grand Ledge who took first this year.

Standout performances from the meet included the 4x400 relay team of Adam Gebus, Mark Carlson, Cody Senkyr and Brett Quantz with a time of 3:37.50

Gebus took third in the 400 at 53.2.

High jumper Rafael Fauza took third jumping 6-foot-2.

Dave Sage took second place in the 3200 meter at 9:34.8

The 4x800 relay team of Jon Chenet, Quantz, David Sage and Kevin Breen took third with a mark of 8:12.2.

Senkyr took fifth place in the hurdles at 8.4.

Girls varsity soccer team is hoping to improve over last season

Tami Mitchell is in her second year as varsity girls soccer head coach

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most sports teams don't become champions overnight. It takes time, talent, patience and practice for all the elements to come together. And second-year varsity girls soccer coach Tami Mitchell has already seen some promising things from her girls this spring.

Although the Wolves only won two games last season, Mitchell is confident the 2000 campaign will be much better.

"Every year you learn more as a coach. One of the biggest changes I made was cutting down the numbers from last year's 22 players to this year's team which has 18," she said.

Mitchell feels that having a smaller team will help her players stay more interested in the game and will boost playing time for everybody on the team.

This year's team features 12 returning letter winners, while the majority of the rest are new members of the soccer team.

Key players on this year's team include senior captains Katie Kennedy and Kelly Plante who both play midfield. Kennedy is in her fourth year on the varsity team, while Plante is in her third year at the varsity level.

Junior Sarah Morgan will be playing goalie this season. Morgan is in her third varsity season and is a big strength on this year's team Mitchell said.

"She's very solid. She's a great goalie," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said she is also expecting big things from seniors Katie Tripi and Jen Yeager.

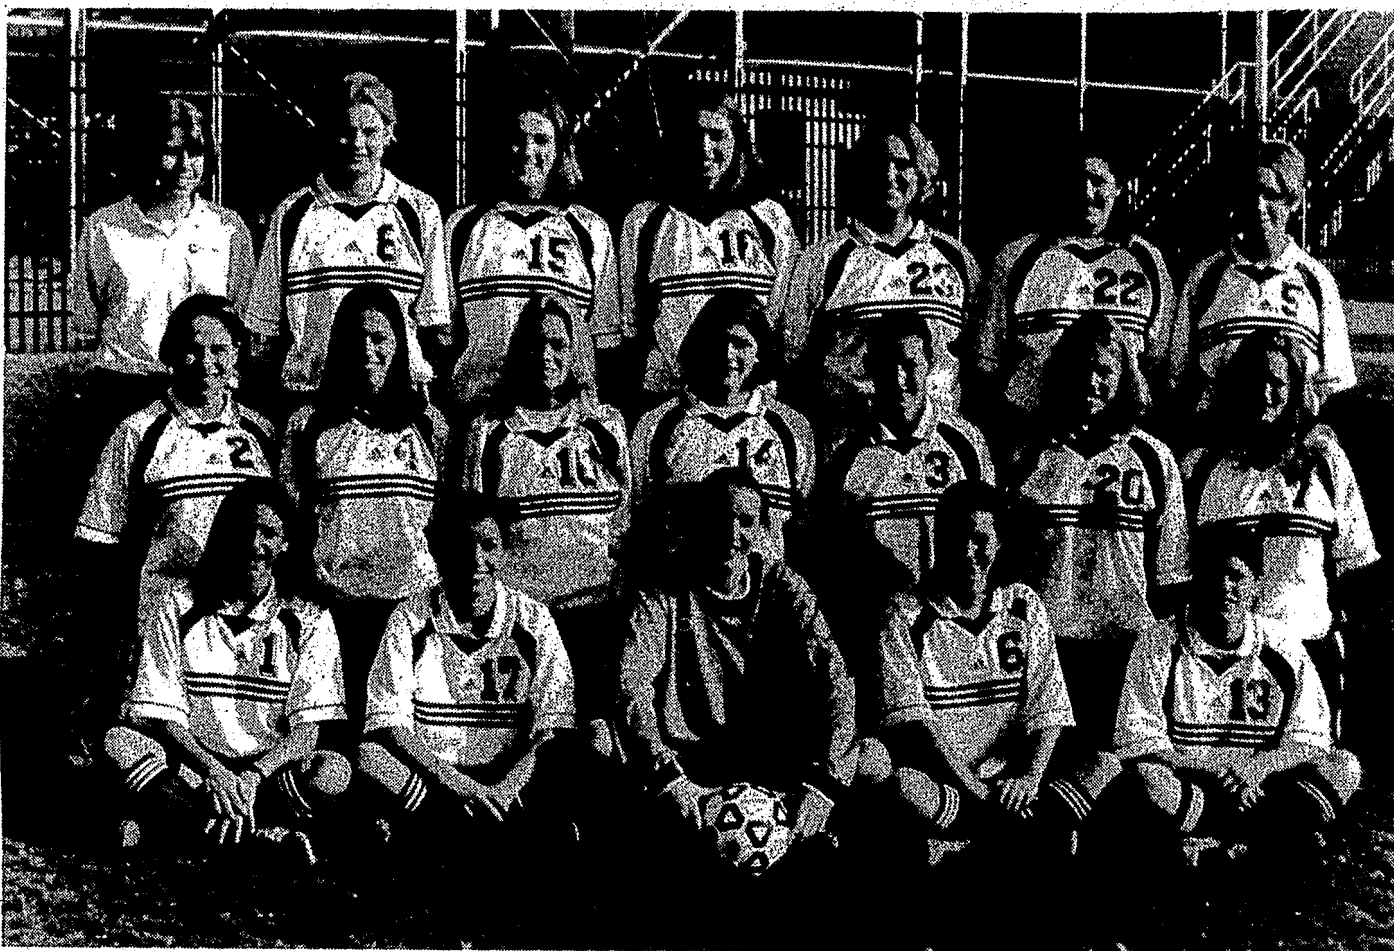

She went on to say that Clarkston has the potential to win the conference, but that anything is possible.

"We have a chance to take first, but we also have a chance to take third. Lahser, Kimball and Lake Orion will all be tough," she said.

The Wolves have already seen action this season as they opened the season March 25 with a 3-0 loss to Grand Blanc.

"They're an outstanding team and I was happy with our performance out there. We've got lots of potential and I saw some good things from our girls on the field," Mitchell said.

The Wolves next action will be April 4 at West Bloomfield.

The 2000 varsity girls soccer team is hoping for more success this season.

With the warm temperatures comes golf season

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

As the seasons change many local residents have found themselves on the links earlier this year thanks to unseasonably warmer temperatures. Area golf courses have been busier earlier than in years past. What follows are brief descriptions of some area golf courses.

Springfield Oaks

It's almost like two courses in one. Springfield Oaks public golf course golfers will be challenged in the front nine with lots of hills and wide open play. The back nine features heavy woods and more tight spots.

The course is operated by Oakland County Parks. Golf pro Gary Berschbach said the course offers reasonable rates and is a good fit for the intermediate golfer.

"There's lots of elevation changes and is very beautiful in the fall. Hole no. 6 is visually intimidating as the entire left side is surrounded by water and there's a huge willow tree in the middle of the fairway," he said.

Tom Decovich of Novi tees off at Clarkston Creek golf course while his brother, Dave of Clarkston looks on.

A final congrats to winner sports and hello to spring

There's a changing of the guard.

Off come the ice skates, basketball sneakers, wrestling headgear and skis. On come the track shoes, baseball and softball gloves and tennis shoes. Spring sports are about ready to head into full swing.

But before I ramble on about what I think the spring season will bring, let me take a moment and reflect on what I witnessed during the winter months at Clarkston High School.

Success. That sums up what I saw with just about every winter sports program. The girls ski team made it to states, two boys headed up north as well. Both Megan Whipp and Brandon Rosengren won medals in Marquette.

Although their season was cut short in a loss to Waterford Mott, Bryan Krygier's crew won the OAA in hockey and had a number of players win various honors this season. Although a solid core of Wolves are graduating this spring, I'm confident Krygier can put together another outstanding hockey team that hopefully can enjoy more playoff success next season.

Another team whose season ended too early in my opinion was Dan Fife's basketball team. A classy program and great kids is all I can say about that team. Like the hockey team, the cagers are losing a solid foundation, but again great coaching should help the Wolves rebound with another solid year next year on the courts.

In only her first year, Kenwyn Chock took her swimming program to unforeseen heights. The Wolves won the OAA league meet, and have even loftier goals next season. Look for a few Wolves to qualify for states next season.

Although this season may have been a little disappointing to coach Gordie Richardson, fans can take heart in that only three members of this year's team were seniors.

Another district title for Mike DeGain's wrestling crew. Although this year's team was plagued with injuries, the Wolves did send Clint DeGain, who's only a freshman, to the Joe Louis Arena where he took second place at 152 pound weight limit. Making it to states is remarkable enough and with three years left, there's no telling how good DeGain will end up.

Although Debi Hool's crew didn't get the top 10 finish it thought it deserved, taking two straight trips to the cheerleading state finals is anything but a disappointment. It's obvious after talking to several cheerleaders that coach Hool works very hard with her team and always does her best to support them.

So here's a thank you to all the winter sports program coaches and athletes who I've had the pleasure of getting to know over the last several months. It's too bad the season is over, but that just means that another one awaits.

As much as I'm sad that the winter sports season is over and done with I'm just as eager to get to know a whole new set of coaches and players at Clarkston High School.

After talking to some spring sport coaches here's what I'd expect to see from a few of this season's teams. But, keep in mind this is only my first spring season, so my predictions may not be all that accurate.

Boys Track — The Wolves took second place last year in the conference and should be up near the top again this year. With over 70 boys on this year's team, the Wolves boast one of the biggest crews in recent years. They already took second place at Saginaw Indoor Track meet, as only Grand Ledge did better. With 23 seniors the season looks bright.

Girls Soccer — After winning only two games all of last season, the Wolves fell in the season opener to Grand Blanc, a powerhouse of a team according to Clarkston coach Tami Mitchell. Mitchell has about half of her team returning from last season and boasts some promising talent including Katie Kennedy, Kelly Plante and goalie Sarah Morgan. Mitchell said the team has plenty of potential. Time will tell if the Wolves live up to her expectations.

Boys Tennis — Kevin Ortwine's team should be one of the strongest of the spring season. The Wolves feature a good mix of returning experienced players and some younger talent.

Ortwine said he expects defending league champion Berkley to be down this year, which may open the door for Clarkston.

One of the biggest surprises may be that senior Patrick Heber, who played at one singles last year, is having his spot challenged by freshman Andrew Brown. A similar scenario is taking place at the no. 3 singles spot between junior Scott Barnett and sophomore Mike Rashid. If this year's crew lives up to their coach's expectations, expect good things from the Wolves on the court this season.

Golf

water on 13 of the 18 holes.

Hole no. 15 is a long par four. Its second shot is 200 yards over water into a well bunkered green.

For more information on the private club contact General Manager Victor Porto at 693-9100.

Their address is 1081 Indianwood in Lake Orion.

Heather Highlands

Wide open and well maintained. That's how Adam Korrick, 5-year employee, described Heather Highlands Golf Course.

The public course will be open from dawn until dusk over the summer and league play is available.

"The course is very clean and wide open. There's not too many trees," Korrick said.

The course is 6,879 yards from the blue tees, 6,435 from the white tees and 5,752 from the red tees. For more information on the course call 634-6800.

Shepherd's Hollow

Easy access and beautiful scenery. Those are the two main ingredients which make up Shepherd's Hollow Golf Course.

Set to open in July, the public course is built on over 350 acres of land, giving golfers a feeling of privacy and seclusion.

Managing partner Mike Bylen said of the course, "The course is built on a beautiful piece of property with lots of pines and rolling hills. We don't have one specific hole that really stands out. Each hole is beautiful," he said.

For more information call 852-7100.

Their address is 9085 Big Lake Road in Clarkston at I-75 and Dixie Highway.

What Clarkston High School varsity boys golf coach Tim Kaul said about area golf courses:

1. Springfield Oaks — "A good, straightforward golf course. It's not very long, but it has some tight spots and forces you to be accurate. Golfers with a good short game should do well there."

2. Clarkston Creek — "The back is a little shorter than the front. The course used to be pretty wide open, but they've tightened it up some by adding a few hundred trees. The front side greens can be tough. Positioning is the key on that course."

Golf

3. Pine Knob Golf Course — "They've redesigned the course and it has lots of variety."

4. Oakhurst Golf Course — "Very nice course design. They've done a good job using the property. There are lots of elevation changes and placement can range from easy to very difficult. You feel like the course has been there a while. It's got great course architecture."

5. Indian Springs — "I haven't played that course in a few years, but the greens were fast and hard. You could see what you had to do on each hole in that it didn't have many tricky shots. My understanding is that the greens have gotten better. It's just good, straightforward golf, nothing extremely challenging."

6. Indianwood — "It's a special place. The old course is like an old Scottish course. It feels like you're playing in Scotland or Great Britain. It's a well thought of course nationally. It's a privilege to play there. I haven't played the new course, but it's said to be pretty difficult with a lot of water hazards."

7. Heather Highlands — "That may be the best conditioned public course in the area. It's longer than most other public courses. It features big landing areas and huge greens. You can have 60-foot putts on that one. They also feature an executive course, which is a combo of par threes and short par fours. That's a good place for beginners to go, or for people who don't want to exert themselves too much."

8. Shepherd's Hollow — "Mike Bylen has an excellent reputation for course development. It has lots of rolling hills and is well-wooded. It may end up being the nicest golf course in Oakland County. I'm really looking forward to playing it. It should be a pretty difficult course."

In the mile Sage took fourth at 4:29.2 and Matt Haver took fifth at 4:36.6.

Wyniemko noted several other Wolves who he is expecting to make solid contributions to this year's team.

Seniors Eric Bauer, Brent Schermerhorn, Jeff Carpenter and Ryan Clement will be shot putting, sophomore Shane Bennett will be sprinting, Mark Carlston will be running the quarter-mile, sophomore Rob Conley will be sprinting, Matt Evans and Paul Tinetti will be running hurdles, Bill Kalush will be a pole vaulter, freshman Paul Mesi will be sprinting and senior Jesse Rea will be competing in the long jump.

"It should be a fun season and you never know with over 70 kids who is going to step up and have great season," Wyniemko said.

The track team's next meet will be March 31 at 2:30 p.m. at the Macomb indoor track meet.

Former Wolf receives honors

Tim Wasilk, a junior at Aquinas College, was recently named Honorable Mention All-American.

Wasilk led the Saints to a 23-10 overall record and a 10-4 Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference record. The Saints finished in a three-way tie for the league title.

He was named to the All-WHAC team, All-Defensive Team and WHAC Newcomer-of-the-Year.

He finished the season averaging 13.5 points per game, 198 assists, and 94 steals.

THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

DISTRESSING THOUGHTS

While the law provides no legal recourse when we are subjected to bad manners and rough language, we can hold others liable for the intentional or reckless infliction of emotional distress. To be actionable, the defendant's conduct must go beyond the reasonable bounds of decency to the point of being extreme and outrageous. Thus, such transgressions as name-calling and subjecting a person to verbal abuse may not be reasons enough for a person to seek legal judgment. On the other hand, if the defendant's actions may be characterized as shocking and indecent, according to the standards of the community, those who are subjected to such behavior may be compensated for the distress they must endure.

Here at 11 North Main Street, we provide a broad range of legal services for matters involving personal injury, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, criminal defense, business law, real estate, family law, and civil litigation in both State and Federal courts. We can evaluate your circumstances and determine whether or not a viable case exists. It is our intention to take legal action only in your best interest. To schedule a consultation, call 620-1030.

NOTE: In the case of infliction of emotional distress, the plaintiff's distress must be what a reasonable person of ordinary sensitivity would experience.
