National City robbed

Second local bank in six weeks loses money to gunman

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The second local bank robbery in two months happened Wednesday, but police don't think it's the same person.

Police were called to National City Bank, 6650 Dixie Highway at the corner of Maybee Road in Independence Township, at approximately 11:20 a.m. after a man described as tall and weighing 165-185 pounds approached a teller and produced an automatic weapon.

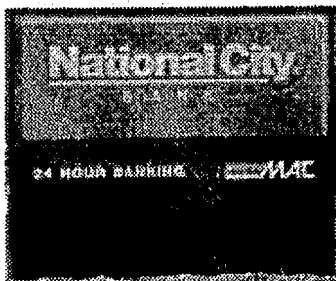

The man asked for an undetermined amount of cash which she turned over. Witnesses said it was hard to get a description of the suspect as he was wearing "a dark baseball cap, black jacket, dark-colored scarf around his face and dark sunglasses," said Lt. Dale LaBair of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Independence substation.

The suspect "escaped in an unknown direction," LaBair said. "We have no vehicle — virtually nothing — at this point." He said police got "unusually aggressive," bringing a tracking dog into the area, who was unsuccessful in picking up the suspect's or a possible vehicle's scent.

LaBair said the extra help was brought in partly because it took so long to alert police. The bank was equipped with an alarm system "that goes to Cleveland, then comes to us," he said. "It took a matter of minutes and we were on top of it."

The March 29 incident was the second bank robbery to occur in the township in the past two months. On Feb. 18 a suspect robbed the Great Lakes (now TCF) Bank on M-15, north of the City of Clarkston. Police have no suspects in either case.

LaBair said he doesn't see the two incidents as being related. "A bank robbery is such a speciality that usually I'm not surprised when it is the same person," he said. "But the characteristics are not that close. There are too many differences."

The National City Bank at Dixie and Maybee was robbed Mar. 29.

Who says science can't be fun?

Students at North Sashabaw Elementary School spent last Thursday learning how to make science fun. The school's Science Day 2000 offered a wide selection of presentations and workshops by professionals and volunteers sponsored by the PTO. Above left, volunteer Kim Greenfield lets third grader Joey Meltsner get to know Radar, a wallaby from Australia. Students were also taught the climate and geography of Australia. Above right, Danielle Johnson, left and Chantel Blay, first graders and best friends, made a balanced fish aquarium. Other exhibits included a star lab, the science of polymers, science with toys, exploration of the senses and mirror magic.

Clarkston Creek report says improvements costlier than expected

Golf course needs $5 million

BY EILEEN McCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A recent report from a consultant has determined it will take over $5 million in improvements to bring Clarkston Creek up to par as a golf course. But when that happens, it will be an amenity.

The report, prepared by Don Childs Associates, a Golf Course Design, Engineering & Consulting firm from Sylvan Lake, states "Acquisition of the Clarkston Creek Golf (Course) would give Independence Township an excellent opportunity for a municipal golf course property. Purchase of the golf facility would expand the public recreational services to the township residents, and it will provide a delightful piece of open space in an area that is currently seeing rapidly expanding residential development."

The board of trustees approved $2,120 to hire the consultant in February, following months of discussion on whether the township should take over the 144-acre golf course on Maybee Road. A deal is being proposed by JLG Properties, headed by local developer Joe Loccricchio, where the township would buy the flagging course and have developers manage it.

Loccricchio wants to build a 121-unit townhouse project on the northern portion of the property, which would mean relocating two of holes to the current driving range.

The complicated proposal also involves a stormwater retention plan (identified in Vision 2020), a land swap of 14 acres owned by the township on Sashabaw Road and 19 acres on Sashabaw, known as the Marshall property, that would be purchased by the developers. As part of the deal, the developer would

Corrections:

In the March 29 edition of The Clarkston News it was inaccurately reported in the police reports that some pupils were suspended March 20 from Sashabaw Middle School. The incident occurred last year.

Some information was incorrect in a cutline for a front page photo of Gulick Lake in the March 29 edition of The Clarkston News. The vast dark area at the edge of the dock is muck, not dry area. The dry area is only around the dock in the picture and the low water level is nearer to the top of the photo.

Former Wolf races at Palace

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Nicole Nicholas, a 1993 graduate of Clarkston High School doesn't look like the type of person who would put herself in danger on a regular basis. But she does and she loves every bit of it.

Nicholas loves to race snowmobiles. So much so that she's decided to put her plans to become a physical education teacher on hold for a while.

"I've only got one chance to do this and I'm going to do it as much as I can," she said.

Her love of snowmobiles began back when she was just four years old and snowmobiled up North with her father David. Her father now serves as her mechanic and teacher. The two travel together on the tour.

"He puts me in my place and builds me up at the same time," she said.

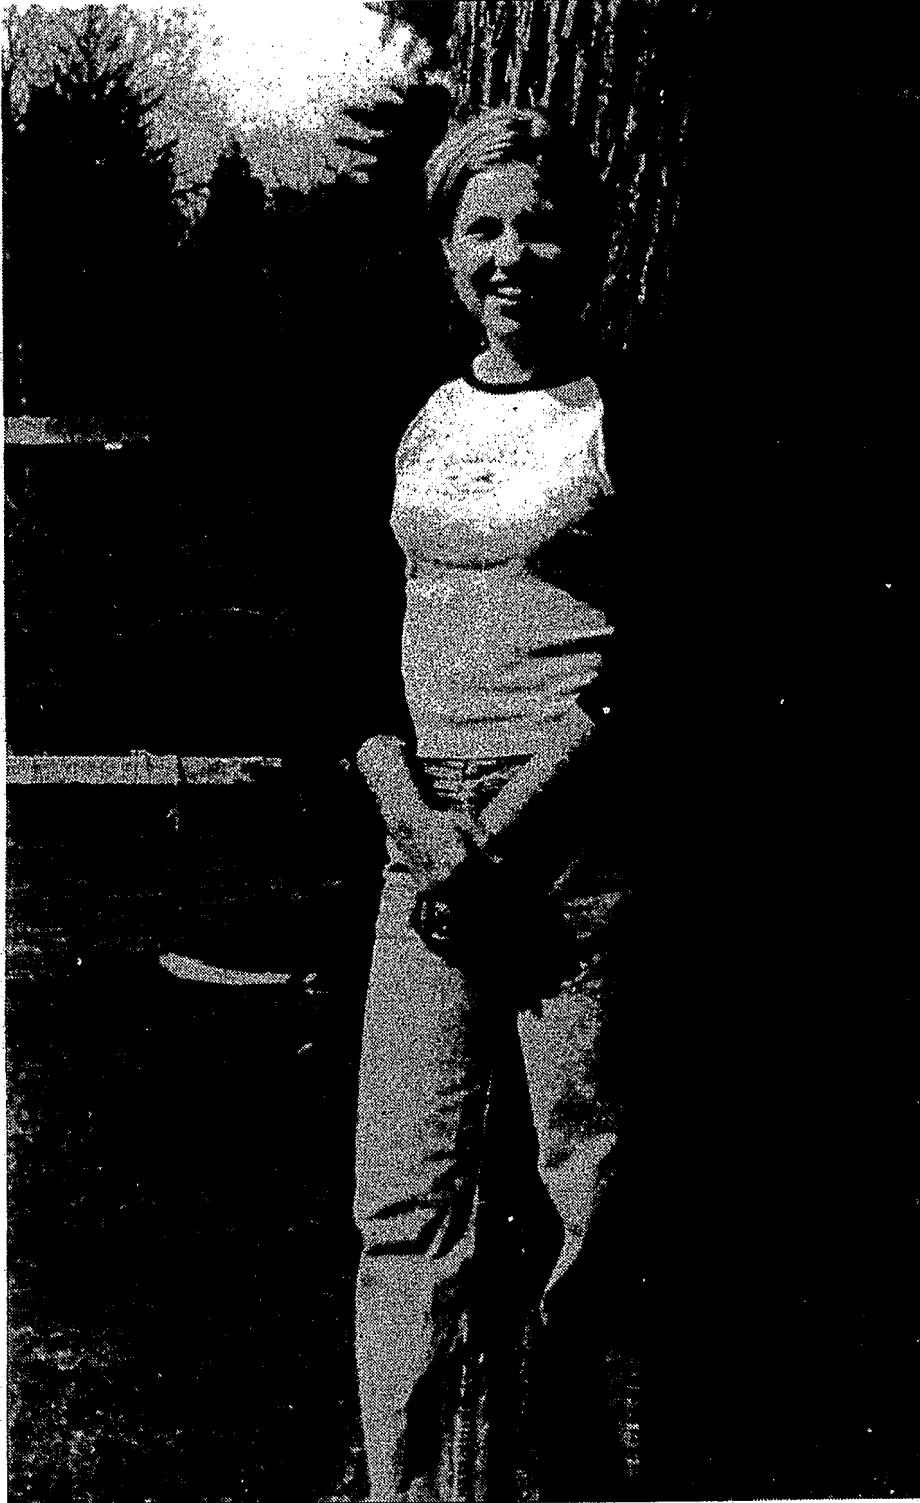

Nicholas has competed in both indoor and outdoor races across the country and in Canada. The current tour, which included a date at the Palace April 1, was part of the Super Snowcross Tour. About 200 trucks hauled snow in for the event. She raced against 10 other women, but she's not afraid to compete with men.

"Racing against men is harder than racing against women. The men are more physical, but the women are getting there," she said.

Getting there may be an understatement. Nicholas broke her collar bone while racing two years ago. The accident put her in a brace for 12 weeks afterwards. She's also broken her wrist and suffered endless bumps and bruises along the way.

"My mother (Mary Louise Susalla) was real uneasy about me doing this when I started, but she's accepted it now and watches when she can," Nicholas said.

Nicholas' mother isn't the only one watching. Snowmobile racing is gaining popularity every day. Nicholas said she's competed in arenas with roughly 15,000 spectators. She's taken second place in two tour events this year which were held at the Metrodome in Minneapolis and the Fargodome in North Dakota.

So is it worth it? Financially speaking probably not for the former Wolf. While men take home roughly $5,000 for a second place finish in the top men's class, Nicholas would only bring home $600 for a top place finish in the top women's class.

"It's discriminatory just like all the other sports," Nicholas said. "It began as a male sport, but women are getting more involved in it. We've gotten more publicity lately, but we're not making nearly the money that the men are."

Add up the lousy paychecks, broken bones and endless travel and it doesn't sound like much fun, but it's the excitement that keeps Nicholas coming back for more.

"It's a contact sport and I love it. It's an adrenaline rush. It's a lot safer than recreational snowmobiling. For one thing, everybody's sober. Everybody's going the same way and it's a race," she said.

Nicholas has also competed in races which were part of the American Snow Cross Racing Association, where she's taken first in the points championship for the past two years.

From trail riding as a little girl with her father in Cadillac and Houghton Lake to competing at the Palace and across the country, Nicholas knows what fierce competition is all about. However it's the friendship between racers that puts a smile on Nicholas' face.

"Everybody's so nice on the tour. It's almost like an underground society. It's different once the race starts though."

"I've been racing for seven years and it's been a blur. Sometimes I have to step back and look at everything I've accomplished," she said.

Volunteer Gardeners Needed at Wint Nature Center

The Rubach Sensory Garden thrives with more than 100 species of flowers, plants and herbs, but not without the help of volunteer gardeners.

"We couldn't maintain the garden without our volunteers," Kathleen Dougherty, Oakland County Parks naturalist, said. "Volunteers have an opportunity to learn, take part in educational programs and make friends as well as give back to the community."

The garden, adjacent to the Lewis E. Wint Nature Center at Independence Oaks County Park, plays a role in many nature center programs.

"Previously, we had to hike the park to find plants we wanted for programs" Dougherty said.

Gardeners of all levels are needed. Master gardener candidates can complete needed service hours.

Weekly garden "work bees" take place throughout the warmer months. Work sessions last approximately two hours.

Volunteers are rewarded with a special appreciation day highlighted by a trip to a local garden and picnic lunch.

They also attend Michigan State University's Garden Day as a group.

The garden was established in 1991 by Jean Rubach's daughters as a living memorial to their mother - a writer, poet and gardener.

To volunteer, call Lynn Conover at 625-6473. Independence Oaks County Park is on Sashabaw Road, 2½ miles north of I-75, near Clarkston.

Visit the Oakland County Parks at www.co.oakland.mi.us for discount coupons, park maps and more.

Holiday Inn to be rescheduled

BY EILEEN MCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Holiday Inn issue won't be checking in until at least May, according to Independence Township Building Director Bev McElmeel.

McElmeel confirmed last week an attorney for petitioners Eagle Investment of Mid Michigan requested the public hearing item be removed from the March 23 planning commission meeting agenda. McElmeel said the reason was an error in the application.

According to a letter from Susan K. Friedlander, attorney for Eagle Investments, the applicants intend to "file an amended application for special land use." A special land use needs to be approved under the current zoning, Office Service Two (OS-2). The township rezoned several pieces of property on M-15 from commercial to office service last year which, in addition to the proposed hotel, has generated much controversy. The issues include property owners' rights, increasing traffic congestion on M-15 and the impact of the proposed hotel on surrounding neighborhoods.

The first conceptual site plan, under the old commercial zoning was denied by the planning commission. Their decision was upheld by the zoning board of appeals. After the zoning was changed, the owners of the property sued the township, but the township prevailed in circuit court. However, the judge told petitioners one option would be to submit a new site plan under OS-2, which would require a special land use for the proposed hotel.

In her letter, Friedlander said she did not expect her clients to return to the planning commission for a new public hearing until May 11 (May meetings are scheduled for May 11 and 25). The new site plan proposes 80 rooms instead of 82.

"That is a change, but in my opinion, as far as issues that both the township engineer and I raised, I don't think there has been substantive change in their site plan," said Township Planner Dick Carlisle.

Carlisle said there are three major issues with the proposal: "the compatibility of the use on surrounding residential areas and two, the safety of the access onto M-15. A third issue is the impact of the project on the wetlands to the immediate south."

Green Haven resident Susan Balmas, who lives on Little Walters Lake and has been a spokesperson for her neighbors' concerns, said last week she is disappointed the item will have to wait a few more weeks.

"After reviewing the materials, the site plan and (engineer and planner) reviews, I was very interested in the outcome and now it's been delayed," Balmas said. "But I'm not surprised after reading both reviews. They hardly made any changes — and there have been so many problems with this plan."

Youth injured in crash on Dixie Highway

A three-car accident at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway sent three people to area hospitals Saturday. Reports said a 17-year-old youth driving a 1993 green Pontiac attempted to make a left turn on a yellow light off Dixie onto southbound White Lake just before noon. His car collided with two cars traveling east on Dixie at the intersection.

The youth and his 16-year-old female passenger were taken to POH. The female was released and the youth, more seriously injured, was hospitalized with a minor head injury and released Monday, a POH spokesperson said.

The accident was "a mess," said Dep. Mark Darbe of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Independence substation. "It was reported neither of them were wearing their seat belts."

A third person was transported to Genesys Medical Center and a fourth person was treated at the scene and released. Reports said all three drivers were cited.

Waterford man found guilty

A Waterford man has been found guilty of one crime and not guilty of another in two cases of armed robbery reported last April in Independence and Springfield townships.

Clifford Lemar Terry, 37, will spend 17 1/2 to 30 years behind bars for two counts of armed robbery in connection with the April 27, 1999 incident at Family Video, 5480 Sashabaw Road in Independence Township.

In that incident, two female employees said they were assaulted while leaving the video store with the night deposit. The younger woman, then 19, said she was pistol whipped by Terry with a large handgun, reports said.

Terry received his sentence two months ago before Oakland County Circuit Judge Steven Andrews after a jury found him guilty of the charge, said Sgt. Gary Miller, Special Investigations officer for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

However, on March 16 Terry was found not guilty before Andrews for another alleged armed robbery that occurred at the Frosty Boy in Springfield Township on April 9 last year.

In that case, owners of the business and their young daughter were allegedly held hostage briefly while Terry asked them to turn over some cash. A 16-year-old female employee was also allegedly forced into the office with a rifle, reports said.

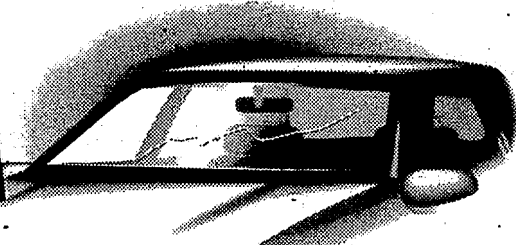

Miller said the reason for the verdict was insufficient evidence. "We had one witness," Miller said. Other witnesses were unable to identify the suspect, he added.

Miller said he doubts there will be an appeal for the second case, based on the fact that Terry is "not eligible for parole for at least 15 years."

Office puts an end to evening parking by restaurant patrons

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Patrons of downtown Clarkston restaurants often use the parking lots of local businesses after hours, but that won't be possible any more at one business.

The Prudential Chamberlain-Stiehl Real Estate office at 32 S. Main St. at the corner of E. Church has taken extra steps to curb parking by non-employees.

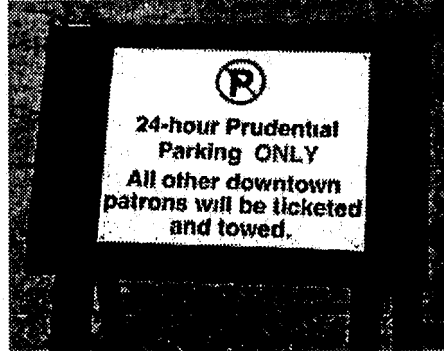

There have been two signs in the Prudential lot for over a year alerting drivers to the fact that parking is for employees, tenants and their customers only, as well as signs on the building. But some drivers either ignored or didn't notice the signs.

Recently some of the patrons and employees of the Clarkston Union Bar and Kitchen at 54 S. Main St., were ticketed for using the Prudential lot.

Union owner Curt Catalo said "We've had parking problems since we opened because we draw so many people to downtown Clarkston." Catalo said he has parking agreements with some of his neighbors, and thought things were OK with Prudential.

Prudential manager, Beverly Bartus, said Catalo had been notified that employees and patrons would have to park elsewhere. She said her business has been growing and the lot is needed in the evening as well. Before asking the Clarkston police to ticket cars parked in her lot, she put fliers on car windows, warning drivers not to park there.

An extra sign in the Prudential parking lot warns restaurant patrons not to park after hours.

"I've got (real estate) agents coming back here as late as 11 p.m. with out-of-town clients. We also teach classes here. If our lot is filled, what are we suppose to do?" Bartus asked. "Our office in Birmingham had to put up an electric gate. I don't want to do that here for safety reasons."

Catalo said when he found patrons and employees had been ticketed he removed and paid for the tickets — about 34 to date.

"For three or four years people have thought it was OK to park there. I can't afford to send them out of the city with a $10 parking ticket. They may never come back," he said. Bartus suggested Catalo provide valet parking from the municipal lot on Depot Rd., but Catalo said as long as Depot is one-way that's not possible.

Catalo has since paid for an additional sign to warn his customers away from the Prudential lot.

"I hope this doesn't affect his business," Bartus said. "He's got a great restaurant. We don't want a bad slant to either business."

Cemetery Fund can be reduced or discontinued

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After months of digging up the history of the Cemetery Trust Fund, Independence Township Attorney Gerry Fisher has concluded the fund may be reduced — or even eliminated.

A conclusion to Fisher's report — prepared for the township several weeks ago — states: "It is my opinion that the township board has the authority to reduce the Trust Fund, or even discontinue the Trust Fund if it determines that, as a matter of policy, it would be in the best interest of the township to do so."

Fisher's opinion further states "that there is no obligation on the part of the Township General Fund to reimburse the Cemetery Trust Fund for monies utilized to purchase property now utilized for the DPW (Department of Works) complex."

The issue of whether the trust fund would be paid back resurfaced when residents who live around Clarkston High School appeared at a September 1999 meeting at which possible sites for a new township hall were discussed. They objected to the fact that the township was looking at property in their neighborhood on Flemings Lake Road.

The property, which houses the DPW, also includes 20 vacant acres which was once considered for a Lakeview "II" Cemetery. Residents took the township to task on two subjects: why the cemetery was never built across from the new high

Letters To The Editor

There's too much side street traffic on Parview

I have a problem with side street traffic control. I live on Parview, a long, winding road off of Dixie Highway. Yet sometimes I wonder if I don't live right on Dixie. The way people fly past my house at speeds exceeding 50 m.p.h., you'd wonder if four 25 m.p.h. signs were really enough.

My neighbors and my family both have made complaints, and occasionally, I see a police car parked on Parview. Almost always there is someone pulled over.

I've never gone for a bike ride on my road without feeling unsafe. I have good reasons for that, too. There is no sidewalk and more likely than not, the speeders don't slow down one bit as they whiz by.

What we should be more worried about, though, are the younger kids. The ones on their little bikes with training wheels. The ones who peddle across the bumpy street without even glancing up.

All too often, people wait to fix problems until something really serious happens. Now, the question is, are we going to do the same thing?

Make the right choice for our children

Dear Editor,

Did you know there was a parental outcry over the bus situation this school year and the Clarkston School District heard and responded by taking a very serious look at your concerns and comments?

A proposal is now being recommended addressing these transportation safety issues and bus concerns about overcrowding, long bus rides, middle school and high school students riding the same bus, and shortage of bus drivers.

In addition the proposal addressed results from multiple studies concerning optimal learning time of all students, research about sleep patterns and brain function, and high risk behavior associated with the unsupervised hours after school when students are home alone.

We have listened and read many of the comments being made about the proposal and have a few thoughts we hope the community will consider. Set aside your personal needs for a moment, putting kids first and consider the following:

1. Should 11- to 14-year-old children be considered the primary caregivers of younger children everyday after school?

2. How much time on a daily basis do 11- to 14-year-old-children need to be engaged in school sports on a daily basis? Is one to one-half hour sufficient? Certainly each individual is welcome to spend as much personal free time to improve their skills at home and among friends.

3. Children 11 to 14 years old need adults available to dialog, model, support and encourage them. If more adults were available after school when children got home, the major concerns about high-risk behavior that we need to look at would not be a factor, but the fact is too many youngsters are home alone.

4. When research points out peak times of learning and how sleep deprivation can affect academic performance for this age group, we would be wise to apply that information. Creating a healthy learning environment should always include what works best for the students.

We have a long weeding season ahead

Let the weeding begin!

Do you ever remember getting such an early start on serious yard work?

Two weeks ago my husband rototilled our little vegetable garden and I planted the first crop of snow peas. Last weekend he enlarged and rototilled (bless his aching back) another garden.

When he was digging up the grass he found a healthy crop of grubs. They quickly became food for the fish in our lake.

The ground is much drier this year than in the past. Clarkston Farm and Garden Club Horticulture Committee chair Linda Meadors compares the ground to a moonscape.

She said we are in the third year of a drought in Michigan and recommends serious watering.

The leaves are out on the bushes and some of our perennials are coming up too. The butterfly bushes and hydrangeas are sprouting leaves, as are my coneflowers and delphinium. This early sprouting and greening of the grass is a little worrisome. It seems to be even earlier than during the Big Heat Wave and Drought of 1988.

The birds and waterfowl which migrate are still on schedule however. Each spring and December we get a small flock of ducks that stop by our lake for a couple of weeks.

American Mergansers, buffleheads, grebes, canvas backs and coots usually make an appearance this time of year. During a late winter they'll come in as late as mid-April.

I know this because we have been marking their visits in an old, beat-up copy of Peterson's "A Field Guide to the Birds."

Why we keep using this little paperback escapes me. It's missing thirty pages — what happened to them I have no idea. There are drawing of birds and ducks for identification instead of pictures.

Maralee Cook

A few years ago I bought my husband a new bird identification book with color photographs, but it just wasn't the same. In fact, I think we've lost it.

Because we're out in the nice weather we're getting a better look at our migratory buddies, especially with my Christmas 1998 telescope. It's very powerful. We can see the ducks halfway out into the bay, about one-eighth of a mile.

Occasionally we have thought about moving, but were always saddened at the thought of not seeing these same lovely critters that pass fleetingly through our lives.

I can't believe ducks and birds have a life span of 25 years (there's no mention in the encyclopedia), and those we see each year are probably children or grandchildren, but we're still attached to them like they are the same ones who have come each year.

We've also had jet skiers pass fleetingly by already this season too. They're as loud as ever.

We don't care what their life span is or which generation of jet skier they are. And we won't miss them when we finally do move.

Pass the gas and let the protest begin

It's our God-given, American right. It is something we Yanks are good at. We didn't like the Brits taxing our tea, so we dumped the tea over the side of the boat.

Protest, whine and complain. Shake things up, that's the American way. And, according to a couple of e-mails I received last month, Americans across the fruited plains, are set to "stick it to the man" once again.

What has folks up in arms is the exploding cost of gasoline. Some have predicted a gallon of gas will cost $2 (or more) by the summer. And, we just can't have that, now can we? Look on the roads, today: At least in these parts, I'd say one in three cars are not cars at all, rather they're vans, trucks and SUVs. We have a booming economy, big gas-gusslin' vehicles and we don't need two bucks a gallon gas to bring us down.

Bummer dude.

That is why somebody, some where started e-mailing folks about a planned "gas out" slated for this weekend. Here's some of the battle cry:

"Last year on April 30, a gas out was staged across Canada and the U. S. to bring the price of gas down and it worked. It's time to do something about it again . . . only this time let's make it for three days instead of just one. The so-called cartel decided to slow production to drive up gasoline prices.

" . . . Don't buy any gasoline from April 7 through April 9. Buy what you need before or after the dates but not during the gas out."

The letter goes on blah, blah, blah and ends trumpeting this high note:

"We brought prices down once before and we can do it again. Come on North America let's stand together. WE CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE!!! Even if you receive this 100 times keep passing it around, this way you know everyone is being informed and no one will forget!!!!!!!"

Wow.

Inspirational.

I too, can be a rebel. I can be a part of a war against tyrannical gas-rich countries trying to extort hard-working, honest-to-goodness Americans of their hard-earned cash.

Well, we'll have none of that. I say, pass the gas and let the protest begin!

Somewhere, in the background I hear the faint sounds of a fife and drums . . .

While I didn't fill out the million-page Census 2000 form (my darling wife did), I'm still a little miffed at the Federal government. What is up with those commercials . . . "If you don't fill out your census forms, your house will burn down because your community won't have enough money to buy good fire equipment . . ."

I thought the government was supposed to leave the scare tactics to the CIA or FBI, and on some sort of

'FORE!' Oh, no! Not Hazel's head!

There must be many golfers (so-called) like me. We watch golf matches on the tube all winter. We see the smoothness of the swings. We absorb the lessons on sand and rough shots by TV's golf instructors.

Through those cold months we re-think our grip, our stance, our pre-hit thought process and consider golf fitness programs.

The balls the pro golfers and instructors hit always go high and far down a fairway. Or they fly out of the trap or tall grass toward a particular, intended target.

It is with all these months of observing and learning that we take to the first tee each spring.

We go through some mandatory stretching so as not to strain something. We practice our newly-learned swing, while observing our new, now-strong grip.

What I'm describing is me, and my annual approach to the first tee this spring. But that first swing, and more especially the second swing, is not what happens on television.

Hazel and I were teeing it up at Cleveland Heights Golf Course in Lakeland, Florida. Filling our foursome were Bob and Pat MacDonald of Ithaca, MI.

Bob hit first, his usual 170 yard drive down the middle of the fairway. I chose a 3-wood for my first shot, thus assuring a straighter, higher, safer drive. They told me that on TV.

Jim's
Jottings

Jim Sherman

I dubbed the ball off the tee. The ladies hit. We went to my ball, which hadn't reached the fairway. The ladies drove their cart down the path to their ball, which was ahead and to the right of mine.

Again playing it safe, I picked a lofty 9-wood to get the ball out of the short rough. The shot ended up in the fairway, but still behind Bob's drive. I was still away.

Unfortunately, the stupid ball got to its location by bouncing off Hazel's head.

That's right! I toed the 9-wood high and to the right. It headed for the ladies. I yelled, "Fore!" The ladies ducked behind the cart. Still the stupid ball found the top of Hazel's head. It was an awful sound.

The blood gushed. Since we were less than 150 yards from the club house we went back for ice. I offered a Band Aid. Pat scoffed, "We need a lot more than a Band Aid."

We fussed around with Hazel's wound for half an hour before getting rain checks.

It was some time later until we were joking about the accident. It had to be an accident. I couldn't even hit a great big fairway. How could I intentionally hit Hazel's small head?

But from it all, of course, there are lessons:

1. Don't think watching golf replaces practice.
2. Don't get ahead of the person who is next to hit their ball.
3. If you have a good marriage, and you're going to hit someone, let it be your wife. She'll forgive you some day and she won't sue.

Putting the finishing touches on 'Anything Goes'

It's hard to believe that, as I write this, the musical is less than a week away. By the time you read it, we'll be in the last few hours of preparation.

As an update to my last column, I'm pleased to report I have learned the sequence of steps for each of the dance numbers I'm in. Still, there's the question of execution, but it certainly helps to know where I'm supposed to be going.

It's usually when rehearsals start going late - we're after school until seven o'clock some nights - that we start realizing how close the performance dates really are. I think my sense of time must get distorted during the months of rehearsal: I have little free time, so things seem to come to a standstill while, in reality, there are only eight rehearsals left before we're shakin' it for an audience.

Once I get over that shock, I really enjoy the show. The week of performances, for me, has always been the most fun. Part of that has to do with being able to see the show actually take shape; almost everything is done and close to ready. Our set was a major part of that in this show.

We had been rehearsing with only lines taped on the floor to represent the set, but the whole thing has been moved on stage now. Not only does it help to visualize what's happening, but the set is magnificent:

two stories high, it's more elaborate than anything we've done in the recent past. It really looks like an ocean liner, a feat I wasn't sure would be possible. The addition of the orchestra helps to get into it, too, along with wearing costumes in dress rehearsal.

Kevin Kosbab

Part of the heightened enjoyment is the relief, too. Not only that I'm gonna have time again, but that we've gotten this far without any major episodes.

Then I'll start missing it, and I won't know what to do with myself in all the hours I gain after the show's done.

I shouldn't get ahead of myself, though; there's still plenty to do before the musical's over. For example, that dancing of mine still needs some work, and there are always last-minute prop and costume details that need dealing with.

I hope you come to see us. If nothing else, you'll at least get a laugh when you discover that, yes, it is true I cannot sing. There are plenty in the cast who can sing better than I, so the whole show won't be a cat-in-a-blender style. And even I can at least carry a tune; I just don't have a sweet, melodious voice with which to carry it. Anyway, I'm sure the show will be entertaining.

So come see us! You'll love it; we'll love you. Sorry if I sound a bit like a commercial. At least I'm not saying things like "batteries not included" - even if it is true that no batteries are required to enjoy "Anything Goes!" In addition, every audience member each night will receive a free-program - yours to keep! With bargains like these, who wouldn't want to see the spring musical? If you don't, you'll regret it. No pressure, of course.

Make the right choice

Our kids have got to be our first concern. We need to do what is in the best interests of our children and their learning environment (even if they don't like it). That's our job! It isn't always easy, and often requires sacrifice.

It may not be convenient for us, students, the athletic program or even the school staff as the initial change is made, but we should all look at the long term benefit of this proposal.

We encourage everyone to keep an open mind when examining the proposal. Express your support or recommend other solutions which address the many issues our school district and community must focus on concerning all 7,258 students in the district.

Things can be better for our community

Dear Editor,

Do we need a change in township government? On the one hand, most folks in this community think they are satisfied with the current government. Yet they often complain about the rapid development, ambulance-destroying traffic, overcrowded schools and drug stores on every corner.

As a board Trustee, I have witnessed the supervisor's majority of the township board having a direct hand in contributing to these problems. Time and again the majority approves residential developments with the maximum density, and have often permitted more density than is necessary. Each time the explanation is that the greater density being permitted was "indicated" by the master plan. The common sense response is: "Then we must re-visit the master plan to conform it to the realities of what is happening in our community." Unfortunately this simple common sense has fallen on deaf ears.

The supervisor's majority of the township board rejected out-of-hand the proposal that we at least get a legal opinion as to whether we could have a moratorium on further development while we re-examined what was happening to this community. One of the very significant protections that this community has had in its development is the continuing reassessment of the master plan and zoning to make them fit what is happening and what ought to happen.

As a township Trustee, I have watched the supervisor lead his majority of the board around for reasons unrelated to the merits of any particular proposal. There is a laundry list of things that go undone, while the Supervisor seems to focus on doing what is necessary to maintain his job as a job, rather than what is good for the community. Typical of this is yet another perk that means the taxpayers of this community will be paying to provide he and his wife with medical in-insurance benefits for the rest of their lives because he has been supervisor just for eight years.

It is no secret that I vigorously supported Dale Stuart for supervisor in 1992. Then I believed, wrongly as it turned out, that he would run an open government that would involve citizens and cast this community as a special niche in the metropolitan area and be truly different from every other suburb. Frankly, I idealized his potential and that led to my mistake in judgment. As an example, the supervisor recently characterized my call for him to involve more women on government boards as "self-serving." Yet I FIRST MADE THIS SUGGESTION TO HIM IN 1994 before I held office in an effort to help him improve the way he governed the Township.

For several weeks now the local reporters have been asking what I intend to do in this election year. Frankly, I am undecided because I am so disappointed in the supervisor that I don't know whether to take him on or walk away. On a personal level, I wish I had the ability to ignore what is going on and just go about my own business.

For the community, I know that things can be better. It's important to me that things change but I have no idea whether it is important to the rest of the community that things change. What do you think?

Very truly yours,

School administration should have used common sense in decision

Dear Editor:

We are writing this letter out of total dissatisfaction with the principal and administration of Clarkston Middle School.

In recently moving to Michigan in November, we were very concerned with the various school systems. We carefully reviewed the mission statement of the Clarkston schools.

This states:

"The mission of Clarkston Community Schools is to ensure learning while challenging all individuals to exceed their own expectations.

"A strategic initiative is to address individual students' needs to ensure learning."

What happened to our daughter after enrolling in Clarkston Middle School was totally contrary to these statements.

Our daughter was placed on one of the four sixth-grade teams. At the time of placement we were unaware that the team she was being placed on had already attended the 6th grade camp. Two of the teams attend camp in the fall and the other two teams attend in the spring (next week).

In January she said her friends asked her if she could attend the camp with them. These students were part of the team that was attending the camp in the spring.

Our daughter had an elective course on this team.

When we made the request to Mrs. Armstrong, the principal, we received a quick "no" it would not be allowed and as principal, she needed to set a policy in this regard "not to allow a student to attend camp with another team." (Doesn't the school board make policy)?

Mrs. Armstrong stated that she must set this policy with the entire student population in mind and that Clarkston was a small town and "parents talk." If one exception was made she would have to make other exceptions.

There was no research into the matter at the time, and she stated a student would not be able to attend the camp "just to have fun" and miss three days of traditional classroom curriculum if they were not on that team. The camp activity was a team building activity.

This "no" answer was not acceptable to us, as our daughter's strongest advocates, our daughter stated that she had many friends on the other team that would be attending the camp and she "really wanted to go." She just wanted to have the same experience as all 400 other 6th graders, including other new students which were enrolled at the same time as our daughter.

She is the only sixth grade child being denied the privilege of going to camp. How sad.

We then took the matter to the next level and spoke with Ms. Brumback, the assistant superintendent, who at that time was the administrator in charge. Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts was on vacation as was Asst. Supt. Dave Reschke. Ms. Brumback was of no assistance.

Next we met with Dr. Roberts. He offered three reasons why it was in our daughter's so-called "best interest" not to attend the camp. We felt these reasons were weak and irrational.

1. It would negatively affect her performance in school.

2. Camp is outside her present scope of studies.

3. Going to camp would be detrimental to her friendships.

These reasons sounded more like excuses. Our daughter is an honor roll student and the camp experience would offer a very positive educational experience.

How could going to camp be a detriment to her friendships? When we questioned why we would not want our daughter to attend camp and take hikes and look for ferns with her friends, Dr. Roberts stated that we should take our daughter for a hike and look for ferns with her.

This was an insult! It was obvious that he was supporting an incorrect decision made by the principal.

Chiropractic Restores Health in Asthma Patients

In the May, 1995 Chiropractic Pediatrics, a study found that a reduction in asthma symptoms in a group of children correlated to the correction of Vertebral Subluxations in the children's spines.

According to the study, "All participants showed measurable improvement on radiographs (x-ray films) which correlated with an improvement in asthma symptoms in seven of eight cases." The study also reported that after the 10th Chiropractic adjustment, an overall increase of 25.38% occurred in the mean average Peak flow meter reading which tests breathing and lung capacity.

Parents of the children involved in the study reported there was significant reduction in the need for medications to control asthma symptoms. "Seven parents stated that their child reduced the need for medication to control their asthma symptoms. Additionally, two parents stated that their child did not need to use the inhaler type medication that they had previously needed on a daily basis."

The authors go on to state, "The obvious clinical importance of this study is that children will benefit by having vertebral subluxations reduced/corrected that could interfere with normal respiratory function, especially lung capacity."

Cemetery Trust Fund

school, and whether the Cemetery Trust Fund would be reimbursed for money the township borrowed.

According to records in the clerk's office, the township purchased 25.7 acres fronting on Flemings Lake in 1962. The township borrowed $20,000 from the trust fund of Lakeview Cemetery (a cemetery on White Lake Road), but never paid it back.

The trust fund includes payments for grave plots and fees the cemetery uses for maintenance and upkeep, explained Clerk Joan McCrary. She and Supervisor Dale Stuart agreed to investigate past records, but were hindered due to past, inadequate record-keeping. It was not unusual for money to be "moved" around from one fund to another in those days, McCrary said.

In 1969, the board approved the transfer of $20,000 from the Cemetery Trust Fund to the Township General Operating Fund. Records show, through the years, there were other transfers to the general fund.

Fisher's three-page opinion included a background, legal analysis and conclusion. He said the trust fund also paid the salaries of employees and for equipment for cemetery operations. When the Cemetery Trust Fund was established, it was agreed 60 percent of lot revenues would go to the trust fund and 40 percent would be placed in the general fund, he said. Fisher also reviewed with the DPW that no grants, donations or bequests had been received.

In his background study, Fisher also stated "In the 1960s, monies from the Cemetery Trust Fund were expended for the purchase of vacant land, with the view of establishing a second cemetery. Subsequently, the township board determined that a second cemetery would not be established in the township, and further determined that a portion of the land that had been acquired for cemetery purposes would be utilized to house the township Department of Public Works."

"In view of the fact that Cemetery Trust monies had been utilized for the purchase of the vacant land, and further considering that such land will not now be utilized for cemetery purposes, the question rises whether it is necessary for the township general fund to reimburse the trust fund for such monies."

In his legal analysis Fisher examined Michigan law regulating cemeteries. There are provisions calling for the creation and funding of endowment care funds, he said. However, they apply to "private" cemeteries. "They were not intended to apply to township cemeteries," he said.

Fisher summarized that "the township, through its general fund, has a duty to maintain the township cemetery. However, considering the absence of special gifts or grants, there is no legal obligation to create or maintain a trust fund or other special fund in connection with the cemetery."

Stuart said Fisher's report indicates "monies didn't have to be reimbursed to the Cemetery Trust Fund. I think what's he's saying is it's not the exclusive fund for funding the cemetery. It's just a fund available for capital improvements. It's not a bad thing to have a fund for that purpose. It's like having a savings account."

He estimated there is currently about $20,000 in the Cemetery Trust Fund. "It's not much," Stuart said. "It wouldn't even pay one year's salary for the people we have out there." Stuart said he and McCrary found "back records were not that clear. There was some transfer of funds back and forth. It was not clear, in the final analysis, who owed what." Although monies were transferred from the cemetery fund to the general fund, "there were also some monies paid back over the years," Stuart said.

He expects to make a recommendation to the board this month on whether to keep or abolish the fund, but declined to say last week what that suggestion will be.

Stuart said the steering committee for the new township hall is looking at several possible sites, including property the township owns on Sashabaw Road — which would be part of the proposed Clarkston Creek Golf Course deal — as well as the Flemings Lake acreage. "That's a piece of property we own. It wouldn't make sense not to consider it," Stuart said. "But other pieces of property are as good or better."

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

The proposed Clarkston Surgical Center certificate of need is rejected, leaving the future of the facility in limbo. Local pediatrician Dr. James O'Neill has proposed building the $3.4 million center, which would complement his Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

It has been determined that M-15 will be widened to five lanes in 1987, announces Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk at a recent meeting. State and township officials have continued to say that the widening would not present problems to Main Street, as the lanes would be narrowed at Paramus.

The Clarkston Freestyle Wrestling Club shines at the state championship. Six wrestlers grab first place and another six finish in the top four at the Southeast Michigan Association of Grapplers finals in Hazel Park.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

Independence Center — a voluntary self-help agency in Independence Township — will be forced to close its doors in the next one to two months, according to its board of directors. The center doesn't have the funds to keep operating.

If Clarkston's District Court isn't relocated by the June 30 deadline, it can probably expect an increase in rent. Independence Township Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie says he will ask the board to consider raising the rent to a figure equivalent to what the court will pay in a new building after June 30.

Several Clarkston students will perform with the University of Michigan Youth Band in an April concert at Clarkston High School. The event is being sponsored by Clarkston Band Boosters.

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

The Clarkston Farm and Garden Club is fortunate to have Miss Margaret Haviland of the 4-H Clubs as their speaker. Miss Haviland, the 4-H representative from Michigan who was chosen as delegate to the International Youth Exchange project, shows slides of the French farms and countryside which are interesting and beautiful.

Another local youth enlists in the Regular Army. John Roland Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lawrence of Hillsboro Road, plans to apply for a technical course so that he can prepare himself for a job with a future, in civilian life as well as military.

Ronald Reagan and Patricia Neal star in "Hasty Heart" at the Drayton Theatre.

Letters to the Editor

When we suggested going to the school board, Dr. Roberts said it would do us no good. He was right.

We mailed each board member a four-page letter asking for someone to please interject some common sense into a simple request to have our daughter attend the 6th grade camp with her friends and peers. In front of parents, school principals and the entire board, Dr. Roberts again said it would not be in the best interest of our daughter to attend the camp and he had spent too much time on this issue already. The board members could not comment on the issue.

The next day, the president of the school board recommended our daughter switch teams and become a part of the team going to camp this spring.

She stated that she could convince Dr. Roberts to allow this switching of teams. This was a total contradiction to Dr. Roberts' earlier statements of his concerns of curriculum continuity. We were later informed that Dr. Roberts did not need to be convinced, and that he was in agreement with the team change following the board meeting. It was even more obvious that the administration was totally immersed in a cover-up of a poor decision made initially by Mrs. Armstrong and that no one would claim ownership for this wrong decision. It was evident that the administration was more concerned with maintaining a positive image for themselves and our request under the rug. All this supporting of each other for this poor decision was at the expense of our daughter.

A final conference took place with Mrs. Armstrong to request that she re-visit her initial decision. At this meeting she stated that she could not reverse her decision. When she finally conducted the research, which should have been done initially, she stated that the team change was not recommended. This was a direct contradiction of the suggestion of the school board president.

Ms. Armstrong stated that there was a large difference in the stages of the curriculum of the new team. We could not understand why this was not done before we were advised that we could have our daughter change teams in order for her to attend camp. She also stated that she could not make this decision as an individual situation. But that consideration must be given to the entire student population. She had concern with student fall-out. What's wrong with regarding the needs of an individual student? Mrs. Armstrong stated, "It's just camp," and could not understand our adamancy. It's not just camp to an eleven-year-old child, it's memories and friendships that will last a lifetime.

This simple request should have been granted because the mistake was made by the school to begin with regarding team placement. The administration should have created unity not division and alienation of both student and parents.

We are sorry that some common sense was not inserted along the way and someone out of the entire administration could not have seen the positive side of this situation and stood up on our daughter's behalf.

Clarkston Creek golf course could need $5 million in improvements

be allowed to develop office and retail space, including a restaurant, on part of the acreage off Sashabaw.

Township Supervisor Dale Stuart has said the township would borrow money to pay for the project, with revenues from the operation of the course going to the township to pay off the debt. He has said all this would be at no cost to taxpayers.

Some of the report's suggestions for necessary improvements include a new irrigation system and maintenance facility, renovation and enhancements to golf holes #17 and #18 to create quality finishing holes and a potential signature hole, and the addition of restroom and rain shelter areas.

The report analyzed some "intended improvements" like enhancement of views of Spring Lake from the clubhouse, tying into the sanitary sewer and water systems, and improving the parking lot and traffic patterns of pedestrian, vehicular and golf cart paths.

"I think the Childs firm did a very good analysis of the course," said Stuart, who favors the proposal. "They brought it to our attention that potential improvements should be made. I think it will be a good tool in dealing with future negotiations with the developer."

However, he added, "certain portions are opinions and we still have the right to take them and other data and decide what makes the most sense for that facility. And that's what I hope the board will do."

Stuart said, while JLG Properties disagrees with the high cost estimate, all parties agree with "the scope of the work."

"The scope of the work is where we have concurrence on," agreed Locricchio Tuesday. JLG's original estimate for improvements was about $1 million, but now it is more, he added. However, it is not as high as $5 million. "We feel we can do it certainly for much less cost than what Childs estimated."

Locricchio said he has had heating, cooling and architectural contractors look and the course and clubhouse and produce "accurate estimates. Childs didn't have that benefit when they put together their estimates," he said. "We feel we can get it done more efficiently."

The township and JLG Properties are still negotiating, he added. "We feel very confident based on Don Childs' report. We feel that the issues they raised and the gaps in costs are not insurmountable. We firmly believe (the course) is underperforming right now and it has great potential," Locricchio said.

The shadow reaches down through time Stand in the shadow of the Lord

By Pastor Bob Gale
Oakland Woods Baptist Church

When I thought about what I was going to write for this article, I wanted it to be so good. This is the first time I have ever had the privilege of writing something for the newspaper.

I wanted it to inspire you and help you look to the future and what God is doing. So I prayed for direction. What God showed me was that inspiration could come from the past as well as the future.

At this time of year, when I think about Christ, my thoughts go back to Calvary. I think of the steps He took and the cross He had to bear -- not only the cross but also the shadow it cast, the same shadow that stretched down through the generations until it reached me.

It is the single most selfless act ever witnessed in history and it was done on my behalf. Of course the shadow doesn't just touch me, it touches all of us.

Acts 5:15 tells us that "... People brought the sick into the streets and laid them on beds and mats so that at least Peter's shadow might fall on some of them as he passed by." They were hoping for physical healing. They were hoping their hurt would go away and perhaps they would also find comfort and peace from their affliction. Of course, Peter had more to offer than just physical healing. Likewise, as we stand in the shadow of the cross, we find more than just shade from a hot sun.

I first find conviction in the shadow. It is the conviction that sin brings and the knowledge that it should have been me. That someone so perfect took the place of one so flawed brings tears of sorrow and regret. But they quickly give way to tears of joy as I realize that the shadow is also a blanket for me. And in its covering I find my sins washed away by the substitutionary sacrifice of my Lord.

Though the blood on that cross should have been mine, it was not. And as the shadow reaches my hands, feet and side, I am filled with the thankfulness for life and life more abundant than I had previously known.

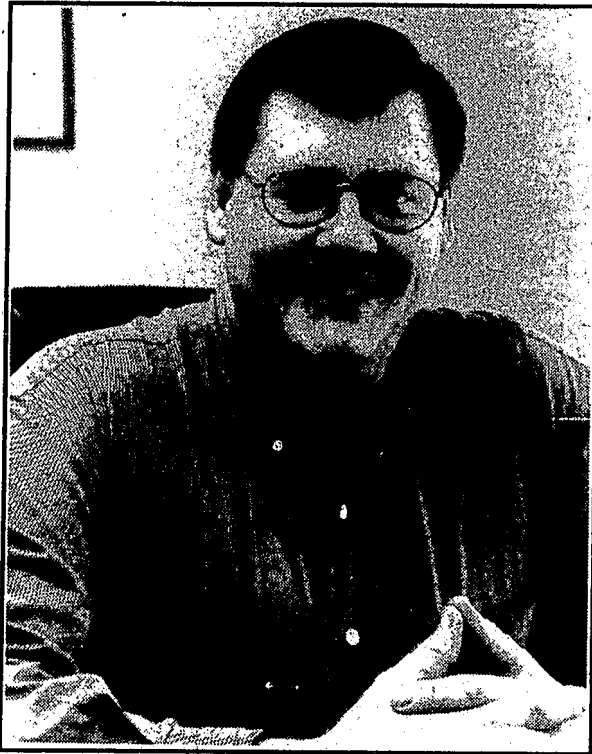

The thankful tears give way to another emotion found in the shadow of that blood-soaked wood. As I lift my eyes to the cross, pride begins to surge throughout my body. What commitment! What an act of extreme love! MY SAVIOR DID THAT! He is MY LORD and MY GOD! In the words of that wonderful old hymn, "To the rugged cross I will ever be true, it's shame and reproach GLADLY BEAR; then He'll call me some day to MY HOME far away, where His glory forever I'll share."

The month leading up to Easter is always a happy time for me and I will always cherish and cling to that old rugged cross. And, even though it happened a long time ago, its shadow still reaches down through time and gives me cause to think. I close my eyes and go back in time to survey that scene at Calvary.

I soak it all in and smile because I remember the other reason I'm thankful at this time of year. The cross, as well as the tomb, is empty.

Varsity soccer enjoying early season success

Clarkston 2, Waterford Mott 0

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Wolves are feeling good about themselves and for good reason. Clarkston has already equaled last season's win total thanks to a 2-0 win over Waterford Mott March 29.

Goals came from freshman Jen Carlson and senior Mercedes Combs. Junior Sarah Morgan picked up her second straight shutout of the season.

Co-captain senior Kelly Plante, who played center forward for Clarkston said the team is picking up momentum and playing better as a unit.

"We're playing together. We're communicating on the field and we're moving the ball better. Our defense is our strong point I think. We seem to be in the right place at the right time," she said.

Plante attributes a lot of the team's early success this season to the team getting more used to coach Tami Mitchell.

"She's a very motivating coach, but not the yelling type. I think it was tough on some of last year's seniors getting a new coach, but everybody's coming together now and getting used to her style of coaching," Plante said.

Plante said the change from 22 to 18 players on the roster has already paid dividends early in the season.

"Last year I think we got very nervous when we were on the field because we didn't want to make a mistake. Now, because the team is smaller, we have a looser feel because everybody's getting more playing time," she said.

In addition to the team getting used to Mitchell and the team getting smaller, another key to the success has been goalie Sarah Morgan.

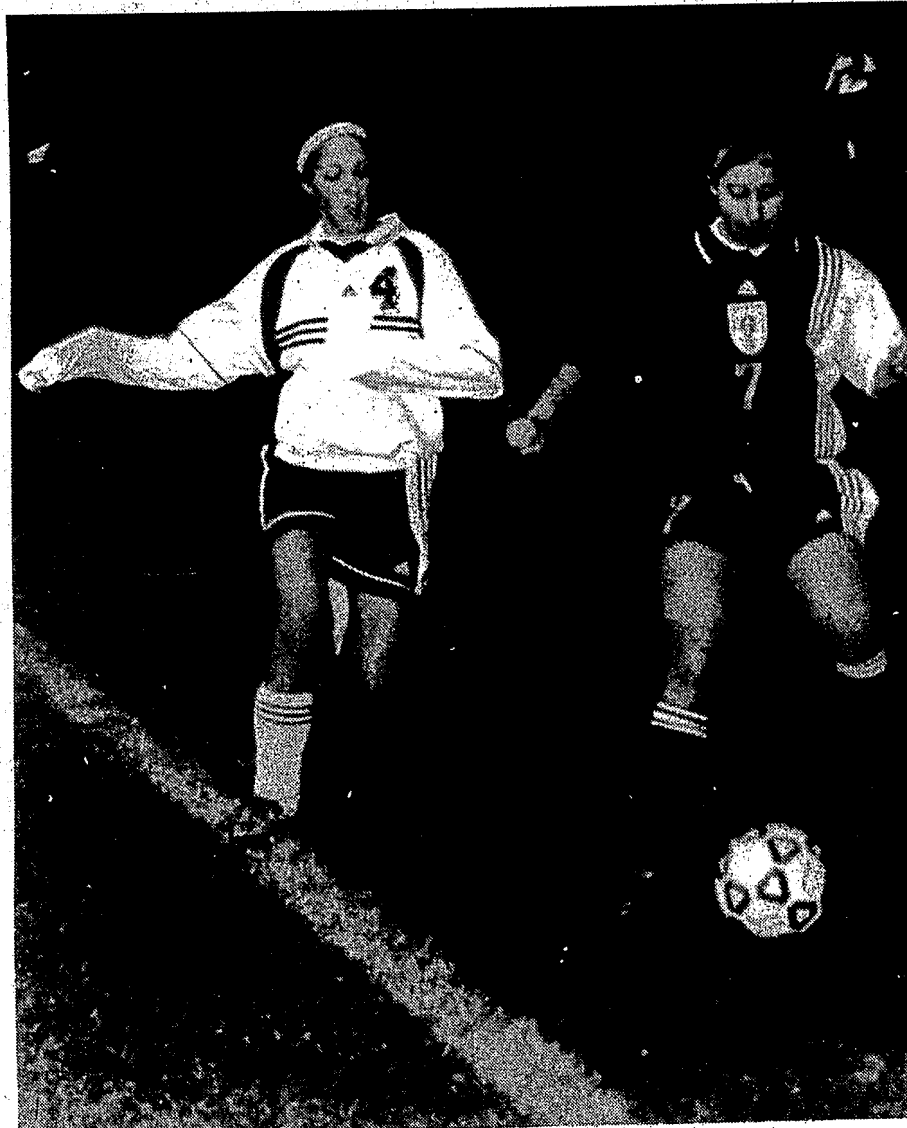

"Sarah is awesome in net. We're lucky to have her," Plante said.

After graduation Morgan said she plans on attending Michigan State University to study advertising or business.

Morgan, who is in her third year on the varsity team, has become more vocal in goal this season.

"I've been talking to the players more and trying to get more involved in the offense. Communication is a big thing when you're a goalie," she said.

Morgan said she chose to play goalie because she loves the pressure and the athleticism involved within the position.

"I like the diving. Cutting down the angle for the shooter is a big thing. Katie Tripi has been doing a good job as sweeper for me," she said.

Morgan, and her teammates, are feeling better about themselves already this season, and if the season goes Morgan's way she'll continue to play well.

"I want to get more shutouts this season. We're working better as a team. We have a good chance to win the league," Morgan said.

The team's other co-captain, senior Katie Kennedy, who plays center midfield and outside midfield, agreed that the team is closer and feeling better about themselves so far this season.

"We know we can do better than last year. We can be serious contenders in the league," she said.

Kennedy said the league will be tough again this year, but has already highlighted some games down the schedule as key matchups. Games against Troy, which are May 18, Kimball April 10 and May 9 and Lake Orion April 6 and May 4 will all be tough games.

Team chemistry may be the Wolves biggest strength this season Kennedy said.

"We're doing team dinners about once a week and we all get along off the field. We're looking good and we're only going to get stronger," Kennedy said.

Baseball team looking forward to challenging season

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston baseball coach Jeff Price knows his Wolves are in a tough league, but he's confident his team can be a contender for this season's Oakland Activities Association Division I title.

The Wolves are coming off a 22-11 season last year, which saw them finish in the middle of what Price calls one of the toughest, if not the toughest, divisions in the state.

Although he knows his team will have its work cut out for it, Price has plenty of confidence in this year's squad.

"We've got a lot of good ball players on this team. We've got some kids who can really play. This league is tough, but we'll be right in the hunt for it," Price said.

Price added that he expects Davison, Troy, Rochester Adams and Rochester to all be tough games. The Wolves will also be taking part in a tournament in Midland May 13.

"Troy's nationally ranked. We're going to have some tough games this year, but I think we'll be okay," he said.

This year's team is made up of 17 players, eight of which have made the move from junior varsity to varsity and eight of which are returning from last year's team.

Standout players on this year's Wolves team include Chris Mitchell, who is in his senior year and made All-State as a junior. Mitchell will be playing several positions including outfielder, first base and pitching. He will be third in the batting lineup.

Derek Casper will be in his fourth year as a varsity baseball player. He will be catching.

Francis Hodges will be pitching and is a great hitter Price said.

Brett Gove is a fast base runner and will be playing center field.

'We've got some kids who can really play. This league is tough, but we'll be right in the hunt for it.'

Phil Price — Baseball Coach

Ryan Marino will be playing in the outfield and do some pitching.

"He's a competitor. That's the thing I like most about him. A lot of our guys are competitors. I love that," Price said.

Second-year player Brett Crawford will be playing shortstop and Josh Rigg will play third base.

Nick Petrinec will be pitching and junior Trevor Manner will be playing second base for Clarkston.

The Wolves next game will be April 7 when they host Kettering in a double header. The game is at 3:30 p.m.

Girls varsity softball team is ready to compete this spring

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston softball coach Al Land has plenty of reasons to be smiling this time of year and if things go the way he's expecting, the smiles won't stop any time soon.

The Wolves went 27-14 last season and finished third in the Oakland Activities Association Division I race. And Land feels his team will be in the hunt for the league crown.

"The league should be good again this year. Kettering, Brandon and Troy will all be tough, but we should be right there too. Kettering is the team to beat," he said.

The majority of this season's team is made up of juniors. Out of the 12 girls that make up this season's varsity team, half are juniors. There are three seniors on the team, two sophomores and one freshman.

Senior Melanie Mild, who will be playing center field, made All-State last year. She's played on the varsity level for three seasons.

"She's got great speed and is a tremendous lead off hitter. She gets on base about 80 percent of the time," Land said.

This year's team is captained by senior Candace Morgan, who will be pitching and two juniors; Lindsay Simko, who will be pitching, and Lisa Ferguson, a shortstop.

"I picked those two juniors to be captains because they're excellent communicators. They both have lots of leadership skills," Land said. "Candace is a strong power hitter and will be doing some pitching and catching."

Batting cleanup for this year's team will be junior Mary Warchuck, a lefty. She will be playing first base.

Junior Tracy Honey will be playing third base and catching this season, while senior Jennie Winn, will be at second base. Land said he also expects to get solid contributions from junior outfielder and catcher Tricia Brewer and sophomore Stacy Giroux, who is in her second varsity season.

New to Clarkston's softball team this season are junior Nicole Thrift, sophomore Jen Fredrickson and freshman Missy Parsons.

"I expect all those girls to make solid contributions to this year's team,"

The 2000 girls varsity softball team is hoping for big things this season under coach Al Land.

Land said the Wolves strength lies in its defense.

"Our defense is knowledgeable and aggressive. They were last year too. Offensively, we should have some punch in our lineup and our pitching should be pretty solid. We've got some

Varsity boys tennis team eager to hit the courts

Team features a good mix of returning veterans and young talent

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston tennis coach Kevin Ortwine has a lot to smile about this spring.

His boys varsity tennis team is coming off a 3-1-1 league record last year, and he said his team should be in the hunt for the conference title again this year.

Two of this year's top players should be senior Patrick Heber, who played one singles last year and freshman Andrew Brown.

"Both are talented players. It should be a dogfight to see who gets that no. 1 singles spot. Pat's got the experience, but they both can certainly play," Ortwine said.

Another player Ortwine is hoping will have a solid season is junior Scott Barnett. He is also fighting for his spot, at no. 3 singles, with sophomore Mike Rashid. Rashid played two doubles last year and is getting stronger Ortwine said.

The two played a match against each other March 24 and Rashid won, but the spot has yet to be finalized.

"Both guys are pushing each other and making each other better on the court," Ortwine said.

Turning to doubles, Ortwine said he thinks Clarkston will be deeper than in years past.

"We've got a lot of new faces this year," he said.

Senior Brent Griffith, who played four singles last season, and was a league champion, has made the switch to doubles because of a stress fracture in his leg. Ortwine said the move from singles to doubles should lessen the strain on Griffith's leg.

"He should be better playing doubles than singles, but we won't really know until he steps out on the court," Ortwine said.

senior Dustin Kring, who played one doubles last year. Another standout doubles player in Ortwine's arsenal is Eric Herzog, another senior who played singles last year at Brandon High School.

Berkley won the league last year, but they lost eight of 12 players. Kettering, Avondale and Groves have all lost key players Ortwine said.

"We should be in the top of the league this year. We've got a good mix of returning experienced players and some new kids. We must take care of Groves this season. I'll be disappointed if we're not towards the top of the league," Ortwine said.

The 2000 girls varsity track team is hoping for a strong season under 23-year coach Gordie Richardson.

Girls track team hopes to contend for league title

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

This season's girls track team has plenty of opportunities to do well, but they've got some work to do in terms of conditioning, head coach Gordie Richardson said.

This year's track team is made up of 46 girls. About half of the team is made up of returning athletes. The Wolves are coming off a 4-2 dual meet record last season, with losses at the hands of Rochester and Rochester Adams.

"The kids are a little bit beat up early in the season," Richardson said. "It's mainly due to a lack of preparation. The kids, especially the younger ones, aren't used to competing at this level. It's harder at the varsity level and some of the younger kids go by what they did in middle school."

The Wolves came in second place in the Oakland Activities Association Division I race last year. Rochester Adams won the league, and Richardson said he expects this season to be pretty similar as last year.

"Adams will be tough, they've got an excellent middle school program. Southfield will be able to do some damage in big meets, but because they're not very deep, they shouldn't be that good in duals," Richardson said.

Being deep may be Clarkston's biggest strength this season.

"We have an advantage in that we can move kids from position to position without losing a lot of points in other events. The key for us will be putting the right kids in the right events," he said.

This season's track team is made up of athletes from a variety of fall and winter sports including volleyball, tennis, cross country, cheerleading and skiing.

Richardson expects solid performances from Rachel Uchman, who will be competing in a variety of events including the 4x800, 4x200, 400, 800, 200, 4x400 and the high jump. He also noted Nicole Fischer, who will be competing in the 4x800, 1600, 400, 800 and the 4x400. Pam Wylie will be taking part in the 4x800, 1600, 800 and 4x400.

Other members of this year's track team Richardson noted are the following: Courtney Bates, Brittani Brewer, Ellen Cushing, Emily Cushing, Carla DelVecchio, Karyn Erkfritz, Becky Friesen, Lindsay Hawley, Katie Jerge, Christina Koziarski, Cari Lambert, Andrea O'Dea, Meghan Pocs, Jessie Ressler, Kristy Walford and Kim Wilson.

The girls will be action again April 6 when they host Pontiac Central at 4:30 p.m.

Badger to try out for Olympics

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Steve Badger has had tremendous success keeping pucks out of the net while playing ice hockey. But it's his knack for putting them in the net that may bring him to the US Olympic games.

Badger will be trying out in April in Denver, Colo. for the U.S. Junior roller blading Olympic team. Roller hockey will become an Olympic sport in 2002.

If Badger qualifies for the junior Olympic team, he would then compete in the Olympics as part of the US team in 2002.

"If I do good at the tryouts I'd be on the Olympic team. Roller hockey is a much quicker game than the ice hockey game because the puck is lighter," Badger said.

Currently Badger is in his second year of playing defense for the NXI Michigan Hurricanes, a junior A hockey team. He scored 92 goals and had 104 assists in 61 games in the 1998-99 season.

Other roller hockey highlights in Badger's career include competing in the 1999 American In Line Roller Hockey Series All-Star Game at Disney Land and being selected for the 1999 North American Roller Championship All-Star Game in Atlanta.

Hurricanes coach Mike Killbreath said Badger is a unique player and has tremendous ability.

"Steve can play at the professional level. He's as strong as anybody at that level. It's really up to him to see if he wants to concentrate on making a career out of roller hockey," Killbreath said.

That's because of Badger's success as a goalie in ice hockey. During his senior season at Clarkston, he put up strong numbers including a 17-6 record, a 1.96 goals against average and a 92.3 save percentage.

"I love both styles of hockey in their own way. It's just that with the roller hockey the Olympics is about as far as you can go," Badger said.

Steve Badger is hoping to be an Olympic competitor in 2002.

Even though Badger will be trying out for the U.S. Junior Olympic team in April, he's also leaning towards joining the Dubuque Fighting Saints, a USHL Jr. A ice hockey team. The Saints are based in Iowa and Badger feels they could serve as a good stepping stone to either professional or college ice hockey.

"I wouldn't mind playing at either the University of Michigan or Michigan State, but I'm not sure right now," Badger said.

After studying Badger's hockey resume, it's apparent he's already put together a very solid career. But there's still one piece missing — the Olympics.

Fourth and fifth grade girls excel on court

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

First year head coach Mike Upcott has had an excellent debut season. His team has compiled a 22-1 record on the basketball court.

His team, the Clarkston Wolf Pack, is an Amateur Athletic Union team, made up of fourth and fifth grade girls from Clarkston schools.

"The girls have great chemistry together. I really want to thank all the parents and assistant coach Steve Dupnack for all their hard work. I'd also like to thank Wolf Pack director Jack Melon for all his hard work. The program allows us to build up talent for later years in the Clarkston schools," he said.

Melon said Upcott has done a great job developing the program.

"It's people like him that make the program what it is today. He's volunteering a lot of time and has done a great job of not only coaching the girls, but he's created a lot of friendships between them," he said.

The team competes in tournaments all over Michigan including Ortonville, Lansing, Lake Orion and the University of Michigan Dearborn. The Wolf Pack's season will end April 9 when they take on Lansing Aim High, an elite basketball program.

The games are composed of two 20 minute halves. The Wolf Pack has played up to five games in a day.

"I get tired just watching them," Upcott said.

Wrestlemania 2000 just didn't live up to my expectations

I spent my entire Sunday watching professional wrestling. While I'll be the first to admit my day could have been spent in a more productive way, I'll also be the first to say it was a joyous occasion.

April 2 was the date of Wrestlemania 2000, the biggest show of the year for the World Wrestling Federation. This year's show had the potential to be one of the best, but sadly, it wasn't.

Friends of mine got together and ordered the all-day event, which brought us highlights of the first 15 Wrestlemanias from noon until 8 p.m. Then Wrestlemania 2000 took center stage from 8 until after 11 p.m.

The main event was a fatal four-way elimination match between The Big Show, with Shane McMahon in his corner, HHH, with Stephanie McMahon in his corner, The Rock, with Vince McMahon in his corner and Mick Foley, wrestling in his "last" match with Linda McMahon in his corner.

The match had all the right ingredients to become an instant classic. It had four tremendous wrestlers and each level of the McMahon family at ring-side. We all thought that surely it would be a good match, or at least bring about some interesting plot twists to the WWF. We were wrong.

The Big Show was pinned about five minutes into the match. I didn't want him to win, but I wouldn't of minded him being in the match a while longer. Foley then had his match cut short when he went to deliver a flying elbow drop from the second turnbuckle to HHH, who was on the Spanish announce table. Foley never hit the WWF champion, and instead bashed his ribcage against the side of the table. Moments later he was pinned. It was ashame to see his career come to an end so soon in the match. No deadly falls, no thumbtacks, nothing that has made Mick Foley matches so great.

So that left HHH and The Rock, or so we thought. Shane came back, even after The Big Show was eliminated, and attacked Vince. After the two fought for a while Vince then turned against The Rock, the same man whose corner he was in to start the match. HHH won the match, but what made no sense to me at all was why Vince attacked Shane and then embraced his daughter Stephanie after the match as well.

Monday's Raw didn't do anything to clear up the plot. All I can gather is that it looks like the WWF will start up a Rock vs. McMahon feud, much like the Austin vs. McMahon feud from about a year ago.

iting Clawson Trojans 1-0 in Clarkston's home opener of the season.

The Wolves evened their record to 1-1 on the season on a cold March 28 night, with temperatures only in the mid 30's.

Morgan picked up the shutout in net for Clarkston.

The lone goal of the game came at 34:50 of the first half when Jessica Thomas recorded Clarkston's first goal of the 2000 season, which came on an assist from Kelly Plante.

Clarkston coach Tami Mitchell, who is in her second year, said the Wolves played a pretty solid game.

"There are plenty of good things to take away from this game. I think we played strong defense and Sarah Morgan in goal was solid," she said.

While the majority of the play was played in the Clarkston end, the Wolves did a good job of clearing the ball out when they needed to.

"Katie Trippi had a great game for us. She did a great job clearing the ball for us all night," Mitchell added. "We did a good job of hustling and doing some drop passes and getting the ball out to the wings."

The Wolves, who have already won half as many as many games as they did all of last season, still had some room for improvement Mitchell said.

"Our biggest thing that we still need to work on is shooting," Mitchell said.

Clarkston's next game will be Thursday when the Wolves host Lake Orion.

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

IN THE FACE OF DENIAL

Those who have suffered injury due to the negligence of another should not be surprised if the negligent party's insurance company rebuffs their damage claims. In many cases, there will be a denial of liability. By saying that the policyholder was not to blame for the accident, the insurance company may hope that the accident victim takes its word at face value or will drop the claim in frustration. Whichever is the case, accident victims should take it upon themselves to make an appointment with an attorney for an initial consultation. This enables the lawyer to assess the facts of the case and give an opinion as to whether the matter should be pursued through legal channels.

If you have been injured due to another person's negligence, it is important to speak with an attorney as soon as possible. Without the help of an attorney, you may be forced to settle for what those parties responsible for the injury consider adequate. For results, call 620-1030. Our law office is conveniently located at 11 North Main Street.

NOTE: Most personal injury cases are taken by attorneys on a contingency fee basis, which leaves the accident victim with little to lose and much to gain.

Lois Johnson Before 48 Lb. Weight Loss

This is my story. My weight loss odyssey, if you will. From disgust and discomfort to vitality and vigor. I will reveal how I shed my pounds and inches and why I'm certain that I've finally conquered my lifelong struggle with weight.

It all started a little over a year ago. I was mortified because I had gained all my weight back again. In fact, I was steaming mad. I was angry with myself for being out of control. Angry with my body for betraying me. What must people think, I wondered? One day everybody was complimenting me. A few months later my weight was right back up, plus more.

I was paging through the newspaper when I noticed an ad about local folks who had lost weight using hypnosis. I had seen the ads before. I always dismissed them. Hypnosis seemed too much like hocus pocus to me.

Then I realized that I had probably tried every diet on earth. I'd even been through one diet program three times! Yet each diet made my cravings worse. I'd ditch effort. ## "I'M 37 LBS. LIGHTER!"

By Janet Switzer
Seventeen years ago, I was a photographic model. I weighed 113 pounds and wore a size 22. As my career and social life changed, I gained pound after pound until I couldn't stand being heavy anymore. I tried other ways of slimming. I couldn't make dieting fit with my busy work schedule.

That simple.
Compliments Galore.
When I was heavy, I felt that people were judging my professional qualifications by my appearance. You know, "Bring me up. Now it's clear sailing. I show up at meetings and dazzle 'em!" My sister and I recently went shopping for new business suits. I took all size 12's into the dressing room, hoping I might fit into them. I was shocked when I had to send the saleslady back for size 8's. Wow!

Then I discovered Positive Changes Hypnosis. I found out I didn't need to diet to lose fat. I was constantly eating out in restaurants. Now I love my weight. Thanks to hypnosis, I'm 37 lbs. lighter! It was my healthy foods. I find very little cravings. My dress sizes more appealing. It's size plumped from a round 16 amazing. Plus, I'm saving a ton of money not eating out as much!

Janet Switzer After Hypnosis
I was constantly eating out in restaurants. Now I love my weight. Thanks to hypnosis, I'm 37 lbs. lighter! It was my healthy foods. I find very little cravings. My dress sizes more appealing. It's size plumped from a round 16 amazing. Plus, I'm saving a ton of money not eating out as much!

I'll soon be a published author — making personal appearances and doing speaking engagements. I have to be attractive for that. I'm sure glad I discovered Positive Changes Hypnosis when I did!

Easy as Can Be...
By the week of my second hypnosis session, I knew my eating behaviors were changing. I lost 3 pounds my first week. I was relaxed and in control. Then 10 pounds melted away my first month. It was all so easy and effortless.

OUR NO-RISK GUARANTEE
If at your first program session you are not satisfied for any reason, we will refund 100% of your money before you leave the building. No questions asked. You risk nothing.

Lasting Results...
I am 100% satisfied with my results from hypnosis. I've kept my weight off for more than seven months. I'd never done that before! I am truly a naturally thin person. And that makes me a walking testimonial — hypnosis delivers results!
I know my weight loss is permanent. My confidence is soaring. I'm even saving money! Our grocery bill has dropped considerably because I don't buy chips, candy or junk.
