Car crash kills two area teens, injures a third

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston area was the scene of two auto accidents within the past week, one of which was fatal.

On Monday afternoon, two teenagers -- one of them from Clarkston -- were killed in an auto accident on White Lake Road in Independence Township.

Aaron Suddeth, 15, of Clarkston, was a passenger in a 1997 Honda Civic that was driven by Erikka Marie Stanisha, 17, of Lake Orion.

Both were pronounced dead at the scene.

Passenger Jared Kinkle, 18, also from Lake Orion, was taken Monday to POH Medical Center in Pontiac with serious injuries. He underwent surgery Monday evening and was reported to be in critical condition as of press time.

"Alcohol does not appear to be a factor," said Lt. Sal Petruilis of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. "It appears that the two people (that were killed) in the accident) were not wearing seat belts."

The other driver in the incident, a 36-year old Madison Heights man, was driving a green Ford F-150 extended cab pickup. He was taken to POH Medical Center Monday evening and released.

Police did not release the name of the Madison Heights driver.

According to Petruilis, Stanisha was driving westbound on White Lake Road, just west of Dixie Highway, when the accident occurred about 2:57 p.m.

She crossed the center lane about a quarter mile west of Dixie Highway, and the Madison Heights man could not see her coming.

According to Ken Hiller of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the incident is still under investigation.

On Thursday, April 20, another accident took place, this time in Springfield Township. No one was seriously injured.

According to Hiller, the incident took place at approximately 10:38 a.m., when a 1997 Ford Expedition, driven by a 29-year old Flint male, was headed southbound on Dixie Highway.

The vehicle collided with a 2000 Chevrolet Impala that was driven by a 65-year old Davisburg female. The Flint male was attempting to turn left onto Big Lake Road; after the collision, the Expedition rolled over.

The driver of the Expedition was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, and was reported to have suffered minor injuries.

The driver of the Impala was taken to Genesys Regional Health Center in Grand Blanc, where she was treated and released.

Suddeth's funeral is Friday, 12:30 p.m. at Wint Funeral Home.

A-hunting we shall go

The sunshine and warm temperatures on April 15 made a perfect setting for an Easter Egg Hunt, as Sashabaw Presbyterian Church on Maybee Rd. hosted about 60 children for its annual Easter Egg Hunt. The children hunted for wrapped candy, plastic eggs filled with treats and bunny-shaped eggs which contained prize tickets. Local businesses donated candy and prizes, said

Easter Egg Hunt Committee Chairperson Carlee Muenzer. She added the children in the congregation had prayed for good weather for the event during Sunday School. Above, Sarah Stringer of Goodrich watched her sons Michael, 4, and David, 21 months, enjoy their candy after the hunt. The Stringer family are members of the 35-family congregation.

It's time to plan the 4th of July Parade!

The Independence Township Fire Department wishes to extend an invitation to share in the excitement of the Independence Day Parade in Independence Township

For over 60 years the Independence Fire Department has hosted this parade. With the community's support and contributions, the parade has grown to be the #1 parade in Oakland County.

This is the perfect opportunity to advertise a business or a service club, and a great way for people to be involved in a fun, beneficial event. Over 15,000 spectators will be in attendance, providing great visibility for area groups and businesses.

Floats and novelty entries are welcome in the parade.

This year's theme is 2000-a New Beginning! Prizes will be awarded for: 1. Best decorated parade entries (1st, 2nd, 3rd). 2. Judges Award. 3. Best Child/Children's Entry. 4. Best Auto Award.

As in the past, the Parade Committee turns to local merchants to donate cash prizes, because it has become an impossible task to appropriately divide "prizes".

The entry winner, which may consist of a group of 30 individuals, might win a gift certificate for two, tickets to a function for four, etc. It would be a delight to award them a dollar amount to use toward their group or a function for everyone involved. The prizes are put together well before the parade.

Donations are tax deductible and donors will be recognized by the parade announcer and in local newspapers.

Learning to 'see' in the dark

Firefighters and officials get first hand experience with new equipment

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Learning how to "see" inside a smoke-filled building was the focus of a training session by the Independence Township Fire Department recently.

About 15 paid on-call firefighters received first-hand knowledge about the department's CairnsIRIS Thermal Infrared Imaging System. The department recently purchased two of the special helmet-mounted units. Two units were previously purchased in 1997.

A sensor mounted on the helmet "sees" variations in thermal radiation from various objects and transmits those images to the fire fighter.

Working much like a camera, it distinguishes images by heat rather than light. Everything, from a table to a person has a different temperature, and thus a pattern.

It can also help locate the source of a fire because it can look at a building and tell which end is the brightest.

The department held the training "burn" April 15-16 at the former clubhouse of Clarkston Golf Course on Eston Road. The golf course has been sold and is slated to become a subdivision.

The firefighters took turns wearing the special helmet with the imaging system, and being the eyes for fire fighters who were not wearing the equipment.

The training session was conducted by John Cetrino of the Boston Fire Department. Cetrino said he's part of a group of 15 fire fighters from around the country who train others to use the equipment. Each time a department makes a purchase it's eligible for training.

The session was held for paid on-call firefighters who have never used the equipment before. They learned navigation, how to interpret what they see and search and rescue operations. The focus is on safe practices more than rapid rescue, said Cetrino.

"We drive home the fact that you (fire fighters) don't change your course of action. From never having had vision, and now they have vision may get a fire fighter in trouble," Cetrino said. "Thermal imaging allows you to search a bigger area faster which saves time and can save damage."

Assistant Fire Chief Steve Ronk said because of the smoke and the darkness, fire fighters work in zero visibility. "When we go in a building we crawl everywhere we go. We have no idea what we're getting into." IRIS senses heat, allowing fire fighters to see images in the dark in white and shades of gray. The hotter an object or fire is, the whiter it shows up.

Ronk said the department built one fire in the garage and three in the clubhouse, and the building was completely filled with smoke. While a firefighter wearing thermal imaging equipment can see up to 500 feet, it won't sense heat for that great a distance. He estimated the fire at the clubhouse to be between 400 and 500 degrees. Fires can get as hot as 1200 degrees before they flash over, he said.

The session was the first time two-year Independence Twp. fire fighter Scott Krakauer has used the equipment in a live fire. Krakauer lives on the border of Waterford and Independence Township, and has also been with Waterford's Fire Department for 10 years. Waterford does not have IRIS and Krakauer called it "an amazing tool."

"I think it will increase the speed of a search for victims as well as the speed of the fire to put it out. You can be in a fire like this and not see the flame. But you can see it with thermal imaging."

"I feel more comfortable if I can see objects," he added. "Without the equipment you can't see your hand in front of your face." Krakauer compared using the equipment to looking through the round circle of a telescope. "It's a different sensation, but you get used to it about a minute into the drill. It's amazing how much detail you can see."

Fire fighters Derek Moscovic and Richard O'Connor prepare to enter the clubhouse to test the thermal imaging equipment.

Cetrino said New Jersey has funded thermal imaging systems for every fire department in the state. He added it was past due for fire fighting to become hi-tech. "There's a bill in the U.S. House to appropriate $1 billion per year for five years for fire fighting, he said. He praised the Independence Township Fire Department for being "way ahead of the game" in terms of fire fighting technology.

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart and Trustee Jeff McGee also participated in the training. Stuart tried out the equipment April 15, and McGee on April 16.

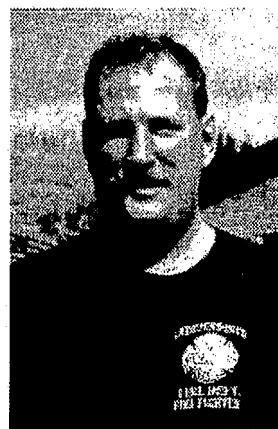

Stuart said he found the experience very interesting and applauded the fire department for including board members and members of the public in the training.

"It's a very unnerving situation to be actually involved in the training," said Stuart. "The whole concept of being placed in that gear -- you really are dependent on that equipment. It renews my respect for fire fighters. It takes a special kind of person to be able to do it. I'm very please we've provided that equipment for our people."

McGee compared the experience and breathing the air pack to scuba diving, "except you were blind. When IRIS kicked in I understood the sense of getting your eyes back," he said.

McGee said he learned how fire fighters "sweep" a room to find victims, and like Stuart, found renewed appreciation for fire fighters and their potential exposure to risk.

McGee had voted against the two latest IRIS purchases, and after his experience, his point of view

Scott Krakauer used IRIS for the first time in a live fire April 15.

Assistant Fire Chief Steve Ronk helps Supervisor Dale Stuart put on his equipment. Stuart tried out the equipment in the staged fire at the former Clarkston Golf Course April 15. Ronk said fire fighters from Brandon, Groveland and Waterford townships were invited to participate in the training session April 16.

has not changed.

"There is never too great a cost to pay for the potential saving of a life. But as an administrator, I have to be concerned about budgetary constraints." McGee added 99 percent of the uses for the equipment have been for location of hot spots after a building has burned which are not-critical.

Stalemate means issue tabled until June 6 meeting

Spring Lake lighting debated

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To light or not to light?

That was the question facing residents in the Spring Lake North area, as they debated whether or not to proceed with a project that would implement street lights in that area.

Approximately 50 people showed up at a public hearing at the Independence Township board meeting April 18 to make their voices heard on the issue.

Residents and board members alike voiced their opinions both for and against the project.

The end result? The issue was tabled by a 4-2 margin. Trustee Larry Rosso was absent from the meeting.

In making their decision, the board determined that since the residents were split on the issue, it would be best to allow them to further discuss it among themselves.

A lack of consensus was evident when Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart surveyed the residents for their opinions, allowing one person per property to vote on the matter.

According to Stuart, 16 people voted in favor of the project, and 11 people voted against.

Stuart said that the board would have to conduct another public hearing once the issue is raised at a future meeting.

"We still have to hold the hearing and the rest of the whole process," he said.

Township resident Donald Cummings, in voicing his objection to the proposal, stated that the information presented on the project is incomplete.

"I believe that you have not been presented with adequate information," he said.

Brian Peers, another resident who is opposed to the project, said that cost concerns are a big factor in his objection to the project. He estimated that taxes would increase $99 per year if the lights were implemented.

"I don't think it's appropriate that the township would now make the decision," he said. "Down the road, there will be maintenance on street lamps, and we'll be responsible for that."

On the other hand, resident Kim Brown, who favors the lighting of the area, said that safety is a chief concern.

"I am for them, for the safety of our children and for those who walk late at night," she said.

However, resident Joelle Chaney said that she is opposed to the cost of the project, and suggested that residents take matters into their own hands if they want to improve the lighting situation.

"I don't believe it's a matter of safety," she said. "If people want lights, they can put individual lights in their houses."

Resident Sheila Bennett, voicing her support of the project, brought up the issue of vandalism.

"There's been a lot of vandalism in our neighborhood," she said. "We think that would stop some of that."

Ultimately, the board determined that it had insufficient information at this time to make a decision either way.

"I would be in favor of tabling it until I have more information," said Treasurer James Wenger.

Township trustee Jeff McGee, who said that he was inclined to vote against the project, said that the board would have to be presented with a solid argument in favor of the project before it issues the go-ahead.

"Ultimately, our decision will be based on whether there is enough compelling evidence to pursue this," McGee said.

According to Township Clerk Joan McCrary, the matter will be brought up during the board's first meeting in June, which is scheduled for June 6.

Robert C. Waters took on many roles during his life. He was a husband, a father, a grandfather, an uncle a teacher and a friend. He will be greatly missed.

Waters passed away April 18 at the age of 90.

Dick Williams, Waters' son-in-law spoke highly of him.

"He was a great man. He made a loving connection to everyone who knew him," Williams said.

Waters was very involved in the Clarkston community. His contributions to the area included serving as a teacher, coach and principal at Clarkston High School. Waters taught chemistry and physics and coached football and track for the Wolves.

Further contributions saw Waters serve as Village Council president on two separate occasions. He was also a past Clarkston Justice of the Peace.

Park Place: Is there one?

Two area businesses differ about parking situation at Prudential

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Union Bar and Kitchen owner Curt Catalo and Prudential Chamberlain-Stiehl and Associates Realtors manager Beverly Bartus have their share of differences. But they agree on one thing — the sign posted in the parking lot of Prudential is working like a charm.

A sign was posted in the center of Prudential's parking lot, located at 32 S. Main St. March 24, one week after St. Patrick's Day. The sign warned people that the lot was to be used by Prudential customers, employees and building tenants only, 24 hours a day.

"I couldn't even get my own car out of the lot on St. Patrick's Day," Bartus said.

Catalo said 50 tickets have been issued to people between March 17-24. He then brought the parking issue to the attention of the Clarkston City Council at its meeting April 24.

"One of the reasons I brought it to their attention was to see if I can get those tickets revoked, but I also wanted to bring the parking situation at the Prudential lot to their attention," Catalo said. "We put up the sign one day after they (Prudential) told us they couldn't come up with a solution to the problem.

Whether or not the tickets which were issued will be revoked remains to be seen, but City councilman Dave Savage thinks they should be.

"I'm in favor of getting the tickets waived. Prudential needs to recognize they need to be cooperative with other business owners. If you live in Clarkston you need to be supportive of downtown Clarkston," Savage said.

However, mayor Sharron Catalo warned that Clarkston police chief Paul Ormiston said revoking the tickets would set a dangerous precedent.

The issue was tabled by Savage and will be discussed further at the next city council meeting May 8.

Bartus said her business uses the lot late into the evening, sometimes as late as 11 p.m. due to agents working late. Training classes are also taught there she said.

Since the sign was posted the parking situation has settled down, but it wasn't that way before.

According to Catalo, customers of his restaurant, and visitors of the Clarkston Union have been parking in the Prudential lot since his business opened in January of 1996. But it hasn't been until recently that an overflow of parking within the Prudential lot has become a legal problem.

"People remember coming here and getting a ticket, but they won't remember the meal they got at my restaurant," Catalo said.

Bartus sees the matter differently. She said a $10 ticket doesn't damage people's attitude towards coming to downtown Clarkston.

"By getting a ticket, I don't think it'll stop people from coming back again. They're just going to learn where they can and can't park. People have to park and walk in Birmingham and Detroit. People will do that here too," she said.

Catalo said the tickets came as a surprise to both him and his customers. He said Bartus never approached him about the parking situation at Prudential before tickets were issued.

"The sign I put up should have been posted before any of the tickets were issued. But they've (Prudential) been very happy since the sign has been posted. It's done a great job of keeping people out of downtown Clarkston at night. Prudential told me they couldn't see any possible solution to the problem," Catalo said.

Bartus said both she and the former owner of Prudential Chamberlain had been in contact with Catalo regarding the overflow of night parking in the lot. She said she met with Catalo and his wife before any tickets were issued.

"There's no question there's not adequate park-

Council votes 'yes' on water

Election is May 9 -- questions answered at May 8 meeting

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After holding informational hearings for both Clarkston business owners and residents, the answer to the question of will Clarkston hook up to the water supply of Independence Township lies in the hands of voters.

On April 24 the city council passed a resolution saying it was in favor of the water proposal, which will be voted on May 9.

The water subcommittee, made up of Scott Meyland, Bill Basinger, Doug Roeser and Steve Arkwright, have been working on a plan for months which would see Clarkston begin a three phase project that would hook Clarkston up to the water supply of Independence Township.

The business informational meeting was held at City Hall April 13 and the public hearing was held at the Independence Township Fire Hall April 19. About 20 people attended the business owners meeting while roughly 50 people were in attendance at the public hearing.

Mayor Sharron Catalo praised the subcommittee for its efforts.

"Lots of work went into this and I think everybody left those meetings satisfied," Catalo said.

City councilman, Dave Savage has been in contact with area businesses regarding the issue and said the response has been positive.

"I think they've been in favor of it for the

Letters To The Editor

We Unite will celebrate families next month

Dear Editor,

WEunite is a non-denominational, non-profit organization whose purpose is to bring together the wisdom of elders and the energy of youth for a richer present while ensuring a brighter future for all.

It's about relating, interacting, and playing together, whether talking about one's career or school, or just playing a game of chess . . . providing the basis for what evolves into the building of relationships. The wisdom of the elders is heard by the youth - like seeds that grow into healthy crops for a richer life in the future. This process fosters intergenerational acceptance and leads to a supportive, caring, loving community. These special gatherings take place on a monthly basis at St. Daniel Church in Clarkston - thank you for believing in this process.

On May 21, WEunite will be hosting a celebration of families. The event, dubbed "What is Family?" will include dinner, dancing, and the opportunity to meet local families who will share their values, belief systems, backgrounds, special gifts, and perhaps even a few helpful hints for a better family life.

Families are made up of individual people. There are ideal families, traditional families, imagined families, and reality families. There are adoptive families, birth families, biracial families, single-parent families, blended families, grandparents raising second families, sisters and brothers raising families - you name it, and it's out there.

The foundation for each of these is love!

To make this special celebration available to our community, we are asking for contributions from local businesses, organizations, and individuals. Your generosity will create a climate of relationships that will foster healthy, responsible, caring, community-minded individuals - the kind you would prefer to have for employees, clients, friends, and neighbors. All contributors will be acknowledged in the evening's program.

DATE: Sunday, May 21, 2000
TIME: 4:00 p.m.-9:00 p.m.
LOCATION: Deer Lake Athletic Club
6167 White Lake Road
Clarkston, MI 48346

Professional introspection is timely

Whenever I hear people in the news industry reevaluating the profession my ears perk up.

I find it energizing to listen to other journalists criticize how we do our job, or the state of journalism today.
Once a well-respected profession, journalism has taken some well-deserved hits over the last several years.

Articles in journalism trade magazines frequently challenge us to re-evaluate how we do our job. Often, topics of conversation between myself and other reporters or editors include sessions of "This is how I handled such and such situation, what would you have done?"

Further evidence that the industry recognizes its need to restore credibility with the public is the frequency with which columnists and radio and TV commentators make the issue a topic for columns and TV or radio shows.
CNN even broadcasts a regular weekend show called Reliable Sources, dedicated to dissecting how the media covers current events.

On Monday, WJR radio host Mitch Albom spent most of his afternoon show discussing with listeners how the media handled the government's snatching of Elian Gonzalez and returning him to his family.

Albom's focus, which I thought was particularly interesting, was how much impact one photograph, that of the U.S. federal agent pointing the gun seemingly toward Elian and Donato Dalrymple (the fisherman who rescued Elian from the ocean) may have on public opinion of the issue.

MSNBC talk show pundit Chris Matthews also interviewed news bigwigs on their opinion of the news coverage of the event on Monday.

In general, I think TV coverage of national events has been nauseating lately. We are saturated with one issue for weeks at a time and left to wonder what's happening elsewhere on earth. Coverage of Elian Gonzalez over the last month is the perfect example. The news has been all Elian, all the time.

Newspaper coverage of the issue has been much more balanced. And heaven knows it's better than those talking head shows where people shout at and over each other. Can you imagine seeing in print what some of the people say? And how would you adequately convey sneers and major tudes in words. If the words could be found surely readers would think they were reading satire.

In the April 24 issue of U.S. News and World Report, columnist John Leo takes up the issue of the public distrusting what they read in newspapers and makes some interesting points. He suggests that the personal values of journalists help determine what they cover.

As evidence, he cites a study that says "journalism students are more likely . . . to come from affluent families and private schools . . . And (journalists) approve of abortion, express disdainful attitudes toward suburbs and rural areas and identify strongly with people who see themselves as victims of society."

He says these traits are common among journalists in medium sized cities.

He goes on to say, ". . . Journalists are more likely to live in upscale neighborhoods, have maids, own Mercedeses, and trade stocks, and they're less likely to go to church, do volunteer work, or put down roots in a community. (they) are overrepresented in ZIP codes where residents are twice as likely as other American to rent foreign movies, drink Chablis, own an espresso maker and read magazines like Architectural Digest
and Food & Wine."

I don't see these traits in myself, or any of my colleagues, but perhaps community news journalists are in a different category.

Whatever the reason, I am glad to see the professional introspection. I figure even at our very local level, we have something to learn from our colleagues who deal with national issues. In the long run, the profession and all of us will be better for it.

Faded Ink

A relaxed Rob is lovin' spring break

Ahhhhhhhhhh. Notice the multitude of extra h's, meaning not just a simple "ah," but a very relaxed "Ahhhhhhhhhh." Why the extra h's, you ask?

A. It is Sunday night. (Easter, for all you religious folks).

B. It is 2:30, A.M.

C. (Pay attention, now . . . this one is important). There is no school to attend, meaning I can afford to write articles for your literary enjoyment at 2:31 in the morning. I think I might pull an all-nighter and see the sun rise, just because I can. I can't think of the last time I saw dawn without having to break rocks and print license plates at school the next day.

In case your name's Forrest and you aren't the sharpest Ginsu knife in the set of 12 for $24.95, Spring Break has commenced, eleven days of school-free shenanigans. Clarkston watch out: Jesus hath risen, and due to some minor complications with the Time/Particle Quasi-Loophole - a.k.a. Anti-Death Loophole; available only with the purchase of a set of Ginsu knives - there was a jail break - and, in case you were wondering: Yes, God does own his own set, and enjoys being able to slice and dice ANYTHING - and every inmate is on the loose.

Well, only half of them, anyway. The community lucked out because half of our hard timers went to seek asylum with our neighbors to the south. And for all of you who are concerned with the sublime light of justice, just think of it; here you are, working hard 11 hours a day in the coal mines, whilst your child is thoroughly plastered, sitting on a beach in Cancun, catching rays and wasting away again in Margaritaville.

Why didn't I bright that lost shaker and salt? I'll demonstrate with the following dialogue between myself and a potential travel agent, with the speaker tag A standing for agent and the speaker tag R,BM standing for Rob, Berzerker Mundi.

CHS Life

Rob Brose

R,BM: I'm looking for something . . . something warm, something fun, something hip. Enlighten me.

A: I've got just the thing! You hand over a large sum of money, and we put you in a tourist section of another country with all of the kids you usually hang out with and an open bar. It'll be just like home, only with an ocean!

R,BM: Wow. Sounds . . . lackluster.

A: I haven't even gotten to the juicy part yet.

R,BM: Juicy how? I mean, there's the good juicy, like Evan's signature sandwich at the Clarkston Union, home of the good food and fun (like that one, Curt?), and then there's bad juicy, like the Whopper at Jack In The Box.

A: This is way better than the Whopper at Jack In The Box. Get this: You'll be completely Thor hammered the whole time, and when you're not tipsy, you'll be in agony because you went to bed at five and your jack-ass friends woke you up again at eight because they wanted to make an early run to the pool bar. There's even a good chance you won't remember the entire week!

I hope this completely real and uncut conversation has been like windshield wipers during a rainstorm. Eleven free days at the zenith of my life so far, and if you were to go to Vegas, I'd put the same amount it cost to send your kid to Cancun on me wanting to remember them. Eleven periods of 24 hours filled with skateboards, the Detroit Film Theater, Shedd's Aquarium, the Field Museum of Natural History, the Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago's own art museum, and hippopotamus hunting in the Congo. My experience will be best described by a slang term circa 1980: Stellar. The only dark cloud that hangs over my horizon (to coin the extremely overused literary cliché) is returning to school on Monday.

News from the war zone, aka home front

By I.M. Tired

GOODRICH, MI — Hello, my fellow Americans. Here, in the middle of the war zone, a fierce battle has been waged by the forces of good and righteousness against rebel troops. The young rebels are seemingly bent on the destruction of law and order. The fire-storm has raged now for over five weeks, with both sides taking on heavy casualties.

The civil war has caused at least one of the house guards to question her resolve.

"What are we fighting for. We're all family," a worn and weary Jennie asked this reporter. "Can't we all just get along!"

The war between parenthood and childhood heated up several weeks ago, unidentified sources report. With the arrival of young fighting Sean Rush into Ring Leader Shamus' rebel troops, the winds of war changed.

Until this time momentum was strongly on the side of the old guard.

"We thought we had things under control," house guard Don said, wiping the sweat from his brow, onto the back of his hand, then on to his khaki pants. "The forces of Young Shamus R. were starting to bend. If we could have held out a few weeks longer, who knows, we could have won the war. He was so damned close to being potty trained."

Prior to Rebel Sean's arrival house guards successfully put down a coup attempt mounted by the now outlawed Shamus R. Reports indicate the two-year-old rebel would attack during the middle of the night, screaming, alternately, "Mommy, Poppy, Poppy, Mommy."

"He was obviously trying to pit us against each other," the house guards agreed. Added Jen, "And, it nearly worked. But, we ignored him and the attacks soon subsided."

All changed when the two rebels joined forces.

"It's been hell," Don said. "It's like they can read each others' minds. It's nonstop. They are relentless.

When one stops, the other starts."

Don likened the war to a World Wrestling Federation Wrestlemania grudge match. "They're tag-teamin' us man. I don't know how much longer we can sustain such heavy losses. Things are looking pretty bleak. Even the dogs sense the tide turning. I've noticed them consulting with the enemy more often."

What is lacking in this war zone is that most precious of commodities, one that used to be found in abundance, sleep. The two young rebels are successfully using scream and cry tactics to keep the house guards off guard, allowing only one adult to sleep at a time and for only an hour or two at a time. The house guards managed just six hours sleep over an entire weekend.

"There once was a time I liked Peter Pan and his merry bunch of lads," Jen told this reporter. "I'm starting to reevaluate my stance over the troubles in Never-Neverland. I think Captain Hook got a raw deal in the press."

This winner-take-all war will determine who will run the home — the elder house guards or the young rebels.

Young Shamus R., it was reported, was whipping up the troops with talk of Old Naby clothing for all, more brown grabby on the mashed toe-toes and a red gobster with the pinchy hands in every pot. When last spotted he was seen grooming himself outside, running a pine comb through his hair.

What does he know that we do not?

This is your wartime correspondent, I. M. Tired, signing off. Until we speak again, good bye and good luck.

Comments for war-weary Rush can be e-mailed to dontrushmedon@aol.com.

The Clarkston News asks Clarkston area residents:

What kind of improvements would you like to see to the Dixie Highway / Big Lake Road intersection?

"It needs to be widened and have better traffic control. The speed should be lowered due to the traffic. They should have widened the street before they added all those businesses and homes in the area."

-- Margaret Vollbach of Clarkston

"Something needs to be done to accommodate the entrance traffic. There should be a left arrow turning onto Big Lake Road. It's really bad there when OTC starts in the morning."

-- Jenny Heinrich of Davisburg

"It's become really dangerous there. I take a different way altogether. They should put a green arrow there. Sometimes the traffic is so bad you can't even see."

--Loretta Baril of Waterford

"There's no need to reduce the speed limit there. When the light is red, people going north on Dixie still make their left turns."

-- Karen Mickle of Ortonville

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

The pigeons that for years have frequented Rudy's Market are about to disappear. They're being trapped by Ortonville resident Leo Armstrong who will transport them to his Mt. Pleasant farm.

Despite the objection of Independence Township Trustee William Vandermark, the board authorizes Cpt. Dale Bailey as the new fire chief. The decision comes after the board reluctantly accepts the resignation of appointed chief William Carver.

The Clarkston High School tennis team pulls off an upset by beating Lake Orion, 5-2 -- despite the prediction that the Lake Orion Dragons would win. The victory puts the Wolves on top of the Greater Oakland Activities League.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

Tracks of a small tornado are visible during Friday's rain and wind storm. Fire Chief Frank Ronk says, though it did not touch down, the tornado did plenty of damage, felling trees and marring roofs.

Development plans for Springfield Oaks County Park are presented to the Springfield Township Planning Commission. The plan began, says Fred Ellis of Ellis, Arndt and Truedell Inc., when it was determined existing 4-H facilities are not adequate.

Renovation plans are expected to begin for the David Wright Mansion, an historic home built around 1843 in Springfield Township. The structure will be converted into Ye Old House Restaurant.

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

The annual meeting of the Clarkston Rotary Club honors area farmers. There are about 80 guests and members present. The evening includes a special dinner, a pianist and the magic tricks of Harry Cecil.

The Clarkston High School baseball team wins its season opener against Oxford, 7-1. Although neither team has gotten in much practice due to the bad weather, the game is very well played.

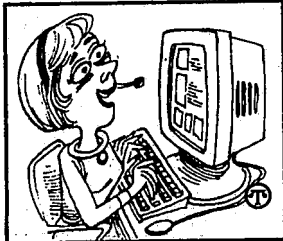

Grocery specials at Terry's Market include smoked picnics, 31 cents a pound; large seedless grapefruit, four for 29 cents; Franco American Spaghetti, two cans for a quarter; and Defiance Tomato Juice, two cans for 49 cents.

PHONE FACTS

Managing Customer Calls

(NAPS)—A growing number of businesses are "phoning it in" with the help of the Internet. Thanks to voice-over Internet protocol (VoIP) technology, companies are now able to better manage customer calls over the web.

With the help of the Internet, businesses may be better able to manage customer calls.

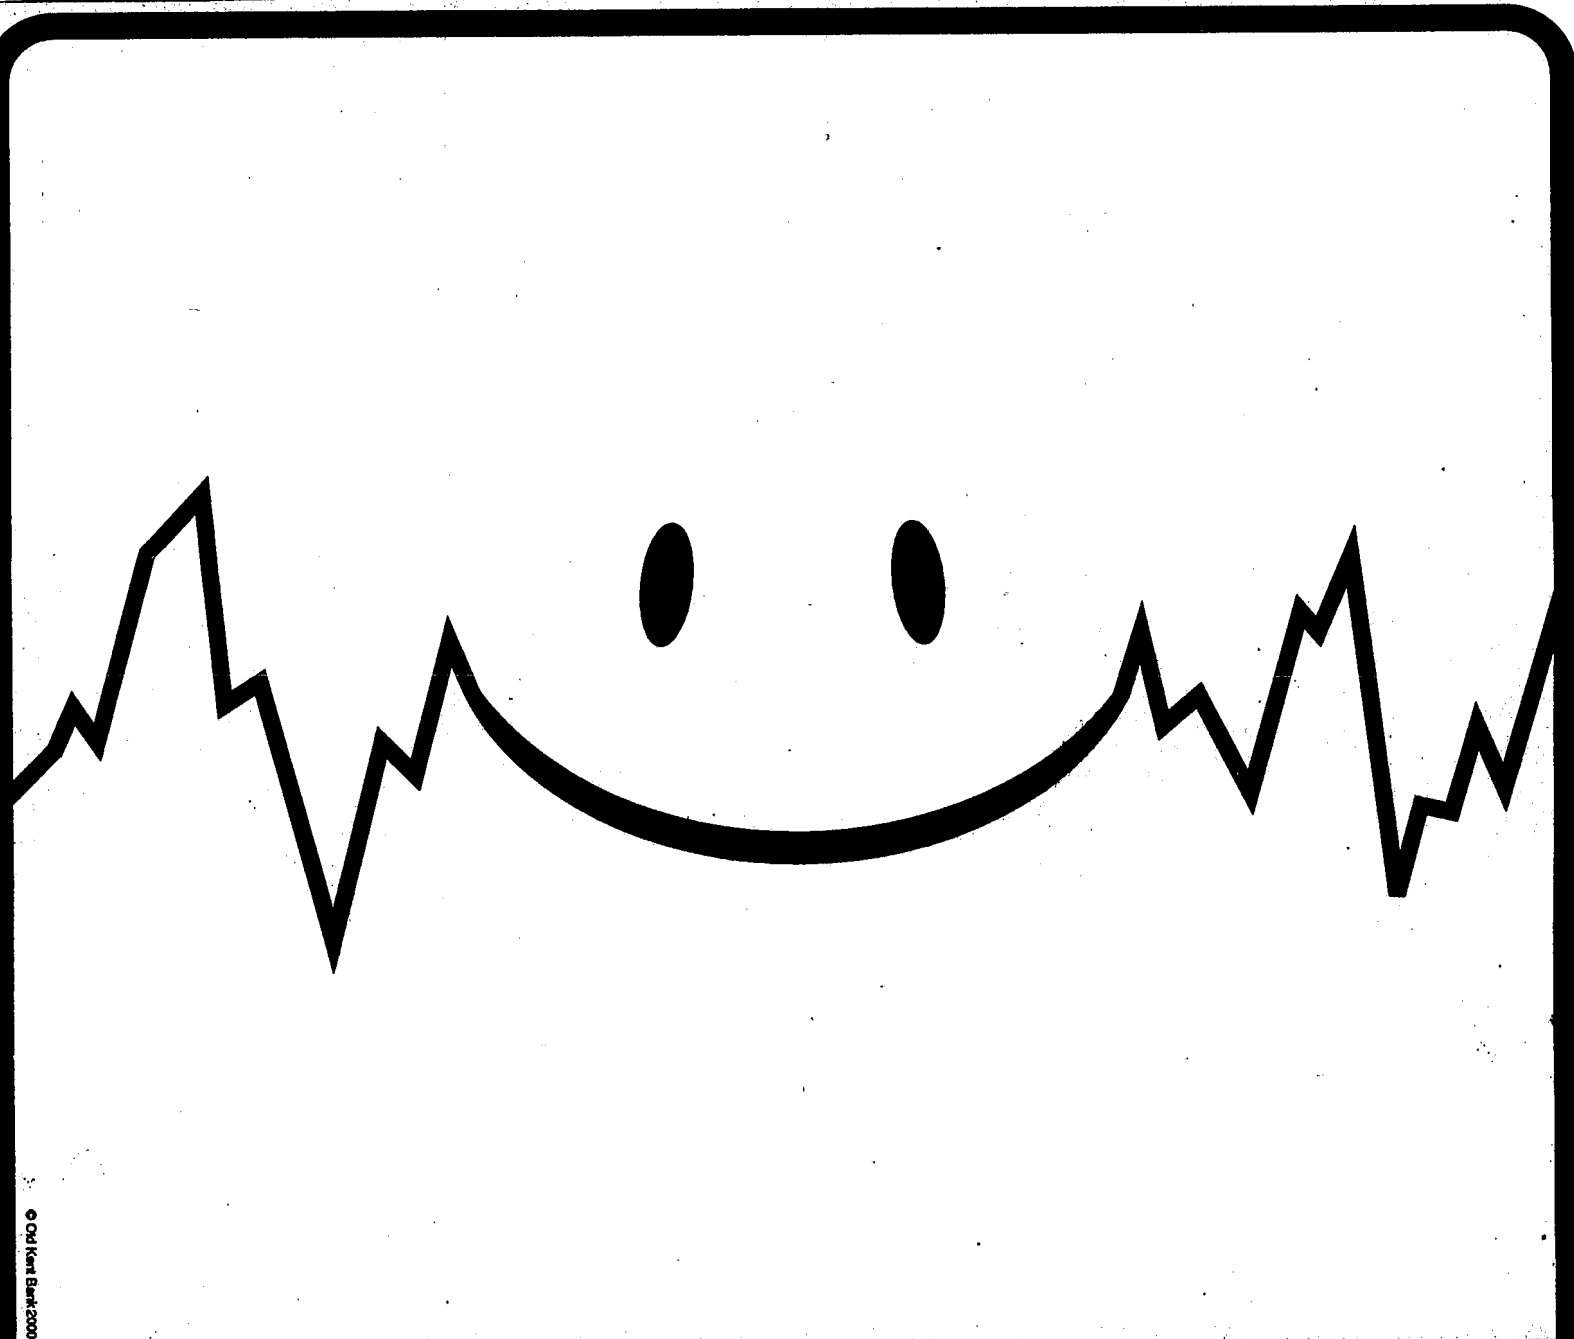

This kind of "telephony" solution may be of particular interest to phone companies, Internet service providers and e-businesses that want to enhance their customer service.

A new service provider in the VoIP field is NetCentrex, which offers a suite of Internet-based applications that can handle various aspects of business, from voice mail to the routing of personal calls. Through its data centers, hardware and software (the NetCentrex Platform), the company provides telephony components which are fully programmable and seamlessly integrate in current web programming environments.

NetCentrex was founded in 1998 by Olivier Hersent, co-author of Internet Telephony: Packet-Based Multimedia Communications Systems, considered a leading resource on the subject. The company recently announced a strategic partnership with GTE and Pagoo.com, which will make NetCentrex's telephony solutions available through the extensive GTE's networks worldwide. The company's North American headquarters are located in Santa Clara, CA.

the opportunity to be part of a group, and Dick and Toni appreciate that they don't have to be there to supervise his activities.

They also like the fact that SCAMP is a day camp. "They always stay in communication. We're given a weekly newsletter and notes about his specific activities," Toni added, which she reads to him each time it arrives.

"That never could have happened without the dedication of the teachers and the young people who volunteer," she said.

Impaired students are entitled to an education until they're 26, and Drew is now part of a post-high school program through Clarkston schools which is a combination of classwork and community-based service work.

He also receives physical therapy in the form of swimming, which helps his scoliosis and muscle tone, said Dick.

At SCAMP, Drew's favorite activities are music, picnic lunches and visits to Independence Oaks County Park, she said. "He's limited in his activities, but he enjoys being with people and just being part of the group. He always seems to come home happy and tired," Dick said.

Toni said she had a friend who brought her nephew down to SCAMP from Flint for several years.

Dick and Toni, who are originally from Pittsburgh feel lucky to have moved to Clarkston, because of the quality of the special education programs and SCAMP, as well as the friends they have made.

"Any parent (in this situation) will tell you their social life is changed, not that it's a big deal, but we've been blessed. Most of the friends we've had include Drew in the activities we're invited to. And Drew's sisters-in-law are wonderful with him," said Dick.

*6.99% Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is fixed for four months for new accounts opened between now and May 30, 2000. After four months, the APR is variable and tied to the WSJ prime rate plus a margin. For example, based on a current prime rate as of April 17, 2000, the variable rate will be 9.00% APR, which reflects a prime rate of 9.00%, less a discount of 0.25% for automatic payments from a qualified deposit account at this bank, plus a 0.25% margin. The 0.25% margin is based on a $50,000 line with a combined LTV of 80% or less. Subject to credit approval. Other rates and terms are available. Maximum APR is 18%. Minimum monthly payments of $100 (or interest only payment if greater than $100) will result in a balloon payment at the end of the 5-year draw period. Property insurance is required. Prepayment penalty may apply. Consult your tax advisor on the deductibility of interest. Title insurance and an appraisal may be required.

DEER LAKE

ATHLETIC CLUB

6167 White Lake Road - Clarkston

Join the Sashabaw Plains playground project

Walkway Pavers – Each child, family, group or business that purchases a walkway paver ($50 donation) will get the chance to have their name forever etched in stone. The pavers will be used to create a path leading to the new playground equipment at Sashabaw Plains Park. The pavers will be inscribed with a name and may contain colorful tiles and/or the handprint of a child.

Interested donors (or their children) can create their own paver on site, Saturday, April 29 or Sunday, April 30. Pavers for other donors will be produced by staff members of the Independence Parks and Recreation Department. All pavers will be in place by fall.

There are five donor levels for the playground project which include Sandbox Level ($50-$100), Slide Level ($100-$200), Bridge Level ($200-$350), Climber Level ($350-$500) and Tower Level ($500 and up). The names of these donors will be permanently engraved on a sign that is to be erected on site by fall.

Funds collected for this project will be used to purchase additional pieces that complement the structure. Ideas include a sandbox and ride on toys. An inline skating rink, two indoor bathrooms and 10 picnic tables are part of the park improvement plans.

Workers are still needed to help build the playground. No prior experience, special skills or tools are needed. "It's like putting together a big puzzle or lego structure," said Ann Conklin, Director of Independence Parks and Recreation. The structure is made of technologically-advanced plastic or composite materials that make it durable, long-lasting and low-maintenance, said Conklin. "It has a lot of play opportunities for kids," she added, referring to the six swings, four slides, bridge, tower and numerous crawling and/or hiding places.

On-site child care is available for children 12 and under (must be potty-trained). Children can play games, play with other kids and be treated to free ice cream with sprinkles. Local businesses and organizations have donated food; a well-fed worker is a happy worker! Students who need service credit are welcome to join the project. (Children 12 and up can help build if accompanied by an adult).

Build dates are Saturday, April 29; three shifts: 8:30-12 noon; 12 noon-4:30 or 4-8 p.m. Sunday, April 30 shifts are 10 a.m.-2 p.m. and 1 p.m.-5 p.m. A ribbon-cutting ceremony and celebration will be held on Sunday upon completion of the playground. The public is welcome to attend.

For more information, contact Diane Baldwin at 248-674-9387 or Ann Conklin at 248-625-8223.

ANOTHER LOOK AT MIRANDA

In 1966, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled (Miranda v. Arizona) that arrested individuals must be advised of their constitutional rights upon arrest. Otherwise, any evidence or information obtained after the arrest may not be admissible in court. Since then, the Miranda rule has shown itself to be fair and workable, saying that criminal suspects must be told of their right to have a lawyer present and to remain silent, and that any statement they make may be used against them. Now, Miranda will soon return to the Supreme Court as the result of a Virginia appellate court ruling that the failure to issue Miranda warnings no longer requires automatic expulsion of evidence in federal prosecutions.

Here at 11 North Main Street, we have built a successful law practice and an excellent reputation by providing prompt, professional service to our clients in a friendly and courteous manner. This has not occurred by accident but upon years of hard work, dedication, and planning. For matters involving criminal defense, business law, real estate, family law, personal injury, and civil litigation in both State and Federal courts, call 620-1030.

NOTE: The Miranda doctrine is steeped in the perceived need for stronger safe guards to protect the Fifth Amendment's privilege against self-incrimination during coercive police questioning.

Oxford Bank announces first quarter earnings for 2000

Oxford Bank Corporation, the holding company for Oxford Bank, announced that its net income for the first quarter ending March 31, 2000 was $878,000, or $1.37 per common share. This is a 14.47% increase over figures reported for the same period in 1999, when net income was $767,000, or $1.20 per share.

The corporation's total assets as of March 31, 2000 were $326,897,000, a 14.17% improvement from the same date in 1999. In the same 12-month period, total loans outstanding increased 17.16% to $207,203,000, while total deposits grew 14.92% to $296,107,000 and shareholders' equity went up 6.83% to $27,509,000, equivalent to $42.98 per common share.

Randall G. Fox, chief executive officer of both the holding company and the bank, announced the organization's results and added, "I am very pleased to report such a solid start to 2000. Just about every aspect of our business is showing excellent progress. Overall loan demand has been good, and we have been able to control the growth in overhead expenses. This combination allows us to counteract the effect that economic downward pressure on interest margins can have on our net income." Fox went on to say, "With continued strong area housing development and business growth, our full year results should be very satisfactory."

Oxford Bank Corporation is a registered bank holding company. Its subsidiary, Oxford Bank, is the oldest bank in Oakland County and has operated continuously under local ownership and management since 1884. The bank has full service offices in Oxford, Clarkston, Dryden, Lake Orion, Oakland Township, and Ortonville.

ing, but I can't turn people away from my business. I'm happy Mr. Catalo's restaurant is doing so well, but our lot is no public lot," Bartus said.

Since the sign has been posted both parties agree that the parking problem at Prudential's lot is no longer a problem.

Bartus suggested valet parking be used for Catalo's business, but Catalo said that's impractical.

"I'd have to have a much bigger staff to have valet parking. Plus, you can't ask a valet driver to drive a mile. They could drop the car off easily, but bringing it back, that's the problem," Catalo said.

Catalo said he's maintained about the same about of business he had before the sign was posted, except on Sundays. He said many of his older-customers don't want to walk the extra distance.

"Every third customer has complained about the parking situation here," he said.

Since the sign has been posted, Catalo said his customers have been parking on Depot Street and have used the lot Kinetic Systems lot, located at 60

S. Main Street.

"It's unfair to them. They've been very friendly neighbors, but I'm looking at putting a sign up in their lot too," Catalo said.

Catalo is concerned with the situation setting a precedent in downtown Clarkston.

"I'm still going to work to get people downtown, but it's a shame it's gotten to this point. It's a business issue, not a political issue. I wish they would've come to me before the tickets were issued. It's not it's tough to find me. I live on the property," Catalo said.

Meanwhile, Bartus said the sign has done everything she hoped it would do in helping her business.

"Mr. Catalo has been very cooperative since the sign's been posted. If myself, or one of my employees, gets a ticket in our lot we pay the ticket too. The police have done an excellent job of helping us with the situation," she said.

Catalo has also insured Prudential's lot in the event someone should park there illegally.

"Their building is covered the same as ours is, but they still don't have permission to park there," Catalo said.

and media-obsessed society. Everyone seems to be striving to reach goals that are nearly unattainable, when it is more important to focus upon being an individual.

I'll try to make a contribution by: Promoting the "Be Your Best Self" program to younger students in order to emphasize the importance of making responsible decisions and staying healthy.

My best CHS memory is: Attending all the formal dances, especially sophomore Homecoming, when I met my current boyfriend.

City Council passes resolution saying 'yes' to vote on water

most part. I want to thank Scott, Bill Basinger, Steve Arkwright and Doug Roeser: You guys all did a great job on this," Savage said.

People who still have questions regarding the issue can get their last-second questions answered at the next city council meeting, which is May 8, the day before the vote takes place.

Meyland, who is the chairman of the subcommittee, felt both meetings regarding the issue were responded to positively.

"I think the people that were there got a better understanding of just how complicated the issue is, both in terms of construction and in cost. You always hope for a better turnout, but the people that were there had the opportunity to learn more about the issue. It's positive to see that both meetings ended with people wanting to know how let more people know about the issue and how to promote and sell it," Meyland said.

Promoting the issue has been somewhat of a problem for the water subcommittee, but it has gotten help from Clarkston State Bank, who has helped by copying and distributing an informational overview of the issue. Meyland said area business owners have also discussed promoting the issue.

"I haven't personally seen much negative feedback from people on the issue. They seem to be in favor of the idea," Meyland said.

The vote will be held May 9 from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. at City Hall, 375 Depot Road.

If the proposal doesn't pass the question then rises what will happen next. Meyland said there are three choices, which have all been carefully evaluated and researched.

The first option is to do nothing.

The second option would be to install sleeves to primary intersections within the downtown business district. If, in the future, Clarkston decided to hook up to city water, then the sleeves would allow such action to be taken and would help minimize the disruption to Main Street. There would still be some disruption to Main Street, but Meyland said the sleeves would serve as "insurance" while improvements were being made to the downtown district. The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000.

The third option would be to go ahead and install a 12 inch pipe down Main Street, but that project would be funded strictly through special assessment districts, which are not tax deductible.

Meyland said the city council has evaluated all three options, but hasn't made a decision which step it would take should the vote on May 9 not pass.

"We know the details of all three and at the following city council meeting we'd either narrow it down or make a decision," Meyland said.

Learning to "see" in the dark

"Hats off to Steve Ronk and what they do. I have nothing but nice things to say. But I still stand by my original point of view," McGee said.

The fire department has reached its goal of one IRIS in each station and one for the command vehicle, Ronk said. There have been two fatal fires in the township in the last two years and IRIS "expedited the search" for the victims. Although fire fighters were not able to save any lives with the equipment, Ronk said, "we're definitely aided by their use. We can see fire extension -- if it gets in a wall -- it helps us track where a fire is going in a building."

The systems purchased in 1997 cost about $25,000 each, and this year's purchases were $17,500 each plus the upgrades to the 1997 models, Ronk said. Upgrades included a lighter battery pack, and improved screen technology.

Ronk said the department also borrowed receiving equipment for the training session which acts like a TV to allow fire fighters outside the building to see what those wearing the thermal imaging equipment can see. He said the department had no plans at this time to buy receiving equipment because of the $9,000 cost.

Subscriptions for college students only $18 per year. Call 625-3370.

Softball team gets best of Troy in double header

Clarkston 5, Troy 3

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston got the best of Troy again. Days after the Clarkston baseball team beat the Colts 12-3, the Wolves came out on top of both ends of a double header at Clarkston High School April 19.

Candace Morgan had another strong outing for the Wolves in game one, as she held Troy scoreless for the first four innings. Clarkston, as usual, got its offense from a variety of hitters. Melanie Arnold, Lisa Ferguson, Morgan and Stacie Giroux all had hits for Clarkston in game 1. The Wolves won the opener 5-3.

Clarkston enjoyed a slim 1-0 lead early on. The third inning saw the Wolves double their lead thanks to offensive contributions made by Ferguson, who singled and Morgan, who's RBI drove home Ferguson to put the Wolves up 2-0.

Troy finally got some offense of their own going in the fifth inning as Morgan gave up a double, which put runners at second and third for the Colts. With two outs, Troy tied the game at two on a 2 run double.

Clarkston was held scoreless in their at bat of the fifth inning, but wouldn't be held scoreless in the sixth.

After holding Troy scoreless in their at bat of the sixth, the Wolves got their bats going. Giroux started the inning with a leadoff single. That was followed by another single by Lindsay Simko. That put runners on first and second with nobody out. Tricia Brewer's bunt loaded the bases for Ferguson. She singled, but Giroux was tagged out at the plate so Clarkston failed to score, but kept the bases loaded. Morgan then added to the Wolves lead with a two run double to put Clarkston ahead 4-2. Ferguson's RBI single added to the lead as the Wolves upped their lead to two runs.

In the seventh inning the Colts had a chance to get back into the game when they had runners at the corners with one out, but failed to score. The game ended on a great diving catch by Arnold in short center field.

6-0 defeat by Lahser stuns Wolves

'They anticipated a lot before somebody even received the ball'

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it rains, it pours.

After enjoying much early season success this season, the Clarkston girls varsity soccer team took a step back. The Wolves lost and never threatened in a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

The Wolves dropped to 5-2-3 overall on the season and will be on break until they resume action May 2 when they host West Bloomfield.

Tami Mitchell, Clarkston coach said after the game that Lahser was one step ahead of her team.

"They anticipated a lot before somebody even received the ball. We needed to contain their runs better and contain the ball better," Mitchell said.

The Wolves looked sharp for the first 17 minutes of the game, as Clarkston held the Knights early on. But Lahser couldn't be held back for long as the Knights scored at 22:32 of the first half. The Knights put two more past Clarkston goalie Sarah Morgan in the opening stanza and enjoyed a 3-0 half time lead.

"After we got down we got discouraged. We weren't marking as tight as we needed to be," Mitchell said.

The second half didn't fair any better for Clarkston who saw their half-time deficit double in the second half.

"They made great runs and we got beat up front. They started everything in the backfield and always had one person on us and we had a hard time recovering," Mitchell said.

Even with the loss, the Wolves have still earned three more wins than they did all of last season, the first year

Mitchell served as head coach.

"Our girls have lots of potential, but we need to work for every game. We don't have any superstars on this team. We work as team, we play as a team. Everything here is a team effort," Mitchell said.

Even with a 6-0 loss, which is the most amount of goals Clarkston has given up this season, Mitchell didn't fault Morgan, who has been a rock solid goaltender this season.

"None of those goals could be called strictly Sarah's fault. She played a great game for us," Mitchell said.

Spring break maybe, but action as hot as ever

Well, we're about halfway through the spring season already. Pretty hard to believe isn't it? Yet while a fair share of Clarkston's finest athletes have left the Michigan weather in search of warm and sunny beaches, I've been doing my best to keep up with the area's sports world. I will now try to amuse you by shedding some light on what I've seen so far this spring around these parts.

Baseball — Second year coach

Phil Price has plenty of reason to smile this year. After picking up, what he described as a "big, big, big win" over nationally ranked Troy, his team now sits with an impressive 11-3 overall record and are 3-0 in Oakland Activities Association Division I. There's plenty of talent on this year's squad, and since having a team meeting after a double header against Grand Blanc, the Wolves are a closer knit unit than they were before. There's no telling how far this year's baseball team can go.

Softball — Al Land's crew is a fun team to watch, and if you haven't gotten a chance to catch his girls in action I suggest a trip to the softball diamond to take a look. Like the baseball team, this group of Wolves has some strong hitters, but prides itself on solid defense. The pitching duo of Candace Morgan and Lisa Ferguson has served Clarkston well so far. Better yet, the team, and I emphasize the word team here, is getting contributions from everybody on the roster. As I overheard the Troy coach say during their game at Clarkston April 19, you can't let batters seven, eight and nine get on base. Well Clarkston can get anybody on base. This team has lots of potential and is tough from top to bottom.

Tennis — Kevin Ortwine's crew is making its usual run through the OAA Division II with no problem. The Wolves are 4-0 in the league and have four singles players in Andrew Brown, Patrick Heber, Scott Barnett and Mike Rashid that have been rock solid so far this year. Add in the continuing improvement of the doubles teams and you've got yet another successful Clarkston spring sports program.

Track — Gordie Richardson and Walt Wyniemo told me at the beginning of the season that the strength of Land: Hitting, balance keys to our softball team success

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Spring break spells the demise of many things for high school students and athletes alike. It is the known catalyst of "senioritis." It also introduces, or reemphasizes, certain behaviors that make parents cringe. But for spring sport coaches it also serves as a halfway mark for the season and raises the question, "How will my team play after break?"

Clarkston softball coach Al Land is one such coach. This year's spring break came just as his team was building momentum, having picked up recent wins over Troy and Rochester Adams before the break. The Wolves outscored their opponents 25-9 in the three games.

"I think we're playing about the same as we were in the beginning of the season. We made some mistakes against Brandon and Kettering, but if we play mistake free we can win games because we can score runs," Land said.

From the top to the bottom of the order, Clarkston can hit with any team in the area Land said.

"All of our girls can hit and put the ball in play. Our strike out ratio is way down from last year," Land said.

The Wolves are currently a game and a half behind co-leaders Lake Orion and Waterford Kettering. Games with those two teams, along with Brandon, will be big come the second half of the season.

"We need to take two from Lake Orion. All those games will be tough for us, but we're about where I thought we would be," Land said.

Even though the Wolves are playing as Land predicted, he has gotten some pleasant surprises. Junior Nicole Thrift, who has been hitting at the no. 5 spot and third baseman sophomore, Stacie Giroux have given Land some more reasons to smile this season.

"Nicole's been hitting better this season. Hitting on the varsity level is a lot different than hitting JV. She's been hitting stronger and stronger as the season's progressed. Hitting number five is a key spot."

"Stacie played outfield last year and made the move to third because it was open. I wouldn't have put her there had I thought she couldn't do it. She's only going to get better with experience. She's going to be very good for us in the future," Land said.

A hectic schedule after break sees Clarkston playing a single game against Rochester May 1. That game is followed by consecutive double headers against Lapeer East and Lake Orion. Add in the Saturn Tournament which is slated for May 6 and 7 and the Wolves first week after break will give them plenty of action.

How Clarkston responds over the break remains to be seen.

"Our kids may lose a step on their hitting over the break," Land said.

Solid hitting and the continued contributions of everyone in the lineup are the two main ingredients needed for more success after spring break.

According to Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale, The Little Mermaid, a mermaid's life span is 300 years.

Athletes of the week

Male athlete of the week: Andrew Brown

He's only a freshmen, but Andrew Brown has the experience and mentality of a senior, Clarkston tennis coach Kevin Ortwine said.

"He's got all the shots. He makes it look smooth and effortless. That's rare for somebody his age," Ortwine said.

Brown has recently made the move from number two singles to number one singles. The decision was made after Brown's teammate, Patrick Heber, broke the Clarkston school record for varsity wins with 54.

"In the beginning of the season it was a toss up between Patrick and Andrew. They're both great tennis players. They played each other before the season began and Andrew won the first match, but Patrick won the second one. Andrew took it very well. He has excellent composure for somebody his age," Ortwine said.

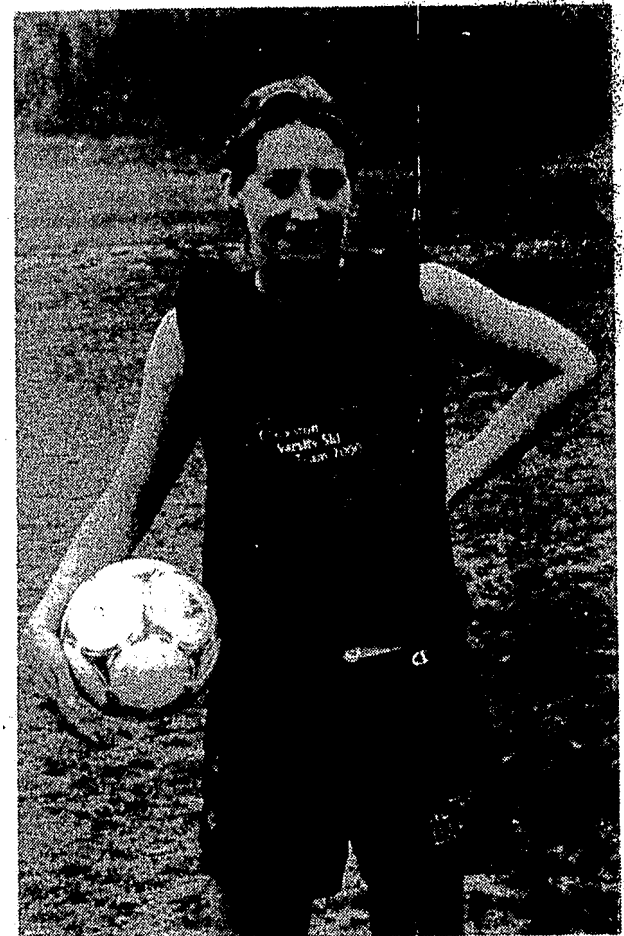

Brown has been playing tennis for the last 10 years and said his game got a boost when he attended a tennis camp at Waterford Oaks the summers he was ages 10-12.

"I played against some really tough competition and it pushed me to play at a higher level," he said.

Although the Wolves have had their way with opponents on the court this season, as they've posted a 4-0 mark in the league, Brown is anxious for some matches later in the schedule.

"I'm really looking forward to West Bloomfield, Rochester and Adams. They've all got some good players," he said.

When not playing tennis, Brown enjoys playing basketball and listening to music. His favorite band is Bush.

Female athlete of the week: Katie Kennedy

Senior Katie Kennedy has waited four years for this type of success, and finally the Wolves soccer team is getting its fill.

The four-year varsity starter plays midfield, but brings much more than her presence to the field, head coach Tami Mitchell said.

"She's a great leader and she's got a lot of heart. She's a very dedicated player and everybody on the team looks up to her."

Kennedy said her knowledge of the game is her strongest attribute and she enjoys the competitive nature of the game of soccer. Kennedy also skis for Clarkston in the winter, but prefers the field to the slopes.

"It's a more team oriented game. I like them both, but I like the competition and team aspect of soccer more," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said she's grateful to be enjoying the success this year's team has seen. The Wolves have posted three more wins than they did all of last season and Kennedy attributes much of that success to Mitchell.

"She's tough on us, but she's always got something positive to say. She's a good teacher and really knows the game," Kennedy said.

After graduation, Kennedy plans on attending Westminster College in Pennsylvania to study either business or communications. Kennedy maintains a 3.4 G.P.A. and said her favorite subject in school is language arts.

"I'm looking forward to moving away, but I'm going to miss a lot of friends when I go," she said.

Clarkston didn't get much tough competition, but it did get the win.

The Wolves improved to 1-2 in dual meets this season by soundly defeating Pontiac Central 196-293 at Pontiac Municipal Golf Course on April 19.

"The kids are really coming around. I think at first some of them were a little nervous playing in competition, but they've settled down and have really begun to play well," Clarkston coach Larry Sherrill said.

The Wolves' best performances at the meet came from senior Krista Roschek and freshman Kira Karlstrom who both shot a 47. Ashley Moran ended up with a 50 and Jessica Ritter scored a 52.

Though only in its first year, the Clarkston girls varsity golf program already has some high expectations. Sherrill said next year he hopes to see the Wolves make the move in the Oakland Activities Association from Division III to Division II.

'Our younger kids are playing very well and I think we'll have a good program for some time to come.'

Larry Sherrill — Golf coach

"Our younger kids are playing very well and I think we'll have a good program for some time to come. We've got a lot of talent on this team and the kids are getting better and better and more and more relaxed," Sherrill said.

The Wolves will be back on the course May 1 when they host Southfield at 3:15 p.m. The Wolves' home course is Heather Highlands.

their teams would be the distance runners. Well after destroying both Pontiac Central and Southfield, it's apparent there's lots more strength on these teams. Congrats to David Sage, Kevin Breen, Brett Quantz and Matt Haver for having great outings in Clarkston's first appearance at the Mansfield Relays. Meanwhile, the boys and girls team united at the Andover relays and tied for fifth. Richardson seems happy to have found some more speed on this year's team. Add that in with some solid field events and an established group of distance runners and I'd say Clarkston will have another solid season.

Soccer — Although the Wolves went into the break on a sour note by losing 6-0 to Lahser, there's still plenty of excitement and hope for this year's team. Halfway through the season the Wolves have earned three more victories than they did all of last season and it's obvious that head coach Tami Mitchell has a great relationship with her players. After the break the Wolves should have some good rematches with the likes of West Bloomfield, Lake Orion and Kimball.

Golf — A first year program, but coach Larry Sherrill has plenty to cheer about on the links this spring. The Wolves are hoping to make the move from OAA Division III to Division II next year. Sherrill has a good mix of upper and lower classmen on his team, and is confident the program will continue to enjoy much success for years to come.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED Virgin (never known to fail). Oh most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me you are my mother. O Holy Mary Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Holy Mother, I place this prayer in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer 3 consecutive days. Publish it; it will be granted to you. In loving gratitude Peggy H. IILX18-2
