Vote to come at September meeting

Township nearing deal for golf course?

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

After months of negotiations and closed meetings, a tentative agreement between Independence Township and developers for ownership and operation of Clarkston Creek Golf Course on Maybee Rd. has been completed.

Trustee Neil Wallace, who negotiated the deal with Supervisor Dale Stuart, said the proposal will be presented to the public and formally to the board at their regular July 11 meeting.

Wallace said part of the recommendation will be a public vote on the proposal.

"The proposal is substantially different (than the original one presented to the board by developers last fall), but the goals stated at that time are still very much what we've aimed at for the community: Preserving open space and the concept of a regional stormwater management system," he said.

The Clarkston Creek proposal will be presented at the Independence Township Board meeting Tuesday, July 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Rd.

The original proposal called for the township to buy the 144-acre golf course and the developers would manage it. The deal also involved 121 luxury townhomes, a stormwater retention plan, a land swap of township property on Sashabaw Road and 15 years of financing at no cost to taxpayers.

"We anticipate there will be a series of meetings during the next two months for residents to hear the proposal and voice their comments. The vote will likely take place at a special meeting in September," Wallace said.

Wallace said he and Stuart met with developers Joe Locricchio and Manny Kniahynycky seven or eight times, "all of which were promptly detailed to the board in closed session at almost every board meeting."

Wallace said the public will vote on the "broad concept. People who care what's going on here will understand it and get behind it in a heartbeat."

Locricchio said he was excited about the proposal. "We've worked out a deal that works for everybody. It's an equitable solution that preserves Clarkston Creek."

Kniahynycky said the project first began close to a year ago, and after months of negotiations, "We feel we've reached a milestone. Going on the as-

Downtown gearing for tear up

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Things are going to get worse in downtown Clarkston before they get better. But when they get better, they're going to be great.

That was the message for downtown business owners at a meeting Thursday morning at Clarkston State Bank (CSB).

City Councilman Dave Savage and CSB Vice President Jack Shubitowski outlined improvements and work-related problems that will come with the installation of the water main and Michigan Department Of Transportation (MDOT) Transportation Enhancement Act (TEA 21) grant project next year.

Shubitowski, administrator of the Clarkston Downtown Partnership (CDP), said three things will take place at the same time.

A water main will be installed, hooking up Main Street buildings to Independence Township water; Main Street will be repaved; MDOT will implement its streetscape plan.

Shubitowski said the plans will be ready for bid in December. He expected decisions on contractors by February with a work timeline figured out soon after.

Shubitowski urged downtown business and property owners to begin to plan now for the difficulties of operating during construction next year.

He said construction could disrupt access to businesses for months next spring and summer. He suggested businesses form a downtown business association and start brainstorming on ideas to let people know they are still open as well as tackling issues like employee parking.

"Otherwise, it's going to be awfully quiet down here next year," he said.

Savage said part of the problem in determining the length of the project is that contractors don't know what they'll find when they tear up the street because the city's so old.

The city's engineers and planners are expected to present the streetscape plan and a construction overview at a meeting in August, Shubitowski said. He said when the date was finalized, business and property owners would be notified.

He added a list of streetscape construction materials would be available for property owners wishing to upgrade the area around their buildings to match the work taking place in the city's plan.

Property owners who would be interested in a business association or join a committee should call Shubitowski at CSB at 625-8585.

Suspects waive pre-exam in murder case

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two suspects in the beating death of Clarkston resident Lawrence John "Jack" Thompson appeared in court June 29 to face a preliminary examination.

Richard Lee Collar, 51, and Daniel Barry Couch, 42, were both present in 52-2 District Court to answer charges of second-degree murder in the June 16 beating death of Thompson, 38, who was the owner and president of Thompson Oil Co. in Pontiac.

Several members of Thompson's family were on hand as the two suspects were led into the courtroom to face Judge Gerald McNally.

Attorneys for both suspects notified McNally that their clients would waive their rights to a preliminary exam for a two-week period.

New programs, free classes: 'Our goal is to provide the seed of creativity.'

Clarkston's Channel 65 is raring to go

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Andy Reish wants you. He's the new public access coordinator for AT&T Cable Services in Clarkston, and he has big plans for Channel 65, Clarkston's public access station.

Reish has been with Channel 65 since April, following five months of no public access service due to labor problems.

He's been bringing equipment and services up to speed and he's ready for more involvement from the community.

"Because no one was here for five months, interest in public access has dwindled," he said. Reish has already taught one production class that was well-attended, produced a telethon to spark viewer interest, and is preparing new programs as well.

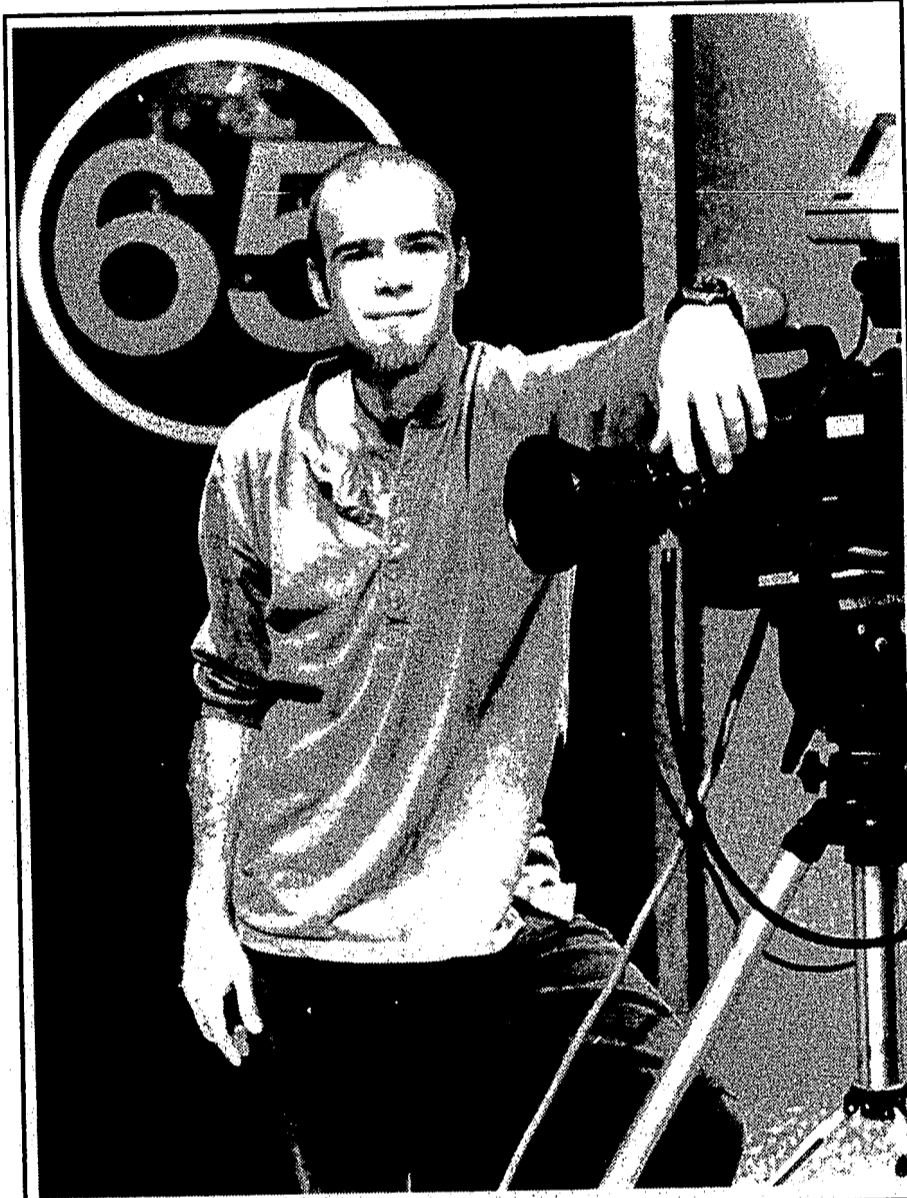

Reish will offer another video production class this summer and also wants to start a kids club.

He said there's room for about 15 students in the free class. It's available to those 15 years and older. "They'll learn the ins and outs of studio production, editing, how to run a camera, how to produce their own TV show, how to get an interview, and how to get involved in what's being shown on cable," he said.

"This is their (the community's) cable channel, and they should have a say in it," Reish said. "Our main goal is to provide the seed of creativity and assist them. We like to have them be independent."

He is producing his own "edgy news topical show," which will be a viewer call-in show.

He's started a music video show called "Videoscope, the Basement Tapes." It offers music videos, interviews and concert footage from over 500 tapes he had stored in his basement which his wife told him to get rid of, he laughed.

Andy Reish, Channel 65's new public access coordinator, has been with AT&T Cable Services for nine years. A Macomb Township resident, Reish said he's self-taught. He has run kids clubs and video production classes at other stations for AT&T. But the new kids clubs he runs may have more meaning now. He and his wife are expecting their first child soon. Reish is also looking for volunteers who would like to produce their own TV shows as well as run a camera for him.

What's the next best thing to the cable show 'Crocodile Hunter' on Animal Planet?

'Team Reptile on Channel 65'

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Independence Township Parks and Recreation lifeguards are already making good use of Channel 65 and having a darn good time at it, too.

The lifeguards spend time in the summer capturing a variety of turtles, frogs, snakes, salamanders and fish for a reptile education presentation for Parks and Rec summer program participants and their parents.

They have special permission from the DNR because they put the reptiles back, said Andy Reish, the new public access coordinator for AT&T Cable Services in Clarkston.

The idea came from cable TV's "Crocodile Hunter" show on the Animal Planet cable channel, said lifeguards Heather Brown and Chris Himburg. Many of the lifeguards and Rich Ashley of Parks and Rec who's in charge of the program, are fans of the show.

Independence Township Parks and Rec lifeguards Heather Brown and Chris Himburg piece together segments of an episode of "Team Reptile" at the Channel 65 studio.

Pay attention to parking

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston Downtown Partnership (CDP) committee members are also working on advancing some of the recommendations of the Downtown Action Agenda from the revitalization plan authored by national city planners Hyatt Palma, Inc. last year.

The Action Agenda identified parking as a key issue, and City Councilman Dave Savage and Clarkston State Bank Vice President and CDP Administrator Jack Shubitowski said the committee has been addressing that issue recently.

They are hoping to add a total of 15 parking spaces on Depot Rd. and E. Church Street, which should be complete in "a couple of weeks," said Savage.

Shubitowski said the Action Agenda recommended Depot Road be converted to a two-way street and its improvements added to the TEA-21 project. But currently there are no funds in the city budget for a formal engineering study, and there is no time to add anything else to the project, he added.

Additional parking in the future may be made available at the Depot Rd. lot near the DPW building. There is access to Main Street alongside the office building at 39 S. Main next to Clarkston Conservatory.

Savage said the committee has discussed installing an arch with greenery at the Main Street entrance to the walkway. He added signage there alerting drivers to the Depot St. parking is also a possibility. Installing an archway would need the okay of 39 S. Main St. and walkway owner Neil Wallace.

The city has an easement for a right of way for pedestrian access, but it doesn't allow for improvements, Wallace said. He added he has had "very preliminary" talks with city Mayor Sharron Catallo about the arch.

He added he's in favor of cooperation with the city on parking needs. He makes his parking lot available for Clarkston Union Bar and Kitchen employees after hours and leaves outside building lights on for their safer access to their vehicles, he said.

Savage said the committee may also look into more parking on Depot Road behind Clarkston Mills Mall.

The Action Agenda had also recommended that there be more signs showing the locations of parking rather than just signs that say "no parking."

Thomas flying high

Air Force Academy beckons Clarkston grad

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The term "no-win situation" is often used when people sometimes have to make thankless choices in life.

However, Ryan Thomas, a graduate of the Class of 2000 at Clarkston High School, recently encountered what he describes as a no-lose situation.

Thomas, the son of Dennis and Janet Thomas of Clarkston, received appointments from both the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado and the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

He has officially accepted the appointment to the Air Force Academy. He said that his goal is to become a pilot and officer in the Air Force.

"I'd like to go to flight school and become a pilot," he said.

Thomas said that while deciding what to do after high school, he had a chance to visit both academies.

"Once I saw the academies, I decided that's where I wanted to be," he said. "I loved them so much, I decided to apply to both."

Thomas said the application process to the academies is quite extensive.

First of all, a prospective candidate has to apply for pre-candidate forms, then follow that up with an interview with a United States Congressman or Senator; a candidate must obtain their recommendation in order to apply.

Afterwards, a candidate must undergo a medical check and a physical fitness check. From there, the application goes before an academy review board, at which point a decision is made on whether a candidate is accepted.

Thomas said deciding between the two academies was not easy.

"It was a really tough decision," he said. "I almost had to flip a coin. I think the lifestyle in the Air Force will suit me better."

Thomas will leave for the Air Force on June 28, and will undergo what he describes as a "boot camp" type of training regimen before school starts in August.

He believes the atmosphere there will vary from that at other colleges.

"I think it will be different," he said. "They keep you going 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. There's challenges every day."

Thomas earned a 3.89 grade point average while at CHS.

However, his contributions to the community extend far beyond the classroom and into many different areas, including athletics, student leadership, and his church.

He was the starting strong safety for the Wolves' 1999 regional championship varsity football team, a member of the 2000 district championship basketball team, and completed in the 400 and 800 meters in track.

Among his other accomplishments were the following: serving as this year's president of the National Honor Society, and as a member of the Blue and Gold

Executive Committee; receiving the Clarkston Optimist Award and the Chenille Letter for scholastic achievement; being selected as one of 100 students statewide to attend the 1999 Michigan Freedom Academy; and recognition in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Thomas is also a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church, and has been involved in numerous youth leadership activities. He has also worked as a youth baseball umpire for the Parks and Recreation department and as a McGrath youth basketball coach.

He said that getting involved in a wide variety of activities has helped him lead a more balanced life.

"That's one thing that helped me do so well," Thomas said. "I think if I had focused on one thing, it would have been tough. It helped me become more balanced and enjoy it. My parents have told me to be a well-rounded person."

Several members of the Clarkston community praised Thomas' contributions in various aspects of Clarkston life.

"He's a diligent member of our church community," said Don Kevern, pastor at Clarkston United Methodist Church. "He's a marvelous young man, very people oriented. He's very willing to give of his time to anything the church asks him."

John Diliiegghio, principal at Clarkston High School, said that Thomas was "actively involved" in school life, and set a positive example for the underclassmen in the school.

In recognition of his leadership ability, Thomas was chosen to speak to the incoming freshmen and their parents this past school year about goal setting.

The financial capital of this country seems at an unprecedented high and superficially all seems well. Yet with many there seems to be an uneasiness and a sense of doom and gloom of things to come. Maybe we measure so-called prosperity and the good times with the wrong kind of unit of measure, money. Just maybe, we should replace some the recent Supreme Court decisions with
"In God We Trust and believe" and mean it.

When we look at Washington today, I believe we are, hopefully, seeing the sunset of one of the most corrupt periods in American history. But let us not finger point or blame when less than one half of us vote and fewer still get involved in the political process.

If we as a nation under God with a moral compass based on truth, integrity, and justice for all, we must replace the jaded and corrupt with more than a "few good men and women." I would ask everyone who is eligible to vote to register now before we can choose in November. Whether you are a Democrat, Republican, or Independent, I implore you to read, write and work hard to inform yourself of the issues and work for the candidate for President who will fulfill those dreams -- and vote.

From security leaks, campaign finance, GATT,

NAFTA, WTO, social security, education, the environment and Medicare, let us express our first amendment rights and clear up the mess. Let us replace the jaded and corrupt with the few good and willing men and women that will assure the safety and security of this great nation for our children and the generations yet to come.

We really are still in a dangerous and troubled world and we are the only beacon of hope and freedom that the dispossessed can count on for support.

Close to home in the 9th congressional district, we have a new fresh face, John Geisler. He is a hard working citizen -- one of us. I believe he possesses the values, integrity, truth and moral compass that we need in Washington. I believe he will renew trust, integrity, truth and morality in Washington and here at home so that our jobs, national security and children's future is assured.

You'll get to know more about John in debates and news coverage, or visit him at politicalpicks.com
Try it. If you like it join in. If not, don't tune out, express your ideas. I can assure you he will listen and answer.

Complain, it shows you care

I have heard two complaints from readers about a column written by staff writer Ed Davis in our June 21 issue.

I want to address the complaints here because if two readers are disturbed, it means more of you are, but just aren't telling me about it.

Ed wrote about the trials of planning his bachelor party and a probable trip to a strip club in Windsor.
He also mentioned "naked women"
a couple of times.

When I first read his column, I discussed it with Don Rush, our assistant publisher. I was concerned about the community's perception of it.
Don read it, gave me one of his "Relax, mom," looks, and said it was okay. I figured it was one of those
"guy" things that I often take too seriously.

We have a policy at our company that columns represent the points of view of only the writer and not the newspaper. We pretty much let them run as written.

A couple of years ago when I was editor at our sister paper, The Oxford Leader, we ran a Valentine's Day story about a young couple who were engaged.

The story was written by a young man about Ed's age at the time, and he wrote that the couple was living together. We received complaints from a couple of readers about that story too.

The readers in both cases felt the story about the engaged couple who live together and Ed's column were inappropriate for a hometown newspaper.

My response is, maybe.

I know our culture is currently "behaviorally challenged" big-time. And we work very hard to keep our stories focused on small town, family-oriented values.
But we can't put our heads in the sand. Couples living together outside of marriage and men visiting the Windsor ballet have been a fact of life for decades.

My husband's response was similar to Don's. He said lots of guys go to the "Windsor ballet" for bachelor parties. Of course he says he only learned the term "Windsor ballet" by hearing it from other men.
He swears he's never been there, but when I tried to pin him down on just who it was who told him, he couldn't name any specific person.

Knowing Ed as well as I do, I knew this column was somewhat tongue in cheek. I also know that the last person on earth I'd want to be is one of these "dancers" in Windsor when Ed and his friends show up.

Based on all the giggling I heard at the office when he was making his plans with buddies on the phone, instead of lustful lechery there will be sophomoric silliness.

A few weeks ago we received a letter to the editor from a female Clarkston High School athlete. We didn't print it because our policy is to speak to our letter writers before we print a letter, and there was no address or phone number included with her letter.

She was upset because the girls state track sports story was placed in the back of the second section by the classifieds.

Our apologies if the team felt slighted. It was an oversight, and not intentional. She also complained about the lack of coverage for girls volleyball last winter, and there was nothing we could do about that. We were without a sports writer for four weeks of the season.

However, in our defense, nobody covers high school sports like we do. I'm very proud of our overall coverage.

I hope you all will feel comfortable about letting us know if you feel we've been off base on a story or column. By letting us know, it means The Clarkston News is important to you, and that means a lot to us.

What will they wear in 2015?

This past weekend we traveled to the wilds of Upper Straights Lake in West Bloomfield.

This four-mile long lake is home to, among others, Bob Seger, Bill Laimbeer and Vinny Johnson. We actually saw Seger entertaining on his deck and Laimbeer sunning his seven-foot frame.

But, name dropping, nor the fact that we were at this lake, are the points of these particular ramblings. This is just where these thoughts originated from. There, among the copper-toned bodies and bikinis, beer-bellies and barbecue my nephew confided to the clan that he wants a tattoo.

He's almost in junior high school, and his idea was quickly vetoed by his mother.

A cousin of mine, who's like 24, has 57 earring holes, a pierced belly and tongue. If there are any other holes, well, I just don't want to go there. His brother, still in high school, now has an eyebrow pierced.

That one had to hurt. Back when I was in that sixth-to-seventh-grade age, guys getting pierced wasn't popular, but the gals had it done all the time. I can remember thinking, what if you get in a fight or fall off your bike and somehow, something rips out an earring. Not only would it be a bloody mess, it'd hurt.

All this body-maiming-in-the-name-of-high-fashion prompted Jen and I to start a prayer campaign. "In the name of all that is Good, please let this trend pass before our boys get that big shot of testosterone, commonly referred to as puberty. Thank you. Amen."

We say our prayers, but now we're wondering: what will be the trend around 2015? What left is there to do? What statements have not already been made?

What will our sons, now two-and-a-half and three-months old, want to do to make us squirm?

Don't Rush Me

Don Rush

Unless some new technology-enhanced body changer emerges in the next 10 or so years, I don't think there is much more left to be done to the human body in the name of rebellion. Well, I suppose they can shave all body hair, including their eye brows. That'd be interesting. Then, they could draw on eye brows for whatever mood they're in or for whatever occasion they plan to participate. To lines pointed toward their noses when they're mad; a wide arch over each eye to show their astonishment when report cards come in, "What? I thought I was passing that class . . ."

Ah, fun and games with mom's eye-liner.

That said, I'm banking on a turn to the past as the future's fashion statement.

"Mom, I want a pompadour, big sideburns and a DA in back."

"Dad, I'm gonna' grow my hair long, down past the shoulders. I want to wear faded jeans and old t-shirts."

"Mom, I want to shave my head and grow a goatee."

"Dad, I want a powered-wig, satin shirts with ruffles down the front; shiny, silk blazers and breeches and pointed boots."

Picturing our little three-month-old tank, Sean, all grow'd up and filled out in satin breeches and ruffles is actually quite disturbing.

Jen says with our luck, by the time the boys get fashion-conscious the big thing will be $50 Dockers and $40 Polo shirts. They'll break the bank, "Then we'll wish grunge was back in style."

Personally, I'm waiting for Hawaiian-shirts, khaki pants and baseball caps to come en-vogue. Ever-the-fashion-guru, it is my firm belief that I should let fashion come to me, versus me going towards it. I am currently stockpiling shirts and caps, so when my boys come of age I can pass the torch (and the shirts and hats) to them.

Whatever, I'm pulling this column in 15 years and see how the predictions went.

It'll always be Tiger Stadium to me

Were it not for Oxford Township Parks and Recreation I would not likely ever see the new playground for the Detroit Tigers.

You remember the Detroit Tigers? They're what we read in the sports pages each February, March and April, when our attention is drawn to the Detroit Lions during their training weeks, after which our attention is drawn to the Detroit Pistons during their training weeks.

At least we got the Detroit Red Wings for a few months past the training season.

As I was saying, unless someone else were taking me, I wouldn't drive to the new Tiger Stadium. Just what I've read about available parking for single-ticket buyers turns me off.

The Tiger visit June 18 confirmed what we have all read about how expensive a baseball game has become. The quoted $238 per family of four for one game may be low. Especially if more than one beer is consumed.

I didn't mind the $2.25 for a Ball Park hot dog, but $5.25 for a beer? We bought no souvenirs, 'cause I didn't see a Red Wing banner. The Illitchs will probably have them at the park next year if they think there's a buck to be made.

However, the Park, which I think is named after some bank, is impressive. They've got these huge tigers hovering over entrances, wide walkways, and ramps, large bronze statues of Tiger Hall-of-Famers and a bouncing fountain with water that delights the young when it's blown onto a walkway.

There's been some talk-show comments about adding a statue of Willie Horton to the assembly, reasoning that he's not a Hall-of-Famer. Who cares? He was great for the game in Detroit. Add one for Gibson, too. The statue area was the great gathering place after the Tiger loss to Cleveland.

The scoreboard is outstanding. Huge numbers, video screen of batters coming to the plate, replays, pitchers, etc. and the fastest ball-strike recording we've ever seen.

Another scoreboard of sorts is in the bull pen. It shows the pitchers name, number of strikes and balls thrown and total pitches. That's good.

We've only taken a couple bus trips. The other was to a Kentucky Derby where we got rained on. But, this is a great way to go.

Our buses were from the Oakland County Parks system, and our driver, though not as handsome as he told us he was, was good.

He parked with a great many other buses, on the street bordering the arena. They surround the joint.

Another negative is the numerous portable food stands. They don't fit the decor, service is slow and an attitude change is needed. Management should also give a handbook to all employees telling them where everything is, like memorial bricks and entrance numbers.

This Tiger Stadium is an outstanding physical structure . . . which should be used by outstanding physical ballplayers.

Supporting the fire millage on August 8

Dear Editor,

On August 8, the residents of Independence Township have to decide what level of emergency medical services we want from our fire department. On the ballot will be the question of whether we the taxpayers want to pay an additional millage of 1.0 mills to provide the necessary funding to allow our fire department to expand its level of services to provide Advanced Life Support.

The passage of this millage will allow our emergency medical technicians to receive the necessary certifications to provide our residents a higher level of emergency medical care and immediately available transportation to get those injured to the nearest emergency room without the delay involved in waiting for a private ambulance to arrive. Those critical 10 or 15 minutes now wasted can be significantly reduced.

Having lived in this township for the last 24 years, I have witnessed our fire department's growth in professionalism. As a former township trustee and your current county commissioner, I can say with pride that the residents of our township receive the very best professional fire services available in this county. With our support, they will be able to expand their level of service to allow them to do what they do best, save lives.

Please join me in support of enhancing our fire department's capabilities by supporting the millage to fund Advanced Life Support service in Independence Township in August 8.

Getting it Correct

In The Clarkston News' graduation section, the wrong name appeared under the photo of David Wicklund, right. It also appeared wrong in the Wolves' year book. David graduated with a 3.8 gpa. His is a member of the National Honor Society, plays guitar and has his varsity letters in Cross Country, and tennis. He also ran track. He was offered a Western Michigan University Academic Scholarship, but has chosen to attend the University of Michigan this fall. He is the son Stephen and Margaret Wicklund of Park Valley Drive, Independence Township.

Victorian Village

Bringing uniqueness to Clarkston's downtown

BY ELLY SPINWEBER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One of several unique stores clustered around Main Street in downtown Clarkston, Victorian Village offers customers a chance to browse amongst direct import victorian style furniture and accessories.

Owner Terri Coventry moved her business from Waterford to Clarkston last fall.

"We wanted to be close to home and we were also trying to escape road construction," she said.

Coventry said in Clarkston, the store has changed a bit. Whereas at the Waterford location, she sold mostly furniture, here she sells more accessories.

The accessories include Tiffany lamps, Yankee candles and Heritage Lace.

Coventry added she finds more people wander through her store here as well.

"More people happen here," she said. "They come in with coffee and a doughnut."

Carl Knaus, who represents the store from DMS Advertising in Milford, said Victorian Village is successful mainly due to their unique and very large product lines.

"If you don't see what you want, we can get it," he said.

Knaus said he found Coventry and her store after a trip to Barbados, when he saw a 450-year old staircase in one of the churches he visited.

When he and his wife came home, they looked for something similar to it and through Victorian Village, found a reproduction for $700.

"Everywhere else I looked, they were $2500-3000," said Knaus.

Though the store has expanded to include accessories, Victorian Village boasts a wide array of hand-carved mahogany furniture, imported from Indonesia.

This makes the store an asset to proponents of victorian-style decorating schemes, Coventry said.

"Now we're starting to see people adding something like a victorian sitting room to their homes; they come here specifically for certain items," she added.

Another of the store's unique aspects is its line of outdoor furniture, which is cast aluminum and painted individually at Victorian Village's factory store.

"The furniture comes in, is sanded, finished and then painted at the factory," said Knaus.

He added an item is not finished and painted until an order for it has been filled, which allows customers the freedom to choose different styles and colors.

Because Coventry finishes furniture at the the factory, she is able to sell merchandise for much less than other outdoor furniture stores, said Knaus.

"We go through a lot to keep the prices down," he said.

He added the prices for both indoor and outdoor furnishings are the lowest in Michigan.

In addition to furniture, the store also offers customers cast iron sconces, decorative light poles, mailboxes, urns and other outdoor decorations.

Coventry said she sells some of her benches and lightposts to developers for use in area subdivisions.

Victorian Village is located at 4 S. Main St. in downtown Clarkston. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., except Thursday when the store is open until 8 p.m.; also open Sunday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The store can be reached by phone at (248) 620-4300 or via the world wide web (www.victorianera.com).

A scouting honor

Kyle Robert McKenzie was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout at an Eagle Court of Honor on May 25 at Mills River United Methodist Church in Mills River, N.C. Kyle began his scouting experience as a Tiger Cub in Bailey Lake Pack 341 where he advanced through the ranks to receive his Arrow of Light as a Webelos Scout under the leadership of Steve Bauer and Jack McKenzie. He crossed over into Boy Scout Troop 189 of Calvary Lutheran Church before moving to Hendersonville, N.C. and joining Troop 622. During his six years in Troop 622 he earned 29 merit badges, served in several leadership positions and was inducted into Order of the Arrow, Tsali Lodge. Kyle's Eagle project included designing and preparing an area for a playground at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Family. He fenced the area, built a sandbox, balance beams and benches and then mulched. Kyle is the son of Jack and Robin McKenzie and will attend North Carolina State University in the fall to major in criminal justice.

Masons celebrate 50th anniversary

Milford and JoAnne Mason celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 9, 2000 with their family.

Them Masons, longtime Clarkston residents, were married 50 years ago in Charlotte, Michigan. They still reside in Clarkston, and have four children and 10 grandchildren who celebrated with them.

Milford, a retired Clarkston Schools administrator, spent 36 years in education. The Masons have both been active over the years in groups such as Jaycees, Rotary, Dance Club, Farm and Garden Club, Women's Club and the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

A Look Back

Wed., July 5, 2000 The Clarkston (MI) News 13 A

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

Over the objections of several residents, the Independence Township board voted unanimously to recommend keeping Deer Lake Road open. Their recommendations to the Oakland County Road Commission will include new stop signs and the moving of the Deer Lake-Dixie intersection.

Thirty-two year Rotary Club member Robert Beattie was honored as a Paul Harris Fellow at the Clarkston Rotary Club's officer installation banquet. Beattie's record includes 32 years of perfect attendance at weekly meetings. He has served as president of the Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club (1959-60) and the Clarkston Rotary Club (1982-83).

A 22-percent raise is in the offing for Independence Township Firefighters. A new contract agreement between the firefighters' union and the township provides for the raise along with funding for new officers and an agreement that firefighters will co-pay any raises in their health insurance, according to union president Greg Orlich.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

The sum of $2,000 has been set aside for creation of a Clarkston community band which would play once a week during the summer in the village parking lot. Action followed a presentation of Douglas Doty, band director at Sashabaw Junior High School, who spoke of his participation in a similar band in Ishpeming.

Clements-Kirk Construction Co. of Lapeer has been awarded the contract to build the new 7,700 square foot post office building serving the Clarkston Postal District, according to an announcement by the U.S. Postal Service Central Regional Office in Chicago, Ill.

Chances are that the county owned 750-acre Independence-Oaks Park on Crooked Lake could be expanded by 140 acres. Applications for grants to the Land and Water Conservation Fund of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation have been requested by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

The annual school election for a member of the Clarkston School District will be held on Monday, July 10. At this writing only one candidate has been nominated for the board. This candidate, F.L. Spooner, has been a member of the former school board and was elected a member of the board of the reorganized school district.

At last Clarkston can boast of a drum and bugle corps. The Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, American Legion, gave the townfolks a real treat on the Fourth of July. When the parade marched down Main Street, in line was the new Drum and Bugle Corps with white leggings and white helmets bearing the insignia of the American Legion.

Again this summer the Red Cross will sponsor swimming classes at Deer Lake. There will be four instructors. These Red Cross Instructors will be at the lake every Tuesday for a period of six weeks. There will be instructions for beginners, intermediates, advanced swimmers and senior life savers.

Get those kids their shots

The Oakland County Health Division will be offering an immunization clinic for surrounding communities at the United Methodist Church, 140 East Flint Street (at Anderson) in Lake Orion on Wednesday, July 12 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, Haemophilus influenzae Type B (HIB) and Hepatitis B will be available.

A parent of legal guardian must accompany a child under 18 years of age. Please bring any previous record of immunizations, including notices which might have been sent home from the child's school pertaining to immunizations.

Immunizations will be given at the same time on the second Wednesday of every month. The next scheduled immunization clinic will be on Wednesday, August 9.

For further information, please call 858-1305 or 1-888-350-0900, as for extension 8-1305.

HELP WITH YOUR LARGEST PURCHASE

Not only does the purchase of a primary residence represent the largest purchase most of us make during our lifetimes, but it is also a complicated matter that involves financing, contracts, and negotiation. With all this in mind, prospective home buyers will want to be sure that the entire process proceeds as smoothly as possible. Buyers who are represented by their attorneys can rest assured that they will get everything they bargained for, that the property is honestly represented, and that the title being transferred does not lead to any future problems whereby the buyer's ownership rights are questioned. It pays for prospective home buyers to protect their investment by engaging the services of a knowledgeable attorney.

Whether you're thinking of purchasing or selling property, it's important to have the assistance of an attorney. Knowledgeable help will decrease the likelihood of failed contracts or compliance problems. For matters involving real estate, business law, criminal defense, family law, personal injury, and civil litigation in both State and Federal Courts, call 620-1030. Our office is conveniently located at 11 North Main Street.

Hint: A lawyer can help home buyers protect themselves by suggesting clauses in the purchase agreement that best further their goals.

Clarkston Grads On The Go

Denstaedt travels to Japan in exchange program

Scott Denstaedt of Clarkston will depart in June to live with a volunteer host family in Japan for the summer.

Scott, a student at Clarkston High School, is a recipient of the prestigious Japan-America Friendship Scholars Program which is administered by Youth for Understanding International Exchange. Funding for this scholarship is provided by the Japanese Ministry of Education, Science, Sports and Culture, the Japanese ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Freeman Foundation and the United States Govern-

In this, the fourth year of the Japan-American Friendship Scholars Program, 120 high school freshmen, sophomores and juniors received a scholarship through YFU, one of the world's oldest and largest student exchange organizations.

In late fall, schools across the country were encouraged to nominate qualified students who had studied at least one year of Japanese language and maintained at least a 3.0 overall GPA. Finalists were selected on the basis of written essays, teacher recommendations, and personal interviews.

Before traveling to Japan, the scholarship recipients will attend an orientation program in their local area, coordinated by one of the ten YFU regional offices throughout the country.

Upon arrival in Japan, the students will spend their first week in a language and culture-based orientation course at the Olympic Memorial Center in Tokyo. During that week, students will also visit with several top Japanese government officials before leaving to join their volunteer host families located throughout the country.

YFU was established in 1951 as a private, nonprofit educational organization dedicated to preparing young people for their responsibilities and opportunities in a changing, interdependent world through exchange programs for high school students.

Today, YFU operates exchange programs in more than 60 countries, has 10 regional offices in the United States, an International Center in Washington, D.C., and worldwide network of staff, several thousand professionally trained volunteers, and more than 185,000 alumni.

For additional information about youth exchange opportunities with YFU, including the opportunity for American families to host international students in their homes, please call 1-800-833-6243.

Greenville College has released the names of students who were named GC Scholars and graduates at the conclusion of the Spring semester. The list includes Timothy Sievers, graduating Cum Laude with a BA in History and Political Science and a minor in Religion and Philosophy. He is the son of Keith and Vicki Sievers of Clarkston.

Timothy was a member of Phi Alpha Theta, an international honor society, and was selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. His Departmental Honors thesis is entitled The Ethical Implications of a Christian Epistemology in the Formulation of American Foreign Policy.

Greenville College is a four-year Christian liberal arts school affiliated with the Free Methodist Church.

1995 Clarkston High School graduate Ryan Bauer graduated from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio with a degree in Mechanical Engineering.

He has accepted a job with Medtronic, Incorporated in Minneapolis. Ryan is the son of Tom and Valerie Bauer of Clarkston.

Grand Valley State University announces the names of students who were placed on the dean's list for the winter semester. Kevin L. Alterburg, Kristin L. Blue and Lisa M. Miller, all of Clarkston, and Keri M. Durshem of Davisburg have earned this honor. The list includes those students who have maintained a 3.5 grade point average and been enrolled in a minimum of 12 credits.

Clarkston's Ahmad, Rashad Taylor was among the 629 graduates at Alcorn State's 129th Commencement Exercises held on May 13 to receive a Bachelor of Arts and Sciences Degree.

Dr. Clinton Bristow, president of Alcorn State, encouraged the graduates to continue their education. "It is imperative that you go on to graduate school, law school and/or medical school and receive higher degrees," said Dr. Bristow.

U.S. Senator Trent Lott was the guest speaker at the commencement. "I want the graduates to keep three things in mind: family, faith and freedom," said Senator Lott. "Be sure to remember those that made it possible for you to stand on their shoulders to make you a graduate today."

Joshua Paul from Clarkston has been named to the Dean's Honor List for the spring 2000 semester at South Plains College.

Students named to the Dean's Honor List have maintained a minimum of 3.25 GPA while enrolled in at least 12 semester hours in college-level work with no failing grades.

Oakland University is proud to announce local students from Clarkston who have made the Dean's List for Charles Claus, a Junior who is majoring in Education and Nikki Weber, a Senior majoring in Political Economy and Shaun Manning, a Junior majoring in English at Hillsdale College, were named to the Dean's List for the 2000 spring semester.

Charles is the son of Chuck and Kerry Claus of Clarkston, and a 1997 graduate of Clarkston High School. Nikki is the daughter of Ron and Pat Weber of Clarkston, and a 1996 graduate of CHS. Shaun is the son of Mary and Jim Bird of Clarkston, and a 1998 graduate of CHS.

Siena Heights University has announced its Dean's List, recognizing full-time students who attained a 3.5 or better grade point average during the second semester of the 1999-2000 academic year. Margaret Frodle and Kristen Propst of Clarkston have earned this honor.

Siena Heights University is a Catholic university founded and sponsored by the Adrian Dominican Sisters. It is a coeducational North Central accredited institution founded in the liberal arts tradition, headquartered in Adrian.

Jeannette Johnson of Davisburg has been named to the Dean's List at Hope College for the second semester of the 1999-2000 school year. To be named to the list, a student must have a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

Hope College is a four-year, coeducational, liberal arts college with an enrollment of 2,943 men and women, and is affiliated with the Reformed Church in America.

The following Clarkston area students have been named to the Dean's List at Albion College for the spring 2000 semester.

Those honored include: Music major Lynda G. Gronlund, daughter of Roderick and Cindy Gronlund; Music and Philosophy major Paul Talbot, son of Stephen and Elizabeth Talbot; English major James B. Taylor, son of Michael and Deanna Taylor; and sophomore Adrienne M. Trager, daughter of Aaron and Victoria Trager.

Albion College, acclaimed as the seventh-ranked Wired College in America, specializes in innovative interdisciplinary programs in the liberal arts tradition.

Christopher P. Brecht of Clarkston was one of 78 graduates awarded diplomas during recent commencement exercises at St. Mary's Preparatory in Orchard Lake, an all-boys college prep.

Gregory Bradford Paddison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Paddison of Clarkston, was awarded a Silver Star during an academic recognition ceremony in April.

Gregory, a cadet at St. John's Northwestern Military Academy in Delafield, WI was awarded the Silver Star for having earned a grade point average of at least 3.5 for the quarter.

St. John's Northwestern Military Academy enrolls students from throughout the United States and more than a dozen foreign nations.

Sixty-seven members of Alma College's Class of 2000 graduated with honors when 301 students participated in Commencement services on April 22. Among them were Scott Hill, former Clarkston High School student, who graduated Magna Cum Laude in Chemistry and Business Administration. Alma College students must have achieved a cumulative 3.6 GPA.

More than 800 students were named to the Niagara University of New York Spring 2000 academic Dean's List. Among them are Julie Gallegos and Sandra L. Gallegos of Clarkston. To qualify, students must attain a 3.25 GPA for the semester.

A total of 2,203 persons are on the official list of those who received degrees from Western Michigan University in April at the end of the winter session of the 1999-2000 school year. Among them include the following from the Clarkston area: Katie Baratone, Cum Laude BA in Broadcast and Cable Production, daughter of Frank Baratone; Jason Craven, Cum Laude BBA in Computer Information Systems, son of John R. ## Internationally known economist visits Clarkston

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles about interesting people who visit Clarkston. If you have any suggestions for the series, please do not hesitate to call 625-3370.

Malaysia, Geneva, Paris, London, the Middle East, Bangladesh and Pakistan are just a few of the countries international economic consultant Haitham Besmar has visited in his career travels.

Last week, en route to Grosse Pointe Farms to visit his sister, he happened upon Clarkston's Millpond Inn and decided to stay for a few days.

Besmar was caught in one of the week's thunderstorms and looking for a place to stay the night. When his car's navigation system pointed out the Inn as the nearest hotel, he pulled off I-75.

"I found this little bed and breakfast, which I found to be a home away from home," he said.

He was charmed by the Inn's atmosphere and by its owners, Joan and Buck Kopietz.

"They are very nice people to sit with and have an evening chat," he said.

Besmar said he believes a B & B like the Inn is good for a town like Clarkston.

"It gives people the opportunity to drive around and buy things and explore," he said.

Besmar is an economic advisor for several major international organizations.

He was educated in England and has a bachelor of science in civil engineering; a master's degree in business finance and administration; and a Ph.D. in economic government for developing countries.

Currently, he helps develop long-term economic plans for poor and de-

International economic consultant Haitham Besmar is just one of the many interesting people to stay at the Millpond Inn. Here, he stands with Inn owners Joan and Buck Kopietz.

He has helped create methods of taxation for poor countries, helped establish stronger police forces to deal with crime rates and also helped to develop hospitals and health care systems within the countries.

veloping countries.

"Many times the countries don't have the right investment in the right place or there are needs to be taken care of within the villages, such as schools and clinics," he said.

He added oftentimes, developing countries are as many as 50 years behind modernized countries like the United States.

He has helped create methods of taxation for poor countries, helped establish stronger police forces to deal with crime rates and also helped to develop hospitals and health care systems within the countries.

Besmar works primarily with middle east and far eastern countries, but he also previously worked in Russia, where he helped Moscow set up post-Cold War legislation in the early 90's.

Besmar said he enjoys the humanitarian benefits of his work, but is looking forward to breaking away from the constant travel his business requires.

Though he has lived in Geneva, Switzerland for the past 4 months, he would like to settle down and begin the rest of his life, which he eventually hopes to include a wife and children.

"I have lived out of a suitcase for the past four or five years," he said. "I'm always on the go; I'd like to settle down."

He added he hopes one day to start his own economic consulting business.

Both Joan and Buck said Besmar is just one of the unique guests they have had stay at the Inn.

Buck pointed out a table in the Inn's sitting room, which holds books written by authors who have stayed there.

"You really have to love people to be in this business," said Joan. "I don't want to be upstairs when we have guests, I want to be down here talking to them."

Besmar agreed with Joan, particularly in regard to B & B's.

"It is a different atmosphere than a big hotel; here it is a family atmosphere," he said.

Andy Reish wants you.

It's an eclectic mix of videos from record companies, which includes KISS, heavy metal, alternative to ABBA and Paul Simon.

"I'm going to play all the reels and then chuck them," he said. "I can't sell them because we're non-profit."

Another music show that's offered is "Bob's Music Time" with Bob Lowe. The show started in Rochester in the mid-nineties and is "public access at its best," said Reish. "A guy sits in front of a microphone, playing a guitar and singing old-school country songs."

Channel 65 also offers "Bethlehem Temple Presents," with church choir music, which Reish said is entertaining and also offers a religious message.

The Tuesday night Independence Township Board meetings are also being taped again. Reish said he doesn't have the staff to tape the school board and City of Clarkston meetings, but it is not out of the question for the future.

The current schedule is: Monday, senior programming, including "Bob's Music Time," at 8 p.m.; Tuesday, documentary and informational programming; Wednesday is reserved for the Independence Township Board meetings which begin at 7 p.m.; Thursday is religious programming including "Bethlehem Temple Presents" at 8 p.m.; Friday is music night with Country Countdown featuring classic country music and Concert Corner for seniors. He said he'd like to add rock and roll to the country lineup.

Reish is looking for more programs and encourages people with ideas to give him a call. He's also looking for volunteers to run the camera and produce shows. "The bottom line is we want people to know we're still here," he said.

Channel 65 is located on Waldon Rd. across the street from Clarkston Elementary School. It does not have new signage -- look for the old TCI Cable signs. For more information, call 625-7069.

Team Reptile

Ashley said about 25 people are working on the project and called it a healthy way for young people to spend their time. He said as a child and teenager he enjoyed learning about reptiles and this is almost an extension of his earlier hobby.

"Just recently I saw something new -- a baby gar pike -- for the first time ever. We keep a record of the exact location of each catch and return it to its original location. We've created an elaborate reptile amphibian exhibit that looks like a mini zoo," he said.

Brown and Himburg were recently hard at work at Channel 65 on Waldon Rd. piecing together segments and putting the storyline together, said Reish. The footage is the second episode to be aired, and there is enough footage for two more episodes. It will take them about 40 to 80 hours to complete their work. They said they expect to be done this week.

Himburg, currently a student at Michigan State University, said he took a class at Channel 65 when he was a junior at Clarkston High School.

Brown, a Wayne State University student and CHS grad said Reish provides a lot of help for their project.

Brown and Himburg said the groups go out at night in boats, two or three times each week to catch the critters while a crew member films the action. They visit different Oakland County lakes, most of which are in Independence Township. People have also donated rescued reptiles to the group as well.

Team Reptile is taking donations of nets, aquariums and other items, said Himburg, adding someone recently donated an aluminum boat to the group.

The reptiles are taken good care of and kept in special ponds at Ashley's home. The group will put on the display at Deer Lake Beach August 18 for parent night.

"See how much fun public access can be," said Reish.

An air date for the show had not been set by press time. Reish said to call the station at 625-7069 for information.

Being a camp counselor a lot of fun and a lot of work

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series on summer jobs in the area)

It may only be a part time summer job but by the time Heather Webster and Heather Combs get home they're dead tired.

Webster, a 1998 Clarkston graduate, who attends Central Michigan University and Combs, a 2000 Clarkston graduate who will be attending Oakland University this fall work as camp counselors for Independence Township Parks and Recreation. This marks the second year they've spent their summer working as camp counselors.

Their job is to keep groups of 15 campers busy and let the kids have fun, learn teamwork and enjoy the outdoors as much as possible.

"It's a lot of work, but it's a lot of fun. We love kids and it's fun to work with them every day. We plan some of our own events and others are planned for us," Webster said.

Some of the events which Combs and Webster will lead include trips to the Ann Arbor Science Museum, a trip to the Saginaw Zoo and a trip to the Wave Pool in Waterford.

Other events that campers take part in include playing on a slip and slide, playing four square, soccer, tennis, kickball, volleyball and working with arts and crafts.

"We try to give the kids a lot of variety and a lot of fun things to do. They seem to have a good time with the camp. We made necklaces in arts and crafts earlier," Combs said.

Webster first became interested in working with the parks and recreation department through her involvement in the SCAMP program two years ago. SCAMP is a summer camp for children and young adults with special needs.

Combs got her start in the parks and recreation department through babysitting. She used to baby-sit for Mike Stefanski, the head of the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Day Camp program.

Webster and Combs work from 10-4 Monday through Friday. They'll lead four groups of campers for two week periods.

"You feel like you're making a difference in their lives. It's a lot of work and the kids tire me out, but it has its rewards. The kids are a lot of fun," Webster said.

Back when I was your age

As I discussed last week I'm getting married. All the more proof that I'm getting older. While I'm still young, and some would probably argue 23 is too young to get married, I've noticed a few things over the last year that have made me feel much older than just 23.

Digital clocks — When I was in elementary, and certainly in high school, there were no digital clocks in the hallways of public schools. We used to tell time with the big hand and the little hand. Now there are no hands, just numbers.

Internet — When I graduated Novi High School in 1995, they were just getting the internet into schools. Nowadays, the internet is all over the public schools, and I'm all in favor of it. It's a wonderful tool and to be raised without knowing how to use it puts children at a huge disadvantage. I used to think the internet was only for, well, the nerdy computer type. Now I'm asking people who I should get as an on-line provider. The sad thing is, I'm sure there are kids at Clarkston Elementary that could teach me how to use the internet better. I'm not an internet illiterate, but there's plenty I have yet to learn.

"The mouse goes on the right side of the keyboard," one child said to another.

Boy have times have changed.

VHS Prices — We had to be the last family in Novi to get a VCR. We finally did in the early '90's and like most families, rented movies on a regular basis. Now I don't rent movies, I buy them. With the falling prices of VHS tapes due to the rise of DVD, it's only about two bucks more to buy the video than it is to rent it.

Ed Davis

The Bottom Line

Gas prices — Like everybody else around here, I'm getting pretty fed up with the prices around here. When I was a kid gas was well under a buck per gallon. Heck, a few months ago it was a bargain at only about $1.30 a gallon. What happened?

Talk Radio — I never thought I'd become a fan of the AM dial. Even when I interned at WJR I didn't listen to it that much. The only talk I ever listened to faithfully was Drew and Mike on WRIF, which is on FM. Now I listen to Dr. Laura (I'm almost ashamed to admit it) on WJR and Stoney and WOJO on WDFN. On weekends, I'm still all about FM, but the AM stations have finally found their way onto my presets.

The Discovery Channel — We didn't have cable growing up, so the closest thing to the Discovery Channel would be PBS. My parents watched that stuff constantly and I would always leave the room in search of a Simpsons rerun. While I still love the Simpsons, I find myself watching the Discovery Channel more than sitcoms. I love their specials on wild-life.

Exercise — I'm lucky to have some of the highest metabolism in the state of Michigan. However due to having a full time job and spending my weekends working on wedding stuff with Andrea, I seldom find time to exercise. I used to play pick up games and backyard sports all the time. Now the closest I get to athletics is watching the Wolves or playing hockey or football on Sony Playstation.

Homecoming — When I went to Central Michigan University homecoming wasn't that big a deal to me as a student. It was just another crazy football weekend full of beer specials, keg parties and rough mornings. Now, it's taken on a whole new identity. Since a lot of my friends are CMU alumni and have moved all over the state, this is the one weekend we get to see each other. A lot different than it was a few years back playing euchre in each other's dorm room until 4 a.m.

My parents seem cool — This may be the most frightening one of all. When I was a teen, I like most every other teenager, I had a less than ideal relationship with my folks. It got better once I went away to college. And now that I'm 'out on my own' and getting married I look at my parents more as friends and advice givers than 'the enemy.' I look forward to seeing them when I can and if I turn out to be half as good a parent as mine were, my kids should turn out okay.
