Stuart, McCrary, Rosso and Travis will stay

Kelly and Wagner will fill seats vacated by McGee and Wallace; Independence fire millage renewal and EMS service pass with flying colors

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Incumbents Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart and Clerk Joan McCrary were returned to office for another four years Tuesday in a local election made up of only Republican candidates.

Stuart received 2087 votes to challenger and former supervisor Gary Stonerock's 1008 votes — almost a two-to-one margin.

McCrary beat challenger George White by about 600 votes — 1931 to 1331, in a race that heated up toward the end, due to a charge of a campaign violation against McCrary by White supporter Penny Shanks.

Newcomer Dan Kelly tallied the largest number of votes in the race for Independence Township trustee, with 1899. Longtime trustee Dan Travis followed with 1697. Larry Rosso, who just finished his first term, had 1668 votes. Dave Wagner, who was unsuccessful in his bid for trustee four years ago, won this time around with 1577 votes.

Mel Vaara had 1486 votes and Robert Aranosian had 1463 votes.

"I'm very happy with the results and humbled by the margin of victory," said Dale Stuart. "I'm happy with the rest of the election results. The fire millages passed decisively and that's important for the community. I give my best wishes to those who ran and didn't win, and congratulations to those who won. I look forward to working with them."

McCrary was moved that she beat White, acknowledging that four years ago she had won by a landslide. "I'm just so happy that the people have selected me again. I will go on doing what I think is best for the community."

Dan Kelly, who arrived at Independence Township hall about 10 p.m. with his wife Kathleen and friends, said he was very surprised and delighted by the results. "We gave it a very good shot," he said of his campaign efforts, but he said he was concerned because he had not mailed campaign literature to absentee voters, as other candidates had.

Travis, reached at his home, said of his victory, "It's not time to take any

Walls retained as supervisor; Hopper will join trustees

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Springfield Township voters returned longtime Supervisor Collin Walls to service Tuesday night. He beat challenger Jeff Decker 665 to 463.

In the race for trustee, newcomer Dave Hopper received the most votes with 793. Incumbent Elaine Field-Smith followed with 734. Incumbent Dennis Vallad received 650 votes, and Margaret Bloom received 634. Incumbent Richard Miller, with the least number of votes at 608, was not reelected.

Hopper said he had one comment, "Hard work does pay off. I went door to door to 898 homes and I really felt that made a difference." He estimated he reached 1603 voters that way.

"I staked myself out at Precinct I behind township hall for 13 hours and gave out my literature, but most people already had it."

(Campaigning) was a lot of work — five weeks of not seeing family very much. But it was nice to get my message out. People were very receptive. They opened their doors and came out when I was there. One thing I learned was that each portion of the township has its own little problems. But it was refreshing that no matter where you go they all want the same thing — a nice place to live and a rural atmosphere. They're realistic, they know we can't stop development, but we can control it."

Walls did not return calls by press time

Planning Commissioner Dave Hopper, right, was elected trustee in Tuesday's election.

Hold on to those Lighthouse
donations

The Lighthouse Clarkston on Maybee Road, has announced that effective immediately, the Clothing Closet at the Clarkston location will close until further notice. The closing is necessary because of repairs that are necessary to the building, according to Katie Stewart, Emergency Services Supervisor.

During this time, no clothing will be accepted.

People who need to access another clothing closet or those wishing to donate clothing may contact the Clarkston office at 673-4949 for more information.

The News in Brief

Wolves are 'rushing for food'

Don't be surprised if you see young men dressed in blue and gold Clarkston High School football jerseys knocking on your door August 18.

That is the date of the 3rd annual CHS football team's "Rush for Food" to benefit Lighthouse Clarkston, the non-profit human services agency.

The players will go door-to-door from 5 to 7:30 p.m. collecting non-perishable items.

Lighthouse is in special need of peanut butter, jelly, canned fruit, cereal, cake mixes, small boxes of laundry soap, deodorant, toothpaste, and other needs. This year, the team hopes to surpass last year's goal. Last year's collection lasted through November.

Parent volunteers will provide players with a barbecue at Clintonwood Park following the drive. Those who would like to donate may also bring items to the park, located on Clarkston Road west of Sashabaw Road, until 7:30 p.m.

For additional information, call Mary Anne Kenerson, 391-4887, or Julie Moehlig, 620-2708.

It's time to remove political signs

The Primary Election is over and it's time for candidates to remove their political signs. August 13 is the date by which all signs must be removed in Independence Township.

In Springfield Township, political signs must be removed by August 23.

Correction

A sentence in a story about an alleged campaign violation by Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary should have said, "Shanks said her support for McCrary's opponent, George White, for Independence Township Clerk had no bearing on her actions."

Also, in last week's Voters' Guide, we inadvertently omitted Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole's responses to our candidate questions. Her answers are printed on page 8A.

We apologize for the errors.

Clarkston Creek hearing set for next week

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

Two informational hearings on a proposal for the sale of Clarkston Creek Golf Course, whereby Independence Township will retain storm water management and development rights, have been set for August 17 and September 6.

The proposal will be put to a public vote on September 12, and township officials want the public to attend the meetings to learn more about the proposal.

Trustee Neil Wallace, who negotiated the deal with Supervisor Dale Stuart and developers Joe Locricchio, Manny Kniahynychy and Jim Albright, said "We are prepared to explain every aspect of this proposal."

A condominium neighborhood with about 165 units is slated for adjacent property plus 20 acres of the golf course. A 7.2-acre commercial center, and an upscale restaurant on another 1.8-acre parcel are also planned.

The developers are required to make significant improvements to the golf course and clubhouse, according to the deal.

Wallace offered his reasons for the importance of the proposal to township residents in a prepared statement this week.

"The core of this proposal for open space preservation and some regional storm water management system facilities is simple," Wallace said.

"More than 120 acres of the golf course cannot ever be developed except as a golf course. It can't be developed as a residential subdivision or a shopping center or an apartment complex or any other use.

"In addition, the township will have the right to use portions of the golf course and certain adjacent properties to collect and hold storm water from the Sashabaw Road area.

"Although the township would pay for these property rights ($1 million and the transfer of some land), as Sashabaw Road develops we anticipate this money will be more than recouped by the sale of the rights to tap into this system.

"The details for the agreement are designed to address possible problems that are not likely to actually occur. Principally, they deal with the possibility that golf will completely fail as a viable business. Because of the significant required improvements to the course and clubhouse, golf can and will be a viable business at that location.

"We are not establishing a precedent. No other property in the community offers such significant open space preservation in a densely developed area and the benefit of a regional storm water management system."

Wallace also said a representative from the developers will be there to answer questions about the project, including the condo and commercial development, and improvements to the clubhouse and golf course.

The first meeting is August 17 at 7 p.m. at the Clarkston Creek clubhouse, 6060 Maybee Road. The second meeting will be September 6 at the Independence Township Library.

The developers have agreed to pay $5,000 toward the cost of the special election. Earlier, Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary said she felt the public referendum was "necessary to gauge the commitment of our residents to preserving open space."

Independence gets revised Holiday Inn plan

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

A revised plan for a Holiday Inn Express at M-15 and I-75 has been submitted to the Independence Township Building Department. But another revision may still be in the works before the controversial issue returns to the Planning Commission.

Eagle Investments is currently requesting special land use and conceptual site plan approval for a 70-room hotel — downsizing from the previous submittal of 81 rooms.

Building Department Director Bev McElmeel said it's her understanding that another revision may be coming. She added the applicant will also be discussing the plan with the planning department prior to its placement on the agenda. No date has been set for the issue to return to the Planning Commission, she said.

A proposal for a Holiday Inn was first submitted to the township last year, to substantial opposition from homeowners in the area.

The six-acre vacant property is located on the east side of M-15 north of the interchange, overlooking Little Walters Lake and wetlands.

The property was rezoned from C-3, Highway Commercial to OS-2, Office Service-2. Motels and residence hotels are permitted as a special land use in the OS-2 zoning district.

Sashabaw West students return to SMS; new advising program

Some changes are in store for middle schoolers

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The upcoming school year in the Clarkston Community Schools district will feature some new concepts at the middle school level.

However, for Sashabaw Middle School students, the 2000-01 school year will mean a return to their roots; namely, a return to their old building.

Last year, students at that school attended the old Clarkston Middle School while renovations at Sashabaw were taking place. A bond issue for renovations to both middle schools, along with a new K-5 elementary school, was passed in 1997.

According to David Reschke, assistant superintendent for K-8 operations, the building was upgraded and classrooms were added in order to make the school more modern and up to date.

Now that the renovations are complete, Reschke said he hopes to upgrade the quality of technology in the middle schools.

"We're just excited to get the kids back to the original building," he said. "We're moving forward with our plans for technology. We'll have better access to technology in the classrooms."

Although there will be several new concepts implemented at the middle school this year, there will be some familiar faces to help implement those changes.

According to Reschke, a plus at the middle school level is that the administrative teams at the schools are in place for the second consecutive year.

"They know the district now," he said. "They know our kids and parents better. We're real happy we have our teams together from the get-go."

One of the key concepts at the middle school level this year will be interdisciplinary teaching and learning, which involves students understanding the relationships involving the subject matter.

"At that age, the kids remember better on the issues when they see the connections," Reschke said.

As an example of this concept, Reschke brought up the subject of water contamination. He said that with the implementation of interdisciplinary teaching, students will be able to learn about that subject from both a science perspective and a social studies perspective.

Another concept that will be implemented at the middle schools this year is advisor/advisee groups. An agreement was reached in 1998 between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association to implement this program for the 2000-01 school year.

Reschke explained that at the middle school level, students need guidance as they move toward their adolescent years. Under the advisor/advisee program, teachers help students understand their everyday experiences, and help them develop problem-solving skills.

"The teachers take the time to ask the kids how their lives are going," Reschke said.

Teacher team planning was another program agreed upon in 1998 between the school board and the CEA for the upcoming school year. Reschke said that teachers need to work in partnership with one another in order to create an effective learning environment.

With that in mind, the teaching teams work together to help plan each day's lesson plans; more time may be spent on one subject than another, depending upon that day's plan.

Dave Reschke

For instance, a particular day may call for a science experiment that takes longer than usual. With that in mind, the teachers budget an appropriate amount of time for that experiment, and spend a lesser amount of time on another subject, such as math.

"It allows them to have more hands-on teaching," Reschke said.

Before becoming assistant superintendent, Reschke was principal at Sashabaw Junior High (now known as Sashabaw Middle School). While Reschke was principal, the school earned a national exemplary school award in 1989 from the United States Department of Education.

Sashabaw was only one of three other junior high schools to earn such an honor that year.

According to Reschke, the criteria involved in schools receiving the award are a high amount of instructional time spent on learning, a high percentage of parent involvement in the schools, a high percentage of students achieving above expectations, and a clear sense of mission and vision.

"It was a year-long process," Reschke recalled. At that time, students in the ninth grade attended the middle school. Beginning with the 1993-94 school year, those students moved on to Clarkston High School.

In 1994-95, the middle school philosophy for the district was adopted, and action plans for advisory programs, interdisciplinary team teaching, and team planning were established.

During a meeting of the Clarkston school board this summer, the issue of grade realignment was brought to the forefront. Under a proposal discussed at the meeting, ninth grade students would return to the middle school level.

However, Reschke noted that with regard to Fire millage is community's gift to itself

Our thanks and gratitude go out to everyone in the community who supported the fire and emergency services renewal and a new millage for the advanced life support program. This is our community's gift to itself.

The improved response times and more reliable service will be very real benefits for all of us. We were particularly pleased with the breadth and diversity of support throughout the community.

Very truly yours,

Summer gains practical purpose

Well, I've been sitting here for quite some time now trying to think about what to write. But I'm not going to write about that-it'd be boring. The fact that I can't come up with anything to write about indicates something: summer isn't interesting anymore.

It's an odd time of life I'm in right now (aren't they all?). I'm almost done with high school but not quite, I'm almost going to college but not yet. For whatever reason high school feels finished. Part of it may be that I'll be starting to send college applications in soon, and most of this coming school year will take place afterwards. So summer feels strange knowing I must go back to school but not really feeling it.

Last summer was my first with a job so there was something new and interesting to take up my time. And there was also cash flowing in for the first time which greatly improved the general state of things. While I still like the library, the job isn't new anymore, and most of the cash needs to be saved for next year. I was actually one of the first of my friends to get a job, but now they all have one, so it gets that much more difficult to organize things just for fun. That doesn't mean I've done nothing-in the past week I've been to a concert, a movie and out with friends on at least one other occasion-but it isn't exactly lazing on the beach all day, especially, with the late-July hail.

What it comes down to, I think is that summer has finally become useful. What? Summer... useful?

It can't possibly be true! Buckle your safety belts, ladies and gentlemen; the world is spinning off its axis. While summer was once a time for simple staring and drooling, it has now become functional. What was once a reprieve from seething, yelling, textbook-throwing teachers (or maybe those are the students) is now a productive time of earning and saving money and of starting the college application process. Is reality crumbling around us? Why, the next thing you know, the cattle will be raising us in pastures!

Indeed, summer has been productive, and it has not been a bad thing. It does however, take some getting used to. Of course, it hasn't all been constructive: I've had plenty of moments of eating, reading, staring, and drooling. And I tend to forget that summer includes the vacation we took earlier.

And it's not over yet, so I best enjoy the last month before my last year of high school, along with the practical bits, perhaps I could take tip a useless hobby or two just to keep that element of interest in there. So what such hobby is there? I know! I can start cleaning!

Good luck, Rob, we'll miss you

"Young fool. Only now, at the end, do you understand." — The Emperor

Inevitability. I have always known this day would come; I have longed for it since I can remember. It has come time for me to leave.

Only now have I started to feel a degree of sadness in relation to my departure. All the friends I'm leaving, the Union, that sort of thing.

Punching out of my last shift was nothing short of emotional. I'll miss the U.D.C. I'll miss the whole old neighborhood crew. I'll miss everybody.

The teachers that mattered . . . Mrs. Lamreaux, Mr. Gilbert, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Fuller, Mr. Banks, Mrs. Stephens, et al (if I left a name out, it is because of my aloof memory), all will be missed.

Don't leap to an assumption, though; I have no regrets whatsoever. Any grievances I have with leaving are quickly sliced in half with a katana by the Samurai of my will. It is only after we've stepped into the unknown that we can truly know ourselves. The only thing that keeps me alive and not mind-dead is constant change, something this year in Japan will provide me with. Or, rather, I will provide myself with.

Every person reading this should immediately go out and do something you've never done before — something completely new, something radical. Try taking a different street home. For some people that's as extreme as hunting an Anarctic crocodile with some fishing line. Or maybe it's going to school away from home, or brushing with Mentadent instead of Crest. It could be building your own particle accelerator and devising a way to execute perpetual motion.

It starts there. Everyone has to start somewhere. The pivotal aspect is that you start. Because when you start living again, and not falling into routine, then you'll be a hard Kat to tie up. Dig? That's hip. There's nothing better than constant change and adaptation.

Clarkston might be a hard place to start in, though. We're small and out of the way. Nothing major ever happens here. We have the same mayor over and over again (but a very cool mayor, nonetheless. She even likes my cappuccinos) and we do the same things and hopefully we go eat at the Union every

What will I write about today?

Bend close to your newspaper, I'm gonna let you in on a little secret: Not everything I write is off the cuff or from the top of my pointed little head.

I keep a file of stuff to write about.

Sorry if I disillusioned you . . .

In my happy file go newspaper clippings, junk mail, press releases, e-mail and cryptic notes to myself, written while driving -- usually on the paper wrap around a stick of gum, McDonald's napkin, or whatever scrap of paper I can latch on to while staying securely buckled in the driver's seat.

Usually, I pull this stuff out when nothing I originally think sounds good. Believe it or not, oh faithful readers, some things -- no matter how hard I try and massage it and mold it -- just don't pan out. It doesn't matter what I want or knead.

I know, I know, you're thinking, "cut to the chase, doughboy." So, without further eloquence . . .

* * *

Scrap of paper #1: "Call Grandma, tell her you love her."

How fortunate I have been to have my Grandma Rush. Throughout my entire life she's always been there for me and my family.

One of my earliest memories is going with her to downtown Detroit. Holding her hand and then going up to some building, sitting at a round table, in a room full of other round tables and other squirming, laughing kids.

We were there to see Oopsy the Clown. If that wasn't good enough, Oopsy chose me to help him do something.

Whenever I think of Grandma, which is every day, I smile, then I feel guilty. I haven't talked to her in a month.

If anybody out there has a grandma or grandpa, call them, visit them, hug them and tell them you love them. I'm calling mine this week. Then I'm going down there next week.

* * *

Scrap of paper #2: "Hot damn! Negative political ads."

I wrote this one a couple of weeks ago when I heard a Debbie Stabacow commercial jump all over US Senator Spence Abraham about letting them danged foreigners emigrate to our shores, to take our good old American jobs away from us true-blue, hard working Americans. I guess it was okay for her ancestors to come here.

Don't Rush Me

Don Rush

What's so great about this time of the year is we have three more months of poppycock and yarn to be thrown at us. The best political commercial I've seen is from the Flint Township Clerk. Can't think of his name, but that is irrelevant, I don't vote in Flint. What was good about his commercial was it was straight forward. "I won't do political ads . . . this is what I've done, blah, blah, blah. This is what I'll do if re-elected."

I'd vote for . . . whatever that guy's name is.

Unfortunately commercials that don't paint the other guy as a baby-stealing troll don't make it. And, don't even get me started on the Al Gore-y ads.

Cool website: My ever-lovin' wife, Jen, ever on the lookout for bargains on electronic auctions, found this website on one of her virtual tours. It's called "Find a Grave", the address is www.findagrave.com

You can find out where famous and non-famous folks are buried or just browse through the alphabet and see who's listed. I did and I found that Clara Louise Maass is buried at Fairmount Cemetery, Newark, New Jersey. Bet you didn't know that, or the fact that she was an army nurse at the time of her death.

The site says, "Miss Maass volunteered to be inoculated by Yellow Fever infected mosquitoes during a government study of the transmission of the disease while serving in Las Animas, Cuba in 1901. She contracted Yellow Fever and died on August 24, 1901."

This could be a great find for: a) curious bored folks; b) morbid bored folks; or c) those stupid people who want to visit grave sites of famous people.

Got an idea for Don -- after reading that you know he's got to be desperate. E-mail him at donrushmedon@aol.com

Song pickers got it all wrong, again

The article started, "A group of legendary song writers has named the Beatles' In My Life as the greatest song ever written."

I've never heard of it, and it came out in 1965, and I'm an ardent radio listener.

This song was the first of 10 top tens (ever) these legends picked. I wonder if the named legends, Paul McCartney, Brian Wilson, Jerry Leiber and Hal David, know how long "ever" is?

The article goes on to name the rest of the songs and tune performers on their list. It is not explained why performers are listed when it's the words in the songs that are recognized by the legends.

Here are the picks, 2 through 10: Satisfaction - Rolling Stones; Over the Rainbow - Judy Garland; Here, There and Everywhere - The Beatles; Tracks Of My Tears - Smokey Robinson and the Miracles; The Times They Are A-Changin' - Bob Dylan; Strange Fruit - Billie Holiday; I Can't Make You Love Me - Bonnie Raitt; People Get Ready - The Impressions; You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' - The Righteous Brothers.

"Legendary" Jim Sherman has heard only Judy's song and The Righteous Brothers'.

Now, step aside you other legends and let me list some songs that you tone-deaf, short-remembered guys overlooked, chose to ignore or received a stipend to mention such unknown songs as Strange

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Fruit.

I will not list them in 1, 2, 3 order, because all are number ones in my memory book.

Even a British Beatle would have to admit these are great songs, performed by true artists who didn't need choreography to help sales.

Alabama Jubilee by any Dixieland Jazz band; Sixteen Tons - Tennessee Ernie Ford; Just Because - Frankie Yankovic; String of Pearls - Glenn Miller; Cocktails For Two - Spike Jones -- now there's a piece of work that has great lyrics, well delivered -- "In some secluded rendezvous, that overlooks the Avenue, Bang! Whistle! Pop! Etc."

Stars and Stripes Forever - Boston Pops Orchestra; Old Man Time - Jimmie Durante; One O'Clock Jump - Count Basie; I'll Be Around - Mills Brothers; Blue Tail Fly - Burl Ives; My Way - Frank Sinatra.

You music lovers will notice that I've left songs and names off my list just like the other legends. You see nothing by Barbra Streisand, Elton John, Tony Bennett, Elvis or Johnny Mathis.

But, I certainly don't want to leave the impression that my list is complete. Perry Como has performed so many great songs, as have Peggy Lee, Ella Fitzgerald, Kate Smith, Harry Belafonte, Ray Charles, Nat King Cole, Bing Crosby and Andy Williams.

Songs like Moonglow, Night and Day, Deep Purple, Our Love Is Here To Stay and September Song are all better than In My Life.

Making such lists is ridiculous, but though terribly incomplete, it has been a lot of fun.

Clerk Nancy Strole's vision of Springfield Township

Editor's note: The question and answer portion from Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole's information in last week's Voter's Guide was accidentally omitted. Her information is printed in its entirety below.

The future of Springfield will be determined by the Township's Master Plan (now being revised), which will reflect the input of a diverse array of residents and interests. However, my personal vision or wish for Springfield is as follows:

In 2020 Springfield will still be a low-density residential community. The Dixie Highway corridor will be an attractive safe-to-drive commercial gateway to Springfield. The historic hamlet of Davisburg will be the focal point of a village center area. The Township will be known for its scenic beauty, outstanding parks, open space corridors and pristine resources; and township residents and businesses will be protected by first-rate fire and police services.

1. Springfield Township's current population is about 14,000. What should the maximum be? How would you control it?

A population of about 20,000 at build out in 2020 is feasible. Keeping within this limit will require building on current Master Plan goals and policies (now being revised) that base land use planning on the capability of the land to support development, recognizing developmental limitations due to severe topographic conditions and limited infrastructure, and committing to protecting exceptional and rare natural ecosystems that exist in Springfield.

2. If you feel open space and Springfield Township's rural character should be preserved, how would you accomplish that goal?

Preservation of open space is very important and can be maximized by implementing the findings of the recently completed Shiawassee and Huron Headwaters Resource Preservation Project, a six-community effort initiated by Springfield Township. The project provides a roadmap for preserving open space corridors and pristine natural resources and contains a cookbook of innovative planning tools and techniques (such as natural resource overlay districts) by which Springfield can partner with others to achieve that goal.

3. Are police and fire services adequate? If not, how should they be expanded?

Fire: Department personnel consistently receive very high ratings from those who need their services. To keep pace with growth, we need to expand Fire Station #2, plan for water supply sources, continue our equipment acquisition/replacement program, plan for a third station by 2020, and anticipate new staffing needs that may be required due to changing demographics. Police: We need to initiate short and long-term assessment of police (Oakland County Sheriff's Dept.) staffing needs to assure sufficient response times and continued low crime rates.

4. How should the Dixie Highway corridor be developed?

Dixie Highway will be the main commercial corridor and most visible gateway to Springfield. Current traffic hazards will soon be addressed by construction of a center turn lane between I-75 and Davisburg. The corridor should also be designed for limited curb cuts. The revised Master Plan should call for unified architectural design for corridor and limit strip-mall development. We need to more aggressively address junk and blight violations where they exist and explore brownfield redevelopment opportunities. We need immediate completion and release to the Board of the Dixie Highway Corridor Study, now overdue.

5. What should the mix of commercial, residential and industrial zoning be, and where? Would you like to see the retail/commercial district in downtown Davisburg increased?

Severe restrictions caused by typography, soils and high water tables limit expansion of the historic Davisburg retail district. The historic buildings are very important to Springfield's identity, however, and should become the centerpiece of a larger village-type plan that ties together by bike/pedestrian paths the historic center with the nearby Mill Pond Park and community center, Shiawassee Basin Preserve, new Township Civic Center, elementary school, Fountain Square, Karl Shultz Park and surrounding historic homes. We also need to address the issue of deteriorating buildings that may be dangerous and negatively impact the future viability of "downtown Davisburg."

6. Should Springfield Township's parks and recreation department be expanded? If so, how? Does Springfield Township need more parks? If so, where?

The parks department is overseen by an independently-elected Parks Commission. The Commission now manages a diverse system ranging from a neighborhood pocket park to the 470-acre Shiawassee Basin Preserve. The current Parks master plan, which focuses on improvements to existing parks, key additional acquisitions where warranted, and encouragement of open space planning should serve the Township well in the future.

7. How do you think Ingomar Farms at Dixie and Davisburg Road should be developed?

I voted against rezoning the front of Ingomar Farms to straight C-2 (general business) so I'm the wrong one to ask! A conceptual plan for residential development for the rear of the property, which proposes to move the centennial farmhouse to the site, has been approved. The future of the large historic barn is highly uncertain, however. Commercial development should attempt to incorporate the barn in any proposed plans, which should focus on development of a village-type retail center with interior layout.

8. Should public school construction be subject to township site plan review?

State law exempts school construction from local site plan or building department review. However, establishment of some type of mutually-acceptable voluntary local review process might benefit all interests: by helping to catch potentially costly site design, safety or traffic problems before they arise, and by providing a positive opportunity for school systems and the township to pull together for the general benefit of the community.

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

While the jury was out reaching a decision in a lawsuit against the Clarkston Cafe, the cafe's insurance company agreed to settle for an undisclosed amount. That, according to co-owner Lee McNew, was just as the jury was about to announce its decision that they had found the cafe innocent of any wrongdoing in serving liquor to a man who was subsequently involved in a fatal accident.

To go with the newly finished Nature Center, Independence Oaks County Park is getting an amphitheater. The Irwin and Sadie Cohn Amphitheatre should be under construction later this year at a total cost of about $25,000 to $28,000. The amphitheater is a project of the non-profit Oakland Parks Foundation.

Approximately 20 people turned out at an Independence Township public hearing to discuss whether or not to turn Oakgrove Road and Hillcrest Road over to Oakland County for paving. Petitions from supporters of both sides of the issue were presented to the township board.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

The Clarkston Village Planning Commission has recommended the rezoning of the Depot Road park from recreation to vehicular parking. Planning commission members were not unanimous in their recommendation; members Nancy Prucher and Doug Roesser voted against it.

The population of Independence Township is now officially rated at 18,000, according to latest figures of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The figure reflects a 10.2 percent increase from 1970 when the number of residents was computed at 16,327. Springfield Township has grown 31 percent, jumping from 4,388 to 5,750 from 1970 to 1974.

Kansas delegates to the Special Olympics will find out what the Clarkston area has to offer when 55 of them and their chaperones come to Clarkston Sunday. The Clarkston area Jaycees have set up an entire day's activities. The visit to Clarkston by the Kansas delegation is only one of 50 happening elsewhere in the state.

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

Marjorie Marie Menge became the bride of the Reverend Arvid Anderson, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Menge of McVile, N.D., and he is the son of Alfred Anderson of Underhill, Wis.

Combined committees of Gold Star Mothers and Gold Star Wives are holding their Second Annual Victory Day Service—"The Four Freedoms Memorial"—where over three hundred World War II heroes from every theatre of war are buried together. The speakers will be Governor G. Mennen Williams and Major General Stanley E. Reinhart, now of Birmingham.

Mrs. Pearl Urch and Miss Minnie Mae Cook left Clarkston to drive to San Francisco. Mrs. Urch will visit along the coast and return in time for the opening of the Detroit schools in September. Miss Cook will meet another Detroit teacher, Miss Marian Buckrell in San Francisco, and together they will go to Hawaii as exchange teachers.

The First Congregational Church of North Oakland in Clarkston is holding their Vacation Bible School program. The theme for this year's program is "In the race with Jesus." Speakers have been scheduled for Monday-Wednesday.

On Monday stock car legend Joy Fair appeared; Tuesday, Barry Ryan, a drag racer from Clarkston, gave a speech to the youngsters; Wednesday, NASCAR Craftsman's Truck Series car owner and driver Bob Keselowski of Lake Orion will appear.

The church will also be hosting its annual Labor Day Country Fair and Classic Car Show on Monday, Sept. 4, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event will feature live auctions throughout the day, several arts and crafts exhibits, and a classic car show.

Anyone that has questions about the event can call the church at (248) 394-0200, or Ed Gillies, Car Show Chairman at (248) 698-9370.

Send us your information about church groups and outreach programs. Call 625-3370.

NURSING HOME NEGLECT

Friends and relatives of nursing home patients may understandably be wary of abuses by which nursing home patients are kept "under control". This is a euphemistic reference to the physical and chemical restraints used to keep institutionalized patients subdued and passive. Nursing home patients may also be transferred or discharged against their will. There may be cases of neglect in which the patient does not receive adequate care. If neglect, abuse, or serious injury has occurred, the patient may have a private right of action. Depending on the circumstances, a lawsuit may be brought on the basis of negligence, breach of contract, or violation of the statutory requirements. To find out, consult with a lawyer.

Victims of negligent conduct need a champion with the talent, skill, and integrity to fight for them in the courts. Here at 11 North Main Street, we pledge our skills and resources to the best interests of our clients, always. If you or a member of your family have been injured, call 620-1030 to schedule a free initial consultation.

Note: Under federal law, each state must maintain a registry of nursing aides who have been found abusive.

Pine Knob opens hill-top concession and seating area

BY ELLY SPINWEBER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Final preparations have wrapped up on Pine Knob's largest addition yet. A nearly 7,000 square foot hilltop deck is now open at the top of the lawn seating area, offering a concession stand and meeting area for guests.

While the concession stand was not fully operational for Monday's concert, the Red Hot Chili Peppers with special guest Stone Temple Pilots and Fishbone, it did serve beverages and other nonperishable items, said Jeff Corey, of Palace Sports and Entertainment.

"It was a full house on Monday so the deck got lots of use," he added.

He said many people watched the concert from the newly constructed deck, which offers a sweeping view of the hill and the pavilion area.

Approximately 200 feet long and 40 feet deep, Pine Knob officials said the deck can accommodate several hundred guests. It is accessible from three points on the hill.

"The bigger the show, the more people we'll get up there," Corey said.

When completed, the deck will offer a full menu, including food, drinks and snacks.

Assoc. said, "The general area is zoned for office service use. While we have previously indicated a hotel may be appropriate for an interchange, measures need to be incorporated to ensure compatibility with surrounding uses, specifically the transition of the site to the residential uses to the rear, and the impact of the project on the wetlands and Little Walters Lake."

Carlisle expressed concerns about the plan, including setback requirements; landscaping; traffic; stormwater management; wetlands protection; water quality of Little Walters Lake.

Eagle Investments' first plans to build a hotel were nixed by commissioners. The Shelby M. Baylis Profit-Sharing Trust, Robert A. Barron and Ann Rita Barron, are the property titleholders.

Nearby residents voiced opposition to having the hotel in their back yards. They also cited increased traffic problems, and the possibility of more crime like drugs and prostitution.

Several plaintiffs, including Eagle Investments and the titleholders, sued the township after the property was rezoned from commercial to office, but the township's position was upheld in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The plaintiffs were told they could submit a new or revised site plan.

Members of the team are: Kristine Drost, Casey Davies, Erin Luther, Stephanie Pierce, Melissa Essian, Ashley Beavers, Lauren DeLisle, Katherine Metzger, Matthew Labont, and Theresa Goricki.

All the team members are part of the Triple B's 4-H Club, one of the longest running clubs in the area, which is run under the direction of longtime leader Bertha Dennis.

The other featured event is horseback riding for handicappers, which is run under the leadership of Mark Bergeron. Drost said that event has proven to be very helpful to a number of kids.

"The handicapped riding program is just wonderful," she said. "We're always looking for more volunteers. It does wonders physically and emotionally for the kids. They get some physical therapy while they're having fun."

Drost pointed out that in addition to the two events mentioned, there is a wide variety of activities that 4-H has to offer, including all different kinds of livestock, crafts, and nightly events.

"There's something here for everyone to do," she said.

grade configuration, things will remain at the status quo for the foreseeable future.

"There's no change," he said. "We're not planning on anything. We're not planning any changes."

He did say that the school will be addressing the issue in the future, including research about the best possible grade level configurations and how to best utilize their existing facilities.

"We will probably do a study on a number of different ways we can align our grades," Reschke said.

Independence election

bows - it's time to work harder. I welcome the new members to the board and congratulate all who worked hard for their time and commitment."

Rosso said he worked very hard during the campaign and felt the outcome of the election could be attributed to a successful four years for the board as a whole. "I'm very pleased with the outcome across the board. I'm happy for Dave Wagner because he's put in so much volunteer time." Rosso and Wagner have served together on the township Safety Path Committee. Wagner was out of town on a vacation that was set up a year ago.

McCrary said 89 percent of the absentee ballots were returned, "which is a phenomenal return. We thought it was because of the fire millage, because the firemen were out there working hard getting out the vote."

Independence Township Fire Department EMS coordinator Bob Cesario was also waiting for results at township hall, and very pleased with the outcome. The renewal won 3340 to 668, and the increase for EMS service won 2785 to 1209.

"We've been on this issue for eight years or longer, and we've been really pushing hard for it for the last three years. We're grateful that the people saw what was needed in this community," he said.

He said the department would begin working to get EMS and paramedic service up and running, with a target date of being fully operational by this time next year.

"When we are fully operational depends on how things evolve. It could happen as early as spring of 2001. We need time to train our current guys in the department. Then we have to do our hiring, purchase equipment and vehicles. By this time next year we should be in full swing."

Cesario said training for current employees would begin in October and finish next July. New hires will be required to have Firefighter I and II classifications.

In unofficial results, County Commissioner incumbent Frank Millard retained his seat against challengers Jim Runestad and Russ Schulte in District 4.

In District 2, incumbent Larry Obrecht beat challenger John Spokaeski.

Your questions answered

Ever wonder where all the area restaurants are? Or when local governments meet? How about the phone number to all area schools, public, private or parochial?

Next week you'll be able to look up the answers in The Clarkston News' INFO 2000 book. INFO 2000 is an 84-page guide to Northeast Oakland County. If you're new to the area this will help you navigate your way through the area. If you're a long-time resident, this will help you remember why you like living here.

INFO 2000 will be distributed to subscribers of The News and her sister newspapers, The Lake Orion Review and Oxford Leader. It will be also given to local area chambers of commerce, including Ortonville.

The book will be full of phone numbers, names and area festivals. Keep it at your desk or by the telephone, as it is sure to be a handy little bugger.

Classic British cars visit Depot Park as part of Meadow Brook Historic Races

Over $5,500 raised to benefit SCAMP over fun filled weekend

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Cameras, smiles, curiosity and beautiful sports cars filled Depot Park Aug. 4 as hundreds of people visited Clarkston for the 16th annual Meadow Brook Historic Races.

The event at Depot Park, officially titled Concours in the Park, was an exhibition of pre-1972 sports cars featuring many assembled groups of British models.

Fans and owners of Jaguars and Aston Martin sports cars strolled through the park gazing at the dozens of beautiful vintage sports cars from Britain.

The evening also included an ice cream social, live band, juried automotive art show, silent motor sports collectibles, an auction and a classic car cruise. The events benefited SCAMP, a special needs children's camp. The groups' five-week summer program provides recreational and academic activities to over 300 students annually.

This year the event raised over $5,500 for SCAMP, more than $2,000 than was raised at last year's event.

Marketing director, and co-director of the event, Laura Respecki said this year's event was a great success.

"The weekend went fantastic. We had great weather on Saturday and the rain on Sunday didn't hurt the racers any because most of them like to race in the rain," she said.

Respecki said 125 Jaguars were on display at the featured parade at Waterford Hills Road Racing Course.

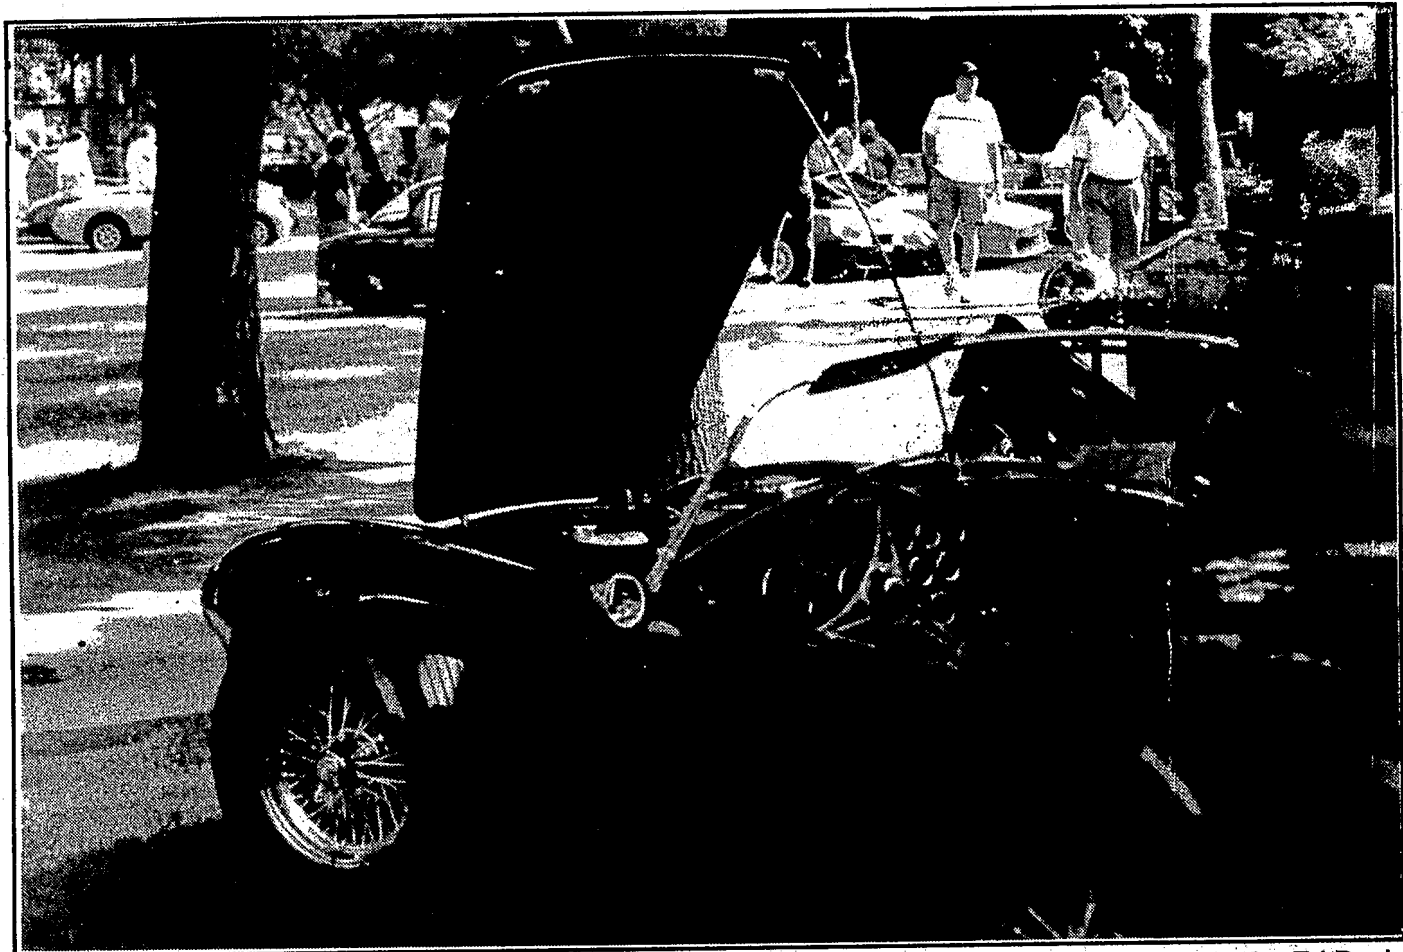

"Our Grand Marshall Paul Gentilozzi led the 125 car parade. IT was delightful," Respecki said.

Mike Brady, Chairman of Concours in the Park, said over 60 cars with owners from all over the country took part in the event.

"Every year we have a new theme and this year we went with British sports cars. It's mainly Jaguars and Aston Martins," Brady said.

One of the drivers was Stan Fowler of Clarkston, who finished in the top five in his class in the race driving his no. 38 1974 Jaguar XKE. Fowler has been competing in the event for the last four years

"I had fun. That car I race only about once a year. I actively drive it on the road. I just go out for fun and show people old cars," Fowler said.

The event has been held annually since 1985. Many race-sanctioning organizations and manufacturers were represented by a large variety of racing machines. The cars competed on the tight and twisty 1.5 mile Waterford Hills Road Racing course, at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club, located on Waterford Road. Besides the annual Historic Races, the track also hosts car races of the modern era. Those events are held monthly from May through September. The next race will take place Aug. 19 and 20.

Also getting lots of attention was the Tour d'Elégance Classic Car Show, which was a juried and non-juried show of sports cars, vintage cars, muscle cars and classic race cars. The event was also held at the Waterford Hills course.

Karlstrom a big reason for Raiders AAU success

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most coaches would agree that players only get better by playing against tough competition. If that theory holds true then Clarkston's Kira Karlstrom should have a dazzling sophomore year on the Wolves girls varsity basketball team.

Karlstrom was a two guard for the Michigan Raiders, an AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) team that recently competed at the national competition in Amarillo, Tex.

The Raiders advanced to the tournament after competing in several tournaments throughout the Midwest and Canada. There, the Raiders finished with a 4-3 record during the week long tournament and finished 38th in the nation. A total of 66 teams qualified for the national tournament.

Raiders head coach Pat Lowney said the Raiders had a solid foundation of experience to build from this season.

"The team really came together last year when Kira was part of the 14 and under team. We played pretty well that season and qualified for the state tournament. That was our goal for a first year team," Lowney said.

The Raiders however did much better than Karlstrom's previous AAU team, the Wolfpack. The finished third at the state tournament this year in Grand Rapids.

The Raiders are made up of high school athletes from Clarkston, Adams, Lahser, Troy, Groves, Marian and Regina high schools. Most of the girls play at the varsity level like Karlstrom.

She said the competition at the state tournament level isn't as tough as the Wolves regular high school season. However, once the Raiders made the trip to Texas the competition was some of the best she's ever had to go up against.

"In the national competition it's the best of the best. I liked playing in that competition because of all the friendships I made in the AAU. But playing for Clarkston is fun too because you're representing your school. Plus, in high school basketball there's a lot more fans, whereas in the AAU tournaments it's just parents," Karlstrom said.

Karlstrom noted two games from this year's AAU tournaments that were two of the most exciting.

'She's got good leadership skills and got along with all of her teammates. I think she'll end up playing at the college level someday.'

Raiders coach Pat Lowney on Kira Karlstrom

A game against Capital City Express was a must win for the Raiders. Capital City Express beat the Raiders earlier in the regular season, but the Raiders had to come out on top in the rematch to take 3rd or 4th in the state.

"We won by 20 and were really mentally focused. We all clicked and played really well," Karlstrom said.

Another game that Karlstrom said was an especially big game was a triple overtime in the shootout tournament which the Raiders won by four. The game saw the Raiders play with a five on four advantage.

"It was lot of fun and exciting. But it was a two and a half hour game. We were dead tired when it was over," Karlstrom said.

However giving her all on the basketball court is what makes Karlstrom the standout player that she is Lowney said.

"She's not afraid to get on the floor and she's fearless. She's got good athletic ability, can really jump and she's not afraid to get inside. She was a good defender for us and averaged about three steals per game," Lowney said.

As much as Lowney credited Karlstrom's athletic ability it may be her mental focus which brings her up to the next level.

"She's really got her mind set on basketball. She's a real driven player. She looks up to a lot of the ladies in the WNBA. She's got good leadership skills and got along with all of her teammates. I think she'll end up playing at the college level someday," Lowney said.

Ah, the differences between us

As I sat at my desk and tried to find ways to amuse my few, but select and devoted readers this week I brainstormed.

Then it hit me. You know that famous book, "Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus?" Well, I thought I'd give you my own little rendition of that book, except I'm going to modify it to something a little more pertinent to myself.

How men and women react to different aspects of wedding planning. My big day is drawing closer and closer. Sept 16 (yes, I know I'll miss the Orion and Athens football games) is only about five weeks away now. In any event, here's my breakdown of how men and women, or at least Andrea and I, see different aspects of wedding preparation.

Ceremony (Me) — The quicker the better. The less time there is for something to go wrong the better. I want in and out of that church in less than half an hour.

Ceremony (Andrea) — She wanted a short one too, but was quick to point out that getting out of there in half an hour was completely out of the question. Don't forget about pictures!

Rings (Me) — All I got was a simple gold band. I don't wear any jewelry, not even a watch.

Rings (Andrea) — Like most women, she loves diamonds, and will have a great wedding ring when her solitaire joins forces with the wrap we picked out last weekend. Although, like most women, she changed her mind between wraps a half dozen times. But considering it's the most important piece of jewelry she'll ever own, I'm glad she was as picky as she was.

Menu (Me) — Buffet, it's cheaper, but it's excellent. Because of our food tasting at the hall I know the food will be awesome and will leave no guest disappointed.

Menu (Andrea) — Was equally impressed and is looking forward to a great meal. (See we agree on some things.)

Flowers (Me) — I know almost every wedding has some flowers, but to me they're like most other wedding add-ons — merely a cosmetic addition. A terribly overpriced way for florists to get rich quick.

Flowers (Andrea) — Carefully inspected every page of the catalog in hopes of finding the ideal floral treatment. She spent more time on one page than I did on the entire catalog.

Photographer (Me) — Don't know much about photography. Heck, I'm lucky to get a number in focus during sports season.

Photographer (Andrea) — Had a friend who's a bonafide professional with the flash and stuff. Plus, she's a friend, so we get a discount!

DJ (Me) — One of the select few vendors that I give a hoot about, because of my radio background. I selected the one I did primarily on price and because he seemed like a nice genuine guy who would serve as a decent DJ.

DJ (Andrea) — Let me pick the DJ because of my radio background knowing if he's terrible she can blame it on me.

Invitations (Me) — As long as they say who, what, where and when and have an RSVP card they serve their purpose.

Team Reptile seeks to learn more about wildlife and educate the area

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Independence Township Parks and Recreation aquatics instructor Rich Ashley came up with his idea people, thought he was crazy.

But his love of catching and learning about area wildlife has caught on like a wildfire. So much so that out of his staff of about 45 lifeguards and swim instructors, over half have given up their summer nights in hopes of finding a particular animal.

Ashley's club, known as "Team Reptile" began as a group of less than 10 lifeguards, but last year grew to a group of about 25. Members are 16-32 years old. All are lifeguards or camp directors. The groups activities and actions are sanctioned by the DNR.

The group will unleash its findings when this year's Independence Township Parks and Recreation swim lesson participants are invited to Parent's Night Party. The event will take place at Deer Lake Beach Aug. 18 from 4-8:30 p.m. will also feature a cookout, water and beach games, sand castle building contest and more. The event is free and all parking will be at Depot Park with shuttle busses providing transportation to the beach.

The group goes out between one and four times per week to area lakes and parks in hopes of finding certain species of animals, primarily amphibians and reptiles.

"We go out to Deer Lake, Greens Lake and other lakes throughout the county. We call ourselves Team Reptile, but we catch frogs, snakes, fish and amphibians," Ashley said.

The groups usually head out around 10 p.m. and have stayed out on lakes until well after midnight. Once the animals are found, they are brought into the boat and transported back to Ashley's house where he has a concrete pond. So far this summer Team Reptile has caught about a dozen animals.

"We've only caught about 12 animals so far, but we've been trying to catch hard to catch, rare species. We've caught soft shelled turtles and big snapping turtles," he said.

The animals will stay at Ashley's until Aug. 18 at the Parent's Night Party. Ashley said all the animals are released back into the wild at exactly the same point which at they were caught.

Ashley said he has been careful to keep the amount of animals held at his house to a minimum.

"We don't want to keep too many. We keep them well fed and they're better off in captivity because they can't get hit by boat motors and things like that. It's not fair to keep them in captivity for that long, even if it is a large pen," Ashley said.

Ashley said Team Reptile educates its members about reptiles and also educates the community as a whole.

Team Reptile has a local cable access show which airs on channels 2 or 65 on Tuesdays at 6 p.m.

"We feel that what we're doing helps better educate the public about the animals that they're living with and swimming with. We're affecting them and they're affecting us," he said.

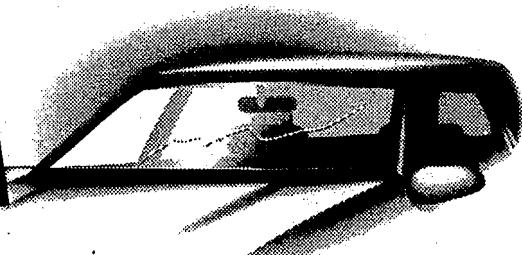

Ashley said that through his reptile hunts as the leader of Team Reptile he and his team members have learned that just by observing the life of amphibians and reptiles in local areas one can learn

Spray Masters water ski team wins state title

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Spray Masters, part of Michigan State Show Tournament, recently took first place in its state competition.

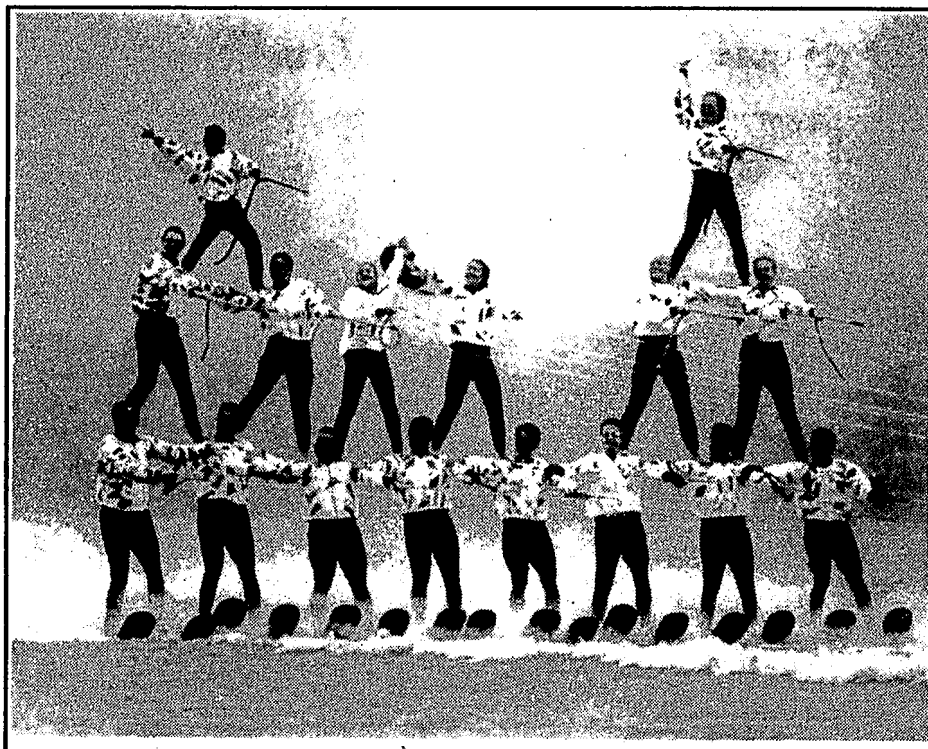

This year the Spray Masters took first in both the regional and state titles.

Six teams competed in the event and the Spray Masters won all the box scores including best of in the following categories: announcer, dock/equipment, tow boat crew, pick up boat and highest scoring act.

The Spray Masters is a growing group of water-skiers who perform various stunts and make several formations on water-skis while being towed by a motor boat.

The Spray Masters compete in shows all around the country and will be in action next in Greenville, Mi. Aug. 20.

During the state competition, held at Stoney Creek, the Spray Masters were awarded two first place finishes and one second place finish. One first place went to the adagio doubles team.

The Spray Masters took first place in both regional and state competitions this year.

The other first place finish went to the four member jump team. The second place finish went to the swivel competition team.

Robin Erkfritz, who is a member of the Spray Masters said of the performance, "It was the best performance we've had this year. Everybody on the team performed really well."

Board member of the Spray Masters Water Ski Club and Show Team, and past president, Skip Wendt encouraged people interested in water skiing to join the group.

"It's not that hard to learn to water ski. We'll teach you. Come join us. It's a family oriented club. I've been part of it for 17 years. I can't emphasize enough how much we'd like people to come to see what we're all about," Wendt said.

If anyone is interested in joining the ski team, or would like further information on the club, please contact President Doug Ritthaler at (248) 620-6004 or via e-mail at spraymastersw@yahoo.com.

about the local wildlife.

"You can tell a lot about the environment when you see the amphibians die. It's basically telling you that the place you're at is dying. It doesn't mean it's an unsafe place to swim, but something around there is killing off the wildlife," he said.

He added that two main sources of death for wildlife around Clarkston are fertilizers and pesticides, but that Team Reptile has taken small steps to help certain species of animals.

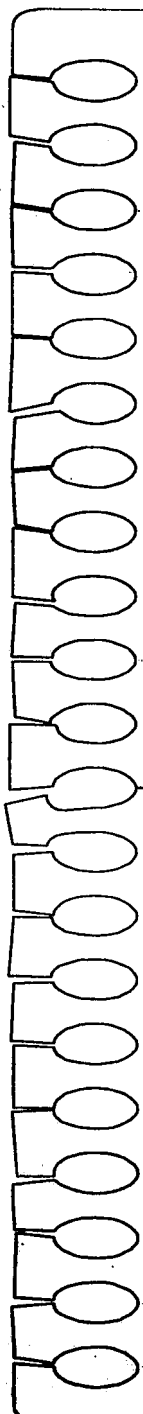

"The numbers are coming back which is good to see. One species we've helped is leopard frogs. We haven't seen those in this area since I was a kid and now we've tried to reintroduce them ourselves. Not like we can make that big of a difference, but suddenly they're back down in this area a little bit which is great," Ashley said.

Team Reptile is a nonprofit organization and members don't get paid, nor do they pay a membership fee to take part.

Summer school brings new challenges, opportunities to students, teachers

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Teaching summer school brings new challenges and opportunities for students and teachers alike.

Shawn Ryan, science teacher at Clarkston High School, just finished his third summer of teaching summer school at CHS. The three hour blocks, which run from 8 to 11 a.m. and from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. give Ryan, and the other summer school teachers a unique set of challenges.

"I try to make the summer school sessions more hands-on than the regular school classes. You have to use the bigger blocks of time to your advantage. You really need to grab the students' interest. If it's a three hour class you need to move at different paces. You need to have activities so if the faster kids get done they're not just sitting there wasting time, but you're not losing kids at the same time. It's a challenge that way," he said.

Currently at CHS, the summer school program is used as a form of remediation, which gives students the opportunity to get caught up in a variety of subjects including English, science and mathematics. Classes can vary in size from 10-12 students up to around 26 students, Ryan said.

"The idea of summer school, atleast in Clarkston, is remediation. If you're going to keep high standards within the district you have to have a way, if you're going to fail students, so they can catch up. You don't want to put pressure on students that they're not going to graduate or on teachers saying, if they don't get through my class there's no hope for them," Ryan said.

Some of the major differences between summer school and the regular classes is the variety of teaching techniques used by teachers.

"You use a variety of things between lecture, group work and student projects. You try to open it up as much as you can in all different directions," Ryan said.

Some of the projects students took part in this summer were a 9th grade science class led by Ryan and Darlene Roche, who was the other summer school science teacher, who brought science down to a local level. Their class studied erosion around Clarkston High School.

"The kids came up with a plan to find out what they could do about it by contacting different government agencies. We had students on the phone calling Washington D.C. trying to see if there was any help available. They got the idea in a lot of areas of government there isn't a lot of support for local issues. In groups, they made a final report on it, made a map of the area," he said.

In Ryan's 10th grade class, the students took a field trip to see the movie "The Perfect Storm" to see how accurately Hollywood portrayed the actual weather conditions of the time. Students researched old newspaper clippings and had a thorough discussion after seeing the movie.

The other teachers who were involved in the summer school program were math teacher Shawn Shepard, Carrie Vitani, who taught economics and Kim Tayon who taught Math. Stephen Marsden, an assistant principal at Sashabaw Middle School, was in charge of summer school, but received some additional help from Ryan.

Ryan assisted the administration in finding the right teachers to teach summer school. A task, he said, that wasn't easy. "It's sometimes hard to get teachers to teach summer school because a lot of the time teachers will have other careers or jobs during the summer. I just went through and tried to find certain teachers. Then I gave my recommendations to the administration," he said.

"Shawn teachers a high energy level math class. In the economics class the students created their own product," Ryan said.

Rory Roberts, is a 1991 Clarkston graduate who taught English. One project her students worked on during the course saw them use a lot of multimedia and focused on the Holocaust.

"Instead of teaching raw English and teaching it point by point, they took a theme and based things around it and used all kinds of technology," Ryan said.

Ryan said in the future the summer school program may be used as a way for students to get ahead in their studies rather than just remediation. But the response from students has been positive for a number of reasons.

"First off, the kids are paying to take it. If you're paying for it, you're really interested in doing a pretty decent job. Generally, the kids are really concerned about their grades," he said.

"There are kids who don't care and aren't in summer school. They could be, or need to be, but aren't. So it leaves you with a select population of students. A lot of students may be struggling, but they want your help. That's kind of exciting for a teacher," Ryan said.

And being excited about being a teacher is what makes Ryan's job so gratifying.

"Seeing a kid's face light up when they see something for the first time is exciting. I wanted to do something that felt like it was calling me. And since I've been doing it I love it," he said.

ents has been very positive and he expects about 1,000 people to turn out for parents night.

"It's cool to see the parent's reaction and the kids have a great time with this. It's nice that out of the 45 on the aquatic staff that about half are really into this," he said.

Team Reptile is sponsored by Moby Dick Pet Store, Edith's Pets and Supplies, Independence Township Fire Department, Tool Sport and Oak Hill Auto.

For more information on Team Reptile call Rich Ashely at Parks and Rec at 625-8223. Space is limited on reptile hunts.

Invitations (Andrea) — What about this style font? What do you think of this color? What about this verse?

Transportation from church to hall (Me) — If it's got wheels it works. No way are we driving away with those annoying 'Just Married' designs on the rear bumper.

Transportation from church to hall (Andrea) — Ed, we're not taking your truck with me in my wedding dress. And I want a cool car and I want all those decorations . . . they're so cute.

We Are SIDING Trim & GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. What we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We do not sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Total customer satisfaction is our only acceptable standard. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.
