Classrooms are a little more crowded

School enrollment up 4 percent

BY MARALEE COOK
Clarkston News Editor

In a repeat performance of last year's student population increase, student population in Clarkston schools has risen about four percent.

According to information from the unaudited student enrollment count of Wed., Sept. 22, there are 7,554 students enrolled in Clarkston schools, an increase of 276 from 7,278 a year ago. Clarkston schools first topped the 7,000 student mark in the fall of 1998 with 7,023 students.

The count is taken after four weeks to determine the amount of state aid for the district. The state aid this year is $6,447, according to schools business director Craig Kahler. Last year the per pupil allotment was $6,142, for an increase of $305. Another student count will be taken in February.

Students in the seven elementary schools total 3,455, up 106 from last year. The breakdown is as follows: Andersonville, 392, down 4; Bailey Lake, 523, up 15; Clarkston Elementary, 425, up 10; Independence Elementary, 602, up 60; North Sashabaw, 462, up 62; Pine Knob, 478, up 18; Springfield Plains, 573, down 27.

Middle school students totaled 1,773, an increase of 44 students from last year. Clarkston Middle School has 1,082, up 68. Sashabaw Middle School students number 691, down 24.

Clarkston High School totaled 2,249 students, up 49 from last year at this time. There are 77 students enrolled in the Renaissance High School program.

Elementary school building capacities are: Andersonville, 450; Bailey Lake, 600; Clarkston El., 450; North Sashabaw, 450; Pine Knob, 450; Springfield Plains, 600; and Independence Elementary, 600. Middle school capacities are: Clarkston Middle School, 1,275 and Sashabaw Middle School, 830. Capacity at Clarkston High School is 2,200.

Anita Banach, communications director for Clarkston schools said Independence, North Sashabaw and Pine Knob elementaries and CHS are over capacity. However, as classroom use changes, so does the capacity of the building.

Independence and North Sashabaw elementaries saw the largest increase in students which Banach attributed mostly to growth and partially to last year's redistricting.

She added because Clarkston is still a "growth district" the Board of Education is continuously discussing more effective use of the facilities.

She said there are no formal plans to consider additional schools at this time.

While Clarkston schools administrators tally the number of heads inside schools, the place to be for elementary students is still outside on the playground. Darcy Burleson was energetic, loved the outdoors and the color purple

Literacy garden honors kindergarten teacher

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Young Darcy Burleson, who passed away during the Easter season of 1999, has been honored with a garden in her memory at Springfield Plains Elementary School.

The kindergarten teacher, who had several bouts with cancer, was part of the school's staff when it opened six years ago. Dr. Sharron Devereaux, principal at Springfield Plains, said Burleson, in her late 20s, "was energetic and packed a lot of out of life in a few short years." She added that Burleson loved the outdoors, making it fitting to have a memorial outside.

Donations were taken at the time of Burleson's passing and the school decided the funds should be used for the children in Burleson's honor.

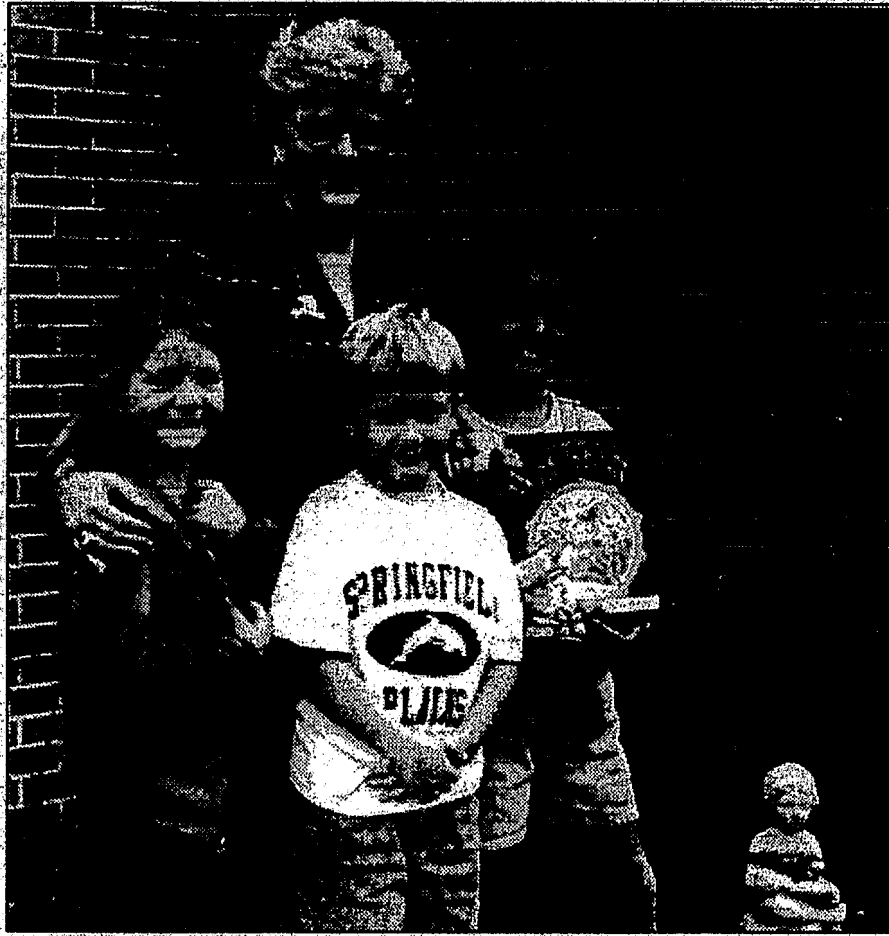

Devereaux said that one of the key people in making this dream a reality was Beth LaHousse, a master gardener. During the fall of 1999, a new addition to the school was built, now the first and second grade wing and part of the kindergarten building.

It was LaHousse who said the area surrounding the wing would be a beautiful place for a garden. The school's staff agreed that the idea was "perfect."

Prospective garden designs were made via a computer and a landscape designer from Bordines, Brad Meehle, helped in the creation process.

Joan Scheib, a paraprofessional and master gardener, and LaHousse, along with their families did the actual planting, Devereaux said. Three lilac trees, vibrant black-eyed Susans and an evergreen adorn the greenery.

Purple was Burleson's favorite color and

Dr. Sharron Devereaux, principal, with from left, Katie Gibson, Kyle Bowman and Allison Reese in the literacy garden dedicated to kindergarten teacher Darcy Burleson.

Devereaux finds it a remarkable coincidence that at the center focal point of the garden stands a purple butterfly bush with a stone angel figurine.

Another nice touch to the garden is a picnic table, donated by the PTA, whose members have offered to maintain the garden.

Each year the children and staff have fun with a festival day featuring creative workshops. The Tanners, an active school family who own a construction company, ran a workshop this year helping to create benches for the kids to enjoy. Recycled wood benches were built and have now found a home in the garden.

A plaque, made by Clarkston Memorial, is a special part of the garden that reads "Welcome to our literacy garden where the children can read, reflect and write. Dedicated to the memory of our friend Miss Burleson, kindergarten teacher 1994-1999."

On Sept. 20 a dedication was held with approximately 20 people in attendance including school officials, district teachers close to Burleson and Darcy's parents, Sandy March and Art Burleson who were "touched and pleased."

Devereaux shared that March had recently written a note of thanks, saying that the garden and dedication meant a lot and it was special to have a memorial for Darcy.

Springfield Plains Elementary takes pride in its language arts program that balances the literacy approach with reading and writing, said Devereaux. All the classrooms have outside doors, allowing the outdoors to be an extension of the classroom where the children often go to write, read and take awareness walks.

Devereaux explained that this, plus a literacy garden, sets the mood for the program nicely. Devereaux said she is pleased to be able to do something the kids can benefit from and honor Darcy all in one. "I think we accomplished that both," she said.

Is Kroger coming to Springfield Twp.?

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Kroger Company's plans for a store in Springfield Township have been put on hold by the township's Planning Commission.

At their July 17 meeting, members of the commission requested that the developer prepare concept plans for the site and submit them for review by the township consultant, with the plans addressing the issues raised by the commission.

"I think every Planning Commission member had an issue or issues with the plan that needed to be addressed," said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

The proposal was developed by Boutrous Companies of Auburn Hills, and would be located on the southwest corner of Dixie Highway, off of Davisburg.

One of the primary concerns cited by the board was the need for the store to be in keeping with the rural quality of the township.

Members of the Springfield Township community voiced their concerns with regard to noise, traffic, and lighting.

"We'd like to see something with a village atmosphere," said Commissioner Dave Hopper. "The ball's in their court. I don't know what they're coming back with. We want a nice theme. We hope that they listen to residents' demands."

At the July 17 Planning Commission meeting, Hopper said that the development should have the following characteristics:

- Unified development concept.
- Central design theme and features.
- Significant functional physical integration of project components.
- An internal circulation system that is not entirely dependent upon the major roads.
- Accessibility from all areas of Springfield Township.

Hopper commented that the Pebble Creek subdivision would be affected by the commercial development on the property, and said that extensive buffering would be required to deal with that situation.

He said that he could envision an architectural theme along Dixie Highway, and the proposed development could be the start of that theme coming to fruition.

Edward Boutrous, president of Boutrous Companies, presented the proposal at the meeting.

The plan called for a store totaling 54,000 square feet, with room for expansion that could total 28,000 square feet. The site has approximately 28 acres, but only 17.5 acres would be developed on the site at this

Final phase of Superfund cleanup begins

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The words of Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole seemed to sum up the sentiments of many of the people gathered at the Superfund site Thursday.

"I know for many of us, this is a happy day," Strole said, as approximately 50 people were on hand for an open house at the site, located on Woodland Trail in Springfield Township.

The event was capped by the switch-on of the soil vapor extraction system, marking the beginning of the third and final phase of the project, the cleanup of the deep soils.

Area residents Dave and Diana Hopper, along with their two children, son Ryan and daughter Shelby, had the honor of turning on the system at the conclusion of the open house.

According to Todd Pees of GZA, a contractor for DaimlerChrysler, the cleanup project will take approximately 5-7 years to be completed.

Strole credited the efforts of several different people and agencies in making the day a reality. She said that several area residents, along with the Environmental Protection Agency and DaimlerChrysler, "worked to find a solution to a very difficult problem."

"I don't think we should focus on the past. The Independence Fire Station #3 may be replaced

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Independence Township Board is considering an alternative to renovating Fire Station No. 3 — building a whole new station altogether.

The facility, which is 30 years old, is located on Maybee Road at Pine Knob Rd.

One possibility under consideration is using blueprints from Station #2, located at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads as a guide.

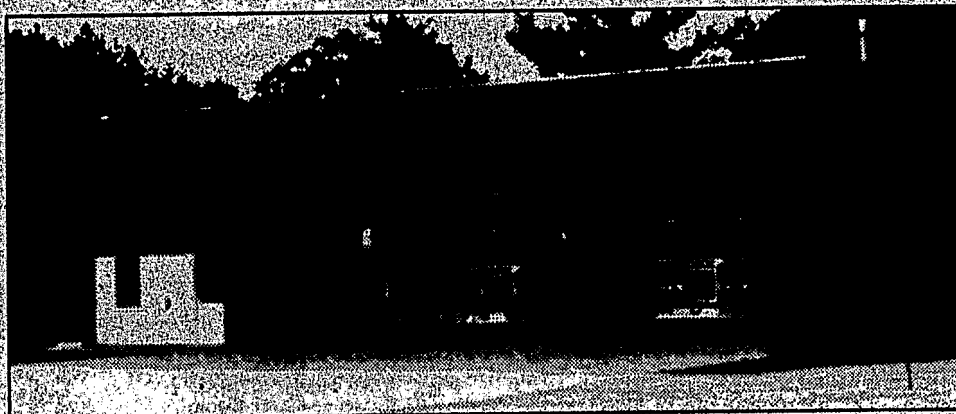

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said architect David Katz can use Station #2 prints without a copyright infringement. A new Station #3 could also be built on vacant property next to the existing facility, which would allow for a smooth transition from the old to the new, she said.

Fire Chief Steve Ronk said his preference is for a new building. "That's what we hope, unless the price is out of bounds. But we think we have a handle on the costs."

A new station would not be a carbon copy of Station #2, he said. "Station #2 prints could be used as a guide. But the building is 13 years old and there have been (building) code changes and changes in our department. The concept will be close, and there's adequate space, but the new building won't mirror Station #2."

Ronk said he and the township attorney are working on a new contract for Katz to proceed.

According to Katz, the original budget for the renovation project was

Will Station #3 on Maybee Road someday look like . . .

Station #2 at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads?

$400,000, as he outlined in an Aug. 21 memo to the board.

Six general contractors pre-qualified when invited to bid on the addition and remodeling of the station. One of the contractors withdrew from the process within three days.

The bids were returned with estimates between $647,400 and $749,500.

"Each of the bidding contractors were personally interviewed and their estimates scrutinized to determine high costs and what could be done to bring this facility to completion within the budget," Katz wrote in his letter.

As part of their decision, the board voted to reject all of the bids for renovations. The board will now pursue obtaining new bids for renovating the fire station, as well as finding out what it would take to obtain bids for a new fire station #3.

At their Sept. 5 meeting, several board trustees, noting that the cost of renovations seem to be higher than anticipated, questioned whether the township would be better off building a new fire station #3 instead of renovating the existing one.

"When the price of remodeling gets as high, you'd be better off getting a new one," said trustee Neil Wallace.

Independence
Fire Dept. thrives under leadership of two fine men

A changing of the guard takes place this month at the Independence Township Fire Department. Fire Chief Gar Wilson, who served on the department for 30 years, 13 as its chief, retired last month.

During his watch the community has grown over 30 percent. During that time there have been many technological advances, and a new Advanced Life Support system has been approved by voters.

Wilson has been well-regarded and will be missed by members of his department, the township board and the community.

Perhaps one of the most telling aspects of his character is his humility.

When asked about his years of service he said, "It's been rewarding. I hope I've done right by them."

With the promotion of Assistant Fire Chief Steve Ronk to Chief, a third generation in the Ronk family takes a leadership position in the community.

Steve's grandmother, Elizabeth Ronk, was Clarkston's postmaster for 37 years, in addition to being a teacher and involved in the community through her church and other volunteer activities.

Steve's father, Frank "Tink" Ronk, served as Independence Township's Fire Chief from 1972 to 1984, and then took the top leadership role in the township as supervisor, from 1984 to 1992.

Steve has certainly paid his dues, having been on the department for 25 years. He has consistently pressed for better equipment and service for his department and community.

Under times of highest duress while fighting a house fire causing loss of life, or in administrative or management issues we have found Steve Ronk to be the consummate professional.

The township board did not consider looking elsewhere for candidates — a high compliment to his abilities and character.

Of his promotion to fire chief, his father said, "We're very pleased, very proud. He'll serve the community well, I'm sure of that."

So are we. Congratulations, Chief.

Letters To The Editor

Lack of understanding on Proposal I

I must say that the lack of understanding of Michigan's Proposal I is disturbing, to say the least.

It raises the question: "Why are all the opponents of vouchers, teacher testing, and public funding guarantees public school employees?"

It seems that public school employees should be opening their doors to reform ideas. Instead they shoot down every reform initiative — including structural reforms such as the recently failed bond issue in Flint — and offer no solutions of their own.

Recently Pat Walworth of Mundy Township attacked Proposal I's use of the word "failing" as used to describe some of Michigan's public schools. The complaint was as if there's nothing wrong with any public school.

Yes, there are many successful schools in Michigan and many effective teachers. However, they are not all doing well. There are a few that are failing to provide the services that parents' tax money is paying for. As a result, the children in those schools are being done service.

You can coddle a failing school district to by refusing to describe it as failing, but sooner someone is going to have to admit that there's a problem. If Proposal I can make people "ashamed" of their public schools, maybe that's what is needed to get failing schools back up to an acceptable performance.

Neglecting to admit there is a problem does not solve the problem. Ask any cancer patient who has waited too long to seek diagnosis.

It's time for a change in Michigan. Come on, parents and citizens, let's take a stand against the status quo that is failing our children. Let's Vote Yes on Proposal I.

School spirit is alive and well

Score one for the home team.

Recently, while my fellow writer Ed Davis was on his honeymoon, I had the opportunity to cover a few Clarkston athletic events live and in person.

From a tennis fund-raiser to a key varsity football showdown, the students all demonstrated their enthusiasm and camaraderie during these events, and the crowd got involved in the fun.

The crowd at the girls' basketball game Sept. 21 vs. Oak Park was a good example of that. Right from the moment the team hit the floor for warm-ups, the music flowed from the stereo system and the crowd made their way toward the stands to cheer on the Wolves.

One particular song during the warm-ups got my attention — the theme music for the current WWF Champion, the Great One, the most electrifying man in sports-entertainment today, the People's Champion — The Rock.

Hearing The People's Music that night made me want to run to the center of the court and hit somebody with The People's Elbow.

Just kidding!

Anyway, I digress. Once the game got underway, the crowd heartily cheered the efforts of the team. Signs abounded in the audience, supporting individual players on the team, as well as team-oriented signs, such as "Leave 'Em In The Dust", "Crash The Boards", and "Wolves Are On The Prowl."

The armchair referees made their presence felt as well, letting the real referees know how they felt about their calls, good or bad.

When all was said and done, the Wolves garnered an impressive 76-60 win to solidify their standing as a team to be reckoned with in OAA Division I.

The next day, it was on to the soggy tundra of the Clarkston High School football field for the Wolves' showdown against Troy Athens.

Even though overcast skies before the game would lead to a downpour during the game, the spirits of the Clarkston faithful were high as the gladiators of the gridiron charged the field to the applause of Wolves' fans.

Things did not start off the way the team and its fans had hoped, as an early Clarkston fumble led to an Athens touchdown. However, the Wolves fought back to take a 23-20 lead into the half.

By the time the half hit — in fact, around second quarter — the rain was out in full force.

Your fearless reporter had to take cover in order to make sure his camera wasn't soaked and his in-depth game notes became impossible to read — not that my handwriting's easy to understand under normal circumstances.

Luckily, the people in the Clarkston Athletic Boosters tent located near the concession stands, took pity on me and let me take cover as they were busily cooking the hot dogs and pouring the pop.

At halftime, I decided to make my small contribution to the Clarkston athletic program by ordering some nachos and a pop at the concession stands before once again taking cover.

Luckily, the rain cleared up by the time the second half got underway. Athens kicked a field goal in the third quarter to tie the score at 23, but Clarkston would answer in the first period with a game-winning drive to keep their perfect season intact.

Before time expired, the rain once again began to descend upon the area, and, once again, your fearless reporter had to take cover in the Athletic Boosters tent.

Neither rain, nor snow, nor sleet, nor hail could dampen the spirits of the Clarkston team and the fans that night, as they earned a hard-fought victory.

All told, it was a privilege to be a part of the events. However, my esteemed colleague Mr. Davis is back on the scene from his honeymoon in Cancun and will once again assume the reins of keeping readers of The Clarkston News informed on what's going on in the wide world of Clarkston sports.

Find inspiration wherever you can

Got two e-mails recently from gals that I graduated from Clarkston High School with — coincidentally both have first names that start with the letter "D."

Ironic, ain't it, that my first name also starts with the letter "D." It is a small and strange world we live in, folks.

I haven't heard hide nor hair from these chicks since that blessed day in June, 1981. Heck, I probably didn't even hear from Decann and Debbie on graduation day — but that is beside the point. The point is, I started to reminisce about those by-gone days of big hair, big combs sticking out of designer jean pockets, groovy lingo and of course, The Ghoul.

I won't embarrass the "D's" by writing their last names (maiden or married). Suffice to say, they exist.

The Ghoul, a late-night scary "B" movie host came to mind 'cause Decann mentioned a magazine that three students at Sashabaw Junior High (now "middle") School tried to produce in the 1970s.

I think it was called "Cheez Whiz," and it was inspired by The Ghoul, whose number one prop was a can of the gooey orange stuff. Steve Zill, Tom Hall and myself put out three two editions (mimeographed for free by Tom's mom in the school office) before the censors shut us down. Prior to being stomped out of business, I think we each made 75 cents off the sales (we sold 'em for a nickel apiece.) So much for the First Amendment and freedom of the press.

We drew up cartoons with our hero, The Ghoul and his sidekick Froggy — a rubber frog that the Ghoul tormented. I guess the information gate keepers at the school didn't think entrepreneurship with such a ghoulish slant wasn't healthy for young minds.

Which was probably the opinion of most adults of The Ghoul and that's why he ain't on the air in the Detroit area anymore. That said, I did run across a website driven petition drive to get him back.

Apparently he's kept his edge with a show in the Cleveland area. Those wishing to subject a new generation of area youth to The Ghoul can sign the petition at www.ghoulfan.com

Decann also mentioned something about big hair ala Farrah Fawcett. Which reminded me of a poem I wrote for comrade classmate Mark Reene in the 9th grade.

*"There once was a girl named Farrah
Who really had the hair-a.
She's got blue eyes
And she's so good looking
She doesn't even need mascara!"*

Needless to say, English teacher Mr. Swartout, wasn't impressed with "Mark's" wit or style. "His" poem got a "C." The one I wrote for myself got an "A." Sorry, Mark.

Debbie e-mailed me in response to the question I posed to area women about Alpha Male Al Gore's 47-minute kiss of his wife Tipper at the Democratic National Convention.

Wrote she (Debbie, not Tipper): "I am responding to this week's column regarding the upcoming election. The answer to your question is an emphatic NO!!!! I did see 'the kiss' — and as far as I'm concerned, Al Gore could kiss Hillary Clinton and it wouldn't turn my head.

"I've been in 'deep depression' since November 1992, when we elected the current White House resident. I was living in New Hampshire in 1991/1992 and saw the whole election process in great, gory detail from the primaries to the election. Believe me in an election year in New Hampshire — that's the only thing in the news!! (In a non-election year it's all about the weather.)

"If it's possible, I think the current Democratic candidate scares me even more than the last one (yikes!!). Anyways, I just hope enough rational, reasonable people care enough to get out and vote this year so we don't have to suffer another four years (maybe even eight!) of pure lunacy — Debbie. . ."

So, Debbie, what do you really think?

The Clarkston News asks:

What is your opinion of the Kroger proposal to build a grocery store in Springfield Township?

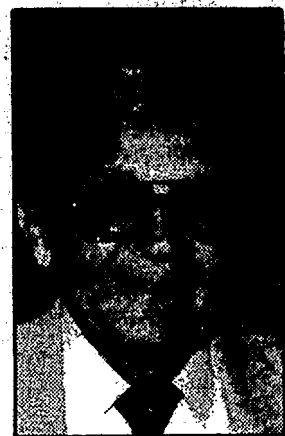

"It sounds great, but for the the safety factor of not knowing which corner that they're going to place it. I'm surprised they would come out this far, when there's one in Clarkston."

— Diana Walls

"It doesn't really make a difference to me."

— Bill Schaefer

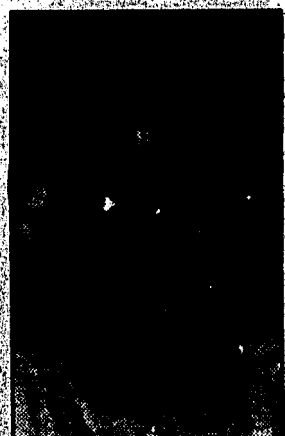

"I'm for it. It would be around the corner."

— Philip Kowalewski

"Definitely, yes. If I had to get milk, I'd have to go to Holly or Clarkston."

Reject 'easy' Thanksgiving recipes

Maple Leaf Farms of Milford, Indiana sent me a recipe for Thanksgiving dinner.

It reads, "Thanksgiving dinner has never been easier to prepare than with Maple Leaf Farms pre-seasoned and individually wrapped duckling."

Oh, yeah. "It's mild like chicken, yet flavorful like beef."

In the first place, Thanksgiving dinners are not suppose to be easy to prepare. It's traditional, certainly in our family, that the "little woman" start preparing three kinds of pie, apple, pumpkin and mincemeat early Wednesday before Thanksgiving Thursday.

Come early Thursday, it's dressing making time, and there's sweet and white potatoes to prepare, cranberries to cran, a vegetable to burn, buns bun and questions to ask. Questions like: "Isn't there something you're supposed to be doing outdoors?"

Thanksgiving just wouldn't be a holiday unless the cook was so worn out at dinner time she couldn't pass the platter of pickles. I think that's in the Bible.

So, Maple Leaf Farms can't sell me on "easy to prepare" Thanksgiving duckling dinner, even though I love duck.

Another thing that caught my eye in this recipe, which, by the way, served only six, (some Thanksgiving dinner) was the 1 3/4 cups of Couscous.

What? My college days' Webster's dictionary doesn't have the word, and neither does our Merriam. It also didn't come between court and cousin in our Britanicas.

The fifth thing you're supposed to do in this "easy" recipe is "add couscous, almonds and raisins with their liquids."

Right up until then I was thinking couscous was one of those "invented for space" things. You know, like Teflon and Tang. But a space-food wouldn't carry the extra weight of a liquid.

I suppose I could have had one of our daughters get on the Internet (why do they capitalize that word?) and ask the Farms what couscous is, or the county extensioners, but, heck, I wasn't going to let Hazel see an easy-to-prepare Thanksgiving dinner anyway.

It's her job to spend 25 hours a day preparing a meal that will last 20 minutes. The especially good thing about that 20 minutes is that it's the only silent period of the day.

More from the Old Farmer's 2001 Almanac: • The longest word you can spell without repeating a letter: uncopyrightable. • The longest word with just one vowel: Strengths. • The only English word with a triple letter: goddesship. • The word with the longest definition in most dictionaries: set. The shortest "ology" (study of) word: oology (the study of birds' eggs). • The only word in which an "f" is pronounced like a "v": of.

Ameritech complaint update

My Lansing colleagues and I are working to guarantee Michigan telephone customers never experience such deplorable service again. Legislation introduced in the House last week calls for the MPSC to issue standards for the quality of service provided by telecommunication providers by July 1, 2001. House members also anticipate discussions on Senate Bill 1342, legislation allowing the Public Service Commission to fine telephone companies up to $1 million for fail-

I am currently drafting legislation to address another telephone customer complaint brought to my attention: the refund credit people are not receiving on their bills for added phone services, such as call-forwarding, call-waiting and voice mail. Law currently entitles customers to a rebate on their basic telephone charge when service is out, but MPSC officials have informed me they are not authorized to act on the extra services. I have made this oversight known to the House Energy and Technology Committee for its consideration during discussions on SB 1342 and HB 5964, but I also will have a bill ready to introduce giving the commission the nec-

Suspect sought in Hungry Howie's robbery attempt

An attempted robbery took place at the Hungry Howie's Pizza, 4727 Clarkston Rd, on Sept. 27 at 9:30 p.m. According to police reports, the suspect approached a young woman working at the front counter. When she asked how she could help, he pointed a silver revolver at her and said he wanted the money. He then brought other employees to the front of the store. They later ran out the back door, while he ran out the front with no money, said Oakland County Sheriff's Det. Dirk Feneley of the Independence Township Substation. The man was not found after a K-9 search was conducted at the time of the crime.

The suspect is described as a white male in his mid-20s. Approximately six feet tall with a slim build, he has green eyes and short black hair. He was wearing a gray and blue flannel shirt, blue jeans and a black canvas boonie style hat, reports say.

An investigation is still underway. Authorities have a couple of suspects and lineups are scheduled.

Anyone who recognizes the man is asked to call the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at (888) 887-6146.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1985)

With plans for the new 52nd District Courthouse proceeding, members of the Independence Township board have voted to sign an Economic Development Corp. (EDC) resolution for the project. The board also approved the appointment of two new members to the EDC Board of Directors for the duration of the courthouse construction.

Up to seven aides have been approved to work in split-grade elementary school classes in the Clarkston district. Authorization to spend up to $44,500 for aides was confirmed at a special meeting of the board of education attended by principals of the five elementary school buildings.

The Independence Township Board plans to present a written protest to the Oakland County Road Commission for its decision not to place stop signs at Deer Lake and Sagamore Roads. In June, the township had asked that stop signs be placed at the intersection in conjunction with the widening of Dixie Highway and improvements to Deer Lake Road.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

Food Town corporate headquarters has been moved to Clarkston from its previous location in Waterford Township. The company owns five supermarkets in the North Oakland County area, including one on Sashabaw and Maybee Roads.

The possibility that additional improvements may be made to Clintonwood, Independence Township's new park, was considered when the township board met in special session to amend an application for federal Community Development Act Money. The original application for $33,500 had been earmarked for road improvements and code enforcement.

Clarkston High School Film Club, now in its second year of operation, will continue to present quality films for a low admission during the coming year. A variety of motion pictures will be shown. These include "The Caine Mutiny," "The Twelve Chairs," the silent version of "The Phantom of the Opera," and "All Quiet on the Western Front."

50 YEARS AGO (1950)

Mrs. Lloyd Sibley was elected worthy matron of Joseph C. Bird Chapter 294, O.E.S., at the annual meeting held in Clarkston Masonic Temple. Donald Harris was elected worthy patron; Mrs. Roy Conrad, associate matron; Roy Conrad, associate patron; Mrs. William Studt, secretary; Wilma Doebl, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Johnson, conductress; and Mrs. Donald Harris, associate conductress.

A School Savings Program is being started this year through the sponsorship of the Clarkston State Bank. This program will enable students in the elementary grades to learn the habits of thrift and to become acquainted with the methods of banking.

About 50 Clarkston students will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend the MSC vs. Maryland football game. A special ticket is available to band and football players. The group will be transported to East Lansing in a school bus. Mr. Ridgley, Mr. Thayer and Mr. Ladd will also drive and take the students.

Keep up with the Wolves each and every week. Read The Clarkston News. Call 625-3370 to subscribe today!

Awards and new officers mark Chamber dinner

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce completed the changing of the guard last week.

Before the end of the year, they intend to complete a change of location.

At the chamber's annual meeting Thursday, held at Silver Lake Golf Club, over 100 members attended to celebrate the past year and look toward the future.

Dawn Horner, currently vice president of operations at Clarkston State Bank, assumed the reins of chamber president for the 2000-01 year.

Horner takes over the presidency from Ron Davis of Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home in Clarkston.

The chamber also recognized several of its members with various awards designed to honor service toward the chamber and the Clarkston community.

Heading the list was Donna McCloskey of State Farm Insurance's McCloskey Agency, who was honored with the President's Award. This is the second time McCloskey has been selected for that honor; she was previously recognized in 1997.

As she gave her acceptance speech, Horner complimented Davis on his service as chamber president and said she has a tough act to follow.

"It will be difficult to top what Ron has done," she said.

As president, Horner said she will run the board meetings and oversee chamber activities. The chamber will hold a meeting Thursday, at which time its executive committee will be formed for the upcoming year.

By the time December rolls around, the chamber's offices will be in a new location. Presently, the chamber is located in the same building as 52-2 District Court.

According to chamber secretary Penny Shanks, the new home for the Chamber of Commerce will be located at 5856 S. Main, which is currently the home for Garrow/Loftis Realtors.

"We expect to be in the offices by Dec. 1," Shanks said.

With the move to the new location, Horner said one of her objectives as president will be to increase the membership in the chamber.

In addition, she hopes that both new and existing members are satisfied with what the chamber has to offer.

"We want to make sure the members get what they pay for," Horner said.

As part of those efforts, the chamber will be increasing the number of summer concerts in the park from four to six, and will work on expanding its Career Connections program, which it runs in conjunction with Clarkston Community Schools.

Horner said the program is intended to give high school students a chance to figure out their future career paths by experiencing those careers first-hand. She commented that many students enter college unsure of their career direction.

"We want to give them an opportunity to job shadow or spend time in a business," she said.

In addition, Horner said the chamber hopes to enhance its community promotions branch, and offer both newcomers and current Clarkston residents a glimpse of what the community has to offer.

She also said the chamber hopes to put together a holiday festival in December 2001.

Attendees will be asked to donate at least $15 each which includes a complete dinner (mostaccioli, salad, dinner rolls, desert, coffee or soft drink), a silent auction, a 50/50 Raffle, games, and entertainment by "Party Sounds". Community focuses on after-school activities for kids

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Teens are most prone to getting in trouble between the time school gets out until parents get home from work, with highest concerns during the 6-7 p.m. hour, researchers have concluded. With nearly 25 in attendance including members of the education, business and faith communities as well as civic groups and law enforcement, The Clarkston Coalition for Youth met Sept. 14 to discuss after-school activities for youth in middle schools.

There are activities in the Clarkston community galore, and for that reason the turnout from youth should be much more vast, the group finds.

David Reschke, Clarkston Community Schools Assistant Superintendent for K-8 operations, stated there are over 1,800 middle schoolers in the Clarkston schools, not including those in a private setting. Right now, many sports teams as well as clubs and activities have room for at least 400 more kids, he said. Reschke wants to urge students to get more involved in sports, intramural activities, and different clubs such as the Optimist Club.

The school district is working with the Clarkston Christian Association, an extension of Mt. Zion Temple and located at Sashabaw and Maybee, to provide a safe after-school environment for youth.

Pastor Rich Nowik said that bus transportation is provided from the schools to the C.C.A., and parents can pick up their kids, there, in the evening. Turnouts have been large, anywhere from 30-50 kids an evening are in attendance. Many activities are offered with ample room for skating, a half-pipe for skateboarding and Sony Playstations are set up for video fun, he said. Programs in the past have included boxing, sewing and a cooking session is even being considered. Tutoring is available as well. Nowik said the goal is to feature a variety of options for a variety of kids, in order to keep them off the streets and in a positive environment.

Clarkston Community Education Director Marilyn Allyn said this is the first year that classes are open to those 15 years and older. Young people can now participate in classes of specific areas of interest to them including photography, crafts and different areas of fitness, all in an adult environment. Community Ed has moved to the old Clarkston Middle School, at Church and Waldon, and is undergoing renovations. When complete, there will be a tutoring center for the four-year old program that employs certified teachers. More parent/child activities, including knitting, sewing and a "learn how to learn" class, may be in the future, Allyn said.

Other after school options could include activities at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation, private lessons such as music and dance, and involvement in church youth groups.

The coalition speculates that perhaps the lack of participation in existing activities is because young people are not aware of the options or information is not getting into the hands of parents. Group e-mail for those directly involved with the school system was suggested to solve this dilemma.

One that individual proposed websites for after school activities. In theory, young people could find the sites on their own while "surfing." This would allow them to feel that it was, most importantly, their own idea to get involved with a certain after school activity.

Rick Hedden, of the Coalition Information and Awareness Committee, recommends the After School Resource Guide, a proposed piece of literature that will provide parents and students with options for activities, volunteer work and employment. The guide would be a collaborative effort of community service organizations, businesses and Clarkston-area schools. To make this work, the community must work together. Help is needed in many areas such as research, advertising, public relations, production and business support. Other suggestions, from Hedden, were fund-raisers for resources to put into more activity options, structured transportation available from activities to homes, and overall better support and awareness in the community on the matters of most concern.

One mother, spoke of her daughter's involvement with the C.C.A. As a sixth grade student, it was the "in" thing to do. In seventh grade, however, it's not the "cool" place to be anymore, she said.

This is a reality within the pressures of today's youth, but it is not stopping the coalition. "We care about what our kids are doing," Hedden said and the more options in after school activities there are, the more youth will want to take part.

The group agreed that home is where it all begins. Parents need to take responsibility and perhaps make sacrifices in order to help their children. Now, there are more options to choose from. In 1995, the coalition, formerly the Clarkston Community Task Force, formed "to serve the community by promoting awareness, support and opportunities aimed at reducing high risk behaviors including alcohol, tobacco and other drug use; so our youth may grow toward their greatest physical, intellectual, emotional, social and spiritual potential."

New Big Boy owners 'have fallen in love' with Clarkston

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's been two months and John and Renee Nannini have discovered that Clarkston is a "heart-warming community." The new owners of the Big Boy restaurant, located at 6440 Dixie Highway, have fallen in love with Clarkston and are excited to be a fresh part of this "wonderful" town.

"So many people have wished us good luck and welcomed us to the community," John Nannini said. It has meant so much to his family that they wish to extend the welcome back to Clarkston.

Currently residing in Clinton Township, the Nanninis did their research before coming here. "It's a good store," John said. The established restaurant, in business for close to 25 years, has been successful with previous owners Cal and Betty Lange, run by Mike and Jackie Bogel, adding that the "busy location draws volume." These are obvious keys to prosperity in the business, however, the Nanninis are not leaving it at that. They are putting their heart and soul into the company.

Elias Brothers has played a significant role in the Nanninis' lives. John has worked for Big Boy for 29 years. Bussing tables at 14, John eventually worked his way up the ranks in corporate Elias Brothers as manager, district supervisor and vice president.

Hectic schedules and travelling with the company partly prompted John's decision to have his own Big Boy. The timing was right and John said he feels blessed to have the opportunity to take a break from the hustle and bustle of the corporation. To add to John's resume, his brother Mike owns and runs two Big Boy franchises in Las Vegas and John played a key role in the opening of those stores.

John says of owning the Clarkston store, "I love it." He's glad to have jumped on the chance to do this and as an added bonus can spend more time with the family, since the Nannini's two children also help out. Chuck, 18, works as a cook and Kristine, 15, a waitress. Both children have worked in the Big Boy arena since 14. John's wife Renee, has conducted ultrasounds for Mt. Clemens General Hospital 23 years.

The Nanninis are proud to bring a "new energy" and a "new beginning" to the Clarkston Big Boy. This will result in upgrades to the booths for the comfort of the guests, new tabletops, wallpaper and paint.

Chandeliers have been ordered for new lighting over the booths as well. Nice touches, like flowers on each table, have brightened up the atmosphere and new artwork for the walls, such as pictures of historical Clarkston, will be added. The buffet will be changed over to a refrigerator unit instead of the ice system currently used, allowing for fresher food. A modern Elias Brothers design, for the outside of the building, will eventually be installed. This may result in the front entrance moved closer to the main parking area for convenience. None of the construction will interfere with business or the guests' dining experience, John stated.

Different dinner specials will be featured every night. Soup and salad are free with a dinner entree. Signature Big Boy items, such as the Big Boy combo, Brawney Lad and other classic favorites have returned. Don't worry, the Nanninis won't raise prices on dinners, either. Price increases are a corporate decision. Individual ownership only has the right to lower prices, not raise them, he said.

The Nanninis aim to "focus on quality," John said. Priorities have been set for, number one, the quality of food; number two, the speed of service; and number three, a sanitary environment, John said. They feel fortunate to have a well-staffed store of wonderful employees. However, they need night-time cooks and want to hire "family people."

A team effort equals success, John believes. Managers Jean Brinker and Dave Newcomb have known him for many years, worked for him at other Big Boy locations and followed the Nannini family to Clarkston. John said Brinker and Newcomb are, "more than managers, they're like partners." Brinker, whom John calls the "marketing guru," now commutes from Imlay City to Clarkston. Several dedicated managers including Mary Hensley, Sherry Gilbert, Nicole Lewis and Newcomb, drive approximately hour-long distances to work. Working at the Clarkston Big Boy for the Nanninis, according to Brinker is, "worth the drive."

Pam Babcock, waitress at the Clarkston store for 16 years, has found the Nanninis "really nice to work for." She is looking forward to positive results from all the hard work put into this franchise. "You want to take pride in your job" and Big Boy, and its recent found "rejuvenation," is contributing to that, she said. Babcock adds she feels

What are we teaching our young people?

Have you watched television lately? The political sound-bites forth the November election seem to be in full swing. My view of the "video ads" may be different than the card carrying Democrat or Republican. As an independent voter, I see them as sophisticated and clever, but not particularly informative or truthful.

The 'end justifies the means' philosophy may rule in the world of politics, but is that the logic we want our young people to embrace?

We want our students to be successful and prepared to live in this new millennium. It would also be nice if we taught them to value fairness and honesty and to appreciate substance over glitzy promises. While political commentary is not my area of expertise, the video clips that I have been viewing along with my fellow citizens have forced me to think more critically about the politics that will impact the education of our youth.

The polls continually demonstrate that people believe in their local public schools. The 32nd Annual Phi Delta Kappa/Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitude Toward The Public Schools published this September tells us, "The notion that the public is dissatisfied with its public schools is based on myth instead of fact. Respondents continue to indicate a high level of satisfaction with their local schools, a level of satisfaction that this year approaches its all-time high among the parents whose children attend those schools." In fact, 70 percent of the public school parents would grade the school their oldest child attends an A or B.

In addition, the poll states, "Public satisfaction is also evident in the fact that 59 percent of Americans believe that reforming the existing system of public schools, rather than seeking an alternative system, is the best way to bring about school improvement. When given the specific choice, 75 percent would improve and strengthen existing public schools while just 22 percent would opt for vouchers, the alternative most frequently mentioned by public school critics."

The millions of teachers, students and parents who know the quality of public schools across this nation should take some satisfaction in the opinions shared in this highly regarded poll; but none should be satisfied until every child "makes the grade." The fact is that the vast majority of America's schools are successful. While much remains to be accomplished, major improvements have been made over the past decade. Like it or not, the fact is that there is no simple solution to the set of complex problems that some of our young people face. Most educators would be thrilled if they could use something as simple as a test to fix the ills associated with poverty, the breakdown of the family, and lack of parental involvement/support. Now I am not suggesting that we ditch standardized tests, but overemphasis on testing or believing that testing alone can improve education will lead us down the wrong path.

The use of data that is relevant, accurate and properly analyzed is critical to school improvement and student success. But, it is also important to understand that the interpretation of data must also be done carefully and with a great degree of discretion. A "results orientation" is a logical way to move school districts forward, but only if the schools take the time to understand how educational practice impacts results. Admittedly, in some schools across this land, expectations are too vague, and teachers don't always understand how the strategies they use influence learning outcomes. So, collecting data regularly is crucial, as is the need for educators to foster collaboration, creativity and purposeful action. However, the real magic may be to develop a better understanding of the "connections" that lead to positive learning gains.

The popular talk of teacher testing is also a bit distorted. The fact is that public school teachers are already tested in their academic fields. Besides, those who know anything about teaching can tell you that teaching is as much an art as it is a science. Two teachers doing the exact same things with similar groups of students can get very different results. Let's not confuse education with the game of Jeopardy or Who Wants to be a Millionaire? The reality is that today's teacher must be able to help students perform much more complex tasks (higher order thinking, problem solving, teamwork and communication); and the pursuit of trivia will not particularly prepare them or our kids for society circa 2000. Again, tests are important but thinking that they will, in and of themselves, improve education is simply wrong. It is important to keep some questions in mind as we seek an effective balance of good ideas:

1. As a nation, we spend a great deal of money on testing. Is this the best way to gather the data necessary to help us improve our schools? Or should such dollars be used to support smaller class size, the purchase of technology or to address the societal problems our children face? What is the correct amount to spend on testing vs. instruction?

2. If teacher testing becomes a political lightning rod, how much money will it cost? How effective will such tests be? What do we hope to gain?

3. Testing requires time and energy as well. How much instructional time should we be willing to lose for testing purposes? Research suggests that whenever the "regular" teacher is absent, the level of instruction is likely to drop. Will "substitute" time be necessary to offset teacher testing? How much?

I wish that I could tell you that making the nation's schools better is an easy task. It would be nice to be able to say the results on any one test were a measure that would provide citizens with an ironclad guarantee of student learning. The reality is that balancing the way we utilize our human resources, our time and money is more likely to produce the results we want. No single-minded approach or catchy slogan will match the resolve of parents and teachers to make the difference.

close to so many customers through her years of service, and knows them on a personal level. "You want them to be happy . . . you want to do a good job for them," she said.

Big Boy has much to make its Clarkston patrons happy. For example, businesses can reserve a section for company meetings or events. Management likes to stress "good fast food" for lunch hours and welcomes customers to call ahead their orders. Fundraisers are also available for civic organizations.

Seniors can play bingo every Tuesday at 2 p.m. and on Tuesday, Oct. 10, there will be a senior appreciation breakfast.

For the little ones, Wednesday nights mean Kiddie Night from 5-8 p.m. Kids won't want to miss Tippy Toes the Clown or Zacco the Clown who have been known to stop in from time to time. A $3.99 children's buffet with favorite foods like hot dogs, spaghetti and a make-your-own sundae bar, will tickle their tastebuds. So far the turnout has been great, gathering 50-55 kids for a fun-filled evening of games, face painting and more.

Parents can sign their kids up for the Big Boy birthday club. Have a party at the Clarkston restaurant for $2.49 per child and let the staff take care of the rest. Invitations will be sent out full of party details. Kids meals are provided as well as costumes and an appearance by the red and white checkered "Boy" himself.

A "Read for Fun" program encourages kids to exercise their minds. There are free kiddie burgers and fries for those who come out on top.

Holidays are also special at Big Boy. A Halloween party for the whole family is in the works with pumpkin painting and carving, hayrides and a moonwalk. No specific day or time has been established yet and details are subject to change. This Christmas patrons may have breakfast with Santa, too.

John invites customers to stop at the Clarkston Big Boy family restaurant to say "hello." The restaurant is open from 6:30 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. weekdays, 6:30 a.m. to midnight, Friday and Saturday and 7:00 a.m. Call 625-3344 for information.

time.

As part of the plan, two proposed outlets would be located on the property.

The original plan also called for a total of 600 parking spaces, but township planner Dick Carlisle recommended that the developer scale back that amount.

Boutros said that the commission has received details regarding the waste system for the development. He commented that the system would be a proven one that takes waste from the grocery store and reduces it to a pure state.

Commissioner Larry Zahn questioned Boutros as to a time frame for the second phase of the property's development; Boutros replied that the second phase would not take place for over a year.

In addition, Commissioner Doug Melnis stated that the board needs to understand what the second phase of the development would involve before the board could move forward.

Commissioner Dennis Vallad added that nothing has been proposed as of yet for the expansion areas. He also said that the applicant needed to work with the township to put in a left turn lane on Dixie Highway.

Boutros said that he would take a look into a suggestion brought up at the meeting regarding the routing of traffic. He said that he would be willing to work with the Planning Commission to develop a suitable plan for the property.

He commented that he has had extensive input from Carlisle on how to lay out the site, and has tried to do a good job of pulling the site off the lot line of the Pebble Creek subdivision.

He added that the property had been zoned commercial for a long time, and said that he had nothing to do with the way the subdivision was laid out behind a commercial lot.

ministrator for Region 5, was also on hand at the open house, and praised the efforts of those involved in the project.

"This is one of the most exciting success stories that I've been involved in," he said.

Region 5 consists of five other states in addition to Michigan: Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

Kevin Adler, remedial project manager for the U.S. EPA, said that a lot of work was involved in getting the project to come to fruition.

"It's taken a lot of time to get here," he said. "It's something to celebrate."

According to Adler, the site was placed on the Superfund National Priorities List (NPL) in 1983, but the township's stake in the project goes back even further.

"I think the Springfield Township community has been involved a longer time than that," he said.

According to a fact sheet issued by the EPA, approximately four acres of the property were contaminated by the unauthorized dumping of liquid chemical wastes during the 1960's.

The State of Michigan declared an environmental emergency at the site in 1979, and began the excavation, removal, and off-site disposal of 55-gallon drums and contaminated soils.

After the site was placed on the NPL in 1983, the EPA began a remedial investigation to determine the extent of soil and groundwater contamination. The investigation was completed in 1989.

The feasibility study report, and a proposed plan for site clean-up, were completed and released to the public in 1990, and a record of decision (ROD) was issued later that year.

The ROD contained a detailed description of the results of the testing, as well as studies performed at that site up to that time.

In addition, the ROD also detailed the EPA's plan for cleaning up the ground water subsurface soil, as well as surface soil contamination at the site.

In 1995, the first phase of the clean up project was completed, as a groundwater pump and treat system was installed; the system is still in operation today.

Last August, a full-scale cleanup of the impacted soils began. Site restoration occurred in March of this year, and the completion of the soil work took place two months later.

Boys cross country team heading in right direction

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the season started, boys varsity cross country coach Mike Taylor expected his team to be somewhere in the middle of the division. But halfway through the season his team has been a pleasant surprise.

The Wolves have gone a perfect 3-0 in dual meets this year, a bit of a surprise according to Taylor.

"So far I'd say I am a bit surprised," he said. "Considering we graduated our top six runners and lost two others to other sports we're doing well. But the league has surprised me this year too. As a whole, I don't think the teams are as strong."

Lake Orion, who Taylor said would be the team to beat, is also perfect in the Oakland Activities Association Division I with a 3-0 record. The Wolves take on the Dragons in a dual meet Oct. 10.

The Wolves most recent action was Sept. 30 at the Hanson Invitational where they finished seventh out of 11 teams. Clarkston was without the services of Derek Coe, one of the team's best runners who was out with a knee injury and is questionable for the county meet Oct. 7. Taylor said Coe's absence was noticed.

"Coe not being there made a huge difference for us. There was only a 50 point difference between second place and seventh place," Taylor said. "But we still had some good times."

Clarkston's best time came from Mark Sitko who finished fifth overall with a time of 17:35. Scott McGregor finished 22nd overall with a time of 18:33, Eric Sweeny finished 32nd at 19:00 and Jack Kinsey finished 50th at 19:48.

Netters win league meet, share league title

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The girls varsity tennis team captured a share of the Oakland Activities Association Division II title with its first place finish at the league meet Sept. 28.

The Wolves, who hosted the league meet, finished with 43 points while Andover, who Clarkston shared the title with took second place with 34 points.

The Wolves finished the regular season going undefeated in league play, posting a 3-0-2 dual meet record. But because Andover had one less tie in the league, they share the title with Clarkston.

Second year coach Beth Manojlovich praised her team saying it was a complete team effort.

"We were in the finals in seven out of the eight flights. It takes a total team effort to do something like that," she said.

Clarkston's Colleen Mead won the no. 1 singles championship going 6-0, 6-0 over her Andover opponent.

Also winning championships for Clarkston were the no. 2, no. 3 and no. 4 doubles teams. The no. 2 team was comprised of Sarah Sweeny and Andrea Gibson, the no. 3 team was made up of Kalin Thomas and Laura Woloson and the no. 4 team was Lisa Hopcian and Christy Cumbo.

Clarkston will now prepare for regionals which take place Oct. 13 at Troy at 8:30 a.m. The top two teams in each regional will advance

Swimmers aim for league title

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls varsity swim team can still win its division, but Clarkston is not in the situation it was hoping to be in — and coach Kenywn Chock put the blame on herself.

The Wolves lost two meets recently, one to Dondero Sept. 26 and another to Avondale Sept. 28 by a combined total of 10 points. However, the Wolves remain 2-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division IV with wins coming over Hazel Park and Pontiac Central. The two remaining league meets are against Lamphere, which will be Oct. 12 and the regular season finale at Pontiac Northern Oct. 24.

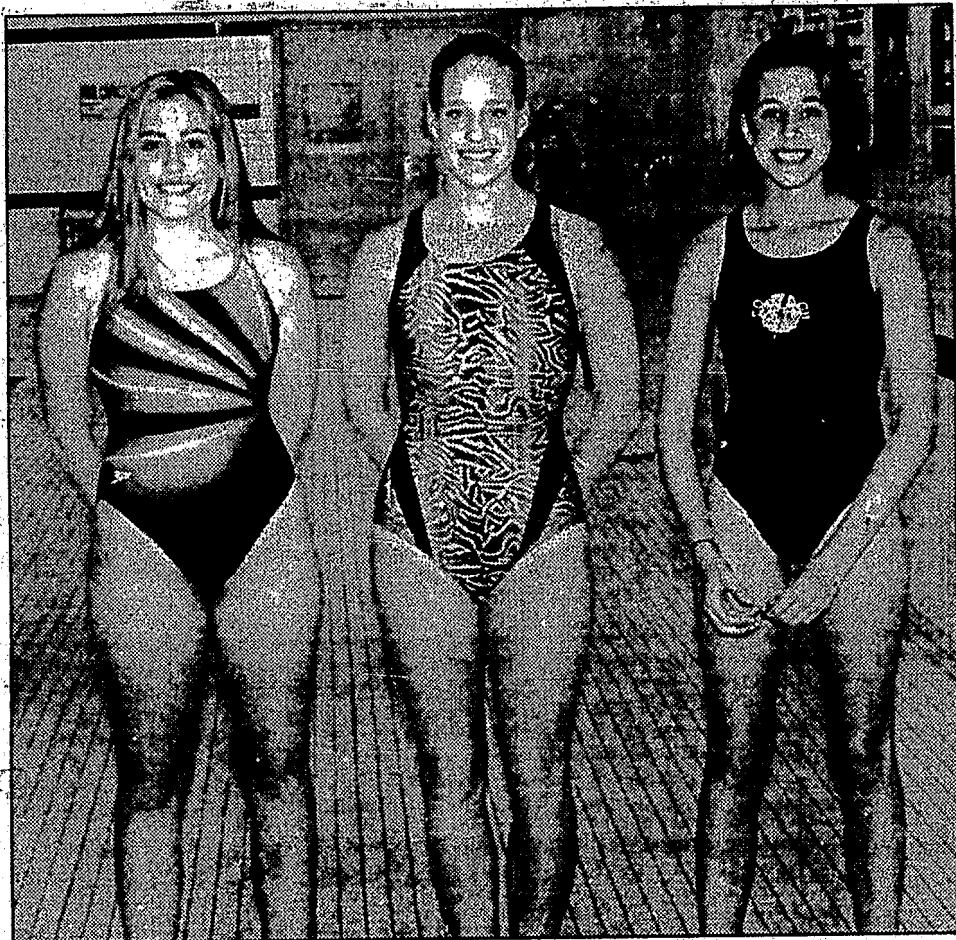

However, even with the OAA IV title within its reach, Chock said the Wolves could be in a better situation. The Wolves are 4-6 overall in dual meets this season.

"I feel awful," she said. "I didn't have them ready for those two meets (against Dondero and Avondale). Right now the kids are mentally and physically beat up."

Chock admitted to running her girls before the Dondero meet, something she said was a mistake.

"I did it to make them physically tough, but they couldn't bounce back," she said. "I didn't give them enough time to recover. These girls need plenty of rest and emotional work so that there isn't any anxiety between the meets."

Even with the losses to Dondero and Avondale last week, Chock is con-

Amanda Nichols, left, Rachel Carroll, middle and Sarah Zerba, right, have been swimming well for the Wolves as of late.

fidant her team can win their division with a strong showing at the OAA league meet, which Clarkston will host Nov. 1-3. Swimming preliminaries are held Nov. 1, diving preliminaries Nov. 2 and finals in both events will be Nov. 3.

"The girls have done everything I've asked of them. We're still looking to be champs of the OAA. That's our goal, but we should be on top right now," Chock said.

Soccer team aiming for third

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Even though their offense has had a rough go of it this season, the boys varsity soccer team is still alive and kicking.

The Wolves have had a tough time putting the ball in the net this season. They were shutout on consecutive nights last week, both of which ended in 3-0 losses. The Wolves fell to Kettering Sept. 28 and Fenton Sept. 27. However, they did score four goals in a win over Avondale Sept. 26 in a 4-1 victory.

Coach Dan Fitzgerald said even though the Kettering and Fenton games had the same score, his team played its best game of the season against the Captains.

"In the Kettering game I think we played very well. We gave up a goal in the first minute, but after that we really took it to them and pounded their net. Kettering's a good team and I was pretty happy with the effort our kids put forth out there," Fitzgerald said.

At press time the Wolves were 2-7-1 overall and 2-3-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division II. Kimball is in first place in the division, followed by Kettering. But Fitzgerald said his team is still hoping for a third place finish in the league.

"Right now we're battling with Seaholm for that third place spot. The kids are just taking them one game at a time right now. But they're still doing a good job of focusing on the rest of the season. I think I'm looking more forward to districts than they are," Fitzgerald said.

The Wolves have continued to flip between several goalies during the course of the season including sophomores Tim Moyer and Eric Kammayer. Fitzgerald said he'll probably start Moyer in districts, but Kammayer is not far behind.

Fitzgerald said the play of defensemen Chris Lenhardt and Sean Dougherty has improved lately.

"Sean is usually our last guy back on defense and he's been doing a good job of getting us out of trouble. He's fast and aggressive. Chris is usually on the other team's best offensive player and has been doing a good job of shutting them down," Fitzgerald said.

Even though Fitzgerald is happy with the improved defensive play of Lenhardt and Dougherty he can't overlook the lack of offense that has hurt his team throughout the season.

He said last year senior forward Mark Zerba scored close to 10 goals, but this year has only one.

"It's frustrating because the kids are giving a good effort, and it just doesn't seem to be showing up on the scoreboard all the time," Fitzgerald said.

However, he did say the offensive play of sophomore midfielder Sean Gardner has given the Wolves a boost.

"He's been creating a lot of quality chances for our forwards. He's really given our offense a needed boost," Fitzgerald said.

Girls third at Hanson Invitational

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most coaches agree that the only way to get better is to go against tough competition. If that theory holds true then the Clarkston girls cross country team should put forth a strong showing at the Oakland County meet Oct. 7 at Kensington Metro Park.

Clarkston girls varsity cross country coach Jaime Labrosse said his team competes in one of the toughest divisions in the state, the Oakland Activities Association Division I. Three teams within the division, Rochester Adams, Troy and Rochester are ranked in the top 10 in the state. And while the Wolves post only a 1-2 record in dual meets this season, Labrosse is confident his team is on the right track.

"I think we're headed in the right direction right now. So far the season has gone well. We're in such a tough league, but I think our girls are really running well," he said.

The Wolves most recent action took place Sept. 30 at the Hanson Invitational. There, Clarkston took third place with Romeo winning the meet and Sterling Heights Stephenson taking home the second place prize in a tough competition. Romeo is ranked fifth in the state while Stephenson is third.

"I think we ran really well and we didn't run a full team," Labrosse said. "Lauren Witt sat out with an injury, but we're hoping to get her back in time for the Oakland County meet."

The Wolves top finishes went to Carla DelVecchio, who finished 9th, Karyn Erkfriz, who took 10th, Nina Zamora at 12th place, Lea Polczynski, who took 13th, Megan Pocs, who took 19th place, Lisa Gauthier, at 20th and rounding out the Clarkston finishers was Michelle Elmore who took 31st overall.

"I think we're better than the 1-2 record shows," Labrosse said. "We beat Athens, and only lost to Rochester by one point."

Labrosse said he expects the county meet to offer more stiff competition in Novi, Milford, Troy, Rochester Adams and Rochester. However, he's confident the Wolves can hang with the best.

"I think we can be a top five team for sure. Maybe even within the top three," he said.

to the state finals. The no. 1 singles player can advance to the state finals on an individual basis if she is not a member of one of a state qualifying team.

Manojlovich said Clarkston's regional is very difficult with the favorites being Troy and Farmington Mercy. When asked if she thought Mead had the ability to qualify for the state meet this year, she responded, "It's not impossible, but it would be a tall order, even as good as Colleen is."

Manojlovich said her team improved a lot over the course of the season.

"Last year we had a loss in the division, but that was to Athens who moved up (into Division I). But I think the girls progressed a lot from the beginning to the end. Their positioning got better in doubles and they got tougher mentally," she said.

Cagers fall to state best Kettering

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

For seven straight games the Clarkston girls varsity basketball team was riding an undefeated streak. Then they played Waterford Kettering.

The Captains, the no. 1 team in the state in Class A, handed the Wolves only their second defeat of the season Sept. 28, in a battle of what were undefeated teams in the Oakland Activities Association Division I. Clarkston fell 52-34.

The Wolves stayed even with the Captains for three quarters, but were severely outplayed in the second quarter. The Wolves saw a 12-10 first quarter lead turn sour as Clarkston couldn't buy a basket in the second quarter, scoring only one bucket.

Clarkston coach April Kosin said her team played well for 24 minutes, but those eight minutes of the second quarter made the difference in the contest.

"We came out strong, but in the second quarter they (the Captains) turned up the intensity and the tempo. I think we played intimidated in that second quarter. We played so hard in the first quarter it was like we had nothing more to give in the second," Kosin said.

Kosin said her team played a strong second half, but just couldn't rebound.

"In the second half we were strong, but we have to play from start to finish. You can't afford to have a bad quarter against a team like Kettering. It just seemed like in that second quarter nothing we put up went in and everything they put up did," Kosin said.

The Wolves offense was led by Kira Karlstrom who contributed 15 points for the Wolves cause. Kosin said Sarah Morgan also played a strong game for Clarkston.

"Kira played really well for us. She's always hustling and playing great defense. Sarah played good again for us inside and came up strong on the boards," Kosin said.

At press time the Wolves have a 7-2 overall record and are tied with Rochester for second place in the OAA I with 4-1 league marks.

Clarkston's next action will be Oct. 5 when the Wolves host Troy Athens at 7 p.m.

CHS Athlete of the week: Sarah Morgan

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

One of the big reasons why the Clarkston girls varsity basketball team has posted a surprising 7-2 record this year is senior Sarah Morgan.

The 5-foot-10 forward has been improving her play under the basket all season long and with improved play comes added confidence.

Her coach, April Kosin, praised Morgan's play underneath.

"She's been doing a great job for us on the boards and is one of the best defensive players in the league," Kosin said. "But she's also improved a lot on offense. She's going to the hole more. She's more aggressive these days. She's looking to draw the foul."

Morgan agreed that her play has gone up a notch since her junior season. The reasons — a lot of off season shooting practice and lifting weights she said.

"This year I'm not worrying so much about things. I'm just reacting. I'm just going out and playing," said the soft spoken senior.

Morgan, who doubles as a goalie on the girls varsity soccer team in the spring, said she has gained more confidence in her offensive abilities, specifically noting the Wolves win over Southfield as her best offensive performance this season.

"I knew we could be his good (7-2 at press time). We just had to want it," Morgan said. "I feel more aggressive and I've improved my rebounding. Those are my two biggest strengths out there."

Although undecided in terms of post graduate plans, the senior said Albion college has inquired about her for basketball.

Morgan also plays AAU basketball in the winter and enjoys snowboarding in her free time.

His team hasn't shown much improvement in recent weeks, nor has their play dropped off. They're just a middle of the pack team coach Tim Kaul said.

The boys varsity golf team finished in the middle of the pack out of 24 teams competing against Clarkston in the Oakland County meet at Pontiac Country Club Oct. 2. Exact results were not available at press time, but Kaul estimated his team finished near 12th place.

"The kids' play has leveled off. Right now they're just on a plateau. They're not improving their play. They're just maintaining their position right now. But golf can be a game of streaks, and right now they're not on a hot streak," Kaul said.

Lahser won the meet with a score of 301. Their team was highlighted by the best score of the day by Scott Szurek who shot a 2-under-par 70. Troy and Rochester Adams tied for second place with a score of 310.

The best scores of the day from Clarkston came from Ollie Olinger and Dustin McMillen who both shot 81. Matt Harrison shot an 82 and Matt Getty ended the afternoon with an 83.

Kaul said not having a golfer shoot in the mid 70's separated his team from the day's top finishers.

"We didn't have any really low scores. I needed a 74 or 75 just to get in the top 10. The kids just didn't shoot what they needed to in order to be an upper echelon team," Kaul said.

Currently the Wolves have a 4-2 dual meet record. They host Adams today at 3:30 p.m. at Clarkston Creek golf course.

and even though he was happy with some of the times he saw, wasn't happy with the places his runners took.

"We had some situations where our kids could have passed some runners from other schools, but that didn't always happen. Either they didn't recognize the situation or couldn't accomplish it," Taylor said.

Individually, Taylor said Sitko had an outstanding meet.

"He's really put in the effort and the time over the summer and it shows. He's much improved from last year. He's completely dedicated himself to it and he's doing a good job for us," Taylor said.

Taylor said the county meet will showcase some of the state's best programs, specifically Novi, Milford, Lakeland and Lake Orion. Roughly 40 teams compete at the meet at Kensington, but Taylor said the Wolves could finish in the top 10.

Brandon Invitational

Clarkston took second place at the Brandon Invitational Sept. 29.

Oxford, the only other Class A school at the meet, took home the first place prize while Avondale finished third.

Clarkston's top performances came from Mike Wilder, who finished in 17th place at 20.16, Nick Oldenberg, who finished 18th at 20.25, Dan Claus, who finished 19th at 20.27, Mike Wood, who finished 21st at 20.39 and Tom Klein who took 23rd at 20.48.

"It was a nice meet for us because it gave a lot of our JV kids an appropriate setting and put the pressure on them knowing they were going to score," Taylor said.

JV tennis team has strong season

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston junior varsity girls tennis team took second place at the JV Invitational Sept. 30 at Clarkston High School.

Four teams competed during the day including first place Holly, Romeo and Clio.

Clarkston's best efforts came from the no. 1 and no. 6 doubles teams who both won their flights. The no. 1 doubles team was made up of Alex Heinrich and Katie Rabette. The no. 6 team was made up of Megan McGeough and Lauren White.

Coach Kara Reeder spoke highly of her no. 1 doubles team.

"Alex and Katie are an aggressive team who work together well. They have a positive attitude and progressed well during the season," Reeder said.

Heinrich said she had a good time on the team this year.

"The season was fun, we grew a lot. I'm just looking forward to next year," she said.

Several other Wolves took home second place finishes including the no. 5 doubles team of Jayne Harding and Colleen Braddock, the no. 4 team of Katie Manojlovich and Katie Winter and the no. 7 doubles team of Emily Finken and Jennifer Ley.

Finken also said she had a positive experience this fall as part of the JV tennis team.

"We had a great season. We are all really close friends. I can't believe the season is already over. I can't wait until next year," she said.

Reeder also noted that Winter and Ley have had very strong seasons.

Reeder, who enjoyed her second season as coach of the JV team, said her team had a strong season, going 4-2-1 overall.

"We played a more challenging schedule this year than we did last year," Reeder said. "We were more mature this year and really developed during the course of the year."

Emily Finken, left (with Laker hockey t-shirt) and Alex Heinrich, right (tank top), were the captains of this year's JV girls tennis team.

'We were more mature this year and really developed during the course of the year.'

Kara Reeder — JV tennis coach

Fall teams in full bloom

It's good to be back on the sidelines, especially in October. While I loved Cancun, I also love fall in Clarkston. Our sports teams have enjoyed plenty of success so far this season and the way things are shaping up it's not going to slow down any time soon.

Football — 6-0 and a playoff spot for the second consecutive year. Granted, Friday's win over Mott was plagued with penalties and things that made coach Kurt Richardson say his team "stunk" in the post game interview, but 6-0 is 6-0. They're currently ranked no. 7 in Class A, and Troy may be winless in league play, but records will go out the window this Friday.

Basketball — If the Wolves could've omitted the second quarter they may have beaten the state's best team in Kettering. However, they're still 7-2 (at press time) and better than a lot of people thought they would be. If you haven't had a chance to check this team out, make a point to do it soon. They're a hustling, hard working group that's fun to watch.

Tennis — An undefeated league record and a share of the league title marks a great season for second year coach Beth Manojlovich. Even though their regional may be as tough as a two dollar steak, I wouldn't put anything past this crew.

Wolves in gridiron playoffs

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Even though his team secured a playoff berth in the month of September with a 21-7 over Waterford Mott, coach Kurt Richardson was far from giddy after the game.

The Wolves secured their second consecutive post-season berth Sept. 29 and improved to 6-0 overall and 3-0 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I. Mott fell to 3-3 overall and 1-2 in league play.

Richardson said his team was unfocused and didn't execute well in their most recent win at Clarkston High School.

"We had too many penalties. We need to be getting better and we shouldn't have stupid stuff like that happen," Richardson said.

While Richardson wasn't happy with penalties, he was happy with his quarterback Ryan Kaul and wide receiver Ryan Briceland.

"Ryan Kaul was very good tonight. So was Briceland. They were the difference tonight. That and we shut down Carruthers (Mott quarterback)," Richardson said.

Clarkston opened its scoring with 6:55 left in the opening quarter as Kaul hooked up with Briceland on a 30 yard touchdown pass. Andy Breen's extra point made it 7-0 Clarkston.

After the Corsairs missed a 27 yard field goal attempt, the Wolves threatened again. A 20 yard pickup by running back Rob Conley and a 25 yard pass from Kaul to Briceland got the ball to Mott's 20 yard line. However, the drive halted after running back Nate Davis's fumble was recovered by Mott with 7:03 remaining in the opening half.

After the Wolves defense forced Mott to punt on its next possession, the Wolves put together another drive, showing a good mix of run and pass with runs by Conley and completions to Briceland and wide receiver Adam Gebus. The drive was capped off by a 2 yard

'I can guarantee that it doesn't matter what kind of year they're having. It's always a big game when we play Troy.'

Kurt Richardson — Varsity football coach touchdown scamper by Conley to put the Wolves up 13-0 with 31 seconds to play in the half.

The Corsairs battled back in the second half however. After a Clarkston drive ended at the Mott 11 yard line, the Corsairs quarterback Earl Carruthers hooked up with Jack Thompson who was wide open for a 40-yard gain. That was quickly followed by a 24-yard touchdown run by Chad Tsurul with 3:42 left in the third quarter to make it 13-7 Clarkston.

But Clarkston bounced right back. On the next play from scrimmage Kaul threw a perfect pass, an 81-yard touchdown bomb to Briceland who was streaking down the sideline with 3:31 remaining. Kaul hooked up with Dave Endreszl on the two-point conversion to go ahead 21-7.

But the Corsairs had plenty of time to get back in the game and helped their cause when Tsurul intercepted a Kaul pass with less than a minute to play in the third quarter. That gave Mott the ball at the Clarkston 43 yard line.

However with 7:18 to go in the game Clarkston got its biggest stop from Matt Pearsall who made the tackle on a key fourth and nine situation on the Clarkston 20.

The Wolves held on for the victory thanks to a late game sack by Mark Carlson, which brought up a third and 20 and an interception by Andy Kleinedler with less than a minute to play.

Richardson said his defense was strong.

"They've been scoring about 35 points a game. We were pretty good overall on defense tonight. That's the way we've been all year. I don't think anybody really stood out tonight. We made one mistake on that long pass, but overall I thought we were pretty good on defense," Richardson said.

Even with the playoff berth, Richardson said his team will have to go back to fundamentals this week in practice.

"I'm going to stress discipline, discipline, discipline. These are things that shouldn't be happening this late in the season. They're all lazy penalties. Things like not getting set, not listening," Richardson said.

Kaul finished the game completing 12 of 18 passes for 230 yards with two touchdowns and one interception. He had five first downs.

Briceland had a big game receiving catching six passes, two of which were touchdowns, for 177 yards.

Conley picked up 91 yards on 23 carries.

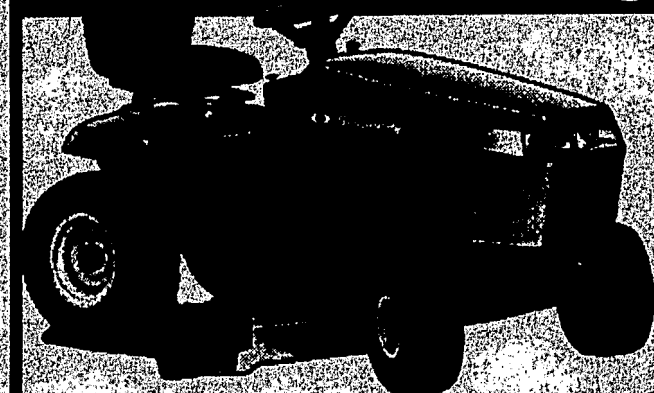

Defensive leaders were Cody Senkyr who had eight tackles and three assists, Pearsall who had six tackles and three assists, Ian Ramsey who had five tackles and one assist, Ben Horstman, who had five tackles, Brad Daris who had five tackles and four assists and Dustyn Swendsen who had three tackles, three assists and a fumble recovery.

Last year at this time the Wolves were 5-1 with their lone loss coming to Troy, who won 21-14. Guess who the Wolves play Friday?

The Corsairs host Clarkston on Friday at 7 p.m. While Troy is having an uncharacteristic down year with a 1-5 overall record and still searching for their first league win of the season, Richardson said that doesn't matter.

"I can guarantee that it doesn't matter what kind of year they're having. It's always a big game when we play Troy," Richardson said.

Boys Cross Country — These guys weren't supposed to be this good were they? Losing their top six runners is supposed to translate into a transition year right? Wrong. These guys are for real. They're 3-0 in duals and hoping to win the league outright. Congrats to perhaps the fall's most overachieving program.

Girls Cross Country — They're record may not be as good as the boys team, but they're league is stronger this year, or so says coach Jaime Labrosse. He's hoping to crack the top three at regionals. They've got the talent to do it too.

Golf — They're stuck in the middle, or so says coach Tim Kaul. A middle of the road finish at the county meet on Monday showed the Wolves aren't with the elite teams, but they're not dwelling at the bottom either.

Soccer — They can still salvage a third place finish on the season and that's their main goal now says coach Dan Fitzgerald. It's too bad effort doesn't show up on the scoreboard. If it did, these guys might be in first.

Swimming — I don't think coach Kenwyn Chock will run her team before a meet again this year. Nor do I think these Wolves will lose another league meet this year. The loss to Avondale lit a fuse in this crew. Hosting the league meet won't hurt anything either.

Overall, the Wolves are doing very well this fall and it's a joy to be back covering them. Till next time. . . Go Wolves!

THE LAW & YOU

by Robert Kostin
Attorney at Law

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

For the most part, criminal and civil law are distinct. Criminal law is generally designed to maintain peace and security among the general public. Those guilty of violating criminal laws are punished by society. Civil law regulates relationships between individuals, families and corporations. Successful legal action usually results in monetary remedies. There are instances in which criminal and civil law overlap. For instance, those charged with assault and battery will likely be criminally charged. At the same time, attacking and individual may be a tort (wrongdoing) that may ultimately involve paying personal-injury damages to the victim. Consult with an attorney if you have suffered injury due to another's wrongdoing, even if the action involved criminal arrest.

Here at 11 North Main Street, we have dedicated our professional careers to helping our valued clients get the justice they deserve. We are known for our caring approach and our good listening skills - and, of course, for the results we get. If you or a member of your family have been injured call 620-1030.

Note: A higher standard of proof applies to criminal law than to civil law.
