'Penny Wars' waged!

Students at Clarkston Middle School take time out during their lunch break May 3 to turn in their pennies during a penny drive to raise money for classmate Megan Goldberg.

Penny drive for stricken classmate tops $10,000

Clarkston Middle School's student body has come together to help one of their own.

Throughout the week of April 30-May 3, students in grades 6-8 pitched in their pennies to raise funds for Megan Goldberg, a Clarkston Middle School seventh grader who has been hospitalized since April 3 with bacterial meningitis.

"The kids have been having fun doing it," said Beth Hearn, a parent volunteer. "They've been doing it all week."

Over $10,000 was raised to help meet Megan's medical expenses, according to Ginny Farmer, assistant principal at CMS.

Megan has been moved to Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. She is receiving physical, occupational and speech therapy, and there is a teacher on hand, so she can continue her studies.

Megan's dad, Bruce Goldberg, said Megan can talk and can move her thumb and fingers on her left hand. She can move her left foot and her right thumb and can also feel shots now.

She now has a wheelchair, and went outside for the first time May 3, he added.

"Megan will be at Mott for three to four months, depending on her progress," said Goldberg.

"Doctors won't speculate on her prognosis, because spinal cord injuries are hard to judge. But Megan's spirits are up.

She knows it's real small steps from here on out."

April Kosin, a teacher at CMS and the faculty advisor for the student leadership group, said the students came up with several different ideas as a fundraiser before deciding on the penny drive.

"Kids like to get involved in competition, and we decided to do this," Kosin said.

Each penny donated counts as a point for that particular grade, and if a student from a competing grade donates a silver coin or a dollar, the amount of those monies (i.e. five points for a nickel, ten points for a dime, etc.)

Fire department kept busy Homes, shed burn; men injured when dirt wall caves

BY MARALEE COOK
and JENNIFER NEMER

Friday to Monday is a relatively short span of time. Yet, it was long enough for Independence Township firefighters to respond to three fires, a medical emergency involving collapsing dirt walls and execute a training exercise which called for intentionally torching a home.

Washington Street home destroyed by fire

The peaceful setting of the cul-de-sac at the end of East Washington Street in Clarkston was violently disturbed by a raging fire Friday night. Fortunately, owners Janet and John Vernier were awakened by the piercing wail of their smoke alarm and were not harmed.

The home at 85 E. Washington Street has been declared a "total loss" by the couple's insurance adjuster and the fire department, said Janet, who has lived there since 1972.

But on Monday, as the couple prepared to salvage what belongings were left, there was no sadness in Janet's voice for the loss.

All that was on her mind was the support she has received from the police and fire department, friends and neighbors, and the fact that she and John and their 13-year-old golden retriever, Maggie, are all right.

"If it wasn't for that fire alarm, we'd be dead," she said. Maggie did suffer from smoke inhalation because she did not get out of the house as quickly as Janet and John thought.

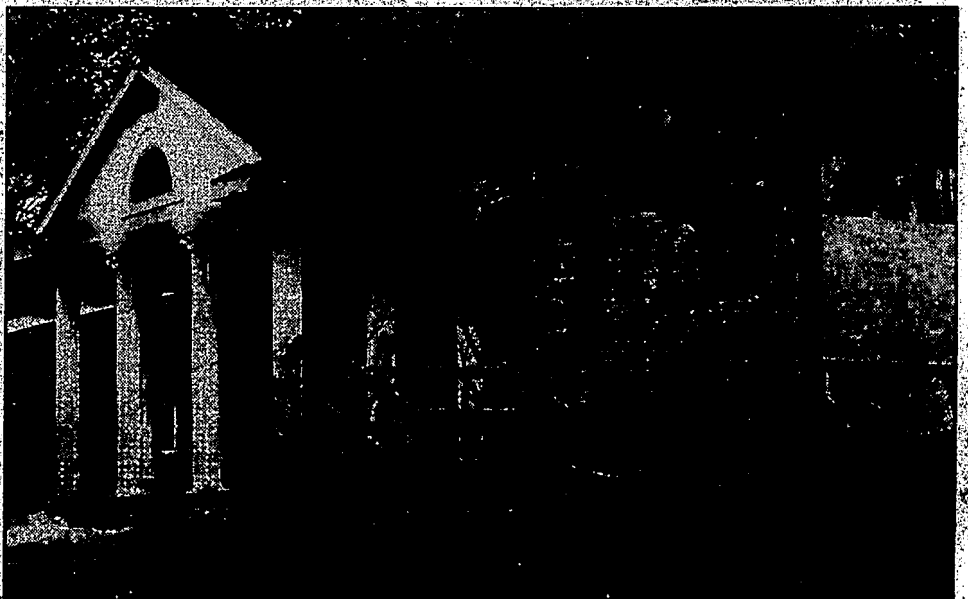

"In the confusion, each of us thought the other had brought her out," said Janet. While the couple thought she was hiding outside, firemen found her inside.

According to Fire Department authorities, the couple was awakened around 11 p.m. by their smoke alarm. Thinking it was merely a malfunction, John reset the detector. But it went off again a short while later.

This time John saw smoke and fire at the east end of the house near the garage. The couple left the home, and called 9-1-1 from a neighbor's.

Fire Department Inspector Bob Cesario said firefighters found Maggie hiding behind the front door, frightened but not injured. She was covered with

Mother and daughter share joy of teaching

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

This Mother's Day, for Jean Bierlein, watching her daughter grow and succeed is one of the greatest gifts she could receive.

Bierlein has taught in the Clarkston school district for 21 years. "I started when she was a baby," she said, referring to her daughter Erica Schroeder.

Now Schroeder has followed in her mother's footsteps and is in her first year of teaching. And, in fact, is at Independence Elementary, the same school where her mother teaches third grade.

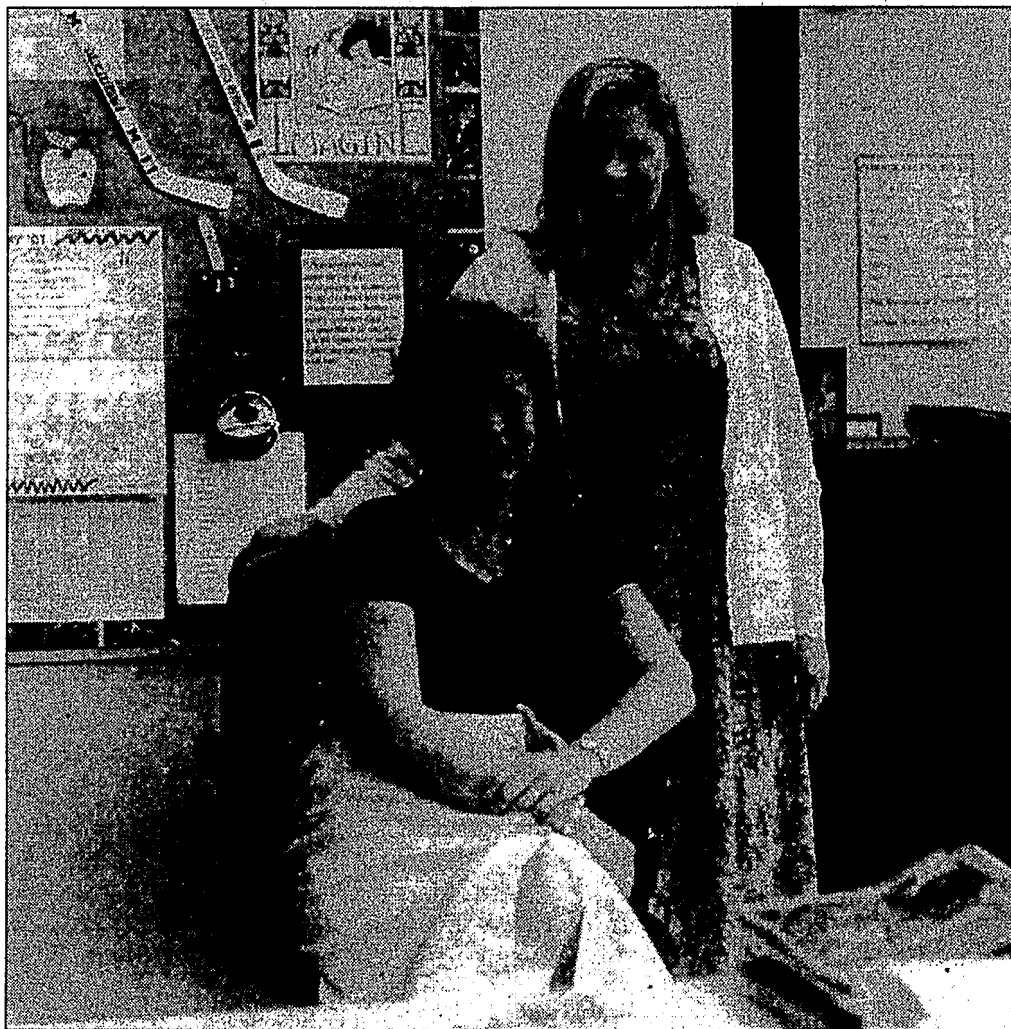

Both feel it was chance that brought the two to the same school and credit Principal Chris Turner, "for allowing us to work together."

"I was so pleased when she was hired into this building," added Bierlein.

"It's nice to come into the school on your first day and see a familiar face," said Schroeder, who became quickly attached to the school when searching for a place to begin her career.

"I like Clarkston. We've had family here for a long time," said Schroeder, a Birmingham resident. "I fell in love with this building, and the land. My aunt's land used to back up to this property and I used to play out here."

The school year has been going well for Schroeder. "The first year is always the rockiest," she admitted. "It's nice to be able to come down (to Bierlein's classroom) and say hello. We have different lunches, different schedules, but we try to catch each other in the hall."

Bierlein remembered during the first week of school one of her students approached her with a question which tickled her—"Did you know Mrs. Schroeder is your daughter?"

"I have a lot of kids say to me too, 'Mrs. Bierlein is your mother?'" Schroeder laughed.

But Schroeder, a graduate from Oakland University, first "rebelled" against being a teacher.

"I used to say 'I'll never be a teacher!'" Teachers seem to run in the family, she said, and so Schroeder enrolled as a pre-law student at Michigan State University. After two years, she realized law wasn't for her. She knew she wanted to work with kids, but knew law wasn't the facet in which she wanted to accomplish that.

Schroeder came around and began studying for an education degree. "My mom was so excited," she said.

"It's the most important job you can have," the fifth grade teacher feels. "You can't go without an education. It's a pretty good feeling even though we're just one little year in their lives."

Bierlein said one thing a lot of people ask is if I help her out a lot, but I really don't. I feel comfortable in the fact that she's independent and is making her own way. It brings another level to me as a mother and a colleague."

The proud mother added, "I enjoy watching her, not just hearing how things are going at home as a mom, but seeing her as a colleague now. She's really growing."

CVP impresses with production of "Ten Nights"

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Village Players began performances of the last play of their 40th anniversary season in style.

The Depot Theatre audience was involved from the opening act to the final curtain in the production of the melodrama "Ten Nights In A Barroom" May 4.

One of the early examples of audience involvement is when the shoeshine boy, Tommy (Jeff VoVilla) enters the bar to shine the shoes of one of the patrons. "Who will help an honest, but poor, shoeshine boy," Tommy wonders.

After shining the man's shoes, the two engage in a bet. The patron, after winning the bet from Tommy, refuses to pay Tommy for his services, and the audience responds accordingly.

The audience also connects with Joe Morgan (Al Bartlett), a well-meaning man who can't seem to stay away from the bar. "In spite of all my good intentions, here I am again," he said. The audience picks up on Morgan's struggles with staying away from the bottle, and he is built as a sympathetic character within the play.

Another character that strikes a chord is Goldie (Melissa Breckenridge), who makes an early impression as someone who is stuck on herself, as evidenced in one of her musical numbers, "I Don't Care." At one point, she sings, "I don't care what people think of me...", casting her as a narcissistic character.

However, she seems to make a turn and become a more humane character later in the play, as she sings about "The Mansion of Aching Hearts," dealing with disappointment and heartache. Later on, she completes her turnaround by saying, "I dedicate my life to helping others."

The struggles of these characters, as well as others in the play, are developed throughout the course of the performance, and build toward a dramatic conclusion.

The audience was an eager and willing participant in the performance, booing and cheering when necessary. This participation added to the quality of the performance and made for a more enjoyable experience.

The play will be continuing for the next two weeks at the Depot Theatre, May 10-12 and 17-19. Tickets are still available for the Thursday night performances. For more information, call the Depot Theatre at 625-8811, or Tierra Fine Jewelry at 625-2511.

Area Girl Scouts need your help for building new Clarkston Area Girl Scouts Council has been raising money since last September for a special fund. While cookie sales provide the yearly capital to run Girl Scout Council Center and camps, extra funds are occasionally needed for special projects.

The project the Girl Scouts are working on at this time is the Capital Campaign Fund. This fund will be used to fund improvements to the council center. The fund is open to all girls and their leaders. Summer is the best time for the camp, providing resident camp for girls from first through sixth grade. Some of the improvements include a new pool that will enable handicapped girls easier entry into the pool, a new two-room building for the council center, and a new building for the council center. The fund is open to all girls and their leaders. Home Depot center's 'gonna move forward'

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A proposed Home Depot shopping center was dealt another blow by Independence Township last week. But it hasn't dampened the will of a local developer to see this project built.

"We're gonna keep on keeping on," TwentyFirst Century developer Mike Clark said.

He's behind the 206,215 square foot retail center, which also proposes a Krogers, Wendy's, bank and more, and is not giving up. Even when the Township Board voted 5-2 against rezoning one-acre of the 23.15-acre development.

The request came to the board May 1, after being denied unanimously by the Planning Commission in March.

However, Clark and property owners Regency

Centers are remaining confident.

"One thing you can count on," Clark said, "is this project's gonna move forward. There's no doubt Regency Centers will build a major retail center on that property."

That means plans will likely go before the Zoning Board of Appeals next. But, he admitted, there are many options including a development agreement which would save parties involved from litigation. Though, when all doors appear closed, Clark said he will proceed to the courts.

"There's a paper trail since 1999 that supports our argument," he said, speaking of meeting minutes and other documents since the development's early beginnings. "This is a cut and dry case. They (the township) virtually cannot win based on the facts."

The facts center around the one-acre zoned OS-

2 (Office Service), surrounded on three sides by C-2, commercial zoning. For nearly 35 years, the parcel, owned by the neighboring Knights of Columbus, was completely encircled by commercial zoning until the township rezoned it in 1999.

Township officials say they rezoned the acre to coincide with the creation of the Vision 2020 Master Plan and Sashabaw Town Center concept.

"The timing is ironic," Clark said, indicating the township did it only to stop a "big box" development.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, who were opposed to the OS-2 rezoning, said the township promised them a chance to come back to the board for rezoning. They say they are not looking for a way to make quick cash and feel stifled in their attempt to sell the land to fund improvements to their building and park-

Independence planning commissioner resigns after 3 months

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After being appointed to the Independence Township Planning Commission in January, Theresa Gillis recently submitted her letter of resignation. She was one of the individuals replacing former members Joe Figa and Todd Moss.

Supervisor Dale Stuart announced the resignation to fellow Board members and the community at the May 1 township meeting.

"It is with regret that I advise you that Theresa Gillis has tendered her resignation from the Planning Commission," he said. "Ms. Gillis is a talented woman and she will be missed."

Gillis joked about having the shortest term in Planning Commission history.

"I value and appreciate that I was appointed. I enjoyed having input in the development of the community," Gillis said. "But for personal and professional obligations and reasons, I felt it necessary to give up my seat."

Gillis is the head of the Programming Division for the Road Commission for Oakland County and has 25 years of road and traffic safety knowledge.

During her time on the board, Gillis said her hardest vote came in denying a one-acre rezoning request which coincided with a proposed shopping center for the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee Roads.

"The township has good consultants between the engineering firm and planning firm," Gillis said, "you get a pretty broad perspective in terms of recommendation. I really appreciated that."

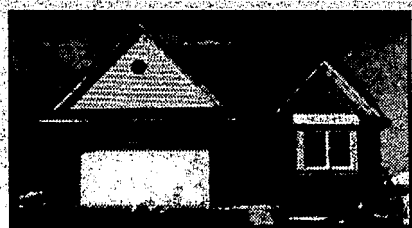

Gillis gave the next appointee some words of wisdom. "Don't hesitate to talk to either of the consultants. And, certainly, and this is a given, go out and look at the development and familiarize yourself with the area and its issues."

Stuart said he has discussed the potential appointment with a number of candidates, but does not have a replacement to recommend as of yet.

Beamer assumes reins as schools' business services head

New director of business services worked with current Clarkston superintendent in Ohio district

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bruce Beamer, the Clarkston school district's new director of business services, has been reunited with a familiar face.

A Canton, Ohio native, Beamer started his new post last week, at a salary of $98,000 per year.

Before being hired by the Clarkston district, Beamer was the fiscal services coordinator for Oakland Schools, where he worked since January.

He taught five years at Tempkin Vocational High School in Ohio and worked in school finance in several Ohio school districts for 23 years.

One of those school districts was the Orange school district in Pepper Pike, Ohio. The superintendent of the Orange district at that time was current Clarkston Community Schools superintendent Dr. Al Roberts.

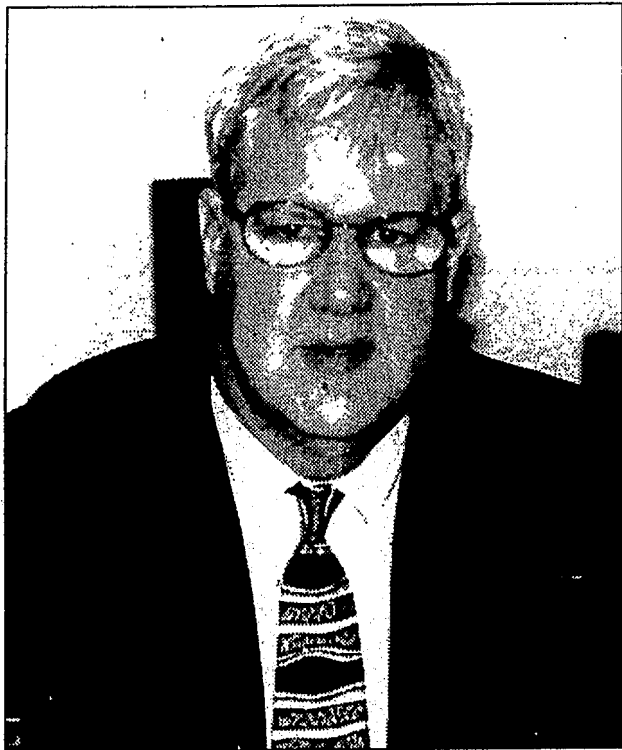

"He was the treasurer of the school district," Roberts said. "He had duties very similar to what Craig (Kahler, the schools' former director of business services) had here."

Roberts said the key difference between the positions in the two states is that in Ohio, the treasurer is hired by the school board and reports to them, whereas in Michigan, the business services director reports directly to the superintendent.

In addition, he said school finance differs between the two states in that in Ohio, the schools still deal with the levy system. "As inflation caught up with you, you go to the voters to ask for more money," he said.

When the director of business services position opened up with Kahler's resignation March 28, Roberts said he encouraged Beamer to apply for the position.

"He was generally considered one of the two best treasurers in the state of Ohio," Roberts said. "Their expectations were similar to ours in that they wanted the best possible person. I encouraged Bruce to apply, because he's one of the best financial people I know."

Roberts said Beamer's ability to take complicated issues and make them understandable to employees in the district, as well as his prior teaching experience, will be an asset to the Clarkston district.

Beamer said his experiences in dealing with a wide variety of school finance situations will be helpful in dealing with the challenges facing the Clarkston district.

"I think my challenge will be to run an efficient operation, to provide the best services for our dollars," he said. "We have to attempt to stretch our dollars as much as we can. I think my educational experiences will benefit Clarkston Community Schools. I've had experiences with tight budgets before. I think my experiences with negotiations will help improve our operations."

He also said his teaching experience lends an added perspective to his job. "I know the relationship between teachers and administrators," Beamer said.

Beamer, in accepting the position, decided it wasn't time to retire just yet despite having been in the educational world for nearly 30 years, citing the need to put his three children through college.

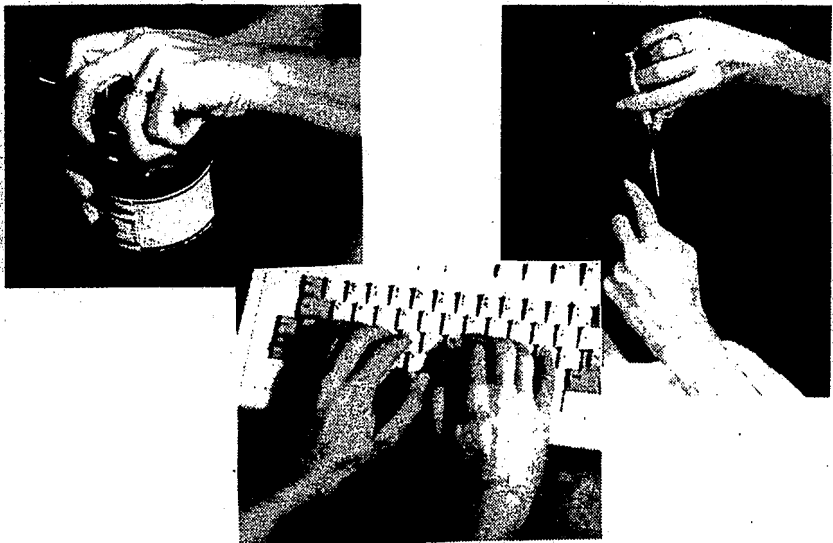

"There's still a priority in my life to earn some funds," he said. "I'm too young to retire."

Beamer attended Tempkin Vocational High School in Ohio, gaining a business background at that school before earning a bachelor of arts in business administration from Adrian College.

From there, he taught at his alma mater, and simultaneously earned his master's degree from the University of Akron.

Beamer then began his school finance career at Sheffield/Sheffield Lake Schools, serving as treasurer in that district for 2-1/2 years. He then moved on to Washington Local Schools in Toledo, where he stayed for 10 years. Afterwards, Beamer went to Orange Schools, and then to Cleveland Heights and University Heights. From there, Beamer, who had spent his entire working career in Ohio, made the move to Michigan in January.

He is glad to be where he is, and hopes he is able to pick up where his predecessor left off. "I wouldn't be here if I didn't think it was an excellent school district," Beamer said. "They have a positive attitude, and great pride in their school district and community. I hope I can keep up with the excellent reputation that Craig Kahler was able to develop in the business of-

The Clarkston (MI) News

Hats off to Clarkston Middle School!

It's no surprise to people who've lived here for awhile that when someone is in need, the community steps up.

That happened last week as Clarkston Middle School students raised over $10,000 in a penny drive. The funds will go to help defray medical expenses for Megan Goldberg's family.

Megan, a CMS 7th grader, has been hospitalized with a non-contagious strain of bacterial meningitis since early April.

She's doing better, and is now at Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, receiving physical, occupational and speech therapy. Megan can speak, move her left thumb and fingers, her left foot and right thumb, according to her dad, Bruce.

CMS teachers, students and principal Linda Armstrong have visited her, which lifts her spirits immensely, according to Bruce.

The family is understandably concentrating on the positive, yet the couple's other two children also have serious medical challenges. Their son has autism and another daughter has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis.

Medical expenses can be a burden under any circumstances let alone a set as serious as these. Clarkston Middle School and the community are to be congratulated on such a fine show of support.

For information on contributions, see story beginning on page 1A.

Home Depot should be in designated warehouse area

When is a warehouse not a warehouse? Answer:
Never.

The first Home Depot in Oakland County is down in Pontiac at Orchard Lake Road and Old Telegraph.
On a very large sign above the door it declares Home Depot to be "Michigan's Warehouse." It certainly looks like a warehouse, a massive, tall structure with few, if any windows, and multiple truck loading docks.

Inside are the bare cement floors, open ceilings, and raw steel racks stacked high with products still in their shipping containers put there by forklifts, that seem to be everywhere. It sure seems like a warehouse.

Home Depot makes a virtue of being a warehouse. Because it is a warehouse, that just happens to let us buy at retail, we all get a better deal --- or so they would have us believe. And because Home Depots are their own warehouse, they do not need to be on every street corner --- or do they.

Now Home Depot wants to locate in our community, but it doesn't want to be considered a warehouse. It wants to put its warehouse in a commercial district, rather than the areas we have planned for the special needs and problems associated with warehouses. They want to have it both ways and have special treatment. But they really aren't special; these are warehouses.

Hazardous waste collection day helps our environment

We would like to call attention to the great opportunity the people of Independence Township have on Saturday May 12. We are referring to HOUSEHOLD HAZARDOUS WASTE COLLECTION DAY! Why is this so special? It protects our water!

How? Hazardous material disposed of in regular trash is dumped into the landfill. Landfills are not designed to stop the hazardous material from leaching into our groundwater and surface water. Hence, the need for special collection and disposal of these materials. Some hazardous materials you may have in and around your home: herbicides, pesticides, fungicides, solvents, glues, wood stain and preservatives, turpentine, oil based paint, motor oil, kerosene, engine cleaners, and batteries to name a few.

Not only do they have the appearance of a warehouse, the nature and extent of the use, the high volume of large truck traffic and the other problems associated with warehouses all demonstrate they are indeed a warehouse. What's the old saying, if it walks like a duck and quacks like duck....

We don't need a Home Depot here, it's a regional draw that will unnecessarily clog our streets even more. I am perfectly willing to drive the 10 or 15 minutes it might take to the new Home Depot in Lake Orion. But if there needs to be one here because that's what Home Depot wants, they should be with the other warehouses in the areas we have designated for such uses. If and when Home Depot presents a conceptual site plan to the Planning Commission, it should be rejected because warehouses do not belong on property designated for shopping centers.

The community owes a thanks to those folks from all over the who showed up at the last township board meeting to voice their concerns. But this is not over. So it is up to all the good folks who have expressed their concerns privately and in other forums to track and respond to this proposal as the developers and their local representatives continue to press their desires onus, rather than trying to fit into what we have worked hard to plan for ourselves for so many years.

Very truly yours,
Neil Wallace

We commend Independence Township trustees for providing such a service to our community! Many communities do not because of the expense involved.

Let us make a special effort to bring our HAZARD-OUS WASTE to the Department of Public Works on Flemings Lake Rd. on Saturday, May 12 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. There is a designated site for the HAZARD-OUS materials. It is time that you DO YOUR PART TO PROTECT OUR WATER!

Souvenirs, jet lag and some lessons learned

Vacations are a wonderful thing.
For eight glorious days, I recently had the opportunity to enjoy Sunny (yet chilly---oh, well) California.
Relaxing, sight-seeing, spending time with friends, and just getting some much needed time away felt so refreshing.

After this getaway, I came home with more than just souvenirs and jet lag, I learned a few things along the way:

Matthew 14:31b... "O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?"

Nothing went right in our attempt to fly out of Michigan, but everything amazingly worked out perfect in the end.

Overly excited and paranoid something was going to go wrong, my traveling friend (another Jennifer) and I arrived at Metro Airport three hours before our plane was scheduled to take off.

Things, unfortunately, did go wrong, beginning with the cancellation of our connecting flight in Chicago. We were told we might not even be able to get to San Francisco. Yet, we were able to get two new flights---one that left shortly thereafter, with a connecting flight in Dallas, which arrived in San Francisco an hour earlier than our previous itinerary.

We were excited; until we learned we wouldn't be sitting together on the flights. We finally did get our seats together, but it was another instance for worry.

We hustled to our new flight only to wait for our flight crew. Yes, that's right, no pilots. It seems they've lost somewhere in the city's Metro zoo.

The excitement of their arrival quickly died with the birth of mechanical problems. After an hour-long antsy delay, we were off.

But because of the delay and a two hour flight, we were afraid we'd miss our plane from Dallas to San Francisco.
But what we're we thinking? This time,
a two hour delay.

We next needed to reach our friend, who was to pick us up at the San Francisco airport, to tell her of the flight change.

Things didn't look good. We couldn't reach her and only left a message with the hope she'd get it. This trip was turning into an adventure.

Miraculously, a roommate of hers was able to track her down at a school where she teaches. Our friend was there waiting for us at the gate when we arrived two hours late.

Extremely jet lagged, and without sleep for nearly 24 hours, we had one last concern---our luggage which went on a different flight directly from Detroit to San Francisco.

It's a mom's world out there, kid

"M-o-t-h-e-r..." I mumbled to myself upon chalking up yet another home-improvement injury. I didn't finish speaking the thought — little Shamus-ears were near by, because little Shamus, ever Papa's helper, was right next to me.

The boo-boo hurt like hell, but I managed a clinched-lipped smile for Shamus. "Looks like Papa did it again."

Shamus glanced up, an uncomprehending look upon his dirt-smudged face.

"I think your mom's calling you kid."

He didn't bug off, but continued to use his plastic shovel on the tree, ala Paul Bunyan.

I think boys like being with their fathers. It's only natural. Fathers let there sons bang on things with hammers, shovels, sticks, rocks — whatever is in hand. But, I believe boys love their mothers, right from the get-go to their graves. With fathers, boys like 'em, for a while, can't stand them for a while, then when they get older, learn their like was actually a love. What is the old saying, "A father's love is wide, a mother's love is deep."

I reckon it's the same way in reverse, from son to parents.

It was that way at 4925 Clarkston Road when I was still shorter than Dad. I liked being with Pops Rush. He was athletic. He showed me how to run and jump over fences — and he only sprained his ankle once, wiped out on the bike once and broke his collar bone just once.

He could run fast. He played sports. He showed me how to throw a block, shoot a basket and swing a bat. We had a little baseball throwing thing between us -- who could catch and throw the ball back to the other the fastest. He'd sing Danny Boy, Dear Old Donegal, The Night Paddy Murphy Died and Tur-a-lura. He watched fun movies with cowboys and Indians, G.I.s and Nazis, P.I.s and dames.

It was fun being around Dad and I believe Dad had fun being around his kids. Maybe he, maybe all dads, try to make up for being gone -- for not being like moms. Moms are different. Moms are girls.

Thank God they are different.

More than that, moms are special. I know mine is. I can't imagine being the man I am now, without her. Her blue eyes, her smiles and laughter I longed for. Mom's kind words I always heard. Her hugs and her warmth I can still feel. When a bumble bee stings your big toe, you run, crying to Mamma -- even if Papa is holding your hand when you get stung.

I can see this at home with still-shorter-than-me Shamus and just over one-year-old Sean. The boys like being with their poppy. Poppy makes faces, funny noises and has power tools. But, when something goes amiss Mommy gets the call (and it's not because she's studying to be a nurse). When Shamus wakes in the night, he first calls for Mommy.

I can hold Sean in my arms, make funny faces, bounce him on my shoulders, tickle him and if he's not in a good mood, the only thing to cheer him up is his mother.

The boys' mother is special. Her love is deep. While three-year-old Shamus can't control his own emotions and Sean only knows how to say "dahg" (dog), they both know her love is deep. They know it is total and they are very obviously comforted by it. Even though there is only a combined life of four years between the two, and they can't express it, I can see they have a lifetime's worth of love for their mother. It's in their eyes when they are happy and looking at their mother.

Like their Papa, they are lucky to have such a wonderful mom. As they grow and understand, hopefully I can teach them to respect her, too. And, if they are lucky when they're taller than me, they'll each find a wife who represents all the best stuff their mother has.

Happy Mother's Day to my mom, my boys' mom, her mom, my dad's mom and all moms out there who love their children deeply.

Remember Mother's Day best you can

At the services for Marda Bates' and Laura Buechler's mother, Marda remembered her with this:

DEAR MOTHER

The sweetest sound I know
The one who taught us right from wrong
And showed the path to go.
She patched our wounds
And praised our deeds
She saw to all our worldly needs.

DEAR MOTHER

... in a storm she calmed
our worried fears
in sadness she would dry
our tears.

DEAR MOTHER

In plaid housedress she cooked and cleaned
And never rested - or so it seemed.

DEAR MOTHER

When we were little she made our clothes
And wiped each little runny nose with embroidered hankies that her mother made

Those childhood memories never fade.

OF DEAR MOTHER

Liked strawberry picking in windswept fields

Jim's
Jottings

Jim Sherman

And Sunday drives in Daddy's automobile with the windows down and the radio playing

After Sunday School, singing and praying.

DEAR MOTHER

Washing clothes on a summer day
And hanging each piece out to dry
The clothespin bag that hung on the line beneath sunny and stormy skies.
Making Christmas stars out of white shelf paper, dipped in melted wax all glittered and packaged so carefully
How those memories sure take me back.

TO DEAR MOTHER

Whose beautiful eyes
could dance into your heart and gaze all the way to your soul
Just a hug from dear Mother made everything right
She's the one who made life seem so whole.

I'll miss you Dear Mother ...

Your kiss and your smile

And until we're together again

I'll thank God every day for the love that you gave ...

And for the wonderful Mother you've been.

I LOVE YOU, MAMA.

Some lessons learned

It was a beautiful sight when our luggage came round that conveyer belt.

Lesson number one: Have some faith, the Lord is good.

Genesis 1:31... "And God saw everything that He had made, and behold, it was very good."

■Having never been out west, it was an awesome sight to see the mountains and the Pacific. One glance emitted the Lord's beauty, His handiwork, and could easily bring me to my knees. One look gave a sense at how great the Lord is and how small we here on earth really are.

The three of us friends enjoyed a breathtaking drive down the coast to San Diego, stopping for Kodak moments in various spots along the way.

It's something I won't soon forget.

I once heard a quote which says it best, "Look at everything as if you were seeing it either for the first or last time. Then your time on earth will be filled with glory."

Lesson number two: Open your eyes, life is good.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1986)

A proposed 40,000-square-foot church was denied by the Independence Township Planning Commission in a 4-2 vote. Members of the Mt. Zion Temple had requested a special land use permit to construct a building off Maybee Road near Clintonville Road and the I-75 overpass. Special land use permits are required by the township for churches proposed in residential areas.

The Clarkston Village Council has called for immediate repairs to the Mill Pond's overflow structure. The council voted unanimously to request Clarkston Mills owner Ed Adler to start the repairs and to report on the progress biweekly. The action followed a presentation by Mike Powell, village engineer, who said the dam, as well as the overflow outlet structure, has suffered from poor maintenance.

Condominiums proposed by developer Frank Walker have been temporarily stymied by the Independence Township Board of Trustees. The board voted unanimously to table Walker's zoning change request until they can meet with the planning commission for their comments. Last month, the commission recommended approval of Walker's project.

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

Voters of Independence and Springfield townships will have ample ways to spend money as well as select presidential candidates presented to them. It also gives voters a chance to renew a quarter mill property tax levy for the financing of county-owned parks. The May 18 presidential primary ballot features seven Democrats and two Republicans.

Changes in Clarkston School District administrative positions were announced by newly appointed superintendent Milford Mason. Mason announced that William Dennis, principal at Clarkston High School for the past six years, has been named administrative assistant in charge of transportation, lunches, buildings and grounds. In addition, Dave Westlund, principal at Pine Knob Elementary, will resign at the end of the school year.

It may be back to the old drawing board for the Clarkston Village Council concerning plans for the Depot Road park. A portion of Tom Ritter's $900 park plan -- the 166-foot by 78-foot by 110-foot parking lot -- may have to be scrapped. Ritter's parking lot is too big for square footage restrictions in the park zoning, the council learned.

50 YEARS AGO (1951)

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Powell of Clarkston announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruby Lou, to Pvt. Jack B. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Lawrence of N. Holcomb Street, Clarkston. The wedding will take place on May 12. Pvt. Lawrence is stationed in Camp Atterbury, Indiana.

In observing National Home Demonstration Week, about 300 women met at the Independence Township Community Center in Clarkston to meet Miss Helen Rodgers, Regional Home Economist from the Wheat Flour Institute in Chicago. Mrs. Maurice Young was chairman of the program. Mrs. Walter Brown led the group singing. Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, Oakland County Home Demonstration Agent, introduced Miss Rodgers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bloss of Ithaca, Michigan announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Hazel Deloris, to William Clark Ladd, a teacher at Clarkston High School. Mr. Ladd is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Ladd of Clayton, Michigan and the late William C. Ladd, Sr.

Independence Twp. readies plans to replace Fire Station #3

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans are in the works for a new Independence Township Fire Station.

The Township Board had originally considered renovating Station number three on Maybee Road at Pine Knob Road--which Supervisor Dale Stuart said "needs substantial work"-- but bids came in at nearly $750,000.

At that cost, board members felt they could build a new station immediately adjacent to the existing building. It's estimated a 7,200 square foot station could be built for under $850,000.

At the May 1 meeting, township officials agreed to seek proposals for architectural services. The Fire Department has already interviewed approximately eight firms.

Board members also voted to have the township oversee construction of the station. Township Facilities Maintenance Leader Dave Belcher, who has extensive experience with building projects, will act as general contractor and construction manager.

Belcher will seek bids, select sub-contractors and oversee all construction, hopefully, saving the township at least 20 percent. Architectural services are being limited to providing a set of construction drawings, minor revisions for as-builts and three site visits during construction.

The township has $400,000 budgeted for the project and will likely be able to balance costs from the Fire Department fund, said Stuart.

A breakdown of the costs is as follows:

- Bays--$310,000
- Living area--$200,000
- Site work and generator--$175,000
- Furnishing, etc.--$150,000

Stuart said he anticipates selecting an architect at the June 5 board meeting with construction beginning as early as August 1.

'Caring ways, smile' win Brookes County award

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Pine Knob Elementary's version of "Our Miss Brookes" has received countywide recognition for her work with the school's students.

Julie Brookes, an instructional aide at PKE, was recently selected as the winner of the Betty Campion Distinguished Support Service Award by the Oakland County School Boards Association.

Phyllis Ness, a first grade teacher at PKE whom Brookes assists, nominated her for the award.

"Her caring ways and her infectious smile are constant fixtures in the hallways and classrooms of Pine Knob Elementary," Ness wrote in her nomination of Brookes. "Teachers and students alike value her positive attitude and commitment to the betterment of our school."

Brookes, a graduate of Western Michigan University, has been an instructional aide to Ness for four years.

"I was at home with my five boys and then Phyllis called me," she said. "She called and asked if I'd be interested in working with her. It was a way for me to feel like I could use my education and balance being a mom. I love working with children. Working with Phyllis, I couldn't pass that up. It's fun to work with her every day."

She said a lot of people in the Pine Knob community deserve the credit for her winning the award.

"I feel like this award is not for me, it's for all of Pine Knob," Brookes said. "Everyone works together as a team. Our principal (K.C. Leh) is a great leader."

Brookes said she was "flabbergasted" when she found out about the award.

"We were trying out our new technology in the school and getting a time capsule," she said. "After that, K.C. comes on and makes an announcement that someone had won an award."

Pine Knob is all in the family for Brookes, as two of her sons, fifth grader Andy and third grader Joey, are students at the school.

Pine Knob Elementary School Instructional Aide Julie Brookes has won the prestigious Oakland County Betty Campion Award.

She and her husband, Larry, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary this year. "I have an awesome husband," she said. "He's my main support and best friend."

The couple has three other sons: Peter, 19, a student at Mott Community College; Patrick, 17, a junior at Clarkston High School; and Christopher, 15, a freshman at CHS.

The Brookes family has lived in Clarkston for almost nine years, and during that time, Julie has taught catechism at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston, and served as a den mother with the Cub Scouts.

"It's a nice environment to raise a family," she said.

She is thankful that the Clarkston district, and Ness in particular, have given her an opportunity to work with children.

"I am grateful to the Clarkston school board for allowing us to have these positions," Brookes said. "It's nice to have another person in the room to help with the kids. Phyllis makes me feel like I'm part of the classroom."

When Ness is unable to teach on a certain day, Brookes will step right in and teach the first graders.

"We're right there with the kids hands-on," she said. "I'm the guest teacher when she's absent. I couldn't have asked to work in a better situation. I feel really blessed. K.C. has been a tremendous voice for Pine Knob. She is a good leader."

Independence Elementary group seeking donations

A group of Independence Elementary students is seeking money to make a trip to Knoxville, Tenn. to take part in a national competition.

The group took first place in a recent Destination Imagination competition at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant. The group seeking to travel

Clarkston High School students once again banded together to help repair a local home.

The CHS Student Council, which sponsored the inaugural Paint the Town project last year, headed up this year's efforts May 5.

Approximately 45-50 students showed up to help repair a home on Princess Lane, off of M-15, according to Dan Ferguson, a CHS teacher and faculty co-advisor for the project.

He said 34 participants came from the CHS Student Council.

Prior to painting, the students power-washed the entire house to prepare it for painting.

The students took part in many tasks, including painting fences, shutters, as well as raking leaves, digging dirt, and mowing the lawn. They also created flower beds, created walk paths, planted new seeds and cleaned gutters.

Ferguson said credit is due to Clarkston businesses who made financial contributions to the project. He said approximately $3,000-5,000 worth of materials were donated to the project.

Even as the paint is drying on this year's home, plans are already being made for next year's project, Ferguson said.

"This is a year-round thing," he said. "We begin looking for next year's house in about a week."

Clarkston High School students (l-r) Stephenie Rota, Caitlin Kieras, Chrissy Johnson, Megan Kleinedler, and Kayla Baker painted shutters as part of the high school's second annual Paint the Town project. Approximately 45-50 students took part in the project.

Criteria for homes to be considered for future projects includes the home must be in the Clarkston community, and the person must own the home for liability purposes.

If no two people are alike...
why should their funerals be?

They shouldn't, at least we don't think so. To be truly memorable, a service should reflect the tastes and preferences of the person who has died. Which is why we believe in offering a boundless variety of service options. You can even add your own personal touch. Ask to speak with our preneed specialist who can help you with your advance arrangements.

Just as no two people are alike, we believe no two funerals are alike.

Fires

smoke and wet from water from the fire hoses.

Maggie spent the weekend with the vet and was still recuperating with friends on Monday.

The family was taken in by next-door neighbors Ron and Elena Forbes. "They're our guardian angels," said Janet. The Verniers plan to move into an apartment this week.

The fire started by spontaneous combustion from rags soaked with deck sealer stored in an open garage can in the attached garage, said John.

"We all do it," said Janet. "I have learned the hard way."

In the garage, the fire melted the couple's Corvette -- all that's left is the full gas tank. It quickly spread to the rest of the house. The fire was limited to the roof and garage, said Cesario. But the first floor received extensive damage as debris from the roof and attic fell.

There is some discrepancy over the call to 9-1-1. John said the first call to 9-1-1 was made at 11:05 p.m., but the fire department did not arrive until 11:27 p.m.

However Cesario said his records show the first call came in at 11:15 p.m., with firefighters on the scene by 11:20 p.m. He added the home's alarm system was hooked up to an alarm company, and that no call ever came in from that company.

Candles unattended cause fire on Pinedale

"Carelessness" was the cause of a house fire earlier in the evening, May 4. According to Cesario, the fire department responded to a house fire on Pinedale at 7:30.

The homeowner, a 67-year-old woman, told an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy her grandson had accidentally started the fire.

The 16-year-old boy admitted he was "playing around" with candles in the basement. The boy told authorities he set four taper candles on a mirror, lit them and went upstairs for dinner. When he returned the fire had started.

Reports state the lad tried to extinguish the fire by pouring water over it, which caused the basement to fill with smoke.

When firefighters arrived they secured the scene, conducted an investigation and said an arson investigation wasn't warranted.

On a side note, Cesario said a neighbor was ticked for "interfering with the fire department." According to the fire inspector, the neighbor backed his car out of his driveway and over a fire hose in use.

Shed on Sundale burned

The fire department was called to duty again at 10:47 p.m. on Sunday, May 6 -- this time to a shed fire at 4819 Sundale St.

Cesario said the cause of the fire was, again, improper disposal of rags that had been used in a deck refinishing project. The inspector said the home owner had used the rags four to five hours earlier in the day. They had not dried properly, causing them to spontaneously combust.

Nobody was injured and neither was the home.

Wall collapses on construction workers

On Monday, at 1:25 p.m., two construction workers at a site on Fairfield, in the newly developed Montclair subdivision on Waldon Road, were injured when the hole they were in collapsed.

According to Cesario, the workers attempted to remove a piece of foundation by breaking it up. The concrete slab was in a hole, and one of the hole's walls caved in, pinning the workers. One worker, in his 30s, was able to free himself with only scrapes and bruises.

His 19-year-old companion, however, was buried in dirt up to his shoulders. Firefighters had to remove some dirt before they could rescue him. He was transported to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital with a broken pelvis and leg.

Planned burn on M-15

Motorists on M-15 Sunday morning may have noticed the fire department hard at work, controlling a housefire - a fire they had set.

The abandoned home on the west side of M-15, just north of I-75, was part of training exercise.

Dispose of chemically soaked rags properly

Two fires were caused by the improper disposal of rags used in deck refinishing.

Fire Marshal Greg Olrich said, "We at Independence Fire Department have seen this all too often. This first weekend in May has brought two such fires with devastating consequences. Neighboring communities have experienced similar losses this week.

The lack of air circulation doesn't allow the heat to disperse properly. That results in spontaneous combustion ignition of the substances without the presence of external heat, explained Olrich.

"Actually, oxidation is taking place in the middle of the rags," he said. "This produces trapped heat which rapidly increases. Finally, the rags burst into flames, igniting everything surrounding them. Within minutes after the first presence of flames, the fire has spread, beginning to consume everything."

To prevent this from happening, Olrich said consumers should follow general guidelines:

■ Follow the manufacturers' instructions for disposal of soiled rags and debris.

■ Place rags outside, spread out. They should be hung on a clothes line or on saw horses.

■ Some manufacturers recommend complete submersion in water.

■ Place rags in tightly sealed metal cans.

■ After drying, disposal should be done cautiously.

Olrich said the most common products the Fire Department is finding are Behr and Penofin. "But, all oil-based products are subject to this problem," he said.

THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin
Attorney at Law

THAT SETTLES IT!

Whether you are the plaintiff or the defendant in a civil suit, you should always be open to the idea of settling your case out of court. In fact, far more civil cases are settled out of court than in court. According to a Bureau of Justice Statistics' Survey of State Courts, only 3% of tort, contract, and real property lawsuits that the courts disposed of were decided by trial (2% by a jury). Going to trial can be unpleasant and costly in terms of time, money, and emotion. While the client has the final word on the decision to accept a settlement offer, he or she should listen to the counsel of his or her attorney in such matters.

Court cases in real life are far different from the dramatic scenes we see on television. We are experienced in the legal system and know how to work within it. If you need assistance with a legal matter, contact the professionals at 620-1030. Conveniently located at 11 North Main Street, we handle a variety of legal matters involving personal injury, auto accidents, slip & fall injuries, criminal defense, business law, real estate, family law, and civil litigation in both State and Federal courts. Call us for sound legal advice.

NOTE: The process of wearing down the other side in civil litigation through endless and costly moves is sometimes referred to as "grinding down." ing lot.

Neil Wallace, who was part of the Township Board at the time of the rezoning, said "I wasn't aware we were stepping on anybody's rights rezoning it in response to the Master Plan. Big boxes are a regional draw, we are not a regional community. We don't need to be this and it would be detrimental to what we are trying to create and preserve."

For two hours at last week's meeting, similar arguments were voiced by residents adamant about keeping the project out of the township.

Peggy Dryer, a Clarkston resident for 18 years, said "if the township has a wishy-washy attitude, Pandora's Box will open," causing more and more commercial developments like this in the community.

Scott Kerr said he and his family "just moved from Madison Heights in August to get away from the cement jungle."

Other arguments included traffic problems, safety, noise, environmental issues; and many residents stated the desire to uphold the Master Plan.

The majority of board members agreed.

A member of the Knights of Columbus, Trustee Dan Kelly voted against the request, concluding the organization was only in favor of the development in order to gain economically.

"For that, I don't believe (the rezoning) should be changed. I say that knowing the money would be well-used and that the Knights need it."

Trustee Larry Rosso made his decision "after long soul searching." He said, "I call many of the Knights of Columbus good friends and it breaks my heart to separate myself and go against. But this is a residential community. It is my fundamental obligation as a trustee to uphold the Master Plan."

Supervisor Dale Stuart said, "If someone comes with a proposal, we don't turn them down at the door. We'll listen to anything. There have been a lot of comments that there was some promise made with the Knights of Columbus. We never make promises, we say 'you're welcome to come back with another proposal.' This has been a fair hearing, but (the development) doesn't match the Master Plan."

Yet Clerk Joan McCrary and Trustee Dave Wagner voted in favor of the rezoning.

McCrary said if a rezoning request came before the board and the parcel was surrounded by a particular zoning on three sides, like the one-acre in question, members would recommend a rezoning to complete it.

"This one-acre rezoning doesn't guarantee a Home Depot. They'll still have to come back and fight the Planning Commission and Township Board again."

McCrary said, "I have always stood for controlled and orderly growth in the township. I always try to do what I think is right and many times because of that I stand alone. But we're looking at less than 100 people here. We represent over 32,000."

Wagner backed up McCrary, adding, "I live in that neighborhood, I don't want to see (the development) there either, but the issue is rezoning."

To Clark, "The underlying issue is right and wrong and fairness to the Knights of Columbus. Private property rights have to be protected. Thank God we have the courts."

Students to attend competition

Three students from Clarkston High School will attend the Business Professionals of America 2001 National Leadership Conference.

The conference, called "Reach for the Stars," will be held May 9-12 in Anaheim, CA.

CHS chapter members Grant Gilford, Paul Marks and Brian Samuel will join over 4,000 other conference delegates from across the nation to participate in national level business skill competitions, workshops, certification testing, general sessions, and the nation officer candidate campaigns and elections.

"The conference is a culmination of a school year's worth of business workforce education and training which members of the local chapter of Business Professionals of America at Clarkston High School have received," said CHS chapter advisor Pat Topping, who teaches computer science at the school.

Students will compete in Cobol and Basic Programming.

Business Professionals of America is a national organization for high school and college students preparing for careers in business and office occupations. The organization's activities and programs complement classroom instruction by giving students practical experience through application of the skills learned at school.

The team who comes up with the most points will win a trip to Dairy Queen.

Kosin, a first-year teacher at CMS, said it is rewarding to see the students come together in support of Goldberg.

"This has been great for me as a new teacher, to see the kids come together," she said. "It's very exciting."

Megan's parents feel the same way.

"We're just amazed," said Bruce Goldberg of he and his wife Kay's reaction to the fundraiser.

Megan and her family were also thrilled to receive a visit from Clarkston Middle School Principal Linda Armstrong.

The couple's children have been beset by medical problems. Their son has autism and a younger daughter has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis.

Donations to Megan's trust fund may be made to: Spring Hill Housing Corp., PAT/S/B/O Megan J. Goldberg, and mailed to Beier Howlett, c/o Patricia Dudek, 200 E. Long Lake Rd., #110, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48304.

Kickers earn first league win

Wolves explode with five goals, rematch first place Orion May 10

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor

After going through half of the season without a league win, the Clarkston girls varsity soccer team finally got a check in the win column.

The Wolves first win in the tough Oakland Activities Association Division II came May 1 when they defeated West Bloomfield 5-1. Five Wolves scored in the win, with three goals coming in the first period.

The Wolves got on the board early thanks to a goal from Megan Renda who beat the West Bloomfield goalie who came way out of the net, Clarkston coach Tami Mitchell said.

Other Wolves who contributed to the offense included Megan Medina, Megan Mutz, Kristen Brundage and Liz Hardy. It was the first time the Wolves tallied five goals in a game this season.

"It was awesome. It was our first league win of the season and I think it was motivational to come when it did because now we're just starting to play the league teams over again. The girls finally fulfilled their potential," Mitchell said.

The Wolves offense came from nearly every position, as Medina, Brundage and Hardy are midfielders, while Mutz scored while playing defense.

A total team effort. That's how Clarkston boys varsity track coach Walt Wyniemko summed up his team's performance at the Ashley Relays May 5 at Waterford Mott High School.

Clarkston won the meet for the second consecutive year, beating out 15 other teams. The Wolves finished with 75 points. Detroit Jesuit finished second with 67, followed by Lake Orion who had 63. Pontiac Northern and Howell rounded out the top five teams.

"You can just go down the list and see all the kids who came up big for us," Wyniemko said. "It's a fun meet, a tough meet and a great win for us."

Clarkston finished in first, despite not having a single first place finish in any relay event. But it was Clarkston's depth which proved to be the difference, Wyniemko said.

"We just picked them apart with our second, third and fourth place kids," he said. "Our kids really came to compete and I was very happy with the way they came through."

Wyniemko credited his pole vaulting duo of Cory Henneman and Ryan Cociolone for some of the team's success. Henneman finished in second place, clearing 12 feet, while Cociolone's 11-6 effort was good enough for third place.

"Our pole vaulters gave us a big boost," Wyniemko said. "They gave us 14 points which was big for our team."

Rafael Fauza continued to impress on the high jump, clearing 6-7 for a first place finish. In addition, Cody Senkyr took second place in both the 110 and 300 hurdles. Taking second place were the sprint medley team of Paul Mesi, Shane Bennett, Brian Holtman and Adam Gebus who finished with a time of 2:29.1, while the middle distance team of Steve Chenet,

Gove's five hits power team in league wins over Lake Orion

Al Land has the title of Clarkston girls varsity softball coach, but he'll be the first to admit his six seniors make his job a lot easier.

"I told Lindsay (Simko) and some of the other girls they're like coaches on the field. We've got smart kids and they don't get ahead of themselves. I think that's why we've been so successful," Land said.

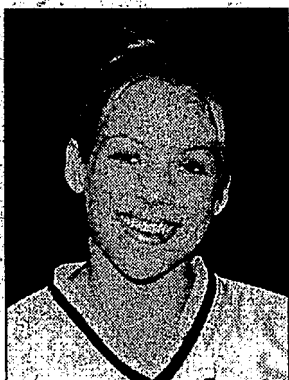

That success continued May 7 when the Wolves held on to their first place standing in the Oakland Activities Association Division I when they defeated Lake Orion 6-1 and 8-2 in a double header. The wins improved Clarkston's record to 18-4 overall and 11-2 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

Lisa Ferguson pitched both games for the Wolves and sophomore Jamie Gove picked up five hits on the day. The Wolves had five other batters who had two hits.

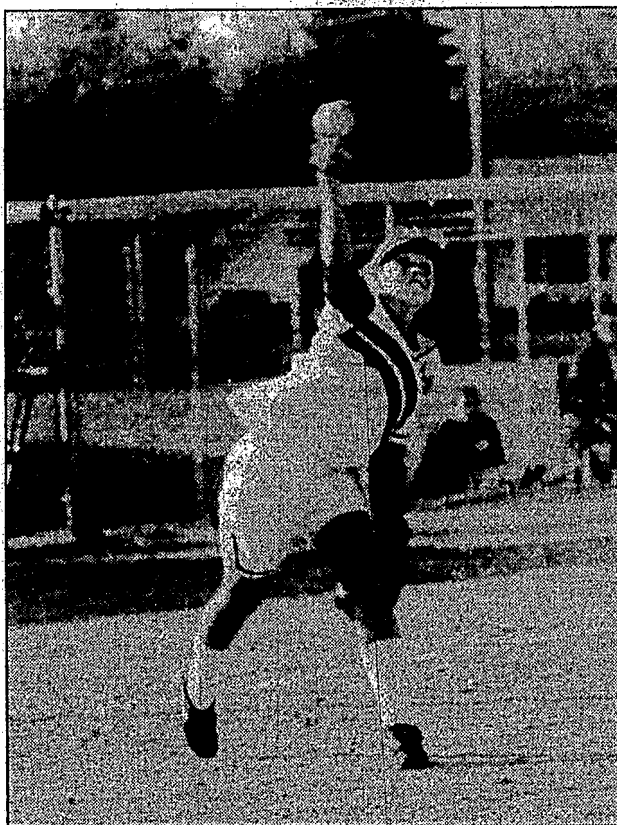

"We showed good balance today and we played great defense," Land said. "We're playing good ball right now."

The Wolves played some good ball over the weekend as well. Clarkston won its pool and went 4-1 in the North Star Tournament May 5 and 6. The Wolves opened the tournament with a 5-1 win over Marion. From there, they shut out their next three opponents, L'Anse Cruise North, Fenton and Lakeshore by a combined score of

"We had a very good tournament and the girls played very well," Land said. "They have a lot of confidence right now, but they're smart kids and they know how to win."

The Wolves remain one game ahead of Waterford Kettering who has already suffered three league losses. Even though the Wolves are atop the league right now, Land is hoping someone else can hand the Captains another league loss.

Golfers hand Troy first league loss

Trim, Barnett have strong showings on the links

Larry Sherrill knew his team would be up against some strong competition when the girls varsity golf team made the move to the Oakland Activities Association Division I. But if the Wolves continue to put forth the kind of effort they did May 1, then Sherrill's wishes of finishing in the top of the league may just come true.

The Wolves came back from spring break and to a very busy week, competing in three matches. Their best effort of the season came against Troy, who came into the match boasting a 5-0 league record. But the Colts suffered their first defeat of the season, as the Wolves pulled off the upset, defeating Troy 197-202.

"I think it was our best match of the year just considering the competition we were up against," Sherrill said. "It was nice because we had a total team effort and a lot of kids played well. I think I was more excited than the girls were, but I knew we could play like this."

The Wolves were led by Anna Trim, who shot a 43 and Lauren Benner's 48. Laura Barnett also had a strong round, finishing with a 52 Sherrill said.

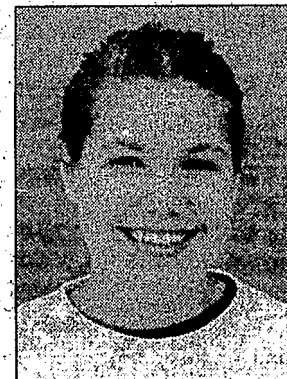

Also last week, the Wolves competed in the Eccentric Tournament at Fieldstone May 2 where they finished eighth out of 14 teams. Clarkston was led by Trim who shot a 94.

The Wolves fell to Rochester 191-201 May 4 at Springfield Oaks. Clarkston was led by Taylor Wilburn and Trim who both shot 48's, Lauren Benner finished with a 50 and Lindsay Pawlik ended the day with a 55.

"I was hoping to be .500 in the league and I think we can do that if we continue to play well. I think that would be great, especially considering this is our first year in division I," Sherrill said.

Clarkston is 2-4 in the league (at press time). The Wolves resume action May 10 when they take on Troy Athens at Sylvan Glen at 3:15 p.m. The Wolves beat the Red Hawks earlier in the season. Clarkston will rematch Troy May 14 at Liberty Golf Course, formerly Clarkston Creek, at 3:15 p.m.

The rundown
The meet — Clarkston had defeated Troy who was 5-0. Anna Trim and Lauren Benner were Clarkston's top golfers.

The Wolves failed to stay on the winning track however as they fell to Birmingham Groves 2-1 May 3. Renda had the lone Clarkston goal.

The Wolves are 4-6-3 overall and 1-4-2 in the OAA II (at press time).

They resume action May 10 when they host Lake Orion, who is undefeated in the league. The Wolves fell 3-0 in the teams' first meeting April 24.

Clarkston's own summer games are underway

Have you ever heard that saying, "Michigan has two seasons — winter and construction?" Well, for anybody who has had the opportunity to drive through downtown Clarkston there is surely enough backed up traffic, orange cones and loud noise to make you want to avoid Main Street altogether. And while area businesses hope to maintain their client bases in the upcoming months, I've developed a list of summer games we will all participate in like it or not.

The mile wait — Pick a spot on Main Street and just sit there. Be sure to pick a good spot now because your car isn't going to move very far very fast. Let's figure on a good 15 minutes to make it from Dixie Highway to the I-75 ramp.

Orange cone relay — Here the idea is to weave in and out of orange cones in between construction zones trying not to knock any of them over.

Orange barrier relay — Same as above, except as the name implies, the drive attempts not to knock over any barriers.

Pot hole shuttle relay — Be the first on your block to lose your suspension! Here, area drivers can test their shocks, struts and alignments by battling crater sized pot holes. This event can also be done on Telegraph, 696 or just about any other road within the county.

The stop to slow dash — Here, drivers can rev up their engines in anticipation of maxing out at a blistering 10 mph as road workers flip their signs from stop to slow. I've never figured out who is more bored here — drivers who are waiting for the worker to flip the sign or the guy who has to stand out there and flip the sign. I saw a guy with a yo yo out on White Lake Road doing it the other day. Hey, why not bring a Game Boy next time you're out on the job?!

Parking spot marathon — Here, area motorists can spend hours searching for a place to park in downtown Clarkston and what makes this event even more fun is that once that spot is found, it may not be available the very next day. This is a great way to test your patience, sanity and your engine limitations as we all know how much stop and go city traffic is good for a transmission.

Overall construction marathon — The biggest test of them all. Even if you master both the orange cone and barrier relays, find a parking spot that stays consistent, don't find the stop and slow guy annoying or elude every pot hole this summer guess what? The games are still not over. Because these Clarkston summer games are all going to carry over until the fall. And not just early fall, like weeks one and two of the NFL season. No — we're talking Mid-October here folks. We're all going to be battling this downtown construction while the fall colors are in full bloom and the Lions still have a mathematical chance to clinch the division. The Detroit Red Wings will be in training camp and the baseball playoffs will still be going on. (Not like the Tigers will be there).

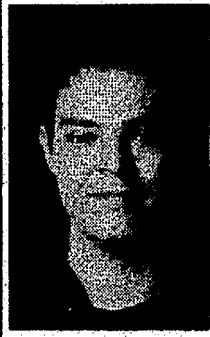

So sit back, take a deep breath and have plenty of CD's in your car and your presets on your favorite station because once you get on Main Street you won't be leaving it for a while. And neither will this construction.

E-Mail Ed your take on summer construction, the disappointing Tigers, Red Wings training camp or the Lions at aedavis11@aol.com or clarkstonnews@adni.net.

He who is in love with himself has at least this advantage—he won't encounter many rivals.

The Bottom Line

Athlete of the week: Trevor Manuel

Most baseball players who bat .500 don't pride themselves on their fielding, but that's what Trevor Manuel says has made him a better player.

The soft spoken senior has been on the varsity baseball team the last two seasons, but he found his niche halfway through his junior year.

That's when coach Phil Price moved Manuel from ninth in the Wolves' batting order to second. This year, he's moved up again and is batting lead-off.

"As Trevor goes, so goes our offense," Price said of Manuel. "He gets on base and he scores runs. He makes our offense go. He's a quiet leader on our team."

Making the offense go may be an understatement for the second baseman. Through May 6, Manuel has racked up some pretty impressive numbers to go along with his .487 batting average. He's scored 19 runs, has tallied 16 RBI, has stolen 15 bases and has one home run.

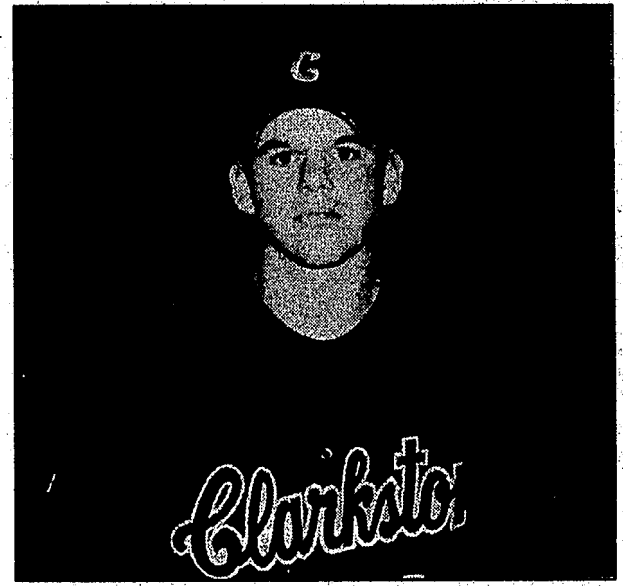

Still, Manuel feels it's his defensive play which has picked up the most this season.

"I think I was just as strong offensively last year, but this year I've improved my fielding," he said. "I just try to keep my eye on the ball when I'm up to bat — nothing special really."

Manuel considers his 1-for-1 performance against Troy Athens earlier in the season his best game to date.

"I think I played well on both sides that game, offensively and defensively. Even though I was just one for one I think it was my best game."

Manuel has been playing baseball since he was 5 years old and hopes to continue playing after his career at Clarkston is complete. He said

'He gets on base and he scores runs. He makes our offense go. He's a quiet leader on our team.'

Phil Price — Varsity baseball coach

Western Michigan University has shown interest in him, but nothing is settled just yet.

"I just want to play ball at college somewhere," he said.

Manuel maintains a 3.1 grade point average and hopes to do FBI work after graduation.

Girls take second at Romeo Invite O'Dea, Erkfritz, Hawley power girls track team's success

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor

Clarkston girls varsity track coach Gordie Richardson was hoping his team would finish in the top five at the Romeo Invitational. He got more than he hoped for when his team finished in second place.

The Wolves finished with 107 points behind first place Romeo who had 141. Lake Orion and Oxford rounded out the top four teams at the meet May 4.

Assistant coach and team statistician Chris Krueger said the Wolves did better than he expected as well.

"We exceeded my expectations," Krueger said. "We're definitely improving."

The Wolves had several strong performances, including Meghan Pocs, who finished the two mile in 11:46. Also powering the Wolves team was freshman Kristi Hertzler, who took second in the pole vault clearing nine feet.

In addition, the 4x800 relay team of Pocs, Karyn Erkfritz, Maureen Kuhta and Carla DelVecchio set their best time of the year at 10:02. The sprint relay team of Kim Wilson, Amanda Sawyer, Herzler and Emily Cushing finished with a time of 1:51.1. Kuhta also set a personal best in the 1600 with a time of 5:40. Her previous personal best was 5:48. The 4x100 relay team of Meghan Garrett, Beth Randall, Andrea O'Dea and Hertzler finished in just over 54 seconds.

Earlier in the week the Wolves picked up two league wins by defeating Lake Orion 67-61 and Troy 78-50 in a triangle meet at May 1 at Clarkston High School. Lindsay Hawley's discus throw of 104-2 gave her first place in the event.

Since opening the league season with two losses to Rochester and Rochester Adams the Wolves have won three straight league matches. The Wolves are currently 3-2 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

The Wolves resume action May 12 when they host the Clarkston Invitational at 9:30 a.m. Regionals will be held May 18 at Holly beginning at 3 p.m. The league meet will be held May 22 at Rochester Adams High School beginning at 3:30 p.m.

"Our depth will be the key to that meet," Richardson said. "If we can get in the top three teams I'll be happy. If we can sneak into the top two teams then I'll be really happy," he said.

Wolves can grab second straight league title by winning league meet May 10 at CHS

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Sports Editor

Clarkston varsity tennis coach Kevin Ortwine is hoping his team's tough non-league schedule pays dividends. He'll find out first hand May 10.

That's when the Wolves will have the opportunity to capture their second straight league title.

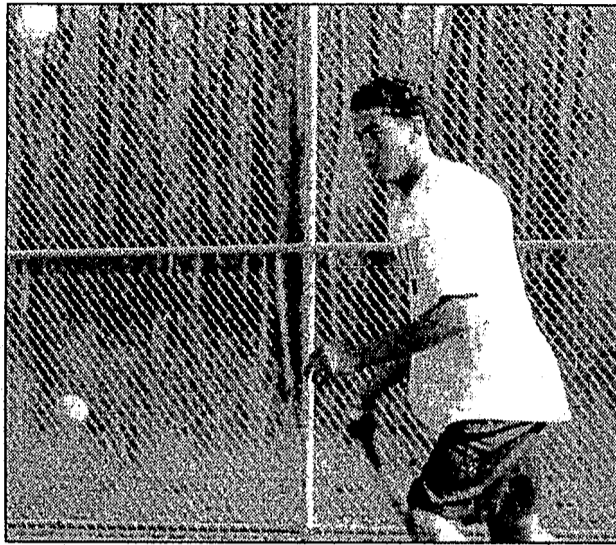

The Wolves will host the Oakland Activities Association Division II league meet May 10, beginning at 9 a.m. If the Wolves win the meet, they will win at least a share of the league title. If they win and Birmingham Groves finishes third or lower, the Wolves will win the championship outright.

"It's unlikely that Groves would finish that low, but all we can worry about is how we do as a team. Right now our kids are playing loads better than they were when we finished our regular league season," Ortwine said.

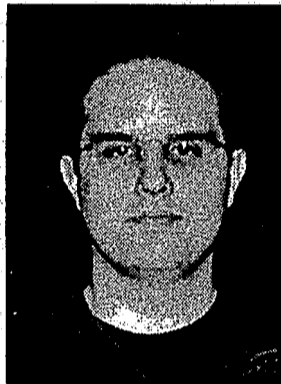

The Wolves finished the league season undefeated with a 3-0-2 record, but had it not been for a disappointing tie to Berkley the Wolves would be 4-0-1.

Ortwine scheduled a tough non-league schedule with the most recent weekend tournament taking place

The rundown
The tournament — Clarkston finished fifth with Mike Rashid and Paul O'Connor both earning medals.

at the Grand Blanc Invitational May 5. The Wolves finished fifth out of eight teams. Catholic Central won the meet, followed by Grand Blanc and West Bloomfield. East Lansing, who is ranked no. 3 in division II finished fourth with 10 points. Clarkston finished with nine points.

"There's really no difference when you compare the division one and two teams," Ortwine said.

"For us to come out and finish only one point behind a team like that, a team that's third in the state, I think that says a lot about us."

Clarkston had two players medal in Mike Rashid and Paul O'Connor. Scott Barnett also had a strong tournament. The doubles team of Mike Claus and Jon Szilvagy also played well, Ortwine said.

Baseball team falls to Rochester Adams

Antonazzo homers twice, but Wolves leave too many base runners stranded in league loss

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor

They had their opportunities, but fell short in the end.

The Clarkston varsity baseball team lost its most recent game, a 3-2 decision to league rival Rochester Adams May 7 at Clarkston High School in the top half of double header.

The loss dropped Clarkston's record to 11-3 overall and 4-2 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

Clarkston left runners in scoring position stranded on base throughout the afternoon beginning in the first inning when they left a man on third.

Adams got on the board in the second inning with a two run homer, but Clarkston's Torre Antonazzo answered in the third when he hit the first of two solo homers. However, the Wolves ended the inning leaving runners at the corners, a problem that plagued them throughout the game, coach Phil Price said.

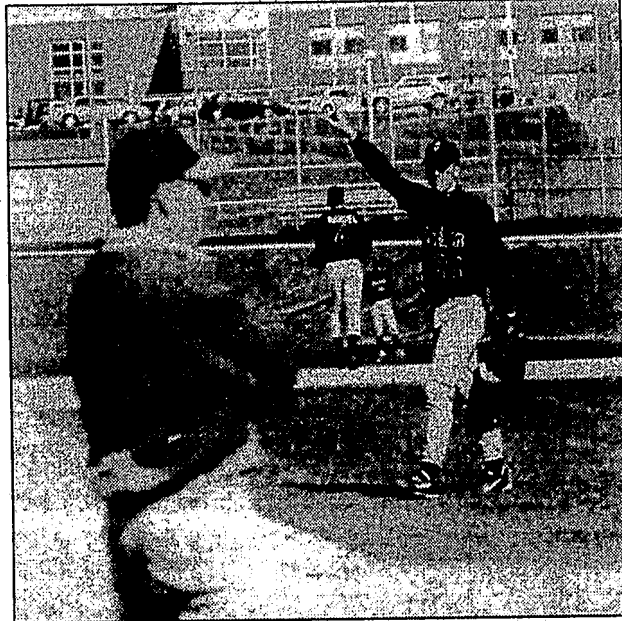

"We left a lot of runners on base," Price said. "But our kids battled and you have to give Adams credit.

The rundown

The game — Andy Kleinedler went all seven innings on the mound and Torre Antonazzo had two solo homers. Trevor Manuel got on base three times.

Where they stand — The Wolves are 11-3 overall and 4-2 in the OAA I.

Up next — The Wolves visit first place Lake Orion May 9 beginning at 4:30 p.m.

We had our chances, and had a couple of things went our way it could have been a different game."

In the first inning, Trevor Manuel was called out at home on a controversial slide which could have given the Wolves an early 1-0 lead.

But Clarkston pitcher Andy Kleinedler kept the Wolves in the game and even though Adams racked up a number of hits,

"We left a lot of runners on base. But our kids battled and you have to give Adams credit. We had our chances, and had a couple of things went our way it could have been a different game."

Phil Price

they couldn't generate many runs.

"Andy pitched a great game out there for us, but we have to make our own breaks," Price said.

In the top of the fifth Kleinedler was called for a balk, which gave Adams a 3-1 lead, but the Wolves rallied in the bottom of the seventh and gave themselves a chance to win.

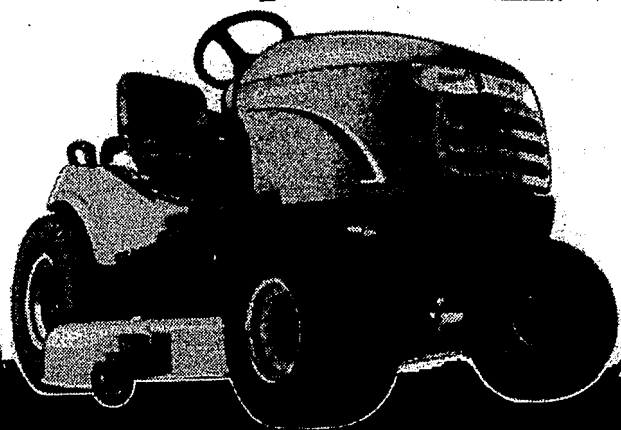

Antonazzo hit his second homer to cut the Adams lead to 3-2. That was followed by a Chris Cutler single. Jason Rupe then drew a walk to put runners at first and second with two outs, but the Adams pitcher struck out Clarkston's final batter Rob Bryan to seal the win.

The second game of the double header was postponed until May 18 because of darkness. The Wolves were ahead 5-3 through four innings. Price said he hopes Adams schedules another full game to go along

We Are SIDING Trim & GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. What we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We do not sub-contract it out, or sell it. So of you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Total customer satisfaction is our only acceptable standard.
Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.
