Standoff at Fox Creek ends with deputies shooting suspect

Pleads not guilty; bond denied on 12 charges

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A five-hour standoff with police June 2 left Fox Creek residents shaken and an Independence Township man facing life in prison.

Chad Arnold Kuhl, 23, was arraigned June 5 in 52-2 District Court before Magistrate Kelley R. Kostin. Kuhl stood mute on 12 charges in connection with the incident, and a not guilty plea was entered on his behalf.

Kostin ruled bond be denied to Kuhl due to the severity of the incident. "The counts in this matter are very serious counts," she said.

Kuhl was arraigned on five counts of possession of a firearm in commission of a felony, two counts of assault with intent to murder, and one count each of felonious assault, discharging in/at a building using a weapon, malicious destruction of a building, malicious destruction of police/fire property, and reckless use of a firearm.

Kuhl, who was a resident of Fox Creek Apartments on Clintonville Road, repeatedly fired a rifle from his second story balcony, and threatened police with a bow and arrow, according to Sgt. Gary Miller of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

According to Miller, Kuhl had suicidal tendencies throughout the standoff.

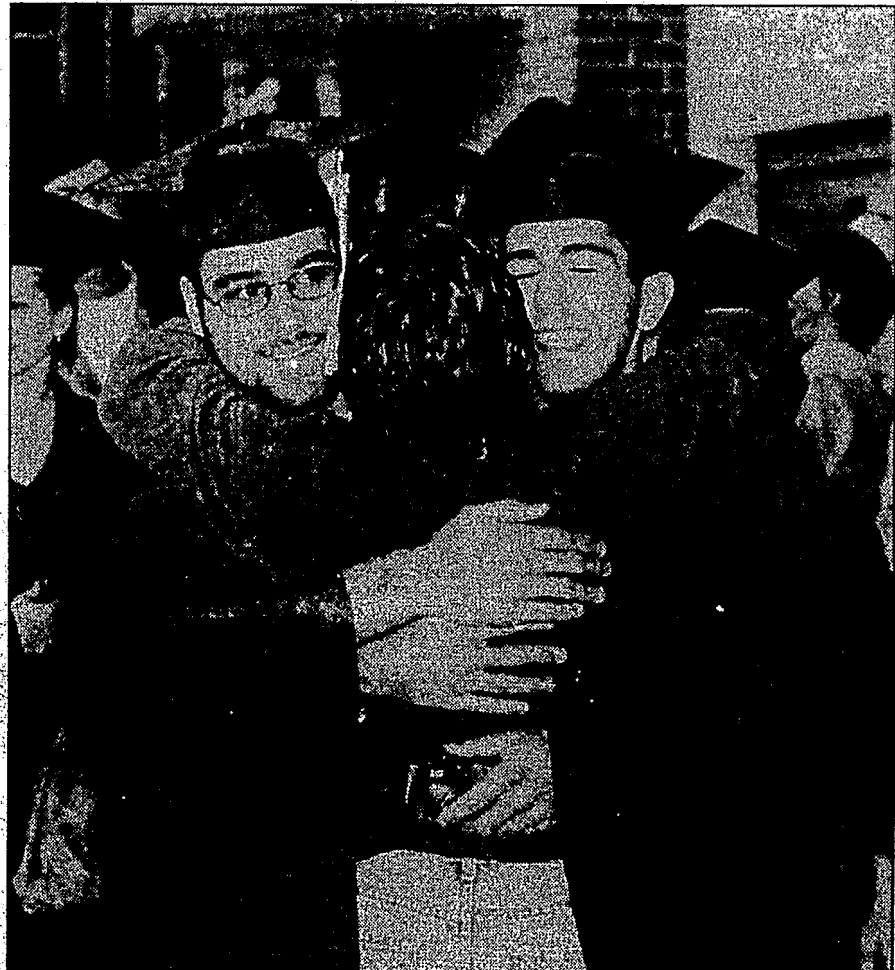

He said even after sustaining a gunshot wound in his back, Kuhl tried to put together a noose to hang himself, and swallowed a handful of pills while talking with a police negotiator.

The standoff began at approximately 6:15 p.m., Miller said, and ended about 10:55 p.m. After he was taken into custody by the Sheriff's Department, Kuhl was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, treated, and lodged in the Oakland County Jail.

The incident shook up residents of Fox Creek, who were forced to remain in their apartments during the standoff.

Attorney requests New Year's party case be dismissed

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A controversial case involving two Independence Township residents may soon be dismissed from the courts.

Michael and Peggy Strutz are both charged with resisting and obstructing a police officer after seven minors were found in the possession of alcohol at a New Year's Eve party in their home.

The Strutzes' defense attorney, Todd Fox, said he filed a motion to dismiss the case. He said his intent is "to quash the information on the basis that prosecution failed to establish their case."

Historic hitching posts in danger

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As Clarkston prepares for its new downtown, one piece of its long history may be moved temporarily.

Hitching posts, on the Lynn residence on 80 N. Main, were the topic of discussion at the city council's last meeting, May 29.

City councilman Scott Meyland said the posts have historical value to the village. They were used years ago to tie up horses, Meyland said.

However, as the downtown area continues to undergo construction through the summer months, there is concern that the historical hitching posts would be destroyed. However, moving them may not be a much safer alternative, Meyland said.

"The big concern now is that they're so fragile that if we move them they may be destroyed too," Meyland said. "But if we leave them there's a chance they could be destroyed also."

Former chairperson for the Clarkston Historic District Commission, Susan Basinger, said every effort should be made to preserve the hitchposts.

"It's been unfortunate that some of the hitchposts have deteriorated already," she said. "Those are a link to the past for the village. Those posts were used until the age of the automobile. If we lose those it's a sad thing. They should be restored and replaced as soon as possible," she said.

"School children see those when they take tours of the downtown. They are a way for children to learn about history and about the village. They're links to the past," Basinger said.

The News in Brief

City budget and millage rate public hearing

The Clarkston City Council will hold a public hearing regarding the 2001-2002 city budget Tuesday, June 12 at 7 p.m.

Copies of the proposed budget are available for inspection at the city offices, 375 Depot in Clarkston during regular office hours.

The property tax millage rate proposed to be levied to support the proposed budget will be a subject of this hearing.

City Manager Art Pappas said the regular millage in the city's charter is 15 mills. However, as property valuations increased, the amount the city can levy has decreased due to Headlee roll-backs, he added. The city has been operating at 13 mills for several years, and the City Council could ask for an override, for a maximum of 13.8704 mills, Pappas said.

The public hearing will be during the City's regular council meeting, which has been changed to June 12 because of the school election on June 11.

Native plantings, outdoors are the focus of Hummingbird Ridge

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of occasional stories on residential development in Independence and Springfield townships.

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

"Development does not have to equal destruction."

Those words are the focus of Aulgur-Raisin Builders' efforts at Hummingbird Ridge, a 54-acre development on Eaton Road, off of Davisburg Road.

The project is the first one in Springfield Township to use native planting as a key feature, according to Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole.

"It was the first development that would incorporate native plants as an integral part of the development," Strole said. "Since then, there have been a number of other developments that are in the process of approval that would use native planting."

One of those developments is Hidden Ridge, which has already been given concept approval and will be on the agenda for final site approval at the June 14 Springfield Township Board meeting, Strole said.

Aulgur said native planting is advantageous for several reasons, including providing shelter and food for wildlife, helping to reduce air pollution, promoting stewardship of the area's natural heritage, and saving money.

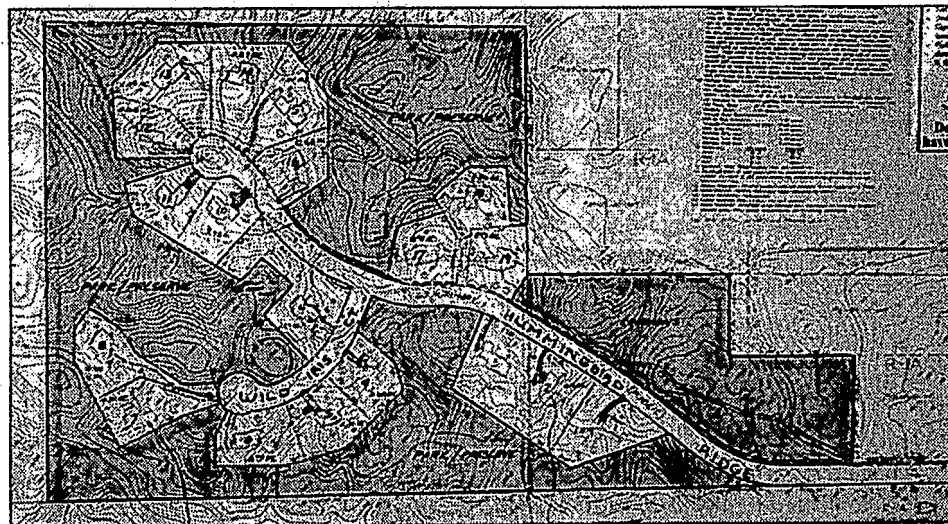

Aulgur-Raisin Builders, located on Dixie Highway in Clarkston, acquired the property in September 1998 with the intent to be the sole builders behind the project.

According to Susan Aulgur of Aulgur-Raisin Builders, the intent is "to create a community that provides for the continued maintenance of a beautiful and harmonious environment that promotes an ecologically friendly lifestyle."

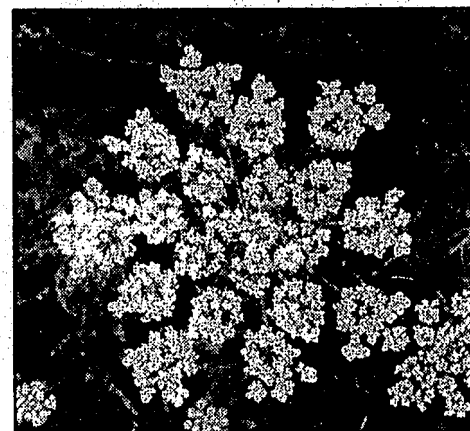

The development, located in the Holly school district, features 19 home sites, ranging from over 1/2 acre to 1-1/

Developers (l-r) Susan Aulgur, Alan Aulgur, and Richard Raisin show off plans for the Hummingbird Ridge development.

This drawing shows the configuration of the cluster development, at Davisburg and Eaton roads in Springfield Township. Over 60 percent of the property is preserved in its natural state. Lot prices run from $109,000 to $121,000, and home prices will range from $350,000 to $600,000.

Native plants like this Queen Annes' Lace abound in the development.

3 acres. Over 60 percent of the property is reserved in its natural state, Aulgur said.

A conservation easement, granted to the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy, protects the habitats found in the natural ridges, woods, and valleys at Trillium Ridge Park.

Lot prices range from $109,000-121,000, while the home prices range from $350,000-600,000. Each of the 19 homes will be custom designed, and will feature paved roads, underground public utilities, natural gas, and individual wells and septic.

"Each of the homes will be custom designed to meet the needs of each homeowner's lifestyle and each lot's unique features," Aulgur said.

Aulgur said one of the 19 lots has already been sold, and two other reservations are pending.

A groundbreaking ceremony was held May 7 to commemorate the development and use of native plant vegetation in the project.

According to Aulgur, construction on the project should begin in a matter of weeks. "We anticipate that shortly," she said.

Candidates, non-homestead millage on school ballot

Clarkston voters will chose two candidates for the Board of Education and decide on a millage proposal during the annual school election June 11.

Current board treasurer Ron Sullivan and Steve Hyer, seeking his first term on the board, have filed for election. The terms are for four years each, expiring in 2005.

Write-in candidates must file a declaration of intent by 4 p.m. Friday, June 8.

In addition, voters will decided the fate of an operating millage proposal on non-homestead and non-qualified agricultural property tax.

If passed, the millage will enable the district to levy the statutory rate of 18 mills against non-homestead and non-qualified agricultural property required for the school district to receive its revenue per pupil foundation guarantee.

The rate has been rolled back to 17.6772 in accordance with the Headlee amendment. "The foundation allowance (per pupil funding from the state) assumes we're collecting 18 mills," said Anita Banach, community relations director for the schools. "We're not asking for something different. This keeps the promise set up with Proposal A."

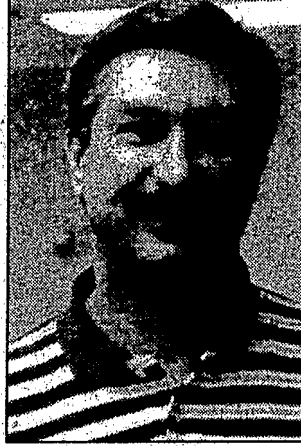

The proposal reads as follows:

"Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property, exempting therefrom homestead and qualified agricultural property as defined by law, in Clarkston Community Schools, Oakland County, Michigan, be increased by 1.5 mills ($1.50 on each $1,000.00 of taxable valuation) for a period of 2 years, 2001 and 2002, to provide funds for operating purposes; the estimate of the revenue the school district will collect if the millage is approved and levied in 2001 is approximately $675,000 (this millage will be levied only to the extent necessary to restore the Headlee reduction)?"

The polls open at 7 a.m. June 11 and close at 8 p.m. The voting precincts and voting places are as follows:

Sanderson resigns from council

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Sports Editor

When city councilwoman Karen Sanderson renewed her driver's license, she unofficially resigned from the city council.

But she made that move official May 29 when she resigned the position she has held for the last eight years.

City Manager Art Pappas said Sanderson went to the Secretary of State office to renew her driver's license and when she did she put on her future address which read Harrisville, a small town near Lake Huron. By doing so, Sanderson was no longer a registered voter within the village and therefore could not be a city council person any longer. She also served as a member of the Clarkston Planning Commission.

The city council is supposed to appoint a new council member in a matter of weeks, Pappas said. He said the council is supposed to appoint a new member within 30 days of her resignation.

Sanderson said her biggest accomplishment during her eight years on the council was helping the city hook up to the water supply of Independence Township.

"Working with the council has been great. We've had some difference in the past, but the water was a great accomplishment. We tried it a few years ago," she said it may be her last term."

Karen Sanderson

Sanderson has taught word processing and accounting at Hamtramck High School for 30 years and is looking forward to retiring next week. Once in Harrisville, Sanderson and her husband will be renovating their third old home.

"I've seen a lot of growth in the surrounding areas in my 30 years in Clarkston. But Clarkston still holds that small town atmosphere."

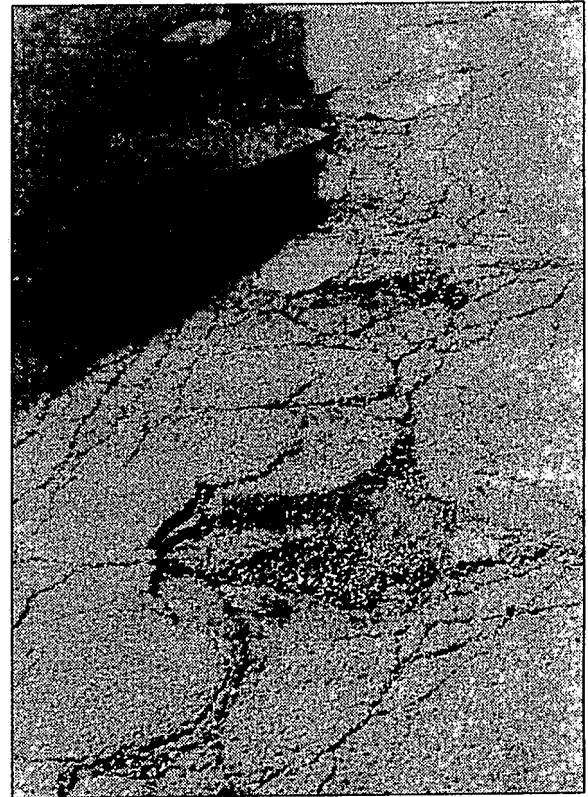

Sanderson said.

Pappas said he has not been made aware of any nominees for the position. However, the new council person, if appointed, will have a one-year term.

Pappas said Sanderson's departure was not a surprise.

"She had suggested that she would be leaving," Pappas said. "It was no big surprise. I remember the last time she ran

The festival, which is being put together by members of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, will consist of several events including a wood carving contest, a tree lighting ceremony, a community Christmas carol singalong and a holiday parade.

The Clarkston (MI) News

Your vote counts in June 11 school election

Officials cringe when there are seemingly no "real issues" on a ballot.

In next Tuesday's election the two school board seats are, so far, not contested. Steve Hyer and incumbent Ronald Sullivan are running for the two four-year terms.

There is also a millage proposal for a non-homestead millage adjustment. It does not ask for additional mills, but adjusts the rate up to the 18 mills set by Proposal A in 1994.

As you can see by one of our letters to the editor, however, it is considered unfair by at least one business owner.

It's a problem for some business owners who also live in town. They're taxed twice and some disagree with it.

We owe it to ourselves and our community to show support for the candidates, voice our opinion on the millage proposal, and exercise our hard-won right to vote.

Vote 'No' on the non-homestead school millage increase

I have read the school newsletters regarding the millage election on June 11 with great concern. All the letters have stated the non-homestead tax increase will not affect us personally.

I beg to differ. Where do you think businesses will compensate for this increase? By increasing the cost to you, the consumer. This year alone we have given $900 to Clarkston student-related activities. Which group should I say no to — band, drama, or athletics? You decide.

If this millage passes, businesses will be less likely to give to the MANY organizations that request donations. This millage would also affect our older population that uses Clarkston as a second home.

These people are a valuable asset to our community, an asset that we shouldn't force out of town.

We've had four girls within the Clarkston schools and we're willing to pay our share, but not on the back of business, which is already burdened with more fees and taxes than the public is aware we pay.

I suggest the schools eliminate waste from within, and then treat all taxpayers equally.

Think about it — vote NO June 11.

Connie Morgan

Our teachers are Clarkston Foundation's heroes

It has been said there are no heroes for our youth to look up to anymore. I beg to differ. On behalf of the Clarkston Foundation's Teacher-of-the-Year program, THANK YOU is the least we can say to some very important everyday heroes in our community:

1. Flannery Ford, member of the Suburban Collection (especially Bob MacKenzie) for the shiny new black Ford Explorer that our top Teacher of the Year, Howard Andress, will drive for the next 12 months. You value the education of our youth so highly, that you've awarded this vehicle from outside your own community. You are indeed heroes in our eyes!

2. Clarkston State Bank, especially Dave Harrison for chairing this committee for the second year in a row, and for the $1,000 contribution that will give each of the four finalists a classroom grant of $250 to use in just about any way each teacher sees fit for the benefit of his or her students. What a wonderful statement you and your board of directors have made - talk about "giving back" to your community!

3. Teacher-of-the-year committee members; Dave Harrison, Chairman; Patty Barnett, Maralee Cook, Natalie Hewko, Sheila Ritter, Larry Stout and Mel Vaara for the extensive time, professionalism and personal commitment you all so willingly gave to this task.. Of all the committees in the Clarkston Foundation, yours is the toughest job of all, and we are so grateful to you. This community owes you all a debt of thanks for the difficult task of narrowing the 10 candidates down to four finalists. How hard it must have been to choose just one recipient, but this is evidence of the fine caliber of teachers we are proud to call Clarkston's own.

4. Our unsung hero nominees: Nancy Mahoney, Jeff Peariso, Staci Puzio, Kurt Richardson, Darlene Roche and James Sanford. You work in the trenches as we parents so willingly send our students off to school.

Finally, four finalists: Howard Andress, Cliff Chapman, Vicki Potter and Ed York. I wish the entire community was able to read the many letters of nomination, praise and recommendation made by your peers, your students, parents and your administrators. To teach is to touch the future and you ten represent some of the best of Clarkston teachers. We are so proud and honored to have you in our educational community

With sincere gratitude to all of you, with hopes of a bright future for all our students, and with the grateful appreciation of the Clarkston Foundation and its Board of Directors, we thank you, one and all!

This and that around Clarkston

This week marks the last issue that Clarkston High School columnist Kevin Kosbab will write for us as a high school student. But he has an open invitation to write for us any time, about almost anything he may choose.

In the three years I've been editing stories and columns published in The Clarkston News, Kevin's work has been by far the easiest to edit -- that includes every reporter we've had and my work, too.

There may have been a couple of opportunities for me to shorten a sentence here and there, or fix a couple of typos, but that's been it.

I was amazed the first time I read one of his columns. He's a natural writer -- and obviously a thoughtful young man.

We wish Kevin well at Oxford University in Great Britain, and we expect to hear big things from him in the future.

The end of the school year marks a very busy time for us. The schools have many activities going on and we wish we could cover them all.

This week Sports Editor Ed Davis caught the seniors in the act of having a great time during the senior walk at CHS and at their senior BBQ on the last day of school.

The kids obviously know how to enjoy themselves,

Rolling Along

Maralee Cook

even in crummy weather.

Reporter Jennifer Nemer visited Pine Knob Elementary's field day Monday. What a hoot. Field Days are a great way to end the year. Fortunately, the weather was more cooperative for the children.

One note -- when I was choosing photos for the Field Day spread from negative-size reproductions, I was first horrified to see what looked like a baby pig being tossed up in the air by a group of kids.

With thoughts of charges of animal abuse being aimed at the schools if we published the photo, I called Jen to ask her what was going on.

Not to worry, she said. The pig in the photo is a squeaky toy.

Next week we'll have more student good times in our annual graduation issue. Stay tuned.

Downtown Main Street business owners and employees have been meeting weekly for several weeks at the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce offices to plan for the Scavenger Hunt taking place this month.

There will actually be three scavenger hunts this summer, in June, July and August.

There is a clue to be found in each business. And as excited as the business people are to be doing this, it should be pretty easy to find out the answer when you walk in.

We think you'll have a lot of fun participating in the scavenger hunts. Please let us (me especially) know what you think about them, and if there should be improvements for the next two.

E-mail comments to: clarkstonnews@adni.net or fax 625-0706, call 625-3370 or stop by and visit.

Let's get together and burn some meat

I know, I know. It's sorta' been a soggy start to summer (well, start to "pre-summer," that period from Memorial Day to the Solstice on June 20). Just because it's been cold and damp doesn't mean we all have to shiver and wilt like my tomato plant.

Behind every gray cloud is a hole in the ozone just waiting to warm our cockles with all sorts of mutation-helping ultraviolet rays. I guess you can call me a "the glass is half full" kind of guy. Hot sunshine filled days are not far away.

And since it's June, men all across the fruited plains of this country are, thinking about, talking about and firing up their grills. As a member of The Men Club (the bane of women's existence), we are always looking for more ways to season our burnt meat.

And, we are not the only ones. I ran across a press release from the folks at Accent (the food seasoning people) which announced they are planning to give away $20,000 in prizes for the best barbecue recipe. The hook, of course, is you have to make sure Accent Flavor Enhancer is part of the recipe. Deadline is August 17. (Just in time for the end of summer. Go figure?) Go to their website at: www.accentpices.com for more info.

Which gets me thinking (a dangerous proposition if ever there was one): What is your favorite grilling sauce or seasoning? Let us know, we'll publish them in our pages. We can't offer a $10,000 grand prize, but we can get your name in the newspaper.

Send them to: BBQ Recipes, PO Box 108, Oxford, MI 48371. Or you can send them to the e-mail address at column's end. Be quick, our deadline isn't the end of summer. We want to publish these before folks spark up the grill on July 4. June 29 is your deadline.

That said, somebody sent me this e-mail on the "definition of outdoor barbecuing."

Definition of Outdoor Barbecuing

It's the only type of cooking a "real" man will do: When a man volunteers to do such cooking, the following chain of events is put into motion.

(1) The woman goes to the store.

rush
don't rush
me

(2) The woman fixes the salad, vegetables, and dessert.

(3) The woman prepares the meat for cooking, places it on a tray along with the necessary cooking utensils, and takes it to the man, who is lounging beside the grill, drinking a beer.

(4) The man places the meat on the grill.

(5) The woman goes inside to set the table and check the vegetables.

(6) The woman comes out to tell the man that the meat is burning.

(7) The man takes the meat off the grill and hands it to the woman.

(8) The woman prepares the plates and brings them to the table.

(9) After eating, the woman clears the table and does the dishes.

(10) The man asks the woman how she enjoyed "her night off." And, upon seeing her annoyed reaction, concludes that there's just no pleasing some women.

Ha, ha. Very funny. The yokes on us. Hardy-har-har.

I take some umbrage to that so-called "definition of outdoor barbecuing."

First, men actually have to start a fire. Nowhere was there a mention of that. Sometimes that means stacking charcoal briquets just right, lighting them and tending to them so they cook the meat evenly.

Secondly, we men have to keep looking at meat and flip them as needed.

Thirdly, that beer in the man's hand is not just for consumption. Oh, no, dear ones. That beer is for seasoning said meat and is as an important barbecuing tool as the spatula and the tongs. And, that can of beer is a safety thing. Yep, it's true.

Sometimes fat from the meat drips causing a fire. Many a man has unselfishly (some would say heroically) dumped the contents of his beer can onto the inferno inside the grill, saving the meal's main course for his family.

So there. Put that into your Food-omatic and process it.

the People Poll

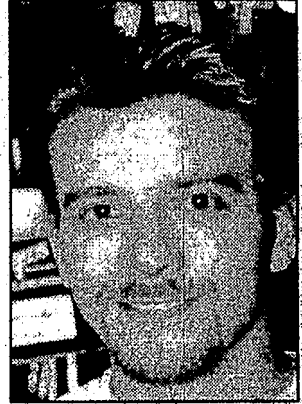

By Jennifer Nemer

The Clarkston News asks:

What concert are you looking forward to this summer at DTE Energy Music Theatre?

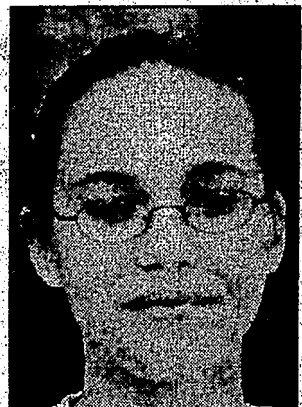

"Poison. That's one I've heard about I'm looking forward to. And Bon Jovi. It's all about the music, the hair, the guitar solos — everything."

—Andrew Kozich

"Now that it's been changed to DTE, it's like taken the fun out of going there. And I grew up in Clarkston and go there all the time. But I heard Kansas was coming and The Steve Miller Band. I'd like to see them. Oh, and Incubus and Outkast at the Area One Festival."

—Randi Faust

"Nonpoint. They're on the second stage at Ozzfest. They're my neighbors. I used to live right next door to them in Fort Lauderdale. This is their first big tour."

—Tony Dantzer

"There's nothing really good in the lineup, but Oasis and Black Crowes would probably be pretty cool."

—Andrew Thomas

Why 'Pearl Harbor' in May, not December 7?

I will not be going to see the movie Pearl Harbor. I know, you're saying "Tell it to someone who cares."

Further, I don't understand why any other World War II, Pacific veteran would go see it either, unless they must see another love story. I read somewhere it's the love story that's drawing the Japanese to theaters.

And, why is Hollywood bringing the movie out on Memorial Day and not on the December anniversary date?

Don't reason that it's the 60th anniversary of the dastardly deed, because May 28 isn't.

No, it's got to be a Hollywood reason, which like other Hollywood reasoning, escapes me.

World War II vets who were invited to screenings and interviewed afterwards said, "It was very authentic." I would hope so, they had 59 and a half years to get it right.

Every Dec. 7, since the end of that war, we've had the war-with-Japan starter described (before television) and seen — the attacking planes, the bombings, the people running and ships sinking.

We've also learned there had been warnings issued to officers who ignored them and given soldiers and sailors extra time off.

By now even the semi-attentive Americans know all about the Pearl Harbor attack and all that followed.

Jim's
Jottings

Jim Sherman

The first I heard of the attack on Pearl Harbor was when the superintendent of Morrice schools announced it to we students. I was 15-years-old and had to have the teacher explain where Pearl Harbor was.

Just over two years later I would be there, enroute to the island of Okinawa.

Somehow it bothers me that Hollywood may make a ton of money off this disaster. Of course, I realize that's their business, and they do, or have done the same over killings, the Titanic, cowboys and Indians and every other 'seller' at the time.

I don't have to like their background to a love story, and I don't have to see the movie, and I won't. Oh, yeah, I said that already.

I suppose there is the possibility the movie will make some in the generations since WWII more aware of the sacrifices, destruction and suffering. If so, it could be the only good to come of the movie unless you're really starving for another love story.

This is being written the day before Memorial Day, 2001. I've just listened to Mike Wharf's recount of events leading to the Pearl Harbor attack, 6 to 7 a.m., WJR, and then got my holiday chills while he played all the red, white and blue, patriotic selections he could from 7 to 9.

Wharf is my Sunday morning "fix." His choices for readings and music are usually excellent.

With Wharf's Memorial Day salute and the Memorial Day recognitions in Oxford Village's Centennial Park tomorrow -- with the high school band, veterans in uniform, little ones waving flags, seeing friends and remembering -- my "fix" will be total.

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1986)

John Needham emerged victorious in the only contested race for a Clarkston school board seat on the June 9 school election ballot. Voters also approved the Clarkston school district's seven-year, 5-mill tax renewal request, 501-178.

New principals for Clarkston High School and Andersonville Elementary School will be on the job July 1. In separate votes, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously approved the hiring of Dr. Robert Burek as CHS principal and Sharon Devereaux as the Andersonville principal. Burek was selected from a field of 56 applicants; Devereaux from 76.

Thirty-four Clarkston Road condominiums proposed by developer Frank Walker continue to hang in limbo. The Independence Township Board tabled action on his plans for a second time, citing a desire to investigate the intensity of the development and the potential for fewer units. The motion was made by Trustee William Vandermark to deny the rezoning request.

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

A battle is brewing between Independence Township officials and Royal Oak attorney Edward Schulte over whether Schulte can land airplanes on his Independence Township property. The township has attained a temporary restraining order in Oakland County Circuit Court, preventing the attorney from landing his aircraft on a driveway on the property.

Clarkston Board of Education candidates met about 40 electors in an open forum at Clarkston High School. Sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycees, Clarkston Education Association and Citizen Election Watch, it was emceed by Robert Vandermark. Present were incumbent Charles Smalley and contenders Eric Reickel, Vince Luzi and Wayne Viergever.

Independence Township has been granted $122,000 in Title II Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funding for a six-month period beginning July 1 of this year and extending until January. Oakland County, which administers the grant, has also allocated funds to Springfield Township, the Clarkston school district, and Clarkston village.

50 YEARS AGO (1951)

The Reverend I.W. Parrish will celebrate his 50th anniversary in the ministry on Sunday, June 10th, at the Sashabaw Presbyterian Church. His sermon subject will be "If I Had One More Sermon To Preach." His daughter, Miss Mary Parrish, and Allen Parrish, will sing. Mr. Parrish received his theological education at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

The Clarkston Girl Scouts and Brownies closed their year at an investiture service when several Brownies flew up to Girl Scouting and were presented with their wings. The tea at which the mothers of the Brownies and Girl Scouts were guests were sponsored by the Scout Troop Committee with Mrs. Robert Osgood, chairman of the committee, in charge.

The following specials were advertised at Terry's Market in Clarkston: smoked picnics, 39 cents/lb.; frozen raspberries or strawberries, 37 cents a package; large size head lettuce, two heads for 29 cents; butter, 69 cents/lb.; salmon, medium red, one pound can, 59 cents; red sour cherries, two cans, 45 cents.

Integrated Pain Management Center...

Clarkston M.D. integrates best from West and East

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Through personal experience, Clarkston's newest M.D., Dr. Mahendra Mehta, became a believer of holistic approach for optimal health and well being.

Now he's brought his own mind, body and spirit practice to the area to fill the void he feels exists in Clarkston.

"I've been in their shoes," said Dr. Mehta, "and that helps me treat my patients from a personal and highly unique perspective."

Dr. Mehta suffered five years ago from a herniated disc in his back. Not thrilled about the idea of surgery, he tried alternative approaches and it worked wonders for him.

"Traditional Western medicine has tremendous value but sees patients from a narrower perspective," he said, "while holistic medical approach treats the whole person--mind, body and spirit."

Dr. Mehta's approach goes beyond physical treatment to what he calls a healing from the inside out rather than outside in. He believes in evaluating the person at all levels including an accurate assessment and diagnosis of the problems. "It's an integration of the best from the West with the best from the East."

The Integrated Pain Management Center combines medical services and alternative therapeutic treatments such as yoga, meditation, herbs, stress management, nutritional counseling, and weight management along with neuromusculo skeletal treatments and more.

One of the primary approaches utilized is acupuncture. This aims at "harmonizing and equilibrating the flow of energy that sustains an individual," said Mehta.

It's most effective, he said, for the management of pain, nausea and vomiting associated with chemotherapy, pregnancy, and post-surgery.

It can also aid in the treatment of smoking and substance abuse, migraines and other headaches, chronic fatigue syndrome, allergies, injuries, and weight loss.

For example, acupuncture works on the satiety center in the brain dulling the hunger sensation to aid in weight loss.

Dr. Mehta reassures, "for those with needle-phobia, acupuncture needle insertion is relatively painless, and the needle is barely the size of a human hair."

For some patients the treatment has made a profound difference in their life. Karen Monte suffered with neck and head pain for six years and said, "acupuncture has given me back my life." She'd gone to 12 doctors, visited chiropractors, dentists, had CT Scans performed, an MRI, did physical therapy, and was on narcotic medication. She was simply told to learn to live with the pain.

As a last resort she came to Dr. Mehta, who also has an office in Bloomfield Hills. After seven visits Monte was 90 percent pain free. Once over medicating herself, she said she now takes very little medicine. "I would recommend acupuncture to anyone who wants an alternative to medication and wants to live again."

Another patient, Gladis Mitchell, suffered with chronic back, neck and shoulder pain for nine years four or five days a week. She said her pain was reduced in intensity and reduced to one to two days a week after acupuncture treatments.

"No other doctor was able to deliver these results," she said. "Even if the pain never completely ceases, Dr. Mehta has made my quality of life infinitely better."

Dr. Mehta admitted, "At times I feel a lot of pressure in that I have to obtain results for my patients. They have been to many health practitioners and I am their last hope. I try my very best."

"Most of us are not in tune with ourselves and that is why we get hurt or injured," said Dr. Mehta, who feels his methods are unique because he empowers, treats and educates his patients on health issues.

However, though conventional medical treatments are covered by insurances, typically specialized treatments like acupuncture, yoga, and nutritional counseling are not covered by agencies. Dr. Mehta said health insurers are beginning to notice the value of alternative therapies and coverage is on the horizon.

Mehta strongly believes the key tenet to his practice is prevention. "Maintenance of optimum health, and prevention of ill health, requires a positive attitude and a healthy lifestyle. Like

Did you know drivers ages 16 to 19 are four times as likely to have an accident as older motorists? Did you know 65 percent of teen passenger deaths occur when another teen is driving? THE LAW & YOU

by Kelley R. Kostin

STATE YOUR COMPLAINT

A civil lawsuit begins with a "complaint" filed with the court, in which the plaintiff complains that the defendant violated his or her legal rights and asks the court for a remedy. Delivered to the defendant, the complaint contains useful information. To begin with, it lays the basis for the jurisdiction of the court. It then goes on to notify the defendant that he or she is being sued and why. By thus proving adequate notice, the defendant is able to hire a lawyer and begin to consider the basis on which the plaintiff's claims will be contested. Lastly, the complaint frames the issues of fact and law that will be involved in the case, setting the stage for litigation.

Go on a Scavenger Hunt in downtown Clarkston

The inviting charm of historic downtown Clarkston is also part of the fun this June as the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and 18 downtown businesses host a scavenger hunt with a $300 basket of prizes for the winner.

The scavenger hunt is easy to play. Pick up an entry form at any of the participating businesses and then look for clues at each of the stops along the way.

You must fill in all 18 answers to qualify for the grand prize drawing to be held the first week of July. Completed forms can be turned in to any of the participating businesses, or at the Chamber of Commerce office, 5856 S. Main St.

Participating businesses include: Basketful of Yarn, Chocolate Moose, Clarkston Hair Design, Clarkston News, Clarkston State Bank, Clarkston Travel, Clarkston Union, Country Woodshed and Parsonage, Edward Jones Investments, Grattan Optometry, Kinetic Systems, Macksey Interior Design, Clarkston Country Store and Main Street Antiques, Rudy's Market, Tierra Fine Jewelry, Union General Store, Victorian Village and Village Apparel and Gifts.

"This is a great activity for the entire family," said Kurt Miller, RDM Associates.

The goal of the scavenger hunt is to bring people into the unique specialty shops and services found in downtown Clarkston. "People often comment that they didn't realize Clarkston had so much to offer," said Penny Shanks, executive director of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. They are delighted to discover the treasure that's in our own hometown."

For more information, contact the Chamber, (248)625-8055.

Clarkston Schools . . . challenging all students to succeed

Like it or not, all children do not enter this world on a level playing field. The circumstances and factors that influence their capacity and desire to learn vary greatly. Some youngsters are born into families that are able to live comfortably, while others find themselves living in poverty. Some boys and girls grow up knowing that education is a priority in the minds and hearts of their parents; others see little evidence that their parents believe in the power of learning. Some pupils have an opportunity to work their way through a district's K-12 curriculum, while others move so often that it is difficult to find a way to navigate through changing course offerings and requirements.

If I were to ask any of our teachers to identify the "at risk" children in their classrooms, they would respond with a high degree of accuracy. It is apparent to me that our faculty is acutely aware of the progress their pupils make, and they can certainly tell when progress is hampered. Our teachers understand that there are factors that tend to negatively impact a youngster's readiness to learn; but they also know that they are expected to challenge each and every learner to exceed his/her expectations (district mission). However, such knowledge does not always translate into action and that is a problem to be solved!

You see, school systems are often caught in an intricate process of balancing state regulations, the teachers' assessment of how the child performs at school, and the parents' viewpoint of how their child functions away from the school setting. The magic we try to weave is to stay within the requirements of the law, while getting parents and teachers to come to consensus on the best course of action for the individual child. That's easier said than done, but your schools are up to the challenge!

The table below identifies some of the "risk factors" that should be considered as we work with families to place children in the appropriate grade. While these factors ought to be part of the parent-teacher dialogue, everyone should keep in mind that there are no absolute guarantees. For example, some children start school young, move often and still succeed. Nevertheless, the evidence clearly suggests that the following risk factors influence some pupils in ways that will not be overcome unless we do something!

Risk Factors and Circumstances Influencing School Readiness:

Age - Many youngsters start school before they are developmentally and/or socially ready for school.

Gender - Girls tend to be socially ready for school much sooner than boys of the same age.

Poverty
High Mobility Rate
Availability of Quality Health Care

Preschool Experience
Single Parent or Unstable Family Situations

Complications at Birth
Low Birth Weight
Prenatal Effect of Tobacco, Drugs and/or Alcohol

The good news is that with the cooperation of parents/guardians we can help all children succeed. It is probably accurate to say that teachers, administrators, and parents/guardians tend to find the above topics difficult to discuss. Nevertheless, such conversations must take place. It is probably correct to say that most parents/guardians have little comparative data (how their child performs relative to the rest of the class). All the same, we must provide parents with information about the types of tasks their child should be able to complete to be successful at a particular grade. In this way, comparisons can be made against a uniform standard giving parents the information they need to make sound decisions.

The bottom line is that the performance of all Clarkston students is enhanced when all pupils are challenged! School officials and families must make decisions that are based upon real information; but they must also see education as being different than it was when we (adults) were in school. Proper placement with a challenging curriculum; a team (parent/teacher) that cares; and the development of a love of learning are really the keys to success. There is no magic to improving schools - a clear vision, hard work, commitment to all kids, and a willingness to learn from one another is all we need.

Kevin's done writing for The Clarkston News . . . for now

They call this column CHS Life, so now that my life at CHS is finished, I have to stop writing.

First of all, I have to apologize to anyone who feels I've overstayed my welcome. After hearing from me every few weeks for four years (I've now been writing for the paper longer than any of the reporters or the editor), I can imagine how I might get a bit old.

I must thank you, though: if you've gotten sick of me, you've kept it well hidden from me. Almost everyone who's had something to say about my column has been friendly and supportive, and that made writing it all the more pleasant.

Since I started writing for The Clarkston News, I've had to consider myself something of a local celebrity. With the constant paparazzi and requests for autographs everywhere I go, what choice do I have but to accept my role as a public figure?

Of course, that's an exaggeration (the autograph hunters usually slow down by midnight), but it has been a bit strange for people to be familiar with my life without ever having met me. When someone starts talking to me about something I've mentioned in the column, I still take a second before I realize how they know all these strange things about me. I think to myself what weirdo is out there spreading these facts about my life? Then I remember that the weirdo is me.

I have the benefit of writing what appears about me in the paper, but my parents aren't as fortunate. I don't think my dad is real thrilled that people he works with get regular information about his life outside the office. I don't think he's really upset by it; I think he's more freaked out than anything. Perhaps "freaked out" doesn't quite describe his feelings when his automaker coworkers learned of his driving the Tracker into the trees.

My mom reads all the columns before I send them to the editor, so she has an idea of what's being said, but that doesn't stop her from having the occasional odd moment as a result of my column. Just before we went on vacation this spring, someone called her to recommend the swamp gardens I'd mentioned. My mom wasn't quite sure of the woman's name, but couldn't come up with anyone we knew that sounded similar, but thanks, whoever you were went and there were plenty of alligators to scare my brother, so I was quite satisfied.

Like I said, most everyone has been friendly, and the half-anonymous phone call was just another case of that. I'm always happy to hear from readers, whether I know them or not. I especially appreciated the kind letter to the editor from Bob and Carol Arend that was printed last week. Along the same vein, I thank the staff of the newspaper and Bill Wint another reader I hadn't met for their support after I wrote about the disappearance of the round tables in the cafeteria. I had never expected a column about such a small issue as the shape of the tables to provoke any disturbance, but the paper and Mr. Wint both called to offer their backing before anything had been said to me by the school. And a month after the column in question had been printed, the principal did have some words for me about my journalistic integrity. That's why I had to say earlier that it was almost everyone that had been friendly and supportive-aside from this principal, the football coach when I dared to say that there were people at the football games who weren't actually interested in the game, and the library volunteer who told me on more than one occasion that I needed to be less negative, everyone has been.

I truly am grateful for the encouragement I've received. I think my not-always-positive attitude and willingness to say what may upset the principal or football coach is a big part of the relationship I feel has developed between you and me. While I always tried to be diplomatic, I think I've done the best I can to carry out what I see as the goal of this column: to give one perspective on life as a student at Clarkston High School. All I have is my own perspective, and to try to be positive all the time would be to lose that perspective. And I made sure to write positive columns, too-I'm not all negative.

Any regular obligation has its moments of being a chore, but beyond those moments, I've enjoyed sharing my thoughts with you. Thank you for letting me do so-I hope you've enjoyed it, too. To the request made by the Arends and several others that I send back a few tales from England, I'll do what I can. And if any of you haven't snatched up an autograph yet, I'll be around until September.

Standoff

Jim Decker, a resident of the complex, was one of those who remained inside during the standoff.

"My brother (Ray Decker) actually witnessed the first two shots," he said. "He was outside smoking, and he witnessed the first two. He came inside and called the police."

Decker said police were lined up and down Clintonville Road, and the road was completely closed off. He said he did not feel he was in danger during the standoff.

"No, not really, he had no angle to shoot into our apartment," he said.

He said the police responded quickly, "within two minutes of the phone call," and also said "there didn't seem to be a lot of panic."

Decker said Kuhl's mother and girlfriend arrived on the scene to try to persuade him to give up. "That didn't work, then the cops handled it from there," he said.

Another person who was in her apartment during the incident, Denise (who asked that her last name be withheld), said she knew she was in the middle of a dangerous situation.

"Definitely," she said. "After I heard the sheriffs outside of my window, then I knew we were in possible danger. I looked outside the window and saw the SWAT team. They were surrounding the complex...I could hear them negotiating."

She further said she was relieved no one was hurt in the standoff.

She said complex residents received a letter from building management informing them that Kuhl would not be returning to the complex. "It helps to know that they're concerned," she said.

A complex resident, who asked not to be identified, said he was coming back from the movies when he heard gunshots, and said he was with his wife at the time of the incident.

He said he heard Kuhl shouting at the police officers who were trying to persuade him to surrender. "He was yelling to police," the man said. "The police started talking to him, asking him to come out."

If no two people are alike... why should their funerals be?

They shouldn't, at least we don't think so. To be truly memorable, a service should reflect the tastes and preferences of the person who has died. Clarkston Village Players win with 'Gin Game'

Nancy Penvose, left, and Verne Vackaro play the title roles of Weller Martin and Fonsia Dorsey in the Clarkston Village Players production of the famous "Gin Game." The play's run ended the Players' 40th season on Sunday.

Reminiscing, spirited competition are the focus of 'Gin Game'

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Village Players played their last hand of the 2000-01 season June 3.

At the Depot Theater, the group closed out their 40th anniversary season with their production of D.L. Coburn's two-person production, Gin Game.

The two characters, Weller Martin (Verne Vackaro) and Fonsia Dorsey (Nancy Penvose), left the audience in stitches throughout the course of the event.

The play opens with Weller playing cards at a senior center, and Fonsia entering shortly after, almost in shock that someone else is in the room. "I didn't think anyone else was out here," she said.

The two get together during Visitors Day at the nursing home, and have no one else to keep company with, so they start talking to each other about their lives.

Weller shows his irritability and cranky nature that makes him such an effective character when describing the requirements needed to get into the nursing home. "You don't have to have anything to qualify for Bentley. Old age is sufficient," he said.

The two characters then start the first of several gin games, and start reminiscing about their lives, their former spouses (both characters are divorced), and where their children are now.

They gradually get accustomed to one another, as Weller realizes when he says, "There's no one around here to have a decent conversation (with). You're the only one I can talk to."

In what would prove to be an ironic statement, Weller tells Fonsia he enjoys playing gin and has fond memories of the game. "Gin's a very relaxing game," he says. "I used to play for hours on business trips."

However, as the play progresses, and Fonsia keeps beating him at the game, Weller changes his tune. "Do you have to win all the time?," he asks Fonsia as she wins once again.

The competition takes a toll on the friendship, as Fonsia grows weary of Weller's temper tantrums. "I thoroughly enjoy your company, but you can't play gin without losing your temper," she says.

Vackaro and Penvose effectively get the audience involved in their ups and downs, and the details of their lives, not to mention the increasingly spirited gin games.

In doing so, they provided a spirited and well-done conclusion to the Clarkston Village Players' 40th anniversary year.

CVP holds auditions for first plays of 2001-02

The Clarkston Village Players will be holding auditions for their first two productions of the 2001-02 season.

Auditions for CVP's performances of "Subject was Roses" and "Night Mother" will be held Sunday, June 10 at 2 p.m. and Monday, June 11 at 7 p.m. Both auditions will be held at the Depot Theater.

For more information, call the Clarkston Village Players at 625-8811.

into the idea of moving the post if it can be done efficiently and with reasonable costs. The DPW would then replace the post once construction was complete.

City Manager Art Pappas said it would cost an estimated $2,000 per hitching post to dig around the posts by hand and not move them. There are three hitching posts in the village, Pappas said.

Pursley said on May 31 he just found about the matter and would look into it. Pappas had not heard further feedback from Pursley regarding the issue at press time.

Basinger said residents can learn more about Clarkston's history by logging on to <http://www.metronet.lib.mi.us/INDE>. Users then click on the community education network and then click on history.

The diesel engine is named for Rudolf Diesel, a German engineer who developed the device in 1897. In 1913, he mysteriously disappeared aboard a ship bound for London.

They not only violated the rights of my clients, they violated the law." He said the entry was a violation of the Fourth Amendment's freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures.

At the time of the incident, police entered the home against the Strutzes' will in order to check for minors drinking. Michael Strutz had assured officers no one else was in the house besides he, wife Peggy, and their two teenage children. Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Bob Cooper did not return calls to The Clarkston News.

The motion has been set for June 13 at 8:30 a.m. before Judge Edward Sosnick at the Oakland County Circuit Court.

Ferguson goes from Wolf to Titan

Senior softball pitcher hopes to make a splash at division I level

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a few months Clarkston senior Lisa Ferguson will begin a new four-year journey on the softball diamond. And if it's near as successful as her stint at Clarkston, Bob Wilkerson will be a very happy man.

Wilkerson will be Ferguson's coach this fall when she enrolls at University of Detroit to play division I softball. Ferguson signed with the university May 28.

"My main reason to sign there was because it's a great school academically. I want to be a physician's assistant. I've always been interested in the medical field," Ferguson said. "The coach is a really nice guy and I already know a few of the girls on the team. I felt really comfortable there."

Ferguson is coming off a senior year where she was the Wolves primary pitcher and one of their better hitters as well. Ferguson was a four-year varsity player on the Wolves team and has won well over 100 games in her career. She helped the Wolves to their first Oakland Activities Association Division I title in 10 years under coach Al Land. The Wolves ended the season with 29 wins. She also was a strong outfielder for the Wolves during her career.

However, Ferguson knows it will take some time to adjust to the next level.

"I just need to get stronger and add more velocity to my pitches," she said. "There's an opening at outfield so I'm working real hard to get that spot."

One of the differences between division I and high school softball is the distance from the pitcher's mound to

Girls track team fares well at state finals

Pocs, Witt set personal bests in two mile

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Sports Editor

When Clarkston girls varsity track coach Gordie Richardson looked back at his team's season he liked what he saw from his young team.

"For a young team I think we had an excellent year," he said. "We'll miss our seniors. They did a lot of good things for us."

Richardson saw his seniors and some of his other top athletes perform for the last time this season at the state track meet in Rockford June 2. The Wolves did not earn any points, but had several strong performances, Richardson said.

The 4x800 team of Carla DelVecchio, Christyn Reuter, Karyn Erkfritz and Maureen Kuhta ran its best time of the year at 9:44. Lindsay Hawley had a discus throw of 104 feet and Kristi Hertzler pole vaulted 9-foot-3, only one inch below her personal best.

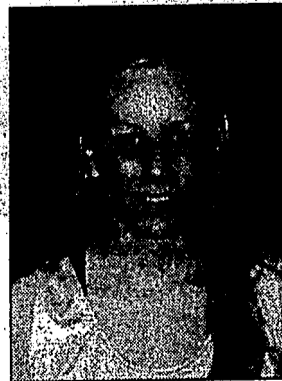

In addition, Kim Wilson high jumped 4-foot-11 and Clarkston's two best distance runners in Meghan Pocs and Lauren Witt both finished the two mile with personal bests with times of 11:36 for Pocs and 11:44 for Witt.

As a team, the Wolves finished 4-2 in dual meets in the Oakland Activities Association and finished third in the league.

In addition, the Wolves won the Clarkston Invitational and finished second at the Romeo Invitational. They also won four consecutive league meets.

Kettering shuts out Wolves in districts

Wolves tally only three hits, but finish season 18-8 overall, take second in OAA I

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Sports Editor

The Clarkston varsity baseball team has been in every game it played this season and the district semifinal was no exception.

But the Wolves came up short in their quest for a district championship as they could tally only three hits on the day in a 3-0 loss to Waterford Kettering June 2. Clarkston beat the Captains 5-3 and mercied them earlier this season.

Clarkston coach Phil Price said his team came up against a great pitcher.

"It was frustrating to end the season this way, but you've got to give a lot of credit to Kettering's pitcher. He came at us and pitched a great game," Price said.

The Wolves had a strong pitching performance of their own as Andy Kleinedler went six innings and gave up three runs.

"Andy pitched a good game for us and we were confident we could win this district, but that's the way baseball is sometimes," Price said.

The Wolves finished 18-8 overall and second in the Oakland Activities Association Division I with an 8-4 league record.

"We had a good season. I think we played well early and in the middle of the season and then kind of faded away at the end. But our kids bought into our system and played good defense all year," Price said.

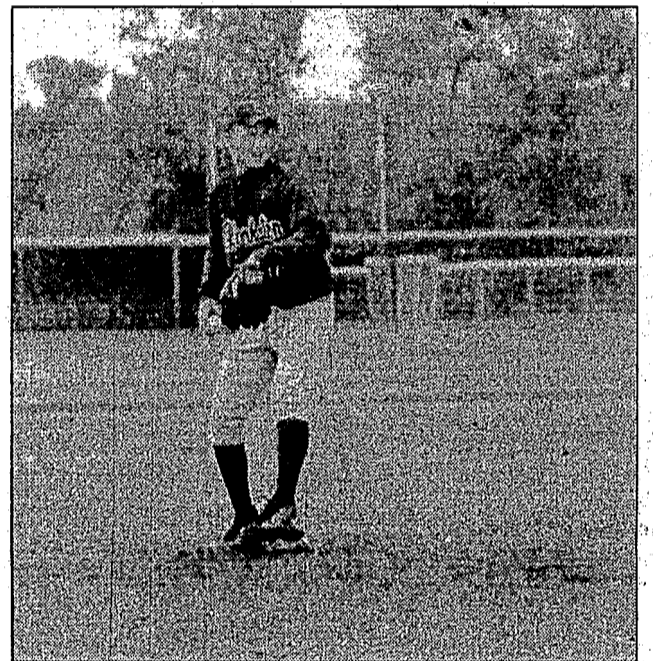

The rundown

The game — The Wolves had only three hits on the day and fell in 3-0 in the district semifinal. Andy Kleinedler went six innings on the mound and gave up three runs.

Where they stand — Clarkston finished the season 18-8 overall and 8-4 in the OAA, finishing second in the league. The Wolves lose seven of their nine starters to graduation.

Some might say the Wolves overachieved this season, by winning 18 games. After losing a solid core of seniors in Bret Gove, Chris Mitchell, Derek Capser, Francis Hodges and Bret Crawford, the Wolves, on paper, didn't look like they'd be that strong. But they contended for the league title and used a combination of solid defense, strong pitching and timely hitting to win games.

However, as much rebuilding as Price had to do this season, he'll have even more waiting for him next spring. Clarkston loses seven of its nine starters in-

Gebus, relay team highlight boys at state finals

Wolves wrap up strong season on track in Rockford

BY ED DAVIS
Clarkston News Sports Editor

Cold and damp conditions at the state track meet in Rockford didn't help Clarkston's chances any, but the Wolves capped off a solid season with some strong performances nonetheless.

The Wolves didn't earn any points at the state finals meet June 2, but had several athletes end their Clarkston careers with some strong showings.

Adam Gebus came in seventh place in the 400 with a time of 49.93. The 4x200 relay team of Shane Bennett, Brian Oltman, Paul Mesi and Gebus finished with a time of 1:31.4.

Clarkston coach Walt Wyniemko said his team ended a good season on a high note.

"That was the creme of the crop we sent out there," Wyniemko said. "We gave it our best shot and we had fun."

As a team, the Wolves finished 5-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I and finished fourth in one of the toughest leagues in the state.

"If you would have told me at the beginning of the season we'd be 5-1 in the league I'm not sure I would have believed you," Wyniemko said. "We beat Pontiac Northern three years in a row, not many other schools can say that."

The Wolves lose only a handful of seniors in Cody Senkyr, Gebus, Rafael Fauza, Jon Chenet Rob McGartland and Pat Davis, but each played key roles this season, Wyniemko said.

"If you look at the teams that dominate, they dominate with their seniors. That's why Orion had the kind of year they had. We're only as strong as our seniors and we had some good, quality kids on this group."

"Chenet gave us a boost in the 4x800 relay, the mile and the mile relay. Gebus had a great career. How many kids can say they only lost two or three meets in the entire high school career? Rafael did nice things for at the high jump and Rob McGartland ran the 800 in 2:12 and did a nice job. We rely on our seniors to take a leadership role," Wyniemko said.

In addition to a 5-1 dual meet record the Wolves won the Ashley Relays for the second year in a row.

Some advice for seniors as you head to college

Congrats seniors — you're out of there! Now that you've done what so many before you have done, in graduating, you can relax, party and prepare for what lies ahead.

For a vast majority of you Wolves I'm assuming that means college. From talking to several of you over the course of the year, I've heard that the most popular universities for the 2001 class are Western Michigan, Central Michigan, Michigan State and the University of Michigan. I've been to all four campuses and attended Central for four years.

When I interview my athletes of the week, I usually try to give a little bit of advice on what they can expect at college. I'll shed some of that advice with the rest of you seniors now.

Go to class — Sounds simple, but nothing else you can do in college will help your grade point average as much as this. Simply by showing up (at least physically) to every class possible, you'll have no choice but to grasp at least some of the material. But more importantly, your professors will know you're there and that can make a big difference come grade time.

Get to know your profs — This is something that advisors will probably tell you at orientation, and something you may have been told by parents or siblings. It's no bull. Get to know these people. Even if you find their class the most boring thing on earth, swinging by for five minutes on their office hour to say hello will go a long way. And don't use the excuse that it's a large lecture class with 500 kids and it doesn't matter if the prof knows you or not. Those are the classes where it can make the biggest difference. There were probably a dozen classes I deserved C's in, but got B's because I knew the prof. You don't have to attend frat parties with these people, just make sure they know you by name.

Pace yourself — You'll have long nights and you'll have rough mornings. It's part of going to college for a lot of you. But if you know you have a monster exam or a presentation to give at an 8 a.m. class the next day, don't stay out until sunrise. Save that night until after your presentation. Hopefully you'll be celebrating an A!

Leave your dorm door open — The first week on campus can be very stressful and awkward, especially if you're not too familiar with the university. But by keeping your dorm door open you're making yourself, and your roommates accessible to the rest of the floor. You'll make more friends this way, and hopefully by the end of two weeks, you'll know most everybody on your floor by name.

Buy used books — Books are so expensive to begin with, there's no point in buying new. When you're at the book store, buy the best looking used book you can find. Most books are filled with highlighter and pen in the first few chapters and then look brand new after chapter three. One of two things probably happened here one, the student dropped the class, or two, the student realized tests were based on lecture and not on the book. I can't tell you the number of times I bought a book, and realized a few weeks in, it wasn't really necessary.

Read and take good notes — I read most of my books, unless the class was filled with exception no. 2 from above. I made up my own way to read which was to read the first sentence of every paragraph. By definition, the first sentence is supposed to be the topic sentence, so you'll at least be getting the main ideas and it saves a lot of time. But more importantly, take good notes! If the prof is taking the time to say something, odds are he, or she, thinks it's important. I'd say 80 percent of my test questions in college came from my notes. The other 20 percent from text books.

Have fun — These next four, or five, or eight years, if you're going to be a doctor will never be here again — remember that. College is crazy, hard, de-

The Bottom Line

Athlete of the week: Rafael Fauza

When Rafael Fauza sails over the bar during the high jump one of his most noticeable characteristics is his hair flying in the wind. His hair doesn't do all the flying — Fauza flies over the bar on a regular basis.

The senior high jumper qualified for the state finals in the event this year and while his showing in Rockford was considered a disappointment to Fauza, his season was anything but.

Fauza set the Clarkston school record in the high jump April 24 against Pontiac Northern when he cleared 6-foot-8.25. The jump came after Fauza had returned from spring break in Cancun.

"I think I just needed to give my mind and body some time to relax," Fauza said. "High jumping is a very demanding sport on your body."

Fauza nearly equaled that jump about a week later against Lake Orion when he cleared 6-foot-7.

"Coach (Wyniemko) told me, 'hey, this is your event. Don't let them take it from you,'" Fauza said.

Coach Wyniemko said his senior high jumper was a free spirit on the track team, but was a competitor.

"Rafael had a lot of fun out there, but he always gave us a great effort," Wyniemko said.

Even though his career at Clarkston is over, Fauza said he hopes to continue high jumping next year. He said Eastern Michigan University has expressed interest in him.

"I want to study business and music at college," he said. "What I really want to do is move back to Brazil (home country) and play in a heavy

Kickers fall in OT to Davison

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor

"We just got unlucky on a corner kick."

Those were the words of Clarkston girls varsity soccer coach Tami Mitchell after her team suffered a heart breaking 3-2 overtime loss to Davison in the opening round of districts May 29 at Clarkston High School.

The Wolves trailed 1-0 at the half and 2-0 in the second half before rallying to tie the game at two. Clarkston's goals came from Kristen Brudage and Kelly Dougherty.

"I moved Kelly to center forward and Kristen to right forward. Then we had three forwards going and that really made a big difference for us on offense," Mitchell said. "We just got unlucky on a corner kick in overtime."

Mitchell said the corner kick went just over the hands of senior goalie Sarah Morgan.

The Wolves' season ended with a 5-10-4 overall record and the team finished in fifth place in the Oakland Activities Association Division II.

home plate. In high school there are 40 feet between the two, but in college it's increased by three feet. However, Ferguson will get a taste of that difference first hand this summer when she represents the United States in a softball tournament in Europe.

Ferguson was recruited to play on one of two US teams, which are made up of high school juniors and seniors. They will compete against teams of the same age from all over the world. Ferguson leaves for Europe July 3 and will be overseas for a few weeks.

"I'm real excited about it and it should be lots of fun and a good experience for me," Ferguson said.

Once Ferguson returns she'll have a little over a month before she heads to campus to begin classes and prepare for fall ball. The Titans play softball in the

The Wolves lose only four seniors to graduation in Megan Medina, Lindsey Lambert, Angela Humphreys and Morgan, but they leave a lot behind, Mitchell said.

"Our seniors leave a great attitude. They were upbeat and focused all season long. They also leave loads of experience. Between the four of them, they have 10 years of varsity experience," Mitchell said.

With Morgan graduating, that leaves an opening in net next season. But as of right now, that spot is wide open, Mitchell said.

"Beth Smith is the JV goalie and may get the job. Colleen Mead is another possibility, or an eighth grader could step up next year. It's wide open right now," Mitchell said.

The Wolves will return standout forward Rockie Tripi next season and will also return Megan Mutz as well as Brundage.

"Rockie's going to be the leader for us next year," Mitchell said. "As close as we were in games this year, next year we'll just have to step it up and win some more of those close games."

fall and the spring.

Her high school coach, Al Land, said his former pitcher will have some adjustments to make, but should do just fine at the division I level.

"I don't think she'll start right away at the division I level, she needs to develop more as a pitcher. She'll probably go through a lot of learning during her first year. But Lisa's got good speed and she's a talented outfielder as well. She's a very talented athlete with lots of spirit," Land said.

Wilkerson said Ferguson was a natural fit for the Titans.

"I've known the family a long time," he said. "Lisa's had a good senior year and is a very versatile player. She's a great pitcher and has above average base running speed. We know we're getting a good athlete and we're happy to have her."

Softball team falls in districts to rival Kettering

Wolves end season with 29 wins and OAA I league title

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor

Even though the Clarkston varsity softball team fell short in its quest for a second straight district title, it may have built something more important — tradition.

The Wolves fell 10-2 to league rival Kettering June 2 in the district semifinal game. The Wolves had beaten Kettering earlier this season, winning 6-2 and also fell 6-5.

But this game belonged to the Captains as they tallied five six inning runs on Clarkston senior pitcher Lisa Ferguson. Clarkston coach Al Land said his pitcher was not 100 percent. Ferguson was suffering from a hurt back earlier in the season, Land said.

"Lisa wasn't 100 percent on the mound," Land said. "She got behind a lot of hitters and sometimes when you're not strong on the mound, the defense behind the pitcher reflects that."

The Wolves, who are normally very strong defensively, made several mistakes in the game.

"When it rains, it pours," Land said. "But Kettering didn't beat us. We beat ourselves in that game. We made a lot of simple mistakes. They stole five bases on us. That should have never happened."

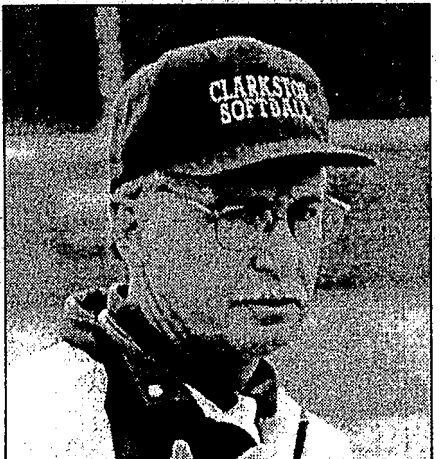

As disappointing as the loss was for Land and his team, he has lots to be proud of and so do the six seniors which led the Wolves to their first Oakland Activities Association Division I title in Land's 10 years of coaching.

The group of six seniors — Ferguson, Mary Warchuck, Tracy Honey, Tricia Brewer, Lindsay Simko and Nicole Thrift — have won well over 100 games in their careers at Clarkston. That group will be very, very hard to replace, Land said.

"When I first came to Clarkston there was no tradition. I told the seniors after that game they've helped build a program here. They've left that 'how to win attitude' with the younger kids. I'll be missing the leadership those girls displayed, especially Lindsay. I don't think I'll have another leader like her in quite a while," Land said.

The Wolves finished the season with a 29-7 record, three shy of last year's 32 win record under Land.

Land said he expects Suzie Giroux to be the team's vocal leader next season. In addition, the Wolves will start Kathy Weigard on the mound cluding Trevor Manuel, who had a great season at second base and as the team's leadoff hitter. Kleinedler had a great season on the mound, while Jason Rupe improved all season at third base. Nick Beadles, Rob Bryan and Dave Hilliard all made strong contributions this season as well. In addition, the Wolves lose one of their best hitters in Torre Antonazzo.

Price said he needs Derek Ranck to step up next season and be one of the team's premier hitters. Chris Cutler, who played well defensively, needs to improve his hitting and Matt Orris, Ben Munce and Bobby Slaughter all return next season as well.

"We have some strong returning players," Price said. "It was a good year and we've got a lot of holes to fill. But we were in every game we played this year. I think our worst loss was 12-7 and five runs isn't that much in high school ball. Our kids battled all season long," Price said.

ing there for a while. That was nice for us," Richardson said. "But when I look back at the season I'm pleased with how everything went. We had a lot of good performances this year."

Clarkston loses five seniors to graduation, each of whom made a significant impact on the team. Those seniors are: Pocs, Jessie Ressler, Erkfritz, Katie Jerge and Andrea O'Dea.

Richardson said he expects DeVecchio to be the leader of his distance runners next season and thinks Hawley will be the team's best discus thrower. He also noted Beth Randall helped a lot on relays this season and was the team's best hurdler at the end of the year.

"I'd expect those girls to be our leaders next season," Richardson said. "But I think we'll be in better shape at the beginning of next season than we were at the beginning of this season."

If that's the case, look for the Wolves to have a strong chance to contend for the league title in 2002.

next season. Weigard will be a senior and pitched the final inning in Clarkston's loss to Kettering.

"Kathy moves the ball around well and keeps the ball low on hitters. She's got another year to get faster, but I think Kathy will do just fine for us next season," Land said.

In addition to Giroux and Weigard, Land said he expects big things from Jenna Kast, who came up mid-way through the season from JV, as well as Heather and Stacie Grioux. Missy Parsons will probably be taking Simko's place at short, and was the team's most improved player, playing at second base, Land said.

"I know we have a lot of holes to fill next year. I just wish that game could have been played further in the playoffs. That game should have been a regional final. It was too early to have Clarkston vs. Kettering," Land said.

Kettering went on to win the district with a 1-0 win over Waterford Mott.

"When I look back at the season and everything we've accomplished I'm happy," Land said. "I would have liked to have gone further, and so would have these girls, but this group was totally unselfish. Kids can be selfish, but I never saw that with this group. I had a great time coaching them," Land said.

pressing, lonely, exciting and refreshing. It's a rollercoaster of emotions and experiences for several years.

Here are two final bits of advice from opposite sides of the spectrum:

"You can always retake the class, but you can't relive the bash."

"You'll never regret doing well in a class."

The second piece of advice came from my father. I took that piece and graduated in four years with one C. It can be done, and I had as much fun as anybody who got lots of C's and D's.

Kathy Weigard will be the starting pitcher on the varsity team next season. She replaced Lisa Ferguson in the seventh inning.

Pine Knob Elementary students have a blast on field day!

(Top left) Shelby Nardone hopes for a hole-in-one as friends anxiously look on. Notice the look of determination on Nardone's face. (Top right) Fourth grader Martha Bregin is the strongest in this matchup. Pulling against the weight of her peers, she's the first to grab the marker. (Lower left) Who can jump the farthest? Kaitlyn Warzybok is one of four left in the contest as she soars through the air. (Middle) Fourth graders test their balance in the egg-on-a-spoon relay race. (Middle right) At Pine Knob Elementary's field day on June 4, two second grade girls have a blast slipping down the slide. By the looks on their faces, they want more! (Lower right) Mrs. Vaulet's kindergarten class learns all about teamwork as they work together to toss the "pig!" over the net. Don't worry, the pig's not real. Photos by Jennifer Nemer.
