

Clarkston man missing Police have no clue as to whereabouts

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Over a month has passed since Clarkston resident Bruce MacDonald was reported missing, and police still have no clue as to his whereabouts.

According to an Oakland County Department report, Sheriff's MacDonald, 41, who lives on Parview Drive, was reported missing July 28 by his sister, Laurie Campos, of Novi.

The report lists MacDonald as standing 6'0"; weighing 225 pounds, with blue eyes and partially gray hair. He was driving a 1992 blue Ford Ranger pickup at the time he was discovered missing. In addition, the report said MacDonald did not take any clothes, money, or credit cards with him, and has not called or used any checks.

According to Det. Chuck Young of the Independence Township substation, MacDonald lived alone:

Young said MacDonald's sisters first became suspicious about their brother's whereabouts when they tried to contact. him about their father becoming sick. "That's how they originally found out," he said. "They called him, but he didn't return their phone calls." Young said this is not the first time MacDonald has disappeared from his family. He said MacDonald's sisters told the police he took off out west when he was 19, and disappeared for two months before they found him.

Kozma new Clarkston El. boss

Kozma has taught 2nd and 3rd grades at Clarkston El. for 13 years; is in Ph.D program at OU

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

One of Clarkston Elementary School's teachers is now the school's new principal.

Betty Kozma, a 15-year veteran of Clarkston Community Schools, was hired as the new boss at Clarkston Elementary by the Clarkston Board of Education at their Aug. 27 meeting.

Kozma replaces Charles Rowland III, who resigned as principal at Clarkston Elementary last month to take a job in the Rochester school district. Bill Neff has been serving as interim principal at the school.

Kozma, who has spent the past 13 years teaching second and third grades at Clarkston Elementary, started in the Clarkston district as an instructional specialist at North Sashabaw, spending a year there before moving to her current home.

She holds a bachelor's degree in education from Eastern Michigan University, a master's degree in teaching from Marygrove College, and an education specialist's degree in administration from Oakland University.

In addition, she is currently in a Ph.D. program at Oakland University in curriculum, instruction, and leadership.

Kozma said she is excited about becoming principal at the school that she has served for over a decade.

"I love the people," she said. "We have an excellent professional staff. We have fantastic parents and great kids. I feel like it's home."

She said she has several goals as principal: continuing the high standards for children; instilling positive attitudes in children, where each child is recognized as being important; maintain a quality education; and work with parents in the community.

Members of the Clarkston Elementary staff were on hand at the meeting to show support for their new leader. "We're very pleased to have you with us — you'll be a fine member of the administrative team," said Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts in welcoming Kozma aboard. Kozma will be making $81,856 per year in her new job.

Monday night.

She said she anticipates a smooth transition process in working with Neff.

"He is fantastic," she said. "He is an excellent mentor and has a lot of good advice. I feel very fortunate."

Kozma has lived in Clarkston for 23 years with her husband Larry, an attorney. They have two children: Brad, who works at an accounting firm in Farmington, and Kelley, who graduated from the University of Michigan and currently works for U of M Hospital with the goal of entering the university's medical school.

In her spare time, she said she likes to read, do research, and "attempts to golf." In addition, she said she and her daughter play tennis whenever they get the chance.

In an effort to pave their subdivision, residents are getting a boost by Independence Township. At the August 21 meeting, the Township Board agreed to contribute ten percent of the cost to a paving project for Cramlane Drive, Cramlane Court, and Snowapple Drive-after residents in that area requested the assistance

The Township Board has a policy of contributing five percent to a special assessment district, but because this is a heavy traffic route, and the roads are nearly 40 years old, they're upping the contribution

Clerk Joan McCrary said, "When the property owners are responsible for taking care of the roads in their subdivision and they take this initiative, we want to assist.'

"It helps in keeping the neighborhood property values up, makes for fewer complaints, and beautifies the area," she added.

A ten percent contribution would be $26,070 of an estimated $260,715 total cost for the sproject. A petition was submitted with more than 51 percent of the residents expressing an interest in paving. If the project does go forward, residents of the 87-home subdivision, could pay approximately $300 annually for ten years, with a six percent interest.

Nancy Linton, a Cramlane resident, said all the residents are in support of paving, but "there are several residents who are older and on a fixed. income...not sure if they can afford it.

Linton asked the township for assistance, on behalf of the subdivision, "in efforts to keep our community looking beautiful and by making it a better place to live.

No more acting -- Richardson named DPW director

BY JENNIFER NEMER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

After being named acting director in January, Linda Richardson is now officially director of the Independence Township Department of Public Works.

The appointment came by a unanimous vote August 21 at the Independence Township Board meeting. Supervisor Dale Stuart and Trustee Larry Rosso were both absent.

Clerk Joan McCrary said Richardson "has worked long and hard for this township. She has broken her neck to please us, the community, and her department."

"She's earned this position," said Trustee Dan Kelly, "through her hard work and preparation for the interview." Kelly said the interview influenced his vote of approval the most.

"As an assistant (director), she has shown she can accomplish goals," said Treasurer Jim Wenger, who added Richardson earned the position for other reasons including staff support, knowledge of the department, and positive recommendations from colleagues in her field.

Richardson was hired by the township in 1976 part-time with the senior lunch program. A year later she became a full-time employee, transferring to the police department and then to the treasurer's office as an administrative assistant. In 1985, Richardson

Linda Richardson has been named director of the Independence Township DPW. Photo by Jennifer Nemer. became the cemetery superintendent, while assisting at the DPW in the winter months. She began helping out with directorial duties two years ago when retired DPW director, George Anderson, developed health problems.

Trustee Dan Travis said, "In each capacity and every instance, I've been amazed by her energy and devotion to this township."

Travis said he appreciated Richardson's "willingness not to take the easy road in answering her questions at the interview."

At a special meeting August 20, the board interviewed Richardson as well as Larrie Ordus, who has worked various positions from laborer to management with the DPW departments for Ecorse Township and Lincoln Park. A third final candidate for the position withdrew shortly before the interview. The two candidates were interviewed for about 45 to 50 minutes each.

Salary and benefits for Richardson will be discussed at the next meeting when Stuart, who was out of town for the last meeting, will be back.

Richardson said she is very pleased about her role. At the meeting, she thanked board members and said, "I'll try to make you proud."

Concerning her future work with the DPW, Richardson said, "I have a lot of work to do and I'm just gonna keep on doing it." aden

Test wells to be drilled at Bay Court and Oakhurst

DPW Director Linda Richardson received permission at the August 21 Independence Township Board Meeting to drill two test wells--one at Bay Court and another at Oakhurst. The cost will be approximately $8,000 per well.

Even though there has been an odd/even voluntary water restriction in the township, Richardson said it hasn't been enough. She said every well has been running hard for long periods of time.

Currently, there is no water supply in the northeast quadrant of the township and Oakhurst is willing to donate a substantial piece of land for the well, said

Richardson.

Water in the Bay Court area is bought from Waterford wells, which Richardson wants to get away from. Township-owned property will be used for that well.

Duplication of medical services would harm area

The proposed expansion at Independence Pointe is so large that it must be elevated in order to meet the parking requirements (parking underneath the building). I feel this will detract from the coziness of downtown Clarkston. I also feel the increased traffic would be an encroachment upon the residents in the immediate area, as well as anyone travelling the M-15 and I-75 area. Does a traffic study performed on one day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during inclement weather truly represent average traffic flow?

There seems to be a misconception that Clarkston is in dire need of medical serices. There are other businesses in Clarkston that provide radiology services. Clarkston C.T. and Clarkston Diagnostic Radiology are located in the Mid-Oakland Medical Center at Dixie and M-15. Both businesses are equipped with state-of-the-art equipment provding C.T. scans, mammograms, x-rays, ultrasound and nuclear medicine studies. They are staffed with boardcertified radiologists and registered technologists. Patients can usually get an appointment within two days (sometimes less). The results are available within 24 hours. Both businesses accept most insurance plans and there is no need for patients to wait three months for a mammogram.

I'm troubled by, a comment made at the township board meeting that Associated Radiology wants to expand so that they can service all 32,000 residents of Clarkston. If that is the case, what would that do to the businesses that are already in existence as well as the space they currently occupy? We could eventually be left with outdated medical services and vacant buildings due to duplication of services.

Rain delay did not dampen Rush for Food effort

We would like to thank the Clarkston High School football players, parents and the community for their tremendous support of the "Rush for Food" benefiting Lighthouse Clarkston.

You're all MVPs in my book: Thanks

When I heard Dale Ryan greet the Clarkston faithful over the PA system last Friday I stopped and looked around for a minute to take it all in — this was going to be my last time watching the Wolves from the sideline.

I remember the first Clarkston sporting event I attended, it was a basketball game and I was a little nervous. I never had to shoot pictures and write about the same game before. I was also a little nervous about meeting Dan Fife. I knew the name, and how much this town had prided itself on its basketball.

But every game, meet and practice I attended helped me feel more comfortable. Every city council meeting I went to I learned a little more.

This job has been quite a ride. From Clarkston's great football run in 2000, to downtown construction, to the July 4 parade, to staying up all night at the all night party and many, many things in between. I've learned a lot in my time here at The News, and now, as many of you know, I'm going back to school to be a teacher. Hopefully I can pass on some of the things this job has taught me. In addition, all the ladies who patrol the halls at CHS who helped me identify an endless amount of pictures. I'd also like to say thanks to my parents Ed and Susan and my in-laws, Dr. Gary and Judy Ushman and my brother Chris. And of course, you the readers and sports fans of the Wolves. I'm sure there are more I forgot. Sorry about that — it's not intentional.

Andrea Davis — The MVP in my life for sure. She's the one who's really allowing my dream of a teacher to come The Bottom true. She'll be making the majority of the Line bucks while I'm at UofM Flint taking classes. I'll be subbing Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Clarkston. And while it doesn't pay much it should give me some valuable classroom experience. This job has given me plenty of other experiences. Thanks Andrea for being so supportive. I love you. And I never thought I'd say it, but ... oh man, this pains me ... "Go Blue!" E-Mail Ed at clarkstonnews@adni.net or aedavis11@aol.com.

(Barrett's 17-year-old son) tried different sports. I don't think he's got it, but it can come at any point in your life," Barrett said.

Barrett also said while the disease is progressive, it does not progress beyond the worst point of a parent's disease.

Barrett wears orthotics and leg braces, which are ordered from the Wright and Filippis store in Clarkston. They lock his feet into position so his toes do not drag. "Wearing them is a little like wearing a wristwatch," Barrett said. "You know you've got them on, but you don't know you've got them on,"

Barrett's braces cost about $1,400, and that's where the MDA comes in. MDA picks up the cost of his braces, a fairly minor charge compared to patients with more severe strains of MD, said Barrett.

"Most of the people you see at the (MDA) telethon in wheelchairs have Duchesnes disease," said Barrett, adding that strain is fatal, and requires a lot of assistance for patients.

"I believe in MDA. I know what they're doing for me an my kids," Barrett said. He was active in MDA in St. Louis – he was a spokesman for the organization in the early 1990s. Barrett met comedian Jerry Lewis, who has campaigned for MDA and hosted the Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon on Labor Day weekend for 36 years.

"The MDA is squeeky clean. Jerry Lewis doesn't make a nickel," said Barrett. "It's sponsored by Anheuser-Busch, 7-11 stores and United Airlines. If there was something fraudulent going on, they wouldn't be involved. They couldn't afford the bad publicity."

"Nobody knows why Jerry does this," Barrett said of Lewis's commitment to MDA. "Maybe someday this will come out. People put in a lot of time and effort. As goofy as Jerry Lewis is, he's all business when it comes to this. He's truly committed until they find a cure, which there will be someday.

A 10 Wed.; August 29, 2001 The Clarkston (MI) News Main Street finally gets paved

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Area motorists finally got a smooth ride on Main Street early this week when M-15 got a much needed facelift.

Traffic was slow going on Main Street for much of August, and will continue to be slow, but at least drivers won't have to dodge pot holes while heading through the downtown area.

Michigan Department of Transportation engineer Allan Schneck said most motorists have been very cooperative with construction crews and have been patient as they continue work with the project. He said several residents have called M-DOT's Transportation Service Center expressing their concern about pot holes on Main Street. Jim Natschke, M-DOT resident engineer and Schneck encourages people to call 248-451-0005 if they have questions or concerns about the project.

"We've fielded some calls, not too many," Schneck said. "Most people have been pretty cooperative. It keeps us on our toes that way. We may be working on the far south end of the road and then if somebody calls about pot hole on the north end we'll do everything we can to run over there and fix the problem right away. People just want to be heard."

Work is still slated to switch over to the east side by Labor Day, he said.

Area residents can expect more one-lane, flag controlled traffic for some time, however, Schneck did not say when two-lane traffic would return to Main Street.

After work is finished on the east side of Main Street another resurfacing job will be done on the road once the project is near completion, Schneck said.

Preliminary exam rescheduled for Sefa

Originally scheduled to appear in the 52nd Clarkston District Court Oct. 19, former Clarkston Cinema owner and Boardwalk realtor Larry Sefa will now appear for the preliminary exam on Oct 12 at 9:30 a.m.

Sefa is charged with embezzling $1,800, on two separate occasions, from a Pontiac woman who used the money as security deposits on two houses.

Consumer's Energy disruption permits granted in Independence

Consumer's Energy disruption permits were granted at the August 21 Independence Township Board meeting for Windstone Park Condominiums and Castle Ridge Condominiums.

The disruption permit for Windstone Park will allow for 450 lineal feet of two-inch diameter medium pressure gas main to be installed within the Foster Road right-of-way to service the condominium development.

Regarding Castle Ridge, 3,040 lineal feet of a two-inch diameter medium pressure gas pipe will be installed along Mallorys Crest and Pinnacle Court.

15 YEARS AGO (1986)

The Independence Township Planning Commission voted to approve a new medical building Aug. 28. In less than a half hour, the commissioners voted 6-0 to approve Clarkston Specialty Building for the southwest corner of Dixie Highway and Parview Road. The developer of the building is Dr. Mark E. Frenchi, D.D.S., who currently has a practice on M-15.

It's official - the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) for Independence Township is to be established. At a special meeting Aug. 26, the township board held its second reading to authorize the district, as mandated by the township's charter status. A first reading and vote was taken on Aug. 7. The next step will be a search for citizens to serve on the DDA board, according to Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Repairs to the Pinehurst Bridge continue to be a source of debate at Clarkston Village Council meetings. On Aug. 25, discussion covered the lack of building permits when the bridge was repaired, a request for financial help from the village and a call for an engineering analysis to ensure that the new structure is sound.

A Look Back

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

Though Clarkston High School is bulging at the seams, there were seven less students there last week than had been anticipated for the coming year by education officials. Assistant Clarkston Schools Superintendent Mel Vaara said unofficial tallies show 1,750 students as compared to an official enrollment last year of 1,669.

About a third of the 2,400 property descriptions assessed extra for sewers this summer failed to ante up, and the $197.04 which homeowners and owners of residentially owned lots were asked has now been added to the tax rolls along with various other assessments. Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie said the township had come through the billing $148,000 short, and that the figures would be added to the regular December property tax billings.

A new Independence Township sewer ordinance that includes assessment deferments for senior citizens is being drafted by the township attorney. The special provision for seniors says that anyone 65 or older with an income of $6,000 or less annually can delay paying his or her special sewer assessment.

50 YEARS AGO (1951)

The Elementary School Library Board met at the school the evening of Aug. 27. Mrs. Mary Shanks, chairman, conducted the meeting. Election of officers took place with Mrs. Jack Morton being made chairman; Mrs. Thomas H. Wilson was named secretary; Mrs. William Johnston was re-elected treasurer: and Mrs. Floyd Hammond will remain as head librarian.

The electors of the Clarkston Community School District will be asked Sept. 6 to approve a $375,000 school building bond issue and a ten mill tax rate increase. Two elementary schools, one in the Clarkston area and one in the outlying district, and an addition to the present high school building are being considered. The bond issue will mature serially over a seventeenyear period.

Members of the Clarkston PTA are rapidly completing arrangements for the reception dinner to introduce all the employees of the Clarkston Community Schools. The dinner and open house will be held in the Clarkston High School auditorium Thursday, Sept. 13. Among those taking part will be Keith Leak, president of the Board of Education, and Leslie Greene, superintendent of schools.

Offense struggles against Eagles

Wolves suffer first home loss since 1998

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Editor If Clarkston fans can take anything away from the Wolves opening season loss, it was that the Wolves never gave up.

Clarkston varsity head coach Kurt Richardson and several of his assistants were concerned about the team's effort heading into the opener for much of training camp and through Clarkston's scrimmage, earlier this season. But the team, which features only one returning starter on either side of the football, showed it won't lay down for anybody, not even one of the best teams in the state.

The Wolves suffered their first loss at home since 1998 when visiting Utica Eisenhower defeated Clarkston 14-7 Aug. 24. Clarkston lost to Troy 7-6 in 1998.

Clarkston's defense was stingy all day and kept the Wolves in the game. The Wolves' offense had trouble sustaining drives and capitalizing on good field position. But the game really boiled down to Eisenhower's star quarterback Joseph Digiorgio, who rushed 11 times for well over 100 yards. He scored two

A: The Wolves secondary will have its hands full with West Bloomfield's Kyle Brown, who last week caught touchdown passes of 62, 53 and 28 yards on his way to 154 yards receiving. The Wolves will have to put a heavy pass rush on senior quarterback James Ferngren, who was 10-of-14 for 231 yards last week in a 31-21 win over Utica Ford. But the Wolves will have a game of experience under their belt and will be at home — always a big advantage in C-Town. Last year Clarkston beat the Lakers 20-10.

A: Yes — if it weren't for the defense, the game could've gotten ugly. Clarkston had two interceptions and did a good job of getting to the football. Eisenhower won the game on a few big plays, not by sustaining 80-yard drives. 4: Q: What's the biggest positive fans can take away from the loss? A: Clarkston never quit. Most every member of the girls varsity swim team spent plenty of time in the water over the summer. They weren't at the beach though. They were training hard for the coming season.

"A lot of our girls sacrificed their summer and worked their tails off training," coach Kenwyn Chock said. "They'll see the benefits of all their hard work this fall."

The team is made up of 36 swimmers and is powered by a strong junior class, Chock said.

The team features 18 returning juniors, many of which are returning Clarkston record holders: Teresa Kuhta, Sara Zerba, Chrstina Bower, Meghan Williams, Sabrina St. Peter and Andrea Forst. Senior captains Bethany Gozdzialski.

The Wolves also feature a solid core of divers including Casey Bolten, who was the first ever Wolf to qualify for state last year. Joining Bolten on the diving team this year are Sarah Mehaffey, who diving coach Kevin Brock said should qualify for state this year and Kaitlin Kieras and Rachel Carroll.

"We've improved a lot since last year," Brock said. "They're way above where they were a year ago. You can really see a big difference in our girls."

The Wolves are coming off a 4-1 league record in the Oakland Activities Association Division IV. The Wolves lone loss came to Avondale, but Clarkston rebounded by winning the league meet and capturing the league title. Other teams within the OAA IV include Hazel Park, Southfield, Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern and Lamphere.

"We should win it again this year," Chock said. "But next year we want to jump up to the OAA II and skip the OAA III altogether. I think we can do it and we need to be up there with the upper echelon teams.

Clarkston varsity coach Tim Kaul is looking for some of his players to step up this season. But so far he himself, called his team — average.

"If you look up the word average in the dictionary there should be a picture of my team there," Kaul said.

But Kaul may feel this way because his team goes up against some of the best programs in the state. So even when his team puts forth a low score, it hardly ever is enough to take home a first place finish. That was the case Aug. 18 when the Wolves took part in the first Oakland Activities Association Division I league meet of the season. Clarkston finished with a 305, which was Clarkston's best score of the young season. However, three other teams fared better than the Wolves, including powerhouse Rochester Adams who finished with a very impressive 278, Kaul said.

"Adams had an outstanding meet. If that's not the record, than there probably shouldn't be one at all," Kaul said. "But I was pleased with the way our kids played. Sometimes in golf you can't always tell by the score the way the guys competed."

Having a strong showing for the Wolves was Dustin McMillan, who shot a 72 and took fifth place. Also playing well for Clarkston was Robert Wood, who finished with a 75.

The Wolves league, the OAA I, is filled with strong golf programs including Lahser, Rochester, Troy, Seaholm and Adams. Last year the Wolves finished fourth in the league, Kaul said. Clarkston's dual meet record was 5-3.

After taking a year off to give birth to her triplets, Serra, Mitchell and Gracie, Ann Lowney is back as head coach of the girls varsity basketball team and she couldn't be happier.

"If I wasn't coaching this year I'd be going nuts," she said. "It was nice to have a year off and having kids has made me more patient as a coach — kids will do that to you. But I'm excited to be back and excited about the season."

This marks Lowney's fourth year at Clarkston and she comes in with a career coaching record of 112-47. Her best season as head of the Wolves came in her debut season when she led Clarkston to an 18-3 record in 1997.

But that was four years ago. That's history. As is last season when April Kosin, who coached the Wolves last year, led Clarkston to its first district title in over two decades. Last year the Wolves finished with a 15-8 record and finished fourth in the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

This year, Lowney said the league will be tough once again with plenty of teams challenging for the top spot.

Troy returns nine starters and Troy Athens is also a very talented team, Lowney said. In addition, Lowney noted Kettering's coaching makes up for any players who have graduated, and Rochester could surprise a lot of people.

"I've been off a year, so I could be way, way off," she said. "But I'd expect us to contend. We've got some tremendous athletes on this team. This is the first time, since I've been here, that I've been able to put five good athletes on the floor at once."

Heading the charge of the team will be Clarkston's guards — primarily Jenn Carlson, Anna Trim and Kira Karlstrom.

The Wolves don't have a lot of size and that's a big concern for Lowney. The Wolves graduated Sarah Morgan and Tovah Bazely who both were effective in the paint last season. Those two will be re Continued on page 11B

The Clarkston girls varsity cheerleading team has already made quite an impression and the school year just got underway.

The Wolves took first place at a competition at the Genesee County Fair Aug. 17. Clarkston performed better than seven other schools to take home the first place prize. It was Clarkston's first appearance at the competition.

The team is under the instruction of first year head coach Chandra Price, who took over for Debi Hool. The team of 24 girls is almost twice as big as last year's squad which had 13 cheerleaders. The group Kathi Wiegand. Price did not name captains for the squad.

"The girls have gottten a lot closer as a team since mid June," Price said. "We've got a lot of talented girls on this team."

Price said her team is made up of a variety of skilled athletes, who specialize in various aspects of cheerleading. She said her team has some strong tumblers and very good fliers. In addition, she noted she also has some impressive bases.

Two of the cheerleaders, Jaclyn Fahrner and Kim Wilson took part in a one-day Universal Cheerleading Association (UCA) camp over the summer. Both girls qualified for the UCA All-Star team, which is made up of cheerleaders from all over the country.

The cheerleading team will perform in a wide variety of competitions this year, Price said. However, dates and times of all competitions were not ; available at press time.

held in March, will be held at West Bloomfield. Clarkston will compete in eight other competitions to help them prepare for the regional meet. A strong showing at regionals will help the Wolves advance to the state meet.

Cheerleading competitions are divided into two rounds and a total of eighteen girls can compete in floor competitions. Some girls will participate in both rounds, some in one and some in neither, Price said.

"I purposely put together a bigger team than 18 girls in case we have injuries. But also, because some girls are better suited for different styles of routines."

Price said her team is excited about its new dance/ cheer combination routine it will be performing once per game.

Fans can see the Clarkston varsity cheer team in action at every varsity football and basketball game, whether it be home or away.

championship team and also played on the Olympic Development Team (ODT), coach Dan Fitzgerald said. Holody made the regional team and should be one of the Wolves' top stars, Fitzgerald said. In addition, Klemm played at the state level for the ODT.

Also powering the team will be sophomore Sean Gardner, who this year, will make the move to forward. Gardner will be one of the team's biggest offensive threats, Fitzgerald said. The team is made up of 20 athletes. Last year's team had 25, but also did a lot better than most people had predicted.

back this year," coach Mike Taylor said. "Not many people expected us to do that well last year, but our kids worked hard and had a good season. This year, I'm optimistic, but it's kind of a guarded optimism. If certain things go well we could have a good year, but it could go either way."

Runners may not be as challenged to keep up strong times this year, Taylor said, because of the smaller team size.

"When you don't have as much depth as we've had in the past, sometimes the kids don't feel as much pressure when there's fewer kids challenging for those varsity spots," Taylor said.

But the returning Wolves proved a lot of people wrong last year and are looking for a repeat performance this year. Clarkston finished in second place in the Oakland Activities Association Division I behind Lake Orion. Other teams competing with Clarkston in the OAA I include Rochester Adams, Rochester, Troy and Troy Athens. So where does Taylor think Clarkston will finish up?

"I don't want to give a prediction, but I think Orion is the favorite again this year. Troy could be another one to watch, but hopefully we'll be able to contend for the league title," he said.

The Clarkston varsity pom pon team is doing their best to make sure fans have as much fun at halftime as they do during the game.

Jennifer Schultz, a 1995 Clarkston grad and former Clarkston dance team member took over as head coach of her 18 member squad in May and is very excited about the coming season. Schultz replaces former coach Harmony Hunt.

In addition to her experience as a Clarkston dance team member, Schultz and assistant coach Melissa Williams were both members of the Michigan State University Dance Team, MSU Motion. They're both looking forward to the coming season and feel their girls have already made great strides since they took They're the strongest dance team I've seen in a long, long time," Schultz said.

The pom pon squad already had a chance to entertain every member of the Clarkston school district at its faculty breakfast Aug. 23. Now, they're hoping the thousands of fans who attend varsity football and basketball teams enjoy their routine as well.

"It was an honor to perform at the faculty breakfast," Schultz said.

Last year, Clarkston finished second in a field of over 50 schools from across the state at the state meet, held at the Palace of Auburn Hills last December. This year's goal — take first place.

"That's one of our most important goals we've set out for ourselves this year," she said. "We want to win it."

Thirteen members of the squad are returning pom pon dancers and Schultz said those girls, along with the eight which moved up from JV last year have already come a long way since she took over the program.

ers who can perform in a variety of styles. We've really challenged them and each girl has responded by pushing their own individual limits. They've all improved dramatically. I don't think the girls realized how good a team they were when we (Melissa and I) first got here."

The Wolves perform a variety of styles within their routines including hip-hop, jazz and pom pon style, Schultz said.

The hard working team is captained by Laura Barnett and Gretchen Bretz. Schultz said her girls have put in a lot of time over the summer and just started their fall practices, which are two and a half hours a day Monday through Thursday.

The varsity pom pon squad performs at every home varsity football and basketball game.

"We're very excited to provide entertainment for all the fans at those games," she said.

There's no substitute for experience, but there's also no substitute for desire. Desire and will to win are what this year's girls cross country team is banking on.

The team is made up of 21 girls, five of which are freshmen. But those freshmen will be integral parts of the team according to second year head coach Jamie Labrosse.

Last year the Wolves had a dissapointing league record of 1-4, but the Oakland Activities Association Division I is said to be one of the toughest leagues in the state. Last year Troy and Rochester Adams tied for the league title. Labrosse said Adams will again be the favorite. Rochester and Clarkston should also challenge for the league title, he said. Rounding out the OAA I is Troy Athens.

"The thing I love about this team is that it's filled with kids who love to compete," Labrosse said. "All they want to do is win. I tell them how far to run and they say, 'how fast?"

The Wolves challenged for a spot at states last season, but a controversial call at the finish line of the regionals cost Clarkston a chance at the state finals. Clarkston finished fourth in the regional, and only the top three teams qualify.

But long before the regional meet, Labrosse and the rest of the Wolves will have to endure the long regular season. And staying healthy is half of the battle, Labrosse said.

Tennis team looks to move up to OAA I

Senior 'Captain Crunch' team of Lisa Hopcian and Sydney Bassett lead defending champs

Clarkston News Sports Editor

For the last two years the Clarkston girls varsity tennis team has stood atop the Oakland Activities Association Division II. However, the Wolves are starting to get tired of the same old routine.

After winning the OAA II last year, and tying for the league title in 1999 with Andover, the Wolves are hoping to make the move to the OAA I next year. The tennis teams will realign in the OAA after this season.

"That's one of our biggest goals this season," said third year coach Beth Manojlovich. "Our girls have really worked hard in the off-season and now we're really focused on making it to the next level."

The Wolves already have good reasons to believe they can compete with the best tennis teams in

Earlier this month, the Wolves beat OAA I member West Bloomfield by the margin of 6-2. Lauren Little, Colleen Mead, Katie Manvel and Ashley Rettig all picked up wins in singles play while the doubles tandems of Andrea Gibson and Michelle Dodge and Lisa Hopcian and Sydney Bassett also picked up wins.

"It was a big win for us early in the season," Manojlovich said. "It showed that we can definitely compete with the OAA I schools." The Wolves have scheduled a tough non-league schedule to help them prepare for the OAA I next year, if they move up. Clarkston has dual matches with Rochester, Rochester Adams and Troy Athens. The Wolves also scrimmage Lahser and Troy.

However, Clarkston's main goal has to remain to win the OAA II for the third straight year. If it does that, than moving up to the OAA I next year should be a given.

Competing with Clarkston in the OAA II are Andover, who Manojlovich said will be Clarkston's toughest league meet, Kettering, Lake Orion, Kimball and Berkley.

Also earlier this year the Wolves took second place out of a field of eight schools at the Holly Tournament. State powerhouse Mercy took first. The Wolves also finished fifth at the Troy Invitational. Eight other schools competed with Clarkston, most of which were OAA I teams, Manojlovich said.

In addition, look for additional help down low from freshman Stephanie Parkin, who comes in at 5-foot-10. Also, look for junior forward Kristy Robinson to see serious minutes this year. She comes in at 5-foot-9. The lack of size is my biggest concern with this team," Lowney said. "But we've got to make up with that with our biggest strength which is our athletic ability. We'll have to be strong on defense and do some different things. We'll play some man, and we'll play some match up zone.

Lowney did not name captains for her team, instead she goes by a different philosophy. "Captain by committee," she said. "But we've got some great leaders on this team. Jenn Carlson is a great leader and a great competitor for us." Karlstrom said she believes the Wolves will win the league. 'I think we're good enough to win it. I have such high expectations for this team if we don't win it I'll be very disappointed," Karlstrom said. Other teams within the OAA I are Oak Park, Troy, Troy Athens, Rochester, West Bloomfield and Waterford Kettering. The Wolves open their season Aug. 28 when they host Stevenson at 7 p.m. The Wolves open league play Aug. 30 at Rochester Adams.

"They're awesome." Lowney said. "We'll have our work cut out for us."

That's the only way we're going to continue to improve, is by going up against those schools," Chock said.

The Wolves were 6-7 overall last year.

Chock said a lot of her swimmers took part in the Clarkston Sea Wolves team over the summer months, where they trained from 6-8 a.m. five days a week.

"We've got a good group of dedicated kids. They've all got excellent attitudes and they've all worked hard and are anxious for the season to get underway," she said.

Elmore has a twisted ankle and Coe has a lingering shin injury from track last spring.

"It makes it tough when you have three or four kids going in and out of the lineup like that," Taylor said.

"But the experience can't hurt us this year, but we've still got some work to do. It's early and we've got some hard working kids on our team. We haven't jelled yet, but again - it's early yet," he said.

Wolves suffered a heartbreaking season ending loss to Milford last year, when Clarkston lost in the seventh round of a shootout in the district final.

"We have a shot at the league this year. Kimball, Seaholm and Avondale should also challenge for the top spot. I know we can compete this year, but I don't. think we'll dominate," Fitzgerald said.

Fitzgerald said his team is filled with skilled players, but they are also small, which is a concern.

"We should be able to keep position of the ball more this year. We've got lots of kids who have a lot of skill. But I'm not sure we can win the ball back. We're lacking in physical size," he said.

"In high school soccer you don't necessarily have to be big, but you've got to be aggressive. Corner kicks and goal kicks are extremely important to us," he said.

Clarkston is not picked by many to be a powerhouse team in the league, or the county, this year, but that doesn't concern Fitzgerald any. If anything, he prefers it that way.

"Sometimes the kids see something in the papers and all of the sudden they'll start thinking they're really all that good. It doesn't matter how you're ranked at the beginning of the year. It's actually probably better this way," he said.

in both events. In 2000, the Wolves just missed qualifying for the state finals when they lost on a fifth place tie-breaker to Milford in the regional final, but played poorly in the county tournament. It was just the opposite in 1999, Kaul said.

""We'll probably play well in both a few years from now," Kaul said with a laugh. "But we've got some other kids who I'm expecting big things from this season."

Ollie Olinger, the team's captain, shot a 77 at the league meet. In addition, Kaul said Carlos Galaviz, a transfer from Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes, has been playing consistent golf this season.

"He needs to get some lower scores for us, but the nice thing about him is that he hasn't really put. together a lousy round yet either. I'm looking for him to break 80 this season," Kaul said.

Mead played no. 1 singles last year, but this year will have to fight to hold her job. Freshman Lauren Little is also looking to play no. 1 singles.

The Wolves are captained by the "Captain Crunch" team of Lisa Hopcian and Sydney Bassett. Another doubles team which Manojlovich spoke highly of was Dodge and Gibson.

"They're really starting to come together and jel for us. They're putting it all together," she said.

"Overall, I would just say that you can see all the work the girls put in over the off-season is starting to pay off. There's general improvement throughout the team. We've been working towards this (moving up to the OAA I) for some time now," she said.

"The league could all boil down to the league meet," Labrosse said. "Clarkston, Rochester and Adams should all be better than last year. It will all depend on who shows up on race day."

Labrosse is hoping his younger runners can make up for their lack of varsity experience with their strong will to win.

The Wolves searched for the go to guy all day, but never found one. Eric Kieras, who made his first varsity start, had two first down passes dropped by receivers Chris Cutler and Justin Whetstone in the first quarter. Running backs Shane Bennett and Ryan Talbot found little room to run, and when they did find room, couldn't break many tackles:

CLARKSTON'S LABOR DAY & SEPTEMBER CELEBRATIONS A Salute To Our

Why a parade for Labor Day?

BY JEFF PATRUS Clarkston News Staff Writer

One of the signature events of the Clarkston Rotary Club's 61-year history will take shape again next week.

The annual Clarkston Labor Day parade, sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary, is slated for Monday, Sept. 3, beginning at 10 a.m. The parade will begin at St. Daniel's Catholic Church on Miller Road and Holcomb, and end up at Deer Lake Athletic Club.

Jeff Lichty, a member of the Clarkston Rotary since 1988 and a past president of the club, said Rotary has been sponsoring the event for 59 years, only two years after the club was formed.

The parade is one of the many Clarkston events that have been shaped by the Clarkston Rotary since the club was formed in May 1940.

According to a history of the Clarkston Rotary, written by past president Ron Davis in 1987, the club "was first created out of the conversations and ideas of four area businessmen" on May 7, 1940.

On that date, Roy Alger, a hardware store owner, Gerald O'Dell, owner of O'Dell Drug Store, Bob Jones, president of Clarkston State Bank, and Bill Stamp, editor and publisher of The Clarkston News, met for dinner at the Old Farm on Dixie Highway to discuss the formation of a Rotary club. From this meeting came a charter proposal came, listing twenty charter members dated May 8, 1940.

On May 20, 1940, under the sponsorship of the Birmingham Rotary Club, the official meeting was held in the Opera House directly above O'Dell Drugs. The following members were selected as the first officers of the club for the 1940-41 term: President — Gerald O'Dell; Vice President — Roy Alger; Secretary — Harold Pailthorpe; Treasurer — Ralph Marshall.

In 1947, the club received the District Governor's citation for outstanding community service, due in part to the club providing an individual Christmas gift box to each man in the armed forces from the area.

Another trademark of the Clarkston Rotary Club is their annual Goodfellow paper sale, which has been going on since 1950, Davis said.

Proceeds from the paper sale go to buy pairs of shoes for needy children in the community. Davis said names of children who receive the shoes are given to them by churches, schools, and other community agencies.

Last year, approximately 250 pairs of shoes were distributed and purchased with proceeds raised through the project, he said.

When the Rotary celebrated its 50th anniversary, the club held a celebration in conjunction with Independence Township, and dedicated a plaque, which is displaced outside the township offices, as a tribute to the work the Rotary club and township have done in conjunction with one another since the club was formed, Davis said.

The club has been active in Clarkston's annual Christmas festivities, Davis said, sponsoring the Christmas decorations on Main Street and decorating the tree on Washington and Main. In 1986, the club purchased all new Christmas decorations for the village.

Rotary has also been active in helping out the area's seniors. In 1979, the club purchased and donated a nine-passenger van to Independence Township's Senior Citizens program for their sole transportation use. That was followed by the purchase of a second van in 1986.

At its peak in 1987, Davis said the club had 75 members. Currently, there are 38 members in the club.

While the Rotary club has influenced the Clarkston community, it has also made a impact on surrounding communities and around the world.

As the mayor of the City of the Village of Clarkston, I would like to welcome everyone to Clarkston for the annual Clarkston Labor Day Parade, sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary.

The city council and I would like to thank you for tolerating this summer's downtown roadwork and transformation, which includes street repairs, the installation of city water lines, new sidewalks, new curbs, a parking lot expansion, new lighting, new trees and surely several other improvements I've forgotten to mention. We hope that you will be pleasantly surprised when the work is completed by late fall, as projected.

We encourage you to visit our downtown businesses that have had to endure what seems like a demolition derby. The business owners have accepted all of this optimistically.

Chapman named parade grand marshal

CHS band director honored for quartercentury of service

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Longtime Clarkston High School band director Cliff Chapman said he is not one to seek individual recognition.

Nonetheless, he was pleasantly surprised when Clarkston Rotary member Jeff Lichty called to tell him he would be the grand marshal for Clarkston's Labor Day parade.

"I felt honored," Chapman said. "It was quite an honor when he called."

The White Lake resident is in his 25th year of teaching music at CHS. He said time has flown by very quickly — "It doesn't seem that long," he said — but said Clarkston has managed to retain its unique qualities despite its rapid growth.

"It's grown in population, but they've been fortunate to maintain their small town nature," he said. "It's a unique place to be."

Chapman began his Clarkston teaching career at the old Clarkston High School, which was located where the current Clarkston Middle School is housed. During that time, he has seen many changes in the tools he has work with — changes that he said have been for the better.

"The fact that we have such nice facilities is definitely an improvement," he said. "We probably have one of the finest performance halls in the country. That makes a huge difference."

He also said the types of classes he has taught have changed through the years.

When he first started at CHS, he taught two sections of concert band, one jazz ensemble, and two sections of music theory, which is no longer offered at the high school. Now, he teaches four sections of concert band, one section of jazz band, and one section of ensemble band to over 300 students.

In addition, the high school recently started an orchestra program. Going into its second year, Chapman said the program's addition enhanced the overall qual⁴ ity of the music program.

"I think it was something that the schools and com-

CHS Band Director, Cliff Chapman, will lead Monday's Labor Day Parade as Grand Marshal. The Clarkston bands, shown below in last year's Labor Day Parade are always a favorite in Clarkston parades. munity agreed that the time was right, educationally and culturally," he said.

One big change in teaching that Chapman has seen develop is the advent of technology. He said it has been especially useful in keeping up with the administrative details of his job as band director.

"Technology has helped streamline the management end of what we do," he said. "We have a good deal of business to take care of, more so than the average teacher. You have access to information. In the midto-late 1970's, even a VCR was a rare thing — audio recordings were done reel-to-reel. That impacts what we do."

His wife, Kathy, teaches instrumental music in the Birmingham school district, at Berkshire Middle School and Groves High School. He said the two decided to reside in White Lake as a middle ground between their two respective school districts.

Despite the changes through the years, Chapman said one thing about teaching is the most rewarding.

"The students — watching them develop, their evolution," he said. "I think the real excitement is to watch them grow."

Why a Parade for Clarkston on Labor Day?

The chapter has helped a couple of its neighbors, Waterford and Davisburg, get on their feet and start chapters of their own. The Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club got underway in 1947, while the Davisburg Rotary Club started in 1968.

In addition, Davis said the club sponsored efforts to put in a well for a hospital in Nigeria, and chartered the second Rotary club in the history of Russia.

Locally, the chapter is preparing for yet another Labor Day parade, although it will take a different twist this year because of construction on the normal parade route along M-15.

Lichty said a committee of Rotary members begins planning for the parade in the spring, and then the activity level increases in July.

A key part of organizing the parade is selecting the grand marshal each year. Lichty said that is usually done in August. This year, the committee selected Cliff Chapman, the longtime music director at Clarkston High School, as grand marshal.

"The committee tries to select someone who has been involved with and participated in community development," Lichty said. "We try and honor someone who has helped Clarkston as a community."

The parade committee has many other tasks to keep themselves busy, Lichty said.

"We do everything from scheduling which floats go where, to working with government officials to make sure the road gets closed off," he said. "We work with other groups to get them in the parade."

Celebrating Labor Day

What was your best or worst job, and why?

"My best job was driving a van for mentally disadvantaged adults for seven years. I loved it. I loved the people,. I'd do it again in a second. I hated working at a gas station, because of the hours."

--Ada Kinney

What was your best or worst job, and why?

"I worked for 31 years at General Motors Truck and Bus doing a variety of jobs. I guess the last job I had, as a process tooling engineer, was the best because I got to retire." -- John Hendry
