After nine years of service on the Springfield Township Board, Elaine Field-Smith has decided to move on.

Field-Smith, a trustee on the board since 1992, announced her resignation from the board at their Sept. 13 meeting, effective Oct. 1. The board voted unanimously to accept her resignation and to "express our sincere thanks for her service over the last nine years," said Supervisor Collin

According to Springfield Township Clerk Nancy

Strole, Michigan state law states that a vacancy on the township board must be filled by the board within 45 days of when the vacancy occurs, in this case Oct. 1. If the vacancy is not filled within that time span, then Gov. John Engler would appoint someone to fill the vacancy, Strole said.

In her resignation letter to the board, Field-Smith, who is the fourth generation of her family to have served the board since 1837, said the time has come "to pursue some new and challenging opportunities." She said she would continue with the Springfield Township Cemetery project through the rest of this year.

"My family roots run deep and serving the people of this community has been an honor," she said in her letter. "I have taken the responsibility of being the residents' representative very seriously and for the past nine years have served the people of Springfield Township to the absolute best of my ability."

Complaints prompt Shell station owner to donate profits

Rise in gas prices after attack angers customers

Clarkston News Editor

While Americans coped with the aftermath of last week's terrorist attack, some were incensed with what appeared to be attempts to make money off the Independence Township resident John Arnold stopped for gas at the Shell station at M-15 and I-75 on the evening of the attack and was stunned to find gas priced from $2.39 to $2.59 a gallon.

Arnold told the clerk to let the manager know he would never purchase gas there again. He also called about 30 people, he said, and asked them to complain to the owner as well.

"It should be criminal that he's making money off people dying," said Arnold. "This is small-town America. It's not the way to operate."

The Shell station on Sashabaw north of I-75 also raised it's prices the same amount. Both stations are owned by Pete Suddeth of Auto City Services, who says he resents the charge of price gouging.

"There was a mad rush on our pumps that day. Shell Oil had put us on allocation (potentially reducing future deliveries) and we ran out. We were unsure when we'd get gas, so we raised the prices so our regular customers would have gas the following day," said

"I probably should have shut the station down," Suddeth added. "The customers panicked and dealers over-

Therm Nichols, left, returned to the Clark gas station to buy gas Wednesday afternoon from assistant manager Bruce Johnson September 12, after passing up the long lines the previous day.

Since then, both Shell stations have posted a sign stating profits from September 11 and 12 will be donated to a New York City relief fund. Suddeth said he expects to donate $20,000 from his 20 stations to the families of the victims. He said he gave customers the option of receiving a refund or letting him make the donation, and the customers chose to allow the money to be donated.

M-15 Shell station owner Joann Bradley added the station had a lot of complaints about raising the prices, but the station's intent was not to make a

At the Clark gas station on Dixie Highway gas was selling for $1.61 per gallon the day of the attack and drivers were lined up on Dixie waiting to fill up.

Therm Nichols of Ortonville had planned to fill up his tank that day at the Clark station in preparation for a trip, but changed his mind when he saw the line. He returned Wednesday afternoon when the price was $1.74.9.

"When the attack first happened we weren't sure what would happen," said Nichols. "We were concerned that gas wouldn't be available, or the price would jump to $5 or $6 a gallon."

Nichols wasn't upset with the price, but Clark customers who had purchased gas early Wednesday were charged $1.89, and they were angry, said Clark station assistant manager Bruce Johnson.

"It was $1.89 when I came in (Wedneday) morning," said Johnson. "We were told to raise the price by our corporate offices. We had some pretty mean customers because of the price going up, but there's nothing we can do. If we're told to raise the price, we have

Johnson said the lowest price for gas so far this month at his station has been $1.61.

The Amoco station at Sashabaw and Waldon roads was charging $1.75.9 for regular on the Tuesday the attack happened. By 10:30 p.m. that night the price was up to $1.99, and the station was also low on gas, said manager Ann

The price was lowered early Wednesday morning. "Amoco said everything was okay and we could put the price back," Elchaer said.

Customers wondering about future gasoline prices will have to wait. Suddeth said depending on what happens in response to the terrorist attacks the gasoline situation has the potential to be very volatile.

Schools press for passage of Oakland Schools millages

BY MARALEE COOK

Clarkston News Editor

Next Tuesday, voters will decide whether or not to increase funding for special education and vocational technical education for the Oakland Intermediate School District.

If passed, Clarkston schools will receive about $1.5 million in additional special education funding and about $330,000 in additional vocational education funding. The total expected revenue OISD will receive is about $55 million for special education and $10.8 million for vocational education. The millage increases would take place in December.

According to the Clarkston schools 2000-2001 audit, the special education budget was $5.6 million last year. Of that, $3.9 million went to salaries; $1.6 million for benefits; $56,672 was allocated for purchased services; and $88,451 was allocated for supplies and materials.

The vocational education budget was $158,287. Salaries were $11,713; benefits $2,326; purchased services $30,199; supplies and materials $48,460; capital outlay added up to $65,589.

Clarkston schools community relations director Anita Banach said while the special education millage would increase funds for the Special Services department (which oversees special education), special education programs would not change.

'What actually will happen is that more money will be freed up for general education funds. It used to be that special education programs were funded 25 percent by the state, 25 percent by the county, 25 percent with federal money and 25 percent locally," said Banach.

Faded Inl

She said state and federal funding have decreased and local districts now fund nearly 50 percent of their special education programs.

There are about 700 students in Clarkston's special education programs, in various designations, said Banach, and that number varies from year to year.

The first vocational-technical millage was instituted in 1967 and there has never been an increase, said Banach. Funding from that increase would be split 50-50 between the four technical centers and the 28 school districts. As an example, the districts could use their funds inconjunction with the centers for career exploration and career preparation for their students, she added. There were about 210 Clarkston students in the Oakland Technical Center programs last year, Banach added.

At their July 16 meeting the Clarkston school board adopted a resolution supporting the millage increase. Schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said at the time, "It will be significant for the infusion of dollars into our special education program. I think it's important that we support this. We are legally bound to support all our students."

Vote 'no' on millage hike

For years, critics of public education have said, "The problem isn't that public schools lack money, it's that they mismanage the money they receive."

Case in point, the Oakland Intermediate School District. Earlier this year, Oakland Schools donated $50,000 in taxpayer money to the Detroit 300 Festival.

Tax dollars collected presumably for the education of Oakland County students were given to Detroit to help the city throw itself a big birthday bash.

Now, this same government body is asking voters to go to the polls on September 25 and approve two millage hikes for special and vocational education – a combined 1.3983 mills.

We believe if Oakland Schools can afford to blow big taxpayer bucks for noneducational purposes then it really doesn't need any millage increases and probably has way too much money to begin with.

Oakland Schools $50,000 donation is a blatant and sickening example of public education's mismanagement and outright waste of taxpayer money.

We also question the existence of the intermediate school district itself. We see it as just another unnecessary, costly layer of bureaucracy in the already top-heavy public education system.

We would like to see more of the tax dollars we already pay go toward actual education rather than bureaucracy and birthday parties for dieing cities.

To quote a recent commentary from the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, "Our schools need to learn the same lesson parents e their children will learn: You can't spend all your money irresponsibly and expect your allowance to increase."

We strongly urge all voters to vote 'NO' on both Oakland Schools millage increases. - CJC

As a citizen of the United States, I have to say I am VERY disappointed with the decision of one man. I am a freshman at Clarkston High School. The whole day we sat quietly watching the news, mourning the deaths of all the innocent people. All extracurricular activities were cancelled. The Tigers didn't play. The Emmys were cancelled. (Organizers at ) every major and minor sporting event, including those at other area schools, realized the need for families to be together. All except Clarkston football. "Just give me two hours of football, then you can go back to the real world," our coach said.

This is a national crisis and all our coach wants to do is play football. I wonder what "real" world he is living in. I find it extremely disrespectful to all the people whose lives have been taken. I feel I'm speaking for many others that are on the Clarkston football team when I say this was a poor choice for the CHS Athletic Department to make.

Proud as an American, privileged to live in Clarkston

Last week following days of disbelief at what had befallen our country on Tuesday and watching our nation respond with overwhelming united support, I received a call from the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce informing me I had won the August Scavenger Hunt "Discover Clarkston". I received many, many wonderful prizes all donated by downtown businesses. It is another example of support on a much smaller scale, but nevertheless equally commendable by merchants trying so hard to rise above the very difficult conditions presently in our downtown area.

I THANK YOU not only for the gifts but for your cooperation and efforts to rise above these adversities.

I am not only proud to be an American, I feel very privileged to live in Clarkston.

What do you prefer: Clarkston parades along Main Street as always or this year's alternative down Holcomb?

"Back to the way it's always been on Main Street. I like tradition. It gives everybody a closer, hometown feeling to be downtown."

—Diane Brozovich, manager of Village Apparel and Gifts for 29

"I like it on Holcomb. It gives more of a hometown feel -seeing the houses instead of the businesses on Main Street.

-Terry Coventry, owner of Victorian Village

"On Main Street There's something about it being downtown. It just seems like the right thing to do.

"I did enjoy it on Holcomb. It was nice to have it right in front of your house. But if having the parade downtown helps the merchants, then 1

Crafts and Cider Festival a success because of support from the community

The 27th Annual Crafts and Cider Festival, sponsored by the Clarkston Community Historical Society, began last weekend with guitar and banjo playing The Star Spangled Banner and ended with the Sweet Adelines singing God Bless America. The CCHS Board felt the Festival would do best to continue as scheduled in hope of bringing the community together and during the Festival. our City Manager, Art Pappas, City Engineer, Gary Tressel and VIL Construction Co./MDOT worked with us to ensure a safe environment for our citizens and thousands of visitors.

The city's DPW workers, Bob Pursley, Brian Meloche and Adam Frank put in hours of help prior to handled trash and can maintenance and Smith's Disposal provided us with trash removal. It takes the community to support the Crafts and Cider Festival each year to make it successful . . . so thank you for a 27th time for supporting the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

Sept. 11, 2001 will be a day forever embedded in behavior, they also saw the best of human behavior. our national consciousness.

How can anyone forget where they were when they heard the awful news that the World Trade Center in New York and the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. had been destroyed, the result of a senseless act of terrorism?

For myself and my colleagues here at The Clarkston News, it started out as a typical Tuesday morning — that is to say, a hectic one, as we were finishing our articles and getting ready to put the paper together for publication.

Around 9 in the morning, that would all change.

Reports began filtering in that something had happened in New York City, and from there, everything developed into a nonstop barrage of news reports coming in as we were listening to the news on the radio.

A state of shock enveloped the nation as the news reports kept coming in — this wasn't really happening, was it? All too sadly, we found out the stark details of what had happened.

Local reports came in, intermingled with the national reports, describing how the incident affects people in the metro Detroit area.

Everything just seemed to shut down from that point — workplaces were evacuated, school sporting events were cancelled for the day, and people rushed home to be with their loved ones.

Things changed around the office, as well. Quickly, we sought to find out how the tragedy would affect Clarkston, and what local government, schools, and businesses were doing to respond. As the story continues to unfold, we will continue to focus on the local impact of the tragedy.

munity became more and more clear.

Policemen and firemen, many of whom perished themselves in the tragedy, coming to assist fallen citizens. People literally giving the shirts off their back to assist in the treatment of their wounded brethren. Many citizens volunteering to give blood to the American Red Cross. Prayer services organized for people to come together and share their common grief.

In the aftermath of the attacks, and as the possibility of further conflict comes to the forefront, this cooperation must continue.

Regardless of differing political viewpoints, it is imperative that the country come together to support President Bush, Congress, and other national and world leaders. America must come first, and other differences put aside.

That spirit of bipartisanship was quite evident that evening of Sept. 11, as all members of Congress united on the Capitol steps to sing "America the Beautiful," and as Democrats and Republicans alike voiced their support for our nation. Regardless of the sorrow and grief that is a necessary part of experiencing this tragedy, there are still many reasons to carry on.

We all have our own unique circumstances and challenges, things about our lives that maybe we'd like to see change. In spite of those challenges, it is important to be thankful that you are alive to have those chal-

By all means, grieve when you have to -- there is no shame in crying over something like this. I've done it several times myself. At the same time, realize we are a resilient people, and we will not be intimidated by acts of cowardice.

Life will go on, however fragile it is right now.

Independence Elementary shows its patriotic spirit

In response to the tragedies last week, Independence Elementary students faculty showed their patriotism Sept. 14 by wearing red, white, and blue.

Principal. Chris Turner said, "We're not dwelling on the incident itself, but on American spirit, pride, and patriotism. It's important the children know what it means to be an American—how lucky and fortunate we are. As a school, we are taking American. advantage of this Fifth grader Josh Bemis, said "It feels good to show your spirit for what happened. You feel proud to be an American."

Other fifth graders agreed. "It shows America is really strong," said Madison Waller. "And brave," added Doug McAuliff. "You feel important," Amara Laraia said.

Americas spirit was prevalent throughout the day. Red, white and blue ribbons were worn, patriotic songs were sung at the school meeting, and a moment of silence was held at 10 a.m. Presi-

Renaissance High hosts can drive for attack victims

You can help

"Our world has been shaken," said Meagan Campbell, Clarkston Renaissance High School senior, and Student Council member.

"The recent events have shocked and hurt us all. Although these tragedies occurred in New York and Washington, they affect everyone in this country," she said. "So, now we must stand together, and make an effort to help those injured, to help the rescuers, and to help the families of those lost."

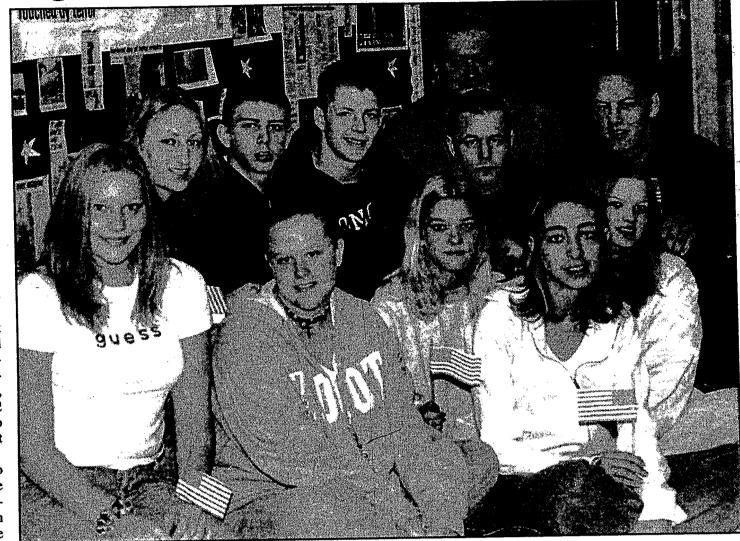

And that's what the students and staff of Clarkston Renaissance High School are doing, "We support the victims and rescuers of New York and Washington," said Campbell, "so please help support us."

Members of the school's Student Council will collect empty cans and bottles, canned goods, pennies, and medical supplies during a drive at the Clarkston Community Education building, 6300 Church St. off Waldon, on Sept. 22 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Students will also seek donations door to door throughout the community.

Donations collected will be sent to New York and Washington, and the canned goods will be sent to the local Salvation Army. They too have helped in this tragedy and their food stocks have been diminished.

Campbell said, "We greatly appreciate any donations. God Bless those who help, and God Bless America."

Call 623-8060 for more information.

Between peers conversations were somber.
"No one was (dilly dallying) in the halls like usual," said senior Maggie Ness. "Everyone went right into class, sat in their desks, and watched the TVs."

"Everyone was scared it was going to get worse," said Rota. "People wanted to know what was goin' on."

"My friends were mad," said Edgar Grech-Cumbo, a junior. "They were talking about joining the Army."

Griffith said it was the same for his friends who are nearly 18 years old and able to enlist.

There were some who took the tragedies lightly, unfortunately. Howse said, "I was really bothered by the students who made jokes. It was so disrespectful."

But for most the attack on the country "really hit home," like it did for Grech-Cumbo.

"I was in New York for several weeks this summer and saw the World Trade Center," said Ness. "It's sad, it won't look the same."

"This is so huge; it effects so many people," said Griffith. "We're living history."

And Howse said, "It's not just about all the death, it also hurts our economy."

"It's weird our kids will be learning about this in books," said Rota.

With all the news coverage, the viewing public has shared the emotions of those who've lost loved ones, been inspired by heroes, and been touched by it

"I felt really bad listening to all those cell phone calls," said Grech-Cumbo. "What if that was you? That you knew you were gonna die, but couldn't do anything about it, and could just call someone to say 'I love you."

Howse said, "I was watching Good Morning America and saw a story of the man who made a cell phone call to say he and others were going to stop the hijacking. He seemed so calm. That was the plane that went down in Pennsylvania. I was really touched by that story."

Next for the students comes the healing process. "I was glad they cancelled the sports activities that night out of respect," said Rota. "I went to a church service that night."

Wed., Sept. 19, 2001 The Clarkston (MI) News 21 A

All the students said they've talked about it in their classes. In Howse's Language Arts class, she said, students had a chance to get their emotions down on paper and could share it with one or two others if they wanted to.

Sophomore Amanda Nichols, a student council member, called the Red Cross and Salvation Army, to see where help was needed. She was told money was needed now.

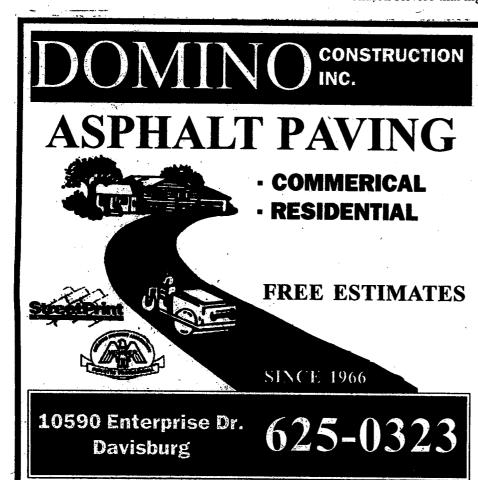

"In support of our country, students can purchase red, white, and blue ribbons for a dollar," Nichols said. "With 2,300 students, I thought that would be a good amount to start with. Each donator's name will go on a star to hang on the cafeteria walls."

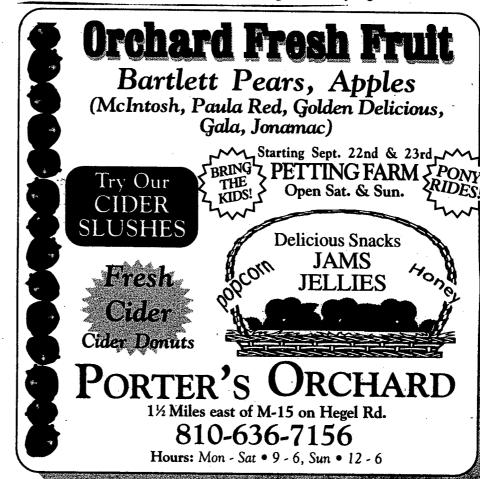

The National Honor Society is also discussing ways to help. An annual blood drive may be moved up in order to support relief efforts. And students wore red, white, and blue to show their American spirit.

"It's amazing the immediate response of those who want to help, especially from those who don't even know anyone personally affected," said Howse.

"So many people are willing to help," said Grech-Cumbo. "It's impressive."

"Instead of dwelling on what happened, it's like how can we help?" said Ness. "It's a shame it had to take this to bring the country together."

Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1986)

Two new subdivisions are in the works for Independence Township. The 14-lot Waldon Glen subdivision received final plat approval from the township board Sept. 16. Very little discussion preceded the board's vote for approval of the subdivision, located on Walton and Walters roads. After that, the board granted preliminary plat approval to the Pine Tree Valley subdivision, also located off Waldon Road.

An amendment to the Independence Township trespassing ordinance is to go into effect next month. On Sept. 16, the township board held the second reading of the amendment. Under the new amendment, trespassers riding motorized vehicles such as all-terrain vehicles or snowmobiles on public property will be subject to citation by police without warning.

The search is on for a new building and planning director for Independence Township. Following Kenneth Delbridge's Sept. 3 resignation, the township board voted Sept. 16 to seek applicants for the position through various professional publications. In the interim, they appointed Beverly McElmeel to the position, at a salary of $30,000 per year.

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

Citizen complaints against the carnival people at the Labor Day festivities have prompted the Clarkston Village Council to study the need for the bonding of such events and setting up guidelines for the use of the village park. Both Gar Wilson, director of the village department of public works, and Jack McCall, director of police services, received complaints.

Independence Township will once again tussle with the question of whether to admit Andersonville Elementary School students to the Independence Township library. Andersonville has been unable to use Independence facilities for the past year, since the school lies in Springfield Township. The Independence Township Board has asked the Township Board to reconsider its policy of exclusion.

A tentative contract agreement has been reached between Independence Township and its hourly employees. After a five-hour bargaining session, representatives hammered out a wage and cost of living increase proposal union negotiator Bud Temple believes will be acceptable to the union membership. A lid is being kept on terms of the agreement until the Sept. 29 vote.

city council approves parking lot lighting renovations

Edison to pay approximately $4,300 for installation of three poles and five light fixtures

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The parking lot near Clarkston City Hall will soon receive an upgrade in its lighting system.

The Clarkston City Council, at its Sept. 10 meeting, approved the installation of three poles and five fixtures at the parking lot. The city will incur a onetime cost of $464.65, and then pay an annual operating cost of $1,288.45.

Detroit Edison will be responsible for the cost of constructing the poles and light fixtures, estimated at a cost of $4,330. Edison will also receive an estimated $3,865.35 in revenue over a three-year period.

'I like the underground wiring, but I'm not willing to spend that much money. We're going to be atleat doubling the electrical bill per month that we have now.'

> Sharron Catallo Mayor of Clarkston

The council deliberated between three options before choosing the installation of the poles and light fixtures in the parking lot, which is owned by the city.

One of the other options was the purchase of their own lights and the installation of a decorative pole, which would have cost the city $37,328. The other one considered was the installation of a contemporary shoebox

Councilman Dan Colombo asked City Attorney Thomas Ryan about insurance issues with regard to underground lighting, "From an insurance standpoint, would it benefit us to have it underground as opposed to over the ground?", he asked.

Ryan responded that it would not make a differ-

City Councilman Scott Meyland also said the cost. difference between the shoebox fixture option and the installation of the five lights and three poles was too much to ignore.

"I think the primary concern is the difference of about $5,500 right now," he said.

Late touchdown lifts Lake Orion past Clarkston, 20-16

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston football team mounted a strong comeback in their Sept. 14 showdown with Lake Orion, only to see it disappear in the final minutes.

A 14-yard touchdown pass from Lake Orion quarterback Brent Skiba to John Hester with two minutes remaining in the game lifted the Dragons past the host Wolves, 20-16, in an Oakland Activities Association Division I matchup.

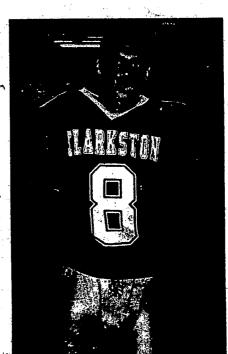

Clarkston (1-3, 1-2 league) had trailed 13-3 at the half, but senior quarterback Eric Kieras connected on two second-half touchdown passes to bring them back and take the lead, 16-13, with 7:20 left in the game.

The second touchdown was set up on a deflection and subsequent intercep-tion of a Lake Orion pass by Clarkston sophomore linebacker Addison Turk with 9:24 left in the fourth quarter, which gave the Wolves excellent field position at the Lake Orion 26.

About two minutes later, Kieras found junior wide receiver Justin Whetstone on a seven-yard touchdown pass to put the Wolves on top for the first time

"We missed some tackles," said Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson. "They made the big plays, and we didn't. I give a lot of credit to them."

Richardson said Clarkston's offensive line struggled against the Dragons' defensive front, but also said he was proud of his team for rallying from a tenpoint deficit.

The Wolves got off on the wrong foot right from the start, as they lost a fumble on their own 9-yard line less than a minute into the game. The Dragons subsequently cashed in on a quarterback sneak to give them an early 6-0 lead.

Clarkston's girls' basketball team shared the wealth in their Oakland Activities Association Division I matchup against Troy Sept. 13.

The end result was the second straight division win for the Wolves, who defeated Troy 55-45. Clarkston is now 3-2 overall and 2-0 in division action.

Junior guard Jenn Carlson led the Wolves with 17 points, while junior guard Anna Trimm1 added 12.

However, Clarkston coach Ann Lowney said the Wolves received solid contributions all the way around, which led to the victory. Lowney said her team. did a good job of distributing the basketball and limiting turnovers, which was a problem for Clarkston earlier in the sea-we had some balanced scoring."

The Wolves were also scheduled to visit West Bloomfield in an OAA I game Sept. 11, but that game was postponed due to the terrorist attacks in New York and Washington that day. Lowney said she does not know when that game would be made Clarkston is still awaiting the return of guard Kira Karlstrom, who has not played yet this season due to a broken foot: Lowney said it would be a while before she is ready to go...

"I think you're looking at about three more weeks," she said "That's what we're looking at."

The Wolves hit the road for their next two games, Sept. 18 against Brandon and Sept. 20 against Oak Park, before returning home Sept. 27 for a contest with Saginaw Arthur Hill.

Coach says giving birth to triplets has helped her become more patient with team

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

On the surface, it may seem strange when Clarkston girls' basketball coach Ann Lowney said she didn't really miss coaching during her sabbatical last

However, that was because she had other priorities — namely, the birth and raising of her three children, Serra, Gracie, and Mitchell, on Aug. 31.

Nonetheless, she said she is glad to be back at the helm in her fourth season of leading the Wolves, after taking the year off to give birth to the triplets, who are the first children of Lowney and her husband,

In her absence, junior varsity coach April Kosin coached last year's varsity to a 15-8 record and a fourth place finish in the Oakland Activities Association Division I. The Wolves also captured their first district title in over two decades last season.

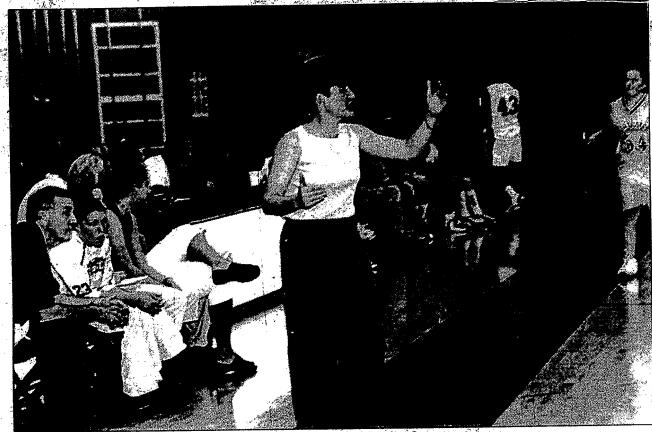

The Wolves made Lowney's first game back on the bench a successful one, as Clarkston opened their season Aug. 28 with a 60-30 win over Sterling Heights Stevenson.

"I'm pretty excited about it," Lowney said. "I've been coaching for 10 years, so the break was good for me. I think we have a good team. I think talent-wise, we have a good group this year."

Before coming to Clarkston, Lowney, who played her college ball at Oakland University, was the head coach for two years at Birmingham Seaholm and two years before that at Oakland Community College.

She also coached at Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes for two years, and served as a graduate assistant at Auburn University and an assistant coach. She owns a 112-47 career coaching record.

She said although she missed certain parts of coaching last year, her mind was preoccupied with raising her three children.

"I think I missed most being around the kids, and the competition," she said. "I'll be honest with you, I didn't really miss it. I didn't have time to miss it. I was consumed with getting the kids healthy.'

Lowney said she only caught a little bit of girls' hoops action last year. "I did make it to the Southfield game, because it was right next to the hospital, and then half of the Kettering game here at the school."

She is currently staying at home to watch her three children, except for practices and game days. Lowney said on non-game days, she will watch the children until 2 p.m., then a nanny will come to watch the kids until she gets home from practice at 6 p.m. On game days, she said she will watch the children until 4-5 p.m., then another nanny will come and watch them while her team is in action.

Lowney said having children has had a definite effect on her coaching style and how she approaches the game.

'Having kids has changed me where I'm a little more patient," she said. "There's not as much nitpicking. I'm still intense — that won't change. It's nice to leave here and come home to the kids. Before, I would think (only) about basketball."

Mengyan, Witt lead harriers to fifth place at Holly Invitational

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' cross-country team stepped up and delivered what coach Jamie LaBrosse called the team's best outing of the year Sept. 15.

The Wolves took fifth place at the Holly Invitational, right behind some of the top teams in the state, such as Ann Arbor Pioneer (who took first overall), Saline, Kalamazoo Loy Norrix, and Saline.

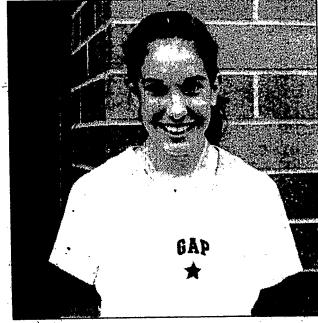

Liz Mengyan once again led the way for Clarkston, finishing fifth overall on an individual basis. Lauren Witt followed with a 23rd place finish. Others placing for the Wolves were Anne Oltman (34th overall), Gilliam Nordquist (41st overall), and Carla Delvecchio (54th overall).

'I think they did a pretty good job," said LaBrosse. "It's the best we've ran all year. Gillian was a little sick, but she did well just to finish. The others helped her pick up the slack."

The Wolves welcomed the return of one of their teammates, Lauren Witt, who had been out with an injury, and expect the return of another teammate, Mo Kuhta, when they return to action Sept. 18 in a home meet against Troy.

"It was nice to have her back," LaBrosse said of Witt. "Right around this time of the year is when she starts to heat up. Mo Kuhta is coming off an injury. She's going to help us. She will compete for one of the front spots."

half.

The Wolves converted a couple of fourth-down plays to put themselves in position for the field goal. At the beginning of the second quarter, Clarkston found themselves with a fourth-and-five at the Lake Orion 35. Kieras connected with senior wide receiver Chris Cutler on a 10-yard pass to keep the drive going.

Later, the Wolves faced another fourth-and-five situation, this time at the Lake Orion 19. Kieras ran on a keeper for the first down to put the Wolves in position for Breen's field goal.

However, Lake Orion answered back toward the end of the first half with a 21-yard touchdown pass from Skiba to Kyle Carter with 27.7 seconds left in the half, giving the Dragons a 13-3 lead at the half.

The score would remain that way throughout the third quarter and into the fourth, when Kieras connected on a 47-yard touchdown pass with Cutler with 9:42 remaining in the fourth to cut the Dragons' lead to 13-10.

The touchdown set the stage for Turk's interception only 18 seconds later, which led to Kieras' touchdown pass to Whetstone, giving Clarkston the lead -- for only a little while, as it turned out.

Kieras finished nine-of-26 for 108 yards and two touchdown passes, while Cutler caught three passes for 70 yards and one touchdown, and Whetstone one pass (which turned out to be for a touchdown) for seven yards. Junior running back Ryan Talbot led the Wolves on the ground with 41 yards on 17 carries.

Defensively, the Wolves were led by Cutler with six tackles and two assists, senior defensive back Mike Loveless with four tackles and four assists, and junior defensive back Myles Purdy with seven tackles and one assist.

Despite the loss, Richardson said he expects the Wolves to rebound and have a good season. "It's only the fourth game of the year," he said. "We'll be all right."

The Wolves' next action is Sept. 21, when they travel to Troy Athens for a 7 p.m. contest.

Athlete of the week: Liz Mengyan

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Though she is only a freshman, Liz Mengyan has demonstrated this year that she is the driving force behind Clarkston's girls cross-country team.

Mengyan was the leading runner for the Wolves in the Holly Invitational Sept. 15, finishing fifth overall as the Wolves continued their strong season, finishing a solid fifth as a team against some of the top teams in the state.

That came off the heels of a first place finish by Mengyan at the Cavalier Classic at Carmen-Ainsworth High School in Flint, leading the Wolves to a first place finish. Mengyan ran a time of 19:56, and made history in the process.

"She ran the fastest all-time for a Clarkston freshman," said Clarkston coach Jamie LaBrosse.

According to LaBrosse, Mengyan actually started training with the high school squad last year, when she was in the eighth grade at Clarkston Middle School.

Mengyan, who began running track in seventh grade, said LaBrosse urged her to work out with the high school squad, noting that she did well in the Hershey track program, which is a summer track program for middle school runners.

So far, she said her upperclassmen teammates have been accepting and supportive of her. "They've been good," she said.

She also said LaBrosse has been "the best coach I've had so far," and said the level of competition is a lot higher than it was at the middle school level.

In her spare time, Mengyan, the daughter of Christine Mengyan of Clarkston, enjoys hanging out with her friends and her boyfriend, and said language arts is her favorite class. She said she will be going out for the girls' track team in the coming season.

During halftime of the Clarkston-Lake Orion football game Sept. 14, Clarkston High School students demonstrated their support for one of their fallen classmates.

CHS students displayed a giant ribbon carrying the names of people that donated money to a fundraiser organized by the students for Kayla Baker, a CHS senior who is recovering in Scottsdale, Ariz. from a case of heatstroke suffered in August while hiking.

According to CHS social worker Jim Butzine, who organized the fundraiser, a total of just under $3,700 has been raised at this point. This figure includes $500 donations each from the CHS athletic department and the Lake Orion Student Council.

The money raised will be used to help defer Baker's medical expenses and help with living expenses for Baker's family, who are with her in Arizona.

Dan Ferguson, a CHS teacher and Student Council advisor, said the fundraiser was not put together by any specific school group, but rather just by a group of students who wanted to help their classmate.

"A group of individuals came to the administration and said they had a need, and the administration supported them," he said.

Soccer squad falls to Avondale in league game

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's soccer team suffered a setback in the race for the Oakland Activities Association II division crown Sept. 17.

The Wolves lost an OAA II show-down with host Auburn Hills Avondale, 3-2. The loss put Clarkston at 4-3 overall and 1-2 in league play.

Edgar Grech-Cumbo and Sean Gardner scored for the Wolves.

"I thought the other team was a little more determined to the ball," said Clarkston coach Dan Fitzgerald. "We didn't play with mush of a sense of urgency until the very end."

Fitzgerald said the loss hampers the Wolves in their quest for the league crown.

"It sets us back a little bit," he said.
"We're 1-2 in the league. We need to start winning some league games."

The Wolves' other division loss came on Sept. 13, when they fell to division rival Birmingham Seaholm, 3-1, in a game at Seaholm. The Maples took a 1-0 advantage in the first half, and then put the game away with a couple of goals early in the second half.

Mike Holody, who missed the first couple of games for Clarkston with a back injury, scored the lone goal for Clarkston

"We actually played very well, especially in the first half," said Fitzgerald.

'I thought the other team (Avondale) was a little more determined to the ball. We didn't play with much of a sense of urgency until the very end.'

> Dan Fitzgerald Clarkston varsity soccer coach

"They had a chance and scored to make it 1-0. In the second half, they scored a couple of goals."

Seaholm took the advantage toward the end of the first half, as forward Ryan Connally collided with Clarkston goalie Tim Moyer. On the ensuing penalty kick, midfielder Pat Corden beat Moyer to give Seaholm a 1-0 lead.

Clarkston notched a win earlier in the week, defeating host Holly, 2-0, on Sept. 10. Matt Orris tallied both goals for the Wolves in the win.

Despite the loss, Fitzgerald said the race for the OAA II title is still very much up in the air. "It's too early," he said. "I think we can challenge to win the league. Seaholm will probably be the team to beat."

Netters take fifth place at Grosse Pointe South

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' tennis team entered a brave new world Sept. 15.

The squad traveled to Grosse Pointe South to take on some of the state's top competition, and placed fifth, a notable feat considering the four teams placing ahead of the Wolves (Grosse Pointe South, Midland Dow, Farmington Hills Mercy, and Flint Powers), are all ranked in the top 10 in the state.

Clarkston coach Beth Manojlovich said it was the first time the team had competed in a tournament against that level of competition, and they gave a good accounting of themselves.

"They gained a lot of experience," she said. "They had not been in a tournament at that level, and they did quite well."

The Wolves' #2 doubles team of Kalin Thomas and Alex Heinrich won the #2 doubles consolation

She also said the Wolves hope to take over the top spot in the division during the league meet Sept. 26. For now, Clarkston will focus on their matches

Sept. 18 against Grand Blanc and Sept. 20 against Rochester. "They'll both be very competitive matches," said Manojlovich. "We're starting to gear up for regionals

Sitko, Elmore power boys' runners to win at Cheasaning

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston boys' cross country team received strong performances from two of their runners on their was to winning the Cheasaning Invitational Sept. 13. The Wolves took first place at the invite out of approximately 15 teams that took part in the race. Ann Arbor Huron finished second with 90 points.

Clarkston coach Mike Taylor acknowledged that most of the schools competing in the invite were smaller, in terms of number of team members. Nonetheless, he said he was pleased with the win.

"We were far bigger than most of the teams, ex-pretty good showing."

Junior Mark Sitko took second place out of about *100 runners in the invite. Teammate Jared Elmore was not far behind, finishing fourth overall with a time of 17:03. Other Clarkston runners placing in the invite were Jack Kinsey, who took 16th place overall with a time of 17:40; Derek Coe, 17th overall with a time of 17:46; and Evan Schneider, 37th overall with a time of 18:12.

In addition, Taylor said two of Clarkston's reserve runners, Mike Wilder and Mike Wood, did well for themselves. Wilder finished with a time of 18:44, and Wood with a time of 18:54.

Clarkston returns to action Sept. 18 when they cept for Ann Arbor Huron," he said. "It was still a host Troy beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Swimmers earn first win of year against Hazel Park

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' swim team has started their league season off strong.

They knocked off Hazel Park, 155-28, in their inaugural Oakland Acitivities Association Division IV

The win improved their season mark to 1-2, enabling the Wolves to bounce back from losses in their first two meets of the year against Grand Blanc and Clarkston set three school records in the meet. Chelsea Hassett in the 50 meter freestyle, with a time of 27.84; diver Casey Bolton with a total of 208 points, and Teresa Kuhta in the 100 meter flystroke with a time of 110.55.

The Wolves started out the season by losing a crossover meet to host Grand Blanc Sept. 4, 113-73. Clarkston set three school records in that meet: junior Sarah Zerba in the 50 meter freestyle, with a time of 28.94; Andrea Galaviz in the 500 meter freestyle, with a time of 6:10.99; and the 400 meter relay team of Galaviz, Kelly Keil, Christina Bauer, and Katie Fisk, with a time of 4:25.31.

Casey Bolten was the only other member of the Wolves to take first in her event, platform diving, with a time of 180.75.

'They're (Avondale) probably our strongest competion for the league title this year.'

> Kenwyn Chock Clarkson girls' swimming coach

Next up for Clarkston was a home meet with Berkley, which the Wolves dropped, 102-84.

The Wolves set two school records in that matchup, as Galaviz set a record in the 200 meter freestyle with a time of 2:17.37, and the team of Sarah Zerba, Kristina Bauer, Sabrina St. Peter, and Galaviz set a record in the 200 meter freestyle relay with a time of 1:59.08..

The Wolves will be seeing a lot of action in the upcoming week, traveling to Pontiac Central for a league meet Sept. 20 and Royal Oak Dondero for a crossover meet Sept. 25 before returning home Sept. 27 for a 6:30 p.m. meet with division rival Auburn Hills Avondale.

The latter meet is particularly notable for Clarkston coach Kenwyn Chock, whose team is looking to avenge a loss to Avondale last year.

"That was our only loss in dual meet competition in our division last year," she said. "They're probably our strongest competition for the league title this year."

Chock said she is confident the Wolves, comprised largely of juniors with plenty of competitive experience, will rise to the challenge against their division rivals.

"We're looking good," she said. "We have a veteran team, so I think we'll do well against them."
