Clarkston residents get facts in mail

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston residents will receive a fact sheet on Phase II of the community water system project.

A fact sheet on Phase II of the community water system project will be mailed to residents on Wednesday, Nov. 28.

To help city residents gain a further understanding of the fact sheet material and the water system project, a special meeting has been set up for Wednesday, Nov. 28 at 7 p.m. The meeting will be at Independence Township Fire Station No. 1, located on 6500 Citation Drive.

City Engineer Gary Tressel from Hubbell, Roth, and Clark will be on hand to answer questions. In addition, the city's bond counselor, Dennis Neiman of Miller, Canfield, Paddock, and Stone, may be on hand at the meeting, although he has other commitments that day, according to City Manager Art Pappas.

The sheet, put together by City Councilman Scott Meyland, goes on to say that the city has already borrowed $1.2 million for construction of Phase I (located on Main Street) by selling municipal bonds. The city is paying off the current debt with part of the payments funded by ad valorem property taxes (over 20 years) and the other part by a special assessment levied on each property in the Main Street district (over 15 years) in the city.

In addition, the sheet goes on to say the city initially estimated future plans would take place in 2005 and 2007, once this year's construction was completed. However, due

Civic Center plans moving ahead

Independence Township residents curious about the possibility of a new civic center should circle Nov. 20 on their calendars.

On that date, the Independence Township Board will discuss several issues pertaining to the hall, including where it will be located and what steps to be taken.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said representatives from the township have been meeting with planner Dick Carlisle every two weeks to determine where to place the hall.

"We're trying to come to a conclusion for Nov. 20," she said. "We hope to decide where we'd be placing the township hall."

McCrary said it is possible there could be two complexes, one for the township hall and one for an activities center.

"We'll set dates in January or February for public input," she said. "We're trying to determine what the public wants once we determine the scope of the project."

McCrary said the issue would likely go before the voters in August. If approved, she said the civic center would be ready within two years.

Whisper's lost an eye, part of an ear and endured lots of snow, but . . .

After two years he's a stray no more

It's easy to tell when you walk into Terri Rivenburgh's house that she's a cat lover.

"If you can't stand my cats—don't come in," it says on the front door to her Clarkston home. There's an "I love cats" wall clock, light switch plates designed like cats, and cat decorations of all sorts.

So, it's really not hard to believe she has a thing for rescuing strays. Over the years she's rescued quite a few, but a most recent rescue has her baffled.

"October 10, 1999 was a usual day, but not a usual night," said Rivenburgh. "I have a pet possum and a pet skunk named Squirt. Between eight and ten o'clock, I fed them. About nine o'clock I turned the light on to see if they had come to eat, and there was a cat at the end of the deck."

But the Tabby cat fled from the light. Rivenburgh put out some cat food, turned off the light, and in about two minutes, she said, the food was gone.

"I gave him some more. And after that, he came every night."

She couldn't get the cat to come close to her, though. "It was getting cold out and snowing," Rivenburgh said. "He would come to eat and then go. But I kept trying. I moved his food towards me little by little until he was about a foot

First Congregational to help families with kids

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

First Congregational Church in Clarkston is lending a helping hand for those in need with the introduction of Kid's Closet Pantry.

From baby food, juices, formula, diapers, wipes, baby furniture, blankets, bibs, crib sheets, shoes, toys and more, the closet is packed full with goods for children from birth to age five—all donated by church and community members.

"We tried to think of all things (that age group) could use," said Beverly Drake, Pantry director.

Drake said the goal is to just help. "Everyone has had a hard time making it at one time or another in their life," she said. "And the way the economy is right now, a lot of people are out of work."

"I remember going to college with a small child," said Pastor Jim Keough. "I would have loved to have had something like this to get through."

Additionally, he said, "This area has more and more single parents. The idea here is to help them get over that hump to the next paycheck."

Even with other charity agencies like the Salvation Army and Lighthouse in the area, Keough said "there's more than enough need to go around."

Currently, the Kids Closet Pantry is open on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Reading works for struggling kids

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Studies show it's possible a student to graduate high school without being able to read.

And, Andersonville Elementary is trying to put an end to this occurrence.

"I personally know of a child who is 17 and has the reading level of a third grader," said Joy Vander Weel, a parent volunteer with the Early Reading Intervention Core (E.R.I.C.) program at Andersonville. "If you can pass math, science, and history, you can get through school. There's no testing for reading."

"But by catching it at an early age, we can prevent this from happening. That's why I support this program," said Vander Weel.

E.R.I.C. currently helps about 80 kids in the reading program at Andersonville. The school has had the E.R.I.C. tutoring program for years, and it continues to make a difference.

Andersonville Elementary reading teacher Cindy Omans said, "At that age we begin to be able to see through the children those who need more support."

The program also helps out third, fourth, and fifth graders on learning the skill of comprehension, she said.

"Reading is more than figuring out words," said Omans. "If you're not thinking about what you are reading, you're not reading."

Omans explained students involved in the program come in two times a week for half hour sessions. They read a familiar book and a new book each session, which would allow for kids to read up to four books a week. Plus, students work on writing activities, phonics, and more.

"It gives children an opportunity to have someone read with them one on one," said Omans. "We're all under the time crunch -- this gives kids an opportunity to read out loud, learn reading strategies, things they might not have time to do at home."

"Our volunteers really develop a nice rapport with the kids," said Omans. E.R.I.C. has 16 volunteers. "We couldn't do this without them."

Part-time assistant to Omans, Annette Zemon-Parker said she enjoys her work.

"I've been doing this program for three years and it's still rewarding. I had difficulty reading in elementary school, though I fixed things up in college, and now I love to read. To help kids out who were just like me has been extremely rewarding."

Zemon-Parker said it has also been a learning experience. "It's not just sounding things out anymore, because that doesn't work for all words in the English language. There are eight different strategies used to better reading skills. It helps build fluency and comprehension, which extends into other aspects of education for the kids. You can't do science or math, without reading."

Jodi Bourdon, a volunteer in her first year, also enjoys helping. "My son (a fifth grader) went through the program and it made a big difference in his life. He improved with reading a lot.

"It's funny, the program just started for this year in October, and to see how much they've improved already, it's very rewarding."

Vander Weel, who tutors three youngsters, said, "We try to make it fun for the kids. We praise them, give them stickers, and use gel pens which are fun to write with."

Once the children reach their grade level in reading they graduate with a certificate, pencil and bookmark.

Vander Weel said, "we need to put a call out for more volunteers. If you can give a half hour of your time two times a week, you can broaden a child's education and be their friend."

Her son, Michael, a second grader, is in the program and she has seen an improvement.

"It's given him more self-confidence. It encourages him to write more sentences. He wants to write. I don't have to ask him to," Vander Weel said. "He now wants to go the library to check out books, something he was afraid to do before. He looks forward to getting new spelling lists each week because that's a new word he'll be able to spell. He reads to anyone who will listen. And he wants to write letters to his grandma and grandpa in Florida, instead of drawing pictures."

She added, "A child that is a confident reader is able to try new tasks and move on in life."

And how do the kids feel about E.R.I.C.?

Michael Vander Weel said, "It's fun! I like reading because we get to read a different book every time. My favorite is 'The Sleepy Dog.' I'm a better reader now."

Third grader Hailey Bellant said she likes reading now as it gets easier for her, and enjoys working with her tutor, Jodi Bourdon.

Fifth grader Johnathon Brown has been in the program since the first grade. "It's been helping me along," he said, whose grandfather also volunteers. "I like reading now. And seeing my grandpa here!"

'I felt a certain obligation to the township'

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a decade of living in Springfield Township, Dean Baker will now have the opportunity to serve his fellow residents.

Baker, manager of Consumers Energy's Pontiac office, was appointed by the Springfield Township Board at its Nov. 8 meeting to fill the vacant trustee position. Baker was selected from a field of seven candidates.

"I felt a certain call to put my name in the hat and see if I could be helpful," he said.

The position was vacated when former trustee Elaine Field-Smith resigned effective Oct. 1. Baker will fill out the remainder of Field-Smith's term, which runs through November 2002.

However, he said he would be interested in serving the board beyond that point. "My understanding is that the position will go to the voters next November," he said. "I would submit my name as a candidate then."

Supervisor Collin Walls thanked all the people who expressed interest in the vacancy. "They made the choice difficult," he said.

Baker, who lived in Orion Township before moving to Springfield 10 years ago, said he felt a need to serve the community he lives in.

"I felt a certain obligation to the township, and I understood it's a very difficult task," he said. "I just felt the call to offer myself as a potential candidate, a willing servant, and help if I could."

He said a "willingness to serve" and learn are some of the attributes he brings to the table as a trustee. "I feel like I've acquired a certain number of skills in 15 years with Consumers Energy," he said.

He said there are three priorities facing the township: managing the environment, managing potential growth in the township, and "trying to be an effective steward of the resources in the township."

Baker has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State in geology and mechanical engineering, and holds a master's degree in business from Oakland University.

Water quality program a go, meeting's on hold

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Springfield Township Board voiced their support for the Shiawassee River Task Force's desire to educate the public on the area's preservation.

However, they also have their own pollution program they need to implement, so they tabled several requests from the task force at their Nov. 8 meeting.

The organization requested three things from the board: continued participation in the watershed effort, approval of placement of watershed signs at river crossings and boundaries (pending Road Commission approval), and $500 to continue operations.

Springfield Township Clerk Nancy Strole said the township is in the process of putting together a pollution control program.

"We decided to table it, because in the township, we have to develop a Phase II pollution control program," she said. "It's one component of a larger program that we will have a consultant for."

Strole said the task force is a direct outgrowth of the Shiawassee-Huron Headwaters Project, which is funded through a grant from the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

"It was through this project that we identified high-quality natural resource systems not only significant to Oakland County, but to the state of Michigan and the Midwest," she said.

Strole said Sue Julian, who heads the education committee for the task force, has a good plan to inform and educate the public about the project.

"I think she has some exciting ideas," she said. "It's a rare resource that we have."

In their proposal to the township, the task force said they would conduct the public education plan on storm water impacts and the watershed management plan that is required of the township.

According to the task force's report, Springfield Township must have in place the new requirements for a general wastewater discharge permit, emphasizing non-point source pollution. The task force plans to work with the township to fulfill the education portion of the permit.

Furthermore, the township will continue their education and water quality efforts, which began last year, working from a donated location in the Holly Township Nature Center, under the auspices of the Friends of the Holly Township Parks.

In the past year, the task force operated within the headwaters of the Shiawassee River, with the cooperation of Springfield, Holly, and Rose Townships, and the Village of Holly, as well as four conservancies: the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy, the Oakland Land Conservancy, the Michigan Nature Association, and The Nature Conservancy.

In addition, they also received assistance from four Oakland County agencies (Planning and Economic Development, Oakland County Conservation District, Oakland County Extension Service, and the Drain Commission), as well as private organizations and private citizens.

Lions coach now calls area home

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Sean Kugler was hired as the tight ends coach for the Detroit Lions in February, he had to find a place to live — and fast.

As a result, Kugler and his family made the move to Clarkston, and they are very happy they made that decision.

"When I first got here, my wife (Patsy) was eight months pregnant," he said. "Time was running out, and I had to get here quickly. I was looking to be closer to the Silverdome, and I really liked the Clarkston area. It worked out well for us, and my kids love it up here. It was by luck, and it worked out well for us."

Along with newborn daughter Kali, who is six months old, the Kuglers have two other children: Robert, 8, and Patrick, 6. Both of the older children attend Andersonville Elementary School.

"It's a great area to raise a family," Kugler said of Clarkston. "We've met a lot of nice people here. It's one of the nicer areas I've lived in."

The oldest of the Kuglers' three children, Robert, played for the Clarkston Chiefs youth football team this season. The Chiefs played one of their games this season, against the Brandon Blackhawks, at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Afterwards, they had a chance to visit the Lions' locker room and meet some Lions players, as well as have their picture taken inside the locker room.

He said Robert had a positive experience playing for the team. "It was his first year playing tackle football," Kugler said. "The coaches did a great job."

Kugler had spent nine years as the offensive line coach at the University of Texas-El Paso when he was tabbed by first-year Lions head coach Marty Mornhinweg to be his tight ends coach. This is the first year for Kugler at the professional level after nine years in college and three years coaching high school football.

He said the move worked out well for his family in that he had a chance to move a little bit closer to familiar territory. "My wife and I are from Buffalo, so it's nice to be closer to home," Kugler said.

After playing high school football in Buffalo, Kugler attended the University of Texas-El Paso and played offensive line for their football team, graduating in 1988. He then played for the Pittsburgh Steelers for six months before an automobile accident abruptly ended his professional career.

While the accident may have closed the door on Kugler's playing career, it opened the door for another career.

"It was the end of my playing career and the beginning of my coaching career," he said. "Coaching was something I really wanted to get into."

As the Lions' tight ends coach, Kugler works closely with their two primary tight ends: starter David Sloan, who was the Lions' third-round draft pick in 1995, and Pete Mitchell, who was signed by the Lions as a free agent this past off-season after playing last season with the National Football Conference champion New York Giants.

"Those are guys that have been playing well for a number of years," Kugler said. "I enjoy working with them."

He said he spends much of the time watching film and helping the rest of the offensive staff preparing the game plan for that week's game. He said he has a responsibility to make sure Sloan and Mitchell play well, just as the other position coaches have a responsibility for their players playing well.

As far as future coaching possibilities are concerned, Kugler said he is not concerned with that so much as trying to get the Lions turned around after their slow start.

"I try not to think too far ahead," he said. "I just want to do a great job and help the Lions win."

He said despite the rough start to the season, which saw the Lions lose their first eight games, morale on the team is still high. He said a number of unforeseeable injuries have contributed to the slow start, along with the players learning new offensive and defensive systems.

"I think it's going to be a good thing once we get it going," Kugler said. "The players are working real hard.

A Look Back

The Clarkston Township Council approved a 400-acre parcel just west of downtown Davison and north of Davison Road.

Scores are holding steady for Clarkston Community Schools on the annual Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) math and reading tests. The MEAP test is required by the Michigan Department of Education for all fourth, seventh, and 10th-graders in public school districts statewide. The scores reflect the percentage of test-takers who answer at least 75 percent of the questions correctly.

The Clarkston Village Council approved 5-2, the rezoning of the 59 S. Main Street lot from commercial to multiple residential at the request of the owners. The change requires a second approval at a public hearing Nov. 24. The owners plan to build apartments in the "Sutherland House," said John Steutzer of the planning commission, but they're not sure how many or when construction is to begin.

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

Initial development of the 359-acre Deer Lake complex is expected to get underway almost immediately following the settlement of a four-year legal battle between the township and developers. The Independence Township Board unanimously approved a consent judgement presented by attorneys for the township and the developer, Hubert Garner.

Newly elected Independence Township clerk Christopher Rose will be sworn into office at noon Nov. 20, spelling earlier thoughts he would have to wait for completion of a request requested by incumbent Robert Lay who was elected by 12 votes. Attorney Richard Campbell, who was appointed as legal counsel to the board of trustees, the board has the legal right to remove a clerk at any time.

Letters to the Editor

Don't forget to support local groups

Dear Editor:

The traditional season of giving has begun. This is the time of year when we consider our donation plans — the organizations we wish to support and how much we can give them.

Our donation plans are much more difficult this year because of the sad events of September 11, 2001. Many of us poured out our hearts and pockets to those who were personally devastated by the attacks, and to those who valiantly tried to help in the recovery. Certainly, there was no greater need.

However, there are other, continuing needs, which must be met as well. There are many community agencies, organizations, and churches, which serve us and our wishes year in and year out, who depend on our continuing support. Much of that support usually comes from us in the fall of the year.

As we approach and anticipate the holidays, let us remember to continue our support of those who serve our community on our behalf. Our generosity may be tested, but it must continue. The future of our local community depends on it!

To fly or not to fly shouldn't even question

You must present a government issued ID when checking in at an airport. For most of us that's a driver's license. That's when I learned my license to drive expired last August. I was very careful driving around Arizona the next couple weeks.

Fliers should really consider using Bishop Airport in Flint. Convenience for parking and walking in this smaller-than-Metro facility is so much better.

Drawbacks might be having many fewer direct flights and smaller planes, if that's your concern.

Security is just as tight, though I only have Phoenix as a comparison. The difference was in Phoenix all had to send their shoes through the scanner. Seems someone tried to take a knife aboard.

However, in Flint, nearly three hours ahead of flight time, I was alone in line. In Phoenix, two and a half hours ahead of flight time I was 20 minutes checking at the curb (no curb check in Flint) and 35 minutes in line at the security check. That line was over 300 feet long. It was there I heard the comment, "This line takes forever!" I guess "forever" is 35 minutes.

I heard only a few complaints of the check-in time, and that was from people who did not take the airline advice of arriving two hours early. By the way, Northwest is now saying 90 minutes.

One thing that hasn't changed at airports since September 11 is the passageway carry-on limitation sign "It Must Fit In This Box." Airlines didn't enforce the rule before 9-11 and they don't now. People are allowed one carry-on and a purse. I think that includes guys in this liberating, permissive age.

I think watching a 5-foot, 6-inch person putting a 5-foot, 6-inch bag in a seven foot storage bin would make a great comedy routine. But, it's really inconsiderate. Of course there are way too many inconsiderate, me-firsts, me-only and me-always people in the world.

However, as my grandmother Black used to say, "The Lord will provide for the lame and lazy," to which I add, the inconsiderate. A flight attendant or fellow passenger will assist the me-now people by offering a lift or going through the line asking flight times and letting them break into the line of considerates.

These security-checking lines kill stores in the airport. In Phoenix the only person in the main lobby stores were clerks. Everyone else was in a line.

Arizona has been hit quite hard from the terrorist attack. Tourism is off some $300 million, even with the World Series being there four games.

Visits to the Grand Canyon are off about 40 percent, and the real estate market is in the tubes. Still it seems residential, commercial and industrial building is continuing at a fast pace. Much like here, eh?

A big difference between here and there is availability of water. Water rates have doubled in the past year where we are (were) in Carefree.

But, it does have weather. Though Arizona had its hottest summer, by mid-October daytime temperatures were in the mid-80s, nights mid-50s. During our 16-day visit, it rained a little one night.

Of course, Michigan has weather, too... for shoveling.

Parking problems at CHS

To my distress, as I was about to turn onto Flemings Lake Road, I couldn't. Not because of car problems, but because of a mass of cars in front of me. Now, come on, the school's not that big of an attraction.

Later on, I found out the parking lot in front of the football field is closed, the sole creator of the chaos. As tough as it is to get to class on time already, it's even tougher now. Absolutely no one can park there. Nearby residents have complained and a few kids have gotten out of hand, but honestly, is it really necessary to shut it down? Once again the majority of students pays for the misdeeds of a few.

I'm told the lot must be closed, because the administrators can't monitor it enough to control misbehavior. But, couldn't this be fixed? Add more cameras, send more faculty down, anything to rectify the situation. Or if this is out of the question, make another parking lot or at least create some more exits. One exit. One parking lot. Thousands of students. Even I know this doesn't work.

The parking lot was hard to get out of before, but try it now. You feel blessed if you make it out in twenty minutes. And, what's worse, irate drivers dart madly around the lot as you try to muddle your way through it. Personally, I wouldn't like to be run over. Let's face it, you're never getting home.

Maybe it's just not that big of a deal for our faculty. After all, they have their own parking lot: a no-student zone. For the students however, this means parking farther away, which inevitably leads to getting up earlier. (As if 5:20 wasn't early enough.) It makes waiting in DTE Music Energy Center after a concert not so bad.

With all the space and high-tech equipment that our school does have, can't the students have a reasonable place to park? I know we don't have unlimited funds or space. But please, don't forget the students. We go to school too.

Nothing quite like bonding moments

I actually talked myself into writing this column by telling folks at the office of Shamus and his Poppy's latest adventure. It's kind of a delicate matter, one I was not going to put in print. But, the more I heard the story coming from my mouth, the more I knew I'd write it -- if only for extortion purposes later in Shamus' life.

Hey, Pops Rush looks for any advantage he can have over his children. I think I shall pen a book about using extortion, bribery and out and out manipulation of too-young-to-know-better offspring and call it something like New Age Practices in Parenting, or Parenting in a Brave New World With Old World Practices.

Instead of taking those cute pictures of our children with their bare bums in the air to show off to the world, take embarrassing photos and hide them. Hold these treasures in a safe spot until they are teenagers and then mail them some copies in a plain manila envelope, with a note saying: Obey your parents, or these will be mailed to all your football buddies and your girlfriend. You will receive the negatives upon successful completion of higher education.

Hey, if it works for the mob, it's got to work for the family, doesn't it?

If you're squeamish about sending said envelope, add "Love, Mom and Dad" to your note. That'll show your kids that you really are extorting them for their own good.

With that line of thinking firmly entrenched, this column will be written, published before Shamus can read (at a few weeks from four, he's close, though) and then tucked away for the appropriate time -- oh, when he's 15.

I must say the experience was truly a father/son bonding moment. Something just us two shared. Mom was gone for the evening; Sean was asleep. It was another chapter in the Chronicles of Shamus. We'll call this addition, Shamus' Search For the Shiny Penny.

The search, or the anticipation of the search, started the night before, when the boys were under the watchful eye of their faithful two-legged pet, Poppy.

So, Shamus, taking advantage of the situation had the gall to swallow a penny. "P-A-U-P-P-Y! Poppy!" he cried as he ran to my side. For the next few seconds he was very animated, excited and agitated.

"What's wrong, Hoss?" I asked in my best paternal voice.

"I SWALLOWED A PENNY!"

"You swallowed a penny? That's why you don't put money in your mouth," before I realized it the soothing paternal voice slowly slipped away to something more patronizing. "Did it go all the way down? Do you feel it anywhere?" Back to the calm self, I added, "It'll be okay, Shamus. Poppy once swallowed a dime. You'll just poop it out in a few days."

I rustled his hair with my hand then gave him a glass of water and I got everybody to bed, the penny predicament all but forgotten. I did forget until Jen and I were getting ready for bed later that night, "Oh, by the way," I said between yawns, "Shamus swallowed a penny."

"What?!" Jen rushed to a phone and dialed the folks at Poison Control. We've dialed the folks at Poison Control so much they know our kids by first name. It's not that we leave cupboards open and poisons out. On the contrary, things are locked up, the boys just have a way of ingesting things like ants, dog do-do, dirt, mascara, hand creme, and now, American coinage. The folks at Poison Control are pretty much like family, they joke with us and well, I am inviting them to Thanksgiving dinner.

Anyway, the dude on the other side of the phone-line said we had to make sure said penny passed through said boy's body and that they would call us for the next four days to make sure said penny did move. (Up until kids are about six, coins can get stuck in there and if it does, it means an unplugging operation will be performed.)

The next night Jen left, Sean went to sleep which left Shamus, Poppy and poopoo all alone in the same room. His first bit of handywork since the swallowing was plopped into a plastic bowl which was filled with water to keep the smell down -- which, by the way, almost worked.

We two looked at it for a while, there in the bowl, in the bathroom sink. Silent, reflective. I seriously thought about getting out the metal detector, and upon hindsight, should have. Instead I said, "Well kid. Let's go downstairs to the workshop and find us a piece of wood. We got some work to do."

Back upstairs, we prodded and poked and rinsed with cold water and before long, Shamus exclaimed, "There it is! Get it Poppy!"

And while I know a penny saved is a penny earned, I couldn't build up the nerve to retrieve the amazingly shiny penny, "Shamus, we'll just have to throw this one away."

He has forgotten the incident by now, I'm sure. Hah, hah. I'll tell you how it goes in 11 years.

Asking questions is a good way to learn

I recently read an article entitled, "Five Ways to Know if Your Child has a High Quality Teacher" by Kathleen Madigan of the National Council on Teacher Quality. The premise is one that I wholeheartedly support. As she put it, "good teachers can make the difference between a year of triumph and a year filled with struggle" for students and parents alike. If that is the case, what should parents do to give their children an edge?

Clarkston Schools

Dr. Al Roberts

The article suggests that parents ask the following questions:

1. What was the academic growth pattern of previous classes?
I think the idea here is that past performance is a strong indicator of future success. While this sounds logical, it is important to keep in mind that performance is measured in many ways and to stay away from simplistic formulas that are unreliable. For example, seeing performance only as scores on a particular test is not only a bad idea, it is not reliable. So, I suggest that parents ask about the standards and benchmarks that are expected and the types of learning activities that will be provided as part of the classroom experience.

2. What type of instructional and management strategies does the teacher use?

The thought here is that effective teaching and class management strategies are more important than finding a "good match." The article recommends that parents look for characteristics such as consistency, respect, fairness, honesty and a positive outlook. These are, according to the author, more reliable than matching a child's traits (shyness, active learner, etc.) with the teacher's personality. My experience tells me that clear expectations and effective teaching techniques are critical, and the match that really makes a difference is the one between parents and teacher!

3. How does the teacher's college degree fit his/her assignment?

The author tells us that middle and high school teachers should be teaching in the area of their major or minor. I concur. The district has worked hard to employ excellent teachers with the credentials needed to be truly successful. I must report, however, that the state and the nation are in the midst of a new teacher shortage, especially in certain areas of certification. So, training and professional development has become critical to maintaining quality. In Clarkston, retaining the services of exemplary employees has become a priority. Parents and community members can help us. Let the teachers who make a difference in the lives of our Clarkston children know they are appreciated. A note, cards and/or words of encouragement have great power. I believe we can encourage our finest to stay with us by making them feel appreciated and a part of a great team.

4. What does the teacher think about testing?

The author states, "Good teachers know that they MUST test in order to know if the children are learning what they are teaching." I agree with her assessment. In my opinion, the performance of young people must be measured against high quality standards and benchmarks; and parents should know classroom expectations. Testing in today's educational setting should be rigorous and call for pupils to utilize a wide variety of thinking skills.

5. Is homework collected, corrected, graded and returned?

Kathleen Madigan's position is that, "Good teachers give students homework that is meaningful and applies what is being learned in the class." I believe the basic premise is that homework, if it is corrected and returned, will help students master the material at hand. From my perspective, this is true, but it is also important to see homework as a chance to provide parents with a glimpse of what happened in the classroom on a particular day. Corrections and comments provide a powerful lesson to students and parents alike, so pay attention to them. Since we all learn from our mistakes, comments on a corrected assignment are critical.

These five questions provide readers with an opportunity to think about some of the factors that impact their youngster's school progress. Perhaps they will be helpful when parents and teachers get together to discuss student achievement and success in school.

THE LAW & YOU

by Robert Kostin
Attorney at Law

TORT, CRIME, OR BOTH?

An intentional act that injures another person or property can be a tort, a crime, or both. While tort involves compensating the victim of the wrongful act, criminal law involves punishing the one who committed the wrongful act. To determine whether any wrongful act is a tort or a crime, ask: Should the wronged party be compensated by the other party? If yes, the act is a tort. And, should the person who committed the wrongful act be punished by society? If yes, then the act is a crime. If the answer to both questions is yes, then the act is both a tort and a crime and can result in both a civil lawsuit for damages and criminal prosecution.

Veterans get the royal treatment at senior center

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Staff Writer

American pride rang through the Carriage House at Clintonwood Park last Friday.

Veterans, accompanied by their spouses, gathered for recognition and honor of their service for this country.

Hosted by the Independence Township Senior Center, the special event featured a flag folding ceremony, a 21-gun salute, complimentary lunch, music and good fellowship.

Each veteran in attendance also had the opportunity to introduce themselves and explain their service. Some shared significant memories and lessons gained through their military experience.

"From my childhood days I was taught not what I could do for myself, but what I could do for others," said Daniel Stough, Airforce.

"I learned the most beautiful lady is the lady standing in the New York harbor," said Earl Reinhardt, Korean War, Army, military police.

To E.K. Brown, an Army sergeant in the Korean War, leaving the United States for the first time was an experience he won't forget from his service.

Steve Miller, an Army specialist who fought in the Persian Gulf War, was moved by the warm welcome home after fighting overseas. "Unlike the Vietnam War and other wars, the reception coming home after the Gulf War was so wonderful. We got to do things like fly free, go to Disney World for free...that's something that has never happened before."

Of being drafted into World War II for the Navy, Charles Yates remembers receiving "a greeting one day from Franklin Delano Roosevelt saying, 'We need you.'"

"I found wonderful groups of people," said Josephine Postle, a first lieutenant and nurse, of her time in the Army. She remembers one Christmas pooling food rations with fellow nurses to give to a nearby orphanage. "That made us feel good."

"We are proud Americans, our home is free and great," said Stough, special guest speaker, and American Legion Chief Pontiac Post #377 chaplain.

"It's an honor for me to be here with Americans--those who care and those who share in making this nation strong. We were strong before September 11. We are strong today and God's blessings upon us will be even stronger for the days to come."

Margaret Bartos, Senior Center coordinator, spoke of taking this time to be thankful. "In our earlier years as a nation, we experienced a Revolutionary War to establish a new country with 'liberty and justice for all' and a Civil war to preserve it."

"We fought in two world wars and two major conflicts overseas to protect ourselves and other freedom-loving countries. At these crucial moments in our history, young men and women were called into action...and they responded bravely and unselfishly. On this Veterans Day this year, let's take the opportunity to really thank them for answering that call. We can only hope that the young people of today are willing to follow in their footsteps and save our way of life from the War of Terrorism."

Cooking a turkey's never been easier

Buy a 10-inch turkey. Sprinkle some salt on it. Cook it for about ten hours, or guess when it might be done. Then eat it!
Charlie Fallis

Shoot a turkey. Pull feathers off with tweezers. Put some salt, pepper and vinegar on top. Put it in the oven for two minutes on 70 degrees. Cut it up and eat it.
Markus Rogers

Buy a "daddy size" turkey and let it defrost. Put a hot spice on it. Cook for at least two hours, set the timer. If it's not done, set the timer for another hour. It will look juicy and a little burnt. Let it set for a little bit then cut it in pieces.
Erika Hahne

Mom buys a little turkey for me and my sister. Then she buys a big one for the whole family. Put some hot sauce on it. Take the bones out. Cook for 10 hours. The turkey turns red when it's done. Put more sauce on it, then eat it!
Gregory Miller

Catch a turkey in the woods. Bring it home. Put a little bit of salt and pepper on it. Put it in a bucket with the top on. Cook for one hour. Take it out and eat it!
Zach Altpeter

Go to the store and mom buys a turkey. Bring it home. Sprinkle salt and pepper. Cook 15 minutes in the oven. Put it on 10 degrees. Take it out when it's brown. Then save it for Alex and Jeff's birthday!
Austin Arcobeilo

Move over Emeril Lagasse

So you want to try out a new recipe for your Thanksgiving turkey. Don't go to the internet. Grandma or even one of those women's magazines. Look no further than Bailey Lake Elementary School on Pine Knob Road.

Mrs. Rathburg's first grade class put on their thinking caps and came up with the mouth-watering ideas surrounding this box.

"We pulled each student into the hall and asked them how to cook a turkey,"

Mrs. R said. "So, each idea is their own." The idea for the cook book was Mrs. R's assistant, Josie Cusumano.

The staff here at The Clarkston News, however, will take no responsibility for stomach cramps or any other associated food sickness related to the preparation of your bird or the outcome of the traditional Detroit Lions Thanksgiving football game.

You are on your own. Bon appetit!
Don Rush

Go to a store in the forest. Buy a BIG turkey. Put seasoning on it. Cook 10 or 11 hours. Take it out. Eat when it's cooled off.
Mitchel Allen

Buy a 5" turkey at Cosco. Put 2" of salt and pepper on it. Warm it up. Eat it!
Shay Kostin

Go to the store. Buy a 6" turkey. Leave it plain. It's done when grandma & grandpa come over. Then we all eat it!
Stacy Keydel

Buy a 7" turkey. Make sure it's 23 pounds. Sprinkle a little salt. Pour one pound of barbecue gravy on it. Cook for 14 minutes. It's done when it's brown. Then eat!
Scott Schultz

Buy a turkey at Kmart. It should be 10 or 20-pounds. Put saucy stuff on it. Cook in the oven for 5 minutes. It's done when it looks like a normal turkey. Eat it!

Michael Nemert

Go to Krogers. Buy a foot-long turkey. Cook for 13 minutes. It's done when the timer beeps. Take it out of the oven and cool it off. Eat it!
Joey Smith

Buy a turkey from the store. Sprinkle some salt on it. Plop it in the oven. Cook it for 11 minutes. Put it on a plate and bring it to the table.
Emma Eriksen

Go to the store and buy a 50-pound turkey. Put two dabs of salt on it. Cook it for 10 minutes on 50 degrees. Put it in the refrigerator to make it cold. Then wait for the party to serve it.
Jordan Al-Dasuki

Buy a three-pound turkey at Meijers. Pour one teaspoon gravy on it. Put it in the oven for 17 minutes. It's done when the buzzer beeps. Then eat it all up!

Nicholas Azzopardi

Buy a 60-pound turkey from the store. Put a small spoon of salt on it. Cook for six minutes. When it's done you cut the bones out. Then eat it.
Samantha Gertz

My mom buys a one pound turkey. Bring it home. Put a little bit of ginger on it. Cook for few hours. Set the clock. If it is still not cooked, cook for another five minutes. Cut it up and take it to Aunt Sharon's house.
Jennifer Grogan

Go to the store. Buy a 12-inch turkey. Put some seasoning on it. Cook for one hour at 10 degrees. Eat it!
Sydney Matthews

Go to the market and buy a 20-pound turkey. Take the feathers off. Put a little salt on it. Put it in a boiling hot pot. Cook one hour. Set the timer. Eat it!
Erin Billette

Buy a two-pound turkey at Farmer Jack. Bring it home. Put two scoops of peanut butter on it. Cook for 10 minutes. It's done when the peanut butter turns real brown. Take it out and eat it!
Nicole Davis

Buy a 50-pound turkey at the market. Take it to Aunt Patty's house. Have her cook it!
Tyler Trask

Buy a three-pound turkey. Mom cooks it. Eat it up!

City wants to move up schedule on water works construction to the favorable interest rates and the likelihood of favorable construction bids, the city is considering proceeding with the construction of the remainder of the water system as early as next year.

"We need to determine if we go forward from there," said Meyland of the Nov. 28 meeting. "It's going to be a discussion of what's on the fact sheet. Hopefully, we can answer any questions that people have."

In addition, Meyland said he plans to have a table at the meeting, which would present a breakdown of what the water system would cost each person. He said the cost is added to residents' winter and summer tax bills.

According to the fact sheet, construction of the remainder of the system in 2002 would present the following implications:

- A water main installed throughout the city, abutting each property in the city (immediate connection op-ditional);

- Pavement resurfacing with minor drainage improvements on all streets except Main Street.

- The complete project cost would be approximately $4 million dollars.

- The city-wide millage rate would increase from 1.5 mills to approximately 6.5 mills in 2002, decreasing each year for 20 years until all the bonds are retired (average over 21 years — 4.8 mills). The first bond sale would be in 2001, and the second bond sale in 2002, both for 20 years. Therefore, the bond would be paid off in 21 years.

- Each property in the new Special Assessment District would be assessed approximately $5,400/REU ($575/year over 15 years at 6.5 percent interest).

- Independence Township charges separately for connecting to the community water system.

Additional questions on the water system can be directed to the Clarkston city offices at 625-1559.

Horner named new president of Clarkston State Bank

Clarkston State Bank has named vice president of operations Dawn Horner as the bank's new president and chief operating officer, effective Jan. 1, 2002.

Horner, 43, will be taking over as president from Dave Harrison, who will continue as the bank's chief executive officer and as president of the bank's holding company, Clarkston Financial Corporation.

Prior to founding Clarkston State Bank in 1999, Harrison served as president of the southeast region of First of America Bank.

The bank has four branches in Clarkston and one in Waterford, and has over $80 million. They can be accessed through their Web site, www.clarkstonstatebank.com.

Horner joined the bank at its inception. In her current role as vice president of operations, she is responsible for overseeing the bank's day-to-day activities.

Prior to joining Clarkston State Bank, she held a series of management positions in the Operations Division of First of America Bank (FOA) and Trust Company in Royal Oak. These included senior vice president, vice president, and assistant vice president. At FOA, she was also responsible for the internal operations division for the bank's Michigan branches.

"Mrs. Horner has been an integral part of the Clarkston team and our success since we opened," said Clarkston State Bank Board Chairman Edwin L. Adler in a press release. "She is a consummate banking professional and exceptional leader. She has earned the respect, trust, and support of the entire board and we have complete faith in her ability to continue the bank's growth and prosperity."

Horner is past president of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce; a member of Junior Achievement of Oakland County; a former board member of Michigan Automated Clearinghouse; and a past member of the Michigan Quality Council and the Michigan Bankers Association Operations Committee.

She attended Central Michigan University, the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin, and the Robert M. Perry School of Banking at Central Michigan University.

She and her husband, William, have two children and reside in Clarkston.

Four Clarkston City Council members sworn in for terms

At the Nov. 12 meeting of the Clarkston City Council, four council members who were recently reelected were sworn into office.

Councilmen Dan Columbo, Walt Gamble, and David Savage were sworn in for two-year terms, while Councilman Derek Werner was sworn in for a one-year term. All four ran unopposed at the Nov. 6 election.

In addition, Councilman Scott Meyland was appointed mayor pro tem by a unanimous vote of the council. Former councilwoman Karen Sanderson served as mayor pro tem before her resignation earlier this year.

Clarkston resident new prez at GKN Sinter Metals

The stewardship of the powder metal has been passed at GKN of Auburn Hills, the area's largest and only, truly global component manufacturer, from Seifi Ghasemi to Donald J. Spence.

Spence, 48, a resident of Clarkston, assumed the position of President & Chief Executive Officer at GKN Sinter Metals, replacing Seifi Ghasemi who, in four years, built the company into the world's largest producer of powder metal components with annualized sales in excess of $850 million.

In the process, Ghasemi, 57, transformed powder metallurgy from an industry of predominantly regional companies with niche market positions, to a more widely recognized industry that is now global in scope.

Ghasemi left GKN Sinter Metals to become Chairman & Chief Executive Officer of Rockwood Specialties Inc., based in Princeton, New Jersey.

Spence reports directly to Richard Clowes, Managing Director-Powder Metallurgy, Off-Highway and Auto Components businesses. Clowes is also a member of the GKN plc Board of Directors.

In taking over the helm at GKN Sinter Metals, Spence said the company's primary objective is to capitalize on its considerable strengths including financial stability, depth of technical experience, and breadth of manufacturing capabilities.

"We must continue to direct our energy towards becoming the world's very best full-service provider of powder metal components," Spence said.

According to Spence, the company's future development will be characterized by "a continued emphasis on growth, but with added focus on strengthening our position in the market place and ensuring operational excellence."

Spence said GKN Sinter Metals' customers, many of whom operate throughout the world, have expressed a strong desire to have one supplier that can support them on a global basis. "No other single powder metal company can do this," he said. "We stand alone as the only truly global company in our market, and so execution of business fundamentals will be our cornerstone for success."

"We must continue to direct our energy towards becoming the world's very best full-service provider of powder metal components."

Whisper finds a new home and an old friend from me." Then mid-January of 2000, a huge snow storm was predicted.

"I wanted him in the house," said a concerned Rivenburgh. "He let me touch the top of his head, but if I tried to pick him up, I knew he would go."

"Well, we got the snow," she said. "and he didn't come that day or the next. In fact, he quit coming."

Rivenburgh said she thought about that cat--which she named Whisper after his quiet nature--every day.

"I thought he had gotten in a place he couldn't get out of. I hoped he would come back and wondered why he wasn't."

The seasons passed and Rivenburgh eventually gave up hope.

Whisper was gone for good. "On October 15, 2001, my son turned on the porch light and said, 'Mom, come here and look,'" Rivenburgh explained. "I couldn't believe it, there he was eating peanuts with the possum and skunk! I opened the door, walked over to him and said, 'Where have you been for two years?'"

The next couple days it rained and Rivenburgh was determined to keep Whisper sheltered inside. She picked him up, cleaned him up inside, and had her son take the cat to Clarkston Animal Medical Center.

"The last two years weren't very good to Whisper," said Rivenburgh. "His right eye has to be removed and a little bit of his ear is gone."

But she plans on giving her new cat all the tender loving care it deserves.

"I don't know if he was someone's cat, but if he was, why wasn't he nurtured and kept indoors? He will be now," Rivenburgh said. "What a joy for us!"

Cagers prepare for districts

BY JEFF PATRUS
 Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Wolves are heading into district action on a winning note, as they prepare to face the highly regarded Oxford Wildcats.

The Wolves won their final tune-up contest before districts, defeating visiting Lake Orion on Nov. 8, 65-41, in the fifth-place game of the Oakland Activities Association Division I-II tournament. Clarkston is now 14-6 overall.

Junior guard Kira Karlstrom contributed a game-high 24 points, while senior forward Jennifer Karstensen added 14 points.

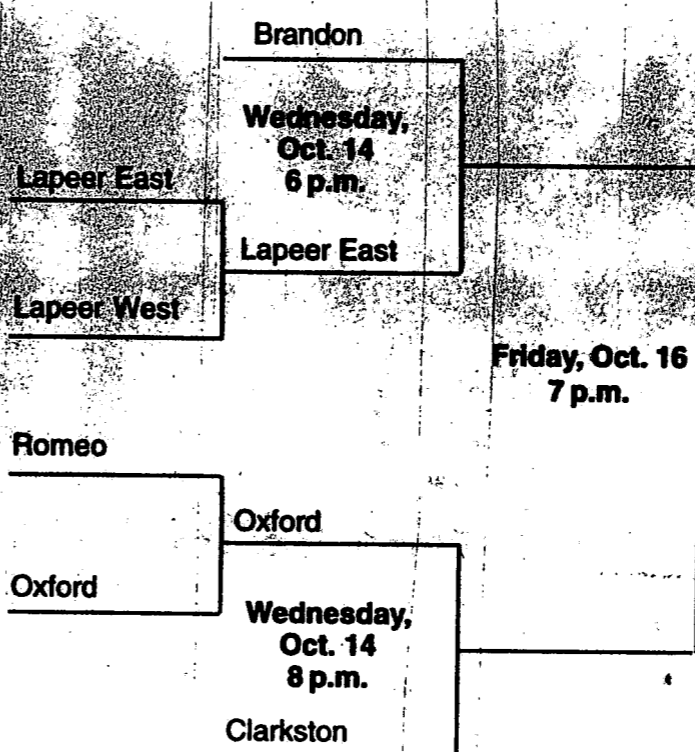

The Wolves are currently taking part in District #31 competition, held at Lapeer East High School. Clarkston, the regular-season OAA Division I champions, had a first-round bye and will take on Oxford (18-2) in a second-round game at Lapeer East Wednesday, Nov. 14, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Wildcats advanced to the district semifinals by defeating Romeo, 69-40, on Monday.

In the other regional semifinal, to be held at 6 p.m. Nov. 14, OAA Division III champion Brandon had a first-round bye and will meet Lapeer East, who defeated Lapeer West on Monday.

Student gains experience with racing team

The entire state of Michigan, it seemed, was tuned into the Michigan-Michigan State football game Nov. 3.

Could that rivalry be extended to the racing track in the future?

According to Scott Watson, a Michigan State senior and 1998 Clarkston High School graduate, while that may be a few years down the road, it is not totally out of the realm of possibility.

He said a couple of schools have expressed interest in putting together a series of races against each other. He said the University of Michigan was among the schools interested, although he did not elaborate any further.

"Our intentions are to get a series, but that's a couple years down the road," he said.

Watson, an engineering major at MSU, is one of the members of a 12-man crew, comprised largely of MSU engineering students, who tend to the car

Fall radio, TV coverage of MHSAA games set

The schedule for coverage of Michigan High School Athletic Association championships in football and girls' basketball has been set.

The package is highlighted by two weekends of live coverage of the MHSAA Football Playoff Finals and Girls Basketball Finals on Fox Sports Net. Fox Sports Net is covering both events for the fourth straight year in 2001, with the games reaching over 2.6 million homes. However, due to a conflict with professional games, two telecasts will receive same-day delayed airings as well as an additional Sunday afternoon airing.

The Division 4 football finale on Nov. 23 and the Class B girls basketball championship on Dec. 1 will receive their first airings on a same-day delay telecast basis that same evening at 2 a.m. The Division 4 football game will also be shown on Sunday, Nov. 25, at 1 p.m.; and the Class B girls basketball championship will air again on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 2 p.m.

Here is the complete schedule for the live games to be broadcast: Football — Division 8 — Nov. 23 — 10 a.m.; Division 2 — Nov. 23 — 1 p.m.; Division 6 — Nov. 23 — 5 p.m.; Division 7 — Nov. 24 — 10 a.m.; Division 1 — Nov. 24 — 1 p.m.; Division 5 — Nov. 24 — 5 p.m.; Division 3 — Nov. 24 — 8 p.m.; Girls Basketball — Class D — Dec. 1 — 11 a.m.; Class A — Dec. 1 — 1:30 p.m.; Class C — Dec. 1 — 5 p.m.

The replay schedule for the football and girls basketball telecasts is as follows: Football — Division 8 — Dec. 8 — 4 p.m.; Division 2 — Dec. 8 — 6:30 p.m.; Division 6 — Dec. 9 — 1:30 p.m.; Division 4 — Dec. 15 — 1:30 p.m.; Division 7 — Dec. 15 — 4 p.m.; Division 1 — Dec. 15 — 6:30 p.m.; Division 5 — Dec. 22 — 12:30 p.m.; Division 3 — Dec. 23 — 1:30 p.m.; Girls Basketball — Class D — Dec. 6 — 1 p.m.; Class A — Dec. 10 — noon; Class C — Dec. 11 — noon; Class B — Dec. 13 — noon.

On the radio side, the finals of the MHSAA Girls Basketball Tournament will be broadcast on a state-wide network of stations, and the semifinal games will again be aired locally in the community in which those games are played.

All of the girls basketball radio broadcasts, as well as audio cybercasts of the football finals through Michigan Talk Radio Network, can be accessed through the MHSAA Web site at www.mhsaa.com.

Sponsors of the MHSAA Championship Network are Farm Bureau Insurance and the Michigan Association of Broadcasters.

Swimmers win second straight title

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's swimming program, in its third year, has established themselves as back-to-back champions in Oakland Activities Association Division IV.

The Wolves brought home the title in the league meet, held Oct. 31-Nov. 2, easily outdistancing second-place Avondale, 612-511.

Other teams competing in the meet were Lamphere (429 points), Hazel Park (187), Pontiac Central (95), and Pontiac Northern (60).

Four members of the Wolves earned all-league honors: Andrea Galaviz in the 200-yard freestyle, Alex Beck in the 50-yard freestyle, Casey Bolten in diving, and Katy Fisk in the 100-yard backstroke.

Clarkston divers Bolten, Sarah Mehaffey, and Racheal Carroll competed in the Class A regional diving meet, held Nov. 13 at Lake Orion.

Clarkston coach Ann Lowney said the Wolves will be facing a top-notch team in the Wildcats. Lowney said Oxford's three star players — Karen Inman, Page Selquist, and Monica Seidl — will be tough for the Wolves to handle.

"They're very solid — they're very athletic," she said. "They like to shoot the three and pound the ball inside."

She said the Wildcats have to be considered the favorites to win the district. "No doubt about it," Lowney said. "They have quite a few seniors on their team."

Clarkston is looking to build on last season's success. The Wolves won the district championship last year, defeating Romed, 48-31, in the district championship game, and making it all the way to the regional finals before losing to Waterford Kettering, 51-29.

During that run, Clarkston pulled off an upset in the district semifinal by defeating previously unbeaten Oxford, 53-37.

Lowney said the Wolves are capable of repeating that performance and winning districts. However, she said in order for that to happen, Clarkston must play like they did in their last two games of the OAA tournament, where they defeated Lake Orion and Southfield, rather than their first-round OAA tourney game against Bloomfield Hills Lahser, where they lost, 49-48.

"I think we have a good chance," she said. "I like the way we played against Southfield and Lake Orion. We're in the position we want to be in going into districts."

of driver Brandon Fagin, an Evansville, Ind. native who is a MSU communications major.

The group is racing as part of the American Speed Association (ASA), a circuit that serves as a training ground for future Winston Cup drivers. The circuit's races are covered by the cable television station TNN (The National Network) on Saturdays.

The team already competes against other colleges once a year. Each May, about 125 schools from the U.S., Canada, Japan, China, England, and other countries take part in the SAE College Formula Car Competition. This year's competition was held May 18-20.

Watson said the 12-member pit crew was selected by General Motors from the competition.

The thing that makes the MSU car stand out from others in the ASA series, according to Watson, is the crew has total control over the team's operation. The team does have a faculty advisor, MSU professor of material science and mechanics Gary Cloud.

"Everything on the car is built by us except the engine," he said. "We're starting to manufacture the car from scratch. It's pretty intense, and it's a great opportunity to apply what you learned in class to an everyday situation."

Watson said his mechanical responsibilities are wide-ranging.

"I pretty much do anything," he said. "I work with the chassis, suspension team, and the powertrain team (or engine). This year, I'm also working with a Matt Palomaki-designed new intake. I will be testing it in the fluids lab."

Watson, the son of Rich and Bonnie Watson of Clarkston, and the older brother of Laura and Eric, said he has always had a natural interest in cars, and sees his participation on the team as an extension of that interest.

"I think it's worthwhile to get involved in it and actually get something out of it," he said. "It's the best way to learn about racing. It's just a good group to be involved in."

He sees himself continuing in that path as he de-

Athlete of the Week: Anne Oltman

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Clarkston freshman girls' cross-country runner Anne Oltman took the field for the state meet Oct. 3, she wasn't sure how she would do.

As it turns out, she was good enough to make this year's All-State team.

Oltman finished 24th out of 228 runners at the meet at the Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn. The All-State team is comprised of the top 30 runners at the state meet. She ran a time of 19:21.

"It feels really good," she said of her performance.

Oltman credited Clarkston coach Jamie LaBrosse for her improvement throughout the season.

"He's always had confidence in me," she said. "When I had a bad race, he talked to me and said that everybody's had bad races."

One of Oltman's teammates planted the seed for her joining the team. "I was talking to my friend Lauren (Witt) on the phone," Oltman said. "She was the one that got me interested."

As it turns out, her interest in athletics lies beyond cross-country. She said she is currently deciding whether to play volleyball on the Clarkston High School girls' team, or run track for the Pine Knob Track Club during the winter. She also said she will have to make a decision when spring comes around, as she enjoys track and soccer.

"I play soccer and volleyball, and I'm going to have to decide between track and soccer, and winter track and volleyball," she said. "Right now, I'm leaning toward track."

Oltman is the daughter of Russ and Cindy Oltman of Clarkston, and has an older brother, Brian, who attends Clarkston High School.

Grub, goodies and gobs of fun...

Clarkston Chamber Expo attracts thousands, breaks record

Ouch!—Sue Sajdak receives a flu shot courtesy of POH Medical Center Hospital Healthcare Incorporated and Office Manager Judy Goldsmith.

With over 2,200 people attending the 15th annual Expo at Clarkston High School on Nov. 8, 2001, the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce set a new record.

The community Expo is a free event, hosted each year by the Chamber of Commerce to provide a venue for local businesses, professionals and service organizations to share information about their business.

This year 88 exhibitors filled the cafeteria and Main Street hall area of Clarkston High School with posters, lights, balloons, candy, gifts and prizes.

Oakland Technical Center Culinary Arts students prepared appetizers and desserts for the crowd. White glove tray service was provided to the exhibitors and their guests during the business social hour.

D.J. Jim Tedder provided music and announcements throughout the evening.

And a wood sculpture by Gary Elzerman, advertising the chainsaw woodcarving event was auctioned at the end of the evening with a top bid of $500.

Looks refreshing—Jennifer Grundy, of the Oakland Technical Center Culinary Arts program, prepares more punch for all the thirsty Expo visitors.

Coast to coast—Clarkston's Derek Ranck, a junior, will represent the U.S. on a national amateur baseball team, Coast to Coast Amateur Athletics, for students ages 15-18. The team will play in Puerto Rico next year. Ranck was selected on the basis of tryouts held at Michigan State University in September, and played baseball for the Clarkston varsity and Chief Pontiac teams in Oakland County this past year. Donations to Clarkston schools are plenty

At their Nov. 12 meeting, the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education accepted and acknowledged nine donations including:

- $7,139 from the Clarkston Foundation for a variety of programs throughout the school district
- $327 from North Sashabaw Elementary parents to be used to fund field trips for students in the first and second grade multi-age program
- playground balls, jump ropes, and a ball cage valued at $1,200 from the Pine Knob Elementary School PTA
- $427 from Meijers in Auburn Hills to be used to purchase supplies for the "History Alive" program at Clarkston Middle School
- carriage bolts, washers, nuts and screws from Damman Hardware to be used to construct a picnic

table for students in the Funshine Program at Clarkston High School

- eight pieces of lumber from Erb Lumber to be used to construct the picnic table for the Funshine Program
- a $50 gift certificate from Target Corporation to purchase snacks for students at Bailey Lake Elementary taking the MEAP test
- a sprinkler system valued at $13,500 for the high school practice fields from the Clarkston Chiefs organization
- $200 from members of the Clarkston High School Cross Country team to be used for middle school runners participating in the Pine Knob Track Club who cannot afford the program fee.

Calling all theatre lovers...

The Clarkston High School Drama Club presents "Theatre-a-Thon," a 12-hour variety show Friday, Nov. 30 from 3 p.m. to midnight featuring the cast of Saturday Night Live. Plus, enjoy food, fun and games! There's something for everyone at this event held at the Clarkston High School Performing Arts Center.

At one time all American presidents, their wives and important political figures were exempt from paying postage.

5 PAPERS-2 WEEKS-$11.00 10 WORDS (30¢ EACH ADDITIONAL WORD) (Commercial Accounts $9.00/week) YOU WILL GET RESPONSE! Guaranteed

Our pledge to you: if after 30 days you don't get any inquiries on your want ad, we'll refund your money (less a $2 service charge. Automotive specials not included).

We guarantee it. Here's how it works. 1. Run your want ad with us for at least two weeks and pay within one week of the start date. 2. If no one contacts you within 30 days after the ad's stop date, fill out a refund application and mail or bring it to us. 3. We will refund the cost of the ad (less the $2 service charge) within 7 days of receiving your refund application.

Or, we'll run that ad again for the original number of weeks. The choice is yours, a win-win situation all the way around. (We can only guarantee that you'll get inquiries - not that you'll make a deal.) This guarantee applies to individual (noncommercial) want ads. You can pick up a refund application at any of our offices. In Oxford, at 666 S. Lapeer Road. In Lake Orion, 30 N. Broadway Street. In Clarkston, 5 S. Main Street. The refund must be applied for between 30 and 90 days of the want ad's start date.

All advertising in Sherman Publications, Inc. is subject to the conditions in the applicable rate card or advertising contract, copies of which are available from the Ad Dept. at The Oxford Leader (628-4801) or The Clarkston News (625-3370). This newspaper reserves the right not to accept an advertiser's order. Our ad takers have no authority to bind this newspaper and only publication of an ad constitutes acceptance of the advertiser's order. Tear sheets will not be furnished for classified ads.

Wally Edgar WILL BEAT YOUR BEST NEW CAR OR TRUCK DEAL OR WE'LL GIVE YOU THE $5000 CASH

Wally's $5000 Pledge

Only at Wally Edgar do you have a genuine written guarantee of the lowest price on your new car or truck. In fact, Wally Edgar guarantees to beat your best deal or we'll give you the $5000 CASH! For over 15 years, our customers have found the other "low price" promises are just talk. Disclaimer? Here it is, in a type size you can easily read: just bring in any written, authorized new car or truck deal. Wally Edgar will beat your net, out-the-door price, or we'll give you $5000 CASH. Just to keep everyone honest, Wally Edgar must be able to buy your car at its quoted terms and conditions (excludes Corvettes).
