Baker set to return to class after heat stroke

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

About five months ago, Brad and Marilyn Baker were by their daughter Kayla's bedside, praying she would return to health.

Now, Kayla is on the verge of returning to Clarkston High School for the remainder of her senior year after undergoing months of therapy necessitated by an Aug. 16 incident in which she suffered heat-stroke.

Brad Baker said his daughter expects to be at Clarkston High School for the beginning of the second semester Jan. 22, and fully expects that she will graduate with the rest of the Class of 2002.

Kayla's ordeal began on a hot summer day in Arizona on Aug. 16, about 10 days before the start of the school year.

"It happened when I was in Arizona with my brother, Matt (who was attending college at Arizona State University)," she said. "I was out there with two other friends to help him move in. One day, we decided to climb a mountain camelback."

Baker said Kayla passed out on the way down the mountain, and then she went into a coma. Matt stayed with her and tried to shade her from the heat. Finally, according to Baker, a gentleman came by, and Matt asked him to call 911. About two hours elapsed between the time she first passed out and the time the paramedics came, according to Baker.

After help arrived, it was still difficult to get Kayla transported to safety. As Baker recalled, the first helicopter, from the Phoenix Fire Department, was very large and couldn't get close to a position where Kayla could be airlifted onto the helicopter.

A later helicopter arrived from the Phoenix Fire Department and lowered an EMS worker down to Kayla, Baker said. He put Kayla in a basket and lifted her off the mountain to a plateau where she could be taken to the hospital.

After Kayla arrived at the hospital, the doctors took her temperature, and it was recorded at 106.8

degrees, Baker said. At the hospital, she was taken to the emergency unit and put into a bed which was lined around her with ice.

Once Kayla stabilized, she was taken to the in-

Medical Center receives okay on expansion from board

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

The Independence Township Library was packed Jan. 9 -- and nobody was looking for Harry Potter. People crowded the library to hear what the Independence Board of Trustees would do with a proposed 10,560 square foot addition to Independence Point Medical and Retail Center on M-15 near I-75.

Independence Township Board voted 4-3 to pass the request for final site plan amendment to Independence Pointe P.U.D. (planned unit development) on M-15 and Northview near I-75.

Clerk Joan McCrary voted to approve the site along with Trustees Daniel Kelly, Larry Rosso and David Wagner. Supervisor Dale Stuart was joined by Treasurer James Wenger and Trustee Daniel Travis in voting against the amendment.

The proposal by John Poponea, manager of the Independence Pointe Medical and Retail Center, had been discussed by both the Township Board and the Planning Commission at great length for nearly a year. The Planning Commission failed to submit a recommendation on the plan as their vote tied at three.

The proposal will add a 10,560 square foot elevated addition to the rear of the existing bank building at Independence Pointe. The addition would consist of medical offices built over a 31 space parking area. The plan will add 41 parking spaces, to raise the total to 291. This amendment to the existing Independence Point PUD would result in a combination of retail, restaurant, office and medical use.

The proposal that passed was scaled down in size from the original request. Poponea's request formerly was 13,200 square feet and also had a portion of the adjacent R-1A (single, family residential) lot to be rezoned to PUD.

Poponea, with the help of expert Jim Valenti, presented to the board studies which stated parking would not be a problem with the larger facility. This was something the board had concerns with in the past. Hubbel, Roth and Clark Inc, the township's consulting engineers, also agreed with Poponea's position.

Poponea also had numerous doctors speak of the drastic need for more area at the facility due to the change in medical care over the past decade.

Numerous patients of the medical center came to the meeting to show their support. Some area residents, particularly those who live on Northview Drive, also attended the meeting. Those who spoke up were worried the expansion would lead to more individuals visiting the building, and thus, more traffic.

Also during the meeting, the Township Board heard a presentation from township attorney Steven Joppich about the possibility of an Animal Control Ordinance in regards to dangerous/vicious dogs.

The board tabled the issue after giving Joppich some recommendations and feedback about what the ordinance should contain and how it will be enforced.

Middle school student donates hair to worthy cause

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

Despite only being in 7th grade, Hope Rogers made a very adult decision recently. The Clarkston Middle School student donated one of her most important possessions, her hair, to someone less fortunate.

The 12-year-old has had long, blond hair for as long as she can remember and never thought she would cut it. But that was before her grandparents sent her an article which documented the "Locks for Love" program.

"Locks for Love" is a not-for-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 with medical hair loss. These custom-fitted hair prosthetics are provided free of charge or on a sliding scale to children whose families meet "Locks for Love" Board of Directors guidelines.

When Hope first read the article she was not totally convinced this was for her.

"I didn't think it had anything to do with me. I couldn't imagine what it would be like to not have long hair," Hope said.

However, Hope continued to think about the topic for the next two weeks. While she had a hard time imagining what life would be like without long hair, she also thought about the individuals who would have to go to school with no hair. Hope decided the positives outweighed the negatives and chose to go through with the cut.

So Hope went to get her haircut with her mother Nancy, sister Rebecca and best friend Beth Hyde. Hope ended up getting 11 inches cut off her head and enjoys the look which left her mother relieved.

"I was nervous because she is in 7th grade and if she hates the haircut it would be miserable," Nancy Rogers said. "Hope told me even if it didn't look good it was only temporary."

In the end their was nothing to worry about as Hope has received nothing but compliments about her new hair style.

Hope is planning on doing the process all over again. She wants to grow her hair out and get it cut to donate again. She also wants other individuals to hear about this program and hopefully they will also donate. Children comprise more than 80 percent of the donors.

"It is a very good feeling to do this," Hope said. "Someone has hair because of me and it feels great."

If you are interested in the "Locks for Love" program you can contact them at (888) 896-1588. The organization, which began in 1997, has helped more than 600 children since its first year of operation.

Local residents help carry Olympic torch through Michigan

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fifteen local high school kids did their part to support an Olympic tradition.

It was an experience of a lifetime for the Clarkston United Methodist Church youth group as they ran side by side of those carrying the Olympic torch as it passed through Michigan Sunday, Jan. 6 and Monday, Jan. 7.

Youth Pastor John Leece said he approached the youngsters with applications for the unique opportunity after a member of the church, who works with Chevrolet, a corporate sponsor of the Olympics, brought the information to him.

"It's an honor for them to be a part of history," Leece said. "I think the kids looked at it as quite a big honor."

The kids went as individuals and were dispersed throughout seven locations in the state such as Ann Arbor, Royal Oak and Hamtramack.

Nicole Keusch, a ninth-grader at Clarkston High School, was one of five support runners who ran in Highland Park with torch carriers Red Wing Jiri Fischer and General Motors employee Mike Grenaldi.

She said she wanted to participate in something like this because, "I thought it would be an interesting experience--and fun."

And afterwards, Keusch said, "It went really good. It was one of the coolest things I've ever done."

Other support runners from Clarkston United Methodist Church included Dan Osterhage, Derek Coatney, Ryan Parrott, Sara Zerba, Dan Howard, Alex Handley, Casey Bolton, Gillian Nordquist, Anne Oltman, Katie Osterhage, Dave Sommers, Dave Vollbach, Nick Curdy and Beth Randall.

Economic issues at heart of Inman's run for Oakland County commissioner

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

(Editor's note: Next week, The Clarkston News will profile Republican Tom Middleton's run for the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.)

Longtime Oakland County resident Chuck Inman has been an elected officer of Pipefitters Local 636 for 14 years and its business agent for nine years.

Inman, a Clarkston resident for the past 5-1/2 years, believes he can put that experience to good use as the Democratic candidate for District 4 of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

He will take on Republican Tom Middleton, a former state representative, in a special general election Tuesday, Feb. 5. The winner will serve the remainder of the term vacated by Clarkston resident Frank Millard, who resigned his position as commissioner to take a position as deputy clerk for Oakland County.

He said the time is right for him to make a run for the spot.

"The kids (son Charles III and daughter Cheryl) are gone, and my wife (Jan) is ready to retire," he said. "I'm concerned about the county and its budget."

He said there needs to be cutbacks in the county's spending patterns. For instance, he said the county bought or leased 600 vehicles last year. While he said a number of them were certainly necessary for use with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, he questioned whether it was necessary for other county officials to have a county-owned vehicle.

In addition, Inman said the county needs to cut back on spending in areas such as gasoline, credit cards and cell phones. He said county residents should be getting back more of their tax money in accordance with the county's status as the wealthiest in the state of Michigan.

Inman, in his role with Pipefitters Local 636, said he has led a 40 percent increase in the union's membership during his time there. He said a key responsibility of his as the union's business agent was balancing their budget.

Inman said he has annually gathered approximately 150-200 union members each year for their annual "Heat's On" program, which provides free winter-ready services for the furnaces of the needy, handicapped, and elderly in the area. These services include checking furnaces, making repairs and providing smoke detectors.

"We go to different areas — Detroit, Hamtramack, Pontiac," he said. "It's a pretty big item with us."

In addition, he runs the union's two Red Cross blood drives per year.

Inman was a former U.S. Marine Corps reservist from 1966-72, and is currently a member of the Elks and Eagles clubs.

He has been married for 32 years to wife Jan, and is the father of son Charles III and wife Jen, and daughter Cheryl, and the grandfather of David (D.J.).

He is a member of Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church in Clarkston.

Seeks spot — Chuck Inman, a Clarkston resident, is the Democratic candidate for District 4 of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners. A special general election will be held Feb. 5 to fill the vacancy. Photo courtesy of Chuck Inman.

Traffic and safety issues halt church's relocation plans

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans by a Pontiac-based church to relocate to Springfield Township have been set aside due to safety concerns expressed by township officials.

The Apostolic Church of Christ presented a concept plan, which included a church, K-12 school and a day care center, to the Springfield Township board at its Jan. 10 meeting.

The proposed relocation site is on I-75 and Deer

Hill Drive. Although no specific recommendation or action was taken, township officials said the lack of a traffic light or left-hand turn lane at the intersection made the area unsafe, and said Deer Hill would have to be rerouted before the relocation could continue.

According to Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, another concern was the amount of space the development would take up. The proposal called for a 2,500-foot sanctuary, a 250-foot school and a 75-foot day care center.

"There seems to be too much proposed development on a single piece of property," he said. "They hadn't adequately addressed the needs of the day care center. They could have reduced the size of the church or the school, or some combination of the two."

Walls also said the lack of proposed recreational facilities for the school and day care center was an issue.

"The bottom line was that it was too much for the property as it was presented," he said.

Oakland County schools receive grant to help homeless students

Oakland Schools Wraparound is the proud recipient of the McKinney Grant for Homeless Students. With this grant Oakland Schools has developed a new half time position to coordinate services for the homeless student population for all 28 Oakland County public schools districts.

Despite the beliefs the homeless is an adult problem, and does not impact Oakland County, the Oakland County Task Force on the homeless estimates in the year 2000 there were more than 1,600 Oakland County students who became homeless. These students were forced to move into shelters, live on the street or in cars. In addition, there were 2,000 to 3,000 students who left their schools when they lost their homes and were forced to live with extended family or friends. The causes of the homeless vary but many are due to unemployed or underemployed parents. Many families experience a serious illness or permanent disability that impact their living arrangements.

Oakland County's homeless students come from all 28 school districts in Oakland County and they are equally diverse in ethnicity and educational skill levels. The McKinney Grant will allow Oakland Schools to help these students receive uninterrupted quality educational services through academic advocacy and enrollment assistance. The new Oakland Schools Wraparound Homeless Student Liaison will work in partnership with Oakland County's homeless shelters and programs. A hotline for schools, agencies and parents is being created to identify and assist homeless students.

The McKinney Act federally mandates districts to accept homeless students into school without proof of residency, immunization records or other documentation. The liaison facilitates this enrollment and works to assure the required records for each student's enrollment are received within 30 days, in keeping with federal law. Additionally, the liaison has the resources to provide the students with books, supplies and other necessities to maximize the student's chances of success.

Oakland Schools Wraparound is a unique program that helps high-risk children avoid out-of-home and out-of-school placement. Wraparound is a collaborative effort of the Oakland County Community Mental Health Authority/Easter Seals Family Mental Health Services, the Oakland County Circuit Court/Family Division, the Oakland County Human Services Coordinating Council, Family Independence Agency and Oakland Schools.

For more information about Oakland Schools Wraparound and the McKinney Homeless Students Grant, please contact Susan Benson, Wraparound Director, Oakland Schools at (248) 209-2437.

District planning future of schools

In a recent Clarkston News article, Jennifer Nemer shared some of my views about the achievements and challenges that our community schools will face in 2002. Yes, I am very proud of the people who make up our school family. Our faculty and staff are outstanding, our students are wonderful examples of what is right with today's young people, and our community's commitment to the younger generation is clearly a part of the fabric that holds us all together. In addition, our mission keeps us focused on our most important client - our students.

Those readers who are familiar with my column know the strength of the Clarkston Schools isn't difficult to access. It is found in the ability of our people to work together and in the clear sense of purpose that guides us in all we do. Nevertheless, we have a major challenge to overcome - overcrowding at CHS. Despite the fact the building has only been in operation for four years, we are experiencing rather severe growing pains. So, permit me to use this article to provide some facts:

- We are just about out of space at the high school. More than 2,300 students attend CHS. Keep in mind, the academic wing was designed for 2,000 students.

- Given our pattern of growth and enrollment projections, we will need additional seats to accommodate our K-12 population within the next two years.

- Constructing and operating a new building would cost more than the cost of constructing and operating an addition to the building.

- At this time, Clarkston can't afford to operate two secondary schools. The operational cost of another high school would negatively impact the educational opportunities for all K-12 students.

- A facility use plan is being developed and will be shared with the community sometime in late January or February.

- Any plan that significantly alters the available physical space will need to be placed on the ballot for voter approval.

- It is possible that grade configurations may need to be changed and that boundary lines will need to be adjusted within the next two years.

- We recognize there is not "one best plan" and that we must devise a plan that our community can support.

- Finances must be a major consideration because increased operational expenses can negatively impact direct instruction to students. In Clarkston, we budget so that programs/services for students are the top priority. However, we must find a way to earmark funds for ongoing technology equipment and maintenance needs, without limiting the educational package.

- Our district's infrastructure upgrades must be completed to include all of our facilities such as community education and our early childhood center. A final plan must include the maintenance of buildings that our community has generously updated and renovated over the past five years.

Our administrative team is working to develop an option or two that will address the growing pains and prepare us for the future. It is important for citizens to know the options will be shared as soon as the work is completed and the community feedback will be sought. While I commend the support and involvement that our community provided, I do anticipate that differing viewpoints will arise throughout the process. Differences are an opportunity to make certain that an educationally and fiscally sound decision is made. I am confident that by working together we will provide a high quality learning environment for all students now and in the future.

Rock 'n' roll music will survive

It was Wednesday, Jan. 9 at 7 a.m. when I heard the news. I was getting ready for work and like every other morning had WRIF's Drew and Mike Morning Show on in the background. Truth be told, a couple of immature jokes, a prank phone call and a Chris Farley sound bite is all I really need to get my day started off on the right foot.

However this morning would contain no laughter, for it was when I heard the horrible news. My favorite band since the eighth grade, The Black Crowes, had decided to call it quits. It was during the next few days when the specifics of the news became available. The drummer, Steve Gorman, had left the band and the company line from the rest of the crew was they were on hiatus. However, the writing was on the wall, there is a good chance the band as we know them will no longer grace us with their old school brand of rock 'n' roll.

To say I was distraught would be an understatement. Much like when the last "Ponderosa" near my home closed, there seemed to be an indescribable void in my life. I immediately called my brother John, who was also a huge fan and with whom I had seen numerous concerts, and we discussed the situation. There was solace in the fact someone else "felt my pain."

I have an attachment to the band some professionals might deem unhealthy. I have attended too many concerts to count in cities from Milwaukee to Grand Rapids, as well as local venues such as DTE Energy Music Theater and the Fox Theater. The Black Crowes' music has been an intricate part of my life as I have grown up. It was a constant through the highs and lows of my existence. To think they were no longer going to be a band was very disconcerting.

Despite the depression I was feeling, I needed to pull myself together and go on with the day. During my drive to work I thought about the state of rock 'n' roll and where the ending of the Black Crowes exactly left it. Let's face it, rock music is not exactly at the top of its game. We have a generation growing up thinking rock 'n' roll means Sugar Ray or The Barenaked Ladies. (Note: Don't get offended, The Barenaked Ladies is actually a band of five men. Believe me, I checked.)

As I heard from old friends from far and near, I began to believe there was light at the end of the tunnel. I received e-mails from as far as St. Louis from my friend Grace Hagen and I also took a phone call from high school friend Jeff Hernandez who now works in Atlanta.

Yet perhaps the most uplifting was an e-mail from my friend Mike Waliszewski, who resides in Milwaukee. The one line message was simply "Rock and roll will survive."

It made perfect sense. You see rock music is much bigger than The Black Crowes or any other band. There is a reason the music has survived while fads such as disco, techno and rap come and go in our culture. The music has substance, passion and purpose.

Perhaps I will never again hear Chris Robinson belt out the lyrics of "My Morning Song" or Eddie Hirsch play his piano solo during "Thorn in My Pride," but there will be music out there which will be just as powerful. Maybe that band is undiscovered and playing a bar in Toledo, Ohio, practicing in a Clarkston garage after high school lets out or is sitting on the shelf at "Harmony House."

Either way I will find it. I will listen and be moved much like I was by the band from Atlanta. You're right Mike, "Rock and roll will survive!"

A Look Back

15 YEARS AGO (1986)

■ Phones will ring Jan. 28 in the homes of some 400 Clarkston school district residents who will be asked, among other things, to share their opinions about a new high school. About 30 questions are included in the Community Attitude Survey, said George White, survey chairperson and principal of Pine Knob Elementary School.

■ Industry and agriculture were the liveliest topics during discussion of the new zoning map at the Springfield Township Board's Jan. 14 meeting. The board unanimously adopted changes to the western half of the township following the second reading. It also voted unanimously to publish the remaining eastern portion of the map for the second reading at the Feb. 11 board meeting.

■ The proposed Clarkston Health Center is entering its final planning stages with a request for a planned unit development (PUD) zoning. The zoning change from commercial is to be considered by the Independence Township Planning Commission Jan. 22. The proposed facility is to combine on one floor the practices of some area physicians and 24-hour urgent care.

25 YEARS AGO (1976)

■ The cold windy weather being experienced this winter has resulted in "an incredible amount of chilblain cases," according to Dr. James O'Neill of Clarkston. Chilblain, a mild form of frostbite, is caused by overexposure to the cold and the wind, resulting in white splotches on the skin and possible blistering. It is something that often cannot be felt while outdoors.

■ The American Cancer Society, a nonprofit volunteer public service organization, hopes to open a branch office in the Clarkston area. Independence Center, 5331 Maybee, which offers many of its own community services, will be joining with the cancer society to expand its programs.

■ The township board approved the formation of the Independence Township Professional Firemen's Association, an independent bargaining agent for the six-man department. Fire Chief Frank Ronk said the move to form the association was one to prevent the department of becoming a "blue flu" operation or being forced to become affiliated with similar organizations.

50 YEARS AGO (1951)

■ There will be a sale of home baked goods at the Township Hall in Clarkston on Saturday, Jan. 19. The assortment of goodies will be large. This sale is being sponsored by the members of the Clarkston High School Band. These energetic young people are working enthusiastically to raise money for their new uniforms.

■ Last week Clarkston participated in two rounds of debates. In the first round held at Almont, Clarkston's negative team consisting of Fred Groven and Delphine Parshall won, while the affirmative team consisting of Mickey Palazzolo and Shirley Devine lost a close decision. The third debate in this league will be held Jan. 31 at Holly.

Baseko's Waterloo and more

Where to start?
I often say that to myself at this juncture in the column writing process. It is usually then I look at my e-mail, to see what all five or six readers of this column have to say . . .
Yep. It worked.
Two of you have taken the time to write. Thank you.

The last couple of weeks I have detailed (excruciatingly, I know) the rise and fall of our finned friends, Baseko and Nemo. They both met untimely demises days after arriving at our door and being placed in our care. Baseko bought it in the hands of not-yet-two Sean. Nemo suffered for two days after being mortally wounded by Baseko.

don't rush
me

In short, they're both dead and this is the e-mail I received from somebody called, "Nalepro" (who, I am deducing, is probably somebody who gives manicures).

Subject: Baseko's Waterloo
Date: 14 Jan 2002 8:17:10 pm Eastern Standard Time
From: Nalepro
To: Dontrushmedon

"I beg of you, please don't get your kids a puppy or kitten!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!"

First, I wish I would have come up with that catchy headline, "Baseko's Waterloo." It has a nice ring to it, don't you think?

Secondly, I replied back to "Nalepro" that it was too late, the boys have two dogs, Pork Chop and Mickey, and Keitcha the cat (I'm not sure how to spell Keetcha, so it gets spelled differently each time. I can pronounce it, though and it phonetically it sounds this way, Key-t-cha. You figure it out.)

Thirdly, what are you saying about my kids? Visions of Lenny from "Of Mice and Men" keep popping in my head.

Before Baseko and Nemo swam in and out of our lives, wife Jen gave me her list of the things every American should know. Jen believes, in part, every American should know how to parallel park, know the words to Don McLean's "American Pie," and the first verse to our national anthem.

Reader Laura Proctor e-mailed me some of hers

1. Washington D. C. is NOT a state.
2. Speed limits are not merely a suggestion.
3. Family really is what life is all about.
4. Know CPR - if a fourth grade student can learn it, so should you! You could save the life of someone you love.

5. When comforting a grieving parent, the words "I know how you feel," should never come out, unless you too have lost a child. It is not even close to losing a parent, sibling, niece/nephew, or spouse! (sorry, this one is my biggest pet peeve).

Laura's got a good point about CPR. Call the local fire department and ask when the next training session is. My wife knows it, I do not. Well, I learned it once in the 10th grade. I guess I'll get my butt in gear and relearn it.

Well, the New Year's Resolutions in Oxford have just come to a screeching halt.

Yep.
Steve of Oxford Bakery is back from vacation (which included fixing broken water pipes, putting in new counters and general shop maintenance).

I don't know why he chooses the first two weeks of the year to take off. Maybe because lots of folks try to stay away from his sweet pastries after January 1 and business would be slow anyway?

I do know there were a lot of folks in Oxford "jonesing" for a doughnut or danish. Crave no more, go with your desires and dump the resolutions, as of January 15 let the sugar buzz begin!

Speaking of Oxford, that hamlet of hamlets is home to America's only one-eyed weather prognosticating groundhog, Noah. Noah, magicians, clowns and Chuck Gaidica, WDIV Channel 4 weather-hunk, will be in town Feb 2, for the town's annual Groundhog's Day ceremony.

Everybody is welcome for the free balloons, cocoa and coffee. Noah will be in Centennial Park (downtown on M-24) and look for his shadow at 10 a.m. sharp.

Subject: Bacon; and the cooking thereof

Dear Norrine,
You know we love you, but you're nuts.
I've probably told you that a few times in our nearly 50 years of friendship, but your recent "recipe" for cooking bacon prompts me to renew my analysis.

I suppose you were really trying to advise me on how to properly make my bacon crisp after reading my column on my love of toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches.

Let me remind you of that conversation. You told me to lay strips of medium thick bacon slices on a cookie sheet that had a rim.

Then I was to put it in the oven, turn the heat to 250 degrees and cook it for 30 minutes. While I was still suggesting that was way too much waste of my time, you continued, "get some pot holders and take the cookie sheet out, drain off the grease and put it back in the oven for 45 more minutes."

"The oven will not be splatted with grease and your bacon will be crisp," you said.

The first person I told of your recipe was the person you trained as your replacement as advertising manager of our newspaper, Eric Lewis. He poo-pooed it saying, "I just put the bacon in the microwave for three minutes."

The next people I told of your hour and a quarter, bacon-cooking recipe was your brother and sister-in-law, Ray and Sue Baber.

They were having lunch at Meijers. Their "lunch" was the free cookies near the bakery and not far from a bread dip sampling table.

I hadn't got much past mentioning your name when Ray offered, "She's nuts!"

Well, as I concluded Ray said, "Jim, use a George Forman Grill. Norrine sent us one for Christmas two years ago. It will cook the bacon anyway you want it and the grease drains off while it's cooking. No mess, no long wait."

You ought to be glad I didn't tell him that your Christmas gift to daughter Penny was two rolls of toilet paper. That would have certainly cemented his opinion of your mental aptitude.

I had been at Meijers measuring the thickness of bacon, as your recipe calls for. Seems it's "thick sliced," or has no printed thickness. Past bacon-buying experience has proven to me that in some bacon-buying instances a micrometer is needed to measure the thickness of some slices.

Of course, there is the see-through way, but it has to be out of the package to do that.

I was really going to try your recipe, until I encountered brother Ray. I received a Forman grill for Christmas. I don't know who gave it to me. There was so much confusion, what with watching daughter Luan teaching our 2-year-old grandson how to tear open packages and wondering who was going to put my house back in shape, I lost name tags.

My one hamburger-cooking experience on the grill left the meat too done and dry. Now it has new life, which is bound to shorten my life, which was going to lengthen waiting an hour and a quarter to get my bacon and tomato sandwich.

Former Capac chief Combs now acting Clarkston chief

Current police chief Ormiston takes 4-5 week leave of absence, will return in early February

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The City of the Village of Clarkston's police department has a new face at the helm for a few weeks.

Clarkston police officer Ernest Combs has been appointed as the acting police chief for the village. Police Chief Paul Ormiston, before he took a leave of absence, tapped Combs to head up the department in his absence.

According to City Manager Art Pappas, Ormiston requested the leave, beginning Monday, Jan. 7, and should return to the helm approximately the first week of February.

Combs has prior administrative experience as the police chief in Capac for approximately a year, before returning to the Clarkston area in September 2001. He has worked for the Clarkston police department since that time.

According to Combs, his administrative experience prompted Ormiston to leave him in charge of the department during Ormiston's leave.

"Since I have supervisory experience, he decided he'd leave me in charge as active chief until his return," he said.

Prior to taking the job in Capac, Combs worked for the Clarkston police department from 1998-2000. He started out with the Ferndale Police Department and worked there for 26 years, the last 12 as sergeant.

He said a changing political climate in Capac prompted his resignation and return to the Clarkston area.

"There was a change in the political makeup of the council," Combs said. "The village president left office, and I left with him. There's a big difference between there and here."

Combs said he would remain with the Clarkston police department once Ormiston returns from his leave.

More than 200 cyclists attend Polar Rhino Ride bicycle race

The Flying Rhino Cycling Club presented its 13th annual Polar Rhino Ride on Jan. 1, 2002 (New Year's Day) at noon.

More than 200 cyclists rode from the Independence Township Library on Clarkston Road through the city of Clarkston, towards either an eight or 17-mile route on snow covered, frozen dirt roads in northwest Oakland County.

Riders in attendance were from Independence Township as well as other communities in southeast Michigan. Temperatures during the ride ranged from 24-27 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Clarkston City Police and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department provided traffic control as the riders passed through the Clarkston Road/Main Street/Miller Road intersection.

A donation for each rider in attendance will be presented to the Independence Township Library. This is the seventh Polar Rhino Ride where the Independence Township Library is a participant and in receipt of a donation per each rider.

The major sponsor of the Polar Rhino Ride is Kinetic Systems Bicycle Shop of downtown Clarkston. An additional supporting sponsor includes Morgan's Service, Inc., also of Clarkston.

The Flying Rhino Cycling Club offers two other fund raising rides each year: the spring Back 40 Challenge tour held in May and the autumn Back 40 Challenge tour held in early October. The Clarkston area SCAMP program has been a recipient of a portion of each rider's entry fee for the Back 40 Challenge events.

And they're off — Doug James of Clarkston (front center) leads the Polar Rhino riders up the Holcomb Road hill at I-75.

Municipal Bonds Offer an Array of Benefits

If you're looking for an investment with multiple benefits, and you happen to be civic-minded, you might want to consider municipal bonds. They've got a lot to offer.

Municipal bonds, or "munis," are issued in two main categories: general obligation bonds and revenue bonds. General obligation bonds finance the ongoing activities of state and local governments, while revenue bonds pay for specific projects, such as airports, hospitals and other civic institutions.

Thus, when you invest in a muni, you're supporting a valuable project or service in your own state or community. And beyond that, you get some key advantages, including the following:

- Tax savings - If you're in one of the upper tax brackets, you may be able to achieve significant tax savings by owning munis. By owning any municipal bond, your interest payments will be free from federal taxes, although in some cases they may be subject to the alternative minimum tax. If the municipality that issues the bond is located in your state, your interest payments also may be exempt from state and local taxes. So, if you're concerned about the amount of taxes you're paying on your investments, munis could pay off for you. In fact, the tax advantage of municipal bonds may be so great that you'd have to earn a considerably higher interest rate on another type of bond - such as a corporate bond - just to get the same after-tax return.
- Diversification - If your portfolio is heavily weighted toward equities, munis can bring you a valuable element of diversification. Municipal bonds are impervious to many of the economic factors that cause volatility in the price of stocks. So, municipal bond prices generally do not move together with stock prices.
- Stability - Municipal bonds are among the most secure investments you can own. The default rate on munis - especially general obligation bonds - is typically quite low.

Virtually all municipal bonds offer the above benefits. But, beyond these similarities, variations do exist in the municipal bond market. Your choice of bonds depends, to a great extent, on your goals and investment personality. For example, longer-term munis - those bonds that mature in 10 years or more - will generally provide a higher rate than shorter-term bonds. Yet, prices of the longer-term offerings also may fluctuate more.

You may want to consider owning a variety of short-, intermediate- and long-term munis. This type of portfolio - known as a bond "ladder" - can help you in all types of interest-rate environments. When market rates are down, you'll have your long-term bonds locking in higher rates. But if market rates are up, you can use the proceeds of your short-term bonds to reinvest in issues with higher rates.

Finally, when you're shopping for municipal bonds, look for quality - those bonds that are rated at least "A" or higher by the major rating agencies.

A financial professional can help you determine if municipal bonds are right for your individual situation, and, if so, how you should go about investing in them. So, you may want to start exploring munis soon. You'll be helping your community - and yourself.

Resident completes Wolves picture in gymnasium

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

The Clarkston High School gymnasium looks more like the home of the Wolves and the school has Mike Cummings to thank for it. The Clarkston resident recently completed painting a pack of wolves on the gym wall.

"Mr. Fife (Clarkston High School athletic director) asked me if I would paint a pack of wolves on the wall," Cummings said. "He had a picture he wanted me to use so I basically just blew it up."

The project took Cummings an estimated 24 hours of work, which was spread over four days.

"I got in here at different times. Whenever I could get in and there was no commotion of a game I was here," Cummings said.

This is not the first artwork Cummings has done at the high school. The resident has also painted "Home of the Wolves" in the gym and on the press box.

While art is not Cummings' first love, that denotion goes to his job as a firefighter in Bloomfield Township, it is definitely one of his passions.

"My first love is being a fireman and that is where I get my paycheck but I really enjoy doing this," Cummings said as he viewed his work in the gym. "It is fun to do on the side."

Cummings has been an artist since his high school days when he attended Redford Bishop Borgess. Upon graduation he went looking for a job as a firefighter, but none was available at the time.

So instead, Cummings went to art school in Detroit until he found a job as a fireman.

"Even though I quit art school when I got my job in the fire department I still wanted to be creative and work on my art," Cummings said.

Art has led Cummings to some interesting places. The most unusual might have been the top of the Ambassador Bridge. He was working for a sign drawing company and their job was to trace a pattern for the letters on the bridge. Cummings went all the way to the top of the bridge to work on the project.

"I got some real cool pictures from up there. It was pretty exciting," Cummings said.

The Clarkston artist has also gotten a taste of professional sports by working with the Detroit Lions.

It started when he was hired to design and paint the walls of the weight room. After that job was complete, Cummings suggested the need for new designs at midfield and in the endzones since the current designs looked too old. He eventually helped change all the designs and also added the Pontiac Silverdome paint designs which still to this day appear on the field.

The firefighter also continues his art by creating pictures and drawings for company executives as well as doing pen/ink drawings.

"I do just about everything," Cummings said.

However, it is his latest work that has the community talking. Cummings said he has gotten a lot of feedback about his work at the high school and so has his children. Cummings and his wife Sue have four children in Clarkston schools including Casey, 12th grade, Griffin, 10th grade, Kyle, 8th grade and Amy who is in first grade.

"It really adds a lot of character. He did a great job," Fife said.

DEFAMED AND FORTUNE

Defamed persons may seek both actual damages (to recover from the harm they have suffered) and punitive damages to punish the person who made the remark (to discourage others from doing likewise). Defamation involves spoken or written words that falsely and negatively reflect on a living person's reputation. Slander is a spoken defamation, while libel is written defamation (which also includes radio and television broadcasts). To prove defamation, the defamed party has to be able to establish that what was said or written about him or her was false. A defamatory action may be brought if the comments are so reprehensible and false that they affect the defamed person's reputation in the community or cast aspersions on him or her.

Baker overcomes heat stroke and returns to school

tensive care unit, where she stayed for five weeks. She was also on a life support machine for four weeks, and was unconscious for eight days, from the time she fell into a coma until the following Friday.

"There wasn't much emotion for a few days," Baker recalled. "She was on IV's and antibiotics. After 4-6 days when she woke up, she started showing emotion. We were there from 8 a.m.-11 p.m. for 11 weeks."

Kayla said she was shuttled between the intensive care and rehabilitation units for several weeks, then stayed in the rehabilitation unit for five weeks before being discharged Oct. 30. After that, the family stayed in Arizona for four days.

"Then we went home," she said.

After she returned home, Kayla began rehabilitating five days a week at the Barnum Center in Birmingham, a facility where she worked on physical, occupational and speech rehabilitation. She has spent approximately six weeks at the center.

In addition, she has been home schooled twice a week for two hours apiece. However, that will change once Kayla returns to school to be with her friends, something she has missed a great deal since being hospitalized.

"I didn't like it very much," Kayla said of being away from her friends. "It was kind of hard not seeing them. It was different when I got to see everybody (in the hospital) and vice versa. One of my friends flew out there, then the rest did. They would send letters to me and e-mail me back and forth. They were pretty good about that. Even some people that I wasn't that close with sent me e-mail."

In addition, Baker said his daughter received "tons of cards" from her family and friends. "The nurses called her room a shrine," he said.

Kayla said her future plans are "to go off to college and basically get on with my life." She said she hopes to get into the arts and become an actress.

She said her relationship with brother Matt, 21, which was tight before the heat stroke, is that much closer since she landed in the hospital. He started college at Western Michigan, then was going to attend Arizona State University before Kayla's incident. Since then, he has transferred to the University of Michigan.

"He wanted to say closer to me," Kayla said. She also said she has received a great deal of support from family, friends and teachers.

"It's been wonderful," she said. "All of my friends have been really good. All the people at school have been very supportive."

Brad Baker said a number of people in Clarkston and the surrounding communities have helped out Kayla and the family. He said seven of Kayla's friends put together a fundraiser during the Clarkston-Lake Orion football game last year to help raise money for her family, along with the help of teachers Mr. Sherrill and Mr. Butzine.

In addition, he said the Clarkston and Lake

Orion student councils, the Clarkston football team, and the staff and faculty at CHS were all instrumental in helping to raise money for Kayla's treatment.

He said he is amazed at what his daughter has been through and how she has handled herself.

"We're so proud of her," he said. "I can't believe what she's gone through, and how she's gone through it. She's a miracle. The community here and the staff at the hospital were top-notch. You don't think about that stuff until tragedy hits."

He also said he would like to go back to the hospital in Arizona to show his appreciation for the staff's care in dealing with Kayla.

"We want to go back there," he said. "I think that would be a nice way of thanking them. She's come so far, it's unbelievable... There were people there who said, 'You don't know me, but I helped Kayla.' She beat the odds."

Sefa failed to appear in court

A bench warrant was issued for Larry Sefa, former owner of Boardwalk Real Estate Inc. and Clarkston Cinema, after he failed to appear for a preliminary exam Jan. 9 before Judge Wendy Potts of the Oakland County Circuit Court.

Sefa is charged with embezzling $3,600 from a Pontiac resident who gave the money as security deposits on two houses.

FRA salutes Clarkston native

The Fleet Reserve Association recently honored the Marine Corps' 2001 Recruiting Non-commissioned Officers in Charge of the Year with a reception for the honorees at Quantico, Virginia.

GySgt. Ronald S. Olsen, a Clarkston native who is the NCOIC of Marine Recruiting Station Lansing, Mich., was named the Corps' overall 2001 Recruiting NCOIC of the Year.

"I think I received this honor because I taught my troops to never give up," Olsen said. "They're all motivated and determined to win as Marine recruiters. They know that losing is not an option. My recruiters make it happen because they believe in the Marine Corps."

Since 1998, Olsen has been stationed at the Recruiting Substation in Grand Rapids where that station was named Recruiting Substation of the Year for the past two

commended Olsen and several other awardees' commitment to excellence and praised their accomplishments, saying, "The Corps has an outstanding recruiting record, owed in large part to the NCOs who lead, supervise and mentor the young men and women on recruiting duty. On behalf of the National President of the Fleet Reserve Association, it gives us a great deal of pride to take part in recognizing these outstanding Marines."

In addition, Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Humble, Commanding General, Marine Corps Recruiting Command, presented each Marine with a Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal and commended their duties, saying, "There is nothing more demanding than the job of recruiting quality young men and women for our Corps. These young men being honored are leaders, they are warriors and they are the key to our success. They have to be the best of the best in order to be Marine recruiters."

Olsen is a 1985 Clarkston High School graduate. He is married to Lisa, CHS class of 1988. They have a 10-year-old son Kameron and a five-year-old daughter named Reagan. The family lives in Kentwood, Mich.

The federally chartered FRA is the oldest and largest military association representing the concerns of enlisted Sea Service personnel. FRA works to safeguard and enhance military pay and benefits by representing the concerns of its 145,000 members before Congress and appropriate federal agencies.

tensive care unit, where she stayed for five weeks. She was also on a life support machine for four weeks, and was unconscious for eight days, from the time she fell into a coma until the following Friday.

"There wasn't much emotion for a few days," Baker recalled. "She was on IV's and antibiotics. After 4-6 days when she woke up, she started showing emotion. We were there from 8 a.m.-11 p.m. for 11 weeks."

Kayla said she was shuttled between the intensive care and rehabilitation units for several weeks, then stayed in the rehabilitation unit for five weeks before being discharged Oct. 30. After that, the family stayed in Arizona for four days.

"Then we went home," she said.

After she returned home, Kayla began rehabilitating five days a week at the Barnum Center in Birmingham, a facility where she worked on physical, occupational and speech rehabilitation. She has spent approximately six weeks at the center.

In addition, she has been home schooled twice a week for two hours apiece. However, that will change once Kayla returns to school to be with her friends, something she has missed a great deal since being hospitalized.

"I didn't like it very much," Kayla said of being away from her friends. "It was kind of hard not seeing them. It was different when I got to see everybody (in the hospital) and vice versa. One of my friends flew out there, then the rest did. They would send letters to me and e-mail me back and forth. They were pretty good about that. Even some people that I wasn't that close with sent me e-mail."

In addition, Baker said his daughter received "tons of cards" from her family and friends. "The nurses called her room a shrine," he said.

Kayla said her future plans are "to go off to college, and basically get on with my life." She said she hopes to get into the arts and become an actress.

She said her relationship with brother Matt, 21, which was tight before the heat stroke, is that much closer since she landed in the hospital. He started college at Western Michigan, then was going to attend Arizona State University before Kayla's incident. Since then, he has transferred to the University of Michigan.

"He wanted to say closer to me," Kayla said.

She also said she has received a great deal of support from family, friends and teachers.

"It's been wonderful," she said. "All of my friends have been really good. All the people at school have been very supportive."

Brad Baker said a number of people in Clarkston and the surrounding communities have helped out Kayla and the family. He said seven of Kayla's friends put together a fundraiser during the Clarkston-Lake Orion football game last year to help raise money for her family, along with the help of teachers Mr. Sherrill and Mr. Butzine.

In addition, he said the Clarkston and Lake

Orion student councils, the Clarkston football team, and the staff and faculty at CHS were all instrumental in helping to raise money for Kayla's treatment.

He said he is amazed at what his daughter has been through and how she has handled herself.

"We're so proud of her," he said. "I can't believe what she's gone through, and how she's gone through it. She's a miracle. The community here and the staff at the hospital were top-notch. You don't think about that stuff until tragedy hits."

He also said he would like to go back to the hospital in Arizona to show his appreciation for the staff's care in dealing with Kayla.

"We want to go back there," he said. "I think that would be a nice way of thanking them. She's come so far, it's unbelievable... There were people there who said, 'You don't know me, but I helped Kayla.' She beat the odds."

FRA salutes Clarkston native

The Fleet Reserve Association recently honored the Marine Corps' 2001 Recruiting Non-commissioned Officers in Charge of the Year with a reception for the honorees at Quantico, Virginia.

GySgt. Ronald S. Olsen, a Clarkston native who is the NCOIC of Marine Recruiting Station Lansing, Mich., was named the Corps' overall 2001 Recruiting NCOIC of the Year.

"I think I received this honor because I taught my troops to never give up," Olsen said. "They're all motivated and determined to win as Marine recruiters. They know that losing is not an option. My recruiters make it happen because they believe in the Marine Corps."

Since 1998, Olsen has been stationed at the Recruiting Substation in Grand Rapids where that station was named Recruiting Substation of the Year for the past two

commended Olsen and several other awardees' commitment to excellence

Ronald Olsen and praised their accomplishments, saying, "The Corps has an outstanding recruiting record, owed in large part to the NCOs who lead, supervise and mentor the young men and women on recruiting duty. On behalf of the National President of the Fleet Reserve Association, it gives us a great deal of pride to take part in recognizing these outstanding Marines."

In addition, Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Humble, Commanding General, Marine Corps Recruiting Command, presented each Marine with a Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal and commended their duties, saying, "There is nothing more demanding than the job of recruiting quality young men and women for our Corps. These young men being honored are leaders, they are warriors and they are the key to our success. They have to be the best of the best in order to be Marine recruiters."

Olsen is a 1985 Clarkston High School graduate. He is married to Lisa, CHS class of 1988. They have a 10-year-old son Kameron and a five-year-old daughter named Reagan. The family lives in Kentwood, Mich.

The federally chartered FRA is the oldest and largest military association representing the concerns of enlisted Sea Service personnel. FRA works to safeguard and enhance military pay and benefits by representing the concerns of its 145,000 members before Congress and appropriate federal agencies.

Lieutenant reaches 30-year mark

BY JENNIFER NEMER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Thirty years of work can bring a lot of changes in a career--and Independence Township substation commander, Lt. Dale LaBair, who recently celebrated his 30th year with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, can tell you that.

The lieutenant recalls the days when he started out as a deputy in downtown Pontiac.

"We had three shifts--days, afternoons and midnights," he said. "One of those shifts was smaller than this substation (staff of 25), and we carried most of the county. The northern end of the county was patrolled with only two cars. There's been a lot of changes."

Incidentally, LaBair, 52, celebrates his birthday Jan. 5, only two days after his work anniversary. "My first day on the road was my 22nd birthday."

Aside from road patrol, over his career LaBair worked in the detective bureau in special investigations, spent time in technical services, was a crew leader and did a stint as administrative sergeant for Oakland County jail.

"I've been in almost all the divisions of this department at one time or another."

He first came to the Independence substation years back as a sergeant, left, and then returned nearly five years ago.

Of his 30-year anniversary, LaBair said, "While this is nice for me, it's nothing overly significant. It's been a good job, fun, different; and I'll be at it for a little while longer."

Still going strong -- Lieutenant Dale LaBair just celebrated his 30th year in the O.C. Sheriff's Department. Photo by Jennifer Nemer.

Board appoints Kirco to manage Civic Center

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Springfield Township will have a management team in place to oversee operations of its new civic center when it opens in February.

The township board, by a 6-0 vote, appointed Kirco, a Troy-based management company, to manage the center. Treasurer Lois Stiles was absent from the meeting.

The agreement will pay Kirco $2,500 per month for a year. The board also said they will review their agreement with Kirco after a year.

Kirco will be responsible for the following civic center systems: HVAC, electrical services, plumbing, fire protection, communications, snow plowing, salting and snow removal from walkways, building structures, lawn and tree fertilization and maintenance, security and housekeeping.

"They will be responsible for all operations and maintenance," said

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

In another civic center related development, the board also chose Stevens Worldwide Van Lines to move township administrators from the current township hall to the new civic center, at a cost of $5,800.

Wolves also knock off Rochester in duel of college-bound centers

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It wasn't the most aesthetically pleasing game for coach Dan Fife, but the Clarkston basketball team got the job done against Ferndale Jan. 11.

Clarkston received double-digit scoring efforts from three players as they held off the Eagles, 62-50, in Oakland Activities Association Division I action Jan. 11 at Clarkston.

The win improves the Wolves' record to 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the league. Dave Ritzema led the Wolves with 17 points, while Eric Kieras added 15 and Mike Blicher 11.

The game was marked by several turnovers on both ends, which was not lost on Clarkston coach Dan Fife. However, he also said this year's team found a way to win despite the turnovers, which was not the case last year.

"Our decision making has to be much better," Fife said. "You just have to learn from your mistakes and go on. Last year, we lost all those games. Each time they made a basket, we countered."

The two teams started out trying to get a feel for one another, and the Eagles Please see Boys' Basketball on page 5B

Fifth-ranked icers remain undefeated in league

Five different Wolves score as team cruises to 6-1 victory over Waterford Mott

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a tough loss earlier in the week, the Clarkston hockey team bounced back with a decisive win over Waterford Mott Jan. 12.

Five different players scored goals for the Wolves in their 6-1 win over the Corsairs. Fifth-ranked Clarkston improved its record to 12-3-1 overall and 6-0 in Oakland Activities Association Division I, good for first in the league.

The Wolves struck at 5:04 of the first period against Mott, as junior forward Jacob Gibson scored on assists from senior forward Adam Postal and senior forward Nick Turner. Gibson scored again at 1:34 of the second period on an assist from Postal.

Clarkston added two more goals in the second period. Junior defenseman Jim Lattanzi scored at 5:55 of the period, on assists from Postal and Turner, and senior Alan Marchio tallied a goal at 14:39 on assists from sophomore forward Adam Peters and junior forward Eric Hall.

The Wolves would round out the scoring in the third period with two more goals. Senior forward Eric Plante notched a goal at 1:13 of the period, on assists from junior forward Myles Purdy and Turner. The Wolves capped the scoring at 6:55 of the third on a goal from Peters, assisted by Marchio.

Senior goaltender Jordan Conley stopped 11 of 12 Waterford Mott shots, while the Wolves fired 54 shots at the Waterford Mott net.

On Jan. 9, the Wolves suffered a loss against the top-ranked team in the state, Port Huron Northern, 7-1. The Huskies struck early and often, notching three goals in the first period and two each in the second and third.

Clarkston coach Bryan Krygier said the win against Mott was just what the doctor ordered after the loss to Port Huron Northern.

"It's a good league win for us," he said. "It puts us 6-0 in the league, with games coming up against Royal Oak and Birmingham. It puts us in a good position in the league."

The Wolves dropped two spots in the state rankings last week, from third to fifth. Nonetheless, Krygier said the team is keeping its eye on the big picture.

"I'm more concerned with how we do in the league," he said.

The Wolves resume action Friday, Jan. 18, as they travel to Royal Oak for an OAA I league showdown. The face-off is at 6:15 p.m., instead of 8 p.m. as originally scheduled.

Grapplers place close second at Adrian tourney

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Injuries hampered the Clarkston wrestling team in their efforts to win the Adrian Tournament Jan. 12.

The Wolves made it all the way to the tournament finals before suffering a narrow defeat at the hands of Hudson, 36-33.

Earlier in the tourney, the Wolves had defeated Plymouth Salem, Charlotte, Temperance-Bedford (ranked second in the state) and Monroe to make the finals.

The Wolves competed without two wrestlers who were out with injuries, Elliot May (who placed third in the county meet and second at the Goodrich Invitational) and Brian Webb.

"I think if we had either one in the lineup, we could have won in the final match," said Clarkston coach Mike DeGain.

Nonetheless, he was pleased with the team's showing in the tourney. "There was some good competition, and it was good for us to finish second," he said.

Two Clarkston wrestlers, Clint DeGain at 160 and Joe Wood at heavyweight, were undefeated in the tournament. However, Mike DeGain said another of the team's wrestlers earned a key win.

"The hero of the meet was probably Kyle Hester," DeGain said. "Against Temperance-Bedford, Kyle had to pin his guy for us to win. He pinned him with 30 second left. That was the last match of the dual."

Clarkston earned a victory in Oakland Activities Association Division I competition Jan. 9, defeated Rochester 57-18. The win improved the Wolves' dual Athlete of the week: Allison Spinweber

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Senior Allison Spinweber is off to an auspicious start for the Clarkston girls' ski team this season.

In the team's first meet of the season Jan. 8-9 against Country Day and Waterford United, Spinweber was the leading skier among the girls in both the slalom, with a time of 51.08, and the giant slalom, with a time of 34.48.

Spinweber, who has been on the team during all four years of high school, learned to ski when she was three. In addition to the Clarkston ski team, she is also a member of the Grace Thunderbolts, and teaches skiing at the Pine Knob Ski Resort, mainly for beginning skiers ages 4-8.

She said Clarkston coach Bruce Rosengren has been very supportive and willing to give individual instruction.

"He gets you one on one, and goes through improvements and techniques," she said. "He does well one on one from coach to athlete."

Spinweber said she hopes the team can make a return trip to states despite the number of new faces on the team. "I hope for the team to become more experienced," she said. "A lot of them are new varsity starters. I'd like to make it again to states and beat our top rivals."

In addition to skiing, Spinweber also is a member of the girls' track and cross-country teams, and enjoys singing. Regarding college, she is currently de-

She is the daughter of David and Carol Spinweber of Clarkston, and has two sisters: Elly, 21, a former intern at The Clarkston News who is a senior at Penn State; and Caitlin, 12.

Ski teams earn two victories to start year

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Both the Clarkston boys' and girls' ski teams entered this season with high hopes, and both started out on the right foot Jan. 8-9.

The girls' team earned wins against Country Day, 24-48, and Waterford United, 22-50, in their opening meet of the season at Pine Knob Ski Club.

Allison Spinweber led the team in the slalom with a time of 51:08, followed by Pam Wylie with 54.63, Maureen Weiland with 55.44, and Jackie Bland with 62.10.

Spinweber also set the pace in the giant slalom event, finishing with a time of 34.48. Weiland was second with a time of 34.59, followed by Jamie Collier with 35.39 and Jackie Bland with 35.67.

Likewise, the boys' team also triumphed against their two foes, defeating Country Day 20-60 and Waterford United 30-44.

Brandon Rosengren led the team in the slalom, finishing with a time of 44.98. Following Rosengren were John McNew with a time of 46.51, Carl Schulte at 48.74, and Ryan Parrott at 49.06.

In the giant slalom, Rosengren finished with a time of 33.12 to lead the Wolves. Parrott finished with a time of 33.22, while McNew finished at 33.39 and Schulte at 33.65.

Clarkston coach Bruce Rosengren said he was pleased with the team's first match of the year.

"We did pretty well," he said. "We had some opening day jitters. For five of the 12 racers, it was their first race. A number of them came through very strong for us. We had some pleasant surprises."

Rosengren said he thinks the new faces will get acclimated quickly and contribute for the Wolves. "I think they settled in, and I think they are ready for the season," he said.

The Wolves resume action when they host Bloomfield Hills Andover and Rochester Adams Jan. 22-23 at Pine Knob Ski Resort.

Volleyball

Corey Sadowski added 10 digs for the Wolves, while Edgar added eight digs and led the team with nine kills. McLeod and Parkin each blocked two shots for Clarkston.

Port Huron Northern had Clarkston's number that day, as they won their second match with the Wolves, 6-15, 5-15.

Gaines was 24-for-24 in setting, while Tyler and Tripi lead the Wolves in digs with eight and six, respectively.

The Wolves came back in their next match to defeat West Bloomfield, 15-10, 15-2.

Edgar was 14-of-16 in setting for Clarkston and eight-for-eight in serving. Tyler and Tripi also were a perfect eight-for-eight in the serving department, and Tyler led the team with nine digs.

Clarkston closed out the day's action with a loss to Birmingham Marian, 6-15, 9-15.

Gaines was 18-of-20 in setting for the Wolves, while Tyler and Tripi led the team with five digs apiece. Stephanie Reitano and Jenna Kast added four digs each.

The Wolves return to action Thursday, Jan. 17 when they travel to Lake Orion for an OAA showdown with the Dragons.

Boys' basketball were able to gain a 9-6 lead by the time Clarkston called timeout with 3:19 left in the first quarter.

The Wolves fought back to gain the lead with 1:15 left in the first quarter, as Matt Mahrle drained a three-pointer to put the Wolves up front, 13-12. Ferndale quickly regained the advantage, 16-13, but Clarkston's Justin Whetstone answered with another three-pointer to tie the game at 16 as the first quarter expired.

Clarkston would come out quickly in the second, as they scored five points in the first 1:03 of the period to take a 21-16 lead, forcing the Eagles to call timeout after Blicher's three-pointer.

However, the Eagles would not go away. Led by center Cliff Brown, they prevented the Wolves from getting too far ahead. Brown scored four consecutive points to put the Eagles within three, 29-26, with two minutes left in the first half.

Clarkston would eventually come back to take a 34-28 lead into halftime. The two teams battled to a virtual standstill in the third quarter, with the Wolves outscoring the Eagles, 14-13, to take a 48-41 lead at the end of the third.

The Wolves seized command of the game for good in the fourth quarter, scoring six points in approximately 2-1/2 minutes. After Kieras scored two of his 15 points on an assist from Blicher, the Wolves were up 54-41 with 5:20 remaining, and never looked back.

Clarkston also earned a win earlier in the week in a matchup of teams featuring two centers who will be playing Division I basketball next season.

On Jan. 8, the Wolves answered the challenge presented by the host Rochester Falcons and standout center Paul Davis, winning 58-50.

Ritzema, who has verbally committed to Oakland University, proved he was more than equal to the task of going up against the Michigan State-bound Davis, scoring 18 points to lead the Wolves to the win. Mahrle added 11 for the Wolves.

Fife said in past meetings against Rochester, Davis has been good for about 20 points per game each time out, and the Jan. 8 game was no exception, with Davis scoring 22 points.

"He's a very good player," Fife said. "I didn't expect anything less. Dave Ritzema played extremely well. We got a tremendous lift off the bench with Sean Eley and Adam Kretz. They played very well."

Fife said coming off the team's first loss of the season Jan. 4 against Southfield, he wasn't sure what to expect against Rochester, but Clarkston was equal to the challenge.

"I didn't know how our kids would respond," he said.

The Wolves had their hands full Jan. 15 as they travel to Pontiac Northern to take on the top-ranked Huskies and Lester Abram, who has signed to play for the University of Michigan next season.

Clarkston returns home Friday, Jan. 18 to take on Southfield Lathrup at 7 p.m.
