Galloway enters State

Senate race

BY KYLE GARGARO Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston's David Galloway is looking once again to serve his community. This time the current Oakland County Commissioner is seeking election to the new 12th District Senate seat.

Experience does not seem to be a problem with Galloway. The lifelong resident of Oakland County brings a political history as a township trustee and member of the state House of Representatives as well as his current position as an Oakland County Commissioner.

However, Galloway is not an individual you would typecast as a "career politician." Upon graduating from Eastern Michigan University with a teaching degree, the 51-year old worked as a police officer for the city of Pontiac. Galloway worked a variety of positions at the police department including undercover, special units and the youth program.

The Clarkston resident has also run many private. businesses during the last 30 years, all of which were based in Oakland County. These ventures include a dry cleaning and laundry business along with experience as a real estate broker.

"I think what I bring is a wide-range of experience. Real life experience in truly working for a living all my life. I come from a very grass roots background and a good solid family background. I have, of course, been a business owner for many years, so I always understood what it is like to sign a front of a paycheck as well as the back of one," Galloway said. Galloway has also made a name for himself in the community by being a part of such organizations as the Lions Club and Optimist Club.

to mind when they think of the area, and chances are the school's basketball program will be at or near the top of the list.

Fife said he particularly learned a lot studying Indiana's Bob Knight, Purdue's Gene Keady and Michigan State's Jud Heathcote.

Nonetheless, he said there is no substitute for first-hand experience in coaching and making decisions on your own. Fife said he draws upon a number of experiences, as a player and a parent, as

A 1967 graduate of CHS, Fife went on to earn several accolades after his high school career was done.

He went on to play basketball at the University of Michigan, and was the team's captain for the 1970-71 season. After that, he spent five seasons in professional baseball. He was originally drafted by the Tigers and later traded to the Minnesota Twins, where he spent two seasons with the parent club before injuries ended his career.

Afterwards, he returned to Michigan as an assistant coach for three seasons under coach Johnny Orr. His first son, Dugan, was already born, and he and wife Jan had their second son, Jeremy, while he was coaching at U of M.

As his family began to take shape, Fife said he felt it was time to return to his hometown and get settled there.

"I decided I wanted to make sure I could be a good dad," he said. "I needed to get into something where I could be home. You raise children the way you were raised. My mom and dad made a lot of sacrifices for me. Probably the most important thing in my life has been my family.".

When a position coaching ninth grade at what was then known as Sashabaw Junior High (now Sashabaw Middle School) came up, Fife took that position and coached them for a year until the varsity boys' basketball coaching position opened up at the high school.

Fife said his time at Michigan, both as a player The star will be more than the Clarkston's coach.

"I don't think there's a player that can say he's been in a situation I haven't been in," he said. "I don't think there's a parent who would have an issue I haven't been involved in."

One of the issues Fife has dealt with has been as the coach of his three sons: Dugan (now a stockbroker and financial planner in Ann Arbor), Jeremy (a sales representative for an Internet training company) and Dane (a senior on Indiana University's basketball team).

He said it was difficult at first to separate his role as coach from his role as parent when coaching his sons, but added his wife was instrumental in helping him leave team-related issues at the gym.

Fife said his wife has played a key role in his success as a coach, and said the type of person she is has helped him during his coaching career.

"With Dugan being the oldest and the first, it was probably most difficult," he said. "I couldn't trade that for anything. He survived, and today Dugan probably feels good about what happened. It was easier when we got to Jeremy and Dane."

Nonetheless, he said coaching his sons was "a great experience."

"It was easier to get my points across to the rest of the team because I was very demanding of my sons," Fife said. "The other players knew what the expectations were."

He said the relationships between himself and

CHS class reunion planned for August

The Clarkston High School Class of 1982 reunion will be Saturday, Aug. 31 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Clarkston.

Any questions, volunteers or complaints can be directed to Jeanne (Herron) Waddell at 922-0973. Legislature announces launch of web site Legislative Council Administrator John Strand and the Legislative Internet Technology team recently announced the launch of an enhanced version of the Michigan Legislature's Web site.

Michigan legislative session information has been available to the public on the World Wide Web since Sept. 17, 1997; however, the improvements made to this application will make access to legislative information faster and searches easier to navigate.

"With over a million hits per month last year, use of this service by Michigan's citizens has been very positive," Strand said. "The latest improvements to our Web site will only enhance the public's ability to stay in touch with Lansing."

The primary purpose of the Michigan Legislature's public Web site is to improve the participation of Michigan citizens in state government. The web site improves constituents' access to their elected officials and to the most current information about legislation being discussed in Lansing. Providing Michigan residents with the highest quality access to current legislative data in a cross linked, indexed and searchable database, the site integrates Michigan's compiled laws with legislative session information in a seamless and intuitive manner.

Independence Oaks County Park need winter ski enthusiasts to volunteer for the Oakland County Parks Nordic Ski Patrol. Volunteers patrol Independence Oaks near Clarkston on more than 10 miles of trails.

"This winter activity gets you outdoors and meeting a lot of interesting people," Jim Meloche, a 22-year patrol veteran said.

There are two levels of participation and the minimum age to apply is 16. Associate patrollers are put to work as "eyes and ears" and look for skiers in distress. With further training, they can become National Ski Patrollers.

Ski equipment will be provided for those without it and training sessions are offered to learn first aid and search and rescue skills.

In exchange for 40 hours of service, volunteers will receive a 2002 Oakland County Parks annual vehicle permit good for unlimited entry to six parks, Fourth of July fireworks and free entry to "Oakland County Parks Day" at the Oakland County 4-H Fair.

Independence Oaks County Park is located on Sashabaw Road, 2.5 miles north of I-75.

PANA A big heart for a little girl at N. Sashabaw El.

BY JENNIFER NEMER

Clarkston News Staff Writer Jessica Arndt may only be in the fifth-grade at North Sashabaw Elementary, but her demeanor exceeds well beyond her years.

And just stepping through the school's front doors, you'll see one reason why.

These days the main hallway is lined with bags and boxes of apparel donated through a school-wide clothing drive--a result of the youngster's charitable efforts. Not long ago, Jessica approached principal Debra Latozas about holding the drive. "She was like, 'wow, what a good idea!"

Jessica continued, "I wanted to do a clothing drive because I know a lot of people who have a lot of extra clothes that are just filling up space. This way kids who don't have a lot, can get new clothes, clean and in good shape."

So far, donations have exceeded her expectations reaching more than 1,500 articles of clothing from shirts to coats to socks as well as sheets and blankets. The drive, which began Jan. 7, is scheduled to run through Jan. 31.

"If it keeps going the way it's going," Jessica said, "we might do it for another month or two."

No matter the drive's duration, all the items donated will be given to Lighthouse Emergency Services, The Salvation Army and Purple Heart. Some of the seasonal clothing has already been delivered to Clarkston Lighthouse, and Purple Heart picked up their share on Tuesday. (Jessica even called the organization and arranged the pickup herself.)

But, Jessica doesn't like to take all the credit. With her humble attitude, she loves to tell of her friends who helped out including Melanie Balkany, Megan Collard, Kirby Segan and Megan Best who lent their hands, sorting clothing by size, bagging it and carrying the bags to vehicles delivering the goods to Lighthouse.

Of helping others, Jessica said, "it's exciting. We're taking something out of our own hearts, taking our time, and giving it to others in need."

Jessica's dad, Gary, is very proud of his daughter. "I thought it was a neat idea. For my daughter, it's not out of the ordinary. She likes to help."

In fact, Jessica has also opened her heart to paralyzed children at the school -- "They are in wheelchairs. I help take them out at recess. It puts smiles on their faces."--as well as senior citizens and her family.

"When I was younger, I visited nursing homes and sent them cookies. That was nice. And I also do chores around the house. I don't really like doing it, but I do it."

Overall, Sherri Summers, secretary at the school, said, "We are very proud of Jessica here at North Sashabaw Elementary."

Friday, Jan. 11, a cute and cuddly calico guinea pig was dropped off at the doorstep of North Sashabaw Elementary, during the middle of the day, by a unanimous someone.

"One of our parents walking outside, found it and brought it in," said secretary Sherri Summers.

The little guy came in a large cage with a note attached to it: "Please help me. I need a good home with lots of love and care. My name is Motts (like the apple sauce.)"

"Unfortunately," Summers said, "he was not taken care of very well." Because of the neglect, he has sores and an infection on his back.

Dr. Covert of Independence Animal Hospital has been donating his veterinary services, and Kitty Phillips of the same facility, has been trans-porting the critter back and forth from school to hospital. She also paid for his medication, said Summers. Pet Supplies Plus has donated $33 in food and snacks as well.

It seems many are stepping up for Summers said. "Kids have been bringing in food."

"We also have a therapist working with him through this problem time in his life," she joked.

"But, seriously, he's receiving a lot of love and attention from us. We'll also use him as an incentive in the classroom."

And now that the guinea pig has found his way as the school's pet, he needs a name.

"We were gonna call it Amelia Bedelia, but found out later it was a boy," Summers said.

Disregarding the "Motts," North Sashabaw is having a little fun with a school-wide "Name that Pig" contest this week.

"We were just going to give him away," Summers admitted, "but he brought everyone together. Especially for those kids who can't have pets at home."

Summers requested help with the care of the yet unnamed pig, specifically with food. If you would like to help out with a donation, call 623-4100.

Former state representative seeks spot on com

Approximately four years after leaving the state House, former State Rep. Tom Middleton is seeking a return to public office.

Middleton, a Clarkston Republican, will be running against Democrat Charles Inman of Clarkston in a special general election Feb. 5 to fill the vacant 4th District spot on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

The seat was vacated when Clarkston resident Frank Millard resigned from the commission to accept a position as deputy clerk for Oakland County.

Middleton earned the right to compete for the position in the general election by winning a special primary election Jan. 8, outdistancing Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary.

Since leaving office in 1998 after eight years due to term limits, Middleton returned to Michigan State University to complete his bachelor's degree in agriculture and natural science communications.

He attended MSU after graduating from Lake Orion High School and attending Oakland Community College, but bought a farm in Ortonville his senior year and left school. He was a dairy farmer in Brandon Township for 20 years as well as a past president of Michigan Professional Dairy Farmers.

In addition to completing his degree, he also went to work for the southeast region of Michigan State University Extension, which enabled him to keep in touch with some of his former colleagues in Lansing. Nonetheless, Middleton longed for a return to public service, which is why he is making a run for the county commission.

"When I was a representative, I kept open communication," he said. "I felt I could represent them (his constituents) well. You knew where they stood on the issues."

He said a key issue facing the county is the budget, in particular the payroll, which comprises the majority of the budget. Middleton said there is a way to address budget concerns without having to lay off employees.

"You're going to get into the payroll," he said. "The way to do that is attrition rather than layoffs."

Middleton also took issue with Millard's resigning from the commission to accept a position with the county. He said elected officials, if they resigned from their posts before their term expires, should not accept a government position for the duration of their term.

As an example, he cited a law passed while he was in the state House that prohibited elected state officials, if they resigned their office, from accepting a position with the state for the remainder of the term to which they were elected.

"I think we ought to do the same in the county," Middleton said. "When people elect you to a two-year term, you should fulfill that responsibility."

He said, if elected, he would be able to use his contacts from his days in the state House to benefit the county. Among the officials Middleton served with in the House were Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick (a former state representative) and Rep. Marc Shulman, R-West Bloomfield, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which Middleton was a member of four of his eight years in the House.

"I still have a network of people I know in Lansing," he said.

Middleton has also served on the Oxford Board of Education, and has been involved with the Clarkston Drug Awareness Program, the Clarkston Education Foundation and the Oakland County Conservation District Board. He has also served as an Oakland County 4-H leader,

He and his wife, Kathy, have three grown children, Amy, Jason and Ted, as well as two grandchildren. He is a member of St. Anne's Catholic Church in Ortonville.

Wed., January 23, 2002 The Clarkston (MI) News 5 2004 (IM) contribution off filed to provide the School-Board gets flag in

BY JENNIFER NEMER Clarkston News Staff Writer Those stopping by the Clarkston Community Schools Administration Building on Clarkston Road might soon notice a large new lawn decoration.

Waving outside, atop a pole, is the addition of The Flag of Learning and Liberty, given to School Board members "for their dedication and commitment to promoting public education in the Clarkston area."

The State of Michigan has declared January School Board Recognition Month, and Clarkston received their honor at the Jan. 14 Board of Education meeting.

Anita Banach, Clarkston Community Schools public relations coordinator, presented the flag and told its story.

"On July 4, 1985, the first flag symbolizing the link between education and a strong, free nation was raised over the capitals of all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The Flag of Learning and Liberty was inspired by recent national attention on the importance of education and significant reform movements undertaken by many states. The symbol will serve as a constant reminder to focus the public's attention upon the critical role education plays in our democratic society."

The nation's education flag features: • A horizontal red stripe across its top depicting the strength and vitality of a democratic way of live.

• A blue strip running horizontally along the bottom representing the stability and opportunity made possible by a strong system of education.

• A center field of white conveying the virtue and aspiration of a nation of free people.

The central focus of the flag is the emblem in the middle of the field which features:

•Two gold flames at the top--one for learning and one for liberty. These flames are supported by a base of four elements arranged in alternating blue and red pairs. •The blue elements represent the two key foundations of strong education--high expectations and effective teaching.

•The red elements symbolize the cornerstone institutions of a democratic society--responsible families and involved communities. Besides the flag, Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts and fellow board members received an executive declaration from the office of Governor John Engler, lapel pins, goodie bags and praises from school community representatives including students from Clarkston's alternative middle

The ability to tan while minimizing the risk of sunburn is one of the main reasons people come to indoor tanning facilities. Although many people know that too much ultraviolet light expo-sure results in sunburn, most don't really understand what it is. So what exactly is a sunburn?

Sunburn - medically referred to as erythema occurs when too much energy is absorbed by the skin. That bombardment of light causes tiny blood vessels in your skin to swell or even burst. That's why a burn appears red on the surface of your skin.

Today, we know that sunburn is an unnecessary injury on top of a tan. Unfortunately, previous generations of sunlovers thought that sunburn was simply an inconvenient precursor to developing a tan. They thought their burns were necessary "jump starts" to their tan, and that sunburn would eventually fade into a tan.

Today we know better.

Newspapers have lasting power

Financial woes. Layoffs. Business closings.

Since Sept. 11, these have consistently made headlines.

Just last week, I read about Jacobson's closing, car industry troubles and at least three stories on the looming bankruptcy of Kmart and the loss of their upper management (including Mark Schwartz, who leaves his job as president after 16 months with a $5 million severance package. Don't get me started on that!)

Seriously, it's scary to see the terrorist attacks on our country have caused such a blow to our economy.

It gets me wondering what's in store for newspapers? Indeed, several writers have lost their jobs due to cutbacks, but even prior to our nation's recent activities, the future of the newspaper has popped up in more than one conversation I've had. With the way technology is ever-progressing, many foresee the demise of the newspaper in 15 to 20 years, and the takeover of reading news on the World Wide Web.

I'm not sure if I could really see that happening, but I don't doubt that it could.

In my opinion, it would be a sad thing to lose for a slew of reasons:

Newspapers are always there to greet you in the morning.

There's nothing like reading a newspaper at the kitchen table in the early hours of the day with a hot cup of coffee, or cappuccino for my preference.

I can't see sitting at a computer would have the same effect.

Even the walk to the paper box, I enjoy on a summer morning when the air is just right.

Women's Commission encourages Internet plan

As a member of the Michigan Women's Commission, I encourage everyone to support the Governor's MI HiSpeed Internet Plan. This plan to speed up the deployment of broadband-high speed connections to the Internet-will help jump start our economy, encourage investment and create jobs. Women and their families all across Michigan will benefit from new opportunities - for work, for learning and for information.

The Michigan Women's Commission supports the MI HiSpeed Internet Plan specifically because highspeed access to the Internet means high-speed access to the future for girls and women. I'm talking about access to education resources, access to public services and access to a communications tool that will improve the quality of life for all Michigan citizens.

For example, for those who wish to work at home, broadband is a lifeline - a vital link to the workplace. This plan will make the choice to work at home a realistic option for more people. In addition, the availability of broadband is critical to Michigan's economic development strategy. For small and medium sized firms and for home-based businesses - broadband services provide much needed connections to customers and suppliers.

Over the next decade, experts estimate the MI HiSpeed Internet Plan will help create an additional 500,000 jobs throughout Michigan and at the same time help tear down the digital divide. By investing in Michigan's communications infrastructure, we will be better prepared to retain the businesses we already have and attract new industries and new jobs.

The availability of broadband will also benefit hospitals and doctors who rely on being able to transmit large amounts of data quickly. Similarly, state and local police agencies will be able to share information more quickly. Educational institutions, many of whom are actively supporting the plan, will be able to incorporate benefits of broadband and its capacity into their research and curriculum. When these types of institutions succeed, we all benefit.

That's why the Michigan Women's Commission encourages each and every citizen to visit www.michigan.gov to learn more about the MI HiSpeed Internet Plan and to e-mail letters of support to your state senators and representatives.

Just by peaking out The Clarkston News office windows I see prime examples of this. Day after day, many of the same individuals will grab their favorite paper from its box and head to the Olde Village Cafe or Village Bake Shop for coffee, breakfast and news.

Newspapers are easily accessible. Just have one delivered to your home or pick one up while your out and about on the town.

Newspapers are simple--no need to boot up or log on.

Even in a day where most people thrive on technology, there will always be those unwilling to turn computer savvy.

Newspapers are cheap.

You can't beat a 35 cent paper--a definite advantage over Web news reading and monthly Internet fees that go hand in hand.

Newspapers are mobile.

Yeah, I know there are laptops and Palm Pilots with access to the Web, but refer back to the last point.

There's just something classic about a newspaper.

It feels good to get your fingers a little inked up every now and then.

And, if papers were to go to the wayside, what will people line their pet's cages with?

Hopefully, even when we're accustomed to living amidst holographs and hovercrafts in a Star Wars world, we'll still have our newspaper to read.

And unlike a newspaper, one thing that will never see a demise: "For this God is our God for ever," Proverbs 48:14. eating pink colored cake on crystal dishes while giggling with a group of girls in party dresses. But I threatened to run away from home before anyone even suggested a "sweet sixteen" birthday party, so I was safe.

Now looking back during my last 24 hours as a 16-year-old girl, I don't think I was very good at it. I mean I didn't accomplish any of the things you're suppose to when you're sixteen. No idolized movie star posted all over my room, no "dear diary," no "love of my life." Not that I wanted all of those things anyway. However, in every birthday card I got last year the expectation was set in a bad rhyming poem and overly eloquent cursive writing.

Aside from legally getting into "R" rated movies now, there isn't much novelty about turning 17. Sure you're technically old enough to subscribe to "Seventeen Magazine," but you started reading that in sixth grade and have long since switched to "Cosmo" or "Jane."

Feeling like I had reached a completely goal less age I called Mary Wisniewski, who aside from being the other student correspondent to the Clarkston News, was also born on Jan. 21 1985, just a few minutes after me. Mary and I decided all of the nostalgia clinging onto sixteen is sugar coated, dated and sexist. So I have created a list of things to be accomplished for better than last year's.

1. Master a martial art-or at least know one move, it is almost the same thing.

2. pick a political activist and put a poster of him/her in your room with paper hearts around it.

3. Memorize the dance moves from Space Channel 5's Ulala (Sega Dreamcast) and vow to do them at prom. If you're out of the Ulala loop, any choreographed dance will do.

4. Be on a diet that involves eating whatever you want, whenever you want.

5. Take your geek qualities (come on, everyone has at least one) and brag about them.

6. Say hello to people in the halls at school who you don't know.(expect some strange looks in return)

7. Stop judging everyone and yourself so harshly, it's no fun.

8. Buy exotic foods with the directions in a foreign language and try to make them anyway.(don't get caught on fire)

9. Sleep a lot more and feel free to fall asleep in public places, it's amusing for everyone.

10. Don't look so hard to find a girlfriend/boyfriend. You're only 17 and you don't need someone else to make you whole, right? That's what I thought.

There we go. I somehow doubt that society will go for this and 16 will still be the "best age." You know what though, I did accomplish one thing this past year. I laughed at standards I was suppose to meet and was quite happy about falling, short of a "sweet sixteen" year.

own beeswax, don't take any wooden nickels, keep your nose to the grindstone and remember, the end does not justify the means.

What am I, master cliche-r, talking about? Let's see if this next sentence will help: It's not that the soccer mom turned bad, it's that somebody who was bad turned into a soccer mom.

Still haven't got a clue? I'm talking about tried, found guilty and convicted of trying-to-blow-up-cops-and-theircars-1970s-terrorist-turned-everyleftist's-favorite-mom, Sara Jane Olson. Olson, aka Kathleen Soliah of the Symbionese Liberation Army, is in prison waiting to be tried for murder and robbery from a 1975 bank holdup where a 42-year-old mother of four was blasted/killed by a shotgun toting SLA'er.

don't rush Like many Americans, I've been watching this saga unfold for the past year. I've got to say I have been intrigued by the portrayals of this woman. We've been told she's a devoted wife and mom, a strong feminist, soup kitchen volunteer, actor, gourmet cook, bright, energetic -- an all around great person.

And it grinds me.

She's guilty with sin. She, upon her own, joined the SLA -- whose slogan was, "Death to the fascist insect that preys upon the life of the people." She joined this group of white, college educated, righteously indignant creeps, who prior to her joining, had already claimed responsibility for murdering the Oakland (California) Schools Superintendent, Marcus Foster.

And, it was she who ran away from the law twentysome-odd years ago and though a fugitive, started a new life and brought in new life to this world. We watched this weekend as news show after news show showed her crying children, husband, friends and family. It wasn't "the man" who brought these innocent people pain, it was Olson/ Soliah, herself.

She was torn away from her family, like she and members of the SLA tore others way from theirs. She and the SLA were against the upper-class, white folk, yet that is what she became.

I get the feeling media types were/are trying to raise sympathy for her. And, if that doesn't work, they'll make her a martyr. After all, she was young and the 1970s were turbulent times and besides, her cause was just ...

It's a topsy-turvy world we live in, kid. So mind your she and the SLA were fighting for the poor, oppressed masses. Surely, we should have pity for her and grant her leniency.

Poppycock!

Had she joined a neo-Nazi group or been a member of the Ku Klux Klan or even al-Qaida, there would be no public outcry for mercy. Plain and simple: She was a member of a self-proclaimed terrorist group ready to rid the world of capitalism, and even if she only helped them a little bit, she's still guilty and she still lived a life of hypocrisy.

If there is any lesson her three, now-motherless, daughters can gain it is: The end does not justify the means.

Contrast her and the SLA's struggle with that of black America. The great coincidence maker in the sky put Olson Soliah's conviction two days before Martin Luther King Day. As I drove to work on Monday, I had the honor to again hear his speech, delivered in Washington DC, on August 28, 1963. It's become known as the, "I have a dream" speech.

As I listened to the recorded words, now nearly 40 years old, I was filled with inspiration and hope.

And though King said, "... There will be neither rest nor tranquility in America until the Negro is granted his citizenship rights. The whirlwinds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation until the bright day of justice emerges . . ."

He continued with, "... But there is something I must say to my people who stand on the warm threshold which leads into the palace of justice. In the process of gaining our rightful place we must not be guilty of wrongful deeds. Let us not seek to satisfy our thirst for freedom by drinking from the cup of bitterness and hatred . . . We must forever conduct our struggle on the high plane of dignity and disci pline ...

"... I say to you today my friends, that in spite of the difficulties and frustrations of the moment, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream

History or herstory ... which story do you think will be remembered kindly? I guess that depends on what you believe.

By the way, on Monday, About.com had a poll with nearly 5,000 votes tallied. The question: Should Sara Jane Olson be prosecuted for a crime she committed 25 years ago?

"Yes" votes were at 3,055 to the 1,909 "No" votes. Comments for the unapologetic, mean-spirited, dastardly and damnable Don can be e-mailed to:

like the way some contractor/laborers use unlikely word combinations to promote their work. I made a note of this one on a plumber's truck in Mt. Pleasant: "Drain Surgeon."

Of course there are some words put together for promotional reasons that are misleading and sometimes wrong. For Christmas it's likely 90 percent of parents bought toys with "Some assembly re-Jottings quired" on the box. Comics can do a half hour routine over that understatement.

The warning "Water Added" tends to make my wallet unreachable. Makers of ham seem to brag about it the way those words are displayed, through they are likely put there by Food and Drug Administration edicts.

Those of us who think buying Jim Sherman bottled water is not just buying what others bathe in, but a hugely expensive product, can really cringe over the cost per pound of water added to some hams, etc.

But, the phrase that got me started on this subject is "seating is limited." There are major promotions this time of year to get every taxpayer to go to a seminar to learn how to not pay taxes you owe.

Page-size ads in newspapers, direct mail and tube shouters encourage us to listen to how they "legally" beat our money-hungry government with tax defergies, etc. And, "SEATING IS LIMITED!"

dontrushmedon@aol.com

Well, if it were possible to hold one of these seminars in the Grand Canyon, seating would still be limited.

Chances are that whoever is warning us about the limitation of seating space would find room for you at a noon meeting if you showed up at 11:59.

While I'm up here on this "making you aware" pedestal, let's review the print and tube ads for weight loss "proven" success methods.

As the announcer gets rolling a "before" picture is shown. There stands a person standing with their legs far apart and their arms spread wide in a bathing suit. Think about that, folks.

Whether thick or thin, have you ever posed, or seen anyone pose, for a picture in that position? No one not under the influence would stand there, and knowingly get their picture taken.

Then comes the "successful" dieter. They are all smiles, pulling out their now-too-big pants and NOT facing the camera, arms and legs spread-eagle. They may be sunbathers or otherwise showing off, but not in the "before" stance.

Ah, well, next week I'm going to write about how I planted a rose bush five years ago just so I could stop and smell it while in the yard.

It produced one rose in its second year and none since. Had I had more roses to stop and smell maybe I'd have a better attitude about ad phrases. Nuts, there goes next week's column idea.

Local teacher writes educational book

BY KYLE GARGARO Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston's Linda Moczerad remembers what an overwhelming task it was the first year she taught a high school yearbook class. So the experienced teacher is sharing her knowledge in her new book "Yearbook, A Guide for New Advisors."

"It is a teaching tool for first-year advisors. It helps with the organization process," Moczerad said.

Moczerad is currently teaching at Oakland Schools Technical Campus Northeast. She has also taught at Brandon High School in Ortonville and Lakeland High School in White Lake.

"My first year teaching was tough because the organization wasn't there. I promised myself that after I got it down I would write something to help others who are in the same position I was in." Moczerad said.

Moczerad has been looking to publish this book for a while. It has been approximately five years since she first wrote the book. She has been trying to find a publisher and had no success until seeing an advertisement for Vantage Press Inc. She wrote to them and sent a copy of the book, and the company decided to publish it.

"Finding a publisher to publish a book like this is very hard. Most companies don't publish this type of book," Moczerad said. "I am just happy that I found them."

The teacher is hoping this book will help smooth the transition for new yearbook teachers. The book takes the teacher through the organization process from the first day until the book is delivered to the customer. It illustrates how to structure the process. The book is aimed to be to yearbook production as the assembly line concept is to the production of goods.

Included in the book are chapters on such items as the meeting of deadlines, selecting student editors, establishing a budget, selling advertising space, as well as design and production tips.

Moczerad has 16 years of experience as an educator in the Michigan secondary schools. She is an alumna of Wayne State University and holds a B.F.A. and M.F.A.

For more information or to order the book you can contact Vantage Press, Inc. at (212) 736-1767.

Student financial aid site goes live

Do you - or someone you know - need help paying for college? If your answer is "Yes," look no further than michigan.gov's new student financial aid Web site.

Students and parents can find a host of information about different colleges and universities, tuition costs and various financial aid programs that can help you and your family meet today's college related expenses. You can even file your Free Application for Federal Student Aid by logging onto www.michigan.gov/mistudentaid.

The new Web site is just the latest enhancement to the award winning michigan.gov portal, furthering Michigan's ability to ensure a single face of government to its citizens. The student financial aid site also includes many important features designed to increase access to state services, including a common look-andfeel, search engine, quick links and information about Michigan's privacy and security policies.

So, log on to www.michigan.gov/ mistudentaid for everything you need to know about paying or college.

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer Clarkston's varsity pom pon team proved they belonged with the best in the metro Detroit area.

The Wolves finished third out of 33 teams competing in the large varsity division of The Palace of Auburn Hills Pom Pon Classic, held Saturday, Jan. 12.

Coach Jennifer Schultz said the achievement was particularly notable since they performed a relatively new routine at the event. "It was a tough competition," she said. "It was a new dance. We've been practicing it since Dec. 1."

The team competed in a single round of competition before a group of judges scored the event. Clarkston fielded a 14-member team for the competition.

Laura Barnett, one of the team's captains (along with Gretchen Bretz), was pleased with their showing at the event.

"We worked really hard for it and it was very well deserved," she said. "We're very proud of ourselves."

However, coach Bryan Krygier still believes the team needs to play better on a consistent basis, particularly on the offensive end.

The Wolves improved their record to 13-2-1 overall and 7-0 in OAA I, defeating host Royal Oak, 3-2. After a scoreless first period, the Wolves scored two goals in the second period and one in the third to pull out the win.

Junior forward Eric Hall put the Wolves on the scoreboard in the second period, with assists from senior defenseman Mike Abrams and sophomore forward Adam Peters. The Wolves added their second goal of

Wolves upset defending state champion Pontiac Northern, defeat Lathrup in OAA Laction

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer Clarkston's boys basketball team has served noticed it can play with the best in the state. The Wolves pulled off two wins last week, including a road win over defending state champion Pontiac Northern, to improve their record to 8-1 overall and 6-1 in OAA I.

On Jan. 18, the Wolves soundly defeated Southfield-Lathrup, 63-46, behind 19 points from Dave Ritzema and 10 points from Eric Kieras.

Clarkston took command of the game from the onset, as the combination of Ritzema and Kieras proved to be too much to handle for Lathrup. Kieras scored eight of his 10 in the first period, including two threepoint shots, and Ritzema connected for six points. The Wolves led after the end of the first period, 18-7.

The Wolves were never seriously threatened in the game, as they outscored Lathrup 12-8 in the second to take a 30-15 lead into the half. Clarkston continued their dominance in the third period, outscoring Lathrup 16-9 in the third to take a 46-24 lead at the end of the period.

During the remainder of the game, Clarkston coach Dan Fife emptied his bench and give his reserves some game experience. Sean Eley, Adam Kretz, Mark Thornberry, Justin Whetstone, Matt Orris, Ryan Kaltz, Dustin McMillan, Ryan Talbott and Chris Wint all saw action for the Wolves in the fourth quarter.

Fife said he was pleased the Wolves continued to maintain their focus after the big win over Pontiac Northern. He also said the team played good transition defense, not allowing many layups from the opposing team.

Athlete of the Week — Brandon Rosengren

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer From the time he was three years old, Brandon Rosengren has made skiing a part of his life. That dedication has paid off for the Clarkston boys' ski team, who are coming off a trip to the state finals last year. Rosengren, a junior, has helped the Wolves pick up where they left off last season. He led the Wolves in both the slalom and giant slalom events as they defeated Country Day and Waterford in their opening meet of the season Jan. 8-9. In addition to being on the Clarkston ski team, Rosengren also races for Thunderbolt Training Centers, a group that races primarily on the weekends. He said he has become more confident since his first year with the Wolves. "I've just learned to become more aggressive, and look for speed on the course." He also said his father and coach, Bruce Rosengren, has helped him gain a better understanding of the technical aspects of the game. Rosengren said he hopes the team can not only duplicate its state finals appearance from last season, but make it to among the top three finishers in the state. "I think that is reasonable," he said.

The Clarkston boys' swim team earned a league victory and set a school record in the process.

Clarkston scored a key division victory Jan. 15 when they defeated Lake Orion, 109-77. The Wolves are now 5-2 overall and 1-1 in Oakland Activities Association Division II.

The meet was originally scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 13, but was moved up two days because of final exams at CHS.

At that meet, Nick Riegel set a Clarkston school record in the 200 yard individual medley, finishing with a time of 2:19.46.

The team was originally scheduled to compete against Birmingham Seaholm Jan. 10, but Clarkston coach Kenwyn Chock said the pool at the CHS gym shut down, so the teams traveled to Cranbrook High School for a triangle meet with Cranbrook.

The Wolves wound up on the short end of that meet, finishing third. Cranbrook finished with 152 points, followed by Seaholm with 120 and Clarkston with 52.

Clarkston's best finish of the meet came in the 100 yard freestyle, as Daniel Reed finished second with a time of 1:12.26, behind Seaholm's Danny Priestly, who finished with a time of 1:07.80.

The Wolves added two third-place finishes in the meet. The 200 yard medley relay team of Dan Cole, Jamie Lynch, Chris Kane and Parker Lynch finished with a time of 1:58,77, and the 200 yard freestyle relay tam of Reed, Louis Seaman, Derek Lahousse and Rob Johnson finished with a time of 1:43.70. The team returns to action Jan. 22 when they host OAA Lrival Berkley at 6:30 p.m.

When the spring sports season hits, Rosengren will take off the skis and winter clothes and dust off cerned about going into the game after such an emotional win. Lathrup's going through some growing pains. Ritzema was really too much for them to handle. He got us going with some easy baskets. Kieras made some threes in the early going...Kretz has played good minutes all year long. He's steady and a hard worker, always in the top seven (in the playing rotation).

Rosengren is the son of Bruce and Terry Rosengren of Clarkston, and has a younger brother, Alex, 14, a freshman at Clarkston High School who is also a member of the boys' ski team.

Another key contributor was senior Mike Loveless, who Fife said has done the little things it takes to win.

"Loveless played extremely well," Fife said. "Nothing he does ever shows up in the stats. He guards the other team's best player. You tend to overlook some of the things he does."

Clarkston scored what Fife called 1 "an emotional win" Jan. 15, traveling to Pontiac Northern and upsetting the second-ranked Huskies, 54-51. The Wolves had not won at Northern since 1998, but senior guard Mike Blicher led the way with 15 points and six assists, including several clutch free throws near the end, to seal the game for the Wolves.

Fife said the team actually won that game more so in June, during the offseason, rather than on Jan. 15. He said the team met during that time to redefine their commitment to the Clarkston program, and did the little things like. working in the offseason and being in the gym when no one else is there.

"We've got a long way to go, but it tells the kids what you can accomplish with hard work," he said. "Our kids carned its is a set work from the set set of the set of Junior Megan Gaines was 40of-42 in setting for the Wolves, while senior Bonnie Edgar was 34-of-38. Gaines was 13-of-13 in serving, while Edgar was 11-of-12. Senior Rockie Tripi was 12-of-12 in serving.

Edgar led the team with 11 kills, while junior Jenni McLeod added six kills and junior Stephanie Reitano five. McLeod also had three blocks. Junior Rachel Tyler led the Wolves with 14 digs, while Tripi added nine, McLeod eight and junior Jenna Kast seven.

his sons have grown since they have established their own lives. "One of the things I enjoy is being a friend to my sons," he said. "I feel I have a great relationship with them."

He said his experiences as a parent have been helpful in dealing with two Clarkston coaches who are married but don't have children, varsity football coach Kurt Richardson and varsity volleyball and girls' track coach Gordie Richardson.

"I can give them insight when those issues come up," Fife said.

At a recent clinic presented by first-year Michigan basketball coach Tommy Amaker, Fife was asked to speak along with first-year Pistons coach Rick Carlisle. At that camp, Fife spoke to several high school coaches.

He said that as coaches progress through their careers, they realize their biggest accomplishments are touching the lives of the players they coach.

"The longer you coach, you realize the greatest reward is not winning," he said. "It's the relationships you have with your players, the lessons, the experience of it all. Hopefully, during that time, the reward is that you played a part in the success of the kids."

As an example, Fife cited a player on his 1990 team, Ben O'Rourke.

"He was cut every grade until his senior year," he said. "He was in the gym all the time. It happened that year I could keep an extra kid, I talked it over with his family. He graduated and went to Notre Dame on an athletic scholarship. I hear from him continuously. He was just here on break. We talk and e-mail each other."

He said the fact his players come back after they graduate has been rewarding. "When you have kids come back, it kind of makes you realize what this is all about," he said.

He said not everything during his coaching career has gone smoothly, as is the case with anyone who has been at one place for a significant length of time. Nonetheless, he said even the bumps in the road have been learning experiences.

"I honestly believe that even the negatives, you can learn from," he said.

He said one of the main challenges he, along with other coaches, face today is asking students to put in the time necessary to be successful.

"I've realized so much that you can't coach effort." he said. "It's so hard to coach commitment. That's one of the toughest things coaches face today, effort and commitment from kids. There seems to be so many distractions, and kids and families have a tough time ure at Clarkston has been the formation of the McGrath Leagues, named for his high school coach, Bud McGrath, who died in Fife's first year as the varsity coach.

The program is aimed at elementary and middleschool aged students, and runs during 11 weeks in the winter. Fife said that has been instrumental in the continued success of the Clarkston program, in part because the varsity players are involved in the leagues as coaches, referees, and scorekeepers, giving the youngsters role models they can look up to.

"That is probably the backbone of our program," he said. "I enjoy Saturdays as much as I do Friday night games. I enjoy third graders the first time they touch a basketball. You can almost pick a kid who will play varsity when they are in the third grade."

Fife said a number of his former players who have coached in the McGrath league went on to purse coaching careers themselves, such as Doug Colling (the current JV boys' basketball coach), Gary Kaul and Tim Wasilk. He also said he believes son Dane will end up as a coach, and possibly son Jeremy as well.

He said he is pleased with how this year's team has developed, and was equally proud of their academic accomplishments, with five players on the team scoring 26 or higher on the ACT.

Not too long ago, Fife added another title to his resume. In 1996, he assumed the reins as the school's athletic director from Paul Tungate, who retired that year

He said Tungate provided "great leadership" to him during the transition. "What a great person to work for," Fife said.

He said quite a few people in the community have helped him along the way in helping to build the school's athletic program, and praised the commitment of the program's coaches.

"Anytime you've been anywhere for the length of time I've been here, there has to be some pretty strong reasons," he said. "I've been fortunate to have great administrators and great principals. I think the other thing is so many on our staff have the same beliefs on philosophy. It's easier to coach when you have a support system. When you affirm what you're thinking, it makes it easy. We know we're going to make mistakes, but you're going to try and make as few as possible."

He said the majority of the school's coaches work in the Clarkston school system, and he said that tradition carries over in all aspects of their coaching. Fife said he believes he was meant to be in the position he is today.

"Right now, in my life, being the head coach and athletic director here is what seems God put me on earth here to do," he said. "Clarkston doesn't realize how lucky we are to have the people we have. Our coaches are down to details that most people don't even see. You don't realize it until you hear stories from other

Another person instrumental in the athletic program, according to Fife, is athletic secretary Linda Walker, who has been at her job for 15 years.

Reflections on Fife paint picture of coaching career

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the 20 years Dan Fife has been the boys' basketball coach at Clarkston High School, the program has become one of the most respected in the state of Michigan.

Several current and former Clarkston players, coaches and administrators offered their thoughts on Fife's contributions to the Clarkston program.

Paul Tungate, former Clarkston athletic director who retired in 1996 after 18 years at the helm: "He's raised the level of the program to where it is today, one of the best in the state. He brought discipline and respectability and a good work ethic for kids in what it took to be successful. My first year here, Dan was a senior in high school. He had a very strong work ethic. He brought the same background as a coach. Having seen him play in college and as an assistant at Michigan, we knew he had the X's and O's ability. My son (Jeff, head coach at Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee, who played under Fife in the late 1980's) is a college basketball coach because of his influence. He has the ability to bring out the best in any player."

Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent at Clarkston High School when Fife was hired as coach, and Fife's coach on the CHS junior varsity: He has been a role model, both as a coach and as that day is that showed us where had to do From that a parent. He's provided a winning program for Clarkston these last 20 years. He's provided respect in our community for his coaching ability and as a leader of young men and women. He's just a winner. He provides a good example to the young people in the community and adults. He's an extremely hard worker. He's given his life to the community. He's always available to speak to the community. His boys have gone on to national prominence, but his focus is as a leader in Clarkston. He's got to be one of the top five high school coaches in the state of Michigan. When he decides to retire, he will be very hard to replace."

Chris Wasilk, who played under Fife from 1989-91, and who later went on to play at Oakland University:

"One thing you can tell in high school sports is that if you are prepared, you could be guaranteed you had your best chance to win. That was always one thing. I learned about determination, that things don't come easy, that thy don't fall into your lap."

Tim Kaul, who coached the junior varsity under Fife for 17 years, beginning in 1982-83:

"We were fortunate that we inherited a good team. We were eliminated in the playoffs that year by Flint Central, who went on to win the state championship. What point on, he established a tradition of excellence in basketball. I think just the sustained good play of his teams would be his legacy. He started a Little League program (the McGrath Camps) after Bud McGrath, one of his coaches. The first year, there were about 30-35 kids. Now, there's 250-300 kids in the league. I think that's been one of the continuing factors to his success. The varsity players would coach those teams. These young kids would grow up and know the players. He had very consistent discipline through the years. I think that consistency was a key factor."

Doug Colling, junior varsity boys" basketball coach who played on Fife's first team as the CHS coach in 1982-83:

"The first year he came back after coaching at Michigan, he coached the team at Sashabaw Junior High for a year, then became the coach at the high school. He's probably the main reason why I considered going into teaching and coaching. He's been an excellent role model and mentor for myself. The most important thing to him in. terms of basketball is when his players come back. He's for his players and would do anything for them. He cares about you as a player and a person. He teaches fundamentals and life skills. He's very passionate about what he does."

OFFICIAL NOTICE TO ELECTORS & TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON OF INTENT TO ISSUE BONDS. SECURED BY THE TAXING POWER OF THE CITY AND RIGHT OF REFERENDUM THEREON

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the City Council of the City of the Village of Clarkston, County of Oakland, Michigan, intends to issue Special As-sessment Bonds of the City, in total principal amount of not to exceed Two Million. Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($2,200,000), for the purpose of defraying (a) part of the cost of water supply system improvements and (b) all of the cost of street and related drainage improvements in certain Spe-cial Assessment Districts in the City. The bonds may be issued in one or more series and each series of bonds shall mature serially in not to exceed twenty (20) annual installments with interest payable on the unpaid balance at a rate of not to exceed 6% per annum, or such higher rate as may be permitted by law.

SOURCE OF PAYMENT OF BONDS

THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ON THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT BONDS shall be payable primarily from collections of an equal amount of Special Assessments and the bonds shall also pledge the limited tax full faith and credit of the City of the Village of Clarkston.

IN THE CASE OF THE INSUFFICIENCY OF THE SPECIAL ASSESS-MENTS, THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ON SAID BONDS SHALL BE PAY-ABLE FROM THE GENERAL FUNDS OF THE CITY LAWFULLY AVAILABLE FOR SUCH PURPOSES, INCLUDING PROPERTY TAXES LEVIED WITHIN APPLICABLE STATUTORY, CHARTER AND CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITA-TIONS.

RIGHTS OF REFERENDUM

THE BONDS will be issued without a vote of the electors unless a PETITION requesting an election on the question of issuing the bonds, signed by not less than 10% of THE REGISTERED ELECTORS in the City, is filed with the City by depositing the same with the City Clerk WITHIN FORTY-FIVE (45) DAYS after publication of this notice. If such petition is filed, the bonds cannot be issued without an approving vote by a majority of electors voting on the question. THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the requirements of Section 5(g), Act 279, Public Acts of Michigan, 1909, as amended. Further information concerning the matters set out in this notice may be secured by the City Clerk's office.

At 221 B Baker St. you'll find ... 'Comfortable dining at a comfortable price'

BY JENNIFER NEMER Clarkston News Staff Writer

The quaint restaurant is frequented by "great patrons," according to it's owner, but unfortunately others in the community still "just don't know what to make of the place."

221 B Baker St. stands alone, tucked away in Springfield Township, among a majority of industrial businesses and residential complexes on Dixie Highway.

Nearby are some country pubs, which co-owner Fran Avey says confuses passersby into believing her establishment is the same, based on the similarity of the outside architecture.

Indeed it has a bar, but 221 B Baker St. offers much more.

"Some are brave enough to try it," Avey said. "And once they've tried it, they'll say, 'Oh, I should've stopped earlier!'"

The restaurant, which celebrates it's fourth birthday Jan. 22, thrives on bringing a little bit of English food, fiction and fancy to visitors with it's Sherlock Holmes theme. In fact, "221 B Baker St." is the fictional address where Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson roomed and where Mrs. Hudson was land lady, Avey explained.

"Dr. Watson loved to eat, but Mrs. Hudson couldn't slow Sherlock down long enough to eat properly," she said.

Here, guests will find themselves eating properly with menu items to reflect the theme such as "The Illustrious Client," an actual Sherlock Holmes story title, but in this case, a giant portabella mushroom appetizer.

"Our menu is on the finer end," Avey said. "We have a variety of meals in English tradition, but offer friendly fare for those

"Ed is also known for his desserts and makes a mean pecan pie, and Matthew's coconut cream pie is becoming very popular," said Avey, adding the family is getting ready to unveil a new menu.

When it comes to dining, amidst stained glass windows and dim lighting, it's been called cozy and romantic.

"It's a pleasant place to dine; a place where you can hear each other talk," said Avey. There are comfy wingback chairs, roses on the tables and sounds of jazz, Sinatra or classical music chiming through the main dining area that seats 50, and side room for 18. Array homes to soon how

We are not a Jack of all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserver what we will guar-antee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the high-est quality. We also do our own work products and workmanship of the high-est quality. We also do our own work, we do not Sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and work-manship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Total cus-tomer satisfaction is our only accept-able standard.
