Time out with the Lord--Many, like this man, came to ask for God's blessing on the country, government, schools, churches, families and more, May 2, the National Day of Prayer.

Clarkston unites for Day of Prayer

BY JENNIFER NEMER

"For where two or three come together in my name, there am I with them," the Bible says in Matthew 18:20.

On May 2, the Greater Clarkston/Independence Township came together in celebration of the National Day of Prayer.

The fifth annual breakfast was held at St. Daniel Catholic Church where people from various religions met, forgetting their differences, to ask for God's blessing.

Leading the audience in specified prayers were Clarkston District Court Magistrate Kelley Kostin for government; Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts for schools; Optimist President Craig Kahler for the community; Waterford's Grace Chapel Pastor Jim Wells for the churches; Clarkston High Schooler Caleb Borchers for youth and families; Deputy Gary McClure of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Springfield Township substation for the Police Department; and Independence Township Fire Department Engineer Ralph Przybylski for the Fire Department.

Guest Speaker Pastor Kent Clark of Grace Centers of Hope in Pontiac challenged those in attendance to make time for prayer in their lives.

"There's a great need in our country for God to speak, for God to reign and for God to come down," he said. "God does for us what we cannot do for ourselves. And once we can come to this realization, how better off we will be. It's God getting inside of men and women, that's where the change takes place."

The National Day of Prayer was established by a joint resolution of Congress in 1952 and signed into law by President Harry Truman.

Clarkston schools "raise the bar" in curriculum

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Community School's curriculum is getting a little makeover.

Geri Moore, director of curriculum, research and evaluation, updated School Board members at their April 29 meeting on reaching the board's curriculum goal for the 2002-03 school year. All subject areas have been, or are in the process of being aligned to meet state standards.

Strategies were developed by Moore and Trustee Kurt Shanks to help the board develop a common understanding of the curriculum process.

To achieve this goal, the following areas were discussed last week:

■The concepts, terminology, process and language of curriculum.

For example, content is defined as what students should learn while curriculum is the way content is organized and emphasized; it includes structure, organization, balance, assessment and presentation of the content in the classroom.

■The role and responsibilities of a Subject Area Coordinator.

The SAC's role is to develop a vision of what students should know and be able to do in a specific subject area from kindergarten through high school.

■The role and purpose of the Teaching and Learning Councils.

The TLC's role at each level is to facilitate the curricular and instructional vision of the district; to establish, review and recommend appropriate curriculum and instructional practices; and use a systematic approach to implement staff development, student assessment and program evaluation.

The TLC is broken down into an elementary council of 22 members, middle school council of 26 and high school council of 19, including parents, teachers, specialists, principals and more.

The TLC meets once a month for a half day.

■A snapshot overview of where the district is currently and where the district is headed in the eight content areas.

Currently, the district--whose mission "is to ensure learning while challenging all individuals to exceed their own expectations"--has developed a curriculum framework for which to meet the needs of their students headed by their

SMS students expand their vocabulary, sensitivity

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He's an honor roll student, on the track and football team, and has attended Clarkston schools nearly all his career.

Matt Dise, a Sashabaw Middle School seventh grader, is also hearing impaired.

From class to class, paraprofessional and interpreter Janet Gerula assists Matt.

"The teachers are cool, they understand and work with me," Matt said.

But communication between peers is a little more difficult.

Matt Dise

However, some of his classmates are putting forth an effort to learn his language, signing, and immersing themselves in what it is like living without the sense of hearing.

Gerula and teacher Greg Seaman decided to do an experimental project. Recently, Seaman's class of 11, a support hour made up of student paraprofessional helpers and students requiring assistance, stopped by the Sashabaw Road McDonald's for a bite to eat, April 26.

The catch, they couldn't order with their mouths. Only using their hands with the sign language they've been taught during classtime.

Gerula said prior to the field trip that students were excited, but getting nervous, wondering what others were going to think of them. Would they stare? Would they laugh?

Eighth grader Tera Zepeda said she "felt a little funny" ordering at the fast food restaurant, but said, "It's helping me understand how (hearing impaired) people feel, that it is really hard to communicate."

Seventh grader Steven Bryant agreed and added learning sign language is helping build a better friendship with Matt. He's happy he's learning the language and plans on continuing study even after Seaman's class.

Of his fellow classmates and their efforts, Matt said, "I think it's cool. I can communicate with the other kids. I really like Mr. Seaman's class. I've made a lot of friends in Mr. Seaman's class because I can communicate in sign language."

Uncharted territory—Sashabaw Middle Schoolers like Steven Bryant, here, attempt to order a meal at McDonald's using only sign language, with the help of interpreter Janet Gerula. Teacher Greg Seaman is in back. Students in his class have been learning sign language which has helped build relationships with peer Matt Dise, who is hearing impaired. Photos by Jennifer Nemer.

Graise inspires audience at Knights of Columbus dinner

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Randy Graise may have been a last-minute substitute speaker, but he still left a powerful message to a Clarkston audience May 2.

Graise, CEO of Randell Enterprises, a public speaking firm based in Southfield, spoke at the Pope John XXIII Council 5436 Knights of Columbus Religious Appreciation Dinner at the K of C hall on Maybee near Sashabaw.

Approximately 200 people were in attendance as several local priests and other religious individuals were honored at the dinner. The Pope John XXIII Council is comprised of members of St. Daniel Church in Clarkston, Our Lady of the Lakes Church in Waterford and St. Perpetuas in Pontiac.

Originally, Ron Bachman of Detroit, a motivational speaker who had his legs amputated when he was 44 years old, was slated to be the guest speaker, but he cancelled the day of the event.

Graise, who is confined to a wheelchair, was born in Vicksburg, Miss. in 1967 with two broken legs and a broken arm, and moved to Detroit when he was a year old. He said three years later, his father was shot and killed in Detroit. Graise estimated he has suffered 52-53 broken bones in his lifetime.

He recalled one day in school that he was told he would be "mainstreamed" with the rest of the school population. He said that was a valuable lesson because he learned the expectations for him would be no different than for any of the other kids.

After high school, Graise attended Wayne State University, then graduated from broadcasting school. He decided broadcasting wasn't the best career option for him, so he took a job with a telephone company.

Although others told him he had "made it" and was a success, Graise recalled a different feeling.

"I wasn't happy, although I had a good job," he said. "I was working 10-12 hours a day, six days a week. I had no time to enjoy life."

With that in mind, Graise quit his job with the telephone company and decided to go into business for himself. "It was truly a leap of faith," he said.

Today, in addition to running his speaking business, Graise takes the time to mentor youngsters as part of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program. He said he was proud that he helped an at-risk student become a high school graduate with honors.

Graise challenged the audience to use their talents to benefit others. He said young people need to learn at an early age that life is not all about making money, acquiring material things or the perception of power, but rather loving and serving others. He said it was appropriate he was speaking at an event celebrating people that put that theory into practice.

"You can't dwell on the negative parts of your life," he said. "We are celebrating the importance of loving from the inside. Think about what makes you a great person and what you want to do with your life, and how you can change the lives of young people."

Schools ready to combat tornado season

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There hasn't been any flying cows from an F5 like in the movie "Twister," but tornado season is here.

Nationally, the United States experiences an average of 1,000 tornadoes a year. Statistically, Michigan is not listed as a tornado state, but the state has its share of twister scares, and Clarkston Community Schools are ready for any such event.

The schools are required by law, as it says in Enrolled House Bill no. 5237, to conduct a minimum of two tornado drills from September to June for the purpose of preventing tornado-related hazards and injuries.

In the Clarkston district, drills, including fire drills, are to be logged on a form and returned to the building's appropriate superintendent.

According to Clarkston school policy 8420A regarding severe weather and tornadoes, each school is to monitor a weather-alert radio for severe conditions, and each principal is responsible for notifying staff and students as well as inform them how to maintain proper safety.

When a tornado watch is forecasted, the district is to continue normal activities but move recess and physical education activities indoors. School is not to be dismissed early and dismissal time will be at the regular time even if the watch is still in effect.

For a tornado warning, the school staff is to open all classroom windows and doors and proceed with students to pre-designated tornado shelter areas and remain there until further notice.

Disabled students who need assistance are to be assisted by the person designated to assist them for building evacuations.

No student is allowed out of the designated area unless his or her parent comes to the school and requests the student be released. And a student is to be released only to his or her parents.

Tornadoes–Michigan had 32 tornadoes touch down last year, including one at Davisburg Elementary, here.

Students are to line the interior hallways with their backs to the interior wall, knees drawn tightly to their chests, face positioned between their knees and their hands over their necks. Students in wheelchairs are to remain in their chairs with the back of the chair against the interior wall.

While this is happening, staff members are to be on alert for students who show signs of stress or panic. When necessary, they are to move the student to an area where they will not influence other students, and remain with them until the weather is clear.

The schools say areas to be avoided include spaces that are opposite doorways or openings into rooms that have windows in the exterior walls; areas with large roof spaces; interior locations that contain glass such as doors, windows, display cases and more; areas where doors swing; corridor intersections and any corridor that has potential to become a wind tunnel; and any wall which is nonload-bearing.

According to the National Weather Service, most tornadoes occur during June, July and August, in the late afternoon and evening hours. However, they can occur anytime of the day or night in almost any month during the year.

Michigan has an average of 18 tornadoes each year, with 32 occurring in the state last year, including one close to home which ravaged Davisburg Elementary and caused $1 million in property damage.

A search for the perfect gift

Mothers Day is fast approaching which is a perfect time to show all mothers how much they mean to our everyday life.

Taken for granted for most of the year, this is a time when they are fully appreciated.

The day also inevitably means gift shopping. Most years the solution to this quandary is a simple trip to Kohl's Department Store, but it is always difficult to purchase a gift for someone who has given you so much.

Gargaro's World

Kyle Gargaro

I want to get the perfect gift so I am asking myself what do you get a mother:

who sat through everyone of my youth basketball and baseball games despite not being a sports fan?

who did my four bags of laundry during every trip home from Central Michigan University?

who was there everyday to greet me after school and provide a tasty snack?

who would cook for a family of five despite the middle child (yours truly) complaining about items such as fried bologna, split-pea soup and scalloped ham and potatoes?

who put up with the immature behavior of her sons making fun of everything from her name to innocent comments made in conversation? Of course, this happened a few weeks ago.

who dealt with Sunday afternoons being monopolized by football?

who was unbelievably patient with a certain child's lack of academic motivation in middle school? Let's not sugar coat it, this spilled into high school.

who dealt nicely with the musical stylings of the Black Crowes, AC/DC and Rolling Stones shaking the foundation of her home from the rooms of her teenage boys?

who drove me to many practices, games and social gatherings?

who baked numerous snacks for birthdays, sports parties and school activities?

who saved all my newspaper clippings?

who taught me everything from how to tie a shoe to how to do long division?

who allowed me to skip Mothers Day festivities one year to go see the Detroit Pistons battle the Milwaukee Bucks in second round NBA playoff action?

who schedules the Thanksgiving Day feast by keeping in mind the Lions football game?

who always put her family first no matter what the circumstances?

who always pitched in with school activities even though it meant chaperoning an eighth grade dance much to the chagrin of her son?

The simple answer is no gift can sufficiently repay all my mother has given me throughout the years.

Although I don't know the perfect gift, this column might be a nice start. Either that or a sweater from Kohl's.

Conference a success due to many volunteers

Career Connections, a partnership between Clarkston Community School and the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, has once again sponsored an all day seminar for our team women.

This year's "DollarDiva" conference held on April 11 was a huge success. The event included 14 area business women who volunteered for the day to act as facilitators.

The "DollarDiva" conference began with a networking challenge and moved into personal finance, investing, saving, real life situations - or as we called it "Reality Bytes." It was a great day and I'm sure all the young women walked away with some tips on how to become their own "Dollar Diva."

Our special thanks to Clarkston Community School who supported the conference through grant funding. To Clarkston State Bank for breakfast and Corporate Insurance Management Inc. and Kelley Kostin for lunch. To the Clarkston Christian Association for the use of their facilities and to Kinetico by Village and Country Water for bottled water for the students.

Also, our sincere thanks to JoAnn Gibson our moderator for the event and our local business women, Dana Fortinberry, Shelagh Vander Veen, Connie Fleck, Dawn Horner, Heather Coats, Bridget Hughes, Julie Nemeth, Marlene Stone, Pam Macksey, Michelle Foley, Connie Lilley, Kelley Kostin and Suzanne Czar who volunteered their time to encourage and offer their experiences to our young teen women.

Comcast delivering subpar services for Clarkston residents

Those of you in Clarkston who have Comcast have probably experienced the same things I'm about to write about.

What's up with that!

Jeff Patrus

And since there is no other cable company in town, that means a lot of people have experienced these things, unless you subscribe to a satellite TV system such as Direct TV.

For the past week or so, my television has been coming in and out. At times, it's worked just fine; at other times, I'm getting sound, but no picture.

Believe me, this isn't the first time I've had problems with Comcast. At several other times, my cable has gone out of commission, leaving nothing but static on the television. I realize mistakes happen, but for $40 per month, you should expect quality service instead of the inconsistency I've been getting.

Naturally, these things have to happen during the important times of the year, such as the NFL playoffs, the NCAA college basketball tournament and the Stanley Cup playoffs. Why can't they happen during Ally McBeal reruns?

They keep talking about how they're going through a system upgrade and how they're going to add more channels, but so far, nothing's been done that I'm aware of.

When I head over to my parents' place in Clinton Township on the weekends, there are no such troubles. They subscribe to Americast, and they get several channels that we don't get here in Clarkston — ESPN2 and ESPN Classic, to name a few. Okay, I admit I'm a sports nut and pay attention to those type of channels, but there are probably several others there we don't get here.

Therein lies the problem. If Clarkston customers had a legitimate choice in cable services, maybe Comcast would get their act together and start offering more bang for their buck and better service. I've tried to hook up to Direct TV, but the landlord at my apartment told me that would not be feasible, so that leaves me with no other alternative.

At least the weather is nicer out now, so I can take advantage of it to get in some quality walking time. In the winter months, reading a good book, surfing the Internet, or going to the mall to walk are some other ways to combat the cable inconsistencies.

Seems like that's the challenge we face — whenever the conveniences we take for granted are suddenly taken away from us, we have to make lemonade out of lemons, so to speak.

Still, that doesn't excuse the subpar quality of cable service in this community. I'm not a technical whiz, so I don't know what's causing these problems, but it's a telltale sign when no one has anything good to say about the lone cable company in town.

'Female' responds to 'manly' column

(Editor's note: Don Rush did not write a column this week. While the following would not have been accepted as a Letter to the Editor — the writer was not brave enough to identify herself — Mr. Rush has adopted the role of "sensitive male" and asked that it be printed in his space this week. It is in response to his April 24 column, "What? Not manly enough for you?")

Men who think the way you do, and those who agree with all of the statements you've made, are a major problem in today's society. I'm tired of hearing men say things like, "We're going to look. It's just a guy thing. Deal with it."

don't rush me

No. It's a caveman thing. Grow up. And stop trying to use the evolutionary guys-have-a-dozen-wives thing. If you'd prefer to "ogle" at what's out there, you probably don't deserve the woman you're with.

Most men I know seem to think that they're not expendable.

YOU ARE.

It seems like men view women as available for a-dime-a-dozen — "So what if she doesn't like me going to Hooters; she can deal with it or leave."

Leave, I say. I'm tired of women putting up with caveman behavior, putting up with such things as The Man Show and Howard Stern, and acting as if they don't care that their partner would rather fill their eyes and minds with cheap thrills (unless we wait to talk to them during commercials). (The Man Show refers to women as "Juggies." All we are to men who watch that show are breasts and g-string bikinis — unless we're too fat.)

I'm also tired of media topics such as eating disorders and depression, especially in young girls. The media is a main cause of it. Television programs and commercials, and most magazines, are either aimed toward the male audience, or focus on telling the female audience how they should be to satisfy the male audience.

Don Rush, your statement, "If you think you're fat, you probably are," was hurtful, and inappropriate for this community newspaper. Almost every female believes she is fat, and until men shut up, grow up, get smarter, and have some class, women will be degraded and exploited, and basically treated as "expendable." I'm not expendable, and I'm tired of being made to feel as if I am.

Women matter. It's time men start to realize that. I don't care what the Duke would say to all this, and I hope you don't have a daughter. This type of thinking on Dear Old Dad's part wouldn't be good for her self-esteem.

Some more points, Don: we don't think of shopping as a sport, either. Most men I know send the women to shop for everything except tools. If it weren't for us, all those men would have to starve and go around naked and dirty.

And sometimes, men make us cry. Bringing a human being to tears through insensitive or intentionally hurtful actions is unacceptable. We cry.

Men raise their voices and stomp around (some do much worse than that, and I won't even start on what I think of those worthless creatures). We cry some more. And it's really nice to know that men find nothing of value in the things we have to say (WAIT UNTIL THE COMMERCIALS!).

Remembering the 'Good old days' always popular

Parents and grandparents take great delight in telling their heirs the hardships and the inconveniences and 'make-dos' they went through to survive their growing up days.

One doesn't have to listen very carefully to hear, "When I was your age, etc.," "Why, I remember when, etc.," or "Did I ever tell you about the time, etc."

In 1957 we published an anniversary issue of The Oxford Leader. On the front page was a "Do You Remember" article by a senior, local attorney.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Here are a few of his remembrances:

■ Women did the shopping while the men did the voting. Women wore bustles and hoops, their dresses dragged on the sidewalk when they walked. Women were not allowed in places that sold beer.

■ There was no rural or local mail delivery, no 4-H Clubs, Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts, only one telephone in Oxford, speed limit for automobiles was 25 miles per hour and a top buggy was a luxury, owned only by the well-to-do.

Earlier this year a "Do You Remember" appeared in the UP's Porcupine Press:

■ Eating hot bread fresh from the oven, then resting your feet on the oven door after the bread was done.

■ Chickens sitting on eggs in the basement, father shining shoes with Shinola, washtubs in the kitchen with wringers that caught many a finger and bringing the frozen clothes in from the line to dry in the kitchen.

■ Black felt Arctics with tin buckles, loving the cream that rose to the top in the glass bottles and home haircuts that were uneven for three weeks.

And, of course, there's the Internet (why is that word capitalized?) offerings:

■ In 1901 Marijuana, heroin and morphine were all available over the counter at the corner drug store. According to one pharmacist, "Heroin clears the complexion, gives buoyancy to the mind, regulates the stomach and the bowels and is, in fact, a perfect guardian of health."

Haven't we seen these same benefits extolled on the tube for a sundry of offerings?

The most oft-repeated, "When I Was Your Age" recall has to do with going to the one-room school. "When I was your age I had to walk 10 miles to school, uphill both ways in four feet of snow with no shoes." If we had only stopped after the word 'snow,' but, no, we have to embellish it with 'no shoes.'

Actually, this one I-room school I went to, Fremont, in Shiawassee County, was uphill, a mile-and-a-half away (I measured it years later), and I wore hand-me-down clothes, my sister's. (Now why did I have to add those last two words?)

We warmed our sandwiches and dried our mittens on the furnace in the corner of the room, raised one or two fingers, depending on, well, you know, and walked a mile and half to the three-holer through four feet of snow and got there too late.

No, actually, every student in the school faked having to go, except the teacher's pet, who also got to clean the chalk from the erasers.

15 YEARS AGO (1987)

■Real estate firms received some help toward their task of selling Clarkston schools to prospective home buyers last week. The school district put on a realtors' orientation program May 7 at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Center. The philosophy behind the meeting was to help realtors show clients that Clarkston is a good place to raise families.

■Voting against a planning commission recommendation, the Independence Township Board approved the first reading of a zoning change on Sashabaw Road. Owner Ben Benson said he planned to build a subdivision on the 121 acres if the zoning is changed from rural residential (3-acre minimum sites) to suburban farm residential (1.5-acre residential site).

■Among the CROP walkers on Sunday, May 17, a chicken may waddle. The Rev. Bill Schram says he'll wear his chicken outfit the entire 10 kilometers only if his church, Sashabaw United Presbyterian, raises more money than last year. The number to beat is $100, he said. Many of the congregation members would like to see a repeat of last year's performance, when he wore it in the rain, said Schram.

25 YEARS AGO (1977)

■In unexpected action May 4, the Springfield Township Board moved 4-1 to join the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), with Patricia Kramer dissenting. SEMCOG is a voluntary, regional organization of governments. All projects involving federal funding in a seven-county area are processed through SEMCOG.

■The school board May 9 approved $498,276 in non-instructional cutbacks to be implemented this fall in the event the request for a 4.79 mill increase in the operational budget should fall at the polls June 13. School officials said, however, part of the cutbacks —some $151,000 in transportation — will be implemented regardless of the millage outcome.

■Independence Township plans a host of activities to celebrate Michigan Week which begins Monday, May 16 and continues through Saturday, May 21. Students from Clarkston High School will be spending May 16 with township officials learning the day to day operation of township government. Township Clerk Chris Rose said the activity is planned to coincide with Government Day and will give students the opportunity to learn first hand about township government.

50 YEARS AGO (1952)

■On Friday evening, May 16, at 8 p.m., the Clarkston High School Band and Chorus will present their annual May Festival. The Chorus under the direction of Miss Ruth Sproul will present a variety of selections from outstanding musical comedies. The band will feature music of Sousa, Inanovile, Rachmaninoff, Stravinsky, Chopin, Texidor and Rodgers and Hammerstein II.

■The Clarkston Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association met on Monday, May 5. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Donald Stackable was elected president; Mrs. John Keller, vice-president; Mrs. Elmer Pettengill, recording secretary; Mrs. Farmer Davies, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Thomas H. Wilson, treasurer.

■The following items were on special at Terry's Market in Clarkston: round or sirloin steak, choice grade, 99 cents/lb.; frozen orange juice, Old South, two cans for 25 cents; head of lettuce, large size, two heads for 33 cents; Koegel's Viennas, Pickle, Olive and Cheese Loaf, 59 cents/lb.; butter, 72 cents; fresh, long green cucumbers, two for 19 cents; white, large size grapefruit, four for 25 cents.

Mother of seven children honored by local dentist

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

Maria Maziarz was recognized as mother of the year by an unlikely source - her dentist.

She was chosen due to her impressive dedication to her seven children ranging from 9-years-old to 21-years-old. Her children include Joseph, 21; John, 19; Teresa, 18; Robert, 16; Christina, 14; Joanna, 12 and Anne Margaret, 9.

"This is something we wanted to do to honor all the mothers. A lot of our patients have big families with a lot of kids," Dr. John Foster from Clarkston Family Dental said. "Maria is a perfect example and embodies everything that is great about mothers. She is loving, nurturing and attentive to her kids."

Maziarz has been taking her family to Clarkston Family Dental since 1992. Along with the honor, Maziarz was also given an "Afternoon Delight," at Avanti Salon and Spa. The package includes a massage, manicure and hair finish.

"I need it," Maziarz said.

Maziarz said she spends a great deal of her time being a taxi service for her children. Her husband Frank works the second shift for General Motors.

The mother of the year makes things work by being patient and also leaning on others to help her out.

"The community is great. The schools have been very important and supportive of us. The whole community support has been important," Maziarz said. "While being a mother I have learned patience. Before I was concerned about every little detail but now I look at the whole picture and just do what is most important. I have learned that you can never be perfect."

Maziarz appreciated the dentist office for recognizing her.

"I feel very honored that somebody noticed what I do. They have always been very nice and supportive to me when I bring my kids in here," Maziarz said. "I am just thankful for my blessing and the fact my kids are healthy."

Anderson to take part in medical youth leadership forum

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston High School student Megan Anderson will be hanging out with some of the nation's best and brightest to learn more about medicine.

Anderson was recently accepted to participate in the National Youth Leadership Forum on Medicine (NYLF/MED), taking place in Chicago from June 23 to July 2.

NYLF/MED is a career development program for high school students who demonstrate academic excellence, leadership potential and an interest in medicine. Anderson will join approximately 350 other high school students from around the country.

Anderson, a junior, said she is especially interested in studying how the brain works and hopes to come away from the conference with a clearer idea of what career path to take.

"I want to be a neuropsychiatrist or anything in the medical field," she said. "Hopefully, this will help me decide. I'm good at science, and that's my strong point."

Anderson said she hopes to attend either Albion College or the University of Michigan to further her education.

In going through the application process, Anderson said she submitted an application along with a written essay, grades, and a list of extracurricular activities. She said about a month ago, she received a letter telling her she had been selected to attend the seminar.

Anderson is involved in the Octagon Club (a community service organization at CHS that has helped raise money for cancer research), as well as the National Honor Society and the Marching Band's color guard. She is also an advanced dance student at Lambert's Dance Studio in Waterford.

She said she believes her participation in extracurricular activities helped her cause with the selection committee. "It helps that I was involved in community service," she said.

The forum will introduce students to a variety of concepts in public health, medical ethics, research and general practice, including site visits to medical facilities and clinics.

"I'm going to be listening to doctors speak, and I'm going to listen to universities and research centers," she said. "I'll visit different hospitals and a few different universities."

Anderson lives in Clarkston with parents Bill and DeLynn. She has two siblings: older brother Nicole, 26, and younger brother Andrew, 14.

Women's Club cooks up 500-plus recipe book

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Community Women's Club is offering some "awesome eats" from their kitchen to yours.

The club, which formed in 1954 and lends a hand to area organizations and civic groups, just released their third cookbook, "Awesome Eats From the Clarkston Community Women's Club."

Former club president and 32-year member Gail Ferguson said the 500-plus recipe book features selections from the group's previous collections, "Clarkston Favorite Recipes" from 1978 and "Incredible Edibles" from 1985, as well as dishes from today's members in categories ranging from appetizers and drinks to main dishes, breads and desserts.

"There's also cooking information throughout the book such as temperature tests for making candy, measurement conversions, microwave tips and heart-healthy recipe substitutions," she said.

The book is available for $10 at the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Rd. Funds raised will help community organizations including the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, Lighthouse North and the Clarkston High School senior high party and scholarships.

"Any area women are invited to try us out," Ferguson added. "We welcome new members." The currently 29-member club meets September through April at the library, which they founded in 1955. The not-for-profit group not only supports its community, but also has fun with social events, travel and a monthly program. Annual membership fee is $25.

For more information on the cookbook or joining the club, call Gail Ferguson at 623-9462 or the Independence Township Library at 625-2212.

Local middle schoolers do their part for the environment

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's never too early to help out the environment.

With that in mind, 25 students from Clarkston Middle School and Sashabaw Middle School's Junior Optimist Club gathered at the Kimball property on Northview and Perry Lake April 30 to plant 50 white spruce trees and 50 maple trees.

According to Independence Township Treasurer Jim Wenger, a member of the Clarkston Optimist Club, the youngsters will be working with the Northwest Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy on preservation of the trees. The members of the group actually purchased the trees from the conservancy, he said.

Wenger said the youngsters got the idea for the tree planting with the help of Don Brose, another member of the Clarkston Optimist Club who works closely with the Junior Optimists.

"The land conservancy was looking to get the youth involved, and the Optimists were looking for a project," Wenger said.

For his part, Brose said the Junior Optimists' involvement in the project is typical of their character.

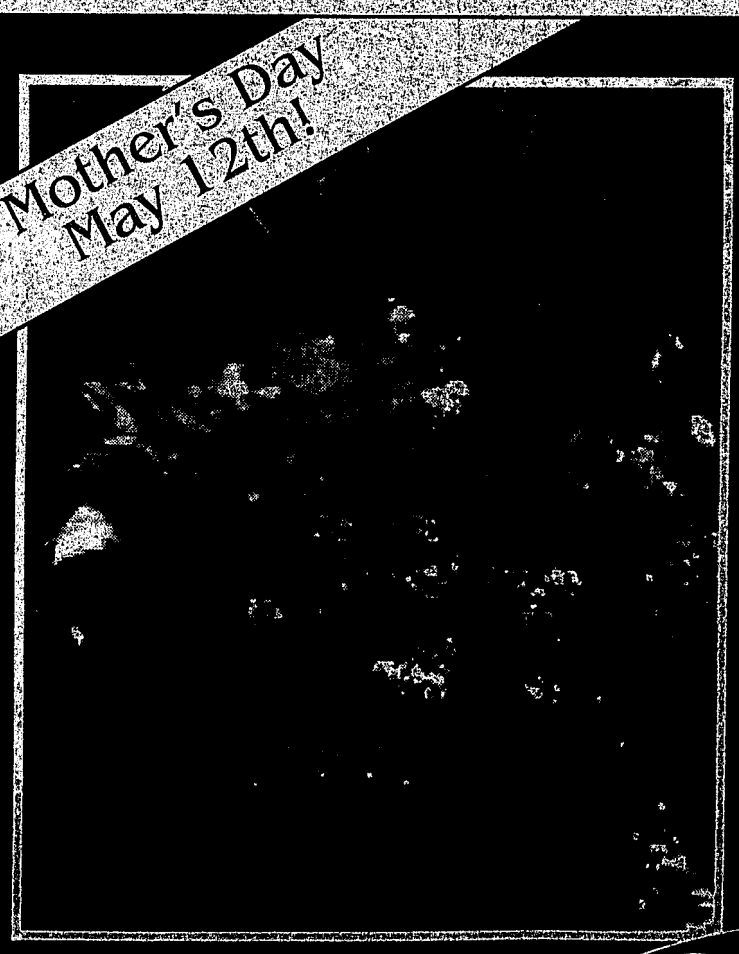

"We felt the need," he said. "The conservancy told the kids there was a need. When something can benefit a large group, they're willing to help out."

He also said about two years ago, the Junior Optimists planted trees near the same area they planted them this year.

"We would like to do it on a yearly basis, but there's no long-term commitment," Wenger said.

Move over Dr. Devereaux, here comes SPE's newest principal

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He moved into his own office, had an executive lunch and a few duties to take care of on his first day on the job.

Last week, Zachary Proper stepped into a new role as Springfield Plains Elementary principal.

Well, at least for a day.

Zachary's actually a second grader in Miss Foss's class and was the school's Principal for a Day winner. He was the lucky name drawn in a raffle in March.

Coinciding with reading month, the students were awarded a raffle ticket for every 25 books they read. "I had four tickets," Zachary said proudly. The first prize drawing was a bike, second prize the opportunity to take over Dr. Sharon Devereaux's role.

He was excited when he heard his name was drawn. His reaction he said was, "Whoa!"

But he'll admit he was kind of nervous about filling Dr. Devereaux's shoes. Once in it, though, he felt "good."

"It's great to be a principal," he said. "There's no work and stuff."

The work that he did do May 2 as principal, he said was "easy work" like passing out mail, delivering papers and notes to classes, and doing the morning announcements.

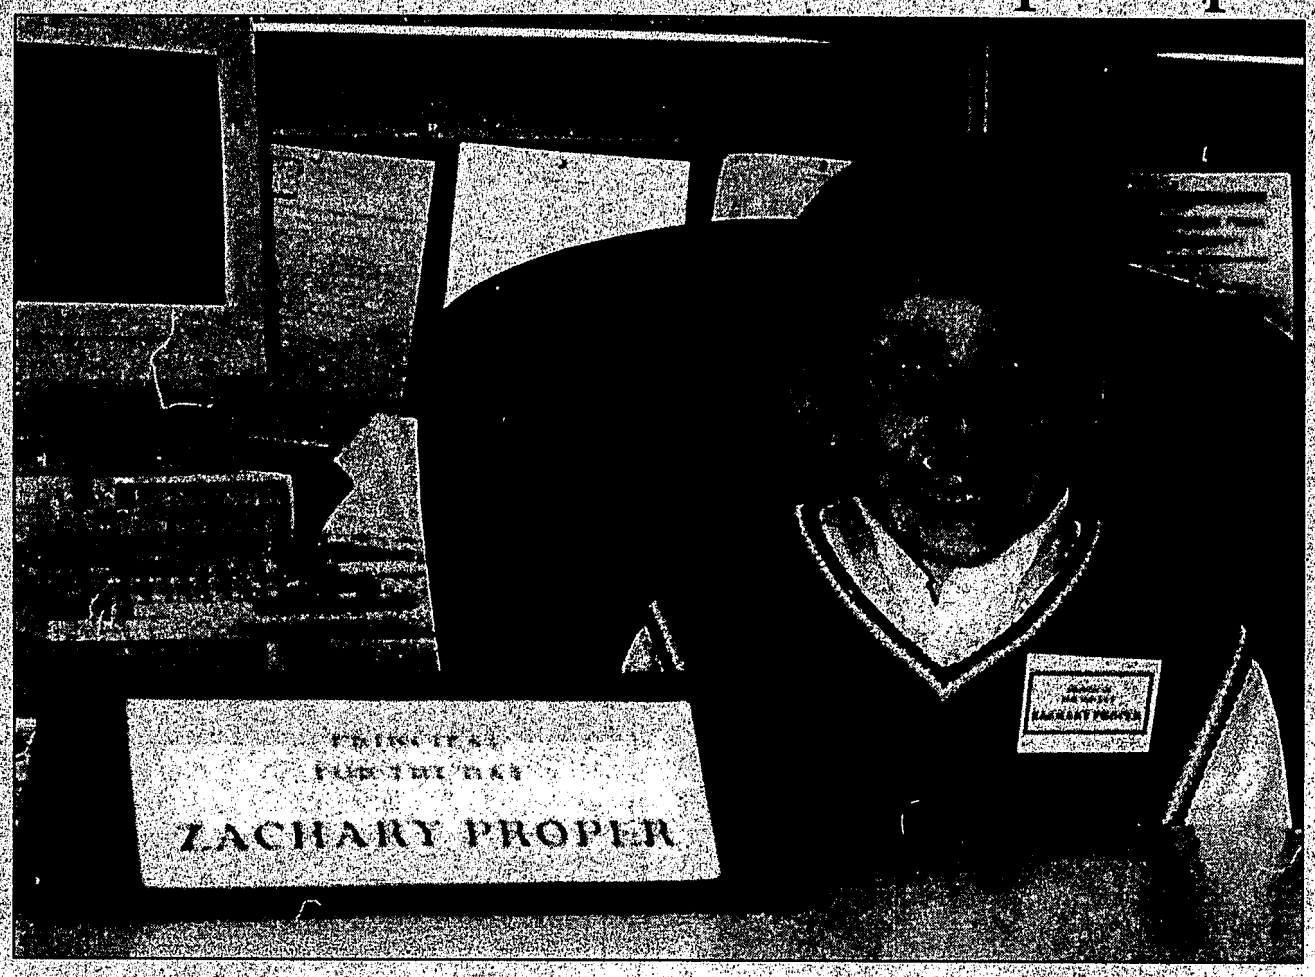

He also said, "Kids came and read to me. I helped a kid do spelling and math. I typed something out on the computer. And I walked with the custodian through the whole building."

Zachary said the custodian asked him if he could change one thing about the school what would it be.

"I said, 'The lunchroom, so it's not such a mess when I get in there.'"

Lunch at Mr. B's, with one friend of his choice and Dr. Devereaux, seemed to be Zachary's highlight of the day.

"I had a humongous eight-inch brownie with two scoops of ice cream, chopped Oreos and fudge. And chicken fingers and seasoned fries."

This is the eighth year the elementary has held a Principal of the Day. "The children really enjoy it," Dr. Devereaux said. "I don't think (Zachary) could appreciate it more. He's a dear child. He was floating off the bus he was so excited."

Zachary--who says what he loves best about school is doing "a lot of math"-- said his parents were excited for him, too. But he wasn't happy with them, "They made me dress up."

When asked if he'd like to be a real principal someday, Zachary says, "Nah, I want to be a dirt bike racer."

Pressel beneficiary of CHS students' work on home

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Waterford Township resident Vern Pressel summed up his thoughts as the Clarkston High School Student Council worked on his home May 4.

"This is wonderful," he said. "They're doing a great job."

At about 6:30 in the morning that day, the students began work on revitalizing Pressel's home as part of their third annual Paint the Town project. Approximately 50 students stayed until 6 p.m. to paint the home and do some landscaping work.

CHS senior Laura Barnett, publicity chair for the Paint the Town project, said the Student Council annually looks for an area home that the students could repair as part of their efforts to give back to the community.

"We're always looking for a family in the community, and then we're looking on a need basis," she said.

Lisa Hopcian, a member of the CHS Student Council, said the students began working on the project in late October and early November, trying to secure the necessary supplies. She estimated there was $700 worth of supplies donated to the project.

Multiple exams test student's end of school year patience

CHS Life

Mary Wisniewski

When I was seven, I believed the world was going to end.

I also believed that poisonous clouds were attached to the sky, a bogey man was coming for me, and a witch was selling apples beneath my bed, waiting to grab any dangling feet. Many nights, I hid beneath pink covers, brows arched, face quivering.

Of course these fears were completely irrational, as any worldly eight-year-old would soon come to realize. Even still, the imagination of a seven-year old resists obliteration, and eventually those childish fears would transform into neurotic adolescent worries about security.

Later, fearing for my life, I dreamt of burnt candles re-lighting, wet curling irons electrocuting my unsuspecting mother, and unlocked doors permitting prowlers. In the end, all I had was the Chicken Little syndrome, singing:

"The sky is falling, the sky is falling."

These days, I don't worry so much about witches and bogeymen; instead, the apparitions manifest themselves as tests and more tests (and sometimes scary birds, a residual childhood fear). There's the new alphabet of testing: AP, ACT, PSAT, SAT, MEAP, exams that all happen to fall conveniently in the same year.

At school, despite spring in the air, the climate of stress is at hand. With June only a month away, we're on the home stretch, but we all feel laps behind. So it's easy to lapse into speculation and second-guessing.

People, after all, are always wondering, what's next? It is certainly possible to live this way, terminally, insurance against the uncertain future.

Superstition is all the same: a byproduct of irrational fear. Sometimes, I wonder how it all got started anyway, this business of inventing fear. Probably a matter of coincidence, a boy stepping on a crack as his mother fell simultaneously to her demise.

Then again, there is another way to live: not taking things too seriously. Tomorrow, for instance, I'll walk into the fire station, take my seat, number 2 pencil in hand, and start the drill of testing all over again. I'll look at the clock and whisper to myself, C'est la vie.

The statistics tell us we'll only live to 70 and a sleeplessness night here or there won't matter in the long run.

If my dad is right and the next time I drive is the end of me, then so be it. No more going under the speed limit, no more knocking on wood or turning the lock three times. These days, I'll live recklessly. I'll walk under a ladder, step over the cracks, and pet a black cat with my fingers uncrossed.

Creativity takes CMSers to a higher level

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's almost like watching an episode of "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" when you watch these five in action.

Except, there's no Drew Carey or Ryan Stiles here.

It's more like Brian Shepanak, Leah Koval, Christy Grusnick, Caitlin Wylie and Anthony Swartz--Clarkston Middle School eighth graders, who are part of the Destination ImagiNation "Art of Improv" team.

They'll humbly admit "they're not that good," when compared to the hit improv show, but they were definitely good enough to impress judges at local competition in March as well as state competition in April. Now the team is gearing up for global competition in Knoxville, Tenn., May 22-25.

"We're excited," team member Christy said. "We really aren't nervous, and won't be until after the competition when we wait to see if we've won. We're kind of backwards that way."

The five, who were reunited this year since first becoming a team in the fifth grade, will aim for a possible 300 points in competition.

Topics are picked by a roll of a dice and the kids are given a half hour to make props and costumes out of simple things like garbage bags, poster board and cardboard boxes; and then perform. Teams must do any and all work on their own, void of any adult help.

To spice things up, they'll also be asked to do an instant improv skit, where they are given only five minutes to prepare.

But Caitlin said, "We're pretty good on our feet. We'll have an idea of what we think will be funny, and we'll go with it."

And how does one practice for an improv performance? They don't. Brian said, and the others agreed, they'd like their practice time to stay at zero before the big trip to Tennessee.

"There's really not much to practice on," Brian admitted. "We do better if we don't practice."

They just hope they win. And the top prize of facing teams from around the world is "personal satisfaction," say team coaches, and Leah's parents, John and Karen Koval, who have coached Destination ImagiNation teams for four years.

"The goal was never to win. The goal was to have a good time and learn a little bit. They've gained a lot in teamwork and cooperation," Karen said.

Pat Shepanak, Brian's mother, said, Destination ImagiNation is "a great outlet. Brian enjoys entertaining, so this has been right up his alley. The kids as a group really connect and when they get down to business they do really well together." She said she really appreciates parents, like John and Karen, who step forward to do things of this nature.

Destination ImagiNation, an after-school program claiming to be" the most important course in education," promotes creative thinking, problem-solving and teamwork through annual competitions for all age groups.

Linda Morrow, Destination ImagiNation coordinator for the Clarkston Community School district, said the program is so important because it instills lifetime skills of teamwork in the kids.

In today's working world, it is essential, she said, to be able to work as a team as well as have the ability to speak in front of crowds.

Destination ImagiNation allows the students to learn both of these skills, and more.

To these middle schoolers, Brian said, "it's just fun and something different then everything else."

Local communities to do their own version of spring cleaning

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The time is now for Independence and Springfield Township residents to clean out their unwanted items and get them together.

Both townships will be holding spring cleanup days in May to allow residents to dispose of their unneeded things. Independence will be holding their cleanup days on Saturday, May 11 and Saturday, May 18 from 8 a.m.-3 p.m., while Springfield will be holding theirs on Saturday, May 11 from 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

In addition, Independence will be holding a Household Hazardous Waste Pickup Day Saturday, May 11 from 8 a.m.-3 p.m.

Springfield will be holding their spring cleanup day at Springfield Oaks Youth Activity Center on 12451 Andersonville Road. Proof of residency or property ownership is required for the township to pick up items.

The cost for pickup is based on the vehicle used to transport the items. For instance, a car full of items will cost $1; a pickup truck full of items will cost $5; and a large truck full of items will cost $10.

In addition, disposal of unmounted tires will cost $1 each, while disposal of freon appliances will cost $10 each.

The following items will not be accepted by the township: farm tractor tires, leaves/grass clippings, stumps, oil, paint, flammable liquid and concrete bricks.

The cost for Independence's spring clean-up days, much like Springfield, depend on the type of vehicle used to transport the times. Their fee schedule is as follows: automobile — $5; auto with single axle trailer — $10; pickup truck or van — $10; pickup truck with single axle trailer — $25; flatbed single axle truck — $25.

The township will also remove freon units at a cost of $15 per unit, and will accept tires (up to 10) at a cost of $1-$5 per tire. Rims must be removed from large tires.

Independence will not accept the following items: brush, grass, fuel oil drums/barrels/tanks, propane cylinders, automobiles, any type of vehicle, large loads of shingles, garbage, compost of any kind, leaves, bricks, concrete and railroad ties with tar sealers.

No commercial vehicles will be allowed. In the past, Independence has accepted brush on these days; however, with the increase in residents using the spring cleanup/hazardous waste drop off, they cannot accommodate brush traffic.

Independence's fee schedule for the hazardous waste pickup is based on gallons, pounds or items. The schedule is as follows: 1-5, $3; 6-10, $5; 11-15, $10; 16-20, $15; 21-25, $20; 26-30, $25; more than 30, $30.

The township will accept the following items:

■Kitchen/Bathroom: floor care products, furniture polish, scouring powder, spot/stain removers, grout sealer/primer, aerosol cans, nail polish, oven cleaner, chlorine bleach, toilet cleaner, mothballs, mercury thermometers.

■Workshop: paint/oil/latex or water based, primer, glue/solvent based, wood stain and preservative, household batteries, fiberglass epoxy, carpet cleaner, turpentine, varnish, mineral spirits, photographic chemicals, lighter fluid, upholstery cleaner.

■Garage: antifreeze, metal polish, kerosene, gasoline, brake fluid, fuel oil, engine cleaners.

■Garden: bug spray, weed killer, herbicides, ant and roach powder, fly strips, insecticides.

The township cannot accept the following hazardous waste items: explosives, ammunition, any commercial or industrial wastes, smoke detectors and radioactive material.

For more information on Independence Township's Spring Cleanup and Household Hazardous Waste Dropoff Days, contact the Independence Township Department of Public Works at 625-8222. For more information on the Springfield Township Spring Cleanup, contact the township's main offices at (248) 634-3111.

mission statement and belief system.

The district believes all individuals can learn; individuals learn in different ways and at different rates; learning is a lifelong process; all individuals are responsible for their own actions; all individuals have the potential to succeed beyond their own expectations; an effective organization has a clearly stated vision; and all individuals have worth, value and dignity. Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts said the beliefs were formed in 1992 and reaffirmed this year at a special retreat in February.

The framework also consists of, in descending order:

Subject area philosophy--a vision of what students should know and be able to do in a specific subject area. These are the basic tenets for the content area from kindergarten through high school.

Content standards--broad statements that represent the important knowledge students should learn in each content area. These serve as a framework for curriculum development from kindergarten through high school.

Benchmarks--indicators of student expectations at various developmental levels including early elementary, later elementary, middle school and high school.

Essential learnings--statements for each grade level/course in each content area which defines the specific knowledge necessary to achieve the benchmark.

Critical practices--instrutional strategies, methodologies and assessments necessary for each grade level/course in each content area which teachers follow to achieve the essential learnings.

At the April 19 meeting, several teacher representatives went before the board to discuss updates to their subject area curriculum including:

Language arts--which has developed a new spelling program and writing workshop, determined "read-aloud" books for elementary students and set required novels for grade five. In the middle school, a new method for teaching grammar in context has been developed as well as critical materials and practices established for advanced classes and a new objective test placement procedure for the advanced. At the high school level, curriculum mapping is in it's first stage and will be looked at more in depth next year.

Mathematics--in the elementary world teachers will be requiring constructed responses from students, meaning students must explain how they reached their mathematical answer; a graphing calculator will be integrated at the middle schools; and the algebra curriculum at the high school has been revised including implementing new textbooks. Geometry, statistics, and third and fourth level algebra courses are in the process of being updated.

Science--at the elementary level an ecology unit is being piloted; current resources and materials are being evaluated in the middle schools; and Science 9 has been renamed to Biololgy I and II and Science 10 to Integrated Science.

Social studies--a K-5 plan has been developed to address economics, civics, history and geography; new texts are being looked at for the third grade and middle school; and updated maps have been placed at all the buildings. A Law and Society course has also been developed at the high school, and further updating is still in progress.

Besides the four core academic areas, physical education and health, fine/performing arts, world language and instructional and applied technology were also looked at and aligned to meet state standards.

Roberts has said before he holds to a goal of "raising the bar" in the Clarkston school district and said the efforts of those behind this curriculum update is proof Clarkston is doing so.

Clarkston City Council awards general bonds

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston City Council chose between two very similiar bids for the awarding of general obligation bonds for Phase II of its water project.

In the end, Raymond James and Associates wound up with the winning bid due to the slightly lower interest rate it presented in its bid.

The council, at a May 2 special meeting, awarded the bid to Raymond James over Citizens Bank for $995,000 worth of general obligation bonds to fund the project. Raymcnd James presented an interest rate of 5.07 percent, while Citizens Bank presented an interest rate of 5.11 percent.

"They were both very competitive bids," said City Councilman Scott Meyland.

The council voted 5-0 in favor of the sale of bonds to Raymond James. Mayor Sharron Catallo and City Councilman Dan Columbo were both absent from the meeting.

The bonds for the establishment of special assessment districts will be awarded later in the year, said Meyland.

Tourney time for softball team

Wolves notch 3-2 record in North Star Tournament May 4-5

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's not quite on the same level as March Madness, but the Clarkston softball team has a busy tournament schedule this month.

The Wolves sported a 3-2 record at the North Star Tournament in Sterling Heights May 4-5, losing two of three Saturday, May 4 before rebounding to win two on Sunday, May 5. The Wolves are now 10-6 overall and 6-3 in Oakland Activities Association Division I.

After a league matchup against Rochester Monday, May 6, the Wolves travel to Royal Oak May 10-11 for the Pieper Tournament, where they will be part of a 20-team field.

On May 18-19, the Wolves will also take part in the Madonna Tournament.

Clarkston got off to a good start May 4, winning their opening game of the tourney 7-0 against Garden City. Suzie Giroux keyed the Wolves' attack with a three-run triple.

"That was our best-played game of the year," said Clarkston coach Al Land. "Garden City is a very nice ball club."

Afterward, the Wolves let a 2-0 lead slip away and lost 5-2 to Flushing. "That was pretty much highlighted by mistakes on our part," he said.

They concluded Saturday's action with a 1-0 loss to Walled Lake Central. Land said the Wolves just could not get any timely hits in that game.

In consolation action Sunday, the Wolves defeated Royal Oak Kimball 6-2 and Imlay City 7-3. According to Land, Suzie Giroux was the big hitting star for the Wolves in the tourney, notching three triples on the weekend.

"She drove the ball well all weekend long," he said. "Heather Giroux and Missy Parsons did a good job of getting themselves on base, stealing bases and creating havoc. We had eight stolen bases and no one was thrown out. Everyone stepped up and got a hit here and there."

The Wolves broke a 1-1 deadlock in the fifth inning of their May 1 contest against the visiting Troy Colts to pull away for the 3-1 win.

Clarkston scored on three different occasions after putting a runner on first and bunting her over to second base,

Trim sets tourney record with 78

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Anna Trim was just hoping to shake off a slump when she took to Fieldstone Golf Course in Auburn Hills May 1 for the Eccentric Tournament.

"My goal was just to come out and play better than I have lately," she said.

The Clarkston High School senior accomplished that goal, and then some. She set a tournament record with a round of 78, leading a pack of 70 golfers at the tourney.

"My short game was the key — it carried me pretty much," she said.

As a team, the Wolves placed eighth out of the 14 teams at the tourney with a score of 405. Rochester won the meet with a score of 350.

"It was not really what I was hoping for, but it was a tough course," said Clarkston coach Larry Sherrill.

Laura Barnett shot a round of 101 and Lisa Lesko added a 109 for the Wolves at the tourney.

Two days later, the Wolves dropped an Oakland

Orris, Slaughter pitch Wolves to complete game wins

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston baseball team headed to the western part of the state and brought home a couple of wins this past weekend.

The Wolves defeated host Kalamazoo Central in a doubleheader Saturday, May 4, taking the opener 7-5 and the nightcap 7-2. The wins improve the Wolves' record to 10-9 on the season and 2-4 in Oakland Activities Association Division I play.

Kalamazoo Central was ranked eighth in the state going into the game with a record of 17-3.

In the first game, Matt Orris pitched a complete game to led the Wolves to the win.

"He did just a fabulous job," said coach Phil Price. "He overcame some mistakes for us and really won the game. In the seventh inning, they had the bases loaded, and he pitched his way out of it."

The Wolves were aided by Derek Ranck and Sam Palace, each with a couple of hits in the first game. In addition, Jared Ostrom came off the bench late in the game and drove in two runs with a pinch-hit single to help the Clarkston cause.

In the second game, Bobby Slaughter followed up Orris' complete game with one of his own to power the Wolves to the win. "He was just on a roll," said Price.

The wins helped the Wolves turn around their fortunes from the previous day, where they lost to host Rochester Adams 3-2. Ben Munce "pitched an outstanding game", according to Price, giving up only four hits total (two on bloopers) and striking out nine.

The Wolves continue their trek through Oakland Activities Association Division I competition this week, traveling to West Bloomfield Wednesday, May 8 before returning home to take on Troy Friday, May 10.

Netters prepare to host OAA league tournament

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Despite coming off two subpar performances last week, the Clarkston tennis team still believes it can win the league meet May 9.

Clarkston will be hosting the meet, which gets underway at 9 a.m. that day. Although Birmingham Groves swept through the league schedule undefeated and is considered the favorite, coach Kevin Ortwine said he believes the Wolves can hang tough with them.

"We lost to them, but we had a lot of close matches," he said, referring to the teams' April 18 meeting.

On May 4, the Wolves finished eighth at the Grand Blanc Invitational, but were two wins away from fifth place. Catholic Central won the invite, while West Bloomfield finished second.

That said, Ortwine said the Wolves did not bring their 'A' game to the invite.

"We didn't play very good," he said. "We competed okay, but last year we placed fifth. I don't think we played our best tennis across the board. We finished where we deserved."

Clarkston ran into a buzzsaw against visiting Rochester Adams Thursday, May 2, losing 7-1. The Wolves' only win in the meet came at #1 singles, where Andrew Brown emerged victorious.

Ortwine said Adams had three freshmen at their top three singles spots, and plenty of experience on the doubles side.

"Their doubles are very strong because they are very experienced," he said. "It had been three years since we lost to them. It was disappointing. We expected to do a little better."

The Wolves edged league rival Lake Orion 5-3 on Tuesday, April 30. The Wolves won three of four singles matchups and two of four doubles matchups to pull out the win.

Clarkston clinched second place in the dual meet portion of the Oakland Activities Association Division I schedule with the win. "That at least gives us a shot at the league title," said Ortwine.

In singles action, Andrew Brown won at #1 singles; Mike Rashid won at #2 singles; and at #4 singles, Bharath Surapaneni emerged victorious.

On the doubles side, the #3 doubles team of David Sommers and Mark Catanese and the #4 doubles team of Carlos Galaviz and Shawn Saparmadu won for the Wolves.

In particular, Ortwine said the win by Sommers and Catanese was impressive. They were in the last match of the

Lacrosse club looking to establish themselves on scene

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston students looking for a spring sport with the physical nature of football or hockey may have found their match.

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a lacrosse club comprised of Clarkston High School students, and they are taking on clubs from other schools.

Currently, the club plays its home games in a field between Clarkston Elementary School and Clarkston Middle School.

According to Independence Township Parks and Recreation Director Mike Turk, the club is in its third year of existence. Tony Pierotti was the club's coach for the first two years before moving to New York.

"We use school property," Turk said. "All the boys register through us. We pay for jerseys and anything other than their personal equipment."

Clarkston dentist Dr. Jack Shader is coaching this year's team, which is comprised of approximately 35 members.

"We've got a bunch of really good kids on the team," he said. "We have mostly juniors, sophomores and a bunch of freshmen."

As of now, the club is not officially recognized as a varsity sport by Clarkston High School. Shader said that process involves working with the school board and trying to obtain funding for the sport.

"It takes time to do that," he said. "I think it's one of the fastest growing sports. High schools are accepting it as a varsity sport."

Shader said a number of neighboring school districts, such as Waterford, Troy, Farmington and Birmingham, have incorporated lacrosse into their athletic program in one form or another.

"Most schools have it as a varsity or club-type sport," he said. "It's really growing."

He said Turk and Clarkston High School Athletic Director Dan Fife have been very helpful in getting the program started and securing the use of local fields for practices and games.

Shader described lacrosse as a combination of the more physical sports offered at the high school, such as hockey, soccer and football. He said interested students should check out the action.

"If there's kids in the ninth grade who maybe play football or hockey in the fall or winter, they should come see our games," he said. "It's a neat sport."

The club has three more games this season. On Wednesday, May 8, they will travel to Warren Lincoln, then return home Friday, May 10 for a home game against the East Lansing junior varsity. They wrap up their season with a game Friday, May 17 against the Romeo junior varsity.

Henneman takes first in pole vault at Ashley Relays

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three Clarkston pole vaulters highlighted the Wolves' appearance at the Ashley Relays at Waterford Mott May 4.

Senior Cory Henneman won the pole vault with a jump of 12'9", and senior Travis Roche followed that up with a second-place jump of 12'6". Ryan Cocciolone took fifth place with a jump of 11'.

Overall, the Wolves took sixth place at the relays with a total of 42 points.

The Wolves placed in three other events at the relay. The shuttle hurdle relay team of Zach Crane, Brian Curry, Brian Morrison and Mark Kraus took third place, as did the mid-distance relay team of Brandon Parks, Grant Henderson, Mike Wilder and Steve Chenet and the distance medley relay team of Chenet, Henderson, Wilder and Mark Sitko.

The 4 x 1600 relay team of Shane Bennett, Chenet, Wilder and Brian Oltman took fourth place for the Wolves' only other place at the relays.

The Wolves return to Waterford Mott for a league meet Tuesday, May 7 and then travel to Ann Arbor Pioneer Saturday, May 11.

Athlete of the Week — Matt Orris

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A little work on his hitting this summer was just what the doctor ordered for Matt Orris.

Orris, a junior pitcher/right fielder, has excelled both at the plate and on the mound for the Clarkston baseball team this season. He is currently batting .395 with eight runs batted in, and has a 3-1 record on the hill with a 3.64 earned run average and 24 strikeouts.

After struggling at the plate his first two seasons on the varsity, Orris said he received some batting tips from Clarkston coach Phil Price.

"My mental game is a lot better," Orris said. "I wasn't hitting very well the last couple of years. This preseason, I went over to his house and worked on my hitting. I've hit well since then."

He said he hopes to keep his batting average up the remainder of the season and win a couple more games on the mound. Team-wise, he hopes to do his part to bring the team closer together.

Orris, who said he enjoys watching Arizona Diamondbacks left-hander Randy Johnson on the mound, also takes part on the Clarkston boys soccer and basketball teams, but said baseball is his favorite. In his spare time, he enjoys hanging out with friends.

He is the son of Kathy and Michael Orris of Clarkston, and has two older sisters: Kristin, 21, and Kelly, 19.

Dunn takes silver in ski competition

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While other youngsters her age were collecting Easter candy, Clarkston's Maddy Dunn was competing against some of the best skiers in the country.

Dunn, 10, a student at Independence Elementary School in Clarkston, took part in a NASTAR ski meet in Park City, Utah March 29-31. NASTAR is a nationally based organization that sets standards for skiers at all age levels.

Maddy, who is the oldest of three children of Charles and Molly Dunn of Clarkston, competed in the age 9-10 division against girls from around the country on the same course that was used for the giant slalom event during the recent Winter Olympics.

She came home with a silver medal to show for her efforts. Dunn entered the meet ranked first in the state of Michigan for her age group and third in the nation.

The ski resort which Maddy represented at the meet, Shanty Creek, which is located in the Upper Peninsula, took second place in the country at the event.

"They take the top six racers in each resort, regardless of the age group," said dad Charles Dunn in explaining how that result was determined.

The Clarkston youngster recalls dealing with some decidedly un-winter like weather. "It was really hot and sunny," she said.

She has many fond memories of her stay in Utah.

"I had a chance to meet other kids who skied," Dunn said. "I skied with the number-one ranked skier (in her age category). I went out to dinner every night, and they had a raffle and awards ceremony."

In addition, Maddy had the chance to meet several well-known skiers, including Phil Mahre, Tommy Moe, A.J. Kitt and Eric Scholopy.

Dunn, who skis with the Thunderbolt ski team at Pine Knob Ski Resort, has been an avid skier for quite some time, according to her mother Molly.

"She has really developed a passion for it," she said.

Maddy is not the only Dunn child that has picked up the skiing habit. She said her younger sister Olivia, 8, has also taken up skiing. The Dunns also have a nine-month old son, Charles.

In the future, Maddy hopes to qualifiy for the Junior Olympics, a United States Ski Association-sponsored event which is held in Colorado each winter.

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's girls soccer team is starting to turn their fortunes around.

The Wolves won two games last week to improve their record to 5-5-1 overall and 3-4 in Oakland Activities Division II. Currently, the Wolves are in fourth place in the league, ahead of Birmingham Groves and West Bloomfield.

Ashley Hudson scored the lone goal for Clarkston as they defeated visiting Groves 1-0 May 2. Goalie Beth Smith made eight saves for the Wolves in the contest.

The Wolves started out their week on a winning note with a 3-2 win against visiting West Bloomfield Tuesday, April 30. Liz Hardy, Brandy Knapp and Hudson all scored for Clarkston to improve their record to 4-5-1 overall and 2-4 in Oakland Activities Association Division II.

Coach Tami Mitchell said Hudson is "definitely" stepping up her game for the Wolves, and attributed the team's success last week to their work habits in practice and their teamwork.

"I think that we really started to pick it up and get hungry," she said."

After a May 7 contest against host Auburn Hills Avondale, the Wolves travel to Lake Orion for a league game Thursday, May 9 and then to Lapeer East for a game the following day. They return home Tuesday, May 14 to take on Royal Oak Kimball.

then driving in the run with two outs. Suzie Giroux, Missy Parsons and Jenny Tatu each drove in a run.

Senior Kathi Wiegand pitched a two-hitter, shutting down the Colts after allowing a first-inning run. The Wolves were able to get just enough runs off of Troy pitcher Jessie Granger.

"I thought we hit her pretty well," said Land. "That was a needed victory. It put us two games behind Troy (in the OAA I standings)."

The win improved the Wolves' record to 7-4 overall and 6-3 in Oakland Activities Association Division I.

At the Pieper Tournament May 11, the Wolves will take on Clinton Township Chippewa Valley in their first game. Afterwards, they will take on Royal Oak Dondero and Center Line St. Clement that day.

The Wolves must finish either first or second out of the four teams in their pool that day to return to tourney action Oct. 12.

Worried About Nursing Home Costs?

The Nursing Home Doesn't Have To Get Everything!

With proper legal advice:
- Specific assets are exempt and PROTECTED under Medicaid.
- Gifts REDUCE LIABILITY of a nursing home patient, if properly done.
- Certain trusts SHELTER ASSETS for a disabled person's care.
- A nursing home patient's family may PRESERVE ASSETS for his or her own care.
- Legal expenses to find out your options are an ALLOWABLE EXPENSE.

Without proper legal advice:
- The average Michigan nursing home costs $4,703.00 per month. ($56,435.00 per year!)
- Without planning you may only be able to save $2,000!
- Penalties for improper gifts could disqualify a person for years.
- If the "at home spouse" dies, the "nursing home spouse" may inherit joint assets and be DISQUALIFIED from the benefits he or she was receiving.
- The expense and delay of guardianship and probate court often add stress.

How I Bought a 3 Bedroom Home in Oakland County for Zero Down
I couldn't believe when John told me he could do it with a little creative financing. I bought a $183,000 home for absolutely zero money out of my pocket. My payment is only $1,650.00 including taxes and insurance. For years we saved trying to get 20% down, we thought we needed, and something always came up and held us back. John Clancey at Golden Mortgage was referred to us by our boss, and he got the job done. If you want to buy a home call John at (248) 334-9400 ext. 116 and tell him Judy sent you.
