Canadian accident kills founder of Clarkston State Bank, Dave Harrison and wife Wanda

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

David T. Harrison and wife Wanda left their mark on Clarkston during their 16 years in the community, and their loss will be felt by many Clarkston residents.

Mr. Harrison, chief executive officer of Clarkston Financial Corp., and Mrs. Harrison, a member of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club and voting poll volunteer with Independence Township, were killed Thursday, Aug. 15 in a traffic accident about 50 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, according to Sgt. Wes Moore, detachment commander for the Sault Ste. Marie post of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. on Highway 17 near Pancake Bay. The Harrisons were returning, by motorcycle, from a rally in Sturgis, S.D. when a car driven by William Duff, 40, of Etobicoke, Ontario turned left onto a private road, and into the Harrisons' motorcycle, according to Moore.

The Harrisons, both 59, were killed upon impact, Moore said.

Duff and his wife and two children (whose names were not released) were treated for shock at Sault Ste. Marie Hospital. Duff has been charged with an improper left-hand turn, which carries a maximum punishment of a $5,000 fine or six months in jail, according to Moore.

For Dawn Horner, chief executive officer of Clarkston State Bank, the sudden loss came as a shock to herself and the bank's employees.

"He was an outstanding person," Horner said of Dave Harrison, one of the bank's founders. "We're all quite saddened by their passing."

Horner said the bank has not made a decision yet as far as whom will replace Harrison as CEO of Clarkston Financial Corporation, but added the bank's board will meet in early September to make that decision.

Edwin L. Adler, chairman of Clarkston Financial Corporation, also expressed his sadness about the loss.

"Without Dave our bank would not exist and could not have prospered as it has in three years," he said in a press release. "He was a superb banker. This is a huge loss to the bank and to its employee family."

Dave Harrison was a founder of Clarkston Financial, the parent company of Clarkston State Bank, which opened in 1999. He served as chief executive officer of the bank until June 30, and continued as CEO of the holding company.

He worked for First of America Bank from 1961-1981, with his final position being president and CEO of First of America Bank-Southeast Michigan. Prior to the forming of Clarkston Financial, he was president of Pinnacle Appraisal Group in Clarkston and involved in residential construction.

In addition, he served on numerous local boards, including SCAMP and the Clarkston Foundation for Public Education.

Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary, a shareholder in the bank, was friends with the Harrisons, and worked closely with Wanda when she served as an Independence Township election volunteer.

"She was just a quiet, soft-spoken, nice person," McCrary said. "I'm just stunned and saddened. They were both vital to the community."

She recalled how Clarkston State Bank grew out of the demise of the Bank One branch in downtown Clarkston.

"Bank One said they were going to close that branch," McCrary said. "We took out petitions, and I personally went to downtown Detroit and talked to one of the executive vice presidents about this. They said that decision was made in Chicago and there was nothing they could do."

From that point, a group of Clarkston businessmen, led by Harrison, Adler and Chuck Fortinberry (president of Clarkston Chrysler Jeep) took the initiative to get a local bank started, she said.

"They decided they could open a hometown bank in town themselves," she said. "Everyone here likes to walk to the bank. It's been very successful."

Fortinberry reflected on the loss of someone whom he was close to personally as well as professionally.

"I'm devastated by the loss of a great friend," he said. "Dave was a quiet leader that did a lot of things for the community, but never sought out recognition. I had the utmost respect for his business acumen and judgement. He was a truly great friend. He was respected by all the bank's board members and employees."

Fortinberry was equally appreciative of Wanda's contributions to the community.

"She was always very supportive and very pleasant," he said. "There's not enough words to describe how devastated I am by the loss."

The Harrisons are survived by daughter Kim (Dennis) Echlin of Clarkston and Kevin Harrison of Chicago, granddaughter Madison Echlin.

Mr. Harrison is also survived by his mother, Eleanor, two brothers and a sister, while Mrs. Harrison is survived by her mother, Katie Mae Ratliff, and four brothers.

The funeral service is today (Wednesday, Aug. 21) at Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon Road, with Pastor Doug Trebilcock officiating. Funeral arrangements were handled by Coats Funeral Home, Waterford. Memorial donations may be made to SCAMP, the Clarkston Foundation for Public Education, the Make a Wish Foundation or the Michigan Animal Rescue League.

Local governments relieved by override vote in Lansing

BY KYLE GARGARO

Clarkston News Editor

Area government officials are breathing a sigh of relief.

That is because the Michigan Legislature overrode Governor John Engler's veto Aug. 13, which would have paralyzed local communities by severely cutting state-shared revenue money.

The cuts would have eliminated $704,117 from Independence Township, $172,327 from Springfield Township and $32,681 from Clarkston.

"I am glad it was overridden," Clarkston City Manager Art Pappas said. "It's a relief that we didn't have to think about cutting our budget."

For Independence Township, they are happy the latest cuts were overridden, but they are still dealing with two cuts from earlier in the year and keeping an eye open for any future cuts.

"I am happy but this doesn't mean we won't be cut again in the future," Independence Township Treasurer Jim Wenger said. "We were cut two times already."

This is the first time the legislature has overridden a governor's veto since 1977. The House voted 105-1 and the Senate voted 36-1 to override the proposal.

"I certainly didn't expect to be so overwhelmingly overridden," Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said.

There was a rally of more than 2,000 government officials and workers on the State Capital Lawn the morning of Aug. 13 before the vote was taken. Independence Township was represented by a few workers, but Springfield and Clarkston were not.

"I was out of town but three of four people from here went," Wenger said. "This helps drastically but we still need to be diligent since there may be more cuts coming with the national and state governments tightening their belts. This means we will also need to tighten our belts."

Church members and area residents are invited to bring in new and gently used items such as pots and pans, dishes and bowls, cups and glasses, kitchen utensils, silverware, small kitchen appliances, dish towels and plastic storage containers. Donations of paper towels, napkins and dishwashing detergent are also welcome.

Donations can be brought to the church, 6805 Bluegrass Drive, Clarkston, before worship services Sept. 8 and Sept. 15 or dropped off any time during the week in between.

For more information, call the church at (248) 625-3288.

Former Clarkston resident battling brain tumor

BY GERALDINE HALDNER

Special to The Clarkston News

Jeffrey Galley is a lover and a fighter.

He loves skiing, loves rock-climbing, loves his friends and family, but most of all, he loves life.

The 27-year-old Eagle-Vail resident, who moved to the Vail Valley in Colorado in 1995 from Clarkston, has also become a fighter for his life after being diagnosed May 20 with anaplastic astrocytoma - an aggressive form of brain cancer.

"I was suddenly having migraines," Galley remembers of the days after an April 18 fall while attempting to jump on his telemark skis. "On Friday I couldn't get started and was vomiting and had to call in sick at work. Then I was fine again and then the following Monday I was sick again."

He went to see his doctor who suggested an MRI, a brain scan, just in case. The worst of worst-case scenarios soon ensued.

"I was sitting in the waiting room at Vail Valley Medical Center, reading some magazine, when I got a call from my doctor," Galley, a bright-eyed young man with a wide smile, who seems to exhale optimism with every breath said. "He said there was something wrong."

Galley whose "heart dropped" when his doctor said "something's wrong" went to Denver the next day to undergo a brain biopsy, after a neurologist, who looked at his brain scan said "it looks bad."

He remembers his best friend, Benjamin Bartoze's reaction better than his own when the neurologist put his brain scan picture up for review.

"He turned white as a ghost," Galley said, adding that he immediately saw what "something wrong" meant, when the neurologist said that "the white area was where the tumor is."

"My brain was swollen," Galley said.

The biopsy left a faint scar and a bump on the right side of his head, but the diagnosis has made a deep impression on his life.

He quite tobacco and alcohol on the spot. He started chemo therapy on the same spot, enduring the side-effects of a medical regiment that leaves him tired on the days when he is taking chemo-therapy pills so lethal, he would have to call a hazardous clean-up service if one would slip from his hands to the floor and break open.

He has come to terms with the doctor's pronouncement the tumor is inoperable at this time and chemo-therapy is the only conventional way he can take to keep the cancer at bay.

"Life is what you do when it's your life," Galley said. "I need to rest, eat a healthy diet and I need to take it easy. If I'm not I'm going to pay."

While he now eats healthier and tries to get the rest, he isn't about to give up on life and the things that make him appreciate being alive.

"It would tear me up not to be able to climb. I need to be active," he said. He adds that he intends to ski again this winter and in winters to come, and continue backpacking and fly-fishing when snow doesn't cover the ground.

It was skiing which brought Galley from Clarkston to Vail.

"He came up with the idea," long-time friend David Smith said. "He was and still is the best skier I know from Michigan."

Smith remembers meeting Galley when he was 15, through mutual friends who all shared a passion for skiing and practiced their skills at Pine Knob Resort.

Galley says it was Smith who said "let's move to Vail," in 1995 and though neither is taking credit for the move, both are glad they made it and are fond of the story that goes with it.

"We were in junior college and didn't know what we were still doing in Michigan," Smith said. "It was Halloween night and we went out in costumes to a party at Western Michigan until 3 a.m., then we got into our junky cars and drove all the way out," Smith said.

They made it to Vail and settled in quickly, making friends, trying their hands at different jobs, from ski tuning, to retail, to bus driving, all the while pursuing their passion for skiing.

Smith, an assistant superintendent at a golf course, remembers a competition at Alpine Meadows last February as a moment in time that defines who Galley is.

"The course was bullet-proof, worst snow you've ever seen, all iced over," he said. "The guy (Galley) skied it perfectly then blew his binding and just picked up his ski and continued on one the ski, just like that. He was disqualified, but everyone was cheering for him down at the finishing line."

Smith says shock was his initial reaction when he heard of his friend's diagnosis.

"He is a crazy mad-man, there are just too many Galley stories," Smith said. "I've known the kid for 12 years. He is definitely my best friend. I couldn't believe this could happen to him."

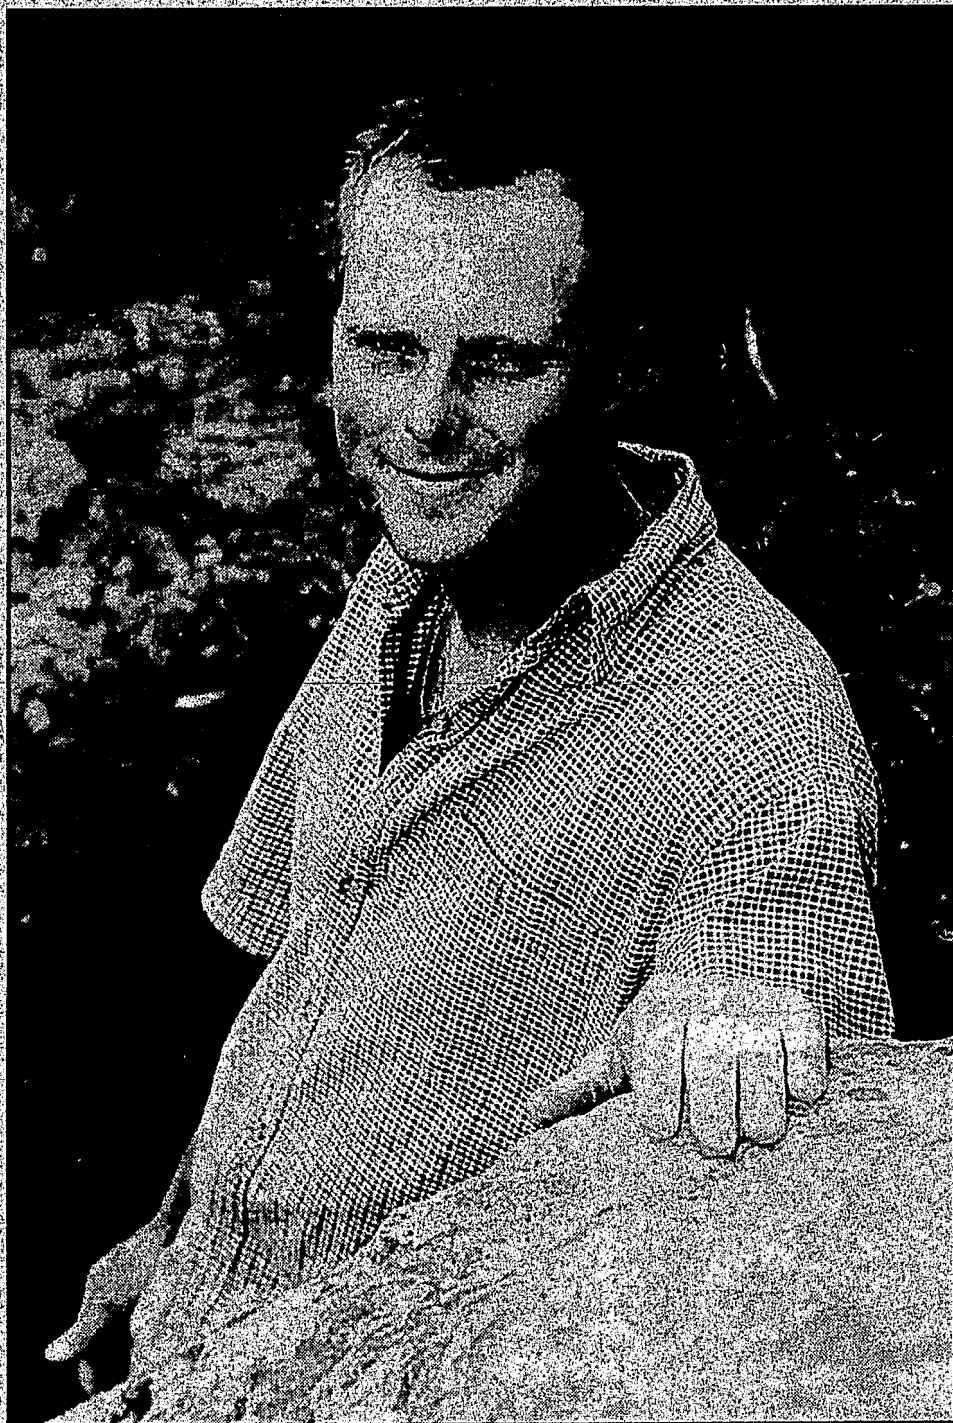

Galley's extended family here in Clarkston, "was shaken" by the news.

"It opens your eyes to the fact that life is so precious," Galley's oldest brother Michael, who now lives in Florida said. "Nobody in my family has ever had any major physical problems, in fact, I remember going to only one funeral in my life and that was my great grandmother's."

The family, Michael says, has pulled closer together in the wake of the news that one of their own is sick. Each assumed different supporting roles after Galley moved the wanted to make the new home of Colorado in the state of Michigan.

Michael Galley, who along with his brother Brian and his wife, Tina have split up the roles of organizer, medical document translator, financial planner and fact finder.

He is the most level-headed and after the initial shock I sort of desensitized myself by doing a lot of research. I know Jeff is just getting bombarded with all the things that he should be doing and feels overwhelmed, but you got to know more to be able to do more, to combat it," Michael said.

Parents Judy and Ron, who raised their three sons in Clarkston, had a tough time accepting Jeff's decision not to return to Michigan according to Michael.

"He knows what he wants to do and he want to be out there," Michael said. "We had to accept that."

Instead, family members have been visiting and Jeff was recently back home to celebrate his grandparents' 60th wedding anniversary in Chesaning.

"I call him to see what's going on now it is almost every day," Michael said.

A dozen friends of Galley's in the Vail area are busy organizing an upcoming fundraiser Aug. 23. The group, assisted by the Vail Valley Charitable Fund, is currently visiting businesses to gather up silent auction items as well as raffle prizes.

It is going to be a huge medical expense for him along with work and the emotional trauma. For us to raise money for him is the smallest thing we can do," friend and neighbor Bob Valentine said.

Jeff's family here in Clarkston is also preparing to hold a fundraiser, tentatively scheduled for September 22. Checks can be made payable to Brian Galley and can be mailed to 6944 Oakhurst Ridge, Clarkston, 48340.

The money Galley's friends and family are raising will be going towards two things if the traditional chemotherapy doesn't succeed in stopping or at least slowing the cancerous cell growth in his head: experimental treatments, not covered by his health insurance, and travel expenses to test Galley for clinical trials.

Michael Galley, who has spent considerable time on his computer on the phone with the hospital administration offices, says the hope for a cure is far-fetched but the hope for treatment that will allow his brother to live with a tumor is there.

The odds are daunting, but friends and family won't give up and neither is Jeff Galley.

"I'm going to live and that's what I tell myself," he said.

'Heart of gold' leads to national honors for teen

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With her sweet demeanor and giving heart, Jessica Puckett, 14, will represent Michigan and her sponsor the American Legion Chief Pontiac Post #377 in Clarkston as National Senior Miss Poppy.

Selected from all the junior members in Michigan and from at least 25 other participating states, Jessica will next go to the American Legion and Auxiliary National Convention in Charlotte, N.C. at the end of August and participate in a parade, an award ceremony and present a speech.

Her thoughtfulness towards others has extended far beyond helping extensively with the American Legion since she was four years old.

Jessica said she enjoys most visiting with veterans, shut-ins and nursing home residents. She can often be seen at IHS, Integrated Home Services, a nursing home on Clintonville Road.

"They (IHS) wanted to start paying me 'cause I go there so often, but I said 'no,'" Jessica said. "I don't want to get paid for helping out. I just want to visit. I feel bad they are in (a nursing home) and not everyone has someone to take care of them."

Grandma gets a lot of tender loving care from Jessica as well. Paralyzed on the left side of her body as the result of a heart attack and stroke, Jessica helps her grandma with just about everything—cleaning, laundry, bathing and more.

"She's a real caring child. A heart of gold," said mom Robin, American Legion 18th district president representing Oakland County.

This year alone, Jessica has logged more than 1,000 hours of volunteer work, double the amount she had last year.

From helping out at SCAMP to collecting cookies and coffee for a Salvation Army coffee shop to much more, the White Lake resident of six years has a full plate of generosity, and often steps in when need arises.

A fellow Waterford schools student died instantly in a freak, gym class accident. The family had no insurance, and Jessica helped to raise more than $250 for a memorial fund.

She also helped in a drug awareness seminar after another student died of an overdose, and spearheaded a school safety program.

Her efforts after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks were quite noteworthy as well. She designed a red, white and blue pin out of beads and ribbons, and sold them, raising more than $200. And Jessica sold candy bars for the Police and Fire Department 9-11 fund.

"She has done a wonderful job. I'm very proud of her," Robin said. "She's given up school dances, summer camp...She gives up a lot to do her volunteer work."

To Jessica, who was a Department Junior Miss Poppy at 10 years old, the American Legion has always been a part of her life, and family.

Starting young, Jessica, who wants to be an X-ray technician when she is older, said she wanted to stick with volunteering through the years, because, "I want to help our veterans. I like the people I meet. And I like being a junior."

Of being named National Senior Miss Poppy, she said, "It feels good. I know I did my job as a Senior Miss Poppy."

Last year Chantel Blay represented the #377 post as National Junior Miss Poppy.

"To have a junior (Miss Poppy) named, and then to have a senior the following year--this is rare. So we're very excited," said Ivy Lee Reinhardt, who has been with the Auxiliary for 33 years, works extensively with the American Legion juniors, and was a past department president. "I'm really proud of her. She has a real special place in my heart."

And even as the spotlight is on Jessica, she's thinking of others. "I want to thank my grandparents for helping me over the years. And I want to thank my unit and IvyLee for helping me out."

Lastly, she says, "Remember Poppy Days--All the funds raised from poppy sales go to help our veterans."

Travelers encounter vehicle destruction

Two malicious destruction of property reports were filed Aug. 19 at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Springfield Township substation stating a white SUV damaged two vehicles while traveling Dixie Highway.

The first report stated the SUV crossed the center line and approached the complainant's car. The driver reached out and swung an object shattering the victim's windshield. Damage was also sustained to the hood, windshield pillar and mirror area.

The second report stated the driver of the SUV threw an object out the window causing the complainant's windshield to crack. Travellers encounter vehicle destruction

School property for sale has residents perturbed

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The possible sale of 18.9 acres of Clarkston Community Schools property adjacent to Springfield Plains Elementary has some residents disappointed with the district.

A handful of men and women who live on Peaceful Valley, due east of the school, raised issues with potential other uses for the property on the north side of Holcomb and questions regarding zoning ordinances.

Resident Harry Branca suggested the property be turned over to a land conservancy for a preserved open space for the students to study. "I'm disappointed the schools haven't thought about this. It would be an asset to our children to learn about nature. (The site) is comprised of woods, fields and wetlands and has a creek running through it. It is home to all sorts of wildlife. How many schools in southern Oakland County have what he have right next door to them; where kids can go to learn and respect the land and wildlife right in their own neighborhood?"

He told board members it would be an asset to the community to keep this natural environment. "We have a lot of open space out here, which is why many of us moved here. I moved here from living in Royal Oak, Roseville and Fraser to live in the country. (These communities) wish they had protected nature preserves such as ours for them and their children."

Branca has been attempting to gather neighborhood support, and recently distributed a flyer, which read, "Do you care about the area in which you live? Do you like the country setting where you live? Do you want to protect as much of it as possible for your children and future residents of Clarkston?"

He encouraged residents to attend the Monday night meeting.

At the meeting, other residents including Rachel Dalrymple approached the School Board. "Being an educator, I see it as an asset to the students. They can plant trees, create gardens and go on nature walks. I would like to see the School Board think of the students instead of the financial gain." She said according to the zoning map the property is zoned as a park. "This is deceiving to us to not be used as a park."

President Kurt Shanks said the land is in fact zoned R-1, residential, and it would be the responsibility of the purchaser and developer, not the district, to decide how they wanted the property zoned. The district, he added, also does not have the financial resources to give away land to a conservancy organization.

Karen Butzler wondered if the board had considered keeping the property for an addition to the school or for soccer or football fields.

"I was shocked to see a for sale sign," added resident Jim Nickolaou. There isn't much buildable land there, most of it is wetlands."

Gary Tilson said he was told by developers when relocating here the property would never be built on. "I'm extremely disappointed."

Shanks said he appreciates the concerns of the residents, but he isn't sure if the public understands how the board has fully evaluated the situation.

"We have the right and the responsibility as a school district to make the most use of our finances. We try to maximize very limited resources for what is best for the kids."

The School Board authorized the disposal of the Springfield Plains property at their May 13 meeting. The board will address the issue at their next meeting, Aug. 26.

Shanks welcomes residents to the meeting and suggests they designate a spokesperson to voice concerns.

Township looks into solving flooding problem

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

The Independence Township Board of Trustees is looking into the possibility of helping residents with their flooding problems.

The flooding is occurring along Paramus Drive near Clarkston Middle School. Resident Joe Rehfus has expressed concern regarding the recent flooding along the road.

"I don't care how they get the money but I don't want to be paying with a special assessment of the homeowners," Rehfus said. "We didn't do it so we should not pay."

The board tabled the issue of paying for a study to see how much it would cost for an extension of the M-15 Drain along Paramus Drive to Clarkston Middle School. The board wants to investigate whether some county money could be used for the proposed project on the private road.

"We can try and find out how much this would cost and doing so doesn't commit the board to doing it. But the township's budget can't afford to fix the flooding. We can look into different funds from the county to see if that would help," Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart said.

Less Taxing Ways to Save for College

Saving for a child's college education can be difficult when college is still years away. But putting off saving for college can be a mistake that you may regret in the long run. Fortunately, a variety of tax-advantaged strategies are available to make paying for college easier.

Invest in Your Child's Name

Set up an investment in the name of a child under 14, and the first $750 in earnings each year are not taxed. The next $750 is taxed at the child's rate. Any amount in excess of $1,500 is taxed at the parent's rate. When a child passes the age of 14, all income is taxed at his or her tax rate. Two potential drawbacks with this strategy are that the child will assume control of the money at age 21 or earlier depending on state law, and eligibility for financial aid could be reduced.

Invest in the Coverdell education savings account (formerly Education IRA)

Taxpayers may invest $2,000 per year in this savings account for each child. Contributions are not taxed as they accumulate and distributions used to pay for qualified education expenses for eligible students are generally not subject to federal income tax.

Contribute to the 529 College Savings Plan

The 529 refers to the special tax status this plan has received under IRS Code 529. You also may hear of these referred to as qualified or prepaid state tuition programs or education savings trusts. But don't let the word "state" mislead you. It may not matter where the student plans to attend college—many state plans allow the student to use the money for any eligible two- or four-year college, university or post-secondary vocational training program anywhere in the country. The 529 plan also may be an ideal tool for reducing the impact of taxes while saving for college.

With 529 Plans, earnings that were previously taxable can be withdrawn free from federal income taxes to pay for qualified higher education expenses. Distributions used for qualified education expenses that are taken from state maintained 529 plans will be federally tax free.

Parents, grandparents and others can contribute as much as $11,000 per year per beneficiary without exceeding the annual federal gift tax exclusion. And the IRS will allow the lump sum contribution up to $55,000 (which will be recognized as 5 equal gifts over a five-year period) so that the funds will receive the immediate benefit of tax-deferred investing.

You can withdraw the money to pay for tuition or other qualified higher education expenses, such as fees, books, supplies and equipment and, subject to some limitations, room and board.

You should review your specific situation with your tax advisor or legal professional for information regarding, or issues concerning, the tax implications of making a particular investment or taking any other action.

Use Capital Gains Tax Advantages

If you plan to sell appreciated securities to fund a child's education, you'll be subject to taxes on any gains. However, if those securities are transferred by gift to a college-bound student and then sold, gains are normally taxed at just 10 percent.

Again, however, a potential drawback to this strategy is the impact on the potential for financial aid.

Reposition Assets

Repositioning assets may increase your chances for obtaining financial aid. You might consider the following strategies in light of your overall tax situation:

- Contribute the maximum to retirement accounts. These are not included as part of your total assets on financial aid applications.

- Make big-ticket purchases that you plan to incur anyway (such as a car, home or vacation house) during your child's high school years. In addition, consider paying for them with a home equity line of credit. This is doubly advantageous because it reduces your home equity, which most financial aid formulas include, and the interest on the home equity loan is deductible.

- If you have a family-owned business, consider hiring your older children as employees. This allows you to transfer your assets to them through reasonable compensation payments and thus reduce your taxes. Earned income is taxable to the child at his or her own rate. In addition, a child with compensation can invest in an IRA, which can be tapped for college expenses.

These strategies should only be considered in connection with your overall financial plan. If you have a college bill in your future, talk to your tax adviser and investment representative to determine if any of these methods are right for you.

Pass the Funyons, please

There is nothing like a road trip. Just you on the open road escaping the everyday grind and seeing America like it was meant to be seen.

I had such a trip last weekend when I traveled to Milwaukee for the wedding of an old-high school friend Jeff Goza and Amy Stelter. The beer city use to be my old stopping grounds back in the day so I always enjoy a trek back to the mother land.

No matter how many times I have taken the trip on West I-94 it is an educational experience.

This trip I discovered that:

■ No matter what time of the day it is, if I am going to be in a car for an extended period of time I greatly enjoy Funyons. I mean is there anything better than the combination of fun and onions.

This is a tasty snack of which I have never partaken except for during a road trip.

■ I can sit silent in a car for hours on end and not be bothered in the least. It is not that the wheels are turning inside my unusually large cranium, but rather sometimes silence can be refreshing.

This is not the case with my girlfriend who seems to believe 30 seconds of silence means the collapsing of the relationship. I mean I like to talk but who has seven hours worth of material?

■ Turn signals on cars are overrated.

■ I can pull off the macarana, hokey pokey, and chicken dance, but the hustle is beyond me. It is the one wedding reception dance which eludes me.

On a related note, I believe it was sometime during Tone Loc's song "Wild Thing" that I realized I might be the whitest man in America.

■ The job of usher at the wedding is very underrated. I might be biased since that was my job, but let's be honest, they do all the heavy lifting during the ceremony.

They really can make or break the day.

■ I would never want to live in a society which does not have a plethora of fast food restaurants. And Rocky Roccoco's Pizza, a Milwaukee staple, should be brought to Metro Detroit.

■ The Stelters and Gozas can really throw a wedding. I didn't do the math but I might have eaten my weight in roast beef.

■ The amount of radio stations I actually enjoy is at an all-time low. I don't know if it is me getting older, or the new music getting worse but either way most the music being played during the road trip was coming from my compact disc player.

■ I am a sucker for anyone in retail. Numerous times on the trip I forked over my hard-earned cash to purchase water. The earth is 70 percent water, while my body is 65 percent water yet I am paying $1.50 for 16 ounces of the stuff.

■ Amy must be some kind of saint to put up with the group of individuals Jeff calls friends. I can judge since I am one.

Looking back at the weekend at times we were immature, at best.

Gargaro's Hall of Fame: The newlyweds Jeff and Amy Goza. Jeff comes from a solid family and has always been a great friend. Amy is a great girl who is patient enough to have sat through an impromptu 30 minute rave. I once gave on the qualities of toast. Good luck, kids!

Tons of trucks program was tons of fun

Our kudos and thanks to all those involved in the Independence Parks and Recreation "Tons of Trucks" special event.

This was a real winner for our visiting grandchildren and a great display of community involvement. Thanks goes to all of the great men and women that gave up part of their Saturday and were so wonderful with the children.

We hope this can be an annual event and that all of the local organizations and companies that participated will be willing to participate again year after year.

Special thanks to The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Independence Township Parks and Recreation, Lowries Landscaping, The Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Firearms and Tobacco, The Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the Independence Township Fire Department and all of the great people that made it a special event for the kids.

Bowl-a-thon raises money for music camps

On July 26, a bowl-a-thon took place to raise funds for the Keenan George Memorial Fund, which will be used to provide scholarships for students to attend music camps.

More than $3,000 was raised by family and friends of Keenan. We would like to thank Cherry Hill Lanes for their cooperation and support. We would like to thank the Clarkston community for their generous donations that helped make this event a big success.

Thank you for making it possible to give kids the opportunity to share their love of music as Keenan did.

Confused by Oakland County's practices

Can anyone answer why the Oakland County PA office keeps saying they are short handed and overworked? Can anyone explain why our police officers try to persuade citizens not to file police reports? Why do our police officers in Oakland County shove reports of forgery, income tax fraud and blatant disregard of our laws in drawers and forget about them?

A 51-year old woman with no record of any wrongdoing is charged with two felony counts of identity theft for $40. The circumstance involve divorce and marital assets her husband is choosing to hide.

The police say this is a civil matter for divorce court, the judge says at the most this is a misdemeanor and the PA wants to amend the charges to three felony charges.

The Oakland County PA has been given information that the so-called victims has filed fraudulent tax returns, claiming his wife as a dependant, using her social security number and forging her signature on checks without her permission or knowledge. Yet the wife accidently charges $39.95 against the 'hidden bank account' and is charged with felonies.

The PA is the husband's advocate. The wife has forced the police in Oakland Township to take a report on tax fraud and is told nothing will probably happen with it. The police in Brandon Township were given copies of a check from the IRS made out to husband and wife, who are in the process of divorce and legally separated. Husband forges wife's name, deposits the monies into his own bank account and nothing is done. They don't want to get involved.

The very people who have sworn to protect our interest and freedoms are wasting your tax dollars. Drug dealers, murderers, pedophiles are being ignored so our tax dollars can pay for felony trials for $39.95. Check forgers and those who commit tax fraud are ignored in Oakland County.

Can anyone explain this?

Good luck in November. Kevin McNulty and John Knight should also be commended for their fine efforts.

Thank you to all who voted for me. The outstanding support I received from family and friends will always be remembered. I received many compliments, including several from other candidates, about the manner in which our campaign was run.

Although I am disappointed that my campaign ended early, I am proud to have been a part of such a respected effort. I am especially proud of my wife, Kathleen, and children, Mary Clare, Thomas and Cathleen. I am blessed to have such a wonderful family.

Back to school shopping?

Boy -- the air is more crisp and clean these days. It's clear and smells sweet. Ah, it must be that time of year again. No, we still have a few weeks before the fall season waltzes in.

'Tis the season when all the know-it-alls take their whining and questioning and who-gives-a-hoot attitudes and head back to college (not that I was ever a know-it-all, questioning, whiner, oh no, no, no.). And, when they leave, the air around hometowns across the nation becomes less stagnant.

Imagine my shock (and horror) when I read the average American family will spend $4,144 when they send little Johnny back to college parties and binge drinking this fall. The mortification process continued as I read the info supplied by Myvesta, a financial "health center."

"The average back-to-school shopper will spend $4,144 this year, down 17.5 percent from $5,033 in 2001 and 23.5 percent from $5,423 in 2000."

Holy trifecta of debt, Batman!

It costs between four and five g's to send a kid back to school these days? Surely that cost must be comprised mostly of tuition costs? Well, according to Myvesta, "yes" and "no."

The company has broken down the average spending for (obviously spoiled) Johnny's collegiate revival into seven categories, with the biggest single category labeled "Fees." Fees, includes applications, tuition, health assessments, deposits, etc. and totals, $1,905. That seems about right, but get a load of the spending in the following categories.

Electronics -- $398

Clothing -- $518

Sporting Activities -- $275

Dorm Room Supplies $230

Desk Supplies -- $151

Transportation -- $1,249

I don't know about you, but I think little Johnny's skimming something off the top so he can have some walkin' around cash. The only category that seems legit was the desk supplies, which includes books.

Dorm room supplies (bedding, towels, toiletries, refrigerators, cooking supplies) spending seems a little steep. If I remember correctly ye' old dorm room wasn't exactly a model of cleanliness. A can of Lysol and a bottle of window cleaner (ten total bucks), the pillow, sheets and a couple of towels from home ($0.00). Toiletries -- toothbrush from home, toothpaste and under-arm sweat protection ($8). The way I got it figured is little Johnny has over $200 spending, just from this category alone.

I guess things have changed in the last 20 years. Spending over $500 on clothing at the beginning of every school year seems outrageous -- I mean, geeze. I started out college with two suits, a blue one and a brown, three-piece outfit. Four years later I ended college life with same said suits. About the only necessary new clothing for the start of every school year was a pack of undies and some white tube socks. Jeans, t-shirts, sweat pants and dress shirts and slacks carried over from year to year until they died, were eulogized and disposed of properly.

Yes, things were cheaper if not simpler when I was a young, whiney, questioning, know-it-all, smart-aleck attending good old Central Michigan University. We didn't have cell phones, beepers, computers, computer programs, computer printers or credit card debts -- all part of the present-day college student's arsenal.

I worked summers for Independence Township as a cemetery maintenance guy (I dug that job). Before my freshman year I saved cash and bought a K-Mart stereo and an electronic typewriter. That was it for the electronic gadgetry for the next 10 or so years (the very same K-Mart stereo is in my basement, even as you read this. I donated the typewriter to Camp Oakland -- which is now Crossroads for Youths).

Question: Does everybody buy new these days, or do parents and co-eds explore the wonderful world of garage sales and classified ads?

By the way, back-to-school shopping, according to the folks at Myvesta, is one of three main shopping sprees for the American family. The trinity of spending also includes holiday shopping and vacation spending. Back-to-school was the hardest on the bank account, followed by vacations ($2,172) and holiday spending ($773).

Just jotting

I'm sure this is written on one of the stones: "Thou shalt not miss-match bread slices."

Slices must be mated for sandwiches in the same relationship as when baked, sliced and packaged.

To do otherwise carries the same sin penalties as the other stone messages.

Which brings me to -- guess what? -- bacon and tomato sandwiches. Recently Moke and Sue Hodge, who just became my dearest friends, brought me some homegrown tomatoes from the hills of Tennessee.

I'd been fooling myself into believing the store-bought, hot house and vine ripened tomatoes were getting better. They ain't!

These tomatoes were over four inches in diameter. One slice covered the toasted bread. With the bacon and Miracle Whip added, the breakfast sandwich never got to the table. I ate it right where it was made, over the sink.

A person shouldn't take the time to walk to the table, sit down, spread a napkin and breathe before taking a huge bite of something so delicious.

Our elected DC'ers have issued 1.4 million credit cards to the military, mostly Pentagon workers. Each has a $2,500, one purchase limit.

There is no internal control.

Two hundred of these cards have been used to buy lap dances. One bought a breast enhancement for a girl friend. An outside investigation exposed more ridiculous expenditures.

An Army spokesman said it was no big deal. A Congressman wants the limit raised to $25,000 per purchase.

These are the same DC'ers who are putting themselves in charge of improving corporate ethics, cutting out fraud and making business more responsible.

We're in deep doo-doo.

Have a nice day!

Ever see a fat environmentalist?

The Left-coast Californians are again hyping emission restrictions for vehicles, though they seem to aim more at cars than trucks.

It appears to me that Californians buy foreign cars in direct proportion to immigration. Japanese cars dominate sales there, there are more sushi bars than Hersheys and when they talk about the rising sun they are not referring to that ball of light that comes up in the east.

I think George W. should work on getting us back to a 48 star flag. You can pick the second state to go.

Have you ever had both a glass of milk and glass of orange juice sitting in front of you, and absent-mindedly picked up the milk while looking at the orange juice, and wondered at the strange taste in your mouth?

Have you given any thought to company mergers? Like Fairchild Electronics and Honeywell Computers: New company could be called Fairwell Honeychild.

John Deere and Abitibi-Price: Deere Abi.

W. R. Grace, Fuller Brush, Mary Kay Cosmetics and Hale Business Systems: Hale Mary Fuller Grace.

I've got to get a life, but I'm not going on-line to get it.

A look From The Clarkson

15 YEARS AGO (1987)

■ On Tuesday, Oct. 27, Clarkston school district voters will be asked to approve an additional tax of 4.25 mills. Following the recommendation of Superintendent Milford Mason, the board voted 7-0 Monday night to approve the special election date and the amount. The millage will be earmarked for operational purposes.

■ When the Clarkston area lost its phone service for about an hour and a half Sunday, the Independence Township Fire Department relied upon radio service from other police and fire departments. Firefighters from Independence asked the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the four bordering radio departments to radio the Independence department if they received calls for them, said Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

■ Complaints, comments and suggestions are wanted about the water traffic on Deer Lake in Independence Township. A public hearing is scheduled with the Department of Natural Resources at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 25 at the Kirschgessner Auditorium at Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake Rd., Independence Township.

25 YEARS AGO (1977)

■ The Clarkston School Board, on a narrow 4-3 vote, scrapped plans to reinstitute fifth grade band during a special meeting called Monday by three of the board members. Trustee Carolyn Place, who called for the meeting, said she was under the impression that, if the millage passed, fifth grade band would be among the programs put back in the curriculum.

■ Efforts are being made to organize the 300 or so homeowners on Big Lake and those who have access to it for the purpose of keeping the lake clear and pure. Marge Batchelder, a member of the steering committee appointed at the group's first meeting last spring, said a second meeting has been called for 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 20 at the Springfield Township Hall.

■ Improvements in the Nickelodeon Restaurant are progressing at a satisfactory rate, according to Building Director Tim Palulian, but a watchful eye is being kept on the work to make sure it is completed. Edward Krause, owner of the restaurant, was given until Aug. 11 to complete his original site plan work first approved by the planning commission in 1975.

50 YEARS AGO (1952)

■ Next Monday evening the Rotary Club of Clarkston will be host to Alan Brander, Governor of the 222nd District of Rotary International, who is making his annual official visit to each of the 40 Rotary Clubs in Michigan and Ontario. He will confer with President Edward Rummens and Secretary Leslie Greene and other local officers of Rotary administration and service activities.

■ The Clarkston Farm and Garden Club is finishing plans for their first Flower, Fruit and Vegetable Show to be held in what was a power house at the rear of the Township Community Center on Friday, Sept. 12 from 1-9 p.m. The group is planning to make this a community affair in which many gardeners will participate.

■ The following items were on special at Terry's Market in Clarkston: fresh ground beef, 59 cents/lb.; frozen orange juice, three cans for 47 cents; California oranges, 49 cents/dozen; pears in heavy syrup, no. 2 can, two for 39 cents; butter, 73 cents/lb.; skinless pork sausage links, 49 cents/lb.; fresh carrots, two bunches for 21 cents.

Youth Assistance offers partnership between adults, youth

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles on service organizations in the Clarkston community.)

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For more than 40 years, Clarkston Area Youth Assistance (CAYA) has been doing its part to prevent juvenile delinquency and give youngsters local role models

That tradition is still going strong today, as local at-risk youth are partnered with mentors in the community from all walks of life. Together, they take part in a wide variety of activities, ranging from riding bikes to attending concerts together. There are currently 11 Clarkston youngsters teamed up with adult volunteers.

The program, known as Mentors Plus, is unique in the Clarkston community because their activities also involve kids who are on a waiting list for mentors, according to Fred Morden, child welfare worker for CAYA.

"In the Mentors Plus program, we'll get referrals for kids that might need to be matched," he said. "About 12-13 kids are on the waiting list. We're making a big push to get volunteers."

CAYA is an offshoot of Oakland County Youth Assistance, currently in its 47th year of operation. There is a local Youth Assistance program in each school district in the county. Sponsorship is divided between local municipalities, local school districts and the Oakland County Probate Court, and the primary funding for the program comes from the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

Morden estimates about half his time is spent working with volunteers and the other half is spent working with parents, the courts, schools and businesses.

"Basically, my job is to keep kids out of the court system," he said.

To accomplish that objective, the youngsters and their adult mentors team up for activities such as walking in the park, riding a bike, miniature golf, swimming and boating.

In addition, Morden said they take part in organized activities about once a month, including trips to a Tigers game, a cornfield maze scheduled for September, a Christmas party and concerts at the DTE Energy Music Theatre and Meadowbrook Village.

Another program offered by CAYA is the skill-building program, geared to students who need help with their class work or want to learn a certain hobby.

"Some kids are having trouble in school," Morden said. "We'll pay for some tutoring for them. We'll help sponsor an activity through the parks and recreation department, such as swimming or arts and crafts."

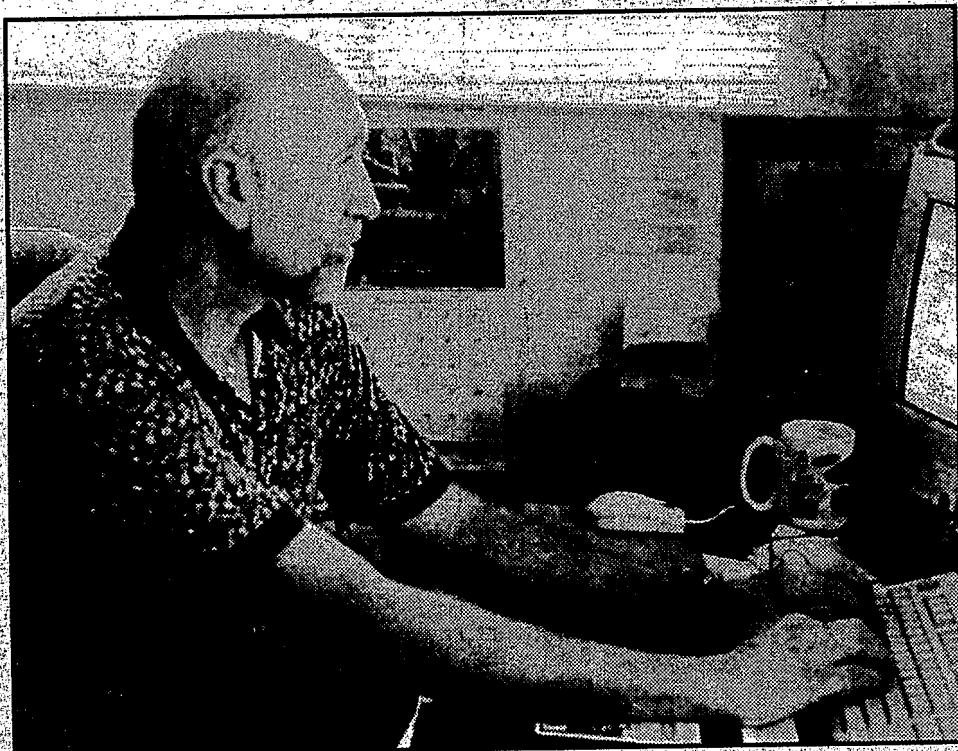

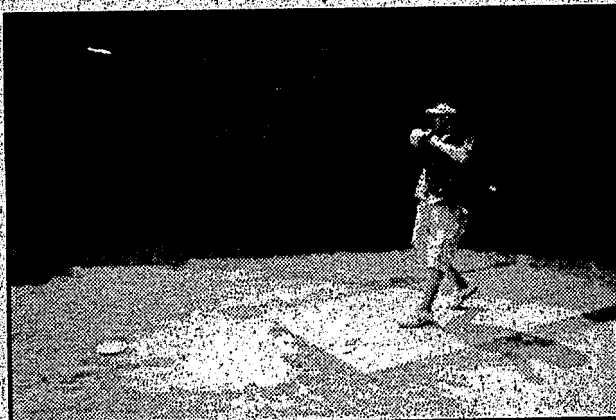

To help organize its programs, the CAYA has a Board of Directors comprised of about 35 members that meets once a month during the school year.

For more information on Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, call Fred Morden at 248-625-9007 or E-mail him at mordene@co.oakland.mi.us.

Clarkston schools get ready for upcoming year

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Community Schools officials are getting ready for the upcoming year, and have set goals they'd like to see accomplished in 2002-03.

Approved at the Aug. 12 Board of Education meeting, the four core goal areas look the same as last year but specific objectives under each category have been tweaked.

They are as follows:

Curriculum and Instruction

■The Clarkston Board of Education will further develop its knowledge of the current curricular offerings and the connection between classes that students take and Career Pathways.

■The Clarkston Board of Education will extend its understanding of alternative educational programming and provide direction that will enable the district to improve the alternatives that are offered.

President Kurt Shanks said the board is going to take a "hard look" at what the schools currently offer students to assure it is what they want for the district. And curriculum will be evaluated in its entirety.

"Most of the time you approve a textbook or a course, you don't often have the opportunity to look at the whole thing. This time we are going to look at the whole thing."

Shanks said a possible change would be to revise graduation requirements, for example.

Communication

■The Clarkston Board of Education will increase its visibility and encourage members of the school family and community at large to support the school district.

■The Clarkston Board of Education will encourage members of the board to understand issues in a proactive, timely manner, and respond appropriately to communications received from staff, parents and the community.

"We want to be more approachable and have folks understand what our roles are as School Board," Shanks said. He applauds residents and parents who have attended recent meetings to voice concerns to board members on agenda topics. "This is a good thing."

"We also hope to get staff more involved and understand what the big picture is (for the district)." To do this, he said, board members will be in each school building more often talking with staff.

Finance

■The Clarkston Board of Education will work with the administration to craft a well-defined strategy to ensure the district's funding base is as secure as possible under the state formula by dealing with such issues as a non-homestead millage and sinking fund.

Facilities

■The Clarkston Board of Education will work with the administration to finalize plans to meet student enrollment, space utilization and capital improvement needs/challenges.

■The Clarkston Board of Education will develop a plan that will enable the district to pass a bond issue to address the enrollment, space and capital needs challenges.

"Facilities and finance go hand in hand. We've been looking at each building, at student enrollment and have been establishing what needs there are. We have a good handle on this, now how are we going to pay for it?" Shanks said the board is looking in to creative financing, and alternatives to a bond.

At the meeting, Trustee Steve Hyer showed signs of disappointment technology was not included on the list of goals. He suggested Matt McCarty, director of technology, give updates every other month.

Board liaisons were designated for the four established goals including: Curriculum/Instruction—Shanks and Vice President Karen Foyteck with Curriculum Director Geri Moore and Executive Director of Secondary Education John Dilegghio; Communications—Trustee Mary Ellen McLean and Secretary Ron Sullivan with Public Relations Coordinator Anita Banach; Finances—Hyer, Treasurer Janet Thomas and Trustee Sheila Hughes with Finance Director Bruce Beamer; and all board members will work with central office administrators on Facilities.

The subcommittees will meet and report back later this fall to address a plan of attack for accomplishing board goals.

"We know we are on solid ground," Shanks said. "This is a good district, and we have things under control. Now let's grab a hold of the future."

Child care enrollment expected to rise for Development Days

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As the Clarkston Community Schools look toward an inaugural year with elementary and middle school Development Days, numbers of those needing child care to compensate are expected to increase.

At the Aug. 12 meeting, Dave Reschke, deputy superintendent, updated the Board of Education with enrollment figures.

Approximately 239 elementary students have been enrolled in the Kid's Connection after school child care program offered through the Clarkston Community Education. This equals 14 percent of the student population.

"We expect the numbers to increase as the first Development Day comes," Reschke said. "We still have more capacity." The current tally could be doubled and room would still be available, he said.

Approximately 35 middle school students have signed up for morning supervision administered by professional aides. "We foresee the numbers doubling," Reschke said.

Child care for elementary and supervision for middle schoolers is being offered to parents for $2.80 an hour, a dollar less than the normal Kid's Connection fee.

An updated report will be presented at the Sept. 9 Board of Education meeting.

The first Development Day for elementary and middle school students is scheduled for Oct. 2.

Opens its doors to Clarkston

BY JENNIFER NEMER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 30-year-old Clarkston church has gotten a face lift.

Formerly known as Good Shepherd Assembly of God, the newly dubbed Bridgewood Church is opening their doors to the public for their first ever service Sunday, Aug. 25.

The day prior will be a grand opening party.

To the community, Rev. Curt Demoff, senior pastor at Bridgewood, says, "We want you to be our guest, which simply means we want to meet you, have lunch with you, and entertain you, your children and your families." There is one catch; you can't pay for any of this. We are offering this to you free of charge just for joining us for this great event!

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, will be food, games, Moon Walks and pony rides for the children and more.

Launching with a staff and congregation of 20 to 30 individuals, the church is celebrating their recently completed reorganization.

Demoff, wife Christy, and their two sons Dante, 7, and Steven, 6, relocated from Brighton, where Demoff was associate minister, and took over at Bridgewood in December, replacing Pastor Hankins who took a church up north.

"The church has had a long history, but it has never really taken off," he said.

Still affiliated with the Assembly of God, Demoff has brought with him a team to help lead. Their focus is on a different approach to ministry.

"We want to be family-oriented, community centered and outreach driven," Demoff, who began his career as a youth pastor at Lakeside Assembly of God in Shelby Township where he stayed for eight years, said. "The main thrust of our ministry will be children and youth."

Sunday mornings Bridgewood will feature Planet Adventures, an "exploration station" for kids ages three through sixth grade.

"This is an interactive learning environment for children using a unique approach to teaching the Bible."

Sunday nights will be Studio 7, a creative arts academy for children teaching various aspects of the performing arts.

"We want to raise them up to be the next generation of music leaders and teachers."

For those in kindergarten to sixth grade will be Ozone on Wednesday nights, which Demoff explained as a party or celebration with videos, characters, music and more.

Please see Bridgewood Church on page 15

Clarkston church opens kitchen and dining shower

Refugees arrive in the United States with more than the clothes on their backs. For these families who finally find a place to call home, they have nothing to furnish their new homes.

To help them and others in similar circumstances, Calvary Lutheran Church in Clarkston will hold a Kitchen and Dining Shower the week of Sept. 15. Donations will benefit clients of Lutheran Social Services of Michigan.

Church members and area residents are invited to bring in new and gently used items such as pots and pans, dishes and bowls, cups and glasses, kitchen utensils, silverware, small kitchen appliances, dish towels and placemats, storage containers. Donations of paper plates, napkins and dishwashing detergent are also welcome.

Donations can be brought to the church, 6805 Bluegrass Drive in Clarkston, during worship service on Sept. 15, 16 and 17, or off any time during the week. For more information, call Jennifer Nemer at 248-625-1344.

Calvary Lutheran Church is a Lutheran church affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. It is a non-denominational church that is more than just a church. It is a community of people who are committed to the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Services are held every Sunday at 10:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. There is a nursery available for children. For more information, call Jennifer Nemer at 248-625-1344.

Obituary

David T. Harrison
Wanda K. Harrison

David T. Harrison and Wanda K. Harrison, residents of Clarkston since 1986, formerly of Parchment, died suddenly while traveling near Saulte Ste. Marie, Ontario. They were 59 years old.

They were the dear parents of Kim (Dennis) Echlin of Clarkston and Kevin Harrison of Chicago, Illinois; loving grandparents of Madison Echlin; dear son of Eleanor and the late David I. Harrison of Plainwell and dear daughter of Katie Mae and the late Toney A. Ratliff of Kalamazoo.

They are survived by Mr. Harrison's brothers, Paul (Sandy) Harrison of Wayland; Murray (special friend -- Sandy Kelly) Harrison of Plainwell; his sister, Suzette Jackson of Osgo; and Mrs. Harrison's brothers, James (Doris) Ratliff of Decatur, Alabama; Wayne (Mary); John (Janice) and Wilburn (Judy) Ratliff all of Kalamazoo; also survived by many nieces and nephews.

In addition to being a devoted wife, loving mother and grandmother, Mrs. Harrison was a member of the Clarkston Farm & Garden Club and had volunteered many hours to the Pontiac Visiting Nurses Association, the Kalamazoo Meals on Wheels and as a voting poll volunteer for the Independence Township Clerk's Office.

Mr. Harrison was a founder of Clarkston Financial, the parent company of Clarkston State Bank. He had served as President and CEO of Clarkston State Bank, First of America Bank -- Southeast Michigan in Detroit, First of America Bank -- Oakland, and of Pinnacle Appraisal Group in Clarkston. He had also served on numerous boards, including SCAMP and the Clarkston Foundation for Public Education.

A funeral service was held Wednesday, Aug. 21 at Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon Road, Clarkston, with Pastor Doug Trebilcock officiating. Funeral arrangements handled by Coats Funeral Home, 3141 Sashabaw, Waterford. Memorial donations may be made to SCAMP, the Clarkston Foundation for Public Education, Make a Wish Foundation, or Michigan Animal Rescue League.

Bridgewood Church

While the kids are involved in their activities, adults can attend classes targeted towards marriage and family. Demoff is aiming for an interactive, warm and relaxed atmosphere on Wednesday nights.

It seems Demoff and his team have their plates filled with even more to implement in the church in the months to come.

Beginning in the late fall will be a Saturday matinee service designed for the whole family, and on Friday nights will be Grave, a coffee house hangout for teens and young adults. "This will give students an opportunity to attend a relevant service for their age group and give them a place to voice issues and concerns going on in their lives."

Demoff also hopes to feature theatrical productions on a regular basis, and in the fall of 2003 begin a community preschool program.

Bridgewood plans to be on the cutting edge as well.

"We want to break out of the box of the church world and use video and the Internet for teaching purposes."

In the days of dual-working parents, it is sometimes difficult to fit in time to come to church, Demoff said. Adults may find time for themselves after the kids have gone to bed, but what church is open then? he asks.

"We'll have a live stream video so they can log on at their home computer and catch a half hour or 45-minute class. In the world in which we live in it is hard to lock in to a certain time frame."

Brighton Assembly of God, Demoff's last church of five years, is underwriting his first year at Bridgewood to solely focus on the church.

Demoff, 33, who graduated from Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo., said Bridgewood will only remain at their Sashabaw Road location for the next eight to 10 months, as the property has been sold to make way for new construction. Despite, the Bridgewood team has been hard at work remodeling inside the church to get it ready for the public.

Bridgewood Church is located at 6051 Sashabaw Rd., between Waldon and Maybee roads. Hours are Sunday 10 a.m., Sunday nights (starting in two weeks) at 5 p.m., and Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. For further information, call 625-1344, email info@bridgewoodchurch.com or log on to www.bridgewoodchurch.com.

"I Ate A Pound Of Candy A Day!"

Debi Stewart Reveals How She Conquered Her Sugar Cravings and Shed 30 Lbs.!

Hi! My name is Debi Stewart. I am an Office Manager. I was once a candy-holic. I would eat a pound of candy a day! I was out of control. Then I discovered an amazing weight loss secret that ended my sugar cravings. I melted off 30 pounds effortlessly! Next, I found myself on the Sally Jesse Raphael Show telling my amazing story. I was astounded! What follows is my true and utterly remarkable story.

"After years of buying candy, I suddenly stopped."
Debi Stewart

For 17 years my weight hovered near 150 lbs. I couldn't lose an ounce. Then, in one short year, I gained 15 pounds. That upward climb was a real eye-opener! I had tried everything to lose my weight. I took off 20 lbs. once on an all protein diet. Two weeks later, I was 30 lbs. heavier! Nothing worked.

"Out of Control"

My sugar cravings were out of control. I was spending as much as $10.00 a day on candy. I rarely ate regular meals; a bag of lico- rice would suffice for breakfast or lunch. I binged on candy morning and night. Then I would exercise for 3 or 4 hours a day to compensate for the sugar. It was crazy!

One day I heard a friend talking about losing weight with hypnosis. It got me curious. I asked if he thought hypnosis could end my sugar addiction. He said he had met some people who had amazing results. I was skeptical. Sheer desperation made me give hypnosis a try.

©Positive Changes Hypnosis™

I was astonished with my results! Hypnosis instantly ended my sugar addiction. It was amazingly effortless. I didn't even think about it. After years of buying candy, I suddenly stopped.

Sugar Cravings Vanish Instantly!

Hypnosis eliminated my sugar cravings and candy binges. I now have an appreciation for healthy food. I can taste the flavor and enjoy the texture of everything I eat. Sugar does not even interest my mind. I now have strange cravings for fresh fruits and vegetables. I don't even think about food between meals.

Hypnosis also eliminated those grueling exercise routines. I exercise like a normal person, 2-3 times per week, instead of 2-3 hours per day. It gives me more time for myself. I have a sense of well-being. I no longer stress out over little things. That's why I don't think I will ever go back to my old habits. I'm convinced that my success is for life.

When my father was diagnosed with diabetes, it frightened me. I knew sugar was bad for me. I simply couldn't give it up. Now that hypnosis has extinguished my sugar cravings, all that fear is gone. Without sugar, I have more energy. My memory improved dramatically. My complexion is clear and my skin feels supple. I am just sorry that it took so long for me to find hypnosis.

Sleek & Sexy

One sunny afternoon while vacationing in Aruba, my husband commented on how sexy I looked in my bathing suit. "When is the last time you ate candy?" he asked.

"You know what?" I said, "I can't remember!"

After I returned home, I stepped on the scale and was flabbergasted! I was back to my high school weight—a feather-light 125 lbs. I was amazed! Especially after spending the last 17 years exercising obsessively and never getting anywhere. I had all but given up. Yet with hypnosis, I had melted off 30 lbs. without even realizing it!

My Sally Jesse Story

I was the most skeptical person in the world. Hypnosis seemed hokey to me. Now that I have experienced such amazing results for myself, I am a true believer. Hypnosis works!

I was thrilled when Sally Jesse Raphael invited me on her show to tell my hypnotic story. My family was floored! They always knew me as the one who ate candy and junk.

I will always be grateful that I discovered hypnosis—and that's why I felt honored that Sally chose me to talk about hypnosis on national television. I feel like a winner and you can, too.

You Can Win, Too!

My hypnosis program was the smartest investment of my life! In fact, it was unexpectedly affordable. Plus, I'm saving at least $10.00 a day by not buying candy! What a bonus!

I recommend Positive Changes Hypnosis to anyone who wants to lose weight. If you're ready to take back control in your life, hypnosis is the only way to go.

Take my advice. Call and schedule your free hypnotic screening and demonstration. It takes only 20 minutes and it's fun.

Then do what I did. Enroll in their weight loss program and uncover the real you hiding beneath all those unwanted pounds. Don't hesitate. Don't even think about it. Call NOW. Then you will have your own remarkable success story to tell!

I Stopped Smoking in 1 Session!

I left a pack of cigarettes in my truck and went into Positive Changes Hypnosis. When I came out, I threw my cigarettes away. I haven't smoked since.

I was smoking 3 to 4 packs of cigarettes a day. A friend of mine, who was a client of Positive Changes Hypnosis, recommended I call and schedule my appointment. Hypnosis made it very easy to stop. I tried the patch. I tried smoking cessation classes. I tried quitting cold turkey and even timing myself between cigarettes. Nothing worked for me. Yet my success using hypnosis was fast, easy and effortless.

I noticed a change in my behavior immediately. I no longer needed or wanted a cigarette. Hypnosis totally eliminated my cravings. I know that I will never go back to smoking.

My health has improved. I am more energetic. I get twice as much done in a day. No more brown fingers and yellow teeth for me!

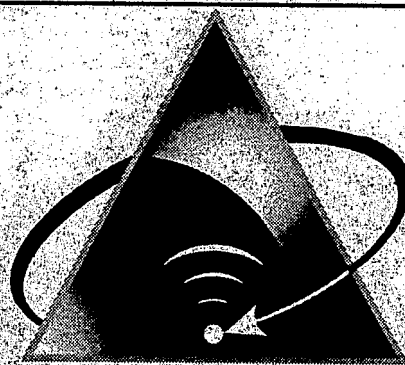

I would tell anyone who is thinking of coming to Positive Changes, don't wait. I feel great about myself and I give Positive Changes Hypnosis 100% of the credit. I've also met other clients going through the program who have had the same great success as I have. Ben Banks, Performance Machinist

Michael K. Buckley

A 1984 economics graduate of Princeton University who studied at the London School of Economics and pursued his love of family, music and sports during his sixteen-year battle with cancer, Michael Kevin Buckley, 41, died Monday, Aug. 5 in Rochester Hills.

First diagnosed in 1986 with Oligodendroglioma, a rare form of brain cancer with few long-term survivors, Mr. Buckley married his college sweetheart, Julia Butler Buckley, that same year and remarkably fought to six remissions over the next sixteen years. During three of those remissions, they had their three children, Caroline, Courtney and Emily, ages 5, 4, and 2. Mr. Buckley was a long-time member of Clarkston's United Methodist Church.

"Throughout his life's journey and his determined struggle with cancer, Mike and my sister Julie always had a plan," said John Wm. Butler, Jr., Mr. Buckley's brother-in-law. "They were intensely focused on each other, on cancer care and well-being, and on their devotion to family. No matter the difficulties in the journey they had to take, their love for each other, for their children and for life itself inspired all who knew Mike."

The youngest of six children, Mr. Buckley was born January 27, 1961 in Salem, Massachusetts to Dr. Frederick Oliver Buckley, Sr. and Mrs. Marye Buckley. He graduated from Marblehead High School in Marblehead, Massachusetts in 1979 and Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, New Hampshire in 1980 before going on to Princeton University in 1980. At Princeton, Mr. Buckley was a member of the University Cottage Club, played intramural hockey and participated in the Focus on Youth Radio Network, which was the largest student-run syndicated radio show in the 1980's.

Other than his family, Mr. Buckley's first love was music. Raised in the Beatles era, he was an avid bass guitarist and enjoyed music in all its forms as well as theatre. Mr. Buckley expressed his love of sports during his early work years through editing a sports newsletter from 1984 through 1992. Later, when the Buckleys relocated to Michigan from Massachusetts in 1992, Mr. Buckley was affiliated with Alliance Steel in Detroit.

Mr. Buckley is survived by his wife, Julia Butler Buckley; children, Caroline, Courtney and Emily; parents, Dr. Frederick and Marye Buckley; Dr. sisters, Marye and Sheila; brothers, Andrew, Dr. Frederick, Jr. and Brian; son-in-law of John William (the late Lucille) Butler.

A funeral service was held at Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon Road, Clarkston. Arrangements made by Lynch & Sons Funeral Home, Clawson. Memorial contributions to Cancer Care Associates, PC, 3577 W. 13 Mile Road, Ste. 404, Royal Oak, Mich. 48073. Interment followed in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

A memorial service will be held at a later date. Interment followed at Perry Mt. Park Cemetery. Funeral arrangements entrusted to the Lewis E. Wint & Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Robert L. Hutchinson Sr.

Gridders go through two-a-days

Ensuring safety during dog days of summer

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

One year after the death of Minnesota Vikings offensive tackle Korey Stringer from heat exhaustion, safety concerns are still on the mind of football coaches at all levels.

However, Clarkston athletic trainer Gail McClellan and head varsity football coach Kurt Richardson agree the Wolves are taking the right steps to ensure the safety of their players, and stated they have not made any significant changes in their conditioning program.

The players began conditioning Aug. 5-8, and started with doubles Monday, Aug. 12. The Michigan High School Athletic Association mandates that schools must have three days of practice before players can put on the pads for full-contact practice.

With the first game of the season eight days away (Thursday, August 29 at Birmingham Groves), temperatures so far have not been a major concern, compared to last year, when a mist machine was donated to the Clarkston football program by the Independence Township Fire Department to help the players deal with the heat.

Although the heat has been less of a factor than last year, according to McClellan, the coaching and training staffs are doing everything they can to ensure the safety of the players.

"They have unlimited water," she said. "We make sure our kids are taken care of. Last year, we had the mister from the fire department. The weather has helped us this year. We're making sure they're eating right and training right."

Last year, McClellan reported there was one heat related incident involving the football team, and she said the player involved did not have to go to the hospital.

She credited knowledge on the part of parents and staff alike for keeping the players safe.

"I think the parents are more aware," McClellan said. "We've always watched them and made sure they had water, but nothing's changed."

For his part, Richardson maintains McClellan "does an excellent job" in making sure the players stay hydrated, and noted the players' well-being has always been a priority with the Clarkston coaching staff.

"We've taken care of our kids forever," he said. "I'd be willing to bet that high school coaches take better care of their kids than the pros. In the pros, it's more of a business."

Catallo 5K run raises approximately $3,000 for SCAMP

BY JEFF PATRUS

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 5K race in memory of longtime Clarkston SCAMP supporter Clarence Catallo proved to be a bigger hit than last year.

The Clarence Catallo 5K Run for SCAMP, held the morning of Aug. 17, raised approximately $3,000 for SCAMP, a five-week summer camp for special needs children and young adults.

SCAMP Executive Director Donna Clancy stated the money raised will be beneficial to the program, which services a total of 354 students.

"It was a wonderful day," she said.

The total represented an increase of about $1,000 from last year's inaugural run. A total of 135 runners took part in the race, which began on Flemings Lake Road at Clarkston High School. The race headed to Clarkston Road, then to Snow Apple, Pear and Almond

On your marks — A total of 135 runners gather at the start line for the Clarence Catallo 5K race for SCAMP Aug. 17 at Clarkston High School. About $3,000 was raised at the event. Photo provided.

Boys soccer kicking off first year in OAA Division I

BY JEFF PATRUS
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's boys soccer team will be testing itself against the Oakland Activities Association's cream of the crop this season.

Fresh off a trip to the regional finals, the Wolves (15-7 last season) will be making the leap to OAA Division I. Coach Dan Fitzgerald, in his 12th year at the helm of the Wolves, doesn't see an easy mark on the league schedule.

"Obviously, our league schedule will be much tougher," he said. "This is probably the best league in the state. Every game will be competitive."

Clarkston's competition in OAA I this season consists of Rochester, Rochester Adams, Troy, Troy Athens, OAA newcomer Farmington, and last year's OAA II champion, Royal Oak Kimball, which is making the jump to OAA I along with the Wolves.

"Every game's going to be good," Fitzgerald said. "We may not have a better record, but it will make us better playing against the stronger teams."

The Wolves lost eight seniors, four of which were regulars, off last year's team. However, Clarkston returns some top players in senior forward Sean Gardner, who made all-state last year; sophomore defenseman Mike Holody, who made honorable mention all-state as a freshman last year; sophomore midfielder Mike Klemm, who made the all-league team; and senior goaltender Tim Moyer.

The returning firepower will be helpful to the Wolves this year, but they will have to rely on some new faces on the defensive end.

"I think offensively, we'll be pretty strong," he said. "Most of our stronger attacking players are back.

The opposite is true defensively. Some of our big guys are graduated. We'll have to find some replacements."

Overall, the Wolves have 23 players on the varsity this year, 17 of which are seniors. That mix has the potential to lead to some good things this year, according to Fitzgerald.

"I've always found that players develop between their junior and senior years," he said. "Hopefully, we'll have a lot of good leadership for this year."

The Wolves are not shying away from their tougher competition this season. Their two main goals, according to Fitzgerald, are to win districts and go far in the postseason, and to finish with a winning record in OAA I.

"I think we'll be competitive," Fitzgerald said. "I think we have a lot of good players returning with a lot of experience. Some of the guys coming up from the junior varsity are good players, so we'll have a little more depth than last year."

Lane, before moving to Waldon and then Walters before heading back to Clarkston High School.

"The runners love
the course," Clancy said.

After the race,
Catallo's widow, Clarkston Mayor Sharron Catallo presented the race winners with their awards.

The race has even evolved into a friendly rivalry between two neighboring schools, according to Clancy.

As it turns out,
Pine Knob Track Club
and Clarkston High School girls cross-country coach Jamie LaBrosse is also the assistant director for SCAMP. Clancy stated
LaBrosse was trying to find a suitable practice schedule for the girls which worked into both his schedule and the runners' schedule, he came up with the idea of having the runners work for SCAMP.

Clancy also noted
several Brandon High School runners have joined in the fun. "It's become a real competition between the schools," she said.

However, it's not just the students from the schools that are getting involved with the run.
According to Clancy,
Clarkston's executive director of secondary education, John Dileggghio, and SCAMP administrator Jodi Yeloushan were among the participants in the 5K run.

"A lot of administrators are getting each other to run with them," Clancy said.

Although she said there is a possibility of adding a 10K race in the future, Clancy said there were no major changes from last year's race to this year.
