While school attorneys believe it is a conflict on interest...

New trustee looks to stay on as coach

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer The Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education meeting room took on airs of a courtroom Monday, as school district attorney George Butler said newly-elected Trustee Tony Miller cannot continue as a Clarkston High School football coach.

"The board was sworn to uphold the law, and the law is clear regardless of personal feelings," Butler said. "You cannot serve in both roles in a school district at the same time.'

After the meeting, it was clear Miller's opinion was not swayed.

"I have a totally different view," he said. "This is politics.' Miller, who said he asked whether his unpaid position as a "supplementary" coach position would be a problem before the June 9 election in which he was top vote-getter, has retained an attorney himself. The CHS graduate and life-long Clarkston resident said he wished his attorney could be at Monday's meeting, but asked him not to attend to avoid unpleasant arguments.

Butler had previously informed the board of his opinion of conflict of interest, based on the state's Incompatible Public Offices Act and a Michigan Attorney General's opinion specifically dealing with a school board member serving as a coach.

Holcomb paving gets approval

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

With promises to work for maximum tree conservation, the Independence Township Board last week voted to approve a cost sharing agreement for the paving of Holcomb Road.

A July 15 tie vote had stalled plans by the Road Commission for Oakland County to pave the current gravel section of the road Reese and between Davisburg roads, even though Independence Town-

After a July 23 meeting in which a number of citizens voiced support for Miller's coaching position, the board asked Butler to further research the matter. He came to Monday's meeting with a stack of evidence he said made the conflict clear.

In addition to his own research, Butler presented memos from the legal counsel of the Michigan Association of School Boards issuing virtually the same opinion on a similar incident in another school district. He also said the rules apply whether or not the coach is paid

"The conflict between a board member and holding any other position in the district is absolute," Butler said. "And it isn't just coaches. It's any other position you might want to hold within the district, because ultimately the board is in charge of the hiring and firing of everyone, who gets what to spend, who does what...Even if your own policies have delegated those to some extent to your administration, in the final analysis the buck stops with the board."

Butler also attempted to answer questions about other alleged conflicts of interest. Trustees who are Please see Miller on page 17A ship is expected to pay only about $137,000 of the estimated $3 million project.

About $2.5 million of the remainder will come from federal grants. The road commission is expected to pay about $403,000, with Springfield Township contributing $266,000.

At the Tuesday, Aug. 5 meeting, there was a full board in attendance and more research to help trustees make their decision.

While many still lamented the loss of trees from the road right-of-way, the board voted to pay contracted planner Richard Carlisle $8,200 for a landscaping plan to lessen the impact after paving is done. Officials said a similar project helped when the paving of Waldon Road was complete.

"There's going to be a lot of trees removed," according to Randy Ford of the Hubbell, Roth and Clark planning firm. "It's typical of gravel roads in the township. The trees grow right at the edge of the road." Plans call for 236 trees (measuring at least 6 inches in diameter) to be removed. Of those 109 are in Independence Township, and officials said many more smaller trees would be removed as well.

Ford said he has walked the route with road commission engineers, and has received assurances from Tom Blust, director of engineering, to take out only those trees necessary.

"He has voiced his willingness to save as many trees as possible," Ford said, within the requirements for safe engineering. "But they don't want to go back to the drawing board."

With bids scheduled to be let in early September, road dommission officials were eager to get the costsharing agreement passed, but some trustees maintained their skepticism.

"I still feel the same way," Clerk Joan McCrary

Clarkston parents who lost son giving back

BY JENNIFER NEMER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A year ago, July 9, Mike and Kim George's lives changed dramatically.

They lost their 16-year-old son, Keenan, in a car accident when he crossed over the median on White Lake and was struck by a large truck.

Even amidst the struggle of losing their child, the Clarkston residents have made it a mission to give back to the community which has continuously supported them through these hard times. At the same time, they can keep Keenan's spirit alive.

"It doesn't seem that it's been a year," Kim said. "The shock's wearing off and reality is stepping in."

"Not many moments go by in a day you don't feel that loss," Mike said. "It's been a real struggle...trying to keep the family on the same path. It affects every member of the family differently. It pulls everyone in different ways." The Georges have two other sons, Kris, the eldest, who lives in Walled Lake, and Derek, a 2003 Clarkston High School graduate, who's leaving home this month for Central Michigan University.

"Christmas was hard not having him here," Kim said.

"Once you get through the first year things feel a little bit different," Mike said. "You've been through the first Thanksgiving, Christmas and birthday. Reality hits after that first year. You really have to do this for the rest of your life."

Mike admitted, "We've done a good job at fighting through this and facing it head on. We've been able to function at decently high levels."

The Georges have focused on communicating about the loss as a family, and have felt the support of friends and community.

"His friends come around," Kim said. "Many times it's been on a day when I'm feeling down. It's like Keenan must be sending them to me to cheer me up."

"They've been really strong, good kids to feel comfortable to still come over," Mike said. "This community has really supported us, and not just initial support. This is a very caring community."

And the Georges want to give back.

Shortly after the accident, the Keenan George Memorial Fund was established. Because Keenan's passions were music and the arts, his parents directed the memorial funds to go into those programs at Clarkston High School, where Keenan would have been a senior this fall.

In the past year, they awarded a $500 art scholarship to recent graduate Lance Red. Mike presented the scholarship at the senior award ceremony in May.

The Georges also gave $1,500 to the CHS art department which will go towards displays. Kim said, "Last year Keenan came home with five place.

On Wednesday, Aug. 6, the Georges held the 2nd Annual Keenan George Memorial Fund Bowl-a-thon at Cherry Hill Lanes, where Keenan was on a league. Last year, more than $3,000 was raised, as was the same for this year with approximately 125 people participating.

Mike and Kim hope to hold the fundraising event as long as they are in the community.

"Some people might not think the arts or music is what you should donate money to, but they are underappreciated in our society," Mike said.

"I don't see too many funds for the arts," Kim said. "We want to keep doing this every year to help out musicians and artists. It's amazing all the young talent in the schools."

"It's a way to give back to the community and a way to honor Keenan. I always wanted to be involved with charity," Mike said, who wants to do more with the funds given, in particular help out children in need at the holiday season.

"It feels good to be able to honor him," Mike said. "Hearing his name feels like he's still here. It makes you feel good. His spirit's still alive here," Kim said.

"For a kid to die definitely impacts a small community. It changes people. Sometimes kids don't know how to deal with this," Mike said. "I would encourage any kids, Keenan's friends, anybody who knew him that the answer doesn't lie in doing drugs or drinking. The answer in getting through this is finding your spiritual side and finding how to deal with it."

He continued, "We live in a society that has lost focus on what's really important -- family and friends. I'd like to tell other parents to enjoy their children each day. There's no guarantee for tomorrow. I try to do better at living in the now instead of the past or worrying about the future. Watch your time at work, and spend more time with your kids. These are the best days you'll ever have with your children."

pieces of art. I said, 'Why don't they display it?' They've never displayed art work for art shows. Hopefully now they can do a spring art show. Keenan always liked art."

Keenan's biggest love, though, was music. He'd shown an interest in the guitar from a very young age.

"Keenan taught so many kids. He's encouraged a lot of kids musically," his mother said. "I miss hearing his music."

And so, the Georges contributed to the CHS Battle of the Bands, part of Homecoming festivities each year. Keenan had played in the event with his band Euphoria.

His bandmates, Dave Torrone, Matt Vercauteren and Mike Baker, have since added Baker's brother Vince, and renamed themselves The KGB (The Keenan George Band). With four judges, including Mike and Kim, the band took first place, out of 12 bands, winning a $1,250 certificate to Motor City Guitar in Waterford, where Keenan took lessons. A $750 certificate was awarded to the second place band, and $250 for third

Township agrees to fund school liasion officer

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

One way or another, there will be two deputies on duty in Clarkston Community Schools this fall.

With Supervisor Dale Stuart and Trustee Daniel Travis dissenting, the Independence Township Board on Tuesday, Aug. 5 voted to pay the entire cost of a second school liaison officer.

The vote came with a "99 percent" expectation that the school district will come up with federal and state grant dollars to pay 50 percent of the second deputy's services. Further, in the "1 percent" chance that the school district will not have the funds, the township government has committed only to a one-year funding agreement.

The board continued a debate begun in June, when they tackled the question of how — or whether — to make up a shortfall of about $45,000 caused by the school district's decision last spring to cut funding for the second liaison officer.

Trustees David Wagner and Larry Rosso have met with school Deputy Superintendent David Reschke about the issues. In a memo, Reschke said the budget cut was made in anticipation of the loss of grant money that could support the program.

"Recently, the news from Lansing has been a bit more encouraging," Reschke wrote to Wagner and Rosso.

"He's 99 percent sure the money will be coming," Wagner said. "They do understand this will be a onetime affair."

Reschke later clarified his "99 percent" statement. Debates in Lansing are such that local school districts normally do not know until September exactly what funding sources will be available and what will be allowed with various grants.

"I'm 99 sure the grants will be approved," he said. "I'm not quite as sure the [liaison officer] expenditures will be allowable."

Reschke is confident that a federal "Safe and Drug-

School Liaison Officers

According to agreeement for 2003, Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies are assigned to Clarkston Community Schools according to the following funding formula

• First officer - Total cost, $89,450, with school district paying $40,000, township pays remainder. (This arrangement will continue this fall.)

• Second officer - Total cost, $89,450, split 50/50 between school district and township. (School board cut this expense from the 2003-2004 budget.)

Independence Township's fiscal year runs according to the calendar year. Clarkston Community Schools' fiscal year is July 1-June 30. The current discussion impacts the staffing beginning when classes begin this fall.

Free Schools" grant will be repeated this year. Grant rules allow up to $10,000 to be used for the liaison officer. He hopes the remainder can come from a state "at-risk" grant which was reduced last year but may be sufficient.

School officials must apply for the grant and seek permission to use the funds for the liaison officer, however.

"It's not a sure thing until they send it to you," Reschke said.

Township board supporters believe there will be a benefit even if the township police fund has to cover the entire cost of the second position.

"It's a close call, but I think the liaison officer is an important position," Trustee Daniel Kelly said.

"There's more contact with citizens" even if they are younger citizens, Rosso said. "We're working in a preventive capacity."

Treasurer James Wenger noted advantages such as using the extra deputy for general patrol during school breaks and as emergency backup elsewhere in the township.

"If we are funding this officer, it is still our call where that officer is," Wenger said. "We are the ones determining how those officers are being used."

Stuart remained pessimistic.

"I receive complaints from almost every subdivision" concerning various crime problems, he said. "We do not have enough [deputies] to handle that. If the township is going to spend additional money, it should be for services for the benefit of the greater township."

Concerning the schools' implied promise, Stuart said, "The statement they may do something is easy to back out of."

Travis was unsatisfied with the uncertainty issue, as well.

"I think the schools should come back to us. It would help to know exactly what we're talking about in terms of dollars," he said.

Clerk Joan McCrary, who previously had her own questions about the district's budget actions, ultimately supported the measure

"I feel this is a good thing," she said. "It's a needed service. We can extend an olive branch to the Clarkston school district and depend on them to honor their word."

Reschke said he appreciated the meetings with township trustees.

"I think this is truly a community-minded effort," he said. "The district values the police liaison program, and we are reluctant to reduce this program at all."

Without the township funding, Reschke said the plan was to send the high school officer to the middle school in serious situations. School social workers were expected to support the elementary school families.

Local restaurants aim to keep drunks off streets

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Servers at the Clarkston Union have noticed a "dip" in drink business since the announcement of a new state definition of drunken driving.

"Instead of coming in and having three or four drinks, they're only having one or two," according to Erich Lines, manager at the Clarkston Union.

The downtown establishment posted the story from last week's edition of The Clarkston News concerning the new standard of 0.08 percent blood alcohol content. The current line of offense is 0.10 percent, but the Michigan Legislature adopted the new law (which takes effect Oct. 1) to protect the state's eligibility for federal road dollars.

"Because of where the level is, it's something we'll have to look at a lot closer," Lines said. "If someone gets in trouble, we don't want it coming back here."

Other local restaurant managers appear to agree that drunken driving is a serious problem. Indeed, most already have their servers trained through the TIPS program ("Training for Intervention Procedures") to help them know when to cut off service.

"Our policies are pretty strict in the first place," Mr. B's Roadhouse manager Dawn O'Malley said. "It's a big deal. You have to take care of your guests."

O'Malley said representatives of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department have been to the restaurant to warn staff about the consequences of serving alcohol to minors and other offenses.

At Mr. B's, the entire staff and management — and security personnel — watch for signs of intoxicated patrons, O'Malley said.

Tom Hussey, manager at Mesquite Creek, said there has always been an emphasis on a family atmosphere. While they serve alcoholic beverages, the establishment has had few problems with people drinking to excess, he said.

"Alcohol awareness has always been our top priority," Hussey said, and the restaurant will offer a ride home to someone who has had too much. "We don't let anyone drive home drunk."

According to information from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, a driver can experience "divided attention" at a level as little as 0.02 percent BAC. "Emergency responses" can be compromised at 0.04 percent, and "concentrated attention" and "speed control" are impaired at 0.08 percent.

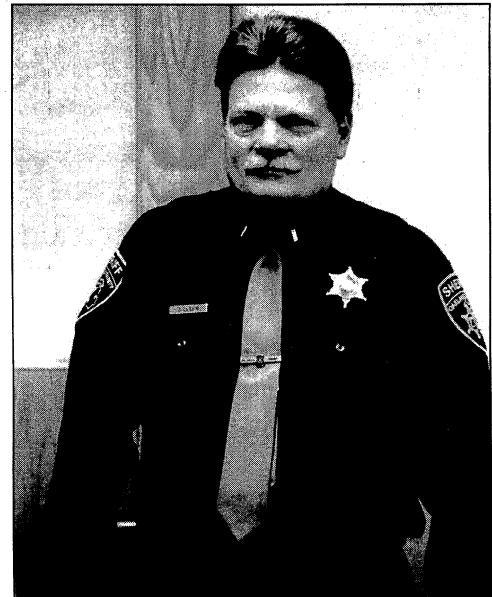

The degree of intoxication varies according to one's body weight. NHTSA says a male who weighs 170 pounds will reach the 0.07 percent BAC level after four drinks within one hour (one drink being considered 0.54 ounces of alcohol). A female weighing 137 pounds will reach the 0.08 percent BAC level after three drinks in one hour.

Lines said, "It's never an exact science" in recognizing intoxication, but his staff is devoted to watching for it.

"There really isn't a margin of error," he said. "We've already erred on the side of safety."

Local restaurants attempt to maintain a sense of civic duty, but the law has already established potential prosecution

Free books are good reading

I am often asked how I got involved in the newspaper business.

Actually I am rarely asked because people are not really interested in my life, but when I am I feel obligated to tell the truth.

It is not for the love of writing or the obligation to get to the truth in a story that I got involved with journalism. The reality is it was free Mancino Grinders. I was a junior at Central Michigan University and got involved covering sports for the school paper since you got great seats to the games for free and they fed you grinders before the contest.

While I really began to enjoy journalism and have since made a career of it, I still enjoy free stuff. So this past week was a good one at 5 South Main as two excellent books were sent my way free of charge.

The first was titled "Reliving the Glory," and was written by local Pastor Father Bob Humitz of St. Daniel Catholic parish. Humitz was a volunteer chaplain at the recent Winter Olympic Games in Salt Lake City.

The book is a wonderful first-hand account of the experiences Humitz had at this world event. There are humorous stories of the adventures surrounding the games and also many great color photographs that allow you to get inside the experience.

In addition, the book has a nice message about people from different walks of life and backgrounds doming together. Some of the stories of different religions and races coming together give us a glimmer of hope for the future.

The second book I received was "Tradition" by former University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler. The book is billed as Michigan Memories expanded and revised. "Tradition" is the updated version of Bo's "Michigan Memories" book published five years ago.

While not being a "Michigan Man," I have a general interest in the Wolverines due to my love of football and proximity to the university.

Schembechler gives us a first hand account of the tradition rich Michigan football program. He takes the reader inside Michigan Stadium, bowl games and the Michigan-Ohio State rivalry. The expanded version includes coverage of the 1997 co-National Championship team. This book also has a plethora of pictures which help tell the story of the Michigan tradition. There are photos of everyone from Michigan's first All-American William Cunningham to Tshimanga Biakabutuka.

We are writing to thank Miss Claire, the children's librarian at the Independence Township Library, for a great summer reading program.

We had so much fun at all the activities, especially the final day with the moon walk, ice cream sundaes, games and cool prizes. (Egghead was funny, too.)

Miss Claire is an awesome librarian. She knows everyone's name and always takes a minute to stop and talk to us when we are in the library. We have been going to the Wednesday morning storytime program since we were three, but this is the first year we were old enough for the summer program, and it was so cool.

If you don't know Miss Claire, you should go to the library to meet her. She's a great librarian and a nice friend.

We are told as kids (at least I was) that if we work hard, stayed focused and got up every time we were knocked on our butts, we would be okay -- if not better.

Even if American-born kids and their parents don't believe that anymore, kids and folks from the rest of the world still do. America is the land of dreams. America is the place millions have risked their lives to come to. They believed in, believe in, the promise of America. That promise isn't of free eats, fast women and cradle to grave care, but rather the chance to succeed and the chance for a better life for themselves and their family.

Think about it: Besides those escaping prosecution, taxation or whacked out political or religious views, the number of Americans fleeing our land to another for a "better life" is miniscule. How many people do you personally know that have left the United States for a "better life?" Now, how many do you know came to the United States in search of something better? How many of your parents, grandparents, friends, neighbors or business acquaintances were born in another country?

It doesn't matter if your politics are left, right or down the middle -- your life is better here. (Would you rather be a feminist in Saudi Arabia or America? Would you rather be a minority in America or Liberia? Wanna be a capitalist in France?) That's why our last action hero, Arnold, is here and not his fatherland of Austria or any other nation on Earth.

He came here with a dream, worked and played hard; made millions and married a member of American royalty, in Maria Kennedy Shriver. To me, that's making good on the American promise and living the American dream. Can he run a state that size of smaller nations? Can any one man or woman? I think the better question should be, "Could he do any worse?"

Does any one person "run" a state or nation? Or, is a governor or, president for that matter, helped out by lots of smart folks -- folks who are special in their fields of expertise?

Can Arnold "clean house" as he keeps on repeating? That depends on your definition of "house." If you think he is going to get rid of years and years worth of rottenness that is the entire state of politics, then the answer is, no. There isn't a Hoover big enough to suck up all the scum, nor a gun powerful enough to terminate, truly evil political vermin.

But, on the other hand, if "house" means that dwelling in Sacramento where the Gov lives, the answer is, "Yes, he can."

Yes, he can surround himself with those willing to do the "peoples' work." Yes, he can steer clear of special interests. Yes, he can keep his nose clean. Yes, he can look to the Constitution of the United States, the Bill of Rights and the Constitution of California in pursuing policy.

Yes, he can.

Yes, you can.

Yes, I can.

Hell, smut peddler Larry Flynt and aging porn star Mary Cary technically "can." We all can, if we believe in the American dream.

Reminiscing on columns and Kaline

Perhaps it was the advent of an approaching birthday, but for some reason I looked up some of my old columns.

Goodness gracious, I've been writing a personal weekly column for nearly 49 years. I started with a sports column September 2, 1954 while covering the St. Johns High School Redwings for the Clinton County Republican News.

The "Republican" has long since been dropped from that weekly, county seat newspaper's name.

As I see it now, my publisher, Ink White, gave me way too much freedom and way too little editing. Ink, what a great name for a newspaper man. His real name was Enoch.

I wrote short bits on varying sports -- golf, bowling, football, basketball, horseshoe pitching, Ping Pong, baseball, etc. as opposed to Jim's Jottings one inch frame. The confidence the Tigers' new manager, Bucky Harris, has in Kaline is reflected in the fact that he moved him up to third place in the batting order.

"Undoubtedly, the three home runs hit by Kaline Sunday was a lot of luck, but it does show that he has more power this year than last when he hit only four homers all season. In the third game this year he hit two triples which also shows hitting strength.

"We wish him only the best of luck and hope his hitting can elevate the Tigers' spirit and their position in the league standings."

Luck had nothing to do with it. As the Baseball Hall of Fame says of Kaline, "(He) was a model of consistency who excelled with minimum fanfare"

Kaline was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1980. His lifetime batting average was .297. He won 10 Gold Glove Awards and was selected for the All-Star Team 15 times. From the Hall of Fame, "His reputation as a clutch performer was enhanced by his .379 batting average against St. Louis in the 1968 World Series." I like to think of myself as a clutch performer and consistent, to boot. During my career I have written about 2,500 columns. In Kaline's career he had 3,007 hits. 15 YEARS AGO (1988)

• By Aug. 22, most of the 70 Tra-Tech Midwest employees laid off following the Aug. 3 fire and destruction of the van conversion plant should be back to work. Until a new building can be constructed, the manufacturing and assembly will continue in a temporary site at 1776 Clarkston Road in Orion Township, said Tra-Tech President Grant W. Grebeck.

• The Clarkston Village Council has adopted an ordinance allowing them to hire a full-time village manager. Village residents have 45 days to petition the council for an election on the issue; otherwise, it will become law. The petition must be signed by no less than 10 percent of the registered voters in Clarkston (97 people) to force an election. The addition of a full-time official, if the ordinance becomes law, would be welcomed with open arms by the village council, all of whom work on a part-time basis.

• Capt. Steve Ronk had planned the Media Day for over a year, and he even convinced over a dozen of the township's 35 firefighters to volunteer their day off to help teach reporters about firefighting. The 100-year-old farmhouse across from Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road had been used as a construction office for Newport Condominiums, but the owners donated it to the fire department for practice fighting fires.

25 YEARS AGO (1978)

• Fed up with the clamor created by young adults who congregate in the Clarkston Village park off Depot Road, four angry residents demanded better police response to the problem from the village council at a Monday night meeting. The park has become a hangout for young adults who disturb local property owners with their late night parties, they said. Council President Keith Hallman told residents the council is aware of the problem.

• At least two of the stores in the Clarkston Mills downtown shopping center are expected to open Sept. 1. Negotiations are complete or in the final stages for all 11 stores on the main level, according to owner Marc Alan. He said he is still getting inquiries about space each day. Scheduled to open Sept. 1 are Saratoga Truck, a men's clothing store, and Shoe Tree, a men's and women's shoe store.

• Cider won't be the most potent beverage on sale during the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Cider and Crafts Festival, Sept. 22-24. Flanking the craft and cider booths in Clarkston's park off Depot Road will be the Jaycees' beer tent. The village council gave the go-ahead to the Jaycees' on Monday night. The Jaycees plan to operate their beer tent on Friday and Saturday evening and on Sunday afternoon.

one column on a single subject.

One baseball item was about Al Kaline. I wrote this April 21, 1955:

"What a wonderful feeling it must be to be a 20-year-old boy, two years out of high school, to hit three home runs in one baseball game in the major leagues. If the sports writers, commentators and fans don't spoil him by loading on praise, using premature comparisons, then riding him if he goes hitless a few games, the Detroit Tigers could have a good right fielder for a long time in Al Kaline.

"The awe of the major leagues has worn off now with his rookie year past, and he has played enough baseball to show that he can hit big league pitching. Likewise, Kaline has proven himself afield as he covers a lot of ground with his speed and has a strong throwing arm.

"Kaline picked up 20 pounds during the winter to bring his weight to 175 which he carries on a six foot, Al Kaline had 399 home runs.

I don't know how many hum "dingers" of columns I have had, but in 49 years, I've had to connect at least 400 times.

My longevity has spanned nearly 50 years. Kaline's was just 22 years in the big leagues.

"Mr. Tiger," as Kaline would become, won the batting title the year I wrote that sports column. In 1955 he hit .340 at the age of 20. He had 200 hits in 588 at bats, with 27 home runs.

Ohmigosh!

That was 48 years ago. That makes Kaline 68years-old. That makes me . . . OLD!

Taser used on man who threatened police

On Tuesday, Aug. 5 at 6:30 p.m., the Oakland County Sheriff's Department in Independence Township was called out to a home at 9602 Cornell. There a 35-yearold man threatened suicide and threatened deputies with bodily harm, Det. Dirk Feneley said, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department in Independence Township.

The man held a 10-inch butcher knife and told police he wanted them to kill him, Feneley said. The officers attempted to talk to him, but the man came at two of the officers with the knife. He then went running into the home, but later came back with the same knife in hand. This time he charged at another officer, which was when the man was shot with a Taser gun. The 6'3" tall, 250-pound man, was shot three times with the Taser, Feneley said.

He was admitted to the North Oakland Medical Center for evaluation and released. The report is being reviewed by the prosecutor's office on charges of felonious assault on an officer with a weapon.

None of the officers were injured. There were 10 officers on the scene including those from Brandon Township and Oakland County Alcohol Enforcement Team.

This was the first time a Taser gun has been used on a citizen in Independence Township. Three officers received Taser training last week, and three more are scheduled this week, Feneley said.

The suspect, described as a white male, 5'9" to 6'0" tall, 160 to 180 pounds, left the store with $11,500 and fled in a southern direction, Det. Dirk Feneley said, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department in Independence Township.

There are no suspects. Feneley was to review a surveillance tape on Tuesday.

No injuries occurred during the incident. This is the second time in five months the bank has been robbed. On Saturday, March 15 the bank was robbed shortly before noon.

The Mystic Tan™ Booth is designed to deliver a customized sunless tanning application to each customer based on their body size, skin type, and desired color. There are three tanning level options available to produce the optimal tanning results for each individual customer. Once the proper tanning level for a new customer has been determined they are shown a short instructional video, which is designed to walk them through the entire process step-by-step. This insures that each customer receives the exact same instructions on how to get the best results. Inside the Mystic TanTM room the tanner simply disrobes and enters the booth. With the push of a button the session begins with a fine mist of Aloe Vera enriched Sunless-Tanning Solution being sprayed through our proprietary patented MagneTan[®] nozzles.

The Magnetan Technology insures uniform coverage over the entire body, which our proprietary sunless tanning solution instantly transforms into a quick natural-looking tan that continues to darken throughout the day.

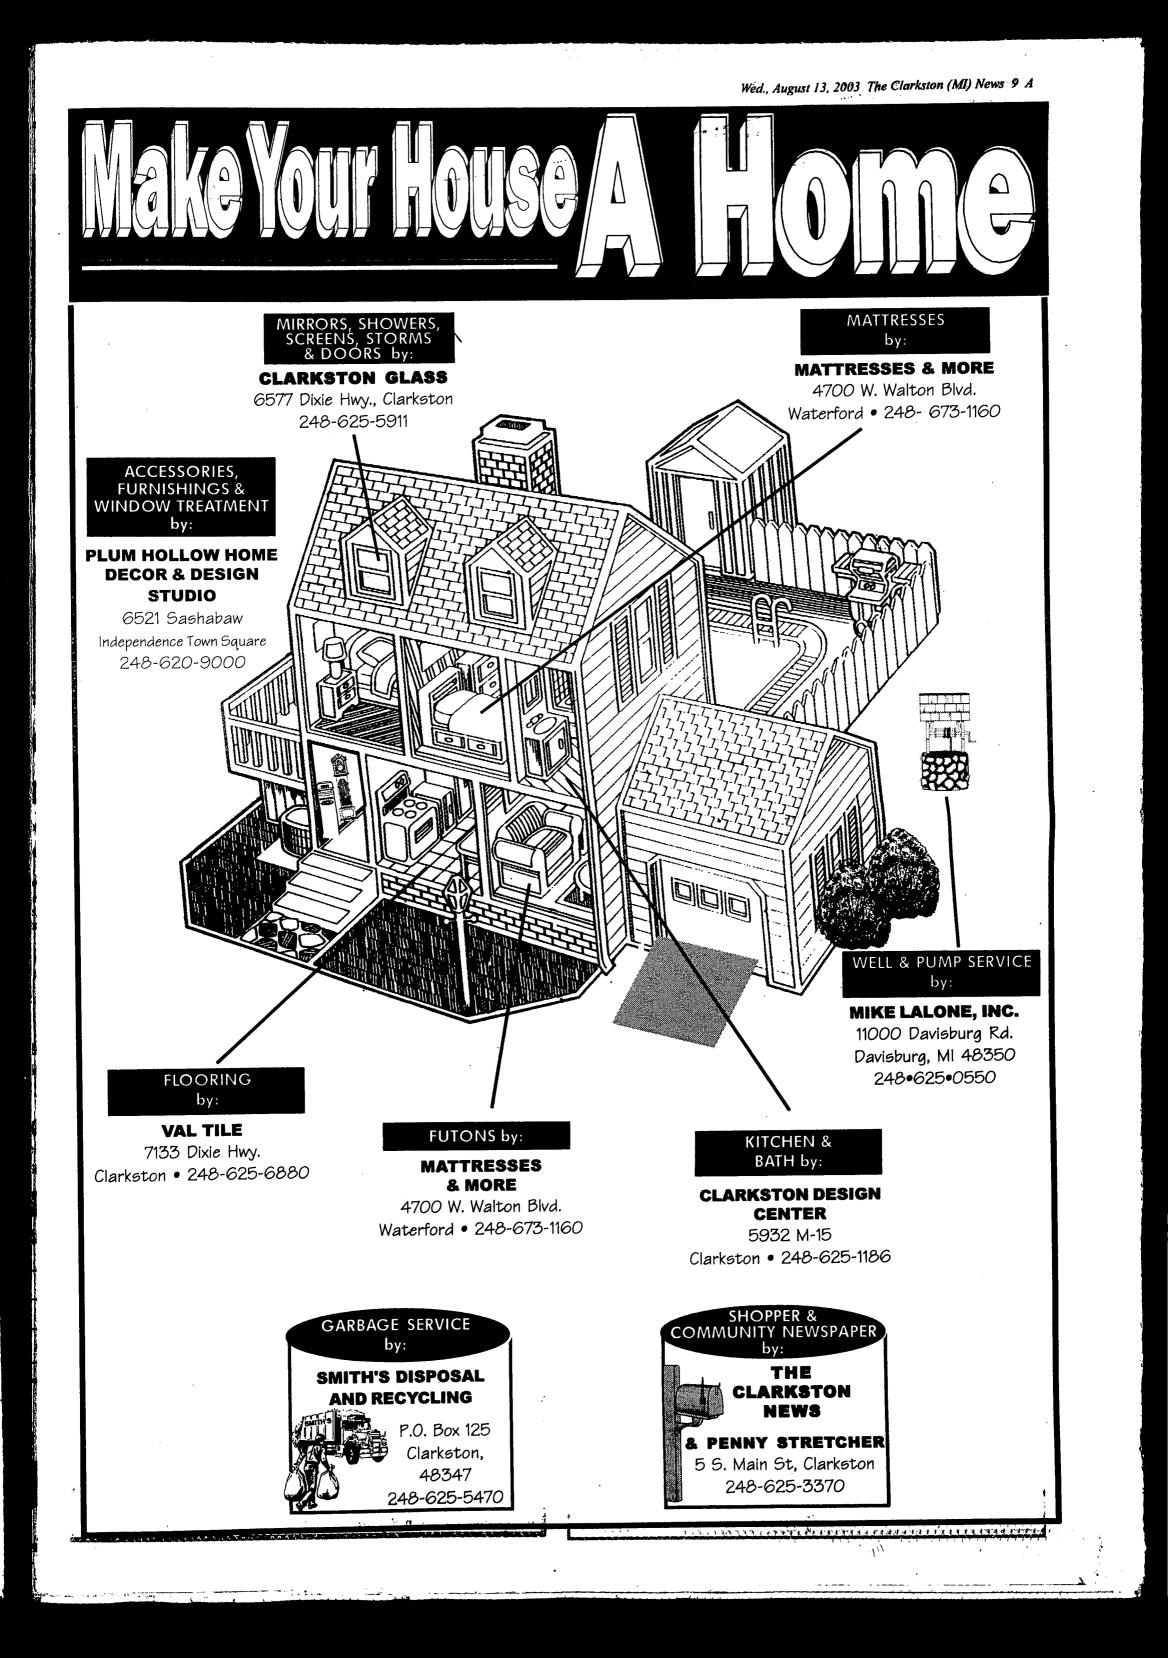

A perfectly uniform, natural looking tan in less than 60 second

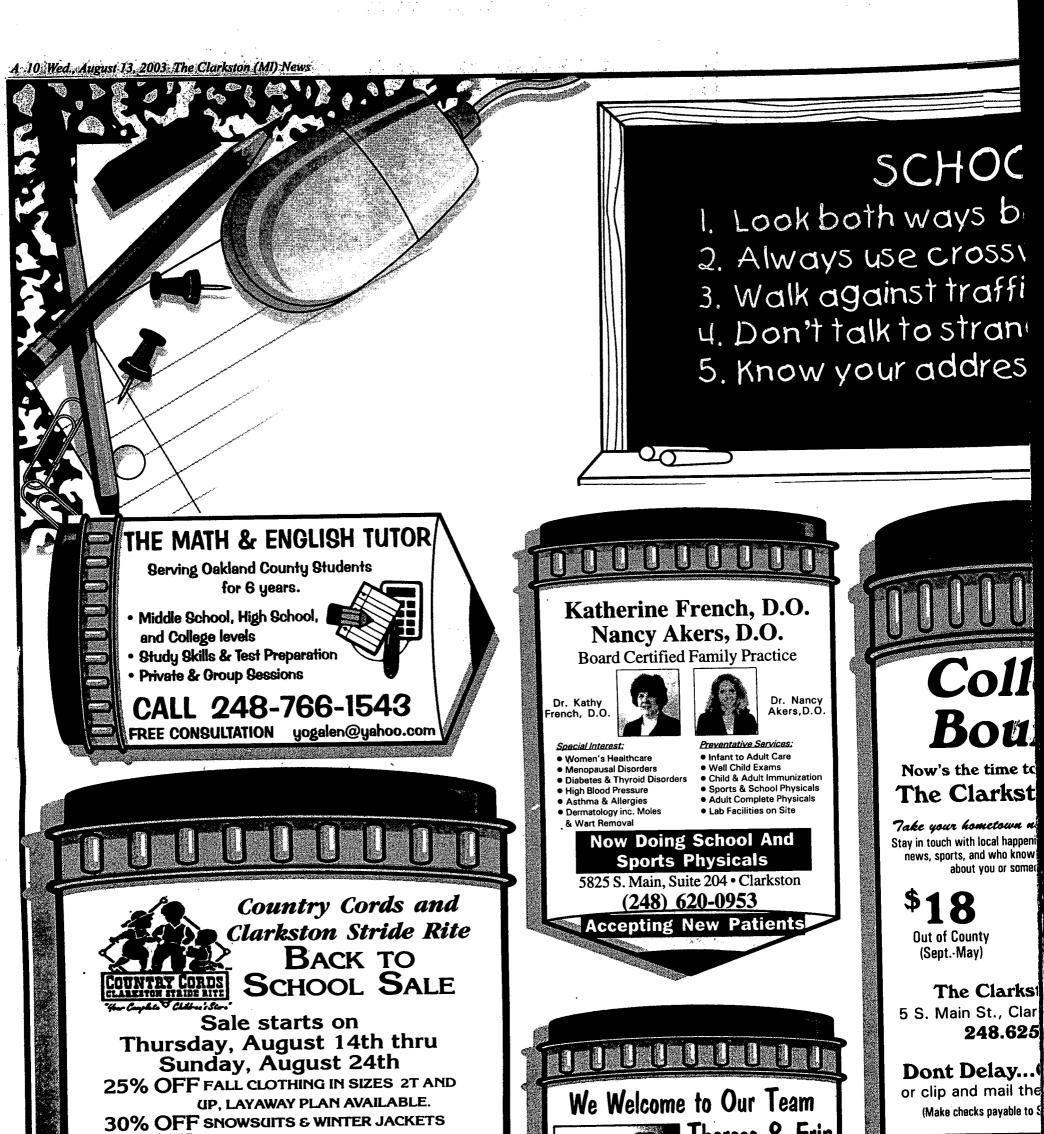

The bronzer is a water-soluble dye designed to produce an instant tan. The brown bronzer will wash off in the shower or bath but will not effect your overall tan. The DHA produces a long-term tan. When applied to the skin, DHA reacts with proteins in the skin's superficial layer to form a golden brown color. It begins to darken 2 to 3 hours after application and reaches its peak color within 24 hours. The DHA tan will begin to gradually fade through natural exfoliation, just like a tan from the sun. The Aloe Vera helps to carry the DHA deeper into the skin and promotes a softer smoother finish. The Mystic Tan™ tanning solution contains more than 65% tabilized Aloe Vera liquid. Aloe Vera is a natural moisturizer that helps the skin draw moisture to the surface. It softens the skin and helps smooth wrinkles

Will it turn me orange?

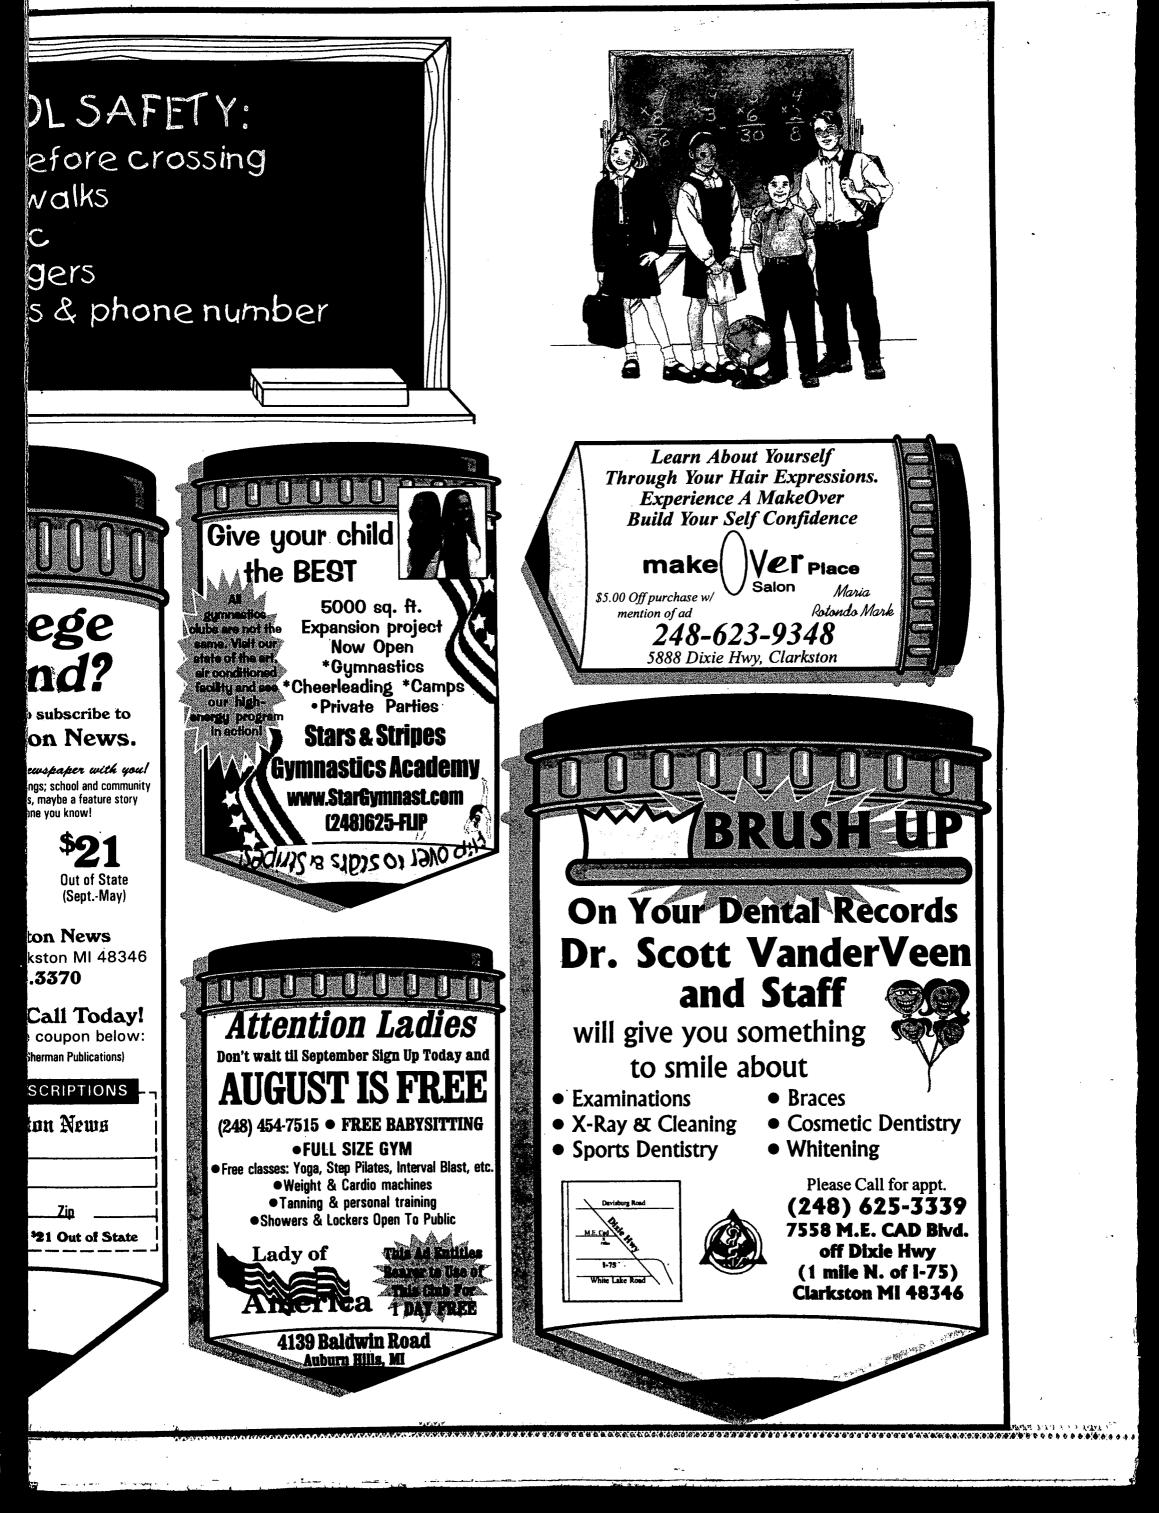

Not in the past, self-tanners gave many individuals an unnatural orange glow and caused streaking. Most of these undesirable results were caused by improper or ineffective application techniques.

Concerning those who serve with groups such as band boosters and PTAs, Butler said, "Neither the boosters nor the PTA are governed by the board or an official part of the school district. They are not funded by the state through the school district. They are separate organizations that just happen to deal a lot with the school district."

Residents continued to come to Miller's defense.

"Unfortunately our laws are one opinion against another, and there are just as many attorneys who have a totally different opinion, so we're probably still at any impasse," Frances Horstman said. "Why can't we do this for just this year? Let him coach for this year or have a three month trial period, or something."

Kay Pearson said she believes others may be guilty of more conflict of interest than Miller.

"I don't see that he has any ability to make conflicting decisions that would jeopardize either position," she said.

Calling the situation an "unfortunate scenario," Butler argued for consistency under law, regardless of the personalities or circumstances.

"If I'm bending the law for Mr. Miller, where does it end? These cases are never easy, but they're always the hardest when you're faced with an attractive, sympathetic situation," he said. "You have an excellent coach who also has been asked by the public to be an excellent board member, and apparently many didn't realize the consequences of one over the other."

He "absolutely" understands why some might question his bias for the athletic program, but others should be questioned for their biases.

After seeing his photo in The Clarkston News, your humble reporter last week had opportunity to meet John Morgan of Morgan's Service.

The circumstances were not the best. See, the car just "up and died" in the newspaper's parking lot. John actually left his business, came to our parking lot and provided a temporary quick fix to get me underway.

The discussion of how to fund Clarkston schools' second liaison officer illustrates just how many strings are attached from Lansing and Washington.

Such grants are called "categoricals." We can get the cash, but it can only be spent on various "categories" of services as dictated by those issuing the grants.

(Townships, cities and even states play the same game, as evidenced by the Michigan Legislature's "decision" to lower the "intoxicated" threshhold to 0.08 percent blood alcohol content to qualify for more federal highway dollars.)

On the one hand, you have to admire those who can write grant applications to secure the money.

On the other hand, it's frustrating how much money we have to spend to write grant applications in hopes that mama bird will drop a worm to the umpteen baby birds chirping for a handout.

said, arguing that more trees could be saved if plans were scaled back. She noted plans for three right-turn lanes in a half-mile stretch of road. "This is overengineered."

McCrary also suggested that a lower speed limit might lead to the need for shorter sight distances and, therefore, fewer trees being removed.

Treasurer James Wenger echoed previous concerns about tracking the reality after the planning.

"Sometimes extra trees just seem to be removed," he said. "How do we monitor that?"

Supervisor Dale Stuart said he has requested meetings with road commission engineers to discuss tree conservation.

"There can be design changes in the field," Stuart said. "Even to the point of time when they're taken down, we can argue about individual trees.'

Also voicing dissatisfaction were Holcomb Road residents Vernon and Martha Post. Although they protested to the road commission at a November 2002 public meeting, they believe their concerns were not taken into consideration.

"We bought that property 15 years ago because of the privacy," Martha Post said. "Most of the trees that are going to come down are on our property. You're going to see more accidents and more deer killed. Please help us save our trees."

Sharon Shelton, the Post's niece, said she has visited during times when drivers were speeding on the now-gravel road.

"It's a very dangerous place. We were literally jumping into the weeds and yelling at those kids to slow down," Shelton said. "It will be really, really, awful, at their age, to see that torn down just to build a superhighway.'

Another previous concern apparently is a concern no longer. Township officials tempered their criticism of Clarkston Community Schools, blamed by some as causing maintenance problems because of school bus traffic to and from Springfield Plains Elementary School.

Since the school district has donated property to smooth the curve at Bridge Lake Road and access to a drainage catch basin on school property, trustees backed off from demands that the schools help pay for the paving

"In my mind the schools have participated in this project," Wenger said.

Officials have cited a 20-year discussion of having Holcomb Road paved to Bridge Lake Road, and Springfield Township officials had previously participated in the paving of Bridge Lake Road as part of the longrange plan. The road commission sees it as a good parallel route to I-75 and a link to Davisburg Road and Dixie Highway.

Gardeners say 'Welcome to Clarkston'

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer As president of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, Diane Midgley would like to see more people seeing green.

"We take pride in Clarkston, and we want people to enjoy the beauty of Clarkston, and feel welcome when they arrive," she said.

Toward that end, the club maintains the flower barrels in downtown Clarkston and the garden beds at the Independence Township Library. Members also work to educate folks on how they can add to the area's beauty.

They also enjoy each other's company, sharing gardening tips and hearing special speakers at their monthly meetings in members' homes. There are occasional outings, such as one planned for September to the Meijer Gardens in Grand Rapids.

Midgley is in the middle of a two-year term as president of the local club, having been a member about four years. She was recruited by some neighbors who encouraged her green thumb.

"I really enjoy gardening," and she formed a special bond with those neighbors. "Family is first and foremost, but neighbors can become as close as family."

It's an active pastime as the group's purpose is "to stimulate interest in agriculture and horticulture." Midgley thinks they're doing well.

"We always want to do more, but we only have so many hands," she said. "We're really trying to make a significant number of contacts with all ages in Clarkston."

The number of hands is limited because the group limits the number of active members to 40. That's because of the tradition of meeting in members' homes, which Midgley said is more enjoyable than using a large meeting room.

"We don't want to change that," she said. "We feel so comfortable in one another's homes."

'God created all living things, and who

That doesn't mean they don't welcome new members. Only 36 of the 40 positions are currently full, and the club has established several "honorary" and "associate" memberships.

The active members are active, however, both in gardening and education. This past year, for example, the club visited all of Clarkston's elementary schools, giving each student a parsley seedling and packets of marigolds and beans, with directions for planting and care. The presentation included become adults and hopefully will have their own gardens."

• The club is a diverse group, ranging from mothers with infants to one member almost 90 years old.

"We have a wonderful diversity that is helpful, because the young people look for the experienced gardeners' advice," Midgley said. "And the older folks look to the young for enthusiasm and energy."

Gardening has had a great impact on Midgley's life in more ways than one.

One loved it so much that he came to the teacher concerned about finding someone to care for his plantings while he was gone on spring break.

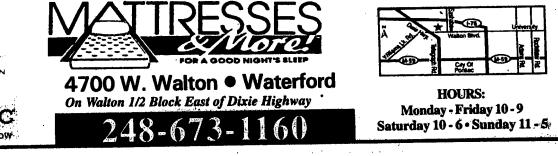

"We are stimulating interest in gardening through the youngsters," Midgley said. "Those youngsters are eventually going to A 1995 skiing accident left her with a closed-head injury and a slow recovery.

Charity ride to benefit Children's Leukemia Foundation

BY KYLE GARGARO

Clarkston News Editor

Area motorcycle riders are invited to be "Rockin" Down the Highway," during the David and Wanda Harrison Memorial Charity Ride to benefit Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan.

The ride is set for Sunday, Aug. 24 when the group will leave Clarkston Chrysler Jeep at 5:30 p.m. The riders will be escorted on a 50-mile scenic ride around north Oakland County by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Motor Unit. The motorcycles will rumble into DTE Energy Music Theatre, where riders will be treated to a concert by the legendary Doobie Brothers.

"We are real excited about this event," event organizer Chuck Fortinberry said. "There will be some local dignitaries and entertainment people who will be joining us. There is going to be a lot going on."

This is the third year of the event, but the first year it is being held as a memorial to David and Wanda Harrison. The Clarkston residents were killed in an accident near Saulte Ste. Marie, Ontario last August 15.

"Dave was a real good friend of mine and he rode in this event before the tragic accident. Riding was one of the many things Dave and I had in common," Fortinberry said. "I just thought naming the ride after Dave and Wanda was a great way to remember all they did for this community."

The event has grown each year according to Jim Blackledge, the Marketing and Public Relations Director of the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan.

"Last year we raised more than $10,000 and had 250 riders," Blackledge said. "It is really a great day."

The event was started three years ago by Fortinberry.

"My father died of leukemia in 1993 and we have three kids of our own so we decided to get involved with the Children's Leukemia Foundation," Fortinberry said. "I know of a couple of charities which had rides and they raised a lot of money."

Entry fees for the ride are $25 per person. The entry fee includes a concert ticket and parking for the Doobie Brothers at DTE Energy Music Theatre, late lunch at registration check-in and official ride pin.

"We urge people to register before the day of the event," Blackledge said.

Individuals can register by calling (248) 353-8222 or logging on to leukemiamichigan.org.

"There are a lot of people who ride in this every year," Fortinberry said. "Everyone who has taken part in it in the past has enjoyed it. We are looking for at least 500 riders this year."

Religion Local pastor writes book on Olympic experience

BY KYLE GARGARO

Clarkston News Editor

Father Bob Humitz is reliving his experiences as a volunteer chaplain at the 2002 Winter Olympics in a new book now available.

The pastor of St. Daniel Catholic Community in Clarkston has written "Reliving the Glory," which is a book of his experiences in Salt Lake City.

"I feel it is an important story to tell," Humitz said. "It is about the relationship of sports and religion at the Olympics. It is something that you won't find in "Sports Illustrated" or the sports section of the newspaper."

Humitz did not travel to Salt Lake City with the idea to write a book about his experiences. However, he was journaling the events that took place while at the Olympics.

"I was journaling in Salt Lake City because I wanted to make sure I remembered all my experiences. Also, I was e-mailing the information back to the parish so they could keep up with what was going on," Humitz said.

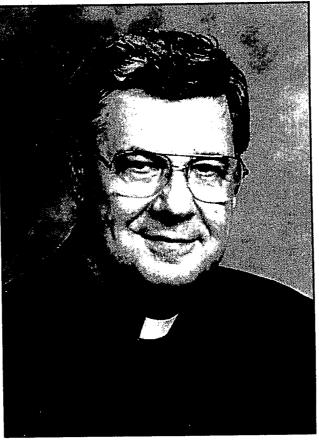

Upon his return to Clarkston, Humitz told the story to many in the area. He had a power point presentation with some of the many pictures he took. The pastor spoke to groups such as other churches, the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Optimist Club.

The idea to write a book started with one of his parishioners.

"Harry Knitter runs a publishing company and he came up to me one day and said he thought it would make a good book," Humitz said. "Without his suggestions and help I definitely would not have done the book."

They needed to take the journal entries and make a book out of them. The information was traded back-and-forth between them before the final product was established.

"When we started this project a year ago, I considered Father Bob a friend. Now, after dozens of meetings and encounters, we feel that we have become closer friends as we pooled our talents and experiences to produce a unique look at the Games held in a setting that no one can reproduce, since much of it has been dismantled and given to the University of Utah," Knitter said.

The two combined Knitter's experience in publishing and Humitz's experience in media. Humitz served as the director of the Office of Television for the archdiocese of Detroit prior to coming to Clarkston.

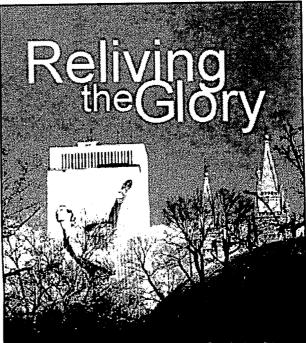

Humitz has always enjoyed writing and had previously written a book on reading scripture.

This book has more than 100 photos taken from the nearly 700 photos Humitz took while in Salt Lake City. Humitz, an avid skier, long dreamed of participating in the Winter Olympics. His dream came true when he was accepted as a chaplain at the age of 67. Humitz's adventure chronicles his activities and also those of Deacon Archie Noon who accompanied him on his trip and served as an assistant during liturgical ceremonies.

"This is a personal story," Humitz said. "It is a great story of how people from different cultures, faiths and backgrounds came together and worked together."

"Reliving the Glory," is a 156 page book that costs $19.95. You can order a copy by calling (248) 922-9400.

Good Hair Days

Where do good hair days come from? Was there a beginning? Let's get back to basics Good grooming is the choice Responsibility begins with you A hairbrush is the tool and daily brushing the rule Start at nape of neck and stroke to the front Continue brushing over each ear forward until entire head is covered Reverse the procedure beginning from the front Repeat the cycle till your scalp tingles and feels alive Start a new tradition for self-appreciation Brushing the hair is one way to do this The benefits reach far beyond the strands of hair This will increase blood circulation and relax the scalp

If only to stimulate healthy hair growth The failure to address care of the hair may increase Scalp tightening contributing to hair loss. Hair loss reveals the condition of your scalp...

Don't just reach for the conditioner if it's a condition Most individuals with hair loss target themselves for hairy jokes.

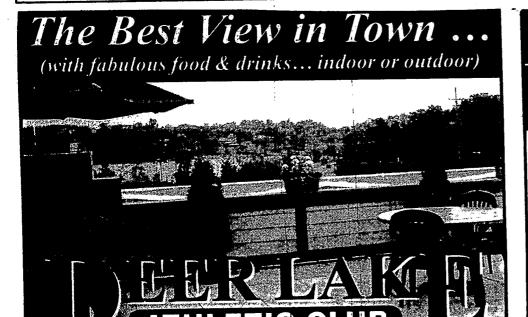

This is not a joking matter because you see it matters after all it is just matter.

A good hair day is but a thought away Grab that tool and brush that stress away.

Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

"It forced me to study and really concentrate," she said.

It was a turning point not only medically, but spiritually.

"I would continue to ask myself, Why was I saved?' I do believe the Lord saved me for a purpose, to do his work, and not be shy about praising him," she said. "God created all living things, and who else to care for other living things than humans?"

While her front yard is nicely landscaped and her "back yard" consists of woods and a view of Deer Lake, Midgley does not have an elaborate garden at her home. There's a simply explanation.

"Because we're retired, we're not here that much," she said. She is former director of community services and husband Roy is a retired General Motors executive. They enjoy travel and a blended family of six grown children and six grandchildren. The oldest, 9, recently flew by himself from Denver to enjoy a weeklong visit in Clarkston.

"We spoiled him rotten," she said with a laugh.

Midgley's other pastimes including golfing, reading, knitting and cooking. She is also a member of the Clarkston Optimists and the Assistance League of Southeast Michigan.

Soon she will launch another "career" of sorts. A recent graduate of a "clown academy," she will debut as "Hugs the Clown" at children's hospitals "to bring some smiles and laughter" to children who need both.

There are never any dull moments," Midgley said. "My husband and I wonder how we ever had time to work. We are busier now as retirees than we ever were before."

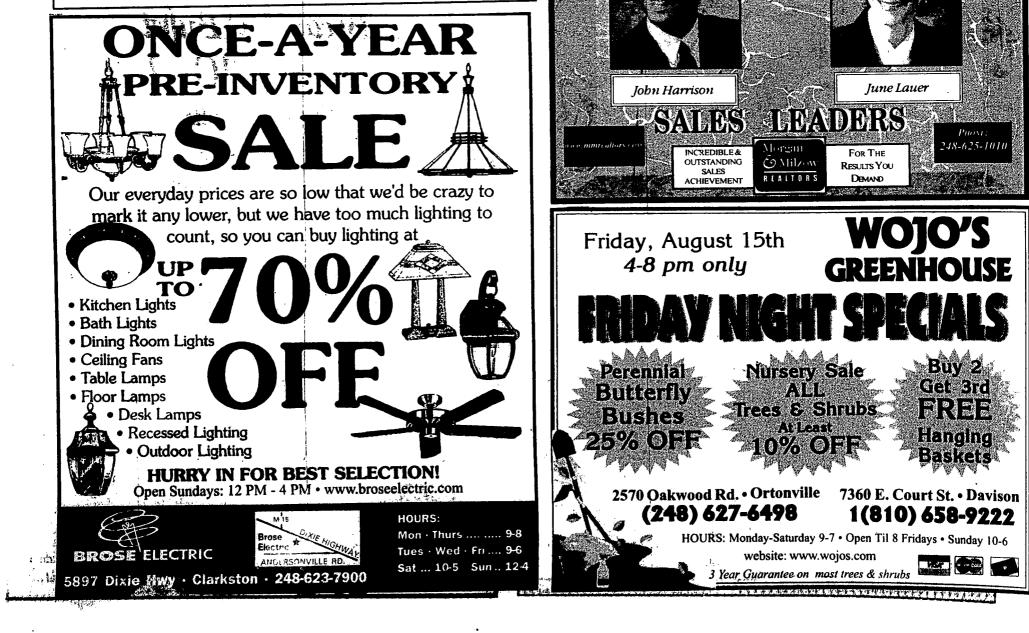

The farm and garden club is high on the list, however, as Midgley continues to promote the beneficial effects of gardening not only on the eyes, but the soul as well.

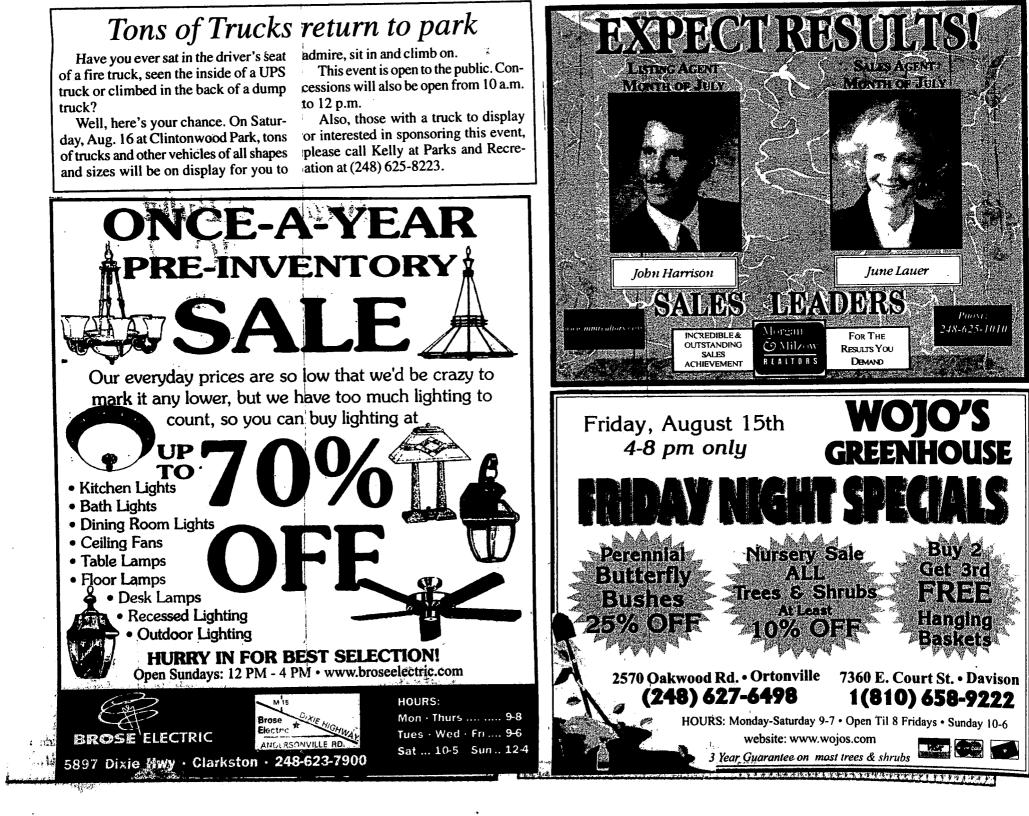

"There's therapy in working in the soil," she said. "My husband said it's work, but for me it's a labor of love. You have some think time, you're working with your hands, and the results are glorious. It's wonderful to see green."

The Clarkston club hopes to increase their promotion of plant life with a recent $1,000 grant from the Michigan Farm and Garden Club. In addition, there are plans for a recognition program for businesses "who are doing a very nice job of 'welcoming' the public" with their own landscaping and flowers.

The club will have a presence at the Crafts and Cider Festival in September, and will stage their annual "greens market" in December, providing wreaths and centerpieces for the Christmas season.

Mazda MPV's a minivan with some pep

Rush Road Reports

By Don Rush

Somewhere in the distance I can hear a frecklefaced kid wearing Catholic School clothes repeating the Mazda mantra.

"Zoom, zoom, zoom . . ."

This in tandem with a mini-van?! Go figure! The first thing I noticed about the MPV -- after its stylish design -- was its get-up-and-go. Here's what the muckity-mucks at Mazda HQ say about the MPV's pep: "The engine's 24 valves, multi-port electronic fuel injection and 10.1:1 compression ratio optimize combustion and performance. Four valves per cylinder increases the engine's capacity to inhale air and expel exhaust."

Sounds like gobbledygook to me.

All I know is that the 183-cubicinch, aluminum alloy six cylinder engine is all about performance. (I think it has 200 horsepower, for those who care). I had to deliver some Clarkston News bundles to a few stores along Dixie Highway while testing the MPV. Let me say this: I had all the confidence and motor I needed to execute left-hand turns across four lanes of cars. The MPV pulled out and got up to speedlickety-split. It maneuvered in and out of traffic, left to right, deftly. It was tight, responsive. It handled like a smaller sports car. (Yes, that jerk in the silver MPV driving like a madman on Dixie the week July 3-10 at about noon, was me. I'm sorry.)

But enough of freckle-faced kids, lusty engines and precision handling. Let's talk about important things. Things like, gas mileage, the ride, comfort and transporting a family to and fro, hither and yon -- you get the idea.

Gas mileage: The sticker says the 2003 MPV Wagon will get between 18 and 25 miles per gallon -- it has a 19.8 gallon tank. Doing the math, in theory, you can drive within 83 miles of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave, Washington, DC on one tank of gas (From Goodrich to the White House is 578 miles).

We ran the MPV on area roads and also did some highway trips. It was hot during July, so we ran the air conditioning all the time and we actually had the audacity to drive over the speed limit. All things considered, we averaged 18 miles to the gallon. Not bad, in my book.

During our 360 miles of traveling, we lived in luxury. The MPV seats seven, so our family of four, Jen, myself and the lads, Thing One and Thing Two, had more than ample space to stretch. The two boys and their parents gave eight thumbs up to the DVD package ($1,200). The boys liked to watch movies on the long Hi-lites & Lo-lites trip and Jen and I liked the peace and quiet, because they were too busy watching to fight amongst themselves.

If you're in the market for a minivan, you deserve to put the MPV on your short list for test drives. The loaded version, which we drove, listed for $31,450. For more information go to www.mazda.com

Despite storms, SCAMP classic car show goes on

The show still went on, though the SCAMP Concours in the Park, Friday, Aug. 1, was subject to torrential downpours. The nasty weather had a great effect on the event. SCAMP Director Donna Clancy said about 200 people attended, when more than 1,000 were expected. And only 45 cars were exhibited, compared to the planned 100-plus. Even so, Clancy said, "The SCAMPers and the drivers had a ball. I don't know who had more fun." The SCAMP participants had an opportunity to vote for their favorite car and award the "Best in Show, SCAMPer's Choice." Then, to their delight, they had a chance to sit in the awarded vehicle. Photos provided.

This preview not approved for all audiences

I remember a day when it was only the Always or Tampax commercial to make your cheeks turn red. Now, advertising topics range from Viagra to medications for sexually transmitted diseases and so on.

But those things I'm forced to be an adult about. It's what is blatantly put in my face, that is of an inappropriate nature, that I'm having a problem with. In fact, I find it offensive.

It seems lately I can't sit and watch a television show I've deemed acceptable to watch, without being forced to watch commercials, particularly previews for the upcoming fall lineup, I don't find acceptable.

Now, when I'm in control of the remote, this isn't a problem because I typically channel surf during commercials, and watch two or three shows at once. When others are around, though, that usually doesn't happen.

So I'm forced to watch a preview for NBC's "Coupling." It's a more risque "Friends," where they've all slept with one other -- guys with girls, girls with girls and guys with guys, which they highlight on the promo. Another commercial for the show featured a man in woman in bed talking about attractive freckles in private places.

Then there's "Las Vegas," another new NBC show, this one promoting the fact it's a city where anything and everything does happen. So, naturally, the preview revolves around sex at one point showing a couple in an elevator, where the woman admits to security personnel she knows she's on camera.

FOX's "Skin" debuts this season and is all about the pornography business. Particularly it focuses on pher and the child of a political figure. The preview shows the couple intimately.

FOX's "Temptation Island," returning for its fourth season, has been advertised this year with having more "lust, desire and passion" then ever before

I'm tired of these ads that glorify sinful living. The you-can't-have-fun-in-life-without-sex-drinking-andgeneral bad behavior commercials. (Beer commercials are great for this, too.)

There was a time when all previews were made to be acceptable for all audiences. I know if you go to the movie theatre the trailers still say that, but what's shown is a contradiction. (Note the "American Wedding" trailer where the star, Jason Biggs, has a dilemma with pubic hair.)

What I find disturbing is these advertisements occur at any time, anywhere. For example, the inappropriate "American Wedding" trailer was shown before "Tomb Raider 2," a video game-inspired movie intended for younger audiences.

The television previews for the fall debuts I've seen shown as early as 7 p.m. It used to be that more adultoriented commercials and programs wouldn't air until after 9 p.m., when it was expected kids would be in bed.

Now, I know there always has been and always will be television shows and movies that push the envelope or go over the limits. That doesn't make all shows and films bad. There are plenty of diamonds in the rough, so to speak. All you have to do is be wise con-a forbidden romance between the child of a pornogra- cerning what show you will watch and what others you won't.

But I, as a Christian, don't want to be forced to see and hear things I don't think are appropriate, especially when it comes to a commercial, something that should be relatively harmless for viewing. I wish the previews were truly suitable for all audiences.

FOX's "Paradise Hotel," has a warning before the show begins and upon returning from commercials. (I got this information from someone I know who watches.) The warning, which I've also seen on the commercial, states the show is intended for mature audiences because of its sexual nature. The previews I have seen have never shown anything I've thought was inappropriate.

Watching late night television, I saw a commercial which began with a warning that it was for mature audiences, so that gave me the opportunity to turn.

This is all I ask.

As a born again believer, I am to be careful at what I allow to go before my eyes.

"I will set before my eyes no vile thing," Psalm 101 3.

In Psalm 119:37a, the Bible says, "Turn my eyes away from worthless things."

For television, I can only foresee things getting worse. Before the day comes when I can no longer watch television because of its blatant offenses, I'll simply complain about it in The Clarkston News. It helps me feel better.

How do you feel about advertising for more risque television? We welcome your feedback at shermanpub@aol.com.

You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. Show me the way to reach my locals, You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I want to be with you and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dielogue as on as your favor has been granted. D.C.
