Candidates attempt to show differences

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston school board candidates were in general agreement on questions posed during a Wednesday, May 26 forum, but tried to make their qualifications the point of distinction.

In anticipation of the Monday, June 14 school election, the League of Women Voters-Oakland Area hosted the event in cooperation with the Clarkston PTA Council at Clarkston High School. The format allowed opening and closing statements and included questions submitted in writing by the audience.

Candidate Barry Bomier was absent, citing work-related conflicts in a written statement read by moderator Emory Bauer.

"I believe the education of children is one of our most important responsibilities, and I want to be part of making that happen," Bomier wrote. His experience as a retired army officer and a former Clarkston school trustee give him abilities in crisis communication and strategic planning, he said. "My experience and background provide me with unique qualifications and skills for serving on the board of education."

The panel included incumbent board President Karen Foyteck; Jeffrey Allsteadt and Diane Weller, unsuccessful candidates in 2003; and first-time candidate Joan Patterson.

"One of the reasons I'm running is to make sure promises made are promises kept," Allsteadt said, referring to the $84.7 million bond issue approved by voters in 2003. "It's important for the community to know that money is well spent, spent on projects that are needed and spent on projects that help the schools. It's not a wish list."

Foyteck said her experience will help the board see the bond construction projects and the reconfiguration of middle school grade to a successful conclusion.

Residents discover the benefits of spring season walking

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The U.S. surgeon general recommends at least 30 minutes of moderate intensity exercise daily to maintain a healthy lifestyle. Local Clarkston residents are doing just that by taking advantage of the warmer weather and hitting the pavement, no matter the age or physical activity level.

Walking has been found to be a very successful cardiovascular workout for heart health as well as a great way to enjoy spring and the changing surroundings.

"We don't walk for weight, we walk for health," Kathy Uchman said.

For the past five years, Uchman, of Clarkston, has led groups of residents on a summer-long training schedule using walking as a tool to run a 5K race by the end of the season. The group is aimed at people over the age of 40, but all are welcome.

Starting early in May, Uchman and her walkers walk for nine minutes and run for one. The sequence is

School board cast vote for June 7 election

Based on a recommendation from board Secretary Stephen Hyer, the board approved the casting of votes in the June 7 election for the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

The intermediate district board is elected by representatives of the 28 districts, and Hyer's recommendation included Daniel Share for the open two-year term, George Ehlert for the four-year term and Amy Elizabeth Columbus and Richard Granke for two six-year seats.

At the same meeting, the board approved more textbook purchases for 2004-2005, including new materials for algebra II (at a cost of $27,000) and informal geometry ($5,000).

Correction

A May 26 story concerning the "Happy Birthday, Springfield" parade inadvertently omitted the full name of Pastor Marc Burnett of First Baptist Church of Davisburg.

Oakhurst charity event helps support 'Fallen Heroes'

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Not even near record-breaking rainfall could keep area residents and businesses from supporting an important cause when the challenge arose.

The second annual Michigan Fallen Heroes Memorial Charity Golf Event at Oakhurst Country Club in Clarkston on May 24 raised $3,000 to support the statue saluting public service officers and another $1,000 to the family of Officer Gary Davis, a Bloomfield Township police officer who was killed in a car crash on May 13.

The event, supported by Oakhurst residents, the club and area businesses, increased its donation from last year by $500.

"It's rewarding to see so many residents and members demonstrate appreciation for our local 'heroes' who protect our wonderful community everyday," Paul Cloutier said. Cloutier was just one of the local driving forces behind the charity event.

The event featured a golf scramble at Oakhurst. Despite being only able to play 13 holes due to the large rainfall, area community members and public service officers were pleased to see the weather stay sunny all afternoon for an enjoyable round of golf.

"It looks like some of the Fallen Hero angels up above must have been looking down on us because the clouds miraculously parted and the sun began to shine when we teed off," Cloutier said.

Undersheriff Michael McCabe, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, was just one of the many officers who came out to support the event.

"It pumps everybody up. Literally, it gives you chills," McCabe said. "It tells the officers that they're part of the community and appreciated. It's a huge uplift for them."

Sergeant Paul Bidinger, Independence Township sub-station, not only came on behalf of Lieutenant Dale LaBair, but to enjoy a day off with members of the community and support a cause dear to him.

"For them to do this for the Fallen Heroes and Officer Davis, you just can't help but be grateful to the services offered," Bidinger said. "We're really grateful."

The event also included a silent auction, which also helped raise funds, as well as tournament awards and a dinner with all those involved.

The event raised more than $3,000 for the memorial in addition to donating $1,000 to the family of Officer Gary Davis. Photo by Alicia Dorset.

Committee members Maddie Park and Cheryl Callahan helped make the day a success by recruiting sponsors and overseeing the day's activities.

"We're just so blessed to have it," Park said.

Callahan found the most rewarding part of the day to be seeing various community leaders able to enjoy an afternoon of fun.

"Just meeting them and seeing how happy they are, they're really enjoying themselves," Callahan said.

Even Sheriff Michael Bouchard realized both the importance and symbolism of the event and stopped by to wish the golfers "good luck."

"Sheriff Bouchard stopped by in the middle of the afternoon, jumped on a cart and drove around the course to thank everyone for their participation," Cloutier said. "I thought that was pretty classy."

Money raised from the charity event supports a statue that honors members of various public service divisions, such as police officers and firefighters. The statue is a life-size bronze depiction of a kneeling police officer and firefighter next to one another. Located in Pontiac by the Oakland County courthouse, it was unveiled in conjunction with a tribute to the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001.

"This is a really good charity," Bidinger said. "A lot of times the guys (officers) think that they don't get recognized."

Library gets ready for another summer of movies

BY ALICIA DORSET
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Don't be surprised if the smell of fresh popcorn greets you at the Independence Township Library; it's just a sure sign that this summer's "Matinee Movies" are back in full swing.

Starting Wednesday, June 2, the library will once again host the summer movie series. From June until August, a new movie will premiere in the Community Meeting Room starting at 1 p.m. on Wednesday afternoons.

"We've got really great movies that people will like," Patience Beer, head of adult services, said.

The program started two years ago and has been growing ever since. With more people in attendance, the library has made sure to listen to what the moviegoers want.

"I did a focus group at the end of last summer and found that people wanted more," Beer said.

This summer the program will run for three months instead of two as in years past. There is also a focus on recently-released movies instead of showing only classic films.

(Due to part of the library's licensing agreement with the film studios, the actual movie titles are not permitted to be reprinted in print publications. Contact the library for this summer's lineup.)

While the program is aimed at adults, children and families are more than welcome to enjoy the films, according to Beer. None of this summer's selections have a rating higher than "PG-13."

"If you've got your grandkids staying with you for a week, now you've got something to do," Beer said. "We've got a really nice mix of movies that people will like."

Also new this year is movie theater popcorn made right at the library. An authentic popcorn maker was donated to the library from the Friends of the Independence Township Library and an anonymous donor.

"We're always improving," Beer said.

All movies are shown on the library's big screen television with stereo sound in the meeting room. Children under the age of 11 must be accompanied by an adult. Food and beverages from home are allowed while watching the films, but the liquids can not be red or purple. As always, the popcorn is free.

"I always enjoy a program that brings people together to enjoy films and talk about them," Beer said. "It's sort of that 'we're going to the movies' aspect that makes it an event."

Taking a turn as principal

As principals for the day, kindergartener Jack McKillop and first grader Meagan Hoffner assist acting principal Mrs. Farmer at PKE. The duo helped deliver messages, made copies and discussed important playground issues.

New museum exhibit honors hometown heroes

This week, the Clarkston Historical Society opened a new exhibit in our Clarkston Heritage Museum. This is the eighth exhibit since we first opened the Museum, and it is a particularly timely one. This newest display is titled "Clarkston In Action: From Hometown To Homefront" and focuses on local connections to the Civil War, World War I and World War II.

With all that is happening in the world today, this new exhibit gives the viewer an opportunity to explore how these previous conflicts affected this small town and those who lived here. From Civil War bullets to a German military belt buckle, there is a wide range of artifacts offered for viewing.

There is the story of Clarkston resident Francis Follett, who as a young man served in the Union Army and was wounded at the Battle of Gettysburg. There are military uniforms from both WW I and WW II, as well as war bond advertisements and a program from the Independence Township 1942 Birthday Ball where the big door prize for the evening was $8.00 in Defense Stamps. In this time of plenty, it is difficult to imagine using the ration books for food and gas that are on display here. And yet not only were these items rationed, but there is a tag line on the ration books that urges the user to save all their tin cans and even waste fats for use in producing munitions.

Nowadays, television makes it so easy for us to see what is happening across the world, but this certainly was not always the case. There was a time when only the radio and newspaper would have provided information about the homefront. So the WW II scrapbook kept by a young woman in Clarkston offers a wonderful chance to see how important this source of information was to her. She clipped articles from The Clarkston News that were about the War and our local servicemen and women. The scrapbook she created is a wonderful chance to step back to a time of USO newsletters and care packages from home. And did you know that the Clarkston Postmistress even delivered mail late at night if she knew it was from "one of our boys"?

And speaking of The Clarkston News, what do the News and the Spruce Camps of WW I have in common? Did you know that during WW II the News was owned by William Howard Stamp and that he saw to it that his newspaper was sent to all the boys "over there". Mr. Stamp knew the importance of news from home. He himself had served in a Spruce Camp in WW I. These camps were formed by the U.S. Army to fill the need for spruce wood used to build airplane wings. There are two "Spruce News" papers on exhibit in the new display. As well as other interesting items from these camps.

There is also a small collection of WW II items that belonged to Nelson Clark. Mr. Clark was a descendant of early pioneers Nelson and Jeremiah Clark, the brothers after whom the village was named. Nelson Clark (the later) was in the U.S. Coast Guard and several paper items such as his letter of induction, as well as his Coast Guard jacket are included in this exhibit. My favorite is a small handbook titled "Welcome Back To Civilian Life"; I wonder if once he was home he ever felt the need to read it!

We hope that everyone will make a point of visiting this newest exhibit. It seems like a fitting way to offer your respect to all those men and women from Clarkston who fought for our freedoms. Every day we enjoy the benefits of this wonderful community we call home, and it only seems right to honor those who made it possible. So in the spirit of Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, be sure to stop by the Clarkston Heritage Museum and visit "Clarkston In Action: From Hometown to Homefront."

The Museum is located in the Independence Township Library and is open whenever the library is. For questions or comments, please call the Clarkston Historical Society office at (248) 922-0270. We look forward to seeing you and hope you enjoy this wonderful new exhibit.

Opinion

Walking kept me sane at MSU

When I started my first year at Michigan State University, something strange happened: I had to live with one of those things called a "roommate." For the previous 19 years of my life I had enjoyed the perks of a single bedroom and queen-size bed all to myself. And I was perfectly content with that.

You can imagine the culture shock that took place when I was thrust into a cubicle the housing department called a "dorm room" with two things that made the experience of living with someone for the first time even worse: bunk beds and one lonely closet for two teenage girls with lots of clothes.

While I enjoyed my roommate, who just happened to be my best friend from sixth grade, I had to keep my sanity and independence in check.

I looked for a way out of the room at any cost.

I happened to walk by one of the intramural sports buildings at MSU on my way home from Journalism 108 one afternoon and took a peek in. I found a lovely indoor track that was filled with these people called "walkers." The little hamster in my brain hopped back on its wheel and cranked out a big realization: "Wow. Walking takes time and involves not being in my room."

I was hooked and looking for my tennis shoes.

Up to this point, the extent of my physical activity in life was summed up by being a mediocre kickball player and a quasi-professional ice dancer. I'd never walked or ran for any long length of time unless my little brother was chasing after me.

Realizing this, I took it slow. Every day after class I headed out to the IM East building and would walk one mile on the track. I loved it; my mind could wander and daydream while listening to my trusty Walkman, all while keeping me out of my room and away from my roommate.

Slowly, one mile lead to two and two eventually lead to three. I had officially become a "walker."

To everyone's surprise, I signed up for a competitive 5K walk on MSU's campus and took first place for my age group. Not only had I become a "walker," I had become a "fast walker."

Walking every day eventually lead to running. I started the same by starting out at just one leisurely mile and building my way up.

I rarely saw my roommate. I was too busy running.

What started out as a way to avoid my roommate and dorm room has turned into one of my favorite activities. I've run in 5K races and improved the quality of knees injured by ice skating falls. I run about five miles a day now and love it. Later this summer I'll run in my first 10K from Port Huron over the Blue Water Bridge to Sarnia, Ontario.

Those Canadians will never know what hit 'em when I cross the finish line.

If I can claim to be a runner, having no running experience in background, just about anyone can start their own exercise routine. Spring is the perfect time to get outside and get moving. Clarkston is filled with ideal places to go for a stroll with friends or work on that eight-minute mile.

My roommate once asked me why I walked and ran so much that first year of college. I told her I was bored.

Letters to the Editor

Don't use Sacred Scripture as a weapon

In response to the letter by Vicki Flood regarding Biblical support for the condemnation of same sex marriages, I felt it was necessary to shed light on this controversial issue.

While I share your political views, Ms. Flood, I do not agree with your methods for engendering support from the particular passages you choose to identify. What you are doing amounts to nothing less than proselytizing - definitely not a known method of making friends and influencing people.

In the first case, these passages refer to homosexuality and not specifically the union of marriage. Secondly, taken out of context, these passages seem to imply the intrinsic moral evil of homosexuality.

It is true a great majority of Christian doctrine support this argument, usually referring to the consistency of Scripture in its condemnation of the homosexual act.

However, it should be noted that many important Biblical scholars disagree. They see in these passages a condemnation not of what we understand homosexuality to be in the 21st century, but rather a condemnation of perverse homosexual activity or rape engaged in by otherwise heterosexual persons and usually associated with a form of idol worship.

My suggestion for your future efforts to gain political support would be to be careful in your use of Sacred Scripture as a weapon. It might just backfire on you. In addition, you might try focusing on the more positive reasons for protecting marriage as a union between one man and one woman. The social implications for the family structure and the future of our country might be a good place.

Dixie development destroying Deer Lake

Clarkston's Deer Lake is rapidly changing from a pristine first class Michigan jewel lake to a runoff ravaged cesspool. This spring snow melt and normal seasonal rainfall has tainted the regular deep, clear water with silt laden stormwater discharge.

Residents on Deer Lake Road, Sagamore Drive, Simler and Phelan particularly have seen roadside ditches and intermittent woodland streams alike turn brown from mishandled runoff. Swamps around the lake that previously slowed flow of runoff have been overburdened to the point where they no longer are able to filter the extreme amounts of gallonage redirected by development engineers.

Inappropriate flows from new shopping centers, cluster housing developments and open cut land balancing as practiced by developers on the west side of Dixie Highway are working together to destroy Deer Lake.

If allowed to continue, then to compound with unregulated application of fertilizer from hundreds of new homes, Deer Lake as residents have come to know it will all but disappear in a 130 acre floating cloud of algae blooms and undesirable water weeds, just another liquid landfill.

This is not just an idle prediction but a promise born out by the fate of dozens of lakes in southern Oakland County where development like we now see in Independence has trashed lovely little lakes into chemical soup into which you wouldn't put your toe.

I urge Supervisor Dale Stuart to have the building department and wetland board quickly re-evaluate stormwater systems in the Deer Lake watershed. The present controls are failed.

Schools should help out our community

I haven't "looked askance" in many years, but I really looked askance at the statement that "school officials" (unnamed) thought that there could be a future elementary school near the proposed new Senior Center adjacent to the Clarkston School Board building Property. Several issues come to mind:

- It is only about 2 miles from the luxurious, new Independence Elementary School at Hubbard Rd & M-15.

- There is already an inordinate amount of traffic on Clarkston Rd., generated by the Township Library, the new Clarkston High School, Clintonwood Park, and Pine Knob. A Senior Center would add very little traffic, especially during peak hours.

- The proposed Senior Center would be in close proximity to Clintonwood Park which already provides many outdoor activities for our Seniors, and to the Township Library, that is used extensively by Senior Citizens.

I don't know why the Clarkston School Board is vacillating. They should jump at this opportunity to do a service to the community and to divest themselves of a small bit of property that will probably prove useless to them in the long run. I say: "Give it up."

In regards to Cathy Houck's Guest Column:

- The issue the taxpayers turned down was for approximately $15 million, that included a community center, swimming pool, large expenditures for Bay Court Park, etc.

- Cathy twice mentions "few Senior Citizens". Seniors are now and will increasingly be a large part of every Community. (And they also pay a lot of taxes) She also mentions that the Seniors are a select few. How about after they built houses that they knew were along the Expressway? That probably cost more than the proposed new Senior Center!

- Cathy rightfully questions where the funds are coming from. But, there should be funds available in our upscale community to provide something for its seniors.

- Which leads me to my next question. Has Cathy ever visited the Independence Senior Center at Clintonwood Park. For all the good that they do, it is almost a disgrace to a Community like Clarkston.

- I think Cathy's reference to the Oakland Intermediate School Board is a low blow... There is no comparison!

- On a personal note, I love to play table tennis, but since there is not room for such an activity at the Independence Senior Center, (or any other place in Clarkston), I go twice a week to the Waterford Senior Center at the CAI Building on Williams Lake Rd. where I have a great time. By the way, Waterford also has a 2nd Senior Center on Grace Kay Blvd! (Not fancy, but useful and available!)

Bermuda shorts, Hawaiian shirts and Michigan undies

As everybody and their Aunt Matilda have pointed out (and rightly so), Monday was a day to honor the American soldier and those who died in service of our country. Noble, yes . . . but not the point of this column, this week.

Nope, today I write that Memorial Day is also the historical day of seasonal fashion change. Yep. Officially, we can all now wear Bermuda shorts and Hawaiian shirts without causing a scene or fashion faux pas. Ever cognizant of fashion trends, this is a good thing. I work flower patterns into my wardrobe rotation as often as possible. And, were it not for Jennie packing the summer stuff and hiding it for the winter, I'd wear fun clothes all year long.

I love 'em!

But, my love of clothing from the sweatshops of other states started me thinking. There needs to be some "cool" Michigan garments. When you think of Texas, you think cowboy boots and 10-gallon hats. When in Kentucky, you got to get a coonskin cap. When you come to Michigan, you get a cold or runny eyes.

We need something cool, and now is the perfect time to find said piece of clothing then promote the heck out of it -- make it trendy, if you will. Now is the time because Jennifer "the babe gov" Granholm is currently promoting Michigan as a "cool" place. All across the great mitten state, villages, towns and cities are to promote the "coolness" of their individual communities.

So, for the economic well-being of our state, it is my belief Her Honor needs to get this garb thing going. We need some "cool" Michigan threads, man . . . wait.

Wait one cotton-pickin' moment . . . up in Kent County, in the little hamlet of Cedar Springs they are already known far and wide for some groovy get-up. Red underwear that covers from the neck down and everything in between -- long johns some call them -- is what they're into. Red flannel underwear may not sound "cool" to you, but these undies also come with the handy-dandy trap door in back for easy Number 2 breaks.

Cedar Springs, "the Red Flannel Town," even has a cool tradition of the Red Flannel Festival. Folks in town hang up plywood red flannel signs, drink red flannel drinks and have a generally good red flannel time. What's more "cool" than that?

Michigan Undies.

I like the sound of that. It kind of rolls off the tongue nicely, don't you think?

Maybe the Gov can make an executive directive proclaiming Michigan Undie Day, to coincide with the Red Flannel Festival? And, she can further proclaim that everybody sport their own red undie get up. I see lots of potential in this. And, it could really set the state up for an economic boom. If this Michigan undie thing takes off (and why shouldn't it?) it could free us from the fickle grips of the automotive industry. No longer will Michigan "go as the auto industry goes." If the world stops buying from the Big Three, and that industry hits hard times, we could still have lots of folks employed sewing red flannel underwear. Which means there would be more red flannel long johns and more places to purchase them. We could have Michigan Undie dealerships. The possibilities are endless.

It's a win-win situation, because as it is now, the only true place to buy some Michigan red undies is at a little screen printing/embroidery place in downtown Cedar Springs called Flaunt It. There, proprietors Lea Dillard and Karen Sudhoff run the Cedar Springs Red Flannel Company. Folks place orders, mostly on-line, then Lea and Karen call their seamstresses (they employ a half dozen) to sew 'em the new flannel duds.

"We have orders from all over the country -- all 48 contiguous states," Dillard said when I called her, adding most of their orders are from places outside of Cedar Springs and Michigan. Their biggest season for sales is from November through December. No big dah there. In Michigan, life starts getting cold by November. What better way to stay warm than to lay by a cracklin' fire, just you and your gal both adorned in red flannel underwear with the trap door in back?

Now that is cool -- no, it is romantic. Love, Michigan style.

I'm getting tingly just thinking about it.

Dillard and Sudhoff's shop is located at 34 N. Main Street in Cedar Springs. If you are up there, stop in and say "hey" to the girls. The red flannels come in all sizes -- infant up to double X for big boys like me. Prices range from $23 to $40. Their toll-free number is 1-800-204-0680. You can also order on-line by visiting their website, www.redflannels.com.

As fall is their busy season, if you want to order, now would be a good time.

POLITICS

Split that word in two and you get two 4-letter words. Neither of which stimulate the image of love, amour, baby, doll, mama or papa.

This year those seeking to remain in office or newly seeking an elected position have managed to turn more of us off than turn us on with the way-too-early campaigning.

Labor Day parades used to mark the beginning of the campaign season. What was it this time? A full year earlier? States are competing to see who can have the first primary election. At this rate by the year 2012 the first primary may well be the day after the inauguration.

That said, I'll get to my first idea for this column, which has to do with slush funds, contingency funds, rainy day funds and let's hold-back-some-money funds so we can plead poverty, gain sympathy from the voters and get them to raise taxes.

Of course, we all know of the constituent preserving, spending habits of many in D. C. There's the millions going for a rain forest in Iowa. Highways and bridges to nowhere, airports where there are no people and subsidies for saving things unwanted by all but two people in the entire north American continent.

Only on a slightly smaller scale we have Michigan's rulers. Recently Governor Jennifer said she was launching a campaign to attract three types of businesses to our state. She stated the number of millions of dollars she had available for this attraction.

A noncommittal, and uncooperative state senator's office wouldn't, or couldn't, tell me the exact figure, but did say the money was probably in the Economic Development budget.

I assume, no, I know there are numerous such outfits in Lansing with similar million dollar budgets.

But, rather than reducing these budgets to a figure the common person might find reasonable, Gov. Jen suggests an increase in taxes. That's after the state has increased various license, etc. fees to keep budgeted committees at full strength.

"We must have more money to keep from cutting education costs!" Always include a plea for kids.

It ain't just the current governor, of course. Former Gov. John built more funds than Taubman has malls, than the Taliban has tunnels and OPEC has oil wells.

Local governments have been good learners. Check budgets when they come out and see how much money has been set aside and ask how long to build a new hall for seniors, recreation centers, future technological needs, planning, unplanning and replanning.

Whether it's schools, village, city, township, county, library, police, fire, roads, drains or parks you'll likely find more than one "fund" with reserve capital in their budget.

It all sounds so right when it's proposed. "After all, you never can tell when earthquakes, terrorists and meteors will strike our community. We must be financially prepared with reserve money. We can't depend on voters to approve the building we want, I mean need."

So often elected people won't ask voters to approve projects. Why? Oh, of course, they might think additional taxes aren't needed . . . just wanted.

"I will save the country $700 billion by the turn of the century, under my proposal to cap health care costs." -- Bill Clinton, Sept. 24, 1992

A Look Back

At our community's history through the pages of The Clarkston News

15 YEARS AGO (1989)

- Springfield Christian Academy filed a lawsuit against the Michigan Department of Education June 5 in an effort to stay open. MDOE has threatened to close the Academy, which is run out of the Dixie Baptist Church on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, and 30 other Michigan private schools for not submitting certain information as required by state law. The schools, most of them operated by Christian churches, have been charged with not filing reports on areas such as teachers, curriculum and days of operation.

- As players quietly filed out of the dugout Monday afternoon, Clarkston High baseball coach Roy Warner spoke of his team's many accomplishments this season. The last of which was reaching the district championship game at Pontiac Jaycee Park Monday against Greater Oakland Activities champion Waterford Kettering.

- At the polls Monday, June 12, voters will be asked to approve a bond issue and an override of the Headlee Amendment; and they'll be asked to choose from six candidates vying for two spots on the Clarkston school board. If the $68.8 million bond issue is approved, the money would pay for the construction and furnishing of a new high school and elementary school, plus renovations to other buildings.

25 YEARS AGO (1979)

- A proposed $7.5 million junior high school is the major attraction on Monday's school election in the Clarkston district. The school is teamed with a $1.3 million library addition and some safety improvements at the high school in a $9.1 million bond issue proposal. The package will be considered by voters a year, nearly to the day, after it was presented to the Clarkston Board of Education by a 30-member citizens' advisory committee.

- The Independence Township Library has been without a leader since mid-March when librarian Sushil Lahiri resigned. The township board voted 4-2 Tuesday night to readvertise for the librarian position and offer $17,500 with an increase of $500 after a six month review. "Our library's in shambles. If this salary doesn't fly, the library's going to sit without a librarian for another four to six weeks," said Treasurer Fred Ritter.

- Clarkston's 1979-80 federal revenue sharing funds will once again help pay for the police services Independence Township provides for the village. Following a public hearing at its May 29 meeting, the Clarkston Village Council voted to allocate $6,000 of its federal revenue sharing monies to pay for police protection. Noting there were no village residents attending the hearing with other projects on which to spend the funds, Village President Fontie ApMadoc said.

50 YEARS AGO (1954)

- The seniors of the Clarkston High School are about to reach another mile post. Their trip is history and this week tests and all functions will be over with. The class will gather in the High School Auditorium on Sunday, June 6 for their Baccalaureate Service.

- The Oakland County Board of Education is conducting a special election on Monday, June 14, for the purpose of raising 1/2 mill for a 15 year period to encourage and facilitate the education of handicapped children.

Cops: 'Stranger' was CHS student

A reported "stranger danger" incident appears to be a misunderstanding at best, according to those who investigated a Wednesday, May 26 call to North Sashabaw Elementary School.

One or more Clarkston High School students celebrating their "Senior Walk" yelled offers of candy to kindergarten students while driving by the Maybee Road school, according to Lt. Dale LaBair, commander of the Independence Township substation of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The call was dispatched after three five-year-old children told a teacher, who did not witness the event. Several deputies, already in the area because of the Senior Walk, responded but found no evidence of the suspect vehicle.

While deputies quickly made the connection, they still followed procedure in the case, LaBair said.

"This was so far out of left field," he said, "but we still did a thorough area check."

A news report by WXYZ-TV Channel 7 said the parents of one child were upset the schools did not issue a warning to parents, but the television crew failed to check with the sheriff's department or school officials before airing their report.

Anita Banach, director of communications and marketing for Clarkston Community Schools, said the television station had her home telephone number.

"It was deemed not an issue," Banach said, explaining why the district did not immediately notify parents. "Nobody stopped. Nobody got out of a car."

The television report caused Banach to send out a broad notice to clarify the issue, but the sheriff's department has declared the case closed.

"I have worked and participated in practically every role you can think of that relates to life in Clarkston schools," she said.

Patterson, a parent of a fifth grader and a PTO president, cited her experience as a systems analyst, business owner and professional tennis player for a wide variety of administrative skills, including "solving problems in a very systematic method... understanding how to control costs while keeping quality programs going" and the understanding that "Students come to us with different talents and abilities."

Weller, calling herself an "active parent" who "may have been a small reason" for new playground equipment at Pine Knob Elementary School, said she noticed something when she started attending school board meetings a couple years ago.

"I realized there was no representation of families with young children on the board," Weller said. With three young children, she cited ongoing plans to group sixth and seventh grades at the current Sashabaw Middle School and eighth and ninth graders at Clarkston Middle School.

"While I'm completely in favor of the new configuration, I want to make sure plans are thoroughly evaluated before implementation and aspects of the change have the least negative impact on students," Weller said.

Rating the board...

When asked to give an evaluation of the current board and Superintendent Al Roberts, all were complimentary.

Using a poor-good-excellent scale, Patterson issued a "good-plus-plus" but said district communications could use some work.

"I always think that's one area where we can improve," Patterson said. "If you want the excellent, we'll put a little more on the communications."

Weller's rating was "a tad below excellent, because there's always room for improvement," and Allsteadt credited both school board and administration with "solid effort."

Incumbent Foyteck was the only one to give an unreserved evaluation.

"I think we've done an excellent job," she said of the board, and "We're extremely fortunate to have Dr. Roberts in our community. He's an extraordinary man with very high principles."

All four candidates voiced support for programs for academically gifted students, agreed that the federal No Child Left Behind and state Education YES programs are good concepts with problems in application, and said community education programs are valuable for the community.

Pay-to-participate...

All generally voiced "reluctance" in the decision to implement a "pay-to-participate" athletics fee this fall, but saw no choice under current budget conditions.

"School districts have been forced to turn to other options to pay for their services and programs," Allsteadt said. "If pay-to-participate puts money toward the athletic program and doesn't take money from the classroom, I have to support it."

Foyteck cited a similar need in 1989, and promised to rescind the fee "in a very short time."

Patterson said it will be important to provide scholarships for "hardship" cases.

"No child should be eliminated based on financial hardship," she said.

A submitted question asked candidates if there should be a school dress code, and all noted there is one already.

"Certainly it can be made stronger," Foyteck said, inviting suggestions to the school board.

Allsteadt agreed: "Kids have been disciplined for it. Maybe it could be a little stronger. If parents are interested in that topic, bring it to the board. That's what the board is here for."

Patterson suggested a student-developed dress code. "It might be interesting to see if they'll take the responsibility," she said.

The scheduling of developmental days is still an issue for some parents, but all candidates voiced support, including Allsteadt, who formerly opposed the idea.

"I question the fashion that they're done in," he said, "but the gains we have experienced from them, the research here in Clarkston shows the developmental days are a good thing, and should continue."

Weller said when one of her children was in first grade there was one week in which the class had a substitute teacher three of the five days because of teacher training. Developmental days have greatly reduced the need for substitute teachers and half days, she said.

Handling conflict...

The candidates were asked how they would handle incidents of disagreements with other board members, and all agreed in the principle of agreeing to disagree.

"You have to express your viewpoint," Allsteadt said, "but you also have to respect the members of the board, because they also are doing what they think is best for the Clarkston school district."

"We have been able to have very civil discussions even if we have very differing opinions," Foyteck said. "You should be able to vote no."

"Sometimes there's a point where you do have a different viewpoint and you need to say it, explain it, and maybe try to persuade someone to think the way you do," Patterson said.

Only about 15 citizens attended the forum, and a submitted question asked how to motivate voters to be more involved.

All agreed the event should have had more publicity, with Weller calling it a "last minute" event.

(Editor's note: Notice of the candidate forum came to The Clarkston News too late for inclusion in the Wednesday, May 19 edition.)

Patterson said "coffee chats" have been well used in the Independence Elementary School PTO, and Weller said "word of mouth" is the best promotion of any cause or event.

Any differences?

In closing statements, candidates attempted to convince voters they are right for one of the two open school board seats.

"I would provide a new perspective not currently on the board," Weller said. "I am a team player, yet am not a yes person, either. I'm not afraid to speak out when I disagree with something, yet I will choose my fights."

"I believe academics are important, I believe parents need to be our partners in education and I believe communication is key," Patterson said.

"I bring continuity and experience to the board," Foyteck said, "and I hope to continue to work with the community in this regard."

"I am the community candidate," Allsteadt said. "I believe in representing 8,000 children, not one building, not one program, not one class."

It's time to give back to greatest generation with center

Ms. Houck's guest column in the May 26 edition of The Clarkston News was so blatantly incorrect it was an insult to the 3,000 senior citizens living in our township.

Let me ask her these questions before I make additional comments:

- Have you gone to the weekly board meetings that dealt with this subject?
- Have you visited the present senior center to ask what their function is?

• Have you called our Township Supervisor or any board member and asked them the questions put forth in your column?

If you had done these things you could have gotten your answers without writing your "open" letter.

You refer eight times that 75 percent of the voters rejected building a senior center.

The Senior Advisory Committee saturated the township with flyers asking questions involving the building of a new senior center. A total of 71 percent stated they would vote for a new center. In case you think we were biased, the board paid $18,000 to have a well established firm from Colorado come in and take their own survey in their own professional style. They indicated that 72 percent would vote for a new senior center.

The building of a township hall was rejected by approximately 75 percent. Then a few months later the township hall was once again put on the ballot only this time it was tied to a senior/community center. The same folks that rejected it the second time. We seniors investigated why it was so heavily defeated, the answer, almost unanimously, was it was another attempt to get the township hall built and that it was not a rejection of a senior center.

Houck writes "we do not owe a select few citizens anything." There are 3,000 seniors in the township (is that a few?) and the baby boomers are being added to this daily.

We just celebrated Memorial Day remembering the one million men and women of the greatest generation. That generation had 16 million serve in World War II with nearly 400,000 giving their lives for this generation. And she says we owe nothing to them.

The way Houck's letter reads you would think our Supervisor and the board are a bunch of dummies. Let me set that straight, they are all professionals with enough degrees to start a paper drive. They have thoroughly discussed every item she brought up.

You, the taxpayers, recently voted the Department of Public Works about $18 million to upgrade the water and sewer system. You recently voted $83 million taxpayer dollars to the Board of Education. Now you are quibbling over $1.4 million for a senior center that is not even going to raise taxes?

Businesses supported award

One measure of a great community is how well local businesses support the community at large, especially their school district.

On May, 18 the Clarkston Foundation, a nonprofit organization that sponsors the "Teacher of the Year" award in our community, hosted a reception at Liberty Golf & Banquet to recognize the exceptional elementary teachers nominated for this year's award.

Many of our local businesses donated gifts for the teachers and provided services for this event, clearly demonstrating their support for Clarkston schools and the educators who contribute so much to our community.

Local business supporters include Bordine's Nursery, The Clarkston Cafe, Clarkston State Bank, the Clarkston Union, Dairy Queen, Mr. B's, Outback Steakhouse, the Parsonage and Waterford Jewelers.

Special mention must be made of Rudy's Market, who created and generously provided the stunning bouquets of flowers that were presented to the teachers.

The willingness of our local businesses to be partners and active participants in community events is something we can all be proud of. Not only do they deserve our patronage, but our gratitude for the many ways they make Clarkston a truly great community.

SMS creates birthday parties for those in need in Clarkston

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Gift bags, balloons and 800 pieces of cake filled the cafeteria at Sashabaw Middle School on May 19 as the school hosted a unique birthday celebration. However, the party wasn't for anyone in the school. In fact, it wasn't for anyone they knew at all.

SMS recently paired up with the Lighthouse of Clarkston to help support the organization's Birthday Club program. The school hoped to create 75 "birthday bags", a collection of hats, cake mixes, party decorations and gifts, that are donated to families in need in the Clarkston area. The school not only met their goal, they exceeded it. By the end of the day on May 19, more than 150 bags had been donated and the celebration supplies kept coming.

"It was a small idea that just blossomed," Gail Berman, SMS teacher, said amidst tears as classroom after classroom brought down the brightly-colored bags. Berman suggested the idea to the school after hearing about the Lighthouse's program that was in need of help.

Each birthday bag contains the basic supplies for a child's birthday party with friends. Basic supplies, such as cups, napkins and utensils, are included in the bags along with the fun decorations and gifts.

Lisa Mujica, emergency service coordinator for the Lighthouse, arrived to pick up the bags and was amazed at the results that overflowed from the cafeteria's stage.

"This is cool. I never thought it would be like this," Mujica said. "Birthdays are one thing our clients don't have extra money for. If we can help with the little extras, it's one less thing to worry about."

According to Mujica, birthdays are the first thing to go when budgets are tight. Often mothers won't remind small children of their birthdays so not to get their hopes up. With the Birthday Club, bags of new items are ready for mothers to pick up. Mothers simply have to let the Lighthouse one month before an upcoming birthday.

The Birthday Club has been helping moms for the past seven years. On average, about 25-30 bags are handed out each month.

"It's a feeling that when we see stuff like this, it's more kids that get to have a birthday party," Mujica said.

Berman worked with the staff at SMS and the PTA to make the goal of birthday bags a reality. Advisory teams broke students into groups that, in turn, each created a bag to donate. Some groups went with themes, such as Sponge Bob Square Pants, or simply put bags together based on a specific age.

"They (students) really got on board and did a really great job," Berman said. "They were really excited."

Lisa Mujica of the Lighthouse of Clarkston and SMS teacher Gail Berman celebrate the more than 150 bags put together for the Birthday Club program. Berman suggested the idea to SMS after she learned about the project.

One reason the project was so successful was that students could identify with the cause they were helping: birthdays.

"They could all identify with a birthday. This really helps make birthdays special," Berman said. "Hopefully by seeing this, all of them can provide a whole birthday party."

The students were especially looking forward to hearing stories about how their hard work helped others. The students also learned the benefits of working in a team setting.

"They realize that working as a team, everyone can help a little and turn out a huge result," Berman said.

To celebrate the drop-off day for the bags, parent volunteers decorated the entire school with a birthday theme. Custom-made sheet cakes were provided at lower cost to the school for students to put the finishing touches on their birthday bags while enjoying birthday cake.

Because of the hard work of SMS, the Lighthouse now has enough birthday bags for the rest of the year. Before receiving the school's donation, the Lighthouse had just handed out their last birthday bag.

"We've never gotten a donation like this," Mujica said. "The kids are the ones who really did a great job. This will take care of us for the rest of year. We will use it all."

Soccer holds off Andover

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The two goals they got about two weeks ago held up. But they didn't hold up their end of a promise they made to their coach at halftime.

Clarkston coach Tami Niemi said her team promised to score two goals in the second half against Andover, but failed. For failing to live up to their end of the bargain, the Wolves had to run some extra drills after the win.

The Clarkston girls varsity soccer team picked up a win, capping off the second portion of a senior night game, which was called back on May 13 against Andover due to poor weather. The game was made up May 24 at 5:30 p.m. and the Wolves resumed play with just over 13 minutes remaining in the first half with a 2-0 lead. Traditionally, varsity starts at around 7 p.m. Goals came from Emily Munchiando and Kelly Boskee with freshman Brittany Davis drawing an assist. Emily Pierce earned the shutout in net.

The Wolves began the night generating several scoring opportunities, but as has been the case throughout much of the season, failed to top them off with goals.

"My young forwards (Brittany) and (Kristen) Mercado had chances, but they just couldn't finish," Niemi said.

That wasn't the case on soccer youth night back in mid-May before the game was called. There, the Wolves were flying to the ball and scored twice. However, Niemi said the change in their routine played the biggest factor in her team appearing flat.

"I think change is hard for us with it being an early game," Niemi said. "They were flat. Coming out with

Clarkston golfers advance to state competition

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Lisa Lesko had to sit and wait and wait some more for her regional round to wrap up. But good things come to those who wait.

Lesko was one of several golfers who couldn't finish their regional round at Sylvan Glen golf course back on May 21. When the teams began play that day at 9 a.m. the weather was beautiful, Clarkston girls varsity golf coach Larry Sherrill said. But at about 2 p.m. things changed. The skies grew dark and soon after play was halted for weather reasons. Play was originally scheduled to be made up in the early morning of May 23, but didn't actually resume until May 24, but when it did Lesko was ready.

She only had a few shots remaining in her round, Sherrill said, but what those shots amounted to was whether or not she and her teammates would advance to the state finals. The Wolves ended play on May 21 up by two strokes over threatening Grosse Pointe North. Rochester Adams and Lake Orion had already all but secured their places as state finalists and the top three teams in each region advance to states.

"If there's one girl I'd want out there battling in this nervous situation, it's Lisa," Sherrill said.

Lesko battled and Clarkston beat out Grosse Pointe N and finished third in the region with a team score of 361, edging out Grosse Pointe North, who finished seven strokes back.

Top scores for the Wolves Jackie Schram who shot an 82, Lesko's 94, Nina Jackson who shot a 93 and Sara Maesch who had a 92 on the day.

It is the first time a Clarkston girls golf team has advanced to the state finals since 1976, Sherrill said. Last year, the Wolves just missed making the state finals as they finished fourth in their region. The top three in each region go to states.

"It's a great accomplishment for them," Sherrill said. "Everything we worked for all season was geared towards this."

The Wolves will now compete in the MHSAA state finals beginning June 4 at Forest Akers Golf Course at Michigan State University. The top 12 teams and the top individuals will compete June 5. The Wolves will head up Thursday night, but no participating team is allowed any practice round before the state finals. The Wolves are allowed to walk the course and Sherrill himself has played it, and said his team has played tougher courses this year. Clarkston will tee off at 9 a.m.

"It's not an easy course. But it's not as hilly as some of the other place we've played this year. I don't think it plays as tough as Indianwood does. I think it's comparable to Pine Trace," he said.

Sherrill said his team is going to savor the moment of simply being there, competing with the best golf teams in the state.

"To be honest, I don't think we're going to win the state tournament so we're just going to go up there, do our best and see what happens. We just really want to enjoy ourselves and revel in the moment," he said.

The Wolves did not have much enjoyment at their league meet last week. The Wolves finished in fifth place May 25 at Indianwood with Rochester winning the meet. Schram was Clarkston's top scorer with a 195. The Wolves finished 5-3 overall and 3-3 in the league.

"It was the weather and heather," he said. "The heather is this three feet tall rough they have there and it was miserable conditions for us all day. Plus, they were just coming off qualifying for states right before. It was not our best day."

But, playing Indianwood and competing against other OAA I schools in preparation for the league meet should help the Wolves heading into the state finals, Sherrill said.

"The OAA I is one of the toughest leagues in the state," he said. "I think it (the state meet) will be a good barometer for us to see exactly where we're at."

Softball team heads into playoffs with confidence

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The regular season is history. Now, it's playoff time. District action began this week for the Clarkston girls varsity softball team with the Wolves hosting the five-team field. The Wolves opened with a game against Pontiac Northern June 1 (results were not yet available at press time).

Most, including coach Al Land, expect the Wolves to come out of the district which includes Waterford Mott and Kettering as well as Pontiac Northern and Central. The winner of the Clarkston vs. Northern game will go up against Pontiac Central June 3 at 3:30 p.m. The district final would then see the winner of that game going up against the Mott vs. Kettering winner as both the Corsairs and Captains drew first-round byes. The district final will be played June 3 at 5:30 p.m.

One of the biggest challenges for his team will be the change in pitching styles from Pontiac Northern to the Waterford schools, Land said.

"Pontiac's going to go out there and throw some slow stuff, and I think for us, the challenge will be to have to quickly adjust to some faster pitching that we'll see from Waterford. It's tough to adjust that quickly to stuff like that sometimes," he said.

However, Land is also very confident that his team is playing its best softball of the season. The Wolves are coming off, what Land said, were two of the best games he's seen his club play all season. Clarkston beat league rival Lake Orion 5-4 and 4-0 at Clarkston High School May 26. The win capped off regular season play for Clarkston and gave them an overall record of 17-12 and a 13-8 OAA I mark, which gave them a third place finish.

"It would've been nice if we could've beaten Troy a couple of times, but we played them hard and I think we had some of our best games of the season against them," Land said.

The Wolves were shut out against the Colts in all three games this season.

But now the focus is on the playoffs, as well it should be. The Wolves have plenty of reason to believe they'll come out of the district as champions. They beat Waterford Kettering in all three meetings this year and split with Waterford Mott in the season opener, Land said. The Wolves won their district last year with an 8-3 win over Waterford Mott and eventually fell to Walled Lake Western in the regional semifinal 1-0. The Wolves have never won a region under Land.

"We're mentally as focused as we've been all year," he said. "I think we'll be ready to play. I think we're quite capable of doing it (winning districts and the region). They're definitely not flat right now. Coming off those Orion games was a good sign. Hitting wise, I think we can hit as well as anyone. We just need to be careful on defense and not let one mistake compound itself into multiple mistakes. We can't afford those kind of innings where one mistake is followed by another and then another. One mistake is okay, but we just have to stay away from those types of problems." Land said the pitching of Kelly Robinson, who will get the starts in the playoffs will be a real key to the Wolves' success. Should Robinson falter, Land will then call upon Sarah McGinnis, who pitched a shutout in game two of the Orion double header. McGinnis has gotten more time on the mound in recent weeks and shouldn't be surprised if she gets called on in the post-season, Land said.

"In the regular season you can have a little more patience with your pitchers, but in the playoffs you don't have that type of time. If for some reason we see a problem out there, we won't at all hesitate to put Sarah out there. We have complete confidence in her."

In addition to being the defending district champion and picking up wins over some of their district opponents, the Wolves are also getting healthy. Heather Giroux had suffered through some pneumonia a few weeks ago, but did play last week and played well. She had five hits against the Dragons. Additionally, Meghar Bonk's back, while still not 100 percent, is not keeping her off the field. She too played against Orion.

The Wolves have also been getting great defensive contributions from shortstop Caitlin McLean and second baseman Amber Giroux.

"Caitlin has been doing a great job for us at short lately and Amber in the come from behind win against Orion had a two-out single which scored the tying run. Those two have really been playing well for us," Land said.

Also last week, the Wolves fell to Birmingham Groves 4-1.

half a game is tough and we didn't get our usual warm up and there's a routine that they've been in for so many weeks and I think to be out of that, I think that had something to do with it, but I don't think they're desire was lacking. This team has so much heart and dedication."

The Wolves did get a boost last week as senior midfielder Liz Hardy returned to the lineup. Hardy had been out with a hamstring injury and is beginning to regain her form.

Also last week the Wolves tied Royal Oak Dondoro 1-1 with the lone Clarkston goal coming from Ashley Hudson.

The Wolves hosted tied league rival Royal Oak Kimball May 25 and earned a 1-1 tie. Jenna Przbycien had the goal for Clarkston. The Wolves concluded regular season play May 26 at Troy Athens, but fell 3-0. The Wolves ended the regular season with a 6-7-5 overall record.

Districts begin in Grand Blanc June 3 with the Wolves taking on Flint Central. If Clarkston wins the first game, the Wolves would then take on Flint Carman-Ainsworth June 4 at 5:30 p.m. Carman-Ainsworth drew a first round bye. The district final is set for 10 a.m. June 5 where the Wolves, should they advance, would take on the winner of Grand Blanc and Davison. Niemi said Grand Blanc is the favorite to come out of the district.

So, what do the Wolves have to do in order to have a long and successful playoff run according to Niemi?

"We've got a lot of work to do. We need to be smart. Finish, finish, finish. We need to work on finishing," Niemi said.

District, league hopes still alive for baseball team

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Record rainfalls have caused the rainouts of several Clarkston varsity baseball games, but they haven't dampened the team's spirits much.

Due to the recent weather several Wolves games have been rescheduled and the outcomes of these final two games will have an impact on the league standings. The Wolves host Rochester June 4, one day after the district final, then head to Royal Oak Kimball June 8. Should the Wolves win both of those games, they'll have a share of the OAA I league title. Clarkston is 9-3 in the OAA I with Troy in first place with an 11-3 league mark. The Colts defeated Clarkston in Troy May 25 8-7. Jono Moehlig had a three-run homer for the Wolves in the loss. Kimball is 10-3 in the league.

Also last week the Wolves beat Rochester Adams 5-1 May 26. Sam Palace was 2-for-3 with a double and triple and Addison Turk went 3-for-3. Mike Kittle was 2-for-4 and pitcher Jim Coleman went the distance on the mound while picking up eight strikeouts.

"We didn't play a good game, but we played good enough to win," Clarkston coach Phil Price said.

The Wolves might not have to play great baseball to win their district either. Many predict that the Wolves will win their district which began play June 1 with the Wolves hosting Pontiac Northern (results were not yet available at press time). The winner of that game will go onto play Pontiac Central June 3 at 3:30 p.m. The district final will see that game's winner take on the winner of Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott at 5:30 p.m. All games are played at Clarkston High School.

Price said Coleman, who is now 6-3 on the season, should see a fair amount of action on the mound for the Wolves in their playoff run. Last year the Wolves won their district and eventually fell to Brother Rice in the regional final, 8-3.

Do the Wolves feel additional pressure knowing they are picked by many to win their district?

"I don't think there's any added pressure on them,"

Price said. "I just think there's some added pressure on me."

The Wolves have good reason to feel confident heading into the playoffs. They compete in what is arguably the state's toughest baseball league in the OAA I, while the Pontiac schools compete in divisions three or four, Price said. Additionally, the Wolves easily beat Waterford Mott in two games by a combined score of 15-3. They did even better offensively against Kettering, scoring 23 runs in two wins.

"I don't think we'll be overconfident going in (to the playoffs)," Price said. "I bet half of our games this year were decided in the bottom of the seventh. Some of that is because we're resilient and some of that might be because we still haven't learned to put teams away. We just need to start playing better defense."

But the Wolves' strength all season has been its offense, primarily the bats of Palace, Turk and Aaron Powell. Mike Kittle has also been batting well for the Wolves lately, Price said.

"Our pitchers just need to go out there and pitch with more confidence. Sometimes they just try to do it all by themselves," Price said.

Boys track takes fourth at league meet

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The season ended on a positive note for the Clarkston boys track team.

While no members of the team qualified for states this year, one of its members did compete at the county meet May 28 at Milford High School.

Jake Meissnest finished third in the discus with a throw of 143' and took sixth in the shot put with a throw of 46'10". On May 29 Milford hosted a county meet exclusively for freshmen and Nick Mansfield took third place in the pole vault thanks to a 9-foot effort. Teammate Matt Alexander took third place in the high jump with a mark of 5'7". He also set a personal best in the half mile with a time of 2:08.6.

Also last week, the Wolves competed as a team for the last time this season in the OAA I league meet at West Bloomfield May 25. The Wolves took a surprisingly good fourth place. Lake Orion won the meet, followed by West Bloomfield and Rochester. The Wolves ended the meet with 47 points and had a great day, coach Walt Wyniemo said.

"No question our kids did a great job out there.

Our times and our distances were solid. It was a real good day for us (to finish fourth)," he said.

Clarkston finished in fifth place in the OAA I this year and was 1-6 in dual meets.

Highlighting the meet for Clarkston was Meissnest, who took second place in both throwing events with distances of 47'5" in the shot put and 133'1" in the discus. The Wolves took sixth place in the 4x800 relay which consisted of Andy Kodra, Eric Gauthier, Nick Purroll and Matt Hunter. Brad Gale took sixth in the 300 intermediate hurdles with a time of 43.9 seconds. Kessler also took third in the 100 meter with a time of 11.2 seconds. The 4x100 relay team took fifth. That team was made up of Mike Peteuio, Brad Kolano, Bradon Wischmeyer and Greg Knappe. Kessler took second in the 400 with a time of 51.4 seconds and finished third in the 200 meter with a time of 23.1 seconds. Kodra took sixth place in the 3,200 with a time of 10:23. Rounding out the top performances for Clarkston was the 4x400 relay team of Brad Flaughter, Gale, Gauthier and Kessler who took fifth place with a time of 3:39.

Improve yourself through healthy curiosity

By Ernie Harwell

I've always believed that one of the best things a person can do, from a mental perspective, is to develop a curious mind about life.

One of my favorite hobbies is asking people about their families, where they grew up, their jobs, whatever. I joke that I'm the biggest busybody around, but the truth is that I like finding out about people, what experiences have shaped them, what makes them tick. It's great fun and a wonderful way to learn and build relationships with people.

There are other things we can do, too, to exercise our minds. Next time you come across a word you don't know, instead of skimming by it, find a dictionary and learn about it. What does it mean? How did it originate? How is it used? It might just stick in your head for the next time you're searching for that perfect word or phrase.

Traveling is another great way to expand your horizons and see how other people live. Our country is so beautiful and diverse, and full of learning opportunities. I also highly recommend traveling abroad, if you're able, because it can really give you a new perspective on the world and life.

When we cultivate our minds, we improve ourselves and become more well-rounded. And that's a healthy way to be. And remember, take care of your health before it's longgggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Bulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, a collection of his baseball columns entitled "Life After Baseball," is available at local bookstores or by calling 1-800-245-3082.

Your #1 Tanning Salons

248 620-0303 OPEN 7 DAYS

OPEN 6 AM DAILY

The Golden Rule of Smart Tanning:
Don't EVER sunburn.

The ability to tan while minimizing the risk of sunburn is one of the main reasons people come to indoor tanning facilities. Although many people know that too much ultraviolet light exposure results in sunburn, most don't really understand what it is. So what exactly is a sunburn?

Sunburn - medically referred to as erythema occurs when too much energy is absorbed by the skin. That bombardment of light causes tiny blood vessels in your skin to swell or even burst. That's why a burn appears red on the surface of your skin.

Today, we know that sunburn is an unnecessary injury on top of a tan. Unfortunately, previous generations of sun lovers thought that sunburn was simply an inconvenient precursor to developing a tan. They thought their burns were necessary "jump starts" to their tan, and that sunburn would eventually fade into a tan.

Today we know better.

Metropolitan Tanning Salons are dedicated to helping you achieve the best tan possible while teaching you how to avoid sunburn and overexposure, both outdoors in the sunshine and indoors in our facilities. Call us today to schedule an appointment with one of our certified tanning specialists. Mention this Smart Tanning information and your tan is free!

What is Mystic Tan™?

The Mystic Tan™ Booth is designed to deliver a customized sunless tanning application to each customer based on their body size, skin type, and desired color. There are three tanning level options available to produce the optimal tanning results for each individual customer. Once the proper tanning level for a new customer has been determined they are shown a short instructional video, which is designed to walk them through the entire process step-by-step. This ensures that each customer receives the exact same instructions on how to get the best results. Inside the Mystic Tan™ room the inner simply disrobes and enters the booth. With the push of a button the session begins with a fine mist of Aloe Vera enriched Sunless-Tanning Solution being sprayed through our proprietary patented MagmaTan™ nozzles.

The MagmaTan Technology insures uniform coverage over the entire body, which our proprietary sunless tanning solution instantly transforms into a quick natural-looking tan that continues to darken throughout the day.

A perfectly uniform, natural looking tan in less than 60 seconds!

The bronzer is a water-soluble dye designed to produce an instant tan. The brown bronzer will wash off in the shower or bath but will not affect your overall tan. The DHA produces a long-term tan. When applied to the skin, DHA reacts with proteins in the skin's superficial layer to form a golden brown color. It begins to darken 2 to 3 hours after application and reaches its peak color within 24 hours. The DHA tan will begin to gradually fade through natural exfoliation, just like a tan from the sun.

The Aloe Vera helps to carry the DHA deeper into the skin and promotes a softer, smoother finish. The Mystic Tan™ tanning solution contains more than 65% stabilized Aloe Vera liquid. Aloe Vera is a natural moisturizer that helps the skin draw moisture to the surface. It softens the skin and helps smooth wrinkles.

Will it turn me orange?

No! In the past, self-tanners gave many individuals an unnatural orange glow and caused streaking. Most of these undesirable results were caused by improper or ineffective application techniques. Applying creams and lotions by hand usually results in excessive amounts being absorbed in the skin. Excessive amounts applied in a single application can give an orange glow to the skin. Unnatural dark spots may also appear in dry or thick skinned areas such as elbows, knees, and knuckles because these areas have a tendency to absorb more of the cream. Hand held spray-on applicators tend to run and cause streaking. The misting technology used to apply the Mystic Tan™ tanning solution assures that all areas of the body get a uniform coating of the solution in the exact quantity required to produce a golden brown tan.

June is a very busy month for senior athletes

Hey seniors – enjoy playoffs, graduation and beyond.

The first week of June will be a very busy week around here.

The Wolves should be playing for district titles in both baseball and softball June 3 at Clarkston High School. Districts began June 1. There's no reason to believe more hardware won't be in the CHS trophy case after districts are complete.

Additionally, the girls soccer team were in action that day against Flint Central in Grand Blanc. The Bobcats were the favorite of that tourney, coach Tami Niemi said, but if the Wolves played like they did on youth night they had a legitimate chance at the district title.

In addition to the district action, the girls track team will send 10 of its best to Rockford to compete at the state meet. A special congrats go out to coach Jamie LaBrosse and assistant coaches Noah Sharrow and Ed Yorke, and of course to their fine team, on a great job this season. I wish you all the best at the state meet.

Oh yeah – one other little thing. June 2 is graduation at DTE.

For you seniors, by the time you're reading this you've taken your last high school final, unless of course, you are a "Super Senior." This coming summer will be like no others which have preceded it. Even if you're attending the same college or university with a lot of your current classmates, the friendships you have now will take more work than ever to maintain. Most people I know can count the number of people they keep in contact with from high school five years after graduating on one hand. Relationships are like essays, projects, finals, sports, performances or anything else you've done in your four years at CHS – they take work. Work at maintaining your friendships. But don't be so closed-minded that once you land on campus this fall that you don't openly welcome others from other schools, states and countries. Learn from new people and their differences and enjoy their company while keeping tabs on your buddies from school. If you thought your last four years went by fast, just wait for the next four.

In the meantime, between now and the fall you'll have plenty to do in order to prepare yourself for college. But between all the graduation parties and celebrations this summer, try to remember a few things that I, at least, found to be helpful in college:

1. Get to know your profs – They'll tell you this at orientation and it's no lie. Whether you're attending a small college with small classes, or a Big 10 university with gigantic lecture halls, get to know these people for a number of reasons:
2. If your class is huge, when your prof has a pile of papers to grade, being able to put a name with that face goes a long way. If the prof knows you, more often than not, you'll get the benefit of the doubt during the course of the semester.
3. Go to class – Be it for better or for worse, there are no attendance contracts in college. That's not to say profs don't keep track of who is there and who is not. Sometimes they do take attendance and sometimes they penalize you for not being there. Sometimes they won't. But go to class anyhow. Copying notes is never the same as being there in person. This is the single most important thing you can do to improve your grades. Buy an alarm clock and get up when it goes off.
4. Buy used books – or go on-line. Bookstores rip you off. Sorry – they always have and they probably always will. Buy used books at the university or off campus book store or buy them on-line. Even better, try to buy them from a friend who had the same course the previous term. You can pay your friend more than the bookstore would offer him or her on buyback and you'll still spend less than you would buying it elsewhere – it's win-win.
5. Pace yourself – There will be fewer assignments in college, but they'll be weighted more. You very well could be in a class from late August until Halloween without turning in anything. Don't wait until the night before to get started. All-nighters happen, but they shouldn't. Set deadlines for yourself and honor them.

The Bottom Line

Ed Davis

Athlete of the week – Liz Hardy

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

You won't find a whole lot missing from Liz Hardy's game, least of all confidence.

The senior midfielder has battled a lot this season, coming back from a hamstring injury, and has been one of Clarkston's best players this year for the girls varsity soccer team.

She is a gifted dribbler and fierce competitor, her coach Tami Niemi said.

"Liz is a huge leader on the field. She is the best technical player I have ever seen at Clarkston. Liz controls the flow of our game with her outstanding ball skills. She is known for dribbling around four or five players each time she posses the ball. She is a tough kid with an extremely high work ethic. When Liz steps on the field she believes that she can beat anybody. She has tons of confidence," Niemi said.

Hardy said a breakthrough moment for her this season was a 1-0 win over Stoney Creek earlier this season.

"We dominated in the midfield and we really controlled the game," she said. "They're one of the toughest teams in the league so it was a big game for us."

Hardy suffered her injury after an away game with Lake Orion back in late April. Doctors said she could be out anywhere from two to six weeks and Niemi had said it was a possibility she would be out until districts, but Hardy returned in only three weeks thanks to a lot of physical therapy – just in time for the Wolves second game with Stoney Creek.

"I was really excited to come back, but at the same time I was little worried and didn't want to over- due it."

Hardy said her biggest strengths include her mental toughness and her footwork.

"I think I'm a smart player and I love to have the ball at my feet and have control of the game. Being a central midfielder I think that's my job," she said.

Hardy's been in love with the game for well over a decade. She's been playing since she was four and was coached by her father in the Clarkston Shadows youth soccer program. In the off-season she, along with teammate Kelly Dougherty, compete in Vardar, a club traveling soccer team.

"I'm really going to miss the team and Dock (Kelly Dougherty). We've been playing together my entire life," she said.

Her best soccer memory was last year's overtime district win over Lake Orion, who had beaten Clarkston earlier that season 7-1.

Next year Hardy will study mechanical engineering at the University of Detroit Mercy and will play soccer on a scholarship. She admits she needs to step up her offense some. Hardy has only two goals this season after scoring eight as a junior.

She maintained a 3.9 grade point average at Clarkston High School. Her favorite class was math at OSM Tech taught by Kyle Hughes.

In her spare time, Hardy enjoyed participating in the OSM Tech Robotics Team and enjoys relaxing with family and friends.

BLE pen pals make the most of a first meeting at Ind. Oaks

BY ALICIA DORSET
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Moraine Knoll at Independence Oaks Park played host to second grader pen pals from both Bailey Lake Elementary and the Arts and Technical Academy of Pontiac on May 19 as the students met for the first time after a year of correspondence.

"I can tell her a lot about me and she writes me back," Cassia Ward said.

Students in Alexis Iveson's and Kathy Noble's classes spent a day getting to know their cross-county pen pals. Iveson set up the program with the Pontiac school through the help of Jackie Ballagh, Pontiac teacher, and Pine Knob Elementary School teacher Janice Driver. Iveson and Driver wrote grants for the original program idea while attending graduate school at Oakland University.

This is the second year BLE second graders have participated in the program. Even the teachers write to one another.

"We try to write every other week," Noble said. "It's a stepping stone to lots of different conversations."

One of the highlights of the pen pals is the diversity found between the two different schools.

"We're learning about the different backgrounds. It starts a lot of conversations in our classrooms," Noble said.

For Iveson, the most exciting part of the day came from watching the initial encounter between the students.

"When the children met for the first time, they were a little bit shy. But they had been writing to each other all year so they just took to each other," Iveson said.

The field trip was made possible by a grant received from the Clarkston Foundation's diversity council.

"They gain a knowledge of children a little different from them," Iveson said. "They feel connected to their pen pal. They don't have to share their relationship with anyone else. It's an experience in diversity that's developmentally appropriate."

Iveson hoped that the students used the experiences gained from students different than themselves for situations later in life. For student Jessica Tucker, that concept didn't seem to be a problem.

"I like how we agree on almost anything," Tucker said.

Second graders weren't phased by the rain and windy conditions on May 19. In addition to playing on the play structure at the Moraine Knoll, the students created a fort of umbrellas on the sand volleyball court to stay out of the rain and enjoy each other's company. Photos by Alicia Dorset.

Second grade students from Bailey Lake Elementary and the Arts and Technology Academy of Pontiac met for the first time on May 19 after spending a year as pen pals. The students wrote back and forth to one another on various topics such as family backgrounds and favorite things to do.

Lights on the subject...

Clarkston Police Chief Ernest Combs introduces new, streamlined emergency light bars on city police cruisers. While they offer a low aerodynamic profile, the LED technology provides extremely bright red and blue flashing lights for emergency situations. The new equipment was purchased with a $5,000 grant from the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning gained through participation in the "Click It or Ticket" seat belt enforcement campaign (the latest of which began Monday, May 24). School board gives service awards

In other news from the Monday, May 24 meeting of the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education:

- Trustees approved second reading revisions of three district policies.

The revision include a provision for employee's children to attend Clarkston schools as non-resident tuition students, the addition of a mandate for a "verbal directive" for student compliance before using "reasonable force and restraint" during a disturbance, and the addition of Clarkston's Oakland Technical Center to the district's transportation policy.

- The board recognized winners of the 2003-2004 Outstanding Service Awards, honoring a volunteer from each district building who has given superior service and support to a school or department.

This year's winners are Dr. Martha Wright, Andersonville Elementary; Karen Fallis, Bailey Lake Elementary; Kimberly Werner, Clarkston Elementary; Joan Patterson, Independence Elementary; Barbara Seiltz, North Sashabaw Elementary; Colleen Smith, Pine Knob Elementary; Linda McCord, Springfield Plains Elementary; Mickey Ginn, Clarkston Middle School; Doreen Kincaid, Sashabaw Middle School; Greg Townsend, Clarkston High School; Rosa Ghadamabadi, South Sashabaw Early Childhood Center and Katie Anderson, Student Support Services.

Hands-on activities enrich fine arts at Pine Knob Elementary

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

It isn't every day that students get to learn the latest hip-hop dance moves right along with their teachers. That was the idea behind Pine Knob Elementary's Fine Arts Day on May 19.

Designed to be an "in-house field trip" sponsored by PKE's PTA, the day presented different fine art fields along larger group presentations in mime, dancing and illustration.

To commemorate the day, PKE students created a large mural outside on the school grounds. With the help of a donated billboard, students tossed paint-filled balloons on the canvas to create a unique work of art.

"It's a nice mix of individual and group workshops," Colleen Smith, Fine Arts Day contact, said.

Students learned the basics of such art activities as making candles, scrapbooking, how to play a violin and even story telling.

"I think we did a good job of covering the gamut of art," Smith said.

PKE student Rachel Quinn spent part of her morning at the "food art" stop where she used licorice and bubble gum to create works of art.

"You get to play with your food," Quinn said. "You're not supposed to play with your food."

Each year PKE tries to rotate a different theme for the day-long activities. Past themes have included science topics, disabilities and countries of the world.

A focus of the day was to remind students that interests, such as those in the fine arts, don't have to be solely devoted to future jobs and careers.

"We want them to understand the definition of art and I think that's what we conveyed," Smith said.

For more festival photos, see 24A.

The finer things in life at Pine Knob Elementary

With the wax still hot, these students display custom made candles during Fine Arts day. The students were able to take their creations home.

Not only did students explore the world of fine arts, but learned the latest in computer technology as well. Students had a chance to produce a video and then edit it for their classmates to watch.

Students learn the latest dance moves as Pine Knob Fine Arts Day gets into full swing on May 19. Even teachers joined in on the dancing.

PKE's hallway makes for a good spot to work on a large mural for these students. The school's hallways were filled all kinds of different projects during the day.

Bright paper and different decorations fill the table at the scrapbooking station. Students used fun scissors and stickers to create scrapbook pages.

Librarian enjoys 25 years of service

BY DON SCHELSKE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Being a librarian has lots of benefits. Among them is a great talent at playing Trivial Pursuit, according to those who know Cathy Forst.

"Sometimes I'll come up with things and my family will say, 'How did you know that?' and I say, 'It's a long story,'" Forst said. "My family is always kidding me that I should go on 'Jeopardy.'"

Director of the Springfield Township Library for 25 years, Forst has had plenty of time to learn about a lot of things by helping people with their reading and research.

Forst worked in libraries as a student and decided to study library science in college. With a bachelor's degree from Oakland University and a master's from the University of Michigan, she found herself well prepared for a career.

She worked in a school library for a couple years, then saw an ad in The Clarkston News for the Springfield director position.

She applied, but did not get the job.

"I was very young and didn't have much experience," she said, and an older person got the job. A little later came an ad for a part-time coordinator position, and Forst was hired.

The library director later resigned, and Forst was tapped for the top spot. April 3 was her anniversary of employment.

A lot has changed over 25 years, both in population and in resources. When Forst was hired, the "new" library at the renovated Andersonville Road schoolhouse had been in operation only a couple months.

"It was a great little building," she said. "It had a lot of historical attitude and great warmth."

In her first year as director, she was by herself in the library. In her second year a part-time assistant was hired. She literally knew all the library patrons.

"I used to know everyone by name. We'd know all their reading interests."

Now, the library is two years into its new facility on Davisburg Road and has 11 employees. Circulation is computerized, and the library offers Internet access, CDs and DVDs in addition to books.

"Libraries have to be a lot of things to a lot of people," Forst said. "There are so many things we try to cover. There's never enough."

She is quick to add: "Some things still stay the same." Even with modern technological advances, "You can't take a computer to bed to read. People like the comfort of that book or that newspaper."

The general public's interests are still the same. Children do research for school projects (and occasionally come back in to show her their good grades), while adults still gravitate toward fiction, travel, history. She notes a trend in self-help books in various areas, and the library has an expanded young adult section.

While Forst has a lot of administrative duties (and appreciates a hard-working staff and an active friends of the library group), she still likes dealing with the patrons, answering their questions and helping them find what they need.

Librarian

"I think that's been my favorite part of being in the public library is all the people who come in," she said. "I enjoy all the ages. We have from infants to senior citizens. I've always enjoyed reacting and interacting with people."

Dealing with so many people is what led to the Trivial Pursuit jokes.

"You learn something new every day, and you do something different every day," she said. "Maybe that's why it's been fun to do it for 25 years."

Forst loves seeing families come in together, and sees the library as a natural gathering place for the community. That seems to be even more relevant with the building also housing township government offices.

"We've learned to appreciate what they do, and they've learned how important the library can be and how many people utilize the library."

While attempting to stay within the budget, Forst is concerned about future needs, especially in computer technology.

She would like to explore the possibility of using wireless technology to set up lessons for senior citizens in the meeting room across the hall from the library proper. She believes the growing use of the Internet for research is a related need.

"The public computers we have stay in use all the time," she said.

Forst enjoys reading herself, with a special interest in mysteries with female protagonists. Other personal hobbies include antiquing.

"I've always loved history and old things," she said.

Her office is decorated with photographs, models and wall hangings depicting lighthouses. She was born on the east coast and likes Michigan's lighthouse tourism theme.

Forst grew up in Clarkston, however, graduating from Clarkston High School and moving with her family to Springfield Township about 10 years ago.

"My husband [who works in Troy] is so envious I have such a short commute to work," she said.

The couple have three children, with one still in college and another headed that direction in another year.

That and her satisfaction with the job have her in no hurry to leave the library.

"I always felt content enough and challenged enough that I didn't feel like I had to go anywhere else," she said, and, "I still have a lot of college tuition to pay."

Forst received a special plaque on her 20th anniversary of service, but hasn't drawn a lot of attention on the 25th.

"Maybe we'll do it in 10-year increments," she said. "because I should still be here at 30."

Praise God for real marriage

It was 20 years ago last week.

It was a fairly typical ceremony, not unlike many which have taken place (and still do today). Because it was fairly typical, some would question the excitement over the whole thing.

It was your humble reporter's wedding ceremony, the anniversary of which is something about which we are, indeed, very excited.

Wife Nancy and I are not celebrating 20 years of perfect marriage. It has not been all bliss, and there is nothing extraordinary about either of us to deserve a best-selling book or made-for-tv-movie.

What is exciting is the joy that has come as a result of our taking the commitment seriously, based on God's revelation concerning marriage and His faithfulness through the years.

Upon learning of our engagement, one of my former college professors congratulated me with the observation that I was a perfect example of why God said, "It is not good for man to be alone." That quote from the book of Genesis was cause for a good laugh, but it is also a good reminder of God's game plan.

Some people struggle to learn the cosmic significance of their relationships. We have struggled with many things over the years, but never with whether we made the right decision 20 years ago.

Even before we decided to marry, we had an understanding of the divine origin of the institution.

"For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and they will become one flesh" (Genesis 2:24, NIV). This Scripture is also quoted by Jesus Christ in the New Testament, and there is lots of great guidance for married couples throughout the Bible.

Many forget that God ordained the family before he ordained human government or even the church.

Reporter At Large

Don Schelske

Throughout history, whether or not acknowledging God as the ordainer, civilization has adopted the same understanding of this most basic of institutions.

For our wedding ceremony, we took additional inspiration from counsel given to the church and applied it specifically to ourselves:

"If you have any encouragement from being united with Christ, if any comfort from his love, if any fellowship with the Spirit, if any tenderness and compassion, then make my joy complete by being like-minded, having the same love, being one in spirit and purpose" (Philippians 2:1-2, NIV).

We knew then, and have been convinced many times since, of the importance of this commitment. It is more important than feelings of "love" (especially as today's culture defines it), more important than physical attraction, more important than material blessings or what the world would call "success."

That, we believe, is why God has blessed our marriage and that is why we boldly offer our marriage as an example to others. Not because we are perfect, but because God is faithful.

It has not always been easy, but it has been easier because we had the proper understanding of the institution from the beginning.

Because we have worked so hard to nurture this commitment, we have felt pain when some (even Christians) have failed to keep their vows, or when others have rebelled against God's standards by ignoring the institution or trying to redefine it to fit their own preferences.

As frustrating as that can be, we find ourselves even more committed to staying committed (to our Lord and to each other), and in the process find ourselves celebrating our marriage even more with each passing year.

We've only made it 20 years; we offer admiration and congratulations to those who have even more years to their credit.

God has done a great work in and through those folks, also. It speaks well for the institution He created way back in the Garden of Eden.

Eagles fly high over Clarkston

BY DON SCHELSE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Boy Scout Troop 189 has honored two new Eagle Scouts, young men who have joined an elite group of only 4 percent of those in the national organization.

Jason Kuhn's Eagle Court of Honor was April 25, while Keith Voorheis received his medal May 9, both at Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church in Clarkston.

"The biggest thing that motivated me was all the benefits I saw for people who were getting their Eagle Scout," Kuhn said. "My mom kept on pushing me to get it, too."

Voorheis also gave credit to his parents, but said there was a personal goal, too.

"It was something I wanted to finish out. It was something I committed to," he said. "It's a lot of work, and there's so much else going on, and you think 'One more thing to get done.' I just worked at it and got it done."

To earn the Eagle rank, the scout must complete a minimum of 21 merit badges, serve in positions of leadership within the troop, participate in numerous community service projects, earn seven lesser ranks, and plan and execute an Eagle service project.

Upon completion of the requirements, the Eagle candidate submits an application to the Boy Scout council and participates in an interview with Council representatives.

Kuhn's Eagle project was to build 10 memorial benches for use at the Independence Oaks County Park.

Voorheis planned and supervised construction of a 10-by-20-foot shed for the Women's Survival Center, now called Maggie's Rising Star Day Care Center, in Pontiac.

In addition to a cement floor and two rolling steel doors, the shed has a dividing wall to accommodate children's toys on one side and the center's various maintenance equipment on the other side. The interior walls are covered with pegboard and the exterior is covered with vinyl siding. Twenty-five troop members, family, and friends contributed 370 hours to complete the project.

"It sat out there for a year or two" on the list of potential Eagle projects, Voorheis said. "There were no takers because it was so involved."

Kuhn, 17, has served as senior patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, and patrol leader. Prior to joining Troop 189, he was a Cub Scout with Pack 126 and an Indian Guide in Rochester.

The son of Dan and Hope Kuhn and younger brother to Matt, Jason Kuhn is a junior at Clarkston High School and attends the Oakland Science, Math and Technology (OSMTech) Academy. He is a member of the CHS varsity football team, a scholar-athlete, a member of the National Honor Society, recognized in the Who's Who Among American High School Students, and he is also recognized for National Honor Roll.

In addition to his school activities, he tutors a 10-year-old twice a week, and is a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church's Sunday Night Live Leadership team, a community outreach program.

Keith Voorheis is proud of his 23 merit badges and the service and camping experiences provided through Scouting. Photos by Don Schelske

Kuhn believes he has gained a lot of benefit from his Scouting experience, and others who rejected Scouting years ago now voice some regret.

"I think it's cool to be in Scouts because we take trips all over. This summer we're going to Scotland and I can't wait," he said. "I tell people that and they say, 'Wow, I wish I had stayed in.'"

Of his 23 merit badges, Environmental Science was Kuhn's favorite.

"It was the hardest merit badge I did, but I most definitely learned the most about nature when I did it," he said.

Voorheis, 16, has served as chaplain's aide, historian, troop guide, assistant senior patrol leader and patrol leader. In addition to his troop activity, he is a member of Venture Crew 2245, a pistol shooting crew sponsored by the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club in Clarkston.

Eagle Scout Jason Kuhn stands next to one of the memorial benches at Independence Oaks County Park. The 17-year-old supervised the construction of 10 such benches as his Eagle service project.

The son of Steve and Cathy Voorheis and older brother of Philip, Keith Voorheis is a sophomore at Clarkston High School and attends the Oakland Science, Math and Technology Academy. He is a member of the CHS boys varsity swim team and the junior varsity track team. Keith works part-time as a swimming instructor and shortly, as a lifeguard for Clarkston Community Schools. In addition, Keith works at SCAMP in the summer as an aide to Scamper.

Voorheis has earned 23 merit badges, ranking Aviation and Camping as his favorites. The latter was completed on a trip to the Rocky Mountain National Park.

Kuhn hopes to attend the University of Michigan, but is not yet decided on a course of study. Voorheis has dreams of attending the U.S. Air Force Academy, but he will enlist regardless, looking forward to eventual study of law.

Business people volunteer for charity 'lockup'

Part of the Deer Lake Athletic Club was converted into a "jail" Thursday, May 20 as the Muscular Dystrophy Association "arrested" local business people who had to "make bail" for their release.

The MDA Lockup was a good-natured fund-raiser to benefit about 19 Clarkston area residents who have the debilitating disease. Money raised by the event will help send kids to an MDA summer camp for one week in Lexington, and helps with medical needs such as wheelchairs.

Deer Lake donated their facilities and refreshments for the event, and about 100 people volunteered to be "arrested" for the event.

MDA representatives said the goal for the annual fund-raiser was $30,000.

Laurie Felix-Smith of Seaver Title Company does her "time" in the MDA Lockup on May 20.

MDA volunteer Mike Bernis tallies pledge sheets while Mike Schultz of Catalyst Sales tries to make bail at the MDA Lockup.

Steve Nacarato of the Muscular Dystrophy Association puts the cuffs on Cindy Burroughs, advertising manager of The Clarkston News, at the Thursday, May 20 "MDA Lockup" at the Deer Lake Athletic Club. Burroughs and many other local business people allowed themselves to be "arrested," then made calls to post "bail" to raise money to help those with the disease. Photos by Don Schelske

Attention to detail makes local house a featured SCAMP home

BY ALICIA DORSET
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Since 1995, Sheila and Jeff Bullard have been working hard to make their house at 9126 Softwater Woods the home of their dreams.

With projects officially completed at the house, the property has been a work in process since the Bullards purchased the lot almost 10 years ago. Construction began in 1997 and finished 10 days before Christmas, just in time for the family to enjoy the holiday there for the first time.

Family input has been a key ingredient to the final product. Jeff's brother actually built the house for the couple and his sister informed the two about the original lot when the property went up for sale. Jeff and his siblings were born and raised in Clarkston. Five out of the 12 children still live in the area today.

"Everything he (brother) touches is incredible," Sheila said.

The house now features four bedrooms to accommodate the couple's two pre-teen daughters. Plans are underway to build a wine cellar in the recently-completed basement.

Warm colors and rich paintings jump out to the eye inside the house. Rich earth tones are found throughout the house.

"The design originally started in the kitchen," Sheila said. "My friend painted grapes and we went with a grape theme."

Plumb cabinets and matching accessories work together with the grape vines painted across the walls in the kitchen.

A sitting area immediately off the kitchen opens to a wide view of the lake behind the house. Wildlife can be found throughout the area.

"I like the lake view, waking up and seeing that," Sheila said. "The difference in seasons is hard to believe. In the winter it's hard to imagine that it gets green and we're swimming there (lake) in six months."

Intricate paintings and murals are found all over the house, including in one of the daughter's bedrooms. A daisy theme, created by Debby Prescott features the phrase, "He love me, he loves me not" in French.

"I want my kids to come back here when they come home from college," Sheila said.

Welcoming all those who come inside, the Bullards house is truly a home.

"I love everything about it," Sheila said.
