Schools push non-homestead tax

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston school officials — and the five candidates vying for Clarkston school board — are unanimous in their defense of the Monday, June 14 proposal to restore the full 18-mill “non-homestead” property tax.

Under provisions of 1994’s Proposal A, those who do not have to pay the extra tax will determine whether owners of business, industrial, rental and second-residence properties will. Clarkston’s proposal is to renew a 4.5-mill levy which expired in December 2003.

Anita Banach, director of marketing and communications for Clarkston Community Schools, said there has been little active lobbying for the millage proposal, outside of district information flyers and presentations to parent groups and the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

“It’s really not like a campaign,” Banach said. “It’s not the schools asking for more money.”

Without the 4.5-mill renewal, officials say the district will lose about $1.6 million in state revenue for the 2004-2005 school year. Proposal A also links local districts’ levying of the non-homestead tax to the state per-pupil foundation grant.

School elections traditionally draw few voters. The 2003 school election (which included the $84.7 million bond issue) attracted less than 5,000 of the district’s approximately 30,700 voters.

Banach believes the lack of a major bond question and the fact that classes will be out by June 14 may further affect voter turnout.

In addition to the non-homestead tax question, voters will choose two trustees for new four-year terms on the school board. On the ballot are Jeffrey Allsteadt, Barry Bomier, Karen Foyteck, Joan Patterson and Diane Weller.

Foyteck is an incumbent running for reelection. Incumbent Mary Ellen McLean chose not to run for reelection. Trustee Tony Miller has submitted his resignation effective July 1, but the resignation was not announced in time for that seat to be included on the Monday, June 14 ballot.

(Please see page 3A for candidate profile information. See page 12B for the public notice with ballot language and voting precinct locations.)

The ballot will also include candidates for three six-year seats on the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees.

Banach said absentee ballots are available from all school buildings or may be requested by calling (248) 623-5413.

Campfire Circle issue hits road block

BY KYLE GARGARO

Clarkston News Editor

An Independence Township board recommendation on the proposed closing of Campfire Circle was put on hold after new information surfaced at the June 1 board meeting.

Campfire Circle connects Lake Waldon Village and Spring Lake subdivisions. Residents of Lake Waldon Village petitioned the township to close the street which they say is used as a cut-through. Residents say traffic, vandalism and speeding are all concerns and their safety is at risk.

Chuck Haman and John Mulvihill, residents of Lake Waldon Village, brought to the board’s attention June 1 that Campfire Circle might be a private road. They submitted to the board a Private Road Acknowledgment, which individuals purchasing

Orion man charged with sexual assault

A 35-year-old Orion Township resident appeared in court last week for allegedly raping a 19-year-old Clarkston woman near the DTE Energy Music Theatre Friday, May 28.

Gregory H. Combs was arraigned that weekend, with bond set at a full $500,000. He then faced a June 4 preliminary exam before 52-2 Judge Michael Batchik. Information from that appearance was not immediately available Monday.

According to Oakland County Sheriff Department reports, the woman was attending the Eddie Money concert with friends but decided to get a different ride home. After jumping a fence and walking toward Sashabaw Road to meet the ride, she was allegedly jumped by Combs.

A deputy patrolling the area saw the couple off the side of Pine Knob Road appearing to be engaged in sexual intercourse, reports said, and the woman reported the rape.

Combs allegedly gave false identification at first, claimed the woman flirted with him but denied having intercourse.

The woman was found to have a bloody nose and scratches on her neck.

Clarkston school board candidates offer positions on issues

(Editor's note: The Monday, June 14 school election ballot has five candidates competing for two four-year terms on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education.

The Clarkston News asked each candidate to respond to a uniform questionnaire concerning their qualifications and positions on issues.

The following includes their responses.)

Jeffrey Allsteadt

Jeffrey Patrick Allsteadt, 30, 7210 Bluewater Condo #148; judicial law clerk; school district resident for 14 years; son of Patrick and Kathy Allsteadt and brother to older sisters Andrea and Nichole. Andrea has one son. Nichole is married to Richard Campbell and has five children.

Current/previous experience in school district activities:

Former substitute teacher in the Clarkston schools for all grades, member of Clarkston Athletic Booster, judge for the high school Destination Imagination team.

What are the two top issues currently facing the Clarkston Schools?

Two of the most important issues facing Clarkston Schools today are the budgets cuts handed down from the state and the reconfiguration of the middle schools into 6/7 and 8/9 buildings.

With the state budget cuts schools are forced to make cutbacks that end up hurting kids in Michigan. Board members need to make sure every dollar possible goes towards the classroom and instruction of the next generation.

The reconfiguration is an important step that serves several needs. Removing the freshman from the high school helps resolve the overcrowding issues here. Also it will allow more of an intense focus on the curriculum and other needs and issues of those students.

Do you support the ballot proposal to restore the full 18 mills "non-homestead" tax levy? Why or why not?

Yes, I support the ballot proposal. The renewal is for 4.5 mills for 2004 to provide funds for operating costs. In December 2003, 4.5 non-homestead mills expired. When school districts fall below this 18 mill limit, districts are faced with a reduction in the per pupil funding. Homeowners will not see an increase in property taxes. Without this renewal the district will lose $1.6 million in funding for the next school year. In my opinion there is no disadvantage to Clarkston taxpayers.

Should Clarkston schools implement a "pay to participate" athletics fee?

Unfortunately in these hard economic times schools have to resort to such measures. The athletic budget has taken its fair hit in terms of a reduction over the past three years. If we don't want to lose sports as opportunities for our children then yes, measures like this must be taken to ensure opportunities in the sports world for our kids.

What is your understanding of a school board member's responsibilities?

The responsibilities of the school board are to oversee policy, budget and personnel recommendations. The board helps develop and revise policies of the district. Members of the board oversee the spending of the budget of the school district. The board also is responsible for hiring and reviewing the superintendent and for approval of all personnel recommendations.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?

I have attended 90% of the meetings in the past year.

For whom does the board of education work?

The board's boss is the community that elects them. I have run my campaign last year and this year on the simple notion that I represent 8,000 kids; not one class, program or building, but the community at large.

When do you believe the next time the school district will seek additional funds from the taxpayers?

There has been nothing discussed about this issue in the past year at the school board meetings. The school board and administration take this issue very seriously. They only want to come to the community requesting more funds when absolutely necessary. The board and administration understand our current economy situation. With the passing of the bond last year it has addressed several needs of the schools. Promises made will be kept in the spending of the bonds from last year. That being said, it will be a few years before a need presents itself that would warrant ballot proposal requesting money from the taxpayers.

How often should local businesses be approached to help fund school activities?

I don't know that there is an exact number of times a local business should be approached to help fund a school activity. Different businesses contribute on different levels. It is up to the owner of that business to decide if they want to support a school function or more than one. In Clarkston we are blessed to have wonderful businesses that schools and community groups solicit for monetary help or gifts as prizes for fundraising opportunities. I believe it is important for customers to give their business to the businesses because they donate to a specific outing.

Please give your response to the statement, "The schools need more money."

More money from the state means less layoff and more dollars going to the classroom educating the next generation. Other opportunities could present themselves if you can afford those opportunities.

Why, specifically, do you want to serve on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education?

I'm running for Clarkston school board because I believe I can make an impact on the students of Clarkston because of my experiences over the past 15 years being a resident of this great community.

My involvement with Youth Assistance and other civic groups is that one person can make a difference in the world. I hold the principles of giving back to my community, accountability, community vision, dedication, and determination to make our school district even better very close to my heart.

Two specific goals I have are that dollars to the classroom is the last resource looked at in light of budget constraints. Thereby keeping as many dollars in the classrooms for education is my first goal. Schools are in the business of teaching our children.

The second goal is strengthen the instructional program. The school board can accomplish that by standardizing the curriculum to an optimal level, leaving teachers time for creative individual teaching, retaining excellent teachers, and utilizing technology in the classroom, and having a system of accountability that works. A serious focus and special interest at the reconfiguration of the middle school and freshman years.

What else would you like voters to know about you that we haven't asked in this questionnaire?

The citizens of Clarkston should vote for me because I have a strong track record in the community working for kids. As a former substitute teacher in the district I see things from a unique perspective. As treasurer and former chairperson of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Mentors Plus, I have made a difference in children's lives.

Also this year I started a tutoring program at Bridgewater Apartment complex for the kids in that complex. The program is growing and thriving.

I believe public service is important. One way I can give back to my community is to serve on the Clarkston school board. Voting for me is an investment in the principles of accountability, community vision, dedication, and determination to make our school district even better for our kids.

Barry Bomier

Barry Bomier, 52, 5825 Meadows Drive; retired Army officer, currently working for Michelin North America as program manager of military products; married to Gae, a teacher at Clarkston High School father to two daughters, one a 1998 graduate of CHS and teacher at Lake Orion HS, the other a senior at CHS.

Current/previous experiences in school district activities: Trustee, Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education, 1994-1996; member, PTA/PTSA (Bailey Lake Elementary, Sashabaw Middle School, and CHS) 1992-present.

What are the two top issues currently facing Clarkston Community Schools?

Two major issues face the district — the decrease in state funding, and the management of the grades 6-9 reconfiguration. The first issue is not unlike what we experienced while I served on the board after the passage of Proposal A. The grade reconfiguration is something that will have a lasting impact

Springfield Township welcomes new commander

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Oakland County Sheriff's Sgt. Mark Gardner is fighting the battle many new executives face, trying to balance the paperwork with the people work.

"I like being out there, but I'm kind of stuck behind my desk right now," Gardner said, although he enjoyed being out in uniform at the recent Happy Birthday, Springfield event. "I wanted to go and let people know I really do exist."

The new commander of the Springfield Township substation took over in mid-May, replacing now-retired Sgt. Frank Schipani. Gardner spend two and a half years with the Oakland Township substation, but is closing in on his 17th anniversary with the sheriff's department.

His experience includes corrections, road patrol in several Oakland County communities, traffic enforcement and narcotics. He has served on the department's Special Response Team and is a trained hostage negotiator.

"I know a little bit about everything but not a lot about everything," he quipped, trying to decrease the focus on his individual accomplishments. "I'm a team player. It's not what I do, it's what we all do together."

Gardner wanted to be in law enforcement since he was a child.

"I wanted to change the world, and I thought it would be cool to be a cop," he said.

Has he changed the world? "Probably in bits and pieces, but if I've changed things I don't know about it, but that's OK with me."

Gardner is not a stranger to Springfield Township. He lived in the township about 11 years ago (he and his family now live in the eastern part of the county), and he has worked an occasional road patrol shift.

"Everyone's been extremely nice," he said of his reception so far. "I'm going to do the best job I can."

He brings a friendly but no-nonsense style of management, and said he tries to be fair and honest with everyone. "What you see is what you get."

With a wife and a 15-year-old daughter, Gardner believes family is important and said, "I'm pretty much a homebody." He stays active following his daughter's active involvement in volleyball and other sports.

He's a sports fan, himself, and had a quick answer concerning the Detroit Pistons' chances in the NBA Finals.

"I think it's going to go seven," he said. "They have the talent to do it; it just depends which team is going to show up."

New round of break-ins hit Independence

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Oakland County Sheriff investigators believe they have a suspect in home invasions occurring in April and early May, currently in custody in Flint Township.

That won't answer questions concerning several new cases of residential break-ins, however.

"It's a little bit different," Detective Jerry DeRosia said of five incidents on Perry Lake Road, Cameo Lane and Deer Forest Court May 31 and June 3-4.

While the earlier incidents (in the Hubbard and Allen road areas), seemed to have tire tracks at each location, there seems to be no clear evidence for investigators to go on. DeRosia said there is a common element in the nature of items taken.

In almost all of the incidents, jewelry was taken from a bedroom. One homeowner also reported the theft of personal documents such as a Social Security card, birth certificate and a relative's death certificate.

DeRosia said such documents may be sold for use in creating false identification for those involved in illicit purchase of alcohol and drugs.

While some of the incidents involved forced entry, at least two of the homes had an unlocked door utilized by the perpetrators.

Those with information concerning suspicious persons or vehicles are asked to contact the sheriff's department at (248) 620-4968 or (248) 858-4950.

on the education of our children.

Do you support the ballot proposal to restore the full 18-mill "non-homestead" tax? Why or why not?

Yes. The proposal is asking voters to approve a 4.5 mill renewal of the "non-homestead" tax. Approval of the proposal will allow the district to levy 18 mill for 2 years. The tax already exists by law, to not approve this request will cost the district in approximately $1.6 million in funding for next year that the state has calculated into the per pupil funding.

What is your understanding of a school board member's responsibility?

My understanding of a school board trustee's responsibilities is based on previous experience as a trustee. Those responsibilities primarily include policy, budget and personnel matters.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?
None.

For whom does the board of education work? The citizens of the school district.

When do you believe will be the next time the school district will seek additional funds from the taxpayers?

Funding requests are driven by a number of requirements. The exact timing and need for those requests are unknown at this time.

How often should local businesses be approached to help fund school activities?

The law concerning what the district can and cannot do relative to funding is very specific, which is why we have ballot proposals such as the "non homestead" tax this year. There are a number of organizations that support different school-related programs, that are not part of the school district. You'd have to ask those groups how they would respond to this question for their answer.

Please give your first response to the statement, "The schools need more money."

Education isn't free, but it is a community responsibility!

Why, specifically do you want to serve on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education?

I'm running for a seat on the board of education for Clarkston Community Schools, because I believe that the education of our children is one of our most important responsibilities, and I want to be a part of making that happen.

Both my experience and background provide me with unique qualities and skills for serving on the Board of Education. This includes a previous term on the Board, as well as professional expertise in the areas of crisis communications, and strategic planning.

A graduate of the United States Military Academy, I've dedicated much of my life to service, and belief that service is a responsibility that comes with citizenship. My service includes a career in the Army, work on school committees, as well as church and community projects.

Karen Foyteck

Karen E. Foyteck, 62, 7672 Phelan Drive; owner, North Oakland Office Services; 34-year-district resident; married to Doug with three children who all attended Clarkston schools K-12.

Current/previous experience in school district activities:

Completing 12th year as a school board member; MASB certified — Award of Distinction; have served as secretary, vice president and president; parent volunteer, PTA member and officer; substitute teacher; secondary teacher — English and Spanish; senior party; facilities study committee; strategic planning committee; athletic boosters.

What are the two top issues currently facing the Clarkston Schools?

Like all districts in Michigan, we are faced with continuing budget issues. Fortunately, we began a program three years ago to carefully implement budget cuts and, at the same time, protect curriculum and student opportunities. We have cut $1.5 million from our budget for each of the last three years and have been able to protect and improve curriculum offerings and challenges for our students.

At the same time, we must provide the funds to implement unfunded, or underfunded, mandated requirements for NCLB and Education YES. The uncertainty of what the exact amount of the per pupil allocation we receive from the state continues, and is a strong factor in budget planning.

In spite of the uncertainty in funding, our leadership team will continue to focus on fiscal responsibility and providing challenges and opportunities for our students.

Completion of the current bond issue to improve our buildings will require attention to detail and planning. Work on the bond issue is progressing on the projected timeline. The ongoing work to plan for the transition to a 6-7 and 8-9 building is extremely important for both of these schools.

Do you support the ballot proposal to restore the full 18 mills "non-homestead" tax levy? Why or why not?

Proposal A (passed in 1994) completely changed the funding of operating money for schools. According to the provisions of Proposal A, we receive a "per pupil" amount for students enrolled in our schools.

Proposal A also has the provision that if a community does not levy the full 18 mills for non-homestead property, the state reduces the amount of "per pupil" money that district receives. Proposal A was passed with the intent that communities would levy 18 mills for non-homestead property.

The Headlee Amendment impacts

non-homestead properties, especially in growing communities. Clarkston has been an area of growth, and we have been impacted by Headlee. If we do not receive voter approval for 18 mills, our "per pupil" or foundation grant will be reduced.

Because we were "in formula" at the time Proposal A was passed, we are one of the lower-funded districts. Yes, I support restoring the full 18 mills non-homestead tax because it is so vital to our funding.

Should Clarkston schools implement a "pay to participate" athletics fee?

It is always with great reluctance that a school district implements this kind of fee. Approximately 10 years ago, Clarkston had a pay-to-participate fee for co-curricular activities. We rescinded this fee as soon as possible.

For the past three years, we have carefully budgeted and reduced our savings without impacting student programs, services and opportunities. This spring, like many of our neighboring districts, it was determined that we would have to institute some kind of fee for co-curricular athletic programs.

The other alternative would be to eliminate some co-curricular athletic offerings. I anticipate that the "pay to participate" fee will be rescinded as soon as funding allows.

What is your understanding of a school board member's responsibilities?

A school board trustee represents the students and the community in the planning and implementation of our school programs. The board is responsible for hiring and evaluating the superintendent, writing policy and fiscal management of the district. The board is responsible for the mission, vision and goals of the district. Primary focus is what is best for all our students. Decisions are "student" driven.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?

All but one — medical reason to miss the March 22 meeting.

For whom does the board of education work?

The board works on behalf of the Communication breakdown

With the passing of former President Ronald Reagan last weekend, I was able to watch many television clips of the actor turned politician.

It was a great joy to watch how he lived up to his billing as, "The Great Communicator." His disarming humor, aw shucks mannerisms and tough talk when needed made it easy to realize why our country rallied behind him during the 1980's.

However my admiration turned to dismay when our current President George W. Bush was shown saying a few words about Reagan. While he only spoke for a few minutes Bush was constantly looking down at his notes. How he could not speak from the heart about a man he knew reasonably well or memorized a few words was beyond me? What was truly frustrating was his not so dramatic pauses and constant stuttering.

He must be adopted because when his father, Former President George Herbert Walker Bush, talked to the press about the passing of Reagan he came off quite well.

Now before Republicans begin screaming at me faster than Jennifer Lopez can find a new husband, let me say I don't believe the President is a dumb man. While I am sure he was helped along by daddy Bush, you do not graduate from Yale without having some major intelligence.

This is not about the policies of the Bush administration, although I do have some issues much like I do with almost all elected leaders. I just wish he could communicate his intelligence to our country and the rest of the world. His bumbling and stumbling of the English language does not put me at ease.

Now I know the argument is wouldn't you rather have a president of substance rather than style. My theory is why can't our country, being the lone superpower with almost 300 million residents, have both? If put to a choice I would rather have brains than charisma in my political leaders, but we should raise the bar and demand both qualities.

And don't give me the argument that early in our history we had great presidents who were not good public speakers. Times change over the years and so does our country. Former President Thomas Jefferson once owned slaves, but these days that would probably prevent a candidate from getting out of the primary.

I am sure many people enjoy the way Bush talks because he is a "common man." His act tends to play well in Everytown, USA.

Well, I don't want a common man running our country. I want an individual who can both think and intelligent thought and convey that very same thought. I want an individual the youth of the country will attempt to be by studying hard, not by skipping English class.

Can somebody please pull the president aside and give him some speech lessons? Maybe this could take place during the month vacation he seems inclined to take.

Supervisor answers senior center issues

This is in response to the guest column by resident Cathy Houck.

The voters of Independence have never told the Township Board not to build a new Senior Center. The voters defeated a proposal to build a new Township Hall (administrative center) and build new soccer fields with improvements to Clintonwood Park.

The voters in a second election defeated the proposal to build a community center with a pool. In both these votes, the Township Board was asking for the citizens of Independence Township to approve debt that the citizens would have to repay as additional taxes. The citizens have spoken on those issues, and I would not violate or second guess their decision.

The current proposal to build a new Senior Center will not require any additional taxes. The township has determined that we can pay for the new facility with the funds the voters already provide to run the township. Our research shows that we can run the new facility with the same staff we currently have.

The current Senior Center facilities are deplorable. Senior citizens deserve better. Independence Township and most other townships in the state run programs for the benefit of seniors, just like we run programs for the benefit of children, teens, young adults and middle age adults.

The water and sewer funds must maintain fund balances to meet the future needs of the systems. These funds are invested and earn interest. All that the board is considering is to change the character of the asset in which the funds are invested. The general fund would borrow the money and repay the loan with interest. The loan will be repaid with user fees from senior citizens and from the senior budget. This is nothing like what happened with the Oakland Intermediate School District.

Houck suggested the township has hidden accounts and that I, as Supervisor, or the elected Board of Trustees, spends without citizen knowledge. Neither of those insinuations is true. Our budget is public and approved in public. All of our expenditures are made in public. All of our investments are public knowledge.

The voters of Independence Township told the board not to build a new township hall, not to build a community center and not to build new soccer fields. I respect and will follow that mandate.

I, and the remainder of the board, are elected to use our best judgement in meeting the needs of the community for everyone - young and old. It is our duty to provide the services that the community needs.

In all of my years as trustee (from 1980 to 1988) and as Supervisor from 1992 to present, I have attempted to look for innovative and creative ways to serve the citizens of Independence Township with vision and foresight.

Senior citizens are an important part of this community and deserve our respect, admiration and services that are specific to their needs.

Allsteadt should be choice for school board

I strongly urge Clarkston School residents to vote for Jeffrey Allsteadt in the June 14th school board election. He is genuinely concerned with the academic welfare of our children.

He has taken a positive step to make sure this is possible for Clarkston students, by co-founding an after school homework club at Bridgewater Apartments. The homework club enables every child there a chance to understand and get their homework done. He also promotes an intense academic focus on the new 6/7 and 8/9 buildings where the Clarkston School District utilizes those middle school years in prep for high school and every dollar possible is used for classroom instruction.

As voters we need to support Jeff for his strong commitment and dedication for the academic welfare of all Clarkston Students.

Virginia Walter, Dale Stuart, Township Supervisor, The Clarkston Historical Society, Clarkston State Bank, Rudy's Market, The Chocolate Moose, The Village Bakery, The Clarkston News and The Antique/General Store.

Because of your time and talents, our students were able to experience Clarkston history. You shared many of the rich stories embedded in our history with us. What a wonderful way for children and their parents to learn!

Thank you again.

No reason to change Springfield leadership

We were surprised to learn that a slate of candidates has been recruited to challenge several incumbents in Springfield Township.

Why? We believe our township has the strongest clerk, Nancy Strole, in north Oakland County. She along with the Supervisor and Treasurer have an excellent record in the things that matter to us. The protection of our environment without growth plus strong fiscal administration that holds down taxes. They have worked with a township board that represents all points of view to bring a balanced approach to well planned growth.

We can think of no reason to change this leadership.

Addams Family vs The Munsters

This past weekend the good folks in charge of the TV-Land cable network put together an Addams Family marathon. Back to back to back to back to — you get the picture — back episodes of the early to mid 1960s sitcom.

One evening before the marathon Jen asked me, "Why do some people like only The Addams Family and some only like The Munsters? There are few who like both. You should write a column on that."

Because I am ever the obedient husband, you are now reading a column probing the deep intellectual and philosophical quandaries surrounding and separating two similar, yet very different television shows. (I bet, with a little polishing, I could pitch this as a college course and students would attend. Or I could write a book about it and folks would buy it.)

I'll be up front, I am a Munsters kind of guy. I liked Herman and Grampa and I liked the cars they drove. I never got into The Addams Family. I was bored with it.

Jen thinks The Munsters are just plain stupid but fawns over The Addams Family.

I went to work and posed the question to all who would answer: "The Addams Family or The Munsters?" (I used this sparse-word questioning tactic as not to taint or sway the answers. I wanted people's first gut responses.) All the female-types answered Addams; all but one of the guys grunted Munsters. (The "one" shall remain anonymous as to protect his standing in the Red Blooded American Man Club.)

Men are from Mars. Women are from Venus.
Men like Munsters. Women like Addams.

Had I discovered a great divide among the sexes? Could it be that men and women are actually different from each other — and could it be that that difference could be explained by their preference of either family, Addams or Munster?

Hmmmm?

After my quick and dirty poll I knew I was missing something. I had a gut feeling there was more to this than met my blue eyes (and by the size of my gut the feeling was pretty big). Interesting . . . the plot had thickened. While some would argue thick plots and those two shows did not go together, I dare to disagree. I am onto something.

don
rush
don't rush
me

I went to the computer and because Al Gore invented the internet, I was able to type in "Addams Family vs The Munsters." In only 0.19 seconds I was able to get some 930 hits.

From this dearth of information I was able to learn this: Both shows aired during the same seasons. The Addams Family, an ABC show, aired from September 18, 1964 to September 2, 1966. There were 64 episodes.

The Munsters, from the good folks at CBS, aired from September 24, 1964 to September 1, 1966. There were 70 episodes plus that movie, Munsters Go Home.

From an Addams Family fan site I found more folks liked Gomez & Morticia Addams than Herman and Lily Munster. Some of the comments I read concluded The Addams Family was "better written," "more sophisticated," and "more clever" than The Munsters. And, while I could not tell the sex of the commentators, I guessed most were gals, because more than one said something to the effect, "I liked the romance between Gomez and Morticia."

This would explain why Jen liked The Addams Family more than yours truly. Jen is more clever, more sophisticated and were she a program, would be better written than me. I am not about sophistication. The humor of the sophisticates goes over my head.

Jen also made note of the Addams romance. I think she called it "cute." One of the women in the office I polled mentioned that romance, adding that she only watched The Munsters because her father and brother liked the show.

That's another reason — maybe the major reason — why guys were/are not into The Addams Family. I contend guys are not into romance when they are watching comedy. Guys are not into romance when they are watching a comedy show about monsters. Guys are into slapstick. Guys are into not having to think about their comedy. Guys just want to laugh. Guys are more visually stimulated and you have to admit the Munsters' cousin Marilyn was more visually appealing than the Addams' cousin Itt.

There you go . . . and now that I have spent all this time researching and writing this column I wish I could have that time back. After reading this, you probably are thinking I should redeem your time back to you.

Too bad.

Which show do you like better and why? E-mail your thoughts to Don, dontrushmedon@aol.com

I've had a camera in my colon, have you?

The editor said I could write about this topic if I kept it light and educational.
Okay. The topic is colonoscopy.

It shouldn't be boring, but it is, in a way.

While waiting in the hospital to be prepped (get naked) for the grand search, they put you in the endoscopy room. Get it? ENDoscopy waiting room.

Hospitals and doctors have to have their little jokes.

After I was told, twice, that everyone over 50 should have this procedure (isn't that a comforting word) every ten years, unless a polyp (another nice word that is interpreted as cancer) is discovered, then it's every five years. I called Dr. Benedicto Cortez.

His instructions: Get this prescription filled, follow directions and go to Crittenton Hospital outpatient entrance June 3.

The directions say: Fill this gallon jug, cathartic included, with water the morning before the "procedure," start drinking it at 6:00, an 8-oz. glass every 15 minutes until it is all gone. Eat nothing all day. Drink clear drinks, no dairy stuff.

Before you finish your third glass of this elixir you will not have time to eat, nor will you have any thought of refilling your tummy.

When I go through this "procedure" again I will have cable installed in the bathroom and watch tv until, as they say, the 'stool is clear.'

As it was for this naive neophyte, there were accidents. There was seepage that at times raised the possibility of calling the Army Engineer Corps. to stem the flow.

I soiled (that too is a nice word for what actually happened) one pair of pajama bottoms and three shorts and I wasn't halfway through what turned out to be a prolonged liquid letting experience.

Five hours after the first eight ounces my bed had to be changed. Actually, it just should have been changed. Since I sleep in a king-size bed I just moved to the dry side. That's pure male thinking.

When I learned my schedule, I was with a dozen guys settling up after a golf game. Naturally, I almost boasted about my coming intrusion. All of them had had the exploration. All said the day before is worst of the experiences.

And so it was.

My prep-lady, Diane, said the worst was over. The intrusionary doctor said the worst was over, then, I think, gleefully, he ordered the shot to put me in never-never land.

The explaining folder says a "colonoscopy is usually well tolerated and rarely causes much pain. There is often a feeling of pressure, bloating or cramping. You will be lying on your side while the colonoscope is advanced slowly through the large intestine. The procedure usually takes 15 to 60 minutes. If they find polyps they will be removed."

Later, in recovery, where you are encouraged to 'release' the gas (like it's a prisoner) the now-good Dr. Cortez showed me four full-color pictures of the inside of my colon. I ordered a dozen 8 x 10s.

He said, "This spot right here is a polyp, which I removed." He called it a polyp, I call it a faulty negative.

The last instruction I remember had to do with bleeding. If I experienced a loss of as much as a tablespoon of blood I should call the doctor.

I really can't figure out how one would know if they discharged a tablespoon of blood. In the first place I think after-stool-lookers have to be weird, and in the second place only a contortionist could hold a spoon in that position.

A Look Back

At our community's history through the pages of
The Clarkston News

15 YEARS AGO (1989)

- It was wet and rainy and cold for the school election, but about 34 percent of registered voters turned out anyway. Voters in the Clarkston district voted 3,420 to 1,933 to defeat a $68.8 million bond proposal for a new high school and other building improvements. Also voted down was a Headlee override, 3,198 to 2,196. The override would have allowed the school district levy the 38.83 mills voters approved in last year's election.

- A 305 unit manufactured home sub was effectively killed by the Independence Township board June 6, making the courts the only recourse for developer Gregory Christopher. Members voted 4-2 to accept recommendations of the township planning commission to deny a rezoning of the project. The plan was met with strong opposition from nearby residents.

- Before the two draft days for professional baseball recently, Don Lindsey wasn't too nervous. The Kansas City Royals made the Independence Township resident's day by selecting him in the 22nd round. Lindsey, a 1986 graduate of Waterford Kettering High School, recently completed his third year at Michigan State University. He looks forward to his new career.

25 YEARS AGO (1979)

- An emphatic "No!" resounded from the polls Monday as Clarkston School District voters turned down a $9.1 million building package. Thirteen of every 20 voters who went to the polls voted against constructing a new junior high school library and making safety improvements at the high school. The bonding proposal was soundly defeated in each of the district's 12 precincts, the unofficial vote tally being 1,754-947.

- They called it a potential death trap. They said the proposed M-15 widening to five lanes between Dixie Highway and Paramus Drive would threaten Clarkston's historical village. They said speeding traffic would zoom non-stop from Dixie through the village to I-75. But complaining citizens' gains were slight after all was said during an hour meeting Tuesday night between the Michigan State Highway Department and over 35 Clarkston and Independence Township residents.

- Initial work on the wording of an ordinance protecting Clarkston's proposed historic preservation district was begun June 4 by the Clarkston Planning Commission. Working from a draft drawn up by Commissioners Dean Smith and Steven Himburg, the commission hammered out the ground rules regulating the creation of a historic district commission. The commission will be empowered to judge all building permits submitted for structures located within the historic preservation district.

50 YEARS AGO (1954)

- Two Clarkston students, Cadet Charles W. Lippincott and Dwight I. Pettengill, were among the 179 cadets at Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana, who received diplomas at graduation.

- The Clarkston Firefighters were guests of the Clarkston Rotary Club on Monday evening. This is an annual affair in appreciation of and honoring the work of the firefighters.

Clarkston community and all of the district's students.

When do you believe the next time the school district will seek additional funds from the taxpayers?

Under the terms of Proposal A, the school district cannot ask taxpayers for additional operating funds. I would anticipate that our current bond will address building needs for approximately 10 years, depending on community growth.

How often should local businesses be approached to help fund school activities?

Businesses are often approached to purchase ads in yearbooks and other similar publications. They are also approached by student and parent groups to contribute to special events like the senior party. Our business community has been very supportive of our students and their activities, and their participation is sincerely appreciated. Because our business community has been so generous, they should be approached for ads and donations on a limited basis.

Please give your response to the statement, "The schools need more money."

My first response is that the state and federal government need to fund the mandates they have said they will fund.

Joan Patterson

Joan Patterson, 45, 7284 Deerhill Drive; system analyst, certified tennis professional, business owner; 17-year school district resident; married to Thomas and mother to a fifth grader at Independence Elementary School

Current/previous experience in school district activities:

Served as IE PTO president, 2003-2004; started and served as after-school tutoring program director, 2000-present; started and served as IE enrichment group director, 2003-2004; volunteered in classrooms and at school-wide activities; 1999-present; served as Clarkston district parent advisory team member, 2003-2004; served as board member for Academic Boosters of Clarkston, 2002-2004; campaigned for Clarkston school bond, 2003; served on military service academy selection committees, 1989-2002.

What are the two top issues currently facing the Clarkston Schools?

Budget restraints and ensuring each child grows academically.

Do you support the ballot proposal to restore the full 18 mills "non-homestead" tax levy? Why or why not?

If the school district does not collect the full 18-mill "non-homestead" tax from the community, the district will face further reductions that directly impact students. I feel this will be detrimental to the operation of our schools and the quality of our education. No one likes the idea of increasing taxes. Whether the change is presented as a "restoration" or a "continuation," many people who do not directly benefit (and even some who do) may oppose the institution of a tax. We need to demonstrate a clear goal for the use of those funds, and seek the support of the community to approve this bond proposal.

Should Clarkston schools implement a "pay to participate" athletics fee?

A pay-to-participate athletic fee is a fair way to provide a wide variety of sports to all students when the district faces financial restraints. I believe no child should be excluded because of financial hardship. Scholarships should be available to these children.

What is your understanding of a school board member's responsibilities?

The school board handles a wide range of topics. Board members spend a good deal of time outlining the board's expectations for student achievement and for the effective management of the school system, developing broad policies to state what ends the board wants to achieve and monitoring the progress toward those aims.

The school board enacts policy, adopts curriculum, approves personnel recommendations and oversees the evaluation of educational programs. The board also provides fiscal oversight, adopts the annual operating budget, plans capital improvements and engages the community in the policy-making process.

Therefore, a school board member should be responsible for:

- setting the tone and direction for the school activities and strategies,

- managing and overseeing the school administrators' execution of district, state and federally-mandated directions to the school system.

- comprehending and developing means to financially support the achievement of school objectives,

- Facilitating the achievement of school district objectives through a reasoned decision-making process.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?

I have been able to attend six meetings this year in person. I receive and review the board briefs for every meeting. I keep current with the direction and decisions of the board.

For whom does the board of education work?

The board of education works for the community it serves and all the partners in education. The community includes, first of all, the students in within the school district. It also has the responsibility to the partners in education including the parents, teachers, administrators, as well as local businesses, to act legally, fairly and in a fiscally responsible way to get the most from the resources provided by those partners and to continue to ensure excellence in education.

When do you believe the next time the school district will seek additional funds from the taxpayers?

While I cannot predict the future actions of the state and federal agencies that control a significant portion of the funding that supports our schools system, I will work to ensure that the least amount of impact on services will directly affect our children. With the growth we have seen in our community, there will be a

Signs tell us to vote for Waterford school board

Random, arbitrary and otherwise miscellaneous ramblings from your friendly, neighborhood reporter...

There are plenty of things to be bothered about in connection with the war on terrorism. Among them is the short attention span of both media provider and consumer.

Author Stephen F. Hayes purports to show how major American media outlets have reported ties between Saddam Hussein and the al Qaeda terrorist organization, even though a lot of people now believe that claim was another "lie."

Meanwhile, folks have glossed over the confirmation of serin gas in an explosive device in Iraq, along with other evidence of Saddam's programs in chemical and biological warfare.

This may not yet prove the existence of a massive cache of "weapons of mass destruction," but it seems some are waiting for the discovery of a Home Depot-like warehouse before taking it seriously.

We can see the tv ad now:

Reporter
At Large

Don Schelske

"Chemical weapons, aisle 1; biological weapons, aisle 2; nuclear weapons, aisle 3. Come on down, because at 'WMDs-R-Us,' our weapons are insane!"

If such a warehouse exists, by the way, it was likely set up in Syria long ago...

Closer to home, we find election season alternately entertaining and frustrating.

Is anyone else confused when driving down Maybee Road just west of North Sashabaw Elementary School to see several school board campaign signs...for the Waterford school district?

Speaking of the election, this edition of The Clarkston News again has the names of those running for the Clarkston board of education.

Please read the candidate profiles and evaluate how well they answered (or failed to answer) our questions on school issues.

Then, please vote Monday, June 14. We'd like to report a healthy voter turnout.

Since at least two people have confronted us with this directly, we can safely assume many more are talking behind our backs concerning our alleged lack of coverage of the state Blue Ribbon award going to Clarkston High School and Clarkston Middle School.

To set the record straight: We did not hear about the award from Clarkston school officials. After the news broke elsewhere, we had to seek out the basic information from the Michigan Department of Education.

Rushing to meet deadline, we scheduled a photo/interview appointment with the award-winning principals, but one of them had to back out at the last minute. Attempts to reschedule the appointment failed, so we were forced to run the MDOE press release.

We did cover both award ceremonies, by the way, but even there officials gave no details concerning the criteria for granting the award.

Based on a letter to the editor last week, we understand there is an aversion to using Scripture as a "weapon."

There are a couple ways to answer this. First, it might be better to understand the quoting of Scripture as a legitimate means of persuasion when one is attempting to promote godly principles and behavior.

The second is to observe that, since we're in a war for moral standards in our culture, you need the best "weapons" you can find.

I'd quote some properly interpreted Bible verses to back this up, but then some would complain this column belongs on the Religion page...

need for additional facilities or further reconfiguration. A quality school district is reflective of a quality community which supports its public schools.

How often should local businesses be approached to help fund school activities?

I believe this is something only the local businesses can tell us. Our local businesses are run by real people with different issues, interests and pocketbooks. I think they will let us know if they are being approached too often.

Please give your response to the statement, "The schools need more money."

In difficult economic climates such as today, schools could always use more money. However, in order to obtain the community's support, we must show a true need and specific goals consistent with an agreed strategy and framed within a specific time period to achieve our goals. Requests from the community for money can then be evaluated fairly and prioritized correctly by the community.

Why, specifically, do you want to serve on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education?

This past year, I have been heavily involved with the school district as a PTO president at Independence Elementary and as a member of the district parent advisory team. I have enjoyed the challenges and commitment required in serving the community and would like to continue in this manner. I have gained experience by successfully working and communicating with diverse groups of people moving toward a common goal. I have the time, the background and the motivation to help ensure that Clarkston schools continue to provide excellence in education.

Therefore, the two specific goals I would like to accomplish are: continue to increase educational opportunities for all our children, and increase community participation in accomplishing Clarkston Community Schools' vision for the future.

What else would you like voters to know about you that we haven't asked in this questionnaire?

I believe people with a common goal can make a difference in this community. I would like to, and I believe I have what it takes to, be a member of the school board and make a difference for our children.

Diane Weller, 4510 Major Ave.; part-time accountant; six-year district resident; married to Randy with two sons, 11, and one daughter, 9.

Current/previous experience in school district activities:

PTA president, one year; PTA treasurer, two years; PAT member, two years; consistent audience member at school board meetings.

What are the two top issues currently facing the Clarkston Schools?

I feel the two most important issues in the short term are 1) teaching of new, young teachers, and 2) the reconfiguration of the new 6/7 and 8/9 buildings.

Do you support the ballot proposal to restore the full 18 mills "non-homestead" tax levy? Why or why not?

Yes. It is assumed by the state this will be done. The 18 mills are taken off the state funding, whether we levy the tax or not. If we do not levy the full 18 mills, we will be losing around $1.8 million.

Should Clarkston schools implement a "pay to participate" athletics fee?

Unfortunately, with the state of funding these days, we have little choice. Although I would rather not, I feel it would be the best way to alleviate some of the costs of athletics. I would certainly be quick to get ride of pay-to-play if funding becomes better in the future.

What is your understanding of a school board member's responsibilities?

To help develop and revise policies of the district; to oversee the district's budget; for hiring the superintendent and approve all personnel changes.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?

I have attended nearly all meetings for the past two years. I am a consistent audience member.

For whom does the board of education work?
The people of the school district.

When do you believe the next time the school district will seek additional funds from the taxpayers?

It is impossible to predict when this will happen next. I know the board will not ask for more money unless it is imperative to do so.

How often should local businesses be approached to help fund school activities?

I believe local business can play a huge role in helping with school activities. I believe when there is something a business can contribute to a school at cost or free, it should not be negated. Many businesses enjoy helping the schools.

Please give your response to the statement, "The schools need more money."

Yes, the schools do need more money. I believe we need to contact our representatives and ask them to look over Proposal A. It is not doing the job of funding schools well enough. It needs to be reworked.

Why, specifically, do you want to serve on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education?

I have an interest in the school district. I believe that has been shown by my attending meetings for the past two years. I want to make sure Clarkston schools maintain the high level of education they currently possess.

What else would you like voters to know about you that we haven't asked in this questionnaire?

I want the voters to know I would be an asset to the BOE. I am a team player, yet am not afraid to speak out on issues I feel strongly about. I am willing to do my homework and research issues before voting.

Post-High celebrates hard work with luncheon

BY ALICIA DORSET
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Students, staff members and community members enjoyed cake and stories from the past year as members of the Clarkston Post-High autistic, Post-High cognitively impaired and Clarkston High School vocational exploration programs hosted a "thank you" luncheon for program partners on May 26.

Held at the Clarkston Community Education building, local businesses and organizations that provided jobs for the students were honored for their support with a plaque and an afternoon of good times.

"This lets them know we really appreciate what they do," Barbara Greenstone, Post-High teacher, said. "This helps them get ready for when they exit the program."

Various businesses throughout the area agree to take on a student from one of the programs on either a volunteer or paid basis to acquire on-the-job training that can be put toward other skills in life.

For Post-High autistic students, jobs have included working with Kroger, Overtyme restaurant and the Independence Township library. The jobs are a beneficial part of their education as it gets them out into the community.

For those students who stay at the school located inside the community education building, the work doesn't stop.

"We have one job where it's the student's duty to shred documents for a local business," Greenstone said. "From there, we take the shreds and donate them to Family of Pets in Summit Place mall."

After spending a year with the students, even the employers could see the benefits of the program.

"He has just come so far," Sally Sanner, Arthur Greenstone law offices, said in reference to Post-High student and employee Eric Greer.

Softball team captures fourth district in a row

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

It was no secret that Clarkston headed into its district tournament as the favorite. So there was no real surprise to see them come out of the bracket as champions. But how they went about it was a bit surprising to say the least.

The Wolves turned a few heads and turned away Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central and eventually Waterford Kettering before picking up their fourth consecutive district title. The Wolves outscored their competition by the combined score of 37-0, including a 6-0 win over Kettering in the district title game. It was the fourth win for the Wolves over the Captains this season.

Clarkston improved to 20-12 overall on the year and now sets its sites on the winner of the Walled Lake Central district. Land said Lakeland and Walled Lake Western are the teams to beat in that district, but he prefers to get a rematch with Walled Lake Western, who beat Clarkston last year in the regionals.

"I want to play Western again. That's who I want," Clarkston coach Al Land said.

The Wolves got on the board in the top of the first inning when Suzie Giroux hit a sacrifice fly which brought home Katy Kleinedler to give the Wolves a 1-0 lead.

Giroux added another RBI in the third scoring Laura O'Neill giving the Wolves a two run cushion. Clarkston added its third run on a Katie Jorgensen RBI which scored Kleinedler to give the Wolves a 3-0 lead.

Kettering's best chance for offense came in the bottom of the fifth when they had runners at first and second with two outs. After coach Al Land called a timeout for his team, pitcher Kelly Robinson, who had three strikeouts and went the distance for her third straight district game, got the Kettering batter to strike out. Land said the difference in the game came down to Clarkston being able to get their base runners home, while Kettering left scoring opportunities stranded. The Captains left a runner on third in the bottom of the first inning as well.

"We've played aggressive on the bases all year," Land said. "If there are extra bases to be taken, we'll take them and try to put pressure on them. Hopefully they don't make a good throw and we can get some runs."

While six runs was more than enough for the win, it was his defense, and his team's fourth consecutive shutout including a late season win over Lake Orion which has Land smiling. His defense was hardly tested by either Pontiac School and responded well in the district championship game, he said.

"I was very concerned because the last two games we didn't get any balls hit to us on defense against Northern and Central. We talked about just playing the game with a passion today and have them expect everything to be hit to them and I thought we played very well on defense," Land said.

Kettering played its outfielders deep throughout the entire game as a result of Clarkston getting many hits deep over Kettering's outfielders' heads in the teams' regular season meetings. Eventually that strategy caught up with the Captains when shortstop Caitlin McLean placed a ball in left center field just outside in the infield and as a result of some poor Kettering fielding made it a 6-0 win.

Schram leads Clarkston golfers at state tourney

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Originally, the Clarkston girls varsity golf team headed to the state finals with the mindset of simply being happy to be there. But they changed their plans once they got to East Lansing and decided to make it a two-day stay instead.

The Wolves, who advanced to the state finals for the first time since 1976, finished in 11th place overall in the state tournament at Forest Akers Golf Course at Michigan State University. Grand Blanc won the state title followed by Northville and Ann Arbor Pioneer. League rival Rochester finished fourth.

Clarkston coach Larry Sherrill said before heading up to the finals that his team was going simply enjoy its stay, have fun and relish in the moment of being among the state's best teams. After Friday, they changed their attitude some and decided to show the state that they were not simply happy to be there, but wanted to make an impact on the tournament.

"We decided on Friday that we were not going to go home," Sherrill said. "Once we got there, we decided we needed to set goals for ourselves and I think things worked out well for us."

Clarkston's top scorer was Jackie Schram who shot an opening day 95 and then came back on Saturday with a 93. Lisa Lesko's two-day total was 198. Nina Jackson took third for Clarkston with a 218 followed by Sarah Maesch who ended with a 226 and Kristi Horstman with a 233. All of the players improved their scores from Friday to Saturday on what Sherrill described as an extremely difficult course.

He said they added about 700 yards to the course, giving it an estimated yardage of 6,200 yards. Most courses the Wolves play throughout the season only average about 5,500 yards, he said.

"For the girls that don't hit the long ball, that put up a strong challenge. A lot of long irons out there," he said.

But the long irons were not the biggest problem. Sherrill said insanely difficult greens raised havoc on scores for every golfer. Three putts were considered good and four and five putts were all too common.

"The course played tough, but we were happy to be out there on the second day and get that bonus day. We relaxed and had a good time out there," Sherrill said.

The Wolves will lose lots of experience this year with the losses of Jackson, Lesko, Horstman and Maesch. The four combine for 14 years of varsity experience under Sherrill, but the Wolves do return Schram, who just completed her sophomore season. She has several colleges already interested in her and shooting 188 at the state finals on a very difficult course won't hurt her chances of playing at the next level in a few years.

Still, there is no substitute for experience and Sherrill was the first to admit he loses loads of it this year.

"I think the seniors really got us to where we're at now and the experience got us there. I'll miss them. We just didn't go out and have fun. They really were a team in every sense. They are very close as friends and did lots of things together like team dinners," he said.

But Sherrill said he has the foundation for next year already in place with Schram. She will be playing in several tournaments this summer and should be a force for the Wolves next year. Lyndsey Kitson will also return for Clarkston next spring.

"Jackie's going to bring with her a lot of experience next year," he said.

Clarkston baseball team dominates district competition

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Clarkston coach Phil Price said the state baseball tournament is wide open with no real favorite that everyone is aiming to beat. The same couldn't be said for his team's district. It was the hands down favorite and lived up to its reputation.

The Wolves dominated their district while dismantling lower level competition in Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central and Waterford Mott in the district title game. The Wolves beat the Corsairs 10-0 in five innings in the district title game following defeating the Pontiac Schools by a combined score of 25-0. The Wolves now await the winner of the Walled Lake district. Last year the Wolves won their district and eventually fell to Brother Rice in the regional final, 8-3. Regionals are held June 12 at Birmingham Groves.

In the district final win over Waterford Mott Aaron Powell went 2-for-4 with an RBI and two runs scored. Sam Palace was 2-for-4 with two RBI and Mike Kittle was 2-for-3 with two runs scored and an RBI. Additionally, Jono Moehlig was 1-for-2 with two walks and a run scored. Addison Turk was 2-for-3 with three RBI and a run scored for the Wolves.

Those five hitters have been a mainstay all season for Clarkston, Price said.

"When you've got the top five guys averaging three out of four times getting on base, that's pretty impressive," Price said.

However, it was perhaps his team's defense, which continues to be his biggest concern, as it has been all season, which pleased him with its play in the district tournament, and specifically in the title game against Mott.

"What a I do care about is that we won this game 10-0. No errors. We started off the game by turning the double play. That's really big for us," Price said. "Defensively we were real strong. Aaron Powell did a great job throwing strikes, not walking people."

Powell ended the game with four strikeouts while pitching a complete game.

In the Wolves' semifinal win over Pontiac Central Nate Davis went 3-for-3, Moehlig was 3-for-3 with four RBI and Turk went 2-for-4 with three RBI. J.J. Lange started the game and he shared a no hitter with Mike Navarre. The two combined for 11 strikeouts in the win over the Chiefs.

Clarkston was never threatened throughout its district tournament, so how will a team that has let its share of games slip away fair in the regionals?

"We've lost seven games in my opinion by beating ourselves. We know that we are capable of beating anybody and really anybody is capable of beating us. We respect everybody, but we fear nobody," Price said.

He said his assistant coaches would scout the Lakeland district tournament on Saturday and he knew whoever came out of that district would be a good team.

The win improved Clarkston's record to 23-7 and while they are in the midst of post-season play, regular season action is not yet wrapped up (at press time). The Wolves still have a makeup game with Royal Oak Kimball on the road June 8.

If Clarkston wins that game and defeats Rochester then they will share the OAA I league title. It would be the second year in a row Clarkston would be crowned league champions. The OAA I has no tie-breaker, Price said.

Price said defense and pitching will continue to be the focus for his team throughout its playoff run. Turk, Jim Coleman and Powell will get the most playing time on the mound, Price said.

"Those three will be our guys, but also have nice relief pitching with J.J. Lange, Mike Navarre and Steve McIsaac. You can't get by the state tournament with just one or two pitchers. Eventually, it's going to catch up to you. I don't foresee someone shutting us out, especially the way we hit the ball. As long as our defense stays solid," Price said.

Not allowing a single run in the district tournament is a good start.

School record set by 4x800 relay team

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Mo Kuhta made her last race as a Clarkston athlete one to remember.

Kuhta was the leadoff runner in the 4x800 relay team of herself, Beth Hoekstra, Lindsay Smith and Liz Mengyan. Together, the Wolves broke the school record with a time of 9:22, but Kuhta did not make it easy on herself. The Wolves competed at the girls track state finals in Rockford June 5. The relay team finished third in the event and earned all-state honors. The top three placers in each event are named all-state.

Coach Jamie LaBrosse said Kuhta broke her foot with about 300 meters to go in her leg of the race.

"She ran real well out there," he said. "We knew going in that Mo was a little hurt. I asked if she wanted a replacement ready and she said, 'no.' She wanted to run," LaBrosse said.

LaBrosse said Kuhta complained of shin splints and other ailments and has now been diagnosed with tendon problems and will be on crutches for quite some

The Wolves carry with them a five-game winning streak into regionals and a confidence level which is at a season high, Land said.

"I know we have a good defense and I said all along we just have to get a little consistent. We weren't necessarily that at the beginning of the year, but the last quarter of the season we've been very consistent," Land said.

As well as the Wolves played, their opponents in this district were obviously not the caliber of competition the Wolves will face in the next round. Traditionally, the Wolves and Captains have had some great play-off games, but that was not the case this year. Clarkston was never threatened in its district. So, is there a chance they are overconfident or not as ready as they could be had they faced stiffer competition?

"You want to be ready when you go to a regional because it's going to be someone good obviously and you want to play some good games. This year Kettering was a little down this year," Land said.

Expect Robinson to stay on the mound for the regional game, but the Wolves will be without the services of standout first baseman Katie Jorgensen. Land said she will be out for the regional game to retake her ACT. She wanted to make a good score even better, Land said.

"She plays outstanding first base for us. She's a very smart player," Land said.

In her place will be Courtney Bollman, who is one of three senior four-year letter winning Wolves to win a district in each of her four years at Clarkston. Heather and Suzie Giroux are the other two.

Athlete of the week - Katy Kleinedler

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

She's losing her nerves and only gaining more confidence.

Clarkston's varsity softball third baseman Katy Kleinedler has come a long way in her sophomore year, her second on the varsity team. Diving catches, timely hitting, a positive attitude and cutting her knee wide open during the district tournament while making a defensive play are all part of her game.

"I think mentally as a player I've gotten better this year," she said. "Coach Land has really helped me with that. I used to get all nervous out there, but I think I'm finally starting to relax some and lose some of that nervousness."

Part of the reason for her improved play was a mid-season move from shortstop to third base. Kleinedler said the move to third gives her less time to react to hits, which actually improve her play.

"There isn't as much time to think about it. You just react and it makes things easier for me," she said.

Kleinedler has been playing the sport since she was six years old. Her father, Larry, served as her travel and little league coaches and was the one who got her interested, she said. And while it was her father that got her interested, it's the eight seniors on this team who have helped her develop even more, for which she is thankful, especially being two years removed from the recent graduates.

"The closeness of the girls on this team is really something. Suzie Giroux and Courtney Bollman especially have really helped me. Suzie is always encouraging you and Courtney always has such a positive attitude," Kleinedler said. "All the seniors are really nice on this team."

Land said his third baseman is more than a solid fielder, but a foundation for which he would like to build his team around.

"Katy is one of the most improved ball players I've ever had. She's always been a very hard worker, but now she's gaining that confidence. She's a perfectionist. Almost too much so. If she would just relax a bit and let her talent show through sometimes. Her work ethic, her fielding, she drives the ball well and she's a great role model. She does the little things and she bunts well. If I had to build a team around someone, I'd build it around Katy," Land said.

Kleinedler said her personal highlight of the season was her performance in the Wolves' double header against Troy. She had five hits on the day.

She was named all-district this year.

Next year will be her third on varsity. She maintains a 4.0 grade point average at Clarkston High School and wants to attend the University of Michigan to study physical therapy. She enjoys participating in the CHS student council and spending time with family and friends. Her favorite class is Spanish taught by Daryl Billias.

Niemi named district coach of the year

BY ED DAVIS

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston girls varsity soccer season ended last weekend, but the season isn't the only thing that is over.

So too is the coaching run of Tami Niemi, who will resign this spring after coaching Clarkston soccer for nine years. Niemi coached the girls varsity team for the last six seasons and coached junior varsity for three years prior. No successor has been named to the position, Niemi said. She said she is leaving for personal reasons.

Niemi's last game as coach was a district final 1-0 loss to Grand Blanc June 5 at Grand Blanc High School. Clarkston lost to Grand Blanc 2-0 earlier this season. The Wolves never won a district title under Niemi, but came as close as possible this season. Senior Kelly Dougherty kicked the ball just before the game ending buzzer went off, but before the ball crossed the Grand Blanc goal line, the buzzer's sound had concluded and the game was over.

"Our team played really well," Niemi said. "I was really proud of them. They worked hard. They gave everything they had out there, and that's all you can ask of them. We played well at both ends, held pressure and had opportunities to score. It was just another case of us not being able to finish."

Niemi has been concerned about her team's lack of ability to cap off offensive opportunities all season and the trend continued until her last game as head coach. The Wolves ended the season with an overall record of 8-8-5 and while Niemi leaves the coaching ranks without a district or league title, she did leave with honors. She was named district coach of the year, and one of the voters who voted for her was Grand Blanc head coach Greg Kehler.

"That was something special to get voted by the guy who just beat me. It was a nice honor," Niemi said.

Niemi was not the only Wolf to end the season with recognition. Six Wolves were named all-district, more than any other team including champion Grand Blanc. The Bobcats had only five. Dougherty, Liz Hardy, Jenna time. He said he had to carry her off the track after her leg of the race was complete. She is currently on crutches and suspects she will be for about six weeks. She has yet to visit a physician.

Kuhta said she knew something was wrong with her foot before the race, but didn't want to tip off her teammates before the big race.

"Being a senior captain, I didn't want to rattle anyone, but I was scared. I felt it snap right before the back stretch. Mentally, I just blocked out the pain. I just wanted to finish for my teammates. I didn't let myself feel it. It was my responsibility to do whatever I could for my teammates who had put in six months of training for that race. I just wanted Beth (Hoekstra) to have someone to run with and I was lucky to hold myself together," Kuhta said.

In addition to the school record by the 4x800 relay team, Smith medaled in the open mile with a time of 5:13. The top eight athletes in each event medal. Hoekstra finished in ninth place, only a second behind her teammate, but put forth a very memorable performance, LaBrosse said.

"Beth was awesome. She took a chance out there. Last year, Beth would've been a bit tentative and not gone for it like she did Saturday. She's come a long way as a runner. On the third lap, some kids are a bit tentative, but she led the charge," LaBrosse said.

Elle Kuhta finished ninth in the two mile and Gillian Nordquist ran her fastest time of the year in the same event, LaBrosse said.

"During that race, another guy came up to me and said it was amazing that Elle was an alternate in cross country this fall," LaBrosse said. "He couldn't believe a girl running that time in the two mile was only an alternate in cross country."

As a team, the Wolves sent eight members of its team to the state finals, eight of which qualified in the mile.

"Some individuals ran well out there and some of our kids didn't make the best of the opportunity and they know who they are," LaBrosse said. "For me, personally, the highlight of the meet was seeing Beth run so well. She's come a long way and I was really proud of her."

The Wolves lose several key seniors including Megan Garrett and Mo Kuhta.

"Megan had a great season," LaBrosse said. "We wouldn't have won the league without her."

LaBrosse also thanked his assisted coach John Yorke and said he and his staff learned from this season, his first as varsity head coach.

"There will be some things to adjust, but that will have to wait until next year until we see what kind of a team we have then," he said.

This year, he had a team that broke its own feet while breaking school records and going a perfect 7-0 in dual meets while winning the OAA I.

Controlled By Cravings?

This Woman Conquered Her Cravings and Dropped 5 Dress Sizes! Here's How..!

I used to be in denial about my weight—admitting the truth was too painful. Then I found a way to melt off 35 lbs. in only 4 months!

Hello, My name is Alwyne Richardson. I was overweight for 5 years. I blamed it on everything from age to metabolism to medication. It was just rationalization. I knew I was gaining weight and not doing anything about it.

Diets never lasted more than a couple of days. I didn't have any willpower. I craved chocolate and ice cream.

I read about Positive Changes Hypnosis in the newspaper, but I was good at coming up with excuses for not losing weight. I waited 6 months before I called. It finally got to the point where I was squeezing myself into my clothes. That was it. I needed to do something about my weight.

Satisfying Results

My behavior changed immediately after starting my sessions at Positive Changes Hypnosis. I began to eat smaller portions. I never feel hungry or deprived. There are no foods I "can't" have. I simply learned to control my portions. Remember those cravings for chocolate and ice cream? Completely gone. I can have those foods in my house and never even think about eating them.

My success with Positive Changes Hypnosis was fast, easy and effortless — especially the easy and effortless part! My weight just came off. Now that I've lost my weight using hypnosis, I don't fear ever gaining it back.

Life is Grand!

I would recommend Positive Changes to anyone who wants to lose weight. I've already convinced my sister to try Positive Changes so she can enjoy the same success I have!

I would never have lost my weight if I hadn't walked through those doors. My only regret is that I waited and suffered for 6 long months. If you're thinking about joining Positive Changes to lose weight, I urge you to do it now! At 35 lbs. lighter, I feel great about myself, and you can too! Life is grand!

Why Keep Smoking When Quitting Can be this Simple?

"I Kicked My 4-Pack-A-Day Habit Instantly!"

"Thanks to Positive Changes, I am a non-smoker after 45 years. Being a non-smoker is totally amazing! I know it is the best decision I ever made!"

- Linda Blescher

"I Began Smoking When I Was 14."

"I tried to stop smoking on my own several times, but I always had cravings. With hypnosis my cravings went away. Now I'm 40 and finally tobacco-free!"

- Rick Cortone

After 32 years of smoking, she put an end to her nicotine addiction.

"It was extremely easy, I was truly shocked at how easy it was."

Suspects linked to multiple larcenies

Two 17-year-old Clarkston men were stopped after alleged erratic driving in the early morning hours of Thursday, June 3. Almost at the same time, other deputies responded to a burglary call at an Independence Township church, leading to connection of the suspects with multiple thefts in two townships.

Information on formal charges or arraignment was not immediately available on Monday.

A deputy on patrol observed the suspect pickup truck on Sashabaw Road near Maybee Road at about 1:46 a.m., reports said. Sudden moves by the truck (including turning in front of the patrol car), led to a traffic stop. The suspects gave conflicting information to the deputy, and during a request for identification opened the glove compartment to reveal several items such as a Palm Pilot, a Game Boy and a radar detector. The deputy also saw beer in the vehicle, reports said.

Meanwhile, other deputies responded to Maranatha Baptist Church on Flemings Lake Road. There information was gathered on several items taken from a church office, and deputies were able to quickly confirm ownership of the Palm Pilot in the suspect's truck, reports said.

A motorcycle in the bed of the pickup truck matched the description of one reported stolen from Brandon Township June 2, and the beer and hard lemonade was reported missing from a Flemings Lake Road home near the church building.

houses on the road recently had to sign at closing.

"We had three closings last week and it was neighbors moving within the neighborhood. They were kind of playing musical houses," Haman said. "The title company did some thorough work. It was probably more thorough than anyone had before. All the neighbors had to sign this Public Road Acknowledgment."

The document stated, "The undersigned purchasers hereby acknowledge that the street or road abutting captioned land is private and is not required to be maintained by the Board of County Road

Commissioners."

Haman went to the Oakland County officers attempting to find a document of dedication which would make the road public. He said he was unable to find such a document.

"We are real glad because if it is a private road we can do whatever we want with it," Haman said.

After hearing the new information, the board tabled the issue.

"In light of the information I think the board should further investigate before taking a position. It will have a considerable effect on our decision. I think we should table

Przybycien, Jenna Clavette, Taylor Hosner and Emily Pierce were all named all-district.

Dougherty, Hardy and Clavette are seniors and will be missed greatly by Niemi, who called this team the seniors' team. Other seniors from this year's club include Bess Ferguson, Ashley Hudson and Kelly Boskee.

"It was their team all the way. They had great focus and they leave a huge hole to fill. Those kids are special, that's for sure," she said.

The Wolves won 2-0 in the district semifinal game June 4 at Grand Blanc over Flint Carman-Ainsworth. Clarkston goals came from Przybycien, who scored on an assist from Hardy at 11:45 of the first half and Brittany Davis, who scored unassisted to start the second half, a mere 26 seconds in.

Clarkston controlled the play throughout the game, making Pierce's shutout anything but demanding. She was tested a bit late in the first half and did have a couple of key saves late in the game to kill Carman's comeback chances.

While the Wolves scored a pair of goals, they had the opportunity to score a half dozen. Hudson and Przybycien and Hudson both hit goal posts and several other great scoring chances were stopped by the outstanding play of freshman goalie Megan Mahorney.

"I was impressed with their keeper, and we still have to finish those shots. It's what we've been struggling with all year," Niemi said.

Several Clarkston chances never came to be as the Wolves made one too many passes, trying to set up their teammates, instead of shooting it on net themselves. Perhaps Clarkston's inability to finish got in the mindset of their players and players did not want to be the one responsible for not finishing, Niemi said.

"I think they're just too nice to each other. They need to be more assertive. They need to take advantage out there. I was happy defensively and we were able to keep possession," she said.

Niemi said beating Carman 2-0 and Flint Central 7-0 in the district's opening round game June 4 might not have prepared her team for the challenge they faced in Grand Blanc.

"I don't think my team has been challenged to their potential yet," Niemi said following the win over Carman.

The next challenge will be for the Wolves to win a district under its next head coach, whoever it might be.

Snacking, napping your way to better health

By Ernie Harwell

You know, it seems most people are convinced that improving your health has to be all hard work and sacrifice. But the more we learn, the clearer it becomes that getting, and staying, fit involves some of life's more pleasurable activities.

Take eating for instance. Some medical experts are increasingly advising patients to eat five or six small meals a day, rather than the traditional "three squares." Recent studies have shown that eating several small meals daily may lower blood cholesterol, and reduce insulin levels, both of which can cut the risk of heart disease - even when total calories aren't reduced.

Some call it "grazing." Some call it snacking. Whatever you call it, eating five or six meals instead of three doesn't sound like "a sacrifice" to me. The same can be said for naps. While admittedly not possible for everyone, the latest research indicates that even a 20-minute nap promotes greater alertness and a more positive attitude - especially for people who keep late hours or have trouble sleeping at night.

During my broadcaster days, I was faithfully up by 7 a.m., but I always tried to fit in a brief nap before night games, especially those two-night doubleheaders.

Thomas Edison, Winston Churchill and Albert Einstein - all faithful nappers - were alert and positive enough to suit me.

So if you're serious about reaching greater fitness and want to do more than regular exercise, consider snacking and napping along the way. And please remember to take care of your health before it's longgggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, "Life After Baseball," is available by calling 1-800-245-5082.

CHS graduates take their final steps

Clarkston High School graduates process into the DTE Energy Music Theater, with students sporting a variety of honors cords and medals.

Picture-taking was one of the priorities after the commencement ceremony with Jennifer Hunter and Kaytee Cornell smiling for proud mom Cheryl Hunter.

Graduate Dan Rodriguez performs the 2004 class song, "No Such Thing" by John Meyer.

Graduates remain standing while the entire class takes their seats as the ceremony begins.

Rashawn Redmond sings a solo to "World's Greatest" with the combined high school choirs.

Cancer survivor gears up for Relay

BY KYLE GARGARO
Clarkston News Editor

While the Clarkston Relay for Life is a 24-hour event, it is a year-round project for Springfield Township resident Sharon Worden.

This will be the fifth time the cancer survivor will participate in the event which raises money for the American Cancer Society. For the second consecutive year, Worden will lead her own team called "Helping Hands, Helpful Hearts."

Last year her team of 10 individuals raised $16,000 and are looking to exceed that this year.

"We have team member from 16 years old to 60 years old and everything in between," Worden said. "We raised a lot of money for a first year team last year."

For Worden's team, planning for Relay is a year-round event.

"Our team definitely thinks about what we can do for the relay all year. We get together and just brainstorm how to go about things, how to raise money or how to get more people," Worden said. "But you can put as much time as you want to into it. You can devote a couple of hours a week to it or you can let it consume you. I am just about consumed."

Worden says her enthusiasm is contagious when she talks to people about the relay.

"If you are excited about it then they will get excited about it. I am not real pushy when I try to get people to join but if they ask me some questions I will talk their ear off. People are always willing to help," Worden said.

Worden was first introduced to the Relay for Life by sister-in-law Jerri Fancher. She had a team called "Hopetown, USA" and was looking for new team members.

It did not take long before Worden was on board. Although she is a 26-year survivor of the disease, that was not the reason why she decided to join.

"I lost my mother to cancer so that was the real reason," Worden said. "My cancer was so long ago and thankfully I didn't have to go through chemotherapy or anything like that. But whenever you hear the word 'cancer' you get scared. I was lucky my husband David was a brick for me and helped a lot."

This is the fifth year the Relay for Life will be done in Clarkston. Last year they had 27 teams participate and raised $158,000.

Their goal this year is to have 40 teams and they currently have 33.

"We are almost there," Community Development Director for the American Cancer Society Jennifer Schulte said. "This has grown every year. It has been a real success in Clarkston."

Each team has at least one of their members walking at all times. Team members raise money by soliciting donations, and also by holding fundraisers.

"All the money raised goes to cancer research, education or service for patients," Schulte said. "We hope everybody who walks can raise at least $100 but obviously

'My cancer was so long ago and I didn't have to go through chemotherapy. But whenever you hear the word cancer you get scared.'

Small cookies go a long way for senior center bake sale

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

It takes a lot of 25-cent cookies to raise $84 during one afternoon at Sashabaw Middle School.

During the past school year, volunteers from the Independence Township senior center ran a bake sale at SMS on the fourth Tuesday of every month. The volunteers were ready at the end of the school day with popular baked goodies, all for the low price of $.25 each.

"Rice Krispies: the kids love 'em," Virginia Friday, bake sale volunteer, said. "The brownies are our biggest seller." Friday has been helping with the bake sale for the past few years.

In addition to the brownies and Rice Krispie treats, cookies are always a popular treat with the students, according to Friday.

"The kids don't like raisins," Friday said.

Visitors to the senior center are called on to whip up favorite treats to donate to the sale. About three people take turns manning the station at the middle school. The group takes a hiatus during the summer when school isn't in session.

The bake sale has been a tradition for more than 24 years at the center. Proceeds from the sale go directly into an escrow account for the senior center. In the past, money raised from the sale helped purchase the center's pool table, organ, patio furniture and even a piano for the Carriage House.

For Friday, the best part about selling the after-school sweets is watching the reaction of a satisfied customer.

"I just like seeing the kids happy," Friday said.

Helpful wedding tips to J.Lo courtesy of my big cousin Jeff

I was saddened to hear about Jennifer Lopez, or 'J.Lo' as we here in the newsroom lovingly call her, and Marc Anthony quickly wedding one another on June 5 to escape media attention.

Clearly she had no idea I had just returned from my cousin Jeff's wedding and was preparing my top ten list for a successful event based on the best wedding I've ever attended just for her.

Well, J.Lo, you're in luck. The list is now finished and submitted for you to read in case you get married a fourth time. And if your past record of ex-husbands is any indication, you might want to clip this article and keep it for future reference.

•TEN: Make sure the state you're getting married in recently lost a basketball division title to the state of your soon-to-be new family members.

My brother made sure to proudly wear his Pistons t-shirt to make the Pacers' loss a wee bit more painful for my Indiana cousins and cousin-to-be before the wedding.

•NINE: Jelly beans make great "take-away goodies" for your wedding guests.

Nothing says "thanks for coming!" like a small bag of white jelly beans. (See #7 for the importance of refined sugar at rehearsal dinners.)

•EIGHT: Slide shows of the bride and groom as small children will make anyone cry. Even your big Uncle Earl.

My cousin and his wife, Stephanie, made sure to select the cutest family photos for a slide show that we watched during the rehearsal dinner that made all of us bypass the cheesecake and reach for a tissue.

•SEVEN: Always leave room for spumoni.

The rehearsal dinner was held at a swanky Italian restaurant in Indianapolis and the food followed suit. Just when I thought I had stuffed myself full with cheese ravioli, angel hair pasta and cubed cheese, the spumoni arrived. This Italian dessert of ice cream, fruit and chocolate was so good my brother and I bribed a waiter to get a boat of spumoni to go. It was so delicious I forgot I was lactose intolerant.

•SIX: Vegetable lasagna will have everyone, even those Atkins gurus, asking for a second serving.

Good job, Jeff and Stephanie. On behalf of vegetarians throughout the Midwest, I appreciated this dinner selection so much I ate mine and my brother's.

•FIVE: Select a wedding band that no has no problem belting out some of the '70s most classic rock tunes.

Stephanie and her father danced to Led Zeppelin's "All of My Love" courtesy of a cover by their wedding band, the First Impressions Band. I had no idea that song could sound so lovely with saxophones and a synthesizer.

•FOUR: Never feed your toddler flower girl Cocoa Puffs the day of the wedding.

Flower girl Haley crashed right before the ceremony, but was chasing me around the dance floor at 11 p.m. Would you want to be chased by a 4-year-old screaming "pick me up again!"? I didn't think so. Thank you, Cocoa Puffs.

•THREE: Deli trays. Always have deli trays whenever food is involved.

I cannot stress this enough. My aunt and uncle served the wedding party anything that came on a platter from the local grocery store. Not only is it a good energy boost for wedding-day-jitters, I also ate an entire week's worth of protein in one sitting thanks to the wedding classic cubed-cheese tray. Mmm, cubed cheese.

•TWO: Make sure the bride and groom are so cute that all attention goes to them and not the flower girl's Goldilocks cascading curls.

Jeff and Steph were, in my unbiased opinion, the most beautiful wedding couple I've ever seen. Take note, J.Lo, from Stephanie if you're looking for the perfect wedding gown. I can send you a picture.

And finally...

•ONE: Make sure Alicia Dorset is one your bridesmaids.

I'm sure if you ask the bride and groom, I was a key element to the happiest day of their lives. And I look really good in taffeta.

•HONORARY MENTION: Cubed cheese.

Nothing says "a lifetime of memories" like a plate full of cubed cheese with the ones you love.

Congratulations to Jeff and Stephanie and Marc and J.Lo. I wish both the couples the best of luck. Especially Marc and J.Lo...

Do you believe in miracles?

With the release of Walt Disney Pictures' "Miracle" the question is raised again: Do you believe in miracles? "It may just be the single most incredible moment in all of U.S. sports history," said Sports Illustrated of the USA's improbable gold medal run at the 1980 Winter Olympics. On Feb. 22, 1980, the American hockey team took down the mighty Red Machine from the USSR. "A moment in time that sent an entire nation into a frenzy."

I was just 11 years old when I experienced that remarkable moment in history along with every other American. I remember the overwhelming feeling of pride and victory, and then scrambling to grab my hockey stick and replay the moment along with my brothers.

Who would have ever thought a bunch of scrubs could be chosen and coached to become the world's greatest hockey team? The Americans were underdogs, but they had the heart and dedication to become champions. Herb Brooks, the coach of the U.S. team, was driven by his past failure to win the gold medal in Lake Placid, N.Y.

The story reminds me of a dream team of disciples Jesus chose before He began his earthly ministry. Jesus chose 12 men who were ordinary. Hopelessly human. Remarkably unremarkable. But they were available and willing to step up to the call of Jesus and change the face of history.

As you read about the lives of the disciples in the Spiritual Matters

Pastor Curt Demoff

Bible, you begin to get the feeling it would take a miracle of Jesus to make something out of the team He chose. From unbelief, undisciplined behavior, personal rivalry, and a lack of heart, Jesus transformed these 12 men into a winning team of champions whose lives are still influencing others today.

I often look at these men and see myself in their shoes and wonder if God can use a nobody like me.

The greatest miracle in life comes when Jesus transforms ordinary people into extraordinary champions. Webster's defines the word "champion" as "the winner of a struggle or contest."

Does your life ever feel like a struggle with you on the losing end? Do you find yourself a contender in the ring fighting ill health, quarrelsome children, an unhappy marriage, fleeting finances or any of the many challenges that can come our way?

You may feel like a scrub player battling to make it through life with less than a positive attitude and a heart of a champion, but Jesus can change all of that.

The Bible says in Romans 8:37, "No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us." Maybe you have given up on the miracle that God can make something incredible out of your life.

I challenge you to face the impossible, refuse to give up, and position your life for victory. As a pastor, I have watched countless numbers of people transformed through a relationship with Jesus Christ. God wants to make you a champion today.

Respond to the call of Christ, believe in the miracle, and be part of a winning team.

(Curt Demoff is lead pastor of Bridgewood Church in Independence Township.)

Renaissance High School congratulates 2004 graduates

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

June 1 was a busy day for the seniors at Clarkston's Renaissance High School.

Thirty-seven members of the senior class received their diplomas during a commencement ceremony held at Clarkston High School's Performing Arts Center.

Throughout the day, Renaissance senior participated in a number of graduation activities, such as a class picture in "cap and gown" and an awards dinner with members of the board of education.

At the actual ceremony itself, students and family members heard remarks from Superintendent Dr. Al Roberts and Karen Foyteck, board president. Special songs from the Renaissance Choir filled the air as part of the program.

For graduating senior Alicia Sielbeck, the most memorable part of the evening was receiving her diploma.

"I'm looking forward to moving on and achieving something no one else in my family has ever done," Sielbeck said.

Sielbeck will attend Baker College in the fall.

The awards dinner was coordinated by the Renaissance Student Council. Five students received Baker Scholarships, an award of half their tuition at Baker. This year's winners were Nakita Chiapelli, Heather Schuricht, Haley Carter, Jennifer Turner and Ryan Stolt.

In addition to the Baker winners, three students won Clarkston Rotary Scholarships, a $500 award. Awards went to Nakita Chiapelli, Heather Schuricht and Haley Carter.

After the actual ceremony, students and their families were treated to cake and punch in the CHS cafeteria.

Program coordinator Billie Pambid thought the night went very well.

"My favorite part is the student speeches, it always is," Pambid said. "And when they get off the stage with their diplomas."

The Renaissance Choir performs before the graduates. The choir sang touching songs appreciated by all.

The members of the senior class at Clarkston's Renaissance High School pose for a formal class picture. The seniors graduated on June 1 at Clarkston High School. Photos by Alicia Dorset.

Worden said her knowledge of the ACS made her want to participate.

"They are a great supportive group. They are warm and wonderful people. Most of the money goes to research which we need. I know there is a cure out there, it just takes money and time to find it," Worden said.

The event starts with a "Survivor's Walk" where just survivors of the disease take one turn around the track while caregivers and well-wishers cheer them.

"You need to grab your tissues and your walking shoes for the Survivor Walk," Worden said. "This disease affects so many people. Everybody knows somebody who has been affected by this disease and most the time it is more than one. We have three survivors on the team."

Another highlight of the event is the luminaries. A $10 donation per luminary allows the purchaser to put a name of someone in memory, or in honor of, on the bag. Once evening arrives, the luminaries get lit as individuals take a silent walk around the track.

The relay also has continuous entertainment. DJs, bands, dancers and clowns are all there to entertain the walkers and keep them going.

"It is definitely an all-day event and we have fun all day. People bring food, signs and everything else they can think of," Worden said.

Young readers discover new trails with summer reading

BY ALICIA DORSET

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The end of school doesn't have to mean the end of reading. Not if the Independence Township Library can help it.

June 19 marks the start of this summer's youth reading program: "Discover New Trails @ Your Library." This year's program focuses on the amount of time a child reads instead of only the amount of books during the summer.

"It isn't how many books you read, it's the time you spend reading them," Clare Poynter, children's librarian at the Independence Township Library, said.

Getting involved in the program is easy. Registration begins June 19 for children in kindergarten through fifth grade. Children simply come into the library to get their registration packets or have their parents call the library and sign up over the phone.

Nathan Yeloushan, a third grader at Clarkston Elementary School, heard Poynter speak to his class on June 1 to promote the program. He can't wait to get started.

"I hope (joining program) so," Yeloushan said. "I like to read and the events sound really cool."

Registration packets contain everything necessary to keep track of reading times. In the packet come time cards children record their times on. The cards are then turned in every Thursday for "prize" eligibility.

Also included in the packet is a special "game board." The game board has special "assignments," such as visiting the library to see a summer program, that kids complete to receive a special prize and recognition at the end of the program.

"It's their chance to read," Poynter said.

Part of the summer festivities at the library include a full schedule of unique presentations and programs, such as Joel Tacey's Library Discovery Show and a sidewalk chalk extravaganza.

"This isn't just doing homework," Poynter said.

Children are allowed to read anything, whether it's their favorite chapter book, a magazine article or even a beginning reading book to a younger sibling.

Participating in the program has many advantages, according to Poynter.

"It keeps their skills up to make sure they're ready in the fall so teachers don't have to play catch up," Poynter said.

This year's theme stems from the anniversary of Lewis and Clark's famous expedition 200 years ago.

"We want them to experience new things and talents," Poynter said of the program's theme.

To keep updated with program happenings, children can visit the library's Web site, www.indeb.org, for the program's own page and information.

Maia Girard is another CES student looking forward to summer reading at the library.

"My mom wants me to read and I love to read," Girard said.

Poynter hopes that children realize that reading can be fun and develop a long relationship with the library.

"It's for kids to love reading. We need to create and maintain lasting relationships," Poynter said. "I hope they catch the bug."

To learn more about the program or to register, call (248) 625-2212.

Clare Poynter, Independence Township Library children's librarian, and Keegan Sulecki, library page, greet students at Clarkston Elementary School to give information about "Discover New Trails @ Your Library", this summer's youth reading program. Program registration begins June 19. Photos by Alicia Dorset.

Poynter reads "Don't Let the Pigeon Drive the Bus" while Sulecki uses a large sign to get the third graders involved. Poynter and Sulecki visited elementary schools to tell students about the upcoming summer reading programs.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never been known to fail). Oh most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me you are my mother. O Holy Mary Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Holy Mother I place this prayer in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer 3 consecutive days. Publish it, it will be granted to you. In loving gratitude. J.T.
