Done Deal

Schools OK redistricting

BY CHRISTINA ULAJ

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Everything began Nov. 29, continued on to Dec. 13 and finally finished on Jan. 10 when the Clarkston Schools Board of Education voted unanimously the concept of redistricting – sort of.

Director of Pre-K Elementary Education Geraldine Moore and Director of Communications and Marketing Anita Banach both addressed the board and guests on the plan. The two began to re-explain the proposal and many comments arose after the presentation.

After a great deal of discussion, board members decided to postpone the final activation of the redistricting. During the meeting, the board received one change to the proposal. The redistricting committee recommended to move section (D) to Andersonville Elementary instead of Clarkston Elementary, and keep all other changes as presented. Because this change came abruptly, the board decided to approve the "concept" of the plan pending communication with the section (D) residents.

Board members then listened as area parents gathered to voice their thoughts on the new plan. The room was filled with parents, some agreeing with the proposal and many voicing opinions on the other side. Several parents became emotional while speaking during public comment.

"I believe the board was led blindly," said Mark Matczak. "I will not come to the next meeting because the decision is made."

Members of the Parent Advisory Team (PAT) attended the meeting and showed agreement with the plan, while other parents were disappointed with the outcome.

"There were many good points raised by parents," said David Lohmeier. "It was unfair that the board had almost two hours to present and the parents were only allowed about 20 minutes."

Many parents voiced concern about the well being of their children and the opinion that this is an emotional move. The board and the planning committee voiced their view that the plan is the best for the children's future.

"The parents' reaction is exactly what we expected," said Banach. "They are obviously very passionate about their kids and the parents have shown so much effort."

The board will announce the final implementation of the redistricting plan at the Jan. 24 board meeting.

Independence Twp. hires new legal representatives

By Jenny Matteson

Clarkston News Editor

After more then 25 years with Secrest Wardle, the Independence Township Board of Trustees voted 6-1 on Jan. 4 to hire new legal representation.

According to Township Supervisor Dave Wagner, the decision has been a long time coming, since before his election in the August primaries.

"I felt as if there wasn't enough control of the consultants," said Wagner. He also voiced a concern about continually increasing the township's attorney fees while simultaneously cutting parks and recreation programs.

In 2002, the township budgeted $125,000 for attorney fees. By 2004, the amount had more than doubled to $300,000 and remained almost the same for 2005; trustees budgeted $250,000.

"When you have revenue sharing being continually cut, you've got to start looking at everything," said Wagner.

One of the platforms Wagner ran on during the election was to review and possibly change the township's legal representation. He spoke with five different firms and narrowed the search down to two: Karlstrom Clooney, LLP and Booth Patterson.

At the Jan. 4 regular board meeting, Wagner recommended to hire Karlstrom Clooney, LLP for the day-to-day operations while maintaining the right to retain Secrest Wardle, or any other outside firm, on a case-by-case basis

"What I'm looking for is someone local to represent us in the way we need," said Wagner during the meeting.

"(Secret Wardle) is still involved," he continued. "They are still involved. They are not our general council anymore, but they will be used for their specialties."

In a later interview, Wagner stated he wanted to find someone local to help reduce the township's expenses, while simultaneously keeping Independence Twp. tax dollars in the township. Karlstrom Clooney is located down M-15 – next to the courthouse, the township engineer

The cost estimate for all of the facilities improvements comes in at $1.25 million. The money needed for these improvements will be drawn from the 2003 bond. With the exception of the turf field, all of the other construction jobs were allotted for in the bond.

Tara Johnson, Jennifer Korsedal and Tracy Schneider show the jar they have set up at Classic Coney to take donations toward tsunami relief in Asia.

Servers to give 'Tips for Tsunami

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jennifer Korsedal and Tara Johnson had the same reaction as many others when they heard of the Dec. 26 tsunami disaster in south Asia.

They wanted to help, but knew their limitations. Korsedal and Johnson work at Classic Coney on Dixie Highway. They thought combining their efforts with staff at other area restaurants would have a big impact on di-

Within hours of sharing their thoughts, they started plans for "Tips for Tsunami." The Jan. 28 effort will earmark tips and a percentage of restaurant revenues for the American Red Cross disaster relief fund.

"I felt like I didn't have a lot of money to give, and I thought a lot of people feel that way," Korsedal said.

Then she thought of the combined resources in affluent Oakland County.

"We have so much money here to give," she said. Having agreed to donate all of their tips for the day, Korsedal and Johnson approached their manager, Tracy Schneider. He quickly pledged to donate at least 20 we take for granted, and so much that pects patrons to be more percent of Classic Coney's we have. It's not like they can go to the generous for this project.

one. "It's the least I can do. I figure if everyone gets involved, we can make a difference."

Johnson said the news from Asia reminded her of the way people responded to the Sept. 11, 2001 tragedy here in America.

"There is so much stuff here that we take for granted, and so much that we have," she said, noting how the tsunami devastated 11 different nations. "It's not like they can go to the grocery store and buy more food."

A Michigan native, Korsedal lived in California for more than four years. She heard about the tsunami from her mother, who told about the initial fatality count of

"I didn't really believe it at first," she said. "I live in fear of earthquakes anyway after living in California."

Johnson and Korsedal have spent many hours talking to other area restaurants, promoting what began as a "Dixie Highway challenge."

They developed information packets for both managers and servers, offering suggestions but ultimately leaving decisions to each restaurant and employee.

Participating servers are encouraged to wear a tag indicating what percentage of their tips will go to "Tips for Tsunami."

A lot of them are single moms, and they can't give a lot," Korsedal said. "We want to leave it up to each business and each waitress as to what's right for them. We don't want to assume that everyone has a lot of money to give."

On the other hand, their letter to servers encourages them to make the sacrifice.

"I'd like to see all the waitresses unite and really show how good-hearted we are," Korsedal said. "A lot of people have a bad idea of the 'grumpy waitress,' and it's not Classic Coney normally closes at 4 p.m., but will stay open until 7 p.m. on Jan. 28. At least three servers have agreed to work the entire day and donate 100 percent of their tips.

people and I think, given the opportunity, they will give a lot more to the people of Asia.'

Schneider said the restaurant donated 10 percent of a day's proceeds to the Spraypark project, and he said his decision to donate 20 percent is only a minimum.

"If I end up having a crazy, busy day, I'm going to do more than 20 percent," he said. "All I plan to keep is what it costs me to open that day."

The restaurant has already put out a jar for donations toward the project, and has suggested that other restaurants do likewise before Jan. 28. Korsedal and Johnson are seeking other restaurants to join the effort.

They chose the American Red Cross as the beneficiary so those who donate can be assured that the funds will reach those who need it, and there are some ground rules to ensure accountability.

Restaurant managers and servers who wish to participate are asked to call (248) 620-8900 so a list of participating locations can be publicized.

A 22-year-old White Lake Township man was awaiting arraignment on Monday on charges of home invasion and repeated threats against a former girlfriend in Independence Township.

The suspect's threats of physical violence, up to and including murder, included multiple telephone calls and went so far as to include statements recorded on an Oakland County Sheriff patrol car video camera after his arrest on Jan. 9.

Deputies were first called to an address on Eastlawn Avenue on Jan. 8, when the victim said the suspect threw a telephone at her during an argument. While the suspect is no longer welcome in the home, he apparently still has a key, reports said.

Deputies returned around 1 a.m. on Jan. 9, after the suspect allegedly called to tell the woman he was

Reports said the suspect continued to make threats against the woman after his arrest. In one instance, the man was in the rear seat of a patrol car with the deputy's video camera pointed at him.

The man had gained early release from prison in December after a previous conviction for felonious assault, reports said.

Woman reports robbery at residence

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Oakland County sheriff deputies are investigating a strong-arm robbery reported on Jan. 7 at a residence on Pine Knob Lane.

The victim, reportedly a key witness in a domestic assault case against her ex-boyfriend, said she was visited by a woman identified as a friend of the defendant.

After hearing the woman honking her horn in the driveway, the victim went outside to find her in the company of two other men. She said the men could not enter the home, but the resident allowed the other woman to do so.

After entering the home, the woman allegedly hit her in the head, knocking her to ground. During that struggle, the two-men entered the home and grabbed the victim's purse from a countertop.

Thank you, thank you!! It was so nice 'the travel time for the Parview kids. I have researched to read an article by an unbiased source that summarized our feelings so well.

As a parent on Parview Drive, I have been battling the board since hearing of this plan. I have tried to have an open mind as I inquired on the facts surrounding the plan. Each attempt to get answers left me more and more frustrated.

Probably the most insulting thing about all of this is that ideally they are just hoping this plan is good for a few years, then they know it will need to be changed yet again. Many of the overcrowding issues are selfcorrecting next year— for example at our school we are moving the "Spice" and "Dolls" programs to Funshine which is opening up several rooms which will allow us to regain our art room. The reality of the problem only concerns a few schools.

Again, thank you for your help in letting the general voting public know what our board is up to!!!!

Stacey Taylor-Pass

I have been following the redistricting news with interest and all I can say is "here we go again."

We moved to the Clarkston area 12 years ago from southern Michigan due to my husband's job transfer. At that time, bond issues had failed, and schools were in dire need of updating and were overcrowded. I immediately got involved with the schools and worked on all the future bond issues that were passed, sometimes going door to door to make sure the correct information was delivered to voters. Sound familiar?

The problem I felt back then, and am now seeing again, is distrust with the district and lack of communication. Because of my husband's job (auto related), we had transferred three prior times, so my two children faced moving and changing schools many times. Are children resilient to change? Yes, but I never knew how much it affected both of them until reading things they wrote in high school and college about moving and making friends, etc. It's easy for adults to take things for granted. Each school, no matter where in the state it's located has a different "make-up." Kids learn to fit in, make friends and learn to trust others.

Change? Change is good as long as it doesn't affect those in an adverse way and I feel the district needs to better study the numbers and listen to the parents views and thoughts. After all, they know their children better than anyone!!

Both of our daughters graduated from CHS ('98 and '02). I am still proud of the accomplishments the district made during my daughters school years, but now feel much needs to be done once again for future graduates. Trust is earned, not given.

I am a member of the Parent Advisory Team for Clarkston Community Schools, and I feel I need to respond to some of the criticism generated from the proposed Elementary Boundary Plan.

The Parent Advisory Team was given an opportunity in December to sit with Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Banach to discuss the proposal and ask questions. When all was said and done, we came up with the same plan they recommended.

Overcrowding at our schools isn't an event that will happen in a few years. It is happening right now. Students at one elementary experience "Art on a Cart." Their art room has become a classroom.

With overcrowding issues like this in mind, the determination was made that we need to utilize the classrooms that our bond proposal built at Pine Knob Elementary. In order to do that, we need to change the elementary boundaries.

The alternative is to leave the boundaries as they are and have these classrooms at Pine Knob Elementary remain underutilized. Meanwhile, other schools within the district will continue to have overcrowding concerns. This would not make parents happy, either. People would hold Dr. Roberts, his administration and our school board accountable.

I am thankful that our school board and administration had the foresight to plan for the overcrowding a few years ago when the bond issue was passed.

Some parents have cited the inconvenience of changing schools. I agree that changing schools can be a difficult experience for some children. It doesn't have to be. It can also be considered an opportunity to grow as a person. I recommend that parents schedule a visit with the principal at the new school. Tour the school. Meet the teachers. Attend the event that the parent teacher organization/association is planning to help ease the transition.

Learning should remain first and foremost. Clarkston only receives $6,947 per child [from the state] to provide for their education. We need to ensure that this money is spent on education and not gasoline and buses. The recommended plan does this.

Support the proposed Elementary Boundary Plan for the good of all Clarkston students, present and future.

One of the biggest surprises this year was finding a Clarkston ruby "flash" glass vase in perfect condition. Purchased at an antique mall in Northville, these souvenir vases are from the early 1900s. It's hard to believe we could find one in such an unexpected place. Another fantastic purchase was a large collection of Alger family items from a local estate. Two of the most interesting items in the find are the unique money till from Alger Hardware and an early child's school desk with the original inkwell.

We hope that 2005 will bring many more amazing treasures and surprises. It never fails to astonish us that after so many years Clarkston artifacts still have a way of surfacing and finding their way into the museum — from Florida estate sales to local flea markets, they've returned home. We like to think that the care and respect given to these objects is a fitting testimonial to the early settlers that first created this community. We think they would be pleased.

The museum is housed in the Independence Township Library and funded and operated by CCHS.

Polish monster slayers and more!

Don't

Rush Me

Keeping the monster away

Reader Barb VonKniper responded to the plight of little four-year-old Sean Rush -- his nighttime sleeping dilemma. Monsters were keeping the lad up. The lad was keeping his parents up. (So, really it was Sean's parents' plight/dilemma.) I wrote about Monster spraying the home with Sean to keep the darkness at bay. Barb said she used a trick she learned a from her own dear mother.

Years ago (and I am sure it hasn't been too many) Barb's mother would soothe the little Polish-American kids before nighty-night time with this blessing, "Idz Bogum."

Before you twist your tongue out of shape trying to say it, Barb says it's roughly pronounced, "Eedish Boagoom.'

Or, "May God be with you."

For added protection against the evils of the night, Barb says her mother would then splash holy water on the kids and around the room.

If anybody else has a way of dealing with overactive young and not sleeping imaginations, send 'em to me. We can package them in a Don't Rush Me, I'm Trying To Sleep brochure.

I'm sure our efforts in finding a peaceful night's rest would be useful for other parents not yet in the know or folks considering altering their sleep patterns by raising

Personally (and we'll just keep this to ourselves) I have resorted to slipping Sean a couple snorts of Irish whiskey before going to bed and then duct tapping the kid to his mattress. He stays in his bed all night and Jen and I get sleep.

(Just kidding -- don't call the cops, Child Protection Folks or my wife!)

No driving like snow-driving

Last week's snowfall got me thinking: Is it better to drive in the snow with front-wheel drive or rear-wheel mailed to: dontrushmedon@charter.net

I know the front-wheel drive gives you more geddiup-and-go, but it seems to me, it's easier to control a spin-out with rear-wheel drive. It is just a gut feeling. I could be totally off-base and just reliving my illustrious youth. Way back then, kiddies, we learned to drive with rear-wheel drive vehicles -- and some of us even learned to drive with a "manual" transmission.

Anybody know the truth about snow driving?

(And, I don't want any smart-alecs to write in anything remotely resembling: "Just buy a stinking four-wheel drive, Rush.")

Kids are just too danged smart

Jen and I tell our little hellions we love them quite often. Recently, I told oldest Shamus, "I love you wider than the sky -- bigger than the sun --'

Before I could embellish any further, my waxing poetic was cut off, by himself, Shamus. "That would be about 13,000 Earths."

"What would? What are you talking about, Shamus?" "The sun," he replied matter-of-factly. "The sun is about 13,000 Earths.'

"Get to bed, show-off."

Kids today watch too much science television and read too many science books. Whatever happened to Scooby-Doo cartoons and books with Curious George and the man in the big yellow hat?

Progressing into the year 2005

Just a friendly reminder to those who do business locally: Our ad staff will be out selling our annual Progress section. This is our biggest undertaking of the year and (for those who don't know) is our annual business review. Area business buys an ad and gets a free story/

During this time we put a leash on all reporter-types when it comes to publishing "new" business stories. Normally when we get notified of a new business, we'll do an interview, take a picture and run a nice story.

During Progress, we don't.

A Look Back

At our community's history through the pages of The Clarkston News

15 YEARS AGO (1990)

•Clarkston cityhood decision Jan. 16: After a two year wait, Clarkston Village Council members will soon hear word of whether or not the village will enter into "cityhood." During the council meeting on Jan. 8, officials announced that a decision will be made by the Michigan Boundary Commission in Lansing Tuesday, Jan. 16.

•Icy back roads shut schools: Icy back roads caused school to be canceled in Clarkston Thursday, Jan. 4, though many of the main paved roads were clear. About 250 people-apparently many who lived on blacktopped roads-called the bus garage last Thursday to verify the closing, said Assistant Superintendent Mel Varra, adding that some couldn't believe school was canceled.

•Beefed up police force in township: Three Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) deputies have been added to the police force covering Independence Township. The addition of the three officers, effective Jan. 1 brings the number of police patrolling the township to 15.

25 YEARS AGO (1980)

•Independence reserve cops stay put: Independence Township's reserve unit is to stay on the job. The township board voted 5-2 at last night's meeting to maintain the local 16-member reserve program. On Dec. 6 the board voted to dissolve the local police department and contract solely with the Oakland County Sherrif's Department for police protection.

·Maybee park? Maybe: A new park may be purchased by Independence Township in 1980. The land between 10 and 14 acres, is located north of Maybee Road and west of Sashabaw Road, directly across from Lake Oakland Woods Subdivision. Supervisor Whitey Tower and Treasurer Frederick Ritter were given the go ahead to have the property appraised and make the necessary arrangements for its purchase in a 5-2 decisionby the township board last night.

·Sex bias wanes in Clarkston schools: Sex discrimination in Clarkston school is dwindling, according to Conrad Bruce, Title IX coordinator and administrative assistant for personnel services. "I'm not saying we're perfect but we've come along way," he said. But career counseling – the area that needs the most attention according to a national organization devoted to ending sex discrimination in schools – has had little attention, Bruce said.

50 YEARS AGO (1955)

 Bloodmobile in Clarkston January 25: January 25 is D-Day in Clarkston. January 25 is Blood Donor Day in Clarkston at the Community Center from 2:00 to 8:00 p.m. Blood is desperately needed every day. There is no substitute for human blood. Scientists cannot make blood, it must be donated. Your donated blood is given to the sick and injured who need it. Any blood not used for transfusions is processed into blood derivatives which are used in treatment for certain diseases and to counteract shock.

•Women to hear John L. Carey: John L. Carey, a prominent resident of Clarkston, will speak on "Subversive Activities in America before McCarthy" at the meeting of the Clarkston Community Women's Club. The meeting is to be held in the Community Center on Wednesday, January 19 at 1:00 p.m.

 Laura Ruggles named good citizen: General Richardson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, recently observed its 55th anniversary with a luncheon at Devon Gables. The chairman of the "Good Citizen" committee announces the names of seven high school girls in this area who have been chosen by the seniors and faculty as outstanding citizens. Clarkston High has selected Laura Ruggles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ruggles of Reese Road.

The elected take taxes over spending cuts

This year, 2005, pay particularly close attention to your elected officials' taxing actions.

I mean on all levels: village, city, township, county, state and national. Many are saying they've cut spending to the bone, that services are going to have to be cut, more layoffs are imminent, tsunami is hitting Michigan followed by the end of the world.

Of course it isn't so, but the elected need to keep spending at a high level in order to get reelected. "Can't cut welfare, we'll lose their votes. Have to continue grants to assure votes. Got to build more public buildings to fill them with voters. Can't leave a child behind by cutting even fringe programs or we lose all parent, teacher, bus driver and custodian votes."

Governor Jennifer says she has cut state spending by $3 million. That's a pittance compared to the total budget. By the way, have you witnessed any suffering from these cuts?

Maybe you would if you were an elected official. The "deep" cuts were in travel allowances and vehicle usage.

While she moaned about having to make these cuts, she was able to get fellow spenders to approve a fee and tax increases on cigarettes and other things and moved taxpaying dates ahead for some purpose yet to be made

This year after having "slashed" spending, look for pushes for adding sales tax on hair cuts, lawn cutting, legal work and every other service currently un-sales-

Let's not forget raising property taxes back to levels voters took away from state and local coffers by passing Proposal A tell years ago.

This has been a craw in the throat of the spenders

We expect heavy campaigning for these moneys that they say rightfully belong to schools. etc. The Headlee Amendment was a victory for taxpayers which must be overturned, the elected believe.

Give the elected the money and they'll spend it.

Through my half century of paying close attention to local governments in particular, I'm bemused over the changes that come over people shortly, after the swearing in ceremony.

People with moderate means get elected, take a seat alongside a gaveled person and almost immediately suffer a change in attitude about spending.

It's like taking an oath removes certain memory cells.

They go from opposing practically every spending action to becoming a cheerleader for spending.

They go from, "How dare they do that with my money?" to, "What the heck? It ain't my money."

In Washington we get approval for airports where there are no planes. Highways to nowhere and grants to study manure by people who would shout down such things prior to getting elected.

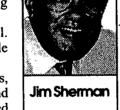

If there is one place to cut spendng it's in grants. In Oxford there's a $1 million plus grant to build a bridge over a state highway. If it was a needed thing, private money would have built it, and probably for $4.60.

"Grants" is just another word for seeking votes and building portfolios.

So, in 2005 look for a rash of tax increases, though hopefully not to the level as around Metro Airport where we pay 30 percent tax to park a car within five miles of the complex.

And our elected promoters will work hard to make it appear to be a gift to us because we're tired of hearing of all the programs that have a been cut.

Nowhere have we read of subcommittees of subcommunities being cut, study committees of study committees being lopped off, agencies of agencies being suspended or assistants to assistants of officer holders being eliminated.

Clarkston Village Players perform award winning 'Proof'

BY JENNY MATTESON

Clarkston News Editor

The Clarkston Village Players are once again stretching their acting talents in the Pulitzer Prize and Tony Award winning play "Proof" by David Auburn.

The drama explores the life of Catherine and her relationships to her deceased father, her remote sister and even herself.

Catherine has spent years caring for her brilliant, but unstable father, a famous mathematician. Shortly after his death, she discovers a mysterious notebook that draws out the most difficult question of all - how much like her father is Catherine? How much of his genius, or madness, will and does she have?

"I wanted to direct this because it's simply an outstanding drama," said Director Al Bartlett. "I really enjoy this play in terms of the insights about who we are, what we want and what we're afraid of about ourselves and what we know about ourselves."

"This production will attract anyone with an interest in a story that keeps you wondering," added Bartlett. "Anyone who enjoys characters and their development will really enjoy this play. It has a wonderful element of mystery throughout."

Although a smaller cast than many of their other productions, "Proof" features some of CVP's best talent: Chris Horstman as Catherine, Adam Kipiniak as Hal, Verne Vackaro as Robert and Cindy Haaseth as

The scene is set in present time on the back porch of the family's Chicago home. The production has two acts.

"I hope people take away an appreciation for the work the author has written," he stated. "I hope they take away a better understanding of self."

"Proof" contains some adult language, including profanity, and is not recommended for children under

"Proof" will run January 14-15, 21-23 and 27-29. Thursday performances begin at 7:30 p.m., Sunday performances at 2 p.m., and Friday and Saturday performances at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 for Thursday and Sunday performances, and $12 for Friday and Satur-

All performances are at the Depot Theater located at 4861 White Lake Rd. For directions or to reserve your tickets, please call 248-625-8811. For further information, please check the Clarkston Village Player's website at www.clarkstonvillageplayers.org.

Like all good directors, Al Bartlett takes the time to reach high and bring the best he can to each production. For "Proof," his high reach led him to some set construction painting that needed done.

The snow started on Jan. 7 just as the sun dipped below the horizon, but inside the CHS gym, the rivalry between Clarkston and Pontiac Northern provided all the heat the packed house needed. In the end, to the delight of the home crowd, the Clarkston varsity basketball team came out on top in the first of two meetings between the two schools, winning trol of the game back with a 21-4 run the game, 15-13. starting at the end of the first quarter and into the second.

"We were a little nervous. It was just a matter of not folding under pressure," said senior gaurd Robbie Clark. "We practice all year to beat Northern."

Clark, who finished with a game high 19 points, embodied his postgame com-

"The difference in the game was us not losing our composure," said Clarkston Coach Dan Fife.

The Wolves carried the play in the second quarter, leading 28-17 with 1:28 left in the half. Northern stopped turning the ball over (16 first-half turnovers) and cut the deficit to eight, for a halftime score of 28-20.

The two teams traded baskets to start the third. At one point, Northern whittled the Wolves lead to six, and were racing up the floor on a fast break. Seemingly coming from out of nowhere, Clark kept the Wolves in control as he leapt out of his shoes to swat Arthur Wilson's layup attempt out of bounds.

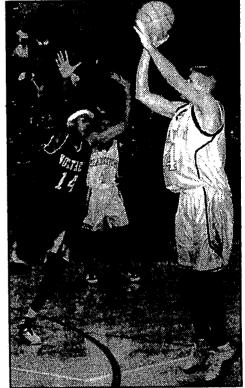

While the massive rejection was huge for the Wolves, to Clark the play had special significance.

"I've been waiting my whole life to block him," said Clark, who is friends with and plays on the same AAU team as Wilson.

The Clarkston gaurd was so pumped from the first block that on the next Northern possession he again sent a layup attempt out of play.

"If Dan Fife and I could combine our squads we'd have a dynasty in this state for years," said Northern Coach Robert Rogers, whose team out rebounded the Wolves 42-20

Later in fourth quarter, Clark again displayed the shooting touch that had a college scout chatting with him after the game. With Clarkston clinging to a fivepoint lead, he got a speck of daylight and canned his fourth three-pointer of the evening, even as a Northern foul sent him sprawling to the floor.

As the contest wound down Clarkston was able to seal the game from the free-throw line, shooting 10 of 11 down the stretch. Brad Goodman, who finished with 14 points and three steals, went 4-4 from the line as Clarkston put the game

The Wolves are now 6-0, having bested Rochester High 73-51 on Jan. 4. Sophomore Bren Bergquist had 17 points and Junior John Kast added 12 points against the Falcons.

Clarkston's tilt against Groves finished too late for this edition of The Clarkston News. The Wolves play Pontiac Central on Jan. 14.

Wolves volleyball wants to overcome lackluster start

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston Volleyball team is not where they envisioned themselves at the start of the year. They stand 6-8 (2-2) on the season.

Hopefully the worst is behind them as the Wolves polished off Rochester High 3-0 on Jan. 10.

Clarkston won 25-22, 25-16 and 25-10

"We should have beaten the teams we've lost to. We have not been playing well at all," said Senior Stephanie Parkin.

Parkin recorded 18 kills against Rochester in a performance which her coach Kelly Avenall referred to afterwards as "dominant." Parkin and fellow teammates on the Carolyn Murdock have been excellent this year according to Avenall.

"Our front line is solid. Our passing needs to improve. We are hard to beat when we pass well," said Avenall.

The team has addressed their focus when receiving the ball on serves and Avenall has examined passing technique

"Sometimes (our passing) is on and sometimes we have just been so off. If you can't set your teammates up you can't win," said Parkin front line Junior Laura Kupe and Senior at the Walled Lake Central Tournament on Jan. 8.

> Over the course of the tourney, Clarkston beat North Farmington and Waterford Mott, but lost to Marian, Walled Lake Northern and Farmington High.

The Wolves compete next in the Grand Blanc Tournament on Jan. 15 and follow up with a tough league test at Troy Athens on Jan. 17. After the flurry of action, the team will host Groves on Jan. 20.

"Our goal at the beginning of the season was to win the league. To do that now we need to win out (in league play)." said Avenall.

West Bloomfield again Wolves whomp

BY NOAH PURCELL Clarkston News Sports Writer

The season would be a whole lot easier for Clarkston hockey if they could play West Bloomfield every game. Having already beaten the Lakers 9-0 in the first game of the season, the Wolves emerged victorious again on Jan. 8, this time posta 7-2 victory.

"It's a great start to the new year, We needed to get a win coming in," said senior forward Bryan Morin.

The Wolves were on a three-game losing streak prior to the contest, having lost to Troy High, Cranbrook and Davison.

The Wolves wasted no time gaining the advantage against West Bloomfield. Senior forward Trevor Johns scored :39 wriggled through a crowd in front and past Lakers goalie Zack Lederer before he saw the shot. Senior forward Mike Fogg assisted on the goal.

Lederer bounced back from the quick goal, stopping a Clarkston penalty shot and two breakaways. Finally, the Wolves, beat Lederer again, this time on deflected shot which richocheted off junior forward Kyle Cummings' stick and past the goalie's glove. Senior defenseman Alex Handley got credit for the assist. Clarkston out shot the Lakers 15-0 and won 10 of 12 faceoffs in the first period

"This is one game when you know that you are not going to catch a break," said West Bloomfield Coach Craig War-

West Bloomfield's Anthony Giglio scored early in the second period, making the score 2-1. The goal lit a fire under the Wolves as they rallied to score into the ganta wrist shot that two powerplay goals in a row. Mike Fogg scored, assisted by junior defenseman Matt Prasil, and Johns added his second of the game, assisted by Fogg and Prasil.

"I wasn't worried (by Lederer's play) because we were pretty much dominating the game and I knew that the (shots) were going to go in eventually," said Clarkston Coach Bryan Krygier.

Clarkston allowed another goal at the end of the second period, but goals by senior defensemen Adam Stoyek (assisted by Johns and Fogg) and Alex Handley (assisted by seniors Chris Degen and Mike Zak) in the third period put the game out of reach for the Lakers. Mike Fogg added another insurance goal with 3:06 left in the game to bring the score to 7-2. Johns and Prasil assisted again on the final goal.

The Wolves outshot West Bloomfield 46-7 over the course of the game. Clarkston junior goaltender Nolan Cesario got the win between the pipes:

"(This win) gives us great momentum going into next 17. week," said Prasil.

Residents urged 'to watch' new board

One if not the leading expert in municipal law in the State of Michigan is Gerald Fisher of the firm of Secrest Wardle. Mr. Fisher lives in Independence Township.

For over 25 years, Mr. Fisher and the various firms with which he has been associated have represented Independence Township. The fees he has charged the township have been among the lowest charged by any law

Recently, the lead attorney representing the township has been Steve Joppich. Mr. Joppich has never failed to represent the township with distinction. You would think that a relationship with that kind of quality would be maintained.

On a vote of six to one, all of that history and expertise has been lost. The leading municipal firm in Michigan has been replaced. Why would any thinking public body take such ridiculous action? I urge all residents to watch this new township board carefully. Several recent actions of this board have demonstrated that prudence isn't going to be their hallmark.

Before you know it, everything this community has stood and fought for will be lost.

Can Lowes, Home Depot, K-Mart and WalMart be far behind?

Dale Stuart

Concern voiced over possible WalMart

Dear Editor:

The recent announcement of an out-of-town developer's proposal to build a Lowe's and a WalMart in Independence Township is disappointing and a cause for concern by every township resident.

These so-called "big box" retailers are just warehouses that cause a significant interference in any community. The location of these warehouses (along Waldon west of Sashabaw) would mean, among other things, a dramatic and dangerous increase in traffic at an already too busy intersection and throughout the community. It should be no surprise to anyone that these warehouses draw regionally, thus bringing new traffic into the community that stops at that location and then leaves without providing any benefit to the community.

Many years ago our township made a conscious decision to be a quality residential community. This meant we did not plan to be a regional doormat. Our master plan reflects these decisions. And these decisions have been reiterated by all our township leaders over the years, and are included in the township's Vision 2020 Plan and the Sashabaw Overlay District.

We are now faced with this out-of-town developer who is determined to force us to allow them to develop property in a way that is inconsistent with our master plan and our community ideal of being a quality, residential community.

Our new township Supervisor Dave Wagner is reportedly opposed to this project and said, "We don't want it; it's not properly zoned." At this point, we should take him at his word. But rejecting improper development proposals is not the work of one man, nor should it be left to the township board or the planning commission. We can expect the neighbors in the immediate area to be opposed. But this development will have such a dramatic impact on our community, all should be involved.

It is up to each and every one of us to monitor the approval process of this proposal. We all need to learn about the effects of this proposal. Everyone should attend meetings and write letters voicing their objections to the township planning commission and township board. We must show our support to our township officials to assure this proposal is rejected.

This is very likely to be a long and arduous battle, but our community has a history of good and reasonable planning and successfully rejecting improper development proposals. We must not abandon our master plan at the time that a "development tsunami" is headed up I-75.

To start out, each concerned citizen should write to the township board to express their concern and their support for the township's opposition to this proposal. We should all contact the planning department of the township to be asked to be notified of every public meeting at which this proposal will be considered.

Very truly yours,

Create a 'village message board'

Dear Clarkston News:

Just a brief word and idea regarding the banner situation on Main St. discussed in your paper on Dec.

In the matter of costs, a "new" banner can run anywhere from $250-$1,000 depending on size etc. Granted banners are reusable to a certain extent with date/time changes for some, more elaborate changes for others.

In short, groups such as ours (The Clarkston Community Band) are spending many dollars collectively per year for banners. In some cases, the banners are up for a week or more, some more or less.

I have personally watched crews of 2-3 replace the banners at whatever the township labor costs are for many years, let alone equipment. Also, many banners are so full of information that the possibility of reading all of the banner is nearly impossible while keeping your eyes on the road. Even reserving times for a banner has become questionable at best. Some activities or groups are reserving their slots months in advance which closes the doors to new events to promote in this manner.

So at the minimum, the banners are a big cost to the groups, an unknown cost to the township and questionable readability to us all. Is there a solution to us all? Possibly.

I suggest the following to be researched by the township.

1. Obtain bids on an electronic two-sided message sign, programmable by one person.

2. Usage of the sign is on a rental basis per day, week, etc. to offset costs.

3. Determine what the actual costs of crew are to taxpayers, and equipment costs, etc. 4. Provide rates that are discounted to community groups or for public service messages. 5. Uniformity in appearance on both sides, just a simple message sign, no frills. 6. Ability to use as a community bulletin, such as "schools closed for snow" or as an "Amber Alert" in emergency situations.

7. If banners are no longer allowed in the village for special events, then the only sign allowed will be the "Village Message Board," thus giving the township a monopoly for it's usage and a guaranteed payback.

8. Possibly place the sign in front of Township offices, similar to Waterford Mott High School, eliminating the overhead banner completely.

Each time our group schedules a concert we are faced with changing our banner, scheduling the banner to be hung up (several conflicts in the past several years have meant our banners could not be hung up on Main St.) and the costs of the changes to the banner. Not to mention the township costs of crews to put up and take down the banners could be minimized by the use of a "Village Message Board."

I believe a long term solution to all involved may be the "Village Message Board" which may satisfy all, and keep the costs for all of us to a minimum.

Sincerely, Gary Metzger, a founding member of the Clarkston Community Band

P.S. While I must admit the possibility of placing a banner on the bridge railing was not our first choice, scheduling of other banners basically eliminated our banner from being able to be placed at the Main St. normal location. The future possibility of a "Village Message Board" may solve our dilemmas of the past and open up future "advertising space" to other groups such as ours. Progress may be the ability to go with the digital age of fast, easy to read and cost effective ways of promoting the wonderful things that go on in Clarkston every week, and the "Village Message Board" may be a giant step in that direction.

Editor's Note: The discussion on the banners across Main St. is a topic concerning the City of the Village of Clarkston and does not involve Indepen-dence Township.

and the township planner.

"I did discuss this idea with everybody because that's what I do. Everyone knows that," said Wagner during the interview. "Even if everybody doesn't agree, I'll bring it to the board."

Larry Rosso made the motion to hire Karlstrom Clooney for the township's everyday needs while retaining Secrest Wardle for specialty work. He was seconded by Charles Dunn.

During board discussion, many of the trustees voiced similar opinions:

"I think in the four years I've been on the board, we've received excellent advice," said Daniel Kelly, who added that this was not something he would have done, but he understands the supervisor's motivations.

"There is a certain amount of deference we must pay the supervisor," he concluded. "I think this is a very appropriate mix. It can be a very good mix."

"If I were the supervisor, I probably would not have made this decision," voiced Larry Rosso, who also stated he understands the supervisor has to work with the township attorneys on a day to day basis. "This is about a business decision. We hope to save some expenses here."

Rosso added he wants to review the situation after a year to confirm the township is receiving the best legal advice possible. "I think it's worth doing at this point," stated Rosso.

"I have struggled with this decision as Mr. Wagner knows," said Clerk Shelagh VanderVeen. "Although I would not necessarily have done this, I support Mr. Wagner in finding a council he is comfortable to work with and trust."

One board trustee spoke strongly against the change. Daniel Travis mentioned that Secrest Wardle was a local firm when the township first hired them. He added that over the years, through joining different firms, the company has expanded, but maintained the quality representation.

Travis also voiced a concern because planning commissioner Kathryn Caruso, an attorney with Karlstrom Clooney, must now resign from her position.

"I'm concerned there is now a lack of knowledge of zoning and ordinance issues on the planning commis-

Wed., January 12, 2005 The Clarkston (MI) News 19 A sion," said Travis. "We have had great legal representation in these areas from Secrest."

Travis was the one trustee who voted no.

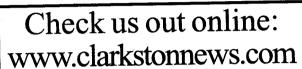

One audience member commented on the recommendation. Independence Township resident Neil Wallace stated he was concerned a decision sounded reached with very little discussion. He worried the proposal was coming because of "change for change sake."

With Karlstrom Clooney as the general council, the township will be charged $110 per hour for municipal work, up from the $95 charged by Secrest Wardle. However, according to the firm's proposal, "there is no minimum retainer."

Also, "routine telephone calls of a quick nature from township officials as to the status of files or simple questions are not billed. Customary copying, postage and travel time are not charged unless out of the ordinary."

Supervisor Wagner stated he expects many township attorney costs to reduce thanks to these free services and the close proximity of the firm; however, he is uncertain what the savings will be.

Wagner will be bringing a recommendation for replacing Caruso on the planning commission at the Jan. 18 board meeting.

Restauranteur has gourmet view of life

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

As a boy growing up in Hamtramck, Myron Grosz remembers when a local Kiwanis club purchased Chicago Cub uniforms for his baseball team.

"It was the full uniform, not just the tshirt," he said, recalling the pride with which he wore that uniform to a fifth grade Halloween party. "At age 53, I still remember that some guy from that Kiwanis club forked over money to give a uniform to a kid he didn't even know."

Grosz now has a track record of giving himself, having become a successful area businessman, and he doesn't mind the raised eyebrows when people learn of his career path.

"I went from my mother's catering business to being a trained chef to running a Burger King franchise," said Grosz Grosz is coming up on the 20th anniversary of his ownership of the Burger King restaurant on Dixie Highway in Independence Township. He must reapply for the franchise in February.

He still exercises his culinary skills, however, primarily for charitable purposes in the Clarkston area and beyond.

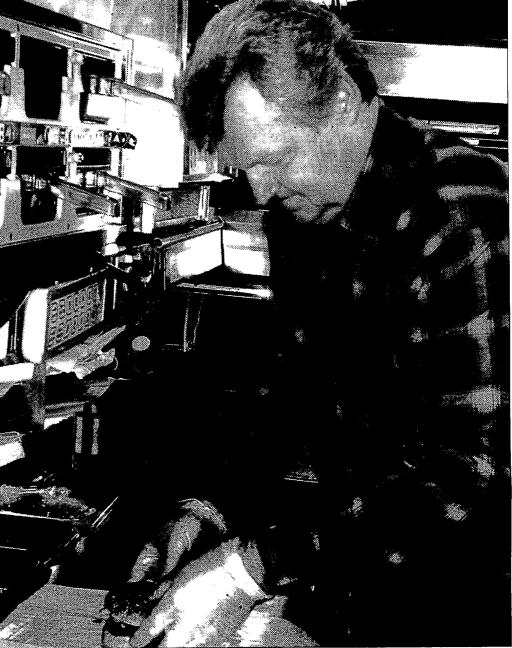

Grosz began working for his mother's catering business at age 15. He completed the culinary arts program at Schoolcraft College, then attended the Culinary Institute of America in New York.

With those credentials, Grosz continued to help with the family catering business, but he was also recruited to take over the food service at DeLaSalle Collegiate High School in Detroit.

There he met a business partner with whom he first attempted to secure a McDonald's franchise. When that attempt was unsuccessful, the partners gained the Burger King franchise, which was then down the road in Waterford.

The early years were a challenge, Grosz said, with the first location being what the parent company admitted was a "bad location." Part of the deal, however, was the brand new Clarkston restaurant, which turned out to be more profitable.

Grosz laughs about early attempts to paying for our losses there," he said.

Grosz had not intended to be a full-time franchise owner, but a combination of events (including medical problems for his partner and the wind down of his mother's catering business) led to just that.

The business is successful because of "We were taking our profits here and a great location and a great staff, he said, with managers and employees who stay longer than the average fast-food restaurant staff.

> "I take about 5 to 10 percent of the credit," he said. "The place almost runs without me. The real heroes in any business are the hourly workers."

Grosz sets the direction, however, and that includes a strong emphasis on service. He has little patience with business experts who spend most of their time with graphs and charts.

"You have to be a people person, because you're constantly dealing with your customers," he said. "People give you their business."

Almost everyone wants to know why we are here. Men and women alike will spend huge amounts time. money and energy in their quest for life's ultimate

Even our Founding Fathers had some of this in mind as they sought to establish a nation where everyone would have the opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

One of my seminary professors recently shared a humorous story about one person's opinion on how to find happiness in life.

It's a story about an American tourist who complimented a fisherman in a small Mexican village on his fish. The American asked the Mexican fisherman if it had taken him long to catch the fish.

"Not very long," the fisherman replied.

Then the American asked the question that is peculiarly American. He asked the fisherman why he had not stayed longer and caught more fish. The fisherman replied that he had enough to meet his needs and those of this family.

"What do you do with the extra time?" asked the American.

"Well," replied the fisherman, "I sleep late, fish a little, play with my children and take a siesta with my wife. In the evening, I go into the village and see my friends, have a few drinks, play the guitar and sing a few songs. I have a full life."

"I have an MBA from Harvard and I can help vou," the American said. "You should start by fishing longer every day. You can then sell the extra fish you catch. With the extra revenue, you can buy a bigger boat. With the extra money the larger boat will bring in, you can buy a second boat and a third and on and on until you have an entire fleet of trawlers. Instead of selling your fish to a middleman, you can negotiate directly with the processing plants and maybe even open your own plant. You can then leave this little village and move to Mexico City, Los Angeles or even New York City. From there you can direct your huge

"How long will that take?"

"Twenty, perhaps 25 years," replied the American.

"And after that?"

"After that," said the American, "you will be able to retire in style. Maybe move to a village on the coast, sleep late, play with your grandchildren, catch a few fish, take a siesta with your wife and spend your evenings drinking, singing and enjoying time with your friends."

How is your pursuit of life, liberty and happiness going?

Is your quest wearing you out? Has your life turned out according to your best laid plans? Are you working hard for real meaning in life, but failing to see any significant results?

Jesus said, "Come to me all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light" (Matthew 11:28-

Jesus promises us that if we seek after him he will provide our most basic needs. He gives his followers real purpose for living.

He enables them to live a life of true freedom from the dominating power of sin. He gives his people a growing sense of assurance that when they die things are going to be all right.

What are you searching after? Purpose, freedom and assurance? Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness? Jesus has the answers that you seek.

The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection will host two special seminars:

· An alcohol and drug addiction program will be presented at 2:30 p.m. on Sundays from Jan. 16 through March 6.

Led by Fr. Don Duford, who holds a Doctor of Ministry degree and is a licensed professional counselor, the series will include sessions on alcoholism, drug addiction, treatment, relapse and relapse prevention.

There will be no charge for the series, although free-will offerings will be accepted.

• A thematic Bible Study, including a walk through the Old Testament (Hebrew Scripture) and New Testament (Christian Scripture), will be presented from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays from Jan. 19 through Feb. 23. The six-week study will follow the theme, "God is Faithful.'

Cost for an optional resource workbook is $17.50. The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection meets at 6490 Clarkston Road.

Preregistration is required for each program. Call (248) 625-2325, extension 3 for more information.

Clarkston United Methodist Church will offer "Beginnings: An Introduction to the Christian Faith" from 6:45 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning Jan. 26. A light supper will be included.

The 12-week small group study about basic Christian beliefs is intended for adults who want to explore their faith. In each two-hour session, participants will share a meal, watch a short video, develop the spiritual disciplines of Christian conversation and Scripture study, engage in meaningful discussions, and explore Christian faith and teachings.

Topics include "Who is Jesus?", "Sin and the Cross," "Death and Resurrection," "Can I Trust God?", "The Bible," "Forgiveness and Wholeness," "Prayer" and "The Good Life."

Learning materials include a video segment, a participant's guide with a short reading and questions for reflection and an optional participant's companion with additional readings on the weekly topics.

His efficient restaurant allows Grosz to be involved in several side ventures, including regular opportunities to demonstrate his culinary skills for good causes. He has staged several in-home catered dinners to benefit groups such as the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis clubs and societies promoting the prevention and cure of cancer and leukemia.

Such groups call on Grosz to serve top notch food and wine for parties of eight to 10 people. Such small parties allow him to be creative and artistic.

"I have a great time doing stuff like that," he said, especially when they give him the freedom to develop the menu. "It's like putting me in a candy store. It gives me a chance to play."

Grosz has also donated his restaurant's space for special events such as a dinner for the disabled sponsored by the Kaleidoscope Foundation of Davisburg. He knows "giving back to the community" sounds like a cliche, but he can't help using that phrase to describe his motivation.

For his own personal enrichment and investment — Grosz uses both his formal training and personal research as a wine collector.

"It's gone real well," he said, and even "bad" investments don't go to waste. "If I can't sell it at a profit, I get to drink it. Where's the loss?"

Grosz also took a class in glass blowing through the Detroit Institute of Arts, expressing a fascination in an art one cannot touch while creating it.

"It takes about 10 years before you get decent," he said. "I don't want to tell you how I was after 24 hours of class."

In addition to all the above, certain teams," he said.
