Congrats to 'Teacher of the Year' Jayne Bannister

BY CHRISTINA ULAJ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The room was silent and calm before officials entered. Once Special Education Elementary Learning Resource teacher Jayne Bannister turned around to see a group of administrators standing in the doorway she looked confused.

"On behalf of the Clarkston Foundation, I would like to congratulate you on being named 'Teacher of the Year,' said Deputy Superintendent David Reschke at that moment.

A regular day at Springfield Plaines Elementary turned into a memorable one. Bannister jumped up and screamed with delight. Her hard work and dedication towards the students is recognized with the greatest honor.

"I can't believe this is happening," Bannister shouted as she turned to co-workers.

Upon pulling herself together, Bannister entered the hall filled with cheering students. On her way to the cafeteria, she was overwhelmed to see her friends and family waiting to congratulate her at a surprise ceremony.

This is the twelfth year the Clarkston Foundation has sponsored the "Teacher of the Year" program. The foundation looks for educators who possess and demonstrate the ability to create a love of learning in students of all abilities and backgrounds; high expectations for all students; the ability to learn and experiment with new ideas in order to expand their professional knowledge base; a clear understanding of their beliefs and practices; and energy, enthusiasm and a positive

MEAP confusion cleared

BY CHRISTINA ULAJ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

This is not the first time there has been confusion with the MEAP test. In recent events, the scores for elementary and middle school levels were posted and then quickly removed. Many may wonder why.

In last week's issue of The Clarkston News, the MEAP confusion was briefly explained. Now, new reasons for why the scores were pulled are clear.

According to Director of Marketing and Communications for Clarkston Community Schools Anita Banach, the results were pulled due to the writing portion. The writing portion is one part of the four section test. There is a prompt for students to follow, and apparently the prompt may have been more difficult than expected.

Due to the writing prompt, the MEAP scores came out unusually low in the writing portion. This low level caused shock amongst school officials and administrators.

"Everyone was shocked about the writing scores," said Banach. "There was a lot of backlash from the state so they pulled the scores to determine why they were so low."

The Michigan Department of Education pulled the results almost immediately after they were posted, and looked at previous years' MEAP scores. Realizing the vast difference in last year's test compared to this year's, administrators decided that maybe the system needed to change for the future.

"There were a lot of speculations as to why the results were so low," said Banach. "Now we know that the

Attorneys discourage sharing of easements

BY JENNY MATTESON
Clarkston News Editor

After some delay and debate, the Independence Township's legal firm stated that the township board "should not... cannot" share easements with the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy.

At the May 4 regular meeting, Karlstrom Cooney presented a formal opinion on the Pine Knob Golf Course easements. According to the letter provided, the township board "should not, and in all probability, cannot effect such an assignment or purpose."

The letter, signed by Stuart B. Cooney, concludes, "we recommend that the board not endeavor to assign its scenic easement on the Pine Knob Properties to a private entity."

Karlstrom Cooney listed several reasons for not recommending the sharing of the Pine Knob easements:

- The township does not need to renew the easements after 40 years. "In Section 4, of the Marketable Title Act the legislature specifically exempted political subdivisions (such as villages, cities and townships) of the State of Michigan from application of the act."

- Sharing the easement would limit the township's interest without any measurable benefit. "It does not seem prudent to create a potentially terminable interest in the easement to protect a non-terminable interest."

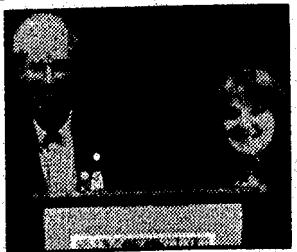

- "The scenic easements at issue were executed as part of a specific zoning

Community Health News

Topic: Osteoporosis

Among the myriad of problems we as individuals and society face with the aging of the Baby Boomers is bone health. Osteoporosis and the related osteopenia are increasing and often under recognized major health conditions. Osteoporosis is a disease characterized by low bone mass and structural deterioration of bone tissue, leading to bone fragility and an increased susceptibility to fractures. The conditions themselves cause no symptoms and are thus "silent" risk factors for major health consequences resulting from the related bone fractures particularly of the spine and hip. It is estimated that 44 million Americans, or 55 percent of the people 50 years of age and older are affected. One in two women and one in four men over age 50 will have an osteoporosis-related fracture in her/his remaining lifetime. While osteoporosis is often thought of as an older person's disease, it can strike at any age. Certain people are more likely to develop osteoporosis than others.

A partial list of risk factors include: being female (although males are affected as well), family history of osteoporosis, estrogen deficiency in females (especially following menopause) and testosterone deficiency in males, smoking and alcohol use, low body weight, nutritional deficiencies, physical inactivity and certain medications. Testing for osteoporosis can be done with a simple Bone Mineral Density scan, a non-invasive test readily available from your health care provider. Screening is recommended for all women following menopause or surgical removal of ovaries, men over age 70, adults with fractures with minimal trauma, and adults on certain medications or other risk factors. Treatment involves correction of underlying risk factors such as smoking cessation, increasing exercise and supplemental dietary calcium and vitamin D. There are several prescription medications available, which will restore bone density and lessen risk of associated fractures. Individuals are encouraged to discuss personal risk with their physician and determine whether Bone Density screening or other preventive measures are appropriate for them.

Couple helps patients, families live full life despite Parkinson's

BY DON SCHELSKE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Harry and Nancy Knitter live such an active life in the Clarkston community, they figured they might as well appear in front of the camera, too.

The couple are among the "stars" of a new video, "In Their Own Words," a documentary focusing on people in Michigan affected by Parkinson's disease.

The 25-minute video debuted on May 4 at a support group meeting in Rochester facilitated by Nancy Knitter, and will be used by doctors and support groups throughout the state to help those facing the news of the chronic, progressive neurological condition.

"I'm a little bit of a ham, anyway," Harry Knitter said with a laugh. "We were glad to do it."

The video, narrated by Detroit media personality Rich Fisher, features interviews with the Knitters and other couples concerning their experiences not only coping, but living a full life despite the disease.

Harry Knitter, who with his wife run their own small publishing company, has already written a book about his experiences. He welcomed the opportunity to do the video, however, hoping it will help comfort and encourage people receiving the news of the diagnosis.

In a way, he wishes something like that was available when he was diagnosed 13 years ago.

"We didn't have a lot of reference information," he said. "We didn't know where to turn."

The couple did a lot of their own research, but eventually joined with the Michigan Parkinson's Foundation, a non-profit organization working toward education and support for those dealing with the disease.

Knitter, who is also an active member of the Clarkston Optimist Club, has fully embraced the concept of "making lemonade when they throw lemons at you."

"If I have to go through life with Parkinson's, I'm going to do it with a positive note," he said.

Nancy Knitter, who considers herself a "care-partner" rather than a "caregiver," said she hopes people

Springfield Plains Walks & Rolls for SCAMP

On May 1, the students of Springfield Plains Elementary room 403 went to the SCAMP Walk & Roll, along with many other students, teachers, parents and members of the community.

It was so cool to see so many people at our check-in line. Springfield Plains Elementary room 403 had a big group picture taken at the pavilion where all of us students, our friends and family met at 12:30 p.m.

Then we all decided to do the two-mile walk together. After we finished the long, tiring two-mile walk, we had hot dogs and drinks. Next, they announced the winners for cutest dog, best decorated bike, youngest walker, oldest walker and largest group.

Springfield Plains Elementary won for the largest group. The prize was a free cone at Dairy Queen. Yummy!

The goal that we, the students of room 403, set was to get 100 walkers from SPE. It turns out that we got more than 100 students to participate. To get all of these students to the Walk & Roll, we had to really push them.

We had a skit at an assembly and then used the props for a mural in the fourth grade hallway. We made brochures and presented them to all the classrooms and posted all of our posters around the school. We also did the announcements on the SPE News, which is our news program we see on TV on Mondays.

It was a lot of hard work and a lot of fun. We are so happy that we helped promote the Walk & Roll for SCAMP!

Fancy meeting you here

Ah, how much I've grown up in just a year. All of you are probably wondering just who I am. Well you don't know me, yet. I'm hoping one day you will. One day I want to see my name attached to articles, novels, stories you connect with. Someday I want you all to recognize my name, and know that I got my start right here, at The Clarkston News.

My name is Laura Weiner. I am from Bloomfield Hills, and I am a senior at Oakland University. My major is journalism, with an emphasis in print. I will be graduating in December of this year. Once I graduate, I want to write. I will write about anything, anyone, anyplace, as long as my words can interest and excite people, making them want to read. I have had this urge forever, starting with diaries and moving forward into college, where papers would never bore me. As it was just another opportunity for me to make my words dance, and let me tell you, making a summary on Aristotle dance is no easy task.

Upon getting an internship at The Clarkston News I was nervous about what was ahead. So far, what is ahead are some unique opportunities for me to grow and learn. I am excited to tackle any task they have for me, and am anxious to learn exactly what those tasks are.

As I said before, I have been growing up a lot lately. I moved out on my own. Realized one should have a manual when it comes to being out on their own, and also realized that this out on your own thing isn't all it is cracked up to be. It is the little things that are hard when you are out on your own. I live with a roommate, Erin, and her cat, Bentley. I was not such a cat person before, but I am starting to get used to the little fella.

Living with those two is very different than living at home. My house is one that is always filled with people. I have a mom, Harriet, who is a teacher, and my dad, Marc, is a podiatrist. You may already know them, as they have spent the last week running around and bragging to anyone who will listen about my internship. I also have a sister, Dana, who is 25 and a teacher as well; my brother, Jeff, 19, is in school; and last but not least a dog, Sunday. We are all really close, and I try to get home a lot, whether it is to snag a meal or just say "hi".

I recently started to take more classes pertaining to my major, which thankfully, I love. I finally have a definitive answer to the question, "what do you want to be when you grow up," and that answer is a journalist.

I hope you all enjoy my articles, and drop me a line if you think there is anything I am missing. I could always use encouragement too, another downfall of not living with mom. You can contact Laura Weiner, "The Intern," at shermanpub@aol.com, attn: Clarkston News.

A note to Mr. Rush... 'You sort of missed it'

Dear Editor,

Actually, "Dear Kramer." You sort of missed it with your lengthy diatribe.

Could those "non-homesteaders" also be call "absentee landlords?" Might they be people who really don't have a vested interest in our community? Might they be people who really don't care if Clarkston has a strong retail Main Street?

If they want representation, let them become a part of our community. Let them participate and live here.

Very sincerely,
Judy McConnell
Clarkston

Praise for Independence Township planner

Over the years I have had the opportunity to attend numerous planning commission and township board meetings. During that time, there have been several challenges.

But fortunately for the township and its residents, one thing hasn't changed - we can still rely on our planner, Dick Carlisle.

It is apparent that he understands our community's traditions and the importance of our efforts to assure that the growth and development here is reasonable and in keeping with the character and quality of life we enjoy. His experience and guidance are key factors in our ability to withstand the increasing pressure from outside developers to do whatever they want, even when it is not best for us.

Like so many other residents, I can't make it to every community meeting, so it is particularly comforting to know that we have Dick Carlisle looking out for us.

Building Safety Week raises public awareness

Dear Editor,

During the week of May 8-14, building departments across America and around the world will celebrate Building Safety Week.

Building Safety Week raises public awareness of building safety and promotes the use, enforcement and understanding of building safety and fire prevention codes to protect lives and property. "Making Homes, Schools and Workplaces Safer Together" is the theme of Building Safety Week 2005.

Building and fire code enforcement is the job of professionals who work right here in Springfield Township. Inspectors, plan reviewers and others in our department work to ensure that the structures you and your families live, work and play in are safe.

We are active members of the International Code Council, an association that develops building safety and fire prevention codes that are used in more than 15,000 jurisdictions across the nation. Building Safety Week, first observed in 1980, is sponsored by the International Code Council Foundation, an organization dedicated to changing the devastating effects of natural disasters and other building tragedies at home and around the world.

Our department is using Building Safety Week to educate the community. It is an opportunity to increase public awareness of the role building safety and fire prevention officials, local and state building departments and federal agencies play on the front line of defense to protect lives and property. They are the "silent defenders" who are seldom seen, but work daily to ensure safety in the built environment.

The role of the Springfield Township Building Department is to support projects that improve building safety at home and in the community. The department takes steps to ensure that the places where people in our community live, work, play and learn are safe by reviewing building plans, issuing building permits and inspecting buildings during and after construction.

We can make homes, schools and workplaces safer together.

Leon Genre
Director of Building/Planning
Springfield Township

Protect natural areas, maintain easements

The Independence Township Board has been asked to reconsider a group of scenic easements on the Pine Knob Golf Course. These easements were agreed to by the developer and the township in the early 70s and were designed to preserve open space and scenic areas.

I urge the board to reject the developer's requests and maintain the easements. These easements and many others like them in our township protect natural areas and open space and are written to be binding forever. The precedence that would follow changes to these easements would make all such easements open to threat.

Most of us here treasure our open rural areas and would expect our elected officials to reflect that view. I urge everyone to attend the May 17 board meeting as a show of concern and ask the board to hold to the original agreements.

Writer takes offense to 'Bat Boy'

Dear citizens of Clarkston and surrounding area:

If you attended the current production at Clarkston Village Players Depot Theatre on April 29; May 6, 7, or 8, please consider your overall reaction to this theatrical expression.

I was deeply offended by the sacrilegious content in the play, as were some people sitting around me. I will be demanding my money back from the current board of directors, and if you were equally offended, I urge you to do the same.

The Clarkston Village Players have enjoyed a long history of presentations of lively and diverse theatrical offerings. This has been a wonderful outlet for local thespians to showcase their talents and patrons to enjoy local live theatre. I saw many productions there throughout the years, ranging from mediocre to great.

The current group has managed to slur this fine 40 year history. They strayed far into a realm of offensive and inappropriate material. Was there no one on your board of directors or cast or crew with enough scruples to stand up and say, "I will not participate in something that mocks the Christian church so openly?"

Please see Letters, page 27A

A Look Back

*At our community's history through the pages of
The Clarkston News*

• Board OK's millage request, contract: In the August primary election, voters will be asked to approve three-fourths of one mill for four years to operate Independence Township Library.

The township board unanimously approved the request May 1. At the same time, the board unanimously voted to approve the contract for the architect in charge of the library's expansion.

• Three charged in school arson: Three Clarkston High School sophomores have admitted their connection to an April 23 fire at the high school.

According to Principal Robert Burek, the three youths admitted their participation in the igniting of a boy's restroom dispenser between first and second-hour classes. The fire resulted heavy smoke damage to about eight rooms at the school.

25 YEARS AGO (1980)

• New Clarkston High School gets consideration:

Voters may be asked to approve costs of a new Clarkston high school some time next year.

The Clarkston Community School Board discussed the possibility during a special meeting Monday night.

Garden ickies, gardening for good

As my perfect, Romanesque and pointy nose indicates, the weather is getting better.

What that first sentence means is: Because my beak is glowing red like Rudolf's after baking in the sun all weekend, it is safe to assume we have turned the corner from Old Man Winter Boulevard onto Spring Street. (It is also safe to assume that I need to start putting sun block on my nose before doctors need to cut bits off from skin cancer.)

All that aside... my smallish city-like garden is tilled; horseradish, garlic and onions have sprouted. I have walked barefoot on the grass and it has felt good.

While looking at the bit of soil that will someday be alive with growing stuff, I had a thought. Actually, I had a number of thoughts.

Garden Thought Number One

I hope the herd of groundhogs that terrorized my garden last year have migrated to the greener pastures of somebody else's garden.

Yep, you read right, I wrote "herd of groundhogs." We had four or five of those pesky marmots grazing our property last year and they ate all the cucumber and bean plants. Dangblabiti!

I am not yet willing to wage war on them... yet. Besides getting gopher blood on my hands, if you have a way to keep them groundhogs at bay, give me a hollar.

Garden Thought Number Two

I am willing to declare a holy jihad against the infidels -- the garden ickies. What are the "garden ickies?" Garden ickies are anything that grosses me out. For example, I hate it when weeding in the early morning, while the dew is still clinging to everything, and I inadvertently grab a hold of and then squish a slug as I pull out an unwanted plant. How do I put it succinctly and without too much hyperbole?

YUCK!

Or, when I pick a pepper off the vine, bite into it for a bit of garden freshness -- only to have an earwig scamper down my chin... GROSS!

I hate those things and I usually set aside my "live and let live" mantra and administer death by whatever means is at my disposal -- smashing by rocks; gouging by sticks; I have turned an aerosol cans into a blow torches and fried 'em. I know, I know. My karma

rush
don't rush
me

has been harmed and in my next life I will become what I despise, an earwig. Know what? I don't care. Those things cannot stay in my garden. Sorry Jesus, I will not turn the other cheek. As that bubble headed booby of a robot on TV's Lost in Space said, I will "crush, kill and destroy" all pinched critters in my garden.

Forgive me Lord, for I am not repentant.

Do you have an arch nemesis of the garden? Let me know what it is and how you deal with it -- maybe I and others can learn from you.

Garden Thought Number Three

Okay, maybe I do have some guilt issues. I say this because I also pondered helping hungry folks with some of the harvest from my gardening efforts. I wondered if anybody (or business) with a little bit of land to scratch, did so and planted one or two vegetables for others, what would happen?

If we all planted a little, could we then take the harvest somewhere to help somebody a little down on their luck? Do such places even take "fresh" stuff?

Well... I called the Food Bank of Oakland County, talked to Roberta, who gave me the number of Bob McGowan -- Master Gardener out Clarkston way.

Bob's baby is the 20,000-square-foot Bittersweet Farms garden at Hubbard and Allen roads. For the last 13 years, Master Gardener wannabes get in their volunteer hours working at this garden. The harvest is strictly to help feed people through the Food Bank.

Bob added, Bittersweet Farms is also a drop-off center for food and that any fresh vegetable is welcome (key word here folks is FRESH).

While that is really neat-o keen, he had another idea that's really, really good.

Why don't a group of individual gardeners get together and sell some of their produce at local farmers markets, with some portion of the proceeds to be donated to the Food Bank, or soup kitchens or one of the 200 emergency food providers in the county. Why not?

Clarkston is planning a farmers market. Ortonville, Oxford and Lake Orion, I believe have had farmers markets. Gardening can be for Good (versus the opposite of gardening for Evil).

If anybody wants more information let me know. Also, I promise to write more later.

Hey, maybe I'm not gonna burn in Hell. Maybe there is hope for my karma.

I have been having bad dreams again.

Not the nightmares when I go to Las Vegas, get a late-night rhinoplasty and wake up the next day without any nostrils... but these nightmares are bad all the same.

My night terrors have focused on a central theme, that of embarrassment. Not the normal type of going to school naked embarrassment often found in such nighttime scare fests, but rather an embarrassment of much greater proportions.

The nightmares always start the same way. I'm awakened up by some unknown, sentient beings hundreds of years into the future. They have reanimated my body because they have some questions about my era that they simply cannot figure out for themselves.

The aliens, although they could just be a future iteration of humans for all I know, are confused about one specific era in American history -- the era we currently live in.

Their first question is always general and sweeping in nature.

"Why did the United States go to war in Iraq?" they ask.

I respond as best I can, telling them how our government at the time used a clever ruse concerning our safety to hide the true impetus behind our invasion of Iraq, that being the liberation of a captive people from an oppressive dictator.

"But wouldn't having control over the massive oil fields in Iraq have been the most logical justification for the war?" said the Aliens.

At this point, I remind them who lived during the era and who was exposed to the extensive news coverage concerning the war in Iraq.

"But your view of those events lack consistency," said the Aliens. "Why, if righting a terrible wrong in the world was your country's goal, did you not seek to at least curb the genocide going on in other parts of the world during the time? For example, at the same time the United States invaded Iraq, the region you called Sudan was embroiled in a 20-year civil war which featured massive ethnic cleansing and yet your cable news networks hardly made mention of it."

At this point I stammer, inside I wonder why if liberation and spreading democracy was the United States' goal, why did we only try to spread the dream to countries with significant natural resources?

"Well, moving on," said the Aliens. "Why did America demand international outcry for events which they themselves were guilty of?"

I laugh at the Aliens at this point in the dream. I wonder what exactly they could mean by such a sweeping statement. They show me pictures from Abu Gharaib and from detention centers in Guantanamo Bay. I tell them we were at war, that we needed to protect our country.

"Why did you allow your soldiers to humiliate prisoners? Why did interrogators dunk the Koran in prison toilets? Why did the United States decide to stray so far from the Declaration of Human Rights?" said the Aliens.

At this point in the dream, I begin to squirm in my sleep -- the nightmare has such a real quality to it. I have no rebuttal for the Aliens. Their words cut through me, leaving me tattered and torn, twisting in the wind.

"And what of your leader?" said the Aliens. "Why did he cling to the idea that America was the end all and be all of world politics?"

With my wits trounced to bits by their questioning, I stand mute, but their questions keep coming.

"Why did Bush dedicate so much of the military to a phantom threat in Iraq, leaving the United States unable to confront real nuclear weapons threats in Iran and North Korea?"

"Why did Bush seem to feel he was above questioning, even from his own press corps?"

"Why did America swallow lines like 'I know we're winning' when Bush was asked about the war on terrorism?"

"Why did the President insist that his press conference preclude an episode of Will and Grace?"

Usually I wake up in a cold, speechless sweat at this point, and as I go back to sleep, I ask a single question to myself: Why?

Parties fight over lost, then found, dog

Oakland County Sheriff deputies took the report, but advised two women that their dispute over the ownership of a dog is considered a civil matter.

Deputies responded on May 5 to a Squirrel Hill Court residence, where a woman said a dog which had run away was in the custody of a Madison Heights woman who refused to give it back.

The dog's original owner, who admitted she had not licensed it, was gone for several days. She learned from the Clarkston Animal Medical Center that the second woman brought the dog in for treatment.

Deputies contacted the second woman, who works at an Independence Township residence. She said the dog had run loose for more than a week. With the help of other sheriff deputies, the woman said she captured the dog, who was very dirty and hungry.

The veterinarian, according to the second woman, said the dog suffered previous injuries from being hit by a car and had an unhealed abdominal wound.

Since she paid for the dog's care, and since the dog was unlicensed, the second woman refused to give the dog back, reports said.

Deputies cited the first woman for allowing a dog to be at large and for failing to license the animal.

Thieves hit cars on Hubbard, Brookstone

Oakland County Sheriff deputies on May 6 took at least seven reports of vehicle break-ins on Hubbard Circle and Brookstone Lane.

Some of the vehicles were unlocked, reports said, but others had windows smashed.

Among items taken from the vehicles were golf clubs, cash, personal electronic equipment such as cell phones and CDs, and hunting equipment (including one shotgun). Deputies said the burglars appeared to be targeting vehicles containing such items.

No suspects were reported.

Clarkston baseball stakes claim to its legacy

Eric Ogg drove in three with this triple to tie the score in the seventh inning against Waterford Mott. Clarkston won the game 8-7 in nine innings. Photos by Noah Purcell

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Roy "Pops" Warner Classic is Clarkston High School's baby. Since the tournament is dedicated to the school's longtime, hall of fame coach, the pressure was on the Wolves to come away with the crown on May 7.

"Whether you win or lose, you want your kids to compete," said current Clarkston Coach Phil Price.

At the end of the day, the Wolves got to play the role of bad host as they beat Waterford Mott, Warren Mott and Pontiac Notre Dame Prep in succession to win the tourney.

Early on, the situation looked grim for the home team, as Clarkston trailed Waterford Mott 7-2 with two outs in the bottom of the seventh. Price said he was proud of the way his kids did not waver under the pressure of the situation. Clarkston finessed in two runs before Eric Ogg's triple with the bases loaded brought home all the ducks on the pond, tying the score. Then in the ninth inning, Steve McIsaac singled home the winning run. Mike Navarre picked up the win in relief of JJ Lange in Clarkston's eventual 8-7 victory.

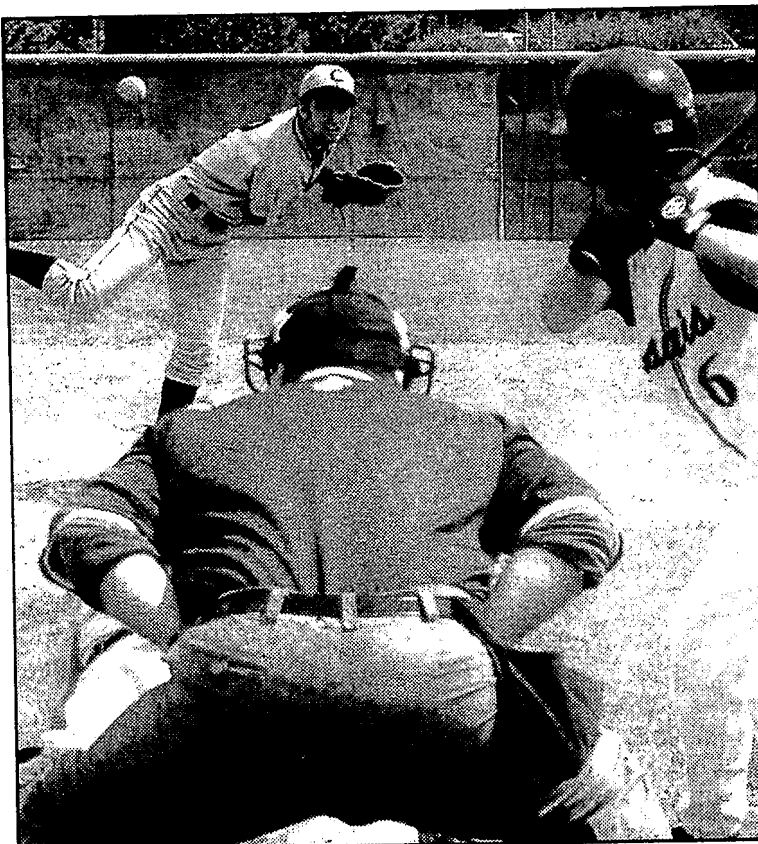

Next against Warren Mott,

Brandon Phillips made sure that Mike Kittle's 12 strikeout performance did not go to waste as he singled with the bases loaded, in the bottom of the seventh and Clarkston down one run, to win the game 7-6.

In the final showdown with Notre Dame, who had previously mercied the two-time defending Roy Warner champs, Lapeer West, Clarkston cruised to a 14-4 win.

On the day, Price felt that both Ogg and Lange's bats stood out for the Wolves.

The Wolves feel good vibe of the weekend was brought to halt though on May 9, as Clarkston lost 3-1 to Royal Oak Kimball.

Mike Navarre picked up the victory against Waterford Mott with two strong innings in relief of starter J.J. Lange.

"We had a couple lapses in the field that cost us the game," said Price.

All three of Kimball's runs were unearned, leaving Clarkston pitcher Steve McIsaac with a stat line featuring zero runs allowed and one loss. Price felt McIsaac did a good job on the hill; and if not for the errors in the field, the Wolves could have wrestled a victory away from Kimball's ace Bryan Pierce.

The away game against

Kimball was the first of three dates on the road for Clarkston. On May 11, the Wolves take on a Troy team they beat 9-2 on April 20. On May 12 Clarkston will make up their game against North Farmington originally scheduled for April 8.

Clarkston next plays for the home fans in an OAA showdown against Lake Orion on May 16. Lake Orion wrested control of the league and a 2-1 victory from Clarkston on May 3.

Athlete of the Week – Lisa Sickman

Lisa Sickman is the Athlete of the Week as her strong running at the Don Mitchell Roosevelt Invitational helped the Wolves garner a fourth place finish in a tough field.

Sickman saved her best performance for the team's biggest meet to date, setting personal records in the 800 (2:24) and the mile (5:22). The CHS junior still feels she has more to give this season.

"I'd like to get my mile below 5:15 and my 800 below 2:22. I would like to qualify in the two-mile at states as well," said Sickman.

Sickman is an integral part of both the distance runners of the girls track team and the 2004 State Champion girls cross country team.

Her high school athletics career took a different path in ninth grade as she played volleyball and soccer after running track in middle school. But Clarkston cross country and assistant track Coach Jamie Labrosse convinced Lisa that track was her sport and she has run for the past two years.

One look at her 3.99 GPA and most people would think she takes her books along with her when she trains (she doesn't). While she has not started to seriously look at colleges, Sickman would like to run on the next level and is thinking about majoring in psychology.

Lisa has lived in Clarkston since she was in the sixth grade with her mother and father, Colleen and Bill. She has two older brothers, Ryan and Kyle.

Young Wolves showing flashes of future

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Wolves softball team is teasing coach Don Peters as of late.

Knowing full well that his squad lacked the experience to seriously compete this year, Peters keeps his expectations from running wild when the team shows flashes of good play – most recently at the Pieper tournament at Memorial Park on May 7 and 8.

"I have really high expectations, maybe higher than they should be, because of how young we are," said Peters.

But anyone would get excited after the Wolves went 2-1 on the first day of play at the Pieper tournament on May 7. Clarkston's only loss on the day was a 3-1 decision to the No. 1 ranked team in the state, Regina.

In their first two games at Memorial park, Clarkston defeated Flushing 6-2, with Megan Sperry getting the win on the hill, and Kimball 6-1, with Sarah Burger pitching for the victory.

"I thought the girls played really well on Saturday (May 7) but we came out a little flat on Sunday," said Peters.

Clarkston lost to Waterford Mott 4-2 to open the finals bracket. The Wolves then ended the day with a sour taste in their mouths, left by a 8-0 defeat at the hands of Livonia Ladywood.

All in all though, Peters is happy that his team was able to participate in the Pieper tournament.

"We want to get as many games in against good competition so we can develop," said Peters.

Peters felt the Wolves MVP of the tournament was Katy Kleinadler, who had eight hits for the tournament and a home run. According to Peters, Kleinadler was one of the best catchers at the Pieper tourney. She threw out three base runners on steal attempts, a feat embellished by the fact she converted from third base midway through this season.

Clarkston is now 7-11 on the season.

"It's much more difficult to coach when you are losing. You have to keep the girls spirits up, but at the same time continue to challenge them," said Peters.

Next up for the Wolves is a road game against Waterford Kettering on May 11.

Clarkston will then compete in the Chelsea Tournament on May 14 in a field that includes Chelsea, Trenton and Ann Arbor Huron. While the competition will be stiff, Peters also entered the tournament because the Chelsea softball field was voted to be the nicest in the country two years ago.

Wrapping up the coming weeks action will be another road test for the Wolves against Troy High on May 16.

CHS tennis team briefly buoyed by returning senior

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston tennis got some of their missing senior leadership back on May 5 as they routed Farmington Hills Harrison, 7-1.

The good times were fleeting, however, as Farmington High took back inter-city bragging rights from C-town with a 5-3 victory on May 9.

Senior Amit Surapaneni, who missed the team's past five matches while travelling, won against Harrison's Aaron Work in his return to action, but lost to Alex Perez against Farmington. Cluas felt having him back though allowed other players to be slotted in flights more in line with their talent level.

"It was certainly nice getting (Surapaneni) back and to have the luxury of a senior back at the number one singles flight," said Claus.

The doubles, as they have been all season, were a source of strength for the Wolves.

Number one doubles tandem: Chris Graczyk and Pat McIlrath; three doubles: Zach McDonald and Dan Osterhage; and four doubles: Erik Ejups and Sean Kurowski; all beat their counterparts from Farmington and Harrison.

Clarkston is now 4-4-1 (2-3-1) on the season, a marked improvement from their 1-7 record last year.

The Farmington match was the last dual meet of the season. The Wolves will now prepare for the OAA tournament on May 12.

"I'd really like to see us do well against the teams we've been hovering even with," said Claus.

Clarkston lost 5-3 decisions this year to Farmington and Lake Orion and tied Berkley 4-4.

Supreme Court drops the ball

Thanks to the United States Supreme Court, the sports seasons in Michigan will stay the same.

Thanks to the United States Supreme Court, athletic directors from here to Iron City will not have to scramble to reorganize their sports schedules for next year.

Thanks to the United States Supreme Court, some athletes in Michigan are not being forced to choose between two sports which they enjoy playing.

Thanks to the United States Supreme Court, girls are still not treated equally in Michigan high school athletics.

As the sports seasons stand right now, Michigan is somewhat out of whack with the rest of the nation. When our girls play soccer in the spring, everyone else's boys are on the field. When our volleyball players throw up the first serve of the season, the rest of the country has dug their final ball.

Had the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the ruling of the lower courts, Michigan girls basketball would have been played in the winter and volleyball in the fall. Boys and girls soccer, tennis and golf would have switched seasons as well.

Michigan is the only state which schedules volleyball in the winter and one of two which schedules girls basketball in the fall.

One of the easiest things to do when examining this issue is to say "who cares." The belief that the current MHSAA scheduling is fair and equitable is mislaid, and the result of a unwillingness to change.

To put this issue in simpler terms: what if the MHSAA scheduled their football season for the spring, while the rest of the country played games in the fall?

Every other state's seasons would have been wrapped up by the time Michigan athletes hit the grid iron. Now if you were a college scout, would you want to travel to see four kids during the fall, or three in the fall and one in the spring.

The answer to that question is easy. With the pressure of collegiate athletic programs placed on recruiting, why would a school hold a spot for a kid from Michigan? Often doing so means they will lose a talented recruit whose senior season is completed to another school.

A girl playing soccer in Michigan has an incomplete resumé when compared to a girl from Ohio or Indiana. The soccer players from other states get to show their senior season off to college scouts. The girl from Michigan only has a chance to complete her junior year. When a scholarship to a prestigious university needs to be awarded, who do you think is going to be signing on the dotted line? Not the girl from Michigan.

I know of at least one Clarkston student who is playing collegiate soccer next year, she should be applauded for her excellence. But I can't help but wonder if she would have had even more opportunities if more college programs were able to see her play.

The regrettable side of this issue, is that sports have been scheduled strangely in Michigan for so long that the MHSAA, the schools, the coaches and the athletes are entrenched, and change has become scary.

I do feel sympathy for students who would be forced to choose between two sports they love equally. While tough decisions like that will not have to be made this year, this court case is far from finished. Athletes may be forced to choose one sport over another as soon as the 2006-07 school year.

While change may be tough in the beginning, no reasoning against the sports season change can outweigh the reasoning for it. Female athletes in Michigan deserve to be on an equal playing field with the rest of the country.

Duffers go from demolished to domination

Coach Larry Sherrill feels Lu Kuhta's game has improved dramatically over the past few weeks. Photo by Purcell

Clarkston News Sports Writer

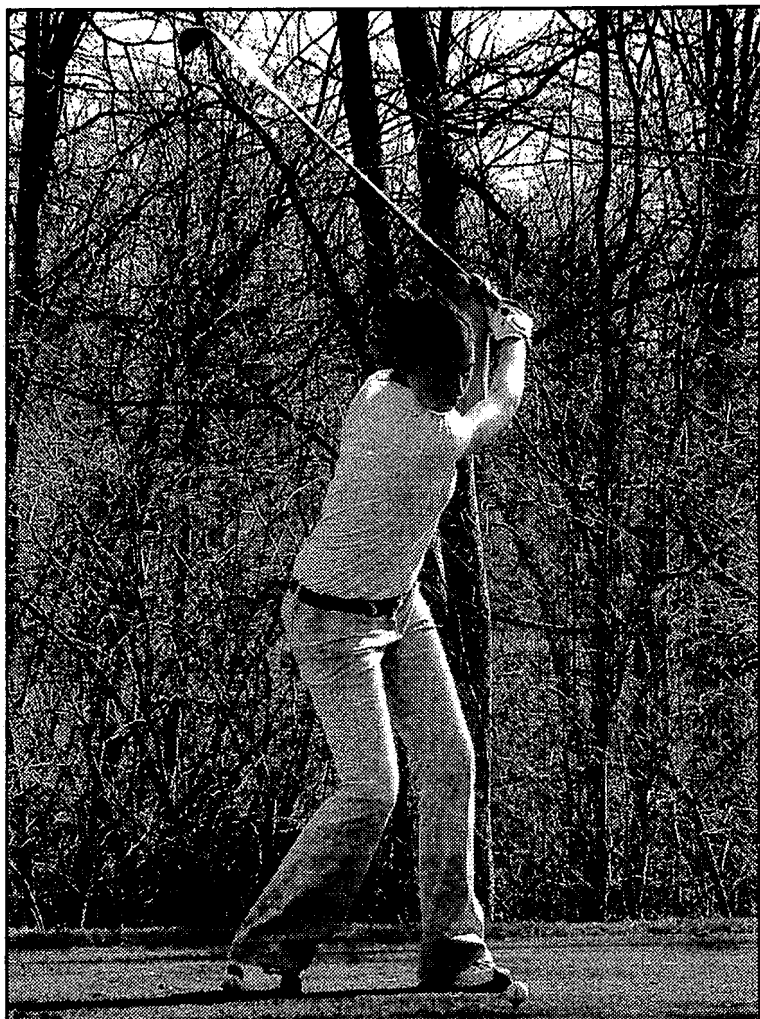

The Clarkston golf team had one of their worst performances of the year in the most important meet of the season to date, but bounced back to put a silver lining on their week.

Where Clarkston faltered was at the first league tournament held during the Eccentric Tournament on May 4. The team shot a combined score of 408, which landed them in sixth place amongst eight league rivals. Seaholm was tops in the OAA with a combined score of 330.

"We have no excuses. It was a beautiful day. The course was long, but all the teams had to use the same tees. We just didn't play well," said Clarkston Coach Larry Sherrill.

Jackie Schram led the Wolves with a 90 at the league tournament. Also scoring for Clarkston were Lu Kuhta (104), Lyndsey Kitson (107) and Lauren Moore (107).

After their poor showing on May 4, the Wolves were more like Phoenixes as they rose from their own ashes to win the nine hole Athens Scramble on May 6. Not only did Clarkston win the Athens Scramble, which has been held for 28 years, the Wolves tied a tourney record with a five-under par score of 30.

"In a scramble you have to make putts and we did all day," said Sherrill.

The four competitors Sherrill took to the scramble were Schram, Kuhta, Kitson and Ashley Blanc.

The Wolves final dual meet of the season against Farmington on May 10 finished too late for this edition of The Clarkston News.

Next up for Clarkston is the second league tournament of the season on May 16.

Only you can look out for your outlook

By Ernie Harwell

I think most of my attitude about taking personal responsibility for your own quality of life and health rubbed off from my dad. Who contracted multiple sclerosis when he was about thirty years old, and died at seventy-two. Despite being unable to move his lower limbs during those many years, he had a sharp mind and a terrific look on life.

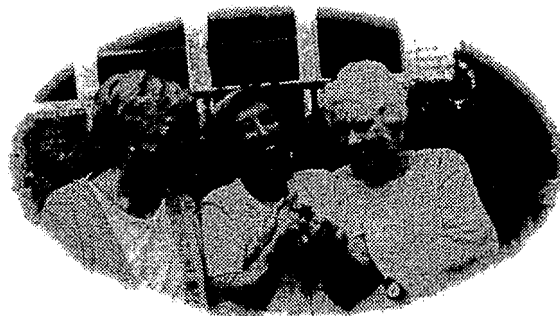

He was upbeat all the time and never let his physical condition let him down. He loved to have people visit and always had great stories and jokes ready for them. I think a lot of that was passed along to me. I saw that he had such an amazingly positive attitude and how much it meant to the quality of his life and to the love of those around him - every single day.

So it's probably not too surprising to those who really know me, that I consciously decide every day that I'm going to do something positive for my health and my outlook on life. I figure there's simply no guarantee that I - or anyone else - will feel good without making fitness and a positive outlook a personal commitment.

And please remember to take care of your health before it's longggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the Voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan and Blue Care Network, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, a collection of his baseball columns titled "Life After Baseball," is available at local bookstores or by calling 1-800-245-5082.

Kickers can't win, but refuse to lose

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Two straight ties have the Wolves soccer team and Coach Annette Richardson hungry for a victory. The latest stalemate, a 2-2 non-decision against Farmington on May 5, was like a mosquito on a summer evening — annoying.

"We seem to be the type of team that we can let our guard down one time and the other team will capitalize on it," said Richardson.

The game against Farmington follows a 1-1 tie in the Wolves previous game against Dondero on April 28, after which Richardson was extremely happy with the way her team competed. The novelty of playing hard and not losing, but not winning, was wearing off after the Farmington game.

"We were really ready for a win (against Farmington). (The tie) did not feel as good as before," said Richardson.

Farmington scored the first goal of the match against the Wolves, but Clarkston answered back on a rebound headed into the net by junior Kristen Mercado. The Falcons were able to net the next tally on the scoreboard, but once again Clarkston answered the bell, as Taylor Hosner scored on a penalty kick with 10:00 remaining in the second half.

Richardson feels her team still needs to develop more offensively, but is pleased with the amount of progress the Wolves have made this season.

"We lost people from last year who could take a game into their own hands offensively," said Richardson. "Our forwards (this year) are starting to come alive."

Clarkston is 3-5-3 on the season now, but is 1-5-3 in the OAA division II.

"(The OAA division II) is a super tough league. We have one team brought down from division I (Stevenson) and one team should be moved up (Stoney Creek)," said Richardson.

Clarkston's rematch with Kimball finished too late for this edition of The Clarkston News. The Wolves beat Kimball 2-0 on April 14.

Next up for Clarkston is a revenge game at West Bloomfield. The Wolves lost 3-2 to the Lakers on April 19. Clarkston will play host to Avondale on April 16.

Track succeeds both near and far Girls compete in Ohio, boys in Waterford

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

The Clarkston track teams went separate ways this past week as the girls team trekked down to Ohio for the Don Mitchell Roosevelt Memorial invitational, while the boys team took part in the Ashley Relays at Waterford Mott.

Clarkston Coach John Yorke was happy with the girls team's fourth place finish out of 43 teams in Ohio, especially because of the high competition level featured at the meet.

"This is one of the best invitationals in the Midwest. Much of the best competition in Michigan ran there," said Yorke.

The sterling track programs of Detroit Mumford, Rockford and Ann Arbor Pioneer were all present at the Don Mitchell Roosevelt Memorial. Mumford (second) and Pioneer (third) finished ahead of the Wolves. Collinwood was the overall winner of the two day competition held on May 6 and 7.

Clarkston had several individual standouts at the end of the heats. Jenny Morgan was named "Most Outstanding Runner" for the tournament as she won the 3200 and finished second in the 1600. Lyndsay Smith finished two seconds off a national qualifying time in the steeplechase at 7:45. Smith was trailed closely in the steeplechase by Clarkston's Ann Oltman who finished second with a time of 7:49.54. Liz Mengyan also helped the Wolves cause by virtue of her fourth place finish in the 1600.

On the boys side of the track, Clarkston finished ninth in the Ashley relays on May 7.

The Wolves had several standouts from the meet: Brad Gale took fifth and fourth respectively in the 300 medium hurdles and 110 high hurdles as well as helping the relay team of Jesse Kessler, Matt Alexander and Pedro Matos capture fifth in the 400; in the distance medley Matt Alexander, Jesse Kessler, Nick Puroll and Hazen Brennan finished third; and Gregg Knappe's time of 11.4 netted him fourth in the 100.

Also performing well for the Wolves was the 1600 relay team of Andrew Chaffee, Matt Inch, Travis Hughes and Ed Brennan; and the middle distance relay of Puroll, Steve Hunter, Matt Hunter and Chris Anderson. Both relays managed fifth place finishes.

"(The Ashley relays) was a good meet for us. Our times were better. Hopefully it will put us in the right frame of mind, because of course we have an important meet against Rochester coming up," said Clarkston Coach Walt Winiemko.

The track teams hosted Rochester High on May 10, but the meet finished too late for this edition of The Clarkston News.

Both boys and girls track teams will travel together to the South Lyon Invitational on May 13, but the girls will also compete in the Mott relays on May 14, as both teams start winding up for regionals on May 20.

Clarkston baller steps up for Drexel

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Sports Writer

Clarkston alum Kira Karlstrom has been up to big things on the basketball court – despite her 5'4" frame.

Karlstrom, a sophomore at Drexel, was named the Dragons most improved player and also garnered the Steve Sher Academic Award for her work on and off the hardwood this past season.

"A lot of people told me my size would be an issue," said Karlstrom.

Karlstrom was forced into the starting lineup when the Drexel team lost starter Jackie Falson in the fifth game of the season. Karlstrom responded to the increased role by raising her scoring average by five points per game, was second on the team in assists and third in steals.

Though Karlstrom is the shortest listed player in the Colonial Athletic Conference, she ranked third on the team in rebounding with an average of 3.9 rebounds per game.

On the academic side of things, Karlstrom has culled a 3.39 GPA as a graphic design major.

"(My course work) is not book work, so it is hard to take on the road," said Karlstrom.

When asked about influences on her collegiate career, Karlstrom pointed directly back to Clarkston High School.

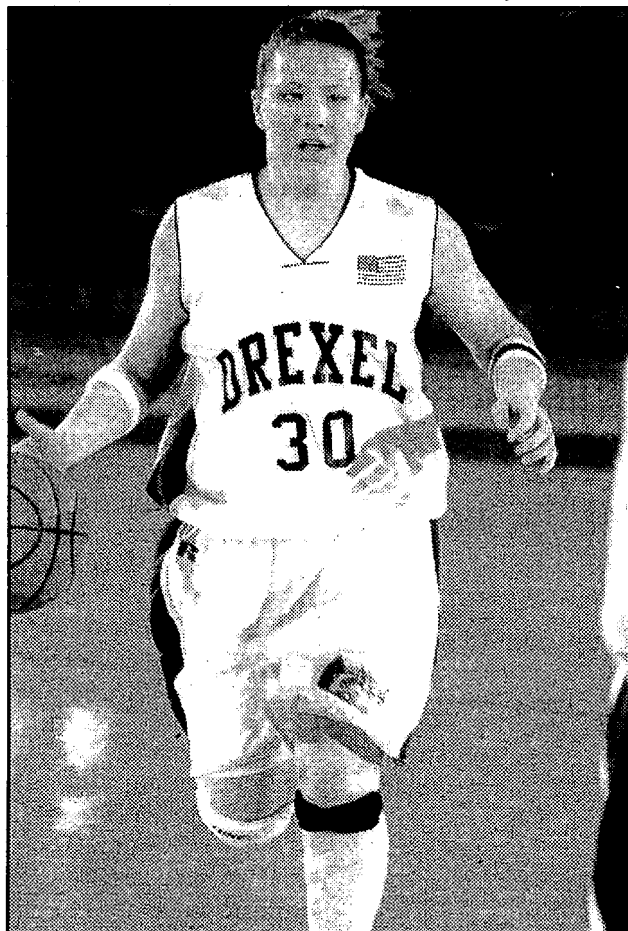

"I think having Ann (Lowney) as a coach really helped me," said Karlstrom, who still talks to her former coach.

Karlstrom specifically pointed out that Lowney, the former varsity womens basketball coach at CHS, helped prepare her for college especially in the conditioning area.

Having helped Drexel to a 19-10 record this year, Karlstrom is hoping to continue improving with the team next year.

"Next year we are going to be a lot better. We are going to be a lot more experienced," said Karlstrom.

Her dedication to the Drexel program will not leave Karlstrom with much time in her hometown over the next few months. She hopes to be home for a week in June, but due to Drexel's tri-mester scheduling and summer basketball conditioning, Karlstrom does not expect to be home again until Christmas.

May school board election was successful

As a citizen, educator and community leader, I want to thank the six individuals who ran for school board. Stephen Hyer, Ronald Sullivan, Barry Bomier, David Lohmeier, Robin Matczak and Barbara Sieltz vied for three open seats.

As candidates, they participated in the election process by sharing their perspectives publicly; and that is not as easy as it looks. In today's politically charged environment, people seem to be a bit suspicious of folks running for office, and one misstatement can brand a person for life.

Can you imagine being the focal point at a Candidate's Forum hosted by the district's PTA Council and the League of Women Voters? And then having the forum broadcast to the community on cable for nearly two weeks? Certainly there is a great deal of pressure when one places their name on a ballot!

As readers know by now, Mr. Bomier, Mr. Hyer and Mr. Sullivan were selected by the voters of the district to continue to serve on our board. After speaking with them, I can tell you that they are anxious to press forward with the goals this community supported when we passed the latest bond issue. That agenda includes world class student opportunities (academic, athletics and the arts); state-of-the-art facilities; and fiscal prudence and responsibility. I know you will join me in congratulating them as they begin another term on the board.

Since this was the first May election for school districts across the state, I thought it would be timely to explain why the May election date was selected. You may recall, the new election law called for schools to select either the November general election date or the second Tuesday, following the first Monday in May as the date for school elections. In addition, all school elections are now handled by the County Clerk's Office.

The Clarkston School Board decided to hold elections in May for several reasons. The following is a brief highlight of the rationale used to make this decision:

- First of all, the election consolidation legislation created the option of a May election date for school districts. This leads us to conclude that our elected representatives believe there are valid and justifiable reasons for holding school elections in May. From our perspective, this makes sense because it provides new board members with the time necessary to prepare for the new school year.

- November elections simply do not align with our fiscal year, board responsibilities and school calendar. This misalignment could negatively impact the school district in several ways.

For example, the installation of board members in the middle of the fiscal cycle just doesn't make sense for planning or accountability. The November date would have board members starting their terms well after the start of school; and after the most important decisions for that school year have been made.

- School elections have historically been one of the few areas where public office and partisan politics have not been intertwined. We believe it should remain that way. By keeping school elections away from the partisan November election we feel we have the best chance to do so.

Simply stated, the board believes holding the election in May gives us the best opportunity to maintain quality, build upon excellence and maintain fiscal responsibility.

So how did we do this year? We had nearly 2,500 people cast a ballot. While the numbers are not staggeringly high, they are in fact, aligned with the typical voter turnout in past elections. This is interesting in that there were no "money issues" on the ballot.

I am a believer in the democratic process; and join many others who believe voting is a right we should all exercise. Thanks for voting, and we will see you at the polls next May!

Clarkston man dies in 6-car collision at Lapeer/Clarkston

BY LISA VALENTINE
Lake Orion Review Staff Writer

A Clarkston man died during surgery on May 7, after he was the passenger in a vehicle that was involved in a six-car pile-up at Lapeer and Clarkston Roads on Saturday afternoon.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Donald Allen Moore, 77, of Clarkston, died at Royal Oak Beaumont Hospital, where he was taken by ambulance after being extricated from the vehicle he was riding in by the Orion Township Fire Department.

The accident occurred westbound Clarkston Road, west of M-24, at 2:57 p.m. on May 7, when a 75-year-old Clarkston woman attempted to make a prohibited left turn from Lapeer Road.

According to the OCSD, the woman was driving a

Chevrolet Suburban SUV, and was attempting to turn from northbound Lapeer, south of Clarkston, to go westbound on Clarkston Road, from a lane marked for authorized vehicle use only.

Moore was the woman's front-seat passenger, and she ran the red light while turning left, and was struck by a 2002 Nissan Pathfinder, driven by a 55-year-old Commerce woman and traveling south on Lapeer Road.

After striking the Chevrolet, the Nissan ran off the roadway to the right, striking a light pole and the building housing the Limelight Salon at the northwest corner of Clarkston and Lapeer.

The Chevrolet went left of center, into the eastbound lanes of Clarkston Road, striking four vehicles that were sitting at the red light.

None of those drivers were injured, and all refused medical treatment at the scene.

The driver of the Nissan was transported to POH, where she was treated and released. The Clarkston woman driving the Chevrolet was transported to POH, where the OCSD said she was stable and still receiving treatment.

Moore was transported to Royal Oak Beaumont, where he later died in surgery at 5:48 p.m.

The OCSD Crash Reconstruction Unit is still investigating the accident, but said all of the people involved were wearing seatbelts, and that alcohol did not appear to be a factor.

The OCSD said the driver of the Chevrolet may have been having a medical problem prior to the crash, which may be a factor.

MDOT: I-75 will get guardrails

BY DON SCHELSKE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the wake of a fiery fatal crash on I-75, the Michigan Department of Transportation has announced plans to install guardrails in the median south of M-15.

"We are going to fill in that gap," said MDOT spokesman Rob Morosi. "We have every intention of completing it by this fall."

Local public safety officials last week lamented the lack of guardrails in the April 30 tragedy which took three lives and caused five vehicles to catch fire. The combination of high-speed traffic, curved pavement and generally level medians have contributed to multiple fatal emergencies on I-75 through Independence Township.

Officials also credited newly-installed guardrails north of M-15 for preventing a major disaster when a semi-truck overturned earlier this year.

Morosi said there are some "issues" which may affect construction. Crews must relocate some utility lines and redesign drainage in some places, for example. There are also "fabrication issues," Morosi said, in relation to fulfilling orders for steel to build the guardrails themselves.

"We had a project in the pipeline," Morosi said, but recent events have led to making this a priority. "Every effort will be made" to complete the project this year.

After last weekend's crash, Independence Township Fire Chief Steve Ronk said township officials needed to demand immediate attention to the lack of guardrails in the area.

Lt. Dale LaBair, commander of the Independence Township substation of the Oakland County Sheriff's Office, thought there were plans to install the guardrails, but was glad to hear those plans were accelerated.

"We're tired of cleaning 'em up," LaBair said of the frequent serious crashes on I-75. "It's too bad people had to get killed over the thing."

The April 30 crash occurred when a southbound 2002 Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck crossed the median, striking a northbound 2004 Jeep Cherokee. The crash spread burning gasoline which caused three other vehicles to catch fire.

Michigan State Police on Monday were still waiting to see if an autopsy of the offending driver will shed any clues as to what caused him to cross the median.

Community mourns death of local sheriff sergeant

BY DON SCHELSKE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Oakland County Sheriff Sgt. David Fournier is being remembered as someone who could be counted on both on and off the job.

The 54-year-old Clarkston resident died on May 1 after collapsing during a softball game in Sterling Heights.

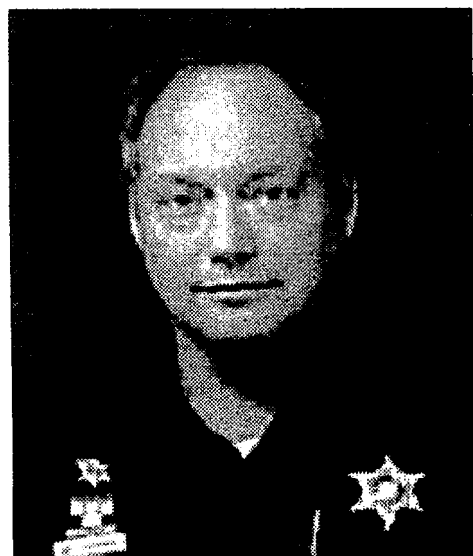

Although Fournier did not work in his home community, Sgt. Mark Gardner, commander of the Springfield Township sheriff substation, had contact with Fournier on a number of occasions and echoed the sentiments of many coworkers.

"I was shocked," Gardner said. "He just loved baseball. He was a good guy."

Fournier recently completed 25 years of service in the sheriff's office, and before he died was selected to receive a Professional Excellence Award on May 19. His wife and daughter are expected to be present to accept the award on his behalf.

Most recently assigned to the Rochester Hills substation, Fournier established the Community Emergency Response Team for that city.

"In doing so, he not only set the bar for other communities to aspire to, but also developed a basis for enhanced homeland security for Rochester Hills and Oakland County," said Undersheriff Mike McCabe in a prepared statement. "He worked in several assignments during his time with the sheriff's office and was known to be thorough, fair and an effective problem solver. Dave was respected by his peers, and all his colleagues and friends will miss him dearly."

McCabe also noted Fournier's keen interest in baseball. Fournier attended Eastern Michigan University on a baseball scholarship and played Class A baseball at Jaycee Park in Pontiac. He also played on sheriff's office teams for many years.

Survivors include wife, Nancy, and children, Sarah and James. A Funeral Mass was said at St. Daniel's Catholic Church in Clarkston, with burial in Lakeview Cemetery.

Memorial donations will be used by the family for the future education of Fournier's children or the American Heart Association.

Residents see coyote in local neighborhood

BY DON SCHELSKE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Stray animals may be a fact of life, but many may not know that wild animals also roam in residential neighborhoods of Independence Township.

Linda Bistersky believes. She and her husband saw what they believe to be a young coyote running through yards near Eastlawn and Chickadee on April 28.

"It looked like a dog, but it was big," Bistersky said. "We were shocked."

There was time for Bistersky's husband to grab a camera and get a photo. They also called Oakland County Animal Control, but the animal had disappeared into some nearby woods by the time officers arrived.

Bistersky said residents have seen wild turkeys in the area, but this was the first time she had seen anything such as a coyote. She has heard second-hand reports that residents along Waterford Road have lost pets to full-grown coyotes.

Neither the Oakland County Sheriff's Office nor Oakland County Animal Control have received any reports of coyote attacks on pets. At least one official, however, said Bistersky's sighting is not a surprise.

"They're all over Oakland County," said Sgt. Jerry McNair, animal control road supervisor. "It's not unexpected that you might see them every now and then."

Just as with deer and other wild animals, McNair said increased development has forced coyotes from their former habitats.

While unaware of any recent reports of lost pets, McNair said residents would be wise to keep pets from wandering off residential property.

What some believe to be a young coyote runs through the residential neighborhood near Eastlawn and Chickadee in Independence Township on April 28. According to Oakland County Animal Control, coyotes are "all over" the county. Photo submitted

'Art Fun & Food' open house

Savage Photography is celebrating its first anniversary with an "Art, Fun & Food" open house at their studio in downtown Clarkston.

The studio attracted attention last weekend, and will do so again from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on May 14 at 3 E. Washington Street, just east of Main Street.

Highlights of the event include an exhibition of the studio's finest work, and an introduction to "Bookworks," the studio's hardbound book-series featuring a pictorial day in the life of a high school senior (available for upcoming seniors).

Visitors will also be introduced to "Your Life," a customized music DVD featuring personal selections of music and images from a photographic session.

In addition, Savage Photography will offer a $50 gift certificate toward a photo package to all visitors and a complimentary "Buddy Photo" for two friends. There will be hourly drawings for a complimentary photo shoot, location session, wallet photos, 8x10 photos, makeover consultations, and more. In all, there will be more than $1,000 in prizes. There will also be special savings for booking a photo shoot at the open house, plus refreshments and entertainment.

"Spring, summer and fall are busy times for senior photos, weddings and family get-togethers for holiday photos," said David Savage, owner of the full-service photographic studio. "We want the community to have the opportunity to see our work, meet our photographers and above all to enjoy themselves."

Savage Photography also offers corporate photographic services, such as event photography, and professional photos in black and white or color that are Internet and publication friendly.

Because of advanced technology, Savage Photography will offer a new service this year.

"We can now help families celebrate the life of a loved one with a personal biography," said Savage. "The stories of families and friends will be told to a professional writer, and the photographs artfully reproduced and arranged, all published in a bound, hard-cover book. We offer several options, and are very excited about this aspect of our business."

Savage Photography is open from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and appointments may be scheduled at other times. Call 248-922-3200 for more information or visit www.Savagephotography.net

Road repair list updated

The Road Commission for Oakland County has announced road work which may cause delays for motorists in the Clarkston area:

- The bridge on Sashabaw Road over I-75 now has one lane open in either direction as the Michigan Department of Transportation continues to make bridge repairs. Work is scheduled to be completed by May 19.

Previously, MDOT had officially closed Sashabaw Road between Clarkston and Waldon roads.

- Sashabaw Road between I-75 and Maybee Road will have intermittent lane closures through June 10 to allow contractors to restore the right of way following last year's widening of the road.

- Andersonville Road between White Lake Road and Curtis Lane is scheduled to be closed through July 30 so Independence Township can install a water main and sanitary sewer line.

During the closure, the detour route will be White Lake Road to Mageday Lake Road to Williams Lake Road to Airport road to Dixie Highway and vice versa.

- Rattalee Lake Road was scheduled to be closed until May 10 so MDOT can make bridge repairs on the Rattalee Lake Road bridge over I-75.

The detour route was listed as Tindall Road to Davisburg Road to Dixie Highway and vice versa.

CHS students educate preschoolers

BY CHRISTINA ULAJ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Educating preschoolers requires patience, enthusiasm and, most of all, a love for children.

Well, for the students at Clarkston High School, combine these characteristics to serve children in the Funshine Preschool program.

Clarkston High School offers a child development class broken into two semesters.

The first semester is the informative and text book portion, where students learn about child care, different levels in age groups for clarity, and how to educate and care for children. Once the students complete the first session, they use what they have learned in the classroom.

The students run the Funshine Preschool out of Clarkston High School. The preschool is nationally accredited and participating students earn credit through Oakland Community College.

"This is my second year with the preschool," said senior Alysia Robertson. "I changed my career choice to be a kindergarten and preschool teacher."

The CHS students are responsible for every aspect of the preschool including: forming lesson plans, coordinating activities and working with the children on letters and numbers. Since there is a total of 100 CHS students enrolled, each preschool-aged child has the privilege of receiving personal attention.

Funshine preschoolers tip toe through the room.

Although the high school students run the show, they are under the supervision of high school development teachers, Linda Olechowski and Carol Klein.

"These students learn how to work in a preschool and day care," said Olechowski. "They are just learning to be teachers, but they are so wonderful and do an outstanding job."

"This is an elective so these students are here because they want to be."

Kendra Baker helps Audrey Rackel decorate.

Olechowski stresses to the students the importance of child care, and how many careers relate to child development. Funshine Preschool has been a running program for six years. The program offers many sessions including: a three-year-old program, a four-year-old program, mixed age group programs and others.

The preschool program is available during the school year. For more information on the Funshine Preschool program, contact Margie Ried, director of preschool programs for Clarkston, at 248-674-3143.

Students get opportunity to travel with YFU

BY LAURA WEINER
Clarkston News Intern

Mallory Morell, a Clarkston High School student, seems like your everyday teenager, going to practice after school, shopping for the perfect prom dress and preparing for the summer ahead. But Mallory is about to embark on an adventure that is anything but typical. She will travel with Youth For Understanding, a non-profit study-abroad program, this August.

YFU started right here in Michigan. In 1951, 75 German teens were selected by the Army of the Occupation to come live in the United States with Americans for a year. Detroit area residents and religious groups placed students in homes, beginning a tradition that still exists today.

YFU is a program that allows students to go to school in one of 35 different countries. The move is for either one semester, or one year, depending on the student's preference. The opportunity is available to students ages 15-18, even those who have graduated, as colleges will usually defer enrollment for a year.

Participants can either pay a set price, depending on the country they are traveling to, or the cost of the trip is covered with a scholarship from one of the many corporate donors, as well as donations from private individuals. According to Mary Alvy, a representative from YFU, about half of the 525 students that are participating this year got scholarships. Although she says that number varies year to year, most of the time 1/3 to 1/2 of students get their trips covered by scholarships. Scholarships opportunities are posted online at YFU's website. They normally require a student to have a 2.0 or 3.0 GPA.

Mallory Morell was thrilled when she got her scholarship from sponsors in the Ann Arbor area. "I went to Germany before, and I really liked it, enough that I wanted to do it again," she said. So much so that she is now signed up to go to Ecuador in August for a year.

One year in a far away land may frighten most, but it excites Mallory. "Sure I get homesick, but I mean, you're away, you keep busy," she says. "I play my viola, make friends, hang out, do stuff I do here. It is definitely different, a different culture and stuff, and you live with a host family." Host families give a student a way to learn that is much different than in a classroom. These families are just one of the great educational rewards one can receive while traveling with YFU.

To find out more details about YFU, go to www.yfuusa.org.

Not only was Bannister honored at the ceremony, but she also had a surprise waiting for her a few miles away. Bannister traveled to Suburban Ford Waterford immediately following the ceremony. There, she chose her dream car to drive for a year. Bannister decided to cruise Clarkston in a 2005 red Ford Mustang Coupe.

"What a special day it was for her, as well as the Foundation, our community schools and all the wonderful teachers we have," said Clarkston Foundation Chairperson Sherry VanderVeen. "She is phenomenal and represents to us the type of exceptional educator that we could only hope all of our children are exposed to during their time in Clarkston schools."

Many teachers were considered for the award, including finalists Marilyn Ormiston and Michelle Rice.

Congratulations on a wonderful year Mrs. Bannister.

Mrs. Jayne Bannister steps into her new Ford Mustang, provided by Suburban Ford Waterford. Bannister drives the car for a year.

Jayne Bannister as she walks out of her classroom and into the crowded hall.

Bannister was surrounded by friends.

Bannister is overwhelmed with emotion to see her family at the SPE showing support.

Jim Evans, Clarkston Foundation, presents Mrs. Jayne Bannister with the award.

Students of Springfield Plains Elementary filled the halls to show Bannister support.

Letters to the Editor

The play mocks Christians lifting their hands in prayer and praise. The writer mocks "christian charity." The writers treat in a farcical and sarcastic way the holiest of subjects. They actually quote scripture on stage, Deuteronomy and Psalm 23 to be exact -- and then mock the scripture. They treat in an ignominious way the concept of "revival."

Did any person in the cast or crew or board of directors ever participate in a true revival? A true revival calls a citizen back to a closer walk with God. The ministers of a church or elders often act as intercessors or helpers or guides for the individual and guide that individual to true communion with the Lord, their Creator.

I have seen miraculous healings at revivals. I have seen addicts cured, not helped, cured. I have seen cancer eradicated. I've seen thieves and thugs and muggers and liars repent and turn into contributing members of society. I have seen marriages repaired and healed. And you dare to mock a concept that you do not even understand.

When your group began to mock the 23rd Psalm on stage I wanted to yell, "No! No! No! No! No!" The 23rd Psalm has been a healer to me. It is holy, as are all the psalms.

The genre of theatre lends itself to the study and personification of all types of human beings. True theatrical offerings encompass all aspects of the human personality and possibilities of human experiences. Included in this genre are possible social interactions, societal conflicts, various configurations of personalities and a great variety of settings and events. The very nature of theatre must embrace all "types," from the light and fluffy to the darkest of characters. From the ugly old troll who lives under the bridge in "Three Billy Goats Gruff," to the judge-murderer in "Ten Little Indians," to the Sweeny Todd character who puts people in pies, and countless other types we see parading across the theatrical stage. We realize that theatre is meant to embrace all types.

I have traveled across this country and participated in "song-and-dance," again and again, specifically in opera, light opera, straight dramas and youth theatre. I was in the award-winning Detroit production of "Sweeney Todd" and found nothing offensive in that dark material. I have produced and directed and acted in several productions of murder mysteries. "Phantom of the Opera" renditions, rock musicals and several different productions of "Count Dracula."

None of these offended me. "Count Dracula" is about as dark as you can get, duh, he's a vampire. That play actually highlights the struggle between righteousness and evil -- a predominate theme in literature and art.

I was fortunate enough to see the recent Michigan Opera Theatre production of "Tosca." Magnificent. I saw Pontiac Theatre IV's production of "Annie Get Your Gun," and many other theatrical offerings throughout the Detroit Metro area. Each of them were worthwhile theatrical endeavors.

Heads above all of them was the Meadowbrook Theatre production of "And Then They Came For Me." I left that theatre inspired, changed, never to forget the powerful images and lesson illustrated. The play, "And Then They Came For Me," should never close.

I wish the one Clarkston had never opened.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth A. Mar

facing the disease realize their role providing support, not just receiving it.

"Parkinsonians have to help each other," she said. "We're kind of a team with this."

He a former businessman and she a former teacher, the Knitters are busy practicing what they preach, traveling around the state as seminar presenters and having newly-diagnosed Parkinson's patients in their home. Harry Knitter described a young woman they met with a couple weeks ago.

"She was confused and frustrated," he said. "We tried to point out that life doesn't end when you get Parkinson's."

ing proceeding." Since the easements are the product of a zoning procedure, they are subject to zoning law; and no reference was made in those easements to provide for any beneficiary other than the township.

• In the concluding paragraphs, the letter states that "since the board is clearly concerned with its ethical and legal duty to represent its constituents, we wonder why it is important to dictate to a future board that it may not freely perform the same duties." The opinion states that the Open Meetings Act and public elections provide opportunity for the public to express themselves.

"It is inappropriate for a municipal government to unilaterally alter its good faith agreements regarding valuable private property rights simply to prevent its

Wed., May 11, 2005 The Clarkston (MI) News, 27A.
According to the foundation, Parkinson's disease affects 2 percent of the population over 60 years of age, with an estimated 30,000 people in Michigan being diagnosed. Cardinal signs are tremor at rest, slowness of movement, stiffness and problems with balance. Although there is no cure, Parkinson's disease can be effectively managed with medication for a long period of time.

The Knitters say one of the silver linings of dealing with the disease is the number of nice people they've met across the state.

They hope to meet more, as their new support group meets at 7 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month at Crittenton Hospital in Rochester.

For more information on the video or the support group, call the Knitters at 248-922-9400.

own successors and future constituents from having a different view on the issue," as stated in the letter.

Several area residents spoke on the opinion; however, discussion was limited since the opinion letter was originally presented to the township as a confidential document, and did not become public until the meeting.

Representatives of AAC Acquisitions, Inc., were unable to attend the board meeting. Robert Mollicone, sales and marketing for Pine Knob Enclaves, said company officials have not yet seen the opinion or had an opportunity to review the board minutes.

In addition, Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) did not have any updates on the topic posted on their website as of deadline Monday.

According to Wagner, he expects AAC Acquisitions to be before the board at the May 17 regular meeting; however, nothing formal was set at the time.

Formal event fits the 'bill' for Ducks Unlimited

BY JENNY MATTESON
Clarkston News Editor

An evening of beautiful ladies in formal wear and elegant auction items is not the picture that comes to mind when thinking of a banquet sponsored by Ducks Unlimited (DU).

However, Ducks Unlimited is not a typical sportsman's club.

Begun in 1937 by a group of sportsmen concerned by the drought-plagued waterfowl populations, Ducks Unlimited is a grassroots, volunteer-based conservation group focusing upon waterfowl and wetlands.

"I think people are really surprised when they learn about the projects we participate in," said Chuck Myers, area chairman for the North Oakland County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited.

On May 4, the local DU chapter held its largest fund-raiser of the year, an annual banquet featuring a live auction, silent auction and plenty of raffles. The event was held at Deer Lake Athletic Club.

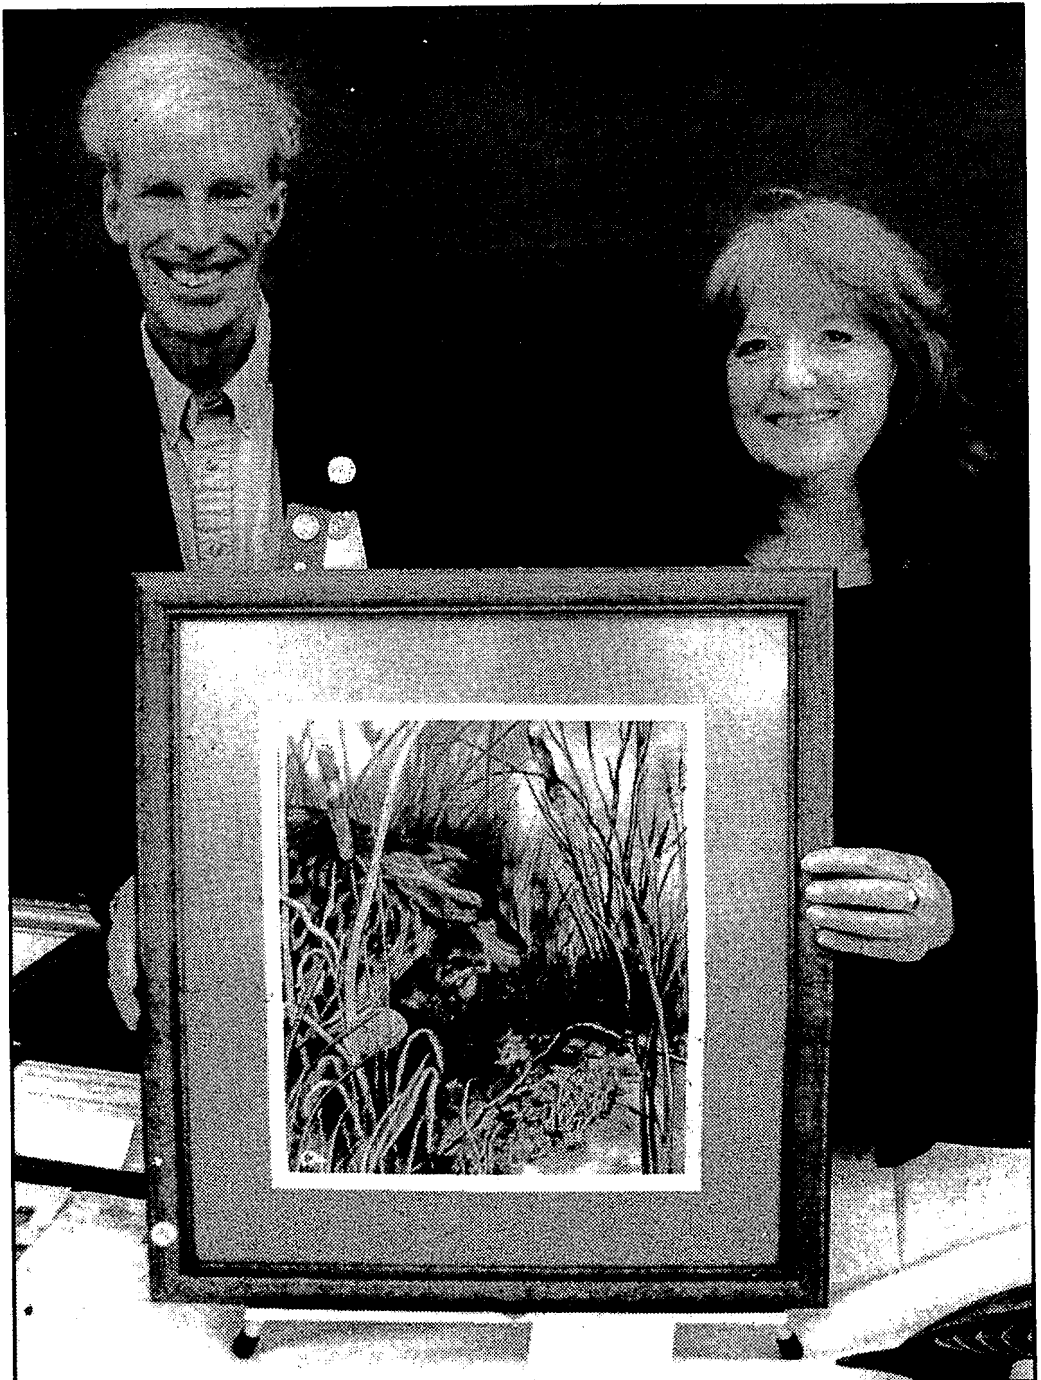

Over 380 people attended the evening, including some from Harrison Township and even one gentleman from Midland. Around 20 committee members and 18 volunteers dressed their best to coordinate the evening.

"It went extremely well. I think everybody had a great time," said Myers. "The auctioneer was great. The selection was wonderful. Everything went quite well."

The local DU chapter will be forwarding over $85,000 on to the National Ducks Unlimited. Myers said this is the most ever raised at the banquet and auction.

"Last year we raised just under $79,000," he remembers. "That equalled to about 300 acres of conserved and protected area. We ended that year ranked 26th in the country (out of 3,500 chapters), which gave us access to some great items for the auction."

The featured auction item was an original wildlife scene by Clarkston's own Terry Tracy, owner of La Petite Gallery and featured artist for the evening. The piece depicts a quiet, gentle duck hidden among the reeds and cattails of a wetland.

"I'm just thrilled with the privilege to do this," said Tracy, who got her inspiration while visiting a wetland area just off Dixie Highway. "It's a great opportunity to be able to share all this with people. I paint things that I enjoy seeing so other people can enjoy them.

"I like that DU does things to conserve nature and the streams. A lot of people think they're just duck hunters, but they do so much more."

Myers and the DU banquet committee learned about Tracy through members Herb and Judy Bauer of Ortonville. The Bauers had recently purchased four of Tracy's paintings and were excited by the quality and workmanship.

"They told Chuck and he came in the gallery to see some of my pieces," explained Tracy. "I told him I had been involved in DU while living up north, and that

Manleys celebrate 50 years

April 12, 1955-2005: My father Ed Manley met my mother Janet Burt at Lincoln Junior High School in the 1950's. Janet was a cheerleader and he was a football player.

My parents continued their relationship through Pontiac Central High School. They were married on April 12, 1955.

Ed worked a couple odd jobs to support Janet and my older sister Cathy, who came along within a year of their marriage. In 1960, he joined the Pontiac Fire Department. Shortly after they had three more daughters, Pat, Beth and Susan.

The couple moved to Clarkston and enjoyed the small town atmosphere. In their long years in Clarkston, Janet became employed at Pontiac State Bank and Ed worked on the Clarkston Planning Commission. They built two homes and loved living in Cranberry Lake Estates.

Ed also coached his three younger daughters in softball for three years. All four daughters graduated from Clarkston High School.

In 1985, both Ed and Janet retired - Ed as a fire captain from Pontiac Fire Department and Janet from Pontiac State Bank. They decided to move to Houghton Lake. By that time, they had three grandchildren and more on the way.

In 1990, sick of the harsh cold winters, they moved to Florida. During their 11 years in Florida, Ed worked at Lemon Bay Golf Club and golfed almost every day.

Missing their grandchildren, who had grown to 10 along with two great-grandchildren, they moved back to Michigan in 2001 and bought a condo in Holly and life seemed right.

Soon after their move, Ed had shoulder and hip replacement surgery. We were just getting him up and about when Janet went in for a little skin graft on her leg. The next morning, she had a major heart attack.

After a triple-bypass, and many months of recovery, Ed and Janet are back on their feet. The are back enjoying their grandchildren.

Ed and Janet's family is planning a July, 50th wedding anniversary party to celebrate all their years together.

Church must represent God, not polls

In recent days, the Roman Catholic Church has received a new pope to lead them. Many aspects of the death of Pope John Paul II and the appointment of Pope Benedict VI were widely reported in the media.

It was refreshing to see the secular media report so thoroughly on what was happening in the religious community. Unfortunately, many of the news outlets carried side stories with commentaries on the future of the church based upon recent political developments.

These reports gave the impression that future decisions of the church on theology and practice were open to popular discussion and opinion. Often, even Catholic people were interviewed to get their opinion on the church's stand on cultural issues.

Certainly it is reasonable to expect a difference of opinion on the issues facing the Christian church. Unfortunately, what was often lost was the reason the church should come to its conclusions on contemporary issues. Whether it is the Catholic Church or any religious community, we need to always remember the moral influence of the church should never be based upon reason or cultural trends alone, but upon the fact that as believers in God, we are here to influence the world from God's perspective and not man's perspective.

As a protestant Christian, my practice of the Christian faith is often different than that practiced by the Catholic Church. I am a married clergy who does not have a problem with the practice of family planning and contraception. Although I have a different practice, my conclusions have come from the same desire: the desire to please God and live a life based on God's expectations and not my own. People of faith must always remember that, for us, the world in which we live is but a shadow of something much greater.

Our belief in God and eternal things often puts us at odds with contemporary society. We stand as an alternative and also as a pillar to the contemporary society that is often practicing newly found ideas and experiences. One only has to look at recent history to see the great destruction that has come from the influence of secular thinking versus the influence of godly living and tradition.

Adolf Hitler, Joseph Stalin and many other despots came to power with the affirmation of many in the intellectual community. We often express great amazement of how wars and ethnic cleansing have taken place with the idea that it would never happen if people were only educated and informed. History has proven otherwise. We need to understand the role of the church is not to speak from a "godly authority," but to bring the influence of heaven to our world.

You may be thinking, "But haven't religious people and religion been used as a basis for evil?" I would say that is absolutely true. When we have allowed ourselves to become a part of the contemporary debate from an earthly perspective rather than a heavenly perspective, one can easily become a tool for the purposes of man.

That is why the church must maintain a visible and influential place in the community, not representing a personal opinion, but always striving to represent God's opinion. We must be in the debate, but separate from the system; always seeing ourselves as ambassadors of heaven and not agents of contemporary systems.

Anytime the church has lost sight of this heavenly calling, it has been drawn into the wrong side or been diluted of its power and mandate from God.

Let us pray...

The National Day of Prayer in Clarkston began with a prayer breakfast at St. Daniel's Cushing Center.

Cub Scouts from Den 1, Pack 341 conducted the opening flag ceremony and led in the Pledge of Allegiance. Special music accompanied breakfast, which was followed by a "concert of prayer" led by individuals praying for specific segments of the community, including: State Rep. John Stakoe, government; Optimist Club member Mike Blicher, community; Pastor Marty Hall, churches; Clarkston Middle School teacher Randy Goldsworthy, schools; CMS student Kendra Lamphier, youth and families; nurse Patty Hester, workplaces; and retired Army Reserve Sgt. Glen Farrell, armed services.

May 5 continued with several community prayer meetings, including a noon gathering at the Independence Township Hall flagpole, organized by Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection had open doors for prayer throughout much of the day, and Clarkston Community Church hosted an evening video simulcast featuring nationally-known evangelical speakers.

was that."

Myers said he spoke with Tracy this past fall about creating an original piece for the auction. He added that everyone was thrilled with the result.

"Those at the auction were able to sign up for limited edition DU banquet prints that night," said Myers. "Everyone I spoke to was pleased with the painting."

As the featured artist for the evening, Tracy received a membership with DU and was able to display some of her other wildlife pieces.

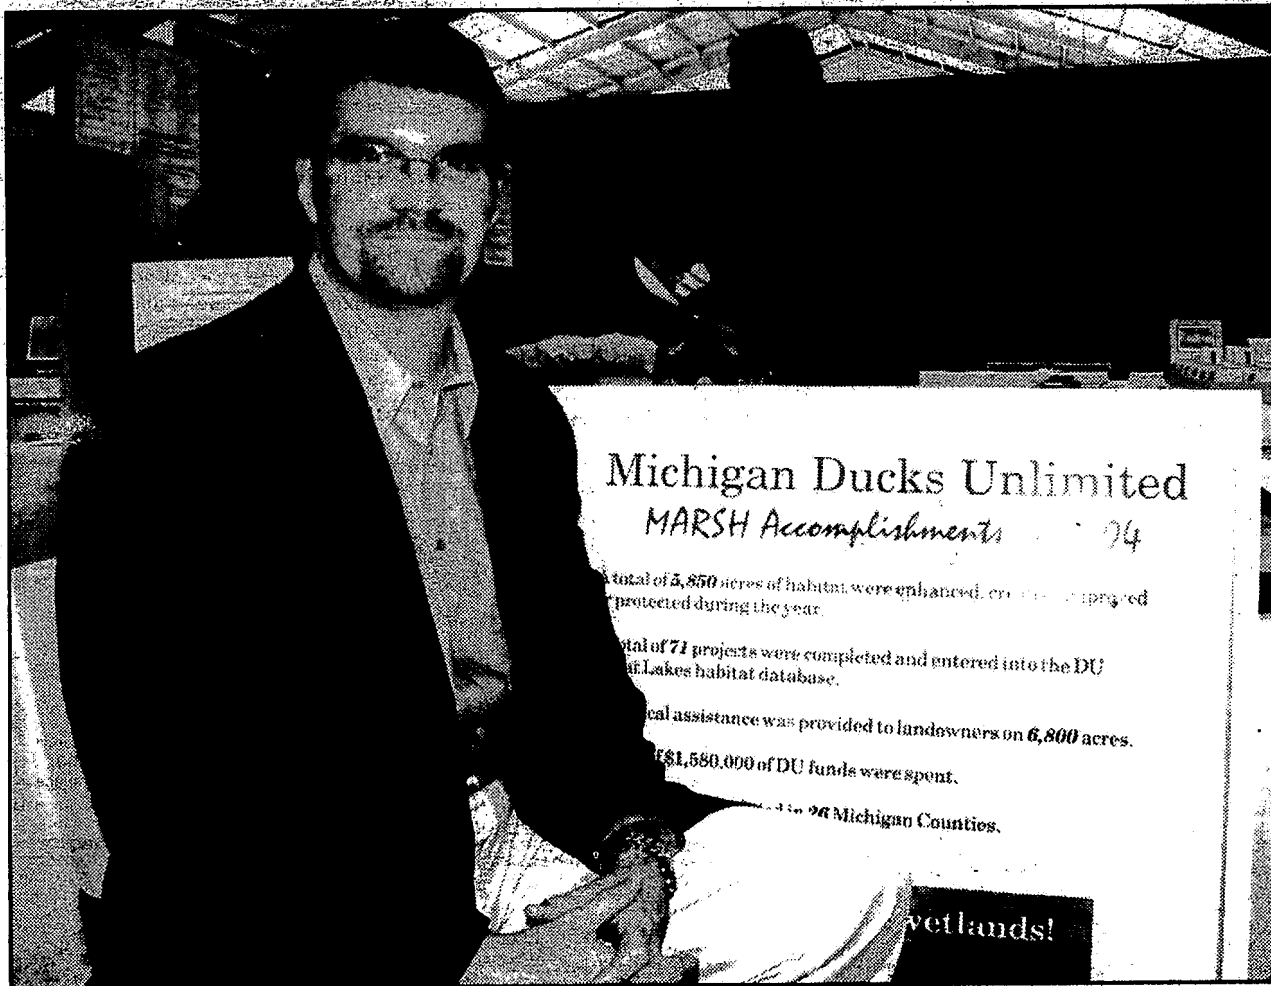

"Who better to enjoy my wildlife work than those who support Ducks Unlimited?" she stated.

With so many unique and unexpected items up for auction, such as a jeweled duck-head necklace from Tierra's Fine Jewelers, donations and pricing went high. The top selling item at the auction was a limited edition engraved Ruger Red Label shotgun, one of only 100 made. The item auctioned for $3,350.

"This was definitely our best year ever," concluded Myers.

Myers explained that of the more than $85,000 donated to nationals, every penny will go towards waterfowl and wetland conservation. Some of the money will definitely come back to Michigan for projects; however, nothing local is currently planned.

Ducks Unlimited has members in the United States, Canada and Mexico. The organization is based in Memphis, Tenn. For more information, please go online to www.ducks.org or call Chuck Myers at 248-625-4151.

Bret Plasters (left), Ducks Unlimited regional director for southeast Michigan, assisted with the evening's activities. The North Oakland County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited annual banquet and auction featured several unique items, like this beautiful duck necklace (above) donated by Tierra's Fine Jewelers. ## Program to highlight African mission work Area residents can "visit Africa" without leaving town at a special presentation on the Democratic Republic of the Congo on Saturday, May 14, at 6 p.m. at St. Daniel Catholic Church's Cushing Center.

Presenter Dr. Anne-Marie Kupé will show images and talk about the current situation in the Congo. Through its tithing program, parishioners have been helping to support orphans, poor schoolchildren, malnourished and sick youth in the Kikwit area of the Congo in recent years.

"The religious woman in charge of this effort is desperate and at a loss on how to cope with the extreme need with the very limited resources available," Dr. Kupé said. "As the country's general situation continues to deteriorate because of political anarchy and civil war, the number of youth needing help has increased significantly."

Attendees also will learn how they can help meet these children's basic needs. A spaghetti dinner will be served.

"We invite the community to stop by for dinner and fellowship while hearing about the Congo and the important work being conducted," Dr. Kupé said.

For more information, call Drs. Anne-Marie or Joachim Kupé, 248-620-7245; or the parish's Christian Service Office, 248-625-4583.

The MOMS Club of Clarkston is hosting a Mom2Mom Sale on May 21 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. at Clarkston United Methodist Church.

This is a great way to buy and sell gently-used clothing and other child-related items such as strollers, cribs, bouncy seats, high chairs, maternity items, furniture, etc.

Tables are now available to rent for $15. All the proceeds benefit SCAMP. Sellers rent tables to display gently-used clothing, toys and other items their family has outgrown. Shoppers are able to purchase the items at steeply discounted prices.

For more information, please contact Cara Kail at 248-625-1753.

Clarkston High School students Dani Angeli and Mary Swantek are organizing a local "Miracle Mile" walkathon to benefit St. Jude's Research Hospital.

The walk is scheduled from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 21, beginning and ending in Depot Park.

The students are recruiting both participants and donors for the event, citing the many discoveries made at St. Jude's to benefit children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. Doctors around the world send their toughest cases and most vulnerable patients to St. Jude's, and all patients accepted are treated without regard to the family's ability to pay.

For more information on the event, call the Clarkston High School Student Council at 248-623-3040 between 1:40 p.m. - 2:40 p.m. weekdays, Dani Angeli at 248-701-5499 or Mary Swantek at 248-620-1402.

The Clarkston Community Historical Society is making plans for their third annual Cemetery Walk, from 7 p.m. - 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 21.

The event is designed as a unique way for participants to experience "living history" as they are guided through Lakeview Cemetery and come face to face with some of Clarkston's earliest settlers.

This year, seven actors will be posted at various gravesites, playing a different character from Clarkston's history. Historical characters include Eurastus Stiff, Peter Addis, Adeline Petty, Horatio Foster, Eleanor King Dunston and Lena Hammond Jossman, with a special surprise guest.

After the tour, participants may stop by the CCHS tent for light refreshments and a chance to listen to "Wakes and Weddings" as they sing American patriotic and folk songs.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for students (children age four and under are free of charge). For ticket information, call the CCHS office at 248-922-0270.

Enjoy a "Wild Ride in the Countryside" on May 22. The North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservancy, with over 1,000 acres under preservation, offers a unique opportunity to visit some of its sites and learn about the benefits to our community.

During the afternoon tour, collect playing cards at each stop to fill out a poker hand. The winning hand receives $300!

The tour begins at noon in the courtyard of Jaca Fix on the corner of Andersonville and White Lake roads. Tickets are $37 including dinner.

For reservations or more information, please call NOHLC at 248-846-6547.

The Clarkston Jaycees have announced the Independence Township Fourth of July Parade theme — "Independence Through the Decades" — and invite people in the community to create celebrations of independence based on their favorite decade.

The parade will be at 10 a.m. on Monday, July 4 in downtown Clarkston. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place; best use of theme; and judge's choice. Parade entrants are asked to make a donation (minimum $10) to help offset the costs of the parade.

Immediately following the parade, join Independence Township Parks and Recreation's annual "Festival of Fun" at Clintonwood Park.

The Jaycees are looking for volunteers to help on parade day. Those interested in being a part of tradition or would like a parade entry application are asked to contact Parade Chairman Tim Sievers at 248-975-6313 or tassievers@hotmail.com.
