Staying cool in the Clarkston area is easier than ever thanks to two new pools at Deer Lake Athletic Club.

"I wanted to make it a country club atmosphere. (The new pools) were very expensive to (build), but it was money well spent," said Forest Milzow, owner of the Deer Lake Athletic Club.

On the south side of the club, overlooking Deer Lake, the two pools add a distinctive flourish to the club's classic design.

Inside a glass greenhouse-like structure, sits the Olympic-sized pool. The housing of the large pool features retractable panels which automatically close if rain is detected by roof top sensors.

The larger pool's 2400-square-foot brother lies hidden from traffic on White Lake Road and features a walk-in wading area, a splash fountain and a water slide churning out 600 gallons of water per second.

Independence Township officials are hoping a private developer will step forward to save the old McCord farmstead located on 2.23 acres on Pine Knob Road.

Currently, the home and barn are the property of Independence Township. Originally, the property belonged to the Stickney-McCord families. Janet Stickney McCord sold the property to Stonewall Farms, LLC, which then transferred the property to the township with one condition - a PUD agreement was drafted requiring the township to restore and use the home for "public use Research by Independence Township Planner Richard Carlisle answered several questions about the much-debated Pine Knob scenic easements - while at the same time spurred various opinions from interested parties.

Under the direction of township trustees, Carlisle investigated the many aspects of the Pine Knob scenic easements including their locations and the development possibilities of the property. He presented his findings during closed session at the July 5 township board meeting.

The scenic easements in question are located on the Pine Knob Golf Course just off Sashabaw Road and I-75 where AAC Acquisitions hopes to construct 150 single-family detached condominiums priced between $400,000 and $1 million.

In his findings, released in a memo dated June 14, Carlisle confirms that the scenic easement drawings presented by AAC Acquisitions "accurately

CVP auditions set

The Clarkston Village Players are having open auditions for the comedy "Don't Dress For Dinner," by Marc Camoletti, adapted by Robin Hawdon.

In this hysterical farce, Bernard plans a weekend with his chic Parisian mistress in a French farmhouse. He arranges for a cordon bleu cook to prepare gourmet delights, packs his wife Jacqueline off to her mother's and even invites his best friend to provide the alibi.

Comedy ensues throughout the evening.

Roles are available for three men and three women, ages ranging from mid-20s on up. Auditions will consist of cold readings from the script.

Auditions are at the Depot Theater on July 17 from 2-4 p.m., and on July 19 from 7-9 p.m. The Depot Theater is located at 4861 White Lake Road.

COG drive strong

Citizens for Orderly Growth kicked their petition drive into high gear over the Fourth of July holiday.

According to member Neil Wallace, COG volunteers set up a table at the Fourth of July parade in downtown Clarkston and circulated with petitions among spectators. COG also placed a table at the Festival of Fun in Clintonwood Park.

"We had a table at Morgan's and people were lining up to sign," said Wallace. "We collected quite a few signatures at the festival as well."

The goal of the petition drive is to force township officials to place a proposed millage on the November ballot.

The millage proposal would allow the township to issue a one-time tax for a period of one year between 2006 and 2010 to raise a legal defense fund. The fund could then be used to deal with developers challenging the township's master plan.

COG has until July 29 to collect signatures; however, Wallace said no count of those gathered has yet been made.

In addition to the petition drive, COG also submitted the petition and millage proposal language to Independence Township officials. Wallace said the intent is for township attorneys to begin reviewing the language so no delay will occur if the issue is placed on the November ballot.

Faith Baptist Church of Waterford is hosting a golf outing to benefit Brandon teacher Lisa Hetherington in her battle with cancer. A shotgun start is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on August 27 at Liberty Golf Course in Clarkston. Hetherington is fighting a grade three brain tumor and will require surgery with treatment after.

Tickets for the event are $100 each and include a round of golf, a cart and dinner following the outing. To purchase a ticket or to sponsor the outing call Ken Smith, of Smith's Disposal in Clarkston, at 248-933-2465.

Trip to Japan memorable for all

BY HEATHER CLEMENT

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Ten Japanese language students honed their skills in a trip that covered three locations in two weeks on the island of Japan. The Clarkston students and Sensei Barbara Rice, Japanese teacher at Clarkston High School, began the adventure on June 27.

The first leg of the trip was the 2005 Expo in Aichi Prefecture. This year's theme was clean air and focused on what countries around the world are doing to help the environment.

"It showed what other countries were doing to become more ecologically sound," said Rice.

There were exhibits of mammoth elephants, a mummy that showed how mummification can be used to help in the future, pianos that were powered with water and light hieroglyphics that are the cameras of tomorrow.

The expo also featured food from around the world. "Although the dishes had a Japanese flair," said Rice, "they were doctored for the Japanese palette."

The second leg of the trip was three days at a Japanese temple.

"The temple was fantastic," said Rice. "It was in the middle of old Kyoto and all around us were temples."

Rice said the temple priest cooked for the students everyday and everyone learned how the Japanese conserve water through their bathing process. The Japanese shower first, then take a hot bath. The clean water from the bath is then used to wash the laundry.

The last leg of the trip was spent at each students home-stay. Home-stay is an exchange program where students from one country, Japan, come to America and stay at a student's home. Later in the year, the American student stays at the Japanese students' home.

Clarkston High School's sister school in Japan is Ichigawa Higashi. Last March, Japanese students stayed with students from Clarkston.

"This was an opportunity for the students to see how they live. They even went to their school," said Rice. "I think the students enjoyed meeting up with their friends. They had an opportunity to see how busy the Japanese students are."

The Clarkston students said the best time was the time spent at the temple.

"I really enjoyed staying at the Buddhist temple," 17-year-old Brennan Haase, a senior said. "It was the only time we stayed as a whole group and Kyoto is really beautiful."

Other points of interest for the students were Kinkakuji, the golden temple, where deer would try to steal their food; Maiko, a Geisha in Mt. Fuji; and Japan Disneyland.

"There is a lot more nature preserved there, more than in America and it is really, really beautiful," 16-year-old Michelle Pascoe, a senior, said.

She added that Japan Disneyland is the size of Disneyland's Magic Kingdom.

"Everything there is smaller and the roads are really scary because they are so narrow," said Pascoe.

Haase said he had a great time and two weeks was just enough to be away from home.

"There were many tears shed at the airport when we all had to finally say good-bye. The trip had such an impact on me. I mean, even though we live on opposite sides of the world, and eat different foods, we really aren't as different as the media would like to make it seem," 16-year-old Kimberly VanderWheel, a senior, said "I made some amazing friends on the trip and I know I'll never forget them."

Getting into the 'swing' of it

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If seeing is believing, then hearing must be a close nostalgic second.

The Stardust Swing Band, a 13-piece big band with vocals, brings the music of the 1930s and 40s to Senior Appreciation Night at Concerts in the Park.

Songs like "String of Pearls," "Moonlight Serenade," and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" are on the group's play list.

Band member James Dignan discussed the importance of performing the songs as originally written.

"If the audience closes their eyes, we'll sound just the same as Glen Miller's orchestra. They'll be able to follow every single note and it'll sound like you just played a 45 RPM record," said Dignan.

The band has toured southeastern Michigan for the last three years and is composed of 14 members from the MetroDetroit area.

"We're trying to reproduce the music that was so popular in the 1930s and 40's as it was intended to be played. It's like preserving a '56 Chevy... this was the music that carried the country through World War II," said Dignan.

Dignan also said swing dancers typically show up making the evening fun to take part in, as well as to watch.

The Concerts in the Park series concludes July 22 at Depot Park. The opening act plays from 6:30-6:55 p.m. followed by the main act who performs until 9 p.m.

Barbershop opens Depot

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Music aficionados looking to escape the loud bass beats or screeching guitars of contemporary music may want to visit Depot Park July 15 for some classic vocal harmony.

Filling the Local Talent Spotlight at 6:30 p.m. is the Pontiac-Waterford Big Chief Barbershop Chorus. Consisting of 58 men from the Oakland County area, the chorus performs mostly classical barbershop music, but does sing a variety of songs.

"We play a good variety of basic historical barbershop music of 1900-1940s," said member Jack Teuber. "We play something by the Beatles often."

Member Walt DiNeo discussed the chorus' ability to adapt modern pieces.

"Arrangements may be done to bring modern stuff to the four-part harmony of barbershop. It's hard to put a date on our music. We do older stuff, but also sing songs by groups like the Beach Boys," said DiNeo.

Teuber said songs like "Ain't Misbehavin'" and "Don't Blame Me" should fit in nicely with The Stardust Swing Band who follow.

While many members sing only in the chorus, others perform in quartets as well. The quartets within the chorus are B-Natural, Celebration, Four-Wheel Drive and Jackpot.

The chorus is active in the area performing at functions across Oakland County and welcomes the community to its annual fall show held the first Saturday in November. This year's upcoming "Juke Box Classics" will feature Three Men and a Tenor.

Clarkston residents who are members of the chorus are: Bill Auquier, Walt Bachmann, Neil Braun, Walt DeNio, Tom Ford, Roger Holm, Bill Pascher, Art Ripley and Jeff Spires.

Men who enjoy singing are encouraged to stop by a rehearsal and see what the group is about. The chorus' main objective is to create wholesome fun, fellowship and good singing for men. No previous training or experience is required. Locations for practices vary throughout the year.

The Big Chief Chorus is a 501C nonprofit organization.

For more information about the Chorus, call 248-689-4052 or visit the Web site at www.bigchiefchorus.org.

$30,000 allotted for master plan updates

Five years have passed and the time has come again for Independence Township officials to review and update the master plan.

Under the recommendation of township planner Richard Carlisle, with Carlisle/Wortman Associates, Inc., the township board approved unanimously to allot $30,000 for the process.

'We will make every effort to stay below the budgeted amount.'

Dick Carlisle
Independence Twp. Planner

Carlisle estimated the cost of the process at $28,580, but suggested the board approve $30,000 "as a precaution."

"We will make every effort to stay below the budgeted amount," wrote Carlisle in his recommendation. "However, experience tells me that unexpected issues arise during the process which can affect the budget. We will keep a close watch and keep you informed."

The township is required by law to review and update the master plan every five years. With an influx of development currently happening, several board members voiced approval of handling the process now.

Road map available

Directionally-challenged individuals in Oakland County can breathe a sigh of relief—a new Oakland County road map is now the most updated and accurate street map available.

The map is a collaboration between the Oakland County general government and the Road Commission for Oakland County, who assembled the map using the Oakland County Enterprise Geographic Information System.

"By combining our resources we were able to produce a single map that is superior to those we have individually produced in the past—and we saved taxpayer money by splitting the cost," said RCOC, Board Chairman Rudy Lozano in a July 6 press release.

The public can purchase a map for $1 at the County's One Stop Shop in the Executive Office Building at the 1200 North Telegraph Road campus in Pontiac or at either RCOC administrative offices. The $1 charge is to help cover printing costs.

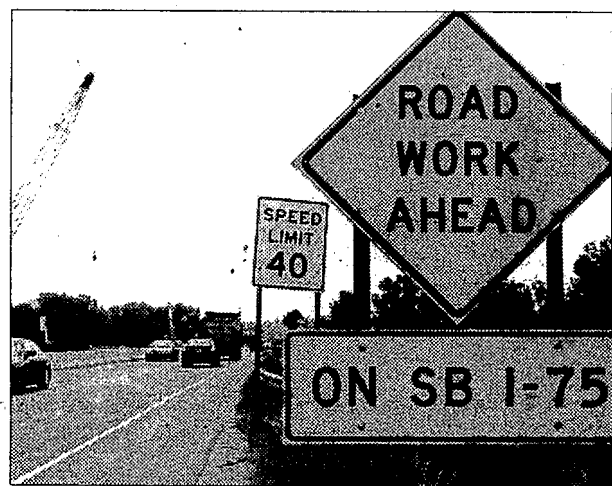

To request maps by mail, call the RCOC Clerk's office for postage costs at 248-645-2000, ext. 2290.

Maps are also purchased on-line at www.oakland.mi.us/oss.

Independence Fire Dept. adopts code

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Writer

In an attempt to keep an effective correlation between fire codes and building codes, the Independence Township Board adopted the 2003 edition of the International Fire Code at the July 5 meeting.

According to a memo from Fire Marshal Greg Olrich, the township implemented the 2000 edition of the fire code in September 2001. Simultaneously, the state of Michigan used the 2000 edition of the International Building Code.

The call for adoption of the 2003 International Fire Code came in response to Michigan's adoption of the 2003 edition of the International Building Code in 2004.

"There's not a significant change people will recognize. The building code changed a year ago and had matched the fire code section... This brings the two back in alignment," said Olrich.

In addition to adopting the fire code, minor changes were made to township ordinances that add to the fire code. Most of the changes involved updating section numbers to bring ordinances in line with the fire code.

Olrich said the one notable change added the word "private" to chapter 9, article III, dealing with open burning because some residents had challenged the township's terminology regarding burning on public and private roads.

The memo stated that the terminology was in fact restricting the department's ability to control that particular hazard.

"It became a problem when some people felt they could burn in the road or along the ditch (on private roads). This created a smoke problem hazardous to drivers," said Olrich.

Baby troubles

Before I begin regaling everyone in the Clarkston area with a witty tale of my beautiful 3-year-old, I must say my title is a little misleading - I am not having problems with "my baby."

In fact, I believe I must have one of the most agreeable 3-year-olds on the planet. Allow me to explain.

My little Ethan never fought when we took the bottle away, he dove into drinking from a cup with the grace of a swimmer. He pretty much potty trained himself. Bedtime and nap time have never been challenges.

He doesn't make messes. Never drew on my walls with crayons. Already does his chores everyday, including making his bed and feeding his guinea pigs. Helps with the laundry. And picks up all his toys every night.

He even rode through the Fourth of July parade as a 1920s paper boy, passed out candy along the route and shouted "Extra! Extra!" whenever a newspaper landed in his hot little hands.

All in all, he's a happy, energetic, talkative preschooler who listens to Mommy and Daddy.

So here's the point of the headline - he wants a baby. That's right. Of all the people I could have harping about my future child plans, my 3-year-old picks up the mantra.

"I'm going to have a baby," he tells anyone within ear shot.

"Let's go to the store and buy a baby. I have money. We can drive Daddy's pretty car."

"Kendall's mommy has a baby."

"Guess what Mommy, Dora got a baby brother AND sisier!" (For those not in the know, that would be "Dora the Explorer.")

Over and over I hear about babies. He even has a "baby radar." Any infant within 100 feet, and Ethan spots them. "Let's go see the baby."

Unfortunately, a set of his grandparents unknowingly fed the flames of my little one's "baby" fire. My own mother bought him his own "Bath-time Baby," complete with tub, washcloth and suds.

Oh what is a mother to do... ummm wait, don't answer that...

Unusual customs and superstitions distinguish Victorian-era funerals

I recently spent several days researching the elaborate rituals once associated with early funerals during the mid- to late-1800s.

This is the subject of the Clarkston Heritage Museum's newest exhibit "Death On The Millpond: Clarkston Accidents, Tragedies & Losses." This display addresses some of the more unusual aspects of Victorian funerals. But there were many things I didn't have the chance to include in the exhibit, and I thought they might be of interest here.

Although the death of a family member or loved one is certainly just as tragic now as it was then, there are differences in how that loss was addressed.

In 1776, the year our country was founded, over half the population was under the age of 16. At that time, it was not uncommon for a woman to have 10 or 12 children, many of whom would die at an early age.

For parents, the loss of a child was an expected experience and many children were not given a real name until they reached the age of one year. Even so, families saved what little money could be spared to insure for a proper funeral and a post-mortem photograph was often taken of the deceased child. It may sound gruesome to us now, but it was likely that this would have been the only picture of the child, since only the wealthy could afford to be photographed on a regular basis.

The departed was commonly represented as though they were peacefully sleeping rather than dead, although at other times the body was propped up to look alive. Sometimes the other children were seated next to or holding the deceased child.

In addition, jewelry was often made from a lock of hair taken from the deceased. The hair was intricately knotted or braided and then placed in a brooch or locket. It was also elaborately woven for use not only in jewelry but in artwork as well. Sometimes, entire pictures were created from the hair of different family members!

Another difference and a peculiar concern in the 19th century was the fear of being buried alive. Medicine being what it was, it happened that sometimes a doctor would declare someone dead, only to have them awaken during the viewing period or burial. This was such a widespread concern that even Mary Todd Lincoln, presidential wife and an educated woman, declared in her final instructions that "I desire that my body shall remain for two days with the lid not screwed down."

It was because of this fear that the coffin alarm was developed. A bell was hung on the headstone with a chain that ran down into the coffin and was attached to a ring around the finger of the deceased. This way, if you woke up and found yourself accidentally buried, you could pull on the chain and ring the bell in the cemetery!

Of course, it was expected that the family would follow the rules of etiquette for a proper period of mourning. Typically, the widow would wear black for a year and a day, and some of the items worn by the mourner were rooted in superstition.

A black protective veil was always worn over the face when the widow was out in public. One reason is that it would hide the fact that she had been crying, as it was improper to see her tears. It was also believed that the spirit of the departed would hover around those that they had loved. If a passerby looked directly into the face of the mourner, the spirit might attach itself to that person. So the veil acted as a protection for the wearer and others.

It was for a similar reason that mourners dressed all in black. It was believed that the departed might try to return to their loved ones, and that by wearing black, the mourner became invisible to the deceased. It must have sometimes seemed as if a family was always in mourning, given the high mortality rates back then. Imagine what it must have been like during the Civil War, which resulted in approximately 600,000 casualties. In the state of Alabama alone there were over 80,000 widows wearing black. Today, it is hard to fully understand what a difficult and sad time that must have been for our nation.

This fascinating subject is explored in more detail at the new exhibit of the Clarkston Heritage Museum located in the Independence Township Library. Stop by and meet "the lady in black," view a large collection of Victorian hair jewelry or check out the exhibits detailing some of the tragic events and losses in Clarkston's history.

Thanks to vendors for Festival of Fun

To the Editor,

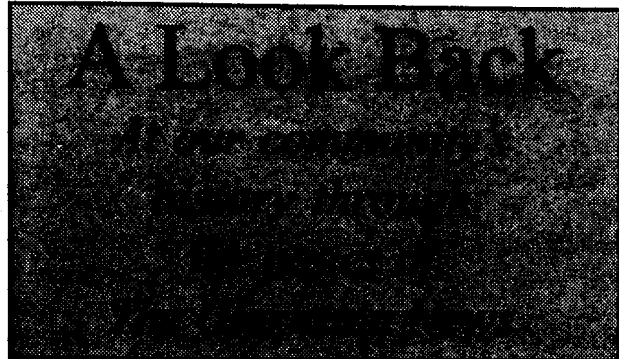

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department would like to thank the Festival of Fun food vendors who provided a variety of tasty treats for the crowd in Clintonwood Park on the Fourth of July.

These vendors also donated a share of their profits to a charity or non-profit organization. The participants were: Beach Blast Natural Blends - Clarkston Rotary Club, Fresh 'n' Tasty - Fischer Center for Alzheimers, Heavenly Scent Café and Catering - First Church Praise and Worship, Ice Cream Express - Independence Township Therapeutic Recreation, The Lemon Maid - American Cancer Society, Michigan Sno - Independence Township Therapeutic Recreation and American Cancer Society, The Nut Shell - Genesys Hospice, Roly Poly Sandwiches - Early Intervention Center for Autism, and Sweet Success - Whaley Children's Center. Thank you also to the volunteers from the Clarkston Area Lions Club and the Senior Center who donated their time to raise money for their organizations.

15 YEARS AGO (1990)

• Change of guard in top board post: After ten years of service, Janet Thomas has been replaced as Clarkston Board of Education president.

The board unanimously approved John Needham as president of the board, effective immediately.

The move was initiated by Thomas, who quickly nominated Needham for the position when it came time for election of officers July 9. The board is required to reelect officers at the start of each school year.

•Big band music in free concert: Ice cream and lemonade will be sold during the free concert in Clarkston's Depot Park Friday, July 13.

The 14-piece Executives will be playing romantic, nostalgic music with big band theme songs from Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Les Brown and more.

25 YEARS AGO (1980)

•Layoffs loom for township employees: Economists call it the ripple effect. It refers to dropping a stone into a body of water and the results waves that grow wider and wider.

At the center of the present situation is the state of the economy, and one of the latest victims of the broadening waves is Independence Township government employees.

Layoffs for township government employees are expected to continue in light of state shared revenue budget cuts, according to Christopher Rose, township clerk.

50 YEARS AGO (1955)

•Goodwill Trucks Here Monday: Two-thirds of all materials collected at Goodwill Industries are picked up during the one-third of the year devoted to spring house-cleaning. Although this creates a great deal of activity in the Goodwill workshops, during these few months, it also means that Goodwill Industries is hard pressed to keep all of their employees working full time during the balance of the year.

•Industrial Picnic Held Saturday: One of the largest industrial picnics in Michigan-GMC Truck and Coach Division's annual summer outing-will be staged Saturday, July 15, at Walled Lake Amusement Park.

More than 30,000 GMC employees and their families are expected to attend the fun-studded event.

Reporting on suicide

My dad was never one to shirk from responsibility. The owners of this newspaper are not prone to shirking responsibility. So with all this stand-upidness around me, I'll say this: We made a mistake. It is my fault, I should have caught and changed an article which ran in The Oxford Leader and Lake Orion Review newspapers.

The story ran a few weeks ago. It was about the suicide of a 19-year-old Oxford woman in Orion's Friendship Park. Simply put, our story should have stated only a little bit more than the previous sentence. Sadly, we erred in judgement and ran more of the details than were necessary.

While we never ran the woman's name, we ran information that hurt an already hurting family. We didn't need all the details. We are a community newspaper and should have shown leadership, should have shown some empathy. We did neither.

Even though our chain of community newspapers (The Leader, Review, Clarkston News and The Citizen in Ortonville/Goodrich area) covers a nice chunk of real estate, we are lucky in that we don't have to cover suicide often. Every time it comes up, it seems it is a new situation. Up until now, there has been no guide for editors and reporters to turn to.

According to the World Health Organization, "The majority of people who consider suicide are ambivalent. They are not sure they want to die. One of the many factors that may lead a vulnerable individual to suicide could be publicity about suicides in the media. How the media report on suicide cases can influence other suicides . . ."

" . . .Suicide is often newsworthy and the media have the right to report it. However, the suicides most likely to attract the attention of the media are those that depart from the usual patterns. In fact, it is striking that cases presented in the media are almost invariably atypical and uncommon and to represent them as typical further perpetuates misinformation about suicide. Clinicians and researchers acknowledge that it is not news coverage of suicide, per se, but certain types of news coverage, that increase suicidal behavior in vulnerable populations. Con-

rush
don't rush
me

versely, certain types of coverage may help to prevent imitation of the suicidal behavior."

Special situations aside (celebrity deaths, homicide-suicides or suicide pacts), here's what our editorial-types will consider when reporting/writing about suicide.

Keep the stories relatively brief.
Do not place suicide stories on the front page.
Do not sensationalize suicides.
Do not romanticize suicides or portray suicides as heroic.

Do not go into great detail about the methods and do not show detailed pictures of the locations where the suicides occurred.

Do not say suicides occur because of one event (suicides rarely occur because of one event).

Be careful with the wordings of headlines.
Be careful with all the words used in the story.
Do not use the terms "successful suicide" or "committed suicide." Use the term "died by suicide."

Do not use the term "failed suicide." Use "attempted suicide."

Do not use the word "epidemic" in suicide stories. If suicide rates are rising, use the word "rising." If they are falling, use the word "falling."

Offer suicide prevention information to the public with the story.

Always give the number for the National Hotline Network, 1-800-SUICIDE. Let people know that anyone who is suicidal can call this number 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Reporters should also contact the American Association of Suicidology and the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention for more information when covering suicides.

* * *

I guess the bottom-line is, though suicides are newsworthy and while we report newsworthy stories, we can and should exercise common sense. We need to ask ourselves . . .

- What good will come with this story?
- What harm could be caused by this story?
- How can we report a story without causing unnecessary harm?

A smattering of shower-taking thoughts

Observation: Grass grows faster at night. The lawn always looks like it needs mowing in the morning.

People who use washcloths in the shower to clean their ears often push water into their brain which leads to sloshy thinking. This unknown and unproven fact occurred to me while I was pushing water in my ear with my finger.

The symptoms of sloshy thinkers aren't evident until after the age of 21, and peak between ages 35 and 50. The very first 'slosh' sign is when a person announces for public office. You can bet that person has pushed some moisture into a brain cell.

The degree of washcloth pressure can be determined by the office being sought.

A small town candidate seeking public office is in the very initial stages. Those seeking terms in state capitals have been more severely affected by the push of water into the ear channel cavity.

But the seekers of Washington seats you can bet have sloshed most of all. How else do you account for the legislation introduced and sometimes passed that does so much for contributors and so little for the common man?

Why do dogs, like ours and son Jim's, like to lick shower water that seeps through the door? Come on, fellow sloshy thinkers, come up with an answer.

Weeds are necessary living things, like mosquitos, moles and mildew, given us to care for by Mother Nature. There must be some do-gooder organization trying to coerce us into allowing them to grow naturally and destroy whatever we, not nature, planted.

By the way, have you noticed the fewer number of snakes, toads and frogs this year?

A few weeks ago an adult woodchuck (Not being familiar with a woodchuck's life-style I can't be sure in calling it a mother) and a young 'un, emerged from under our deck, perched itself on a stone, and looked over our yard landscape for a long time. Must have been looking for a larger condo, 'cause I haven't seen it in weeks. I did notice Shayna looked heavier.

Love pecan pie. Grocers have a way of knowing when I'm coming and put these pies in every aisle to trap me. Regardless of my diet commitment and personal promises, I usually give in when the price seems real good. Such was the case recently, $6.99 for a pecan pie. Wow!

The price was the only thing good about it. Well, the pecans were good. I committed to eating one small sliver, then offered some to Shayna. She licked dish and lips for 20 minutes. Of course, I have to watch her diet, too, so it took four days of rationing the pie, which was interrupted by vanilla ice cream, corn flakes, table scraps and pieces of coffee cake. Typical dog's life food.

Somewhere months ago, DTE Energy estimated energy use on a building on my property. For at least three months I got a statement, minus envelope, showing a negative balance. My latest bill came with twenty-six cents due.

They promised to add a 2% penalty if I didn't pay the balance by July 11, 2005. Let's see, 2% of 26c is a half penny, a stamp is 37c, my check-writing time is painful and they have already spent more than 26c on the billing. The only way DTE can come out ahead is rebilling, so by not paying this bill I'm helping them and me. What a world!

How would I like to do something that isn't like this?

Still the 'Big Chief'

Clarkston man still singing strong after 62 years

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Much has changed over the last 60 years as people and places come and go, leaving some to wonder if anything stays the same.

Through all the years, the Oakland County area has relied on just one thing – Bill Pascher will be singing in the Pontiac-Waterford Big Chief Chorus.

After celebrating 62 years of performing this past April, the chorus is glad to have 90-year-old Pascher of Clarkston on stage singing his heart out just as he has the last seven decades.

Pascher is the only remaining founder of the chorus which began with a small group of employees from the GMC Truck and Coach Engineering Building on South Boulevard in Pontiac.

"We'd have a gathering at the lobby at the noon hour everyday and there was enough singers so that it gravitated to a harmony group and we sang any old songs we could think of," said Pascher.

Granted a charter as the Pontiac chapter of the Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) on April 17, 1943, the group was known as the Merry Motormen.

Pascher credited a singer from the Oakland chapter with encouraging the men to organize after hearing about their lunch time performances.

Over the years, the chapter's size varied from 15-120 members and the name changed in 1998 to the Pontiac-Waterford Big Chief Barbershop Chorus. Throughout that time, Pascher gained statewide recognition for his service and participation in the chorus.

In 1972, Pascher was accepted as a member of the "Sage Lake Roundup," an exclusive club of 55 barbershop singers from around the country.

In 1974, Pascher was elected to SPEBSQSA Hall of Fame for the State of Michigan (pioneer district). The SPEBSQSA is now known as the Harmony Society of America.

Most recently, the Pontiac-Waterford chapter recognized Pascher as "Barbershopper of the Month" for May 2005.

Over the years, Pascher attended 53 international barbershop competitions as both a performer and audience member.

Pascher also dedicated time building sets and painting scenery for many of the Big Chief Chorus' annual performances.

Pascher continues to perform and attend weekly practices. Today, he believes barbershop music is in good shape in the area.

"The Pontiac-Waterford chapter realized that we were being overlooked or ignored and given a low place in the order of things for young people to come out. That's been overcome and to a great extent is coming around," said Pascher. "It's not just old men singing old songs. That used to be the perception. Our annual show this November will have a lot of doo-wop."

Bill Pascher returns to the stage July 15 in Depot Park during Concerts in the Park.

Come on out to 'Senior Appreciation Night' at Depot this Friday

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Too often, the people who created so many of the activities communities enjoy are forgotten as age and time pass.

The July 15 Concerts in the Park program will change all that with Senior Appreciation Night, an acknowledgment and message of thanks to seniors whose participation allowed the event to flourish for the past 26 years.

"We're taking this opportunity to thank our senior citizens who have supported our concerts for years," said Chamber Event Planner Terri Bendes. "We're trying to make this an evening put together for them. They're the ones who brought out their children who attend now as adults... It's a multigenerational thing."

Bendes explained that the entertainment was chosen to coincide specifically with music the older patrons grew up enjoying.

The Big Chief Chorus opens with barbershop tunes, followed by The Stardust Swing Band playing music of the 1930s and 1940s.

All attendees 65 years and older will receive a special gift, one correlating to women and the other practical for men. Other gifts include a discount coupon book to use around Clarkston and a raffle ticket for a gift basket.

The remaining Concerts in the Park Series dates are July 15 and 22 at Depot Park in downtown Clarkston. The Local Talent Spotlight runs from 6:30-6:55 p.m. followed by the main act from 7-9 p.m.

Making significant strides for breast cancer

BY HEATHER CLEMENT
Clarkston News Writer

Not all went well for two Springfield Township women as they began a journey that would bind them as friends forever.

Katie Anderson, of the North Oakland Headwaters Land Conservatory, and Donna Clancy, executive director of SCAMP, left on June 9 for the Breast Cancer 3-day - a walk for breast cancer awareness that became three of the most grueling and significant days of their lives.

The friends started their journey with a flight from Detroit on July 9 that was scheduled to land in Dallas by 3 p.m. However, with cancellations and delays, the flight arrived in Dallas at 3 a.m., with starting ceremonies scheduled at 5 a.m.

"It was unbelievable. So far as an experience I have never experienced something like it before," said Anderson.

With less than two hours of sleep the women began the grueling three-day, 60-mile trek in 92 degree heat. More than 1,500 women started the walk, and by the end of the first day, more than 92 were given, IV's for dehydration.

"They were dropping like flies," said Anderson.

Organizers continued to remind walkers of the three R's: rehydrate, refuel and relieve (drink plenty of water, eat and take bathroom breaks). Anderson said walkers would cool themselves with handfuls of ice in bandanas on their necks and down shirts.

Due to heat, many walkers got sun poisoning, heat stroke, or heat rash and were wrapped with gauze. However, the biggest problem was blisters.

Of 27 people in Anderson and Clancy's walking group, only eight completed the 60 miles. Two were hospitalized for heat stroke and one broke an ankle, although every one walked the last day.

"I was the least battle-scared person who walked. I got a little sun poisoning and one blister," said Clancy.

Volunteers and residents handed out ice along the walk. They also hosed down the walkers and left their sprinklers on over the sidewalks so participants could cool down.

"We really couldn't have done it without these angels," said Anderson. "We wouldn't have made it without them."

Both women said their feet are a mess. Anderson says she will probably lose four toenails and her feet are covered with silver-dollar size blisters.

"It was a bigger challenge than I thought it would be. We trained by walking Clarkston and Great Lakes Crossing Mall, but it did not prepare us," said Anderson.

As suggested by organizers, the pair began training in February. They practiced by walking anywhere 4 to 17 miles at a time.

"You would place one foot in front of the other and just keep going. It takes a lot of mental talking to yourself," said Anderson.

The two women agreed the experience has made them better friends. They both discovered their strengths.

"I'm really good at motivation, but she's the best at stamina," said Clancy.

The Clarkston women walked to honor and support a friend's 25-year-old daughter who has breast cancer. The newly married woman would drive by and wave and shout encouragement. Their group raised more than $40,000 for breast cancer awareness.

Both women wore bracelets in memory of those who have past, or in honor of survivors.

Anderson said walking into Dallas on the last day was no breeze. The buildings in the downtown absorbed the days heat and there was dust from construction.

"It was hot, unbearably hot," said Anderson.

"It was a good thing we trained," said Clancy, "It was a challenge."

Special Financial FOCUS

215 N. Main Street • Clarkston

Five things to Focus on Instead of Market Volatility
As an investor, you need to realize that the stock market will always have its ups and downs. You can't do anything about these fluctuations - but you don't have to let them, wreak havoc on your investment decisions.

Of course, during those occasions when your brokerage statement contains unwelcome results, you may be tempted to take action by selling off some "losers." But is this a good move? After all, your investments may only be down temporarily. Furthermore, if you decide you must immediately low your risk level, and you replace your stocks with fixed-income vehicles, such as certificates of deposit, you could harm your portfolio diversification, reduced your growth prospects and slow your progress toward your important goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

So, what should you do? Here's a suggestion: Look beyond your investment statements and seek out the following five pieces of information:

- Long-term returns - How have your investment done over the last five or ten years? The long-term returns will give you a truer picture - and possibly a more positive one - of how you are doing. Be aware that a down market can drag down the prices of many stocks and stock-based investments. By looking at how your investments have fared over a period of several years, you can get a sense of whether they are just going through a bad spell along with the rest of the market, or if they are, in fact, chronic under-performers.
- Total difference in assets from a year ago - If you've been investing regularly, your balance today may still be higher than it was a year ago, even if the market is down. That "bottom line" may help encourage you to maintain your long-term perspective and to continue following your investment strategy.
- Asset allocation balance - Are you properly diversified? By investing in a wide range of stocks, bonds, government securities and other vehicles, you can increase your chances of success while reducing the impact of short-term volatility. Ideally, your investment mix should be based on your risk tolerance, time horizon and long-term goals. You may want to work with an investment professional to design an asset allocation plan that's right for you.
- Price/Earnings ratio - If the prices of your stocks have dropped, you might want to buy even more shares. Some of the world's greatest investors, such as Warren Buffet, constantly look for high-quality stocks whose price is temporarily depressed. By doing just a little research, you can find a stock's "price/earnings" ratio (P/E). A high P/E indicates that a stock's price is expensive, relative to its earnings, while a low P/E may be an indicator that a stock is attractively priced.
- Dividends paid - Even if a stock's price is down, it might continue to pay dividends. And if you reinvest these dividends into the stock, you are adding more shares, which can pay off for you if the stock's price rises again. (Keep in mind, though, that not all stocks pay dividends, and dividend can be increased, decreased or totally eliminated at any point without notice.)

Your brokerage statement can give you a snapshot of your investment - but snapshots rarely provide depth or context. To be a successful investor, look at the "big picture."

With less than two weeks before the opening of the Oakland County 4-H Fair on July 26, some are ready for the festivities to begin while others are starting to feel deadline pressure.

"It's getting very stressful, but no matter what the fair always comes together," said Cathy Grain, chairperson of the Companion Animals Committee for the 2005 Oakland County 4-H fair.

With registration forms flying in the door, Grain is constantly revising the fair's schedule of presenters.

"The main thing day to day is changing (the schedule) and adding people in. We almost have to print a new (schedule) every day," said Grain.

According to Grain the main preparation for this year's fair began in January with selection of judges and rough schedule making.

While the fair's organizers sweat the details, most participants are chomping at the bit to unveil their exhibits, animals and skills.

"I can't wait for it to get here because the 4-H fair is a lot of fun," said Colin McGeen, who is entering with exhibits in legos, paper airplanes and wood crafting as well as competing on his horse Rockin' Rodney.

McGeen along with 152 others and their mounts, used the Paint Creek Valley Horse Club's open horse show on July 9 to fine tune their routines in the arena. The show, held at the fairgrounds, was the last open horse show before the 4-H fair, which organizers felt contributed to the large attendance.

"I think it will be easier to go to fair because you only have two to three (equestrian) events a day instead of 10 or more. I'm excited, I haven't competed at the fair before," said Kellie Roth.

The Oakland County 4-H Fair runs from July 26-31.

New waterfront homes opening soon

BY NOAH PURCELL

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Like peanut butter and jelly, Ducks Unlimited and the North Oakland Livingston Headwaters Land Conservancy are a natural combination.

The two groups are coming together on July 16 at the Waterworks Wetlands in Holly to install eight of the 34 wood duck houses. Children made the water fowl's new homes at a Ducks Unlimited event on June 12.

"I contacted (NOHLC) and said 'They had the wetlands and I had the wood duck nesting boxes and perhaps we should work together on this,'" said Chuck Myers, President of Ducks Unlimited.

The origin of the wood duck houses lies with Ducks Unlimited member Jeff Locher, who along with friend Jim Queen supplied and cut the wood for the houses.

Queen, who owns a sawmill, came into possession of some old cedar telephone poles, which over a weekend he and Locher converted into the components for the duck houses.

"We take so much, we have to give back or 20 to 30 years from now there won't be any wood ducks around," said Locher, who enjoys duck hunting.

Once the parts were cut for the duck houses, Locher and Ducks Unlimited brought them to a kids weekend at Bass Pro Shop in Auburn Hills on June 12. Ducks Unlimited set up six stations at the kids event and the duck houses were a big hit.

"The kids loved it. Almost every kid that came in there made one," said Locher.

When the event was done, Ducks Unlimited had given away 100 free "Greenwing" youth memberships and had 34 duck houses.

"I was thrilled. We really haven't done a lot with Ducks Unlimited. (This project) is really nice because it joins us with them," said Karen Krigbaum, Administrative Director of NOHLC.

On July 16, eight of the houses will be placed in Holly, the rest are going to find homes around the area at various NOHLC easements.

"(The kids) signed their names to the houses they built. Since (the kids) are all Greenwings now, we can send them postcards telling them where their house went," said Locher.

According to Krigbaum, wood ducks prefer their house to be placed anywhere from 6-30 feet in the air and over water.

Future locations for the duck houses may include the Eaton Preserve in downtown Davisburg, and along the Shiawasee river corridor. Krigbaum said the NOHLC is looking into placing some at their easement behind Mesquite Creek on M-15, but she was not sure if there was enough water there.

Clarkston Riverdaws prepare for Cooperstown

Tournament Clarkston's 12-year-old travel baseball team chalked up a few wins during the end of June in preparation for a one-week trip to Cooperstown, New York, home of the National Baseball Hall of Fame.

Under the leadership of Head Coach Craig Walker and Coach Jim Rogers, the Riverdaws beat the West Bloomfield Bombers 19-11 and 5-1 in a double header on June 12.

During the outing, Weston Lee produced three hits including a home run.

In their June 29 contest against the Oxford Wildcats, Clarkston dominated the game winning 17-2.

Taylor Walker pitched the first four innings, allowing no runs and only a single hit while going four for four at the plate. Justin Baetz, Matthew Rogers, Conner Morris and Connor Shinouskis each had two hits while Chase Toth had three. Dominic Spadoni produced four RBI's with a hit.

The Clarkston Riverdaws also beat the Lake Orion Dragons June 30, 17-11.

Lance Dargavell drove in two runs on four hits. Brian Burger produced four RBI's on four hits including a home run. Michael Fridline pitched the first three innings allowing only one hit. Justin Baetz had three hits for the day.

Between July 15-20, Clarkston's 12-year-old Riverdaws baseball team will travel to the Cooperstown Dreams Park to compete in the largest little league baseball tournament in the world.

During the first eleven weeks of the tournament, 80 teams from across the country compete for the first place trophy. During week twelve, the winning teams return to battle for the overall championship in late August.

Clarkston Youth Baseball Organization's 12-year-old Riverdaws now hold the record for most consecutive seasons to compete in this tournament at ten years running.

In addition to competing against other teams on the diamond, Clarkston's Riverdaws compete in four skills games, Road Runner, Golden Arm, Around the Horn Plus and King of Swat. Road Runner competition determines who can run the bases the fastest; Golden Arm determines who can throw and hit a target at home plate from the outfield 150 feet away; Around the Horn Plus measures the time the team takes to throw the ball to every position at least once; and the King of Swat is a home run derby.

The 12-year-old Riverdaws are currently 10-10-0 in the NOBF and 12-12-0 overall. They will play at least six games in Cooperstown.

Local youth golfers bring home honors

Several winners of the Oakland County Parks 31st Annual Junior Golf Tournament hail from Clarkston.

The two-day tournament was played June 23-24 at White Lake Oaks and Springfield Oaks golf courses.

The Clarkston area duffers who took home awards are: Jerrod Horner, first place, boys 15-16; Matt Fuller, first place, boys 13-14; Brandon Stone, second place, boys 13-14; Ashley Blanc, first place, girls 13-14; Cameron Krausman, first place, boys 10-and-under; and Nate Lowell, second place, boys 10-and-under.

Another Clarkston area youth recently flexed some muscle on the links as Adam Istvan shot a 75 to win the 15-and-under division in round four of the Top 50 Junior Golf Tour at Prestwick Country Club in Highland Township.

Athlete of the Week Laura Barnett

The foundation Laura Barnett laid at Clarkston High School served her well this year as she captained the Miami University of Ohio dance team to a ninth place finish at the NCAA Division I dance competition in Daytona Beach, Fla. on April 7.

"It took a ton of hard work and a ton of hours, but in the end it was worth it. Going in, our goal was to make the top 10," said Barnett, a 2002 graduate of CHS. "A lot of what comes with the national meet is experience. The first year is all about getting the jitters out."

Barnett reflected positively on her time at CHS, where she was a captain and four-year-member of the Pom-pom/dance team.

"Leadership is something that you can use in every aspect of your life," said Barnett. "Being the captain of the high school team prepared me for managing my teammates in college."

Barnett will return to Miami of Ohio in the fall for her senior year and hopes to help propel the dance team to even greater heights.

Over the summer, she is interning at Proctor & Gamble as part of course study for a degree in marketing.

First female 12 letter winner gets moment to catch breath

BY NOAH PURCELL
Clarkston News Sports Writer

If Stephanie Parkin's athletic career at Clarkston High School was a mutual fund, even the rockiest economic conditions would not shake her investors - because in becoming CHS' first female 12-varsity letter winner Parkin kept a heavily diversified portfolio.

Parkin toiled, sweated and competed through four years of basketball in the fall, volleyball in the winter and track in the spring. To her off-season was myth, free time a legend.

"It wasn't necessarily easy. What it all came down to was wanting to play sports and there was nothing else I'd rather be doing," said Parkin.

But Parkin did not just play three varsity sports, she excelled in them. Having secured a scholarship to play volleyball at Oakland University, her athletic career flies in the face of conventional thinking which says the way into college athletics is through focusing on one sport, and one sport only.

"I think young kids today try to specialize too much. Balancing three sports was good for (Parkin)," said Anne Lowney, Parkin's former basketball coach.

"I think if I wasn't playing the other sports, I wouldn't be as good at the others. I think they complemented each other," said Parkin.

Most college bound volleyball players play on spring and summer teams to hone their skills year round. Like those she will play with and against at Oakland, Parkin played on spring and summer teams, except during the spring she also ran track.

"I had a meeting with (track coach) John Yorke to discuss volleyball. If I had told him I wasn't going to run track, they would have hunted me down," said Parkin.

The track team needed Parkin, a three-time state qualifier in the long jump, 100 hurdles and 1,600 relay. By the end of her four year career she amassed more meet points than anyone else in the graduating class.

"At the end, I was run down. I wanted everything to be done. I was tired of school and sports. I'm glad that I stuck it out. It's a great achievement," said Parkin.

This year, Parkin received the Outstanding Female Athlete Award from the Clarkston Athletic Department.

"In today's world, this is pretty remarkable. She was never a bench warmer, she was up there because she could play," said Clarkston Athletic Director Dan Fife when Parkin signed her letter of intent with OU.

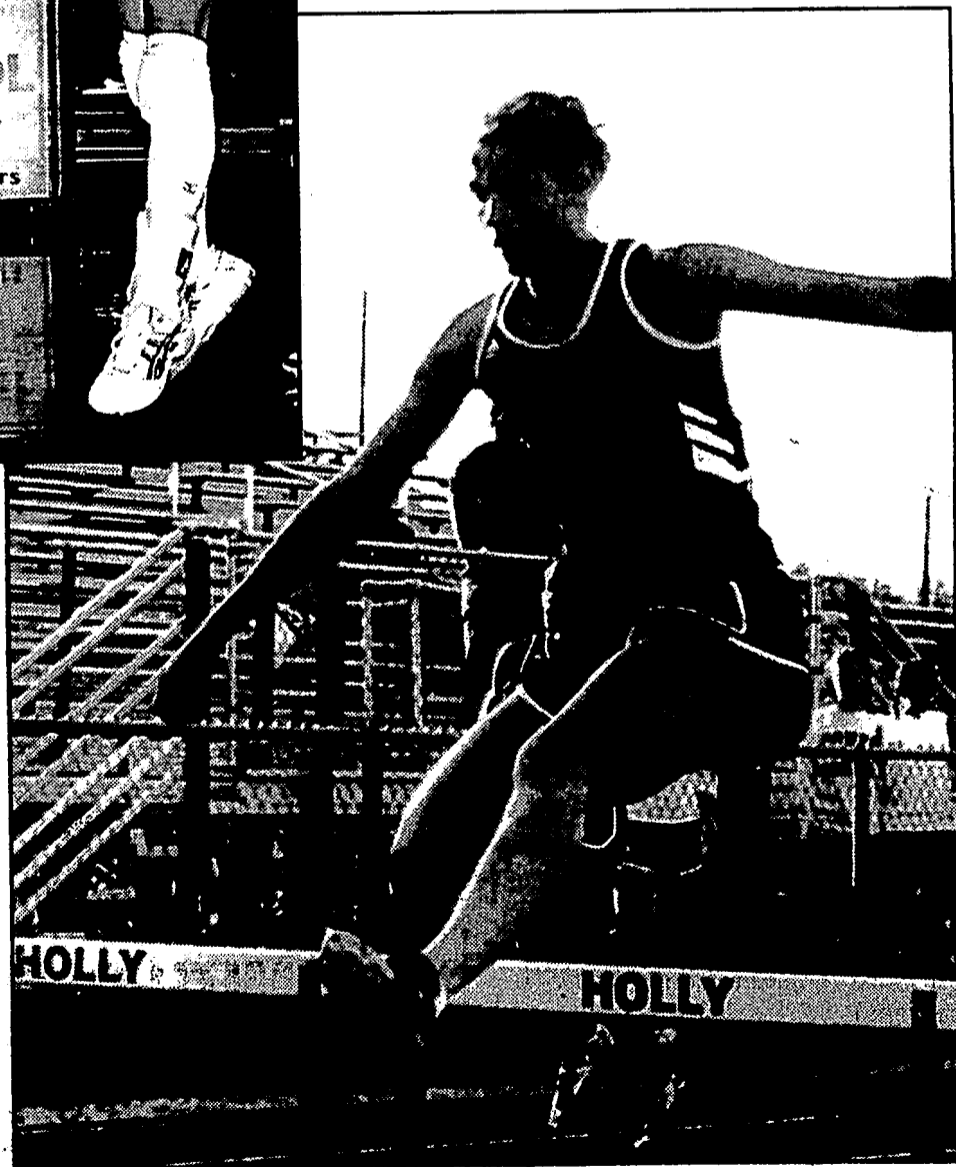

In basketball, Parkin was twice named honorable mention All-State and All-OAA.

"It was an honor to coach her. She handled everything so well. I never once saw her break down, she was so mentally tough," said Lowney, who returned to coaching after having triplets in Parkin's freshman year and left to become a full time mom again after her senior year.

"I was scared of her my freshman year, but she prepared me for life. My volleyball coach (at OU) is a yeller," said Parkin. "She's one of the greatest coaches I've ever had. I'm happy she came back my (freshman) year."

Across the board, Parkin's coaches fall over themselves to praise her, both as a person and a player.

"She's quiet off the court, but she is so competitive. All she thinks about is winning," said Kelly Avenall, Parkin's volleyball coach over the past two years.

Parkin was twice named All-League and All-Region in volleyball, her favorite of the three sports. This past year, as middle hitter, Parkin's play anchored the team through a rough opening to the season. Her combination of lithe and powerful play at the net showed her team what winning took, while at times her cutting glare kept everyone focused on victory. By the end of the season, Parkin and her teammates won their district.

"I'm not really a vocal person. I didn't really take the role of an assistant coach, but my teammates looked up to me," said Parkin. "It was my year ... I didn't feel any pressure. I enjoyed carrying the team."

Now that her high school athletics career is behind her, Parkin is trying to adjust to a less harried life.

"It will be strange to only play one sport. I'll actually have an off-season," said Parkin.

One person who Parkin feels played an integral role in her development was Gordy Richardson, who coached her in volleyball and track in her freshman and sophomore years.

"Gordy Richardson pushed me to become a better volleyball player. Even though I was young, he never stopped teaching me.," said Parkin.

A call from Richardson is what initially tipped OU coach Dave Schmidland.

In her volleyball career at Clarkston, Parkin set school records for most kills, digs and dig percentage. At OU, Parkin will move from her high school position of middle hitter to either outside hitter or a back line defensive specialist role.

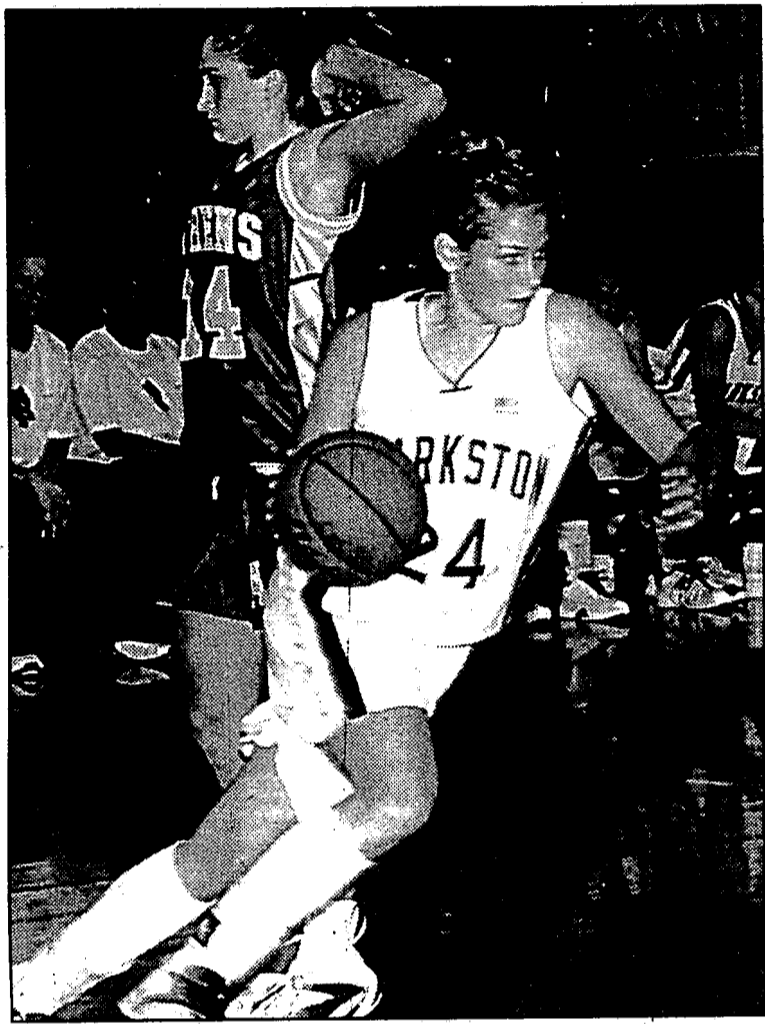

Parkin will share a suite with three of her teammates at Oakland, but is glad that home won't be too far away.

"My parents never missed a game ever. Sometimes they would even watch me practice because they like to," said Parkin.

While the scholarship surely brought smiles to the Parkin household, Stephanie's family just wanted their daughter to have fun playing sports.

"We always emphasized that she didn't have to play sports for a scholarship and I think she is a better athlete for it," said Tim Parkin, Stephanie's father, on the day she signed her letter of intent with Oakland University.

Stephanie credits her mother Lynette and father both with unerring support. She felt the time she spent "tagging along" to her older sister Lindsey's volleyball tournaments was invaluable, and enjoys teaching her younger sister Emily, a sophomore at CHS, the finer points of the game.

Stretch yourself by pursuing opportunity

By Ernie Harwell

"For all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest of these: 'It might have been!'"

-John Greenleaf Whittier

Whittier was describing a lost chance for love, but these words apply to any missed opportunity, really.

An important way to keep our minds sharp - and make life interesting - is to take on challenges and hunt for opportunities not in plain view.

When I was 16, I was a faithful reader of The Sporting News, but I was disappointed they didn't provide much coverage from my part of the country. So I decided to offer my services as a correspondent for them in the Atlanta area. They accepted my offer and it was a great start to my career. And I've always been grateful that I didn't let my young age keep me from pursuing it.

When we challenge ourselves as individuals and discover more about ourselves - no matter what age we are.

Take some time to think about your interest and what opportunities you could pursue. It's great mental exercise and, when you go after that opportunity, it's certainly a lot more rewarding than someday saying, "It might have been."

And remember to take care of our health before it's longgggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, a collection of his baseball columns entitled "Life After Baseball," is available at local bookstores or by calling 1-800-245-5082.

New Horizons brings new opportunity

BY LAURA WEINER
Clarkston News Intern

New Horizons Rehabilitation Services, Inc., in Springfield Township is an accredited, not-for-profit organization currently offering services to 130 disabled men and women from the community.

New Horizons provides services that include assessments, evaluations, training, employment services and placement.

Consumers, which is what the men and women at Horizons are referred to as, generally range in age from 26-77 years old. These people range from severely handicapped to highly functional.

These men and women come to New Horizons via bus from either a group home or their family home. They have to be eligible to receive Medicaid funding.

"A variety of people come in, some for work, some for socializing," said Sherry Yokes, senior employment coordinator.

What people do for the six or more hours they spend at New Horizons depends on their assessment and evaluation.

"For people that are severely handicapped it is just a good way to get them out of the house for a while, get them around other people," Yokes said.

Socializing occurs in variety of ways. A swing is available outside, as well as flowers that were planted at wheelchair level to be more accessible.

"Blind Consumers can get right up there and touch and feel the flowers, and they like to get into the dirt so they can feel it on their hands," Yokes said.

Other activities include field trips to places like the zoo, which is paid for internally at Horizons.

Some Consumers of those Yokes refers to as the "more highly functional" are working on a paid military contract to sew and package 12,000 pair of long johns per month.

The workers are paid by New Horizons, who holds the military contract.

"They work on the packaging, the trim, cuffs," Yokes explained.

In addition, consumers can be paid to work in environments such as DTE, Burger King, Target, and The Palace.

"DTE and The Palace have been great with helping us find employment. We are really lucky," Yokes said.

When a Consumer gets a job at places like Target or The Palace, they are assigned an employee from New Horizons that is there to help them through the day. The Consumers are paid hourly wages from the company.

"We send one person per three or four, just to make sure everything OK," Yokes said.

New Horizons is even looking towards getting some of their deaf population into the workplace.

"Right now, we have one official sign person. We are looking for someone who is highly trained in sign language because it wouldn't be right to send them out to work when they can't communicate," Yokes said.

Even with only one official signer, the people have picked up signing very efficiently.

"They learn from each other, it is really neat. Some of these people have been coming here so long that they have learned from their friends in their groups," Yokes said.

There is a summer fair approaching on August 5 at 11:30 a.m. The fair will take place at the New Horizons campus and will include the Oakland County Canine unit, a bounce house, dunk tank, clowns and much more. Parents, friends, caretakers and professionals are invited to attend and support the disabled men and women at New Horizons.

New Horizons has been opened in Springfield for 16 years. The program itself has been going for 40 years.

"It is so fulfilling because people think these people can't learn, and you just spend time with them, and you would be amazed on how much they can learn," Yokes said.

for us," said Milzow. "This has been a terrific addition."

Milzow feels the hot summer is helping drive people off the beaches and into Deer Lake Athletic Club's new facilities.

The outdoor pool is open anytime the temperature is above 72 degrees. The indoor pool is heated to a pleasant 82 degrees at all times and will be open all year.

From start to finish the installation of the new pools took about one and a half years.

"You don't know where your weak spots are until after ten miles. It is a mental game. You push yourself a little farther and the same goes for those who are fighting the disease," said Anderson. "there are probably moments they don't think they can go on, but they just keep putting one foot in front of the other."

Clancy says she plans to continue to support and encouraging Michigan walkers anyway she can. She gave her left over supplies from Dallas to a woman who is walking this month. She said she will not be walking, but will stand on the sidelines cheering the walkers on and passing out water. She said the experience is so much a part of her, that she feels she should "put it on her resume."

"I would not do it again in 92 degree weather. I would definitely volunteer along the route," said Anderson.

Anderson recommends for those walking the 3-day in Ann Arbor that they wrap their toes in lambs wool and purchase body glide for chafing where clothing rubs. She added that training up to 15 miles at a time will show where shoes and clothing rub.

The Michigan Breast Cancer 3-day walk is July 15-17 and will start at Meadow Brook Hall. The walk ends at the State Fair Grounds in Detroit.

Thirty years of wonderful summers

BY HEATHER CLEMENT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

People from all over Oakland County will celebrate tomorrow (July 14), with SCAMPers the special needs camp's 30th anniversary.

"We are going to have a birthday party. We would like to invite everyone to join us for Carnival Day," said Donna Clancy, executive director of SCAMP.

Clancy said the party will start with "warm ups," an exciting way SCAMPers start each day. The students hoot, holler and get excited about being at camp.

At noon, guests will join a luncheon followed by birthday cake.

Invitations have been sent to Governor Jennifer Granholm, Oprah Winfrey and her staff, Clarkston officials, and many locals who contributed to the success of SCAMP.

"This whole community supports this program and it is a wonderful program," said Clancy.

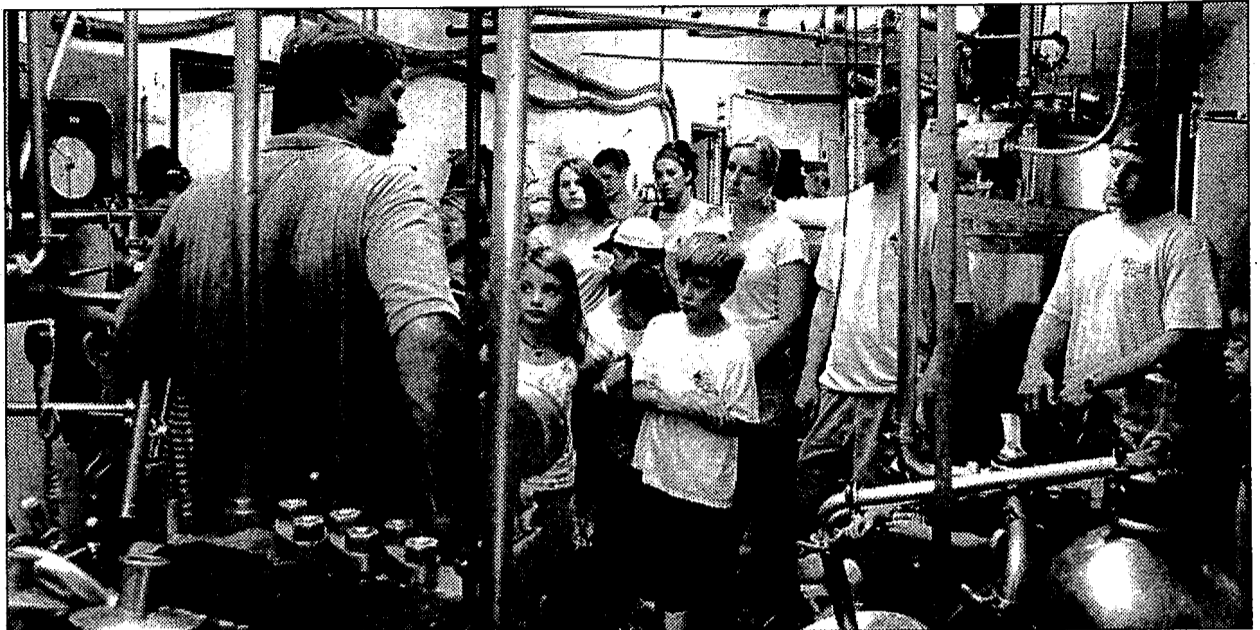

A press release said the camp was started in 1976 when people in the community saw a need for multiply impaired children who spent their summers watching other children having fun. Only 75 students participated in the first camp, which grew to more than 350 students this summer.

SCAMP daily activities include music, art, academic games, field trips and educational/entertainment groups.

Clancy said more than $400,000 is needed for operations and each year the community meets the needs for the camp through five "huge" fund-raisers. She added that SCAMP returns money back to the community by hiring local teens.

The 30th anniversary celebration will be at Independence Oaks County Park located at 6389 Clarkston Road. For more information call SCAMP at 248-620-1882.

Look for highlights of the SCAMP party in next week's edition of The Clarkston News.

Easements

reflects the location of both the original and new easements."

Carlisle continued that although there are areas where the scenic easements "do not strictly conform to the location on the golf course," those discrepancies "appear to be accurate." In addition, those variances do not "have a material effect on the issue of development potential."

Through his research, Carlisle concluded that two areas of potential development exist: 15.1 acres that cover the golf course driving range and parking lot, and 9.34 acres adjacent to the Bluffs in Pine Knob.

Carlisle found the development potential of these two remaining areas, both zoned R-2 multiple family residential, to range between 102 and 112 units. AAC Acquisitions did voice an interest in building apartment units on the site in the past.

Robert Mollicone, head of sales and marketing for Mario D'Agostini's Pine Knob Enclaves and a representative for AAC Acquisitions, is pleased with the findings. He confirmed that plans are being prepared for multiple-family housing as well.

"Now everyone sees that we didn't mislead or say anything inaccurate or untrue in our plans," said Mollicone. "We feel apartment-style housing is inappropriate for the area, but we're going to build one or the other there."

"We're trying to do what's best for everybody. We are ready to do one plan or the other, we just need to know which one," Mollicone added. "It's really not a threat. I feel bad that it comes across that way. This is just another possible way and one we are considering - it's simply not a threat."

Neil Wallace, a representative with Citizens for Orderly Growth, sees the proposal to build apartments as exactly that, a threat.

He believes Carlisle's opinion reinforces COG's stance that the easements are valid and enforceable.

"It demonstrates that the development threat is a hollow one," said Wallace. "They are going to have difficulties building apartments there."

Wallace stated that the 9-acre parcel, where Carlisle estimated 20-30 units could be built, is really "off the table" since the developers would have to access the site through a scenic easement. He explained that accessing the site would involve bringing infrastructure through a valid scenic easement.

In reference to the 15.1 acres, Wallace did not understand why owners of a quality golf course would give up their only driving range and go through the hassle of relocating the parking lot. He also explained that the topography in the area is very dramatic, making development difficult.

"I don't even think we should be talking about a trade in the scenic easements in the first instance," Wallace stated.

McCord

or purpose."

However, township officials were unsuccessful in finding a way to achieve the costly venture. As a result, the property sits vacant and abandoned, except for some vagrant problems and vandalism.

In order to save the home, officials took steps to alter the PUD agreement so the home and barn could be used for residential purposes.

Township Planner Richard Carlisle informed board trustees at the July 5 meeting that the planning commission held a public hearing on whether or not to change the "public use or purpose" wording to "residential use."

Carlisle told the board no one objected to the change at that time.

At the July 5 board meeting, township board members took action to finalize the new wording.

"While it's an agonizing situation that we couldn't do what we wanted for the public at large, I really think these are the best circumstances," said Trustee Dan Travis, who motioned to change the PUD agreement language. Larry Rosso supported the motion.

Clerk Shelagh VanderVeen posed the question of whether or not the language "public use or purpose" could remain in the agreement. She asked whether "residential" could simply be added, leaving the door open for possible public development.

According to township attorney Stuart Cooney, the change is being done in this manner because of difficulties with acquiring title insurance.

"The broader the purpose, the harder to get the title insurance or someone to cover it," he stated. "It's written this way because of this."

A request for proposals for the sale and restoration of property was released by Independence Township this past week. The township is looking for "a party that is qualified and willing, as a condition and requirement of its acquisition, to commit to completing the restoration of the structures and preserving the homestead property for historical preservation and residential purposes."

Please direct all requests for proposals to the Independence Township Supervisor's Office located at 90 North Main Street. For more information, please call the supervisor's office at 248-625-5111, ext. 208.

Second generation: Doctors and friends

BY HEATHER CLEMENT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Becoming part of the Clarkston community was a natural step for two native-born doctors.

Dr. Charles (Charlie) W. Munk, 31, D.D.S., orthodontic specialist, and Dr. Timothy O'Neill, 29, D.O., doctor of osteopathic medicine, said they grew up with the best role models — their fathers.

Munk and O'Neill said they became friends in junior high school, but knew each other all their lives. Their parents became good friends in 1960 when Dr. Charles F. Munk, Sr. sought out Dr. James O'Neill's advice about setting up a business in Clarkston. Dr. Munk moved his office next to Dr. O'Neill and their friendship flourished.

"My dad came here and met with Dr. O'Neill and he gave him lots of support. Our dads have been friends for longer than I can remember," said Munk.

Munk and O'Neill live within two miles of where they grew up: Munk growing up on Cranberry Lake and O'Neill on Holcomb Road.

The pair recall spending time at their fathers' offices after school. O'Neill said he would feed the fish in the tank in the lobby, and they both restocked supplies and stacked magazines.

"I would describe it as a typical Norman Rockwell childhood. We would stop by our fathers' offices on the way home from school and do odd jobs for them," said O'Neill. He recalls spending his days doing chores around the family beef ranch, baling hay and feeding the animals.

Both men graduated from Clarkston High School in 1993 and earned undergraduate degrees from Michigan State University in 1997, but were not roommates at college.

Munk attended the University of Michigan School of Dentistry and University of Detroit Mercy for orthodontics. He said he spent a third of his life studying, but "blasted through college." He began practicing full time two years ago.

"What I bring to the business is all the latest technology. The computer software that we use for diagnosis, the x-rays can now show predictions of how the teeth will grow. It really enhances our ability to diagnose a patient," said Munk.

Munk chose to go into dentistry because of his love for science. He said there is a lot of pride in seeing the confidence level of the patient improve from straightening their smile. Going into business with his father was a natural move since he was raised in the business.

"You can learn so much from your father and he can learn so much from you. We are colleagues, we feed off each other," said Munk.

Munk remembers being one of the first kids in Michigan to have gold braces during junior high.

"My father was experimenting and thought it would be a good thing to try them out on me," said Munk.

O'Neill wore braces for 18 months at age 27 because of a bite shift. Munk was his dentist. One day during a checkup, Dr. Munk's office "conspired" to put hot pink bands on O'Neill's braces just before he went to play softball against the Clarkston Fire Department at Clintonwood Park.

"We were hoping he would not notice them until after the weekend started so he would have to go the whole weekend with them, but he noticed too quickly," said Munk.

O'Neill later treated Munk for a bad case of flu, and in retaliation, gave him a shot for dehydration instead of the traditional I.V.

When medicine is more than just a prescription

Naturopathic doctor hopes to bridge gap between medicine and natural healing

BY JAMES MARTINEZ
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a childhood of 4-H dog shows and experience with horses in the Clarkston area, Nancy Caruso was on her way to veterinary school when she noticed something that bothered her.

Caruso saw animals undergoing exploratory surgeries or being put on pharmaceuticals for the rest of their lives with no thought to the causation or interest in trying to help the animal. To Caruso, common practices seemed only to ease the pain of the animals' illnesses, not heal them.

That experience sparked her interest in naturopathy and led Caruso back to Clarkston after college to open a naturopathic doctor's office.

According to Caruso, there is much confusion among people concerning naturopathy. She noted how some naturopaths are staunch opponents of medicine, while others do look to pharmacies for answers. Caruso placed herself somewhere in the middle, but said all naturopaths look to the physiology of the body.

"I do attend to a lot of homeopathic beliefs. The body heals from up to down and inside to outside, but I feel it's sometimes necessary to intervene with other things like pharmaceutical medicine," said Caruso. "The difference between a medical doctor and a naturopathic doctor is philosophy. Most doctors don't study natural substances that return the body back to a natural state."

Caruso noted that physiology teaches the need to return bodies to a natural balance and pharmaceutical medicine is often only a temporary band-aid for the problem.

"Our bodies will tell us what's wrong and it keeps telling us and telling us until we get the picture. This process starts out as children when we stop fevers short of getting rid of the bacteria. We keep pushing disease deeper in the body. Naturopaths like to encourage elimination, healing and rebalancing of the body's systems. Sometimes there is a point of no return that you have to give the body a crutch through medicine," said Caruso.

Many patients visit Caruso after becoming frustrated with ineffective prescriptions or partially successfully treatments.

"I see people who are not getting answers to their health problems, who feel lousy and who keep hearing there's nothing wrong with them ... After several types of medicine and testing, they're getting no results. We do a lot of different testing, like functional medicine testing that looks for problems before they're a pathologic problem," said Caruso.

Caruso recalled an article that stated seven out of 10 people over the age of 50 are seeking alternative health care.

"People are sick and tired of being sick and tired. Naturopathy is part of that natural healing," said Caruso.

Caruso said the schools with naturopathic physician programs are graduating more students than ever.

Many patients looking to prevent diseases and ailments also visit Caruso's offices. People who have a family history of disease come in to discuss preventative measures and complete functional testing to see if they are susceptible to certain maladies.

"There's a huge awareness of the need for healthier food and air, and even the electromagnetic frequencies and how they effect us. With doctor meaning teacher, I teach people about these risk factors and prevention," said Caruso.

Other people visit Caruso with concerns over vaccinations for their kids and infants.

"We are seeing an epidemic of autism and ADD and there seems to be a high correlation with vaccinating and those problems ... some people are more susceptible than others. We all have a little different of a makeup," said Caruso.

Due to the fact that naturopathy is not licensed in the majority of states, including Michigan, Caruso said Michigan has a wide scope of naturopathic practitioners.

Dear POH Back Care Program:
There are so many great things about this technique, it has helped me tremendously. For several years I would have very bad low back pain, followed by shooting pain down my right leg. This severe pain kept me up 5 to 7 nights, I was thoroughly exhausted and miserable.
I found a little relief by taking sleep-aids, but that didn't last long. I started to wake up with the pain, plus feel groggy from the sleep-aid. Needless to say I was a mess, I went to my doctor and he prescribed an EMG and traditional physical therapy. No relief.
Just three weeks into this program. I have felt such a relief. I have been able to sleep with no pain pills or sleep aid for the first time in a couple of years. I feel like my life is back!
I highly recommend POH Back Care Program to anyone suffering with any level of pain, it has made a world of difference in my life!
Also, I would just like to mention the staff at the clinic is wonderful and very enjoyable to be around. They make it an effortless experience, thank you so much!

Sincerely,
Marie Davis

Dr. M. & Staff
Thank you for referring me to the POH Back Care & Pain Management Institute in Clarkston. My chronic and worsening lumber pain has been greatly diminished thanks to the stretching and strengthening treatment I received.
After only 12 visits, I have much less stiffness and soreness and I even have 24 hours was unthinkable just a few months ago.) Even extensive physical labor on my outdoor deck did not immobilize me for days afterward as was the case prior to my treatments. Amazing!
POH Back Care & Pain Management Institutes' clinical measurements indicate that I now have much greater range of motion and greater strength in my back muscles as compared to my initial measurements. Though I perform their MedX machine would bring me up to norm very quickly and help me to overcome some lingering weaknesses and pain.
Finally, I would like to commend their staff. Each person in the Institute, from the Director, to the physical therapists, to the office staff, has been extremely professional and helpful. Each visit helped to alleviate pain and was very pleasurable on a personal level.
I would heartily recommend POH Back Care and Pain Management Institute to your other patients who experience extreme or chronic pain. My quality of life has been enhanced (a lot) by the great team at POH Back Care and Pain Management Institute!
Thank you, again, for referring me to Back Care and Pain Management Institute!

Mission trips put faith into action

"If anyone has material possessions and sees his brother in need, but has no pity on him, how can the love of God be in him? Dear children, let us not love with words or tongue, but with actions and in truth." John 3:17-1.

This passage from the Bible speaks highly of the need for serving others. Our actions of service speak louder than our words. We feel grateful that we are able to serve.

For one week in July, teens from Saint Daniel Catholic Church leave all their comforts of Clarkston behind and travel to some of the neediest areas of Tennessee.

Through the help of Confrontation Point, we are able to serve many worthy families by painting, siding, repairing roofs, building porches, underpinning mobile homes and insulating.

Confrontation Point Ministry is a group of college-aged Christian students trained to assist us to grow physically, mentally, but most importantly, SPIRITUALLY.

Many times while on the mission trips, we have pondered how the families that we are servicing survive with so little. There's often no electricity, no running water and limited sanitation.

How do we respond to all this? Should we show pity on them? Should we show compassion for them?

We know that there will be the poor among us and the best way to treat them is the same way we would want to be treated. We must give everyone a chance. It doesn't matter what their socio-economic status is. They are regular people, just like you and me, just not as blessed in some respects.

Anne Maxwell and Marie Timm are seniors at Clarkston High School and members of St. Daniel Catholic Church. They are on a home repair mission trip to Tennessee on July 10 -16 with a group of 40 teens and adults from St. Daniel. Photo provided

We don't expect anything in return from the people we serve. We are blessed that they allowed us to enter their lives.

While participating on these mission trips, we get to see the total opposite end of the spectrum.

We are also blessed to witness the power of being the hands and feet of Jesus Christ within ourselves.

Each day before going to our worksites, we reflect on Jesus' word and our goals for that day. This said O'Neill.

O'Neill married Holly-native Gretchen Gahman, 30, in 1999. He is currently in his last year of residency at Genysis Regional Medical Center in Grand Blanc. He also works more than 50 hours a month at his father's practice.

O'Neill attended Arizona College of Osteopathic Medicine and started his residency there. He practiced in 12 hospitals in six states.

O'Neill said every hospital had something different. He said there are different types of ailments in different parts of the country, and treated a wide range of ailments from whopping cough to scorpion bites.

Working with his father, O'Neill is learning a great deal.

"My father has been around and seen everything, but I've learned all the newer treatments and newest diagnosis," said O'Neill, "But as far as diagnosis he's seen everything before, I just may have learned another way of treating it. My generation uses antibiotics a lot less. We let the body heal itself and intervene where you need too. I also do spinal manipulation.

"I know it is really interesting for me. We run cases off each other. It does create a whole different relationship to see a patient, treat them and then get to see the outcome and take pride in it," added O'Neill.

Both Munk and O'Neill are outdoorsmen. They like to camp, fish, hike and scuba dive, although Munk says he is not a hunter like his father.

"We have done a lot of traveling. We have been fortunate that way. My dad and I have gone on a ton of fishing trips," said Munk.

"We have both worked hard to get what we have. At the same time, we are very fortunate to have fathers who taught us to work hard, be involved in the community and to care for people. When you have someone to follow it makes it easier," said O'Neill.

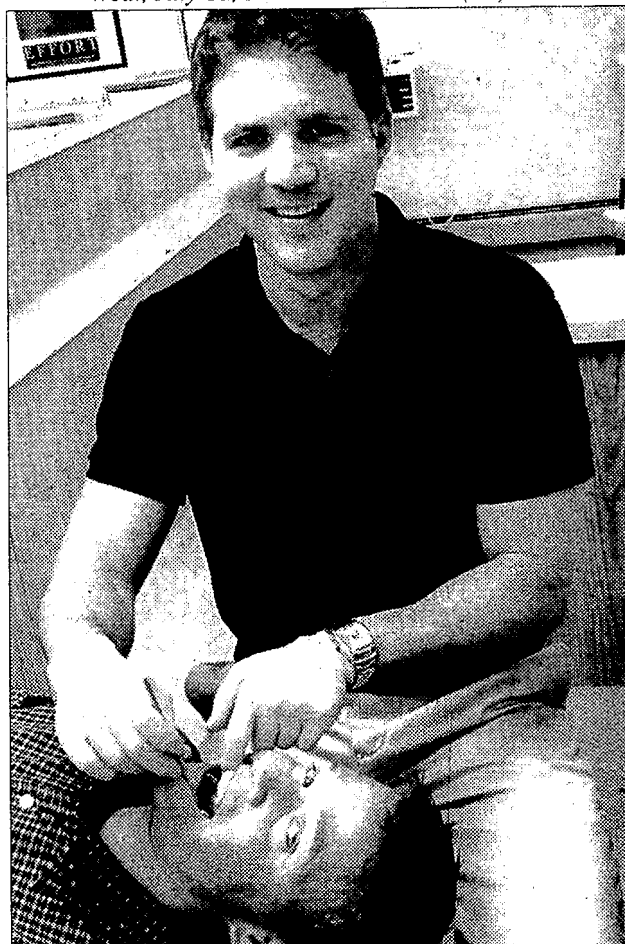

"We really had the best role models anybody could ask for to pursue our careers," said Munk.

Munk and O'Neill spent a lot of time traveling with their families and on their own, and chose Clarkston as their home. O'Neill said that living out West lacked a sense of community.

"It is great to come back home, this is home," said O'Neill. "It is wonderful to be able to give back to the community you grew up in."

"I can remember in college when Tim and I would hang out and occasionally joke around about how we were going to come back to Clarkston and have practices right next to each other. It seemed like a joke at the time, but here we are. We can look back and laugh on that," concluded Munk.

Caruso

While some naturopaths earned licenses from other states through lengthy college programs, other naturopaths only took Internet courses. The wide range of training not only confuses the public, but creates opposition to movements for statewide licensing by those less trained naturopaths who fear losing their livelihoods.

"I feel we have to work with all the different types of naturopaths instead of against them. I feel there needs to be an understanding of the difference. It's not to say they don't do good work for people, it's just there's a difference in our training and some of our views," said Caruso.

She also noted wider political problems with the FDA and the fact that when people are healed without medicine, the pharmaceutical companies do not profit.

Due to Michigan's lack of licensing, Caruso said her services are not covered by insurance and she can not order tests.

Caruso also said that Michigan's Association of Naturopaths is currently working to get the government to develop licensing procedures.

Dr. Nancy Caruso's Naturopathic Health Services is located at 5868 Clarkston Road. Caruso's Clarkston office hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Friday is for appointments only. She also holds office hours on Tuesday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. in Saginaw. For more information call 248-625-0557.

brings a deeper meaning to the day's work.

Last year, our daily reflections revolved around "sharpening" one another. In the evening, following a hot and exhausting day of work, we once again worship and give praise for how Jesus worked through us and in us that day.

Our mission trip is a time to regroup - we look forward to every July. Hanging out with friends, getting experience with a hammer and camping in 95 degree weather is part of the experience. It doesn't take us long to realize all that doesn't matter. It is not about US, it's about the family we are serving and showing Jesus through our actions.

After we return to our REALITY back in Clarkston, we take the lessons learned and incorporate them into our everyday lives. Our faith has grown. We learn throughout the week that we are not just working on a project, but a family's home. We're not just serving a family, but serving GOD.
